He enters an empty house; he gets no alms-food; a dog bites him; he encounters a wild elephant, a wild horse, and a wild cow; he asks the name and clan of a woman or man; he asks the name and path to a village or town.

When asked, ‘Why is this?’ he answers: ‘I had to enter an empty house, that’s why I entered it. I had to get no alms-food, that’s why I got none. I had to get bitten by a dog, that’s why I was bitten. I had to encounter a wild elephant, a wild horse, and a wild cow, that’s why I encountered them. 77. Mahāsakuludāyisutta The Longer Discourse with Sakuludāyī

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā rājagahe viharati veḷuvane
kalandakanivāpe.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tena kho pana samayena sambahulā abhiññātā abhiññātā paribbājakā moranivāpe paribbājakārāme paṭivasanti, seyyathidaṃ—

Now at that time several very well-known wanderers were residing in the monastery of the wanderers in the peacocks' feeding ground.

annabhāro varadharo sakuludāyī ca paribbājako aññe ca abhiññātā abhiññātā paribbājakā.

They included Annabhāra, Varadhara, Sakuludāyī, and other very well-known wanderers.

Atha kho bhagavā pubbaṇhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya rājagaham piṇḍāya pāvīsi.

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Rājagaha for alms.

Atha kho bhagavato etadahosi:

Then it occurred to him,

“atippago kho tāva rājagahe piṇḍāya caritum.

Yannūnāhaṃ yena moranivāpo paribbājakārāmo yena sakuludāyī paribbājako tenupasaṅkameyyan”ti.

Why don’t I visit the wanderer Sakuludāyī at the monastery of the wanderers in the peacocks’ feeding ground?”

Atha kho bhagavā yena moranivāpo paribbājakārāmo tenupasaṅkami.

So the Buddha went to the monastery of the wanderers.

Tena kho pana samayena sakuludāyī paribbājako mahatīyā paribbājakaparīsāya saddhiṃ nisinno hoti unnādinīyā uccāsaddamahāsaddāya anekavihitāṃ tiracchānakathaṃ kathentiyaṃ, seyyathidaṃ—

Now at that time, Sakuludāyī was sitting together with a large assembly of wanderers making an uproar, a dreadful racket. They engaged in all kinds of unworthy talk, such as

talk about kings, bandits, and ministers; talk about armies, threats, and wars; talk about food, drink, clothes, and beds; talk about garlands and fragrances; talk about family, vehicles, villages, towns, cities, and countries; talk about women and heroes; street talk and well talk; talk about the departed; motley talk; tales of land and sea; and talk about being reborn in this or that state of existence.

Addasā kho sakuludāyī paribbājako bhagavantaṃ dūratova āgacchantaṃ.

Sakuludāyī saw the Buddha coming off in the distance,

Disvāna sakam̃ parisam̃ saṅṭhāpeti:

and hushed his own assembly,

“appasaddā bhonto hontu;

“Be quiet, good sirs, don’t make a sound.

mā bhonto saddamakattha.

Ayam̃ samaṇo gotamo āgacchati;

Here comes the ascetic Gotama.

appasaddakāmo kho pana so āyasmā appasaddassa vaṇṇavādī.

The venerable likes quiet and praises quiet.

Appeva nāma appasaddam̃ parisam̃ veditvā upasaṅkamitabbam̃ maññeyyā”ti.

Hopefully if he sees that our assembly is quiet he’ll see fit to approach.”

Atha kho te paribbājakā tuṅhī ahesum̃.

Then those wanderers fell silent.

Atha kho bhagavā yena sakuludāyī paribbājako tenupasaṅkami.

Then the Buddha approached Sakuludāyī,

Atha kho sakuludāyī paribbājako bhagavantam̃ etadavoca:

who said to him,

“etu kho, bhante, bhagavā.

“Come, Blessed One!

Welcome, Blessed One!

Cirassam̃ kho, bhante, bhagavā imam̃ pariyāyamakāsi yadidaṃ idhāgamanāya.

It’s been a long time since you took the opportunity to come here.

Nisīdatu, bhante, bhagavā;

Please, sir, sit down, this seat is ready.”

idamāsanam paññattan”ti.

Nisīdi bhagavā paññatte āsane.

The Buddha sat on the seat spread out,

Sakuludāyīpi kho paribbājako aññataram nīcam āsanam gahetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

while Sakuludāyī took a low seat and sat to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho sakuludāyīṃ paribbājakaṃ bhagavā

The Buddha said to him,

“Kāya nuttha, udāyi, etarahi kathāya sannisinnā, kā ca pana vo antarākathā vippakatā”ti?

“Udāyī, what were you sitting talking about just now? What conversation was unfinished?”

“Tiṭṭhatesā, bhante, kathā yāya mayam etarahi kathāya

“Sir, leave aside what we were sitting talking about just now.

Nesā, bhante, kathā bhagavato dullabhā bhavissati pacchāpi

It won’t be hard for you to hear about that later.

Purimāni, bhante, divasāni purimatarāni nānātitthiyānam

Sir, a few days ago several ascetics and brahmins who follow various other paths were sitting together at the debating hall, and this discussion came up among them:

‘lābhā vata, bho, aṅgamagadhānam, suladdhalābhā vata, bho,

‘The people of Aṅga and Magadha are so fortunate, so very fortunate!

Tamenāññataro sabrahmacārī jaṇṇukena ghaṭṭesi:

And one of their spiritual companions nudged them with their knee, to indicate, “appasaddo āyasmā hotu, māyasmā saddamakāsi, satthā no bhagavā dhammaṃ desesī”ti.

Yasmiṃ samaye samaṇo gotamo anekasatāya parisāya dhammaṃ deseti, neva tasmim̐ samaye samaṇassa gotamassa sāvakānaṃ khipitasaddo vā hoti ukkāsitassaddo vā.

Evameva yasmiṃ samaye samaṇo gotamo anekasatāya parisāya dhammaṃ deseti, neva tasmim̐ samaye samaṇassa gotamassa sāvakānaṃ khipitasaddo vā hoti ukkāsitassaddo vā.

In the same way, while the ascetic Gotama is teaching an assembly of many hundreds, there is no sound of his disciples coughing or clearing their throats.

Tamenam mahājanakāyo paccāsīsamānarūpo paccupaṭṭhito hoti:

That large crowd is poised on the edge of their seats, thinking, “yaṃ no bhagavā dhammaṃ bhāsissati taṃ no sossāmā”ti.

Yepi samaṇassa gotamassa sāvakā sabrahmacārīhi sampayojetvā sikkhaṃ paccakkhāya hīnāyāvattanti tepi satthu ceva vaṇṇavādino honti, dhammassa ca vaṇṇavādino honti, saṅghassa ca vaṇṇavādino honti, attagarahinoyeva honti anaññagarahino, “mayamevamhā alakkhikā mayaṃ appapuññā te mayaṃ evaṃ svākkhāte dhammavinaye pabbajitvā nāsakkhimhā yāvajīvaṃ paripuṇṇaṃ parisuddhaṃ brahmacariyaṃ caritun”ti.

Even when a disciple of the ascetic Gotama rejects the training and returns to a lesser life, having been overly attached to their spiritual companions, they speak only praise of the teacher, the teaching, and the Saṅgha. They blame only themselves, not others: “We were unlucky, we had little merit. For even after going forth in such a well explained teaching and training we weren’t able to practice for life the perfectly full and pure spiritual life.”

Te ārāmikabhūtā vā upāsakabhūtā vā pañcasikkhāpade samādāya vattanti.

They become monastery workers or lay followers, and they proceed having undertaken the five precepts.

“Sir, I see five such qualities in the Buddha.

Katame pañca?

What five?

Bhagavā hi, bhante, appāhāro, appāhāratāya ca vaṇṇavādī.

The Buddha eats little and praises eating little.

Yampi, bhante, bhagavā appāhāro, appāhāratāya ca vaṇṇavādī imaṃ kho ahaṃ, bhante, bhagavati paṭhamam dhammam samanupassāmi yena bhagavantam sāvakaṃ sakkaronti garuṃ karonti mānenti pūjenti, sakkatvā garuṃ katvā upanissāya viharanti. (1)

This is the first such quality I see in the Buddha.

Puna caparam, bhante, bhagavā santuṭṭho itarītarena cīvarena, itarītaracīvarasantuṭṭhiyā ca vaṇṇavādī.

Furthermore, the Buddha is content with any kind of robe, and praises such contentment.

Yampi, bhante, bhagavā santuṭṭho itarītarena cīvarena, itarītaracīvarasantuṭṭhiyā ca vaṇṇavādī, imaṃ kho ahaṃ, bhante, bhagavati dutiyam dhammam samanupassāmi yena bhagavantam sāvakaṃ sakkaronti garuṃ karonti mānenti pūjenti, sakkatvā garuṃ katvā upanissāya viharanti. (2)

This is the second such quality I see in the Buddha.

Puna caparam, bhante, bhagavā santuṭṭho itarītarena piṇḍapātena, itarītarapiṇḍapātasantuṭṭhiyā ca vaṇṇavādī.

Furthermore, the Buddha is content with any kind of almsfood, and praises such contentment.

Yampi, bhante, bhagavā santuṭṭho itarītarena piṇḍapātena, itarītarapiṇḍapātasantuṭṭhiyā ca vaṇṇavādī, imam kho aham, bhante, bhagavati tatiyam dhammam samanupassāmi yena bhagavantam sāvakā sakkaronti garum karonti mānenti pūjenti, sakkatvā garum katvā upanissāya viharanti. (3)

This is the third such quality I see in the Buddha.

Puna caparam, bhante, bhagavā santuṭṭho itarītarena senāsanena, itarītarasenāsanasantuṭṭhiyā ca vaṇṇavādī.

Furthermore, the Buddha is content with any kind of lodging, and praises such contentment.

Yampi, bhante, bhagavā santuṭṭho itarītarena senāsanena, itarītarasenāsanasantuṭṭhiyā ca vaṇṇavādī, imam kho aham, bhante, bhagavati catuttham dhammam samanupassāmi yena bhagavantam sāvakā sakkaronti garum karonti mānenti pūjenti, sakkatvā garum katvā upanissāya viharanti. (4)

This is the fourth such quality I see in the Buddha.

Puna caparam, bhante, bhagavā pavivitto, pavivekassa ca vaṇṇavādī.

Furthermore, the Buddha is secluded, and praises seclusion.

Yampi, bhante, bhagavā pavivitto, pavivekassa ca vaṇṇavādī, imam kho aham, bhante, bhagavati pañcamam dhammam samanupassāmi yena bhagavantam sāvakā sakkaronti garum karonti mānenti pūjenti, sakkatvā garum katvā upanissāya viharanti. (5)

This is the fifth such quality I see in the Buddha.

Ime kho aham, bhante, bhagavati pañca dhamme samanupassāmi yehi bhagavantam sāvakā sakkaronti garum karonti mānenti pūjenti, sakkatvā garuṃ katvā upanissāya viharantī”ti.

These are the five qualities I see in the Buddha, because of which his disciples honor, respect, revere, and venerate him; and after honoring and respecting him, they remain loyal to him.”

“Suppose, Udāyī, my disciples were loyal to me because I eat little. Well, there are disciples of mine who eat a cupful of food, or half a cupful; they eat a wood apple, or half a wood apple.

Ahaṃ kho pana, udāyi, appekadā iminā pattena samatittikampi bhuñjāmi bhiyyopi bhuñjāmi.

But sometimes I even eat this bowl full to the brim, or even more.

So if it were the case that my disciples are loyal to me because I eat little, then those disciples who eat even less would not be loyal to me.

saṅkārakūṭā vā pāpaṇikā vā nantakāni uccinitvā saṅghāṭim karitvā dhārenti.

Suppose my disciples were loyal to me because I'm content with any kind of robe. Well, there are disciples of mine who have rag robes, wearing shabby robes. They gather scraps from charnel grounds, rubbish dumps, and shops, make them into a patchwork robe and wear it.

Ahaṃ kho panudāyi, appekadā gahapaticīvarāni dhāremi dalhāni satthalūkhāni alābulomasāni.

But sometimes I wear robes offered by householders that are strong, yet next to which bottle-gourd down is coarse.

So if it were the case that my disciples are loyal to me because I'm content with any kind of robe, then those disciples who wear rag robes would not be loyal to me.

‘Santuṭṭho samaṇo gotamo itarītarena piṇḍapātena, itarītarapiṇḍapātasantuṭṭhiyā ca vaṇṇavādī’ti, iti ce maṃ, udāyi, sāvakā sakkareyyuṃ garuṃ kareyyuṃ māneyyuṃ pūjeyyuṃ, sakkatvā garuṃ katvā upanissāya vihareyyuṃ, santi kho pana me, udāyi, sāvakā piṇḍapātikā sapaḍānacārino uñchāsake vate ratā, te antaragharaṃ pavitṭhā samānā āsanenapi nimantiyamānā na sādiyanti.

Suppose my disciples were loyal to me because I'm content with any kind of alms-food. Well, there are disciples of mine who eat only alms-food, wander indiscriminately for alms-food, happy to eat whatever they glean. When they've entered an inhabited area, they don't consent when invited to sit down.

Ahaṃ kho panudāyi, appekadā nimantanepi bhuñjāmi sālīnaṃ odanaṃ vicitakāḷakaṃ anekasūpaṃ anekabyañjanaṃ.

But sometimes I even eat by invitation boiled fine rice with the dark grains picked out, served with many soups and sauces.

‘Santuṭṭho samaṇo gotamo itarītarena piṇḍapātena, itarītarapiṇḍapātasantuṭṭhiyā ca vaṇṇavādī’ti, iti ce maṃ, udāyi, sāvakā sakkareyyuṃ garuṃ kareyyuṃ māneyyuṃ pūjeyyuṃ, sakkatvā garuṃ katvā upanissāya vihareyyuṃ, ye te, udāyi, mama sāvakā piṇḍapātikā sapadānacārino uñchāsake vate ratā te antaragharaṃ pavitṭhā samānā āsanenapi nimantiyamānā na sādiyanti, na maṃ te iminā dhammena sakkareyyuṃ garuṃ kareyyuṃ māneyyuṃ pūjeyyuṃ, sakkatvā garuṃ katvā upanissāya vihareyyuṃ. (3)

So if it were the case that my disciples are loyal to me because I'm content with any kind of alms-food, then those disciples who eat only alms-food would not be loyal to me.

Suppose my disciples were loyal to me because I'm content with any kind of lodging. Well, there are disciples of mine who stay at the root of a tree, in the open air. For eight months they don't go under a roof.

Ahaṃ kho panudāyi, appekadā kūṭāgāresupi viharāmi ullittāvalittesu nivātesu phusitaggaḷesu pihitavātapānesu.

But sometimes I even stay in bungalows, plastered inside and out, draft-free, with latches fastened and windows shuttered.

sāvakā sakkareyyum̐ garum̐ kareyyum̐ māneyyum̐ pūjeyyum̐, sakkatvā garum̐ katvā upanissāya vihareyyum̐, ye te, udāyi, mama sāvakā rukkhāmūlikā abbhokāsikā te aṭṭhamāse channaṃ na upenti, na maṃ te iminā dhammena sakkareyyum̐ garum̐ kareyyum̐ māneyyum̐ pūjeyyum̐, sakkatvā garum̐ katvā upanissāya vihareyyum̐. (4)

So if it were the case that my disciples are loyal to me because I'm content with any kind of lodging, then those disciples who stay at the root of a tree would not be loyal to me.

Suppose my disciples were loyal to me because I'm secluded and I praise seclusion. Well, there are disciples of mine who live in the wilderness, in remote lodgings. Having ventured deep into remote lodgings in the wilderness and the forest, they live there, coming down to the midst of the Saṅgha each fortnight for the recitation of the monastic code.

Ahaṃ kho panudāyi, appekadā ākiṇṇo viharāmi bhikkhūhi bhikkhunīhi upāsakehi upāsikāhi raññā rājamahāmattehi titthiyehi titthiyasāvakehi.

But sometimes I live crowded by monks, nuns, laymen, and laywomen; by rulers and their ministers, and teachers of other paths and their disciples.

te anvaddhamāsaṃ saṅghamajjhe osaranti pātimokkhuddesāya, na maṃ te iminā dhammena sakkareyyuṃ garuṃ kareyyuṃ māneyyuṃ pūjeyyuṃ, sakkatvā garuṃ katvā upanissāya vihareyyuṃ. (5)

So if it were the case that my disciples are loyal to me because I'm secluded and praise seclusion, then those disciples who live in the wilderness would not be loyal to me.

Iti kho, udāyi, na mamaṃ sāvaka imehi pañcahi dhammehi sakkaronti garuṃ karonti mānenti pūjenti, sakkatvā garuṃ
katvā upanissāya viharanti.

So, Udāyī, it's not because of these five qualities that my disciples honor, respect, revere, and venerate me; and after honoring and respecting me, they remain loyal to me.

Atthi kho, udāyi, aññe ca pañca dhammā yehi pañcahi dhammehi mamaṃ sāvaka sakkaronti garuṃ karonti mānenti pūjenti, sakkatvā garuṃ katvā upanissāya viharanti.

There are five other qualities because of which my disciples honor, respect, revere, and venerate me; and after honoring and respecting me, they remain loyal to me.

Katame pañca?

What five?

Idhudāyi, mamaṃ sāvaka adhisīle sambhāventi:

Firstly, my disciples esteem me for the higher ethics:

'sīlavā samaṇo gotamo paramena sīlakkhandhena
samannāgato'ti.

'The ascetic Gotama is ethical. He possesses the entire spectrum of ethical conduct to the highest degree.'

Yampudāyi, mamaṃ sāvaka adhisīle sambhāventi:

Since this is so,

‘sīlavā samaṇo gotamo paramena sīlakkhandhena
samannāgato’ti, ayaṃ kho, udāyi, paṭhamo dhammo yena mamaṃ sāvakaṃ sakkaronti garuṃ karonti mānenti pūjenti, sakkatvā garuṃ katvā upanissāya viharanti.

this is the first quality because of which my disciples are loyal to me.

Puna caparaṃ, udāyi, mamaṃ sāvakaṃ abhikkante ñāṇadassane sambhāventi:

Furthermore, my disciples esteem me for my excellent knowledge and vision:

‘jānaṃyevāha samaṇo gotamo—jānāmīti,

‘The ascetic Gotama only claims to know when he does in fact know.

passaṃyevāha samaṇo gotamo—passāmīti;

He only claims to see when he really does see.

abhiññāya samaṇo gotamo dhammaṃ deseti no anabhiññāya;

He teaches based on direct knowledge, not without direct knowledge.

sanidānaṃ samaṇo gotamo dhammaṃ deseti no anidānaṃ;

He teaches based on reason, not without reason.

sappāṭihāriyaṃ samaṇo gotamo dhammaṃ deseti no
appāṭihāriyaṃ’ti.

He teaches with a demonstrable basis, not without it.’

Yampudāyi, mamaṃ sāvakaṃ abhikkante ñāṇadassane
sambhāventi:

Since this is so,

‘jānaṃyevāha samaṇo gotamo—jānāmīti,

passaṃyevāha samaṇo gotamo—passāmīti;

abhiññāya samaṇo gotamo dhammaṃ deseti no anabhiññāya;

sanidānaṃ samaṇo gotamo dhammaṃ deseti no anidānaṃ;

sappāṭihāriyaṃ samaṇo gotamo dhammaṃ deseti no

appāṭihāriyaṃ’ti, ayaṃ kho, udāyi, dutiyo dhammo yena mamaṃ sāvakā sakkaronti garuṃ karonti mānenti pūjenti, sakkatvā garuṃ katvā upanissāya viharanti.

this is the second quality because of which my disciples are loyal to me.

Puna caparam, udāyi, mamaṃ sāvakā adhipaññāya sambhāventi:

Furthermore, my disciples esteem me for my higher wisdom:

‘paññavā samaṇo gotamo paramena paññākkhandhena samannāgato;

‘The ascetic Gotama is wise. He possesses the entire spectrum of wisdom to the highest degree.

taṃ vata anāgataṃ vādapathaṃ na dakkhati, uppannaṃ vā parappavādaṃ na sahadhammena suniggahitaṃ niggaṇhissatīti —netam thānam vijjati’.

It’s not possible that he would fail to foresee grounds for future criticism, or to legitimately and completely refute the doctrines of others that come up.’

Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, udāyi,

What do you think, Udāyī?

api nu me sāvakā evaṃ jānantā evaṃ passantā antarantarā kathaṃ opāteyyun”ti?

Would my disciples, knowing and seeing this, break in and interrupt me?”

“No hetam, bhante”.

“No, sir.”

“Na kho panāham, udāyi, sāvakesu anusāsanim paccāsīsāmi;

“That’s because I don’t expect to be instructed by my disciples.

aññadatthu mamayeva sāvakā anusāsanim paccāsīsanti.

Invariably, my disciples expect instruction from me.

Yampudāyi, mamaṃ sāvakā adhipaññāya sambhāventi:

Since this is so,

‘paññavā samaṇo gotamo paramena paññākkhandhena samannāgato;

taṃ vata anāgataṃ vādapathaṃ na dakkhati, uppannaṃ vā parappavādaṃ na sahadhammena niggahitaṃ niggaṇhissatī—netam ṭhānaṃ vijjati’.

Ayaṃ kho, udāyi, tatiyo dhammo yena mamaṃ sāvakā sakkaronti garuṃ karonti mānenti pūjenti, sakkatvā garuṃ
katvā upanissāya viharanti.

this is the third quality because of which my disciples are loyal to me.

Puna caparaṃ, udāyi, mama sāvakā yena dukkhena dukkhotiṇṇā dukkhaparetā te maṃ upasaṅkamtivā dukkhaṃ ariyasaccaṃ pucchanti, tesāhaṃ dukkhaṃ ariyasaccaṃ puṭṭho byākaromi, tesāhaṃ cittaṃ ārādhemi pañhassa veyyākaraṇena;
Furthermore, my disciples come to me and ask how the noble truth of suffering applies to the suffering in which they are swamped and mired. And I provide them with a satisfying answer to their question.

They ask how the noble truths of the origin of suffering, dukkhanirodhaṃ ...

the cessation of suffering,

dukkhanirodhagāminiṃ paṭipadaṃ ariyasaccaṃ pucchanti, tesāhaṃ dukkhanirodhagāminiṃ paṭipadaṃ ariyasaccaṃ puṭṭho byākaromi, tesāhaṃ cittaṃ ārādhemi pañhassa veyyākaraṇena.

and the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering apply to the suffering that has overwhelmed them and brought them low. And I provide them with satisfying answers to their questions.

Yampudāyi, mama sāvakā yena dukkhena dukkhotiṇṇā dukkhaparetā te maṃ upasaṅkamtivā dukkhaṃ ariyasaccaṃ pucchanti, tesāhaṃ dukkhaṃ ariyasaccaṃ puṭṭho byākaromi, tesāhaṃ cittaṃ ārādhemi pañhassa veyyākaraṇena.

Since this is so,

Te maṃ dukkhasamudayaṃ ...

dukkhanirodhaṃ ...

Tesāhaṃ dukkhanirodhagāminiṃ paṭipadaṃ ariyasaccaṃ
puṭṭho byākaromi.

Tesāhaṃ cittaṃ ārādhemi pañhassa veyyākaraṇena.

Ayaṃ kho, udāyi, catuttho dhammo yena mamaṃ sāvaka sakkaronti garuṃ karonti mānenti pūjenti, sakkatvā garuṃ
katvā upanissāya viharanti.

this is the fourth quality because of which my disciples are loyal to me.

Puna caparaṃ, udāyi, akkhātā mayā sāvakānaṃ paṭipadā, yathāpaṭipannā me sāvakā cattāro satipaṭṭhāne bhāventi.

Furthermore, I have explained to my disciples a practice that they use to develop the four kinds of mindfulness meditation.

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu kāye kāyānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ;

It's when a mendicant meditates by observing an aspect of the body—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

vedanāsu vedanānupassī viharati ...

They meditate observing an aspect of feelings ...

dhammesu dhammānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā
vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ.

Tatra ca pana me sāvakā bahū abhiññāvosānapāramippattā viharanti.

And many of my disciples meditate on that having attained perfection and consummation of insight.

Puna caparam, udāyi, akkhātā mayā sāvakānaṃ paṭipadā, yathāpaṭipannā me sāvakā cattāro sammappadhāne bhāventi.

Furthermore, I have explained to my disciples a practice that they use to develop the four right efforts.

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu anuppannānaṃ pāpakānaṃ akusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ anuppādāya chandaṃ janeti, vāyamati, vīriyaṃ ārabhati, cittaṃ paggaṇhāti, padahati;

It's when a mendicant generates enthusiasm, tries, makes an effort, exerts the mind, and strives so that bad, unskillful qualities don't arise.

uppannānaṃ pāpakānaṃ akusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ pahānāya chandaṃ janeti, vāyamati, vīriyaṃ ārabhati, cittaṃ paggaṇhāti, padahati;

They generate enthusiasm, try, make an effort, exert the mind, and strive so that bad, unskillful qualities that have arisen are given up.

anuppannānaṃ kusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ uppādāya chandaṃ janeti, vāyamati, vīriyaṃ ārabhati, cittaṃ paggaṇhāti, padahati;

They generate enthusiasm, try, make an effort, exert the mind, and strive so that skillful qualities arise.

uppannānaṃ kusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ ṭhitiyā asamosāya bhīyyobhāvāya vepullāya bhāvanāya pāripūriyā chandaṃ janeti, vāyamati, vīriyaṃ ārabhati, cittaṃ paggaṇhāti, padahati.

They generate enthusiasm, try, make an effort, exert the mind, and strive so that skillful qualities that have arisen remain, are not lost, but increase, mature, and are fulfilled by development.

Tatra ca pana me sāvakā bahū abhiññāvosānapāramippattā viharanti.

And many of my disciples meditate on that having attained perfection and consummation of insight.

Puna caparam, udāyi, akkhātā mayā sāvakānaṃ paṭipadā, yathāpaṭipannā me sāvakā cattāro iddhipāde bhāventi.

Furthermore, I have explained to my disciples a practice that they use to develop the four bases of psychic power.

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu

chandasamādhīpadhānaṣaṅkhārasamannāgataṃ iddhipādaṃ
bhāveti,

It's when a mendicant develops the basis of psychic power that has immersion due to enthusiasm, and active effort.

vīriyasamādhīpadhānaṣaṅkhārasamannāgataṃ iddhipādaṃ
bhāveti,

They develop the basis of psychic power that has immersion due to energy, and active effort.

cittasamādhīpadhānaṣaṅkhārasamannāgataṃ iddhipādaṃ
bhāveti,

They develop the basis of psychic power that has immersion due to mental development, and active effort.

vīmaṃsāsamādhīpadhānaṣaṅkhārasamannāgataṃ iddhipādaṃ
bhāveti.

They develop the basis of psychic power that has immersion due to inquiry, and active effort.

Tatra ca pana me sāvakā bahū abhiññāvosānapāramippattā viharanti.

And many of my disciples meditate on that having attained perfection and consummation of insight.

Puna caparam, udāyi, akkhātā mayā sāvakānaṃ paṭipadā, yathāpaṭipannā me sāvakā pañcīndriyāni bhāventi.

Furthermore, I have explained to my disciples a practice that they use to develop the five faculties.

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu saddhindriyaṃ bhāveti upasamaḡāmiṃ sambodhaḡāmiṃ;

It's when a mendicant develops the faculties of faith, vīriyindriyaṃ bhāveti ...pe...

satindriyaṃ bhāveti ...

mindfulness,

samādhindriyaṃ bhāveti ...

immersion,

paññindriyaṃ bhāveti upasamaḡāmiṃ sambodhaḡāmiṃ.

and wisdom, which lead to peace and awakening.

Tatra ca pana me sāvakaḡ bahū abhiññāvosānapāramippattā viharanti.

And many of my disciples meditate on that having attained perfection and consummation of insight.

Puna caparaṃ, udāyi, akkhātā mayā sāvakaṃaṃ paṭipadā, yathāpaṭipannā me sāvakaḡ pañca balāni bhāventi.

Furthermore, I have explained to my disciples a practice that they use to develop the five powers.

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu saddhābalaṃ bhāveti upasamaḡāmiṃ sambodhaḡāmiṃ;

It's when a mendicant develops the powers of faith, vīriyabalaṃ bhāveti ...pe...

energy,

satibalaṃ bhāveti ...

mindfulness,

samādhibalaṃ bhāveti ...

immersion,

paññābalaṃ bhāveti upasamaḡāmiṃ sambodhaḡāmiṃ.

and wisdom, which lead to peace and awakening.

Tatra ca pana me sāvakā bahū abhiññāvosānapāramippattā viharanti.

And many of my disciples meditate on that having attained perfection and consummation of insight.

Puna caparam, udāyi, akkhātā mayā sāvakānaṃ paṭipadā, yathāpaṭipannā me sāvakā sattabojjhaṅge bhāventi.

Furthermore, I have explained to my disciples a practice that they use to develop the seven awakening factors.

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu satisambojjhaṅgaṃ bhāveti vivekanissitaṃ virāganissitaṃ nirodhanissitaṃ vossaggapariṇāmiṃ; dhammavicayasambojjhaṅgaṃ bhāveti ...pe...

vīriyasambojjhaṅgaṃ bhāveti ... pītisambojjhaṅgaṃ bhāveti ...

passaddhisambojjhaṅgaṃ bhāveti ... samādhisambojjhaṅgaṃ bhāveti ... upekkhāsambojjhaṅgaṃ bhāveti vivekanissitaṃ virāganissitaṃ nirodhanissitaṃ vossaggapariṇāmiṃ.

It's when a mendicant develops the awakening factors of mindfulness, investigation of principles, energy, rapture, tranquility, immersion, and equanimity, which rely on seclusion, fading away, and cessation, and ripen as letting go.

Tatra ca pana me sāvakā bahū abhiññāvosānapāramippattā viharanti.

And many of my disciples meditate on that having attained perfection and consummation of insight.

Puna caparam, udāyi, akkhātā mayā sāvakānaṃ paṭipadā, yathāpaṭipannā me sāvakā ariyaṃ aṭṭhaṅgikaṃ maggaṃ bhāventi.

Furthermore, I have explained to my disciples a practice that they use to develop the noble eightfold path.

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu sammādiṭṭhiṃ bhāveti, sammāsaṅkappaṃ bhāveti, sammāvācaṃ bhāveti, sammākammantaṃ bhāveti, sammājīvaṃ bhāveti, sammāvāyāmaṃ bhāveti, sammāsatiraṃ bhāveti, sammāsamādhiṃ bhāveti.

It's when a mendicant develops right view, right thought, right speech, right action, right livelihood, right effort, right mindfulness, and right immersion.

Tatra ca pana me sāvakā bahū abhiññāvosānapāramippattā viharanti.

And many of my disciples meditate on that having attained perfection and consummation of insight.

Puna caparaṃ, udāyi, akkhātā mayā sāvakānaṃ paṭipadā, yathāpaṭipannā me sāvakā aṭṭha vimokkhe bhāventi.

Furthermore, I have explained to my disciples a practice that they use to develop the eight liberations.

Rūpī rūpāni passati,

Having physical form, they see visions.

ayaṃ paṭhamo vimokkho;

This is the first liberation.

ajjhataṃ arūpasaññī bahiddhā rūpāni passati,

Not perceiving form internally, they see visions externally.

ayaṃ dutiyo vimokkho;

This is the second liberation.

subhanteva adhimutto hoti,

They're focused only on beauty.

ayaṃ tatiyo vimokkho;

This is the third liberation.

sabbaso rūpasaññānaṃ samatikkamā paṭighasaññānaṃ atthaṅgamā nānattasaññānaṃ amanasikārā 'ananto ākāso'ti ākāsaññācāyatanānaṃ upasampajja viharati,

Going totally beyond perceptions of form, with the ending of perceptions of impingement, not focusing on perceptions of diversity, aware that 'space is infinite', they enter and remain in the dimension of infinite space.

ayaṃ catuttho vimokkho;

This is the fourth liberation.

sabbaso ākāsaññāyatanaṃ samatikkamma 'anantaṃ viññāṇaṃ'ti viññāṇaññāyatanaṃ upasampajja viharati,

Going totally beyond the dimension of infinite space, aware that 'consciousness is infinite', they enter and remain in the dimension of infinite consciousness.

ayaṃ pañcama vimokkho;

This is the fifth liberation.

sabbaso viññāṇaññāyatanaṃ samatikkamma 'natthi kiñcī'ti ākiñcaññāyatanaṃ upasampajja viharati,

Going totally beyond the dimension of infinite consciousness, aware that 'there is nothing at all', they enter and remain in the dimension of nothingness.

ayaṃ chaṭṭho vimokkho;

This is the sixth liberation.

sabbaso ākiñcaññāyatanaṃ samatikkamma nevasaññānāsaññāyatanaṃ upasampajja viharati,

Going totally beyond the dimension of nothingness, they enter and remain in the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception.

ayaṃ sattamo vimokkho;

This is the seventh liberation.

sabbaso nevasaññānāsaññāyatanaṃ samatikkamma saññāvedayitanirodhaṃ upasampajja viharati,

Going totally beyond the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception, they enter and remain in the cessation of perception and feeling.

This is the eighth liberation.

Tatra ca pana me sāvaka bahū abhiññāvosānapāramippattā viharanti.

And many of my disciples meditate on that having attained perfection and consummation of insight.

Puna caparaṃ, udāyi, akkhātā mayā sāvakānaṃ paṭipadā, yathāpaṭipannā me sāvaka aṭṭha abhibhāyatanāni bhāventi.

Furthermore, I have explained to my disciples a practice that they use to develop the eight dimensions of mastery.

Ajjhattaṃ rūpasaññī eko bahiddhā rūpāni passati parittāni suvaṇṇadubbaṇṇāni.

Perceiving form internally, someone sees visions externally, limited, both pretty and ugly.

Mastering them, they perceive: ‘I know and see.’

Idaṃ paṭhamaṃ abhibhāyatanam.

This is the first dimension of mastery.

Ajjhattaṃ rūpasaññī eko bahiddhā rūpāni passati appamaṇāni suvaṇṇadubbaṇṇāni.

Perceiving form internally, someone sees visions externally, limitless, both pretty and ugly.

Mastering them, they perceive: ‘I know and see.’

Idaṃ dutiyaṃ abhibhāyatanam.

This is the second dimension of mastery.

Ajjhattaṃ arūpasaññī eko bahiddhā rūpāni passati parittāni suvaṇṇadubbaṇṇāni.

Not perceiving form internally, someone sees visions externally, limited, both pretty and ugly.

Mastering them, they perceive: ‘I know and see.’

Idaṃ tatiyaṃ abhibhāyatanam.

This is the third dimension of mastery.

Ajjhattaṃ arūpasaññī eko bahiddhā rūpāni passati appamaṇāni suvaṇṇadubbaṇṇāni.

Not perceiving form internally, someone sees visions externally, limitless, both pretty and ugly.

Mastering them, they perceive: ‘I know and see.’

Idaṃ catutthaṃ abhibhāyatanam.

This is the fourth dimension of mastery.

Ajjhattaṃ arūpasaññī eko bahiddhā rūpāni passati nīlāni nīlavaṇṇāni nīlanidassanāni nīlanibhāsāni.

Not perceiving form internally, someone sees visions externally, blue, with blue color, blue hue, and blue tint.

Seyyathāpi nāma umāpupphaṃ nīlaṃ nīlavaṇṇam nīlanidassanam nīlanibhāsam, seyyathā vā pana taṃ vattham bārāṇaseyyakaṃ ubhatobhāgavimaṭṭham nīlaṃ nīlavaṇṇam nīlanidassanam nīlanibhāsam; evameva ajjhattaṃ arūpasaññī eko bahiddhā rūpāni passati nīlāni nīlavaṇṇāni nīlanidassanāni nīlanibhāsāni.

They’re like a flax flower that’s blue, with blue color, blue hue, and blue tint. Or a cloth from Bārāṇasī that’s smoothed on both sides, blue, with blue color, blue hue, and blue tint.

In the same way, not perceiving form internally, someone sees visions externally, blue, with blue color, blue hue, and blue tint.

Mastering them, they perceive: 'I know and see.'

Idaṃ pañcamam abhibhāyatanam.

This is the fifth dimension of mastery.

Ajjhattam arūpasaññī eko bahiddhā rūpāni passati pītāni pītavaṇṇāni pītanidassanāni pītanibhāsāni.

Not perceiving form internally, someone sees visions externally that are yellow, with yellow color, yellow hue, and yellow tint.

Seyyathāpi nāma kaṇikārapuppham pītam pītavaṇṇam pītanidassanam pītanibhāsam, seyyathā vā pana tam vattham bārāṇaseyyakam ubhatobhāgavimaṭṭham pītam pītavaṇṇam pītanidassanam pītanibhāsam;

They're like a champak flower that's yellow, with yellow color, yellow hue, and yellow tint. Or a cloth from Bārāṇasī that's smoothed on both sides, yellow, with yellow color, yellow hue, and yellow tint.

evameva ajjhattam arūpasaññī eko bahiddhā rūpāni passati pītāni pītavaṇṇāni pītanidassanāni pītanibhāsāni.

In the same way, not perceiving form internally, someone sees visions externally that are yellow, with yellow color, yellow hue, and yellow tint.

'Tāni abhibhuyya jānāmi, passāmī'ti evam saññī hoti.

Mastering them, they perceive: 'I know and see.'

Idaṃ chaṭṭham abhibhāyatanam.

This is the sixth dimension of mastery.

Ajjhattam arūpasaññī eko bahiddhā rūpāni passati lohitaṅkāni lohitaṅkavaṇṇāni lohitaṅkanidassanāni lohitaṅkanibhāsāni.

Not perceiving form internally, someone sees visions externally that are red, with red color, red hue, and red tint.

Seyyathāpi nāma bandhujīvakapuppham lohitaṅkam lohitaṅkavaṇṇam lohitaṅkanidassanam lohitaṅkanibhāsam, seyyathā vā pana tam vattham bārāṇaseyyakam

ubhatobhāgavimaṭṭham lohitakaṃ lohitakavaṇṇaṃ lohitakanidassanaṃ lohitakanibhāsaṃ;

They're like a scarlet mallow flower that's red, with red color, red hue, and red tint. Or a cloth from Bāraṇasī that's smoothed on both sides, red, with red color, red hue, and red tint.

evameva ajjhattaṃ arūpasaññī eko bahiddhā rūpāni passati lohitakāni lohitakavaṇṇāni lohitakanidassanāni lohitakanibhāsāni.

In the same way, not perceiving form internally, someone sees visions externally that are red, with red color, red hue, and red tint.

'Tāni abhibhuyya jānāmi, passāmī'ti evaṃ saññī hoti.

Mastering them, they perceive: 'I know and see.'

Idaṃ sattamaṃ abhibhāyatanam.

This is the seventh dimension of mastery.

Ajjhattaṃ arūpasaññī eko bahiddhā rūpāni passati odātāni odātavaṇṇāni odātanidassanāni odātanibhāsāni.

Not perceiving form internally, someone sees visions externally that are white, with white color, white hue, and white tint.

Seyyathāpi nāma osadhitārakā odātā odātavaṇṇā odātanidassanā odātanibhāsā, seyyathā vā pana taṃ vatthaṃ bārāṇaseyyakaṃ ubhatobhāgavimaṭṭham odātaṃ odātavaṇṇaṃ odātanidassanaṃ odātanibhāsaṃ;

They're like the morning star that's white, with white color, white hue, and white tint. Or a cloth from Bāraṇasī that's smoothed on both sides, white, with white color, white hue, and white tint.

evameva ajjhattaṃ arūpasaññī eko bahiddhā rūpāni passati odātāni odātavaṇṇāni odātanidassanāni odātanibhāsāni.

In the same way, not perceiving form internally, someone sees visions externally that are white, with white color, white hue, and white tint.

'Tāni abhibhuyya jānāmi, passāmī'ti evaṃsaññī hoti.

Mastering them, they perceive: 'I know and see.'

Idaṃ aṭṭhamañ abhibhāyatanañ.

This is the eighth dimension of mastery.

Tatra ca pana me sāvakā bahū abhiññāvosānapāramippattā viharanti.

And many of my disciples meditate on that having attained perfection and consummation of insight.

Puna caparamñ, udāyi, akkhātā mayā sāvakānañ paṭipadā, yathāpaṭipannā me sāvakā dasa kasiṇāyatanāni bhāventi.

Furthermore, I have explained to my disciples a practice that they use to develop the ten universal dimensions of meditation.

Pathavīkasiṇameko sañjānāti uddhamadho tiriyañ advayañ appamāṇañ;

Someone perceives the meditation on universal earth above, below, across, non-dual and limitless.

āpokasiṇameko sañjānāti ...pe...

They perceive the meditation on universal water ...

tejokasiṇameko sañjānāti ...

vāyokasiṇameko sañjānāti ...

the meditation on universal air ...

nīlakasiṇameko sañjānāti ...

the meditation on universal blue ...

the meditation on universal yellow ...

the meditation on universal red ...

odātakasiṇameko sañjānāti ...

ākāsakaṣiṇameko sañjānāti ...

the meditation on universal space ...

viññāṇakaṣiṇameko sañjānāti uddhamadho tiriyaṃ advayaṃ appamāṇaṃ.

the meditation on universal consciousness above, below, across,
non-dual and limitless.

Tatra ca pana me sāvaka bahū abhiññāvosānapāramippattā
viharanti.

And many of my disciples meditate on that having attained perfection and consummation of insight.

Puna caparaṃ, udāyi, akkhātā mayā sāvakaṇaṃ paṭipadā, yathāpaṭipannā me sāvaka cattāri jhānāni bhāventi.

Furthermore, I have explained to my disciples a practice that they use to develop the four absorptions.

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ
paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

It's when a mendicant, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

So imameva kāyaṃ vivekajena pītisukhena abhisandeti parisandeti paripūreti parippharati, nāssa kiñci sabbāvato kāyassa vivekajena pītisukhena apphuṭaṃ hoti.

They drench, steep, fill, and spread their body with rapture and bliss born of seclusion. There's no part of the body that's not spread with rapture and bliss born of seclusion.

Seyyathāpi, udāyi, dakkho nhāpako vā nhāpakantevāsī vā kaṃsathāle nhānīyacuṇṇāni ākiritvā udakena paripphosakaṃ paripphosakaṃ sanneyya, sāyaṃ nhānīyapiṇḍi snehānugatā snehaparetā santarabāhirā phuṭā snehena na ca pagghariṇī;

It's like when a deft bathroom attendant or their apprentice pours bath powder into a bronze dish, sprinkling it little by little with water. They knead it until the ball of bath powder is soaked and saturated with moisture, spread through inside and out; yet no moisture oozes out.

evameva kho, udāyi, bhikkhu imameva kāyaṃ vivekajena pītisukhena abhisandeti parisandeti paripūreti parippharati, nāssa kiñci sabbāvato kāyassa vivekajena pītisukhena apphuṭaṃ hoti.

In the same way, a mendicant drenches, steeps, fills, and spreads their body with rapture and bliss born of seclusion. There's no part of the body that's not spread with rapture and bliss born of seclusion.

Puna caparaṃ, udāyi, bhikkhu vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhataṃ sampasādanaṃ ...pe... dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, a mendicant enters and remains in the second absorption. It has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

So imameva kāyaṃ samādhijena pītisukhena abhisandeti parisandeti paripūreti parippharati, nāssa kiñci sabbāvato kāyassa samādhijena pītisukhena apphuṭaṃ hoti.

They drench, steep, fill, and spread their body with rapture and bliss born of immersion. There's no part of the body that's not spread with rapture and bliss born of immersion.

Seyyathāpi, udāyi, udakarahado gambhīro ubbhidodako. Tassa nevassa puratthimāya disāya udakassa āyamukhaṃ, na pacchimāya disāya udakassa āyamukhaṃ, na uttarāya disāya udakassa āyamukhaṃ, na dakkhiṇāya disāya udakassa āyamukhaṃ, devo ca na kālena kālaṃ sammā dhāraṃ anuppaveccheyya;

It's like a deep lake fed by spring water. There's no inlet to the east, west, north, or south, and no rainfall to replenish it from time to time.

atha kho tamhāva udakarahadā sītā vāridhārā ubbhijjivā tameva udakarahadaṃ sītena vārinā abhisandeyya parisandeyya paripūreyya paripphareyya, nāssa kiñci sabbāvato udakarahadassa sītena vārinā apphuṭaṃ assa.

But the stream of cool water welling up in the lake drenches, steeps, fills, and spreads throughout the lake. There's no part of the lake that's not spread through with cool water.

Evameva kho, udāyi, bhikkhu imameva kāyaṃ samādhijena pītisukhena abhisandeti parisandeti paripūreti parippharati, nāssa kiñci sabbāvato kāyassa samādhijena pītisukhena
apphuṭaṃ hoti.

In the same way, a mendicant drenches, steeps, fills, and spreads their body with rapture and bliss born of immersion. There's no part of the body that's not spread with rapture and bliss born of immersion.

Puna caparaṃ, udāyi, bhikkhu pītiyā ca virāgā ...pe... tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, with the fading away of rapture, a mendicant enters and remains in the third absorption. They meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, 'Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.'

So imameva kāyaṃ nippītikena sukhena abhisandeti parisandeti paripūreti parippharati, nāssa kiñci sabbāvato kāyassa nippītikena sukhena apphuṭaṃ hoti.

They drench, steep, fill, and spread their body with bliss free of rapture. There's no part of the body that's not spread with bliss free of rapture.

Seyyathāpi, udāyi, uppaliniyaṃ vā paduminiyaṃ vā puṇḍarīkiniyaṃ vā appekaccāni uppalāni vā padumāni vā puṇḍarīkāni vā udake jātāni udake saṃvaḍḍhāni udakānuggatāni anto nimuggaposīni, tāni yāva caggā yāva ca mūlā sītena vārinā abhisannāni parisannāni paripūrāni paripphuṭāni, nāssa kiñci sabbāvataṃ, uppalānaṃ vā padumānaṃ vā puṇḍarīkānaṃ vā sītena vārinā apphuṭaṃ assa;
It's like a pool with blue water lilies, or pink or white lotuses. Some of them sprout and grow in the water without rising above it, thriving underwater. From the tip to the root they're drenched, steeped, filled, and soaked with cool water. There's no part of them that's not soaked with cool water.

evameva kho, udāyi, bhikkhu imameva kāyaṃ nippītikena sukhena abhisandeti parisandeti paripūreti parippharati, nāssa kiñci sabbāvato kāyassa nippītikena sukhena apphuṭaṃ hoti.
In the same way, a mendicant drenches, steeps, fills, and spreads their body with bliss free of rapture. There's no part of the body that's not spread with bliss free of rapture.

Puna caparaṃ, udāyi, bhikkhu sukhasa ca pahānā dukkhasa ca pahānā pubbeva somanassadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamā adukkhamasukhaṃ upekkhāsatipārisuddhiṃ catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, giving up pleasure and pain, and ending former happiness and sadness, a mendicant enters and remains in the fourth absorption. It is without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

So imameva kāyaṃ parisuddhena cetasā pariyodātena pharivā nisinno hoti, nāssa kiñci sabbāvato kāyassa parisuddhena cetasā pariyodātena apphuṭaṃ hoti.

They sit spreading their body through with pure bright mind. There's no part of the body that's not spread with pure bright mind.

Seyyathāpi, udāyi, puriso odātena vatthena sasīsaṃ pārupitvā nisinno assa, nāssa kiñci sabbāvato kāyassa odātena vatthena apphuṭaṃ assa;

It's like someone sitting wrapped from head to foot with white cloth. There's no part of the body that's not spread over with white cloth.

evameva kho, udāyi, bhikkhu imameva kāyaṃ parisuddhena cetasā pariyodātena pharitvā nisinno hoti, nāssa kiñci sabbāvato kāyassa parisuddhena cetasā pariyodātena apphuṭaṃ hoti.

In the same way, they sit spreading their body through with pure bright mind. There's no part of the body that's not spread with pure bright mind.

Furthermore, I have explained to my disciples a practice that they use to recollect the many kinds of past lives. That is: one, two, three, four, five, ten, twenty, thirty, forty, fifty, a hundred, a thousand, a hundred thousand rebirths; many eons of the world contracting, many eons of the world expanding, many eons of the world contracting and expanding. 'There, I was named this, my clan was that, I looked like this, and that was my food. This was how I felt pleasure and pain, and that was how my life ended. When I passed away from that place I was reborn somewhere else. There, too, I was named this, my clan was that, I looked like this, and that was my food. Furthermore, I have explained to my disciples a practice that they use so that, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, they see sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. They understand how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds: ‘These dear beings did bad things by way of body, speech, and mind. They spoke ill of the noble ones; they had wrong view; and they chose to act out of that wrong view. When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell. These dear beings, however, did good things by way of body, speech, and mind. They never spoke ill of the noble ones; they had right view; and they chose to act out of that right view. When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.' And so, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, they see sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. They understand how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds.

In the same way, I have explained to my disciples a practice that they use so that, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, they see sentient beings passing away and being reborn ...

And many of my disciples meditate on that having attained perfection and consummation of insight.

Puna caparaṃ, udāyi, akkhātā mayā sāvakānaṃ paṭipadā, yathāpaṭipannā me sāvakā āsavānaṃ khayā anāsavaṃ cetovimuttiṃ paññāvimuttiṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayamaṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharanti.

Furthermore, I have explained to my disciples a practice that they use to realize the undefiled freedom of heart and freedom by wisdom in this very life. And they live having realized it with their own insight due to the ending of defilements.

Seyyathāpi, udāyi, pabbatasañkhepe udakarahado accho vippasanno anāvalo, tattha cakkhumā puriso tīre t̥hito passeyya sippisambukampi sakkharaḥalampi macchagumbampi carantampi tiṭṭhantampi. Tassa evamassa: ‘ayaṃ kho udakarahado accho vippasanno anāvalo, tatrime sippisambukāpi sakkharaḥalāpi macchagumbāpi caranti pi tiṭṭhanti’ ti.

Suppose there was a lake that was transparent, clear, and unclouded. A person with good eyesight standing on the bank would see the mussel shells, gravel and pebbles, and schools of fish swimming about or staying still. They’d think: ‘This lake is transparent, clear, and unclouded. And here are the mussel shells, gravel and pebbles, and schools of fish swimming about or staying still.’

Evameva kho, udāyi, akkhātā mayā sāvakaṇaṃ paṭipadā, yathāpaṭipannā me sāvaka āsavānaṃ khayā anāsavaṃ cetovimuttiṃ paññāvimuttiṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharanti.

In the same way, I have explained to my disciples a practice that they use to realize the undefiled freedom of heart and freedom by wisdom in this very life. And they live having realized it with their own insight due to the ending of defilements.

Tatra ca pana me sāvaka bahū abhiññāvosānapāramippattā viharanti.

And many of my disciples meditate on that having attained perfection and consummation of insight.

Ayaṃ kho, udāyi, pañcamo dhammo yena mama sāvakā sakkaronti garuṃ karonti mānenti pūjenti, sakkatvā garuṃ
katvā upanissāya viharanti.

This is the fifth quality because of which my disciples are loyal to me.

Ime kho, udāyi, pañca dhammā yehi mamaṃ sāvakā sakkaronti garuṃ karonti mānenti pūjenti, sakkatvā garuṃ katvā upanissāya viharanti”ti.

These are the five qualities because of which my disciples honor, respect, revere, and venerate me; and after honoring and respecting me, they remain loyal to me.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano sakuludāyī paribbājako bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, the wanderer Sakuludāyī was happy with what the Buddha said.

Mahāsakuludāyisuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ sattamaṃ.

78. Samaṇamuṇḍikasutta With Uggāhamāna Samaṇamuṇḍika

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā sāvattiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena uggāhamāno paribbājako samaṇamuṇḍikāputto samayappavādake tindukācīre ekasālake mallikāya ārāme paṭivasati mahatīyā paribbājakaparisāya saddhim pañcamattehi paribbājakasatehi.

Now at that time the wanderer Uggāhamāna Samaṇamuṇḍikāputta was residing together with around three hundred wanderers in Mallikā's single-halled monastery for group debates, set among the flaking pale-moon ebony trees.

Atha kho pañcakaṅgo thapati sāvattiyā nikkhami divā divassa bhagavantam dassanāya.

Then the master builder Pañcakaṅga left Sāvattī in the middle of the day to see the Buddha.

Atha kho pañcakaṅgassa thapatissa etadahosi:

It occurred to him,

“akālo kho tāva bhagavantam dassanāya;

“It's the wrong time to see the Buddha, paṭisallīno bhagavā.

as he's in retreat.

Manobhāvaniyānampi bhikkhūnaṃ asamayo dassanāya;

And it's the wrong time to see the esteemed mendicants, paṭisallīnā manobhāvaniyā bhikkhū.

Yannūnāhaṃ yena samayappavādako tindukācīro ekasālako mallikāya ārāmo yena uggāhamāno paribbājako samaṇamuṇḍikāputto tenupasaṅkameyyan"ti.

Why don't I go to Mallikā's monastery to visit the wanderer Uggāhamāna?"

Atha kho pañcakaṅgo thapati yena samayappavādako tindukācīro ekasālako mallikāya ārāmo yena uggāhamāno paribbājako samaṇamuṇḍikāputto tenupasaṅkami.

So that's what he did.

Tena kho pana samayena uggāhamāno paribbājako

samaṇamuṇḍikāputto mahatīyā paribbājakaparisāya saddhiṃ nisinno hoti unnādinīyā uccāsaddamahāsaddāya anekavihitāṃ

tiracchānakathaṃ kathentīyā, seyyathidaṃ—

Now at that time, Uggāhamāna was sitting together with a large assembly of wanderers making an uproar, a dreadful racket. They engaged in all kinds of unworthy talk, such as rājakathaṃ corakathaṃ mahāmattakathaṃ senākathaṃ bhayakathaṃ yuddhakathaṃ annakathaṃ pānakathaṃ vatthakathaṃ sayanakathaṃ mālākathaṃ gandhakathaṃ ñātikathaṃ yānakathaṃ gāmakathaṃ nigamakathaṃ nagarakathaṃ janapadakathaṃ itthikathaṃ sūrakathaṃ visikhākathaṃ kumbhaṭṭhānakathaṃ pubbapetakathaṃ nānattakathaṃ lokakkhāyikaṃ samuddakkhāyikaṃ itibhavābhavakathaṃ iti vā.

talk about kings, bandits, and ministers; talk about armies, threats, and wars; talk about food, drink, clothes, and beds; talk about garlands and fragrances; talk about family, vehicles, villages, towns, cities, and countries; talk about women and heroes; street talk and well talk; talk about the departed; motley talk; tales of land and sea; and talk about being reborn in this or that state of existence.

Addasā kho uggāhamāno paribbājako samaṇamuṇḍikāputto pañcakaṅgaṃ thapatiṃ dūratova āgacchantam.

Uggāhamāna saw Pañcakaṅga coming off in the distance,

Disvāna sakaṃ parisam saṅṭhāpesi:

and hushed his own assembly,

“appasaddā bhonto hontu, mā bhonto saddamakattha;

ayaṃ samaṇassa gotamassa sāvako āgacchati pañcakaṅgo thapati.

Here comes Pañcakaṅga, a disciple of the ascetic Gotama.

Yāvatā kho pana samaṇassa gotamassa sāvakā gihī odātavasanaṃ sāvatthiyaṃ paṭivasanti ayaṃ tesam aññataro pañcakaṅgo thapati.

He is included among the white-clothed lay disciples of the ascetic Gotama, who is residing in Sāvattihī.

Appasaddakāmā kho pana te āyasmanto appasaddavinītā appasaddassa vaṇṇavādino;

Such venerables like the quiet, are educated to be quiet, and praise the quiet.

appeva nāma appasaddaṃ parisam veditvā upasaṅkamitabbaṃ maññeyyā”ti.

Hopefully if he sees that our assembly is quiet he’ll see fit to approach.”

Atha kho te paribbājakā tuṅhī ahesuṃ.

Then those wanderers fell silent.

Atha kho pañcakaṅgo thapati yena uggāhamāno paribbājako samaṇamuṇḍikāputto tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā uggāhamānena paribbājakena samaṇamuṇḍikāputtena saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then Pañcakaṅga approached Uggāhamāna, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho pañcakaṅgaṃ thapatim uggāhamāno paribbājako samaṇamuṇḍikāputto etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side. Uggāhamāna said to him:

“catūhi kho ahaṃ, gahapati, dhammehi samannāgataṃ purisapuggalaṃ paññapemi sampannakusalaṃ paramakusalaṃ uttamapattipattaṃ samaṇaṃ ayojjhaṃ.

“Householder, when an individual has four qualities I describe them as an invincible ascetic—accomplished in the skillful, excelling in the skillful, attained to the highest attainment.

Katamehi catūhi?

What four?

Idha, gahapati, na kāyena pāpakammaṃ karoti, na pāpakaṃ vācaṃ bhāsati, na pāpakaṃ saṅkappaṃ saṅkappeti, na pāpakaṃ ājīvaṃ ājīvati—

It’s when they do no bad deeds with their body; speak no bad words; think no bad thoughts; and don’t earn a living by bad livelihood.

imehi kho ahaṃ, gahapati, catūhi dhammehi samannāgataṃ purisapuggalaṃ paññapemi sampannakusalaṃ paramakusalaṃ uttamapattipattaṃ samaṇaṃ ayojjhan”ti.

When an individual has these four qualities I describe them as an invincible ascetic.”

Atha kho pañcakaṅgo thapati uggāhamānassa paribbājakassa samaṇamuṇḍikāputtassa bhāsitaṃ neva abhinandi nappaṭikkosi.

Then Pañcakaṅga neither approved nor dismissed that mendicant's statement.

Anabhinanditvā appaṭikkositvā utṭhāyāsanā pakkāmi:

He got up from his seat, thinking,

“bhagavato santike etassa bhāsitassa atthaṃ ājānissāmī”ti.

“I will learn the meaning of this statement from the Buddha himself.”

Atha kho pañcakaṅgo thapati yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

Then he went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side,

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho pañcakaṅgo thapati yāvatako ahosi uggāhamānena paribbājakena samaṇamuṇḍikāputtena saddhiṃ kathāsallāpo taṃ sabbaṃ bhagavato ārocesi.

and informed the Buddha of all that had been discussed.

Evaṃ vutte, bhagavā pañcakaṅgaṃ thapatiṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, the Buddha said to him,

“evaṃ sante kho, thapati, daharo kumāro mando uttānaseyyako sampannakusalo bhavissati paramakusalo uttamapattipatto samaṇo ayojjho, yathā uggāhamānassa paribbājakassa samaṇamuṇḍikāputtassa vacanaṃ.

“Master builder, if what Uggāhamāna says is true, a little baby boy is an invincible ascetic—accomplished in the skillful, excelling in the skillful, attained to the highest attainment.

Daharassa hi, thapati, kumārassa mandassa uttānaseyyakassa kāyotipi na hoti, kuto pana kāyena pāpakammaṃ karissati, aññatra phanditamattā.

For a little baby doesn't even have a concept of 'a body', so how could they possibly do a bad deed with their body, apart from just wriggling?

Daharassa hi, thapati, kumārassa mandassa uttānaseyyakassa
vācātipi na hoti, kuto pana pāpakaṃ vācaṃ bhāsisati, aññatra roditamattā.

And a little baby doesn't even have a concept of 'speech', so how could they possibly speak bad words, apart from just crying?

Daharassa hi, thapati, kumārassa mandassa uttānaseyyakassa saṅkappotipi na hoti, kuto pana pāpakam saṅkappam saṅkappissati, aññatra vikūjitamattā.

And a little baby doesn't even have a concept of 'thought', so how could they possibly think bad thoughts, apart from just whimpering?

Daharassa hi, thapati, kumārassa mandassa uttānaseyyakassa ājīvotipi na hoti, kuto pana pāpakam ājīvam ājīvissati, aññatra mātuthaññā.

And a little baby doesn't even have a concept of 'livelihood', so how could they possibly earn a living by bad livelihood, apart from their mother's breast?

Evam sante kho, thapati, daharo kumāro mando uttānaseyyako sampannakusalo bhavissati paramakusalo uttamapattipatto samaṇo ayojjho, yathā uggāhamānassa paribbājakassa samaṇamuṇḍikāputtassa vacanam.

If what Uggāhamāna says is true, a little baby boy is an invincible ascetic—accomplished in the skillful, excelling in the skillful, attained to the highest attainment.

Catūhi kho aham, thapati, dhammehi samannāgataṃ purisapuggalaṃ paññapemi na ceva sampannakusalaṃ na paramakusalaṃ na uttamapattipattaṃ samaṇam ayojjham, api cimaṃ daharam kumāram mandaṃ uttānaseyyakaṃ samadhigayha tiṭṭhati.

When an individual has four qualities I describe them, not as an invincible ascetic—accomplished in the skillful, excelling in the skillful, attained to the highest attainment—but as having achieved the same level as a little baby.

Katamehi catūhi?

What four?

Idha, thapati, na kāyena pāpakammaṃ karoti, na pāpakaṃ vācaṃ bhāsati, na pāpakaṃ saṅkappaṃ saṅkappeti, na pāpakaṃ ājīvaṃ ājīvati—

It's when they do no bad deeds with their body; speak no bad words; think no bad thoughts; and don't earn a living by bad livelihood.

imehi kho ahaṃ, thapati, catūhi dhammehi samannāgataṃ purisapuggalaṃ paññapemi na ceva sampannakusalaṃ na paramakusalaṃ na uttamapattipattaṃ samaṇaṃ ayojjhaṃ, api cimaṃ daharaṃ kumāraṃ mandaṃ uttānaseyyakaṃ samadhigayha tiṭṭhati.

When an individual has these four qualities I describe them, not as an invincible ascetic, but as having achieved the same level as a little baby.

Dasahi kho ahaṃ, thapati, dhammehi samannāgataṃ purisapuggalaṃ paññapemi sampannakusalaṃ paramakusalaṃ uttamapattipattaṃ samaṇaṃ ayojjhaṃ.

When an individual has ten qualities, master builder, I describe them as an invincible ascetic—accomplished in the skillful, excelling in the skillful, attained to the highest attainment.

Katame ca, thaṭṭhi, akusalaṃ sīlaṃ?

And what, master builder, are unskillful behaviors?

Akusalaṃ kāyakkammaṃ, akusalaṃ vacīkkammaṃ, pāpako ājīvo

Unskillful deeds by way of body and speech, and bad livelihood.

ime vuccanti, thaṭṭhi, akusalaṃ sīlaṃ.

These are called unskillful behaviors.

Ime ca, thaṭṭhi, akusalaṃ sīlaṃ kiṃsamuṭṭhānā?

And where do these unskillful behaviors stem from?

Samuṭṭhānampi nesaṃ vuttaṃ.

Where they stem from has been stated.

‘Cittasamuṭṭhānā’tissa vacanīyaṃ.

You should say that they stem from the mind.

Katamaṃ cittaṃ?

What mind?

Cittampi hi bahuṃ anekavidhaṃ nānappakāraṃ.

The mind takes many and diverse forms.

Yaṃ cittaṃ sarāgaṃ sadosaṃ samohaṃ, itosamuṭṭhānā akusalā sīlā.

But unskillful behaviors stem from a mind that has greed, hate, and delusion.

Ime ca, thapati, akusalā sīlā kuhiṃ aparisesā nirujjhanti?

Nirodhopi nesaṃ vutto.

Their cessation has also been stated.

Idha, thapati, bhikkhu kāyaduccaritaṃ pahāya kāyasucaritaṃ bhāveti, vacīduccaritaṃ pahāya vacīsucaritaṃ bhāveti, manoduccaritaṃ pahāya manosucaritaṃ bhāveti, micchājīvaṃ pahāya sammājīvena jīvitaṃ kappeti—

It’s when a mendicant gives up bad conduct by way of body, speech, and mind, and develops good conduct by way of body, speech, and mind; they give up wrong livelihood and earn a living by right livelihood.

This is where these unskillful behaviors cease without anything left over.

Kathaṃ paṭipanno, thapati, akusalānaṃ sīlānaṃ nirodhāya paṭipanno hoti?

And how is someone practicing for the cessation of unskillful behaviors?

Idha, thapati, bhikkhu anuppannānaṃ pāpakānaṃ akusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ anuppādāya chandaṃ janeti vāyamati vīriyaṃ ārabhati cittaṃ paggaṇhāti padahati;

It's when a mendicant generates enthusiasm, tries, makes an effort, exerts the mind, and strives so that bad, unskillful qualities don't arise.

uppannānaṃ pāpakānaṃ akusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ pahānāya chandaṃ janeti vāyamati vīriyaṃ ārabhati cittaṃ paggaṇhāti padahati;

They generate enthusiasm, try, make an effort, exert the mind, and strive so that bad, unskillful qualities that have arisen are given up.

anuppannānaṃ kusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ uppādāya chandaṃ janeti vāyamati vīriyaṃ ārabhati cittaṃ paggaṇhāti padahati;

They generate enthusiasm, try, make an effort, exert the mind, and strive so that skillful qualities that have arisen remain, are not lost, but increase, mature, and are completed by development.

Evam paṭipanno kho, thapati, akusalānaṃ sīlānaṃ nirodhāya paṭipanno hoti.

Someone practicing like this is practicing for the cessation of unskillful behaviors.

Katame ca, thapati, kusalā sīlā?

And what are skillful behaviors?

Kusalaṃ kāyakammaṃ, kusalaṃ vacīkammaṃ, ājīvaparissuddhampi kho ahaṃ, thapati, sīlasmim vadāmi.

Skillful deeds by way of body and speech, and purified livelihood are included in behavior, I say.

Ime vuccanti, thapati, kusalā sīlā.

These are called skillful behaviors.

Ime ca, thapati, kusalā sīlā kiṃsamuṭṭhānā?

And where do these skillful behaviors stem from?

Samuṭṭhānampi nesaṃ vuttaṃ.

Where they stem from has been stated.

‘Cittasamuṭṭhānā’tissa vacanīyaṃ.

You should say that they stem from the mind.

Katamaṃ cittaṃ?

What mind?

Cittampi hi bahuṃ anekavidhaṃ nānappakāraṃ.

The mind takes many and diverse forms.

Yaṃ cittaṃ vītarāgaṃ vītadosaṃ vītamohaṃ, itosamuṭṭhānā kusalā sīlā.

But skillful behaviors stem from a mind that is free from greed, hate, and delusion.

Ime ca, thapati, kusalā sīlā kuhiṃ aparisesā nirujjhanti?

Nirodhopi nesaṃ vutto.

Their cessation has also been stated.

Idha, thapati, bhikkhu sīlavā hoti no ca sīlamayo,

It’s when a mendicant behaves ethically, but they don’t identify with their ethical behavior.

tañca cetovimuttiṃ paññāvimuttiṃ yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti; yatthassa te kusalā sīlā aparisesā nirujjhanti.

And they truly understand the freedom of heart and freedom by wisdom where these skillful behaviors cease without anything left over.

Kathaṃ paṭipanno ca, thapati, kusalānaṃ sīlānaṃ nirodhāya paṭipanno hoti?

And how is someone practicing for the cessation of skillful behaviors?

Where they stem from has been stated.

‘Saññāsamuṭṭhānā’tissa vacanīyaṃ.

You should say that they stem from perception.

Katamā saññā?

What perception?

Saññāpi hi bahū anekavidhā nānappakārakā.

Perception takes many and diverse forms.

dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati;

It’s when, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, a mendicant enters and remains in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

This is where these skillful thoughts cease without anything left over.

Kathaṃ paṭipanno ca, thapati, kusalānaṃ saṅkappānaṃ nirodhāya paṭipanno hoti?

And how is someone practicing for the cessation of skillful thoughts?

Idha, thapati, bhikkhu anuppannaṃ pāpakānaṃ akusalānaṃ dhammaṃ anuppādāya chandaṃ janeti vāyamati vīriyaṃ ārabhati cittaṃ paggaṇhāti padahati;

It's when a mendicant generates enthusiasm, tries, makes an effort, exerts the mind, and strives so that bad, unskillful qualities don't arise ...

uppannaṃ pāpakānaṃ akusalānaṃ dhammaṃ pahānāya
...pe...

so that unskillful qualities are given up ...

anuppannaṃ kusalānaṃ dhammaṃ uppādāya ...pe...

so that skillful qualities arise ...

uppannaṃ kusalānaṃ dhammaṃ ṭhitiyā asamosāya bhiyyobhāvāya vepullāya bhāvanāya pāripūriyā chandaṃ janeti vāyamati vīriyaṃ ārabhati cittaṃ paggaṇhāti padahati.

so that skillful qualities that have arisen remain, are not lost, but increase, mature, and are fulfilled by development.

Evaṃ paṭipanno kho, thapati, kusalānaṃ saṅkappānaṃ
nirodhāya paṭipanno hoti.

Someone practicing like this is practicing for the cessation of skillful thoughts.

Katamehi cāhaṃ, thapati, dasahi dhammehi samannāgataṃ purisapuggalaṃ paññapemi sampannakusalaṃ paramakusalaṃ uttamapattipattaṃ samaṇaṃ ayojjhaṃ?

Master builder, when an individual has what ten qualities do I describe them as an invincible ascetic—accomplished in the skillful, excelling in the skillful, attained to the highest attainment?

Idha, thapati, bhikkhu asekhāya sammādiṭṭhiyā samannāgato hoti, asekhena sammāsaṅkappena samannāgato hoti, asekhāya sammāvācāya samannāgato hoti, asekhena sammākammantena samannāgato hoti, asekhena sammāājīvena samannāgato hoti, asekhena sammāvāyāmena samannāgato hoti, asekhāya sammāsatiyā samannāgato hoti, asekhena sammāsamādhinā samannāgato hoti, asekhena sammāñāṇena samannāgato hoti, asekhāya sammāvimuttiyā samannāgato hoti—imehi kho ahaṃ, thapati, dasahi dhammehi samannāgataṃ purisapuggalaṃ paññapemi sampannakusalaṃ paramakusalaṃ uttamapattipattaṃ samaṇaṃ ayojjhan'ti.

When an individual has these ten qualities, I describe them as an invincible ascetic—accomplished in the skillful, excelling in the skillful, attained to the highest attainment.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano pañcakaṅgo thapati bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Pañcakaṅga the master builder was happy with what the Buddha said.

Samaṇamuṇḍikasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ aṭṭhamaṃ.

79. Cūḷasakuludāyisutta The Shorter Discourse With Sakuludāyī

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṃ rājagahe viharati veḷuvane
kalandakanivāpe.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tena kho pana samayena sakuludāyī paribbājako moranivāpe paribbājakārāme paṭivasati mahatiyā paribbājakaparisāya saddhim.

Now at that time the wanderer Sakuludāyī was residing together with a large assembly of wanderers in the monastery of the wanderers in the peacocks' feeding ground.

Atha kho bhagavaṃ pubbaṇhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya rājagaham piṇḍāya pāvisi.

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Rājagaha for alms.

Atha kho bhagavato etadahosi:

Then it occurred to him,

“atippago kho tāva rājagahe piṇḍāya caritum.

“It's too early to wander for alms in Rājagaha.

Yannūnāham yena moranivāpo paribbājakārāmo yena sakuludāyī paribbājako tenupasaṅkameyyan”ti.

Why don't I visit the wanderer Sakuludāyī at the monastery of the wanderers in the peacocks' feeding ground?"

Atha kho bhagavā yena moranivāpo paribbājakārāmo tenupasaṅkami.

Then the Buddha went to the monastery of the wanderers.

Tena kho pana samayena sakuludāyī paribbājako mahatīyā paribbājakaparisāya saddhiṃ nisinno hoti unnādinīyā uccāsaddamahāsaddāya anekavihitam tiracchānakatham kathentiya, seyyathidaṃ—

Now at that time, Sakuludāyī was sitting together with a large assembly of wanderers making an uproar, a dreadful racket. They engaged in all kinds of unworthy talk, such as

talk about kings, bandits, and ministers; talk about armies, threats, and wars; talk about food, drink, clothes, and beds; talk about garlands and fragrances; talk about family, vehicles, villages, towns, cities, and countries; talk about women and heroes; street talk and well talk; talk about the departed; motley talk; tales of land and sea; and talk about being reborn in this or that state of existence.

Addasā kho sakuludāyī paribbājako bhagavantam dūratova āgacchantam.

Sakuludāyī saw the Buddha coming off in the distance,

Disvāna sakam parisam saṅṭhāpesi:

and hushed his own assembly,

“appasaddā bhonto hontu, mā bhonto saddamakattha.

Ayaṃ samaṇo gotamo āgacchati;

Here comes the ascetic Gotama.

appasaddakāmo kho pana so āyasmā appasaddassa vaṇṇavādī.

The venerable likes quiet and praises quiet.

Appeva nāma appasaddaṃ parisāṃ veditvā upasaṅkamitabbaṃ maññeyyā”ti.

Hopefully if he sees that our assembly is quiet he’ll see fit to approach.”

Atha kho te paribbājakā tuṅhī ahesuṃ.

Then those wanderers fell silent.

Atha kho bhagavā yena sakuludāyī paribbājako tenupasaṅkami.

Then the Buddha approached Sakuludāyī,

Atha kho sakuludāyī paribbājako bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

who said to him,

“etu kho, bhante, bhagavā.

“Come, Blessed One!

Svāgataṃ, bhante, bhagavato.

Welcome, Blessed One!

Cirassaṃ kho, bhante, bhagavā imaṃ pariyāyamakāsi yadidaṃ idhāgamanāya.

It’s been a long time since you took the opportunity to come here.

Nisīdatu, bhante, bhagavā;

Please, sir, sit down, this seat is ready.”

idamāsanāṃ paññattan”ti.

Nisīdi bhagavā paññatte āsane.

The Buddha sat on the seat spread out,

Sakuludāyīpi kho paribbājako aññataram̐ nīcam̐ āsanam̐ gahetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

while Sakuludāyī took a low seat and sat to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho sakuludāyīṃ paribbājakaṃ bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said to him,

“kāya nuttha, udāyi, etarahi kathāya sannisinnā, kā ca pana vo antarākathā vippakatā”ti?

“Udāyī, what were you sitting talking about just now? What conversation was unfinished?”

“Tiṭṭhatesā, bhante, kathā yāya mayaṃ etarahi kathāya sannisinnā.

“Sir, leave aside what we were sitting talking about just now.

Nesā, bhante, kathā bhagavato dullabhā bhavissati pacchāpi savanāya.

It won't be hard for you to hear about that later.

Yadāhaṃ, bhante, imaṃ parisāṃ anupasaṅkanto homi athāyaṃ parisā anekavihitaṃ tiracchānakathaṃ kathentī nisinnā hoti;

When I don't come to the assembly, they sit and engage in all kinds of unworthy talk.

yadā ca kho ahaṃ, bhante, imaṃ parisāṃ upasaṅkanto homi athāyaṃ parisā mamaññeva mukhaṃ ullokentī nisinnā hoti:

But when I have come to the assembly, they sit gazing up at my face alone, thinking, ‘yaṃ no samaṇo udāyī dhammaṃ bhāsissati taṃ sossāmā’ti;

yadā pana, bhante, bhagavā imaṃ parisāṃ upasaṅkanto hoti athāhañceva ayañca parisā bhagavato mukhaṃ ullokentā nisinnā homa:

But when the Buddha has come to the assembly, both myself and the assembly sit gazing up at your face, thinking, ‘yaṃ no bhagavā dhammaṃ bhāsissati taṃ sossāmā’”ti.

‘Whatever the Buddha teaches, we shall listen to it.’”

“Tenahudāyi, taṃyevettha paṭibhātu yathā maṃ paṭibhāseyyā”ti.

“Well then, Udāyī, suggest something for me to talk about.”

“Purimāni, bhante, divasāni purimatarāni sabbaññū sabbadassāvī aparisesaṃ ñāṇadassanaṃ paṭijānamāno ‘carato ca me tiṭṭhato ca suttassa ca jāgarassa ca satataṃ samitaṃ ñāṇadassanaṃ paccupaṭṭhitan’ti.

“Master Gotama, a few days ago someone was claiming to be all-knowing and all-seeing, to know and see everything without exception, thus: ‘Knowledge and vision are constantly and continually present to me, while walking, standing, sleeping, and waking.’

So mayā pubbantaṃ ārabha pañhaṃ puṭṭho samāno aññenaññaṃ paṭicari, bahiddhā kathaṃ apanāmesi, kopañca dosañca appaccayañca pātvākāsi.

When I asked them a question about the past, they dodged the issue, distracted the discussion with irrelevant points, and displayed annoyance, hate, and bitterness.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, bhagavantaṃyeva ārabha sati
udapādi:

That reminded me of the Buddha:

‘aho nūna bhagavā, aho nūna sugato. Yo imesaṃ dhammānaṃ sukusalo’”ti.

‘Surely it must be the Blessed One, the Holy One who is so skilled in such matters.’”

“Ko pana so, udāyi, sabbaññū sabbadassāvī aparisesaṃ ñāṇadassanaṃ paṭijānamāno ‘carato ca me tiṭṭhato ca suttassa ca jāgarassa ca satataṃ samitaṃ ñāṇadassanaṃ paccupaṭṭhitan’ti, yo tayā pubbantaṃ ārabha pañhaṃ puṭṭho samāno aññenaññaṃ paṭicari, bahiddhā kathamā apanāmesi kopaṇca dosaṇca appaccayaṇca pātvākāsī”ti?

“But Udāyī, who was it that made such a claim and behaved in such a way?”

“Nigaṇṭho, bhante, nāṭaputto”ti.

“It was Nigaṇṭha Nātaputta, sir.”

“Yo kho, udāyi, anekavihitam pubbenivāsam anussareyya, seyyathidam—ekampi jātim dvepi jātiyo ...pe... iti sākāram sauddesam anekavihitam pubbenivāsam anussareyya, so vā maṃ pubbantam ārabha pañham puccheyya, tam vāham pubbantam ārabha pañham puccheyyam;

“Udāyī, someone who can recollect their many kinds of past lives, with features and details, might ask me a question about the past, or I might ask them a question about the past.

so vā me pubbantam ārabha pañhassa veyyākaraṇena cittaṃ ārādheyya, tassa vāham pubbantam ārabha pañhassa veyyākaraṇena cittaṃ ārādheyyam.

And they might satisfy me with their answer, or I might satisfy them with my answer.

Yo kho, udāyi, dibbena cakkhunā visuddhena atikkantamānusakena satte passeyya cavamāne upapajjamāne hīne paṇīte suvaṇṇe dubbaṇṇe sugate duggate yathākammūpage satte pajāneyya, so vā maṃ aparantam ārabha pañham puccheyya, tam vāham aparantam ārabha pañham puccheyyam;

Someone who, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, understands how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds might ask me a question about the future, or I might ask them a question about the future.

so vā me aparantam ārabha pañhassa veyyākaraṇena cittaṃ ārādheyya, tassa vāham aparantam ārabha pañhassa veyyākaraṇena cittaṃ ārādheyyaṃ.

And they might satisfy me with their answer, or I might satisfy them with my answer.

Api ca, udāyi, tiṭṭhatu pubbanto, tiṭṭhatu aparanto.

Nevertheless, Udāyī, leave aside the past and the future.

Dhammaṃ te desessāmi—

I shall teach you the Dhamma:

imasmim̐ sati idaṃ hoti, imassuppādā idaṃ uppajjati;

‘When this exists, that is; due to the arising of this, that arises.

imasmim̐ asati idaṃ na hoti, imassa nirodhā idaṃ nirujjhatī”ti.

When this doesn’t exist, that is not; due to the cessation of this, that ceases.’”

“Ahañhi, bhante, yāvatakampi me iminā attabhāvena paccanubhūtaṃ tampi nappahomi sākāraṃ sauddesaṃ anussarituṃ,

“Well sir, I can’t even recall with features and details what I’ve undergone in this incarnation.

kuto panāhaṃ anekavihitaṃ pubbenivāsaṃ anussarissāmi, seyyathidaṃ—ekampi jātiṃ dvepi jātiyo ...pe... iti sākāraṃ sauddesaṃ anekavihitaṃ pubbenivāsaṃ anussarissāmi, seyyathāpi bhagavā?

How should I possibly recollect my many kinds of past lives with features and details, like the Buddha?

Ahañhi, bhante, etarahi paṃsupisācākampi na passāmi,

And I can’t now see even a mud-goblin.

kuto panāhaṃ dibbena cakkhunā visuddhena atikkantamānusakena satte passissāmi cavamāne upapajjamāne hīne paṇīte suvaṇṇe dubbaṇṇe sugate duggate yathākammūpage satte pajānissāmi, seyyathāpi bhagavā?

How should I possibly, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, see sentient beings passing away and being reborn, like the Buddha?

Yaṃ pana maṃ, bhante, bhagavā evamāha:

But then the Buddha told me,

‘api ca, udāyi, tiṭṭhatu pubbanto, tiṭṭhatu aparanto;

‘Nevertheless, Udāyī, leave aside the past and the future.

dhammaṃ te desessāmi—

I shall teach you the Dhamma:

imasmim̐ sati idaṃ hoti, imassuppādā idaṃ uppajjati;

“When this exists, that is; due to the arising of this, that arises.

tañca pana me bhiyyoso mattāya na pakkhāyati.

When this doesn’t exist, that is not; due to the cessation of this, that ceases.” But that is even more unclear to me.

Appeva nāmāhaṃ, bhante, sake ācariyake bhagavato cittaṃ ārādheyyaṃ pañhassa veyyākaraṇenā’ti.

Perhaps I might satisfy the Buddha by answering a question about my own teacher’s doctrine.”

“Kinti pana te, udāyi, sake ācariyake hotī’ti?”

“But Udāyī, what is your own teacher’s doctrine?”

“Amhākaṃ, bhante, sake ācariyake evaṃ hoti:

“Sir, it’s this:

‘ayaṃ paramo vaṇṇo, ayaṃ paramo vaṇṇo’”ti.

‘This is the ultimate splendor, this is the ultimate splendor.’”

“Yaṃ pana te etaṃ, udāyi, sake ācariyake evaṃ hoti:

“But what is that ultimate splendor?”

‘ayaṃ paramo vaṇṇo, ayaṃ paramo vaṇṇo’ti, katamo so paramo vaṇṇo’”ti?

“Yasmā, bhante, vaṇṇā añño vaṇṇo uttaritaro vā paṇītataro vā natthi so paramo vaṇṇo”ti.

“But what is that ultimate splendor compared to which no other splendor is finer?”

“Dīghāpi kho te esā, udāyi, phareyya:

“Udāyī, you could draw this out for a long time.

‘yasmā, bhante, vaṇṇā añño vaṇṇo uttaritaro vā paṇītataro vā natthi so paramo vaṇṇo’ti vadesi, tañca vaṇṇaṃ na paññapesi.

You say, ‘The ultimate splendor is the splendor compared to which no other splendor is finer.’ But you don’t describe that splendor.

Seyyathāpi, udāyi, puriso evaṃ vadeyya:

Suppose a man was to say,

‘ahaṃ yā imasmim̐ janapade janapadakalyāṇī taṃ icchāmi, taṃ kāmeme’ti.

‘Whoever the finest lady in the land is, it is her that I want, her I desire!’

Tamenaṃ evaṃ vadeyyuṃ:

They’d say to him,

‘ambho purisa, yaṃ tvaṃ janapadakalyāṇim̐ icchasi kāmesi, jānāsi taṃ janapadakalyāṇim̐—khattiyī vā brāhmaṇī vā vessī vā suddī vā’ti?

‘Mister, that finest lady in the land who you desire—do you know whether she’s an aristocrat, a brahmin, a merchant, or a worker?’

Iti puṭṭho ‘no’ti vadeyya.

Asked this, he’d say, ‘No.’

Tamenam evam vadeyyum:

They’d say to him,

‘ambho purisa, yam tvaṃ janapadakalyāṇiṃ icchasi kāmesi,

‘Mister, that finest lady in the land who you desire—do you know her name or clan? Whether she’s tall or short or medium? Whether her skin is black, brown, or tawny? What village, town, or city she comes from?’

Iti puṭṭho ‘no’ti vadeyya.

Asked this, he’d say, ‘No.’

Tamenam evam vadeyyum:

They’d say to him,

‘ambho purisa, yam tvaṃ na jānāsi na passasi, taṃ tvaṃ icchasi kāmesī’ti?’

‘Mister, do you desire someone who you’ve never even known or seen?’

Iti puṭṭho ‘āmā’ti vadeyya.

Asked this, he’d say, ‘Yes.’

Tam kim maññasi, udāyi—

What do you think, Udāyī?

nanu evam sante, tassa purisassa appāṭihīrakataṃ bhāsitaṃ sampajjatī’ti?’

This being so, doesn’t that man’s statement turn out to have no demonstrable basis?”

“Addhā kho, bhante, evaṃ sante tassa purisassa appāṭihīrakataṃ bhāsitaṃ sampajjatī”ti.

“In the same way, you say, ‘The ultimate splendor is the splendor compared to which no other splendor is finer.’ But you don’t describe that splendor.”

“Sir, suppose there was a beryl gem that was naturally beautiful, eight-faceted, well-worked. When placed on a cream rug it would shine and glow and radiate. Such is the splendor of the self that is sound after death.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, udāyi,

80. Vekhanasasutta With Vekhanasa

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṁ sāvattiyam viharati jetavane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta's Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Atha kho vekhanaso paribbājako yena bhagavaṁ tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhim sammodi.

Then the wanderer Vekhanasa went up to the Buddha, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyam katham saraṇīyam vītisāretvā ekamantaṁ aṭṭhāsi.

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he stood to one side,

Ekamantaṁ ṭhito kho vekhanaso paribbājako bhagavato santike udānaṁ udānesi:

and expressed this heartfelt sentiment:

“ayaṁ paramo vaṇṇo, ayaṁ paramo vaṇṇo”ti.

“But Kaccāna, why do you say:

‘ayaṁ paramo vaṇṇo, ayaṁ paramo vaṇṇo’ti?

What is that ultimate splendor?”

“Yasmā, bho gotama, vaṇṇā añño vaṇṇo uttaritaro vā paṇītataro vā natthi so paramo vaṇṇo”ti.

“Master Gotama, the ultimate splendor is the splendor compared to which no other splendor is finer.”

“Katamo pana so, kaccāna, vaṇṇo yasmā vaṇṇā añño vaṇṇo uttaritaro vā paṇītataro vā natthī”ti?

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, kaccāna,
“What do you think, Kaccāna?

yo vā tadahuposathe pannarase viddhe vigatavalāhake deve abhido aḍḍharattasamayaṃ cando, yo vā vassānaṃ pacchime māse saradasamaye viddhe vigatavalāhake deve abhido majjhanhikasamayaṃ sūriyo, imesaṃ ubhinnaṃ vaṇṇānaṃ katamo vaṇṇo abhikkantataro ca paṇītataro cā”ti?

Which of these two has a finer splendor: the full moon at midnight in a clear and cloudless sky on the fifteenth day sabbath, or the sun at midday in a clear and cloudless sky in the last month of the rainy season?”

“The sun at midday in a clear and cloudless sky in the last month of the rainy season.”

“Ato kho te, kaccāna, bahū hi bahutarā devā ye imesaṃ candimasūriyānaṃ ābhā nānubhonti, tyāhaṃ pajānāmi.

“Beyond this, Kaccāna, I know very many gods on whom the light of the sun and moon make no impression.

Atha ca panāhaṃ na vadāmi:

Nevertheless, I do not say:

‘yasmā vaṇṇā añño vaṇṇo uttaritaro ca paṇītataro ca natthī’ti.

‘The splendor compared to which no other splendor is finer.’

Atha ca pana tvaṃ, kaccāna, ‘yvāyaṃ vaṇṇo kiminā khajjopanakena nihīnataro ca patikiṭṭhataro ca so paramo vaṇṇo’ti vadesi; tañca vaṇṇaṃ na paññapesi.

But of the splendor inferior to a firefly you say, ‘This is the ultimate splendor.’ And you don’t describe that splendor.

Pañca kho ime, kaccāna, kāmaguṇā.

Kaccāna, there are these five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Katame pañca?

What five?

Cakkhuviññeyyā rūpā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā
kāmūpasamhitā rajanīyā,

Sights known by the eye that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

sotaviññeyyā saddā ...pe...

Sounds known by the ear ...

Smells known by the nose ...

jivhāviññeyyā rasā ...

Tastes known by the tongue ...

kāyaviññeyyā phoṭṭhabbā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā
kāmūpasamhitā rajanīyā—

Touches known by the body that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

ime kho, kaccāna, pañca kāmaguṇā.

These are the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Yaṃ kho, kaccāna, ime pañca kāmaguṇe paṭicca uppajjati sukhaṃ somanassaṃ idaṃ vuccati kāmasukhaṃ.

The pleasure and happiness that arises from these five kinds of sensual stimulation is called sensual pleasure.

Iti kāmehi kāmasukhaṃ, kāmasukhā kāmaggasukhaṃ tattha aggamakkhāyatī”ti.

So there is the saying: ‘From the senses comes sensual pleasure. From sensual pleasure comes the best kind of sensual pleasure, which is said to be the best thing there.”

Evam vutte, vekhanaso paribbājako bhagavantam etadavoca:

When he said this, Vekhanasa said to the Buddha,

“acchariyam, bho gotama, abbhutam, bho gotama.

Yāva subhāsitañcidaṃ bhotā gotamena:

How well said this was by Master Gotama!

‘kāmehi kāmasukham, kāmasukhā kāmaggasukham tattha
aggamakkhāyatī’ti.

‘From the senses comes sensual pleasure. From sensual pleasure comes the best kind of sensual pleasure, which is said to be the best thing there.’

‘Kāmehi, bho gotama, kāmasukham, kāmasukhā kāmaggasukham, tattha aggamakkhāyatī’”ti

Master Gotama, from the senses comes sensual pleasure. From sensual pleasure comes the best kind of sensual pleasure, which is said to be the best thing there.”

“dujjānam kho etaṃ, kaccāna, tayā aññadiṭṭhikena aññakhantikena aññarucikena aññatrayogena aññatrācariyakena—

“Kaccāna, it’s hard for you, who has a different view, creed, preference, practice, and teacher’s doctrine, to understand kāmā vā kāmasukham vā kāmaggasukham vā.

the senses, sensual pleasure, and the best kind of sensual pleasure.

Ye kho te, kaccāna, bhikkhū arahanto khīṇāsavā vusitavanto katakaraṇīyā ohitabhārā anuppattasatthā parikkhīṇabhavasamyojanā sammadaññāvimuttā te kho etaṃ jāneyyumaṃ—

There are mendicants who are perfected, who have ended the defilements, completed the spiritual journey, done what had to be done, laid down the burden, achieved their own goal, utterly ended the fetters of rebirth, and are rightly freed through enlightenment. They can understand kāmā vā kāmasukhaṃ vā kāmaggasukhaṃ vā”ti.

the senses, sensual pleasure, and the best kind of sensual pleasure.”

Evam vutte, vekhanaso paribbājako kupito anattamano bhagavantamyeva khumsento bhagavantamyeva vambhento bhagavantamyeva vadamāno:

When he said this, Vekhanasa became angry and upset. He even attacked and badmouthed the Buddha himself, saying,

“samaṇo gotamo pāpito bhavissatī”ti bhagavantam etadavoca:

“The ascetic Gotama will be worsted!” He said to the Buddha, “evameva panidhekacce samaṇabrāhmaṇā ajānantā pubbantam, apassantā aparantam atha ca pana

“This is exactly what happens with some ascetics and brahmins. Not knowing the past or seeing the future, they nevertheless claim:

‘khīṇā jāti, vusitam brahmacariyam, kataṃ karanīyam, nāparam itthattāyāti—pajānāmā’ti—paṭijānanti.

Tesamidam bhāsitam hassakamyeva sampajjati, nāmakamyeva sampajjati, rittakamyeva sampajjati, tucchakamyeva sampajjati”ti.

Their statement turns out to be a joke—mere words, void and hollow.”

“Ye kho te, kaccāna, samaṇabrāhmaṇā ajānantā pubbantam, apassantā aparantam, “Kaccāna, there are some ascetics and brahmins who, not knowing the past or seeing the future, nevertheless claim:

‘khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyāti—pajānāmā’ti—paṭijānanti;

tesaṃ soyeva sahadhammiko niggaho hoti.

There is a legitimate refutation of them.

Api ca, kaccāna, tiṭṭhatu pubbanto, tiṭṭhatu aparanto.

Nevertheless, Kaccāna, leave aside the past and the future.

Etu viññū puriso asaṭho amāyāvī ujujātiko, ahamanusāsāmi ahaṃ dhammaṃ desemi.

In the same way, let a sensible person come—neither devious nor deceitful, a person of integrity. I teach and instruct them.

yathānusiṭṭhaṃ tathā paṭipajjamāno nacirasseva sāmaññaeva

‘So this is how to be rightly released from the bond, that is, the bond of ignorance.’”

Evaṃ vutte, vekhanaso paribbājako bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he said this, Vekhanasa said to the Buddha,

“abhikkantaṃ, bho gotama ...pe...

“Excellent, Master Gotama! ...

upāsakaṃ maṃ bhavaṃ gotamo dhāretu ajjatagge pāṇupetaṃ

4. The Division on Kings Rājavagga

81. Ghaṭikārasutta With Ghaṭikāra

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā kosalesu cārikam carati mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhim.

At one time the Buddha was wandering in the land of the Kosalans together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants.

Atha kho bhagavā maggā okkamma aññatarasmim padese sitam pātvākāsi.

Then the Buddha left the road, and at a certain spot he smiled.

Atha kho āyasmato ānandassa etadahosi:

Then Venerable Ānanda thought,

“ko nu kho hetu, ko paccayo bhagavato sitassa pātukammāya?

“What is the cause, what is the reason why the Buddha smiled?

Na akāraṇena tathāgatā sitam pātukarontī”ti.

Realized Ones do not smile for no reason.”

Atha kho āyasmā ānando ekamsam cīvaram katvā yena
bhagavā tenañjalim paṇāmetvā bhagavantam etadavoca:

So Ānanda got up from his seat, arranged his robe over one shoulder, raised his joined palms toward the Buddha, and said,

“ko nu kho, bhante, hetu, ko paccayo bhagavato sitassa
pātukammāya?

“What is the cause, what is the reason why the Buddha smiled?

Na akāraṇena tathāgatā sitaṃ pātukarontī”ti.
Realized Ones do not smile for no reason.”

“Bhūtapubbaṃ, ānanda, imasmiṃ padese vegalaṅgaṃ nāma gāmanigamo ahosi iddho ceva phīto ca bahujaṇo ākiṇṇamanusso.

Vegalaṅgaṃ kho, ānanda, gāmanigamaṃ kassapo bhagavā arahaṃ sammāsambuddho upanissāya vihāsi.

And Kassapa, a blessed one, a perfected one, a fully awakened Buddha, lived supported by Vebhaliṅga.

Idha sudaṃ, ānanda, kassapassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa ārāmo ahosi.

It was here, in fact, that he had his monastery,

Idha sudaṃ, ānanda, kassapo bhagavā arahaṃ sammāsambuddho nisinnako bhikkhusaṅghaṃ ovadatī”ti.

where he sat and advised the mendicant Saṅgha.”

Atha kho āyasmā ānando catugguṇaṃ saṅghāṭiṃ pañṇapetvā
bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

Then Ānanda spread out his outer robe folded in four and said to the Buddha, “tena hi, bhante, bhagavā nisīdatu ettha.

“Well then, sir, may the Blessed One sit here!

Ayaṃ bhūmipadeso dvīhi arahantehi sammāsambuddhehi paribhutto bhavissatī”ti.

Then this piece of land will have been occupied by two perfected ones, fully awakened Buddhas.”

Nisīdi bhagavā pañṇatte āsane.

The Buddha sat on the seat spread out.

Nisajja kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ āmantesi:

When he was seated he said to Venerable Ānanda:

“Bhūtapubbaṃ, ānanda, imasmim̐ padese vegaliṅgaṃ nāma gāmanigamo ahosi iddho ceva phīto ca bahujano ākiṇṇamanusso.

“Once upon a time, Ānanda, there was a market town in this spot named Vebhaliṅga. It was successful and prosperous and full of people.

Vegaliṅgaṃ kho, ānanda, gāmanigamaṃ kassapo bhagavā araham̐ sammāsambuddho upanissāya vihāsi.

And Kassapa, a blessed one, a perfected one, a fully awakened Buddha, lived supported by Vebhaliṅga.

Idha sudaṃ, ānanda, kassapassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa ārāmo ahosi.

It was here, in fact, that he had his monastery,

Idha sudaṃ, ānanda, kassapo bhagavā araham̐ sammāsambuddho nisinnako bhikkhusaṅgham̐ ovadati.

where he sat and advised the mendicant Saṅgha.

Vegaliṅge kho, ānanda, gāmanigame ghaṭikāro nāma kumbhakāro kassapassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa upaṭṭhāko ahosi aggupaṭṭhāko.

The Buddha Kassapa had as chief attendant in Vebhaliṅga a potter named Ghaṭikāra.

Ghaṭikārassa kho, ānanda, kumbhakārassa jotipālo nāma māṇavo sahāyo ahosi piyasaṃhāyo.

Ghaṭikāra had a dear friend named Jotipāla, a brahmin student.

Atha kho, ānanda, ghaṭikāro kumbhakāro jotipālam̐ māṇavam̐ āmantesi:

Then Ghaṭikāra addressed Jotipāla,

‘āyāma, samma jotipāla, kassapaṃ bhagavantaṃ arahantaṃ sammāsambuddham̐ dassanāya upasaṅkamissāma.

‘Come, dear Jotipāla, let’s go to see the Blessed One Kassapa, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha.

Sādhusammatañhi me tassa bhagavato dassanaṃ arahato sammāsambuddhassā’ti.

For I regard it as holy to see that Blessed One.’

Evaṃ vutte, ānanda, jotipālo māṇavo ghaṭikāraṃ kumbhakāraṃ etadavoca:

When he said this, Jotipāla said to him,

‘alaṃ, samma ghaṭikāra.

‘Enough, dear Ghaṭikāra.

Kiṃ pana tena muṇḍakena samaṇakena diṭṭhenā’ti?

What’s the use of seeing that baldy, that fake ascetic?’

Dutiyampi kho, ānanda ...pe...

For a second time ...

tatīyampi kho, ānanda, ghaṭikāro kumbhakāro jotipālaṃ māṇavaṃ etadavoca:

and a third time, Ghaṭikāra addressed Jotipāla,

‘āyāma, samma jotipāla, kassapaṃ bhagavantaṃ arahantaṃ sammāsambuddhaṃ dassanāya upasaṅkamissāma.

Sādhusammatañhi me tassa bhagavato dassanaṃ arahato sammāsambuddhassā’ti.

For I regard it as holy to see that Blessed One.’

Tatīyampi kho, ānanda, jotipālo māṇavo ghaṭikāraṃ kumbhakāraṃ etadavoca:

For a third time, Jotipāla said to him,

‘alaṃ, samma ghaṭikāra.

‘Enough, dear Ghaṭikāra.

Kim pana tena muṇḍakena samaṇakena diṭṭhenā'ti?

What's the use of seeing that baldy, that fake ascetic?

'Tena hi, samma jotipāla, sottisināniṃ ādāya nadiṃ gamissāma sināyitun'ti.

'Well then, dear Jotipāla, let's take some bathing paste of powdered shell and go to the river to bathe.'

'Evaṃ, sammā'ti kho, ānanda, jotipālo māṇavo ghaṭikārassa kumbhakārassa paccassosi.

'Yes, dear,' replied Jotipāla.

Atha kho, ānanda, ghaṭikāro ca kumbhakāro jotipālo ca māṇavo sottisināniṃ ādāya nadiṃ agamaṃsu sināyitum.

So that's what they did.

Atha kho, ānanda, ghaṭikāro kumbhakāro jotipālaṃ māṇavaṃ āmantesi:

Then Ghaṭikāra addressed Jotipāla,

'ayaṃ, samma jotipāla, kassapassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa avidūre ārāmo.

'Dear Jotipāla, the Buddha Kassapa's monastery is not far away.

Āyāma, samma jotipāla, kassapaṃ bhagavantaṃ arahantaṃ sammāsambuddhaṃ dassanāya upasaṅkamissāma.

Let's go to see the Blessed One Kassapa, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha.

Sādhusammatañhi me tassa bhagavato dassanaṃ arahato sammāsambuddhassā'ti.

For I regard it as holy to see that Blessed One.'

Evaṃ vutte, ānanda, jotipālo māṇavo ghaṭikāraṃ kumbhakāraṃ etadavoca:

When he said this, Jotipāla said to him,

‘alam, samma ghaṭikāra.

‘Enough, dear Ghaṭikāra.

Kim pana tena muṇḍakena samaṇakena diṭṭhenā’ti?

What’s the use of seeing that baldy, that fake ascetic?’

Dutiyampi kho, ānanda ...pe...

For a second time ...

tatiyampi kho, ānanda, ghaṭikāro kumbhakāro jotipālaṃ māṇavaṃ etadavoca:

and a third time, Ghaṭikāra addressed Jotipāla,

‘ayaṃ, samma jotipāla, kassapassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa avidūre ārāmo.

‘Dear Jotipāla, the Buddha Kassapa’s monastery is not far away.

Āyāma, samma jotipāla, kassapaṃ bhagavantaṃ arahantaṃ sammāsambuddhaṃ dassanāya upasaṅkamissāma.

Let’s go to see the Blessed One Kassapa, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha.

Sādhusammatañhi me tassa bhagavato dassanaṃ arahato sammāsambuddhassā’ti.

For I regard it as holy to see that Blessed One.’

Tatiyampi kho, ānanda, jotipālo māṇavo ghaṭikāraṃ kumbhakāraṃ etadavoca:

For a third time, Jotipāla said to him,

‘alam, samma ghaṭikāra.

‘Enough, dear Ghaṭikāra.

Kim pana tena muṇḍakena samaṇakena diṭṭhenā’ti?

What’s the use of seeing that baldy, that fake ascetic?’

Atha kho, ānanda, ghaṭikāro kumbhakāro jotipālaṃ māṇavaṃ ovaṭṭikāyaṃ parāmasitvā etadavoca:

Then Ghaṭikāra grabbed Jotipāla by the belt and said,

‘ayaṃ, samma jotipāla, kassapassa bhagavato arahato
sammāsambuddhassa avidūre ārāmo.

‘Dear Jotipāla, the Buddha Kassapa’s monastery is not far away.

Āyāma, samma jotipāla, kassapaṃ bhagavantaṃ arahantaṃ
sammāsambuddhaṃ dassaṇāya upasaṅkamissāma.

Let’s go to see the Blessed One Kassapa, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha.

Sādhusammatañhi me tassa bhagavato dassaṇaṃ arahato sammāsambuddhassā’ti.

For I regard it as holy to see that Blessed One.’

Atha kho, ānanda, jotipālo māṇavo ovaṭṭikaṃ vinivaṭṭetvā ghaṭṭikāraṃ kumbhakāraṃ etadavoca:

So Jotipāla undid his belt and said to Ghaṭṭikāra, ‘alaṃ, samma ghaṭṭikāra.

‘Enough, dear Ghaṭṭikāra.

Kiṃ pana tena muṇḍakena samaṇakena diṭṭhenā’ti?

What’s the use of seeing that baldy, that fake ascetic?’

Atha kho, ānanda, ghaṭṭikāro kumbhakāro jotipālaṃ māṇavaṃ sīsaṃnhātaṃ kesesu parāmasitvā etadavoca:

Then Ghaṭṭikāra grabbed Jotipāla by the hair of his freshly-washed head and said,

‘ayaṃ, samma jotipāla, kassapassa bhagavato arahato
sammāsambuddhassa avidūre ārāmo.

‘Dear Jotipāla, the Buddha Kassapa’s monastery is not far away.

Āyāma, samma jotipāla, kassapaṃ bhagavantaṃ arahantaṃ
sammāsambuddhaṃ dassaṇāya upasaṅkamissāma.

Let’s go to see the Blessed One Kassapa, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha.

Sādhusammatañhi me tassa bhagavato dassaṇaṃ arahato
sammāsambuddhassā’ti.

For I regard it as holy to see that Blessed One.'

Atha kho, ānanda, jotipālassa māṇavassa etadahosi:

Then Jotipāla thought,

'acchariyaṃ vata bho, abbhutaṃ vata bho.

'It's incredible, it's amazing,

Yatra hi nāmāyaṃ ghaṭikāro kumbhakāro ittarajacco samāno amhākaṃ sīsānnhātānaṃ kesesu parāmasitabbaṃ maññissati;

how this potter Ghaṭikāra, though born in a lower caste, should presume to grab me by the hair of my freshly-washed head!

na vatidaṃ kira orakaṃ maññe bhavissatī'ti;

This must be no ordinary matter.'

ghaṭikāraṃ kumbhakāraṃ etadavoca:

He said to Ghaṭikāra,

'yāvatādohipi, samma ghaṭikārā'ti?

'You'd even milk it to this extent, dear Ghaṭikāra?'

'Yāvatādohipi, samma jotipāla.

'I even milk it to this extent, dear Jotipāla.

Tathā hi pana me sādhusammataṃ tassa bhagavato dassanaṃ arahato sammāsambuddhassā'ti.

For that is how holy I regard it to see that Blessed One.'

'Tena hi, samma ghaṭikāra, muñca; gamissāmā'ti.

'Well then, dear Ghaṭikāra, release me, we shall go.'

Atha kho, ānanda, ghaṭikāro ca kumbhakāro jotipālo ca māṇavo yena kassapo bhagavā arahāṃ sammāsambuddho tenupasaṅkamirṃsu; upasaṅkamtivā ghaṭikāro kumbhakāro kassapaṃ bhagavantaṃ arahantaṃ sammāsambuddhaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Jotipālo pana māṇavo kassapena bhagavatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena saddhiṃ

sammodi. Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

Then Ghaṭṭikāra the potter and Jotipāla the brahmin student went to the Buddha Kassapa. Ghaṭṭikāra bowed and sat down to one side, but Jotipāla exchanged greetings with the Buddha and sat down to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho, ānanda, ghaṭṭikāro kumbhakāro kassapaṃ bhagavantaṃ arahantaṃ sammāsambuddhaṃ etadavoca:

Ghaṭṭikāra said to the Buddha Kassapa,

‘ayaṃ me, bhante, jotipālo māṇavo sahāyo piyasahāyo.

‘Sir, this is my dear friend Jotipāla, a brahmin student.

Imassa bhagavā dhammaṃ desetū’ti.

Please teach him the Dhamma.’

Atha kho, ānanda, kassapo bhagavā arahantaṃ sammāsambuddho ghaṭṭikārañca kumbhakāraṃ jotipālañca māṇavaṃ dhammiyā kathāya sandassesī samādapesī samuttejesī sampahaṃsesī.

Then the Buddha Kassapa educated, encouraged, fired up, and inspired Ghaṭṭikāra and Jotipāla with a Dhamma talk.

Atha kho, ānanda, ghaṭṭikāro ca kumbhakāro jotipālo ca māṇavo kassapena bhagavatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena dhammiyā kathāya sandassitā samādapitā samuttejitā sampahaṃsitā kassapassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ kassapaṃ bhagavantaṃ arahantaṃ sammāsambuddhaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā pakkamīṃsu.

Then they got up from their seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha Kassapa, keeping him on their right, before leaving.

Atha kho, ānanda, jotipālo māṇavo ghaṭṭikāraṃ kumbhakāraṃ etadavoca:

Then Jotipāla said to Ghaṭṭikāra,

‘imaṃ nu tvaṃ, samma ghaṭikāra, dhammaṃ suṇanto atha ca pana agārasmā anagāriyaṃ na pabbajissasī’ti?

‘Dear Ghaṭikāra, you have heard this teaching, so why don’t you go forth from the lay life to homelessness?’

‘Nanu maṃ, samma jotipāla, jānāsi, andhe jiṇṇe mātāpitaro posemī’ti?

‘Don’t you know, dear Jotipāla, that I look after my blind old parents?’

‘Tena hi, samma ghaṭikāra, ahaṃ agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajissāmī’ti.

‘Well then, dear Ghaṭikāra, I shall go forth from the lay life to homelessness.’

Atha kho, ānanda, ghaṭikāro ca kumbhakāro jotipālo ca māṇavo yena kassapo bhagavā araham̐ sammāsambuddho tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā kassapaṃ bhagavantaṃ arahantaṃ sammāsambuddham̐ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdim̐su. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho, ānanda, ghaṭikāro kumbhakāro kassapaṃ bhagavantaṃ arahantaṃ sammāsambuddham̐ etadavoca:

Then Ghaṭikāra and Jotipāla went to the Buddha Kassapa, bowed and sat down to one side. Ghaṭikāra said to the Buddha Kassapa, ‘ayaṃ me, bhante, jotipālo māṇavo sahāyo piyasaḥāyo.

‘Sir, this is my dear friend Jotipāla, a brahmin student.

Imaṃ bhagavā pabbājetū’ti.

Please give him the going forth.’

Alattha kho, ānanda, jotipālo māṇavo kassapassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa santike pabbajjaṃ, alattha upasampadaṃ.

And Jotipāla the brahmin student received the going forth, the ordination in the Buddha’s presence.

Atha kho, ānanda, kassapo bhagavā araham̐ sammāsambuddho acirūpasampanne jotipāle māṇave aḍḍhamāsupasampanne vegajīṅge yathābhirantaṃ viharitvā yena bārāṇasī tena cārikaṃ pakkāmi.

Not long after Jotipāla's ordination, a fortnight later, the Buddha Kassapa—having stayed in Vebhaliṅga as long as he wished—set out for Benares.

Anupubbena cārikaṃ caramāno yena bārāṇasī tadavasari.

Traveling stage by stage, he arrived at Benares,

Tatra sudam̐, ānanda, kassapo bhagavā araham̐ sammāsambuddho bārāṇasiyam̐ viharati isipatane migadāye.

where he stayed near Benares, in the deer park at Isipatana.

Assosi kho, ānanda, kīkī kāsirājā: 'kassapo kira bhagavā araham̐ sammāsambuddho bārāṇasiṃ anupatto bārāṇasiyam̐ viharati isipatane migadāye'ti.

King Kīkī of Kāsi heard that he had arrived.

Atha kho, ānanda, kīkī kāsirājā bhadraṇi bhadraṇi yānāni yojāpetvā bhadraṃ yānaṃ abhiruhitvā bhadrehi bhadrehi yānehi bārāṇasiyā niyyāsi mahaccarājānubhāvena kassapaṃ bhagavantaṃ arahantaṃ sammāsambuddhaṃ dassanāya.

He had the finest carriages harnessed. He then mounted a fine carriage and, along with other fine carriages, set out in full royal pomp from Benares to see the Buddha Kassapa.

Yāvatikā yānassa bhūmi yānena gantvā yānā paccorohitvā pattikova yena kassapo bhagavā araham̐ sammāsambuddho tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā kassapaṃ bhagavantaṃ arahantaṃ sammāsambuddhaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

He went by carriage as far as the terrain allowed, then descended and approached the Buddha Kassapa on foot. He bowed and sat down to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho, ānanda, kīkīṃ kāsirājānaṃ kassapo bhagavā araham̐ sammāsambuddho dhammiyā kathāya sandassesī samādapesī samuttejesī sampahaṃsesī.

The Buddha educated, encouraged, fired up, and inspired him with a Dhamma talk.

Atha kho, ānanda, kīkī kāsīrājā kassapena bhagavatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena dhammiyā kathāya sandassito samādapito samuttejito sampahaṃsito kassapaṃ bhagavantaṃ arahantaṃ sammāsambuddhaṃ etadavoca:

Then King Kīkī said to the Buddha, ‘adhivāsetu me, bhante, bhagavā svātanāya bhattaṃ saddhiṃ bhikkhusaṅghenā’ti.

‘Sir, would the Buddha together with the mendicant Saṅgha please accept tomorrow’s meal from me?’

Adhivāsesi kho, ānanda, kassapo bhagavā arahantaṃ sammāsambuddho tuṅhībhāvena.

The Buddha Kassapa consented in silence.

Atha kho, ānanda, kīkī kāsīrājā kassapassa bhagavato sammāsambuddhassa adhivāsanantaṃ viditvā uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ kassapaṃ bhagavantaṃ arahantaṃ sammāsambuddhaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇantaṃ katvā pakkāmi.

Then, knowing that the Buddha had consented, King Kīkī got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before leaving.

Atha kho, ānanda, kīkī kāsīrājā tassā rattiyaṃ accayena sake nivesane paṇītaṃ khādanīyaṃ bhojanīyaṃ paṭiyādāpetvā paṇḍupuṭakassa sālino vigatakāḷakaṃ anekasūpaṃ anekabyañjanaṃ, kassapassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa kālaṃ ārocāpesi:

And when the night had passed, King Kīkī had a variety of delicious foods prepared in his own home—soft saffron rice with the dark grains picked out, served with many soups and sauces. Then he had the Buddha informed of the time, saying,

‘kālo, bhante, niṭṭhitaṃ bhattaṃ’ti.

Atha kho, ānanda, kassapo bhagavā araham̐ sammāsambuddho pubbaṅhasamayam̐ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya yena kikissa kāsirañño nivesanam̐ tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā paññatte āsane nisīdi saddhim̐ bhikkhusaṅghena.

Then Kassapa Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, went to the home of King Kikī, where he sat on the seat spread out, together with the Saṅgha of mendicants.

Atha kho, ānanda, kikī kāsirājā buddhappamukham̐ bhikkhusaṅgham̐ paṇītena khādanīyena bhojanīyena sahatthā santappesi sampavāresi.

Then King Kikī served and satisfied the mendicant Saṅgha headed by the Buddha with his own hands with a variety of delicious foods.

Atha kho, ānanda, kikī kāsirājā kassapam̐ bhagavantam̐ arahantam̐ sammāsambuddham̐ bhuttāvim̐ onītapattapāṇim̐ aññataram̐ nīcam̐ āsanam̐ gahetvā ekamantam̐ nisīdi.

When the Buddha Kassapa had eaten and washed his hand and bowl, King Kikī took a low seat and sat to one side.

Ekamantam̐ nisinno kho, ānanda, kikī kāsirājā kassapam̐ bhagavantam̐ arahantam̐ sammāsambuddham̐ etadavoca:

There he said to the Buddha Kassapa,

‘adhivāsetu me, bhante, bhagavā bārāṇasiyam̐ vassāvāsam̐;

‘Sir, may the Buddha please accept my invitation to reside in Benares for the rainy season.

evarūpam̐ saṅghassa upatṭhānam̐ bhavissatī’ti.

The Saṅgha will be looked after in the same style.’

‘Alam̐, mahārāja.

Adhivuttho me vassāvāso’ti.

I have already accepted an invitation for the rains residence.’

Dutiyampi kho, ānanda ...

For a second time ...

tatiyampi kho, ānanda, kikī kāsirājā kassapaṃ bhagavantam arahantaṃ sammāsambuddhaṃ etadavoca:

and a third time King Kikī said to the Buddha Kassapa, ‘adhivāsetu me, bhante, bhagavā bārāṇasiyaṃ vassāvāsaṃ;

‘Sir, may the Buddha please accept my invitation to reside in Benares for the rainy season.

evarūpaṃ saṅghassa upaṭṭhānaṃ bhavissatī’ti.

The Saṅgha will be looked after in the same style.’

‘Alaṃ, mahārāja.

‘Enough, Great King.

Adhivuttho me vassāvāso’ti.

I have already accepted an invitation for the rains residence.’

Atha kho, ānanda, kikissa kāsirañño ‘na me kassapo bhagavā arahaṃ sammāsambuddho adhvāseti bārāṇasiyaṃ vassāvāsaṃ’ti ahudeva aññathattaṃ, ahu domanassaṃ.

Then King Kikī, thinking, ‘The Buddha does not accept my invitation to reside for the rains in Benares,’ became sad and upset.

Atha kho, ānanda, kikī kāsirājā kassapaṃ bhagavantam
arahantaṃ sammāsambuddhaṃ etadavoca:

Then King Kikī said to the Buddha Kassapa,

‘atthi nu kho, bhante, añño koci mayā upaṭṭhākatāro’ti?

‘Sir, do you have another attendant better than me?’

‘Atthi, mahārāja, vegaḷiṅgaṃ nāma gāmanigamo.

‘Great king, there is a market town named Vebhaliṅga,

Tattha ghaṭṭikāro nāma kumbhakāro;

where there’s a potter named Ghaṭṭikāra.

so me upaṭṭhāko aggupaṭṭhāko.

He is my chief attendant.

Tuyhaṃ kho pana, mahārāja, na me kassapo bhagavā araham̐ sammāsambuddho adhivāseti bārāṇasiyaṃ vassāvāsanti attheva aññathattaṃ, atthi domanassaṃ.

Now, great king, you thought, “The Buddha does not accept my invitation to reside for the rains in Benares,” and you became sad and upset.

Tayidaṃ ghaṭikārassa kumbhakārassa natthi ca na ca bhavissati.

But Ghaṭikāra doesn’t get upset, nor will he.

Ghaṭikāro kho, mahārāja, kumbhakāro buddhaṃ saraṇaṃ gato, dhammaṃ saraṇaṃ gato, saṅghaṃ saraṇaṃ gato.

Ghaṭikāra has gone for refuge to the Buddha, the teaching, and the Saṅgha.

Ghaṭikāro kho, mahārāja, kumbhakāro paṇātipātā paṭivirato, adinnādānā paṭivirato, kāmesumicchācārā paṭivirato, musāvādā paṭivirato, surāmerayamajjapamādaṭṭhānā paṭivirato.

He doesn’t kill living creatures, steal, commit sexual misconduct, lie, or take alcoholic drinks that cause negligence.

Ghaṭikāro kho, mahārāja, kumbhakāro buddhe aveccappasādena samannāgato, dhamme aveccappasādena samannāgato, saṅghe aveccappasādena samannāgato, ariyakantehi sīlehi samannāgato.

He has experiential confidence in the Buddha, the teaching, and the Saṅgha, and has the ethics loved by the noble ones.

Ghaṭikāro kho, mahārāja, kumbhakāro dukkhe nikkhaṅkho, dukkhasamudaye nikkhaṅkho, dukkhanirodhe nikkhaṅkho, dukkhanirodhagāminiyā paṭipadāya nikkhaṅkho.

He is free of doubt regarding suffering, its origin, its cessation, and the practice that leads to its cessation.

Ghaṭikāro kho, mahārāja, kumbhakāro ekabhattiko brahmacārī sīlavā kalyāṇadhammo.

He eats in one part of the day; he's celibate, ethical, and of good character.

Ghaṭikāro kho, mahārāja, kumbhakāro nikkhittamaṇisuvaṇṇo apetajātarūparajato.

He has set aside gems and gold, and rejected gold and money.

Ghaṭikāro kho, mahārāja, kumbhakāro pannamusalo na sahatthā pathaviṃ khaṇati.

He's put down the shovel and doesn't dig the earth with his own hands.

Yaṃ hoti kūlapaluggaṃ vā mūsikukkaro vā taṃ kājena āharitvā bhājanaṃ karitvā evamāha:

He takes what has crumbled off by a riverbank or been dug up by mice, and brings it back in a carrier. When he has made a pot, he says, “ettha yo icchati taṇḍulapaṭibhastāni vā muggapaṭibhastāni vā kaḷāyapaṭibhastāni vā nikkhipitvā yaṃ icchati taṃ haratū”ti.

Ghaṭikāro kho, mahārāja, kumbhakāro andhe jiṇṇe mātāpitaro poseti.

He looks after his blind old parents.

Ghaṭikāro kho, mahārāja, kumbhakāro pañcannaṃ orambhāgiyānaṃ saṃyojanānaṃ parikkhayā opapātiko tattha parinibbāyī anāvattidhammo tasmā lokā.

And since he has ended the five lower fetters, Ghaṭikāra will be reborn spontaneously and will become extinguished there, not liable to return from that world.

Ekamidāhaṃ, mahārāja, samayaṃ vegaliṅge nāma gāmanigame viharāmi.

This one time, great king, I was staying near the market town of Vebhaliṅga.

Atha khvāhaṃ, mahārāja, pubbaṇhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya yena ghaṭikārassa kumbhakārassa mātāpitaro tenupasaṅkamim; upasaṅkamtivā ghaṭikārassa
kumbhakārassa mātāpitaro etadavocaṃ:

Then I robed up in the morning and, taking my bowl and robe, went to the home of Ghaṭikāra’s parents, where I said to them, “handa ko nu kho ayaṃ bhaggavo gato”ti?

“Nikkhanto kho te, bhante, upaṭṭhāko antokumbhiyā odanaṃ gahetvā pariyogā sūpaṃ gahetvā paribhuñjā”ti.

“Your attendant has gone out, sir. But take rice from the pot and sauce from the pan and eat.”

Atha khvāhaṃ, mahārāja, kumbhiyā odanaṃ gahetvā pariyogā sūpaṃ gahetvā paribhuñjivā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkamim.

So that’s what I did. And after eating I got up from my seat and left.

Atha kho, mahārāja, ghaṭikāro kumbhakāro yena mātāpitaro tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā mātāpitaro etadavoca:

Then Ghaṭikāra went up to his parents and said,

“ko kumbhiyā odanaṃ gahetvā pariyogā sūpaṃ gahetvā paribhuñjivā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkanto”ti?

“Who took rice from the pot and sauce from the pan, ate it, and left?”

“Kassapo, tāta, bhagavā araham sammāsambuddho kumbhiyā odanaṃ gahetvā pariyogā sūpaṃ gahetvā paribhuñjivā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkanto”ti?

“It was the Buddha Kassapa, my dear.”

Atha kho, mahārāja, ghaṭikārassa kumbhakārassa etadahosi:

Then Ghaṭikāra thought,

“lābhā vata me, suladdhaṃ vata me,
“I’m so fortunate, so very fortunate,

yassa me kassapo bhagavā araham̃ sammāsambuddho evaṃ
abhivissattho”ti.

in that the Buddha Kassapa trusts me so much!”

Atha kho, mahārāja, ghaṭikāraṃ kumbhakāraṃ aḍḍhamāsaṃ
pītisukhaṃ na vijahati, sattāhaṃ mātāpitūnaṃ.

Then joy and happiness did not leave him for a fortnight, or his parents for a week.

Ekamidāhaṃ, mahārāja, samayaṃ tattheva vegaliṅge nāma gāmanigame viharāmi.

Another time, great king, I was staying near that same market town of Vebhaliṅga.

Atha khvāhaṃ, mahārāja, pubbaṅhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā
pattacīvaramādāya yena ghaṭikārassa kumbhakārassa
mātāpitaro tenupasaṅkamim̃; upasaṅkamtivā ghaṭikārassa
kumbhakārassa mātāpitaro etadavocaṃ:

Then I robed up in the morning and, taking my bowl and robe, went to the home of Ghaṭikāra’s parents, where I said to them, “handā ko nu kho ayaṃ bhaggavo gato”ti?

“Nikkhanto kho te, bhante, upaṭṭhāko anto kaḷopiyā kummāsaṃ gahetvā pariyogā sūpaṃ gahetvā paribhuñjā”ti.

“Your attendant has gone out, sir. But take porridge from the pot and sauce from the pan and eat.”

Atha khvāhaṃ, mahārāja, kaḷopiyā kummāsaṃ gahetvā pariyogā sūpaṃ gahetvā paribhuñjitvā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkamim̃.

So that’s what I did. And after eating I got up from my seat and left.

Atha kho, mahārāja, ghaṭikāro kumbhakāro yena mātāpitaro
tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā mātāpitaro etadavoca:

Then Ghaṭṭikāra went up to his parents and said,

“ko kaḷopiyā kummāsaṃ gahetvā pariyogā sūpaṃ gahetvā paribhuñjitvā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkanto”ti?

“Who took porridge from the pot and sauce from the pan, ate it, and left?”

“Kassapo, tāta, bhagavā araham̐ sammāsambuddho kaḷopiyā kummāsaṃ gahetvā pariyogā sūpaṃ gahetvā paribhuñjitvā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkanto”ti.

“It was the Buddha Kassapa, my dear.”

Atha kho, mahārāja, ghaṭṭikārassa kumbhakārassa etadahosi:

Then Ghaṭṭikāra thought,

“lābhā vata me, suladdham̐ vata me,

“I’m so fortunate, so very fortunate,

yassa me kassapo bhagavā araham̐ sammāsambuddho evaṃ
abhivissattho”ti.

to be trusted so much by the Buddha Kassapa!”

Atha kho, mahārāja, ghaṭṭikāraṃ kumbhakāraṃ aḍḍhamāsaṃ pītisukham̐ na vijahati, sattāham̐ mātāpitūnaṃ.

Then joy and happiness did not leave him for a fortnight, or his parents for a week.

Ekamidāham̐, mahārāja, samayaṃ tattheva vegaḷiṅge nāma gāmanigame viharāmi.

Another time, great king, I was staying near that same market town of Vebhaliṅga.

Tena kho pana samayena kuṭi ovassati.

Now at that time my hut leaked.

Atha khvāham̐, mahārāja, bhikkhū āmantesiṃ:

So I addressed the mendicants,

“gacchatha, bhikkhave, ghaṭikārassa kumbhakārassa nivesane tiṇaṃ jānāthā”ti.

“Mendicants, go to Ghaṭikāra’s home and find some grass.”

Evaṃ vutte, mahārāja, te bhikkhū maṃ etadavocuṃ:

When I said this, those mendicants said to me,

“natthi kho, bhante, ghaṭikārassa kumbhakārassa nivesane tiṇaṃ, atthi ca khvāssa āvesane tiṇacchadanā”ti.

“Sir, there’s no grass there, but his workshop has a grass roof.”

“Gacchatha, bhikkhave, ghaṭikārassa kumbhakārassa āvesanaṃ uttiṇaṃ karothā”ti.

“Then go to the workshop and strip the grass.”

Atha kho te, mahārāja, bhikkhū ghaṭikārassa kumbhakārassa āvesanaṃ uttiṇamakāṃsu.

So that’s what they did.

Atha kho, mahārāja, ghaṭikārassa kumbhakārassa mātāpitaro te bhikkhū etadavocuṃ:

Then Ghaṭikāra’s parents said to those mendicants,

“ke āvesanaṃ uttiṇaṃ karontī”ti?

“Who’s stripping the grass from the workshop?”

“Bhikkhū, bhagini, kassapassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa kuṭi ovassatī”ti.

“Take it, sirs! Take it, my dears!”

Atha kho, mahārāja, ghaṭikāro kumbhakāro yena mātāpitaro tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā mātāpitaro etadavoca:

Then Ghaṭikāra went up to his parents and said,

“ke āvesanaṃ uttiṇamakamaṃsū”ti?

“Who stripped the grass from the workshop?”

“Bhikkhū, tāta, kassapassa kira bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa kuṭi ovassatī”ti.

“It was the mendicants, dear. It seems the Buddha’s hut is leaking.”

Atha kho, mahārāja, ghaṭikārassa kumbhakārassa etadahosi:

Then Ghaṭikāra thought,

“lābhā vata me, suladdhaṃ vata me,

“I’m so fortunate, so very fortunate,

yassa me kassapo bhagavā arahamaṃ sammāsambuddho evaṃ abhivissattho”ti.

to be trusted so much by the Buddha Kassapa!”

Atha kho, mahārāja, ghaṭikāraṃ kumbhakāraṃ aḍḍhamāsaṃ
pītisukhaṃ na vijahati, sattāhaṃ mātāpitūnaṃ.

Then joy and happiness did not leave him for a fortnight, or his parents for a week.

Atha kho, mahārāja, āvesanaṃ sabbantaṃ temāsaṃ ākāsacchadanaṃ aṭṭhāsi, na devotivassī.

Then the workshop remained with the sky for a roof for the whole three months, but no rain fell on it.

Evarūpo ca, mahārāja, ghaṭikāro kumbhakāro’ti.

And that, great king, is what Ghaṭikāra the potter is like.’

‘Lābhā, bhante, ghaṭikārassa kumbhakārassa, suladdhā, bhante, ghaṭikārassa kumbhakārassa

‘Ghaṭikāra the potter is fortunate, very fortunate, yassa bhagavā evaṃ abhivissattho’ti.

to be so trusted by the Buddha Kassapa.’

Atha kho, ānanda, kīkī kāsīrājā ghaṭīkārassa kumbhakārassa pañcamattāni taṇḍulavāhasatāni pāhesi paṇḍupuṭakassa sālino tadupiyañca sūpeyyaṃ.

Then King Kīkī sent around five hundred cartloads of rice, soft saffron rice, and suitable sauce to Ghaṭīkāra.

Atha kho te, ānanda, rājapurisā ghaṭīkāraṃ kumbhakāraṃ upasaṅkamitvā etadavocum:

Then one of the king's men approached Ghaṭīkāra and said, ‘imāni kho, bhante, pañcamattāni taṇḍulavāhasatāni kikinā kāsīrājena pahitāni paṇḍupuṭakassa sālino tadupiyañca sūpeyyaṃ.

‘Sir, these five hundred cartloads of rice, soft saffron rice, and suitable sauce have been sent to you by King Kīkī of Kāsī.

Tāni, bhante, paṭiggaṇhathā’ti.

Please accept them.’

‘Rājā kho bahukicco bahukaraṇīyo.

‘The king has many duties, and much to do.

Alaṃ me.

I have enough.

Raṅṅova hotū’ti.

Let this be for the king himself.’

Siyā kho pana te, ānanda, evamassa:

Ānanda, you might think:

‘añño nūna tena samayena jotipālo māṇavo ahoṣī’ti.

‘Surely the brahmin student Jotipāla must have been someone else at that time?’

Na kho panetaṃ, ānanda, evaṃ daṭṭhabbaṃ.

But you should not see it like this.

Ahaṃ tena samayena jotipālo māṇavo ahoṣin”ti.

I myself was the student Jotipāla at that time.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā ānando bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Venerable Ānanda was happy with what the Buddha said.

Ghaṭikārasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ paṭhamaṃ.

82. Raṭṭhapālasutta With Raṭṭhapāla

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṃ kurusu cārikam caramāno mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhim yena thullakoṭṭhikam nāma kurūnam nigamo tadavasari.

At one time the Buddha was wandering in the land of the Kurus together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants when he arrived at a town of the Kurus named Thullakoṭṭhita.

Assosum kho thullakoṭṭhikā brāhmaṇagahapatikā:

The brahmins and householders of Thullakoṭṭhita heard:

“samaṇo khalu, bho, gotamo sakyaputto sakyakulā pabbajito kurusu cārikam caramāno mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhim thullakoṭṭhikam anuppatto.

“It seems the ascetic Gotama—a Sakyan, gone forth from a Sakyan family—has arrived at Thullakoṭṭhita, together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants.

Tam kho pana bhavantam gotamam evam kalyāṇo kittisaddo
abhuggato:

He has this good reputation:

‘itipi so bhagavaṃ araham sammāsambuddho
vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro

purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānaṃ buddho bhagavā'ti.

So imaṃ lokam sadevakaṃ samāraṃ sabrahmaṃ sassamaṇabrāhmaṇiṃ pajam sadevamanussaṃ sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā pavedeti.

He has realized with his own insight this world—with its gods, Māras and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, gods and humans—and he makes it known to others.

So dhammaṃ deseti ādikalyāṇaṃ majjhekalyāṇaṃ pariyosānakalyāṇaṃ sātthaṃ sabyañjanaṃ, kevalaparipuṇṇaṃ parisuddhaṃ brahmacariyaṃ pakāseti.

He teaches Dhamma that’s good in the beginning, good in the middle, and good in the end, meaningful and well-phrased. And he reveals a spiritual practice that’s entirely full and pure.

Sādhu kho pana tathārūpānaṃ arahataṃ dassanaṃ hoti”ti.
It’s good to see such perfected ones.”

Atha kho thullakoṭṭhikā brāhmaṇagahapatikā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā appekacce bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu; appekacce bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodimsu, sammodaniyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇiyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu; appekacce yena bhagavā tenañjalim paṇāmetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu; appekacce bhagavato santike nāmagottaṃ sāvetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu; appekacce tuṅhībhūtā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu.

Then the brahmins and householders of Thullakoṭṭhita went up to the Buddha. Before sitting down to one side, some bowed, some exchanged greetings and polite conversation, some held up their joined palms toward the Buddha, some announced their name and clan, while some kept silent.

Ekamantaṃ nisinne kho thullakoṭṭhike brāhmaṇagahapatike bhagavā dhammiyā kathāya sandassesī samādapesī samuttejesī sampahaṃsesī.

When they were seated, the Buddha educated, encouraged, fired up, and inspired them with a Dhamma talk.

Tena kho pana samayena raṭṭhapālo nāma kulaputto tasmimyeva thullakoṭṭhike aggakulassa putto tissaṃ parisāyaṃ nisinno hoti.

Now at that time a gentleman named Raṭṭhapāla, the son of the leading clan in Thullakoṭṭhita, was sitting in the assembly.

Atha kho raṭṭhapālassa kulaputtassa etadahosi:

He thought,

“yathā yathā khvāhaṃ bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāmi, nayidaṃ sukaraṃ agāraṃ ajjhāvasatā ekantaparipuṇṇaṃ ekantaparisuddhaṃ saṅkhalikhitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ caritum.

“As I understand the Buddha’s teachings, it’s not easy for someone living at home to lead the spiritual life utterly full and pure, like a polished shell.

Yannūnāhaṃ kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajeyyaṃ”ti.

Why don’t I cut off my hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from lay life to homelessness?”

Atha kho thullakoṭṭhikā brāhmaṇagahapatikā bhagavatā dhammiyā kathāya sandassitā samādapitā samuttejitā sampahaṃsitā bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsānā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā pakkamimsu.

Then, having approved and agreed with what the Buddha said, the brahmins and householders of Thullakoṭṭhita got up from their seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on their right, before leaving.

Atha kho raṭṭhapālo kulaputto acirapakkantesu thullakoṭṭhikesu brāhmaṇagahapatikesu yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho raṭṭhapālo kulaputto bhagavantam etadavoca:

Soon after they left, Raṭṭhapāla went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him, “yathā yathāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāmi, nayidaṃ sukaraṃ agāraṃ ajjhāvasatā ekantaparipuṇṇaṃ ekantaparisuddhaṃ saṅkhalikhitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ carituṃ.

“Sir, as I understand the Buddha’s teachings, it’s not easy for someone living at home to lead the spiritual life utterly full and pure, like a polished shell.

lcchāmahaṃ, bhante, kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agāraṣmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajituṃ.

I wish to cut off my hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

Labheyyāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato santike pabbajjaṃ, labheyyaṃ upasampadaṃ.

Sir, may I receive the going forth, the ordination in the Buddha’s presence?

Pabbājetu maṃ bhagavā”ti.

May the Buddha please give me the going forth!”

“Anuññātosī pana tvaṃ, raṭṭhapāla, mātāpitūhi agāraṣmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajjāyā”ti?

“But, Raṭṭhapāla, do you have your parents’ permission?”

“Na khohaṃ, bhante, anuññāto mātāpitūhi agāraṣmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajjāyā”ti.

“No, sir.”

“Na kho, raṭṭhapāla, tathāgatā ananuññātaṃ mātāpitūhi puttaṃ pabbājenti”ti.

Atha kho raṭṭhapālo kulaputto uṭṭhahitvā balaṃ gāhetvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho raṭṭhapālo kulaputto bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

Raṭṭhapāla got up and regained his strength. He went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him, “anuññāto ahaṃ, bhante, mātāpitūhi agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajjāya.

May the Buddha please give me the going forth.”

Alattha kho raṭṭhapālo kulaputto bhagavato santike pabbajjaṃ, alattha upasampadaṃ.

And Raṭṭhapāla received the going forth, the ordination in the Buddha’s presence.

Anupubbena cārikam caramāno yena sāvatti tadavasari.

Traveling stage by stage, he arrived at Sāvattī,

Then Venerable Raṭṭhapāla, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitam brahmacariyam, kataṃ karaṇīyam, nāparam

“Sir, I’d like to visit my parents, if the Buddha allows it.”

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmato raṭṭhapālassa cetasā ceto paricca manasākāsi.

Then the Buddha focused on comprehending Raṭṭhapāla’s mind.

Yathā bhagavā aññāsi:

“Please, Raṭṭhapāla, go at your convenience.”

Atha kho āyasmā raṭṭhapālo uṭṭhāyāsanā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā senāsaṇaṃ saṃsāmetvā pattacīvaramādāya yena thullakoṭṭhikaṃ tena cārikaṃ pakkāmi.

And then Raṭṭhapāla got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right. Then he set his lodgings in order and, taking his bowl and robe, set out for Thullakoṭṭhita.

Anupubbena cārikaṃ caramāno yena thullakoṭṭhiko tadavasari.

Traveling stage by stage, he arrived at Thullakoṭṭhika,

Atha kho āyasmato raṭṭhapālassa pitā yenāyasmā raṭṭhapālo tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ raṭṭhapālaṃ etadavoca:

Then Raṭṭhapāla’s father went up to him and said,

“atthi nāma, tāta raṭṭhapāla, ābhidosikaṃ kummāsaṃ paribhuñjissasi?”

“Dear Raṭṭhapāla! There’s ... and you’ll be eating last night’s porridge!

Why not go to your own home?”

“Kuto no, gahapati, amhākaṃ gehaṃ agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajitānaṃ?”

“Householder, how could those of us who have gone forth from the lay life to homelessness have a house?

“Ehi, tāta raṭṭhapāla, gharaṃ gamissāmā”ti.

“Come, dear Raṭṭhapāla, let’s go to the house.”

“Alaṃ, gahapati, kataṃ me ajja bhattakiccaṃ”.

“Enough, householder. My meal is finished for today.”

“Tena hi, tāta raṭṭhapāla, adhvāsehi svātanāya bhattan”ti.

“Well then, dear Raṭṭhapāla, please accept tomorrow’s meal from me.”

Adhvāsesi kho āyasmā raṭṭhapālo tuṅhībhāvena.

Raṭṭhapāla consented in silence.

Then, knowing that Raṭṭhapāla had consented, his father went back to his own house. He made a heap of gold coins and bullion and hid it under mats. Then he addressed Raṭṭhapāla’s former wives, “etha tumhe, vadhuyo, yena alaṅkārena alaṅkatā pubbe raṭṭhapālassa kulaputtassa piyā hotha manāpā tena alaṅkārena alaṅkarothā”ti.

And when the night had passed Raṭṭhapāla’s father had a variety of delicious foods prepared in his own home, and announced the time to the Venerable Raṭṭhapāla, saying, “kālo, tāta raṭṭhapāla, niṭṭhitaṃ bhattan”ti.

Then Raṭṭhapāla robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, went to his father's home, and sat down on the seat spread out. Raṭṭhapāla's father, revealing the heap of gold coins and bullion, said to him, “idaṃ te, tāta raṭṭhapāla, mātu mattikaṃ dhanam, aññaṃ pettikaṃ, aññaṃ pitāmahaṃ.

Atha kho āyasmato raṭṭhapālassa purāṇadutiyikā paccekam pādesu gahetvā āyasmantaṃ raṭṭhapālaṃ etadavocum:

Then Raṭṭhapāla's former wives each clasped his feet and said, “kīdisā nāma tā, ayyaputta, accharāyo yāsaṃ tvaṃ hetu brahmacariyaṃ carasī”ti?

“What are they like, lord, the nymphs for whom you lead the spiritual life?”

“Na kho mayaṃ, bhaginī, accharānaṃ hetu brahmacariyaṃ carāmā”ti.

“Sisters, I don't lead the spiritual life for the sake of nymphs.”

“Bhaginivādena no ayyaputto raṭṭhapālo samudācaratī”ti tā tattheva mucchitā papatimsu.

Saying, “Our lord Raṭṭhapāla refers to us as sisters!” they fainted right away.

Atha kho āyasmā raṭṭhapālo pitaraṃ etadavoca:

Then Raṭṭhapāla said to his father,

“sace, gahapati, bhojanaṃ dātabbaṃ, detha;

“If there is food to be given, householder, please give it.

mā no viheṭhethā”ti.

But don't harass me.”

“Bhuñja, tāta raṭṭhapāla, niṭṭhitaṃ bhattaṃ”ti.

Atha kho āyasmato raṭṭhapālassa pitā āyasmantaṃ raṭṭhapālaṃ paṇītena khādanīyena bhojanīyena sahatthā santappesi sampavāresi.

Then Raṭṭhapāla's father served and satisfied Venerable Raṭṭhapāla with his own hands with a variety of delicious foods.

Atha kho āyasmā raṭṭhapālo bhuttāvī onītapattapāṇī ṭhitakova imā gāthā abhāsi:

When he had eaten and washed his hand and bowl, he recited these verses while standing right there:

“Passa cittīkataṃ bimbaṃ,

“See this fancy puppet, arukāyaṃ samussitaṃ;

a body built of sores,

Āturaṃ bahusaṅkappaṃ, diseased, obsessed over,

yassa natthi dhuvaṃ ṭhiti.

in which nothing lasts at all.

Passa cittīkataṃ rūpaṃ,

See this fancy figure,

maṇinā kuṇḍalena ca;

with its gems and earrings;

Aṭṭhi tacena onaddhaṃ,

it is bones wrapped in skin,

saha vatthebhi sobhati.

made pretty by its clothes.

Alattakakatā pādā,

Rouged feet

mukhaṃ cuṇṇakamakkhitaṃ;

and powdered face

Alaṃ bālassa mohāya,

may be enough to beguile a fool,

no ca pāragavesino.

but not a seeker of the far shore.

Aṭṭhāpadakatā kesā,

Hair in eight braids

nettā añjanamakkhitā;

and eyeliner

Alaṃ bālassa mohāya,

may be enough to beguile a fool,

no ca pāragavesino.

but not a seeker of the far shore.

Añjanīva navā cittā,

A rotting body all adorned pūtikāyo alaṅkato;

like a freshly painted makeup box

Alaṃ bālassa mohāya,

may be enough to beguile a fool,

no ca pāragavesino.

but not a seeker of the far shore.

Odahi migavo pāsaṃ,

The hunter laid his snare, nāsadā vākaraṃ migo;

but the deer didn't spring the trap.

Bhutvā nivāpaṃ gacchāma,

I've eaten the bait and now I go, leaving the trapper to lament.”

Atha kho āyasmā raṭṭhapālo ʈhitakova imā gāthā bhāsivā yena

Then Raṭṭhapāla, having recited this verse while standing, went to King Koravya’s deer range and sat at the root of a tree for the day’s meditation.

Atha kho rājā korabyo migavaṃ āmantesi:

Then King Koravya addressed his gamekeeper,

“sodhehi, samma migava, migacīraṃ uyyānabhūmiṃ;

“My good gamekeeper, tidy up the park of the deer range.

gacchāma subhūmiṃ dassanāyā”ti.

We will go to see the scenery.”

“Evaṃ, devā”ti kho migavo rañño korabyassa paṭissutvā

“Yes, Your Majesty,” replied the gamekeeper. While tidying the deer range he saw Raṭṭhapāla sitting in meditation.

Disvāna yena rājā korabyo tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā rājānaṃ korabyaṃ etadavoca:

Seeing this, he went to the king, and said,

“suddhaṃ kho te, deva, migacīraṃ.

“The deer range is tidy, sire.

Atthi cettha raṭṭhapālo nāma kulaputto imasmiṃyeva

And the gentleman named Raṭṭhapāla, the son of the leading clan in Thullakoṭṭhita, of whom you have often spoken highly, is meditating there at the root of a tree.”

“Tena hi, samma migava, alaṃ dānajja uyyānabhūmiyā.

“Well then, my good gamekeeper, that’s enough of the park for today.

Tameva dāni mayam bhavantam raṭṭhapālam

Now I shall pay homage to the Master Raṭṭhapāla.”

Atha kho rājā korabyo “yam tattha khādanīyam bhojanīyam mahaccarājānubhāvena āyasmantaṃ raṭṭhapālam dāssanāya.

And then King Koravya said, “Give away all the different foods that have been prepared there.” He had the finest carriages harnessed.
Then he mounted a fine carriage and, along with other fine carriages, set out in full royal pomp from Thullakoṭṭhita to see Raṭṭhapāla.

Yāvatikā yānassa bhūmi yānena gantvā yānā paccorohitvā

korabyo āyasmantaṃ raṭṭhapālam etadavoca:

He went by carriage as far as the terrain allowed, then descended and approached Raṭṭhapāla on foot, together with a group of eminent officials. They exchanged greetings, and, when the greetings and polite conversation were over, he stood to one side, and said to Raṭṭhapāla:

“idha bhavam raṭṭhapālo hatthatthare nisīdatū”ti.

“Here, Master Raṭṭhapāla, sit on this elephant rug.”

“Alam, mahārāja, nisīda tvam;

“Enough, great king, you sit on it.

nisinno aham sake āsane”ti.

I’m sitting on my own seat.”

Nisīdi rājā korabyo paññatte āsane. Nisajja kho rājā korabyo āyasmantaṃ raṭṭhapālaṃ etadavoca:

So the king sat down on the seat spread out, and said:

“Master Raṭṭhapāla, there are these four kinds of decay. Because of these, some people shave off their hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

Katamāni cattāri?

What four?

Jarāpārijuññaṃ, byādhipārijuññaṃ, bhogapārijuññaṃ, ñātipārijuññaṃ.

Decay due to old age, decay due to sickness, decay of wealth, and decay of relatives.

Katamañca, bho raṭṭhapāla, jarāpārijuññaṃ?

And what is decay due to old age?

Idha, bho raṭṭhapāla, ekacco jiṇṇo hoti vuḍḍho mahallako addhagato vayoanuppatto.

It's when someone is old, elderly, and senior, advanced in years, and has reached the final stage of life.

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:

They reflect:

‘ahaṃ khomhi etarahi jiṇṇo vuḍḍho mahallako addhagato vayoanuppatto.

‘I'm now old, elderly, and senior. I'm advanced in years and have reached the final stage of life.

Na kho pana mayā sukaraṃ anadhigataṃ vā bhogaṃ adhigantaṃ vā bhogaṃ phātiṃ kātuṃ.

It's not easy for me to acquire more wealth or to increase the wealth I've already acquired.

Yannūnāhaṃ kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajeyyaṃ'ti.

Why don't I shave off my hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from the lay life to homelessness?'

So tena jarāpārijuññaena samannāgato kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajati.

So because of that decay due to old age they go forth.

Idaṃ vuccati, bho raṭṭhapāla, jarāpārijuññaṃ.

This is called decay due to old age.

Bhavaṃ kho pana raṭṭhapālo etarahi daharo yuvā susukāḷakeso bhadrena yobbanena samannāgato paṭhamena vayasā.

But Master Raṭṭhapāla is now a youth, young, black-haired, blessed with youth, in the prime of life.

Taṃ bhoto raṭṭhapālassa jarāpārijuññaṃ natthi.

You have no decay due to old age.

Kiṃ bhavaṃ raṭṭhapālo ñatvā vā disvā vā sutvā vā agārasmā
anagāriyaṃ pabbajito? (1)

So what did you know or see or hear that made you go forth?

Katamañca, bho raṭṭhapāla, byādhipārijuññaṃ?

And what is decay due to sickness?

Idha, bho raṭṭhapāla, ekacco ābādhiko hoti dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.

It's when someone is sick, suffering, gravely ill.

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:

They reflect:

'ahaṃ khomhi etarahi ābādhiko dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.

'I'm now sick, suffering, gravely ill.

Na kho pana mayā sukaraṃ anadhigataṃ vā bhogaṃ adhigantaṃ adhigataṃ vā bhogaṃ phātiṃ kātuṃ.

It's not easy for me to acquire more wealth or to increase the wealth I've already acquired.

Yannūnāhaṃ kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajeyya'ti.

Why don't I go forth from the lay life to homelessness?'

So tena byādhipārijuññaena samannāgato kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajati.

So because of that decay due to sickness they go forth.

Idaṃ vuccati, bho raṭṭhapāla, byādhipārijuññaṃ.

This is called decay due to sickness.

Bhavaṃ kho pana raṭṭhapālo etarahi appābādho appātaṅko samavepākiniyā gahaṇiyā samannāgato nātisītāya nāccuṇhāya.

But Master Raṭṭhapāla is now rarely ill or unwell. Your stomach digests well, being neither too hot nor too cold.

Taṃ bho raṭṭhapālassa byādhipārijuññaṃ natthi.

You have no decay due to sickness.

Kiṃ bhavaṃ raṭṭhapālo ñatvā vā disvā vā sutvā vā agārasmā
anagāriyaṃ pabbajito? (2)

So what did you know or see or hear that made you go forth?

Katamañca, bho raṭṭhapāla, bhogapārijuññaṃ?

And what is decay of wealth?

Idha, bho raṭṭhapāla, ekacco aḍḍho hoti mahaddhano mahābhogo.

It's when someone is rich, affluent, and wealthy.

Tassa te bhogā anupubbena parikkhayaṃ gacchanti.

But gradually their wealth dwindles away.

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:

They reflect:

'ahaṃ kho pubbe aḍḍho ahoṣiṃ mahaddhano mahābhogo.

'I used to be rich, affluent, and wealthy.

Tassa me te bhogā anupubbena parikkhayam gatā.

But gradually my wealth has dwindled away.

Na kho pana mayā sukaram anadhigatam vā bhogam adhigantum adhigatam vā bhogam phātim kātum.

It's not easy for me to acquire more wealth or to increase the wealth
I've already acquired.

Yannūnāham kesamassum ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni
acchādetvā agāasmā anagāriyam pabbajeyyan'ti.

Why don't I go forth from the lay life to homelessness?'

So tena bhogapārijuññaena samannāgato kesamassum ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agāasmā anagāriyam pabbajati.

So because of that decay of wealth they go forth.

Idam vuccati, bho raṭṭhapāla, bhogapārijuññaṃ.

This is called decay of wealth.

Bhavam kho pana raṭṭhapālo imasmimyeva thullakoṭṭhike aggakulassa putto.

But Master Raṭṭhapāla is the son of the leading clan here in Thullakoṭṭhita.

Tam bhoto raṭṭhapālassa bhogapārijuññaṃ natthi.

You have no decay of wealth.

Kim bhavam raṭṭhapālo ñatvā vā disvā vā sutvā vā agāasmā anagāriyam pabbajito? (3)

So what did you know or see or hear that made you go forth?

Katamañca, bho raṭṭhapāla, ñātipārijuññaṃ?

And what is decay of relatives?

Idha, bho raṭṭhapāla, ekaccassa bahū honti mittāmaccā ñātisālohitā.

It's when someone has many friends and colleagues, relatives and kin.

Tassa te ñātakā anupubbena parikkhayam gacchanti.

But gradually their relatives dwindle away.

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:

They reflect:

‘mamañ kho pubbe bahū ahesuñ mittāmaccā ñātisālohitā.

‘I used to have many friends and colleagues, relatives and kin.

Tassa me te anupubbena parikkhayañ gatā.

But gradually they’ve dwindled away.

Na kho pana mayā sukarañ anadhigatañ vā bhogañ adhigantañ adhigatañ vā bhogañ phātiñ kātuñ.

It’s not easy for me to acquire more wealth or to increase the wealth
I’ve already acquired.

Yannūnāhañ kesamassuñ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyañ pabbajeyyañ’ti.

Why don’t I shave off my hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from the lay life to homelessness?’

So tena ñātipārijuññena samannāgato kesamassuñ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyañ pabbajati.

So because of that decay of relatives they go forth.

Idañ vuccati, bho raṭṭhapāla, ñātipārijuññañ.

This is called decay of relatives.

Bhoto kho pana raṭṭhapālassa imasmiñyeva thullakoṭṭhike bahū mittāmaccā ñātisālohitā.

But Master Raṭṭhapāla has many friends and colleagues, relatives and kin right here in Thullakoṭṭhita.

Tañ bhoto raṭṭhapālassa ñātipārijuññañ natthi.

You have no decay of relatives.

Kiñ bhavañ raṭṭhapālo ñatvā vā disvā vā sutvā vā agārasmā anagāriyañ pabbajito? (4)

So what did you know or see or hear that made you go forth?

Imāni kho, bho raṭṭhapāla, cattāri pārijuññāni, yehi pārijuññehi samannāgatā idhekacce kesamassuñ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti.

There are these four kinds of decay. Because of these, some people shave off their hair and beard, dress in other robes, and go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

Tāni bhoṭo raṭṭhapālassa natthi.

Master Raṭṭhapāla has none of these.

Kiṃ bhavaṃ raṭṭhapālo ñatvā vā disvā vā sutvā vā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito”ti?

“Atthi kho, mahārāja, tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena cattāro dhammuddesā uddiṭṭhā, ye ahaṃ ñatvā ca disvā ca sutvā ca agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito.

“Great king, the Blessed One who knows and sees, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha has taught these four summaries of the teaching for recitation. It was after knowing and seeing and hearing these that I went forth from the lay life to homelessness.

Katame cattāro?

What four?

‘Upaniyyati loko addhuvo’ti

‘The world is unstable and swept away.’

kho, mahārāja, tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena paṭhamo dhammuddeso uddiṭṭho, yamaṃ ñatvā ca disvā ca sutvā ca agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito.

This is the first summary.

‘Atāṇo loko anabhissaro’ti

‘The world has no shelter and no savior.’

kho, mahārāja, tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena dutiyo dhammuddeso uddiṭṭho, yamaṃ ñatvā ca disvā ca sutvā ca agāasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito.

This is the second summary.

‘Assako loko, sabbaṃ pahāya gamanīyaṃ’ti

‘The world has no owner—you must leave it all behind and pass on.’

kho, mahārāja, tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena tatiyo dhammuddeso uddiṭṭho, yamaṃ
ñatvā ca disvā ca sutvā ca agāasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito.

This is the third summary.

‘Ūno loko atitto taṇhādāso’ti

‘The world is wanting, insatiable, the slave of craving.’

kho, mahārāja, tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena cattuttho dhammuddeso uddiṭṭho, yamaṃ ñatvā ca disvā ca sutvā ca agāasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito.

This is the fourth summary.

Ime kho, mahārāja, tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena cattāro dhammuddesā uddiṭṭhā, ye ahaṃ ñatvā ca disvā ca sutvā ca agāasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito”ti.

The Blessed One who knows and sees, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha taught these four summaries of the teaching. It was after knowing and seeing and hearing these that I went forth from the lay life to homelessness.”

“‘Upaniyyati loko addhuvo’ti—

bhavaṃ raṭṭhapālo āha.

So Master Raṭṭhapāla said.

Imassa, bho raṭṭhapāla, bhāsitassa kathaṃ attho daṭṭhabbo”ti?

How should I see the meaning of this statement?”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, mahārāja,
“What do you think, great king?

tvaṃ vīsativassuddesikopi paṇṇavīsativassuddesikopi

When you were twenty or twenty-five years of age, were you proficient at riding elephants, horses, and chariots, and at archery and swordsmanship? Were you strong in thigh and arm, capable, and battle-hardened?”

“Aho siṃ ahaṃ, bho raṭṭhapāla, vīsativassuddesikopi katāvī rathasmimpi katāvī dhanusmimpi katāvī tharusmimpi katāvī ūrubalī bāhubalī alamatto saṅgāmāvacaro.

“I was, Master Raṭṭhapāla.

Appekadāhaṃ, bho raṭṭhapāla, iddhi māva maññe na attano balena samasamaṃ samanupassāmī”ti.

Sometimes it seems as if I had superpowers then. I don’t see anyone who could have equalled me in strength.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, mahārāja,
“What do you think, great king?

evameva tvaṃ etarahi ūrubalī bāhubalī alamatto saṅgāmāvacaro”ti?

These days are you just as strong in thigh and arm, capable, and battle-hardened?”

“No hidaṃ, bho raṭṭhapāla.

“No, Master Raṭṭhapāla.

Etarahi jiṇṇo vuḍḍho mahallako addhagato vayoanuppatto āsītiko me vayo vattati.

For now I am old, elderly, and senior, I'm advanced in years and have reached the final stage of life. I am eighty years old.

Appekadāhaṃ, bho raṭṭhapāla, 'idha pādaṃ karissāmi'ti aññeneva pādaṃ karomī'ti.

Sometimes I intend to step in one place, but my foot goes somewhere else.”

“Idaṃ kho taṃ, mahārāja, tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena sandhāya bhāsitaṃ:

“This is what the Buddha was referring to when he said:

‘upaniyyati loko addhuvo’ti,

‘The world is unstable and swept away.’”

yamaṃ ñatvā ca disvā ca sutvā ca agāasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito’ti.

“Acchariyaṃ, bho raṭṭhapāla, abbhutaṃ, bho raṭṭhapāla.

Yāva subhāsitañcidaṃ tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena:

how well said this was by the Buddha.

‘upaniyyati loko addhuvo’ti.

Upaniyyati hi, bho raṭṭhapāla, loko addhuvo. (1)

For the world is indeed unstable and swept away.

Saṃvijjante kho, bho raṭṭhapāla, imasmim rājakule hatthikāyāpi assakāyāpi rathakāyāpi pattikāyāpi, amhākaṃ āpadāsu pariyodhāya vattissanti.

In this royal court you can find divisions of elephants, cavalry, chariots, and infantry. They will serve to defend us from any threats. Yet you said:

‘Atāṇo loko anabhissaro’ti—

bhavaṃ raṭṭhapālo āha.

Imassa pana, bho raṭṭhapāla, bhāsitassa kathaṃ attho

How should I see the meaning of this statement?”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, mahārāja,

“What do you think, great king?

atthi te koci anusāyiko ābādho”ti?

Do you have any chronic ailments?”

“Atthi me, bho raṭṭhapāla, anusāyiko ābādho.

“Yes, I do.

Appekadā maṃ, bho raṭṭhapāla, mittāmaccā ñātisālohitā

‘Now the king will die! Now the king will die!’”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, mahārāja,

“What do you think, great king?

labhasi tvaṃ te mittāmacce ñātisālohite:

Can you get your friends and colleagues, relatives and family members to help:

‘Please, my dear friends and colleagues, relatives and family members, all of you here share my pain so that I may feel less pain.’

udāhu tvaṃyeva taṃ vedanaṃ vediyasī”ti?

Or must you alone feel that pain?”

“Nāhaṃ, bho raṭṭhapāla, labhāmi te mittāmacce ñātisālohite:
“I can’t get my friends to share my pain.

‘āyantu me bhonto mittāmaccā ñātisālohitā, sabbeva santā

“Acchariyaṃ, bho raṭṭhapāla, abbhutaṃ, bho raṭṭhapāla.

Yāva subhāsitaṃ cidaṃ tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā

how well said this was by the Buddha.

‘atāṇo loko anabhissaro’ti.

Atāṇo hi, bho raṭṭhapāla, loko anabhissaro. (2)
For the world indeed has no shelter and no savior.

Saṃvijjati kho, bho raṭṭhapāla, imasmim rājakule pahūtaṃ

In this royal court you can find abundant gold coin and bullion stored in dungeons and towers. Yet you said:

‘Assako loko, sabbaṃ pahāya gamanīyan’ti—

‘The world has no owner—you must leave it all behind and pass on.’

bhavaṃ raṭṭhapālo āha.

Imassa pana, bho raṭṭhapāla, bhāsitassa kathaṃ attho

83. Maghadevasutta About King Makhādeva

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā mithilāyam viharati maghadevaambavane.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Mithilā in the Makhādeva Mango Grove.

Atha kho bhagavā aññatarasmiṃ padese sitam pātvākāsi.

Then the Buddha smiled at a certain spot.

Atha kho āyasmato ānandassa etadahosi:

Then Venerable Ānanda thought,

“ko nu kho hetu, ko paccayo bhagavato sitassa pātukammāya?

“What is the cause, what is the reason why the Buddha smiled?

Na akāraṇena tathāgatā sitam pātukarontī”ti.

Realized Ones do not smile for no reason.”

Atha kho āyasmā ānando ekamsam cīvaram katvā yena
bhagavā tenañjalim paṇāmetvā bhagavantam etadavoca:

So Ānanda got up from his seat, arranged his robe over one shoulder, raised his joined palms toward the Buddha, and said,

“ko nu kho, bhante, hetu, ko paccayo bhagavato sitassa
pātukammāya?

“What is the cause, what is the reason why the Buddha smiled?

Na akāraṇena tathāgatā sitaṃ pātukarontī”ti.

Realized Ones do not smile for no reason.”

maghadevo nāma dhammiko dhammarājā dhamme ʘhito mahārājā;

“Once upon a time, Ānanda, right here in Mithilā there was a just and principled king named Makhādeva, a great king who stood by his duty.

dhammaṃ carati brāhmaṇagahapatikesu negamesu ceva jānapadesu ca;

He justly treated brahmins and householders, and people of town and country.

uposathaṅca upavasati cātuddasiṃ pañcadasīṃ aṭṭhamiṅca pakkhassa.

And he observed the sabbath on the fourteenth, fifteenth, and eighth of the fortnight.

Atha kho, ānanda, rājā maghadevo bahūnaṃ vassānaṃ bahūnaṃ vassatānaṃ bahūnaṃ vassasahassānaṃ accayena kappakaṃ āmantesi:

Then, after many years, many hundred years, many thousand years had passed, King Makhādeva addressed his barber,

‘yadā me, samma kappaka, passeyyāsi sirasmiṃ palitāni jātāni, atha me āroceyyāsī’ti.

‘My dear barber, when you see grey hairs growing on my head, please tell me.’

‘Evaṃ, devā’ti kho, ānanda, kappako raṅṅo maghadevassa paccassosi.

‘Yes, Your Majesty,’ replied the barber.

Addasā kho, ānanda, kappako bahūnaṃ vassānaṃ bahūnaṃ vassasatānaṃ bahūnaṃ vassasahassānaṃ accayena rañño maghadevassa sirasmiṃ palitāni jātāni.

When many thousands of years had passed, the barber saw grey hairs growing on the king's head.

Disvāna rājānaṃ maghadevaṃ etadavoca:

He said to the king,

‘pātubhūtā kho devassa devadūtā, dissanti sirasmiṃ palitāni jātāni’ti.

‘The messengers of the gods have shown themselves to you. Grey hairs can be seen growing on your head.’

‘Well then, my dear barber, carefully pull them out with tweezers and place them in my cupped hands.’

‘Yes, Your Majesty,’ replied the barber, and he did as the king said.

Atha kho, ānanda, rājā maghadevo kappakassa gānavaraṃ datvā jeṭṭhaputtaṃ kumāraṃ āmantāpetvā etadavoca:

The king gave the barber a prize village, then summoned the crown prince and said, ‘pātubhūtā kho me, tāta kumāra, devadūtā;

‘Dear prince, the messengers of the gods have shown themselves to me.

dissanti sirasmiṃ palitāni jātāni;

Grey hairs can be seen growing on my head.

bhuttā kho pana me mānusakā kāmā;

I have enjoyed human pleasures.

samayo dibbe kāme pariyesitum.

Now it is time to seek heavenly pleasures.

Ehi tvam, tāta kumāra, imam rajjam paṭipajja.

Come, dear prince, rule the realm.

Aham pana kesamassum ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyam pabbajissāmi.

I shall shave off my hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

Tena hi, tāta kumāra, yadā tvampi passeyyāsi sirasmim palitāni jātāni, atha kappakassa gānavaram datvā jeṭṭhaputtam kumāram sādhuḥkam rajje samanūsāsitvā kesamassum ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyam pabbajeyyāsi.

For dear prince, you too will one day see grey hairs growing on your head. When this happens, after giving a prize village to the barber and carefully instructing the crown prince in kingship, you should shave off your hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

Yena me idam kalyāṇam vattam nihitam anuppavatteyyāsi, mā kho me tvam antimapuriso ahoṣi.

Keep up this good practice that I have founded. Do not be my final man.

Yasmim kho, tāta kumāra, purisayuge vattamāne evarūpassa kalyāṇassa vattassa samucchedo hoti so tesam antimapuriso hoti.

Whatever generation is current when such good practice is broken, he is their final man.

Tam tāham, tāta kumāra, evam vadāmi—

Therefore I say to you,

yena me idam kalyāṇam vattam nihitam anuppavatteyyāsi, mā kho me tvam antimapuriso ahoṣī'ti.

Atha kho, ānanda, rājā maghadevo kappakassa gāmavaram datvā jeṭṭhaputtam kumāram sādhuḥkam rajje samanūsāsitvā imasmimyeva maghadevaambavane kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyam pabbaji.

And so, after giving a prize village to the barber and carefully instructing the crown prince in kingship, King Makhādeva shaved off his hair and beard, dressed in ocher robes, and went forth from the lay life to homelessness here in this mango grove.

For 84,000 years King Makhādeva played games as a child, for 84,000 years he acted as viceroy, for 84,000 years he ruled the realm, and for 84,000 years he led the spiritual life after going forth here in this mango grove.

So cattāro brahmavihāre bhāvetvā kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ

Then Sakka, lord of gods, addressed the gods of the Thirty-Three,

'iccheyyātha no tumhe, mārisā, nimim̐ rājānaṃ daṭṭhun'ti?

'Good sirs, would you like to see King Nimi?'

'Icchāma mayaṃ, mārisa, nimim̐ rājānaṃ daṭṭhun'ti.

'We would.'

Tena kho pana, ānanda, samayena nimi rājā tadahuposathe

Now at that time it was the fifteenth day sabbath, and King Nimi had bathed his head and was sitting upstairs in the stilt longhouse to observe the sabbath.

Atha kho, ānanda, sakko devānamindo—seyyathāpi nāma

Then, as easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, Sakka vanished from the Thirty-Three gods and reappeared in front of King Nimi.

Atha kho, ānanda, sakko devānamindo nimim̐ rājānaṃ etadavoca:

He said to the king,

‘lābhā te, mahārāja, suladdhaṃ te, mahārāja.

‘You’re fortunate, great king, so very fortunate.

Devā, mahārāja, tāvatimsā sudhammāyaṃ sabhāyaṃ

The gods of the Thirty-Three were sitting together in the Hall of Justice, where they spoke very highly of you.

“lābhā vata, bho, videhānaṃ, suladdhaṃ vata, bho, videhānaṃ,

Devā te, mahārāja, tāvatimsā dassanakāmā.

They would like to see you.

Tassa te ahaṃ, mahārāja, saḥassayuttaṃ ājaññarathaṃ

I shall send a chariot harnessed with a thousand thoroughbreds for you, great king.

abhiruheyāsi, mahārāja, dibbaṃ yānaṃ avikampamāno’ti.

Mount the heavenly chariot, great king! Do not waver.’

Adhivāsesi kho, ānanda, nimi rājā tuṅhībhāvena.

King Nimi consented in silence.

Then, knowing that the king had consented, as easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, Sakka vanished from King Nimi and reappeared among the Thirty-Three gods.

Atha kho, ānanda, sakko devānamindo mātaliṃ saṅgāhakam āmantesi:

Then Sakka, lord of gods, addressed his charioteer Mātali,

‘ehi tvaṃ, samma mātali, saḥassayuttam ājaññaratham yojetvā nimim rājānam upasaṅkamtivā evaṃ vadehi—

‘Come, dear Mātali, harness the chariot with a thousand thoroughbreds. Then go to King Nimi and say, ‘Ubhayeneva maṃ, mātali, nehī’ti.

‘Take me both ways, Mātali.’

Sampavesesi kho, ānanda, mātali, saṅgāhako nimirā jānaṃ sudhammaṃ sabhaṃ.

Mātali brought King Nimi to the Hall of Justice.

Addasā kho, ānanda, sakko devānamindo nimirā jānaṃ dūratova āgacchantaṃ.

Sakka saw King Nimi coming off in the distance,

Disvāna nimirā jānaṃ etadavoca:

and said to him:

‘ehi kho, mahārāja.

‘Come, great king!

Devā te, mahārāja, tāvatimsā dassanakāmā.

The gods of the Thirty-Three would like to see you.

Abhirama, mahārāja, devesu devānubhāvenā'ti.

Enjoy divine glory among the gods!

'Alaṃ, mārisa, tattheva maṃ mithilaṃ paṭinetu.

'Yes, lord,' replied Mātali, and did as Sakka asked.

And there King Nimi justly treated his people, and observed the sabbath.

And having developed the four Brahmā meditations, when his body broke up, after death, King Nimi was reborn in a good place, a Brahmā realm.

Nimissa kho panānanda, rañño kaḷārajanako nāma putto ahoṣi.
But King Nimi had a son named Kaḷārajanaka.

Na so agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbaji.
He didn't go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

So taṃ kalyāṇaṃ vattaṃ samucchindi.
He broke that good practice.

So tesaṃ antimapuriso ahoṣi.
He was their final man.

Siyā kho pana te, ānanda, evamassa:
Ānanda, you might think,

'añño nūna tena samayena rājā maghadevo ahoṣi, yena taṃ kalyāṇaṃ vattaṃ nihitaṃ'ti.

'Surely King Makhādeva, by whom that good practice was founded, must have been someone else at that time?'

Na kho panetaṃ, ānanda, evaṃ daṭṭhabbaṃ.
But you should not see it like this.

Ahaṃ tena samayena rājā maghadevo ahoṣim.
I myself was King Makhādeva at that time.

Ahaṃ taṃ kalyāṇaṃ vattaṃ nihiniṃ, mayā taṃ kalyāṇaṃ vattaṃ nihitaṃ;

I was the one who founded that good practice, pacchimā janatā anuppavattesi.

which was kept up by those who came after.

Taṃ kho panānanda, kalyāṇaṃ vattaṃ na nibbidāya na virāgāya na nirodhāya na upasamāya na abhiññāya na sambodhāya na nibbānāya saṃvattati, yāvadeva brahmalokūpapattiyā.

But that good practice doesn't lead to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment. It only leads as far as rebirth in the Brahmā realm.

Idaṃ kho panānanda, etarahi mayā kalyāṇaṃ vattaṃ nihitaṃ ekantanibbidāya virāgāya nirodhāya upasamāya abhiññāya sambodhāya nibbānāya saṃvattati.

But now I have founded a good practice that does lead to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment.

Katamañcānanda, etarahi mayā kalyāṇaṃ vattaṃ nihitaṃ ekantanibbidāya virāgāya nirodhāya upasamāya abhiññāya sambodhāya nibbānāya saṃvattati?

And what is that good practice?

Ayameva ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo, seyyathidaṃ—

It is simply this noble eightfold path, that is:

sammādiṭṭhi, sammāsaṅkappo, sammāvācā, sammākammanto, sammāājīvo, sammāvāyāmo, sammāsati, sammāsamādhi.

Idaṃ kho, ānanda, etarahi mayā kalyāṇaṃ vattaṃ nihitaṃ ekantanibbidāya virāgāya nirodhāya upasamāya abhiññāya sambodhāya nibbānāya saṃvattati.

This is the good practice I have now founded that leads to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment.

Taṃ vo ahaṃ, ānanda, evaṃ vadāmi:

Ānanda, I say to you:

‘yena me idaṃ kalyāṇaṃ vattaṃ nihitaṃ anuppavatteyyātha, mā kho me tumhe antimapurisā ahuvattha’.

‘You all should keep up this good practice that I have founded. Do not be my final men.’

Yasmiṃ kho, ānanda, purisayuge vattamāne evarūpassa kalyāṇassa vattassa samucchedo hoti so tesāṃ antimapuriso hoti.

Whatever generation is current when such good practice is broken, he is their final man.

Taṃ vo ahaṃ, ānanda, evaṃ vadāmi:

Ānanda, I say to you:

‘yena me idaṃ kalyāṇaṃ vattaṃ nihitaṃ anuppavatteyyātha, mā kho me tumhe antimapurisā ahuvatthā’”ti.

‘You all should keep up this good practice that I have founded. Do not be my final men.’”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā ānando bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Venerable Ānanda was happy with what the Buddha said.

Maghadevasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ tatiyaṃ.

84. Madhurasutta At Madhurā

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam āyasmā mahākaccāno madhurāyam viharati gundāvane.

At one time Venerable Mahākaccāna was staying near Madhurā, in Gunda's Grove.

Assosi kho rājā mādhuvo avantiputto:

King Avantiputta of Madhurā heard,

“samaṇo khalu, bho, kaccāno madhurāyam viharati gundāvane.

“It seems the ascetic Kaccāna is staying near Madhurā, in Gunda's Grove.

Tam kho pana bhavantam kaccānam evam kalyāṇo kittisaddo
abhuggato:

He has this good reputation:

‘paṇḍito viyatto medhāvī bahussuto cittakathī kalyāṇapaṭibhāno vuddho ceva arahā ca’.

‘He is astute, competent, clever, learned, a brilliant speaker, eloquent, mature, a perfected one.’

Sādhu kho pana tathārūpānam arahatam dassanam hotī”ti.

It's good to see such perfected ones.”

Atha kho rājā mādhuvo avantiputto bhadraṇi bhadraṇi yānāni yānehi madhurāya niyyāsi mahaccarājānubhāvena āyasmantaṃ mahākaccānaṃ dassanāya.

And then King Avantiputta had the finest carriages harnessed. He mounted a fine carriage and, along with other fine carriages, set out in full royal pomp from Madhurā to see Mahākaccāna.

Yāvatikā yānassa bhūmi yānena gantvā yānā paccorohitvā pattikova yenāyasmā mahākaccāno tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtvā āyasmatā mahākaccānena saddhiṃ sammodi. Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho rājā mādhuro avantiputto āyasmantaṃ mahākaccānaṃ etadavoca:

He went by carriage as far as the terrain allowed, then descended and approached Mahākaccāna on foot. They exchanged greetings, and when the greetings and polite conversation were over, the king sat down to one side and said to Mahākaccāna:

“brāhmaṇā, bho kaccāna, evamāhaṃsu:

“Master Kaccāna, the brahmins say:

85. Bodhirājakumārasutta

With Prince Bodhi

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava bhaggesu viharati susumāragire bhesakaḷāvane migadāye.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Bhaggas on Crocodile Hill, in the deer park at Bhesakaḷā's Wood.

Tena kho pana samayena bodhissa rājakumārassa kokanado nāma pāsādo acirakārīto hoti anajjhāvuttho samaṇena vā brāhmaṇena vā kenaci vā manussabhūtena.

Now at that time a new stilt longhouse named Pink Lotus had recently been constructed for Prince Bodhi. It had not yet been occupied by an ascetic or brahmin or any person at all.

Atha kho bodhi rājakumāro sañjikāputtam māṇavam āmantesi:

Then Prince Bodhi addressed the brahmin student Sañjikāputta, “ehi tvam, samma sañjikāputta, yena bhagava tenupasaṅkama; upasaṅkamitvā mama vacanena bhagavato pāde sirasā vanda, appābādham appātaṅkam lahuṭṭhānam balaṃ phāsuvihāram

puccha:

“Please, dear Sañjikāputta, go to the Buddha, and in my name bow with your head to his feet. Ask him if he is healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably.

‘bodhi, bhante, rājakumāro bhagavato pāde sirasā vandati, appābādham appātaṅkam lahuṭṭhānam balaṃ phāsuvihāram pucchati’ti.

Evañca vadehi:

And then ask him whether he ‘adhivāsetu kira, bhante, bhagavā bodhissa rājakumārassa svātanāya bhattam saddhim bhikkhusaṅghenā’”ti.

might accept tomorrow’s meal from me together with the mendicant Saṅgha.”

“Evaṃ, bho”ti kho saṅjikāputto māṇavo bodhissa rājakumārassa paṭissutvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhim sammodi.

“Yes, sir,” Saṅjikāputta replied. He did as Prince Bodhi asked, and Sammodanīyaṃ katham sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho saṅjikāputto māṇavo bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

“bodhi kho rājakumāro bhoto gotamassa pāde sirasā vandati, appābādham appātaṅkam lahuṭṭhānam balaṃ phāsuvihāram pucchati.

Evañca vadeti:

‘adhivāsetu kira bhavaṃ gotamo bodhissa rājakumārassa svātanāya bhattam saddhim bhikkhusaṅghenā’”ti.

Adhivāsesi bhagavā tuṅhībhāvena.

the Buddha consented in silence.

Atha kho saṅjikāputto māṇavo bhagavato adhivāsanam veditvā uṭṭhāyāsanā yena bodhi rājakumāro tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bodhim rājakumāram etadavoca:

Then, knowing that the Buddha had consented, Saṅjikāputta got up from his seat, went to Prince Bodhi, and said, “avocumha bhoto vacanena taṃ bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ:

“I gave the ascetic Gotama your message,

‘bodhi kho rājakumāro bhoto gotamassa pāde sirasā vandati, appābādham appātaṅkam lahuṭṭhānam balaṃ phāsuvihāram
pucchati.

Evañca vadeti—

adhivāsetu kira bhavaṃ gotamo bodhissa rājakumārassa svātanāya bhattaṃ saddhiṃ bhikkhusaṅghenā’ti.

Adhivuṭṭhañca pana samaṇena gotamenā’ti.
and he accepted.”

Atha kho bodhi rājakumāro tassā rattiyā accayena sake nivesane paṇītaṃ khādanīyaṃ bhojanīyaṃ paṭiyādāpetvā, kokanadañca pāsādaṃ odātehi dussehi santharāpetvā yāva pacchimasopānakaḷavarā, sañjikāputtaṃ māṇavaṃ āmantesi:
And when the night had passed Prince Bodhi had a variety of delicious foods prepared in his own home. He also had the Pink Lotus longhouse spread with white cloth down to the last step of the staircase. Then he said to Sañjikāputta, “ehi tvaṃ, samma sañjikāputta, yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkama;

upasaṅkamtivā bhagavato kālaṃ ārocehi:

“Please, dear Sañjikāputta, go to the Buddha, and announce the time, saying,

‘kālo, bhante, niṭṭhitaṃ bhattaṃ’ti.

‘Sir, it’s time. The meal is ready.’”

“Evaṃ, bho’ti kho sañjikāputto māṇavo bodhissa rājakumārassa paṭissutvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkama;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavato kālaṃ ārocesi:

“Yes, sir,” Sañjikāputta replied, and he did as he was asked.

“kālo, bho gotama, niṭṭhitaṃ bhattaṃ’ti.

Atha kho bhagavā pubbaṅhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya yena bodhissa rājakumārassa nivesanam tenupasaṅkami.

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, went to Prince Bodhi's home.

Tena kho pana samayena bodhi rājakumāro bahidvārakoṭṭhake ṭhito hoti bhagavantam āgamayamāno.

Now at that time Prince Bodhi was standing outside the gates waiting for the Buddha.

Addasā kho bodhi rājakumāro bhagavantam dūratova āgacchantam.

Seeing the Buddha coming off in the distance,

Disvāna paccuggantvā bhagavantam abhivādetvā purakkhatvā yena kokanado pāsādo tenupasaṅkami.

he went out to greet him. After bowing and inviting the Buddha to go first, he approached the Pink Lotus longhouse.

Atha kho bhagavā pacchimaṃ sopānakaḷevaram nissāya
aṭṭhāsi.

But the Buddha stopped by the last step of the staircase.

Atha kho bodhi rājakumāro bhagavantam etadavoca:

Then Prince Bodhi said to him,

“abhiruhatu, bhante, bhagavā dussāni, abhiruhatu sugato dussāni;

“Sir, let the Blessed One ascend on the cloth! Let the Holy One ascend on the cloth!

yaṃ mama assa dīgharattam hitāya sukhāyā”ti.

It will be for my lasting welfare and happiness.”

Evam vutte, bhagavā tuṅhī ahoṣi.

But when he said this, the Buddha kept silent.

Dutiyampi kho ...pe...

For a second time ...

tatīyampi kho bodhi rājakumāro bhagavantam etadavoca:

and a third time, Prince Bodhi said to him,

“abhiruhatu, bhante, bhagavā dussāni, abhiruhatu sugato dussāni;

“Sir, let the Blessed One ascend on the cloth! Let the Holy One ascend on the cloth!

yaṃ mama assa dīgharattam hitāya sukhāyā”ti.

It will be for my lasting welfare and happiness.”

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmantam ānandam apalokesi.

Then the Buddha glanced at Venerable Ānanda.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando bodhim rājakumāram etadavoca:

So Ānanda said to Prince Bodhi,

“saṃharatu, rājakumāra, dussāni;

“Fold up the cloth, Prince.

na bhagavā celapaṭikam akkamissati.

The Buddha will not step upon white cloth.

Pacchimaṃ janatam tathāgato anukampatī”ti.

The Realized One has compassion for future generations.”

Atha kho bodhi rājakumāro dussāni saṃharāpetvā uparikokanadapāsāde āsanāni paññapesi.

So Prince Bodhi had the cloth folded up and the seats spread out upstairs in the longhouse.

Atha kho bhagavā kokanadam pāsadam abhiruhitvā paññatte āsane nisīdi saddhim bhikkhusaṅghena.

Then the Buddha ascended the longhouse and sat on the seats spread out together with the Saṅgha of mendicants.

Atha kho bodhi rājakumāro buddhappamukhaṃ bhikkhusaṅghaṃ paṇītena khādaniyena bhojanīyena sahatthā santappesi sampavāresi.

Then Prince Bodhi served and satisfied the mendicant Saṅgha headed by the Buddha with his own hands with a variety of delicious foods.

Atha kho bodhi rājakumāro bhagavantaṃ bhuttāviṃ onītapattapaṇiṃ aññataraṃ nīcaṃ āsanaṃ gahetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

When the Buddha had eaten and washed his hand and bowl, Prince Bodhi took a low seat, sat to one side,

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho bodhi rājakumāro bhagavantaṃ
etadavoca:

and said to him,

“mayhaṃ kho, bhante, evaṃ hoti:

“Sir, this is what I think:

‘na kho sukkena sukhaṃ adhigantabbaṃ, dukkheṇa kho
sukhaṃ adhigantabbaṃ’”ti.

‘Pleasure is not gained through pleasure; pleasure is gained through pain.’”

“Mayhampi kho, rājakumāra, pubbeva sambodhā

anabhisambuddhassa bodhisattasseva sato etadahosi:

“Prince, before my awakening—when I was still unawakened but intent on awakening—I too thought:

‘na kho sukkena sukhaṃ adhigantabbaṃ, dukkheṇa kho
sukhaṃ adhigantabbaṃ’”ti.

‘Pleasure is not gained through pleasure; pleasure is gained through pain.’”

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, aparena samayena daharova samāno susukāḷakeso bhadrena yobbanena samannāgato paṭhamena vayasā akāmakānaṃ mātāpitūnaṃ assumukhānaṃ rudantānaṃ

kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajim.

Some time later, while still black-haired, blessed with youth, in the prime of life—though my mother and father wished otherwise, weeping with tearful faces—I shaved off my hair and beard, dressed in ocher robes, and went forth from the lay life to homelessness.

So evaṃ pabbajito samāno kiṅkusalagavesī anuttaraṃ santivarapadaṃ pariyesaṃāno yena āḷāro kālāmo tenupasaṅkamim; upasaṅkamtivā āḷāraṃ kālāmaṃ etadavocaṃ:

Once I had gone forth I set out to discover what is skillful, seeking the supreme state of sublime peace. I approached Āḷāra Kālāma and said to him,

‘icchāmahaṃ, āvuso kālāma, imasmim dhammavinaye brahmacariyaṃ caritun’ti.

‘Reverend Kālāma, I wish to live the spiritual life in this teaching and training.’

Evaṃ vutte, rājakumāra, āḷāro kālāmo maṃ etadavoca:
Āḷāra Kālāma replied,

‘viharatāyasmā,
‘Stay, venerable.

tādiso ayaṃ dhammo yattha viññū puriso nacirasseva sakaṃ ācariyakaṃ sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihareyyā’ti.

This teaching is such that a sensible person can soon realize their own teacher’s doctrine with their own insight and live having achieved it.’

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, nacirasseva khippameva taṃ dhammaṃ pariyāpuṇim.

I quickly memorized that teaching.

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, tāvatakeneva oṭṭhapahatamattena lapitalāpanamattena ñāṇavādañca vadāmi, theravādañca jānāmi passāmīti ca paṭijānāmi, ahañceva aññe ca.

So far as lip-recital and oral recitation were concerned, I spoke with knowledge and the authority of the elders. I claimed to know and see, and so did others.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘na kho āḷāro kālāmo imaṃ dhammaṃ kevalaṃ saddhāmattakena sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihārāmīti pavedeti;

‘It is not solely by mere faith that Āḷāra Kālāma declares: “I realize this teaching with my own insight, and live having achieved it.”

addhā āḷāro kālāmo imaṃ dhammaṃ jānaṃ passaṃ viharatī’ti.
Surely he meditates knowing and seeing this teaching.’

Atha khvāhaṃ, rājakumāra, yena āḷāro kālāmo

tenupasaṅkamiraṃ; upasaṅkamtivā āḷāraṃ kālāmaṃ etadavocaṃ:

So I approached Āḷāra Kālāma and said to him,

‘kittāvatā no, āvuso kālāma, imaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharāmīti pavedesī’ti?

‘Reverend Kālāma, to what extent do you say you’ve realized this teaching with your own insight?’

Evaṃ vutte, rājakumāra, āḷāro kālāmo ākiñcaññāyatanam pavedesi.

When I said this, he declared the dimension of nothingness.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘na kho āḷārasseva kālāmassa atthi saddhā, mayhampatthi
saddhā;

na kho āḷārasseva kālāmassa atthi vīriyam ...pe...
energy,

sati ...
mindfulness,

samādhi ...
immersion,

paññā, mayhampatthi paññā.
and wisdom; I too have these things.

Yannūnāhaṃ yaṃ dhammaṃ āḷāro kālāmo sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharāmīti pavedeti tassa dhammassa sacchikiriyāya padaheyyan'ti.

Why don't I make an effort to realize the same teaching that Āḷāra Kālāma says he has realized with his own insight?'

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, nacirasseva khippameva taṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihāsim.
I quickly realized that teaching with my own insight, and lived having achieved it.

Atha khvāhaṃ, rājakumāra, yena āḷāro kālāmo
tenupasaṅkamim; upasaṅkamtivā āḷāraṃ kālāmaṃ etadavocaṃ:
So I approached Āḷāra Kālāma and said to him,

'ettāvatā no, āvuso kālāma, imaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja pavedesī'ti?

'Reverend Kālāma, have you realized this teaching with your own insight up to this point, and declare having achieved it?'

'Ettāvatā kho ahaṃ, āvuso, imaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja pavedemī'ti.

'I have, reverend.'

'Ahampi kho, āvuso, ettāvatā imaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharāmī'ti.

'I too have realized this teaching with my own insight up to this point, and live having achieved it.'

‘Lābhā no, āvuso, suladdhaṃ no, āvuso,
‘We are fortunate, reverend, so very fortunate

ye mayaṃ āyasmantaṃ tādisaṃ sabrahmacāriṃ passāma.
to see a venerable such as yourself as one of our spiritual companions!

Iti yāhaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja pavedemi, taṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharasi.

So the teaching that I’ve realized with my own insight, and declare having achieved it, you’ve realized with your own insight, and live having achieved it.

Yaṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharasi, tamahaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja pavedemi.

The teaching that you’ve realized with your own insight, and live having achieved it, I’ve realized with my own insight, and declare having achieved it.

Iti yāhaṃ dhammaṃ jānāmi taṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ jānāsi; yaṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ jānāsi tamahaṃ dhammaṃ jānāmi.

So the teaching that I know, you know, and the teaching you know, I know.

Iti yādiso ahaṃ, tādiso tuvaṃ; yādiso tuvaṃ tādiso ahaṃ.

I am like you and you are like me.

Ehi dāni, āvuso, ubhova santā imaṃ gaṇaṃ pariharāmā’ti.

Come now, reverend! We should both lead this community together.’

Iti kho, rājakumāra, āḷāro kālāmo ācariyo me samāno attano antevāsiṃ maṃ samānaṃ attanā samasamaṃ ṭhapesi, uḷārāya ca maṃ pūjāya pūjesi.

And that is how my teacher Āḷāra Kālāma placed me, his student, on the same position as him, and honored me with lofty praise.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘nāyaṃ dhammo nibbidāya na virāgāya na nirodhāya na upasamāya na abhiññāya na sambodhāya na nibbānāya saṃvattati, yāvadeva ākiñcaññāyatanūpapattiyā’ti.

‘This teaching doesn’t lead to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment. It only leads as far as rebirth in the dimension of nothingness.’

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, taṃ dhammaṃ analaṅkaritvā tasmā dhammā nibbijja apakkamiṃ.

Realizing that this teaching was inadequate, I left disappointed.

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, kiṅkusalagavesī anuttaraṃ santivarapadaṃ pariyesamāno yena udako rāmaputto tenupasaṅkamiṃ; upasaṅkamtivā udakaṃ rāmaputtaṃ etadavocaṃ:

I set out to discover what is skillful, seeking the supreme state of sublime peace. I approached Uddaka, son of Rāma, and said to him, ‘icchāmahaṃ, āvuso, imasmiṃ dhammavinaye brahmacariyaṃ caritun’ti.

‘Reverend, I wish to live the spiritual life in this teaching and training.’

Evaṃ vutte, rājakumāra, udako rāmaputto maṃ etadavoca:

Uddaka replied,

‘viharatāyasmā,

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, nacirasseva khippameva taṃ dhammaṃ pariyāpuṇiṃ.

So far as lip-recital and oral recitation were concerned, I spoke with knowledge and the authority of the elders. I claimed to know and see, and so did others.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

Atha khvāhaṃ, rājakumāra, yena udako rāmaputto tenupasaṅkamim; upasaṅkamtivā udakaṃ rāmaputtaṃ etadavocaṃ:

So I approached Uddaka, son of Rāma, and said to him,

‘Reverend, to what extent did Rāma say he’d realized this teaching with his own insight?’

Evaṃ vutte, rājakumāra, udako rāmaputto nevasaññānāsaññāyatanam pavedesi.

When I said this, Uddaka, son of Rāma, declared the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘na kho rāmasseva ahosi saddhā, mayhampatthi saddhā;

Atha khvāhaṃ, rājakumāra, yena udako rāmaputto

‘Ettāvatā kho, āvuso, rāmo imaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā

‘He had, reverend.’

‘Ahampi kho, āvuso, ettāvatā imaṃ dhammaṃ sayaṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharāmi’ti.

‘I too have realized this teaching with my own insight up to this point, and live having achieved it.’

‘Lābhā no, āvuso, suladdhaṃ no, āvuso,
‘We are fortunate, reverend, so very fortunate

Iti yaṃ dhammaṃ rāmo sayaṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja pavedesi taṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ sayaṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharasi.

So the teaching that Rāma had realized with his own insight, and declared having achieved it, you've realized with your own insight, and live having achieved it.

Yaṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ sayaṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharasi taṃ dhammaṃ rāmo sayaṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja pavedesi.

The teaching that you've realized with your own insight, and live having achieved it, Rāma had realized with his own insight, and declared having achieved it.

Iti yaṃ dhammaṃ rāmo abhiññāsi taṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ jānāsi; yaṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ jānāsi taṃ dhammaṃ rāmo abhiññāsi.

So the teaching that Rāma directly knew, you know, and the teaching you know, Rāma directly knew.

Iti yādiso rāmo ahosi tādiso tuvaṃ, yādiso tuvaṃ tādiso rāmo ahosi.

Rāma was like you and you are like Rāma.

Ehi dāni, āvuso, tuvaṃ imaṃ gaṇaṃ pariharā’ti.

Iti kho, rājakumāra, udako rāmaputto sabrahmacārī me samāno ācariyaṭṭhāne maṃ ṭhapesi, ulārāya ca maṃ pūjāya pūjesi.

And that is how my spiritual companion Uddaka, son of Rāma, placed me in the position of a teacher, and honored me with lofty praise.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘nāyaṃ dhammo nibbidāya na virāgāya na nirodhāya na upasamāya na abhiññāya na sambodhāya na nibbānāya saṃvattati, yāvadeva nevasaññānāsaññāyatanūpapattiyā’ti.

‘This teaching doesn’t lead to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment. It only leads as far as rebirth in the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception.’

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, taṃ dhammaṃ analaṅkaritvā tasmā dhammā nibbijja apakkamiṃ.

Realizing that this teaching was inadequate, I left disappointed.

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, kiṅkusalagavesī anuttaraṃ santivarapadaṃ pariyesamāno, magadhesu anupubbena cārikaṃ caramāno, yena uruvelā senānigamo tadavasariṃ.

I set out to discover what is skillful, seeking the supreme state of sublime peace. Traveling stage by stage in the Magadhan lands, I arrived at Senanigama near Uruvelā.

Tatthaddasaṃ ramaṇīyaṃ bhūmibhāgaṃ, pāsādikañca vanasaṇḍaṃ, nadiñca sandantiṃ setakaṃ supatitthaṃ, ramaṇīyaṃ samantā ca gocaragāmaṃ.

There I saw a delightful park, a lovely grove with a flowing river that was clean and charming, with smooth banks. And nearby was a village to go for alms.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘ramaṇīyo vata bho bhūmibhāgo, pāsādiko ca vanasaṇḍo, nadī ca sandati setakā supatitthā, ramaṇīyā samantā ca gocaragāmo.

‘This park is truly delightful, a lovely grove with a flowing river that’s clean and charming, with smooth banks. And nearby there’s a village to go for alms.

Alaṃ vatidaṃ kulaputtassa padhānatthikassa padhānāyā’ti.

This is good enough for a gentleman who wishes to put forth effort in meditation.’

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, tattheva nisīdimḥ:

So I sat down right there, thinking,

‘alamidaṃ padhānāyā’ti.

‘This is good enough for meditation.’

Apissu maṃ, rājakumāra, tisso upamā paṭibhaṃsu anacchariyā pubbe assutapubbā.

And then these three examples, which were neither supernaturally inspired, nor learned before in the past, occurred to me.

Seyyathāpi, rājakumāra, allaṃ kaṭṭhaṃ sasnehaṃ udake nikkhattaṃ.

Suppose there was a green, sappy log, and it was lying in water.

Atha puriso āgaccheyya uttarāraṇiṃ ādāya:

Then a person comes along with a drill-stick, thinking

‘aggim abhinibbattessāmi, tejo pātukarissāmi’ti.

Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, rājakumāra,

What do you think, Prince?

api nu so puriso amuṃ allaṃ kaṭṭhaṃ sasnehaṃ udake nikkhittaṃ uttarāraṇiṃ ādāya abhimanthento aggim abhinibbatteyya, tejo pātukareyyā”ti?

By drilling the stick against that green, sappy log lying in water, could they light a fire and produce heat?”

“No hidam̃, bhante.

“No, sir.

Tam̃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Aduñhi, bhante, allam̃ kaṭṭham̃ sasneham̃ tañca pana udake nikkhittam̃,

Because it’s a green, sappy log, and it’s lying in the water.

yāvadeva ca pana so puriso kilamathassa vighātassa bhāgī

That person will eventually get weary and frustrated.”

“Evameva kho, rājakumāra, ye hi keci samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā kāyena ceva cittaena ca kāmehi avūpakaṭṭhā viharanti, yo ca nesam̃ kāmesu kāmacchando kāmasneho kāmamucchā kāmapipāsā kāmapariḷāho so ca ajjhattam̃ na suppahīno hoti, na suppaṭippassaddho.

“In the same way, there are ascetics and brahmins who don’t live withdrawn in body and mind from sensual pleasures. They haven’t internally given up or stilled desire, affection, infatuation, thirst, and passion for sensual pleasures. Regardless of whether or not they feel painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings because of their efforts, they are incapable of knowledge and vision, of supreme awakening.

Opakkamikā cepi te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā dukkhā tikkā

No cepi te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā opakkamikā dukkhā tikkā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayanti, abhabbāva te ñāṇāya

Ayam̃ kho maṃ, rājakumāra, paṭhamā upamā paṭibhāsi

This was the first example that occurred to me.

Aparāpi kho maṃ, rājakumāra, dutiyā upamā paṭibhāsi anacchariyā pubbe assutapubbā.

Then a second example occurred to me.

Seyyathāpi, rājakumāra, allam kaṭṭham sasneham ārakā udakā thale nikkhittam.

Suppose there was a green, sappy log, and it was lying on dry land far from the water.

Atha puriso āgaccheyya uttarāraṇim ādāya:

Then a person comes along with a drill-stick, thinking

‘aggim abhinibbattessāmi, tejo pātukarissāmī’ti.

to light a fire and produce heat.

Tam kim maññasi, rājakumāra,

What do you think, Prince?

api nu so puriso amum allam kaṭṭham sasneham ārakā udakā thale nikkhittam uttarāraṇim ādāya abhimanthento aggim abhinibbatteyya, tejo pātukareyyā”ti?

By drilling the stick against that green, sappy log on dry land far from water, could they light a fire and produce heat?”

“No hidam, bhante.

“No, sir.

Tam kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Aduñhi, bhante, allam kaṭṭham sasneham kiñcāpi ārakā udakā
thale nikkhittam,

Because it’s still a green, sappy log, despite the fact that it’s lying on dry land far from water.

yāvadeva ca pana so puriso kilamathassa vighātassa bhāgī assā”ti.

That person will eventually get weary and frustrated.”

“Evameva kho, rājakumāra, ye hi keci samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā kāyena ceva cittaena ca kāmehi vūpakaṭṭhā viharanti, yo ca nesaṃ kāmesu kāmacchando kāmasneho kāmamucchā kāmapipāsā kāmapariḷāho so ca ajjhattaṃ na suppahīno hoti, na suppaṭippassaddho.

“In the same way, there are ascetics and brahmins who live withdrawn in body and mind from sensual pleasures. But they haven’t internally given up or stilled desire, affection, infatuation, thirst, and passion for sensual pleasures. Regardless of whether or not they feel painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings because of their efforts, they are incapable of knowledge and vision, of supreme awakening.

Opakkamikā cepi te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā dukkhā tikkhā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayanti, abhabbāva te ñāṇāya dassanāya anuttarāya sambodhāya.

No cepi te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā opakkamikā dukkhā tikkhā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayanti, abhabbāva te ñāṇāya dassanāya anuttarāya sambodhāya.

Ayaṃ kho maṃ, rājakumāra, dutiyā upamā paṭibhāsi anacchariyā pubbe assutapubbā.

This was the second example that occurred to me.

Aparāpi kho maṃ, rājakumāra, tatiyā upamā paṭibhāsi anacchariyā pubbe assutapubbā.

Then a third example occurred to me.

Seyyathāpi, rājakumāra, sukkhaṃ kaṭṭhaṃ koḷāpaṃ ārakā udakā thale nikkhattaṃ.

Suppose there was a dried up, withered log, and it was lying on dry land far from the water.

Atha puriso āgaccheyya uttarāraṇiṃ ādāya:

Then a person comes along with a drill-stick, thinking

‘aggim abhinibbattessāmi, tejo pātukarissāmi’ti.

to light a fire and produce heat.

Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, rājakumāra,

What do you think, Prince?

api nu so puriso amuṃ sukkaṃ kaṭṭhaṃ koḷāpaṃ ārakā udakā thale nikkhattaṃ uttarāraṇiṃ ādāya abhimanthento aggiṃ abhinibbatteyya, tejo pātukareyyā”ti?

By drilling the stick against that dried up, withered log on dry land far from water, could they light a fire and produce heat?”

“Evaṃ, bhante.

“Yes, sir.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Aduñhi, bhante, sukkaṃ kaṭṭhaṃ koḷāpaṃ, tañca pana ārakā udakā thale nikkhattaṃ”ti.

Because it’s a dried up, withered log, and it’s lying on dry land far from water.”

“Evameva kho, rājakumāra, ye hi keci samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā kāyena ceva cittaṃ ca kāmehi vūpakaṭṭhā viharanti, yo ca nesaṃ kāmesu kāmacchando kāmasneho kāmamucchā kāmapipāsā kāmapariḷāho so ca ajjhattaṃ suppaḥīno hoti suppaṭippassaddho.

“In the same way, there are ascetics and brahmins who live withdrawn in body and mind from sensual pleasures. And they have internally given up and stilled desire, affection, infatuation, thirst, and passion for sensual pleasures. Opakkamikā cepi te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā dukkhā tibbā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayanti, bhabbāva te ñāṇāya dassanāya anuttarāya sambodhāya.

No cepi te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā opakkamikā dukkhā tibbā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayanti, bhabbāva te ñāṇāya dassanāya anuttarāya sambodhāya.

Ayaṃ kho maṃ, rājakumāra, tatiyā upamā paṭibhāsi
anacchariyā pubbe assutapubbā.

This was the third example that occurred to me.

Imā kho maṃ, rājakumāra, tisso upamā paṭibhaṃsu
anacchariyā pubbe assutapubbā.

These are the three examples, which were neither supernaturally inspired, nor learned before in the past, that occurred to me.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘yannūnāhaṃ dantebhidantamādhāya, jivhāya tāluṃ āhacca, cetasā cittaṃ abhiniggaṇheyyaṃ abhinippīleyyaṃ
abhisantāpeyyaṃ’ti.

‘Why don’t I, with teeth clenched and tongue pressed against the roof of my mouth, squeeze, squash, and torture mind with mind.’

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, dantebhidantamādhāya, jivhāya tāluṃ āhacca, cetasā cittaṃ abhiniggaṇhāmi abhinippīlemi abhisantāpemi.

So that’s what I did,

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, dantebhidantamādhāya, jivhāya tāluṃ āhacca, cetasā cittaṃ abhiniggaṇhato abhinippīlayato abhisantāpayato kacchehi sedā muccanti.

until sweat ran from my armpits.

Seyyathāpi, rājakumāra, balavā puriso dubbalataraṃ purisaṃ sīse vā gahetvā khandhe vā gahetvā abhiniggaṇheyya abhinippīleyya abhisantāpeyya;

It was like when a strong man grabs a weaker man by the head or throat or shoulder and squeezes, squashes, and tortures them.

evameva kho me, rājakumāra, dantebhidantamādhāya, jivhāya tālum āhacca, cetasā cittaṃ abhiniggaṇhato abhinippīlayato abhisantāpayato kacchehi sedā muccanti.

In the same way, with teeth clenched and tongue pressed against the roof of my mouth, I squeezed, squashed, and tortured mind with mind until sweat ran from my armpits.

Āraddhaṃ kho pana me, rājakumāra, vīriyaṃ hoti asallīnaṃ, upaṭṭhitā sati asammuṭṭhā, sāraddho ca pana me kāyo hoti appaṭippassaddho, teneva dukkhappadhānena padhānābhitunnassa sato.

My energy was roused up and unflagging, and my mindfulness was established and lucid, but my body was disturbed, not tranquil, because I'd pushed too hard with that painful striving.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘yannūnāhaṃ appāṇakaṃyeva jhānaṃ jhāyeyyan’ti.

‘Why don’t I practice the breathless absorption?’

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, mukhato ca nāsato ca assāsapassāse uparundhiṃ.

So I cut off my breathing through my mouth and nose.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, mukhato ca nāsato ca assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu kaṇṇasotehi vātānaṃ nikkhamantānaṃ adhimatto saddo hoti.

But then winds came out my ears making a loud noise,

Seyyathāpi nāma kammāragaggariyā dhamamānāya adhimatto saddo hoti;

like the puffing of a blacksmith’s bellows.

evameva kho me, rājakumāra, mukhato ca nāsato ca assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu kaṇṇasotehi vātānaṃ nikkhamantānaṃ adhimatto saddo hoti.

Āraddhaṃ kho pana me, rājakumāra, vīriyaṃ hoti asallīnaṃ, upaṭṭhitā sati asammaṭṭhā, sāraddho ca pana me kāyo hoti
appaṭippassaddho, teneva dukkhappadhānena
padhānābhitunnassa sato.

My energy was roused up and unflagging, and my mindfulness was established and lucid, but my body was disturbed, not tranquil, because I'd pushed too hard with that painful striving.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

'yannūnāhaṃ appāṇakaṃyeva jhānaṃ jhāyeyyan'ti.

'Why don't I keep practicing the breathless absorption?'

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca assāsapassāse uparundhiṃ.

So I cut off my breathing through my mouth and nose and ears.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca
assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu adhimattā vātā muddhani ūhananti.

But then strong winds ground my head,

Seyyathāpi, rājakumāra, balavā puriso tiṅhena sikharena muddhani abhimattheyya;

like a strong man was drilling into my head with a sharp point.

evameva kho me, rājakumāra, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca
assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu adhimattā vātā muddhani
ūhananti.

Āraddhaṃ kho pana me, rājakumāra, vīriyaṃ hoti asallīnaṃ, upaṭṭhitā sati asammaṭṭhā, sāraddho ca pana me kāyo hoti
appaṭippassaddho, teneva dukkhappadhānena
padhānābhitunnassa sato.

My energy was roused up and unflagging, and my mindfulness was established and lucid, but my body was disturbed, not tranquil, because I'd pushed too hard with that painful striving.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘yannūnāhaṃ appāṇakaṃyeva jhānaṃ jhāyeyyan’ti.

‘Why don’t I keep practicing the breathless absorption?’

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca assāsapassāse uparundhiṃ.

So I cut off my breathing through my mouth and nose and ears.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu adhimattā sīse sīsavedanā
honti.

But then I got a severe headache,

Seyyathāpi, rājakumāra, balavā puriso daḷhena varattakkhaṇḍena sīse sīsaveṭhaṃ dadeyya; like a strong man was tightening a tough leather strap around my head.

evameva kho me, rājakumāra, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca
assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu adhimattā sīse sīsavedanā
honti.

Āraddhaṃ kho pana me, rājakumāra, vīriyaṃ hoti asallīnaṃ, upaṭṭhitā sati asammuṭṭhā, sāraddho ca pana me kāyo hoti
appaṭippassaddho, teneva dukkhappadhānena
padhānābhitunnassa sato.

My energy was roused up and unflagging, and my mindfulness was established and lucid, but my body was disturbed, not tranquil, because I’d pushed too hard with that painful striving.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘yannūnāhaṃ appāṇakaṃyeva jhānaṃ jhāyeyyan’ti.

‘Why don’t I keep practicing the breathless absorption?’

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca assāsapassāse uparundhiṃ.

So I cut off my breathing through my mouth and nose and ears.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca
assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu adhimattā vātā kucchim
parikantanti.

But then strong winds carved up my belly,

Seyyathāpi, rājakumāra, dakkho goghātako vā goghātakantevāsī vā tiṅhena govikantanena kucchim parikanteyya;

like a deft butcher or their apprentice was slicing my belly open with a meat cleaver.

evameva kho me, rājakumāra, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca
assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu adhimattā, vātā kucchim
parikantanti.

Āraddhaṃ kho pana me, rājakumāra, vīriyaṃ hoti asallīnaṃ,
upaṭṭhitā sati asammuṭṭhā, sāraddho ca pana me kāyo hoti
appaṭippassaddho, teneva dukkhappadhānena
padhānābhitunnassa sato.

My energy was roused up and unflagging, and my mindfulness was established and lucid, but my body was disturbed, not tranquil, because I'd pushed too hard with that painful striving.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘yannūnāhaṃ appāṇakaṃyeva jhānaṃ jhāyeyyan’ti.

‘Why don’t I keep practicing the breathless absorption?’

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca assāsapassāse uparundhim.

So I cut off my breathing through my mouth and nose and ears.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca
assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu adhimatto kāyasmim dāho hoti.

But then there was an intense burning in my body,

Seyyathāpi, rājakumāra, dve balavanto purisā dubbalataram purisam nānābhāsu gahetvā aṅgārakāsuyā santāpeyyum samparitāpeyyum;

like two strong men grabbing a weaker man by the arms to burn and scorch him on a pit of glowing coals.

evameva kho me, rājakumāra, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca
assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu adhimatto kāyasmim dāho hoti.

Āraddham kho pana me, rājakumāra, vīriyam hoti asallīnam,
upaṭṭhitā sati asammuṭṭhā, sāraddho ca pana me kāyo hoti
appaṭippassaddho, teneva dukkhappadhānena
padhānābhitunnassa sato.

My energy was roused up and unflagging, and my mindfulness was established and lucid, but my body was disturbed, not tranquil, because I'd pushed too hard with that painful striving.

Apissu maṃ, rājakumāra, devatā disvā evamāhaṃsu:

Then some deities saw me and said,

‘kālaṅkato samaṇo gotamo’ti.

‘The ascetic Gotama is dead.’

Ekaccā devatā evamāhaṃsu:

Others said,

‘na kālaṅkato samaṇo gotamo, api ca kālam karotī’ti.

‘He’s not dead, but he’s dying.’

Ekaccā devatā evamāhaṃsu:

Others said,

‘na kālaṅkato samaṇo gotamo, nāpi kālam karoti. Araham samaṇo gotamo. Vihāro tveva so arahato evarūpo hotī’ti.

‘He’s not dead or dying. The ascetic Gotama is a perfected one, for that is how the perfected ones live.’

Tassa mayham, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘yannūnāhaṃ sabbaso āhārupacchedāya paṭipajjeyyan’ti.

‘Why don’t I practice completely cutting off food?’

Atha kho maṃ, rājakumāra, devatā upasaṅkamtivā etadavocum:

But deities came to me and said,

‘mā kho tvaṃ, mārīsa, sabbaso āhārupacchedāya paṭipajji.

‘Good sir, don’t practice totally cutting off food.

Sace kho tvaṃ, mārīsa, sabbaso āhārupacchedāya paṭipajjissasi, tassa te mayaṃ dibbaṃ ojaṃ lomakūpehi ajjhohāressāma, tāya tvaṃ yāpessasī’ti.

If you do, we’ll infuse divine nectar into your pores and you will live on that.’

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘ahañceva kho pana sabbaso ajajjitam paṭijāneyyam. Imā ca me devatā dibbaṃ ojaṃ lomakūpehi ajjhohāreyyum, tāya cāham yāpeyyam, taṃ mamassa musā’ti.

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, tā devatā paccācikkhāmi. ‘Halan’ti vadāmi.

So I dismissed those deities, saying, ‘There’s no need.’

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘yannūnāhaṃ thokaṃ thokaṃ āhāraṃ āhāreyyam pasataṃ pasataṃ, yadi vā muggayūsaṃ yadi vā kulatthayūsaṃ yadi vā kaḷāyayūsaṃ yadi vā hareṇukayūsan’ti.

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, thokaṃ thokaṃ āhāraṃ āhāresim pasataṃ pasataṃ, yadi vā muggayūsaṃ yadi vā kulatthayūsaṃ yadi vā kaḷāyayūsaṃ yadi vā hareṇukayūsaṃ.

So that's what I did,

Tassa mayham, rājakumāra, thokam thokam āhāram āhārayato pasatam pasatam, yadi vā muggayūsam yadi vā kulatthayūsam yadi vā kaḷāyayūsam yadi vā hareṇukayūsam, adhimattakasimānam patto kāyo hoti.

until my body became extremely emaciated.

Seyyathāpi nāma āsītikapabbāni vā kāḷapabbāni vā; evamevassu me aṅgapaccaṅgāni bhavanti tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, my limbs became like the joints of an eighty-year-old or a corpse, Seyyathāpi nāma oṭṭhapadam; evamevassu me ānisadam hoti tāyevappāhāratāya.

my bottom became like a camel's hoof,

Seyyathāpi nāma vaṭṭanāvaḷi; evamevassu me piṭṭhikaṇṭako uṇṇatāvanato hoti tāyevappāhāratāya.

my vertebrae stuck out like beads on a string,

Seyyathāpi nāma jarasālāya gopānasiyo oluggaviluggā bhavanti; evamevassu me phāsuliyo oluggaviluggā bhavanti tāyevappāhāratāya.

and my ribs were as gaunt as the broken-down rafters on an old barn.

Seyyathāpi nāma gambhīre udapāne udakatārakā gambhīragatā okkhāyikā dissanti; evamevassu me akkhikūpesu akkhitārakā gambhīragatā okkhāyikā dissanti tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, the gleam of my eyes sank deep in their sockets, like the gleam of water sunk deep down a well.

Seyyathāpi nāma tittakālābu āmakacchinno vātātapena samphuṭito hoti sammilāto; evamevassu me sīsacchavi samphuṭitā hoti sammilātā tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, my scalp shriveled and withered like a green bitter-gourd in the wind and sun.

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, ‘udaracchaviṃ parimasissāmī’ti piṭṭhikaṇṭakaṃyeva pariggaṇhāmi, ‘piṭṭhikaṇṭakaṃ parimasissāmī’ti udaracchaviṃyeva pariggaṇhāmi. Yāvassu me, rājakumāra, udaracchavi piṭṭhikaṇṭakaṃ allīnā hoti tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, the skin of my belly stuck to my backbone, so that when I tried to rub the skin of my belly I grabbed my backbone, and when I tried to rub my backbone I rubbed the skin of my belly.

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, ‘vaccaṃ vā muttaṃ vā karissāmī’ti tattheva avakujjo papatāmi tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, when I tried to urinate or defecate I fell face down right there.

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, imameva kāyaṃ assāsento pāṇinā gattāni anumajjāmi. Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, pāṇinā gattāni anumajjato pūtimūlāni lomāni kāyasmā papatanti tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, when I tried to relieve my body by rubbing my limbs with my hands, the hair, rotted at its roots, fell out.

Apissu maṃ, rājakumāra, manussā disvā evamāhaṃsu: ‘kāḷo samaṇo gotamo’ti,

Then some people saw me and said, ‘The ascetic Gotama is black.’

ekacce manussā evamāhaṃsu: ‘na kāḷo samaṇo gotamo, sāmo samaṇo gotamo’ti.

Some said, ‘He’s not black, he’s brown.’

Ekacce manussā evamāhaṃsu: ‘na kāḷo samaṇo gotamo, napi sāmo, maṅguracchavi samaṇo gotamo’ti.

Some said, ‘He’s neither black nor brown. The ascetic Gotama has tawny skin.’

Yāvassu me, rājakumāra, tāva parisuddho chavivaṇṇo pariyodāto upahato hoti tāyevappāhāratāya.

That’s how far the pure, bright complexion of my skin had been ruined by taking so little food.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘ye kho keci atītamaddhānaṃ samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā opakkamikā dukkhā tikkhā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayimsu, etāvaparamaṃ nayito bhiyyo.

‘Whatever ascetics and brahmins have experienced painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings due to overexertion—whether in the past, future, or present—this is as far as it goes, no-one has done more than this.

Yepi hi keci anāgatamaddhānaṃ samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā opakkamikā dukkhā tikkhā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayissanti, etāvaparamaṃ nayito bhiyyo.

Yepi hi keci etarahi samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā opakkamikā dukkhā tikkhā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayanti, etāvaparamaṃ nayito bhiyyo.

Na kho panāhaṃ imāya kaṭukāya dukkarakārikāya adhigacchāmi uttari manussadhammā alamariyaññadassanavisesaṃ;

But I have not achieved any superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones by this severe, gruelling work.

siyā nu kho añño maggo bodhāyā’ti.

Could there be another path to awakening?’

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘abhijānāmi kho panāhaṃ pitu sakkassa kammante sītāya jambucchāyāya nisinno vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajāṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharitā;

‘I recall sitting in the cool shade of the rose-apple tree while my father the Sakyan was off working. Quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, I entered and remained in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

siyā nu kho eso maggo bodhāyā'ti.

Could that be the path to awakening?'

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, satānusāri viññāṇaṃ ahosi:

Stemming from that memory came the realization:

'eseva maggo bodhāyā'ti.

'That is the path to awakening!'

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

'kiṃ nu kho ahaṃ tassa sukhasa bhāyāmi yaṃ taṃ sukhaṃ aññatreva kāmehi aññatra akusalehi dhammehī'ti?

'Why am I afraid of that pleasure, for it has nothing to do with sensual pleasures or unskillful qualities?'

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

'na kho ahaṃ tassa sukhasa bhāyāmi yaṃ taṃ sukhaṃ aññatreva kāmehi aññatra akusalehi dhammehī'ti.

'I'm not afraid of that pleasure, for it has nothing to do with sensual pleasures or unskillful qualities.'

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

'na kho taṃ sukaraṃ sukhaṃ adhigantum evaṃ adhimattakasimānaṃ pattakāyena. Yannūnāhaṃ oḷārikaṃ āhāraṃ āhāreyyaṃ odanakummāsaṃ'ti.

'I can't achieve that pleasure with a body so excessively emaciated. Why don't I eat some solid food, some rice and porridge?'

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, oḷārikaṃ āhāraṃ āhāresim odanakummāsaṃ.

So I ate some solid food.

Tena kho pana maṃ, rājakumāra, samayena pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū paccupaṭṭhitā honti:

Now at that time the five mendicants were attending on me, thinking, ‘yaṃ kho samaṇo gotamo dhammaṃ adhigamissati taṃ no ārocessatī’ti.

‘The ascetic Gotama will tell us of any truth that he realizes.’

Yato kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, oḷārikaṃ āhāraṃ āhāresim odanakummāsaṃ, atha me te pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū nibbija pakkamimsu:

But when I ate some solid food, they left disappointed in me, saying, ‘bāhulliko samaṇo gotamo padhānavibbhanto, āvatto bāhullāyā’ti.

So kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, oḷārikaṃ āhāraṃ āhāretvā balaṃ gahetvā vivicceva kāmehi ...pe... paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja vihāsim.

After eating solid food and gathering my strength, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, I entered and remained in the first absorption ...

Vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ... dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ ...

second absorption ...

tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ ...

third absorption ...

catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja vihāsim.

fourth absorption.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte pubbenivāsānussatiñāṇāya cittaṃ abhininnāmesim.

When my mind had immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—I extended it toward recollection of past lives.

So anekavihitam pubbenivāsam anussarāmi, seyyathidam—ekampi jātim dvepi jātiyo ...pe... iti sākāram sauddesam anekavihitam pubbenivāsam anussarāmi.

I recollected many past lives. That is: one, two, three, four, five, ten, twenty, thirty, forty, fifty, a hundred, a thousand, a hundred thousand rebirths; many eons of the world contracting, many eons of the world expanding, many eons of the world contracting and expanding. And so I recollected my many kinds of past lives, with features and details.

Ayam kho me, rājakumāra, rattiya paṭhame yāme paṭhamā

This was the first knowledge, which I achieved in the first watch of the night.

vijjā adhigatā, avijjā vihatā, vijjā uppannā; tamo vihato, āloko uppanno—yathā tam appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato.

Ignorance was destroyed and knowledge arose; darkness was destroyed and light arose, as happens for a meditator who is diligent, keen, and resolute.

So evam samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte sattānam cutūpapātañāyā cittam abhininnāmesim.

When my mind had immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—I extended it toward knowledge of the death and rebirth of sentient beings.

So dibbena cakkhunā visuddhena atikkantamānusakena satte passāmi cavamāne upapajjamāne hīne paṇīte suvaṇṇe dubbaṇṇe sugate duggate yathākammūpage satte pajānāmi ...
pe...

With clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, I saw sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. I understood how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds.

ayaṃ kho me, rājakumāra, rattiyā majjhime yāme dutiyā vijjā adhigatā, avijjā vihatā, vijjā uppannā; tamo vihato, āloko uppanno—yathā taṃ appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato.

This was the second knowledge, which I achieved in the middle watch of the night. Ignorance was destroyed and knowledge arose; darkness was destroyed and light arose, as happens for a meditator who is diligent, keen, and resolute.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte āsavānaṃ khayañāṇāya cittaṃ abhininnāmesim̐.

When my mind had immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—I extended it toward knowledge of the ending of defilements.

So ‘idaṃ dukkhaṃ’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsim̐ ...pe... ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsim̐; I truly understood: ‘This is suffering’ ... ‘This is the origin of suffering’ ... ‘This is the cessation of suffering’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering’.

‘ime āsavā’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsim̐ ...pe... ‘ayaṃ āsavanirodhagāminī paṭipadā’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsim̐. I truly understood: ‘These are defilements’ ... ‘This is the origin of defilements’ ... ‘This is the cessation of defilements’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of defilements’.

Tassa me evaṃ jānato evaṃ passato kāmāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccittha, bhavāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccittha, avijjāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccittha.

Knowing and seeing like this, my mind was freed from the defilements of sensuality, desire to be reborn, and ignorance.

Vimuttasmim̐ vimuttamiti ñāṇam̐ ahosi.

When it was freed, I knew it was freed.

‘Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā’ti abhaññasiṃ.

I understood: ‘Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.’

Ayaṃ kho me, rājakumāra, rattiyā pacchime yāme tatiyā

This was the third knowledge, which I achieved in the last watch of the night.

vijjā adhigatā, avijjā vihatā, vijjā uppannā; tamo vihato, āloko uppanno—yathā taṃ appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato.

Ignorance was destroyed and knowledge arose; darkness was destroyed and light arose, as happens for a meditator who is diligent, keen, and resolute.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘adhigato kho myāyaṃ dhammo gambhīro duddaso duranubodho santo paṇīto atakkāvacaro nipuṇo paṇḍitavedanīyo.

‘This principle I have discovered is deep, hard to see, hard to understand, peaceful, sublime, beyond the scope of reason, subtle, comprehensible to the astute.

Ālayarāmā kho panāyaṃ pajā ālayaratā ālayasammuditā.

But people like attachment, they love it and enjoy it.

Ālayarāmāya kho pana pajāya ālayaratāya ālayasammuditāya duddasaṃ idaṃ ṭhānaṃ yadidaṃ—idappaccayatāpaṭiccasamuppādo.

It's hard for them to see this thing; that is, specific conditionality, dependent origination.

Idampi kho ṭhānaṃ duddasaṃ—yadidaṃ sabbasaṅkhārasamatho sabbūpadhipaṭinissaggo taṇhākkhayo virāgo nirodho nibbānaṃ.

It's also hard for them to see this thing; that is, the stilling of all activities, the letting go of all attachments, the ending of craving, fading away, cessation, extinguishment.

Ahañceva kho pana dhammaṃ deseyyaṃ, pare ca me na ājāneyyumaṃ, so mamassa kilamatho, sā mamassa vihesā'ti.

And if I were to teach the Dhamma, others might not understand me, which would be wearying and troublesome for me.'

Apissu maṃ, rājakumāra, imā anacchariyā gāthāyo paṭibhaṃsu pubbe assutapubbā:

And then these verses, which were neither supernaturally inspired, nor learned before in the past, occurred to me:

'Kicchena me adhigataṃ,

'I've struggled hard to realize this,

halaṃ dāni pakāsituṃ;

enough with trying to explain it!

Rāgadosaparetehi,

This teaching is not easily understood nāyaṃ dhammo susambudho.

by those mired in greed and hate.

Paṭisotagāmiṃ nipuṇaṃ,

Those caught up in greed can't see gambhīraṃ duddasaṃ aṇuṃ;

what's subtle, going against the stream,

Rāgarattā na dakkhanti, deep, hard to see, and very fine, tamokhandhena āvuṭṭā'ti.

for they're shrouded in a mass of darkness.'

Itiha me, rājakumāra, paṭisañcikkhato appossukkatāya cittaṃ namati no dhammadesanāya.

And as I reflected like this, my mind inclined to remaining passive, not to teaching the Dhamma.

Atha kho, rājakumāra, brahmuno sahampatissa mama cetasā cetoparivitakkamaññāya etadahosi:

Then Brahmā Sahampati, knowing what I was thinking, thought,

'nassati vata bho loko; vinassati vata bho loko. Yatra hi nāma tathāgatassa arahato sammāsambuddhassa appossukkatāya cittaṃ namati no dhammadesanāyā'ti.

'Oh my goodness! The world will be lost, the world will perish! For the mind of the Realized One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha, inclines to remaining passive, not to teaching the Dhamma.'

Atha kho, rājakumāra, brahmā sahampati—seyyathāpi nāma balavā puriso samiñjitaṃ vā bāhaṃ pasāreyya pasāritaṃ vā bāhaṃ samiñjeyya; evameva—brahmaloke antarahito mama purato pāturahosi.

Then Brahmā Sahampati, as easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, vanished from the Brahmā realm and reappeared in front of me.

Atha kho, rājakumāra, brahmā sahampati ekaṃsaṃ uttarāsaṅgaṃ karitvā yenāhaṃ tenañjaliṃ paṇāmetvā maṃ etadavoca:

He arranged his robe over one shoulder, knelt on his right knee, raised his joined palms toward me, and said,

'desetu, bhante, bhagavā dhammaṃ, desetu sugato dhammaṃ.

‘Sir, let the Blessed One teach the Dhamma! Let the Holy One teach the Dhamma!

Santi sattā apparajakkhajātikā assavanatāya dhammassa parihāyanti;

There are beings with little dust in their eyes. They’re in decline because they haven’t heard the teaching.

bhavissanti dhammassa aññātāro’ti.

There will be those who understand the teaching!’

Idamavoca, rājakumāra, brahmā sahampati;

That’s what Brahmā Sahampati said.

idaṃ vatvā athāparaṃ etadavoca:

Then he went on to say:

‘Pāturahosi magadhesu pubbe,

‘Among the Magadhans there appeared in the past

Dhammo asuddho samalehi cintito; an impure teaching thought up by those still stained.

Apāpuretaṃ amatassa dvāraṃ,

Fling open the door to the deathless!

Suṇantu dhammaṃ vimalenānubuddhaṃ.

Let them hear the teaching the immaculate one discovered.

Sele yathā pabbatamuddhaniṭṭhito,

Standing high on a rocky mountain,

Yathāpi passe janataṃ samantato;

you can see the people all around.

Tathūpamaṃ dhammamayaṃ sumedha,

In just the same way, all-seer, wise one,

Pāsādamāruyha samantacakkhu.

having ascended the Temple of Truth,

Sokāvatiṇṇaṃ janatamapetasoko, rid of sorrow, look upon the people

Avekkhassu jātijarābhibhūtaṃ; swamped with sorrow, oppressed by rebirth and old age.

Uṭṭhehi vīra vijitasāṅgāma, Rise, hero! Victor in battle, leader of the caravan,

Satthavāha aṇaṇa vicara loke;
wander the world without obligation.

Desassu bhagavā dhammaṃ,
Let the Blessed One teach the Dhamma!

Aññātāro bhavissantī'ti.
There will be those who understand!

Atha khvāhaṃ, rājakumāra, brahmuno ca ajjhesanaṃ veditvā

Then, understanding Brahmā's invitation, I surveyed the world with the eye of a Buddha, because of my compassion for sentient beings.

And I saw sentient beings with little dust in their eyes, and some with much dust in their eyes; with keen faculties and with weak faculties, with good qualities and with bad qualities, easy to teach and hard to teach. And some of them lived seeing the danger in the fault to do with the next world, while others did not.

Atha khvāhaṁ, rājakumāra, brahmānaṁ sahampatiṁ gāthāya

Then I replied in verse to Brahmā Sahampati:

‘Apārutā tesam amatassa dvārā, ‘Flung open are the doors to the deathless!

Ye sotavanto pamuñcantu saddham;
Let those with ears to hear decide their faith.

Vihimsasaññī paguṇam na bhāsim,
Thinking it would be troublesome, Brahmā, I did not teach Dhammam paṇītam manujesu brahme’ti.

the sophisticated, sublime Dhamma among humans.’

Atha kho, rājakumāra, brahmā sahampati ‘katāvakāso khomhi

Then Brahmā Sahampati, knowing that his request for me to teach the Dhamma had been granted, bowed and respectfully circled me, keeping me on his right, before vanishing right there.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘kassa nu kho ahaṃ paṭhamaṃ dhammaṃ deseyyaṃ?’

‘Who should I teach first of all?’

Ko imaṃ dhammaṃ khippameva ājānissatī’ti?

Who will quickly understand the teaching?’

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘ayaṃ kho āḷāro kālāmo paṇḍito viyatto medhāvī dīgharattaṃ apparajakkhajātiko.

‘That Āḷāra Kālāma is astute, competent, clever, and has long had little dust in his eyes.

Yannūnāhaṃ āḷārassa kālāmassa paṭhamaṃ dhammaṃ deseyyaṃ;

Why don’t I teach him first of all?’

so imaṃ dhammaṃ khippameva ājānissatī’ti.

He’ll quickly understand the teaching.’

Atha kho maṃ, rājakumāra, devatā upasaṅkamtivā etadavoca:

But a deity came to me and said,

‘sattāhakālaṅkato, bhante, āḷāro kālāmo’ti.

‘Sir, Āḷāra Kālāma passed away seven days ago.’

Ñāṇaṅca pana me dassanaṃ udapādi:

And knowledge and vision arose in me,

‘sattāhakālaṅkato āḷāro kālāmo’ti.

‘Āḷāra Kālāma passed away seven days ago.’

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘mahājāniyo kho āḷāro kālāmo.

‘This is a great loss for Āḷāra Kālāma.

Sace hi so imaṃ dhammaṃ suṇeyya, khippameva ājāneyyā’ti.

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘kassa nu kho ahaṃ paṭhamam dhammaṃ deseyyam?’

‘Who should I teach first of all?’

Ko imaṃ dhammaṃ khippameva ājānissatī’ti?

Tassa mayhaṃ, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘ayaṃ kho udako rāmaputto paṇḍito viyatto medhāvī

‘That Uddaka, son of Rāma, is astute, competent, clever, and has long had little dust in his eyes.

Yannūnāhaṃ udakassa rāmaputtassa paṭhamam dhammaṃ

Why don’t I teach him first of all?

so imaṃ dhammaṃ khippameva ājānissatī’ti.

Atha kho maṃ, rājakumāra, devatā upasaṅkamtivā etadavoca:

But a deity came to me and said,

‘abhidosakālaṅkato, bhante, udako rāmaputto’ti.

‘Sir, Uddaka, son of Rāma, passed away just last night.’

Ñāṇaṅca pana me dassanaṃ udapādi:

And knowledge and vision arose in me,

‘abhidosakālaṅkato udako rāmaputto’ti.

‘Uddaka, son of Rāma, passed away just last night.’

Tassa mayham, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘mahājāniyo kho udako rāmaputto.

‘This is a great loss for Uddaka.

Tassa mayham, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘kassa nu kho aham paṭhamam dhammam deseeyam?’

‘Who should I teach first of all?’

Ko imam dhammam khippameva ājānissatī’ti?

Tassa mayham, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘bahukārā kho me pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū ye mam padhānapahitattam upaṭṭhahimsu.

‘The group of five mendicants were very helpful to me. They looked after me during my time of resolute striving.

Yannūnāham pañcavaggiyānam bhikkhūnam paṭhamam dhammam deseeyan’ti.

Why don’t I teach them first of all?’

Tassa mayham, rājakumāra, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘kham nu kho etarahi pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū viharantī’ti.

‘Where are the group of five mendicants staying these days?’

Addasam khvāham, rājakumāra, dibbena cakkhunā visuddhena atikkantamānusakena pañcavaggiye bhikkhū bārāṇasiyam viharante isipatane migadāye.

With clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman I saw that the group of five mendicants were staying near Benares, in the deer park at Isipatana.

Atha khvāhaṃ, rājakumāra, uruvelāyaṃ yathābhirantaṃ vihāritvā yena bārāṇasī tena cārikaṃ pakkamiṃ.

So, when I had stayed in Uruvelā as long as I wished, I set out for Benares.

Addasā kho maṃ, rājakumāra, upako ājīvako antarā ca gayāṃ antarā ca bodhiṃ addhānamaggappaṭipannaṃ.

While I was traveling along the road between Gaya and Bodhgaya, the Ājīvaka ascetic Upaka saw me

Disvāna maṃ etadavoca:

and said,

‘vip̐pasannāni kho te, āvuso, indriyāni, parisuddho chavivaṇṇo pariyodāto.

‘Reverend, your faculties are so very clear, and your complexion is pure and bright.

Kaṃsi tvaṃ, āvuso, uddissa pabbajito? Ko vā te satthā? Kassa vā tvaṃ dhammaṃ rocesī’ti?

In whose name have you gone forth, reverend? Who is your Teacher? Whose teaching do you believe in?’

Evaṃ vutte, ahaṃ, rājakumāra, upakaṃ ājīvakaṃ gāthāhi ajjhabhāsīṃ:

I replied to Upaka in verse:

‘Sabbābhibhū sabbavidūhamasmi,

‘I am the champion, the knower of all,

Sabbesu dhammesu anūpalitto;

unsullied among all things.

Sabbañjaho taṇhākkhaye vimutto,

I’ve given up all, freed in the ending of craving.

Sayaṃ abhiññāya kamuddiseyyaṃ.

Since I know for myself, whose follower should I be?

Na me ācariyo atthi,

I have no teacher.

sadiso me na vijjati;

There is no-one like me.

Sadevakasmiṃ lokasmiṃ,

In the world with its gods, natthi me paṭipuggalo.

I have no counterpart.

Ahañhi arahā loke,

For in this world, I am the perfected one;

ahaṃ satthā anuttaro;

I am the supreme Teacher.

Ekomhi sammāsambuddho,

I alone am fully awakened, sītibhūtosmi nibbuto.

cooled, extinguished.

Dhammacakkaṃ pavattetuṃ,

I am going to the city of Kāsi

Gacchāmi kāsinaṃ puraṃ;

to roll forth the Wheel of Dhamma.

Andhībhūtasmiṃ lokasmiṃ,

In this world that is so blind,

Āhañchaṃ amatadundubhin'ti.

I'll beat the deathless drum!

'Yathā kho tvaṃ, āvuso, paṭijānāsi arahasi anantajino'ti.

‘According to what you claim, reverend, you ought to be the Infinite Victor.’

‘Mādisā ve jinā honti,
‘The victors are those who, like me,
ye pattā āsavakkhayaṃ;
have reached the ending of defilements.
Jitā me pāpakā dhammā,
I have conquered bad qualities, Upaka—tasmāhamupaka jino’ti.
that’s why I’m a victor.’

Evaṃ vutte, rājakumāra, upako ājīvako ‘hupeyyapāvuso’ti vatvā sīsaṃ okampetvā ummaggaṃ gahetvā pakkāmi.
When I had spoken, Upaka said: ‘If you say so, reverend.’ Shaking his head, he took a wrong turn and left.

Atha khvāhaṃ, rājakumāra, anupubbena cārikaṃ caramāno yena bārāṇasī isipatanaṃ migadāyo yena pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū tenupasaṅkamim.
Traveling stage by stage, I arrived at Benares, and went to see the group of five mendicants in the deer park at Isipatana.

Addasaṃsu kho maṃ, rājakumāra, pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū dūratova āgacchantam.
The group of five mendicants saw me coming off in the distance

Disvāna aññamaññaṃ saṅghapesuṃ:
and stopped each other, saying,

‘ayaṃ kho, āvuso, samaṇo gotamo āgacchati bāhulliko padhānavibbhanto āvatto bāhullāya.

‘Here comes the ascetic Gotama. He’s so indulgent; he strayed from the struggle and returned to indulgence.’

So neva abhivādetabbo, na paccuṭṭhātabbo, nāssa pattacīvaram paṭiggahetabbaṃ;

We shouldn't bow to him or rise for him or receive his bowl and robe.

api ca kho āsanam ṭhapetabbaṃ—sace so ākaṅkhissati nisīdissatī'ti.

But we can set out a seat; he can sit if he likes.'

Yathā yathā kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, pañcavaggiye bhikkhū upasaṅkamim tathā tathā pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū nāsakkhimsu sakāya katikāya saṅghātuṃ.

Yet as I drew closer, the group of five mendicants were unable to stop themselves as they had agreed.

Appekacce maṃ paccuggantvā pattacīvaram paṭiggahesuṃ.
Appekacce āsanam paññapesuṃ. Appekacce pādodakam upaṭṭhapesuṃ.

Some came out to greet me and receive my bowl and robe, some spread out a seat, while others set out water for washing my feet.

Api ca kho maṃ nāmena ca āvusovādena ca samudācaranti.

But they still addressed me by name and as 'reverend'.

Evaṃ vutte, ahaṃ, rājakumāra, pañcavaggiye bhikkhū etadavocaṃ:

So I said to them,

'mā, bhikkhave, tathāgataṃ nāmena ca āvusovādena ca samudācaratha;

'Mendicants, don't address me by name and as "reverend".

arahaṃ, bhikkhave, tathāgato sammāsambuddho.

The Realized One is Perfected, a fully awakened Buddha.

Odahatha, bhikkhave, sotaṃ. Amatamadhigataṃ ahamanusāsāmi, ahaṃ dhammaṃ desemi.

Listen up, mendicants: I have achieved the Deathless! I shall instruct you, I will teach you the Dhamma.

Yathānusiṭṭhaṃ tathā paṭipajjamānā nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaraṃ—brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharissathā’ti.

By practicing as instructed you will soon realize the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. You will live having achieved with your own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.’

Evaṃ vutte, rājakumāra, pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū maṃ etadavocuṃ:

But they said to me,

‘tāyapi kho tvaṃ, āvuso gotama, iriyāya tāya paṭipadāya tāya dukkarakārikāya nājjhagamā uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ; kiṃ pana tvaṃ etarahi bāhulliko padhānavibbhanto āvatto bāhullāya adhigamissasi uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ’ti?

‘Reverend Gotama, even by that conduct, that practice, that grueling work you did not achieve any superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones. How could you have achieved such a state now that you’ve become indulgent, strayed from the struggle and fallen into indulgence?’

Evaṃ vutte, ahaṃ, rājakumāra, pañcavaggiye bhikkhū etadavocaṃ:

So I said to them,

‘na, bhikkhave, tathāgato bāhulliko na padhānavibbhanto na āvatto bāhullāya.

‘The Realized One has not become indulgent, strayed from the struggle and fallen into indulgence.

Arahaṃ, bhikkhave, tathāgato sammāsambuddho.

The Realized One is Perfected, a fully awakened Buddha.

Odahatha, bhikkhave, sotaṃ. Amatamadhigataṃ ahamanusāsāmi, ahaṃ dhammaṃ desemi.

Listen up, mendicants: I have achieved the Deathless! I shall instruct you, I will teach you the Dhamma.

Yathānusiṭṭhaṃ tathā paṭipajjamānā nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaraṃ—brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharissathā’ti.

By practicing as instructed you will soon realize the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. You will live having achieved with your own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.’

Dutiyampi kho, rājakumāra, pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū maṃ
etadavocaṃ:

But for a second time they said to me,

‘tāyapi kho tvaṃ, āvuso gotama, iriyāya tāya paṭipadāya tāya dukkarakārikāya nājjhagamā uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ; kiṃ pana tvaṃ etarahi bāhulliko padhānavibbhanto āvatto bāhullāya adhigamissasi uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ’ti?

‘Reverend Gotama ... you’ve fallen into indulgence.’

Dutiyampi kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, pañcavaggiye bhikkhū
etadavocaṃ:

So for a second time I said to them,

‘na, bhikkhave, tathāgato bāhulliko na padhānavibbhanto na āvatto bāhullāya.

‘The Realized One has not become indulgent ...’

Arahaṃ, bhikkhave, tathāgato sammāsambuddho.

Odahatha, bhikkhave, sotaṃ. Amatamadhigataṃ
ahamanusāsāmi, ahaṃ dhammaṃ desemi.

Yathānusiṭṭhaṃ tathā paṭipajjamānā nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaraṃ—brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharissathā’ti.

Tatiyampi kho, rājakumāra, pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū maṃ etadavocuṃ:

But for a third time they said to me,

‘tāyapi kho tvaṃ, āvuso gotama, iriyāya tāya paṭipadāya tāya dukkarakārikāya nājjhagamā uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ; kiṃ pana tvaṃ etarahi bāhulliko padhānavibbhanto āvatto bāhullāya adhighamissasi uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ’ti?

‘Reverend Gotama ... you’ve fallen into indulgence.’

Evaṃ vutte, ahaṃ, rājakumāra, pañcavaggiye bhikkhū etadavocaṃ:

So I said to them,

‘abhijānātha me no tumhe, bhikkhave, ito pubbe evarūpaṃ pabhāvitametā’ti?

‘Mendicants, have you ever known me to speak like this before?’

‘No hetāṃ, bhante’.

‘No, sir.’

‘Arahaṃ, bhikkhave, tathāgato sammāsambuddho.

‘The Realized One is Perfected, a fully awakened Buddha.

Odahatha, bhikkhave, sotaṃ. Amatamadhighataṃ ahamanusāsāmi, ahaṃ dhammaṃ desemi.

Listen up, mendicants: I have achieved the Deathless! I shall instruct you, I will teach you the Dhamma.

Yathānusiṭṭhaṃ tathā paṭipajjamānā nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaram—brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharissathā'ti.

By practicing as instructed you will soon realize the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. You will live having achieved with your own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.'

Asakkhiṃ kho ahaṃ, rājakumāra, pañcavaggiye bhikkhū saññāpetuṃ.

I was able to persuade the group of five mendicants.

Dvepi sudam, rājakumāra, bhikkhū ovaḍāmi. Tayo bhikkhū piṇḍāya caranti.

Then sometimes I advised two mendicants, while the other three went for alms.

Yaṃ tayo bhikkhū piṇḍāya caritvā āharanti, tena chabbaggiyā yāpema.

Then those three would feed all six of us with what they brought back.

Tayopi sudam, rājakumāra, bhikkhū ovaḍāmi, dve bhikkhū piṇḍāya caranti.

Sometimes I advised three mendicants, while the other two went for alms.

Yaṃ dve bhikkhū piṇḍāya caritvā āharanti tena chabbaggiyā yāpema.

Then those two would feed all six of us with what they brought back.

Atha kho, rājakumāra, pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū mayā evaṃ ovadiyamānā evaṃ anusāsiyamānā nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaram—brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharimsū'ti.

As the group of five mendicants were being advised and instructed by me like this, they soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. They lived having achieved with their own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.”

Evaṃ vutte, bodhi rājakumāro bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, Prince Bodhi said to the Buddha,

“kīva cirena nu kho, bhante, bhikkhu tathāgataṃ vināyakaṃ labhamāno—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaraṃ—brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihareyyā”ti?

“Sir, when a mendicant has the Realized One as trainer, how long would it take for them to realize the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life?”

“Tena hi, rājakumāra, taṃyevettha paṭipucchissāmi. Yathā te khameyya, tathā naṃ byākareyyāsi.

“Well then, prince, I’ll ask you about this in return, and you can answer as you like.

Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, rājakumāra,

What do you think, prince?

kusalo tvaṃ hatthārūḷhe aṅkusagayhe sippe”ti?

Are you skilled in the art of wielding a hooked goad while riding an elephant?”

“Evaṃ, bhante, kusalo ahaṃ hatthārūḷhe aṅkusagayhe sippe”ti.

“Yes, sir.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, rājakumāra,

“What do you think, prince?

idha puriso āgaccheyya:

Suppose a man were to come along thinking,

‘bodhi rājakumāro hatthārūḷhaṃ aṅkusagayhaṃ sippaṃ jānāti;

I’ll train in that art under him.’

So cassa assaddho;

If he’s faithless, yāvatakaṃ saddhena pattabbaṃ taṃ na sampāpuṇeyya.

he wouldn’t achieve what he could with faith.

So cassa bahvābādho;

If he’s unhealthy,

yāvatakaṃ appābādgena pattabbaṃ taṃ na sampāpuṇeyya.

he wouldn’t achieve what he could with good health.

So cassa saṭho māyāvī;

If he’s devious or deceitful,

yāvatakaṃ asaṭhena amāyāvinā pattabbaṃ taṃ na

So cassa kusīto;

If he’s lazy,

yāvatakaṃ āraddhavīriyena pattabbaṃ taṃ na sampāpuṇeyya.

he wouldn’t achieve what he could with energy.

So cassa duppañño;

If he’s stupid, yāvatakaṃ paññavatā pattabbaṃ taṃ na sampāpuṇeyya.

he wouldn’t achieve what he could with wisdom.

Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, rājakumāra,

What do you think, prince?

api nu so puriso tava santike hatthārūḷhaṃ aṅkusagayhaṃ sippaṃ sikkheyyā”ti?

Could that man still train under you in the art of wielding a hooked goad while riding an elephant?”

“Ekamekenāpi, bhante, aṅgena samannāgato so puriso na mama santike hatthārūḷhaṃ aṅkusagayhaṃ sippaṃ sikkheyya, ko pana vādo pañcahaṅgehī”ti.

“Sir, if he had even a single one of these factors he couldn’t train under me, let alone all five.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, rājakumāra,

“What do you think, prince?

idha puriso āgaccheyya:

Suppose a man were to come along thinking,

‘bodhi rājakumāro hatthārūḷhaṃ aṅkusagayhaṃ sippaṃ jānāti;

So cassa saddho;

If he’s faithful,

yāvatakaṃ saddhena pattabbaṃ taṃ sampāpuṇeyya.

he’d achieve what he could with faith.

So cassa appābādho;

If he’s healthy,

yāvatakaṃ appābādhena pattabbaṃ taṃ sampāpuṇeyya.

he’d achieve what he could with good health.

So cassa asaṭṭho amāyāvī;

If he’s honest and has integrity, yāvatakaṃ asaṭhena amāyāvinā pattabbaṃ taṃ sampāpuṇeyya.

he'd achieve what he could with honesty and integrity.

So cassa āraddhavīriyo;
If he's energetic,

yāvatakaṃ āraddhavīriyena pattabbaṃ taṃ sampāpuṇeyya.
he'd achieve what he could with energy.

So cassa paññavā;
If he's wise,

yāvatakaṃ paññavatā pattabbaṃ taṃ sampāpuṇeyya.
he'd achieve what he could with wisdom.

Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, rājakumāra,
What do you think, prince?

“Sir, if he had even a single one of these factors he could train under me, let alone all five.”

“Evameva kho, rājakumāra, pañcimāni padhāniyaṅgāni.

“In the same way, prince, there are these five factors that support meditation.

Katamāni pañca?
What five?

Idha, rājakumāra, bhikkhu saddho hoti; saddahati tathāgatassa bodhiṃ:

It's when a noble disciple has faith in the Realized One's awakening:

‘itipi so bhagavā arahaṃ sammāsambuddho
vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro
purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānaṃ buddho
bhagavā’ti;

appābādhō hoti appātaṅko samavepākiniyā gahaṇiyā samannāgato nātisītāya nāccuṇhāya majjhimāya
padhānakkhamāya;

They are rarely ill or unwell. Their stomach digests well, being neither too hot nor too cold, but just right, and fit for meditation.

asaṭṭho hoti amāyāvī yathābhūtaṃ attānaṃ āvikattā satthari vā viññūsu vā sabrahmacārīsu;

They’re not devious or deceitful. They reveal themselves honestly to the Teacher or sensible spiritual companions.

āraddhavīriyo viharati akusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ pahānāya kusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ upasampadāya, thāmaṃ vā daḥaparakkamo anikkhittadhuro kusalesu dhammesu;

They live with energy roused up for giving up unskillful qualities and embracing skillful qualities. They’re strong, staunchly vigorous, not slacking off when it comes to developing skillful qualities.

paññavā hoti udayatthagāminiyā paññāya samannāgato ariyāya nibbedhikāya sammādukkhakkhayagāminiyā.

They’re wise. They have the wisdom of arising and passing away which is noble, penetrative, and leads to the complete ending of suffering.

When he had spoken, Prince Bodhi said to the Buddha,

86. Aṅgulimālasutta With Aṅgulimāla

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena rañño pasenadissa kosalassa vijite coro aṅgulimālo nāma hoti luddo lohitaṇṇi hatapahate nivittḥo adayāpanno paṇabhūtesu.

Now at that time in the realm of King Pasenadi of Kosala there was a bandit named Aṅgulimāla. He was violent, bloody-handed, a hardened killer, merciless to living beings.

Tena gāmāpi agāmā katā, nigamāpi anigamā katā, janapadāpi ajanapadā katā.

He laid waste to villages, towns, and countries.

So manusse vadhitvā vadhitvā aṅgulīnaṃ mālaṃ dhāreti.

He was constantly murdering people, and he wore their fingers as a necklace.

Atha kho bhagava pubbaṇhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya savatthim piṇḍāya pāvisi.

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Sāvattihī for alms.

Sāvattiyaṃ piṇḍāya caritvā pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātaṭikkanto senāsanāṃ saṃsāmetvā pattacīvaramādāya yena coro aṅgulimālo tenaddhānamaggaṃ paṭipajji.

Then, after the meal, on his return from alms-round, he set his lodgings in order and, taking his bowl and robe, he walked down the road that led to Aṅgulimāla.

Addasāsuṃ kho gopālakā pasupālakā kassakā pathāvino bhagavantaṃ yena coro aṅgulimālo tenaddhānamaggapaṭipannaṃ.

The cowherds, shepherds, farmers, and travelers saw him on the road,

Disvāna bhagavantaṃ etadavocum:
and said to him,

“mā, samaṇa, etaṃ maggaṃ paṭipajji.
“Don’t take this road, ascetic.

Etasmim, samaṇa, magge coro aṅgulimālo nāma luddo

On this road there is a bandit named Aṅgulimāla. He is violent, bloody-handed, a hardened killer, merciless to living beings.

Tena gāmāpi agāmā katā, nigamāpi anigamā katā, janapadāpi
ajanapadā katā.

He has laid waste to villages, towns, and countries.

So manusse vadhivā vadhivā aṅgulīnaṃ mālaṃ dhāreti.

He is constantly murdering people, and he wears their fingers as a necklace.

Etañhi, samaṇa, maggaṃ dasapi purisā vīsampi purisā

Tepi corassa aṅgulimālassa hatthattham̃ gacchantī”ti.

Still they meet their end by Aṅgulimāla’s hand.”

Evam̃ vutte, bhagavā tuṅhībhūto agamāsi.

But when they said this, the Buddha went on in silence.

Dutiyampi kho gopālakā ...pe...

For a second time ...

tatiyampi kho gopālakā pasupālakā kassakā pathāvino and a third time, they urged the Buddha to turn back.

“mā, samaṇa, etam̃ maggam̃ paṭipajji, etasmim̃ samaṇa magge

So manusse vadhitvā vadhitvā aṅgulīnam̃ mālam̃ dhāreti.

Etañhi samaṇa maggam̃ dasapi purisā vīsampi purisā timsampi

Tepi corassa aṅgulimālassa hatthattham̃ gacchantī”ti.

Atha kho bhagavā tuṅhībhūto agamāsi.

But when they said this, the Buddha went on in silence.

Addasā kho coro aṅgulimālo bhagavantam̃ dūratova

The bandit Aṅgulimāla saw the Buddha coming off in the distance,

Disvānassa etadahosi:

and thought,

“acchariyam̃ vata bho, abbhutam̃ vata bho.

Imañhi maggaṃ dasapi purisā vīsampi purisā tiṃsampi purisā cattārīsampi purisā paññāsampi purisā saṅkaritvā saṅkaritvā paṭipajjanti.

People travel along this road only after banding closely together in groups of ten, twenty, thirty, forty, or fifty.

Tepi mama hatthatthaṃ gacchanti.

Still they meet their end by my hand.

Atha ca panāyaṃ samaṇo eko adutiyo pasayha maññe āgacchati.

But still this ascetic comes along alone and unaccompanied, like he had beaten me already.

Yannūnāhaṃ imaṃ samaṇaṃ jīvitā voropeyyan”ti.

Why don't I take his life?"

Atha kho coro aṅgulimālo asicammaṃ gahetvā dhanukalāpaṃ sannayhitvā bhagavantaṃ piṭṭhito piṭṭhito anubandhi.

Then Aṅgulimāla donned his sword and shield, fastened his bow and arrows, and followed behind the Buddha.

Atha kho bhagavā tathārūpaṃ iddhābhisaṅkhāraṃ abhisaṅkhāsi yathā coro aṅgulimālo bhagavantaṃ pakatiyā gacchantaṃ sabbathāmena gacchanto na sakkoti sampāpuṇitum.

But the Buddha used his psychic power to will that Aṅgulimāla could not catch up with him no matter how hard he tried, even though the Buddha kept walking at a normal speed.

Atha kho corassa aṅgulimālassa etadahosi:

Then Aṅgulimāla thought,

“acchariyaṃ vata bho, abbhutaṃ vata bho.

“It's incredible, it's amazing!

Previously, even when I've chased a speeding elephant, horse, chariot or deer, I've always caught up with them.

atha ca panāhaṃ imaṃ samaṇaṃ pakatiyā gacchantam sabbathāmena gacchanto na sakkomi sampāpuṇitun”ti.

But I can't catch up with this ascetic no matter how hard I try, even though he's walking at a normal speed.”

Ṭhitova bhagavantam etadavoca:

He stood still and said,

“tiṭṭha, tiṭṭha, samaṇā”ti.

“Stop, stop, ascetic!”

“Ṭhito ahaṃ, aṅgulimāla, tvaṅca tiṭṭhā”ti.

“I've stopped, Aṅgulimāla—now you stop.”

Atha kho corassa aṅgulimālassa etadahosi:

Then Aṅgulimāla thought,

“ime kho samaṇā sakyaputtiyā saccavādino saccapaṭiñṇā.

“These Sakyan ascetics speak the truth.

Atha panāyaṃ samaṇo gacchaṃ yevāha:

Yet while walking the ascetic Gotama says:

‘ṭhito ahaṃ, aṅgulimāla, tvaṅca tiṭṭhā’ti.

‘I've stopped, Aṅgulimāla—now you stop.’

Yannūnāhaṃ imaṃ samaṇaṃ puccheyyan”ti.

Why don't I ask him about this?”

Atha kho coro aṅgulimālo bhagavantam gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:

Then he addressed the Buddha in verse:

“Gacchaṃ vadesi samaṇa ṭhitomhi,

“While walking, ascetic, you say ‘I've stopped.’

Mamañca brūsi ʘhitamaṭṭhitoti;

And I have stopped, but you tell me I've not.

Pucchāmi taṃ samaṇa etamatthaṃ,

I'm asking you this, ascetic:

how is it you've stopped and I have not?"

"ʘhito ahaṃ aṅgulimāla sabbadā,

"Aṅgulimāla, I have forever stopped—that's why I've stopped, but you have not."

"Cirassaṃ vata me mahito mahesī,

"Oh, at long last a hermit,

Now that I've heard your verse on Dhamma,

Sutvāna gāthaṃ tava dhammayuttaṃ".

I shall live without evil."

Itveva coro asimāvudhañca,

With these words, the bandit hurled his sword and weapons

Sobbhe papāte narake akiri;

down a cliff into a chasm.

Avandi coro sugatassa pāde,

He venerated the Holy One's feet,

Tattheva nam pabbajam ayāci.

and asked him for the going forth right away.

Buddho ca kho kāruṇiko mahesi,

Then the Buddha, the compassionate great hermit,

Yo satthā lokassa sadevakassa;

the teacher of the world with its gods,

“Tamehi bhikkhū”ti tadā avoca, said to him, “Come, monk!”

Eseva tassa ahu bhikkhubhāvoti.

And with that he became a monk.

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmatā aṅgulimālena pacchāsamaṇena

Then the Buddha set out for Sāvattī with Venerable Aṅgulimāla as his second monk.

Anupubbena cārikaṃ caramāno yena sāvatti tadavasari.

Traveling stage by stage, he arrived at Sāvattī,

Tatra sudam bhagavā sāvattiyam viharati jetavane where he stayed in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena rañño pasenadissa kosalassa antepuradvāre mahājanakāyo sannipatitvā uccāsaddo mahāsaddo hoti:

Now at that time a crowd had gathered by the gate of King Pasenadi’s royal compound making a dreadful racket,

“coro te, deva, vijite aṅgulimālo nāma luddo lohitapāṇi

He has laid waste to villages, towns, and countries.

So manusse vadhivā vadhivā aṅgulīnaṃ mālaṃ dhāreti.

He is constantly murdering people, and he wears their fingers as a necklace.

Taṃ devo paṭisedhetū”ti.

Your Majesty must put a stop to him!”

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo pañcamattehi assasatehi sāvattiyā nikkhami divā divassa.

Then King Pasenadi drove out from Sāvattihī in the middle of the day with around five hundred horses, heading for the monastery.

Yāvatikā yānassa bhūmi yānena gantvā yānā paccorohitvā pattikova yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho rājānaṃ pasenadiṃ kosalaṃ bhagavā etadavoca:

He went by carriage as far as the terrain allowed, then descended and approached the Buddha on foot. He bowed and sat down to one side. The Buddha said to him, “kiṃ nu te, mahārāja, rājā vā māgadho seniyo bimbisāro kupito vesālikā vā licchavī aññe vā paṭirājāno”ti?

“What is it, great king? Is King Seniya Bimbisāra of Magadha angry with you, or the Licchavis of Vesālī, or some other opposing ruler?”

“Na kho me, bhante, rājā māgadho seniyo bimbisāro kupito, nāpi vesālikā licchavī, nāpi aññe paṭirājāno.

“No, sir.

Coro me, bhante, vijite aṅgulimālo nāma luddo lohitapāṇi hatapahate nivittṭho adayāpanno pāṇabhūtesu.

In my realm there is a bandit named Aṅgulimāla. He is violent, bloody-handed, a hardened killer, merciless to living beings. ...

Tena gāmāpi agāmā katā, nigamāpi anigamā katā, janapadāpi ajanapadā katā.

So manusse vadhitvā vadhitvā aṅgulīnaṃ mālaṃ dhāreti.

Tāhaṃ, bhante, paṭisedhissāmī”ti.

I shall put a stop to him.”

“Sace pana tvaṃ, mahārāja, aṅgulimālaṃ passeyyāsi kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajitaṃ, virataṃ paṇātipātā, virataṃ adinnādānā, virataṃ musāvādā, ekabhattikaṃ, brahmacāriṃ, sīlavantaṃ, kalyāṇadhammaṃ, kinti naṃ kareyyāsī”ti?

“But great king, suppose you were to see that Aṅgulimāla had shaved off his hair and beard, dressed in ocher robes, and gone forth from the lay life to homelessness. And that he was refraining from killing living creatures, stealing, and lying; that he was eating in one part of the day, and was celibate, ethical, and of good character. What would you do to him?”

“I would bow to him, rise in his presence, or offer him a seat. I’d invite him to accept robes, alms-food, lodgings, and medicines and supplies for the sick. And I’d arrange for his lawful guarding and protection.

Kuto panassa, bhante, dussīlassa pāpadhammassa evarūpo sīlasaṃyamo bhavissatī”ti?

But sir, how could such an immoral, evil man ever have such virtue and restraint?”

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā aṅgulimālo bhagavato avidūre nisinno hoti.

Now, at that time Venerable Aṅgulimāla was sitting not far from the Buddha.

Atha kho bhagavā dakkhiṇaṃ bāhuṃ paggahetvā rājānaṃ pasenadiṃ kosalaṃ etadavoca:

Then the Buddha pointed with his right arm and said to the king, “eso, mahārāja, aṅgulimālo”ti.

Atha kho rañño pasenadissa kosalassa ahudeva bhayaṃ, ahu chambhitattaṃ, ahu lomahaṃso.

Then the king became frightened, scared, his hair standing on end.

Atha kho bhagavā rājānaṃ pasenadiṃ kosalaṃ bhītaṃ saṃviggamaṃ lomahaṃsajātaṃ veditvā rājānaṃ pasenadiṃ kosalaṃ etadavoca:

Knowing this, the Buddha said to him,

“mā bhāyi, mahārāja, natthi te ito bhayaṃ”ti.

“Do not fear, great king. You have nothing to fear from him.”

Atha kho rañño pasenadissa kosalassa yaṃ ahosi bhayaṃ vā chambhitattaṃ vā lomahaṃso vā so paṭippassambhi.

Then the king’s fear died down.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo yenāyasmā aṅgulimālo tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ aṅgulimālaṃ etadavoca:

Then the king went over to Aṅgulimāla and said,

“ayyo no, bhante, aṅgulimālo”ti?

“Sir, is the venerable really Aṅgulimāla?”

“Evaṃ, mahārājā”ti.

“Yes, great king.”

“Kathaṅgotto ayyassa pitā, kathaṅgottā mātā”ti?

“What clans were your father and mother from?”

“Gaggo kho, mahārāja, pitā, mantāṇī mātā”ti.

“My father was a Gagga, and my mother a Mantāṇī.”

“Abhiramatu, bhante, ayyo gaggo mantāṇiputto.

“May the venerable Gagga Mantāṇiputta be happy.

Ahamayyassa gaggassa mantāṇiputtassa ussukkaṃ karissāmi

I’ll make sure that you’re provided with robes, alms-food, lodgings, and medicines and supplies for the sick.”

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā aṅgulimālo āraññiko hoti

But at that time Venerable Aṅgulimāla lived in the wilderness, ate only alms-food, and owned just three robes.

Atha kho āyasmā aṅgulimālo rājānaṃ pasenadiṃ kosalaṃ

So he said to the king,

“alaṃ, mahārāja, paripuṇṇaṃ me cīvaran”ti.

“Enough, great king. My robes are complete.”

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

Then the king went back to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him, “acchariyaṃ, bhante, abbhutaṃ, bhante.

Yāvañcidaṃ, bhante, bhagavā adantānaṃ dametā, asantānaṃ sametā, aparinibbutānaṃ parinibbāpetā.

How the Buddha tames those who are wild, pacifies those who are violent, and extinguishes those who are unextinguished!

Yañhi mayaṃ, bhante, nāsakkhimhā daṇḍenapi satthenapi dametuṃ so bhagavatā adaṇḍena asattheneva danto.

For I was not able to tame him with the rod and the sword, but the Buddha tamed him without rod or sword.

Handa ca dāni mayaṃ, bhante, gacchāma;

Well, now, sir, I must go.

bahukiccā mayaṃ bahukaraṇīyā”ti.

I have many duties, and much to do.”

“Yassadāni, mahārāja, kālaṃ maññasī”ti.

“Please, great king, go at your convenience.”

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo uṭṭhāyāsanā bhagavantam abhivādetvā padakkhiṇam katvā pakkāmi.

Then King Pasenadi got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before leaving.

Atha kho āyasmā aṅgulimālo pubbaṇhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya sāvattiyam piṇḍāya pāvisi.

Then Venerable Aṅgulimāla robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Sāvattihī for alms.

Addasā kho āyasmā aṅgulimālo sāvattiyam sapadānam piṇḍāya caramāno aññataram itthim mūḷhagabbham vighātagabbham.

Then as he was wandering indiscriminately for alms-food he saw a woman undergoing a painful obstructed labor.

Disvānassa etadahosi:

Seeing this, it occurred to him,

“kilissanti vata, bho, sattā;

“Oh, beings suffer such filth!

kilissanti vata, bho, sattā”ti.

Oh, beings suffer such filth!”

Atha kho āyasmā aṅgulimālo sāvattiyam piṇḍāya caritvā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantam nisīdi. Ekamantam nisinno kho āyasmā aṅgulimālo bhagavantam etadavoca:

Then after wandering for alms in Sāvattihī, after the meal, on his return from alms-round, he went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened. The Buddha said to him,

“idhāham, bhante, pubbaṅhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya sāvattim piṇḍāya pāvisim.

Addasam kho aham, bhante, sāvattiyam sapadānam piṇḍāya caramāno aññataram itthim mūḷhagabbham vighātagabbham.

Disvāna mayham etadahosi:

‘kilissanti vata bho sattā, kilissanti vata bho sattā”’ti.

“Tena hi tvam, aṅgulimāla, yena sā itthī tenupasaṅkama;
upasaṅkamtivā tam itthim evam vadehi:

“Well then, Aṅgulimāla, go to that woman and say this:

‘yatoham, bhagini, jāto nābhijānāmi sañcicca paṇam jīvitā voropetā, tena saccena sotthi te hotu, sotthi gabbhassā”’ti.

‘Ever since I was born, sister, I don’t recall having intentionally taken the life of a living creature. By this truth, may both you and your baby be safe.’”

“So hi nūna me, bhante, sampajānamusāvādo bhavissati.

“But sir, wouldn’t that be telling a deliberate lie?

Mayā hi, bhante, bahū sañcicca paṇā jīvitā voropitā”’ti.

For I have intentionally killed many living creatures.”

“Tena hi tvaṃ, aṅgulimāla, yena sā itthī tenupasaṅkama;
upasaṅkamtivā taṃ itthiṃ evaṃ vadehi:

“In that case, Aṅgulimāla, go to that woman and say this:

‘yatohaṃ, bhagini, ariyāya jātiyā jāto, nābhijānāmi sañcicca pāṇaṃ jīvitā voropetā, tena saccena sotthi te hotu, sotthi gabbhassā’”ti.

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho āyasmā aṅgulimālo bhagavato paṭissutvā yena sā itthī tenupasaṅkama; upasaṅkamtivā taṃ itthiṃ
etadavoca:

“Yes, sir,” replied Aṅgulimāla. He went to that woman and said:

“yatohaṃ, bhagini, ariyāya jātiyā jāto, nābhijānāmi sañcicca
pāṇaṃ jīvitā voropetā, tena saccena sotthi te hotu, sotthi gabbhassā”ti.

Atha khvāssā itthiyā sotthi ahoṣi, sotthi gabbhassa.

Then that woman was safe, and so was her baby.

Atha kho āyasmā aṅgulimālo eko vūpakaṭṭho appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaraṃ—brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihāsi.

Then Aṅgulimāla, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā”ti abbhaññāsi.

He understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

Aññataro kho paṇāyasmā aṅgulimālo arahataṃ ahosi.

And Venerable Aṅgulimāla became one of the perfected.

Atha kho āyasmā aṅgulimālo pubbaṇhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya sāvattim piṇḍāya pāvīsi.

Then Venerable Aṅgulimāla robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Sāvattī for alms.

Tena kho pana samayena aññenapi leḍḍu khitto āyasmato aṅgulimālassa kāye nipatati, aññenapi daṇḍo khitto āyasmato aṅgulimālassa kāye nipatati, aññenapi sakkharā khittā āyasmato aṅgulimālassa kāye nipatati.

Now at that time someone threw a stone that hit Aṅgulimāla, someone else threw a stick, and someone else threw gravel.

Atha kho āyasmā aṅgulimālo bhinnena sīsena, lohitena gaḷantena, bhinnena pattena, vipphālitāya saṅghāṭiyā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami.

Then Aṅgulimāla—with cracked head, bleeding, his bowl broken, and his outer robe torn—went to the Buddha.

Addasā kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ aṅgulimālaṃ dūratova āgacchantaṃ.

The Buddha saw him coming off in the distance,

Disvāna āyasmantaṃ aṅgulimālaṃ etadavoca:

and said to him,

“adhivāsehi tvaṃ, brāhmaṇa, adhivāsehi tvaṃ, brāhmaṇa.

“Endure it, brahmin! Endure it, brahmin!

Yassa kho tvaṃ, brāhmaṇa, kammaṣṣa vipākena bahūni dhamme paṭisaṃvedesī”ti.

You’re experiencing in this life the result of deeds that might have caused you to be tormented in hell for many years, many hundreds or thousands of years.”

Atha kho āyasmā aṅgulimālo rahogato paṭisallīno vimuttisukhaṃ paṭisaṃvedī;

Later, Venerable Aṅgulimāla was experiencing the bliss of release while in private retreat.

tāyaṃ velāyaṃ imaṃ udānaṃ udānesi:

On that occasion he expressed this heartfelt sentiment:

“Yo pubbeva pamajjitvā,

“He who once was heedless, pacchā so nappamajjati;

but turned to heedfulness,

Somaṃ lokaṃ pabhāseti,

lights up the world,

Yo have daharo bhikkhu,

A young mendicant

yuñjati buddhasāsane;

devoted to the Buddha's teaching,

Somaṃ lokam pabhāseti,

lights up the world,

abbhā muttova candimā.

like the moon freed from a cloud.

Disā hi me dhammakatham suṇantu,

May even my enemies hear a Dhamma talk!

Disā hi me yuñjantu buddhasāsane;

May even my enemies devote themselves to the Buddha's teaching!

Disā hi me te manujā bhajantu,

May even my enemies associate with those good people for I do no harm to anyone.

Coro ahaṃ pure āsiṃ,
I used to be a bandit,

aṅgulimāloti vissuto;
the notorious Aṅgulimāla.

Vuyhamāno mahoghena, Swept away in a great flood,

buddhaṃ saraṇamāgamaṃ.
I went to the Buddha as a refuge.

Lohitapāṇi pure āsiṃ,
I used to have blood on my hands,

87. Piyajātikasutta Born From the Beloved

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena aññatarassa gahapatissa ekaputtako piyo manāpo kālaṅkato hoti.

Now at that time a certain householder's dear and beloved only child passed away.

Tassa kālaṅkiriya neva kammantā paṭibhanti na bhattam paṭibhāti.

After their death he didn't feel like working or eating.

So ālāhanam gantvā kandati:

He would go to the cemetery and wail,

“kham, ekaputtaka, kham, ekaputtakā”ti.

“Where are you, my only child? Where are you, my only child?”

Atha kho so gahapati yena bhagava tenupasaṅkhami;
upasaṅkhamitvā bhagavantam abhivadetvā ekamantam nisīdi.

Ekamantam nisinnam kho tam gahapatim bhagava etadavoca:

Then he went to the Buddha, bowed, and sat down to one side. The Buddha said to him,

“na kho te, gahapati, sake citte ʘhitassa indriyāni, atthi te indriyānaṃ aññathattaṃ”ti.

“Householder, you look like someone who’s not in their right mind; your faculties have deteriorated.”

“Kiñhi me, bhante, indriyānaṃ nāññathattaṃ bhavissati;

“And how, sir, could my faculties not have deteriorated?”

mayhañhi, bhante, ekaputto piyo manāpo kālaṅkato.

For my dear and beloved only child has passed away.

Tassa kālaṅkiriyaṃ neva kammantā paṭibhanti, na bhattaṃ paṭibhāti.

Since their death I haven’t felt like working or eating.

Sohaṃ ālāhanaṃ gantvā kandāmi:

I go to the cemetery and wail:

‘kahaṃ, ekaputtaka, kahaṃ, ekaputtakā’”ti.

‘Where are you, my only child? Where are you, my only child?’”

“Evametaṃ, gahapati, evametaṃ, gahapati.

“That’s so true, householder! That’s so true, householder!”

Piyajātikā hi, gahapati, sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā piyappabhavikā”ti.

For our loved ones are a source of sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress.”

“Kassa kho nāmetaṃ, bhante, evaṃ bhavissati:

“Sir, who on earth could ever think such a thing!

‘piyajātikā sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā piyappabhavikā’”ti?

Piyajātikā hi kho, bhante, ānandasomanassā piyappabhavikā”ti.

For our loved ones are a source of joy and happiness.”

Atha kho so gahapati bhagavato bhāsitam anabhinanditvā paṭikkosivā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkāmi.

Disagreeing with the Buddha's statement, rejecting it, he got up from his seat and left.

Tena kho pana samayena sambahulā akkhadhuttā bhagavato avidūre akkhehi dibbanti.

Now at that time several gamblers were playing dice not far from the Buddha.

Atha kho so gahapati yena te akkhadhuttā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā akkhadhutte etadavoca:

That householder approached them and told them what had happened.

“idhāham, bhonto, yena samaṇo gotamo tenupasaṅkamim; upasaṅkamtivā samaṇam gotamam abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdim. Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho maṃ, bhonto, samaṇo gotamo etadavoca:

‘na kho te, gahapati, sake citte ṭhitassa indriyāni, atthi te indriyānam aññathattan’ti.

Evam vutte, aham, bhonto, samaṇam gotamam etadavocaṃ:

‘kiñhi me, bhante, indriyānam nāññathattaṃ bhavissati;

mayhañhi, bhante, ekaputtako piyo manāpo kālaṅkato.

Tassa kālaṅkiriya neva kammantā paṭibhanti, na bhattaṃ
paṭibhāti.

Sohaṃ ālāhanam gantvā kandāmi—kaham, ekaputtaka, kaham, ekaputtakā’ti.

‘Evametaṃ, gahapati, evametaṃ, gahapati.

Piyajātikā hi, gahapati, sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā piyappabhavikā’ti.

‘Kassa kho nāmetaṃ, bhante, evam bhavissati—

piyajātikā sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā piyappabhavikā?

Piyajātikā hi kho, bhante, ānandasomanassā piyappabhavikā'ti.

Atha khvāhaṃ, bhonto, samaṇassa gotamassa bhāsitaṃ anabhinanditvā paṭikkositvā uṭṭhāyāsānā pakkamin'ti.

“Evametaṃ, gahapati, evametaṃ, gahapati.

“That’s so true, householder! That’s so true, householder!

Piyajātikā hi, gahapati, ānandasomanassā piyappabhavikā'ti.

For our loved ones are a source of joy and happiness.”

Atha kho so gahapati “sameti me akkhadhuttehī”ti pakkāmi.

Thinking, “The gamblers and I are in agreement,” the householder left.

Atha kho idaṃ kathāvatthu anupubbena rājantepuraṃ pāvisi.

Eventually that topic of discussion reached the royal compound.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo mallikaṃ devim āmantesi:

Then King Pasenadi addressed Queen Mallikā,

“idaṃ te, mallike, samaṇena gotamena bhāsitaṃ:

“Mallika, your ascetic Gotama said this:

‘piyajātikā sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā

piyappabhavikā’”ti.

‘Our loved ones are a source of sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress.’”

“Sacetaṃ, mahārāja, bhagavatā bhāsitaṃ, evametan”ti.

“If that’s what the Buddha said, great king, then that’s how it is.”

“Evameva panāyaṃ mallikā yaññadeva samaṇo gotamo bhāsati taṃ tadevassa abbhanumodati:

“No matter what the ascetic Gotama says, Mallikā agrees with him:

‘Sacetaṃ, mahārāja, bhagavatā bhāsitaṃ evametan’ti.

‘If that’s what the Buddha said, great king, then that’s how it is.’

Seyyathāpi nāma, yaññadeva ācariyo antevāsissa bhāsati taṃ tadevassa antevāsī abbhanumodati:

You’re just like a student who agrees with everything their teacher says.

‘evametaṃ, ācariya, evametaṃ, ācariyā’ti.

Evameva kho tvaṃ, mallike, yaññadeva samaṇo gotamo bhāsati taṃ tadevassa abbhanumodasi:

‘Sacetaṃ, mahārāja, bhagavatā bhāsitaṃ evametan’ti.

Cara pire, mallike, vinassā”ti.

Go away, Mallikā, get out of here!”

Atha kho mallikā devī nāḷijaṅghaṃ brāhmaṇaṃ āmantesi:

Then Queen Mallikā addressed the brahmin Nāḷijaṅgha, “ehi tvaṃ, brāhmaṇa, yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkama; upasaṅkamtivā mama vacanena bhagavato pāde siraṣā vandāhi, appābādhaṃ appātaṅkaṃ lahuṭṭhānaṃ balaṃ

phāsuvihāraṃ puccha:

“Please, brahmin, go to the Buddha, and in my name bow with your head to his feet. Ask him if he is healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably.

‘mallikā, bhante, devī bhagavato pāde siraṣā vandati, appābādhaṃ appātaṅkaṃ lahuṭṭhānaṃ balaṃ phāsuvihāraṃ
pucchatī’ti;

evañca vadehi:

And then say:

‘bhāsitaṃ nu kho, bhante, bhagavatā esā vācā—

‘Sir, did the Buddha make this statement:

piyajātikā sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā
piyappabhavikā’ti.

“Our loved ones are a source of sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress”?’

Yathā te bhagavā byākaroti taṃ sādhukaṃ uggahetvā mama āroceyyāsi.

Remember well how the Buddha answers and tell it to me.

Na hi tathāgatā vitathaṃ bhaṇantī”ti.

For Realized Ones say nothing that is not so.”

“Evaṃ, bhotī”ti kho nāḷijaṅgho brāhmaṇo mallikāya deviyā paṭissutvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

“Yes, ma’am,” he replied. He went to the Buddha and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho nāḷijaṅgho brāhmaṇo bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to the Buddha, “mallikā, bho gotama, devī bhoto gotamassa pāde sirasā vandati; appābādhaṃ appātaṅkaṃ lahuṭṭhānaṃ balaṃ phāsuvihāraṃ pucchati;

“Master Gotama, Queen Mallikā bows with her head to your feet. She asks if you are healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably.

evañca vadeti:

And she asks whether ‘bhāsītā nu kho, bhante, bhagavatā esā vācā—

the Buddha made this statement:

‘Our loved ones are a source of sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress.’”

“Evametaṃ, brāhmaṇa, evametaṃ, brāhmaṇa.

Bhūtapubbaṃ, brāhmaṇa, imissāyeva sāvattiyā aññatarā itthī ñātikulaṃ agamāsi.

Once upon a time right here in Sāvattihī a certain woman went to live with her relative’s family.

Tassā te ñātakā sāmikaṃ acchinditvā aññassa dātukāmā.

But her relatives wanted to divorce her from her husband and give her to another,

Sā ca taṃ na icchatī.

who she didn't want.

Atha kho sā itthī sāmikaṃ etadavoca:

So she told her husband about this.

'ime, maṃ, ayyaputta, ñātakā tvaṃ acchinditvā aññassa dātukāmā.

Ahañca taṃ na icchāmī'ti.

Atha kho so puriso taṃ itthiṃ dvidhā chetvā attānaṃ upphālesi:

But he cut her in two and disemboweled himself, thinking,

'ubho pecca bhavissāmā'ti.

'We shall be together after death.'

Imināpi kho etaṃ, brāhmaṇa, pariyāyena veditabbaṃ yathā piyajātikā sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā piyappabhavikā'ti.

That's another way to understand how our loved ones are a source of sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress."

Atha kho nāḷijaṅgho brāhmaṇo bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ yena mallikā devī tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā yāvatako ahosi bhagavatā saddhiṃ kathāsallāpo taṃ sabbaṃ mallikāya deviyā ārocesi. Atha kho mallikā devī yena rājā pasenadi kosalo tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā rājānaṃ pasenadiṃ kosalaṃ etadavoca:

Then Nāḷijaṅgha the brahmin, having approved and agreed with what the Buddha said, got up from his seat, went to Queen Mallikā, and told her of all they had discussed. Then Queen Mallikā approached King Pasenadi and said to him,

"Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, mahārāja,

"What do you think, great king?"

piyā te vajirī kumārī”ti?
Do you love Princess Vajirī?”

“Evaṃ, mallike, piyā me vajirī kumārī”ti.
“Indeed I do, Mallikā.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, mahārāja,
“What do you think, great king?

Then King Pasenadi got up from his seat, arranged his robe over one shoulder, knelt on his right knee, raised his joined palms toward the Buddha, and expressed this heartfelt sentiment three times:

“Namo tassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa.

“Homage to that Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha!

Namo tassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa.

Homage to that Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha!

Namo tassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassā”ti.

Homage to that Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha!”

Piyajātikasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ sattamaṃ.

88. Bāhitikasutta The Imported Cloth

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando pubbaṇhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya savatthiyam piṇḍāya pāvīsi.

Then Venerable Ānanda robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Sāvattihī for alms.

Savatthiyam piṇḍāya carivā pacchābhattam piṇḍapātaṭikkanto yena pubbārāmo migāramātupāsādo tenupasaṅkami divāvihārāya.

He wandered for alms in Sāvattihī. After the meal, on his return from alms-round, he went to the Eastern Monastery, the stilt longhouse of Migāra's mother, for the day's meditation.

Tena kho pana samayena rājā pasenadi kosalo ekapuṇḍarīkam nāgam abhiruhitvā savatthiyā niyyāti divā divassa.

Now at that time King Pasenadi of Kosala mounted the Single Lotus Elephant and drove out from Sāvattihī in the middle of the day.

Addasā kho rājā pasenadi kosalo āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ dūratova āgacchantaṃ.

He saw Ānanda coming off in the distance

Disvāna sirivaḍḍhaṃ mahāmattaṃ āmantesi:

and said to the minister Sirivaḍḍha,

“āyasmā no eso, samma sirivaḍḍha, ānando”ti.

“My dear Sirivaḍḍha, isn’t that Venerable Ānanda?”

“Evaṃ, mahārāja, āyasmā eso ānando”ti.

“Indeed it is, great king.”

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo aññataraṃ purisaṃ āmantesi:

Then King Pasenadi addressed a man,

“ehi tvaṃ, ambho purisa, yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkama; upasaṅkamtivā mama vacanena āyasmato ānandassa pāde sirasā vandāhi:

“Please, mister, go to Venerable Ānanda, and in my name bow with your head to his feet. Say to him:

‘rājā, bhante, pasenadi kosalo āyasmato ānandassa pāde sirasā vandatī’ti;

‘Sir, King Pasenadi of Kosala bows with his head at your feet.’

evañca vadehi:

And then say:

‘sace kira, bhante, āyasmato ānandassa na kiñci accāyikaṃ karaṇīyaṃ, āgāmetu kira, bhante, āyasmā ānando muhuttaṃ anukampaṃ upādāyā’”ti.

‘Sir, if you have no urgent business, please wait a moment out of compassion.’”

“Evaṃ, devā”ti kho so puriso rañño pasenadissa kosalassa paṭissutvā yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi.

Ekamantaṃ ṭhito kho so puriso āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ
etadavoca:

“Yes, Your Majesty,” that man replied. He did as the king asked.

“rājā, bhante, pasenadi kosalo āyasmato ānandassa pāde sirasā vandati;

evañca vadeti:

‘sace kira, bhante, āyasmato ānandassa na kiñci accāyikaṃ karaṇīyaṃ, āgometu kira, bhante, āyasmā ānando muhuttaṃ anukampaṃ upādāyā’”ti.

Adhivāsesi kho āyasmā ānando tuṅhībhāvena.

Ānanda consented in silence.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo yāvatikā nāgassa bhūmi nāgena gantvā nāgā paccorohitvā pattikova yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi. Ekamantaṃ ṭhito kho rājā pasenadi kosalo āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etadavoca:

Then King Pasenadi rode on the elephant as far as the terrain allowed, then descended and approached Ānanda on foot. He bowed, stood to one side, and said to Ānanda, “sace, bhante, āyasmato ānandassa na kiñci accāyikaṃ karaṇīyaṃ, sādhu, bhante, āyasmā ānando yena aciravatiyā nadiyā tīraṃ tenupasaṅkamatu anukampaṃ upādāyā”ti.

“Sir, if you have no urgent business, it would be nice of you to go to the bank of the Aciravatī river out of compassion.”

Adhivāsesi kho āyasmā ānando tuṅhībhāvena.

Ānanda consented in silence.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando yena aciravatiyā nadiyā tīraṃ tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā aññatarasmim rukkhamūle paññatte āsane nisīdi.

He went to the river bank and sat at the root of a certain tree on a seat spread out.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo yāvatikā nāgassa bhūmi nāgena gantvā nāgā paccorohitvā pattikova yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi. Ekamantaṃ ʈhito kho rājā pasenadi kosalo āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etadavoca:

Then King Pasenadi rode on the elephant as far as the terrain allowed, then descended and approached Ānanda on foot. He bowed, stood to one side, and said to Ānanda, “idha, bhante, āyasmā ānando hatthatthare nisīdatū”ti.

“Alaṃ, mahārāja.

“Enough, great king,

Nisīda tvaṃ;

you sit on it.

nisinno ahaṃ sake āsane”ti.

I’m sitting on my own seat.”

Nisīdi kho rājā pasenadi kosalo paññatte āsane.

So the king sat down on the seat spread out,

Nisajja kho rājā pasenadi kosalo āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etadavoca:

and said,

“kiṃ nu kho, bhante ānanda, so bhagavā tathārūpaṃ kāyasamācāraṃ samācareyya, yvāssa kāyasamācāro opārambho samaṇehi brāhmaṇehi”ti?

“Sir, might the Buddha engage in the sort of behavior—by way of body, speech, or mind—that is faulted by ascetics and brahmins?”

“Na kho, mahārāja, so bhagavā tathārūpaṃ kāyasamācāraṃ samācareyya, yvāssa kāyasamācāro opārambho samaṇehi brāhmaṇehi viññūhi”ti.

“No, great king, the Buddha would not engage in the sort of behavior that is faulted by sensible ascetics and brahmins.”

“Kiṃ pana, bhante ānanda, so bhagavā tathārūpaṃ vacīsamācāraṃ ...pe...

How well this was said by Venerable Ānanda!

Iminā ca mayaṃ, bhante, āyasmato ānandassa subhāsitena attamanābhiraddhā.

I’m delighted and satisfied with what you’ve expressed so well.

Evaṃ attamanābhiraddhā ca mayaṃ, bhante, āyasmato ānandassa subhāsitena.

So much so that

Sace, bhante, āyasmato ānandassa hatthiratanam kappeyya, hatthiratanampi mayaṃ āyasmato ānandassa dadeyyāma.

if an elephant treasure was suitable for you, I would give you one.

Sace, bhante, āyasmato ānandassa assaratanam kappeyya, assaratanampi mayaṃ āyasmato ānandassa dadeyyāma.

when it has rained heavily in the mountains, and the river overflows both its banks.

evameva kho, bhante, āyasmā ānando imāya bāhitikāya attano ticīvaraṃ karissati.

In the same way, Venerable Ānanda can make a set of three robes for himself from this imported cloak.

Yaṃ panāyasmato ānandassa purāṇaṃ ticīvaraṃ taṃ sabrahmacārīhi saṃvibhajissati.

And you can share your old robes with your fellow monks.

Evāyaṃ amhākaṃ dakkhiṇā saṃvissandantī maññe gamissati.

In this way my religious donation will come to overflow, it seems to me.

Paṭiggaṇhātu, bhante, āyasmā ānando bāhitikan”ti.

Please accept the imported cloth.”

Paṭiggahesi kho āyasmā ānando bāhitikaṃ.

So Ānanda accepted it.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ
etadavoca:

Then King Pasenadi said to him,

“handa ca dāni mayaṃ, bhante ānanda, gacchāma;

“Well, now, sir, I must go.

bahukiccā mayaṃ bahukaraṇīyā”ti.

I have many duties, and much to do.”

“Yassadāni tvaṃ, mahārāja, kālaṃ maññasī”ti.

“Please, great king, go at your convenience.”

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo āyasmato ānandassa bhāsitaṃ

Then King Pasenadi approved and agreed with what Ānanda said. He got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled Ānanda, keeping him on his right, before leaving.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando acirapakkantassa rañño pasenadissa

Soon after he left, Ānanda went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened.

Taṅca bāhitikaṃ bhagavato pādāsi.

He presented the cloth to the Buddha.

Atha kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to the mendicants,

“lābhā, bhikkhave, rañño pasenadissa kosalassa, suladdhalābhā, bhikkhave, rañño pasenadissa kosalassa;

“Mendicants, King Pasenadi is lucky, so very lucky,

yaṃ rājā pasenadi kosalo labhati ānandaṃ dassanāya, labhati to get to see Ānanda and pay homage to him.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandunti.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Bāhitikasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ aṭṭhamam.

89. Dhammacetiyasutta Shrines to the Teaching

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava sakkesu viharati medalupam nama sakyanam nigamo.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Sakyans, near the Sakyan town named Medelumpa.

Tena kho pana samayena rajā pasenadi kosalo nagaragam anupatto hoti kenacideva karaṇiyena.

Now at that time King Pasenadi of Kosala had arrived at Townsville on some business.

Atha kho rajā pasenadi kosalo digham karāyanam amantesi:

Then he addressed Dīgha Kārāyana,

“yojehi, samma karāyana, bhadraṇi bhadraṇi yānāni, uyyānabhūmiṃ gacchāma subhūmiṃ dassanāyā”ti.

“My good Kārāyana, harness the finest chariots. We will go to a park and see the scenery.”

“Yes, Your Majesty,” replied Dīgha Kārāyana. He harnessed the chariots and informed the king, “yuttāni kho te, deva, bhadrāni bhadrāni yānāni.

“Sire, the finest chariots are harnessed.

Yassadāni kālaṃ maññasī”ti.

Please go at your convenience.”

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo bhadraṃ yānaṃ abhiruhitvā bhadrehi bhadrehi yānehi nagarakamhā niyyāsi mahaccā rājānubhāvena.

Then King Pasenadi mounted a fine carriage and, along with other fine carriages, set out in full royal pomp from Townsville,

Yena ārāmo tena pāyāsi.

heading for the park grounds.

Yāvatikā yānassa bhūmi, yānena gantvā yānā paccorohitvā pattikova ārāmaṃ pāvisi.

He went by carriage as far as the terrain allowed, then descended and entered the park on foot.

Addasā kho rājā pasenadi kosalo ārāme jaṅghāvihāraṃ anucaṅkamamāno anuvicaramāno rukkhāmūlāni pāsādikāni pasādanīyāni appasaddāni appanigghosāni vijānavātāni manussarāhasseyyakāni paṭisallānasārūppāni.

As he was going for a walk in the park he saw roots of trees that were impressive and inspiring, quiet and still, far from the madding crowd, remote from human settlements, and fit for retreat.

Disvāna bhagavantaṃyeva ārabha sati udapādi:

The sight reminded him right away of the Buddha:

“imāni kho tāni rukkhāmūlāni pāsādikāni pasādanīyāni appasaddāni appanigghosāni vijānavātāni manussarāhasseyyakāni paṭisallānasārūppāni, yattha sudam mayam taṃ bhagavantaṃ payirupāsāma arahantaṃ sammāsambuddhan”ti.

one, the fully awakened Buddha.”

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo dīghaṃ kārāyanaṃ āmantesi:

He addressed Dīgha Kārāyana,

“imāni kho, samma kārāyana, tāni rukkhamūlāni pāsādikāni pasādanīyāni appasaddāni appanigghosāni vijanavātāni manussarāhasseyyakāni paṭisallānasārubbāni, yattha sudamā mayam taṃ bhagavantam payirupāsāma arahantaṃ sammāsambuddham.

“These roots of trees, so impressive and inspiring, are like those where we used to pay homage to the Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha.

Kham nu kho, samma kārāyana, etarahi so bhagavā viharati araham sammāsambuddho”ti?

My good Kārāyana, where is that Buddha at present?”

“Atthi, mahārāja, medāḷupaṃ nāma sakyānaṃ nigamo.

“Great king, there is a Sakyan town named Medaḷumpa.

Tattha so bhagavā etarahi viharati araham sammāsambuddho”ti.

That’s where the Buddha is now staying.”

“Kīvadūre pana, samma kārāyana, nagarakamhā medāḷupaṃ nāma sakyānaṃ nigamo hotī”ti?

“But how far away is that town?”

“Na dūre, mahārāja;

“Not far, great king,

tīṇi yojanāni;

it’s three leagues.

sakkā divasāvasesena gantun”ti.

We can get there while it’s still light.”

“Tena hi, samma kārāyana, yojehi bhadrāni bhadrāni yānāni, gamissāma mayam tam bhagavantam dassanāya arahantam sammāsambuddhan”ti.

“Well then, harness the chariots, and we shall go to see the Buddha.”

“Yes, Your Majesty,” replied Dīgha Kārāyana. He harnessed the chariots and informed the king, “yuttāni kho te, deva, bhadrāni bhadrāni yānāni.

“Sire, the finest chariots are harnessed.

Yassadāni kālam maññasī”ti.

Please go at your convenience.”

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo bhadram yānam abhiruhitvā bhadrehi bhadrehi yānehi nagarakamhā yena medāḷupaṃ nāma sakyānam nigamo tena pāyāsi.

Then King Pasenadi mounted a fine carriage and, along with other fine carriages, set out from Townsville to Medaḷumpa.

Teneva divasāvasesena medāḷupaṃ nāma sakyānam nigamaṃ sampāpuṇi.

He reached the town while it was still light

Yena ārāmo tena pāyāsi.

and headed for the park grounds.

Yāvatikā yānassa bhūmi, yānena gantvā yānā paccorohitvā pattikova ārāmaṃ pāvisi.

He went by carriage as far as the terrain allowed, then descended and entered the monastery on foot.

Tena kho pana samayena sambahulā bhikkhū abbhokāse caṅkamanti.

At that time several mendicants were walking mindfully in the open air.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo yena te bhikkhū tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā te bhikkhū etadavoca:

King Pasenadi of Kosala went up to them and said,

“kahaṃ nu kho, bhante, etarahi so bhagavā viharati araham̐ sammāsambuddho?”

“Sirs, where is the Blessed One at present, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha?”

Dassanakāmā hi mayam̐ tam̐ bhagavantam̐ arahantam̐ sammāsambuddhan”ti.

For I want to see him.”

“Eso, mahārāja, vihāro saṃvutadvāro. Tena appasaddo upasaṅkamtivā ataramāno āḷindam̐ pavisitvā ukkāsitvā aggaḷam̐ ākoṭehi. Vivarissati bhagavā te dvāran”ti.

“Great king, that’s his dwelling, with the door closed. Approach it quietly, without hurrying; go onto the porch, clear your throat, and knock with the latch. The Buddha will open the door.”

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo tattheva khaggañca uṇhīsañca dīghassa kārāyanassa pādāsi.

The king right away presented his sword and turban to Dīgha Kārāyana, Atha kho dīghassa kārāyanassa etadahosi:

who thought,

“rahāyati kho dāni rājā, idheva dāni mayā ṭhātabban”ti.

“Now the king seeks privacy. I should wait here.”

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo yena so vihāro saṃvutadvāro tena appasaddo upasaṅkamtivā ataramāno āḷindam̐ pavisitvā ukkāsitvā aggaḷam̐ ākoṭesi. Vivari bhagavā dvāram̐.

Then the king approached the Buddha’s dwelling and knocked, and the Buddha opened the door.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo vihāraṃ pavisitvā bhagavato pādesu sirasā nipatitvā bhagavato pādāni mukhena ca paricumباتi, pāṇīhi ca parisambāhati, nāmañca sāveti:

King Pasenadi entered the dwelling, and bowed with his head to the Buddha's feet, caressing them and covering them with kisses, and pronounced his name:

“rājāhaṃ, bhante, pasenadi kosalo;

“Sir, I am Pasenadi, king of Kosala!

rājāhaṃ, bhante, pasenadi kosalo”ti.

I am Pasenadi, king of Kosala!”

“Kiṃ pana tvaṃ, mahārāja, atthavaṣaṃ sampassamāno imasmiṃ sarīre evarūpaṃ paramanipaccakāraṃ karosi, mittūpahāraṃ upadaṃsesī”ti?

“But great king, for what reason do you demonstrate such utmost devotion for this body, conveying your manifest love?”

“Atthi kho me, bhante, bhagavati dhammanvayo hoti:

“Sir, I infer about the Buddha from the teaching:

‘sammāsambuddho bhagavā, svākkhāto bhagavatā dhammo, suppaṭipanno bhagavato sāvakaṅgho’ti.

‘The Blessed One is a fully awakened Buddha. The teaching is well explained. The Saṅgha is practicing well.’

Idhāhaṃ, bhante, passāmi eke samaṇabrāhmaṇe pariyantakataṃ brahmacariyaṃ carante dasapi vassāni, vīsampi vassāni, tiṃsampi vassāni, cattārīsampi vassāni.

It happens, sir, that I see some ascetics and brahmins leading the spiritual life only for a limited period: ten, twenty, thirty, or forty years.

Te aparena samayena sunhātā suvilittā kappitakesamassū pañcahi kāmaguṇehi samappitā samaṅgībhūtā paricārenti.

Some time later—nicely bathed and anointed, with hair and beard dressed—they amuse themselves, supplied and provided with the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Idha panāhaṃ, bhante, bhikkhū passāmi yāvajīvaṃ āpāṇakoṭikaṃ paripuṇṇaṃ parisuddhaṃ brahmacariyaṃ carante.

But here I see the mendicants leading the spiritual life entirely full and pure as long as they live, to their last breath.

Na kho panāhaṃ, bhante, ito bahiddhā aññaṃ evaṃ paripuṇṇaṃ parisuddhaṃ brahmacariyaṃ samanupassāmi.

I don't see any other spiritual life elsewhere so full and pure.

Ayampi kho me, bhante, bhagavati dhammanvayo hoti:

That's why I infer this about the Buddha from the teaching:

'sammāsambuddho bhagavā, svākkhāto bhagavatā dhammo,
suppaṭipanno bhagavato sāvakaśaṅgho'ti.

'The Blessed One is a fully awakened Buddha. The teaching is well explained. The Saṅgha is practicing well.'

Puna caparaṃ, bhante, rājānopi rājūhi vivadanti, khattiyāpi khattiyehi vivadanti, brāhmaṇāpi brāhmaṇehi vivadanti, gahapatayopi gahapatīhi vivadanti, mātāpi puttena vivadati, puttopi mātārā vivadati, pitāpi puttena vivadati, puttopi pitarā vivadati, bhātāpi bhaginiyā vivadati, bhaginīpi bhātarā vivadati, sahāyopi sahāyena vivadati.

Furthermore, kings fight with kings, aristocrats fight with aristocrats, brahmins fight with brahmins, householders fight with householders. A mother fights with her child, child with mother, father with child, and child with father. Brother fights with brother, brother with sister, sister with brother, and friend fights with friend.

Idha panāhaṃ, bhante, bhikkhū passāmi samagge sammodamāne avivadamāne khīrodakībhūte aññaamaññaṃ

But here I see the mendicants living in harmony, appreciating each other, without quarreling, blending like milk and water, and regarding each other with kindly eyes.

Na kho panāhaṃ, bhante, ito bahiddhā aññaṃ evaṃ samaggaṃ parisaṃ samanupassāmi.

I don't see any other assembly elsewhere so harmonious.

Ayampi kho me, bhante, bhagavati dhammanvayo hoti:

So I infer this about the Buddha from the teaching:

‘sammāsambuddho bhagavā, svākkhāto bhagavatā dhammo,
suppaṭipanno bhagavato sāvakaśaṅgho’ti.

‘The Blessed One is a fully awakened Buddha. The teaching is well explained. The Saṅgha is practicing well.’

Puna caparāhaṃ, bhante, ārāmena ārāmaṃ, uyyānena uyyānaṃ anucaṅkamāmi anuvicarāmi.

Furthermore, I have walked and wandered from monastery to monastery and from park to park.

Sohaṃ tattha passāmi eke samaṇabrāhmaṇe kise lūkhe

There I've seen some ascetics and brahmins who are thin, haggard, pale, and veiny—hardly a captivating sight, you'd think.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, etadahosi:

It occurred to me:

‘addhā ime āyasmanto anabhiratā vā brahmacariyaṃ caranti, atthi vā tesaṃ kiñci pāpaṃ kammaṃ kataṃ paṭicchannaṃ;

‘Clearly these venerables lead the spiritual life dissatisfied, or they're hiding some bad deed they've done.

tathā hi ime āyasmanto kisā lūkhā dubbaṇṇā

That's why they're thin, haggard, pale, and veiny—hardly a captivating sight, you'd think.’

Tyāhaṃ upasaṅkamtivā evaṃ vadāmi:

I went up to them and said:

‘kiṃ nu kho tumhe āyasmanto kisā lūkhā dubbaṇṇā uppaṇḍuppaṇḍukajātā dhamanisanthatagattā, na viya maññe cakkhuṃ bandhatha janassa dassanāyā’ti?

‘Venerables, why are you so thin, haggard, pale, and veiny—hardly a captivating sight, you’d think?’

Te evamāhaṃsu:

They say:

‘bandhukarogo no, mahārājā’ti.

‘We have jaundice, great king.’

Idha panāhaṃ, bhante, bhikkhū passāmi haṭṭhapahaṭṭhe udaggudagge abhiratarūpe pīṇindriye appossukke pannalome paradattavutte migabhūtena cetasā viharante.

But here I see mendicants always smiling and joyful, obviously happy, with cheerful faces, living relaxed, unruffled, surviving on charity, their hearts free as a wild deer.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, etadahosi:

It occurred to me:

‘addhā ime āyasmanto tassa bhagavato sāsane uḷāraṃ pubbenāparaṃ visesaṃ jānanti;

‘Clearly these venerables have realized a higher distinction in the Buddha’s instructions than they had before.

tathā hi ime āyasmanto haṭṭhapahaṭṭhā udaggudaggā abhiratarūpā pīṇindriyā appossukkā pannalomā paradattavuttā migabhūtena cetasā viharantī’ti.

That’s why these venerables are always smiling and joyful, obviously happy, with cheerful faces, living relaxed, unruffled, surviving on charity, their hearts free as a wild deer.’

Ayampi kho me, bhante, bhagavati dhammanvayo hoti:

So I infer this about the Buddha from the teaching:

‘sammāsambuddho bhagavā, svākkhāto bhagavatā dhammo, suppaṭipanno bhagavato sāvakaṃgho’ti.

‘The Blessed One is a fully awakened Buddha. The teaching is well explained. The Saṅgha is practicing well.’

Puna caparāhaṃ, bhante, rājā khattiyo muddhāvasitto;

Furthermore, as an anointed king

pahomi ghātetāyaṃ vā ghātetuṃ, jāpetāyaṃ vā jāpetuṃ, pabbājetāyaṃ vā pabbājetuṃ.

I am able to execute, fine, or banish those who are guilty.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, aḍḍakaraṇe nisinnassa antarantarā kathaṃ opātentī.

Yet when I’m sitting in judgment they interrupt me.

Sohaṃ na labhāmi:

And I can’t get them

‘mā me bhonto aḍḍakaraṇe nisinnassa antarantarā kathaṃ opātetha, kathāpariyosānaṃ me bhonto āgamentū’ti.

to stop interrupting me and wait until I’ve finished speaking.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, antarantarā kathaṃ opātentī.

Idha panāhaṃ, bhante, bhikkhū passāmi;

But here I’ve seen the mendicants

yasmiṃ samaye bhagavā anekasatāya parisāya dhammaṃ deseti, neva tasmīṃ samaye bhagavato sāvakaṇaṃ khipitasaddo vā hoti ukkāsitassaddo vā.

while the Buddha is teaching an assembly of many hundreds, and there is no sound of his disciples coughing or clearing their throats.

Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhante, bhagavā anekasatāya parisāya dhammaṃ deseti.

Once it so happened that the Buddha was teaching an assembly of many hundreds.

Tatraññataro bhagavato sāvako ukkāsi.

Then one of his disciples cleared their throat.

Tameṇaṃ aññataro sabrahmacārī jaṇṇukena ghaṭṭesi:

And one of their spiritual companions nudged them with their knee, to indicate:

‘appasaddo āyasmā hotu, māyasmā saddamakāsi; satthā no bhagavā dhammaṃ desetī’ti.

‘Hush, venerable, don’t make a sound! Our teacher, the Blessed One, is teaching!’

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, etadahosi:

It occurred to me:

‘acchariyaṃ vata bho, abbhutaṃ vata bho.

Adaṇḍena vata kira, bho, asatthena evaṃ suvinītā parisā bhavissatī’ti.

how an assembly can be so well trained without rod or sword!’

Na kho panāhaṃ, bhante, ito bahiddhā aññaṃ evaṃ suvinītaṃ parisāṃ samanupassāmi.

I don’t see any other assembly elsewhere so well trained.

Ayampi kho me, bhante, bhagavati dhammanvayo hoti:

So I infer this about the Buddha from the teaching:

‘sammāsambuddho bhagavā, svākkhāto bhagavatā dhammo, suppaṭipanno bhagavato sāvakasaṅgho’ti.

‘The Blessed One is a fully awakened Buddha. The teaching is well explained. The Saṅgha is practicing well.’

Puna caparāhaṃ, bhante, passāmi idhekacce khattiyapaṇḍite nipuṇe kataparappavāde vāavedhirūpe. Te bhindantā maññe caranti paññāgatena diṭṭhigatāni.

Furthermore, I’ve seen some clever aristocrats who are subtle, accomplished in the doctrines of others, hair-splitters. You’d think they live to demolish convictions with their intellect.

Te suṇanti:

They hear:

‘samaṇo khalu, bho, gotamo amukaṃ nāma gāmaṃ vā nigamaṃ vā osarissatī’ti.

‘So, gentlemen, that ascetic Gotama will come down to such and such village or town.’

Te pañhaṃ abhisankharonti:

They formulate a question, thinking:

‘imaṃ mayaṃ pañhaṃ samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ upasaṅkamitvā pucchissāma.

‘We’ll approach the ascetic Gotama and ask him this question.

Evañce no puṭṭho evaṃ byākarissati, evamassa mayaṃ vādaṃ āropessāma;

If he answers like this, we’ll refute him like that;

evañcepi no puṭṭho evaṃ byākarissati, evampissa mayaṃ vādaṃ āropessāmā’ti.

and if he answers like that, we’ll refute him like this.’

Te suṇanti:

When they hear that ‘samaṇo khalu, bho, gotamo amukaṃ nāma gāmaṃ vā nigamaṃ vā osaṭo’ti.

he has come down

Te yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamanti.

they approach him.

Te bhagavā dhammiyā kathāya sandasseti samādapeti samuttejeti sampahaṃseti.

The Buddha educates, encourages, fires up, and inspires them with a Dhamma talk.

Te bhagavatā dhammiyā kathāya sandassitā samādapitā samuttejitā sampahaṃsitā na ceva bhagavantaṃ pañhaṃ pucchanti, kuto vādaṃ āropessanti?

They don’t even get around to asking their question to the Buddha, so how could they refute his answer?

Aññadatthu bhagavato sāvakā sampajjanti.

Invariably, they become his disciples.

Ayampi kho me, bhante, bhagavati dhammanvayo hoti:

So I infer this about the Buddha from the teaching:

‘sammāsambuddho bhagavā, svākkhāto bhagavatā dhammo, suppaṭipanno bhagavato sāvakasaṅgho’ti.

‘The Blessed One is a fully awakened Buddha. The teaching is well explained. The Saṅgha is practicing well.’

Puna caparāhaṃ, bhante, passāmi idhekacce brāhmaṇapaṇḍite ...pe...

Te suṇanti:

‘samaṇo khalu, bho, gotamo amukaṃ nāma gāmaṃ vā nigamaṃ vā osarissatī’ti.

Te pañhaṃ abhisaṅkharonti:

‘imaṃ mayaṃ pañhaṃ samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ upasaṅkamtivā pucchissāma.

Te suṇanti:

‘samaṇo khalu, bho, gotamo amukaṃ nāma gāmaṃ vā nigamaṃ vā osaṭo’ti.

They don’t even get around to asking their question to the Buddha, so how could they refute his answer?

Aññadatthu bhagavantaṃyeva okāsaṃ yācanti agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajjāya.

Invariably, they ask the ascetic Gotama for the chance to go forth.

Te bhagavā pabbājeti.

And he gives them the going-forth.

Te tathāpabbajitā samānā ekā vūpakaṭṭhā appamattā ātāpino pahitattā viharantā nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaraṃ—brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharanti.

Soon after going forth, living withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, they realize the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. They live having achieved with their own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

Te evamaṃsu:

They say:

‘manāṃ vata, bho, anassāma; manāṃ vata, bho, panassāma’.

‘We were almost lost! We almost perished!’

Mayaṅhi pubbe assamaṇāva samānā samaṇāmhāti paṭijānimhā, abrahmaṇāva samānā brāhmaṇāmhāti paṭijānimhā, anarahantova samānā arahantāmhāti paṭijānimhā.

For we used to claim that we were ascetics, brahmins, and perfected ones, but we were none of these things.

‘Idāni khomha samaṇā, idāni khomha brāhmaṇā, idāni khomha arahanto’ti.

But now we really are ascetics, brahmins, and perfected ones!’

Ayampi kho me, bhante, bhagavati dhammanvayo hoti:

So I infer this about the Buddha from the teaching:

‘sammāsambuddho bhagavā, svākkhāto bhagavatā dhammo, suppaṭipanno bhagavato sāvakasaṅgho’ti.

‘The Blessed One is a fully awakened Buddha. The teaching is well explained. The Saṅgha is practicing well.’

They spent most of the night discussing the teaching, then they lay down with their heads towards where the Buddha was and their feet towards me.

Tassa mayham, bhante, etadahosi:

It occurred to me:

‘acchariyam vata bho, abbhutam vata bho.

These chamberlains Isidatta and Purāṇa share my meals and my carriages. I give them a livelihood and bring them renown.

atha ca pana no tathā mayi nipaccakāram karonti yathā

And yet they don’t show me the same level of devotion that they show to the Buddha.

Addhā ime āyasmanto tassa bhagavato sāsane uḷāram pubbenāparam visesam jānantī’ti.

Clearly these venerables have realized a higher distinction in the Buddha’s instructions than they had before.’

Ayampi kho me, bhante, bhagavati dhammanvayo hoti:

So I infer this about the Buddha from the teaching:

‘sammāsambuddho bhagavā, svākkhāto bhagavatā dhammo, suppaṭipanno bhagavato sāvakaśaṅho’ti.

‘The Blessed One is a fully awakened Buddha. The teaching is well explained. The Saṅgha is practicing well.’

Puna caparam, bhante, bhagavāpi khattiyo, ahampi khattiyo;

Furthermore, the Buddha is an aristocrat, and so am I.

bhagavāpi kosalo, ahampi kosalo;

The Buddha is Kosalan, and so am I.

bhagavāpi āsītiko, ahampi āsītiko.

The Buddha is eighty years old, and so am I.

Yampi, bhante, bhagavāpi khattiyo ahampi khattiyo, bhagavāpi kosalo ahampi kosalo, bhagavāpi āsītiko ahampi āsītiko;

Since this is so,

imināvārahāmevāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavati paramanipaccakāraṃ kātum, mittūpahāraṃ upadamsetum.

it's proper for me to show the Buddha such utmost devotion and demonstrate such friendship.

Handa ca dāni mayaṃ, bhante, gacchāma;

Well, now, sir, I must go.

bahukiccā mayaṃ bahukaraṇīyā”ti.

I have many duties, and much to do.”

“Yassadāni tvam, mahārāja, kālaṃ maññasī”ti.

“Please, great king, go at your convenience.”

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo uṭṭhāyāsanā bhagavantam abhivādetvā padakkhiṇam katvā pakkāmi.

Then King Pasenadi got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before leaving.

Atha kho bhagavā acirapakkantassa rañño pasenadissa kosalassa bhikkhū āmantesi:

Soon after the king had left, the Buddha addressed the mendicants:

“eso, bhikkhave, rājā pasenadi kosalo dhammacetiyaṇi bhāsivā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkanto.

“Mendicants, before he got up and left, King Pasenadi spoke shrines to the teaching.

Uggaṇhatha, bhikkhave, dhammacetiyaṇi;

Learn these shrines to the teaching!

pariyāpuṇātha, bhikkhave, dhammacetiyaṇi;

Memorize these shrines to the teaching!

dhāretha, bhikkhave, dhammacetiyaṇi.

Remember these shrines to the teaching!

Atthasamhitāni, bhikkhave, dhammacetiyaṇi

These shrines to the teaching are beneficial and relate to the fundamentals of the spiritual life.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Dhammacetiyaṣuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ navamaṃ.

90. Kaṇṇakatthalasutta At Kaṇṇakatthala

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā uruññāyaṃ viharati kaṇṇakatthale migadāye.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Ujuñña, in the deer park at Kaṇṇakatthala.

Tena kho pana samayena rājā pasenadi kosalo uruññaṃ anupatto hoti kenacideva karaṇīyena.

Now at that time King Pasenadi of Kosala had arrived at Ujuñña on some business.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo aññataraṃ purisaṃ āmantesi:

Then he addressed a man,

“ehi tvaṃ, ambho purisa, yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkama;
upasaṅkamitvā mama vacanena bhagavato pāde siraṣā
vandāhi, appābādhaṃ appātaṅkaṃ lahuṭṭhānaṃ balaṃ
phāsuvihāraṃ puccha:

“Please, mister, go to the Buddha, and in my name bow with your head to his feet. Ask him if he is healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably.

‘rājā, bhante, pasenadi kosalo bhagavato pāde siraṣā vandati, appābādhaṃ appātaṅkaṃ lahuṭṭhānaṃ balaṃ phāsuvihāraṃ
pucchatī’ti;

evañca vadehi:

And then say:

‘ajja kira, bhante, rājā pasenadi kosalo pacchābhattam bhuttapātarāso bhagavantam dassanāya upasaṅkamissatī’”ti.

‘Sir, King Pasenadi of Kosala will come to see you today when he has finished breakfast.’”

“Evaṃ, devā”ti kho so puriso rañño pasenadissa kosalassa paṭissutvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantam nisīdi. Ekamantam nisinno kho so puriso bhagavantam etadavoca:

“Yes, Your Majesty,” that man replied. He did as the king asked.

“rājā, bhante, pasenadi kosalo bhagavato pāde sirasā vandati, appābādham appātaṅkam lahuṭṭhānam balaṃ phāsuvihāram
pucchati;

evañca vadeti:

‘ajja kira, bhante, rājā pasenadi kosalo pacchābhattam
bhuttapātarāso bhagavantam dassanāya upasaṅkamissatī’”ti.

Assosum kho somā ca bhaginī sakulā ca bhaginī:

The sisters Somā and Sakulā heard this.

“ajja kira rājā pasenadi kosalo pacchābhattam bhuttapātarāso bhagavantam dassanāya upasaṅkamissatī”ti.

Atha kho somā ca bhaginī sakulā ca bhaginī rājānam pasenadim kosalam bhattābhihāre upasaṅkamtivā etadavocum:

While the meal was being served, they approached the king and said,

“tena hi, mahārāja, amhākampi vacanena bhagavato pāde sirasā vandāhi, appābādham appātaṅkam lahuṭṭhānam balaṃ phāsuvihāram puccha:

“Great king, since you are going to the Buddha, please bow in our name with your head to his feet. Ask him if he is healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably.”

‘somā ca, bhante, bhaginī sakulā ca bhaginī bhagavato pāde sirasā vandati, appābādham appātaṅkam lahuṭṭhānam balaṃ phāsuvihāram pucchatī’”ti.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo pacchābhattaṃ bhuttapātarāso yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho rājā pasenadi kosalo bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he had finished breakfast, King Pasenadi went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him, “somā ca, bhante, bhaginī sakulā ca bhaginī bhagavato pāde sirasā vandati, appābādham appātaṅkam lahuṭṭhānam balaṃ phāsuvihāram pucchatī”ti.

“Sir, the sisters Somā and Sakulā bow with their heads to your feet. They ask if you are healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably.”

“Kiṃ pana, mahārāja, somā ca bhaginī sakulā ca bhaginī aññaṃ dūtaṃ nālatthun”ti?

“But, great king, couldn’t they get any other messenger?”

“Assosum kho, bhante, somā ca bhaginī sakulā ca bhaginī:

So Pasenadi explained the circumstances of the message.

‘ajja kira rājā pasenadi kosalo pacchābhattaṃ bhuttapātarāso bhagavantaṃ dassanāya upasaṅkamissatī’”ti.

Atha kho, bhante, somā ca bhaginī sakulā ca bhaginī maṃ bhattābhihāre upasaṅkamtivā etadavocum:

‘tena hi, mahārāja, amhākampi vacanena bhagavato pāde sirasā vandāhi, appābādham appātaṅkam lahuṭṭhānam balaṃ phāsuvihāram puccha—somā ca bhaginī sakulā ca bhaginī bhagavato pāde sirasā vandati, appābādham appātaṅkam lahuṭṭhānam balaṃ phāsuvihāram pucchatī’”ti.

“Sukhiniyo hontu tā, mahārāja, somā ca bhaginī sakulā ca bhaginī”ti.

The Buddha said, “May the sisters Somā and Sakulā be happy, great king.”

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo bhagavantam etadavoca:

Then the king said to the Buddha,

“sutam metam, bhante, samaṇo gotamo evamāha:

“I have heard, sir, that the ascetic Gotama says this:

‘natthi so samaṇo vā brāhmaṇo vā yo sabbaññū sabbadassāvī aparisesam ñāṇadassanam paṭijānissati, netam ṭhānam vijjatī’ti.

‘There is no ascetic or brahmin who will claim to be all-knowing and all-seeing, to know and see everything without exception: that is not possible.’

Ye te, bhante, evamāhaṃsu: ‘samaṇo gotamo evamāha—natthi so samaṇo vā brāhmaṇo vā yo sabbaññū sabbadassāvī aparisesam ñāṇadassanam paṭijānissati, netam ṭhānam vijjatī’ti; kacci te, bhante, bhagavato vuttavādino, na ca bhagavantam abhūtena abbhācikkhanti, dhammassa cānudhammam byākaronti, na ca koci sahadhammiko vādānuvādo gārayham ṭhānam āgacchatī’ti?

Do those who say this repeat what the Buddha has said, and not misrepresent him with an untruth? Is their explanation in line with the teaching? Are there any legitimate grounds for rebuke and criticism?”

“Ye te, mahārāja, evamāhaṃsu: ‘samaṇo gotamo evamāha—natthi so samaṇo vā brāhmaṇo vā yo sabbaññū sabbadassāvī aparisesam ñāṇadassanam paṭijānissati, netam ṭhānam vijjatī’ti; na me te vuttavādino, abbhācikkhanti ca pana mam te asatā abhūtenā”ti.

“Great king, those who say this do not repeat what I have said. They misrepresent me with what is false and untrue.”

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo viṭaṭūbhaṃ senāpatiṃ āmantesi:
Then King Pasenadi addressed General Viḍḍabha,

“ko nu kho, senāpati, imaṃ kathāvatthum rājantepure abbhudāhāsī”ti?

“General, who introduced this topic of discussion to the royal compound?”

“Sañjayo, mahārāja, brāhmaṇo ākāsagotto”ti.

“It was Sañjaya, great king, the brahmin of the Ākāsa clan.”

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo aññataram purisaṃ āmantesi:
Then the king addressed a man,

“ehi tvaṃ, ambho purisa, mama vacanena sañjayaṃ brāhmaṇaṃ ākāsagottaṃ āmantehi:

“Please, mister, in my name tell Sañjaya that ‘rājā taṃ, bhante, pasenadi kosalo āmantetī’”ti.

King Pasenadi summons him.”

“Evaṃ, devā”ti kho so puriso rañño pasenadissa kosalassa

“Yes, Your Majesty,” that man replied. He did as the king asked.

“rājā taṃ, bhante, pasenadi kosalo āmantetī”ti.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:
Then the king said to the Buddha,

“siyā nu kho, bhante, bhagavatā aññadeva kiñci sandhāya bhāsitaṃ, tañca jano aññathāpi paccāgaccheyya.

“Sir, might the Buddha have spoken in reference to one thing, but that person believed it was something else?”

Yathā kathaṃ pana, bhante, bhagavā abhijānāti vācaṃ bhāsitā”ti?

How then do you recall making this statement?”

“Evaṃ kho ahaṃ, mahārāja, abhijānāmi vācaṃ bhāsītā:

“Great king, I recall making this statement:

‘natthi so samaṇo vā brāhmaṇo vā yo sakideva sabbaṃ ñassati, sabbaṃ dakkhiti, netam̐ t̐hānam̐ vijjatī’”ti.

‘There is no ascetic or brahmin who knows all and sees all simultaneously: that is not possible.’”

“Heturūpaṃ, bhante, bhagavā āha; saheturūpaṃ, bhante, bhagavā āha:

“What the Buddha says appears reasonable.

‘natthi so samaṇo vā brāhmaṇo vā yo sakideva sabbaṃ ñassati, sabbaṃ dakkhiti, netam̐ t̐hānam̐ vijjatī’”ti.

Cattārome, bhante, vaṇṇā—

“Pañcimāni, mahārāja, padhāniyaṅgāni.

“Great king, there are these five factors that support meditation.

Katamāni pañca?

What five?

Idha, mahārāja, bhikkhu saddho hoti, saddahati tathāgatassa bodhiṃ:

It’s when a mendicant has faith in the Realized One’s awakening:

‘itipi so bhagavā arahaṃ sammāsambuddho

purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānaṃ buddho

bhagavā’ti;

appābādho hoti appātaṅko samavepākiniyā gahaṇiyā

samannāgato nātisītāya nāccuṇhāya majjhimāya

padhānakkhamāya;

They are rarely ill or unwell. Their stomach digests well, being neither too hot nor too cold, but just right, and fit for meditation.

asaṭho hoti amāyāvī yathābhūtaṃ attānaṃ āvikattā satthari vā viññūsu vā sabrahmacārīsu;

They're not devious or deceitful. They reveal themselves honestly to the Teacher or sensible spiritual companions.

āraddhavīriyo viharati akusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ pahānāya, kusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ upasampadāya, thāmaṃ vā daḥaparakkamo anikkhittadhuro kusalesu dhammesu;

They live with energy roused up for giving up unskillful qualities and embracing skillful qualities. They're strong, staunchly vigorous, not slacking off when it comes to developing skillful qualities.

paññavā hoti udayatthagāminiyā paññāya samannāgato ariyāya nibbedhikāya sammādukkhakkhayagāminiyā—

They're wise. They have the wisdom of arising and passing away which is noble, penetrative, and leads to the complete ending of suffering.

“What the Buddha says appears reasonable.

Kiṃ pana, bhante, atthi devā”ti?

But sir, do gods absolutely exist?”

“Kiṃ pana tvaṃ, mahārāja, evaṃ vadesi:

“But what exactly are you asking?”

‘kiṃ pana, bhante, atthi devā’”ti?

“Yadi vā te, bhante, devā āgantāro itthattaṃ yadi vā anāgantāro itthattaṃ”?

“Whether those gods come back to this state of existence or not.”

“Ye te, mahārāja, devā sabyābajjhā te devā āgantāro itthattaṃ, ye te devā abyābajjhā te devā anāgantāro itthattaṃ”ti.

“Those gods who are subject to affliction come back to this state of existence, but those free of affliction do not come back.”

Evaṃ vutte, viṭaṭṭubho senāpati bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he said this, General Viḍūḍabha said to the Buddha, “ye te, bhante, devā sabyābajjhā āgantāro itthattaṃ te devā, ye te devā abyābajjhā anāgantāro itthattaṃ te deve tamhā ṭhānā cāvessanti vā pabbājessanti vā”ti?

“Sir, will the gods subject to affliction topple or expel from their place the gods who are free of affliction?”

Atha kho āyasmato ānandassa etadahosi:

Then Venerable Ānanda thought,

“ayaṃ kho viṭaṭṭubho senāpati rañño pasenadissa kosalassa putto;

“This General Viḍūḍabha is King Pasenadi’s son,

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

Then the king said to the Buddha,

“konāmo ayaṃ, bhante, bhikkhū”ti?

“Sir, what is this mendicant’s name?”

“Ānando nāma, mahārājā”ti.

“Ānanda, great king.”

“Ānando vata bho, ānandarūpo vata bho.

“A joy he is, and a joy he seems!

Heturūpaṃ, bhante, āyasmā ānando āha; saheturūpaṃ, bhante, āyasmā ānando āha.

What Venerable Ānanda says seems reasonable.

Kim pana, bhante, atthi brahmā”ti?

But sir, does Brahmā absolutely exist?”

“Kim pana tvaṃ, mahārāja, evaṃ vadesi:

“But what exactly are you asking?”

‘kim pana, bhante, atthi brahmā”ti?

“Yadi vā so, bhante, brahmā āgantā itthattaṃ, yadi vā anāgantā itthattaṃ”ti?

“Whether that Brahmā comes back to this state of existence or not.”

“Yo so, mahārāja, brahmā sabyābajjho so brahmā āgantā itthattaṃ, yo so brahmā abyābajjho so brahmā anāgantā itthattaṃ”ti.

“Any Brahmā who is subject to affliction comes back to this state of existence, but those free of affliction do not come back.”

Atha kho aññataro puriso rājānaṃ pasenadiṃ kosalaṃ etadavoca:

Then a certain man said to the king,

“sañjāyo, mahārāja, brāhmaṇo ākāśagotto āgato”ti.

“Great king, Sañjāya, the brahmin of the Ākāśa clan, has come.”

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo sañjāyaṃ brāhmaṇaṃ ākāśagottaṃ etadavoca:

Then King Pasenadi asked Sañjāya,

“ko nu kho, brāhmaṇa, imaṃ kathāvatthuaṃ rājantepure abbhudāhāsī”ti?

“Brahmin, who introduced this topic of discussion to the royal compound?”

“Viṭṭhābho, mahārāja, senāpati”ti.

“It was General Viṭṭhābha, great king.”

Viṭṭhābho senāpati evamāha:

But Viṭṭhābha said,

“sañjāyo, mahārāja, brāhmaṇo ākāśagotto”ti.

“It was Sañjāya, great king, the brahmin of the Ākāśa clan.”

Atha kho aññataro puriso rājānaṃ pasenadiṃ kosalaṃ
etadavoca:

Then a certain man said to the king,

“yānakālo, mahārājā”ti.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

So the king said to the Buddha,

“sabbaññutaṃ mayaṃ, bhante, bhagavantaṃ apucchimhā, sabbaññutaṃ bhagavā byākāsi;

“Sir, I asked you about omniscience, and you answered.

tañca panamhākaṃ rucati ceva khamati ca, tena camhā
attamanā.

I like and accept this, and am satisfied with it.

Cātuvaṇṇisuddhiṃ mayaṃ, bhante, bhagavantaṃ apucchimhā, cātuvaṇṇisuddhiṃ bhagavā byākāsi;

I asked you about the four classes,

tañca panamhākaṃ rucati ceva khamati ca, tena camhā
attamanā.

Adhideve mayaṃ, bhante, bhagavantaṃ apucchimhā, adhideve bhagavā byākāsi;

about the gods,

tañca panamhākaṃ rucati ceva khamati ca, tena camhā
attamanā.

Adhibrahmānaṃ mayaṃ, bhante, bhagavantaṃ apucchimhā, adhibrahmānaṃ bhagavā byākāsi;

and about Brahmā, and you answered in each case.

tañca panamhākaṃ rucati ceva khamati ca, tena camhā
attamanā.

Yaṃ yadeva ca mayaṃ bhagavantaṃ apucchimhā taṃ tadeva
bhagavā byākāsi;

Whatever I asked the Buddha about, he answered.

tañca panamhākaṃ ruccati ceva khamati ca, tena camhā
attamanā.

I like and accept this, and am satisfied with it.

Handa ca dāni mayaṃ, bhante, gacchāma;

Well, now, sir, I must go.

bahukiccā mayaṃ bahukaraṇīyā”ti.

I have many duties, and much to do.”

“Yassadāni tvaṃ, mahārāja, kālaṃ maññasī”ti.

“Please, great king, go at your convenience.”

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsanā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā pakkāmīti.

Then King Pasenadi approved and agreed with what the Buddha said. Then he got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before leaving.

Kaṇṇakatthalasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ dasamaṃ.

Rājavaggo niṭṭhito catuttho.

Tassuddānaṃ

Ghaṭikāro raṭṭhapālo, maghadevo madhuriyaṃ;
Bodhi aṅgulimālo ca,
piyajātaṃ bāhitikaṃ;
Dhammacetiyasuttañca,
dasamaṃ kaṇṇakatthalaṃ.

5. The Division on Brahmins Brāhmaṇavagga

91. Brahmāyusutta With Brahmāyu

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava videhesu carikam carati mahata bhikkhusanghena saddhim pancamattehi bhikkhusatehi.

At one time the Buddha was wandering in the land of the Videhans together with a large Sangha of five hundred mendicants.

Tena kho pana samayena brahmaṃyu brahmaṇo mithilāyam paṭivasati jīṇṇo vuḍḍho mahallako addhagato vayoanuppatto, vīsavassasatiko jātiyā, tiṇṇam vedānam pāragū sanighaṇḍukeṭubhānam sākkharappabhedānam itihāsapāñcamānam, padako, veyyākaraṇo, lokāyatamahāpurisalakkhaṇesu anavayo.

Now at that time the brahmin Brahmāyu was residing in Mithilā. He was old, elderly, and senior, advanced in years, having reached the final stage of life; he was a hundred and twenty years old. He had mastered the three Vedas, together with their vocabularies, ritual, phonology and etymology, and the testament as fifth. He knew philology and grammar, and was well versed in cosmology and the marks of a great man.

Assosi kho brahmaṃyu brahmaṇo:

He heard:

“samaṇo khalu bho, gotamo sakyaputto sakyakulā pabbajito videhesu carikam carati mahata bhikkhusanghena saddhim pañcamattehi bhikkhusatehi.

“It seems the ascetic Gotama—a Sakyan, gone forth from a Sakyan family—is wandering in the land of the Videhans, together with a large Saṅgha of around five hundred mendicants.

Taṃ kho pana bhavantam gotamam evam kalyāṇo kittisaddo abbhuggato:

He has this good reputation:

‘itipi so bhagavā araham sammāsambuddho
vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānam buddho
bhagavā’ti.

‘That Blessed One is perfected, a fully awakened Buddha, accomplished in knowledge and conduct, holy, knower of the world, supreme guide for those who wish to train, teacher of gods and humans, awakened, blessed.’

So imam lokam sadevakam samarakam sabrahmakam
sassamaṇabrāhmaṇim pajam sadevamanusam sayam abhiññā
sacchikatvā pavedeti.

He has realized with his own insight this world—with its gods, Māras and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, gods and humans—and he makes it known to others.

So dhammam deseti ādikalyāṇam majjhekalyāṇam
pariyosānakalyāṇam sāttham sabyañjanam, kevalaparipuṇṇam
parisuddham brahmacariyam pakāseti.

He explains a teaching that’s good in the beginning, good in the middle, and good in the end, meaningful and well-phrased. And he reveals a spiritual practice that’s entirely full and pure.

Sādhu kho pana tathārūpānam arahatam dassanam hoti’ti.

It’s good to see such perfected ones.”

Tena kho pana samayena brahmāyussa brāhmaṇassa uttaro nāma māṇavo antevāsī hoti tiṇṇam vedānam pāragū sanighaṇḍukeṭubhānam sākkharappahedānam

itihāsapañcamānaṃ, padako, veyyākaraṇo,
lokāyatamahāpurisalakkhaṇesu anavayo.

Now at that time the brahmin Brahmāyu had a student named Uttara. He too had mastered the Vedic curriculum.

Atha kho brahmāyu brāhmaṇo uttaraṃ māṇavaṃ āmantesi:
Brahmāyu told Uttara of the Buddha's presence in the land of the Videhans, and added:

“ayaṃ, tāta uttara, samaṇo gotamo sakyaputto sakyakuḷā pabbajito videhesu cārikaṃ carati mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhiṃ pañcamattehi bhikkhusatehi.

Taṃ kho pana bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ evaṃ kalyāṇo kittisaddo
abhuggato:

‘itipi so bhagavā arahaṃ sammāsambuddho ...pe...

sādhu kho pana tathārūpānaṃ arahataṃ dassanaṃ hotī’ti.

Ehi tvaṃ, tāta uttara, yena samaṇo gotamo tenupasaṅkama;
upasaṅkavitvā samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ jānāhi, yadi vā taṃ bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ tathā santaṃyeva saddo abhuggato, yadi vā no tathā;

“Please, dear Uttara, go to the ascetic Gotama and find out whether or not he lives up to his reputation.

yadi vā so bhavaṃ gotamo tādiso, yadi vā na tādiso.

Tathā mayaṃ taṃ bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ vedissāma”ti.

Through you I shall learn about Master Gotama.”

“Yathā kathaṃ panāhaṃ, bho, taṃ bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ jānissāmi yadi vā taṃ bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ tathā santaṃyeva saddo abhuggato, yadi vā no tathā;

“But sir, how shall I find out whether or not the ascetic Gotama lives up to his reputation?”

yadi vā so bhavaṃ gotamo tādiso, yadi vā na tādiso”ti.

“Āgatāni kho, tāta uttara, amhākaṃ mantesu dvattiṃsamahāpurisalakkhaṇāni, yehi samannāgatassa mahāpurisassa dveveva gatiyo bhavanti anaññā.

“Dear Uttara, the thirty-two marks of a great man have been handed down in our hymns. A great man who possesses these has only two possible destinies, no other.

Sace agāraṃ ajjhāvasati, rājā hoti cakkavattī dhammiko dhammarājā cāturanto vijitāvī janapadatthāvariyaṃ sattaratanasamannāgato.

If he stays at home he becomes a king, a wheel-turning monarch, a just and principled king. His dominion extends to all four sides, he achieves stability in the country, and he possesses the seven treasures.

Tassimāni satta ratanāni bhavanti, seyyathidaṃ—

He has the following seven treasures:

cakkaratanaṃ, hatthirātanaṃ, assarātanaṃ, maṇiratanaṃ, itthirātanaṃ, gahapatiratanaṃ, pariṇāyakarātanaṃ sattamaṃ.

the wheel, the elephant, the horse, the jewel, the woman, the treasurer, and the counselor as the seventh treasure.

Parosahassaṃ kho panassa puttā bhavanti sūrā vīraṅgarūpā parasenappamaddanā.

He has over a thousand sons who are valiant and heroic, crushing the armies of his enemies.

So imaṃ pathaviṃ sāgarapariyantaṃ adaṇḍena asatthena dhammena abhivijaya ajjhāvasati.

After conquering this land girt by sea, he reigns by principle, without rod or sword.

Sace kho pana agāraṃ anagāriyaṃ pabbajati, arahāṃ hoti sammāsambuddho loke vivattaṅgachado.

But if he goes forth from the lay life to homelessness, he becomes a perfected one, a fully awakened Buddha, who draws back the veil from the world.

Ahaṃ kho pana, tāta uttara, mantānaṃ dātā;
But, dear Uttara, I am the one who gives the hymns, tvam mantānaṃ paṭiggahetā”ti.

and you are the one who receives them.”

“Evaṃ, bho”ti kho uttaro māṇavo brahmāyussa brāhmaṇassa paṭissutvā uṭṭhāyāsanā brahmāyuṃ brāhmaṇaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā videhesu yena bhagavā tena cārikaṃ pakkāmi.

“Yes, sir,” replied Uttara. He got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled Brahmāyu before setting out for the land of the Videhans where the Buddha was wandering.

Anupubbena cārikaṃ caramāno yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

Traveling stage by stage, he came to the Buddha and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ
nisīdi.

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side,

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho uttaro māṇavo bhagavato kāye dvattiṃsamahāpurisalakkhaṇāni samannesī.

and scrutinized his body for the thirty-two marks of a great man.

Addasā kho uttaro māṇavo bhagavato kāye dvattiṃsamahāpurisalakkhaṇāni, yebhuyyena thapetvā dve.

He saw all of them except for two,

Dvīsu mahāpurisalakkhaṇesu kaṅkhati vicikicchati
nādhimuccati na sampasīdati—

which he had doubts about:

kosohite ca vatthaguyhe pahūtajivhatāya ca.

whether the private parts are retracted, and the largeness of the tongue.

Atha kho bhagavato etadahosi:

Then it occurred to the Buddha,

“passati kho me ayaṃ uttaro māṇavo
dvattiṃsamahāpurisalakkhaṇāni, yebhuyyena thapetvā dve.

“This brahmin student Uttara sees all the marks except for two,

Dvīsu mahāpurisalakkhaṇesu kaṅkhati vicikicchati
nādhimuccati na sampasīdati—

which he has doubts about:

kosohite ca vatthaguyhe pahūtajivhatāya cā”ti.

whether the private parts are retracted, and the largeness of the tongue.”

Atha kho bhagavā tathārūpaṃ iddhābhisaṅkhāraṃ abhisaṅkhāsi yathā addasa uttaro māṇavo bhagavato kosohitaṃ vatthaguyhaṃ.

So the Buddha used his psychic power to will that Uttara would see his retracted private parts.

Atha kho bhagavā jivhaṃ ninnāmetvā ubhopi kaṅṅasotāni anumasi paṭimasi; ubhopi nāsikasotāni anumasi paṭimasi;
kevalampi nalāṭamaṅḍalaṃ jivhāya chādesi.

And he stuck out his tongue and stroked back and forth on his ear holes and nostrils, and covered his entire forehead with his tongue.

Atha kho uttarassa māṇavassa etadahosi:

Then Uttara thought,

“samannāgato kho samaṇo gotamo dvattiṃsamahāpurisalakkhaṇehi.

“The ascetic Gotama possesses the thirty-two marks.

Yannūnāhaṃ samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ anubandheyyaṃ, iriyāpathamassa passeyyaṃ”ti.

Why don't I follow him and observe his deportment?”

Atha kho uttaro māṇavo sattamāsāni bhagavantam anubandhi chāyāva anapāyinī.

So Uttara followed the Buddha like a shadow for seven months.

Atha kho uttaro māṇavo sattannaṃ māsānaṃ accayena videhesu yena mithilā tena cārikaṃ pakkāmi.

When seven months had passed he set out wandering towards Mithilā.

Anupubbena cārikaṃ caramāno yena mithilā yena brahmāyu brāhmaṇo tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā brahmāyuraṃ brāhmaṇaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho uttaraṃ māṇavaṃ brahmāyu brāhmaṇo etadavoca:

There he approached the brahmin Brahmāyu, bowed, and sat down to one side. Brahmāyu said to him, “kacci, tāta uttara, taṃ bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ tathā santaṃyeva saddo abbhuggato, no aññathā?

“Well, dear Uttara, does Master Gotama live up to his reputation or not?”

Kacci pana so bhavaṃ gotamo tādiso, no aññādiso”ti?

“Tathā santaṃyeva, bho, taṃ bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ saddo abbhuggato, no aññathā;

“He does, sir.

tādisova so bhavaṃ gotamo, no aññādiso.

Samannāgato ca so bhavaṃ gotamo dvattiṃsamahāpurisalakkhaṇehi.

Master Gotama possesses the thirty-two marks.

Suppatitṭhitapādo kho pana bho bhavaṃ gotamo;

He has well-planted feet.

idampi tassa bhoto gotamassa mahāpurisassa mahāpurisalakkhaṇaṃ bhavati. (1)

Heṭṭhā kho pana tassa bhoto gotamassa pādatalesu cakkāni jātāni sahasārāni sanemikāni sanābhikāni sabbākāraparipūrāni ... (2)

On the soles of his feet there are thousand-spoked wheels, with rims and hubs, complete in every detail.

Āyatapaṇhi kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (3)
He has projecting heels.

Dīghaṅguli kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (4)
He has long fingers.

Mudutalunahatthapādo kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (5)
His hands and feet are tender.

Jālahatthapādo kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (6)
His hands and feet cling gracefully.

Ussaṅkhapādo kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (7)
His feet are arched.

Eṇijaṅgho kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (8)
His calves are like those of an antelope.

Ṭhitako kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo anonamanto ubhohi pāṇitalehi jaṇṇukāni parimasati parimajjati ... (9)
When standing upright and not bending over, the palms of both hands touch the knees.

Kosohitavatthaguyho kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (10)

His private parts are retracted.

Suvaṇṇavaṇṇo kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo kañcanasannibhattaco ... (11)

He is gold colored; his skin has a golden sheen.

Sukhumacchavi kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo. Sukhumattā chaviyā rajojallaṃ kāye na upalimpati ... (12)

He has delicate skin, so delicate that dust and dirt don't stick to his body.

Ekekalomo kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo; ekekāni lomāni lomakūpesu jātāni ... (13)

His hairs grow one per pore.

Uddhaggalomo kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo; uddhaggāni lomāni jātāni nīlāni añjanavaṇṇāni kuṇḍalāvaṭṭāni dakkhiṇāvaṭṭakajātāni ... (14)

His hairs stand up; they're blue-black and curl clockwise.

Brahmujugatto kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (15)

His body is as straight as Brahmā's.

Sattussado kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (16)

He has bulging muscles in seven places.

Sīhapubbaddhakāyo kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (17)

His chest is like that of a lion.

Citantaraṃso kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (18)

The gap between the shoulder-blades is filled in.

Nigrodhaparimaṇḍalo kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo; yāvatakvaṣṣa kāyo tāvatakvaṣṣa byāmo, yāvatakvaṣṣa byāmo tāvatakvaṣṣa kāyo ... (19)

He has the proportional circumference of a banyan tree: the span of his arms equals the height of his body.

Samavaṭṭakkhandho kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (20)

His torso is cylindrical.

Rasaggasaggī kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (21)

He has an excellent sense of taste.

Sīhahanu kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (22)

His jaw is like that of a lion.

Cattālīsadanto kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (23)

He has forty teeth.

Samadanto kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (24)

His teeth are even.

Aviraḷadanto kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (25)

His teeth have no gaps.

Susukkadāṭho kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (26)

His teeth are perfectly white.

Pahūtajivho kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (27)

He has a large tongue.

Brahmassaro kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo karavikabhāṇī ...
(28)

He has the voice of Brahmā, like a cuckoo's call.

Abhinīlanetto kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (29)

His eyes are deep blue.

Gopakhumo kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo ... (30)

He has eyelashes like a cow's.

Uṇṇā kho panassa bhoto gotamassa bhamukantare jātā odātā mudutūlasannibhā ... (31)

Between his eyebrows there grows a tuft, soft and white like cotton-wool.

Uṇhīsasīso kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo; idampi tassa bhoto gotamassa mahāpurisassa mahāpurisalakkhaṇaṃ bhavati. (32)

His head is shaped like a turban.

Imehi kho, bho, so bhavaṃ gotamo dvattiṃsamahāpurisalakkhaṇehi samannāgato.

These are the thirty-two marks of a great man possessed by Master Gotama.

Gacchanto kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo dakkhiṇeneva pādena paṭhamaṃ pakkamati.

When he's walking he takes the first step with the right foot.

So nātidūre pādaṃ uddharati, nāccāsanne pādaṃ nikkhipati;

He doesn't lift his foot too far or place it too near.

so nātisīghaṃ gacchati, nātisaṇikaṃ gacchati;

He doesn't walk too slow or too fast.

na ca adduvena adduvaṃ saṅghaṭṭento gacchati, na ca gopphakena gopphakaṃ saṅghaṭṭento gacchati.

He walks without knocking his knees or ankles together.

So gacchanto na satthiṃ unnāmeti, na satthiṃ onāmeti; na satthiṃ sannāmeti, na satthiṃ vināmeti.

When he's walking he keeps his thighs neither too straight nor too bent, neither too tight nor too loose.

Gacchato kho pana tassa bhoto gotamassa adharakāyova iñjati, na ca kāyabalena gacchati.

When he walks, only the lower half of his body moves, and he walks effortlessly.

Apalokento kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo sabbakāyeneva apaloketi;

When he turns to look he does so with the whole body.

so na uddhaṃ ulloketi, na adho oloketi;

He doesn't look directly up or down.

na ca vipekkhamāno gacchati, yugamattañca pekkhati; tato cassa uttari anāvaṭaṃ ñāṇadassanaṃ bhavati.

He doesn't look all around while walking, but focuses a plough's length in front. Beyond that he has unhindered knowledge and vision.

So antaragharaṃ pavisanto na kāyaṃ unnāmeti, na kāyaṃ onāmeti; na kāyaṃ sannāmeti, na kāyaṃ vināmeti.

When entering an inhabited area he keeps his body neither too straight nor too bent, neither too tight nor too loose.

So nātidūre nāccāsanne āsanassa parivattati, na ca pāṇinā ālambitvā āsane nisīdati, na ca āsanasmim̐ kāyaṃ pakkhipati.

He turns around neither too far nor too close to the seat. He doesn't lean on his hand when sitting down. And he doesn't just plonk his body down on the seat.

So antaraghare nisinno samāno na hatthakukkuccaṃ āpajjati, na pādakukkuccaṃ āpajjati;

When sitting in inhabited areas he doesn't fidget with his hands or feet.

na adduvena adduvaṃ āropetvā nisīdati; na ca gopphakena gopphakaṃ āropetvā nisīdati;

He doesn't sit with his knees or ankles crossed.

na ca pāṇinā hanukaṃ upadahitvā nisīdati.

He doesn't sit with his hand holding his chin.

So antaraghare nisinno samāno na chambhati na kampati na vedhati na paritassati. So achambhī akampī avedhī aparitassī vigatalomahaṃso.

When sitting in inhabited areas he doesn't cower or shake or tremble or get anxious, and so he is not nervous at all.

Vivekavatto ca so bhavaṃ gotamo antaraghare nisinno hoti.

When sitting in inhabited areas he still practices seclusion.

So pattodakaṃ paṭiggaṇhanto na pattaṃ unnāmeti, na pattaṃ onāmeti; na pattaṃ sannāmeti, na pattaṃ vināmeti.

When receiving water for rinsing the bowl, he holds the bowl neither too straight nor too bent, neither too tight nor too loose.

So pattodakaṃ paṭiggaṇhāti nātithokaṃ nātibahuṃ.

He receives neither too little nor too much water.

So na khulukhulukāraṃ pattaṃ dhovati, na samparivattakaṃ pattaṃ dhovati, na pattaṃ bhūmiyaṃ nikkhipitvā hatthe dhovati; hatthesu dhotesu patto dhoti hoti, patte dhote hatthā dhotā honti.

He rinses the bowl without making a sloshing noise, or spinning it around. He doesn't put the bowl on the ground to rinse his hands; his hands and bowl are rinsed at the same time.

So pattodakaṃ chaḍḍeti nātidūre nāccāsanne, na ca vicchaḍḍayamāno.

He doesn't throw the bowl rinsing water away too far or too near, or splash it about.

So odanaṃ paṭiggaṇhanto na pattaṃ unnāmeti, na pattaṃ onāmeti; na pattaṃ sannāmeti, na pattaṃ vināmeti.

When receiving rice, he holds the bowl neither too straight nor too bent, neither too close nor too loose.

So odanaṃ paṭiggaṇhāti nātithokaṃ nātibahuṃ.

He receives neither too little nor too much rice.

Byañjanaṃ kho pana bhavaṃ gotamo byañjanamattāya āhāreti, na ca byañjanena ālopaṃ atināmeti.

He eats sauce in a moderate proportion, and doesn't spend too much time saucing his portions.

Dvattikkhattuṃ kho bhavaṃ gotamo mukhe ālopaṃ samparivattetvā ajjhoharati;

He chews over each portion two or three times before swallowing.

na cassa kāci odanamiñjā asambhinnā kāyaṃ pavisati, na cassa kāci odanamiñjā mukhe avasiṭṭhā hoti;

But no grain of rice enters his body unchewed, and none remain in his mouth.

athāparaṃ ālopaṃ upanāmeti.

Only then does he raise another portion to his lips.

Rasapaṭisaṃvedī kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo āhāraṃ āhāreti, no ca rasarāgapaṭisaṃvedī.

He eats experiencing the taste, but without experiencing greed for the taste.

Aṭṭhaṅgasamannāgataṃ kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo āhāraṃ āhāreti—

He eats food thinking of eight reasons:

neva davāya, na madāya na maṇḍanāya na vibhūsanāya, yāvadeva imassa kāyassa ṭhitiyā yāpanāya, vihiṃsūparatiyā brahmacariyānuggahāya: 'iti purāṇaṅca vedanaṃ paṭihaṅkhāmi navaṅca vedanaṃ na uppādessāmi, yātrā ca me bhavissati anavajjatā ca phāsuvihāro cā'ti.

'Not for fun, indulgence, adornment, or decoration, but only to sustain this body, to avoid harm, and to support spiritual practice. In this way, I shall put an end to old discomfort and not give rise to new discomfort, and I will live blamelessly and at ease.'

So bhuttāvī pattodakaṃ paṭiggaṇhanto na pattaṃ unnāmeti, na pattaṃ onāmeti; na pattaṃ sannāmeti, na pattaṃ vināmeti.

After eating, when receiving water for washing the bowl, he holds the bowl neither too straight nor too bent, neither too tight nor too loose.

So pattodakaṃ paṭiggaṇhāti nātithokaṃ nātibahuṃ.

He receives neither too little nor too much water.

So na khulukhulukāraṃ pattaṃ dhovati, na samparivattakaṃ pattaṃ dhovati, na pattaṃ bhūmiyaṃ nikkhipitvā hatthe dhovati; hatthesu dhotesu patto dhoti hoti, patte dhote hatthā dhotā honti.

He washes the bowl without making a sloshing noise, or spinning it around. He doesn't put the bowl on the ground to wash his hands; his hands and bowl are washed at the same time.

So pattodakaṃ chaḍḍeti nātidūre nāccāsanne, na ca vicchaḍḍayamāno.

He doesn't throw the bowl washing water away too far or too near, or splash it about.

So bhuttāvī na pattaṃ bhūmiyaṃ nikkhipati nātidūre nāccāsanne, na ca anathiko pattena hoti, na ca ativelānurakkhī pattasmim̃.

After eating he doesn't put the bowl on the ground too far away or too close. He's not careless with his bowl, nor does he spend too much time on it.

So bhuttāvī muhuttaṃ tuṅhī nisīdati, na ca anumodanassa kālamatināmeti.

After eating he sits for a while in silence, but doesn't wait too long to give the verses of appreciation.

So bhuttāvī anumodati, na taṃ bhattaṃ garahati, na aññaṃ bhattaṃ paṭikaṅkhati;

After eating he expresses appreciation without criticizing the meal or expecting another one.

aññadatthu dhammiyā kathāya taṃ parisam sandasseti samādapeti samuttejeti sampahaṃseti.

Invariably, he educates, encourages, fires up, and inspires that assembly with a Dhamma talk.

So taṃ parisam dhammiyā kathāya sandassetvā samādapetvā samuttejetvā sampahaṃsetvā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkamati.

Then he gets up from his seat and leaves.

So nātisīghaṃ gacchati, nātisaṇikaṃ gacchati, na ca muccitukāmo gacchati;

He walks neither too fast nor too slow, without wanting to get out of there.

na ca tassa bhoto gotamassa kāye cīvaraṃ accukkaṭṭhaṃ hoti na ca accokkaṭṭhaṃ, na ca kāyasmim̐ allīnaṃ na ca kāyasmā apakaṭṭhaṃ;

He wears his robe on his body neither too high nor too low, neither too tight nor too loose.

na ca tassa bhoto gotamassa kāyamhā vāto cīvaraṃ apavahati;

The wind doesn't blow his robe off his body.

na ca tassa bhoto gotamassa kāye rajojallaṃ upalimpati.

And dust and dirt don't stick to his body.

So āramagato nisīdati paññatte āsane. Nisajja pāde pakkhāleti;

When he has gone to the monastery he sits on a seat spread out and washes his feet.

na ca so bhavaṃ gotamo pādamaṇḍanānuyogamanuyutto viharati.

But he doesn't waste time with pedicures.

So pāde pakkhāletvā nisīdati pallaṅkaṃ ābhujitvā ujum̐ kāyaṃ paṇidhāya parimukhaṃ satim̐ upaṭṭhapetvā.

When he has washed his feet, he sits down cross-legged, with his body straight, and establishes mindfulness right there.

So neva attabyābādhāya ceteti, na parabyābādhāya ceteti, na ubhayabyābādhāya ceteti;

He has no intention to hurt himself, hurt others, or hurt both.

attahitaparahitaubhayahitasabbalokahitameva so bhavaṃ gotamo cintento nisinno hoti.

He only wishes for the welfare of himself, of others, of both, and of the whole world.

So ārāmagato parisati dhammaṃ deseti, na taṃ parisam ussādeti, na taṃ parisam apasādeti;

In the monastery when he teaches Dhamma to an assembly, he neither flatters them nor rebukes them.

aññadatthu dhammiyā kathāya taṃ parisam sandasseti samādapeti samuttejeti sampahaṃseti.

Invariably, he educates, encourages, fires up, and inspires that assembly with a Dhamma talk.

Aṭṭhaṅgasamannāgato kho panassa bhoto gotamassa mukhato ghoso niccharati—

His voice has eight qualities:

vissatṭho ca, viññeyyo ca, mañju ca, savanīyo ca, bindu ca, avisārī ca, gambhīro ca, ninnādī ca.

it is clear, comprehensible, charming, audible, rounded, undistorted, deep, and resonant.

Yathāparisam kho pana so bhavaṃ gotamo sarena viññāpeti, na cassa bahiddhā parisāya ghoso niccharati.

He makes sure his voice is intelligible as far as the assembly goes, but it doesn't extend outside the assembly.

Te tena bhotā gotamena dhammiyā kathāya sandassitā samādapitā samuttejitā sampahaṃsitā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkamanti avalokayamānāyeva avijahitattā.

And when they've been inspired with a Dhamma talk by Master Gotama they get up from their seats and leave looking back at him alone, and not forgetting their lesson.

Addasāma kho mayam, bho, tam bhavantam gotamam

I have seen Master Gotama walking and standing; entering inhabited areas, and sitting and eating there; sitting silently after eating, and expressing appreciation; going to the monastery, sitting silently there, and teaching Dhamma to an assembly there.

Ediso ca ediso ca so bhavam gotamo, tato ca bhiyyo”ti.

Such is Master Gotama; such he is and more than that.”

Evaṃ vutte, brahmāyu brāhmaṇo uṭṭhāyāsanā ekaṃsaṃ uttarāsaṅgam karitvā yena bhagavā tenañjalim paṇāmetvā tikkhattum udānam udāneti:

When he had spoken, the brahmin Brahmāyu got up from his seat, arranged his robe over one shoulder, knelt on his right knee, raised his joined palms toward the Buddha, and uttered this aphorism three times:

“Namo tassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa.

“Homage to that Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha!

Namo tassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa.

Homage to that Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha!

Namo tassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassāti.

Homage to that Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha!

Appeva nāma mayam kadāci karahaci tena bhotā gotamena samāgaccheyyāma? Appeva nāma siyā kocideva kathāsallāpo”ti.

Hopefully, some time or other I’ll get to meet him, and we can have a discussion.”

Atha kho bhagavā videhesu anupubbena cārikaṃ caramāno yena mithilā tadavasari.

And then the Buddha, traveling stage by stage in the Videhan lands, arrived at Mithilā, Tatra sudamṃ bhagavā mithilāyaṃ viharati maghadevaambavane.

where he stayed in the Makhādeva Mango Grove.

Assosumṃ kho mithileyyakā brāhmaṇagahapatikā:

The brahmins and householders of Mithilā heard:

“samaṇo khalu, bho, gotamo sakyaputto sakyakulā pabbajito videhesu cārikaṃ caramāno mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhim pañcamattehi bhikkhusatehi mithilam anupatto, mithilāyaṃ viharati maghadevaambavane.

“It seems the ascetic Gotama—a Sakyan, gone forth from a Sakyan family—has arrived at Mithilā, where he is staying in the Makhādeva Mango Grove.

Tam kho pana bhavantam gotamam evam kalyāṇo kittisaddo abbhuggato:

He has this good reputation:

‘itipi so bhagavā arahamṃ sammāsambuddho vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānam buddho bhagavā’ti.

‘That Blessed One is perfected, a fully awakened Buddha, accomplished in knowledge and conduct, holy, knower of the world, supreme guide for those who wish to train, teacher of gods and humans, awakened, blessed.’

So imaṃ lokam sadevakam samārakam sabrahmakam sassamaṇabrāhmaṇim pajam sadevamanussam sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā pavedeti.

He has realized with his own insight this world—with its gods, Māras and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, gods and humans—and he makes it known to others.

So dhammam deseti ādikalyāṇam majjhekalyāṇam pariyosānakalyāṇam sāttham sabyañjanam, kevalaparipuṇṇam parisuddham brahmacariyam pakāseti.

He teaches Dhamma that’s good in the beginning, good in the middle, and good in the end, meaningful and well-phrased. And he reveals a spiritual practice that’s entirely full and pure.

Sādhu kho pana tathārūpānam arahatam dassanam hoti”ti.
It’s good to see such perfected ones.”

Atha kho mithileyyakā brāhmaṇagahapatikā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā appekacce bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantam nisīdimsu; appekacce bhagavatā saddhim sammodimsu, sammodaniyam katham sāraṇiyam vītisāretvā ekamantam nisīdimsu; appekacce yena bhagavā tenañjalim paṇāmetvā ekamantam nisīdimsu; appekacce bhagavato santike nāmagottam sāvetvā ekamantam nisīdimsu; appekacce tuṅhībhūtā ekamantam nisīdimsu.

Then the brahmins and householders of Mithilā went up to the Buddha. Before sitting down to one side, some bowed, some exchanged greetings and polite conversation, some held up their joined palms toward the Buddha, some announced their name and clan, while some kept silent.

Assosi kho brahmāyu brāhmaṇo: “samaṇo khalu, bho, gotamo sakyaputto sakyakulā pabbajito mithilam̐ anuppatto, mithilāyam̐ viharati maghadevaambavane”ti.

The brahmin Brahmāyu also heard that the Buddha had arrived.

Atha kho brahmāyu brāhmaṇo sambahulehi sāvakehi saddhim̐ yena maghadevaambavanam̐ tenupasaṅkami.

So he went to the Makhādeva Mango Grove together with several disciples.

Atha kho brahmāyuno brāhmaṇassa avidūre ambavanassa etadahosi:

Not far from the grove he thought,

“na kho metaṃ patirūpaṃ yohaṃ pubbe appaṭisaṃvidito samaṇam̐ gotamam̐ dassanāya upasaṅkameyyan”ti.

“It wouldn’t be appropriate for me to go to see the ascetic Gotama without first letting him know.”

Atha kho brahmāyu brāhmaṇo aññataram̐ māṇavakam̐ āmantesi:

So he addressed one of his students:

“ehi tvaṃ, māṇavaka, yena samaṇo gotamo tenupasaṅkama; upasaṅkamtivā mama vacanena samaṇam̐ gotamam̐ appābādham̐ appātaṅkam̐ lahuṭṭhānam̐ balaṃ phāsuvihāram̐ puccha:

“Here, student, go to the ascetic Gotama and in my name bow with your head to his feet. Ask him if he is healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably.

‘brahmāyu, bho gotama, brāhmaṇo bhavantam̐ gotamam̐ appābādham̐ appātaṅkam̐ lahuṭṭhānam̐ balaṃ phāsuvihāram̐ pucchatī’ti.

Evañca vadehi:

And then say:

‘brahmāyu, bho gotama, brāhmaṇo jiṇṇo vuḍḍho mahallako addhagato vayoanupatto, vīsavassasatiko jātiyā, tiṇṇaṃ vedānaṃ pāragū sanighaṇḍukeṭubhānaṃ sākkharappabhedānaṃ itihāsapañcamānaṃ, padako, veyyākaraṇo, lokāyatamahāpurisalakkhaṇesu anavayo.

‘Master Gotama, the brahmin Brahmāyu is old, elderly, and senior, advanced in years, having reached the final stage of life; he is a hundred and twenty years old. He has mastered the three Vedas, together with their vocabularies, ritual, phonology and etymology, and the testament as fifth. He knows philology and grammar, and is well versed in cosmology and the marks of a great man.

Yāvatā, bho, brāhmaṇagahapatikā mithilāyaṃ paṭivasanti, brahmāyu tesaṃ brāhmaṇo aggamakkhāyati—

Of all the brahmins and householders residing in Mithilā, Brahmāyu is said to be the foremost in yadidaṃ bhogehi;

wealth,

brahmāyu tesaṃ brāhmaṇo aggamakkhāyati—

yadidaṃ mantehi;

hymns,

brahmāyu tesaṃ brāhmaṇo aggamakkhāyati—

yadidaṃ āyunā ceva yasaṃ ca.

lifespan, and fame.

So bho gotamassa dassanakāmo”ti.

He wants to see Master Gotama.”

“Evaṃ, bho”ti kho so māṇavako brahmāyussa brāhmaṇassa paṭissutvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamitvā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

“Yes, sir,” that student replied. He did as he was asked, and the Buddha said, Sammodaniyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇiyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi. Ekamantaṃ ṭhito kho so māṇavako bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

“brahmāyu, bho gotama, brāhmaṇo bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ appābādhaṃ appātaṅkaṃ lahuṭṭhānaṃ balaṃ phāsuvihāraṃ pucchati;

evañca vadeti:

‘brahmāyu, bho gotama, brāhmaṇo jiṇṇo vuḍḍho mahallako addhagato vayoanuppatto, vīsavassasatiko jātiyā, tiṇṇaṃ vedānaṃ pāragū sanighaṇḍukeṭubhānaṃ sākkaḥarappabhedānaṃ itihāsapañcamānaṃ, padaḥko, veyyākaraṇo, lokāyatamahāpurisalakkhaṇesu anavayo.

Yāvatā, bho, brāhmaṇagahapatikā mithilāyaṃ paṭivasanti, brahmāyu tesaṃ brāhmaṇo aggamakkhāyati—

yadidaṃ bhogehi;

brahmāyu tesaṃ brāhmaṇo aggamakkhāyati—

yadidaṃ mantehi;

brahmāyu tesaṃ brāhmaṇo aggamakkhāyati—

yadidaṃ āyunā ceva yasaṃ ca.

So bhoṭo gotamassa dassanakāmo”’ti.

“Yassadāni, māṇava, brahmāyu brāhmaṇo kālaṃ maññati”’ti.

“Please, student, let Brahmāyu come when he’s ready.”

Atha kho so māṇavako yena brahmāyu brāhmaṇo tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamitvā brahmāyuraṃ brāhmaṇaṃ etadavoca:

The student went back to Brahmāyu and said to him, “katāvakāso khomhi bhavatā samaṇena gotamena.

“Your request for an audience with the ascetic Gotama has been granted.

Yassadāni bhavaṃ kālaṃ maññatī”ti.

Please go at your convenience.”

Atha kho brahmāyu brāhmaṇo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami.

Then the brahmin Brahmāyu went up to the Buddha.

Addasā kho sā parisā brahmāyuraṃ brāhmaṇaṃ dūratova āgacchantaṃ.

The assembly saw him coming off in the distance,

Disvāna oramiya okāsamakāsi yathā taṃ ñātassa yasassino.

and made way for him, as he was well-known and famous.

Atha kho brahmāyu brāhmaṇo taṃ parisā etadavoca:

Brahmāyu said to that retinue,

“alaṃ, bho.

“Enough, gentlemen.

Nisīdatha tumhe sake āsane.

Please sit on your own seats.

Idhāhaṃ samaṇassa gotamassa santike nisīdissāmi”ti.

I shall sit here by the ascetic Gotama.”

Atha kho brahmāyu brāhmaṇo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then the brahmin Brahmāyu went up to the Buddha, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ
nisīdi.

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side,

Ekamantaṃ nisinna kho brahmāyu brāhmaṇo bhagavato kāye dvattiṃsamahāpurisalakkhaṇāni samannesī.

and scrutinized the Buddha’s body for the thirty-two marks of a great man.

Addasā kho brahmāyu brāhmaṇo bhagavato kāye dvattimsamahāpurisalakkhaṇāni, yebhuyyena ṭhapetvā dve.
He saw all of them except for two,

Dvīsu mahāpurisalakkhaṇesu kaṅkhati vicikicchati
nādhimuccati na sampasīdati—
which he had doubts about:

kosohite ca vatthaguyhe pahūtajivhatāya ca.
whether the private parts are retracted, and the largeness of the tongue.

Atha kho brahmāyu brāhmaṇo bhagavantaṃ gāthāhi ajjhabhāsi:
Then Brahmāyu addressed the Buddha in verse:

“Ye me dvattimsāti sutā,
“I have learned of the thirty-two mahāpurisalakkhaṇā;
marks of a great man.
Duve tesam na passāmi,
There are two that I don't see bhoto kāyasmim gotama.
on the body of the ascetic Gotama.

Kacci kosohitaṃ bhoto,
Are the private parts retracted,
vatthaguyhaṃ naruttama;
O supreme person?
Nārīsamānasavhayā,
Though called by a word of the feminine gender,
kacci jivhā na dassakā.
perhaps your tongue is a manly one?

Kacci pahūtajivhosi,

Perhaps your tongue is large,

yathā taṃ jāniyāmase;
as we have been informed.

Ninnāmayetaṃ pahūtaṃ,
Please stick it out in its full extent,

kaṅkhaṃ vinaya no ise.
and so, O hermit, dispel my doubt.

Diṭṭhadhammahitatthāya,
For my welfare and benefit in this life,

samparāyasukhāya ca;
and happiness in the next.

Katāvakāsā pucchāma,
And I ask you to grant the opportunity yaṃ kiñci abhipatthitaṃ”ti.

to ask whatever I desire.”

Atha kho bhagavato etadahosi:

Then the Buddha thought,

“passati kho me ayaṃ brahmāyu brāhmaṇo dvattiṃsamahāpurisalakkhaṇāni, yebhuyyena ṭhapetvā dve.

“Brahmāyu sees all the marks except for two,

Dvīsu mahāpurisalakkhaṇesu kaṅkhati vicikicchati
nādhimuccati na sampasīdati—

which he has doubts about:

kosohite ca vatthaguyhe pahūtajivhatāya cā”ti.

whether the private parts are retracted, and the largeness of the tongue.”

Atha kho bhagavā tathārūpaṃ iddhābhisaṅkhāraṃ

abhisaṅkhāsi yathā addasa brahmāyu brāhmaṇo bhagavato

kosohitaṃ vatthaguyhaṃ.

So the Buddha used his psychic power to will that Brahmāyu would see his retracted private parts.

Atha kho bhagavā jivhaṃ ninnāmetvā ubhopi kaṇṇasotāni anumasi paṭimasi; ubhopi nāsikasotāni anumasi paṭimasi;
kevalampi nalāṭamaṇḍalaṃ jivhāya chādesi.

And he stuck out his tongue and stroked back and forth on his ear holes and nostrils, and covered his entire forehead with his tongue.

Atha kho bhagavā brahmāyuraṃ brāhmaṇaṃ gāthāhi paccabhāsi:

Then the Buddha replied to Brahmāyu in verse:

“Ye te dvattimsāti sutā,

“The thirty-two marks of a great man

mahāpurisalakkhaṇā;

that you have learned

Sabbe te mama kāyasmim, are all found on my body:

mā te kaṅkhāhu brāhmaṇa.

so do not doubt, brahmin.

Abhiññeyyaṃ abhiññātaṃ,

I have known what should be known,

bhāvetabbaṅca bhāvitaṃ;

and developed what should be developed,

Pahātabbaṃ pahīnaṃ me,

and given up what should be given up:

tasmā buddhosmi brāhmaṇa.

and so, brahmin, I am a Buddha.

Diṭṭhadhammahitatthāya,

For your welfare and benefit in this life,

samparāyasukhāya ca;
and happiness in the next:

Katāvakāso pucchassu,
I grant you the opportunity yaṃ kiñci abhipatthitan”ti.

to ask whatever you desire.”

Atha kho brahmāyussa brāhmaṇassa etadahosi:
Then Brahmāyu thought:

“katāvakāso khomhi samaṇena gotamena.
“My request has been granted.

Kim nu kho ahaṃ samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ puccheyyaṃ:
Should I ask him about ‘diṭṭhadhammikaṃ vā atthaṃ samparāyikaṃ vā’”ti.

what is beneficial in this life or the next?”

Atha kho brahmāyussa brāhmaṇassa etadahosi:
Then he thought,

“kusalo kho ahaṃ diṭṭhadhammikānaṃ atthānaṃ.
“I’m well versed in the benefits that apply to this life,

Aññepi maṃ diṭṭhadhammikaṃ atthaṃ pucchanti.
and others ask me about this.

Yannūnāhaṃ samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ samparāyikaṃyeva atthaṃ puccheyyan”ti.

Why don’t I ask the ascetic Gotama about the benefit that specifically applies to lives to come?”

Atha kho brahmāyu brāhmaṇo bhagavantaṃ gāthāhi ajjhabhāsi:
So Brahmāyu addressed the Buddha in verse:

“Kathaṃ kho brāhmaṇo hoti,

“How do you become a brahmin?

kathaṃ bhavati vedagū;

And how do you become a knowledge master?

Tevijjo bho kathaṃ hoti,

How a master of the three knowledges?

sotthiyo kinti vuccati.

And how is one called a scholar?

Arahaṃ bho kathaṃ hoti,

How do you become a perfected one?

kathaṃ bhavati kevalī;

And how a consummate one?

Muni ca bho kathaṃ hoti,

How do you become a sage?

buddho kinti pavuccatī”ti.

And how is one declared to be awakened?”

Atha kho bhagavā brahmāyuraṃ brāhmaṇaṃ gāthāhi paccabhāsi:

Then the Buddha replied to Brahmāyu in verse:

“Pubbenivāsaṃ yo vedi,

“One who knows their past lives,

saggāpāyaṅca passati;

and sees heaven and places of loss,

Atho jātikkhayaṃ patto,

and has attained the end of rebirth:

abhiññā vosito muni.

that sage has perfect insight.

Cittaṃ visuddhaṃ jānāti,

They know their mind is pure,

muttaṃ rāgehi sabbaso;
completely freed from greed;

Pahīnajātimaraṇo, they've given up birth and death,

brahmacariyassa kevalī;
and have completed the spiritual journey.

Pāragū sabbadhammānaṃ, Gone beyond all things,

buddho tādī pavuccatī”ti.
such a one is declared to be awakened.”

Evaṃ vutte, brahmāyu brāhmaṇo utthāyāsanā ekaṃsaṃ uttarāsaṅgaṃ karitvā bhagavato pādesu sirasā nipatitvā bhagavato pādāni mukhena ca paricumbati, pāṇīhi ca parisambāhati, nāmañca sāveti:

When he said this, Brahmāyu got up from his seat and arranged his robe on one shoulder. He bowed with his head to the Buddha's feet, caressing them and covering them with kisses, and pronounced his name:

“brahmāyu ahaṃ, bho gotama, brāhmaṇo;
“I am the brahmin Brahmāyu, Master Gotama!

brahmāyu ahaṃ, bho gotama, brāhmaṇo”ti.
I am the brahmin Brahmāyu!”

Atha kho sā parisā acchariyabbhutacittajātā ahosi:

Then that assembly, their minds full of wonder and amazement, thought,

“acchariyaṃ vata bho, abbhutaṃ vata bho.
“It's incredible, it's amazing,

Yatra hi nāmāyaṃ brahmāyu brāhmaṇo ñāto yasassī evarūpaṃ paramanipaccakāraṃ karissatī”ti.

that Brahmāyu, who is so well-known and famous, should show the Buddha such utmost devotion.”

Atha kho bhagavā brahmāyurm brāhmaṇam etadavoca:

Then the Buddha said to Brahmāyu,

“alam, brāhmaṇa, uṭṭhaha nisīda tvaṃ sake āsane yato te mayi cittaṃ pasannan”ti.

“Enough, brahmin. Get up, and sit in your own seat, since your mind has such confidence in me.”

Atha kho brahmāyu brāhmaṇo uṭṭahitvā sake āsane nisīdi.

So Brahmāyu got up and sat in his own seat.

Atha kho bhagavā brahmāyussa brāhmaṇassa anupubbim katham katesi, seyyathidam—

Then the Buddha taught him step by step, with dānakatham, sīlakatham, saggakatham;

a talk on giving, ethical conduct, and heaven.

kāmānam ādīnavam okāram saṅkilesam nekkhamme ānisaṃsam pakāsesi.

He explained the drawbacks of sensual pleasures, so sordid and corrupt, and the benefit of renunciation.

Yadā bhagavā aññāsi brahmāyurm brāhmaṇam kallacittaṃ muducittaṃ vinīvaraṇacittaṃ udaggacittaṃ pasannacittaṃ, atha yā buddhānam sāmukkaṃsikā dhammadesanā tam pakāsesi—

And when the Buddha knew that Brahmāyu’s mind was ready, pliable, rid of hindrances, joyful, and confident he explained the special teaching of the Buddhas:

dukkham, samudayam, nirodham, maggam.

suffering, its origin, its cessation, and the path.

Seyyathāpi nāma suddham vattham apagatakāḷakam sammadeva rajanam paṭiggaṇheyya;

Just as a clean cloth rid of stains would properly absorb dye,

evameva brahmāyussa brāhmaṇassa tasmimyeva āsane virajaṃ vītamalaṃ dhammacakkhuṃ udapādi:

in that very seat the stainless, immaculate vision of the Dhamma arose in the brahmin Brahmāyu:

“yaṃ kiñci samudayadhammaṃ sabbaṃ taṃ nirodhadhammaṃ”ti.

“Everything that has a beginning has an end.”

Atha kho brahmāyu brāhmaṇo diṭṭhadhammo pattadhammo viditadhammo pariyogāḷhadhammo tiṇṇavicikiccho vigatakathaṅkatho vesārajjappatto aparappaccayo satthusāsane bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

Then Brahmāyu saw, attained, understood, and fathomed the Dhamma. He went beyond doubt, got rid of indecision, and became self-assured and independent of others regarding the Teacher’s instructions. He said to the Buddha:

“abhikkantaṃ, bho gotama, abhikkantaṃ, bho gotama.

“Excellent, Master Gotama! Excellent!

Seyyathāpi, bho gotama, nikkujjitaṃ vā ukkujjeyya,
paṭicchannaṃ vā vivareyya, mūḷhassa vā maggaṃ ācikkheyya,
andhakāre vā telapajjotaṃ dhāreyya ‘cakkhumanto rūpāni dakkhantī’ti; evamevaṃ bhotā gotamena anekapariyāyena
dhammo pakāsito.

As if he were righting the overturned, or revealing the hidden, or pointing out the path to the lost, or lighting a lamp in the dark so people with good eyes can see what’s there, Master Gotama has made the teaching clear in many ways.

Esāhaṃ bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ saraṇaṃ gacchāmi dhammañca bhikkhusaṅghaṃca.

I go for refuge to Master Gotama, to the teaching, and to the mendicant Saṅgha.

Upāsakaṃ maṃ bhavaṃ gotamo dhāretu ajjatagge pāṇupetaṃ saraṇaṃ gataṃ.

From this day forth, may Master Gotama remember me as a lay follower who has gone for refuge for life.

Adhivāsetu ca me bhavaṃ gotamo svātanāya bhattaṃ saddhiṃ bhikkhusaṅghenā”ti.

Would you and the mendicant Saṅgha please accept a meal from me tomorrow?”

Adhivāsesi bhagavā tuṅhībhāvena.

The Buddha consented in silence.

Atha kho brahmāyu brāhmaṇo bhagavato adhivāsanaṃ veditvā uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā pakkāmi.

Then, knowing that the Buddha had consented, Brahmāyu got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before leaving.

Atha kho brahmāyu brāhmaṇo tassā rattiyā accayena sake nivesane paṇītaṃ khādanīyaṃ bhojanīyaṃ paṭiyādāpetvā bhagavato kālaṃ ārocāpesi:

And when the night had passed Brahmāyu had a variety of delicious foods prepared in his own home. Then he had the Buddha informed of the time, saying,

“kālo, bho gotama, niṭṭhitaṃ bhattaṃ”ti.

Atha kho bhagavā pubbaṇhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya yena brahmāyussa brāhmaṇassa nivesanaṃ tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā paññatte āsane nisīdi saddhiṃ bhikkhusaṅghena.

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, went to the home of the brahmin Brahmāyu, where he sat on the seat spread out, together with the Saṅgha of mendicants.

Atha kho brahmāyu brāhmaṇo sattāhaṃ buddhappamukhaṃ bhikkhusaṅghaṃ paṇītena khādanīyena bhojanīyena sahatthā santappesi sampavāresi.

Brahmāyu served and satisfied the mendicant Saṅgha headed by the Buddha with his own hands with a variety of delicious foods.

Atha kho bhagavā tassa sattāhassa accayena videhesu cārikaṃ pakkāmi.

A week later, the Buddha departed to wander in the Videhan lands.

Atha kho brahmāyu brāhmaṇo acirapakkantassa bhagavato kālamakāsi.

Not long after the Buddha left, Brahmāyu passed away.

Atha kho sambahulā bhikkhū yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamim̐su; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdim̐su. Ekamantaṃ nisinnā kho te bhikkhū bhagavantaṃ etadavocuṃ:

Then several mendicants went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him, “brahmāyu, bhante, brāhmaṇo kālaṅkato.

“Sir, Brahmāyu has passed away.

Tassa kā gati, ko abhisamparāyo”ti?

Where has he been reborn in his next life?”

“Paṇḍito, bhikkhave, brahmāyu brāhmaṇo paccapādi dhammassānudhammaṃ, na ca maṃ dhammādhikaraṇaṃ viheseṣi.

“Mendicants, the brahmin Brahmāyu was astute. He practiced in line with the teachings, and did not trouble me about the teachings.

Brahmāyu, bhikkhave, brāhmaṇo pañcannaṃ orambhāgiyānaṃ saṃyojanānaṃ parikkhayā opapātiko hoti, tattha parinibbāyī, anāvattidhammo tasmā lokā”ti.

With the ending of the five lower fetters, he's been reborn spontaneously and will become extinguished there, not liable to return from that world."

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Brahmāyusuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ paṭhamaṃ.

92. Selasutta With Sela

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṅ aṅguttarāpesu cārikam caramāno mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhim aḍḍhateḷasehi bhikkhusatehi yena āpaṇam nāma aṅguttarāpānam nigamo tadavasari.

At one time the Buddha was wandering in the land of the Northern Āpaṇas together with a large Saṅgha of 1,250 mendicants when he arrived at a town of the Northern Āpaṇas named Āpaṇa.

Assosi kho keṇiyo jaṭilo:

The matted-hair ascetic Keṇiya heard:

“samaṇo khalu, bho, gotamo sakyaputto sakyakulā pabbajito aṅguttarāpesu cārikam caramāno mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhim aḍḍhateḷasehi bhikkhusatehi āpaṇam anuppatto.

“It seems the ascetic Gotama—a Sakyan, gone forth from a Sakyan family—has arrived at Āpaṇa, together with a large Saṅgha of 1,250 mendicants.

Tam kho pana bhavantam gotamam evam kalyāṇo kittisaddo
abbhuggato:

He has this good reputation:

‘itipi so bhagavaṅ araham sammāsambuddho
vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro

purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānaṃ buddho bhagavā'ti.

So imaṃ lokaṃ sadevakaṃ samāraṃ sabrahmaṃ sassamaṇabrāhmaṇiṃ pajāṃ sadevamanussaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā pavedeti.

He has realized with his own insight this world—with its gods, Māras and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, gods and humans—and he makes it known to others.

So dhammaṃ deseti ādikalyāṇaṃ majjhekalyāṇaṃ pariyosānakalyāṇaṃ sātthaṃ sabyañjanaṃ, kevalaparipuṇṇaṃ parisuddhaṃ brahmacariyaṃ pakāseti.

He teaches Dhamma that’s good in the beginning, good in the middle, and good in the end, meaningful and well-phrased. And he reveals a spiritual practice that’s entirely full and pure.

Sādhū kho pana tathārūpānaṃ arahataṃ dassanaṃ hotī'ti.
It’s good to see such perfected ones.”

Atha kho keṇiyo jaṭilo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtvā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

So Keṇiya approached the Buddha and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho keṇiyaṃ jaṭilaṃ bhagavā dhammiyā kathāya sandassesī samādapesī samuttejesī sampahaṃsesī.

The Buddha educated, encouraged, fired up, and inspired him with a Dhamma talk.

Atha kho keṇiyo jaṭilo bhagavatā dhammiyā kathāya sandassito samādapito samuttejito sampahaṃsito bhagavantam etadavoca:

Then he said to the Buddha,

“adhivāsetu me bhavam gotamo svātanāya bhattam saddhim bhikkhusaṅghenā”ti.

“Would Master Gotama together with the mendicant Saṅgha please accept tomorrow’s meal from me?”

Evam vutte, bhagavā keṇiyam jaṭilam etadavoca:

When he said this, the Buddha said to him,

“mahā kho, keṇiya, bhikkhusaṅgho aḍḍhateḷasāni bhikkhusatāni, tvaṅca brāhmaṇesu abhippasanno”ti.

“The Saṅgha is large, Keṇiya; there are 1,250 mendicants. And you are devoted to the brahmins.”

Dutiyampi kho keṇiyo jaṭilo bhagavantam etadavoca:

For a second time ...

“kiñcāpi kho, bho gotama, mahā bhikkhusaṅgho aḍḍhateḷasāni bhikkhusatāni, ahaṅca brāhmaṇesu abhippasanno;

adhivāsetu me bhavam gotamo svātanāya bhattam saddhim bhikkhusaṅghenā”ti.

Dutiyampi kho bhagavā keṇiyam jaṭilam etadavoca:

“mahā kho, keṇiya, bhikkhusaṅgho aḍḍhateḷasāni bhikkhusatāni, tvaṅca brāhmaṇesu abhippasanno”ti.

Tatīyampi kho keṇiyo jaṭilo bhagavantam etadavoca:

and a third time Keṇiya asked the Buddha to accept a meal offering.

“kiñcāpi kho, bho gotama, mahā bhikkhusaṅgho aḍḍhateḷasāni bhikkhusatāni, ahaṅca brāhmaṇesu abhippasanno;

adhivāsetu me bhavam gotamo svātanāya bhattam saddhim bhikkhusaṅghenā”ti.

Adhivāsesi bhagavā tuṅhībhāvena.

Finally, the Buddha consented in silence.

Atha kho keṇiyo jaṭilo bhagavato adhivāsanam veditvā uṭṭhāyāsanā yena sako assamo tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamitvā mittāmacce ñātisālohite āmantesi:

Then, knowing that the Buddha had consented, Keṇiya got up from his seat and went to his own hermitage. There he addressed his friends and colleagues, relatives and family members, “suṇantu me bhonto, mittāmaccā ñātisālohita;

“Gentlemen, please listen.

samaṇo me gotamo nimantito svātanāya bhattam saddhim bhikkhusaṅghena.

The ascetic Gotama together with the mendicant Saṅgha has been invited by me for tomorrow’s meal.

Yena me kāyaveyyāvaṭikam kareyyāthā”ti.

Please help me with the preparations.”

“Evaṃ, bho”ti kho keṇiyassa jaṭilassa mittāmaccā ñātisālohita keṇiyassa jaṭilassa paṭissutvā appekacce uddhanāni khaṇanti, appekacce kaṭṭhāni phārenti, appekacce bhājanāni dhovanti, appekacce udakamaṇikam paṭiṭṭhāpentī, appekacce āsanāni pañṇapenti.

“Yes, sir,” they replied. Some dug ovens, some chopped wood, some washed dishes, some set out a water jar, and some spread out seats.

Keṇiyo pana jaṭilo sāmamyeva maṇḍalamālam paṭiyādeti.

Meanwhile, Keṇiya set up the pavilion himself.

Tena kho pana samayena selo brāhmaṇo āpaṇe paṭivasati tiṇṇam vedānam pāragū sanighaṇḍukeṭubhānam sākkharappabhedānam itihāsapañcamānam, padako, veyyākaraṇo, lokāyatamahāpurisalakkhaṇesu anavayo, tīṇi ca māṇavakasatāni mante vāceti.

Now at that time the brahmin Sela was residing in Āpaṇa. He had mastered the three Vedas, together with their vocabularies, ritual, phonology and etymology, and the testament as fifth. He knew philology and grammar, and was well versed in cosmology and the marks of a great man. And he was teaching three hundred students to recite the hymns.

Tena kho pana samayena keṇiyo jaṭilo sele brāhmaṇe abhippasanno hoti.

Now at that time Keṇiya was devoted to Sela.

Atha kho selo brāhmaṇo tīhi māṇavakasatehi parivuto jaṅghāvihāraṃ anucaṅkamamāno anuvicaramāno yena keṇiyassa jaṭilassa assamo tenupasaṅkami.

Then Sela, while going for a walk escorted by the three hundred students, approached Keṇiya's hermitage.

Addasā kho selo brāhmaṇo keṇiyassa jaṭilassa assame appekacce uddhanāni khaṇante, appekacce kaṭṭhāni phālente, appekacce bhājanāni dhovante, appekacce udakamaṇikaṃ patitṭhāpente, appekacce āsanāni pañṇapente, keṇiyaṃ pana jaṭilaṃ sāmānyeva maṇḍalamālaṃ paṭiyādentam.

He saw the preparations going on,

Disvāna keṇiyaṃ jaṭilaṃ etadavoca:

and said to Keṇiya,

“kiṃ nu bhoto keṇiyassa āvāho vā bhavissati vivāho vā bhavissati mahāyaṅṇo vā paccupaṭṭhito, rājā vā māgadho seniyo bimbisāro nimantito svātanāya saddhiṃ balakāyenā”ti?

“Keṇiya, is your son or daughter being married? Or are you setting up a big sacrifice? Or has King Seniya Bimbisāra of Magadha been invited for tomorrow's meal?”

“Na me, bho sela, āvāho bhavissati napi vivāho bhavissati napi rājā māgadho seniyo bimbisāro nimantito svātanāya saddhiṃ balakāyena;

“There is no marriage, Sela, and the king is not coming.

api ca kho me mahāyañño paccupaṭṭhito.

Rather, I am setting up a big sacrifice.

Atthi, bho, samaṇo gotamo sakyaputto sakyakulā pabbajito aṅguttarāpesu cārikaṃ caramāno mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhiṃ aḍḍhateḷasehi bhikkhusatehi āpaṇaṃ anuppatto.

The ascetic Gotama has arrived at Āpaṇa, together with a large Saṅgha of 1,250 mendicants.

Taṃ kho pana bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ evaṃ kalyāṇo kittisaddo abbhuggato:

He has this good reputation:

‘itipi so bhagavā arahaṃ sammāsambuddho vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānaṃ buddho bhagavā’ti.

So me nimantito svātanāya bhattaṃ saddhiṃ bhikkhusaṅghenā’ti.

He has been invited by me for tomorrow’s meal together with the mendicant Saṅgha.”

“Buddhoti—bho keṇiya, vadesi”?

“Mister Keṇiya, did you say ‘the awakened one’?”

“Buddhoti—bho sela, vadāmi”.

“I said ‘the awakened one’.”

“Buddhoti—bho keṇiya, vadesi”?

“Did you say ‘the awakened one’?”

“Buddhoti—bho sela, vadāmī”ti.

“I said ‘the awakened one’.”

Atha kho selassa brāhmaṇassa etadahosi:

Then Sela thought,

“ghosopi kho eso dullabho lokasmim—yadidaṃ ‘buddho’ti.

Āgatāni kho panamhākaṃ mantesu

If he stays at home he becomes a king, a wheel-turning monarch, a just and principled king. His dominion extends to all four sides, he achieves stability in the country, and he possesses the seven treasures.

He has the following seven treasures:

cakkaratanaṃ, hatthirātanaṃ, assarātanaṃ, maṇiratanaṃ,

the wheel, the elephant, the horse, the jewel, the woman, the treasurer, and the counselor as the seventh treasure.

But if he goes forth from the lay life to homelessness, he becomes a perfected one, a fully awakened Buddha, who draws back the veil from the world.”

“Kham pana, bho keṇiya, etarahi so bhavam gotamo viharati araham sammāsambuddho”ti?

“But Keṇiya, where is the Blessed One at present, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha?”

Evam vutte, keṇiyo jaṭilo dakkhiṇam bāhum paggahetvā selam brāhmaṇam etadavoca:

When he said this, Keṇiya pointed with his right arm and said, “yenesā, bho sela, nīlavanarājī”ti.

“There, Mister Sela, at that line of blue forest.”

Atha kho selo brāhmaṇo tīhi māṇavakasatehi saddhim yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami.

Then Sela, together with his students, approached the Buddha.

Atha kho selo brāhmaṇo te māṇavake āmantesi:

He said to his students,

“appasaddā bhonto āgacchantu pade padam nikkhipantā;

“Come quietly, gentlemen, tread gently.

durāsadā hi te bhagavanto sīhāva ekacarā.

For the Buddhas are intimidating, like a lion living alone.

Yadā cāhaṃ, bho, samaṇena gotamena saddhiṃ manteyyaṃ,

Wait until I've finished speaking.”

Atha kho selo brāhmaṇo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtvā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then Sela went up to the Buddha, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side,

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho selo brāhmaṇo bhagavato kāye and scrutinized the Buddha's body for the thirty-two marks of a great man.

Addasā kho selo brāhmaṇo bhagavato kāye

He saw all of them except for two,

Dvīsu mahāpurisalakkhaṇesu kaṅkhati vicikicchati
nādhimuccati na sampasīdati—

which he had doubts about:

kosohite ca vatthaguyhe pahūtajivhatāya ca.

whether the private parts are retracted, and the largeness of the tongue.

Atha kho bhagavato etadahosi:

Then it occurred to the Buddha,

“passati kho me ayam̐ selo brāhmaṇo
dvattiṃsamahāpurisalakkhaṇāni, yebhuyyena ṭhapetvā dve.
“Sela sees all the marks except for two,

Dvīsu mahāpurisalakkhaṇesu kaṅkhati vicikicchati
nādhimuccati na sampasīdati—
which he has doubts about:

kosohite ca vatthaguyhe pahūtajivhatāya cā”ti.
whether the private parts are retracted, and the largeness of the

Atha kho bhagavā tathārūpaṃ iddhābhisaṅkhāraṃ

And he stuck out his tongue and stroked back and forth on his ear holes and nostrils, and covered his entire forehead with his tongue.

Atha kho selassa brāhmaṇassa etadahosi:
Then Sela thought,

“samannāgato kho samaṇo gotamo

“The ascetic Gotama possesses the thirty-two marks completely, lacking none.

no ca kho naṃ jānāmi buddho vā no vā.
But I don’t know whether or not he is an awakened one.

Sutaṃ kho pana metaṃ brāhmaṇānaṃ vuddhānaṃ

‘Those who are perfected ones, fully awakened Buddhas reveal themselves when praised.’

Yannūnāhaṃ samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ sammukhā sārubbāhi gāthāhi

Why don’t I extoll him in his presence with fitting verses?”

Atha kho selo brāhmaṇo bhagavantaṃ sammukhā sārubbāhi

Then Sela extolled the Buddha in his presence with fitting verses:

“Paripuṇṇakāyo suruci, follow your rule.

Rājābhirājā manujindo, Gotama, you should reign
rajjaṃ kārehi gotama”.
as king of kings, lord of men!”

“Rājāhamasmi selāti, “I am a king, Sela—
dhammarājā anuttaro;
the supreme king of the teaching.

Dhammena cakkam vattemi,
By the teaching I roll forth the wheel which cannot be rolled back.”

“Sambuddho paṭijānāsi, “You claim to be awakened,
dhammarājā anuttaro;
the supreme king of the teaching.
‘Dhammena cakkam vattemi’,
‘I roll forth the teaching’:
iti bhāsasi gotama.
so you say, Gotama.

Ko nu senāpati bho,
Then who is your general, of teaching you rolled forth?”

“Mayā pavattitaṃ cakkam,
“By me the wheel was rolled forth,”

(selāti bhagavā)
said the Buddha,

Dhammacakkaṃ anuttaram;
“the supreme wheel of teaching.

and developed what should be developed,

Pahātabbaṃ pahīnaṃ me,
and given up what should be given up:

tasmā buddhosmi brāhmaṇa.
and so, brahmin, I am a Buddha.

Vinayassu mayi kaṅkhaṃ, Dispel your doubt in me—

adhimuccassu brāhmaṇa;
make up your mind, brahmin!

Dullabhaṃ dassanaṃ hoti,
The sight of a Buddha

I rejoice, fearing nothing from any quarter.”

“Imaṁ bhonto nisāmetha, “Pay heed, sirs, to what this man of such splendid wisdom.”

“Etañce rucati bhoto, “Sir, if you like this man of such splendid wisdom.”

Brāhmaṇā tisatā ime, “These three hundred brahmins yācanti pañjalīkatā; with joined palms held up, ask:

“Brahmacariyaṃ carissāma,
‘May we lead the spiritual life in your presence, Blessed One?”

“Svākkhātaṃ brahmacariyaṃ,
“The spiritual life is well explained,”

(selāti bhagavā)
said the Buddha,

Sandiṭṭhikamakālikam; “visible in this very life, immediately effective.

Yattha amoghā pabbajjā,
Here the going forth isn’t in vain

Appamattassa sikkhato”ti.
for one who trains with diligence.”

Alattha kho selo brāhmaṇo sapaṇṇiso bhagavato santike pabbajjāṃ, alattha upasampadaṃ.

And the brahmin Sela together with his assembly received the going forth, the ordination in the Buddha’s presence.

Atha kho keṇiyo jaṭilo tassā rattiyā accayena sake assame paṇītaṃ khādanīyaṃ bhojanīyaṃ paṭiyādāpetvā bhagavato

And when the night had passed Keṇiya had a variety of delicious foods prepared in his own home. Then he had the Buddha informed of the time, saying,

“kālo, bho gotama, niṭṭhitaṃ bhattaṃ”ti.

Atha kho bhagavā pubbaṇhasamayāṃ nivāsetvā

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, went to Keṇiya's hermitage, where he sat on the seat spread out, together with the Saṅgha of mendicants.

Atha kho keṇiyo jaṭilo buddhappamukhaṃ bhikkhusaṅghaṃ paṇītena khādanīyena bhojanīyena sahatthā santappesi, sampavāresi.

Then Keṇiya served and satisfied the mendicant Saṅgha headed by the Buddha with his own hands with a variety of delicious foods.

Atha kho keṇiyo jaṭilo bhagavantaṃ bhuttāviṃ onītapattapāṇiṃ aññataraṃ nīcaṃ āsanaṃ gahetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

When the Buddha had eaten and washed his hand and bowl, Keṇiya took a low seat and sat to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho keṇiyaṃ jaṭilaṃ bhagavā imāhi gāthāhi anumodi:

The Buddha expressed his appreciation with these verses:

“Aggihuttamukhā yaññā,

“The foremost of sacrifices is offering to the sacred flame;

sāvittī chandaso mukhaṃ;

the Sāvittī is the foremost of poetic meters;

Rājā mukhaṃ manussānaṃ, of humans, the king is the foremost;

nadīnaṃ sāgaro mukhaṃ.

the ocean's the foremost of rivers;

Nakkhattānaṃ mukhaṃ cando,

the foremost of stars is the moon;

ādicco tapataṃ mukhaṃ;

the sun is the foremost of lights;

Puññaṃ ākaṅkhamānānaṃ, for those who sacrifice seeking merit, saṅgho ve yajataṃ mukhaṃ”ti.

the Saṅgha is the foremost.”

Atha kho bhagavā keṇiyaṃ jaṭilaṃ imāhi gāthāhi anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkāmi.

When the Buddha had expressed his appreciation to Keṇiya the matted-hair ascetic with these verses, he got up from his seat and left.

Atha kho āyasmā selo sapaṇṇaso eko vūpakaṭṭho appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā
sammadeva agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaraṃ—
brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayāṃ abhiññā
sacchikatvā upasampajja vihāsi.

Then Venerable Sela and his assembly, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. They lived having achieved with their own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā”ti abbhaññāsi.

They understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

Aññataro kho paṇāyasmā selo sapaṇṇaso arahataṃ ahoṣi.

And Venerable Sela together with his assembly became perfected.

Atha kho āyasmā selo sapaṇṇaso yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkhami; upasaṅkhamitvā ekaṃsaṃ cīvaraṃ katvā yena bhagavā tenañjalim paṇāmetvā bhagavantaṃ gāthāhi ajjhabhāsi:

Then Sela with his assembly went to see the Buddha. He arranged his robe over one shoulder, raised his joined palms toward the Buddha, and said:

“Yaṃ taṃ saraṇamāgama,

“This is the eighth day since ito aṭṭhami cakkhumā;

we went for refuge, O seer.

Sattarattena bhagavā,

In these seven days, Blessed One,

dantamha tava sāsane.

we’ve become tamed in your teaching.

Tuvaṃ buddho tuvaṃ satthā,

You are the Buddha, you are the Teacher,

tuvaṃ mārābhibhū muni;

you are the sage who has overcome Māra;

Tuvaṃ anusaye chetvā,

you have cut off the underlying tendencies,

tiṅṅo tāresimaṃ pajam.

you’ve crossed over, and you bring humanity across.

Upadhī te samatikkantā,

You have transcended attachments, āsavā te padālītā;

your defilements are shattered;

Sīhova anupādāno,

by not grasping, like a lion, pahīnabhayabheravo.

you’ve given up fear and dread.

Bhikkhavo tisatā ime,

These three hundred mendicants tiṭṭhanti pañjalīkatā;

stand with joined palms raised.

Pāde vīra pasārehi,

Stretch out your feet, great hero:

nāgā vandantu satthuno”ti.

let these giants worship the Teacher.”

Selasuttam̐ niṭṭhitam̐ dutiyam̐.

93. Assalāyanasutta With Assalāyana

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā sāvattiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena nānāverajjakānam brāhmaṇānam pañcamattāni brāhmaṇasatāni sāvattiyam paṭivasanti kenacideva karaṇīyena.

Now at that time around five hundred brahmins from abroad were residing in Sāvattī on some business.

Atha kho tesam brāhmaṇānam etadahosi:

Then those brahmins thought,

“ayam kho samaṇo gotamo cātuvaṇṇim suddhim paññapeti.

“This ascetic Gotama advocates purification for all four classes.

Ko nu kho pahoti samaṇena gotamena saddhim asmim vacane paṭimantetun”ti?

Who is capable of having a dialogue with him about this?”

Tena kho pana samayena assalāyano nāma māṇavo sāvattiyam paṭivasati daharo, vuttasiro, soḷasavassuddesiko jātiyā, tiṇṇam vedānam pāragū sanighaṇḍukeṭubhānam

sākkharappabhedānaṃ itihāsapañcamānaṃ, padako,
veyyākaraṇo, lokāyatamahāpurisalakkhaṇesu anavayo.

Now at that time the brahmin student Assalāyana was residing in Sāvattihī. He was young, newly tonsured; he was sixteen years old. He had mastered the three Vedas, together with their vocabularies, ritual, phonology and etymology, and the testament as fifth. He knew philology and grammar, and was well versed in cosmology and the marks of a great man.

Atha kho tesaṃ brāhmaṇānaṃ etadahosi:

Then those brahmins thought,

“ayaṃ kho assalāyano māṇavo sāvatthiyaṃ paṭivasati daharo, vuttasiro, soḷasavassuddesiko jātiyā, tiṇṇaṃ vedānaṃ pāragū
...pe... anavayo.

So kho pahoti samaṇena gotamena saddhiṃ asmiṃ vacane paṭimantetun”ti.

“This Assalāyana is capable of having a dialogue with the ascetic Gotama about this.”

Atha kho te brāhmaṇā yena assalāyano māṇavo tenupasaṅkamim̐su; upasaṅkamtivā assalāyanaṃ māṇavaṃ
etadavocum̐:

So they approached Assalāyana and said to him,

“ayaṃ, bho assalāyana, samaṇo gotamo cātuvaṇṇim̐ suddhiṃ pañṇapeti.

“This ascetic Gotama advocates purification for all four classes.

Etu bhavaṃ assalāyano samaṇena gotamena saddhiṃ asmiṃ vacane paṭimantetū”ti.

Please, Mister Assalāyana, have a dialogue with the ascetic Gotama about this.”

Evaṃ vutte, assalāyano māṇavo te brāhmaṇe etadavoca:

When they said this, Assalāyana said to them,

“samaṇo khalu, bho, gotamo dhammavādī;

“They say that the ascetic Gotama is a speaker of principle.

dhammavādino ca pana duppaṭimantiyā bhavanti.

But speakers of principle are hard to have a dialogue with.

Nāhaṃ sakkomi samaṇena gotamena saddhiṃ asmiṃ vacane paṭimantetuṃ”ti.

I’m not capable of having a dialogue with the ascetic Gotama about this.”

Dutiyampi kho te brāhmaṇā assalāyanam māṇavam etadavocum:

For a second time, those brahmins said to him

“ayaṃ, bho assalāyana, samaṇo gotamo cātuvaṇṇiṃ suddhiṃ paññapeti.

“This ascetic Gotama advocates purification for all four classes.

Etu bhavam assalāyano samaṇena gotamena saddhiṃ asmiṃ vacane paṭimantetu.

Please, Mister Assalāyana, have a dialogue with the ascetic Gotama about this.

Caritam kho pana bhotā assalāyanena paribbājakan”ti.

For you have lived as a wanderer.”

Dutiyampi kho assalāyano māṇavo te brāhmaṇe etadavoca:

And for a second time, Assalāyana refused.

“samaṇo khalu, bho, gotamo dhammavādī;

dhammavādino ca pana duppaṭimantiyā bhavanti.

Nāhaṃ sakkomi samaṇena gotamena saddhiṃ asmiṃ vacane paṭimantetuṃ”ti.

Tatiyampi kho te brāhmaṇā assalāyanam māṇavam etadavocum:

For a third time, those brahmins said to him,

“ayaṃ, bho assalāyana, samaṇo gotamo cātuvaṇṇiṃ suddhiṃ paññapeti.

“This ascetic Gotama advocates purification for all four classes.

Etu bhavaṃ assalāyano samaṇena gotamena saddhiṃ asmiṃ vacane paṭimantetu.

Please, Mister Assalāyana, have a dialogue with the ascetic Gotama about this.

Caritaṃ kho pana bhotā assalāyanena paribbājakaṃ.

For you have lived as a wanderer.

Mā bhavaṃ assalāyano ayuddhaparājitaṃ parājayī”ti.

Don’t admit defeat before going into battle!”

Evaṃ vutte, assalāyano māṇavo te brāhmaṇe etadavoca:

When they said this, Assalāyana said to them,

“addhā kho ahaṃ bhavanto na labhāmi.

“Clearly, gentlemen, I’m not getting through to you when I say:

Samaṇo khalu, bho, gotamo dhammavādī;

‘They say that the ascetic Gotama is a speaker of principle.

dhammavādinō ca pana duppaṭimantiyā bhavanti.

But speakers of principle are hard to have a dialogue with.

Nāhaṃ sakkomi samaṇena gotamena saddhiṃ asmiṃ vacane paṭimantetunti.

I’m not capable of having a dialogue with the ascetic Gotama about this.’

Api cāhaṃ bhavantānaṃ vacanena gamissāmī”ti.

Nevertheless, I shall go at your bidding.”

Atha kho assalāyano māṇavo mahatā brāhmaṇagaṇena saddhiṃ yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then Assalāyana together with a large group of brahmins went to the Buddha and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho assalāyano māṇavo
bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to the Buddha:

“brāhmaṇā, bho gotama, evamāhaṃsu:

“Master Gotama, the brahmins say:

‘brāhmaṇova seṭṭho vaṇṇo, hīno añño vaṇṇo;

‘Only brahmins are the highest caste; other castes are inferior.

brāhmaṇova sukko vaṇṇo, kaṇho añño vaṇṇo;

Only brahmins are Brahmā’s rightful sons, born of his mouth, born of Brahmā, created by Brahmā, heirs of Brahmā.’

Idha bhavaṃ gotamo kimāhā’ti?

What do you say about this?”

“Dissanti kho pana, assalāyana, brāhmaṇānaṃ brāhmaṇiyo

“But Assalāyana, brahmin women are seen menstruating, being pregnant, giving birth, and breastfeeding.

Te ca brāhmaṇiyonijāva samānā evamāhaṃsu:

Yet even though they’re born from a brahmin womb they say:

‘brāhmaṇova seṭṭho vaṇṇo, hīno añño vaṇṇo;

“Kiñcāpi bhavaṃ gotamo evamāha, atha khvettha brāhmaṇā

Have you heard that in Greece and Persia and other foreign lands there are only two classes, masters and bonded servants; and that masters may become servants, and servants masters?”

“Evaṃ, bho, sutaṃ taṃ me: ‘yonakambojesu aññesu ca but not in the previous cases.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, assalāyana,

“What do you think, Assalāyana?

For how could an offering to someone who is unethical and of bad character be very fruitful?”

“Pubbe kho tvam̐, assalāyana, jātim̐ agamāsi;

“Firstly you relied on birth, Assalāyana, then you switched to education,

mante gantvā tape agamāsi;

then you switched to abstemious behavior.

tape gantvā cātuvaṇṇim̐ suddhim̐ paccāgato, yamaham̐ paññapemī”ti.

Now you’ve come around to believing in purification for the four classes, just as I advocate.”

Evam̐ vutte, assalāyano māṇavo tuṇhībhūto maṅkubhūto pattakkhandho adhomukho pajjhāyanto appaṭibhāno nisīdi.

When he said this, Assalāyana sat silent, embarrassed, shoulders drooping, downcast, depressed, with nothing to say.

Atha kho bhagavā assalāyanam̐ māṇavam̐ tuṇhībhūtam̐ maṅkubhūtam̐ pattakkhandham̐ adhomukham̐ pajjhāyantam̐ appaṭibhānam̐ veditvā assalāyanam̐ māṇavam̐ etadavoca:

Knowing this, the Buddha said to him:

“bhūtapubbam̐, assalāyana, sattannam̐ brāhmaṇisīnam̐ araññāyatane paṇṇakuṭīsu sammantānam̐ evarūpam̐ pāpakam̐ diṭṭhigatam̐ uppannam̐ hoti:

“Once upon a time, Assalāyana, seven brahmin hermits settled in leaf huts in a wilderness region. They had the following harmful misconception:

‘brāhmaṇova seṭṭho vaṇṇo, hīno añño vaṇṇo ...

‘Only brahmins are the highest caste; other castes are inferior.

pe...

Only brahmins are the light caste; other castes are dark. Only brahmins are purified, not others.

brahmadāyādā’ti.

Only brahmins are Brahmā’s rightful sons, born of his mouth, born of Brahmā, created by Brahmā, heirs of Brahmā.’

Assosi kho, assalāyana, asito devalo isi:

The hermit Devala the Dark heard about this.

‘sattannaṃ kira brāhmaṇisīnaṃ araññāyatane paṇṇakuṭisu sammantānaṃ evarūpaṃ pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ uppannaṃ—brāhmaṇova seṭṭho vaṇṇo ...pe...

brahmadāyādā’ti.

Atha kho, assalāyana, asito devalo isi kesamassuṃ kappetvā mañjīṭṭhavaṇṇāni dussāni nivāsetvā paṭaliyo upāhanā āruhitvā jātārūpamayaṃ daṇḍaṃ gahetvā sattannaṃ brāhmaṇisīnaṃ patthaṇḍile pāturahosi.

So he did up his hair and beard, dressed in magenta robes, put on his boots, grasped a golden staff, and appeared in the courtyard of the seven brahmin hermits.

Atha kho, assalāyana, asito devalo isi sattannaṃ brāhmaṇisīnaṃ patthaṇḍile caṅkamamāno evamāha:

Then he wandered about the yard saying,

‘handā ko nu kho ime bhavanto brāhmaṇisayo gatā;

‘Where, oh where have those brahmin hermits gone?

handā ko nu kho ime bhavanto brāhmaṇisayo gatā’ti?

Where, oh where have those brahmin hermits gone?’

Atha kho, assalāyana, sattannaṃ brāhmaṇisīnaṃ etadahosi:

Then those brahmin hermits said,

‘ko nāyaṃ gāmaṇḍalarūpo viya sattannaṃ brāhmaṇisīnaṃ patthaṇḍile caṅkamamāno evamāha:

‘Who’s this wandering about our courtyard like a cowpoke?’

“handa ko nu kho ime bhavanto brāhmaṇisayo gatā; handa ko nu kho ime bhavanto brāhmaṇisayo gatāti?

Handa naṃ abhisapāmā”’ti.

Let’s curse him!’

Atha kho, assalāyana, satta brāhmaṇisayo asitaṃ devalaṃ isiṃ abhisapiṃsu:

So they cursed Devala the Dark,

‘bhasmā, vasala, hohi;

‘Be ashes, wretch!

bhasmā, vasala, hohī’ti.

Be ashes, wretch!’

Yathā yathā kho, assalāyana, satta brāhmaṇisayo asitaṃ devalaṃ isiṃ abhisapiṃsu tathā tathā asito devalo isi

But the more the hermits cursed him, the more attractive, good-looking, and lovely Devala the Dark became.

Atha kho, assalāyana, sattannaṃ brāhmaṇisīnaṃ etadahosi:

Then those brahmin hermits said,

‘moghaṃ vata no tapo, aphalaṃ brahmacariyaṃ.

‘Our austerities are in vain! Our spiritual path is fruitless!’

Mayaṅhi pubbe yaṃ abhisapāma—

For when we used to curse someone

bhasmā, vasala, hohi;
to become ashes,

bhasmā, vasala, hohīti bhasmāva bhavati ekacco.
ashes they became.

Imaṁ pana mayam yathā yathā abhisapāma tathā tathā

But the more we curse this one, the more attractive, good-looking, and lovely he becomes.'

'Na bhavantānam mogham tapo, nāphalam brahmacariyam.
'Gentlemen, your austerities are not in vain; your spiritual path is not fruitless.

lṅgha bhavanto, yo mayi manopadoso taṁ pajahathā'ti.
Please let go of your malevolence towards me.'

'Yo bhavati manopadoso taṁ pajahāma.
'We let go of our malevolence towards you.

Ko nu bhavam hotī'ti?
But who are you, sir?'

'Suto nu bhavataṁ—
'Have you heard of asito devalo isī'ti?
the hermit Devala the Dark?'

'Evaṁ, bho'.
'Yes, sir.'

'So khvāham, bho, homī'ti.
'I am he, sirs.'

Atha kho, assalāyana, satta brāhmaṇisayo asitaṁ devalaṁ isim abhivādetuṁ upakkamimsu.

Then they approached Devala and bowed to him.

Atha kho, assalāyana, asito devalo isi satta brāhmaṇisayo etadavoca:

Devala said to them,

‘sutaṃ metaṃ, bho, sattannaṃ kira brāhmaṇisīnaṃ araññāyatane paṇṇakuṭīsu sammantānaṃ evarūpaṃ pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ uppannaṃ—

‘I heard that when the seven brahmin hermits had settled in leaf huts in a wilderness region, they had the following harmful misconception:

Only brahmins are purified, not others.

brāhmaṇāva brahmuno puttā orasā mukhato jātā brahmajā brahmanimmitā brahmadāyādā’ti.

Only brahmins are Brahmā’s rightful sons, born of his mouth, born of Brahmā, created by Brahmā, heirs of Brahmā.”

‘Evaṃ, bho’.

‘That’s right, sir.’

‘Jānanti pana bhonto—

‘But do you know

yā janikā mātā brāhmaṇamyeva agamāsi, no abrāhmaṇan’ti?

whether your birth mother only had relations with a brahmin and not with a non-brahmin?’

‘No hidaṃ, bho’.

‘We don’t know that.’

‘Jānanti pana bhonto—

‘But do you know

yā janikāmātu mātā yāva sattamā mātumātāmahayugā whether your birth mother’s mothers back to the seventh generation only had relations with brahmins and not with non-brahmins?’

‘No hidaṃ, bho’.

‘We don’t know that.’

‘Jānanti pana bhonto—

‘But do you know yo janako pitā brāhmaṇiṃyeva agamāsi, no abrāhmaṇin’ti?

whether your birth father only had relations with a brahmin woman and not with a non-brahmin?’

‘No hidaṃ, bho’.

‘We don’t know that.’

‘Jānanti pana bhonto—

‘But do you know

yo janakapitu pitā yāva sattamā pitupitāmahayugā whether your birth father’s fathers back to the seventh generation only had relations with brahmins and not with non-brahmins?’

‘No hidaṃ, bho’.

‘We don’t know that.’

‘Jānanti pana bhonto—

‘But do you know

yathā gabbhassa avakkanti hotī’ti?

how an embryo is conceived?’

‘Jānāma mayaṃ, bho—

‘We do know that, sir.

yathā gabbhassa avakkanti hoti.

Idha mātāpitāro ca sannipatitā honti, mātā ca utunī hoti, gandhabbo ca paccupaṭṭhito hoti; evaṃ tiṇṇaṃ sannipātā gabbhassa avakkanti hotī’ti.

An embryo is conceived when these three things come together—the mother and father come together, the mother is in the fertile part of her menstrual cycle, and the spirit being reborn is present.’

‘Jānanti pana bhonto—

‘But do you know

taggha, so gandhabbo khattiyo vā brāhmaṇo vā vesso vā suddo vā’ti?

for sure whether that spirit is an aristocrat, a brahmin, a merchant, or a worker?’

‘Na mayaṃ, bho, jānāma—

‘We don’t know that.’

taggha so gandhabbo khattiyo vā brāhmaṇo vā vesso vā suddo vā’ti.

‘Evaṃ sante, bho, jānātha—

‘In that case, sirs, don’t you know ke tumhe hothā’ti?

what you are?’

‘Evaṃ sante, bho, na mayaṃ jānāma—

‘In that case, sir, we don’t know ke mayaṃ homā’ti.

what we are.’

Te hi nāma, assalāyana, satta brāhmaṇisayo asitena devalena isinā sake jātivāde samanuyuñjīyamānā samanuggāhīyamānā samanubhāsīyamānā na sampāyissanti;

So even those seven brahmin hermits were stumped when pursued, pressed, and grilled by the seer Devala on their own doctrine of ancestry.

kiṃ pana tvaṃ etarahi mayā sakasmiṃ jātivāde samanuyuñjīyamāno samanuggāhīyamāno samanubhāsīyamāno sampāyissasi, yesaṃ tvaṃ sācariyako na puṇṇo dabbigāho”ti.

So how could you succeed, being grilled by me now on your own doctrine of ancestry—you who have not even mastered your own teacher’s doctrine?”

Evaṃ vutte, assalāyano māṇavo bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, Assalāyana said to him,

“abhikkantaṃ, bho gotama ...pe...

“Excellent, Master Gotama! ...

upāsakaṃ maṃ bhavaṃ gotamo dhāretu ajjatagge pāṇupetaṃ saraṇaṃ gatan”ti.

From this day forth, may Master Gotama remember me as a lay follower who has gone for refuge for life.”

Assalāyanasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ tatiyaṃ.

94. Ghoṭamukhasutta With Ghoṭamukha

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam āyasmā udeno bārāṇasiyam viharati khemiyambavane.

At one time Venerable Udena was staying near Benares in the Khemiya Mango Grove.

Tena kho pana samayena ghoṭamukho brāhmaṇo bārāṇasim anupatto hoti kenacideva karaṇīyena.

Now at that time the brahmin Ghoṭamukha had arrived at Benares on some business.

Atha kho ghoṭamukho brāhmaṇo jaṅghāvihāram anucaṅkamamāno anuvicaramāno yena khemiyambavanam
tenupasaṅkami.

Then as he was going for a walk he went to the Khemiya Mango Grove.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā udeno abbhokāse caṅkamati.

At that time Venerable Udena was walking mindfully in the open air.

Atha kho ghoṭamukho brāhmaṇo yenāyasmā udeno tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamitvā āyasmatā udenena saddhim sammodi.

Ghoṭamukha approached and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodaniyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇiyaṃ vītisāretvā āyasmantaṃ udenaṃ caṅkamantaṃ anucaṅkamamāno evamāha:

Walking alongside Udena, he said,

“ambho samaṇa, ‘natthi dhammiko paribbajo’—

“Mister ascetic, there is no such thing as a principled renunciate life;

evaṃ me ettha hoti.

that’s what I think.

Taṅca kho bhavantarūpānaṃ vā adassanā, yo vā panettha dhammo”ti.

And that’s without seeing gentlemen such as yourself, or a relevant teaching.”

Evaṃ vutte, āyasmā udeno caṅkamā orohitvā vihāraṃ pavisitvā paññatte āsane nisīdi.

When he said this, Udena stepped down from the walking path, entered his dwelling, and sat down on the seat spread out.

Ghoṭamukhopi kho brāhmaṇo caṅkamā orohitvā vihāraṃ pavisitvā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi.

Ghoṭamukha also stepped down from the walking path and entered the dwelling, where he stood to one side.

Ekamantaṃ ṭhitaṃ kho ghoṭamukhaṃ brāhmaṇaṃ āyasmā udeno etadavoca:

Udena said to him,

“saṃvijjanti kho, brāhmaṇa, āsanāni.

“There are seats, brahmin.

Sace ākaṅkhasi, nisīdā”ti.

Please sit if you wish.”

“Etadeva kho pana mayaṃ bhoto udenassa āgamayamānā nisīdāma.

“I was just waiting for you to sit down.

Kathañhi nāma mādiso pubbe animantito āsane nisīditabbaṃ maññeyyā”ti?

For how could one such as I presume to sit first without being invited?”

Atha kho ghoṭamukho brāhmaṇo aññataraṃ nīcaṃ āsanaṃ gahetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

Then he took a low seat and sat to one side,

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho ghoṭamukho brāhmaṇo āyasmantaṃ udenaṃ etadavoca:

where he said,

“ambho samaṇa, ‘natthi dhammiko paribbajo’—

“Mister ascetic, there is no such thing as a principled renunciate life;

evaṃ me ettha hoti.

that’s what I think.

Taṅca kho bhavantarūpānaṃ vā adassanā, yo vā panettha dhammo”ti.

And that’s without seeing gentlemen such as yourself, or a relevant teaching.”

“Sace kho pana me tvaṃ, brāhmaṇa, anuññeyyaṃ anujāneyyāsi, paṭikkositabbaṅca paṭikkoseyyāsi; yassa ca pana me bhāsitassa atthaṃ na jāneyyāsi, mamañyeva tattha uttari paṭipuccheyyāsi:

“Brahmin, we can discuss this. But only if you allow what should be allowed, and reject what should be rejected. And if you ask me the meaning of anything you don’t understand, saying:

‘idaṃ, bho udena, kathaṃ, imassa kvattho’ti? Evaṃ katvā siyā no ettha kathāsallāpo”ti.

‘Sir, why is this? What does that mean?’”

“Anuññeyyaṃ khvāhaṃ bhoto udenassa anujānissāmi, paṭikkositabbaṅca paṭikkosissāmi; yassa ca panāhaṃ bhoto udenassa bhāsitassa atthaṃ na jānissāmi, bhavantaṃyeva tattha udenaṃ uttari paṭipucchissāmi: ‘idaṃ, bho udena, kathaṃ, imassa kvattho’ti? Evaṃ katvā hotu no ettha kathāsallāpo”ti.

“Let us discuss this. I will do as you say.”

“Cattārome, brāhmaṇa, puggalā santo saṃvijjamānā lokasmiṃ.

“Brahmin, these four people are found in the world.

Katame cattāro?

What four?

1. Idha, brāhmaṇa, ekacco puggalo attantapo hoti attaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto. One person mortifies themselves, committed to the practice of mortifying themselves.
2. Idha pana, brāhmaṇa, ekacco puggalo parantapo hoti paraparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto. One person mortifies others, committed to the practice of mortifying others.
3. Idha pana, brāhmaṇa, ekacco puggalo attantapo ca hoti attaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto parantapo ca paraparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto. One person mortifies themselves and others, committed to the practice of mortifying themselves and others.
4. Idha pana, brāhmaṇa, ekacco puggalo nevattantapo hoti nāttaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto, na parantapo na paraparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto. One person doesn’t mortify either themselves or others, committed to the practice of not mortifying themselves or others. So anattantapo aparantapo diṭṭheva dhamme nicchāto nibbuto sītībhūto sukhappaṭisaṃvedī brahmabhūtena attanā viharati. They live without wishes in the present life, extinguished, cooled, experiencing bliss, having become holy in themselves.

I only like the sound of the last person, who doesn’t mortify either themselves or others.”

“Kasmā pana te, brāhmaṇa, ime tayo puggalā cittaṃ

“But why don’t you like the sound of those three people?”

“Yvāyaṃ, bho udena, puggalo attantapo

That's why I like the sound of that person.”

“Dvemā, brāhmaṇa, parisā.

“There are, brahmin, these two groups of people.

Katamā dve?

What two?

Idha, brāhmaṇa, ekaccā parisā sārattarattā maṇikuṇḍalesu puttabhariyaṃ pariyesati, dāsīdāsaṃ pariyesati, khettavatthum pariyesati, jātarūparajataṃ pariyesati.

There's one group of people who, being infatuated with jewels and earrings, seeks partners and children, male and female bondservants, fields and lands, and gold and money.

Idha pana, brāhmaṇa, ekaccā parisā asārattarattā maṇikuṇḍalesu puttabhariyaṃ pahāya, dāsīdāsaṃ pahāya, khettavatthum pahāya, jātarūparajataṃ pahāya, agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajitā.

And there's another group of people who, not being infatuated with jewels and earrings, has given up partner and children, male and female bondservants, fields and lands, and gold and money, and goes forth from the lay life to homelessness.

Svāyaṃ, brāhmaṇa, puggalo nevattantapo nāttaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto na parantapo na paraparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto.

Now, brahmin, that person who doesn't mortify either themselves or others—

And that’s without seeing gentlemen such as yourself, nor a relevant teaching.”

“Addhā mesā, bho udena, sānuggahā vācā bhāsītā.

“Well, I obviously had my reasons for saying that, master Udena.

‘Atthi dhammiko paribbajo’—

But there is such a thing as a principled renunciate life;

evaṃ me ettha hoti.

that's what I think.

Evañca pana mañ bhavañ udeno dhāretu.

Please remember me as saying this.

Ye ca me bhotā udenena cattāro puggalā sañkhittena vuttā vitthārena avibhattā, sādhu me bhavañ, udeno ime cattāro puggale vitthārena vibhajatu anukampañ upādāyā”ti.

Now, these four kinds of people that you've spoken of in a brief summary: please explain them to me in detail, out of compassion.”

“Tena hi, brāhmaṇa, suṇāhi, sādhukañ manasi karohi, bhāsissāmī”ti.

“Well then, brahmin, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evañ, bho”ti kho ghoṭamukho brāhmaṇo āyasmato udenassa paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” replied Ghoṭamukha.

Āyasmā udeno etadavoca:

Udena said this:

“Katamo ca, brāhmaṇa, puggalo attantapo attaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto?”

“What person mortifies themselves, committed to the practice of mortifying themselves?”

Idha, brāhmaṇa, ekacco puggalo acelako hoti muttācāro hatthāpalekhano naehibhaddantiko natiṭṭhabhaddantiko, nābhihaṭaṃ na uddissakataṃ na nimantanāṃ sādiyati.

It's when someone goes naked, ignoring conventions. They lick their hands, and don't come or wait when asked. They don't consent to food brought to them, or food prepared on purpose for them, or an invitation for a meal.

So na kumbhimukhā paṭiggaṇhāti, na kaḷopimukhā paṭiggaṇhāti, na eḷakamantaraṃ, na daṇḍamantaraṃ, na musalamantaraṃ, na dvinnaṃ bhuñjamānānaṃ, na gabbhiniyā, na pāyamānāya, na purisantaragatāya, na saṅkittīsu, na yattha sā upaṭṭhito hoti, na yattha makkhikā saṅḍasaṅḍacārini, na macchaṃ na maṃsaṃ, na suraṃ na merayaṃ na thusodakaṃ pivati.

They don't receive anything from a pot or bowl; or from someone who keeps sheep, or who has a weapon or a shovel in their home; or where a couple is eating; or where there is a woman who is pregnant, breastfeeding, or who has a man in her home; or where there's a dog waiting or flies buzzing. They accept no fish or meat or liquor or wine, and drink no beer.

So ekāgāriko vā hoti ekālopiko, dvāgāriko vā hoti dvālopiko ... pe... sattāgāriko vā hoti sattālopiko;

They go to just one house for alms, taking just one mouthful, or two houses and two mouthfuls, up to seven houses and seven mouthfuls.

ekissāpi dattiyā yāpeti, dvīhipi dattīhi yāpeti ...pe... sattahipi dattīhi yāpeti;

They feed on one saucer a day, two saucers a day, up to seven saucers a day.

ekāhikampi āhāraṃ āhāreti, dvīhikampi āhāraṃ āhāreti ...pe... sattāhikampi āhāraṃ āhāreti—iti evarūpaṃ addhamāsikaṃ pariāyabhattachojanānuyogamanuyutto viharati.

They eat once a day, once every second day, up to once a week, and so on, even up to once a fortnight. They live committed to the practice of eating food at set intervals.

So sākabhakkho vā hoti, sāmābhakkho vā hoti, nīvābhakkho vā hoti, daddulabhakkho vā hoti, haṭṭabhakkho vā hoti, kaṇabhakkho vā hoti, ācāmabhakkho vā hoti, piññākabhakkho vā hoti, tiṇabhakkho vā hoti, gomayabhakkho vā hoti, vanamūlaphalāhāro yāpeti pavattaphalabhōjī.

They eat herbs, millet, wild rice, poor rice, water lettuce, rice bran, scum from boiling rice, sesame flour, grass, or cow dung. They survive on forest roots and fruits, or eating fallen fruit.

So sāṇānipi dhāreti, masāṇānipi dhāreti, chavadussānipi dhāreti, paṃsukūlānipi dhāreti, tirīṭānipi dhāreti, ajinampi dhāreti, ajinakkhipampi dhāreti, kusacīrampi dhāreti, vākacīrampi dhāreti, phalakacīrampi dhāreti, kesakambalampi dhāreti, vāḷakambalampi dhāreti, ulūkapakkhampi dhāreti;

They wear robes of sunn hemp, mixed hemp, corpse-wrapping cloth, rags, lodh tree bark, antelope hide (whole or in strips), kusa grass, bark, wood-chips, human hair, horse-tail hair, or owls' wings.

kesamassulocakopi hoti kesamassulocanānuyogamanuyutto,
They tear out their hair and beard, committed to this practice.

ubbhaṭṭhakopi hoti āsanapaṭikkhitto,
They constantly stand, refusing seats.

ukkuṭīkopi hoti ukkuṭīkappadhānamanuyutto,
They squat, committed to persisting in the squatting position.

kaṇṭakāpassayīkopi hoti kaṇṭakāpassaye seyyaṃ kappeti;
They lie on a mat of thorns, making a mat of thorns their bed.

sāyatatiyakampi udakorohanānuyogamanuyutto viharati—
They're committed to the practice of immersion in water three times a day, including the evening.

iti evarūpaṃ anekavihiṭaṃ kāyassa ātāpanaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto viharati.

And so they live committed to practicing these various ways of mortifying and tormenting the body.

Ayaṃ vuccati, brāhmaṇa, puggalo attantapo attaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto.

This is called a person who mortifies themselves, being committed to the practice of mortifying themselves.

Katamo ca, brāhmaṇa, puggalo parantapo paraparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto?

And what person mortifies others, committed to the practice of mortifying others?

Idha, brāhmaṇa, ekacco puggalo orabbhiko hoti sūkariko sākuṇiko māgaviko luddo macchaghātako coro coraghātako goghātako bandhanāgāriko—ye vā panaññepi keci kurūrakammantā.

It's when a person is a slaughterer of sheep, pigs, poultry, or deer, a hunter or fisher, a bandit, an executioner, a butcher of cattle, a jailer, or has some other cruel livelihood.

Ayaṃ vuccati, brāhmaṇa, puggalo parantapo paraparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto.

This is called a person who mortifies others, being committed to the practice of mortifying others.

Katamo ca, brāhmaṇa, puggalo attantapo ca attaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto, parantapo ca paraparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto?

And what person mortifies themselves and others, being committed to the practice of mortifying themselves and others?

Idha, brāhmaṇa, ekacco puggalo rājā vā hoti khattiyo muddhāvasitto, brāhmaṇo vā mahāsālo.

It's when a person is an anointed king or a well-to-do brahmin.

So puratthimena nagarassa navam santhāgāram kārāpetvā kesamassum ohāretvā kharājinaṃ nivāsetvā sappitelena kāyaṃ abhañjivā magavisāṇena piṭṭhiṃ kaṇḍuvamāno navam santhāgāram pavisati saddhiṃ mahesiyā brāhmaṇena ca purohitena.

He has a new temple built to the east of the city. He shaves off his hair and beard, dresses in a rough antelope hide, and smears his body with ghee and oil. Scratching his back with antlers, he enters the temple with his chief queen and the brahmin high priest.

So tatha anantarāhitāya bhūmiyā haritupalittāya seyyam kappeti.

There he lies on the bare ground strewn with grass.

Ekissāya gāviyā sarūpavacchāya yaṃ ekasmiṃ thane khīraṃ hoti tena rājā yāpeti, yaṃ dutiyasmiṃ thane khīraṃ hoti tena mahesī yāpeti, yaṃ tatiyasmiṃ thane khīraṃ hoti tena brāhmaṇo purohito yāpeti, yaṃ catutthasmiṃ thane khīraṃ hoti tena aggiṃ juhati, avasesena vacchako yāpeti.

The king feeds on the milk from one teat of a cow that has a calf of the same color. The chief queen feeds on the milk from the second teat. The brahmin high priest feeds on the milk from the third teat. The milk from the fourth teat is offered to the flames. The calf feeds on the remainder.

So evamāha:

He says:

‘ettakā usabhā haññantu yaññatthāya, ettakā vacchatarā haññantu yaññatthāya, ettakā vacchatariyo haññantu yaññatthāya, ettakā ajā haññantu yaññatthāya, ettakā urabbhā haññantu yaññatthāya, ettakā assā haññantu yaññatthāya, ettakā rukkhā chijjantu yūpatthāya, ettakā dabbhā lūyantu barihisatthāyā’ti.

‘Slaughter this many bulls, bullocks, heifers, goats, rams, and horses for the sacrifice! Fell this many trees and reap this much grass for the sacrificial equipment!’

Yepissa te honti ‘dāsā’ti vā ‘pessā’ti vā ‘kammakarā’ti vā tepi daṇḍatajjitā bhayatajjitā assumukhā rudamānā parikammāni karonti.

His bondservants, employees, and workers do their jobs under threat of punishment and danger, weeping with tearful faces.

Ayaṃ vuccati, brāhmaṇa, puggalo attantapo ca attaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto, parantapo ca paraparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto.

This is called a person who mortifies themselves and others, being committed to the practice of mortifying themselves and others.

Katamo ca, brāhmaṇa, puggalo nevattantapo nāttaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto, na parantapo na

paraparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto;

And what person doesn't mortify either themselves or others, committed to the practice of not mortifying themselves or others,

so anattantapo aparantapo diṭṭheva dhamme nicchāto nibbuto sītībhūto sukhappaṭisaṃvedī brahmabhūtena attanā viharati?

living without wishes in the present life, extinguished, cooled, experiencing bliss, having become holy in themselves?

Idha, brāhmaṇa, tathāgato loke uppajjati araham sammāsambuddho vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānam buddho bhagavā.

It's when a Realized One arises in the world, perfected, a fully awakened Buddha, accomplished in knowledge and conduct, holy, knower of the world, supreme guide for those who wish to train, teacher of gods and humans, awakened, blessed.

So imam lokam sadevakam samarakam sabrahmakam
sassamaṇabrāhmaṇim pajam sadevamanusam sayam abhiññā
sacchikatvā pavedeti.

He has realized with his own insight this world—with its gods, Māras and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, gods and humans—and he makes it known to others.

So dhammam deseti ādikalyāṇam majjhekalyāṇam
pariyosānakalyāṇam sāttham sabyañjanam, kevalaparipuṇṇam
parisuddham brahmacariyam pakāseti.

He teaches Dhamma that's good in the beginning, good in the middle, and good in the end, meaningful and well-phrased. And he reveals a spiritual practice that's entirely full and pure.

Tam dhammam suṇāti gahapati vā gahapatiputto vā
aññatarasmim vā kule paccājāto.

A householder hears that teaching, or a householder's child, or someone reborn in some clan.

So taṃ dhammaṃ sutvā tathāgate saddhaṃ paṭilabhati.

They gain faith in the Realized One,

So tena saddhāpaṭilābhena samannāgato iti paṭisañcikkhati:

and reflect:

‘sambādho gharāvāso rajopatho abbhokāso pabbajjā.

‘Living in a house is cramped and dirty, but the life of one gone forth is wide open.

Nayidaṃ sukaraṃ agāraṃ ajjhāvasatā ekantaparipuṇṇaṃ ekantaparisuddhaṃ saṅkhalikhiṭaṃ brahmacariyaṃ carituṃ.

It’s not easy for someone living at home to lead the spiritual life utterly full and pure, like a polished shell.

Yannūnaṃ kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajeyyan’ti.

Why don’t I shave off my hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from the lay life to homelessness?’

So aparena samayena appaṃ vā bhogakkhandhaṃ pahāya mahantaṃ vā bhogakkhandhaṃ pahāya, appaṃ vā ñātiparivaṭṭaṃ pahāya mahantaṃ vā ñātiparivaṭṭaṃ pahāya, kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajati.

After some time they give up a large or small fortune, and a large or small family circle. They shave off hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

So evaṃ pabbajito samāno bhikkhūnaṃ sikkhāsājīvasamāpanno pāṇātipātāṃ pahāya pāṇātipātā paṭivirato hoti, nihitadaṇḍo nihitasattho lajjī dayāpanno sabbapāṇabhūtahitānukampī viharati.

Once they’ve gone forth, they take up the training and livelihood of the mendicants. They give up killing living creatures, renouncing the rod and the sword. They’re scrupulous and kind, living full of compassion for all living beings.

Adinnādānaṃ pahāya adinnādānā paṭivirato hoti dinnādāyī dinnapāṭikaṅkhī. Athenena sucibhūtena attanā viharati.

They give up stealing. They take only what's given, and expect only what's given. They keep themselves clean by not thieving.

Abrahmacariyaṃ pahāya brahmacārī hoti āracārī virato methunā gāmadhammā.

They give up unchastity. They are celibate, set apart, avoiding the common practice of sex.

Musāvādaṃ pahāya musāvādā paṭivirato hoti saccavādī saccasandho theto paccayiko avisaṃvādako lokassa.

They give up lying. They speak the truth and stick to the truth. They're honest and trustworthy, and don't trick the world with their words.

Pisuṇaṃ vācaṃ pahāya pisuṇāya vācāya paṭivirato hoti; ito sutvā na amutra akkhātā imesaṃ bhedāya, amutra vā sutvā na imesaṃ akkhātā amūsaṃ bhedāya. Iti bhinnānaṃ vā sandhātā sahitānaṃ vā anuppadātā, samaggārāmo samaggarato samagganandī samaggakaraṇiṃ vācaṃ bhāsītā hoti.

They give up divisive speech. They don't repeat in one place what they heard in another so as to divide people against each other. Instead, they reconcile those who are divided, supporting unity, delighting in harmony, loving harmony, speaking words that promote harmony.

Pharusāṃ vācaṃ pahāya pharusāya vācāya paṭivirato hoti. Yā sā vācā nelā kaṇṇasukhā pemaṇiyā hadayaṅgamā porī bahujanakantā bahujanamanāpā tathārūpiṃ vācaṃ bhāsītā hoti.

They give up harsh speech. They speak in a way that's mellow, pleasing to the ear, lovely, going to the heart, polite, likable and agreeable to the people.

Samphappalāpaṃ pahāya samphappalāpā paṭivirato hoti, kālavādī bhūtavādī atthavādī dhammavādī vinayavādī, nidhānavatim̐ vācaṃ bhāsitaṃ kālena sāpadesaṃ pariyantavatim̐ atthasaṃhitam̐.

They give up talking nonsense. Their words are timely, true, and meaningful, in line with the teaching and training. They say things at the right time which are valuable, reasonable, succinct, and beneficial.

So bījagāmbhūtagāmasamārambhā paṭivirato hoti.

They avoid injuring plants and seeds.

Ekabhattiko hoti rattūparato virato vikālabhojanā.

They eat in one part of the day, abstaining from eating at night and food at the wrong time.

Naccagītavāditavisūkadassanā paṭivirato hoti.

They avoid dancing, singing, music, and seeing shows.

Mālāgandhavilepanadhāraṇamaṇḍanavibhūsanatṭhānā
paṭivirato hoti.

They avoid beautifying and adorning themselves with garlands, perfumes, and makeup.

Uccāsayanamahāsayanā paṭivirato hoti.

They avoid high and luxurious beds.

Jātarūparajatapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti.

They avoid receiving gold and money,

Āmakadhaññapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti.

raw grains,

Āmakamaṃsapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti.

raw meat,

Itthikumārikapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti.

women and girls,

Dāsīdāsapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti.

male and female bondservants,

Ajeḷakapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti.

goats and sheep,

Kukkuṭasūkarapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti.

chickens and pigs,

Hatthigavassavaḷavapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti.

elephants, cows, horses, and mares,

Khettavatthupaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti.

and fields and land.

Dūteyyapaḥiṇagamanānuyogā paṭivirato hoti.

They avoid running errands and messages;

Kayavikkayā paṭivirato hoti.

buying and selling;

Tulākūṭakaṃsakūṭamānakūṭā paṭivirato hoti.

falsifying weights, metals, or measures;

Ukkoṭanavañcananikatisāciyogā paṭivirato hoti.

bribery, fraud, cheating, and duplicity;

Chedanavadhabandhanaviparāmosaālopasahasākārā paṭivirato hoti.

mutilation, murder, abduction, banditry, plunder, and violence.

So santuṭṭho hoti kāyaparihārikena cīvarena,

kucchiparihārikena piṇḍapātena. So yena yeneva pakkamati

samādāyeva pakkamati.

They're content with robes to look after the body and alms-food to look after the belly. Wherever they go, they set out taking only these things.

Seyyathāpi nāma pakkhī sakuṇo yena yeneva ḍeti

sapattabhārova ḍeti;

They're like a bird: wherever it flies, wings are its only burden.

evameva bhikkhu santuṭṭho hoti kāyaparihārikena cīvarena,

kucchiparihārikena piṇḍapātena. So yena yeneva pakkamati

samādāyeva pakkamati.

In the same way, a mendicant is content with robes to look after the body and alms-food to look after the belly. Wherever they go, they set out taking only these things.

So iminā ariyena sīlakkhandhena samannāgato ajjhataṃ anavajjasukhaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti.

When they have this entire spectrum of noble ethics, they experience a blameless happiness inside themselves.

So cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā na nimittaggāhī hoti nānubyañjanaggāhī.

When they see a sight with their eyes, they don't get caught up in the features and details.

Yatvādhikaraṇaṃ cakkhundriyaṃ asaṃvutaṃ viharantaṃ abhijjhādomanassā pāpakā akusalā dhammā anvāssaveyyuṃ tassa saṃvarāya paṭipajjati, rakkhati cakkhundriyaṃ, cakkhundriye saṃvaraṃ āpajjati.

If the faculty of sight were left unrestrained, bad unskillful qualities of desire and aversion would become overwhelming. For this reason, they practice restraint, protecting the faculty of sight, and achieving its restraint.

Sotena saddaṃ sutvā ...pe...

When they hear a sound with their ears ...

ghānena gandhaṃ ghāyitvā ...

When they smell an odor with their nose ...

jivhāya rasaṃ sāyitvā ...

When they taste a flavor with their tongue ...

kāyena phoṭṭhabbaṃ phusitvā ...

When they feel a touch with their body ...

manasā dhammaṃ viññāya na nimittaggāhī hoti nānubyañjanaggāhī.

When they know a thought with their mind, they don't get caught up in the features and details.

Yatvādhikaraṇamenam manindriyam asaṁvutam viharantaṁ abhijjhādomanassā pāpakā akusalā dhammā anvāssaveyyum tassa saṁvarāya paṭipajjati, rakkhati manindriyam, manindriye saṁvaram āpajjati.

If the faculty of mind were left unrestrained, bad unskillful qualities of desire and aversion would become overwhelming. For this reason, they practice restraint, protecting the faculty of mind, and achieving its restraint.

So iminā ariyena indriyasaṁvarena samannāgato ajjhataṁ abyāsekasukhaṁ paṭisaṁvedeti.

When they have this noble sense restraint, they experience an unsullied bliss inside themselves.

So abhikkante paṭikkante sampajānakārī hoti, ālokite vilokite sampajānakārī hoti, samiñjite pasārite sampajānakārī hoti, saṅghāṭipattacīvaradhāraṇe sampajānakārī hoti, asite pīte khāyite sāyite sampajānakārī hoti, uccārapassāvakamme sampajānakārī hoti, gate ṭhite nisinne sutte jāgarite bhāsīte tuṅhībhave sampajānakārī hoti.

They act with situational awareness when going out and coming back; when looking ahead and aside; when bending and extending the limbs; when bearing the outer robe, bowl and robes; when eating, drinking, chewing, and tasting; when urinating and defecating; when walking, standing, sitting, sleeping, waking, speaking, and keeping silent.

So iminā ca ariyena sīlakkhandhena samannāgato, imāya ca ariyāya santuṭṭhiyā samannāgato, iminā ca ariyena indriyasaṁvarena samannāgato, iminā ca ariyena satisampajaññaena samannāgato

When they have this noble spectrum of ethics, this noble sense restraint, and this noble mindfulness and situational awareness, vivittaṃ senāsanam bhajati araṇṇam rukkhamūlam pabbataṃ kandaram giriguham susānam vanapattham abbhokāsam palālapuñjam.

they frequent a secluded lodging—a wilderness, the root of a tree, a hill, a ravine, a mountain cave, a charnel ground, a forest, the open air, a heap of straw.

So pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātaṭikkanto nisīdati pallaṅkam ābhujitvā, ujum kāyam paṇidhāya, parimukham satim
upaṭṭhapetvā.

After the meal, they return from alms-round, sit down cross-legged with their body straight, and establish mindfulness right there.

So abhijjam loke pahāya vigatābhijjhena cetasā viharati, abhijjhāya cittaṃ parisodheti;

Giving up desire for the world, they meditate with a heart rid of desire, cleansing the mind of desire.

byāpādapadosam pahāya abyāpannacitto viharati sabbapāṇabhūtahitānukampī, byāpādapadosā cittaṃ
parisodheti;

Giving up ill will and malevolence, they meditate with a mind rid of ill will, full of compassion for all living beings, cleansing the mind of ill will.

thinamiddham pahāya vigatathinamiddho viharati ālokasaññī sato sampajāno, thinamiddhā cittaṃ parisodheti;

Giving up dullness and drowsiness, they meditate with a mind rid of dullness and drowsiness, perceiving light, mindful and aware, cleansing the mind of dullness and drowsiness.

uddhaccakukkuccam pahāya anuddhato viharati ajjhataṃ vūpasantacitto, uddhaccakukkuccā cittaṃ parisodheti;

Giving up restlessness and remorse, they meditate without restlessness, their mind peaceful inside, cleansing the mind of restlessness and remorse.

vicikiccham pahāya tiṇṇavicikiccho viharati akathaṅkathī kusalesu dhammesu, vicikicchāya cittaṃ parisodheti.

Giving up doubt, they meditate having gone beyond doubt, not undecided about skillful qualities, cleansing the mind of doubt.

So ime pañca nīvaraṇe pahāya cetaso upakkilese paññāya
dubbalīkaṇe

They give up these five hindrances, corruptions of the heart that weaken wisdom.

vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamam jhānam
upasampajja viharati.

Then, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, they enter and remain in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Vitakkavicārānam vūpasamā ajjhattaṃ sampasādanam cetaso ekodibhāvam avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyaṃ jhānam upasampajja viharati.

As the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, they enter and remain in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca viharati sato ca sampajāno, sukhañca kāyena paṭisaṃvedeti, yaṃ taṃ ariyā ācikkhanti:
'upekkhako satimā sukhavihārī'ti tatiyaṃ jhānam upasampajja
viharati.

And with the fading away of rapture, they enter and remain in the third absorption, where they meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, 'Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.'

Sukhassa ca pahānā dukkhassa ca pahānā, pubbeva somanassadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamā, adukkhamasukhaṃ upekkhāsatipārisuddhiṃ catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Giving up pleasure and pain, and ending former happiness and sadness, they enter and remain in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte pubbenivāsānussatiñāṇāya cittaṃ abhininnāmeti.

When their mind has become immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—they extend it toward recollection of past lives.

They recollect many kinds of past lives. That is: one, two, three, four, five, ten, twenty, thirty, forty, fifty, a hundred, a thousand, a hundred thousand rebirths; many eons of the world contracting, many eons of the world expanding, many eons of the world contracting and expanding. They remember: ‘There, I was named this, my clan was that, I looked like this, and that was my food. This was how I felt pleasure and pain, and that was how my life ended. When I passed away from that place I was reborn somewhere else. There, too, I was named this, my clan was that, I looked like this, and that was my food. This was how I felt pleasure and pain, and that was how my life ended. Passing away from there, I was reborn here.’ And so they recollect their many kinds of past lives, with features and details.

With clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, they see sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. They understand how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds: ‘These dear beings did bad things by way of body, speech, and mind. They spoke ill of the noble ones; they had wrong view; and they chose to act out of that wrong view. When their body breaks up, after death, they’re reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell. These dear beings, however, did good things by way of body, speech, and mind. They never spoke ill of the noble ones; they had right view; and they chose to act out of that right view. When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.' And so, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, they see sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. They understand how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds.

“Pañca, bho udena, kahāpaṇasatānī”ti.

“Five hundred dollars.”

“Na kho no, brāhmaṇa, kappati jātarūparajataṃ paṭiggahetun”ti.

“Sace taṃ bhoto udenassa na kappati vihāraṃ bhoto udenassa kārāpessāmī”ti.

95. Caṅkīsutta With Caṅkī

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā kosalesu cārikaṃ caramāno mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhiṃ yena opāsādam nāma kosalānam brāhmaṇagāmo tadavasari.

At one time the Buddha was wandering in the land of the Kosalans together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants when he arrived at a village of the Kosalan brahmins named Opāsāda.

Tatra sudam bhagavā opāsāde viharati uttarena opāsādam devavane sālavane.

He stayed in a sal grove to the north of Opāsāda called the “Gods’ Grove”.

Tena kho pana samayena caṅkī brāhmaṇo opāsādam ajjhāvasati sattussadam satiṇakaṭṭhodakam sadhaññaṃ rājabhoggaṃ rañña pasenadinā kosalena dinnam rājadāyam brahmadeyyam.

Now at that time the brahmin Caṅkī was living in Opāsāda. It was a crown property given by King Pasenadi of Kosala, teeming with living creatures, full of hay, wood, water, and grain, a royal endowment of the highest quality.

Assosum kho opāsādakā brāhmaṇagahapatikā:

The brahmins and householders of Opāsāda heard:

“samaṇo khalu, bho, gotamo sakyaputto sakyakulā pabbajito kosalesu cārikam̐ caramāno mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhim̐ opāsādam̐ anuppatto, opāsāde viharati uttarena opāsādam̐ devavane sālavane.

“It seems the ascetic Gotama—a Sakyan, gone forth from a Sakyan family—has arrived at Opāsāda together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants. He is staying in the God’s Grove to the north.

Tam̐ kho pana bhavantam̐ gotamam̐ evam̐ kalyāṇo kittisaddo abbhuggato:

He has this good reputation:

‘itipi so bhagavā araham̐ sammāsambuddho vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānam̐ buddho bhagavā’ti.

‘That Blessed One is perfected, a fully awakened Buddha, accomplished in knowledge and conduct, holy, knower of the world, supreme guide for those who wish to train, teacher of gods and humans, awakened, blessed.’

So imam̐ lokam̐ sadevakam̐ samārakam̐ sabrahmakam̐ sassamaṇabrāhmaṇim̐ pajam̐ sadevamanussam̐ sayam̐ abhiññā sacchikatvā pavedeti.

He has realized with his own insight this world—with its gods, Māras and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, gods and humans—and he makes it known to others.

So dhammam̐ deseti ādikalyāṇam̐ majjhekalyāṇam̐ pariyoṣānakalyāṇam̐ sāttham̐ sabyañjanam̐, kevalaparipuṇṇam̐ parisuddham̐ brahmacariyam̐ pakāseti.

He teaches Dhamma that’s good in the beginning, good in the middle, and good in the end, meaningful and well-phrased. And he reveals a spiritual practice that’s entirely full and pure.

Sādhu kho pana tathārūpānam̐ arahatam̐ dassanam̐ hotī’ti.

It’s good to see such perfected ones.”

Atha kho opāsādakā brāhmaṇagahapatikā opāsādā nikkhamitvā saṅghasaṅghī gaṇībhūtā uttarenamukhā gacchanti yena devavanaṃ sālavanaṃ.

Then, having departed Opāsāda, they formed into companies and headed north to the God’s Grove.

Tena kho pana samayena caṅkī brāhmaṇo uparipāsāde divāseyyaṃ upagato.

Now at that time the brahmin Caṅkī had retired to the upper floor of his stilt longhouse for his midday nap.

Addasā kho caṅkī brāhmaṇo opāsādake brāhmaṇagahapatike opāsādā nikkhamitvā saṅghasaṅghī gaṇībhūte uttarenamukhaṃ yena devavanaṃ sālavanaṃ tenupasaṅkamante.

He saw the brahmins and householders heading for the God’s Grove,

Disvā khattaṃ āmantesi:

and addressed his steward,

“My steward, why are the brahmins and householders heading north for the God’s Grove?”

“Atthi, bho caṅkī, samaṇo gotamo sakyaputto sakyakulā pabbajito kosalesu cārikaṃ caramāno mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhiṃ opāsādaṃ anuppatto, opāsāde viharati uttarena opāsādaṃ devavane sālavane.

“The ascetic Gotama has arrived at Opāsāda together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants. He is staying in the God’s Grove to the north.

Taṃ kho pana bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ evaṃ kalyāṇo kittisaddo abhuggato:

He has this good reputation:

‘itipi so bhagavā arahaṃ sammāsambuddho
vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro
purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānaṃ buddho
bhagavā’ti.

Tamete bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ dassaṇāya gacchantī”ti.
They’re going to see that Master Gotama.”

“Tena hi, bho khatte, yena opāsādakā brāhmaṇagahapatikā tenupasaṅkama; upasaṅkamitvā opāsādake brāhmaṇagahapatike evaṃ vadehi:

“Well then, go to the brahmins and householders and say to them:

‘caṅkī, bho, brāhmaṇo evamāha—

“Sirs, the brahmin Caṅkī asks

āgamentu kira bhonto, caṅkīpi brāhmaṇo samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ dassaṇāya upasaṅkamissatī”ti.

you to wait, as he will also go to see the ascetic Gotama.”

“Evaṃ, bho”ti kho so khatto caṅkissa brāhmaṇassa paṭissutvā yena opāsādakā brāhmaṇagahapatikā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamitvā opāsādake brāhmaṇagahapatike etadavoca:

“Yes, sir,” replied the steward, and did as he was asked.

“caṅkī, bho, brāhmaṇo evamāha:

‘āgamentu kira bhonto, caṅkīpi brāhmaṇo samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ
dassaṇāya upasaṅkamissatī”ti.

Tena kho pana samayena nānāverajjakānaṃ brāhmaṇānaṃ pañcamattāni brāhmaṇasatāni opāsāde paṭivasanti kenacideva karaṇīyena.

Now at that time around five hundred brahmins from abroad were residing in Opāsāda on some business.

Assosum̐ kho te brāhmaṇā:

They heard that “caṅkī kira brāhmaṇo samaṇam̐ gotamam̐ dassanāya upasaṅkamissatī”ti.

the brahmin Caṅkī was going to see the ascetic Gotama.

Atha kho te brāhmaṇā yena caṅkī brāhmaṇo tenupasaṅkamim̐su; upasaṅkamtivā caṅkim̐ brāhmaṇam̐ etadavocum̐:

They approached Caṅkī and said to him,

“saccam̐ kira bhavam̐ caṅkī samaṇam̐ gotamam̐ dassanāya upasaṅkamissatī”ti?

“Is it really true that you are going to see the ascetic Gotama?”

“Evaṃ kho me, bho, hoti:

“Yes, gentlemen, it is true.”

‘aham̐ samaṇam̐ gotamam̐ dassanāya upasaṅkamissāmī’”ti.

“Mā bhavam̐ caṅkī samaṇam̐ gotamam̐ dassanāya upasaṅkami.

“Please don’t!

for the praise of Master Gotama is limitless.

Ekamekenapi tena aṅgena samannāgato na arahati, so bhavaṃ gotamo amhākaṃ dassanāya upasaṅkमितुṃ;

The possession of even a single one of these factors makes it inappropriate for Master Gotama to come to see me, atha kho mayameva arahāma taṃ bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ dassanāya upasaṅkमितुṃ.

rather, it's appropriate for me to go to see him.

Tena hi, bho, sabbeva mayaṃ samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ dassanāya upasaṅkamissāma”ti.

Well then, gentlemen, let’s all go to see the ascetic Gotama.”

Atha kho caṅkī brāhmaṇo mahatā brāhmaṇagaṇena saddhiṃ yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then Caṅkī together with a large group of brahmins went to the Buddha and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side.

Tena kho pana samayena bhagavā vuddhehi vuddhehi brāhmaṇehi saddhiṃ kiñci kiñci kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā nisinno hoti.

Now at that time the Buddha was sitting engaged in some polite conversation together with some very senior brahmins.

Tena kho pana samayena kāpaṭiko nāma māṇavo daharo vuttasiro soḷasavassuddesiko jātiyā, tiṇṇaṃ vedānaṃ pāragū sanighaṇḍukeṭubhānaṃ sākkharappabhedānaṃ itihāsapañcamānaṃ, padako, veyyākaraṇo, lokāyatamahāpurisalakkhaṇesu anavayo tassaṃ parisāyaṃ nisinno hoti.

And the brahmin student Kāpaṭika was sitting in that assembly. He was young, newly tonsured; he was sixteen years old. He had mastered the three Vedas, together with their vocabularies, ritual, phonology and etymology, and the testament as fifth. He knew philology and grammar, and was well versed in cosmology and the marks of a great man.

So vuddhānaṃ vuddhānaṃ brāhmaṇānaṃ bhagavatā saddhiṃ mantayamānānaṃ antarantarā kathaṃ opātetī.

While the senior brahmins were conversing together with the Buddha, he interrupted.

Atha kho bhagavā kāpaṭikaṃ māṇavaṃ apasādeti:

Then the Buddha rebuked Kāpaṭika, “māyasmā bhāradvājo vuddhānaṃ vuddhānaṃ brāhmaṇānaṃ mantayamānānaṃ antarantarā kathaṃ opātetu.

“Venerable Bhāradvāja, don’t interrupt the senior brahmins.

Kathāpariyosānaṃ āyasmā bhāradvājo āgacetū”ti.

Wait until they’ve finished speaking.”

Evaṃ vutte, caṅkī brāhmaṇo bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, Caṅkī said to the Buddha,

“mā bhavaṃ gotamo kāpaṭikaṃ māṇavaṃ apasādesi.

kulaputto ca kāpaṭiko māṇavo, bahussuto ca kāpaṭiko māṇavo, paṇḍito ca kāpaṭiko māṇavo, kalyāṇavākkaraṇo ca kāpaṭiko māṇavo, pahoti ca kāpaṭiko māṇavo bhotā gotamena saddhiṃ asmiṃ vacane paṭimantetun”ti.

He’s a gentleman, learned, astute, a good speaker. He’s capable of having a dialogue with Master Gotama about this.”

Atha kho bhagavato etadahosi:

Then it occurred to the Buddha,

“addhā kho kāpaṭikassa māṇavassa tevijjake pāvacane kathā bhavissati.

“Clearly the student Kāpaṭika will talk about the scriptural heritage of the three Vedas.

Tathā hi naṃ brāhmaṇā sampurekkharontī”ti.

That’s why they put him at the front.”

Atha kho kāpaṭikassa māṇavassa etadahosi:

Then Kāpaṭika thought,

“yadā me samaṇo gotamo cakkhuṃ upasaṃharissati, athāhaṃ samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ pañhaṃ pucchissāmi”ti.

“When the ascetic Gotama looks at me, I’ll ask him a question.”

Atha kho bhagavā kāpaṭikassa māṇavassa cetasā cetoparivitakkamaññāya yena kāpaṭiko māṇavo tena cakkhūni upasaṃhāsi.

Then the Buddha, knowing what Kāpaṭika was thinking, looked at him.

Atha kho kāpaṭikassa māṇavassa etadahosi:

Then Kāpaṭika thought,

“samannāharati kho maṃ samaṇo gotamo.

“The ascetic Gotama is engaging with me.

Yannūnāhaṃ samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ pañhaṃ puccheyyan”ti.

Why don’t I ask him a question?”

Atha kho kāpaṭiko māṇavo bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

Then he said,

“yadidaṃ, bho gotama, brāhmaṇānaṃ porāṇaṃ mantapadaṃ itihitihaparamparāya piṭakasampadāya, tattha ca brāhmaṇā ekamsena niṭṭhaṃ gacchanti:

96. Esukārīsutta With Esukārī

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā sāvattiyam viharati jetavane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Atha kho esukārī brāhmaṇo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhim sammodi.

Then Esukārī the brahmin went up to the Buddha, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyam katham sāraṇīyam vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho esukārī brāhmaṇo bhagavantaṃ
etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to the Buddha:

“brāhmaṇā, bho gotama, catasso pāricariyā paññapenti—

“Master Gotama, the brahmins prescribe four kinds of service:

brāhmaṇassa pāricariyam paññapenti, khattiyassa pāricariyam paññapenti, vessassa pāricariyam paññapenti, suddassa

‘A merchant or a worker may serve a merchant.’

Idaṃ kho, bho gotama, brāhmaṇā vessassa pāricariyaṃ paññapenti.

Tatridaṃ, bho gotama, brāhmaṇā suddassa pāricariyaṃ paññapenti:

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava rājagahe viharati veḷuvane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā sāriputto dakkhiṇāgirismim

Now at that time Venerable Sāriputta was wandering in the Southern Hills together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants.

Atha kho aññataro bhikkhu rājagahe vassaṃvuṭṭho yena upasaṅkamtivā āyasmatā sāriputtena saddhim sammodi.

Then a certain mendicant who had completed the rainy season residence in Rājagaha went to the Southern Hills, where he approached Venerable Sāriputta, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyam katham sāraṇīyam vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side. Sāriputta said to him, “kaccāvuso, bhagava arogo ca balavā cā”ti?

“Reverend, I hope the Buddha is healthy and well?”

“Arogo cāvuso, bhagavā balavā cā”ti.

“He is, reverend.”

“Kacci panāvuso, bhikkhusaṅgho arogo ca balavā cā”ti?

“And I hope that the mendicant Saṅgha is healthy and well.”

“Bhikkhusaṅghopi kho, āvuso, arogo ca balavā cā”ti.

“It is.”

“Enough, brahmin,

Kataṃ me ajja bhattakiccaṃ.

I’ve finished eating for today.

Atha kho dhanañjāni brāhmaṇo āyasmato sāriputtassa bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ pakkāmi.

Then Dhanañjāni the brahmin, having approved and agreed with what Venerable Sāriputta said, got up from his seat and left.

Atha kho dhanañjāni brāhmaṇo aparena samayena ābādhiko ahoṣi dukkhito bālḥagilāno.

Some time later Dhanañjāni became sick, suffering, gravely ill.

Atha kho dhanañjāni brāhmaṇo aññataraṃ purisaṃ āmantesi:

Then he addressed a man,

“ehi tvaṃ, ambho purisa, yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkama;
upasaṅkamtivā mama vacanena bhagavato pāde sirasā
vandāhi:

“Please, mister, go to the Buddha, and in my name bow with your head to his feet. Say to him:

‘dhanañjāni, bhante, brāhmaṇo ābādhiko dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.
‘Sir, the brahmin Dhanañjāni is sick, suffering, gravely ill.

So bhagavato pāde sirasā vandatī’ti.

He bows with his head to your feet.’

Yena cāyasmā sāriputto tenupasaṅkama; upasaṅkamtivā mama vacanena āyasmato sāriputtassa pāde sirasā vandāhi:

Then go to Venerable Sāriputta, and in my name bow with your head to his feet. Say to him:

‘dhanañjāni, bhante, brāhmaṇo ābādhiko dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.
‘Sir, the brahmin Dhanañjāni is sick, suffering, gravely ill.

So āyasmato sāriputtassa pāde sirasā vandatī’ti.

He bows with his head to your feet.’

Evañca vadehi:

And then say:

‘sādhu kira, bhante, āyasmā sāriputto yena dhanañjānissa bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho so puriso bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

“Yes, sir,” that man replied. He did as Dhanañjāni asked.

“dhanañjāni, bhante, brāhmaṇo ābādhiko dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.

So bhagavato pāde sirasā vandatī’ti.

Yena cāyasmā sāriputto tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ sāriputtaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho so puriso āyasmantaṃ sāriputtaṃ etadavoca:

“dhanañjāni, bhante, brāhmaṇo ābādhiko dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.

So āyasmato sāriputtassa pāde sirasā vandati, evañca vadeti:

‘sādhu kira, bhante, āyasmā sāriputto yena dhanañjānissa brāhmaṇassa nivesanaṃ tenupasaṅkamatu anukampaṃ upādāyā’”ti.

Adhivāsesi kho āyasmā sāriputto tuṅhībhāvena.

Sāriputta consented in silence.

Atha kho āyasmā sāriputto nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya yena dhanañjānissa brāhmaṇassa nivesanaṃ tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā paññatte āsane nisīdi. Nisajja kho āyasmā sāriputto dhanañjāniṃ brāhmaṇaṃ etadavoca:

He robed up, and, taking his bowl and robe, went to Dhanañjāni’s home, where he sat on the seat spread out and said to Dhanañjāni, “kacci te, dhanañjāni, khamanīyaṃ, kacci yāpanīyaṃ? Kacci dukkhā vedanā paṭikkamanti, no abhikkamanti?

Paṭikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no abhikkamo”ti?

“Dhanañjāni, I hope you’re keeping well; I hope you’re alright. And I hope the pain is fading, not growing, that its fading is evident, not its growing.”

“Na me, bho sāriputta, khamanīyaṃ na yāpanīyaṃ. Bāḷhā me dukkhā vedanā abhikkamanti, no paṭikkamanti.

Abhikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no paṭikkamo.

“I’m not keeping well, Master Sāriputta, I’m not alright. The pain is terrible and growing, not fading; its growing is evident, not its fading.

The winds piercing my belly are so severe, it feels like a deft butcher or their apprentice is slicing my belly open with a meat cleaver.

Na me, bho sārīputta, khamanīyaṃ, na yāpanīyaṃ. Bāḷhā me dukkhā vedanā abhikkamanti, no paṭikkamanti.

Abhikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no paṭikkamo.

I'm not keeping well.

Seyyathāpi, bho sārīputta, dve balavanto purisā dubbalataraṃ purisaṃ nānābhāsu gahetvā aṅgārakāsuyā santāpeyyuṃ samparitāpeyyuṃ; evameva kho, bho sārīputta, adhimatto kāyasmīṃ dāho.

The burning in my body is so severe, it feels like two strong men grabbing a weaker man by the arms to burn and scorch him on a pit of glowing coals.

Na me, bho sāriputta, khamanīyaṃ na yāpanīyaṃ. Bāḷhā me dukkhā vedanā abhikkamanti, no paṭikkamanti.

Abhikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no paṭikkamo”ti.

I’m not keeping well, Master Sāriputta, I’m not alright. The pain is terrible and growing, not fading; its growing is evident, not its fading.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, dhanañjāni, katamaṃ seyyo—

the Gods Who Love to Create or the Gods Who Control the Creations of Others?”

“Nimmānaratīhi, bho sāriputta, devehi paranimmitavasavattī devā seyyo”ti.

“The Gods Who Control the Creations of Others.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, dhanañjāni, katamaṃ seyyo

“Which do you think is better:

paranimmitavasavattī vā devā brahmaloko vā”ti?

the Gods Who Control the Creations of Others or the Brahmā realm?”

“Brahmaloko’ti—bhavaṃ sāriputto āha;

“Master Sāriputta speaks of the Brahmā realm!

‘brahmaloko’ti—bhavaṃ sāriputto āhā”ti.

Master Sāriputta speaks of the Brahmā realm!”

Atha kho āyasmato sāriputtassa etadahosi:

Then Sāriputta thought:

“ime kho brāhmaṇā brahmalokādhimuttā.

“These brahmins are devoted to the Brahmā realm.

Yannūnāhaṃ dhanañjānissa brāhmaṇassa brahmānaṃ

Why don’t I teach him a path to the company of Brahmā?”

“Brahmānaṃ te, dhanañjāni, sahabyatāya maggaṃ desessāmi; “Dhanañjāni, I shall teach you a path to the company of Brahmā.

taṃ suṇāhi, sādhukaṃ manasi karohi, bhāsissāmī”ti.

Listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bho”ti kho dhanañjāni brāhmaṇo āyasmato sāriputtassa paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” replied Dhanañjāni.

Āyasmā sāriputto etadavoca:

Venerable Sāriputta said this:

“katamo ca, dhanañjāni, brahmānaṃ sahabyatāya maggo?

“And what is a path to companionship with Brahmā?

Idha, dhanañjāni, bhikkhu mettāsahagatena cetasā ekaṃ disaṃ

Firstly, a mendicant meditates spreading a heart full of love to one direction, and to the second, and to the third, and to the fourth. In the same way above, below, across, everywhere, all around, they spread a heart full of love to the whole world—abundant, expansive, limitless, free of enmity and ill will.

Ayaṃ kho, dhanañjāni, brahmānaṃ sahabyatāya maggo.

This is a path to companionship with Brahmā.

Puna caparaṃ, dhanañjāni, bhikkhu karuṇāsaḥagatena cetasā ...pe...

Furthermore, a mendicant meditates spreading a heart full of compassion ...

muditāsaḥagatena cetasā ...

They meditate spreading a heart full of rejoicing ...

upekkhāsaḥagatena cetasā ekaṃ disaṃ pharivā viharati, tathā dutiyaṃ, tathā tatiyaṃ, tathā catutthaṃ; iti uddhamadho tiriyaṃ sabbadhi sabbattatāya sabbāvantaṃ lokaṃ upekkhāsaḥagatena cetasā vipulena mahaggatena appamāṇena averena abyābajjhena pharivā viharati.

They meditate spreading a heart full of equanimity to one direction, and to the second, and to the third, and to the fourth. In the same way above, below, across, everywhere, all around, they spread a heart full of equanimity to the whole world—abundant, expansive, limitless, free of enmity and ill will.

Ayaṃ kho, dhanañjāni, brahmānaṃ saḥabyatāya maggo”ti.

This is a path to companionship with Brahmā.”

“Tena hi, bho sāriputta, mama vacanena bhagavato pāde sirasā vandāhi:

“Well then, Master Sāriputta, in my name bow with your head to the Buddha’s feet. Say to him:

‘dhanañjāni, bhante, brāhmaṇo ābādhiko dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.

‘Sir, the brahmin Dhanañjāni is sick, suffering, gravely ill.

So bhagavato pāde sirasā vandatī””ti.

He bows with his head to your feet.”

Atha kho āyasmā sāriputto dhanañjāniṃ brāhmaṇaṃ sati uttarikaraṇīye hīne brahmaloke patiṭṭhāpetvā uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ pakkāmi.

Then Sāriputta, after establishing Dhanañjāni in the inferior Brahmā realm, got up from his seat and left while there was still more left to do.

Atha kho dhanañjāni brāhmaṇo acirapakkante āyasmante sāriputte kālamakāsi, brahmalokañca upapajji.

Not long after Sāriputta had departed, Dhanañjāni passed away and was reborn in the Brahmā realm.

Atha kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to the mendicants,

“eso, bhikkhave, sāriputto dhanañjāniṃ brāhmaṇaṃ sati uttarikaraṇīye hīne brahmaloke patiṭṭhāpetvā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkanto”ti.

Atha kho āyasmā sāriputto yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami, upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi, ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā sāriputto bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

Then Sāriputta went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said,

“dhanañjāni, bhante, brāhmaṇo ābādhiko dukkhito bāḷhagilāno,
“Sir, the brahmin Dhanañjāni is sick, suffering, gravely ill.

so bhagavato pāde sirasā vandatī”ti.

He bows with his head to your feet.”

“Kiṃ pana tvaṃ, sāriputta, dhanañjāniṃ brāhmaṇaṃ sati uttarikaraṇīye hīne brahmaloke patiṭṭhāpetvā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkanto”ti?

“But Sāriputta, after establishing Dhanañjāni in the inferior Brahmā realm, why did you get up from your seat and leave while there was still more left to do?”

“Mayhaṃ kho, bhante, evaṃ ahosi:

“Sir, I thought:

“And Sāriputta, the brahmin Dhanañjāni has passed away and been reborn in the Brahmā realm.”

Dhanañjānisuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ sattamaṃ.

98. Vāseṭṭhasutta With Vāseṭṭha

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā icchānaṅgale viharati
icchānaṅgalavanasaṅḍe.

At one time the Buddha was staying in a forest near Icchānaṅgala.

Tena kho pana samayena sambahulā abhiññātā abhiññātā
brāhmaṇamahāsālā icchānaṅgale paṭivasanti, seyyathidaṃ—

Now at that time several very well-known well-to-do brahmins were residing in Icchānaṅgala. They included caṅkī brāhmaṇo, tārukkho brāhmaṇo, pokkharasāti brāhmaṇo, jāṇussoṇi brāhmaṇo, todeyyo brāhmaṇo, aññe ca abhiññātā abhiññātā brāhmaṇamahāsālā.

the brahmins Caṅkī, Tārukkha, Pokkharasāti, Jāṇussoṇi, Todeyya, and others.

Atha kho vāseṭṭhabhāradvājānaṃ māṇavānaṃ jaṅghāvihāraṃ anucaṅkamantānaṃ anuvicarantānaṃ ayamantarākathā
udapādi:

Then as the brahmin students Vāseṭṭha and Bhāradvāja were going for a walk they began to discuss the question of “kathaṃ, bho, brāhmaṇo hotī”ti?

how one is a brahmin.

Bhāradvājo māṇavo evamāha:

Bhāradvāja said this:

“yato kho, bho, ubhato sujāto mātito ca pitito ca saṃsuddhagahaṇiko yāva sattamā pitāmahayugā akkhitto anupakkuṭṭho jātivādena—

“When you’re well born on both your mother’s and father’s side, of pure descent, irrefutable and impeccable in questions of ancestry back to the seventh paternal generation—ettāvatā kho, bho, brāhmaṇo hotī”ti.

then you’re a brahmin.”

Vāseṭṭho māṇavo evamāha:

Vāseṭṭha said this:

“yato kho, bho, sīlavā ca hoti vattasampanno ca—

“When you’re ethical and accomplished in doing your duties—ettāvatā kho, bho, brāhmaṇo hotī”ti.

then you’re a brahmin.”

Neva kho asakkhi bhāradvājo māṇavo vāseṭṭhaṃ māṇavaṃ saññāpetuṃ, na pana asakkhi vāseṭṭho māṇavo bhāradvājaṃ māṇavaṃ saññāpetuṃ.

But neither was able to persuade the other.

Atha kho vāseṭṭho māṇavo bhāradvājaṃ māṇavaṃ āmantesi:

So Vāseṭṭha said to Bhāradvāja,

“ayaṃ kho, bho bhāradvāja, samaṇo gotamo sakyaputto sakyakulā pabbajito icchānaṅgale viharati
icchānaṅgalavanasaṅḍe.

“Master Bhāradvāja, the ascetic Gotama—a Sakyan, gone forth from a Sakyan family—is staying in a forest near Icchānaṅgala.

Taṃ kho pana bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ evaṃ kalyāṇo kittisaddo
abhuggato:

He has this good reputation:

‘itipi so bhagavā arahaṃ sammāsambuddho
vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro
purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānaṃ buddho
bhagavā’ti.

Āyāma, bho bhāradvāja, yena samaṇo gotamo tenupasaṅkamissāma; upasaṅkamtivā samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ etamatthaṃ pucchissāma.

Come, let’s go to see him and ask him about this matter.

Yathā no samaṇo gotamo byākarissati tathā naṃ dhāressāmā”ti.

As he answers, so we’ll remember it.”

“Evaṃ, bho”ti kho bhāradvājo māṇavo vāseṭṭhassa māṇavassa paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” replied Bhāradvāja.

Atha kho vāseṭṭhabhāradvājā māṇavā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodimsu.

So they went to the Buddha, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ
nisīdimsu.

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, they sat down to one side,

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho vāseṭṭho māṇavo bhagavantaṃ gāthāhi ajjhabhāsi:

and Vāseṭṭha addressed the Buddha in verse:

“Anuññātapaṭiññātā, “We’re both authorized masters tevijjā mayamasmubho;

of the three Vedas.

Ahaṃ pokkharasātissa,
I’m a student of Pokkharasāti, tārukkhassāyaṃ māṇavo.

and he of Tārukkha.

Tevijjānaṃ yadakkhātāṃ, We’re fully qualified tatra kevalinosmase;

in all the Vedic experts teach.

Padakasmā veyyākaraṇā,
As philologists and grammarians,

jappe ācariyasādisā;
we match our teachers in recitation.

Tesaṃ no jātivādasmiṃ,
We have a dispute

vivādo atthi gotama.
regarding the question of ancestry.

Jātiyā brāhmaṇo hoti,
For Bhāradvāja says that bhāradvājo iti bhāsati;

one is a brahmin due to birth,

Ahañca kammunā brūmi,
but I declare it’s because of one’s actions.

evaṃ jānāhi cakkhuma.
Oh seer, know this as our debate.

Te na sakkoma ñāpetum, Since neither of us was able aññamaññaṃ mayaṃ ubho;
to convince the other,
Bhavantam puṭṭhumāgamā,
we've come to ask you, sir, sambuddham itī vissutam.
renowned as the awakened one.

Candam yathā khayātītam,
As people honor with joined palms
pecca pañjalikā janā;
the moon on the cusp of waxing, Vandamānā namassanti, bowing, they revere
lokasmim gotamam.
Gotama in the world.

Cakkhum loke samuppannam,
We ask this of Gotama,
mayam pucchāma gotamam;
the eye arisen in the world:
Jātiyā brāhmaṇo hoti,
is one a brahmin due to birth,
udāhu bhavati kammunā;
or else because of actions?
Ajānataṃ no pabrūhi,
We don't know, please tell us,
yathā jānemu brāhmaṇan"ti.
so that we can know a brahmin."

“Tesaṃ vo ahaṃ byakkhissaṃ, (vāseṭṭhāti bhagavā)

“I shall explain to you,” said the Buddha,

Anupubbaṃ yathātathaṃ;

“accurately and in sequence,

Jātivibhaṅgaṃ pāṇānaṃ,

the taxonomy of living creatures,

Aññamaññāhi jātiyo.

for species are indeed diverse.

Tiṇarukkhepi jānātha,

Know the grass and trees,

na cāpi paṭijānare;

though they lack self-awareness.

Liṅgaṃ jātimayaṃ tesaṃ,

They’re defined by their birth,

aññamaññā hi jātiyo.

for species are indeed diverse.

Tato kīṭe paṭaṅge ca,

Next there are bugs and moths,

yāva kunthakipillike;

and so on, to ants and termites.

Liṅgaṃ jātimayaṃ tesaṃ,

They’re defined by their birth,

aññamaññā hi jātiyo.

for species are indeed diverse.

Catuppadehi jānātha,

Know the quadrupeds, too,

khuddake ca mahallake;

both small and large.

Liṅgam̐ jātimayaṁ tesaṁ,
They're defined by their birth,
aññamaññā hi jātiyo.
for species are indeed diverse.

Pādudarepi jānātha, Know, too, the long-backed snakes,
urage dīghapiṭṭhike;
crawling on their bellies.

Liṅgam̐ jātimayaṁ tesaṁ,
They're defined by their birth,
aññamaññā hi jātiyo.
for species are indeed diverse.

Tato macchepi jānātha,
Next know the fish,
udake vārigocare;
whose habitat is the water.
Liṅgam̐ jātimayaṁ tesaṁ,
They're defined by their birth,
aññamaññā hi jātiyo.
for species are indeed diverse.

Tato pakkhīpi jānātha,
Next know the birds,
pattayāne vihaṅgame;
flying with wings as chariots.
Liṅgam̐ jātimayaṁ tesaṁ,
They're defined by their birth,
aññamaññā hi jātiyo.

for species are indeed diverse.

Yathā etāsu jātīsu,

While the differences between these species

liṅgaṃ jātimayaṃ puthu;

are defined by their birth,

Evaṃ natthi manussesu,

the differences between humans

liṅgaṃ jātimayaṃ puthu.

are not defined by their birth.

Na kesehi na sīsehi,

Not by hair nor by head,

na kaṇṇehi na akkhīhi;

not by ear nor by eye,

Na mukhena na nāsāya,

not by mouth nor by nose,

na oṭṭhehi bhamūhi vā.

not by lips nor by eyebrow,

Na gīvāya na aṃsehi, not by shoulder nor by neck,

na udarena na piṭṭhiyā;

not by belly nor by back,

Na soṇiyā na urasā, not by buttocks nor by breast, na sambādhe na methune.

not by genitals nor by groin,

Na hatthehi na pādehi, not by hands nor by feet,

naṅgulīhi nakhehi vā;
not by fingers nor by nails,

Na jaṅghāhi na ūrūhi,
not by knees nor by thighs,

na vaṅṅena sarena vā;
not by color nor by voice:

Liṅgaṃ jātimayaṃ neva, none of these are defined by birth yathā aññāsu jātisu.

as it is for other species.

Paccattaṅca sarīresu,
In individual human bodies

manussesvetam na vijjati;
you can't find such distinctions.

Vokāraṅca manussesu,
The distinctions among humans samaññāya pavuccati.

are spoken of by convention.

Yo hi koci manussesu,
Anyone among humans

gorakkham upajīvati;
who lives off keeping cattle:

Evaṃ vāseṭṭha jānāhi,
know them, Vāseṭṭha,

kassako so na brāhmaṇo.
as a farmer, not a brahmin.

Yo hi koci manussesu,

Anyone among humans

puthussippena jīvati;

who lives off various professions:

Evaṃ vāseṭṭha jānāhi,

know them, Vāseṭṭha,

sippiko so na brāhmaṇo.

as a professional, not a brahmin.

Yo hi koci manussesu,

Anyone among humans

voḥāraṃ upajīvati;

who lives off trade:

Evaṃ vāseṭṭha jānāhi,

know them, Vāseṭṭha,

vāṇijo so na brāhmaṇo.

as a trader, not a brahmin.

Yo hi koci manussesu,

Anyone among humans

parapessena jīvati;

who lives off serving others:

Evaṃ vāseṭṭha jānāhi,

know them, Vāseṭṭha,

pessako so na brāhmaṇo.

as an employee, not a brahmin.

Yo hi koci manussesu,

Anyone among humans

adinnaṃ upajīvati;

who lives off stealing:

Evaṃ vāseṭṭha jānāhi,
know them, Vāseṭṭha,
coro eso na brāhmaṇo.
as a bandit, not a brahmin.

Yo hi koci manussesu,
Anyone among humans

issatthaṃ upajīvati;
who lives off archery:

Evaṃ vāseṭṭha jānāhi,
know them, Vāseṭṭha,
yodhājīvo na brāhmaṇo.
as a soldier, not a brahmin.

Yo hi koci manussesu,
Anyone among humans

porohiccena jīvati;
who lives off priesthood:

Evaṃ vāseṭṭha jānāhi,
know them, Vāseṭṭha,
yājako so na brāhmaṇo.
as a sacrificer, not a brahmin.

Yo hi koci manussesu,
Anyone among humans

gāmaṃ raṭṭhañca bhuñjati;
who taxes village and nation,

Evaṃ vāseṭṭha jānāhi,
know them, Vāseṭṭha,
rājā eso na brāhmaṇo.
as a ruler, not a brahmin.

Na cāhaṃ brāhmaṇaṃ brūmi,

I don't call someone a brahmin yonijaṃ mattisambhavaṃ;

after the mother or womb they came from.

Bhovādi nāma so hoti,

If they still have attachments,

sace hoti sakiñcano;

they're just someone who says 'sir'.

Akiñcanaṃ anādānaṃ,

One with nothing, never grasping:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.

that's who I call a brahmin.

Sabbasaṃyojanaṃ chetvā,

Having cut off all fetters yo ve na paritassati;

they have no anxiety.

Saṅgātigaṃ viśaṃyuttaṃ,

They've got over clinging, and are detached:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.

that's who I call a brahmin.

Chetvā naddhiṃ varattañca,

They've cut the strap and harness, sandānaṃ sahanukkamaṃ;

the reins and bridle too,

Ukkhittapalighaṃ buddhaṃ,

with cross-bar lifted, they're awakened:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.

that's who I call a brahmin.

Akkosaṃ vadhabandhañca,

Abuse, killing, caging:

aduṭṭho yo titikkhati;

they endure these without anger.

Khantībalaṃ balānīkaṃ,

Patience is their powerful army:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.

that's who I call a brahmin.

Akkodhanaṃ vatavantaṃ,

Not irritable or stuck up,

sīlavantaṃ anussadaṃ;

dutiful in precepts and observances,

Dantaṃ antimasārīraṃ, tamed, bearing their final body:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.

that's who I call a brahmin.

Vāripokkharapatteva,

Like rain off a lotus leaf,

āraggeriva sāsapo;

like a mustard seed off the point of a pin,

Yo na limpati kāmesu, sensual pleasures slide off them:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.

that's who I call a brahmin.

Yo dukkhassa pajānāti,

They understand for themselves

idheva khayamattano;

in this life the end of suffering;

Pannabhāraṃ visamyuttaṃ, with burden put down, detached:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.

that's who I call a brahmin.

Gambhīrapaññaṃ medhāvīṃ,

Deep in wisdom, intelligent,

maggāmaggassa kovidāṃ;

expert in the variety of paths;

Uttamatthamanuppattaṃ, arrived at the highest goal:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.

that's who I call a brahmin.

Asaṃsaṭṭhaṃ gahaṭṭhehi,

Socializing with neither anāgārehi cūbhayaṃ;

householders nor the homeless.

Anokasārimappicchaṃ,

A migrant without a shelter, few in wishes:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.

that's who I call a brahmin.

Nidhāya daṇḍaṃ bhūtesu,

They've laid down the rod tasesu thāvaresu ca;

against creatures firm and frail;

Yo na hanti na ghātetī, not killing or causing others to kill:

tamaham̐ brūmi brāhmaṇam̐.

that's who I call a brahmin.

Aviruddham̐ viruddhesu,

Not fighting among those who fight,

attadaṇḍesu nibbutam̐;

they're extinguished among those who've taken up arms.

Sādānesu anādānam̐,

Not grasping among those who grasp:

tamaham̐ brūmi brāhmaṇam̐.

that's who I call a brahmin.

Yassa rāgo ca doso ca,

They've discarded greed and hate,

māno makkho ca ohito;

along with conceit and contempt,

Sāsaporiva āraggā,

like a mustard seed off the point of a pin:

tamaham̐ brūmi brāhmaṇam̐.

that's who I call a brahmin.

Akakkasam̐ viññāpanim̐,

The words they utter giram̐ saccam̐ udīraye;

are sweet, informative, and true,

Yāya nābhisajje kiñci,

and don't offend anyone:

tamaham̐ brūmi brāhmaṇam̐.

that's who I call a brahmin.

Yo ca dīghaṃ va rassaṃ vā,
They don't steal anything in the world,

aṇuṃ thūlaṃ subhāsubhaṃ;
long or short,

Loke adinnaṃ nādeti, fine or coarse, beautiful or ugly:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.
that's who I call a brahmin.

Āsā yassa na vijjanti,
They have no hope

asmim̐ loke paramhi ca;
for this world or the next;

Nirāsāsaṃ visaṃyuttaṃ, free of hope, detached:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.
that's who I call a brahmin.

Yassālayā na vijjanti,
They have no clinging,

aññāya akathaṅkathim̐;
knowledge has freed them of indecision,

Amatogadhaṃ anuppattaṃ, they've arrived at the culmination of the deathless:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.
that's who I call a brahmin.

Yodhapuññaṅca pāpaṅca,
They've escaped clinging ubho saṅgaṃ upaccagā;

to both good and bad deeds;

Asokaṃ virajaṃ suddhaṃ, sorrowless, stainless, pure:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.
that's who I call a brahmin.

Candaṃ va vimalaṃ suddhaṃ,
Pure as the spotless moon, vippasannaṃ anāvilaṃ;

clear and undisturbed,

Nandībhavaparikkhīṇaṃ, they've ended desire to be reborn:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.
that's who I call a brahmin.

Yo imaṃ palipathaṃ duggaṃ,
They've got past this grueling swamp saṃsāraṃ mohamaccagā; of delusion, transmigration.

Tiṇṇo pāraṅgato jhāyī,
They've crossed over to the far shore,

anejo akathaṅkathī;
stilled and free of indecision.

Anupādāya nibbuto,
They're extinguished by not grasping:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.
that's who I call a brahmin.

Yodhakāme pahantvāna,
They've given up sensual stimulations,

anāgāro paribbaje;

and have gone forth from lay life;

Kāmabhavaparikkhīṇaṃ,

they've ended rebirth in the sensual realm:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.

that's who I call a brahmin.

Yodhataṇhaṃ pahantvāna,

They've given up craving,

anāgāro paribbaje;

and have gone forth from lay life;

Taṇhābhavaparikkhīṇaṃ,

they've ended craving to be reborn:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.

that's who I call a brahmin.

Hitvā mānusaḥaṃ yogaṃ,

They've given up human bonds,

dibbaṃ yogaṃ upaccagā;

and gone beyond heavenly bonds;

Sabbayogavisamīyuttaṃ, detached from all attachments:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.

that's who I call a brahmin.

Hitvā ratiṅca aratiṃ,

Giving up discontent and desire,

sītībhūtaṃ nirūpadhiṃ;

they're cooled and free of attachments;

Sabbalokābhibhuṃ vīraṃ,

a hero, master of the whole world:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.
that's who I call a brahmin.

Cutiṃ yo vedi sattānaṃ,
They know the passing away

upapattiṅca sabbaso;
and rebirth of all beings;

Asattaṃ sugataṃ buddhaṃ,
unattached, holy, awakened:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.
that's who I call a brahmin.

Yassa gatiṃ na jānanti, Gods, fairies, and humans

devā gandhabbamānusa;
don't know their destiny;

Khiṇāsavaṃ arahantaṃ,
the perfected ones with defilements ended:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.
that's who I call a brahmin.

Yassa pure ca pacchā ca,
They have nothing before or after,

majjhe ca natthi kiñcanaṃ;
or even in between;

Akiñcanaṃ anādānaṃ,
one with nothing, never grasping:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.
that's who I call a brahmin.

Usabhaṃ pavaraṃ vīraṃ,

Leader of the herd, excellent hero, mahesiṃ vijitāvināṃ;

great hermit and victor;

Anejaṃ nhātakaṃ buddhaṃ, unstirred, washed, awakened:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.

that's who I call a brahmin.

Pubbenivāsaṃ yo vedi,

They know their past lives,

saggāpāyaṅca passati;

and see heaven and places of loss,

Atho jātikkhayaṃ patto,

and have attained the end of rebirth:

tamaḥaṃ brūmi brāhmaṇaṃ.

that's who I call a brahmin.

Samaññā hesā lokasmiṃ,

For name and clan are assigned nāmagottaṃ pakappitaṃ;

as mere convention in the world.

Sammuccā samudāgataṃ,

Arising by mutual agreement,

tattha tattha pakappitaṃ.

they're assigned to each individual.

Dīgharattānusayitaṃ,

For a long time this misconception

diṭṭhigatamajānataṃ;

has prejudiced those who don't understand.

Ajānantā no pabrunti, Ignorant, they declare jātiyā hoti brāhmaṇo.
that one is a brahmin by birth.

Na jaccā brāhmaṇo hoti,
You're not a brahmin by birth,
na jaccā hoti abrāhmaṇo;
nor by birth a non-brahmin.

Kammunā brāhmaṇo hoti,
You're a brahmin by your deeds, kammunā hoti abrāhmaṇo.
and by deeds a non-brahmin.

Kassako kammunā hoti,
You're a farmer by your deeds,
sippiko hoti kammunā;
by deeds you're a professional;
Vāṇijo kammunā hoti,
you're a trader by your deeds,
pessako hoti kammunā.
by deeds are you an employee;

Coropi kammunā hoti,
you're a bandit by your deeds,
yodhājīvopi kammunā;
by deeds you're a soldier;
Yājako kammunā hoti,
you're a sacrificer by your deeds,
rājāpi hoti kammunā.
by deeds you're a ruler.

Evametaṃ yathābhūtaṃ,
In this way in accord with truth,

kammaṃ passanti paṇḍitā;
the astute regard deeds.

Paṭiccasamuppādadassā,
Seeing dependent origination, kammavipākakovidā.

they're expert in deeds and their results.

Kammunā vattati loko, Deeds make the world go on,

kammunā vattati pajā;
deeds make people go on;

Kammanibandhanā sattā, sentient beings are bound by deeds,

rathassāṇīva yāyato.
like a moving chariot's linchpin.

Tapena brahmacariyena,
By austerity and spiritual practice,

saṃyamena damena ca;
by restraint and by taming:

Etena brāhmaṇo hoti,
that's how to become a brahmin,

etaṃ brāhmaṇamuttamaṃ.
this is the supreme brahmin.

Tīhi vijjāhi sampanno, Accomplished in the three knowledges,

santo khīṇapunabbhavo;
peaceful, with rebirth ended,

Evam vāseṭṭha jānāhi,
know them, Vāseṭṭha,

brahmā sakko vijānatan”ti.
as Brahmā and Sakka to the wise.”

Evam vutte, vāseṭṭhabhāradvājā māṇavā bhagavantam
etadavocum:

When he had spoken, Vāseṭṭha and Bhāradvāja said to him,

“abhikkantaṃ, bho gotama, abhikkantaṃ, bho gotama.
“Excellent, Master Gotama! Excellent!

Seyyathāpi, bho gotama, nikkujjitaṃ vā ukkujjeyya,
paṭicchannaṃ vā vivareyya, mūḷhassa vā maggaṃ ācikkheyya,
andhakāre vā telapajjotaṃ dhāreyya ‘cakkhumanto rūpāni
dakkhantī’ti; evamevaṃ bhotā gotamena anekapariyāyena
dhammo pakāsito.

As if he were righting the overturned, or revealing the hidden, or pointing out the path to the lost, or lighting a lamp in the dark so people with good eyes can see what’s there, Master Gotama has made the teaching clear in many ways.

Ete mayaṃ bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ saraṇaṃ gacchāma dhammañca bhikkhusaṅghaṃca.

We go for refuge to Master Gotama, to the teaching, and to the mendicant Saṅgha.

Upāsake no bhavaṃ gotamo dhāretu ajjatagge pāṇupetaṃ saraṇaṃ gate”ti.

From this day forth, may Master Gotama remember us as lay followers who have gone for refuge for life.”

Vāseṭṭhasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ aṭṭhamaṃ.

99. Subhasutta With Subha

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anathapiṇḍikassa ārame.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena subho māṇavo todeyyaputto savatthiyam paṭivasati aññatarassa gahapatissa nivesane
kenacideva karaṇīyena.

Now at that time the brahmin student Subha, Todeyya's son, was residing in Sāvattihī at a certain householder's home on some business.

Atha kho subho māṇavo todeyyaputto yassa gahapatissa nivesane paṭivasati tam gahapatim etadavoca:

Then Subha said to that householder,

“sutam metam, gahapati:

“Householder, I've heard that ‘avivittā savatthī arahantehī’ti.

Sāvattihī does not lack for perfected ones.

Kam nu khvajja samaṇam vā brāhmaṇam vā payirupāseyyāmā”ti?

What ascetic or brahmin might we pay homage to today?”

“Ayaṃ, bhante, bhagavā sāvattiyāṃ viharati jetavane anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

“Sir, the Buddha is staying near Sāvattī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Taṃ, bhante, bhagavantaṃ payirupāsassū”ti.

You can pay homage to him.”

Atha kho subho māṇavo todeyyaputto tassa gahapatissa paṭissutvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

Acknowledging that householder, Subha went to the Buddha, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho subho māṇavo todeyyaputto bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to the Buddha:

“brāhmaṇā, bho gotama, evamāhaṃsu:

“Master Gotama, the brahmins say:

‘gahaṭṭho ārādhako hoti ñāyaṃ dhammaṃ kusalaṃ, na pabbajito ārādhako hoti ñāyaṃ dhammaṃ kusalan’ti.

‘Laypeople succeed in the procedure of the skillful teaching, not renunciates.’

Idha bhavaṃ gotamo kimāhā”ti?

What do you say about this?”

“Vibhajjavādo kho ahamettha, māṇava;

“On this point, student, I speak after analyzing the question, nāhamettha ekaṃsavādo.

not definitively.

Gihissa vāhaṃ, māṇava, pabbajitassa vā micchāpaṭipattiṃ na vaṇṇemi.

I don't praise wrong practice for either laypeople or renunciates.

Gihī vā hi, māṇava, pabbajito vā micchāpaṭipanno micchāpaṭipattādhikaraṇahetu na ārādhako hoti ñāyaṃ dhammaṃ kusalaṃ.

Because of wrong practice, neither laypeople nor renunciates succeed in the procedure of the skillful teaching.

Gihissa vāhaṃ, māṇava, pabbajitassa vā sammāpaṭipattiṃ vaṇṇemi.

I praise right practice for both laypeople and renunciates.

Gihī vā hi, māṇava, pabbajito vā sammāpaṭipanno sammāpaṭipattādhikaraṇahetu ārādhako hoti ñāyaṃ dhammaṃ kusalaṃ”ti.

Because of right practice, both laypeople and renunciates succeed in the procedure of the skillful teaching.”

“Brāhmaṇā, bho gotama, evamaṃsu:

“Pañca kho ime, māṇava, nīvaraṇā.

“Student, there are these five hindrances.

Katame pañca?

What five?

Kāmacchandanivaraṇaṃ, byāpādanīvaraṇaṃ,

These are the five hindrances.

Imehi kho, māṇava, pañcahi nīvaraṇehi brāhmaṇo pokkharasāti

It's not possible for him to know or see or realize a superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones.

Pañca kho ime, māṇava, kāmaguṇā.

There are these five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Katame pañca?

What five?

Cakkhaviññeyyā rūpā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā

There are sights known by the eye that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

There are sounds known by the ear ...

ghānaviññeyyā gandhā ...

jivhā viññeyyā rasā ...

tastes known by the tongue ...

kāyaviññeyyā phoṭṭhabbā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā

Pokkharasāti enjoys himself with these five kinds of sensual stimulation, tied, infatuated, attached, blind to the drawbacks, and not understanding the escape.

Rapture that's apart from sensual pleasures and unskillful qualities is like a fire that doesn't depend on grass and logs as fuel.

Katamā ca, māṇava, pīti aññatreva kāmehi aññatra akusalehi dhammehi?

And what is rapture that's apart from sensual pleasures and unskillful qualities?

Idha, māṇava, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi ...pe... paṭhamam jhānam upasampajja viharati.

It's when a mendicant, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Ayampi kho, māṇava, pīti aññatreva kāmehi aññatra akusalehi dhammehi.

This is rapture that's apart from sensual pleasures and unskillful qualities.

Puna caparam, māṇava, bhikkhu vitakkavicārānam vūpasamā ... dutiyam jhānam upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, they enter and remain in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Ayampi kho, māṇava, pīti aññatreva kāmehi aññatra akusalehi dhammehi.

This too is rapture that's apart from sensual pleasures and unskillful qualities.

Ye te, māṇava, brāhmaṇā pañca dhamme paññapenti puññassa kiriyāya kusalassa ārādhanaṇya, katamettha brāhmaṇā dhammam mahapphalataram paññapenti puññassa kiriyāya kusalassa ārādhanaṇya”ti?

Tatrekassa brāhmaṇassa evamassa:

Then one of those brahmins thought:

‘aho vata ahameva labheyyaṃ bhattagge aggāsanamṃ

‘Oh, I hope that I alone get the best seat, the best drink, and the best alms-food in the refectory, not some other brahmin.’

But it’s possible that some other brahmin gets the best seat, the best drink, and the best alms-food in the refectory.

‘Añño brāhmaṇo labhati bhattagge aggāsanamṃ aggodakamṃ

Evaṃ vutte, subho māṇavo todeyyaputto bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, Subha said to him,

“sutaṃ metaṃ, bho gotama:

“Master Gotama, I have heard that

“No hidam, bho gotama”.

“No, Master Gotama.

“Taṃ kissa hetu”?

Why is that?

“Amu hi, bho gotama, puriso naḷakāragāme jātavaddho. Tassa sabbāneva naḷakāragāmassa maggāni suviditānī”ti.

Because they were born and raised in Naḷakāra. They’re well acquainted with all the roads to the village.”

The Buddha said this:

“Katamo ca, māṇava, brahmānam saḥabyatāya maggo?”

“And what is a path to companionship with Brahmā?”

Evam vutte, subho māṇavo todeyyaputto bhagavantam etadavoca:

When he had spoken, Subha said to him,

“abhikkantam, bho gotama, abhikkantam, bho gotama.

Atha kho subho māṇavo todeyyaputto bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ bhagavantam abhivādetvā padakkhiṇam katvā pakkāmi.

And then Subha approved and agreed with what the Buddha said. He got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before leaving.

Tena kho pana samayena jāṇussoṇi brāhmaṇo sabbasetena vaḷavābhiraṭṭhena sāvatthiyā niyyāti divā divassa.

Now at that time the brahmin Jāṇussoṇi drove out from Sāvattihī in the middle of the day in an all-white chariot drawn by mares.

Addasā kho jāṇussoṇi brāhmaṇo subhaṃ māṇavaṃ todeyyaputtaṃ dūratova āgacchantam.

He saw the student Subha coming off in the distance,

and said to him,

“handa kuto nu bhavaṃ bhāradvājo āgacchati divā divassā”ti?

“So, Master Bharadvāja, where are you coming from in the middle of the day?”

“Ito hi kho ahaṃ, bho, āgacchāmi samaṇassa gotamassa santikā”ti.

“Just now, good sir, I’ve come from the presence of the ascetic Gotama.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, bhavaṃ bhāradvājo samaṇassa gotamassa paññāveyyattiyam paṇḍito maññeti”?

“What do you think of the ascetic Gotama’s lucidity of wisdom? Do you think he’s astute?”

You'd really have to be on the same level to judge his lucidity of wisdom.”

“Uḷārāya khalu bhavaṃ bhāradvājo samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ pasamsāya pasamsati”ti.

“Ko cāhaṃ, bho, ko ca samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ pasamsissāmi?

“Who am I to praise the ascetic Gotama?”

When he had spoken, Jāṇussoṇi got down from his chariot, arranged his robe over one shoulder, knelt on his right knee, raised his joined palms toward the Buddha, and expressed this heartfelt sentiment three times, “lābhā rañño pasenadissa kosalassa, suladdhalābhā rañño pasenadissa kosalassa Buddha is living in his realm!”

Subhasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ navamaṃ.

100. Saṅgāravasutta With Saṅgārava

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṃ kosalesu cārikaṃ carati mahatā
bhikkhusaṅghena saddhim.

At one time the Buddha was wandering in the land of the Kosalans together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants.

Tena kho pana samayena dhanañjānī nāma brāhmaṇī cañcalikappe paṭivasati abhippasannā buddhe ca dhamme ca saṅghe ca.

Now at that time a brahmin lady named Dhanañjānī was residing at Caṇḍalakappa. She was devoted to the Buddha, the teaching, and the Saṅgha.

Atha kho dhanañjānī brāhmaṇī upakkhalitvā tikkhattum udānam udānesi:

Once, she tripped and expressed this heartfelt sentiment three times:

“Namo tassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa.

“Homage to that Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha!

Namo tassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa.

Homage to that Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha!

Namo tassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassā”ti.

Homage to that Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha!”

Tena kho pana samayena saṅgāravo nāma māṇavo cañcalikappe paṭivasati tiṇṇaṃ vedānaṃ pāragū sanighaṇḍukeṭubhānaṃ sākkharappabhedānaṃ
itihāsapañcamānaṃ, padako, veyyākaraṇo,
lokāyatamahāpurisalakkhaṇesu anavayo.

Now at that time the brahmin student Saṅgārava was residing in Caṇḍalakappa. He was young, newly tonsured; he was sixteen years old. He had mastered the three Vedas, together with their vocabularies, ritual, phonology and etymology, and the testament as fifth. He knew philology and grammar, and was well versed in cosmology and the marks of a great man.

Assosi kho saṅgāravo māṇavo dhanañjāniyā brāhmaṇiyā evaṃ vācaṃ bhāsamānāya.

Hearing Dhanañjānī’s exclamation,

Sutvā dhanañjāniṃ brāhmaṇiṃ etadavoca:

he said to her,

“avabhūtāva ayaṃ dhanañjānī brāhmaṇī, parabhūtāva ayaṃ dhanañjānī brāhmaṇī, vijjamānānaṃ tevijjānaṃ brāhmaṇānaṃ, atha ca pana tassa muṇḍakassa samaṇakassa vaṇṇaṃ bhāsissatī”ti.

“The brahmin lady named Dhanañjānī is a disgrace! Though brahmins who are proficient in the three Vedas are found, she praises that shaveling, that fake ascetic.”

“Na hi pana tvaṃ, tāta bhadramukha, tassa bhagavato sīlapaññānaṃ jānāsi.

“But my little dear, you don’t understand the Buddha’s ethics and wisdom.

Sace tvaṃ, tāta bhadrāmukha, tassa bhagavato sīlapaññāṇaṃ jāneyyāsi, na tvaṃ, tāta bhadrāmukha, taṃ bhagavantam akkositabbaṃ paribhāsitabbaṃ maññeyyāsī”ti.

If you did, you’d never think of abusing or insulting him.”

“Tena hi, bhoti, yadā samaṇo gotamo cañcalikappaṃ anuppatto hoti atha me āroceyyāsī”ti.

“Well then, ma’am, let me know when the Buddha arrives in Caṇḍalakappa.”

“Evaṃ, bhadrāmukhā”ti kho dhanañjānī brāhmaṇī saṅgāravassa māṇavassa paccassosi.

“I will, dear,” she replied.

Atha kho bhagavā kosalesu anupubbena cārikaṃ caramāno yena cañcalikappaṃ tadavasari.

And then the Buddha, traveling stage by stage in the Kosalan lands, arrived at Caṇḍalakappa, Tatra sudam̐ bhagavā cañcalikappe viharati todeyyānaṃ brāhmaṇānaṃ ambavane.

where he stayed in the mango grove of the Todeyya brahmins.

Assosi kho dhanañjānī brāhmaṇī: “bhagavā kira cañcalikappaṃ anuppatto, cañcalikappe viharati todeyyānaṃ brāhmaṇānaṃ ambavane”ti.

Dhanañjānī heard that he had arrived.

Atha kho dhanañjānī brāhmaṇī yena saṅgāravo māṇavo tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamitvā saṅgāraṃ māṇavaṃ etadavoca:

So she went to Saṅgārava and told him, adding, “ayaṃ, tāta bhadrāmukha, so bhagavā cañcalikappaṃ anuppatto, cañcalikappe viharati todeyyānaṃ brāhmaṇānaṃ ambavane.

Yassadāni, tāta bhadramukha, kālaṃ maññasī”ti.

“Please, my little dear, go at your convenience.”

“Evaṃ, bho”ti kho saṅgārovo māṇavo dhanañjāniyā brāhmaṇiyā paṭissutvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

“Yes, ma’am,” replied Saṅgārova. He went to the Buddha and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodaniyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇiyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho saṅgārovo māṇavo
bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to the Buddha:

“Santi kho, bho gotama, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā diṭṭhadhammābhiññāvosānapāramippattā, ādibrahmacariyaṃ
paṭijānanti.

“Master Gotama, there are some ascetics and brahmins who claim to have mastered the fundamentals of the spiritual life having attained perfection and consummation of insight in the present life.

Tatra, bho gotama, ye te samaṇabrāhmaṇā

Where do you stand regarding these?”

“Diṭṭhadhammābhiññāvosānapāramippattānaṃ, ādibrahmacariyaṃ paṭijānantānampi kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, vemattaṃ vadāmi.

“I say there is a diversity among those who claim to have mastered the fundamentals of the spiritual life having attained perfection and consummation of insight in the present life.

Santi, bhāradvāja, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā anussavikā.

There are some ascetics and brahmins who are oral transmitters.

Te anussavena diṭṭhadhammābhiññāvosānapāramippattā, ādibrahmacariyaṃ paṭijānanti;

Through oral transmission they claim to have mastered the fundamentals of the spiritual life.

seyyathāpi brāhmaṇā tevijjā.

For example, the brahmins who are proficient in the three Vedas.

Santi pana, bhāradvāja, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā kevalaṃ saddhāmattakena diṭṭhadhammābhiññāvosānapāramippattā, ādibrahmacariyaṃ paṭijānanti;

There are some ascetics and brahmins who solely by mere faith claim to have mastered the fundamentals of the spiritual life.

seyyathāpi takkī vīmaṃsī.

For example, those who rely on logic and inquiry.

Santi, bhāradvāja, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā pubbe ananussutesu dhammesu sāmaṃyeva dhammaṃ abhiññāya
diṭṭhadhammābhiññāvosānapāramippattā, ādibrahmacariyaṃ
paṭijānanti.

There are some ascetics and brahmins who, having directly known for themselves the principle regarding teachings not learned before from another, claim to have mastered the fundamentals of the spiritual life.

Tatra, bhāradvāja, ye te samaṇabrāhmaṇā pubbe ananussutesu dhammesu sāmaṃyeva dhammaṃ abhiññāya
diṭṭhadhammābhiññāvosānapāramippattā, ādibrahmacariyaṃ
paṭijānanti, tesāhamasmi.

I am one of those.

Tadamināpetam, bhāradvāja, pariyāyena veditabbaṃ, yathā ye te samaṇabrāhmaṇā pubbe ananussutesu dhammesu sāmaṃyeva dhammaṃ abhiññāya
diṭṭhadhammābhiññāvosānapāramippattā, ādibrahmacariyaṃ
paṭijānanti, tesāhamasmi.

And here's a way to understand that I am one of them.

Idha me, bhāradvāja, pubbeva sambodhā anabhisambuddhassa bodhisattasseva sato etadahosi:

Before my awakening—when I was still unawakened but intent on awakening—I thought:

‘sambādho gharāvāso rajāpatho, abbhokāso pabbajjā.

‘Living in a house is cramped and dirty, but the life of one gone forth is wide open.

Nayidaṃ sukaraṃ agāraṃ ajjhāvasatā ekantaparipuṇṇaṃ ekantaparisuddhaṃ saṅkhalikhiṭaṃ brahmacariyaṃ carituṃ.

It’s not easy for someone living at home to lead the spiritual life utterly full and pure, like a polished shell.

Yannūnāhaṃ kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajeyyan’ti.

Why don’t I shave off my hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from the lay life to homelessness?’

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, aparena samayena daharova samāno susukāḷakeso bhadrena yobbanena samannāgato paṭhamena vayasā akāmakānaṃ mātāpitūnaṃ assumukhānaṃ rudantānaṃ kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajim.

Some time later, while still black-haired, blessed with youth, in the prime of life—though my mother and father wished otherwise, weeping with tearful faces—I shaved off my hair and beard, dressed in ocher robes, and went forth from the lay life to homelessness.

So evaṃ pabbajito samāno kiṅkusalagavesī anuttaraṃ santivarapadaṃ pariyesamāno yena āḷāro kālāmo tenupasaṅkamim; upasaṅkamtivā āḷāraṃ kālāmaṃ etadavocaṃ:

Once I had gone forth I set out to discover what is skillful, seeking the supreme state of sublime peace. I approached Āḷāra Kālāma and said to him, ‘icchāmahaṃ, āvuso kālāma, imasmim dhammavinaye brahmacariyaṃ caritun’ti.

‘Reverend Kālāma, I wish to live the spiritual life in this teaching and training.’

Evam vutte, bhāradvāja, āḷāro kālāmo maṃ etadavoca:

Āḷāra Kālāma replied,

‘viharatāyasmā.

‘Stay, venerable.

Tādiso ayaṃ dhammo yattha viññū puriso nacirasseva sakam ācariyakam sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihareyyā’ti.

This teaching is such that a sensible person can soon realize their own teacher’s doctrine with their own insight and live having achieved it.’

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, nacirasseva khippameva taṃ dhammaṃ pariyāpuṇim.

I quickly memorized that teaching.

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, tāvatakeneva oṭṭhapahatamattena lapitalāpanamattena ‘ñāṇavādañca vadāmi, theravādañca jānāmi, passāmī’ti ca paṭijānāmi, ahañceva aññe ca.

So far as lip-recital and oral recitation were concerned, I spoke with knowledge and the authority of the elders. I claimed to know and see, and so did others.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘na kho āḷāro kālāmo imaṃ dhammaṃ kevalaṃ saddhāmattakena sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharāmīti pavedeti;

‘It is not solely by mere faith that Āḷāra Kālāma declares: “I realize this teaching with my own insight, and live having achieved it.”

addhā āḷāro kālāmo imaṃ dhammaṃ jānaṃ passaṃ viharatī’ti.

Surely he meditates knowing and seeing this teaching.’

Atha khvāhaṃ, bhāradvāja, yena āḷāro kālāmo
tenupasaṅkamim; upasaṅkamtivā āḷāraṃ kālāmaṃ etadavocaṃ:
So I approached Āḷāra Kālāma and said to him:

‘kittāvatā no, āvuso kālāma, imaṃ dhammaṃ sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharāmīti pavedesī’ti?’
‘Reverend Kālāma, to what extent do you say you’ve realized this teaching with your own insight?’

Evaṃ vutte, bhāradvāja, āḷāro kālāmo ākiñcaññāyatanam
pavedesi.
When I said this, he declared the dimension of nothingness.

Tassa mayham, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:
Then it occurred to me,

‘na kho āḷārasseva kālāmassa atthi saddhā, mayhampatthi
saddhā;

na kho āḷārasseva kālāmassa atthi vīriyam ...pe...
energy,

sati ...
mindfulness,

samādhi ...
immersion,

paññā, mayhampatthi paññā.
and wisdom; I too have these things.

Yannūnāham yaṃ dhammaṃ āḷāro kālāmo sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharāmīti pavedeti tassa dhammassa sacchikiriyāya padaheyyan’ti.
Why don’t I make an effort to realize the same teaching that Āḷāra Kālāma says he has realized with his own insight?’

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, nacirasseva khippameva taṃ dhammaṃ sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihāsim.

I quickly realized that teaching with my own insight, and lived having achieved it.

Atha khvāhaṃ, bhāradvāja, yena āḷāro kālāmo
tenupasaṅkamim; upasaṅkamtivā āḷāraṃ kālāmaṃ etadavocaṃ:

So I approached Āḷāra Kālāma and said to him,

‘ettāvatā no, āvuso kālāma, imaṃ dhammaṃ sayam abhiññā
sacchikatvā upasampajja pavedesī’ti?

‘Reverend Kālāma, have you realized this teaching with your own insight up to this point, and declare having achieved it?’

‘Ettāvatā kho ahaṃ, āvuso, imaṃ dhammaṃ sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja pavedemi’ti.

‘I have, reverend.’

‘Ahampi kho, āvuso, ettāvatā imaṃ dhammaṃ sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharāmī’ti.

‘I too have realized this teaching with my own insight up to this point, and live having achieved it.’

‘Lābhā no, āvuso, suladdhaṃ no, āvuso,

‘We are fortunate, reverend, so very fortunate

ye mayaṃ āyasmantaṃ tādisaṃ sabrahmacāriṃ passāma.

to see a venerable such as yourself as one of our spiritual companions!

Iti yāhaṃ dhammaṃ sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja pavedemi taṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā
upasampajja viharasi;

So the teaching that I’ve realized with my own insight, and declare having achieved it, you’ve realized with your own insight, and live having achieved it.

yaṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharasi tamahaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja pavedemi.

The teaching that you've realized with your own insight, and live having achieved it, I've realized with my own insight, and declare having achieved it.

Iti yāhaṃ dhammaṃ jānāmi taṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ jānāsi, yaṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ jānāsi tamahaṃ dhammaṃ jānāmi.

So the teaching that I know, you know, and the teaching you know, I know.

Iti yādiso ahaṃ tādiso tuvaṃ, yādiso tuvaṃ tādiso ahaṃ.

I am like you and you are like me.

Ehi dāni, āvuso, ubhova santā imaṃ gaṇaṃ pariharāmā'ti.

Come now, reverend! We should both lead this community together.'

Iti kho, bhāradvāja, āḷāro kālāmo ācariyo me samāno attano antevāsiraṃ maṃ samānaṃ attanā samasamaṃ ṭhapesi, uḷārāya ca maṃ pūjāya pūjesi.

And that is how my teacher Āḷāra Kālāma placed me, his student, on the same position as him, and honored me with lofty praise.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

'nāyaṃ dhammo nibbidāya na virāgāya na nirodhāya na upasamāya na abhiññāya na sambodhāya na nibbānāya saṃvattati, yāvadeva ākiñcaññāyatanūpapattiyā'ti.

'This teaching doesn't lead to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment. It only leads as far as rebirth in the dimension of nothingness.'

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, taṃ dhammaṃ analaṅkaritvā tasmā dhammā nibbijja apakkamiraṃ.

Realizing that this teaching was inadequate, I left disappointed.

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, kiṅkusalagavesī anuttaraṃ santivarapadaṃ pariyesaṃāno yena udako rāmaputto tenupasaṅkamim̃; upasaṅkamtivā udakaṃ rāmaputtaṃ etadavocaṃ:

I set out to discover what is skillful, seeking the supreme state of sublime peace. I approached Uddaka, son of Rāma, and said to him, ‘icchāmahaṃ, āvuso, imasmiṃ dhammavinaye brahmacariyaṃ caritun’ti.

‘Reverend, I wish to live the spiritual life in this teaching and training.’

Evaṃ vutte, bhāradvāja, udako rāmaputto maṃ etadavoca:

Uddaka replied,

‘viharatāyasmā.

‘Stay, venerable.

Tādiso ayaṃ dhammo yattha viññū puriso nacirasseva sakaṃ ācariyakaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihareyyā’ti.

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, nacirasseva khippameva taṃ dhammaṃ pariyāpuṇim̃.

I quickly memorized that teaching.

Atha khvāhaṃ, bhāradvāja, yena udako rāmaputto

So I approached Uddaka, son of Rāma, and said to him,

‘kittāvatā no, āvuso, rāmo imaṃ dhammaṃ sayam abhiññā

‘Reverend, to what extent did Rāma say he’d realized this teaching with his own insight?’

Evaṃ vutte, bhāradvāja, udako rāmaputto nevasaññānāsaññāyatanaṃ pavedesi.

When I said this, Uddaka, son of Rāma, declared the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

I quickly realized that teaching with my own insight, and lived having achieved it.

Atha khvāhaṃ, bhāradvāja, yena udako rāmaputto

'Reverend, had Rāma realized this teaching with his own insight up to this point, and declared having achieved it?'

'Ettāvatā kho, āvuso, rāmo imaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā

'He had, reverend.'

'Ahampi kho, āvuso, ettāvatā imaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā

'I too have realized this teaching with my own insight up to this point, and live having achieved it.'

'Lābhā no, āvuso, suladdhaṃ no, āvuso,

Iti kho, bhāradvāja, udako rāmaputto sabrahmacārī me samāno

And that is how my spiritual companion Uddaka, son of Rāma, placed me in the position of a teacher, and honored me with lofty praise.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

'nāyaṃ dhammo nibbidāya na virāgāya na nirodhāya na upasaṃyāya na abhiññāya na sambodhāya na nibbānāya

‘This teaching doesn’t lead to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment. It only leads as far as rebirth in dimension of neither perception nor non-perception.’

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, taṃ dhammaṃ analaṅkaritvā tasmā dhammā nibbijja apakkamim̃.

Realizing that this teaching was inadequate, I left disappointed.

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, kiṅkusalagavesī anuttaraṃ santivarapadaṃ pariyesamāno magadhesu anupubbena cārikaṃ caramāno yena uruvelā senānigamo tadavasariṃ.

I set out to discover what is skillful, seeking the supreme state of sublime peace. Traveling stage by stage in the Magadhan lands, I arrived at Senanigama near Uruvelā.

Tatthaddasaṃ ramaṇīyaṃ bhūmibhāgaṃ, pāsādikañca vanasaṅgaṃ, nadiñca sandantiṃ setakaṃ supatitthaṃ ramaṇīyaṃ, samantā ca gocaragāmaṃ.

There I saw a delightful park, a lovely grove with a flowing river that was clean and charming, with smooth banks. And nearby was a village to go for alms.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘ramaṇīyo vata bho bhūmibhāgo, pāsādiko ca vanasaṅgo, nadī ca sandati setakā supatitthā ramaṇīyā, samantā ca gocaragāmo.

‘This park is truly delightful, a lovely grove with a flowing river that’s clean and charming, with smooth banks. And nearby there’s a village to go for alms.

Alaṃ vatidaṃ kulaputtassa padhānatthikassa padhānāyā’ti.

This is good enough for a gentleman who wishes to put forth effort in meditation.’

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, tattheva nisīdim̃:

So I sat down right there, thinking:

‘alamidaṃ padhānāyā’ti.

‘This is good enough for meditation.’

Apissu maṃ, bhāradvāja, tisso upamā paṭibhaṃsu anacchariyā pubbe assutapubbā.

And then these three examples, which were neither supernaturally inspired, nor learned before in the past, occurred to me.

Seyyathāpi, bhāradvāja, allam kaṭṭham sasneham udake nikkhittam.

Suppose there was a green, sappy log, and it was lying in water.

Atha puriso āgaccheyya uttarāraṇim ādāya:

Then a person comes along with a drill-stick, thinking

‘aggim abhinibbattessāmi, tejo pātukarissāmī’ti.
to light a fire and produce heat.

Tam kim maññasi, bhāradvāja,
What do you think, Bhāradvāja?

api nu so puriso amum allam kaṭṭham sasneham udake nikkhittam uttarāraṇim ādāya abhimanthento aggim abhinibbatteyya, tejo pātukareyyā”ti?

By drilling the stick against that green, sappy log lying in water, could they light a fire and produce heat?”

“No hidam, bho gotama.

“No, Master Gotama.

Tam kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Aduñhi, bho gotama, allam kaṭṭham sasneham, tañca pana udake nikkhittam;

Because it’s a green, sappy log, and it’s lying in the water.

yāvadeva ca pana so puriso kilamathassa vighātassa bhāgī assā”ti.

That person will eventually get weary and frustrated.”

“Evameva kho, bhāradvāja, ye hi keci samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā kāyena ceva cittaṇa ca kāmehi avūpakaṭṭhā viharanti, yo ca nesam̐ kāmesu kāmacchando kāmasneho kāmamucchā kāmapipāsā kāmapariḷāho so ca ajjhattaṃ na suppahīno hoti na suppaṭippassaddho, opakkamikā cepi te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā dukkhā tippā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayanti, abhabbāva te ñāṇāya dassanāya anuttarāya sambodhāya. “In the same way, there are ascetics and brahmins who don’t live withdrawn in body and mind from sensual pleasures. They haven’t internally given up or stilled desire, affection, infatuation, thirst, and passion for sensual pleasures. Regardless of whether or not they feel painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings due to overexertion, they are incapable of knowledge and vision, of supreme awakening.

Ayam̐ kho maṃ, bhāradvāja, paṭhamā upamā paṭibhāsi anacchariyā pubbe assutapubbā.

This was the first example that occurred to me.

Aparāpi kho maṃ, bhāradvāja, dutiyā upamā paṭibhāsi anacchariyā pubbe assutapubbā.

Then a second example occurred to me.

Seyyathāpi, bhāradvāja, allam̐ kaṭṭham̐ sasneham̐ ārakā udakā thale nikkhattam̐.

Suppose there was a green, sappy log, and it was lying on dry land far from the water.

“No hidam, bho gotama.

“No, Master Gotama.

Tam kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Aduñhi, bho gotama, allam kaṭṭham sasneham, kiñcāpi ārakā udakā thale nikkhittam;

Because it’s still a green, sappy log, despite the fact that it’s lying on dry land far from water.

yāvadeva ca pana so puriso kilamathassa vighātassa bhāgī assā”ti. “Evameva kho, bhāradvāja, ye hi keci samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā kāyena ceva cittena ca kāmehi vūpakaṭṭhā viharanti, yo ca nesam kāmesu kāmacchando kāmasneho kāmamucchā kāmapipāsā kāmapariḷāho so ca ajjhattam na suppahīno hoti na suppaṭippassaddho, opakkamikā cepi te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā dukkhā tibbā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayanti, abhabbāva te ñāṇāya dassanāya anuttarāya sambodhāya. But they haven’t internally given up or stilled desire, affection, infatuation, thirst, and passion for sensual pleasures. Regardless of whether or not they feel painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings due to overexertion, they are incapable of knowledge and vision, of supreme awakening.

Ayam kho mam, bhāradvāja, dutiyā upamā paṭibhāsi anacchariyā pubbe assutapubbā.

This was the second example that occurred to me.

Aparāpi kho maṃ, bhāradvāja, tatiyā upamā paṭibhāsi

Then a third example occurred to me.

Seyyathāpi, bhāradvāja, sukkhaṃ kaṭṭhaṃ koḷāpaṃ ārakā udakā

Suppose there was a dried up, withered log, and it was lying on dry land far from the water.

By drilling the stick against that dried up, withered log on dry land far from water, could they light a fire and produce heat?”

“Evaṃ, bho gotama.

“Yes, Master Gotama.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Aduñhi, bho gotama, sukkhaṃ kaṭṭhaṃ koḷāpaṃ, tañca pana

Because it’s a dried up, withered log, and it’s lying on dry land far from water.”

“Evameva kho, bhāradvāja, ye hi keci samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā

“In the same way, there are ascetics and brahmins who live withdrawn in body and mind from sensual pleasures. And they have internally given up and stilled desire, affection, infatuation, thirst, and passion for sensual pleasures. Ayaṃ kho maṃ, bhāradvāja, tatiyā upamā paṭibhāsi anacchariyā pubbe assutapubbā.

This was the third example that occurred to me.

Imā kho maṃ, bhāradvāja, tisso upamā paṭibhaṃsu
anacchariyā pubbe assutapubbā.

These are the three examples, which were neither supernaturally inspired, nor learned before in the past, that occurred to me.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘yannūnāhaṃ dantebhidantamādhāya, jivhāya tālum āhacca, cetasā cittaṃ abhiniggaṇheyyaṃ abhinippīleyyaṃ
abhisantāpeyyaṃ’ti.

‘Why don’t I, with teeth clenched and tongue pressed against the roof of my mouth, squeeze, squash, and torture mind with mind.’

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, dantebhidantamādhāya, jivhāya tālum āhacca, cetasā cittaṃ abhiniggaṇhāmi abhinippīlemi abhisantāpemi.

So that’s what I did,

Tassa mayham, bhāradvāja, dantebhidantamādhāya, jivhāya tālum āhacca, cetasā cittaṃ abhiniggaṇhato abhinippīlayato abhisantāpayato kacchehi sedā muccanti.

until sweat ran from my armpits.

Seyyathāpi, bhāradvāja, balavā puriso dubbalataram purisam sīse vā gahetvā khandhe vā gahetvā abhiniggaṇheyya abhinippīleyya abhisantāpeyya;

It was like when a strong man grabs a weaker man by the head or throat or shoulder and squeezes, squashes, and tortures them.

evameva kho me, bhāradvāja, dantebhidantamādhāya, jivhāya tālum āhacca, cetasā cittaṃ abhiniggaṇhato abhinippīlayato abhisantāpayato kacchehi sedā muccanti.

In the same way, with teeth clenched and tongue pressed against the roof of my mouth, I squeezed, squashed, and tortured mind with mind until sweat ran from my armpits.

Āraddham kho pana me, bhāradvāja, vīriyam hoti asallīnam, upaṭṭhitā sati asammuṭṭhā; sāraddho ca pana me kāyo hoti appaṭippassaddho, teneva dukkhappadhānena padhānābhitunnassa sato.

My energy was roused up and unflagging, and my mindfulness was established and lucid, but my body was disturbed, not tranquil, because I'd pushed too hard with that painful striving.

Tassa mayham, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘yannūnāham appāṇakamyeva jhānam jhāyeyyan’ti.

‘Why don’t I practice the breathless absorption?’

So kho aham, bhāradvāja, mukhato ca nāsato ca assāsapassāse uparundhim.

So I cut off my breathing through my mouth and nose.

Tassa mayham, bhāradvāja, mukhato ca nāsato ca assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu kaṇṇasotehi vātānam nikkhamantānam adhimatto saddo hoti.

But then winds came out my ears making a loud noise,

Seyyathāpi nāma kammāragaggariyā dhamamānāya adhimatto saddo hoti;

like the puffing of a blacksmith's bellows.

evameva kho me, bhāradvāja, mukhato ca nāsato ca assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu kaṇṇasotehi vātānaṃ nikkhamantānaṃ adhimatto saddo hoti.

Āraddhaṃ kho pana me, bhāradvāja, vīriyaṃ hoti asallīnaṃ, upaṭṭhitā sati asammuṭṭhā; sāraddho ca pana me kāyo hoti appaṭippassaddho, teneva dukkhappadhānena padhānābhitunnassa sato.

My energy was roused up and unflagging, and my mindfulness was established and lucid, but my body was disturbed, not tranquil, because I'd pushed too hard with that painful striving.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

'yannūnāhaṃ appāṇakāmyeva jhānaṃ jhāyeyyan'ti.

'Why don't I keep practicing the breathless absorption?'

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca assāsapassāse uparundhiṃ.

So I cut off my breathing through my mouth and nose.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu adhimattā vātā muddhani ūhananti.

But then strong winds ground my head,

Seyyathāpi, bhāradvāja, balavā puriso, tiṇhena sikharena muddhani abhimattheyya;

like a strong man was drilling into my head with a sharp point.

evameva kho me, bhāradvāja, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu adhimattā vātā muddhani ūhananti.

Āraddham kho pana me, bhāradvāja, vīriyam hoti asallīnam,
upaṭṭhitā sati asammuṭṭhā; sāraddho ca pana me kāyo hoti
appaṭippassaddho, teneva dukkhappadhānena
padhānābhitunnassa sato.

My energy was roused up and unflagging, and my mindfulness was established and lucid, but my body was disturbed, not tranquil, because I'd pushed too hard with that painful striving.

Tassa mayham, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

'yannūnāham appāṇakamyeva jhānam jhāyeyyan'ti.

'Why don't I keep practicing the breathless absorption?'

So kho aham, bhāradvāja, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca assāsapassāse uparundhim.

So I cut off my breathing through my mouth and nose.

Tassa mayham, bhāradvāja, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu adhimattā sīse sīsavedanā
honti.

But then I got a severe headache,

Seyyathāpi, bhāradvāja, balavā puriso daḷhena varattakkaḅḅena sīse sīsaveṭham dadeyya;

like a strong man was tightening a tough leather strap around my head.

evameva kho, bhāradvāja, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu adhimattā sīse sīsavedanā
honti.

Āraddham kho pana me, bhāradvāja, vīriyam hoti asallīnam,
upaṭṭhitā sati asammuṭṭhā; sāraddho ca pana me kāyo hoti
appaṭippassaddho, teneva dukkhappadhānena
padhānābhitunnassa sato.

My energy was roused up and unflagging, and my mindfulness was established and lucid, but my body was disturbed, not tranquil, because I'd pushed too hard with that painful striving.

Tassa mayham, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘yannūnāham appāṇakamyeva jhānam jhāyeyyan’ti.

‘Why don’t I keep practicing the breathless absorption?’

So kho aham, bhāradvāja, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca assāsapassāse uparundhim.

So I cut off my breathing through my mouth and nose.

Tassa mayham, bhāradvāja, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca
assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu adhimattā vātā kucchim
parikantanti.

But then strong winds carved up my belly,

Seyyathāpi, bhāradvāja, dakkho goghātako vā goghātakantevāsī vā tiṇhena govikantanena kucchim
parikanteyya;

like a deft butcher or their apprentice was slicing my belly open with a meat cleaver.

evameva kho me, bhāradvāja, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu adhimattā vātā kucchim
parikantanti.

Āraddham kho pana me, bhāradvāja, vīriyam hoti asallīnam
upaṭṭhitā sati asammuṭṭhā; sāraddho ca pana me kāyo hoti
appaṭippassaddho, teneva dukkhappadhānena
padhānābhitunnassa sato.

My energy was roused up and unflagging, and my mindfulness was established and lucid, but my body was disturbed, not tranquil, because I’d pushed too hard with that painful striving.

Tassa mayham, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘yannūnāham appāṇakamyeva jhānam jhāyeyyan’ti.

‘Why don’t I keep practicing the breathless absorption?’

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca assāsapassāse uparundhiṃ.

So I cut off my breathing through my mouth and nose.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu adhimatto kāyasmim̐ ḍāho hoti.

But then there was an intense burning in my body,

Seyyathāpi, bhāradvāja, dve balavanto purisā dubbalataraṃ purisaṃ nānābhāsu gahetvā aṅgārakāsuyā santāpeyyuṃ samparitāpeyyuṃ;

like two strong men grabbing a weaker man by the arms to burn and scorch him on a pit of glowing coals.

evameva kho me, bhāradvāja, mukhato ca nāsato ca kaṇṇato ca assāsapassāsesu uparuddhesu adhimatto kāyasmim̐ ḍāho hoti.

Āraddhaṃ kho pana me, bhāradvāja, vīriyaṃ hoti asallīnaṃ, upaṭṭhitā sati asammuṭṭhā, sāraddho ca pana me kāyo hoti appaṭippassaddho, teneva dukkhappadhānena padhānābhitunnassa sato.

My energy was roused up and unflagging, and my mindfulness was established and lucid, but my body was disturbed, not tranquil, because I'd pushed too hard with that painful striving.

Apissu maṃ, bhāradvāja, devatā disvā evamaṃsu:

Then some deities saw me and said,

‘kālaṅkato samaṇo gotamo’ti.

‘The ascetic Gotama is dead.’

Ekaccā devatā evamaṃsu:

Others said,

‘na kālaṅkato samaṇo gotamo, api ca kālaṃ karotī’ti.

‘He’s not dead, but he’s dying.’

Ekaccā devatā evamaṃsu:

Others said,

‘na kālaṅkato samaṇo gotamo, nāpi kālaṃ karoti;

‘He’s not dead or dying. The ascetic Gotama is a perfected one, for that is how the perfected ones live.’

arahaṃ samaṇo gotamo, vihāro tveva so arahato evarūpo hotī’ti.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘yannūnāhaṃ sabbaso āhārupacchedāya paṭipajjeyyan’ti.

‘Why don’t I practice completely cutting off food?’

Atha kho maṃ, bhāradvāja, devatā upasaṅkamtivā etadavocum:

But deities came to me and said,

‘mā kho tvaṃ, mārisa, sabbaso āhārupacchedāya paṭipajji.

‘Good sir, don’t practice totally cutting off food.

Sace kho tvaṃ, mārisa, sabbaso āhārupacchedāya paṭipajjissasi, tassa te mayaṃ dibbaṃ ojaṃ lomakūpehi ajjhohāressāma.

If you do, we’ll infuse divine nectar into your pores and you will live on that.’

Tāya tvaṃ yāpessasī’ti.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘ahañceva kho pana sabbaso ajajjitaṃ paṭijāneyyaṃ, imā ca me devatā dibbaṃ ojaṃ lomakūpehi ajjhohāreyyum, tāya cāhaṃ yāpeyyaṃ.

Taṃ mamassa musā’ti.

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, tā devatā paccācikkhāmi, ‘halan’ti vadāmi.

So I dismissed those deities, saying, ‘There’s no need.’

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘yannūnāhaṃ thokaṃ thokaṃ āhāraṃ āhāreyyaṃ pasataṃ pasataṃ, yadi vā muggayūsaṃ, yadi vā kulatthayūsaṃ, yadi vā kaḷāyayūsaṃ, yadi vā hareṇukayūsaṃ’ti.

‘Why don’t I just take a little bit of food each time, a cup of broth made from mung beans, lentils, chickpeas, or green gram.’

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, thokaṃ thokaṃ āhāraṃ āhāresim pasataṃ pasataṃ, yadi vā muggayūsaṃ, yadi vā kulatthayūsaṃ, yadi vā kaḷāyayūsaṃ, yadi vā hareṇukayūsaṃ.

So that’s what I did,

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, thokaṃ thokaṃ āhāraṃ āhārayato pasataṃ pasataṃ, yadi vā muggayūsaṃ, yadi vā kulatthayūsaṃ, yadi vā kaḷāyayūsaṃ, yadi vā hareṇukayūsaṃ, adhimattakasimānaṃ patto kāyo hoti.

until my body became extremely emaciated.

Seyyathāpi nāma āsītikapabbāni vā kāḷapabbāni vā; evamevassu me aṅgapaccaṅgāni bhavanti tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, my limbs became like the joints of an eighty-year-old or a corpse, Seyyathāpi nāma oṭṭhapadaṃ; evamevassu me ānisadaṃ hoti tāyevappāhāratāya;

my bottom became like a camel’s hoof, seyyathāpi nāma vaṭṭanāvaḷī; evamevassu me piṭṭhikaṇṭako uṇṇatāvanato hoti tāyevappāhāratāya.

my vertebrae stuck out like beads on a string,

Seyyathāpi nāma jarasālāya gopānasiyo oluggaviluggā bhavanti; evamevassu me phāsuliyo oluggaviluggā bhavanti tāyevappāhāratāya.

and my ribs were as gaunt as the broken-down rafters on an old barn.

Seyyathāpi nāma gambhīre udapāne udakatārakā gambhīragatā okkhāyikā dissanti; evamevassu me akkhikūpesu akkhitārakā gambhīragatā okkhāyikā dissanti tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, the gleam of my eyes sank deep in their sockets, like the gleam of water sunk deep down a well.

Seyyathāpi nāma tittakālābu āmakacchinno vātātapena samphuṭito hoti sammilāto; evamevassu me sīsacchavi samphuṭitā hoti sammilātā tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, my scalp shriveled and withered like a green bitter-gourd in the wind and sun.

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, ‘udaracchaviṃ parimasissāmī’ti piṭṭhikaṇṭakaṃyeva pariggaṇhāmi, ‘piṭṭhikaṇṭakaṃ parimasissāmī’ti udaracchaviṃyeva pariggaṇhāmi; yāvassu me, bhāradvāja, udaracchavi piṭṭhikaṇṭakaṃ allīnā hoti tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, the skin of my belly stuck to my backbone, so that when I tried to rub the skin of my belly I grabbed my backbone, and when I tried to rub my backbone I rubbed the skin of my belly.

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, ‘vaccaṃ vā muttaṃ vā karissāmī’ti tattheva avakujjo papatāmi tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, when I tried to urinate or defecate I fell face down right there.

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, imameva kāyaṃ assāsento pāṇinā gattāni anumajjāmi. Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, pāṇinā gattāni anumajjato pūtimūlāni lomāni kāyasmā papatanti tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, when I tried to relieve my body by rubbing my limbs with my hands, the hair, rotted at its roots, fell out.

Apissu maṃ, bhāradvāja, manussā disvā evamāhaṃsu: ‘kāḷo samaṇo gotamo’ti.

Then some people saw me and said: ‘The ascetic Gotama is black.’

Ekacce manussā evamāhaṃsu: ‘na kāḷo samaṇo gotamo, sāmo samaṇo gotamo’ti.

Some said: ‘He’s not black, he’s brown.’

Ekacce manussā evamāhaṃsu: ‘na kāḷo samaṇo gotamo napi sāmo, maṅguracchavi samaṇo gotamo’ti;

Some said: ‘He’s neither black nor brown. The ascetic Gotama has tawny skin.’

yāvassu me, bhāradvāja, tāva parisuddho chavivaṇṇo pariyoḍāto upahato hoti tāyevappāhāratāya.

That’s how far the pure, bright complexion of my skin had been ruined by taking so little food.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘ye kho keci atītamaddhānaṃ samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā opakkamikā dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayīṃsu, etāvaparamaṃ, nayito bhiyyo;

‘Whatever ascetics and brahmins have experienced painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings due to overexertion—whether in the past, future, or present—this is as far as it goes, no-one has done more than this.

yepi hi keci anāgatamaddhānaṃ samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā opakkamikā dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayissanti, etāvaparamaṃ, nayito bhiyyo; yepi hi keci etarahi samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā opakkamikā dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayanti, etāvaparamaṃ, nayito bhiyyo.

Na kho panāhaṃ imāya kaṭukāya dukkarakārikāya adhigacchāmi uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ.

But I have not achieved any superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones by this severe, grueling work.

Siyā nu kho añño maggo bodhāyā'ti?

Could there be another path to awakening?'

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

'abhijānāmi kho panāhaṃ pitu sakkassa kammante sītāya jambucchāyāya nisinno vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamāṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharitā.

'I recall sitting in the cool shade of the rose-apple tree while my father the Sakyan was off working. Quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, I entered and remained in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Siyā nu kho eso maggo bodhāyā'ti?

Could that be the path to awakening?'

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, satānusāri viññāṇaṃ ahosi:

Stemming from that memory came the realization:

'eseva maggo bodhāyā'ti.

'That is the path to awakening!'

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

'kiṃ nu kho ahaṃ tassa sukhasa bhāyāmi yaṃ taṃ sukhaṃ aññatreva kāmehi aññatra akusalehi dhammehi'ti?

'Why am I afraid of that pleasure, for it has nothing to do with sensual pleasures or unskillful qualities?'

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

I thought,

‘na kho ahaṃ tassa sukhasa bhāyāmi yaṃ taṃ sukhaṃ aññatreva kāmehi aññatra akusalehi dhammehi’ti.

‘I’m not afraid of that pleasure, for it has nothing to do with sensual pleasures or unskillful qualities.’

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhāradvāja, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘na kho taṃ sukaraṃ sukhaṃ adhigantumaṃ evaṃ adhimattakasimānaṃ pattakāyena.

‘I can’t achieve that pleasure with a body so excessively emaciated. Why don’t I eat some solid food, some rice and porridge?’

Yannūnāhaṃ oḷārikaṃ āhāraṃ āhāreyyaṃ odanakummāsaṃ’ti.

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, oḷārikaṃ āhāraṃ āhāresim odanakummāsaṃ.

So I ate some solid food.

Tena kho pana maṃ, bhāradvāja, samayena pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū paccupaṭṭhitā honti:

Now at that time the five mendicants were attending on me, thinking,

‘yaṃ kho samaṇo gotamo dhammaṃ adhigamissati taṃ no ārocessatī’ti.

‘The ascetic Gotama will tell us of any truth that he realizes.’

Yato kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, oḷārikaṃ āhāraṃ āhāresim odanakummāsaṃ, atha me te pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū nibbijja pakkamiṃsu:

But when I ate some solid food, they left disappointed in me, saying,

‘bāhulliko samaṇo gotamo padhānavibbhanto āvatto bāhullāyā’ti.

So kho ahaṃ, bhāradvāja, oḷārikaṃ āhāraṃ āhāretvā balaṃ gahetvā vivicceva kāmehi ...pe... paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja vihāsim.

After eating solid food and gathering my strength, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, I entered and remained in the first absorption ...

Vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhataṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ ...

As the placing of the mind and keeping it connected were stilled, I entered and remained in the second absorption ...

tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ ...

third absorption ...

catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja vihāsim.

fourth absorption.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte pubbenivāsānussatiñāṇāya cittaṃ abhininnāmesim.

When my mind had immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—I extended it toward recollection of past lives.

So anekavihitaṃ pubbenivāsaṃ anussarāmi, seyyathidaṃ—ekampi jātiṃ dvepi jātiyo ...pe... iti sākāraṃ sauddesaṃ anekavihitaṃ pubbenivāsaṃ anussarāmi.

I recollected many past lives. That is: one, two, three, four, five, ten, twenty, thirty, forty, fifty, a hundred, a thousand, a hundred thousand rebirths; many eons of the world contracting, many eons of the world expanding, many eons of the world contracting and expanding. And so I recollected my many kinds of past lives, with features and details.

Ayaṃ kho me, bhāradvāja, rattiyā paṭhame yāme paṭhamā vijjā adhigatā, avijjā vihatā, vijjā uppannā; tamo vihato, āloko uppanno; yathā taṃ appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato.

This was the first knowledge, which I achieved in the first watch of the night.

Ignorance was destroyed and knowledge arose; darkness was destroyed and light arose, as happens for a meditator who is diligent, keen, and resolute.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte sattānaṃ cutūpapātañāyā cittaṃ abhininnāmesim̐.

When my mind had immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—I extended it toward knowledge of the death and rebirth of sentient beings.

So dibbena cakkhunā visuddhena atikkantamānusakena satte passāmi cavamāne upapajjamāne hīne paṇīte suvaṇṇe dubbaṇṇe sugate duggate yathākammūpage satte pajānāmi ... pe...

With clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, I saw sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. I understood how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds ...

ayaṃ kho me, bhāradvāja, rattiyā majjhime yāme dutiyā

This was the second knowledge, which I achieved in the middle watch of the night.

vijjā adhigatā, avijjā vihatā, vijjā uppannā; tamo vihato, āloko uppanno; yathā taṃ appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato.

Ignorance was destroyed and knowledge arose; darkness was destroyed and light arose, as happens for a meditator who is diligent, keen, and resolute.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte āsavānaṃ khayañāṇāya cittaṃ abhininnāmesim̃.

When my mind had immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—I extended it toward knowledge of the ending of defilements.

So ‘idaṃ dukkhaṃ’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsim̃, ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodho’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsim̃, ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsim̃;

I truly understood: ‘This is suffering’ ... ‘This is the origin of suffering’
... ‘This is the cessation of suffering’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering’.

‘ime āsavā’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsim̃, ‘ayaṃ āsavasamudayo’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsim̃, ‘ayaṃ āsavanirodho’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsim̃, ‘ayaṃ āsavanirodhagāminī paṭipadā’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsim̃.
I truly understood: ‘These are defilements’ ... ‘This is the origin of defilements’ ... ‘This is the cessation of defilements’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of defilements’.

Tassa me evaṃ jānato evaṃ passato kāmāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccittha, bhavāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccittha, avijjāsavāpi
cittaṃ vimuccittha.

Knowing and seeing like this, my mind was freed from the defilements of sensuality, desire to be reborn, and ignorance.

Vimuttasmim̃ vimuttamiti ñāṇaṃ ahosi.

When it was freed, I knew it was freed.

‘Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā’ti abbaññāsim̃.

I understood: ‘Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.’

Ayaṃ kho me, bhāradvāja, rattiyā pacchime yāme tatiyā

This was the third knowledge, which I achieved in the last watch of the night.

vijjā adhigatā, avijjā vihatā, vijjā uppannā; tamo vihato, āloko uppanno; yathā taṃ appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato”ti.

Ignorance was destroyed and knowledge arose; darkness was destroyed and light arose, as happens for a meditator who is diligent, keen, and resolute.”

ekam samayam bhagava sakkesu viharati devadham nama sakyanam nigamo.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Sakyans, near the Sakyan town named Devadaha.

Tatra kho bhagava bhikkhu amantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhu bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagava etadvoca:

The Buddha said this:

“santi, bhikkhave, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā evaṃvādinō evaṃdiṭṭhino:

“Mendicants, there are some ascetics and brahmins who have this doctrine and view:

‘yam kiñcāyam purisapuggalo paṭisaṃvedeti sukham vā dukkham vā adukkhamasukham vā, sabbam taṃ pubbekatahetu.

‘Everything this individual experiences—pleasurable, painful, or neutral—is because of past deeds.

Iti purāṇānaṃ kammānaṃ tapasā byantībhāvā, navānaṃ kammānaṃ akaraṇā, āyatim anavassavo;

So, due to eliminating past deeds by mortification, and not doing any new deeds, there’s nothing to come up in the future.

āyatim anavassavā kammakkhayo; kammakkhayā dukkhakkhayo; dukkhakkhayā vedanākkhayo; vedanākkhayā sabbaṃ dukkhaṃ nijjiṇṇaṃ bhavissatī’ti.

With nothing to come up in the future, deeds end. With the ending of deeds, suffering ends. With the ending of suffering, feeling ends. And with the ending of feeling, all suffering will have been worn away.’

Evaṃvādino, bhikkhave, nigaṇṭhā.

Such is the doctrine of the Jain ascetics.

Evaṃvādāhaṃ, bhikkhave, nigaṇṭhe upasaṅkamtivā evaṃ vadāmi:

I’ve gone up to the Jain ascetics who say this and said,

‘saccaṃ kira tumhe, āvuso nigaṇṭhā, evaṃvādino evaṃdiṭṭhino

‘Is it really true that this is the venerables’ view?’

yaṃ kiñcāyaṃ purisapuggalo paṭisaṃvedeti sukhaṃ vā dukkhaṃ vā adukkhamasukhaṃ vā, sabbaṃ taṃ pubbekatahetu.

Iti purāṇānaṃ kammānaṃ tapasā byantībhāvā, navānaṃ kammānaṃ akaraṇā, āyatim anavassavo;

āyatim anavassavā kammakkhayo; kammakkhayā dukkhakkhayo; dukkhakkhayā vedanākkhayo; vedanākkhayā sabbaṃ dukkhaṃ nijjiṇṇaṃ bhavissatī’ti?

Te ca me, bhikkhave, nigaṇṭhā evaṃ puṭṭhā ‘āmā’ti paṭijānanti.

They admitted that it is.

Tyāhaṃ evaṃ vadāmi:

I said to them,

‘kiṃ pana tumhe, āvuso nigaṇṭhā, jānātha—

‘But reverends, do you know

‘No hidaṃ, āvuso’.

‘No we don’t, reverend.’

When I said this, those Jain ascetics said to me,

‘nigaṇṭho, āvuso, nāṭaputto sabbaññū sabbadassāvī,

‘Reverend, the Jain leader Nāṭaputta claims to be all-knowing and all-seeing, to know and see everything without exception, thus:

“Carato ca me tiṭṭhato ca suttassa ca jāgarassa ca satataṃ samitaṃ ñāṇadassanaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ”ti.

“Knowledge and vision are constantly and continually present to me, while walking, standing, sleeping, and waking.”

So evamāha:

He says:

“atthi kho vo, āvuso nigaṇṭhā, pubbeva pāpakammaṃ kataṃ,

‘So it seems that exertion cannot change the way deeds are experienced in any of these ways.

evaṃ sante āyasmantānaṃ nigaṇṭhānaṃ aphalo upakkamo

This being so, your exertion and striving are fruitless.’

Evaṃvādī, bhikkhave, nigaṇṭhā.

Such is the doctrine of the Jain ascetics.

Evaṃvādīnaṃ, bhikkhave, nigaṇṭhānaṃ dasa sahadhammikā

Saying this, the Jain ascetics deserve rebuke and criticism on ten legitimate grounds.

Sace, bhikkhave, sattā pubbekatahetu sukhadukkhāṃ

If sentient beings experience pleasure and pain because of past deeds, addhā, bhikkhave, nigaṇṭhā pubbe dukkaṭakammakārino yaṃ addhā, bhikkhave, nigaṇṭhā pāpābhijātikā yaṃ etarahi evarūpā dukkhā tibbā kaṭukā vedanā vediyanti.

clearly the Jains have been reborn in a bad class, since they now experience such intense pain.

Sace, bhikkhave, sattā diṭṭhadhammūpakkama hetu sukhadukkhaṃ paṭisaṃvedenti; clearly the Jains exert themselves badly in the present, since they now experience such intense pain.

Sace, bhikkhave, sattā pubbekata hetu sukhadukkhaṃ paṭisaṃvedenti, gārayhā nigaṇṭhā;

The Jains deserve criticism whether or not sentient beings experience pleasure and pain because of past deeds,

Evaṃvādī, bhikkhave, nigaṇṭhā.
Such is the doctrine of the Jain ascetics.

Evaṃvādīnaṃ, bhikkhave, nigaṇṭhānaṃ ime dasa

The Jain ascetics who say this deserve rebuke and criticism on these ten legitimate grounds.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, aphalo upakkamo hoti, aphalaṃ padhānaṃ.
That's how exertion and striving is fruitless.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, saphalo upakkamo hoti, saphalaṃ padhānaṃ?

And how is exertion and striving fruitful?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na heva anaddhabhūtaṃ attānaṃ dukkhena addhabhāveti, dhammikañca sukhaṃ na pariccajati, tasmañca sukhe anadhimucchito hoti.

It's when a mendicant doesn't bring suffering upon themselves; and they don't give up legitimate pleasure, but they're not besotted with that pleasure.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand:

'imassa kho me dukkhanidānassa sañkhāraṃ padahato sañkhārappadhānā virāgo hoti, imassa pana me dukkhanidānassa ajjupekkhato upekkhaṃ bhāvayato virāgo hoti'ti.

'When I actively strive I become dispassionate towards this source of suffering. But when I develop equanimity I become dispassionate towards this other source of suffering.'

So yassa hi khvāssa dukkhanidānassa sañkhāraṃ padahato sañkhārappadhānā virāgo hoti, sañkhāraṃ tattha padahati.

So they either actively strive or develop equanimity as appropriate.

Yassa panassa dukkhanidānassa ajjupekkhato upekkhaṃ bhāvayato virāgo hoti, upekkhaṃ tattha bhāveti.

Tassa tassa dukkhanidānassa sañkhāraṃ padahato sañkhārappadhānā virāgo hoti—

Through active striving they become dispassionate towards that specific source of suffering, evampissa taṃ dukkhaṃ nijjiṇṇaṃ hoti.

and so that suffering is worn away.

Tassa tassa dukkhanidānassa ajjupekkhato upekkhaṃ bhāvayato virāgo hoti—

Through developing equanimity they become dispassionate towards that other source of suffering, evampissa taṃ dukkhaṃ nijjiṇṇaṃ hoti.

and so that suffering is worn away.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, puriso itthiyā sāratto paṭibaddhacitto tibbacchando tibbāpekkho.

Suppose a man is in love with a woman, full of intense desire and lust.

So taṃ itthiṃ passeyya aññena purisena saddhiṃ santiṭṭhantiṃ sallapantiṃ sañjagghantiṃ saṃhasantiṃ.

Then he sees her standing together with another man, chatting, giggling, and laughing.

Taṃ kiṃ maññatha, bhikkhave,

What do you think, mendicants?

api nu tassa purisassa amuṃ itthiṃ disvā aññena purisena saddhiṃ santiṭṭhantiṃ sallapantiṃ sañjagghantiṃ saṃhasantiṃ uppajjeyyūṃ sokaparidevadukkhadomanassūpāyāsā”ti?

Would that give rise to sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress for him?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.

“Taṃ kissa hetu”?

Why is that?

“Amu hi, bhante, puriso amussā itthiyā sāratto paṭibaddhacitto tibbacchando tibbāpekkho.

Because that man is in love that woman, full of intense desire and lust.”

Tasmā taṃ itthiṃ disvā aññena purisena saddhiṃ santiṭṭhantiṃ sallapantiṃ sañjagghantiṃ saṃhasantiṃ uppajjeyyūṃ sokaparidevadukkhadomanassūpāyāsā”ti.

“Atha kho, bhikkhave, tassa purisassa evamassa:

“Then that man might think:

‘ahaṃ kho amussā itthiyā sāratto paṭibaddhacitto tibbacchando tībāpekkho.

‘I’m in love with that woman, full of intense desire and lust.

Tassa me amuṃ itthiṃ disvā aññena purisena saddhiṃ santiṭṭhantiṃ sallapantiṃ sañjagghantiṃ saṃhasantiṃ uppajjanti sokaparidevadukkhadomanassūpāyāsā.

When I saw her standing together with another man, chatting, giggling, and laughing, it gave rise to sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress for me.

Yannūnāhaṃ yo me amussā itthiyā chandarāgo taṃ pajaheyyan’ti.

Why don’t I give up that desire and lust for that woman?’

So yo amussā itthiyā chandarāgo taṃ pajaheyya.

So that’s what he did.

So taṃ itthiṃ passeyya aparena samayena aññena purisena saddhiṃ santiṭṭhantiṃ sallapantiṃ sañjagghantiṃ saṃhasantiṃ.

Some time later he sees her again standing together with another man, chatting, giggling, and laughing.

Taṃ kiṃ maññatha, bhikkhave,

What do you think, mendicants?

api nu tassa purisassa amuṃ itthiṃ disvā aññena purisena saddhiṃ santiṭṭhantiṃ sallapantiṃ sañjagghantiṃ saṃhasantiṃ uppajjeyyūṃ sokaparidevadukkhadomanassūpāyāsā”ti?

Would that give rise to sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress for him?”

“No hetam, bhante”.

“No, sir.

“Tam kissa hetu”?

Why is that?

“Amu hi, bhante, puriso amussā itthiyā virāgo.

Because he no longer desires that woman.”

Tasmā tam itthim disvā aññena purisena saddhim santiṭṭhantim sallapantim sañjagghantim samhasantim na uppajjeyyum sokaparidevadukkhadomanassūpāyāsā”ti.

“Evameva kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na heva anaddhabhūtam attānam dukkhena addhabhāveti, dhammikañca sukham na pariccajati, tasmiñca sukhe anadhimucchito hoti.

“In the same way, a mendicant doesn’t bring suffering upon themselves; and they don’t give up legitimate pleasure, but they’re not besotted with that pleasure.

So evam pajānāti:

They understand:

‘imassa kho me dukkhanidānassa sañkhāram padahato sañkhārappadhānā virāgo hoti, imassa pana me dukkhanidānassa ajjupekkhato upekkham bhāvayato virāgo hoti’ti.

So yassa hi khvāssa dukkhanidānassa sañkhāram padahato sañkhārappadhānā virāgo hoti, sañkhāram tattha padahati;
So they either actively strive or develop equanimity as appropriate.

yassa panassa dukkhanidānassa ajjupekkhato upekkham bhāvayato virāgo hoti, upekkham tattha bhāveti.

Tassa tassa dukkhanidānassa sañkhāram padahato sañkhārappadhānā virāgo hoti—

Through active striving they become dispassionate towards that specific source of suffering, evampissa taṃ dukkhaṃ nijjiṇṇaṃ hoti.

and so that suffering is worn away.

Tassa tassa dukkhanidānassa ajjupekkhato upekkhaṃ bhāvayato virāgo hoti—

Through developing equanimity they become dispassionate towards that other source of suffering, evampissa taṃ dukkhaṃ nijjiṇṇaṃ hoti.

and so that suffering is worn away.

Evampi, bhikkhave, saphalo upakkamo hoti, saphalaṃ padhānaṃ.

That's how exertion and striving is fruitful.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu iti paṭisañcikkhati:

Furthermore, a mendicant reflects:

‘yathāsukhaṃ kho me viharato akusalā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti, kusalā dhammā parihāyanti;

‘When I live as I please, unskillful qualities grow and skillful qualities decline.

dukkhāya pana me attānaṃ padahato akusalā dhammā parihāyanti, kusalā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti.

But when I strive painfully, unskillful qualities decline and skillful qualities grow.

Yannūnaṃ dukkhāya attānaṃ padaheyyan’ti.

Why don't I strive painfully?’

So dukkhāya attānaṃ padahati.

So that's what they do,

Tassa dukkhāya attānaṃ padahato akusalā dhammā parihāyanti kusalā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti.

and as they do so unskillful qualities decline and skillful qualities grow.

So na aparena samayena dukkhāya attānaṃ padahati.

After some time, they no longer strive painfully.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Yassa hi so, bhikkhave, bhikkhu atthāya dukkhāya attānaṃ padaheyya svāssa attho abhinipphanno hoti.

Because they have accomplished the goal for which they strived painfully.

Tasmā na aparena samayena dukkhāya attānaṃ padahati.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, usukāro tejanaṃ dvīsu alātesu ātāpeti paritāpeti ujum karoti kammaniyaṃ.

Suppose an arrowsmith was heating an arrow shaft between two firebrands, making it straight and fit for use.

Yato kho, bhikkhave, usukārassa tejanaṃ dvīsu alātesu ātāpitaṃ hoti paritāpitaṃ ujum kataṃ kammaniyaṃ, na so taṃ aparena samayena usukāro tejanaṃ dvīsu alātesu ātāpeti paritāpeti ujum karoti kammaniyaṃ.

After it's been made straight and fit for use, they'd no longer heat it to make it straight and fit for use.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Yassa hi so, bhikkhave, atthāya usukāro tejanaṃ dvīsu alātesu ātāpeyya paritāpeyya ujum kareyya kammaniyaṃ svāssa attho abhinipphanno hoti.

Because they have accomplished the goal for which they heated it.

Tasmā na aparena samayena usukāro tejanaṃ dvīsu alātesu ātāpeti paritāpeti ujum karoti kammaniyaṃ.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu iti paṭisañcikkhati:

In the same way, a mendicant reflects:

‘yathāsukhaṃ kho me viharato akusalā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti, kusalā dhammā parihāyanti;

‘When I live as I please, unskillful qualities grow and skillful qualities decline.

dukkhāya pana me attānaṃ padahato akusalā dhammā

But when I strive painfully, unskillful qualities decline and skillful qualities grow.

Yannūnāhaṃ dukkhāya attānaṃ padaheyyan’ti.

Why don’t I strive painfully?’ ...

So dukkhāya attānaṃ padahati.

Tassa dukkhāya attānaṃ padahato akusalā dhammā parihāyanti, kusalā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti.

So na aparena samayena dukkhāya attānaṃ padahati.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Yassa hi so, bhikkhave, bhikkhu atthāya dukkhāya attānaṃ padaheyya svāssa attho abhinipphanno hoti.

Tasmā na aparena samayena dukkhāya attānaṃ padahati.

After some time, they no longer strive painfully.

Evampi, bhikkhave, saphalo upakkamo hoti, saphalaṃ
padhānaṃ.

That too is how exertion and striving is fruitful.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, idha tathāgato loke uppajjati araham sammāsambuddho vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānaṃ buddho bhagavā.

Furthermore, a Realized One arises in the world, perfected, a fully awakened Buddha, accomplished in knowledge and conduct, holy, knower of the world, supreme guide for those who wish to train, teacher of gods and humans, awakened, blessed.

So imaṃ lokam sadevakam samārakam sabrahmakam sassamaṇabrāhmaṇim pajam sadevamanussam sayam abhiññā
sacchikatvā pavedeti.

He has realized with his own insight this world—with its gods, Māras and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, gods and humans—and he makes it known to others.

So dhammam deseti ādikalyāṇam majjhekalyāṇam
pariyosānakalyāṇam sāttham sabyañjanam, kevalaparipuṇṇam
parisuddham brahmacariyam pakāseti.

He teaches Dhamma that's good in the beginning, good in the middle, and good in the end, meaningful and well-phrased. And he reveals a spiritual practice that's entirely full and pure.

Tam dhammam suṇāti gahapati vā gahapatiputto vā
aññatarasmim vā kule paccājāto.

A householder hears that teaching, or a householder's child, or someone reborn in some clan.

So tam dhammam sutvā tathāgate saddham paṭilabhati.

They gain faith in the Realized One,

So tena saddhāpaṭilābhena samannāgato iti paṭisañcikkhati:

and reflect:

'sambādho gharāvāso rajāpatho, abbhokāso pabbajjā.

'Living in a house is cramped and dirty, but the life of one gone forth is wide open.

Nayidam sukaram agāram ajjhāvasatā ekantaparipuṇṇam ekantaparisuddham saṅkhalikhitam brahmacariyam caritum.

It's not easy for someone living at home to lead the spiritual life utterly full and pure, like a polished shell.

Yannūnāham kesamassum ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni
acchādetvā agāasmā anagāriyam pabbajeyyan'ti.

Why don't I shave off my hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from the lay life to homelessness?'

So aparena समयena appaṃ vā bhogakkhandhaṃ pahāya mahantaṃ vā bhogakkhandhaṃ pahāya, appaṃ vā ñātiparivaṭṭaṃ pahāya mahantaṃ vā ñātiparivaṭṭaṃ pahāya kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajati.

After some time they give up a large or small fortune, and a large or small family circle. They shave off hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

So evaṃ pabbajito samāno bhikkhūnaṃ sikkhāsājīvasamāpanno paṇātipātaṃ pahāya paṇātipātā paṭivirato hoti nihitadaṇḍo nihitasattho, lajjī dayāpanno sabbapaṇabhūtahitānukampī viharati.

Once they've gone forth, they take up the training and livelihood of the mendicants. They give up killing living creatures, renouncing the rod and the sword. They're scrupulous and kind, living full of compassion for all living beings.

Adinnādānaṃ pahāya adinnādānā paṭivirato hoti dinnādāyī dinnapāṭikaṅkhī, athenena sucibhūtena attanā viharati.

They give up stealing. They take only what's given, and expect only what's given. They keep themselves clean by not thieving.

Abrahmacariyaṃ pahāya brahmacārī hoti āracārī virato methunā gāmadhammā.

They give up unchastity. They are celibate, set apart, avoiding the common practice of sex.

Musāvādaṃ pahāya musāvādā paṭivirato hoti saccavādī saccasandho theto paccayiko avisaṃvādako lokassa.

They give up lying. They speak the truth and stick to the truth. They're honest and trustworthy, and don't trick the world with their words.

Pisuṇaṃ vācaṃ pahāya pisuṇāya vācāya paṭivirato hoti; ito sutvā na amutra akkhātā imesaṃ bhedāya, amutra vā sutvā na imesaṃ akkhātā amūsaṃ bhedāya—iti bhinnānaṃ vā sandhātā sahitānaṃ vā anuppadātā samaggārāmo samaggarato samagganandī samaggakaraṇiṃ vācaṃ bhāsītā hoti.

They give up divisive speech. They don't repeat in one place what they heard in another so as to divide people against each other. Instead, they reconcile those who are divided, supporting unity, delighting in harmony, loving harmony, speaking words that promote harmony.

Pharusāṃ vācaṃ pahāya pharusāya vācāya paṭivirato hoti; yā sā vācā nelā kaṇṇasukhā pemaṇīyā hadayaṅgamā porī bahujanakantā bahujanamanāpā tathārūpiṃ vācaṃ bhāsītā hoti.

They give up harsh speech. They speak in a way that's mellow, pleasing to the ear, lovely, going to the heart, polite, likable and agreeable to the people.

Samphappalāpaṃ pahāya samphappalāpā paṭivirato hoti kālavādī bhūtavādī atthavādī dhammavādī vinayavādī, nidhānavatiṃ vācaṃ bhāsītā kālena sāpadesaṃ pariyantavatiṃ atthasaṃhitāṃ.

They give up talking nonsense. Their words are timely, true, and meaningful, in line with the teaching and training. They say things at the right time which are valuable, reasonable, succinct, and beneficial.

So bījagāmbhūtagāmasamārambhā paṭivirato hoti.

They avoid injuring plants and seeds.

Ekabhattiko hoti rattūparato virato vikālabhojanā.

They eat in one part of the day, abstaining from eating at night and food at the wrong time.

Naccagītavāditavisūkadassanā paṭivirato hoti.

They avoid dancing, singing, music, and seeing shows.

Mālāgandhavilepanadhāraṇamaṇḍanavibhūsanatṭhānā paṭivirato hoti.

They avoid beautifying and adorning themselves with garlands, perfumes, and makeup.

Uccāsayanamahāsayanā paṭivirato hoti.

They avoid high and luxurious beds.

Jātarūparajatapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti.

They avoid receiving gold and money,

Āmakadhaññapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti.

raw grains,

elephants, cows, horses, and mares,

Khettavatthupaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti.

and fields and land.

Dūteyyapahiṇagamanānuyogā paṭivirato hoti.

They avoid running errands and messages;

Kayavikkayā paṭivirato hoti.

buying and selling;

Tulākūṭakaṃsakūṭamānakūṭā paṭivirato hoti.

falsifying weights, metals, or measures;

Ukkoṭanavañcananikatisāciyogā paṭivirato hoti.

bribery, fraud, cheating, and duplicity;

Chedanavadhabandhanaviparāmosaālopasahasākārā paṭivirato hoti.

mutilation, murder, abduction, banditry, plunder, and violence.

So santuṭṭho hoti kāyaparihārikena cīvarena,
kucchiparihārikena piṇḍapātena. So yena yeneva pakkamati
samādāyeva pakkamati.

They're content with robes to look after the body and alms-food to look after the belly. Wherever they go, they set out taking only these things.

Seyyathāpi nāma pakkhī sakuṇo yena yeneva ḍeti

They're like a bird: wherever it flies, wings are its only burden.

evameva bhikkhu santuṭṭho hoti kāyaparihārikena cīvarena, kucchiparihārikena piṇḍapātena; so yena yeneva pakkamati
samādāyeva pakkamati.

In the same way, a mendicant is content with robes to look after the body and alms-food to look after the belly. Wherever they go, they set out taking only these things.

So iminā ariyena sīlakkhandhena samannāgato ajjhataṃ

When they have this entire spectrum of noble ethics, they experience a blameless happiness inside themselves.

So cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā na nimittaggāhī hoti

When they see a sight with their eyes, they don't get caught up in the features and details.

Yatvādhikaraṇamenam cakkhundriyam asaṃvutaṃ viharantaṃ

If the faculty of sight were left unrestrained, bad unskillful qualities of desire and aversion would become overwhelming. For this reason, they practice restraint, protecting the faculty of sight, and achieving its restraint.

Sotena saddaṃ sutvā ...pe...

If the faculty of mind were left unrestrained, bad unskillful qualities of desire and aversion would become overwhelming. For this reason, they practice restraint, protecting the faculty of mind, and achieving its restraint.

So iminā ariyena indriyaṃvarena samannāgato ajjhataṃ

When they have this noble sense restraint, they experience an unsullied bliss inside themselves.

So abhikkante paṭikkante sampajānakārī hoti, ālokite vilokite

They act with situational awareness when going out and coming back; when looking ahead and aside; when bending and extending the limbs; when bearing the outer robe, bowl and robes; when eating, drinking, chewing, and tasting; when urinating and defecating; when walking, standing, sitting, sleeping, waking, speaking, and keeping silent.

So iminā ca ariyena sīlakkhandhena samannāgato, imāya ca ariyāya santuṭṭhiyā samannāgato, iminā ca ariyena indriyaśāmvarena samannāgato, iminā ca ariyena satisampajaññaena samannāgato

When they have this noble spectrum of ethics, this noble sense restraint, and this noble mindfulness and situational awareness, vivittaṃ senāśanaṃ bhajati araññaṃ rukkhamaṃ pabbataṃ kandaraṃ giriguhaṃ susānaṃ vanapatthaṃ abbhokāsaṃ palālapuñjaṃ.

they frequent a secluded lodging—a wilderness, the root of a tree, a hill, a ravine, a mountain cave, a charnel ground, a forest, the open air, a heap of straw.

So pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātaṭṭikkanto nisīdati pallaṅkaṃ ābhujitvā, ujum kāyaṃ paṇidhāya, parimukhaṃ satim upaṭṭhapetvā.

After the meal, they return from alms-round, sit down cross-legged with their body straight, and establish mindfulness right there.

So abhijjhaṃ loke pahāya vigatābhijjhena cetasā viharati, abhijjhāya cittaṃ parisodheti.

Giving up desire for the world, they meditate with a heart rid of desire, cleansing the mind of desire.

Byāpādapadosaṃ pahāya abyāpannacitto viharati sabbapāṇabhūtahitānukampī, byāpādapadosā cittaṃ parisodheti.

Giving up ill will and malevolence, they meditate with a mind rid of ill will, full of compassion for all living beings, cleansing the mind of ill will.

Thinamiddham pahāya vigatathinamiddho viharati ālokasaññī sato sampajāno, thinamiddhā cittaṃ parisodheti.

Giving up dullness and drowsiness, they meditate with a mind rid of dullness and drowsiness, perceiving light, mindful and aware, cleansing the mind of dullness and drowsiness.

Uddhaccakukkuccam pahāya anuddhato viharati ajjhataṃ vūpasantacitto, uddhaccakukkuccā cittaṃ parisodheti.

Giving up restlessness and remorse, they meditate without restlessness, their mind peaceful inside, cleansing the mind of restlessness and remorse.

Vicikiccham pahāya tiṇṇavicikiccho viharati akathaṅkathī kusalesu dhammesu, vicikicchāya cittaṃ parisodheti.

Giving up doubt, they meditate having gone beyond doubt, not undecided about skillful qualities, cleansing the mind of doubt.

So ime pañca nīvaraṇe pahāya cetaso upakkilese paññāya dubbalīkaṇe

They give up these five hindrances, corruptions of the heart that weaken wisdom.

vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Then, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, they enter and remain in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Evampi, bhikkhave, saphalo upakkamo hoti, saphalaṃ padhānaṃ.

That too is how exertion and striving is fruitful.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhataṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, they enter and remain in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Evampi, bhikkhave, saphalo upakkamo hoti, saphalaṃ padhānaṃ.

That too is how exertion and striving is fruitful.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca viharati sato ca sampajāno, sukhañca kāyena paṭisaṃvedeti. Yaṃ taṃ ariyā ācikkhanti: ‘upekkhako satimā sukhavihārī’ti tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, with the fading away of rapture, a mendicant enters and remains in the third absorption, where they meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, ‘Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.’

Evampi, bhikkhave, saphalo upakkamo hoti, saphalaṃ padhānaṃ.

That too is how exertion and striving is fruitful.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sukhasa ca pahānā dukkhasa ca pahānā, pubbeva somanassadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamā, adukkhamasukhaṃ upekkhāsatipārisuddhiṃ catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, giving up pleasure and pain, and ending former happiness and sadness, they enter and remain in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

Evampi, bhikkhave, saphalo upakkamo hoti, saphalaṃ padhānaṃ.

That too is how exertion and striving is fruitful.

They recollect many kinds of past lives, that is, one, two, three, four, five, ten, twenty, thirty, forty, fifty, a hundred, a thousand, a hundred thousand rebirths; many eons of the world contracting, many eons of the world expanding, many eons of the world contracting and expanding. They remember: ‘There, I was named this, my clan was pleasure and pain, and that was how my life ended. When I passed away from that place I was reborn somewhere else. There, too, I was named this, my clan was that, I looked like this, and that was my food. This was how I felt pleasure and pain, and that was how my life ended. When I passed away from that place I was reborn here.’ And so they recollect their many kinds of past lives, with features and details.

When their mind has become immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—they extend it toward knowledge of the death and rebirth of sentient beings.

With clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, they see sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. They understood how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds: ‘These dear beings did bad things by way of body, speech, and mind. They spoke ill of the noble ones; they had wrong view; and they chose to act out of that wrong view. When their body breaks up, after death, they’re reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell. These dear beings, however, did good things by way of body, speech, and mind. They never spoke ill of the noble ones; they had right view; and they chose to act out of that right view. When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.' And so, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, they see sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. They understand how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds.

Evampi, bhikkhave, saphalo upakkamo hoti, saphalaṃ padhānaṃ.

Tassa evaṃ jānato evaṃ passato kāmāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccati,

Knowing and seeing like this, their mind is freed from the defilements of sensuality, desire to be reborn, and ignorance.

When they're freed, they know they're freed.

'Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Devadahasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ paṭhamam.

102. Pañcattayasutta The Five and Three

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṁ sāvattiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta's Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavaṁ bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavaṁ etadvoca:

The Buddha said this:

“santi, bhikkhave, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā aparantakappikā aparantānudiṭṭhino aparantaṁ ārabha anekavihitāni adhivuttipadāni abhivadanti.

“Mendicants, there are some ascetics and brahmins who theorize about the future, and assert various hypotheses concerning the future.

‘Saññī attā hoti arogo paraṁ maraṇā’ti—

Some propose this: ‘The self is percipient and is sound after death.’

ittheke abhivadanti;

‘asaññī attā hoti aroga param marañā’ti—

Some propose this: ‘The self is non-percipient and is sound after death.’

ittheke abhivadanti;

‘nevasaññīnāsaññī attā hoti aroga param marañā’ti—

Some propose this: ‘The self is neither percipient nor non-percipient and is sound after death.’

ittheke abhivadanti;

sato vā pana sattassa ucchedaṃ vināsaṃ vibhavaṃ paññapenti, diṭṭhadhammanibbānaṃ vā paneke abhivadanti.

But some assert the annihilation, eradication, and obliteration of an existing being, while others propose extinguishment in the present life.

Iti santaṃ vā attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ param marañā, sato vā pana sattassa ucchedaṃ vināsaṃ vibhavaṃ paññapenti, diṭṭhadhammanibbānaṃ vā paneke abhivadanti.

Thus they assert an existent self that is sound after death; or they assert the annihilation of an existing being; or they propose extinguishment in the present life.

Iti imāni pañca hutvā tīṇi honti, tīṇi hutvā pañca honti—

In this way five become three, and three become five.

ayamuddeso pañcattayassa.

This is the passage for recitation of the five and three.

Tatra, bhikkhave, ye te samaṇabrāhmaṇā saññiṃ attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ param marañā, rūpiṃca arūpiṃca vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā saññiṃ attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ param marañā, nevarūpiṃ nārūpiṃ vā te bhonto

samaṇabrāhmaṇā saññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ marañā, ekattasaññim vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā saññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ marañā, nānattasaññim vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā saññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ marañā, parittasaññim vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā saññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ marañā, appamāṇasaññim vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā saññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ marañā, etaṃ vā panekesaṃ upātivattataṃ viññāṇakasiṇameke abhivadanti appamāṇaṃ āneñjaṃ.

Now, the ascetics and brahmins who assert a self that is percipient and sound after death describe it as having form, or being formless, or both having form and being formless, or neither having form nor being formless. Or they describe it as of unified perception, or of diverse perception, or of limited perception, or of limitless perception. Or some among those who go beyond this propose universal consciousness, limitless and imperturbable.

Tayidaṃ, bhikkhave, tathāgato abhijānāti.

The Realized One understands this as follows.

Ye kho te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā saññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ marañā, rūpiṃ vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā saññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ marañā, arūpiṃ vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā saññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ marañā, rūpiṇca arūpiṇca vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā saññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ marañā, nevarūpiṃ nārūpiṃ vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā saññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ marañā, ekattasaññim vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā saññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ marañā, nānattasaññim vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā saññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ marañā, parittasaññim vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā saññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ marañā, appamāṇasaññim vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā saññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogam param marañā, yā vā panetāsam saññānam parisuddhā paramā aggā anuttariyā akkhāyati—

There are ascetics and brahmins who assert a self that is percipient and sound after death, describing it as having form, or being formless, or both having form and being formless, or neither having form nor being formless. Or they describe it as of unified perception, or of diverse perception, or of limited perception, or of limitless perception.

yadi rūpasaññānam yadi arūpasaññānam yadi ekattasaññānam yadi nānattasaññānam.

‘Natthi kiñcī’ti ākiñcaññāyatanameke abhivadanti appamāṇam āneñjam.

Or some, aware that ‘there is nothing at all’, propose the dimension of nothingness, limitless and imperturbable. They declare that this is the purest, highest, best, and supreme of all those perceptions, whether of form or of formlessness or of unity or of diversity.

‘Tayidaṃ saṅkhatam oḷārikam atthi kho pana saṅkhārānam nirodho atthetan’ti—

‘All that is conditioned and coarse. But there is the cessation of conditions—that is real.’

iti veditvā tassa nissaraṇadassāvī tathāgato tadupātivatto.

Understanding thus and seeing the escape from it, the Realized One has gone beyond all that.

Tatra, bhikkhave, ye te samaṇabrāhmaṇā asaññim attānam paññapenti arogam param marañā, rūpim vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā asaññim attānam paññapenti arogam param marañā, arūpim vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā asaññim attānam paññapenti arogam param marañā, rūpiñca arūpiñca vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā asaññim attānam paññapenti arogam param marañā, nevarūpim nārūpim vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā asaññim attānam paññapenti arogam param marañā.

Now, the ascetics and brahmins who assert a self that is non-percipient and sound after death describe it as having form, or being formless, or both having form and being formless, or neither having form nor being formless.

Tatra, bhikkhave, ye te samaṇabrāhmaṇā saññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ maraṇā tesamete paṭikkosanti.

So they reject those who assert a self that is percipient and sound after death.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Saññā rogo saññā gaṇḍo saññā sallaṃ, etaṃ santaṃ etaṃ paṇītaṃ yadidaṃ: ‘asaññan’ti.

Because they believe that perception is a disease, a boil, a dart, and that the state of non-perception is peaceful and sublime.

Tayidaṃ, bhikkhave, tathāgato abhijānāti

The Realized One understands this as follows.

ye kho te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā asaññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ maraṇā, rūpiṃ vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā asaññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ maraṇā, arūpiṃ vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā asaññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ maraṇā, rūpiṃca arūpiṃca vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā asaññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ maraṇā, nevarūpiṃ nārūpiṃ vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā asaññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ maraṇā.

There are ascetics and brahmins who assert a self that is non-percipient and sound after death, describing it as having form, or being formless, or both having form and being formless, or neither having form nor being formless.

Yo hi koci, bhikkhave, samaṇo vā brāhmaṇo vā evaṃ vadeyya:

But if any ascetic or brahmin should say this:

‘ahamaññatra rūpā, aññatra vedanāya, aññatra saññāya, aññatra saṅkhārehi, viññāṇassa āgatim vā gatim vā cutim vā upapattim vā vuddhim vā virūḷhim vā vepullam vā paññapessāmī’ti—

‘Apart from form, feeling, perception, and choices, I will describe the coming and going of consciousness, its passing away and reappearing, its growth, increase, and maturity.’

netam thānam vijjati.

That is not possible.

‘Tayidam saṅkhatam oḷārikam atthi kho pana saṅkhārānam nirodho atthetan’ti—

‘All that is conditioned and coarse. But there is the cessation of conditions—that is real.’

iti veditvā tassa nissaraṇadassāvī tathāgato tadupātivatto.

Understanding this and seeing the escape from it, the Realized One has gone beyond all that.

Tatra, bhikkhave, ye te samaṇabrāhmaṇā nevasaññīnāsaññim attānam paññapenti arogam param marañā, rūpim vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā nevasaññīnāsaññim attānam paññapenti arogam param marañā, arūpim vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā nevasaññīnāsaññim attānam paññapenti arogam param marañā, rūpiṅca arūpiṅca vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā nevasaññīnāsaññim attānam paññapenti arogam param marañā, nevarūpim nārūpim vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā nevasaññīnāsaññim attānam paññapenti arogam param marañā.

Now, the ascetics and brahmins who assert a self that is neither percipient nor non-percipient and sound after death describe it as having form, or being formless, or both having form and being formless, or neither having form nor being formless.

Tatra, bhikkhave, ye te samaṇabrāhmaṇā saññim attānam paññapenti arogam param marañā tesamete paṭikkosanti, yepi te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā asaññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ maraṇā tesamete paṭikkosanti.

So they reject those who assert a self that is percipient and sound after death, as well as those who assert a self that is non-percipient and sound after death.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Saññā rogo saññā gaḍḍo saññā sallaṃ, asaññā sammoho, etaṃ santaṃ etaṃ paṇītaṃ yadidaṃ:

Tayidaṃ, bhikkhave, tathāgato abhijānāti.

The Realized One understands this as follows.

Ye kho te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā nevasaññīnāsaññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ maraṇā, rūpiṃ vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā nevasaññīnāsaññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ maraṇā, arūpiṃ vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā nevasaññīnāsaññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ maraṇā, rūpiṃca arūpiṃca vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā nevasaññīnāsaññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ maraṇā, nevarūpiṃ nārūpiṃ vā te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā nevasaññīnāsaññim attānaṃ paññapenti arogaṃ paraṃ maraṇā.

There are ascetics and brahmins who assert a self that is neither percipient nor non-percipient and sound after death, describing it as having form, or being formless, or both having form and being formless, or neither having form nor being formless.

Ye hi keci, bhikkhave, samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā diṭṭhasutamutaviññātabbasañkhāramattena etassa āyatanassa upasampadam paññapenti, byasanañhetam, bhikkhave, akkhāyati etassa āyatanassa upasampadāya.

Some ascetics or brahmins assert the embracing of that dimension merely through the conditioned phenomena of what is seen, heard, thought, and known. But that is said to be a disastrous approach.

Na hetam, bhikkhave, āyatanam saṅkhārasamāpattipattabbamakkhāyati;

For that dimension is said to be not attainable by means of conditioned phenomena,

saṅkhārāvasesasamāpattipattabbametam, bhikkhave, āyatanamakkhāyati.

but only with a residue of conditioned phenomena.

‘Tayidam saṅkhatam oḷārikam atthi kho pana saṅkhārānam nirodho atthetan’ti—

‘All that is conditioned and coarse. But there is the cessation of conditions—that is real.’

iti veditvā tassa nissaraṇadassāvī tathāgato tadupātivatto.

Understanding this and seeing the escape from it, the Realized One has gone beyond all that.

Tatra, bhikkhave, ye te samaṇabrāhmaṇā sato sattassa nevasaññināsaññim attānam paññapenti arogam param maraṇā tesamete paṭikkosanti.

Now, the ascetics and brahmins who assert the annihilation, eradication, and obliteration of an existing being reject those who assert a self that is sound after death, whether percipient or non-percipient or neither percipient non-percipient.

Tam kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Sabbepime bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā uddham saram āsattimyeva abhivadanti:

Because all of those ascetics and brahmins only assert their attachment to moving up to a higher realm:

‘iti pecca bhavissāma, iti pecca bhavissāmā’ti.

‘After death we shall be like this! After death we shall be like that!’

Seyyathāpi nāma vāṇijassa vāṇijāya gacchato evaṃ hoti:

Suppose a trader was going to market, thinking:

‘ito me idaṃ bhavissati, iminā idaṃ lacchāmī’ti;

‘With this, that shall be mine! This way, I shall get that!’

evamevime bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā vāṇijūpamā maññe

In the same way, those ascetics and brahmins seem to be like traders when they say:

‘iti pecca bhavissāma, iti pecca bhavissāmā’ti.

‘After death we shall be like this! After death we shall be like that!’

Tayidaṃ, bhikkhave, tathāgato abhijānāti.

The Realized One understands this as follows.

Ye kho te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā sato sattassa ucchedaṃ

The ascetics and brahmins who assert the annihilation, eradication, and obliteration of an existing being; from fear and disgust with identity, they just keep running and circling around identity.

Seyyathāpi nāma sā gaddulabaddho daḷhe thambhe vā khile vā upanibaddho, tameva thambhaṃ vā khilaṃ vā anuparidhāvati

Suppose a dog on a leash was tethered to a strong post or pillar. It would just keep running and circling around that post or pillar.

evamevime bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā sakkāyabhayā sakkāyaparijegucchā sakkāyaññeva anuparidhāvanti

In the same way, those ascetics and brahmins, from fear and disgust with identity, just keep running and circling around identity.

‘Tayidaṃ saṅkhatam oḷārikam atthi kho pana saṅkhārānam

Whatever ascetics and brahmins theorize about the future, and propose various hypotheses concerning the future, all of them propose one or other of these five theses.

Santi, bhikkhave, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā pubbantakappikā

There are some ascetics and brahmins who theorize about the past, and propose various hypotheses concerning the past. They propose the following, each insisting that theirs is the only truth and that everything else is wrong.

‘Sassato attā ca loko ca, idameva saccam moghamaññan’ti—

‘The self and the cosmos are eternal.’

104. Sāmagāmasutta At Sāmagāma

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sakkesu viharati sāmagāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying among the Sakyans near the village of Sāma.

Tena kho pana samayena nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto pāvāyaṃ adhunākālaṅkato hoti.

Now at that time the Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta had recently passed away at Pāvā.

Tassa kālaṅkiriyaṃ bhinnā nigaṇṭhā dvedhikajātā bhaṇḍanajātā kalahajātā vivādāpannā aññamaññaṃ mukhasattīhi vitudentā
viharanti:

With his passing the Jain ascetics split, dividing into two factions, arguing, quarreling, and fighting, continually wounding each other with barbed words:

“na tvaṃ imaṃ dhammavinayaṃ ājānāsi, ahaṃ imaṃ dhammavinayaṃ ājānāmi. Kiṃ tvaṃ imaṃ dhammavinayaṃ ājānissasi. Micchāpaṭipanno tvamasī, ahamasmi sammāpaṭipanno. Sahitaṃ me, asahitaṃ te. Purevacanīyaṃ pacchā avaca, pacchāvacanīyaṃ pure avaca. Adhiciṇṇaṃ te viparāvattaṃ. Āropito te vādo. Niggahitosi, cara vādappamokkhāya; nibbeṭhehi vā sace pahosī”ti.

“You don’t understand this teaching and training. I understand this teaching and training. What, you understand this teaching and training? You're practicing wrong. I'm practicing right. I stay on topic, you don't. You said last what you should have said first. You said first what you should have said last. What you've thought so much about has been disproved. Your doctrine is refuted. Go on, save your doctrine! You're trapped; get yourself out of this—if you can!”

Vadhoyeva kho maññe nigaṇṭhesu nāṭaputtiyesu vattati.

You'd think there was nothing but slaughter going on among the Jain ascetics.

Yepi nigaṇṭhassa nāṭaputtassa sāvakaṃ gihī odātavasanā tepi nigaṇṭhesu nāṭaputtiyesu nibbinnarūpā virattarūpā paṭivānarūpā yathā taṃ durakkhāte dhammavinaye duppavedite aniyyānike anupasamasamvattanike asammāsambuddhappavedite bhinnathūpe appaṭisaraṇe.

And the Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta's white-clothed lay disciples were disillusioned, dismayed, and disappointed in the Jain ascetics. They were equally disappointed with a teaching and training so poorly explained and poorly propounded, not emancipating, not leading to peace, proclaimed by someone who is not a fully awakened Buddha, with broken monument and without a refuge.

Atha kho cundo samaṇuddeso pāvāyaṃ vassaṃvuṭṭho yena sāmagāmo yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

And then, after completing the rainy season residence near Pāvā, the novice Cunda went to see Venerable Ānanda at Sāma village. He bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened.

“nigaṇṭho, bhante, nāṭaputto pāvāyaṃ adhunākālaṅkato.

“atthi kho idaṃ, āvuso cunda, kathāpābhatam bhagavantam dassanāya.

“Reverend Cunda, we should see the Buddha about this matter.

Āyāma, āvuso cunda, yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamissāma; upasaṅkamitvā etamattham bhagavato ārocessāmā”ti.

Come, let’s go to the Buddha and inform him about this.”

Then Ānanda and Cunda went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and Ānanda informed him of what Cunda had said. He went on to say, “ayaṃ, bhante, cundo samaṇuddeso evamāha:

‘nigaṇṭho, bhante, nāṭaputto pāvāyaṃ adhunākālaṅkato.

Ānanda, there are these six roots of disputes.

Katamāni cha?

What six?

Idhānanda, bhikkhu kodhano hoti upanāhī.

Firstly, a mendicant is irritable and hostile.

Yo so, ānanda, bhikkhu kodhano hoti upanāhī so sattharipi agāravo viharati appatisso, dhammepi agāravo viharati appatisso, saṅghepi agāravo viharati appatisso, sikkhāyapi na paripūrakārī hoti.

Such a mendicant lacks respect and reverence for the teacher, the teaching, and the Saṅgha, and they don’t fulfill the training.

Yo so, ānanda, bhikkhu satthari agāravo viharati appatisso, dhamme ... saṅghe agāravo viharati appatisso, sikkhāya na paripūrakārī hoti, so saṅghe vivādaṃ janeti; yo hoti vivādo bahujanāhitāya bahujanāsukhāya, bahuno janassa anattāya ahitāya dukkhāya devamanussānaṃ.

They create a dispute in the Saṅgha, which is for the hurt and unhappiness of the people, for the harm, hurt, and suffering of gods and humans.

Evarūpañce tumhe, ānanda, vivādamūlaṃ ajjhattaṃ vā bahiddhā vā samanupasseyyātha, tatra tumhe, ānanda, tasseva pāpakassa vivādamūlassa pahānāya vāyameyyātha.

If you see such a root of disputes in yourselves or others, you should try to give up this bad thing.

Evarūpañce tumhe, ānanda, vivādamūlaṃ ajjhattaṃ vā bahiddhā vā na samanupasseyyātha. Tatra tumhe, ānanda, tasseva pāpakassa vivādamūlassa āyatiṃ anavassavāya paṭipajjeyyātha.

If you don't see it, you should practice so that it doesn't come up in the future.

Evametassa pāpakassa vivādamūlassa pahānaṃ hoti, evametassa pāpakassa vivādamūlassa āyatiṃ anavassavo hoti.

That's how to give up this bad root of quarrels, so it doesn't come up in the future.

Puna caparaṃ, ānanda, bhikkhu makkhī hoti paḷāsī ...pe...

Furthermore, a mendicant is offensive and contemptuous ...

issukī hoti maccharī ...pe...

They're jealous and stingy ...

saṭho hoti māyāvī ...pe...

They're devious and deceitful ...

pāpiccho hoti micchādiṭṭhi ...pe...

They have wicked desires and wrong view ...

sandiṭṭhiparāmāsī hoti ādhānaggāhī duppaṭinissaggī.

They're attached to their own views, holding them tight, and refusing to let go.

Yo so, ānanda, bhikkhu sandiṭṭhiparāmāsī hoti ādhānaggāhī duppaṭinissaggī so sattharipi agāravo viharati appatisso, dhammepi agāravo viharati appatisso, saṅhepi agāravo viharati appatisso, sikkhāyapi na paripūrakārī hoti.

Such a mendicant lacks respect and reverence for the teacher, the teaching, and the Saṅgha, and they don't fulfill the training.

Yo so, ānanda, bhikkhu satthari agāravo viharati appatisso, dhamme ... saṅhe ... sikkhāya na paripūrakārī hoti so saṅhe vivādaṃ janeti; yo hoti vivādo bahujanāhitāya bahujanāsukhāya, bahuno janassa anattāya ahitāya dukkhāya devamanussānaṃ.

They create a dispute in the Saṅgha, which is for the hurt and unhappiness of the people, for the harm, hurt, and suffering of gods and humans.

Evarūpañce tumhe, ānanda, vivādamūlaṃ ajjhattaṃ vā bahiddhā vā samanupasseyyātha. Tatra tumhe, ānanda, tasseva pāpakassa vivādamūlassa pahānāya vāyameyyātha.

If you see such a root of quarrels in yourselves or others, you should try to give up this bad thing.

Evarūpañce tumhe, ānanda, vivādamūlaṃ ajjhattaṃ vā bahiddhā vā na samanupasseyyātha, tatra tumhe, ānanda, tasseva pāpakassa vivādamūlassa āyatimānavassavāya paṭipajjeyyātha.

If you don't see it, you should practice so that it doesn't come up in the future.

Evametassa pāpakassa vivādamūlassa pahānaṃ hoti, evametassa pāpakassa vivādamūlassa āyatimānavassavo hoti.

That's how to give up this bad root of quarrels, so it doesn't come up in the future.

Imāni kho, ānanda, cha vivādamūlāni.

These are the six roots of quarrels.

Cattārimāni, ānanda, adhikaraṇāni.

There are four kinds of disciplinary issues.

Katamāni cattāri?

What four?

Vivādādhikaraṇaṃ, anuvādādhikaraṇaṃ, āpattādhikaraṇaṃ, kiccādhikaraṇaṃ—

Disciplinary issues due to disputes, accusations, offenses, or proceedings.

imāni kho, ānanda, cattāri adhikaraṇāni.

These are the four kinds of disciplinary issues.

Satta kho panime, ānanda, adhikaraṇasamathā—

There are seven methods for the settlement of any disciplinary issues that might arise.

uppannuppannānaṃ adhikaraṇānaṃ samathāya vūpasamāya sammukhāvinayo dātabbo, sativinayo dātabbo, amūḷhavinayo dātabbo, paṭiññāya kāretabbaṃ, yebhuyyasikā, tassapāpiyasikā, tiṇavatthārako.

Removal in the presence of those concerned is applicable. Removal by accurate recollection is applicable. Removal due to recovery from madness is applicable. The offense should be acknowledged. The decision of a majority. A verdict of aggravated misconduct. Covering over with grass.

Kathañcānanda, sammukhāvinayo hoti?

And how is there removal in the presence of those concerned?

Idhānanda, bhikkhū vivadanti dhammoti vā adhammoti vā vinayoti vā avinayoti vā.

It's when mendicants are disputing: 'This is the teaching,' 'This is not the teaching,' 'This is the training,' 'This is not the training.'

Tehānanda, bhikkhūhi sabbeheva samaggehi sannipatitabbaṃ.

Those mendicants should all sit together in harmony

Sannipatitvā dhammanetti samanumajjitabbā.

and thoroughly go over the guidelines of the teaching.

Dhammanettiṃ samanumajjitvā yathā tattha sameti tathā taṃ adhikaraṇaṃ vūpasametabbaṃ.

They should settle that disciplinary issue in agreement with the guidelines.

Evaṃ kho, ānanda, sammukhāvinayo hoti;

That's how there is removal in the presence of those concerned.

evañca panidhekaccānaṃ adhikaraṇānaṃ vūpasamo hoti yadidaṃ—

And that's how certain disciplinary issues are settled, that is, sammukhāvinayena. (1)

by removal in the presence of those concerned.

Kathañcānanda, yebhuyyasikā hoti?

And how is there the decision of a majority?

Te ce, ānanda, bhikkhū na sakkonti taṃ adhikaraṇaṃ tasmim āvāse vūpasametum.

If those mendicants are not able to settle that issue in that monastery, Tehānanda, bhikkhūhi yasmim āvāse bahutarā bhikkhū so āvāso gantabbo.

they should go to another monastery with more mendicants.

Tattha sabbeheva samaggehi sannipatitabbaṃ.

There they should all sit together in harmony

Sannipatitvā dhammanetti samanumajjitabbā.

and thoroughly go over the guidelines of the teaching.

Dhammanettim samanumajjitvā yathā tattha sameti tathā taṃ adhikaraṇaṃ vūpasametabbaṃ.

They should settle that disciplinary issue in agreement with the guidelines.

Evaṃ kho, ānanda, yebhuyyasikā hoti, evañca

That's how there is the decision of a majority. And that's how certain disciplinary issues are settled, that is, yebhuyyasikāya. (2)

by decision of a majority.

Kathañcānanda, sativinayo hoti?

And how is there removal by accurate recollection?

Idhānanda, bhikkhū bhikkhuṃ evarūpāya garukāya āpattiyā codenti pārājikena vā pārājikasāmantena vā:

It's when mendicants accuse a mendicant of a serious offense; one entailing expulsion, or close to it:

'saratāyasmā evarūpiṃ garukaṃ āpattiṃ āpajjitā pārājikaṃ vā pārājikasāmantam vā'ti?

'Venerable, do you recall committing the kind of serious offense that entails expulsion or close to it?'

So evamāha:

They say:

'na kho ahaṃ, āvuso, sarāmi evarūpiṃ garukaṃ āpattiṃ āpajjitā pārājikaṃ vā pārājikasāmantam vā'ti.

'No, reverends, I don't recall committing such an offense.'

Tassa kho, ānanda, bhikkhuno sativinayo dātabbo.

The removal by accurate recollection is applicable to them.

Evaṃ kho, ānanda, sativinayo hoti, evañca panidhekaccānaṃ adhikaraṇānaṃ vūpasamo hoti yadidaṃ—

That's how there is the removal by accurate recollection. And that's how certain disciplinary issues are settled, that is, sativinayena. (3)

by removal by accurate recollection.

Kathañcānanda, amūḷhavinayo hoti?

And how is there removal by recovery from madness?

Idhānanda, bhikkhū bhikkhuṃ evarūpāya garukāya āpattiyā codenti pārājikena vā pārājikasāmantena vā:

It's when mendicants accuse a mendicant of the kind of serious offense that entails expulsion, or close to it:

'saratāyasmā evarūpiṃ garukaṃ āpattiṃ āpajjitā pārājikaṃ vā pārājikasāmantam vā'ti?

'Venerable, do you recall committing the kind of serious offense that entails expulsion or close to it?'

So evamāha:

They say:

'na kho aham, āvuso, sarāmi evarūpiṃ garukaṃ āpattiṃ āpajjitā pārājikaṃ vā pārājikasāmantam vā'ti.

'No, reverends, I don't recall committing such an offense.'

Tamenam so nibbeṭhentaṃ ativeṭheti:

But though they try to get out of it, the mendicants pursue the issue:

'iṅghāyasmā sādhuḥkameva jānāhi yadi sarasi evarūpiṃ garukaṃ āpattiṃ āpajjitā pārājikaṃ vā pārājikasāmantam vā'ti.

'Surely the venerable must know perfectly well if you recall committing an offense that entails expulsion or close to it!'

So evamāha:

They say:

'aham kho, āvuso, ummādaṃ pāpuṇiṃ cetaso vipariyāsam.

'Reverends, I had gone mad, I was out of my mind.'

Tena me ummattakena bahum assāmaṇakaṃ ajjhāciṇṇam bhāsita-parikkantaṃ.

And while I was mad I did and said many things that are not proper for an ascetic.

Nāham taṃ sarāmi.

I don't remember any of that,

Mūḷhena me etaṃ katan'ti.

I was mad when I did it.'

Tassa kho, ānanda, bhikkhuno amūḷhavinayo dātabbo.

The removal by recovery from madness is applicable to them.

Evam̐ kho, ānanda, amūḥavinayo hoti, evañca panidhekaccānaṃ adhikaraṇānaṃ vūpasamo hoti yadidaṃ—That's how there is the removal by recovery from madness. And that's how certain disciplinary issues are settled, that is, by recovery from madness.

Kathañcānanda, paṭiññātakaraṇaṃ hoti?
And how is there the acknowledging of an offense?

Idhānanda, bhikkhu codito vā acodito vā āpattiṃ sarati, vivarati uttānīkaroti.

It's when a mendicant, whether accused or not, recalls an offense and clarifies it and reveals it.

Tena, ānanda, bhikkhunā vuḍḍhataraṃ bhikkhuṃ upasaṅkamtivā ekaṃsaṃ cīvaraṃ katvā pāde vanditvā ukkuṭikaṃ nisīditvā añjaliṃ paggahetvā evamassa vacanīyo:
After approaching a more senior mendicant, that mendicant should arrange his robe over one shoulder, bow to that mendicant's feet, squat on their heels, raise their joined palms, and say:

‘ahaṃ, bhante, itthannāmaṃ āpattiṃ āpanno, taṃ paṭidesemī’ti.
‘Sir, I have fallen into such-and-such an offense. I confess it.’

So evamāha:
The senior mendicant says:

‘passasī’ti?
‘Do you see it?’

‘Āma passāmī’ti.
‘Yes, I see it.’

‘Āyatim̐ saṃvareyyāsī’ti.
‘Then restrain yourself in future.’

‘Saṃvarissāmī’ti.
‘I shall restrain myself.’

by acknowledging an offense.

Kathañcānanda, tassapāpiyasikā hoti?

And how is there a verdict of aggravated misconduct?

Idhānanda, bhikkhu bhikkhum̐ evarūpāya garukāya āpattiyā codeti pārājikena vā pārājikasāmantena vā:

105. Sunakkhattasutta With Sunakkhatta

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava vesāliyam viharati mahāvane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Vesālī, at the Great Wood, in the hall with the peaked roof.

Tena kho pana samayena sambahulehi bhikkhūhi bhagavato

Now at that time several mendicants had declared their enlightenment in the Buddha's presence:

“khīṇā jāti, vusitam brahmacariyam, kataṃ karaṇīyam, nāparam itthattāyā'ti pajānāmā”ti.

“We understand: ‘Rebirth is ended, the spiritual journey has been completed, what had to be done has been done, there is no return to any state of existence.’”

Assosi kho sunakkhatto licchaviputto:

Sunakkhatta the Licchavi heard about this.

“sambahulehi kira bhikkhūhi bhagavato santike aññā byākatā

He went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him, “sutaṃ metaṃ, bhante:

“Sir, I have heard that ‘sambahulehi kira bhikkhūhi bhagavato santike añña byākatā—several mendicants have declared their enlightenment in the Buddha’s presence.

Vaṇānurakkhī ca vihareyya vaṇasāropī.

And they'd take care of the wound and heal it.

Tassa imissā ca sappāyakiriyāya asu ca visadoso apanīto anupādiseso tadubhayena vaṇo viruheyya.

Then both because they did what was suitable, and the unclean poison had left no residue, the wound would heal,

So ruḷhena vaṇena sañchavinā neva maraṇaṃ vā nigaccheyya na maraṇamattaṃ vā dukkhaṃ.

and no death or deadly pain would result.

Evameva kho, sunakkhatta, tḥānametaṃ vijjati yaṃ idhekaccassa bhikkhuno evamassa:

In the same way, it's possible that a certain mendicant might think:

'taṇhā kho sallaṃ samaṇena vuttaṃ, avijjāvisadoso chandarāgabyāpādena ruppati.

'The Ascetic has said that craving is a dart; and that the poison of ignorance is inflicted by desire and ill will.

Taṃ me taṇhāsallaṃ pahīnaṃ, apanīto avijjāvisadoso, sammā nibbānādhimuttohamasmī'ti.

I have given up the dart of craving and expelled the poison of ignorance; I am rightly intent on extinguishment.'

Sammā nibbānādhimuttasseva sato so yāni sammā nibbānādhimuttassa asappāyāni tāni nānuyuñjeyya, asappāyaṃ cakkhunā rūpadassanaṃ nānuyuñjeyya, asappāyaṃ sotena saddaṃ nānuyuñjeyya, asappāyaṃ ghānena gandhaṃ nānuyuñjeyya, asappāyaṃ jivhāya rasaṃ nānuyuñjeyya, asappāyaṃ kāyena phoṭṭhabbaṃ nānuyuñjeyya, asappāyaṃ manasā dhammaṃ nānuyuñjeyya.

Being rightly intent on extinguishment, they wouldn't engage in things uncondusive to extinguishment: unsuitable sights, sounds, smells, tastes, touches, and thoughts.

Tassa asappāyaṃ cakkhunā rūpadassanaṃ nānuyuttassa, asappāyaṃ sotena saddaṃ nānuyuttassa, asappāyaṃ ghānena nānuyuttassa, asappāyaṃ kāyena phoṭṭhabbaṃ nānuyuttassa, asappāyaṃ manasā dhammaṃ nānuyuttassa, rāgo cittaṃ nānuddhaṃseyya.

Doing so, lust wouldn't infect their mind,

So na rāgānuddhaṃsitenā cittaṃ neva maraṇaṃ vā nigaccheyya na maraṇamattaṃ vā dukkhaṃ.
so no death or deadly pain would result.

Upamā kho me ayaṃ, sunakkhatta, katā atthassa viññāpanāya.
I've made up this simile to make a point.

Ayaṃyevettha attho—

And this is the point:

vaṇoti kho, sunakkhatta, channetaṃ ajjhattikānaṃ āyatanānaṃ adhivacanaṃ;

'Wound' is a term for the six interior sense fields.

visadosoti kho, sunakkhatta, avijjāyetaṃ adhivacanaṃ;

'Poison' is a term for ignorance.

sallanti kho, sunakkhatta, taṇhāyetaṃ adhivacanaṃ;

'Dart' is a term for craving.

esanīti kho, sunakkhatta, satiyāyetaṃ adhivacanaṃ;

'Probing' is a term for mindfulness.

satthanti kho, sunakkhatta, ariyāyetaṃ paññāya adhivacanaṃ;

'Scalpel' is a term for noble wisdom.

bhisakko sallakattoti kho, sunakkhatta, tathāgatassetāṃ adhivacanaṃ arahato sammāsambuddhassa.

'Field surgeon' is a term for the Realized One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha.

So vata, sunakkhatta, bhikkhu chasu phassāyatanesu saṃvutakārī ‘upadhi dukkhassa mūlan’ti—

Truly, Sunakkhatta, that mendicant practices restraint regarding the six fields of contact.

iti veditvā nirupadhi upadhisaṅkhaye vimutto upadhismim vā kāyaṃ upasaṃharissati cittaṃ vā uppādessatīti—netam ṭhānaṃ

Understanding that attachment is the root of suffering, they are freed with the ending of attachments. It’s not possible that they would apply their body or interest their mind in any attachment.

Seyyathāpi, sunakkhatta, āpānīyakaṃso vaṇṇasampanno

Suppose there was a bronze cup of beverage that had a nice color, aroma, and flavor.

so ca kho visena saṃsaṭṭho.

But it was mixed with poison.

Atha puriso āgaccheyya jīvitukāmo amaritukāmo sukhaḥkāmo

Then a person would come along who wants to live and doesn’t want to die, who wants to be happy and recoils from pain.

Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, sunakkhatta,

What do you think, Sunakkhatta?

api nu so puriso amuṃ āpānīyakaṃsaṃ piveyya yaṃ jaññā:

Would that person drink that beverage knowing that it would result in death or deadly suffering?”

“No hetam, bhante”.

“No, sir.”

“Evameva kho, sunakkhatta, so vata bhikkhu chasu phassāyatanesu saṁvutakārī ‘upadhi dukkhassa mūlan’ti—
“In the same way, Sunakkhatta, that mendicant practices restraint regarding the six fields of contact.

Seyyathāpi, sunakkhatta, āsīviso ghoraviso.

Suppose there was a lethal viper.

Atha puriso āgaccheyya jīvitukāmo amaritukāmo sukhakāmo dukkhapaṭikūlo.

Then a person would come along who wants to live and doesn’t want to die, who wants to be happy and recoils from pain.

“No hetam, bhante”.

“No, sir.”

“Evameva kho, sunakkhatta, so vata bhikkhu chasu phassāyatanesu saṁvutakārī ‘upadhi dukkhassa mūlan’ti—netam ṭhānaṃ vijjatī”ti.

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano sunakkhatto licchaviputto bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Sunakkhatta of the Licchavi clan was happy with what the Buddha said.

Sunakkhattasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ pañcamaṃ.

106. Āneñjasappāyasutta Conducive to the Imperturbable

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava kurusu viharati kammāsadhammam nāma kurūnam nigamo.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Kurus, near the Kuru town named Kammāsadamma.

Tatra kho bhagava bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagava etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Aniccā, bhikkhave, kāmā tucchā musā mosadhammā.

“Mendicants, sensual pleasures are impermanent, hollow, false, and deceptive,

Māyākatametam, bhikkhave, bālalāpanam.

made by illusion, cooed over by fools.

Ye ca diṭṭhadhammikā kāmā, ye ca samparāyikā kāmā;

Sensual pleasures in this life and in lives to come,

yā ca diṭṭhadhammikā kāmasaññā, yā ca samparāyikā kāmasaññā—

sensual perceptions in this life and in lives to come;

ubhayametaṃ māradheyyaṃ, mārassesa visayo, mārassesa nivāpo, mārassesa gocaro.

both of these are Māra's sovereignty, Māra's domain, and Māra's territory.

Etthete pāpakā akusalā mānasā abhijjhāpi byāpādāpi sārambhāpi saṃvattanti.

They conduce to bad, unskillful qualities such as desire, ill will, and aggression.

Teva ariyasāvakassa idhamanusikkhato antarāyāya

And they create an obstacle for a noble disciple training here.

Tatra, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako iti paṭisañcikkhati:

A noble disciple reflects on this:

‘ye ca diṭṭhadhammikā kāmā, ye ca samparāyikā kāmā;

‘Sensual pleasures in this life and in lives to come,

yā ca diṭṭhadhammikā kāmasaññā, yā ca samparāyikā

And they create an obstacle for a noble disciple training here.

Yannūnāhaṃ vipulena mahaggatena cetasā vihareyyaṃ

Why don't I meditate with an abundant, expansive heart, having mastered the world and stabilized the mind?

Vipulena hi me mahaggatena cetasā viharato abhibhuyya lokāṃ adhiṭṭhāya manasā ye pāpakā akusalā mānasā abhijjhāpi

Then I will have no more bad, unskillful qualities such as desire, ill will, and aggression.

Tesaṃ pahānā aparittaṅca me cittaṃ bhavissati appamāṇaṃ

And by giving them up my mind, no longer limited, will become limitless and well developed.'

Tassa evaṃpaṭipannassa tabbahulavihārino āyatane cittaṃ

Evaṃ vutte, āyasmā ānando bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he said this, Venerable Ānanda said to the Buddha:

“idha, bhante, bhikkhu evaṃ paṭipanno hoti:

“Sir, take a mendicant who practices like this:

‘no cassa, no ca me siyā; na bhavissati, na me bhavissati;
yadatthi yaṃ, bhūtaṃ—taṃ pajahāmī’ti.

Evaṃ upekkhaṃ paṭilabhati.

In this way they gain equanimity.

Parinibbāyeyya nu kho so, bhante, bhikkhu na vā parinibbāyeyyā”ti?

Would that mendicant become extinguished or not?”

“Apetthe kacco, ānanda, bhikkhu parinibbāyeyya, apette kacco bhikkhu na parinibbāyeyyā”ti.

“One such mendicant might become extinguished, Ānanda, while another might not.”

“Ko nu kho, bhante, hetu ko paccayo yenapette kacco bhikkhu parinibbāyeyya, apette kacco bhikkhu na parinibbāyeyyā”ti?

“What is the cause, sir, what is the reason for this?”

“Idhānanda, bhikkhu evaṃ paṭipanno hoti:

“Ānanda, take a mendicant who practices like this:

‘no cassa, no ca me siyā; na bhavissati, na me bhavissati;
yadatthi, yaṃ bhūtaṃ—taṃ pajahāmī’ti.

Evaṃ upekkhaṃ paṭilabhati.

In this way they gain equanimity.

So taṃ upekkhaṃ abhinandati, abhivadati, ajjhosāya tiṭṭhati.

They approve, welcome, and keep clinging to that equanimity.

Tassa taṃ upekkhaṃ abhinandato abhivadato ajjhosāya tiṭṭhato tannissitaṃ hoti viññāṇaṃ tadupādānaṃ.

Their consciousness relies on that and grasps it.

Saupādāno, ānanda, bhikkhu na parinibbāyatī”ti.

A mendicant with grasping does not become extinguished.”

“Kahaṃ pana so, bhante, bhikkhu upādiyamāno upādiyatī”ti?

“But sir, what is that mendicant grasping?”

“Nevasaññānāsaññāyatanaṃ, ānandā”ti.

“The dimension of neither perception nor non-perception.”

“Upādānaseṭṭhaṃ kira so, bhante, bhikkhu upādiyamāno upādiyatī”ti?

“Sir, it seems that mendicant is grasping the best thing to grasp!”

“Upādānaseṭṭhañhi so, ānanda, bhikkhu upādiyamāno upādiyati.

“Indeed, Ānanda.

Upādānaseṭṭhañhetam, ānanda, yadidaṃ—

For the best thing to grasp is nevasaññānāsaññāyatanaṃ.

the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception.

Idhānanda, bhikkhu evaṃ paṭipanno hoti:

Take a mendicant who practices like this:

‘no cassa, no ca me siyā; na bhavissati, na me bhavissati; yadatthi, yaṃ bhūtaṃ—taṃ pajahāmī’ti.

Evaṃ upekkhaṃ paṭilabhati.

In this way they gain equanimity.

So taṃ upekkhaṃ nābhinandati, nābhivadati, na ajjhosāya tiṭṭhati.

They don't approve, welcome, or keep clinging to that equanimity.

Tassa taṃ upekkhaṃ anabhinandato anabhivadato anajjhosāya tiṭṭhato na tannissitaṃ hoti viññāṇaṃ na tadupādānaṃ.

So their consciousness doesn't rely on that and grasp it.

Anupādāno, ānanda, bhikkhu parinibbāyatī"ti.

A mendicant free of grasping becomes extinguished."

"Acchariyaṃ, bhante, abbhutaṃ, bhante.

"It's incredible, sir, it's amazing!

Nissāya nissāya kira no, bhante, bhagavatā oghassa nittharaṇā akkhātā.

The Buddha has explained to us how to cross over the flood by relying on one support or the other.

Katamo pana, bhante, ariyo vimokkho"ti?

But sir, what is noble liberation?"

"Idhānanda, bhikkhu ariyasāvako iti paṭisañcikkhati:

"Ananda, it's when a mendicant reflects like this:

'ye ca diṭṭhadhammikā kāmā, ye ca samparāyikā kāmā;

'Sensual pleasures in this life and in lives to come,

yā ca diṭṭhadhammikā kāmasaññā, yā ca samparāyikā

sensual perceptions in this life and in lives to come, ye ca diṭṭhadhammikā rūpā, ye ca samparāyikā rūpā;

visions in this life and in lives to come,

yā ca diṭṭhadhammikā rūpasaññā, yā ca samparāyikā rūpasaññā;

perceptions of visions in this life and in lives to come,

yā ca āneñjasaññā, yā ca ākiñcaññāyatanaññā, yā ca nevasaññānāsaññāyatanaññā—

perceptions of the imperturbable, perceptions of the dimension of nothingness, perceptions of the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception; esa sakkāyo yāvatā sakkāyo.

that is identity as far as identity extends.

Etaṃ amataṃ yadidaṃ anupādā cittassa vimokkho.

This is the deathless, namely the liberation of the mind through not grasping.

Iti, kho, ānanda, desitā mayā āneñjasappāyā paṭipadā, desitā ākiñcaññāyatanasappāyā paṭipadā, desitā nevasaññānāsaññāyatanasappāyā paṭipadā, desitā nissāya nissāya oghassa nittharaṇā, desito ariyo vimokkho.

So, Ānanda, I have taught the ways of practice suitable for attaining the imperturbable, the dimension of nothingness, and the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception. I have taught how to cross the flood by relying on one support or the other, and I have taught noble liberation.

Yaṃ kho, ānanda, satthārā karaṇīyaṃ sāvakaṇaṃ hitesinā anukampakena anukampaṃ upādāya, kataṃ vo taṃ mayā.

Out of compassion, I've done what a teacher should do who wants what's best for their disciples.

Etāni, ānanda, rukkhamūlāni, etāni suññāgārāni.

Jhāyathānanda, mā pamādattha, mā pacchā vippaṭisārino ahuvattha. Ayaṃ vo amhākaṃ anusāsanī””ti.

Here are these roots of trees, and here are these empty huts. Practice absorption, Ānanda! Don't be negligent! Don't regret it later! This is my instruction to you.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā ānando bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Venerable Ānanda was happy with what the Buddha said.

Āneñjasappāyasuttam̐ niṭṭhitam̐ chaṭṭham̐.

107. Gaṇakamoggallānasutta With Moggallāna the Accountant

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvattiyam viharati pubbārāme migāramātupāsāde.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in the Eastern Monastery, the stilt longhouse of Migāra's mother.

Atha kho gaṇakamoggallāno brāhmaṇo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then the brahmin Moggallāna the Accountant went up to the Buddha, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho gaṇakamoggallāno brāhmaṇo
bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to the Buddha:

“Seyyathāpi, bho gotama, imassa migāramātupāsādassa dissati anupubbasikkhā anupubbakiriyā anupubbapaṭipadā yadidaṃ—

“Master Gotama, in this stilt longhouse we can see gradual progress yāva pacchimasopānakaḷevarā;

down to the last step of the staircase.

imesampi hi, bho gotama, brāhmaṇānaṃ dissati
anupubbasikkhā anupubbakiriyā anupubbapaṭipadā yadidaṃ—

Among the brahmins we can see gradual progress ajjhene;

in learning the chants.

imesampi hi, bho gotama, issāsānaṃ dissati anupubbasikkhā anupubbakiriyā anupubbapaṭipadā yadidaṃ—

Among archers we can see gradual progress issatthe.

in archery.

Amhākampi hi, bho gotama, gaṇakānaṃ gaṇanājīvānaṃ dissati
anupubbasikkhā anupubbakiriyā anupubbapaṭipadā yadidaṃ—

Among us accountants, who earn a living by accounting, we can see gradual progress saṅkhāne.

in mathematics.

Mayaṅhi, bho gotama, antevāsiṃ labhitvā paṭhamaṃ evaṃ gaṇāpema:

For when we get an apprentice we first make them count:

‘ekaṃ ekakaṃ, dve dukā, tīṇi tikā, cattāri catukkā, pañca pañcakā, cha chakkā, satta sattakā, aṭṭha aṭṭhakā, nava navakā, dasa dasakā’ti;

‘One one, two twos, three threes, four fours, five fives, six sixes, seven sevens, eight eights, nine nines, ten tens.’

satampi mayaṃ, bho gotama, gaṇāpema, bhiyyopi gaṇāpema.

We even make them count up to a hundred.

Sakkā nu kho, bho gotama, imasmimpi dhammavinaye evameva anupubbasikkhā anupubbakiriyā anupubbapaṭipadā paññāpetun’ti?

Is it possible to similarly describe a gradual training, gradual progress, and gradual practice in this teaching and training?”

“Sakkā, brāhmaṇa, imasmimpi dhammavinaye anupubbasikkhā anupubbakiriyā anupubbapaṭipadā paññāpetuṃ.

“It is possible, brahmin.

Seyyathāpi, brāhmaṇa, dakkho assadammako bhaddaṃ assājānīyaṃ labhitvā paṭhameneva mukhādhāne kāraṇaṃ kāreti, atha uttariṃ kāraṇaṃ kāreti;

Suppose a deft horse trainer were to obtain a fine thoroughbred.
First of all he'd make it get used to wearing the bit.

evameva kho, brāhmaṇa, tathāgato purisadammaṃ labhitvā paṭhamaṃ evaṃ vineti:

In the same way, when the Realized One gets a person for training they first guide them like this:

‘ehi tvaṃ, bhikkhu, sīlavā hohi, pātimokkhasaṃvarasaṃvuto viharaṃhi ācāragocarasampanno aṇumattesu vajjesu bhayadassāvī, samādāya sikkhassu sikkhāpadesū’ti.

‘Come, mendicant, be ethical and restrained in the monastic code, conducting yourself well and seeking alms in suitable places. Seeing danger in the slightest fault, keep the rules you’ve undertaken.’

Yato kho, brāhmaṇa, bhikkhu sīlavā hoti, pātimokkhasaṃvarasaṃvuto viharati ācāragocarasampanno aṇumattesu vajjesu bhayadassāvī, samādāya sikkhati sikkhāpadesu, tamenāṃ tathāgato uttariṃ vineti:

When they have ethical conduct, the Realized One guides them further:

‘ehi tvaṃ, bhikkhu, indriyesu guttadvāro hohi, cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā mā nimittaggāhī hohi mānubyañjanaggāhī.

‘Come, mendicant, guard your sense doors. When you see a sight with your eyes, don’t get caught up in the features and details.

Yatvādhikaraṇaṃ cakkhundriyaṃ asaṃvutaṃ viharantaṃ abhijjhādomanassā pāpakā akusalā dhammā anvāssaveyyuṃ tassa saṃvarāya paṭipajjāhi; rakkhāhi cakkhundriyaṃ, cakkhundriye saṃvaramā āpajjāhi.

If the faculty of sight were left unrestrained, bad unskillful qualities of desire and aversion would become overwhelming. For this reason, practice restraint, protect the faculty of sight, and achieve restraint over it.

Sotena saddaṃ sutvā ...pe...

When you hear a sound with your ears ...

ghānena gandhaṃ ghāyitvā ...pe...

When you smell an odor with your nose ...

jivhāya rasaṃ sāyitvā ...pe...

When you taste a flavor with your tongue ...

kāyena phoṭṭhabbaṃ phusitvā ...pe...

When you feel a touch with your body ...

manasā dhammaṃ viññāya mā nimittaggāhī hohi mānubyañjanaggāhī.

When you know a thought with your mind, don't get caught up in the features and details.

Yatvādhikaraṇameṇaṃ manindriyaṃ asaṃvutaṃ viharantaṃ abhijjhādomanassā pāpakā akusalā dhammā anvāssaveyyuṃ tassa saṃvarāya paṭipajjāhi; rakkhāhi manindriyaṃ, manindriye saṃvaram āpajjāhī'ti.

If the faculty of mind were left unrestrained, bad unskillful qualities of desire and aversion would become overwhelming. For this reason, practice restraint, protect the faculty of mind, and achieve its restraint.'

Yato kho, brāhmaṇa, bhikkhu indriyesu guttadvāro hoti, tameṇaṃ tathāgato uttariṃ vineti:

When they guard their sense doors, the Realized One guides them further:

'ehi tvaṃ, bhikkhu, bhojane mattaññū hohi.

'Come, mendicant, eat in moderation.

Paṭisaṅkhā yoniso āhāraṃ āhāreyyāsi—

Reflect properly on the food that you eat:

neva davāya na madāya na maṇḍanāya na vibhūsanāya,
yāvadeva imassa kāyassa ṭhitiyā yāpanāya vihiṃsūparatiyā brahmacariyānuggahāya—iti purāṇaṅca vedanaṃ

paṭihaṅkhāmi, navañca vedanaṃ na uppādessāmi, yātrā ca me bhavissati anavajjatā ca phāsuvihāro cā'ti.

‘Not for fun, indulgence, adornment, or decoration, but only to sustain this body, to avoid harm, and to support spiritual practice. In this way, I shall put an end to old discomfort and not give rise to new discomfort, and I will live blamelessly and at ease.’

Yato kho, brāhmaṇa, bhikkhu bhojane mattaññū hoti, tamenam tathāgato uttarim vineti:

When they eat in moderation, the Realized One guides them further:

‘ehi tvaṃ, bhikkhu, jāgariyaṃ anuyutto viharāhi, divasaṃ caṅkamaṇa nisajjāya āvaraṇīyehi dhammehi cittaṃ parisodhehi, rattiyā paṭhamaṃ yāmaṃ caṅkamaṇa nisajjāya āvaraṇīyehi dhammehi cittaṃ parisodhehi, rattiyā majjhimaṃ yāmaṃ dakkhiṇena passena sīhaseyyaṃ kappeyyāsi pāde pādaṃ accādhāya sato sampajāno uṭṭhānasaññaṃ manasikarivā, rattiyā pacchimaṃ yāmaṃ paccuṭṭhāya caṅkamaṇa nisajjāya āvaraṇīyehi dhammehi cittaṃ parisodhehi’ti.

‘Come, mendicant, be committed to wakefulness. Practice walking and sitting meditation by day, purifying your mind from obstacles. In the evening, continue to practice walking and sitting meditation. In the middle of the night, lie down in the lion’s posture—on the right side, placing one foot on top of the other—mindful and aware, and focused on the time of getting up. In the last part of the night, get up and continue to practice walking and sitting meditation, purifying your mind from obstacles.’

Yato kho, brāhmaṇa, bhikkhu jāgariyaṃ anuyutto hoti, tamenam tathāgato uttarim vineti:

When they are committed to wakefulness, the Realized One guides them further:

‘ehi tvaṃ, bhikkhu, satisampajaññaṇa samannāgato hohi, abhikkante paṭikkante sampajānakārī, ālokite vilokite sampajānakārī, samiñjite pasārite sampajānakārī, saṅghāṭipattacīvaradhāraṇe sampajānakārī, asite pīte khāyite sāyite sampajānakārī, uccārapassāvakkamme sampajānakārī, gate ṭhite nisinne sutte jāgarite bhāsīte tuṅhībhave sampajānakārī'ti.

‘Come, mendicant, have mindfulness and situational awareness. Act with situational awareness when going out and coming back; when looking ahead and aside; when bending and extending the limbs; when bearing the outer robe, bowl and robes; when eating, drinking, chewing, and tasting; when urinating and defecating; when walking, standing, sitting, sleeping, waking, speaking, and keeping silent.’

Yato kho, brāhmaṇa, bhikkhu satisampajaññaena samannāgato hoti, tamenam tathāgato uttarim vineti:

When they have mindfulness and situational awareness, the Realized One guides them further:

‘ehi tvam, bhikkhu, vivittam senāsanam bhajāhi arañnam rukkhamulam pabbatam kandaram giriguham susanam vanapattham abbhokasam palālapuñjan’ti.

‘Come, mendicant, frequent a secluded lodging—a wilderness, the root of a tree, a hill, a ravine, a mountain cave, a charnel ground, a forest, the open air, a heap of straw.’

So vivittam senāsanam bhajati arañnam rukkhamulam pabbatam kandaram giriguham susanam vanapattham abbhokasam palālapuñjam.

And they do so.

So pacchābhattam piṇḍapātaṭikkanto nisīdati pallaṅkam ābhujitvā, ujum kāyam paṇidhāya, parimukham satim
upaṭṭhapetvā.

After the meal, they return from alms-round, sit down cross-legged with their body straight, and establish mindfulness right there.

So abhijjam loke pahāya vigatābhijjhena cetasā viharati,
abhijjhāya cittaṃ parisodheti;

Giving up desire for the world, they meditate with a heart rid of desire, cleansing the mind of desire.

byāpādapadosaṃ pahāya abyāpannacitto viharati sabbapāṇabhūtahitānukampī, byāpādapadosā cittaṃ
parisodheti;

Giving up ill will and malevolence, they meditate with a mind rid of ill will, full of compassion for all living beings, cleansing the mind of ill will.

thinamiddhaṃ pahāya vigatathinamiddho viharati ālokasaññī sato sampajāno, thinamiddhā cittaṃ parisodheti;

Giving up dullness and drowsiness, they meditate with a mind rid of dullness and drowsiness, perceiving light, mindful and aware, cleansing the mind of dullness and drowsiness.

uddhaccakukkuccaṃ pahāya anuddhato viharati ajjhataṃ
vūpasantacitto, uddhaccakukkuccā cittaṃ parisodheti;

Giving up restlessness and remorse, they meditate without restlessness, their mind peaceful inside, cleansing the mind of restlessness and remorse.

vicikicchaṃ pahāya tiṇṇavicikiccho viharati akathaṅkathī kusalesu dhammesu, vicikicchāya cittaṃ parisodheti.

Giving up doubt, they meditate having gone beyond doubt, not undecided about skillful qualities, cleansing the mind of doubt.

So ime pañca nīvaraṇe pahāya cetaso upakkilese paññāya
dubbalīkaṇe

They give up these five hindrances, corruptions of the heart that weaken wisdom.

vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ
upasampajja viharati.

Then, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, they enter and remain in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhataṃ sampasādanaṃ ...pe...
dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

As the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, they enter and remain in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Pītiyā ca virāgā ... tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

And with the fading away of rapture, they enter and remain in the third absorption, where they meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, ‘Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.’

Sukhassa ca pahānā ... catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Giving up pleasure and pain, and ending former happiness and sadness, they enter and remain in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

Ye kho te, brāhmaṇa, bhikkhū sekkhā apattamānasā anuttaraṃ yogakkhemaṃ patthayamānā viharanti tesu me ayaṃ evarūpī anusāsanī hoti.

That’s how I instruct the mendicants who are trainees—who haven’t achieved their heart’s desire, but live aspiring to the supreme sanctuary.

Ye pana te bhikkhū arahanto khīṇāsavā vusitavanto katakaraṇīyā ohitabhārā anuppattasadatthā parikkhīṇabhavasamyojanā sammadaññāvimuttā tesam ime dhammā diṭṭhadhammasukhavihārāya ceva saṃvattanti, satisampajaññāya cā”ti.

But for those mendicants who are perfected—who have ended the defilements, completed the spiritual journey, done what had to be done, laid down the burden, achieved their own goal, utterly ended the fetters of rebirth, and are rightly freed through enlightenment—these things lead to blissful meditation in the present life, and to mindfulness and awareness.”

Evaṃ vutte, gaṇakamoggallāno brāhmaṇo bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, Moggallāna the Accountant said to the Buddha, “kiṃ nu kho bhoto gotamassa sāvakā bhotā gotamena evaṃ ovadīyamānā evaṃ anusāsīyamānā sabbe accantaṃ niṭṭhaṃ nibbānaṃ ārādhenti udāhu ekacce nārādhenti”ti?

“When his disciples are instructed and advised like this by Master Gotama, do all of them achieve the ultimate goal, extinguishment, or do some of them fail?”

“Some succeed, while others fail.”

“What is the cause, Master Gotama, what is the reason why, though extinguishment is present, the path leading to extinguishment is present, and Master Gotama is present to encourage them, atha ca pana bhoto gotamassa sāvakā bhotā gotamena evaṃ ovadīyamānā evaṃ anusāsīyamānā appekacce accantaṃ niṭṭhaṃ nibbānaṃ ārādhenti, ekacce nārādhenti”ti?

still some succeed while others fail?”

“Tena hi, brāhmaṇa, taṃyevettha paṭipucchissāmi. Yathā te khameyya tathā naṃ byākareyyāsi.

“Well then, brahmin, I’ll ask you about this in return, and you can answer as you like.

Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, brāhmaṇa,
What do you think, brahmin?

kusalo tvaṃ rājagahagāmiṣṣa maggassā”ti?
Are you skilled in the road to Rājagaha?”

“Evaṃ, bho, kusalo ahaṃ rājagahagāmiṣṣa maggassā”ti.
“Yes, I am.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, brāhmaṇa,
“What do you think, brahmin?

idha puriso āgaccheyya rājagahaṃ gantukāmo.
Suppose a person was to come along who wanted to go to Rājagaha.

So taṃ upasaṅkamitvā evaṃ vadeyya:
He’d approach you and say:

‘icchāmahaṃ, bhante, rājagahaṃ gantuṃ;
‘Sir, I wish to go to Rājagaha.

tassa me rājagahassa maggaṃ upadisā’ti.
Please point out the road to Rājagaha.’

Tameṇaṃ tvaṃ evaṃ vadeyyāsi:
Then you’d say to them:

‘ehambho purisa, ayaṃ maggo rājagahaṃ gacchati.
‘Here, mister, this road goes to Rājagaha.

Tena muhuttaṃ gaccha, tena muhuttaṃ gantvā dakkhissasi amukaṃ nāma gāmaṃ, tena muhuttaṃ gaccha, tena muhuttaṃ gantvā dakkhissasi amukaṃ nāma nigamaṃ; Go along it for a while, and you’ll see a certain village. Go along a while further, and you’ll see a certain town.

tena muhuttaṃ gaccha, tena muhuttaṃ gantvā dakkhissasi rājagahassa ārāmaṇeyyakaṃ vanarāmaṇeyyakaṃ bhūmirāmaṇeyyakaṃ pokkharaṇīrāmaṇeyyakan’ti.

Go along a while further and you'll see Rājagaha with its delightful parks, woods, meadows, and lotus ponds.'

So tayā evaṃ ovadīyamāno evaṃ anusāsīyamāno ummaggaṃ gahetvā pacchāmukho gaccheyya.

Instructed like this by you, they might still take the wrong road, heading west.

Atha dutiyo puriso āgaccheyya rājagahaṃ gantukāmo.

But a second person might come with the same question and receive the same instructions.

So taṃ upasaṅkamitvā evaṃ vadeyya:

'icchāmahaṃ, bhante, rājagahaṃ gantuṃ;

tassa me rājagahassa maggaṃ upadisā'ti.

Tamevaṃ tvaṃ evaṃ vadeyyāsi:

'ehambho purisa, ayaṃ maggo rājagahaṃ gacchati.

Tena muhuttaṃ gaccha, tena muhuttaṃ gantvā dakkhissasi amukaṃ nāma gāmaṃ;

tena muhuttaṃ gaccha, tena muhuttaṃ gantvā dakkhissasi amukaṃ nāma nigamaṃ;

tena muhuttaṃ gaccha, tena muhuttaṃ gantvā dakkhissasi rājagahassa ārāmaṇeyyakaṃ vanarāmaṇeyyakaṃ bhūmirāmaṇeyyakaṃ pokkharaṇīrāmaṇeyyakan'ti.

So tayā evaṃ ovadīyamāno evaṃ anusāsīyamāno sotthinā rājagahaṃ gaccheyya.

Instructed by you, they might safely arrive at Rājagaha.

Ko nu kho, brāhmaṇa, hetu ko paccayo yaṃ tiṭṭhateva rājagahaṃ, tiṭṭhati rājagahagāmī maggo, tiṭṭhasi tvaṃ samādapetā;

What is the cause, brahmin, what is the reason why, though Rājagaha is present, the path leading to Rājagaha is present, and you are there to encourage them, atha ca pana tayā evaṃ ovadīyamāno evaṃ anusāsīyamāno eko puriso ummaggaṃ gahetvā pacchāmukho gaccheyya, eko sotthinā rājagahaṃ gaccheyyā”ti?

one person takes the wrong path and heads west, while another arrives safely at Rājagaha?”

“Ettha kyāhaṃ, bho gotama, karomi?

“What can I do about that, Master Gotama?

Maggakkhāyīhaṃ, bho gotamā”ti.

I am the one who shows the way.”

“Evameva kho, brāhmaṇa, tiṭṭhateva nibbānaṃ, tiṭṭhati nibbānagāmī maggo, tiṭṭhāmahaṃ samādapetā;

“In the same way, though extinguishment is present, the path leading to extinguishment is present, and I am present to encourage them, atha ca pana mama sāvaka mayā evaṃ ovadīyamānā evaṃ anusāsīyamānā appekacce accantaṃ niṭṭhaṃ nibbānaṃ ārādhenti, ekacce nārādhenti.

still some of my disciples, instructed and advised like this, achieve the ultimate goal, extinguishment, while some of them fail.

Ettha kyāhaṃ, brāhmaṇa, karomi?

What can I do about that, brahmin?

Maggakkhāyīhaṃ, brāhmaṇa, tathāgato”ti.

The Realized One is the one who shows the way.”

Evaṃ vutte, gaṇakamoggallāno brāhmaṇo bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, Moggallāna the Accountant said to the Buddha, “Master Gotama, there are those faithless people who went forth from the lay life to homelessness not out of faith but to earn a livelihood. They’re devious, deceitful, and sneaky. They’re restless, insolent, fickle, gossipy, and loose-tongued. They do not guard their sense doors or eat in moderation, and they are not committed to wakefulness. They don’t care about the ascetic life, and don’t keenly respect the training. They’re indulgent and slack, leaders in backsliding, neglecting seclusion, lazy, and lacking energy. They’re unmindful, lacking situational awareness and immersion, with straying minds, witless and stupid. Master Gotama doesn’t live together with these.

But there are those gentlemen who went forth from the lay life to homelessness out of faith. They’re not devious, deceitful, and sneaky. They’re not restless, insolent, fickle, gossipy, and loose-tongued. They guard their sense doors and eat in moderation, and they are committed to wakefulness. They care about the ascetic life, and keenly respect the training. They’re not indulgent or slack, nor are they leaders in backsliding, neglecting seclusion. They’re energetic and determined. They’re mindful, with situational awareness, immersion, and unified minds; wise, not stupid. Master Gotama does live together with these.

From this day forth, may Master Gotama remember me as a lay follower who has gone for refuge for life.”

Gaṇakamoggallānasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ sattamaṃ.

108. Gopakamoggallānasutta With Moggallāna the Guardian

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ āyasmā ānando rājagahe viharati veļuvane kalandakanivāpe aciraparinibbute bhagavati.

At one time Venerable Ānanda was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground. It was not long after the Buddha had become fully extinguished.

Tena kho pana samayena rājā māgadho ajātasattu vedehiputto rājagahaṃ paṭisaṅkhārāpeti rañño pajjotassa āsaṅkamāno.

Now at that time King Ajātasattu Vedehiputta of Magadha, being suspicious of King Pajjota, was having Rājagaha fortified.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando pubbaṅhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya rājagahaṃ piṇḍāya pāvisi.

Then Venerable Ānanda robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Rājagaha for alms.

Atha kho āyasmato ānandassa etadahosi:

Then it occurred to him,

“atippago kho tāva rājagahe piṇḍāya caritum.

“It's too early to wander for alms in Rājagaha.

Yannūnāhaṃ yena gopakamoggallānassa brāhmaṇassa kammanto, yena gopakamoggallāno brāhmaṇo tenupasaṅkameyyan”ti.

Why don't I go to see the brahmin Moggallāna the Guardian at his place of work?"

Atha kho āyasmā ānando yena gopakamoggallānassa brāhmaṇassa kammanto, yena gopakamoggallāno brāhmaṇo
tenupasaṅkami.

So that's what he did.

Addasā kho gopakamoggallāno brāhmaṇo āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ dūratova āgacchantaṃ.

Moggallāna the Guardian saw Ānanda coming off in the distance

Disvāna āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etadavoca:

and said to him,

“etu kho bhavaṃ ānando.

“Come, Master Ānanda!

Svāgataṃ bho ānandassa.

Welcome, Master Ānanda!

Cirassaṃ kho bhavaṃ ānando imaṃ pariyāyamakāsi yadidaṃ idhāgamanāya.

It's been a long time since you took the opportunity to come here.

Nisīdatu bhavaṃ ānando, idamāsanam paññattan”ti.

Please, sir, sit down, this seat is ready.”

Nisīdi kho āyasmā ānando paññatte āsane.

Ānanda sat down on the seat spread out,

Gopakamoggallānopi kho brāhmaṇo aññataram nīcam āsanam
gahetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

while Moggallāna took a low seat and sat to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho gopakamoggallāno brāhmaṇo āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etadavoca:

Then he said to Ānanda,

“atthi nu kho, bho ānanda, ekabhikkhupi tehi dhammehi sabbenasabbaṃ sabbathāsabbaṃ samannāgato yehi dhammehi samannāgato so bhavaṃ gotamo ahosi araham̐ sammāsambuddho”ti?

“Master Ānanda, is there even a single mendicant who has all the same qualities in each and every way as possessed by Master Gotama, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha?”

“Natthi kho, brāhmaṇa, ekabhikkhupi tehi dhammehi sabbenasabbaṃ sabbathāsabbaṃ samannāgato yehi dhammehi samannāgato so bhagavā ahosi araham̐ sammāsambuddho.

“No, brahmin, there is not.

So hi, brāhmaṇa, bhagavā anuppannassa maggassa uppādetā, asañjātassa maggassa sañjanetā, anakkhātassa maggassa akkhātā, maggaññū, maggavidū, maggakovido;

For the Blessed One gave rise to the unarisen path, gave birth to the unborn path, explained the unexplained path. He was the knower of the path, the discoverer of the path, the expert on the path.

And now the disciples live following the path; they acquire it later.”

Ayañca hidaṃ āyasmato ānandassa gopakamoggallānena brāhmaṇena saddhiṃ antarākathā vippakatā ahosi.

But this conversation between Ānanda and Moggallāna the Guardian was left unfinished.

Atha kho vassakāro brāhmaṇo magadhamahāmatto rājagahe kammante anusaññāyamāno yena gopakamoggallānassa brāhmaṇassa kammanto, yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmatā ānandena saddhiṃ sammodi.

For just then the brahmin Vassakāra, a chief minister of Magadha, while supervising the work at Rājagaha, approached Ānanda at Moggallāna's place of work and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathāṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho vassakāro brāhmaṇo magadhamahāmatto āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to Ānanda, “kāya nuttha, bho ānanda, etarahi kathāya sannisinnā, kā ca pana vo antarākathā vippakatā”ti?

“Master Ānanda, what were you sitting talking about just now? What conversation was unfinished?”

“Idha maṃ, brāhmaṇa, gopakamoggallāno brāhmaṇo evamāha:
So Ānanda told him of the conversation that they were having when Vassakāra arrived. Vassakāra said:

‘atthi nu kho, bho ānanda, ekabhikkhupi tehi dhammehi sabbenasabbaṃ sabbathāsabbaṃ samannāgato yehi dhammehi samannāgato so bhavaṃ gotamo ahosi arahāṃ sammāsambuddho’ti.

Ayaṃ kho no, brāhmaṇa, gopakamoggallānena brāhmaṇena saddhiṃ antarākathā vippakatā.

“Atthi kho, brāhmaṇa, tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena dasa pasādanīyā dhammā akkhātā.

“There are ten inspiring things explained by the Blessed One, who knows and sees, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha.

It's when a mendicant is ethical, restrained in the monastic code, conducting themselves well and seeking alms in suitable places. Seeing danger in the slightest fault, they keep the rules they've undertaken.

Bahussuto hoti sutadharo sutasannicayo.

They're very learned, remembering and keeping what they've learned.

Ye te dhammā ādikalyāṇā, majjhekalyāṇā, pariyosānakalyāṇā,

These teachings are good in the beginning, good in the middle, and good in the end, meaningful and well-phrased, describing a spiritual practice that's entirely full and pure. They are very learned in such teachings, remembering them, reinforcing them by recitation, mentally scrutinizing them, and comprehending them theoretically.

They get the four absorptions—blissful meditations in the present life that belong to the higher mind—when they want, without trouble or difficulty.

Anekavihitam iddhiividham paccanubhoti—ekopi hutvā bahudhā hoti, bahudhāpi hutvā eko hoti; āvibhāvaṃ tirobhāvaṃ; tirokuṭṭam tiropākāraṃ tiropabbataṃ asajjamāno gacchati, seyyathāpi ākāse; pathaviyāpi ummujjanimujjam karoti, seyyathāpi uduke; udukepi abhijjamāne gacchati, seyyathāpi pathaviyaṃ; ākāsepi pallaṅkena kamati, seyyathāpi pakkhī sakuṇo; imepi candimasūriye evaṃmahiddhike evaṃmahānubhāve pāṇinā parimasati parimajjati, yāva brahmalokāpi kāyena vasaṃ vatteti. (5)

They wield the many kinds of psychic power: multiplying themselves and becoming one again; appearing and disappearing; going unimpeded through a wall, a rampart, or a mountain as if through space; diving in and out of the earth as if it were water; walking on water as if it were earth; flying cross-legged through the sky like a bird; touching and stroking with the hand the sun and moon, so mighty and powerful. They control the body as far as the Brahmā realm.

Dibbāya sotadhātuyā visuddhāya atikkantamānusikāya ubho sadde suṇāti—dibbe ca mānuse ca, ye dūre santike ca. (6)

With clairaudience that is purified and superhuman, they hear both kinds of sounds, human and divine, whether near or far.

They understand the minds of other beings and individuals, having comprehended them with their own mind. They understand mind with greed as 'mind with greed', and mind without greed as 'mind without greed'. They understand mind with hate ... mind without hate ... mind with delusion ... mind without delusion ... constricted mind ... scattered mind ... expansive mind ... unexpansive mind ... mind that is not supreme ... mind that is supreme ... mind immersed in samādhi ... mind not immersed in samādhi ... freed mind ... They recollect many kinds of past lives. That is: one, two, three, four, five, ten, twenty, thirty, forty, fifty, a hundred, a thousand, a hundred thousand rebirths; many eons of the world contracting, many eons of the world expanding, many eons of the world contracting and expanding. They remember: 'There, I was named this, my clan was that, I looked like this, and that was my food. This was how I felt pleasure and pain, and that was how my life ended. When I passed away from that place I was reborn somewhere else. There, too, I was named this, my clan was that, I looked like this, and that was my food. This was how I felt pleasure and pain, and that was how my life ended. When I passed away from that place I was reborn here.’ And so they recollect their many kinds of past lives, with features and details.

We honor anyone in whom these things are found, and rely on them.”

Evaṃ vutte, vassakāro brāhmaṇo magadhamahāmatto upanandaṃ senāpatiṃ āmantesi:

When he had spoken, Vassakāra addressed General Upananda, “Taṃ kiṃ maññati bhavaṃ senāpati yadime bhonto sakkātabbaṃ sakkaronti, garuṃ kātappaṃ garuṃ karonti, “What do you think, general?

mānetappaṃ mānenti, pūjetappaṃ pūjenti”?

Do these venerables honor, respect, revere, and venerate those who are worthy?”

“Tagghime bhonto sakkātabbaṃ sakkaronti, garuṃ kātappaṃ garuṃ karonti, mānetappaṃ mānenti, pūjetappaṃ pūjenti.

“Indeed they do.

Imaṅca hi te bhonto na sakkareyyuṃ na garuṃ kareyyuṃ na māneyyuṃ na pūjeyyuṃ;

For if these venerables were not to honor, respect, revere, and venerate such a person, then who exactly would they honor?”

Atha kho vassakāro brāhmaṇo magadhamahāmatto āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etadavoca:

Then Vassakāra said to Ānanda,

“kahaṃ pana bhavaṃ ānando etarahi viharatī”ti?

“Where are you staying at present?”

“Veḷuvane khohaṃ, brāhmaṇa, etarahi viharāmī”ti.

“In the Bamboo Grove, brahmin.”

“Kacci pana, bho ānanda, veḷuvanaṃ ramaṇīyañceva appasaddaṅca appanigghosaṅca vijanavātaṃ manussarāhasseyyakaṃ paṭisallānasāruppan”ti?

“Indeed it is, brahmin. And it is like that owing to such protectors and guardians as yourself.”

“Surely, Master Ānanda, it is owing to the venerables who meditate, making a habit of meditating.

Jhāyino ceva bhavanto jhānasīlino ca.

For the venerables do in fact meditate and make a habit of meditating.

Ekamidāhaṃ, bho ānanda, samayaṃ so bhavaṃ gotamo vesāliyaṃ viharati mahāvane kūṭāgārasālāyaṃ.

The Buddha praised this kind of meditation.”

“Gārayhaṃ kira, bho ānanda, so bhavaṃ gotamo jhānaṃ garahi, pāsaṃsaṃ pasāsi.

“Well, Master Ānanda, it seems that Master Gotama criticized the kind of meditation that deserves criticism and praised that deserving of praise.

Handa ca dāni mayaṃ, bho ānanda, gacchāma;

Well, now, Master Ānanda, I must go.

bahukiccā mayaṃ bahukaraṇīyā”ti.

I have many duties, and much to do.”

“Yassadāni tvaṃ, brāhmaṇa, kālaṃ maññasī”ti.

“Please, brahmin, go at your convenience.”

Atha kho vassakāro brāhmaṇo magadhamahāmatto āyasmato ānandassa bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkāmi.

Then Vassakāra the brahmin, having approved and agreed with what Venerable Ānanda said, got up from his seat and left.

Atha kho gopakamoggallāno brāhmaṇo acirapakkante vassakāre brāhmaṇe magadhamahāmatte āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etadavoca:

Soon after he had left, Moggallāna the Guardian said to Ānanda, “yaṃ no mayaṃ bhavantaṃ ānandaṃ apucchimhā taṃ no bhavaṃ ānando na byākāsī”ti.

“Master Ānanda, you still haven’t answered my question.”

“Nanu te, brāhmaṇa, avocumhā:

“But brahmin, didn’t I say:

‘natthi kho, brāhmaṇa, ekabhikkhupi tehi dhammehi sabbenasabbaṃ sabbathāsabbaṃ samannāgato yehi dhammehi samannāgato so bhagavā ahoṣi araham̐ sammāsambuddho.

‘There is no single mendicant who has all the same qualities in each and every way as possessed by Master Gotama, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha.

So hi, brāhmaṇa, bhagavā anuppannassa maggassa uppādetā, asaṅjātassa maggassa saṅjanetā, anakkhātassa maggassa akkhātā, maggaññū, maggavidū, maggakovido.

For the Blessed One gave rise to the unarisen path, gave birth to the unborn path, explained the unexplained path. He was the knower of the path, the discoverer of the path, the expert on the path.

Maggānugā ca pana etarahi sāvakā viharanti pacchā samannāgatā”ti.

And now the disciples live following the path; they acquire it later.”

109. Mahāpuṇṇamasutta

The Longer Discourse on the Full-Moon Night

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṁ sāvattiyam viharati pubbārāme
migāramātupāsāde.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in the Eastern Monastery, the stilt longhouse of Migāra’s mother.

Tena kho pana samayena bhagavaṁ tadahuposathe pannarase puṇṇāya puṇṇamāya rattiyā bhikkhusaṅghaparivuto abbhokāse nisinno hoti.

Now, at that time it was the sabbath—the full moon on the fifteenth day—and the Buddha was sitting in the open surrounded by the Saṅgha of monks.

Atha kho aññataro bhikkhu uṭṭhāyāsanā ekamsam cīvaram katvā yena bhagavaṁ tenañjalim paṇāmetvā bhagavantam
etadavoca:

Then one of the mendicants got up from their seat, arranged their robe over one shoulder, raised their joined palms toward the Buddha, and said,

“Puccheyyāham, bhante, bhagavantam kiñcideva desam, sace me bhagavaṁ okāsam karoti pañhassa veyyākaraṇāyā”ti.

“I’d like to ask the Buddha about a certain point, if you’d take the time to answer.”

“Tena hi tvaṃ, bhikkhu, sake āsane nisīditvā puccha yadākaṅkhasī”ti.

“Well then, mendicant, take your own seat and ask what you wish.”

Atha kho so bhikkhu sake āsane nisīditvā bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

That mendicant took his seat and said to the Buddha:

“ime nu kho, bhante, pañcupādānakkhandhā, seyyathidaṃ—

“Sir, are these the five grasping aggregates:

rūpupādānakkhandho, vedanupādānakkhandho, saññupādānakkhandho, saṅkhārupādānakkhandho, viññāṇupādānakkhandho”ti?

form, feeling, perception, choices, and consciousness?”

“Ime kho, bhikkhu, pañcupādānakkhandhā, seyyathidaṃ—

“Yes, they are,” replied the Buddha.

rūpupādānakkhandho, vedanupādānakkhandho, saññupādānakkhandho, saṅkhārupādānakkhandho, viññāṇupādānakkhandho”ti.

“Sādhu, bhante”ti kho so bhikkhu bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā bhagavantaṃ uttariṃ pañhaṃ pucchi:

Saying “Good, sir”, that mendicant approved and agreed with what the Buddha said. Then he asked another question:

“ime pana, bhante, pañcupādānakkhandhā kiṃmūlakā”ti?

“But sir, what is the root of these five grasping aggregates?”

“Ime kho, bhikkhu, pañcupādānakkhandhā chandamūlakā”ti.

“These five grasping aggregates are rooted in desire.”

“Taṃyeva nu kho, bhante, upādānaṃ te pañcupādānakkhandhā, udāhu aññatra pañcahupādānakkhandhehi upādānan”ti?

“But sir, is that grasping the exact same thing as the five grasping aggregates? Or is grasping one thing and the five grasping aggregates another?”

“Na kho, bhikkhu, taṃyeva upādānaṃ te pañcupādānakkhandhā, nāpi aññatra pañcahupādānakkhandhehi upādānaṃ.

“Neither.

Yo kho, bhikkhu, pañcasu upādānakkhandhesu chandarāgo taṃ tattha upādānan”ti.

Rather, the desire and greed for them is the grasping there.”

“Siyā pana, bhante, pañcasu upādānakkhandhesu chandarāgavemattatā”ti?

“But sir, can there be different kinds of desire and greed for the five grasping aggregates?”

“Siyā, bhikkhū”ti bhagavā avoca

“There can,” said the Buddha.

“idha, bhikkhu, ekaccassa evaṃ hoti:

‘evaṃrūpo siyaṃ anāgatamaddhānaṃ, evaṃvedano siyaṃ anāgatamaddhānaṃ, evaṃsañño siyaṃ anāgatamaddhānaṃ, evaṃsaṅkhāro siyaṃ anāgatamaddhānaṃ, evaṃviññāṇo siyaṃ anāgatamaddhānan’ti.

‘In the future, may I be of such form, such feeling, such perception, such choices, and such consciousness!’

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhu, siyā pañcasu upādānakkhandhesu chandarāgavemattatā”ti.

That’s how there can be different kinds of desire and greed for the five grasping aggregates.”

“Kittāvatā pana, bhante, khandhānaṃ khandhādhivacanaṃ hotī”ti?

Seeing this, a learned noble disciple grows disillusioned with form, feeling, perception, choices, and consciousness.

nibbindaṃ virajjati, virāgā vimuccati. Vimuttasmiṃ vimuttamiti ñāṇaṃ hoti.

Being disillusioned, desire fades away. When desire fades away they're freed. When they're freed, they know they're freed.

'Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā'ti pajānātī'ti.

They understand: 'Rebirth is ended, the spiritual journey has been completed, what had to be done has been done, there is no return to any state of existence.'

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamaṇā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Imasmiṅca pana veyyākaraṇasmiṃ bhaññaṃāne saṭṭhimattānaṃ bhikkhūnaṃ anupādāya āsavehi cittāni vimuccimāsūtī.

And while this discourse was being spoken, the minds of sixty mendicants were freed from defilements by not grasping.

That's how a bad person has the intentions of a bad person.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, asappuriso asappurisamantī hoti?

And how does a bad person offer the counsel of a bad person?

Idha, bhikkhave, asappuriso attabyābādhāyapi manteti, parabyābādhāyapi manteti, ubhayabyābādhāyapi manteti.

It's when a bad person offers counsel that hurts themselves, hurts others, and hurts both.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, asappuriso asappurisamantī hoti. (4)

That's how a bad person offers the counsel of a bad person.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, asappuriso asappurisavāco hoti?

And how does a bad person have the speech of a bad person?

Idha, bhikkhave, asappuriso musāvādī hoti, piṣuṇavāco hoti, pharusavāco hoti, samphappalāpī hoti.

It's when a bad person uses speech that's false, divisive, harsh, and nonsensical.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, asappuriso asappurisavāco hoti. (5)

That's how a bad person has the speech of a bad person.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, asappuriso asappurisakammanto hoti?

And how does a bad person have the action of a bad person?

Idha, bhikkhave, asappuriso pāṇātipātī hoti, adinnādāyī hoti, kāmesumicchācārī hoti.

It's when a bad person kills living creatures, steals, and commits sexual misconduct.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, asappuriso asappurisakammanto hoti. (6)

That's how a bad person has the actions of a bad person.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, asappuriso asappurisadiṭṭhi hoti?

And how does a bad person have the view of a bad person?

Idha, bhikkhave, asappuriso evaṃdiṭṭhi hoti:

It's when a bad person has such a view:

‘natthi dinnam, natthi yiṭṭham, natthi hutam, natthi sukata dukkaṭānam kammānam phalam vipāko, natthi ayam loko, natthi paro loko, natthi mātā, natthi pitā, natthi sattā

opapātikā, natthi loke samaṇabrāhmaṇā sammaggatā sammāpaṭipannā, ye imaṅca lokam paraṅca lokam sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā pavedentī'ti.

‘There’s no meaning in giving, sacrifice, or offerings. There’s no fruit or result of good and bad deeds. There’s no afterlife. There’s no obligation to mother and father. No beings are reborn spontaneously. And there’s no ascetic or brahmin who is well attained and practiced, and who describes the afterlife after realizing it with their own insight.’

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, asappuriso asappurisadiṭṭhi hoti. (7)

That’s how a bad person has the view of a bad person.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, asappuriso asappurisdānaṃ deti?

And how does a bad person give the gifts of a bad person?

Idha, bhikkhave, asappuriso asakkaccaṃ dānaṃ deti, asahatthā dānaṃ deti, acittikatvā dānaṃ deti, apaviṭṭhaṃ dānaṃ deti anāgamanadiṭṭhiko dānaṃ deti.

It’s when a bad person gives a gift carelessly, not with their own hand, and thoughtlessly. They give the dregs, and they give without consideration for consequences.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, asappuriso asappurisdānaṃ deti.

That’s how a bad person gives the gifts of a bad person.

So, bhikkhave, asappuriso evaṃ assaddhammasamannāgato, evaṃ asappurisabhaddi, evaṃ asappurisacintī, evaṃ asappurisantī, evaṃ asappurisavāco, evaṃ asappurisakammanto, evaṃ asappurisadiṭṭhi;

That bad person—who has such bad qualities, frequents bad people, and has the intentions, counsel, speech, actions, views, and giving of a bad person—

evaṃ asappurisdānaṃ datvā kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā yā asappurisānaṃ gati tattha upapajjati.

when their body breaks up, after death, is reborn in the place where bad people are reborn.

Kā ca, bhikkhave, asappurisānaṃ gati?

And what is the place where bad people are reborn?

Nirayo vā tiracchānayoṇi vā.

Hell or the animal realm.

Jāneyya nu kho, bhikkhave, sappuriso sappurisaṃ:

Mendicants, could a good person know of a good person:

It's when a good person is a friend and companion of ascetics and brahmins who are faithful, conscientious, prudent, learned, energetic, mindful, and wise.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, sappuriso sappurisabhatti hoti. (2)

That's how a good person associates with good people.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, sappuriso sappurisacintī hoti?

And how does a good person have the intentions of a good person?

Idha, bhikkhave, sappuriso nevattabyābādhāya ceteti, na parabyābādhāya ceteti, na ubhayabyābādhāya ceteti.

It's when a good person doesn't intend to hurt themselves, hurt others, and hurt both.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, sappuriso sappurisacintī hoti. (3)

That's how a good person has the intentions of a good person.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, sappuriso sappurisamantī hoti?

And how does a good person offer the counsel of a good person?

Idha, bhikkhave, sappuriso nevattabyābādhāya manteti, na parabyābādhāya manteti, na ubhayabyābādhāya manteti.

It's when a good person offers counsel that doesn't hurt themselves, hurt others, and hurt both.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, sappuriso sappurisamantī hoti. (4)

That's how a good person offers the counsel of a good person.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, sappuriso sappurisavāco hoti?

And how does a good person have the speech of a good person?

Idha, bhikkhave, sappuriso musāvādā paṭivirato hoti, pisuṇāya vācāya paṭivirato hoti, pharusāya vācāya paṭivirato hoti, samphappalāpā paṭivirato hoti.

It's when a good person refrains from speech that's false, divisive, harsh, or nonsensical.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, sappuriso sappurisavāco hoti. (5)

That's how a good person has the speech of a good person.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, sappuriso sappurisakammanto hoti?

And how does a good person have the action of a good person?

Idha, bhikkhave, sappuriso pāṇātipātā paṭivirato hoti, adinnādānā paṭivirato hoti, kāmesumicchācārā paṭivirato hoti.

It's when a good person refrains from killing living creatures, stealing, and committing sexual misconduct.

Evañ kho, bhikkhave, sappuriso sappurisakammanto hoti. (6)

That's how a good person has the action of a good person.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, sappuriso sappurisadiṭṭhi hoti?

And how does a good person have the view of a good person?

Idha, bhikkhave, sappuriso evaṃdiṭṭhi hoti:

It's when a good person has such a view:

‘atthi dinnam, atthi yiṭṭham, atthi hutam, atthi sukatadukkaṭānam kammānam phalam vipāko, atthi ayam loko, atthi paro loko, atthi mātā, atthi pitā, atthi sattā opapātikā, atthi loke samaṇabrāhmaṇā sammaggatā sammāpaṭipannā ye imañca lokam parañca lokam sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā pavedentī’ti.

Evañ kho, bhikkhave, sappuriso sappurisadiṭṭhi hoti. (7)

That's how a good person has the view of a good person.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, sappuriso sappurisadānam deti?

And how does a good person give the gifts of a good person?

Idha, bhikkhave, sappuriso sakkaccaṃ dānaṃ deti, sahatthā dānaṃ deti, cittikatvā dānaṃ deti, anapaviṭṭhaṃ dānaṃ deti, āgamanadiṭṭhiko dānaṃ deti.

It's when a good person gives a gift carefully, with their own hand, and thoughtfully. They don't give the dregs, and they give with consideration for consequences.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, sappuriso sappurisaḍānaṃ deti. (8)

That's how a good person gives the gifts of a good person.

Devamahattatā vā manussamahattatā vā”ti.

A state of greatness among gods or humans.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Cūḷapunnāmasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ dasamaṃ.

2. The Division of One by One Anupadavagga

111. Anupadasutta One by One

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anathapiṇḍikassa ārame.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagava bhikkhū amantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagava etadvoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Paṇḍito, bhikkhave, sāriputto;

“Sāriputta is astute, mendicants.

mahāpañño, bhikkhave, sāriputto;

He has great wisdom,

puthupañño, bhikkhave, sāriputto;

widespread wisdom,

hāsapañño, bhikkhave, sāriputto;

laughing wisdom,

javanapañño, bhikkhave, sāriputto;

swift wisdom,

tikkhapañño, bhikkhave, sāriputto;

sharp wisdom,

nibbedhikapañño, bhikkhave, sāriputto;

and penetrating wisdom.

sāriputto, bhikkhave, aḍḍhamāsaṃ anupadadhammavipassanaṃ vipassati.

For a fortnight he practiced discernment of phenomena one by one.

Tatridaṃ, bhikkhave, sāriputtassa anupadadhammavipassanāya hoti.

And this is how he did it.

Idha, bhikkhave, sāriputto vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi

dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ

paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, he entered and remained in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Ye ca paṭhame jhāne dhammā vitakko ca vicāro ca pīti ca sukhañca cittekaggatā ca, phasso vedanā saññā cetanā cittaṃ chando adhimokkho vīriyaṃ sati upekkhā manasikāro—tyāssa dhammā anupadavavatthitā honti.

And he distinguished the phenomena in the first absorption one by one: placing and keeping and rapture and bliss and unification of mind; contact, feeling, perception, intention, mind, enthusiasm, decision, energy, mindfulness, equanimity, and attention.

Tyāssa dhammā veditā uppajjanti, veditā upaṭṭhahanti, veditā abhatthaṃ gacchanti.

He knew those phenomena as they arose, as they remained, and as they went away.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

He understood:

‘evaṃ kirame dhammā ahutvā sambhonti, hutvā paṭiventī’ti.

‘So it seems that these phenomena, not having been, come to be; and having come to be, they flit away.’

So tesu dhammesu anupāyo anapāyo anissito appaṭibaddho vip̐pamutto visaṃyutto vimariyādīkatena cetasā viharati.

And he meditated without attraction or repulsion for those phenomena; independent, untied, liberated, detached, his mind free of limits.

So ‘atthi uttari nissaraṇaṃ’ti pajānāti.

He understood: ‘There is an escape beyond.’

Tabbahulīkārā atthitvevassa hoti. (1)

And by repeated practice he knew for sure that there is.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, sāriputto vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhataṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected were stilled, he entered and remained in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Ye ca dutiye jhāne dhammā—ajjhataṃ sampasādo ca pīti ca sukhañca cittekaggatā ca, phasso vedanā saññā cetanā cittaṃ chando adhimokkha vīriyaṃ sati upekkhā manasikāro—tyāssa dhammā anupadavavatthitā honti.

And he distinguished the phenomena in the second absorption one by one: internal confidence and rapture and bliss and unification of mind; contact, feeling, perception, intention, mind, enthusiasm, decision, energy, mindfulness, equanimity, and attention.

Tyāssa dhammā veditā uppajjanti, veditā upaṭṭhahanti, veditā abbattham gacchanti.

He knew those phenomena as they arose, as they remained, and as they went away.

So evam pajānāti:

He understood:

‘evam kirame dhammā ahutvā sambhonti, hutvā paṭiventī’ti.

‘So it seems that these phenomena, not having been, come to be; and having come to be, they flit away.’

So tesu dhammesu anupāyo anapāyo anissito appaṭibaddho vipamutto visamutto vimariyādīkatena cetasā viharati.

And he meditated without attraction or repulsion for those phenomena; independent, untied, liberated, detached, his mind free of limits.

So ‘atthi uttari nissaraṇan’ti pajānāti.

He understood: ‘There is an escape beyond.’

Tabbahulīkāra atthitvevassa hoti. (2)

And by repeated practice he knew for sure that there is.

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, sāriputto pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca viharati sato ca sampajāno, sukhañca kāyena paṭisaṃvedeti.

Yaṃ taṃ ariyā ācikkhanti: ‘upekkhako satimā sukhavihārī’ti tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, with the fading away of rapture, he entered and remained in the third absorption, where he meditated with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, ‘Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.’

Ye ca tatiye jhāne dhammā—sukhañca sati ca sampajaññañca cittekaggatā ca, phasso vedanā sañña cetanā cittaṃ chando adhimokkho vīriyaṃ sati upekkhā manasikāro—

And he distinguished the phenomena in the third absorption one by one: bliss and mindfulness and awareness and unification of mind; contact, feeling, perception, intention, mind, enthusiasm, decision, energy, mindfulness, equanimity, and attention.

tyāssa dhammā anupadavavatthitā honti, tyāssa dhammā veditā uppajjanti, veditā upaṭṭhahanti, veditā abbattham gacchanti.

He knew those phenomena as they arose, as they remained, and as they went away.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

He understood:

‘evaṃ kirame dhammā ahutvā sambhonti, hutvā paṭiventī’ti.

‘So it seems that these phenomena, not having been, come to be; and having come to be, they flit away.’

So tesu dhammesu anupāyo anapāyo anissito appaṭibaddho vip̐pamutto vi̐saṃyutto vimariyādīkatena cetasā viharati.

And he meditated without attraction or repulsion for those phenomena; independent, untied, liberated, detached, his mind free of limits.

So ‘atthi uttari nissaraṇaṃ’ti pajānāti.

He understood: ‘There is an escape beyond.’

Tabbahulīkārā atthitvevassa hoti. (3)

And by repeated practice he knew for sure that there is.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, sāriputto sukhasa ca pahānā dukkhasa ca pahānā pubbeva somanassadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamā adukkhamasukhaṃ upekkhāsatipārisuddhiṃ catuttham jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, with the giving up of pleasure and pain, and the ending of former happiness and sadness, he entered and remained in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

Ye ca catutthe jhāne dhammā—upekkhā adukkhamasukhā vedanā passaddhattā cetaso anābhogo satipārisuddhi cittekaggatā ca, phasso vedanā saññā cetanā cittaṃ chando adhimokkho vīriyaṃ sati upekkhā manasikāro—tyāssa dhammā anupadavavatthitā honti.

And he distinguished the phenomena in the fourth absorption one by one: equanimity and neutral feeling and mental unconcern due to tranquility and pure mindfulness and unification of mind; contact, feeling, perception, intention, mind, enthusiasm, decision, energy, mindfulness, equanimity, and attention.

Tyāssa dhammā veditā uppajjanti, veditā upaṭṭhahanti, veditā abbhatthaṃ gacchanti.

He knew those phenomena as they arose, as they remained, and as they went away.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

He understood:

‘evaṃ kirame dhammā ahutvā sambhonti, hutvā paṭiventī’ti.

‘So it seems that these phenomena, not having been, come to be; and having come to be, they flit away.’

So tesu dhammesu anupāyo anapāyo anissito appaṭibaddho vip̐pamutto visaṃyutto vimariyādīkatena cetasā viharati.

And he meditated without attraction or repulsion for those phenomena; independent, untied, liberated, detached, his mind free of limits.

So ‘atthi uttari nissaraṇaṃ’ti pajānāti.

He understood: ‘There is an escape beyond.’

Tabbahulīkārā atthitvevassa hoti. (4)

And by repeated practice he knew for sure that there is.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, sāriputto sabbaso rūpasaññānaṃ

Furthermore, going totally beyond perceptions of form, with the ending of perceptions of impingement, not focusing on perceptions of diversity, aware that ‘space is infinite’, he entered and remained in the dimension of infinite space.

Ye ca ākāsānañcāyatane dhammā—ākāsānañcāyatanaśāññā ca cittekaggatā ca phasso vedanā śāññā cetanā cittaṃ chando adhimokkho vīriyaṃ sati upekkhā manasikāro—tyāssa dhammā anupadavavatthitā honti.

And he distinguished the phenomena in the dimension of infinite space one by one: the perception of the dimension of infinite space and unification of mind; contact, feeling, perception, intention, mind, enthusiasm, decision, energy, mindfulness, equanimity, and attention.

Tyāssa dhammā veditā uppajjanti, veditā upaṭṭhahanti, veditā abbatthāṃ gacchanti.

He knew those phenomena as they arose, as they remained, and as they went away.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

He understood:

‘evaṃ kirame dhammā ahutvā sambhonti, hutvā paṭiventī’ti.

‘So it seems that these phenomena, not having been, come to be; and having come to be, they flit away.’

So tesu dhammesu anupāyo anapāyo anissito appaṭibaddho vip̐pamutto viśāmyutto vimariyādīkatena cetasā viharati.

And he meditated without attraction or repulsion for those phenomena; independent, untied, liberated, detached, his mind free of limits.

So ‘atthi uttari nissaraṇaṃ’ti pajānāti.

He understood: ‘There is an escape beyond.’

Tabbahulīkārā atthitvevassa hoti. (5)

And by repeated practice he knew for sure that there is.

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, sāriputto sabbaso ākāsānañcāyatanam samatikkamma ‘anantaṃ viññāṇan’ti viññāṇañcāyatanam upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, going totally beyond the dimension of infinite space, aware that ‘consciousness is infinite’, he entered and remained in the dimension of infinite consciousness.

Ye ca viññāṇañcāyatane dhammā—viññāṇañcāyatanaśāññā ca cittekaggatā ca, phasso vedanā śāññā cetanā cittaṃ chando adhimokkha vīriyaṃ sati upekkhā manasikāro—tyāssa dhammā anupadavavatthitā honti.

And he distinguished the phenomena in the dimension of infinite consciousness one by one: the perception of the dimension of infinite consciousness and unification of mind; contact, feeling, perception, intention, mind, enthusiasm, decision, energy, mindfulness, equanimity, and attention.

Tyāssa dhammā veditā uppajjanti, veditā upaṭṭhahanti, veditā abbattham gacchanti.

He knew those phenomena as they arose, as they remained, and as they went away.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

‘So it seems that these phenomena, not having been, come to be; and having come to be, they flit away.’

So tesu dhammesu anupāyo anapāyo anissito appaṭibaddho vipparamutto visaṃyutto vimariyādīkatena cetasā viharati.

And he meditated without attraction or repulsion for those phenomena; independent, untied, liberated, detached, his mind free of limits.

So ‘atthi uttari nissaraṇan’ti pajānāti.

He understood: ‘There is an escape beyond.’

Tabbahulīkārā atthitvevassa hoti. (6)

And by repeated practice he knew for sure that there is.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, sāriputto sabbaso

Furthermore, going totally beyond the dimension of infinite consciousness, aware that ‘there is nothing at all’, he entered and remained in the dimension of nothingness.

Ye ca ākiñcaññāyatane dhammā—ākiñcaññāyatanaśāññā ca

And he meditated without attraction or repulsion for those phenomena; independent, untied, liberated, detached, his mind free of limits.

So ‘atthi uttari nissaraṇaṃ’ti pajānāti.

He understood: 'There is an escape beyond.'

Tabbahulīkārā atthitvevassa hoti. (7)

And by repeated practice he knew for sure that there is.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, sāriputto sabbaso ākiñcaññāyatanam samatikkamma nevasaññānāsaññāyatanam upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, going totally beyond the dimension of nothingness, he entered and remained in the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception.

So tāya samāpattiyā sato vuṭṭhahati.

And he emerged from that attainment with mindfulness.

So tāya samāpattiyā sato vuṭṭhahitvā ye dhammā atītā niruddhā vipariṇatā te dhamme samanupassati:

Then he contemplated the phenomena in that attainment that had passed, ceased, and perished:

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, sāriputto sabbaso nevasaññānāsaññāyatanam samatikkamma saññāvedayitanirodham upasampajja viharati. Paññāya cassa disvā āsavā parikkhīṇā honti.

Furthermore, going totally beyond the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception, he entered and remained in the cessation of perception and feeling. And, having seen with wisdom, his defilements came to an end.

So tāya samāpattiyā sato vuṭṭhahati.

And he emerged from that attainment with mindfulness.

So tāya samāpattiyā sato vuṭṭhahitvā ye dhammā atītā niruddhā vipariṇatā te dhamme samanupassati:

Then he contemplated the phenomena in that attainment that had passed, ceased, and perished:

‘evaṃ kirame dhammā ahutvā sambhonti, hutvā paṭiventī’ti.

‘So it seems that these phenomena, not having been, come to be; and having come to be, they flit away.’

So tesu dhammesu anupāyo anapāyo anissito appaṭibaddho vippamutto visaṃyutto vimariyādīkatena cetasā viharati.

And he meditated without attraction or repulsion for those phenomena; independent, untied, liberated, detached, his mind free of limits.

So ‘natthi uttari nissaraṇan’ti pajānāti.

He understood: ‘There is no escape beyond.’

Tabbahulīkārā natthi tvevassa hoti.

And by repeated practice he knew for sure that there is not.

Yaṃ kho taṃ, bhikkhave, sammā vadamāno vadeyya:

And if there’s anyone of whom it may be rightly said that ‘vasippatto pāramippatto ariyasmiṃ sīlasmiṃ, vasippatto pāramippatto ariyasmiṃ samādhismiṃ, vasippatto pāramippatto ariyāya paññāya, vasippatto pāramippatto ariyāya vimuttiyā’ti, sāriputtameva taṃ sammā vadamāno vadeyya:

they have attained mastery and perfection in noble ethics, immersion, wisdom, and freedom, it's Sāriputta.

‘vasippatto pāramippatto ariyasmim̐ sīlasmim̐, vasippatto pāramippatto ariyasmim̐ samādhismim̐, vasippatto pāramippatto ariyāya paññāya, vasippatto pāramippatto ariyāya vimuttiyā’ti.

Yaṃ kho taṃ, bhikkhave, sammā vadamāno vadeyya:

And if there's anyone of whom it may be rightly said that ‘bhagavato putto oraso mukhato jāto dhammajo dhammanimmito dhammadāyādo no āmisadāyādo’ti, sāriputtameva taṃ sammā vadamāno vadeyya:

they're the Buddha's true-born child, born from his mouth, born of the teaching, created by the teaching, heir to the teaching, not the heir in material things, it's Sāriputta.

‘bhagavato putto oraso mukhato jāto dhammajo dhammanimmito dhammadāyādo no āmisadāyādo’ti.

Sāriputto, bhikkhave, tathāgatena anuttaraṃ dhammacakkaṃ pavattitaṃ sammadeva anuppavatteti’ti.

Sāriputta rightly keeps rolling the supreme Wheel of Dhamma that was rolled forth by the Realized One.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Anupadasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ paṭhamaṃ.

112. Chabbisodhanasutta The Sixfold Purification

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anathapiṇḍikassa ārame.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattḥī in Jeta’s Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tatra kho bhagava bhikkhū amantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagava etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu aññaṃ byākaroti:

“Take a mendicant who declares enlightenment:

‘khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyāti pajānāmī’ti.

‘I understand: “Rebirth is ended, the spiritual journey has been completed, what had to be done has been done, there is no return to any state of existence.”’

Tassa, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno bhāsitaṃ neva abhinanditabbaṃ nappaṭikkositabbaṃ.

You should neither approve nor dismiss that mendicant's statement.

Anabhinanditvā appaṭikkositvā pañho pucchitabbo:

Rather, you should question them:

‘cattārome, āvuso, vohārā tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena sammadakkhātā.

‘Reverend, these four kinds of expression have been rightly explained by the Blessed One, who knows and sees, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha.

Katame cattāro?

What four?

Diṭṭhe diṭṭhavāditā, sute sutavāditā, mute mutavāditā, viññāte viññātavāditā—

One speaks of the seen as seen, the heard as heard, the thought as thought, and the known as known.

ime kho, āvuso, cattāro vohārā tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena sammadakkhātā.

These are the four kinds of expression rightly explained by the Blessed One, who knows and sees, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha.

Kathaṃ jānato panāyasmato, kathaṃ passato imesu catūsu vohāresu anupādāya āsavehi cittaṃ vimuttan’ti?

How does the venerable know and see regarding these four kinds of expression so that your mind is freed from defilements by not grasping?’

Khīṇāsavassa, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno vusitavato katakaraṇīyassa ohitabhārassa anuppattasadatthassa parikkhīṇabhavasamyojanassa sammadaññāvimuttassa ayamanudhammo hoti veyyākaraṇāya:

For a mendicant with defilements ended—who has completed the spiritual journey, done what had to be done, laid down the burden, achieved their own goal, utterly ended the fetters of rebirth, and is rightly freed through enlightenment—it is in line with the teaching to answer:

‘diṭṭhe kho ahaṃ, āvuso, anupāyo anapāyo anissito

That is how I know and see regarding these four kinds of expression so that my mind is freed from defilements by not grasping.’

Tassa, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno ‘sādhū’ti bhāsitaṃ

Saying ‘Good!’ you should applaud and cheer that mendicant’s statement,

‘Sādhū’ti bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uttariṃ pañho then ask a further question:

‘Pañcime, āvuso, upādānakkhandhā tena bhagavatā jānatā

‘Reverend, these five grasping aggregates have been rightly explained by the Buddha.

Katame pañca?

What five?

Seyyathidaṃ—rūpupādānakkhandho, vedanupādānakkhandho, saññupādānakkhandho, saṅkhārupādānakkhandho, viññāṇupādānakkhandho—

That is: the grasping aggregates of form, feeling, perception, choices, and consciousness.

ime kho, āvuso, pañcupādānakkhandhā tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena sammadakkhātā.

These are the five grasping aggregates that have been rightly explained by the Buddha.

‘Formerly, reverends, when I was still a layperson, I was ignorant.

Tassa me tathāgato vā tathāgatasāvako vā dhammaṃ desesi.
Then the Realized One or one of his disciples taught me the Dhamma.

Tāhaṃ dhammaṃ sutvā tathāgate saddhaṃ paṭilabhiṃ.
I gained faith in the Realized One,

So tena saddhāpaṭilābhena samannāgato iti paṭisañcikkhiṃ:
and reflected:

“sambādho gharāvāso rajāpatho, abbhokāso pabbajjā.

“Living in a house is cramped and dirty, but the life of one gone forth is wide open.

Nayidaṃ sukaraṃ agāraṃ ajjhāvasatā ekantaparipuṇṇaṃ

It’s not easy for someone living at home to lead the spiritual life utterly full and pure, like a polished shell.

Yannūnāhaṃ kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni

Why don't I cut off my hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from lay life to homelessness?"

So kho ahaṃ, āvuso, aparena samayena appaṃ vā

After some time I gave up a large or small fortune, and a large or small family circle. I shaved off hair and beard, dressed in ocher robes, and went forth from the lay life to homelessness.

So evaṃ pabbajito samāno bhikkhūnaṃ

Once I had gone forth, I took up the training and livelihood of the mendicants. I gave up killing living creatures, renouncing the rod and the sword. I was scrupulous and kind, living full of compassion for all living beings.

Adinnādānaṃ pahāya adinnādānā paṭivirato ahoṣim dinnādāyī dinnapāṭikaṅkhī, athenena sucibhūtena attanā vihāsim.

I gave up stealing. I took only what's given, and expected only what's given. I kept myself clean by not thieving.

Abrahmacariyaṃ pahāya brahmacārī ahoṣim ārācārī virato

I gave up unchastity. I became celibate, set apart, avoiding the common practice of sex.

Musāvādaṃ pahāya musāvādā paṭivirato ahoṣim saccavādī saccasandho theto paccayiko avisaṃvādako lokassa.

I gave up lying. I spoke the truth and stuck to the truth. I was honest and trustworthy, not tricking the world with my words.

I gave up divisive speech. I didn't repeat in one place what I heard in another so as to divide people against each other. Instead, I reconciled those who are divided, supporting unity, delighting in harmony, loving harmony, speaking words that promote harmony.

Pharusaṃ vācaṃ pahāya pharusāya vācāya paṭivirato ahoṣiṃ;

I gave up talking nonsense. My words were timely, true, and meaningful, in line with the teaching and training. I said things at the right time which are valuable, reasonable, succinct, and beneficial.

So bījagāmbhūtagāmasamārambhā paṭivirato ahoṣiṃ,

I avoided injuring plants and seeds. I ate in one part of the day, abstaining from eating at night and food at the wrong time.

I avoided dancing, singing, music, and seeing shows.

Mālāgandhavilepanadhāraṇamaṇḍanavibhūsanatṭhānā

I became content with robes to look after the body and alms-food to look after the belly. Wherever I went, I set out taking only these things.

Seyyathāpi nāma pakkhī sakuṇo yena yeneva ḍeti

In the same way, I became content with robes to look after the body and alms-food to look after the belly. Wherever I went, I set out taking only these things.

So iminā ariyena sīlakkhandhena samannāgato ajjhataṃ

When I had this noble sense restraint, I experienced an unsullied bliss inside myself.

So abhikkante paṭikkante sampajānakārī ahoṣiṃ, ālokite vilokite sampajānakārī ahoṣiṃ, samiñjite pasārite sampajānakārī ahoṣiṃ, saṅghāṭipattacīvaradhāraṇe sampajānakārī ahoṣiṃ, asite pīte khāyite sāyite sampajānakārī ahoṣiṃ, uccārapassāvakamme sampajānakārī ahoṣiṃ, gate ṭhite nisinne sutte jāgarite bhāsīte tuṅhībhave sampajānakārī ahoṣiṃ.

I acted with situational awareness when going out and coming back; when looking ahead and aside; when bending and extending the limbs; when bearing the outer robe, bowl and robes; when eating, drinking, chewing, and tasting; when urinating and defecating; when walking, standing, sitting, sleeping, waking, speaking, and keeping silent.

So iminā ca ariyena sīlakkhandhena samannāgato, imāya ca ariyāya santuṭṭhiyā samannāgato, iminā ca ariyena indriyasaṁvarena samannāgato, iminā ca ariyena satisampajaññaena samannāgato

When I had this noble spectrum of ethics, this noble sense restraint, and this noble mindfulness and situational awareness, vivittaṁ senāsanam bhajim araññaṁ rukkhamūlam pabbataṁ kandaram giriguham susānam vanapattham abbhokāsam palālapuñjam.

I frequented a secluded lodging—a wilderness, the root of a tree, a hill, a ravine, a mountain cave, a charnel ground, a forest, the open air, a heap of straw.

So pacchābhattaṁ piṇḍapātaṭikkanto nisīdim pallaṅkam ābhujitvā ujum kāyam paṇidhāya parimukham satim upaṭṭhapetvā.

After the meal, I returned from alms-round, sat down cross-legged with my body straight, and established mindfulness right there.

So abhijjam loke pahāya vigatābhijjhena cetasā vihāsim, abhijjhāya cittaṁ parisodhesim.

Giving up desire for the world, I meditated with a heart rid of desire, cleansing the mind of desire.

Byāpādapadosam pahāya abyāpannacitto vihāsim sabbapāṇabhūtāhitānukampī, byāpādapadosā cittaṁ parisodhesim.

Giving up ill will and malevolence, I meditated with a mind rid of ill will, full of compassion for all living beings, cleansing the mind of ill will.

Thinamiddham pahāya vigatathinamiddho vihāsim ālokasaññī sato sampajāno, thinamiddhā cittaṃ parisodhesim.

Giving up dullness and drowsiness, I meditated with a mind rid of dullness and drowsiness, perceiving light, mindful and aware, cleansing the mind of dullness and drowsiness.

Uddhaccakukkuccam pahāya anuddhato vihāsim ajjhattam, vūpasantacitto, uddhaccakukkuccā cittaṃ parisodhesim.

Giving up restlessness and remorse, I meditated without restlessness, my mind peaceful inside, cleansing the mind of restlessness and remorse.

Vicikiccham pahāya tiṇṇavicikiccho vihāsim akathaṅkathī kusalesu dhammesu, vicikicchāya cittaṃ parisodhesim.

Giving up doubt, I meditated having gone beyond doubt, not undecided about skillful qualities, cleansing the mind of doubt.

So ime pañca nīvaraṇe pahāya cetaso upakkilese paññāya
dubbalīkaṇe

I gave up these five hindrances, corruptions of the heart that weaken wisdom.

vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ
savicāraṃ vivekaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamam jhānam upasampajja vihāsim.

Then, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, I entered and remained in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Vitakkavicārānam vūpasamā ajjhattam sampasādanam cetaso ekodibhāvam avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijam pītisukhaṃ dutiyaṃ jhānam ...pe...

As the placing of the mind and keeping it connected were stilled, I entered and remained in the second absorption ...

tatiyaṃ jhānam ...

third absorption ...

catuttham jhānaṃ upasampajja vihāsim.
fourth absorption.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte āsavānaṃ khayañāṇāya cittaṃ abhininnāmesim.

When my mind had immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—I extended it toward knowledge of the ending of defilements.

So idaṃ dukkhanti yathābhūtaṃ abbhaññāsim, ayaṃ dukkhasamudayoti yathābhūtaṃ abbhaññāsim, ayaṃ dukkhanirodhoti yathābhūtaṃ abbhaññāsim, ayaṃ dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadāti yathābhūtaṃ abbhaññāsim;

I truly understood: “This is suffering” ... “This is the origin of suffering” ... “This is the cessation of suffering” ... “This is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering”.

ime āsavāti yathābhūtaṃ abbhaññāsim, ayaṃ āsavaśamudayoti yathābhūtaṃ abbhaññāsim, ayaṃ āsavanirodhoti yathābhūtaṃ abbhaññāsim, ayaṃ āsavanirodhagāminī paṭipadāti yathābhūtaṃ abbhaññāsim.

I truly understood: “These are defilements” ... “This is the origin of defilements” ... “This is the cessation of defilements” ... “This is the practice that leads to the cessation of defilements”.

Tassa me evaṃ jānato evaṃ passato kāmāsavāpi cittaṃ
vimuccittha, bhavāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccittha, avijjāsavāpi
cittaṃ vimuccittha.

Knowing and seeing like this, my mind was freed from the defilements of sensuality, desire to be reborn, and ignorance.

Vimuttasmiṃ vimuttamiti ñāṇaṃ ahosi.

When it was freed, I knew it was freed.

Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyāti abbaññāsīṃ.

I understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

Evaṃ kho me, āvuso, jānato evaṃ passato imasmiṃca saviññāṇake kāye bahiddhā ca sabbanimittesu ahaṅkāramamaṅkāramānānusayā samūhatā’ti.

That is how I know and see so that I have eradicated ego, possessiveness, and underlying tendency to conceit for this conscious body and all external stimuli.’

Tassa, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno ‘sādhū’ti bhāsitaṃ abhinanditabbaṃ anumoditabbaṃ.

Saying ‘Good!’ you should applaud and cheer that mendicant’s statement, ‘Sādhū’ti bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā evamassa vacanīyo:

and then say to them:

‘lābhā no, āvuso, suladdhaṃ no, āvuso,
‘We are fortunate, reverend, so very fortunate ye mayaṃ āyasmantaṃ tādisaṃ sabrahmacāriṃ samanupassāma’”ti.

to see a venerable such as yourself as one of our spiritual companions!’”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandunti.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Chabbisodhanasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ dutiyaṃ.

113. Sappurisasutta A Good Person

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anathapiṇḍikassa ārame.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattḥī in Jeta’s Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tatra kho bhagava bhikkhū amantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagava etadvoca:

The Buddha said this:

“sappurisdhammaṅca vo, bhikkhave, desessāmi asappurisdhammaṅca.

“Mendicants, I will teach you the qualities of a good person and the qualities of a bad person.

Tam suṇātha, sādhuḁam manasi karotha, bhāsissāmi”ti.

Listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Katamo ca, bhikkhave, asappurisdhammo?”

“And what is a quality of a bad person?”

Idha, bhikkhave, asappuriso uccākulā pabbajito hoti.

Take a bad person who has gone forth from an eminent family.

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:

They reflect:

‘ahaṃ khomhi uccākulā pabbajito, ime panaññe bhikkhū na uccākulā pabbajitā’ti.

‘I have gone forth from an eminent family, unlike these other mendicants.’

So tāya uccākulīnatāya attānukkaṃseti, paraṃ vambheti.

And they glorify themselves and put others down on account of that.

Ayaṃ, bhikkhave, asappurisdhammo.

This is a quality of a bad person.

Sappuriso ca kho, bhikkhave, iti paṭisañcikkhati:

A good person reflects:

‘na kho uccākulīnatāya lobhadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, dosadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, mohadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti.

‘It’s not because of one’s eminent family that thoughts of greed, hate, or delusion come to an end.

No cepi uccākulā pabbajito hoti;

Even if someone has not gone forth from an eminent family, so ca hoti dhammānudhammappaṭipanno sāmīcippaṭipanno anudhammacārī, so tattha puḷḷo, so tattha pāsāṃso’ti.

if they practice in line with the teaching, practice properly, and live in line with the teaching, they are worthy of honor and praise for that.'

So paṭipadamyeva antaram karitvā tāya uccākulīnatāya nevatānukkaṃseti na param vambheti.

Keeping only the practice close to their heart, they don't glorify themselves and put others down on account of their eminent family.

Ayam, bhikkhave, sappurisdhammo. (1)

This is a quality of a good person.

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, asappuriso mahākulā pabbajito hoti ...pe...

Furthermore, take a bad person who has gone forth from a great family ...

mahābhogakulā pabbajito hoti ...pe...

from a wealthy family ...

uḷārabhogakulā pabbajito hoti.

from an extremely wealthy family.

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:

They reflect:

'aham khomhi uḷārabhogakulā pabbajito, ime panaññe bhikkhū na uḷārabhogakulā pabbajitā'ti.

'I have gone forth from an extremely wealthy family, unlike these other mendicants.'

So tāya uḷārabhogatāya attānukkaṃseti, param vambheti.

And they glorify themselves and put others down on account of that.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, asappurisdhammo.

This too is a quality of a bad person.

Sappuriso ca kho, bhikkhave, iti paṭisañcikkhati:

A good person reflects:

'na kho uḷārabhogatāya lobhadhammā vā parikkhayam gacchanti, dosadhammā vā parikkhayam gacchanti, mohadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti.

‘It’s not because of one’s extremely wealthy family that thoughts of greed, hate, or delusion come to an end.

No cepi uḷārabhogakuḷā pabbajito hoti;

Even if someone has not gone forth from an extremely wealthy family,

so ca hoti dhammānudhammappaṭipanno sāmīcippaṭipanno
anudhammacārī, so tattha puḷḷo, so tattha pāsāṃso’ti.

if they practice in line with the teaching, practice properly, and live in line with the teaching, they are worthy of honor and praise for that.’

So paṭipadaṃyeva antaraṃ karitvā tāya uḷārabhogatāya
nevattānukkaṃseti, na paraṃ vambheti.

Keeping only the practice close to their heart, they don’t glorify themselves and put others down on account of their extremely wealthy family.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, sappurisdhammo. (2–4.)

This too is a quality of a good person.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, asappuriso ñāto hoti yasassī.

Furthermore, take a bad person who is well-known and famous.

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:

They reflect:

‘ahaṃ khomhi ñāto yasassī, ime panaññe bhikkhū appaññātā appesakkhā’ti.

‘I’m well-known and famous. These other mendicants are obscure and insignificant.’

So tena ñattena attānukkaṃseti, paraṃ vambheti.

And they glorify themselves and put others down on account of that.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, asappurisdhammo.

This too is a quality of a bad person.

Sappuriso ca kho, bhikkhave, iti paṭisañcikkhati:

A good person reflects:

‘na kho ñattena lobhadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, dosadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, mohadhammā vā
parikkhayaṃ gacchanti.

‘It’s not because of one’s fame that thoughts of greed, hate, or delusion come to an end.

No cepi ñāto hoti yasassī;

Even if someone is not well-known and famous,

so ca hoti dhammānudhammappaṭipanno sāmīcippaṭipanno
anudhammacārī, so tattha puḷḷo, so tattha pāsāṃso’ti.

if they practice in line with the teaching, practice properly, and live in line with the teaching, they are worthy of honor and praise for that.’

So paṭipadaṃyeva antaraṃ karitvā tena ñattena
nevattānukkaṃseti, na paraṃ vambheti.

Keeping only the practice close to their heart, they don’t glorify themselves and put others down on account of their fame.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, sappurisaḍḍhammo. (5)

This too is a quality of a good person.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, asappuriso lābhī hoti cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhārāna
ṃ.

Furthermore, take a bad person who receives robes, alms-food, lodgings, and medicines and supplies for the sick.

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:

They reflect:

‘ahaṃ khomhi lābhī
cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhārāna
ṃ, ime panaññe bhikkhū na lābhino cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhārānan
'ti.

‘I receive robes, alms-food, lodgings, and medicines and supplies for the sick, unlike these other mendicants.’

So tena lābhena attānukkaṃseti, paraṃ vambheti.

And they glorify themselves and put others down on account of that.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, asappurisdhammo.

This too is a quality of a bad person.

Sappuriso ca kho, bhikkhave, iti paṭisañcikkhati:

A good person reflects:

‘na kho lābhena lobhadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, dosadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, mohadhammā vā
parikkhayaṃ gacchanti.

‘It’s not because of one’s material possessions that thoughts of greed, hate, or delusion come to an end.

No cepi lābhī hoti

cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhārāna
ṃ;

Even if someone doesn’t receive robes, alms-food, lodgings, and medicines and supplies for the sick,

so ca hoti dhammānudhammappaṭipanno sāmīcippaṭipanno anudhammacārī, so tattha puṇṇo, so tattha pāsāṃso’ti.

if they practice in line with the teaching, practice properly, and live in line with the teaching, they are worthy of honor and praise for that.’

So paṭipadaṃyeva antaraṃ karitvā tena lābhena
nevattānukkaṃseti, na paraṃ vambheti.

Keeping only the practice close to their heart, they don’t glorify themselves and put others down on account of their material possessions.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, sappurisdhammo. (6)

This too is a quality of a good person.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, asappuriso bahussuto hoti.

Furthermore, take a bad person who is very learned ...

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:

‘ahaṃ khomhi bahussuto, ime panaññe bhikkhū na bahussutā’ti.

So tena bāhusaccena attānukkaṃseti, paraṃ vambheti.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, asappurisdhammo.

Sappuriso ca kho, bhikkhave, iti paṭisañcikkhati:

‘na kho bāhusaccena lobhadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, dosadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, mohadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti.

No cepi bahussuto hoti;

so ca hoti dhammānudhammappaṭipanno sāmīcippaṭipanno anudhammacārī, so tattha puḷḷo, so tattha pāsāṃso’ti.

So paṭipadaṃyeva antaraṃ karitvā tena bāhusaccena nevattānukkaṃseti, na paraṃ vambheti.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, sappurisdhammo. (7)

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, asappuriso vinayadharo hoti.

who is an expert in the texts on monastic training ...

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:

‘ahaṃ khomhi vinayadharo, ime panaññe bhikkhū na vinayadharā’ti.

So tena vinayadharattena attānukkaṃseti, paraṃ vambheti.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, asappurisdhammo.

Sappuriso ca kho, bhikkhave, iti paṭisañcikkhati:

‘na kho vinayadharattena lobhadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, dosadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, mohadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti.

No cepi vinayadharo hoti;

so ca hoti dhammānudhammappaṭipanno sāmīcippaṭipanno anudhammacārī, so tattha puḷḷo, so tattha pāsāṃso’ti.

So paṭipadaṃyeva antaraṃ karitvā tena vinayadharattena
nevattānukkaṃseti, na paraṃ vambheti.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, sappurisdhammo. (8)

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, asappuriso dhammakathiko hoti.
who is a Dhamma teacher ...

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:

‘ahaṃ khomhi dhammakathiko, ime panaññe bhikkhū na dhammakathikā’ti.

So tena dhammakathikattena attānukkaṃseti, paraṃ vambheti.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, asappurisdhammo.

Sappuriso ca kho, bhikkhave, iti paṭisañcikkhati:

‘na kho dhammakathikattena lobhadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, dosadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, mohadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti.

No cepi dhammakathiko hoti;

so ca hoti dhammānudhammappaṭipanno sāmīcippaṭipanno

So paṭipadaṃyeva antaraṃ karitvā tena dhammakathikattena nevattānukkaṃseti, na paraṃ vambheti.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, sappurisdhammo. (9)

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, asappuriso āraññiko hoti.
who dwells in the wilderness ...

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:

‘ahaṃ khomhi āraññiko ime panaññe bhikkhū na āraññikā’ti.

So tena āraññikattena attānukkaṃseti, paraṃ vambheti.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, asappurisdhammo.

Sappuriso ca kho, bhikkhave, iti paṭisañcikkhati:

‘na kho āraññikattena lobhadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, dosadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, mohadhammā vā
parikkhayaṃ gacchanti.

No cepi āraññiko hoti;

so ca hoti dhammānudhammappaṭipanno sāmīcippaṭipanno

So paṭipadaṃyeva antaraṃ karitvā tena āraññikattena
nevattānukkaṃseti, na paraṃ vambheti.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, sappurisdhammo. (10)

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, asappuriso paṃsukūliko hoti. who is a rag robe wearer ...

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:

‘ahaṃ khomhi paṃsukūliko, ime panaññe bhikkhū na paṃsukūlikā’ti.

So tena paṃsukūlikattena attānukkaṃseti, paraṃ vambheti.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, asappurisdhammo.

Sappuriso ca kho, bhikkhave, iti paṭisañcikkhati:

‘na kho paṃsukūlikattena lobhadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ

Ayampi, bhikkhave, sappurisdhammo. (11)

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, asappuriso piṇḍapātiko hoti. who eats only alms-food ...

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:

‘ahaṃ khomhi piṇḍapātiko, ime panaññe bhikkhū na piṇḍapātikā’ti.

So tena piṇḍapātikattena attānukkaṃseti, paraṃ vambheti.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, asappurisdhammo.

Sappuriso ca kho, bhikkhave, iti paṭisañcikkhati:

‘na kho piṇḍapātikattena lobhadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, dosadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, mohadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti.

No cepi piṇḍapātiko hoti;

so ca hoti dhammānudhammappaṭipanno sāmīcippaṭipanno anudhammacārī, so tattha puḷḷo, so tattha pāsāṃso’ti.

So paṭipadaṃyeva antaraṃ karitvā tena piṇḍapātikattena nevattānukkaṃseti, na paraṃ vambheti.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, sappurisdhammo. (12)

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, asappuriso rukkhamūliko hoti.
who stays at the root of a tree ...

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:

‘ahaṃ khomhi rukkhamūliko, ime panaññe bhikkhū na rukkhamūlikā’ti.

So tena rukkhamūlikattena attānukkaṃseti, paraṃ vambheti.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, asappurisdhammo.

Sappuriso ca kho, bhikkhave, iti paṭisañcikkhati:

‘na kho rukkhamūlikattena lobhadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, dosadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, mohadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti.

ekāsaniko hoti.
who eats in one sitting per day.

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:
They reflect:

'ahaṃ khomhi ekāsaniko, ime panaññe bhikkhū na ekāsanikā'ti.
'I eat in one sitting per day, unlike these other mendicants.'

So tena ekāsanikattena attānukkaṃseti, paraṃ vambheti.
And they glorify themselves and put others down on account of that.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, asappurisa-dhammo.
This too is a quality of a bad person.

Sappuriso ca kho, bhikkhave, iti paṭisañcikkhati:
A good person reflects:

'na kho ekāsanikattena lobhadhammā vā parikkhayaṃ

And they glorify themselves and put others down on account of that.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, asappurisaḍḍhammo.

This too is a quality of a bad person.

Sappuriso ca kho, bhikkhave, iti paṭisañcikkhati:

A good person reflects:

‘paṭhamajjhānasamāpattiyāpi kho atammayatā vuttā bhagavatā.
‘The Buddha has spoken of not identifying even with the attainment of the first absorption.

What Should and Should Not Be Cultivated

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“sevitabbāsevitabbaṃ vo, bhikkhave, dhammapariyāyaṃ desessāmi.

“Mendicants, I will teach you an exposition of the teaching on what should and should not be cultivated.

Tam suṇātha, sādhukaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmī”ti.

Listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.
“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:
The Buddha said this:

“Kāyasamācārapāhaṃ, bhikkhave, duvidhena vadāmi—
“I say that there are two kinds of bodily behavior:

sevitabbampi, asevitabbampi;
that which you should cultivate, and that which you should not cultivate.

Evam vutte āyasmā sāriputto bhagavantam etadavoca:

When he said this, Venerable Sāriputta said to the Buddha, “imassa kho ahaṃ, bhante, bhagavatā saṅkhittena bhāsitassa, vitthārena atthaṃ avibhattassa, evaṃ vitthārena atthaṃ ājānāmi.

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā sāriputto bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Venerable Sāriputta was happy with what the Buddha said.

Sevitabbāsevitabbasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ catutthaṃ.

115. Bahudhātukasutta Many Elements

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta’s Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tatra kho bhagava bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagava etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Yāni kānici, bhikkhave, bhayāni uppajjanti sabbāni tāni bālato uppajjanti, no paṇḍitato;

“Whatever dangers there are, all come from the foolish, not from the astute.

ye keci upaddavā uppajjanti sabbe te bālato uppajjanti, no paṇḍitato;

Whatever perils there are, all come from the foolish, not from the astute.

ye keci upasaggā uppajjanti sabbe te bālato uppajjanti, no paṇḍitato.

Whatever hazards there are, all come from the foolish, not from the astute.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, naḷāgārā vā tiṇāgārā vā aggi mutto kūṭāgārānipi dahati ullittāvalittāni nivātāni phusitaggaḷāni pihitavātapānāni;

It's like a fire that spreads from a hut made of reeds or grass, and burns down even a bungalow, plastered inside and out, draft-free, with latches fastened and windows shuttered.

evameva kho, bhikkhave, yāni kānici bhayāni uppajjanti sabbāni tāni bālato uppajjanti, no paṇḍitato;

In the same way, whatever dangers there are, all come from the foolish, not from the astute.

ye keci upaddavā uppajjanti sabbe te bālato uppajjanti, no paṇḍitato;

Whatever perils there are, all come from the foolish, not from the astute.

ye keci upasaggā uppajjanti sabbe te bālato uppajjanti, no paṇḍitato.

Whatever hazards there are, all come from the foolish, not from the astute.

Iti kho, bhikkhave, sappāṭibhayo bālo, appaṭibhayo paṇḍito;
So, the fool is dangerous, but the astute person is safe.

saupaddavo bālo, anupaddavo paṇḍito;

The fool is perilous, but the astute person is not.

saupasaggo bālo, anupasaggo paṇḍito.

The fool is hazardous, but the astute person is not.

Natthi, bhikkhave, paṇḍitato bhayaṃ, natthi paṇḍitato upaddavo, natthi paṇḍitato upasaggo.

There's no danger, peril, or hazard that comes from the astute.

Tasmātiha, bhikkhave, ‘paṇḍitā bhavissāma vīmaṃsakā’ti—
So you should train like this: ‘We shall be astute, we shall be inquirers.’” evañhi vo, bhikkhave, sikkhitabban”ti.

Evaṃ vutte, āyasmā ānando bhagavantam etadavoca:

When he said this, Venerable Ānanda said to the Buddha,

“kittāvatā nu kho, bhante, paṇḍito bhikkhu ‘vīmaṃsako’ti alamvacanāyā”ti?

“Sir, how is a mendicant qualified to be called ‘astute, an inquirer’?”

“Yato kho, ānanda, bhikkhu dhātukusalo ca hoti, āyatanakusalo ca hoti, paṭiccasamuppādakusalo ca hoti, ṭhānāṭhānakusalo ca
hoti—

“Ānanda, it’s when a mendicant is skilled in the elements, in the sense fields, in dependent origination, and in the possible and the impossible.

ettāvatā kho, ānanda, paṇḍito bhikkhu ‘vīmaṃsako’ti alamvacanāyā”ti.

That’s how a mendicant is qualified to be called ‘astute, an inquirer’.”

“Kittāvatā pana, bhante, ‘dhātukusalo bhikkhū’ti alamvacanāyā”ti?

“But sir, how is a mendicant qualified to be called ‘skilled in the elements’?”

“Aṭṭhārasa kho imā, ānanda, dhātuyo—

“There are, Ānanda, these eighteen elements:

cakkhudhātu, rūpadhātu, cakkhaviññāṇadhātu;

the elements of the eye, sights, and eye consciousness;

sotadhātu, saddadhātu, sotaviññāṇadhātu;

the ear, sounds, and ear consciousness;

ghānadhātu, gandhadhātu, ghānaviññāṇadhātu;
the nose, smells, and nose consciousness;

“But sir, could there be another way in which a mendicant is qualified to be called ‘skilled in the elements’?”

“Siyā, ānanda.

“There could, Ānanda.

Chayimā, ānanda, dhātuyo—

There are these six elements:

pathavīdhātu, āpodhātu, tejodhātu, vāyodhātu, ākāsadhātu,

the elements of pleasure, pain, happiness, sadness, equanimity, and ignorance.

Imā kho, ānanda, cha dhātuyo yato jānāti passati—

When a mendicant knows and sees these six elements,

ettāvatāpi kho, ānanda, ‘dhātukusalo bhikkhū’ti alaṃvacanāyā”ti. (3)

“Siyā pana, bhante, aññopi pariyāyo, yathā ‘dhātukusalo bhikkhū’ti alaṃvacanāyā”ti?

“Siyā, ānanda.

“There could, Ānanda.

Chayimā, ānanda, dhātuyo—

There are these six elements:

kāmadhātu, nekkhammadhātu, byāpādadhātu, abyāpādadhātu, vihiṃsādhātu, avihiṃsādhātu.

the elements of sensuality and renunciation, malice and good will, and cruelty and harmlessness.

Imā kho, ānanda, cha dhātuyo yato jānāti passati—
When a mendicant knows and sees these six elements,

ettāvatāpi kho, ānanda, ‘dhātukusalo bhikkhū’ti

“But sir, could there be another way in which a mendicant is qualified to be called ‘skilled in the elements’?”

“Siyā, ānanda.

“There could, Ānanda.

Dve imā, ānanda, dhātuyo—

There are these two elements:

saṅkhatādhātu, asaṅkhatādhātu.

the conditioned element and the unconditioned element.

Imā kho, ānanda, dve dhātuyo yato jānāti passati—

Ettāvatā kho, ānanda, ‘ṭhānāṭṭhānakusalo bhikkhū’ti alaṃvacanāyā”ti.

That’s how a mendicant is qualified to be called ‘skilled in the possible and impossible’.”

Evaṃ vutte, āyasmā ānando bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he said this, Venerable Ānanda said to the Buddha,

“acchariyaṃ, bhante, abbhutaṃ, bhante.

Konāmo ayaṃ, bhante, dhammapariyāyo”ti?

What is the name of this exposition of the teaching?”

“Tasmātiha tvaṃ, ānanda, imaṃ dhammapariyāyaṃ

‘dhammādāso’tipi naṃ dhārehi, ‘amatadundubhī’tipi naṃ dhārehi, ‘anuttaro saṅgāma vijayo’tipi naṃ dhārehi”ti.

“In that case, Ānanda, you may remember this exposition of the teaching as ‘The Many Elements’, or else ‘The Four Cycles’, or else ‘The Mirror of the Teaching’, or else ‘The Drum of the Deathless’, or else ‘The Supreme Victory in Battle’.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā ānando bhagavato bhāsitam abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Venerable Ānanda was happy with what the Buddha said.

Bahudhātukasuttam niṭṭhitam pañcamam.

116. Isigilisutta At Isigili

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati isigilismimṃ pabbate.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, on the Isigili Mountain.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Passatha no tumhe, bhikkhave, etaṃ vebhāraṃ pabbatan”ti?

“Mendicants, do you see that Mount Vebhāra?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Etassapi kho, bhikkhave, vebhārassa pabbatassa aññāva samaññā ahoṣi aññā paññatti.

“It used to have a different label and description.

Passatha no tumhe, bhikkhave, etaṃ paṇḍavaṃ pabbatan”ti?
Do you see that Mount Paṇḍava?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.
“Yes, sir.”

“Etassapi kho, bhikkhave, paṇḍavassa pabbatassa aññāva samaññā ahosi aññā paññatti.
“It too used to have a different label and description.

Passatha no tumhe, bhikkhave, etaṃ vepullaṃ pabbatan”ti?
Do you see that Mount Vepulla?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.
“Yes, sir.”

“Etassapi kho, bhikkhave, vepullassa pabbatassa aññāva samaññā ahosi aññā paññatti.
“It too used to have a different label and description.

Passatha no tumhe, bhikkhave, etaṃ gijjhakūṭaṃ pabbatan”ti?
Do you see that Mount Vulture’s Peak?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.
“Yes, sir.”

“Etassapi kho, bhikkhave, gijjhakūṭassa pabbatassa aññāva samaññā ahosi aññā paññatti.
“It too used to have a different label and description.

Passatha no tumhe, bhikkhave, imaṃ isigiliṃ pabbatan”ti?
Do you see that Mount Isigili?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.
“Yes, sir.”

“Imassa kho pana, bhikkhave, isigilissa pabbatassa esāva samaññā ahoṣi esā paññatti.

“It used to have exactly the same label and description.

Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, pañca paccekabuddhasatāni imasmim̐ isigilismim̐ pabbate ciranivāsino ahesum̐.

Once upon a time, five hundred Buddhas awakened for themselves dwelt for a long time on this Isigili.

Te imaṃ pabbataṃ pavisantā dissanti, pavitṭhā na dissanti.

They were seen entering the mountain, but after entering were seen no more.

Tamenam̐ manussā disvā evamāhaṃsu:

When people noticed this they said:

‘ayaṃ pabbato ime isī gilatī’ti;

‘That mountain swallows these hermits!’

‘isigili isigili’ tveva samaññā udapādi.

That’s how it came to be known as Isigili.

Ācikkhissāmi, bhikkhave, paccekabuddhānaṃ nāmāni;

I shall declare the names of the Buddhas awakened for themselves;

kittayissāmi, bhikkhave, paccekabuddhānaṃ nāmāni;

I shall extol the names of the Buddhas awakened for themselves;

desessāmi, bhikkhave, paccekabuddhānaṃ nāmāni.

I shall teach the names of the Buddhas awakened for themselves.

Taṃ suṇātha, sādhukaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmī”ti.

Listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum̐.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Ariṭṭho nāma, bhikkhave, paccekasambuddho imasmim̐ isigilismim̐ pabbate ciranivāsī ahoṣi;

“The Buddhas awakened for themselves who dwelt for a long time

117. Mahācattārīsakasutta The Great Forty

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“ariyam vo, bhikkhave, sammāsamādhim desessāmi saupanisam saporikkhāram.

“Mendicants, I will teach you noble right immersion with its vital conditions and its prerequisites.

Tam suṇātha, sādhu kam manasi karotha, bhāsissāmī”ti.

Listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Katamo ca, bhikkhave, ariyo sammāsamādhī saupaniso saparikkhāro?”

“And what is noble right immersion with its vital conditions and its prerequisites?”

Seyyathidaṃ—sammādiṭṭhi, sammāsaṅkappo, sammāvācā, sammākammanto, sammājīvo, sammāvāyāmo, sammāsati;
They are: right view, right thought, right speech, right action, right livelihood, right effort, and right mindfulness.

yā kho, bhikkhave, imehi sattahaṅgehi cittassa ekaggatā parikkhatā—

Unification of mind with these seven factors as prerequisites

ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, ariyo sammāsamādhī saupaniso itipi, saparikkhāro itipi.

is called noble right immersion with its vital conditions and also with its prerequisites.

Tatra, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi pubbaṅgamā hoti.

In this context, right view comes first.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi pubbaṅgamā hoti?

And how does right view come first?

Micchādiṭṭhiṃ ‘micchādiṭṭhī’ti pajānāti, sammādiṭṭhiṃ ‘sammādiṭṭhī’ti pajānāti—sāssa hoti sammādiṭṭhi.

When you understand wrong view as wrong view and right view as right view, that’s your right view.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, micchādiṭṭhi?

And what is wrong view?

‘Natthi dinnam, natthi yiṭṭham, natthi hutam, natthi sukata dukkaṭānam kammānam phalam vipāko, natthi ayam loko, natthi paro loko, natthi mātā, natthi pitā, natthi sattā opapātikā, natthi loke samaṇabrāhmaṇā sammaggatā sammāpaṭipannā ye imaṅca lokam paraṅca lokam sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā pavedentī’ti—

ayam, bhikkhave, micchādiṭṭhi.

This is wrong view.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi?

And what is right view?

Sammādiṭṭhimpaham, bhikkhave, dvāyam vadāmi—

Right view is twofold, I say.

atthi, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi sāsavā puññabhāgiyā upadhivepakkā;

There is right view that is accompanied by defilements, has the attributes of good deeds, and ripens in attachment.

atthi, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi ariyā anāsavā lokuttarā maggaṅgā.

And there is right view that is noble, undefiled, transcendent, a factor of the path.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi sāsavā puññabhāgiyā upadhivepakkā?

And what is right view that is accompanied by defilements, has the attributes of good deeds, and ripens in attachment?

‘Atthi dinnam, atthi yiṭṭham, atthi hutam, atthi sukata dukkaṭānam kammānam phalam vipāko, atthi ayam loko, atthi paro loko, atthi mātā, atthi pitā, atthi sattā opapātikā, atthi loke samaṇabrāhmaṇā sammaggatā sammāpaṭipannā ye imaṅca lokam paraṅca lokam sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā pavedentī’ti—

‘There is meaning in giving, sacrifice, and offerings. There are fruits and results of good and bad deeds. There is an afterlife. There are duties to mother and father. There are beings reborn spontaneously. And there are ascetics and brahmins who are well attained and practiced, and who describe the afterlife after realizing it with their own insight.’

ayam, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi sāsavā puññabhāgiyā upadhivepakkā.

This is right view that is accompanied by defilements, has the attributes of good deeds, and ripens in attachment.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi ariyā anāsavā lokuttarā maggaṅgā?

And what is right view that is noble, undefiled, transcendent, a factor of the path?

Yā kho, bhikkhave, ariyacittassa anāsavacittassa ariyamaggasamaṅgino ariyamaggaṃ bhāvayato paññā paññindriyam paññābalaṃ dhammavicayasambojjhaṅgo sammādiṭṭhi maggaṅgam—

It’s the wisdom—the faculty of wisdom, the power of wisdom, the awakening factor of investigation of principles, and right view as a factor of the path—in one of noble mind and undefiled mind, who possesses the noble path and develops the noble path.

ayam vuccati, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi ariyā anāsavā lokuttarā maggaṅgā.

This is called right view that is noble, undefiled, transcendent, a factor of the path.

So micchādiṭṭhiyā pahānāya vāyamati, sammādiṭṭhiyā, upasampadāya, svāssa hoti sammāvāyāmo.

They make an effort to give up wrong view and embrace right view:
that's their right effort.

So sato micchādiṭṭhiṃ pajahati, sato sammādiṭṭhiṃ upasampajja viharati, sāssa hoti sammāsati.

Mindfully they give up wrong view and take up right view: that's their right mindfulness.

Itiyime tayo dhammā sammādiṭṭhiṃ anuparidhāvanti anuparivattanti, seyyathidaṃ—sammādiṭṭhi, sammāvāyāmo, sammāsati.

So these three things keep running and circling around right view, namely: right view, right effort, and right mindfulness.

Tatra, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi pubbaṅgamā hoti.

In this context, right view comes first.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi pubbaṅgamā hoti?

And how does right view come first?

Micchāsaṅkappaṃ 'micchāsaṅkappo'ti pajānāti, sammāsaṅkappaṃ 'sammāsaṅkappo'ti pajānāti, sāssa hoti sammādiṭṭhi.

When you understand wrong thought as wrong thought and right thought as right thought, that's your right view.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, micchāsaṅkappo?

And what is wrong thought?

Kāmasaṅkappo, byāpādasāṅkappo, vihiṃsāsaṅkappo—

Thoughts of sensuality, of malice, and of cruelty.

ayaṃ, bhikkhave, micchāsaṅkappo.

This is wrong thought.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, sammāsaṅkappo?

And what is right thought?

Sammāsaṅkappampahaṃ, bhikkhave, dvāyaṃ vadāmi—

Right thought is twofold, I say.

atthi, bhikkhave, sammāsaṅkappo sāsavo puññabhāgiyo upadhivepakko;

There is right thought that is accompanied by defilements, has the attributes of good deeds, and ripens in attachment.

atthi, bhikkhave, sammāsaṅkappo ariyo anāsavo lokuttaro maggaṅgo.

And there is right thought that is noble, undefiled, transcendent, a factor of the path.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, sammāsaṅkappo sāsavo puññabhāgiyo upadhivepakko?

And what is right thought that is accompanied by defilements, has the attributes of good deeds, and ripens in attachment?

Nekkhammasaṅkappo, abyāpādasāṅkappo, avihimsāsaṅkappo:

Thoughts of renunciation, good will, and harmlessness.

‘ayaṃ, bhikkhave, sammāsaṅkappo sāsavo puññabhāgiyo upadhivepakko’.

This is right thought that is accompanied by defilements.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, sammāsaṅkappo ariyo anāsavo lokuttaro maggaṅgo?

And what is right thought that is noble, undefiled, transcendent, a factor of the path?

Yo kho, bhikkhave, ariyacittassa anāsavacittassa ariyamaggasamaṅgino ariyamaggaṃ bhāvayato takko vitakko saṅkappo appanā byappanā cetaso abhiniropanā vacīsaṅkhāro

It’s the thinking—the placing of the mind, thought, applying, application, implanting of the mind, verbal processes—in one of noble mind and undefiled mind, who possesses the noble path and develops the noble path.

ayaṃ, bhikkhave, sammāsaṅkappo ariyo anāsavo lokuttaro maggaṅgo.

This is right thought that is noble.

So micchāsaṅkappassa pahānāya vāyamati, sammāsaṅkappassa upasampadāya, svāssa hoti sammāvāyāmo.

They make an effort to give up wrong thought and embrace right thought: that's their right effort.

So sato micchāsaṅkappaṃ pajahati, sato sammāsaṅkappaṃ upasampajja viharati; sāssa hoti sammāsaṅkappo.

Mindfully they give up wrong thought and take up right thought: that's their right mindfulness.

Itiyime tayo dhammā sammāsaṅkappaṃ anuparidhāvanti anuparivattanti, seyyathidaṃ—sammādiṭṭhi, sammāvāyāmo, sammāsaṅkappo.

So these three things keep running and circling around right thought, namely: right view, right effort, and right mindfulness.

Tatra, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi pubbaṅgamā hoti.

In this context, right view comes first.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi pubbaṅgamā hoti?

And how does right view come first?

Micchāvācaṃ 'micchāvācā'ti pajānāti, sammāvācaṃ 'sammāvācā'ti pajānāti; sāssa hoti sammādiṭṭhi.

When you understand wrong speech as wrong speech and right speech as right speech, that's your right view.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, micchāvācā?

And what is wrong speech?

Musāvādo, pisuṇā vācā, pharusā vācā, samphappalāpo—
Speech that's false, divisive, harsh, or nonsensical.

ayaṃ, bhikkhave, micchāvācā.
This is wrong speech.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, sammāvācā?
And what is right speech?

Sammāvācampahaṃ, bhikkhave, dvāyaṃ vadāmi—Right speech is twofold, I say.

atthi, bhikkhave, sammāvācā sāsavā puññabhāgiyā
upadhivepakkā;
There is right speech that is accompanied by defilements, has the attributes of good deeds, and ripens in attachment.

atthi, bhikkhave, sammāvācā ariyā anāsavā lokuttarā maggaṅgā.
And there is right speech that is noble, undefiled, transcendent, a factor of the path.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, sammāvācā sāsavā puññabhāgiyā upadhivepakkā?
And what is right speech that is accompanied by defilements, has the attributes of good deeds, and ripens in attachment?

Musāvādā veramaṇī, pisuṇāya vācāya veramaṇī, pharusāya vācāya veramaṇī, samphappalāpā veramaṇī—
The refraining from lying, divisive speech, harsh speech, and talking nonsense.

ayaṃ, bhikkhave, sammāvācā sāsavā puññabhāgiyā
upadhivepakkā.
This is right speech that is accompanied by defilements.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, sammāvācā ariyā anāsavā lokuttarā
maggaṅgā?

And what is right speech that is noble, undefiled, transcendent, a factor of the path?

Yā kho, bhikkhave, ariyacittassa anāsavacittassa ariyamaggasamaṅgino ariyamaggaṃ bhāvayato catūhi vacīduccaritehi ārati virati paṭivirati veramaṇī—

It's the desisting, abstaining, abstinence, and refraining from the four kinds of bad verbal conduct in one of noble mind and undefiled mind, who possesses the noble path and develops the noble path.

ayaṃ, bhikkhave, sammāvācā ariyā anāsavā lokuttarā maggaṅgā.

This is right speech that is noble.

So micchāvācāya pahānāya vāyamati, sammāvācāya upasampadāya; svāssa hoti sammāvāyāmo.

They make an effort to give up wrong speech and embrace right speech: that's their right effort.

So sato micchāvācaṃ pajahati, sato sammāvācaṃ upasampajja viharati; sāssa hoti sammāsaṭi.

Mindfully they give up wrong speech and take up right speech: that's their right mindfulness.

Itiyime tayo dhammā sammāvācaṃ anuparidhāvanti anuparivattanti, seyyathidaṃ—sammādiṭṭhi, sammāvāyāmo, sammāsaṭi.

So these three things keep running and circling around right speech, namely: right view, right effort, and right mindfulness.

Tatra, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi pubbaṅgamā hoti.

In this context, right view comes first.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi pubbaṅgamā hoti?

And how does right view come first?

Micchākammantaṃ 'micchākammanto'ti pajānāti, sammākammantaṃ 'sammākammanto'ti pajānāti; sāssa hoti sammādiṭṭhi.

When you understand wrong action as wrong action and right action as right action, that's your right view.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, micchākamanto?

And what is wrong action?

Pāṇātipāto, adinnādānaṃ, kāmesumicchācāro—

Killing living creatures, stealing, and sexual misconduct.

ayaṃ, bhikkhave, micchākamanto.

This is wrong action.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, sammākamanto?

And what is right action?

Sammākamantampahaṃ, bhikkhave, dvāyaṃ vadāmi—

Right action is twofold, I say.

atthi, bhikkhave, sammākamanto sāsavo puññabhāgiyo upadhivepakko;

There is right action that is accompanied by defilements, has the attributes of good deeds, and ripens in attachment.

atthi, bhikkhave, sammākamanto ariyo anāsavo lokuttaro maggaṅgo.

And there is right action that is noble, undefiled, transcendent, a factor of the path.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, sammākamanto sāsavo puññabhāgiyo upadhivepakko?

And what is right action that is accompanied by defilements, has the attributes of good deeds, and ripens in attachment?

Pāṇātipātā veramaṇī, adinnādānā veramaṇī, kāmesumicchācārā veramaṇī—

Refraining from killing living creatures, stealing, and sexual misconduct.

ayaṃ, bhikkhave, sammākamanto sāsavo puññabhāgiyo upadhivepakko.

This is right action that is accompanied by defilements.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, sammākamanto ariyo anāsavo lokuttaro maggaṅgo?

And what is right action that is noble, undefiled, transcendent, a factor of the path?

Yā kho, bhikkhave, ariyacittassa anāsavacittassa ariyamaggasamaṅgino ariyamaggaṃ bhāvayato tīhi kāyaduccaritehi ārati virati paṭivirati veramaṇī—

It's the desisting, abstaining, abstinence, and refraining from the three kinds of bad bodily conduct in one of noble mind and undefiled mind, who possesses the noble path and develops the noble path.

ayaṃ, bhikkhave, sammākamanto ariyo anāsavo lokuttaro maggaṅgo.

This is right action that is noble.

So micchākamantassa pahānāya vāyamati, sammākamantassa upasampadāya; svāssa hoti sammāvāyāmo.

They make an effort to give up wrong action and embrace right action: that's their right effort.

So sato micchākamantaṃ pajahati, sato sammākamantaṃ upasampajja viharati; sāssa hoti sammāsaṭi.

Mindfully they give up wrong action and take up right action: that's their right mindfulness.

Itiyime tayo dhammā sammākamantaṃ anuparidhāvanti anuparivattanti, seyyathidaṃ—sammādiṭṭhi, sammāvāyāmo, sammāsaṭi.

So these three things keep running and circling around right action, namely: right view, right effort, and right mindfulness.

Tatra, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi pubbaṅgamā hoti.

In this context, right view comes first.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi pubbaṅgamā hoti?

And how does right view come first?

Micchāājīvaṃ ‘micchāājīvo’ti pajānāti, sammāājīvaṃ ‘sammāājīvo’ti pajānāti; sāssa hoti sammādiṭṭhi.

When you understand wrong livelihood as wrong livelihood and right livelihood as right livelihood, that’s your right view.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, micchāājīvo?

And what is wrong livelihood?

Kuhanā, lapanā, nemittikatā, nippesikatā, lābhena lābhaṃ nijigīsanatā—

Deceit, flattery, hinting, and belittling, and using material possessions to pursue other material possessions.

ayaṃ, bhikkhave, micchāājīvo.

This is wrong livelihood.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, sammāājīvo?

And what is right livelihood?

Sammāājīvampahaṃ, bhikkhave, dvāyaṃ vadāmi—

Right livelihood is twofold, I say.

atthi, bhikkhave, sammāājīvo sāsavo puññabhāgiyo upadhivepakko;

There is right livelihood that is accompanied by defilements, has the attributes of good deeds, and ripens in attachment.

atthi, bhikkhave, sammāājīvo ariyo anāsavo lokuttaro maggāṅgo.

And there is right livelihood that is noble, undefiled, transcendent, a factor of the path.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, sammāājīvo sāsavo puññabhāgiyo upadhivepakko?

And what is right livelihood that is accompanied by defilements, has the attributes of good deeds, and ripens in attachment?

Idha, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako micchāājīvaṃ pahāya sammāājīvena jīvikaṃ kappeti—

It's when a noble disciple gives up wrong livelihood and earns a living by right livelihood.

ayaṃ, bhikkhave, sammāājīvo sāsavo puññabhāgiyo upadhivepakko.

This is right livelihood that is accompanied by defilements.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, sammāājīvo ariyo anāsavo lokuttaro maggaṅgo?

And what is right livelihood that is noble, undefiled, transcendent, a factor of the path?

Yā kho, bhikkhave, ariyacittassa anāsavacittassa ariyamaggasamaṅgino ariyamaggaṃ bhāvayato micchāājīvā ārati virati paṭivirati veramaṇī—

It's the desisting, abstaining, abstinence, and refraining from wrong livelihood in one of noble mind and undefiled mind, who possesses the noble path and develops the noble path.

ayaṃ, bhikkhave, sammāājīvo ariyo anāsavo lokuttaro maggaṅgo.

This is right livelihood that is noble.

So micchāājīvassa pahānāya vāyamati, sammāājīvassa upasampadāya; svāssa hoti sammāvāyāmo.

They make an effort to give up wrong livelihood and embrace right livelihood: that's their right effort.

So sato micchāājīvaṃ pajahati, sato sammāājīvaṃ upasampajja viharati; sāssa hoti sammāsati.

Mindfully they give up wrong livelihood and take up right livelihood: that's their right mindfulness.

Itiyime tayo dhammā sammāājīvaṃ anuparidhāvanti anuparivattanti, seyyathidaṃ—sammādiṭṭhi, sammāvāyāmo,
sammāsati.

So these three things keep running and circling around right livelihood, namely: right view, right effort, and right mindfulness.

Tatra, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi pubbaṅgamā hoti.

In this context, right view comes first.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi pubbaṅgamā hoti?

And how does right view come first?

Sammādiṭṭhissa, bhikkhave, sammāsaṅkappo pahoti, sammāsaṅkappassa sammāvācā pahoti, sammāvācassa sammākammanto pahoti, sammākammantassa sammāājīvo pahoti, sammāājīvassa sammāvāyāmo pahoti, sammāvāyāmassa sammāsati pahoti, sammāsatisa sammāsamādhi pahoti, sammāsamādhissa sammāñāṇaṃ pahoti, sammāñāṇassa sammāvimutti pahoti.

Right view gives rise to right thought. Right thought gives rise to right speech. Right speech gives rise to right action. Right action gives rise to right livelihood. Right livelihood gives rise to right effort. Right effort gives rise to right mindfulness. Right mindfulness gives rise to right immersion. Right immersion gives rise to right knowledge. Right knowledge gives rise to right freedom.

Iti kho, bhikkhave, aṭṭhaṅgasamannāgato sekkho, dasaṅgasamannāgato arahā hoti.

So the trainee has eight factors, while the perfected one has ten factors.

Tatrapī sammāñāṇena aneke pāpakā akusalā dhammā vigatā bhāvanāpāripūriṃ gacchanti.

And here too, the eradication of many bad, unskillful qualities is fully developed due to right knowledge.

Tatra, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi pubbaṅgamā hoti.

In this context, right view comes first.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi pubbaṅgamā hoti?

And how does right view come first?

Sammādiṭṭhissa, bhikkhave, micchādiṭṭhi nijjiṇṇā hoti.

For one of right view, wrong view is worn away.

Ye ca micchādiṭṭhipaccayā aneke pāpakā akusalā dhammā sambhavanti te cassa nijjiṇṇā honti.

And the many bad, unskillful qualities that arise because of wrong view are worn away.

Sammādiṭṭhipaccayā aneke kusalā dhammā bhāvanāpāripūriṃ gacchanti.

And because of right view, many skillful qualities are fully developed.

Sammāsaṅkappassa, bhikkhave, micchāsaṅkappo nijjiṇṇo hoti ...pe...

For one of right thought, wrong thought is worn away. ...

sammāvācassa, bhikkhave, micchāvācā nijjiṇṇā hoti ...

For one of right speech, wrong speech is worn away. ...

sammākammantassa, bhikkhave, micchākammanto nijjiṇṇo hoti

...

For one of right action, wrong action is worn away. ...

sammāājīvassa, bhikkhave, micchāājīvo nijjiṇṇo hoti ...

For one of right livelihood, wrong livelihood is worn away. ...

sammāvāyāmassa, bhikkhave, micchāvāyāmo nijjiṇṇo hoti ...

For one of right effort, wrong effort is worn away. ...

sammāsatissa, bhikkhave, micchāsati nijjiṇṇā hoti ...

For one of right mindfulness, wrong mindfulness is worn away. ...

sammāsamādhissa, bhikkhave, micchāsamādhi nijjiṇṇo hoti ...

For one of right immersion, wrong immersion is worn away. ...

sammāñāṇassa, bhikkhave, micchāñāṇaṃ nijjiṇṇaṃ hoti ...

For one of right knowledge, wrong knowledge is worn away. ...

sammāvimuttassa, bhikkhave, micchāvimutti nijjiṇṇā hoti.

For one of right freedom, wrong freedom is worn away.

Ye ca micchāvimuttipaccayā aneke pāpakā akusalā dhammā sambhavanti te cassa nijjiṇṇā honti.

And the many bad, unskillful qualities that arise because of wrong freedom are worn away.

Sammāvimuttipaccayā ca aneke kusalā dhammā bhāvanāpāripūriṃ gacchanti.

And because of right freedom, many skillful qualities are fully developed.

Iti kho, bhikkhave, vīsati kusalapakkhā, vīsati akusalapakkhā—

So there are twenty on the side of the skillful, and twenty on the side of the unskillful.

mahācattārīsako dhammapariyāyo pavattito appaṭivattiyo samaṇena vā brāhmaṇena vā devena vā mārena vā brahmunā vā kenaci vā lokasmiṃ.

Even those wanderers of the past, Vassa and Bhañña of Ukkalā, who taught the doctrines of no-cause, inaction, and nihilism, didn't imagine that the Great Forty should be criticized or rejected.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Nindābyārosaupārambhabhayā”ti.

For fear of being blamed, criticized, and faulted.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Mahācattārīsakasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ sattamaṃ.

118. Ānāpānassatisutta Mindfulness of Breathing

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati pubbarame migaramatupasade sambahulehi abhinnehi abhinnehi therehi savakehi saddhim—

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in the Eastern Monastery, the stilt longhouse of Migāra’s mother, together with several well-known senior disciples, such as

āyasmata ca sariputtana āyasmata ca mahamoggallānena āyasmata ca mahākassapena āyasmata ca mahākaccāyanena āyasmata ca mahākoṭṭhikena āyasmata ca mahākappinena āyasmata ca mahācundena āyasmata ca anuruddhena āyasmata ca revatena āyasmata ca ānandena, aññehi ca the venerables Sāriputta, Mahāmoggallāna, Mahākassapa, Mahākaccāna, Mahākoṭṭhita, Mahākappina, Mahācunda, Anuruddha, Revata, Ānanda, and others.

Tena kho pana samayena therā bhikkhū nave bhikkhū ovadanti

Now at that time the senior mendicants were advising and instructing the junior mendicants.

Appekacce therā bhikkhū dasapi bhikkhū ovadanti anusāsanti, appekacce therā bhikkhū timsampi bhikkhū ovadanti

anusāsanti, appekacce therā bhikkhū cattārīsampi bhikkhū

Some senior mendicants instructed ten mendicants, while some instructed twenty, thirty, or forty.

Te ca navā bhikkhū therehi bhikkhūhi ovadiyamānā

Being instructed by the senior mendicants, the junior mendicants realized a higher distinction than they had before.

Tena kho pana samayena bhagavā tadahuposathe pannarase

Now, at that time it was the sabbath—the full moon on the fifteenth day—and the Buddha was sitting surrounded by the Saṅgha of monks for the invitation to admonish.

Atha kho bhagavā tuṅhībhūtaṃ tuṅhībhūtaṃ bhikkhusaṅghaṃ

Then the Buddha looked around the Saṅgha of monks, who were so very silent. He addressed them:

“āradhosmi, bhikkhave, imāya paṭipadāya;

“I am satisfied, mendicants, with this practice.

āradhacittosmi, bhikkhave, imāya paṭipadāya.

My heart is satisfied with this practice.

Tasmātiha, bhikkhave, bhiyyoso mattāya vīriyaṃ ārabhatha

So you should rouse up even more energy for attaining the unattained, achieving the unachieved, and realizing the unrealized.

I will wait here in Sāvattihī for the Komudi full moon of the fourth month.”

Assosum̄ kho jānapadā bhikkhū:

Mendicants from around the country heard about this,

“bhagavā kira tattheva sāvattiyam̄ komudim̄ cātumāsiniṃ āgamaṣṣatī”ti.

Te jānapadā bhikkhū sāvattim̄ osaranti bhagavantam̄ dassaṇāya.

and came down to Sāvattī to see the Buddha.

Te ca kho therā bhikkhū bhīyoso mattāya nave bhikkhū ovaḍanti anusāsanti.

And those senior mendicants instructed the junior mendicants even more.

Appekacce therā bhikkhū dasapi bhikkhū ovaḍanti anusāsanti, appekacce therā bhikkhū vīsampi bhikkhū ovaḍanti anusāsanti, appekacce therā bhikkhū tiṃsampi bhikkhū ovaḍanti anusāsanti, appekacce therā bhikkhū cattārīsampi bhikkhū ovaḍanti anusāsanti.

Some senior mendicants instructed ten mendicants, while some instructed twenty, thirty, or forty.

Te ca navā bhikkhū therehi bhikkhūhi ovadiyamānā anusāsiyamānā uḷāram̄ pubbenāparam̄ viṣesam̄ jānanti.

Being instructed by the senior mendicants, the junior mendicants realized a higher distinction than they had before.

Tena kho pana samayena bhagavā tadahuposathe pannarase komudiyā cātumāsiniyā puṇṇāya puṇṇamāya rattiyā bhikkhusaṅghaparivuto abbhokāse nisinno hoti.

Now, at that time it was the sabbath—the Komudi full moon on the fifteenth day of the fourth month—and the Buddha was sitting in the open surrounded by the Saṅgha of monks.

Atha kho bhagavā tuṇhībhūtam̄ tuṇhībhūtam̄ bhikkhusaṅgham̄ anuviloketvā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha looked around the Saṅgha of monks, who were so very silent. He addressed them:

“Apalāpāyaṃ, bhikkhave, parisā; nippalāpāyaṃ, bhikkhave, parisā; suddhā sāre patiṭṭhitā.

“This assembly has no nonsense, mendicants, it’s free of nonsense. It consists purely of the essential core.

Tathārūpo ayaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhusaṅgho; tathārūpā ayaṃ, bhikkhave, parisā

Such is this Saṅgha of monks, such is this assembly!

yathārūpā parisā āhuneyyā pāhuneyyā dakkhiṇeyyā añjalikaraṇīyā anuttaraṃ puññakkhettaṃ lokassa.

An assembly such as this is worthy of offerings dedicated to the gods, worthy of hospitality, worthy of a religious donation, worthy of greeting with joined palms, and is the supreme field of merit for the world.

Tathārūpo ayaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhusaṅgho; tathārūpā ayaṃ, bhikkhave, parisā

Such is this Saṅgha of monks, such is this assembly!

yathārūpāya parisāya appaṃ dinnam bahu hoti, bahu dinnam bahutaram.

Even a small gift to an assembly such as this is fruitful, while giving more is even more fruitful.

Tathārūpo ayaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhusaṅgho; tathārūpā ayaṃ, bhikkhave, parisā

Such is this Saṅgha of monks, such is this assembly!

yathārūpā parisā dullabhā dassanāya lokassa.

An assembly such as this is rarely seen in the world.

Tathārūpo ayaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhusaṅgho; tathārūpā ayaṃ, bhikkhave, parisā

Such is this Saṅgha of monks, such is this assembly!

yathārūpaṃ parisam alaṃ yojanagaṇanāni dassanāya gantum puṭosenāpi.

An assembly such as this is worth traveling many leagues to see, even if you have to carry your own provisions in a shoulder bag.

Santi, bhikkhave, bhikkhū imasmiṃ bhikkhusaṅghe arahanto khīṇāsavā vusitavanto katakaraṇīyā ohitabhārā anuppattasadatthā parikkhīṇabhavasamyojanā sammadaññāvimuttā—

For in this Saṅgha there are perfected mendicants, who have ended the defilements, completed the spiritual journey, done what had to be done, laid down the burden, achieved their own goal, utterly ended the fetters of rebirth, and are rightly freed through enlightenment.

evarūpāpi, bhikkhave, santi bhikkhū imasmiṃ bhikkhusaṅghe.
There are such mendicants in this Saṅgha.

Santi, bhikkhave, bhikkhū imasmiṃ bhikkhusaṅghe pañcannaṃ orambhāgiyānaṃ saṃyojanānaṃ parikkhayā opapātikā tattha parinibbāyino anāvattidhammā tasmā lokā—

In this Saṅgha there are mendicants who, with the ending of the five lower fetters are reborn spontaneously. They are extinguished there, and are not liable to return from that world.

evarūpāpi, bhikkhave, santi bhikkhū imasmiṃ bhikkhusaṅghe.
There are such mendicants in this Saṅgha.

Mindfulness of breathing, when developed and cultivated, fulfills the four kinds of mindfulness meditation.

Cattāro satipaṭṭhānā bhāvitā bahulīkatā satta bojjhaṅge paripūrenti.

The four kinds of mindfulness meditation, when developed and cultivated, fulfill the seven awakening factors.

Satta bojjhaṅgā bhāvitā bahulīkatā vijjāvimuttiṃ paripūrenti.

And the seven awakening factors, when developed and cultivated, fulfill knowledge and freedom.

Kathaṃ bhāvitā ca, bhikkhave, ānāpānassati kathaṃ bahulīkatā mahapphalā hoti mahānisaṃsā?

And how is mindfulness of breathing developed and cultivated to be very fruitful and beneficial?

It's when a mendicant has gone to a wilderness, or to the root of a tree, or to an empty hut. They sit down cross-legged, with their body straight, and establish mindfulness right there.

So satova assasati satova passasati.

Just mindful, they breathe in. Mindful, they breathe out.

Dīghaṃ vā assasanto 'dīghaṃ assasāmī'ti pajānāti, dīghaṃ vā passasanto 'dīghaṃ passasāmī'ti pajānāti;

119. Kāyagatāsatisutta Mindfulness of the Body

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Atha kho sambahulānam bhikkhūnam pacchābhattam
piṇḍapātapaṭikkantānam upaṭṭhānasālāyam sannisinnānam
sannipatitānam ayamantarākathā udapādi:

Then after the meal, on return from alms-round, several senior mendicants sat together in the pavilion and this discussion came up among them.

“acchariyam, āvuso, abbhutam, āvuso.

“It's incredible, reverends, it's amazing,

Yāvañcidam tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena kāyagatāsati bhāvitā bahulikatā mahapphalā vuttā mahānisaṃsā”ti.

how the Blessed One, who knows and sees, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha has said that mindfulness of the body, when developed and cultivated, is very fruitful and beneficial.”

Ayañca hidam tesam bhikkhūnam antarākathā vippakatā hoti,

But their conversation was left unfinished when the Buddha came out of retreat and went to the pavilion. He sat on the seat spread out

Nisajja kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

and addressed the mendicants,

“kāya nuttha, bhikkhave, etarahi kathāya sannisinnā, kā ca pana vo antarākathā vippakatā”ti?

“Mendicants, what were you sitting talking about just now? What conversation was unfinished?”

“Idha, bhante, amhākaṃ pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātaṭikkantānaṃ upaṭṭhānasālāyaṃ sannisinnānaṃ sannipatitānaṃ ayamantarākathā udapādi:

So the mendicants told him what they had been talking about when the Buddha arrived. The Buddha said:

‘acchariyaṃ, āvuso, abbhutaṃ, āvuso.

Yāvañcidaṃ tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena kāyagatāsati bhāvitā bahulikatā mahapphalā vuttā mahānisaṃsā’ti.

“Kathaṃ bhāvitā ca, bhikkhave, kāyagatāsati kathaṃ bahulikatā mahapphalā hoti mahānisaṃsā?

“And how, mendicants, is mindfulness of the body developed and cultivated to be very fruitful and beneficial?”

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu araññagato vā rukkhamaṃlagato vā suññāgāragato vā nisīdati pallaṅkaṃ ābhujitvā ujum kāyaṃ paṇidhāya parimukhaṃ satim upaṭṭhapetvā.

It’s when a mendicant has gone to a wilderness, or to the root of a tree, or to an empty hut. They sit down cross-legged, with their body straight, and establish mindfulness right there.

So satova assasati satova passasati;

Just mindful, they breathe in. Mindful, they breathe out.

dīghaṃ vā assasanto ‘dīghaṃ assasāmī’ti pajānāti, dīghaṃ vā passasanto ‘dīghaṃ passasāmī’ti pajānāti;

When breathing in heavily they know: ‘I’m breathing in heavily.’

When breathing out heavily they know: ‘I’m breathing out heavily.’

rassaṃ vā assasanto ‘rassaṃ assasāmī’ti pajānāti, rassaṃ vā passasanto ‘rassaṃ passasāmī’ti pajānāti;

When breathing in lightly they know: ‘I’m breathing in lightly.’ When breathing out lightly they know: ‘I’m breathing out lightly.’

‘sabbakāyapaṭisaṃvedī assasissāmī’ti sikkhati,

‘sabbakāyapaṭisaṃvedī passasissāmī’ti sikkhati;

They practice breathing in experiencing the whole body. They practice breathing out experiencing the whole body.

‘passambhayaṃ kāyasaṅkhāraṃ assasissāmī’ti sikkhati,

‘passambhayaṃ kāyasaṅkhāraṃ passasissāmī’ti sikkhati.

They practice breathing in stilling the body’s motion. They practice breathing out stilling the body’s motion.

Kāyagatāya, bhikkhave, satiyā āsevitāya bhāvitāya bahulīkatāya yānīkatāya vatthukatāya anuṭṭhitāya paricitāya susamāradhāya dasānisaṃsā pāṭikaṅkhā.

You can expect ten benefits when mindfulness of the body has been cultivated, developed, and practiced, made a vehicle and a basis, kept up, consolidated, and properly implemented.

Aratiratisaho hoti, na ca taṃ arati sahati, uppannaṃ aratiṃ abhibhuyya viharati. (1)

They prevail over desire and discontent, and live having mastered desire and discontent whenever they arose.

Bhayabheravasaho hoti, na ca taṃ bhayabheravaṃ sahati, uppannaṃ bhayabheravaṃ abhibhuyya viharati. (2)

They prevail over fear and dread, and live having mastered fear and dread whenever they arose.

Khamo hoti sītassa uṇhassa jighacchāya pipāsāya ḍaṃsamakasavātātapasarīsapasamphassānaṃ duruttānaṃ durāgatānaṃ vacanapathānaṃ, uppannaṃ sārīrikānaṃ vedanānaṃ dukkhānaṃ tībānaṃ kharānaṃ kaṭukānaṃ asātānaṃ amanāpānaṃ pāṇaharānaṃ adhivāsakajātiko hoti. (3)

They endure cold, heat, hunger, and thirst; the touch of flies, mosquitoes, wind, sun, and reptiles; rude and unwelcome criticism; and put up with physical pain—sharp, severe, acute, unpleasant, disagreeable, and life-threatening.

Catunnaṃ jhānaṃ ābhicetasikānaṃ diṭṭhadhammasukhavihārānaṃ nikāmalābhī hoti akicchālābhī akasiralābhī. (4)

They get the four absorptions—blissful meditations in the present life that belong to the higher mind—when they want, without trouble or difficulty.

So anekavihitam iddhividham paccanubhoti. Ekopi hutva bahudha hoti, bahudhapi hutva eko hoti, avibhavam ...pe... yava brahmalokapi kayena vasam vatteti. (5)

They wield the many kinds of psychic power: multiplying themselves and becoming one again ... They control the body as far as the Brahma realm.

Dibbaya sotadhatusya visuddhaya atikkantamanusikaya ubho sadde sunati dibbe ca manuse ca, ye dure santike ca ...pe.... (6)

With clairaudience that is purified and superhuman, they hear both kinds of sounds, human and divine, whether near or far. ...

Parasattanam parapuggalanam cetaso ceto paricca pajanati. Saragam va cittaam 'saragam cittaam'ti pajanati, vitaragam va cittaam ...pe... sadosam va cittaam ... vitadosam va cittaam ... samoham va cittaam ... vitamoham va cittaam ... sankhittam va cittaam ... vikkhittam va cittaam ... mahaggatam va cittaam ... amahaggatam va cittaam ... sauttaram va cittaam ... anuttaram va cittaam ... samahitam va cittaam ... asamahitam va cittaam ... vimuttam va cittaam ... avimuttam va cittaam 'avimuttam cittaam'ti pajanati. (7)

They understand the minds of other beings and individuals, having comprehended them with their own mind. ...

So anekavihitam pubbenivasam anussarati, seyyathidam— ekampi jatim dvepi jatiyo ...pe... iti sakaram sauddesam anekavihitam pubbenivasam anussarati. (8)

They recollect many kinds of past lives, with features and details.

Dibbena cakkhunā visuddhena atikkantamānusakena satte passati cavamāne upapajjamāne hīne paṇīte suvaṇṇe dubbaṇṇe, sugate duggate yathākammūpage satte pajānāti. (9)

With clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, they see sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. They understand how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds.

Āsavānaṃ khayā anāsavaṃ cetovimuttiṃ paññāvimuttiṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharati. (10)

They realize the undefiled freedom of heart and freedom by wisdom in this very life. And they live having realized it with their own insight due to the ending of defilements.

Kāyagatāya, bhikkhave, satiyā āsevitāya bhāvitāya bahulīkatāya yānīkatāya vatthukatāya anuṭṭhitāya paricitāya susamāraddhāya ime dasānisaṃsā pāṭikaṅkhā”ti.

You can expect these ten benefits when mindfulness of the body has been cultivated, developed, and practiced, made a vehicle and a basis, kept up, consolidated, and properly implemented.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandunti.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Kāyagatāsatisuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ navamaṃ.

120. Saṅkhārupapattisutta Rebirth by Choice

Evaṃ me sutāṃ—

So I have heard.

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosuṃ.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“saṅkhārupapattiṃ vo, bhikkhave, desessāmi,

“I shall teach you rebirth by choice.

taṃ suṇātha, sādhukaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmī”ti.

Listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosuṃ.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu saddhāya samannāgato hoti, sīlena samannāgato hoti, sutena samannāgato hoti, cāgena samannāgato hoti, paññāya samannāgato hoti.

“Take a mendicant who has faith, ethics, learning, generosity, and wisdom.

Tassa evaṃ hoti:

They think:

‘aho vatāhaṃ kāyassa bhedā paraṃ maraṇā khattiyamahāsālānaṃ saḥabyataṃ upapajjeyyan’ti.

‘If only, when my body breaks up, after death, I would be reborn in the company of well-to-do aristocrats!’

So taṃ cittaṃ dahati, taṃ cittaṃ adhiṭṭhāti, taṃ cittaṃ bhāveti.

They settle on that thought, stabilize it and develop it.

Tassa te saṅkhārā ca viḥārā ca evaṃ bhāvitā evaṃ bahulīkatā tatrupalāpattiyā saṃvattanti.

Those choices and meditations of theirs, developed and cultivated like this, lead to rebirth there.

Ayaṃ, bhikkhave, maggo ayaṃ paṭipadā tatrupalāpattiyā saṃvattati.

This is the path and the practice that leads to rebirth there.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu saddhāya samannāgato hoti, sīlena samannāgato hoti, sutena samannāgato hoti, cāgena samannāgato hoti, paññāya samannāgato hoti.

Furthermore, take a mendicant who has faith, ethics, learning, generosity, and wisdom.

Tassa evaṃ hoti:

They think:

‘aho vatāhaṃ kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā brāhmaṇamahāsālānaṃ ...pe...

‘If only, when my body breaks up, after death, I would be reborn in the company of well-to-do brahmins ...

gahapatimahāsālānaṃ saḥabyataṃ upapajjeyyan’ti.
well-to-do householders.’

So taṃ cittaṃ dahati, taṃ cittaṃ adhiṭṭhāti, taṃ cittaṃ bhāveti.
They settle on that thought, stabilize it and develop it.

Tassa te saṅkhārā ca viḥārā ca evaṃ bhāvitā evaṃ bahulīkatā tatrupalāyā saṃvattanti.

Those choices and meditations of theirs, developed and cultivated like this, lead to rebirth there.

Ayaṃ, bhikkhave, maggo ayaṃ paṭipadā tatrupalāyā saṃvattati.

This is the path and the practice that leads to rebirth there.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu saddhāya samannāgato
hoti, sīlena samannāgato hoti, sutena samannāgato hoti, cāgena samannāgato hoti, paññāya samannāgato hoti.

Furthermore, take a mendicant who has faith, ethics, learning, generosity, and wisdom.

Tassa sutāṃ hoti:

And they’ve heard:

‘cātumahārājikā devā dīghāyukā vaṇṇavanto sukhabahulā’ti.

‘The Gods of the Four Great Kings are long-lived, beautiful, and very happy.’

Tassa evaṃ hoti:

They think:

‘aho vatāhaṃ kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā cātumahārājikānaṃ devānaṃ saḥabyataṃ upapajjeyyan’ti.

‘If only, when my body breaks up, after death, I would be reborn in the company of the Gods of the Four Great Kings!’

So taṃ cittaṃ dahati, taṃ cittaṃ adhiṭṭhāti, taṃ cittaṃ bhāveti.
They settle on that thought, stabilize it and develop it.

Tassa te saṅkhārā ca vihārā ca evaṃ bhāvitā evaṃ bahulikatā tatrupalāpattiyā saṃvattanti.

Those choices and meditations of theirs, developed and cultivated like this, lead to rebirth there.

Ayaṃ, bhikkhave, maggo ayaṃ paṭipadā tatrupalāpattiyā
saṃvattati.

This is the path and the practice that leads to rebirth there.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu saddhāya samannāgato
hoti, sīlena samannāgato hoti, sutena samannāgato hoti,
cāgena samannāgato hoti, paññāya samannāgato hoti.

Furthermore, take a mendicant who has faith, ethics, learning, generosity, and wisdom.

Tassa sutaṃ hoti—

And they've heard:

tāvatiṃsā devā ...pe...

'The Gods of the Thirty-Three ...

yāmā devā ...

the Gods of Yama ...

tusitā devā ...

the Joyful Gods ...

nimmānaratī devā ...

the Gods Who Love to Create ...

paranimmitavasavattī devā dīghāyukā vaṇṇavanto sukhabahulāti.

the Gods Who Control the Creations of Others are long-lived, beautiful, and very happy.'

Tassa evaṃ hoti:

They think:

‘aho vatāham kāyassa bhedaṃ paramṃ maraṇā paranimmitavasavattīnaṃ devānaṃ saḥabyataṃ upapajjeyyan’ti.

‘If only, when my body breaks up, after death, I would be reborn in the company of the Gods Who Control the Creations of Others!’

So taṃ cittaṃ dahati, taṃ cittaṃ adhiṭṭhāti, taṃ cittaṃ bhāveti.
They settle on that thought, stabilize it and develop it.

Tassa te saṅkhārā ca viḥārā ca evaṃ bhāvitā evaṃ bahulīkatā tatrupalāpattiyā saṃvattanti.

Those choices and meditations of theirs, developed and cultivated like this, lead to rebirth there.

Ayaṃ, bhikkhave, maggo ayaṃ paṭipadā tatrupalāpattiyā
saṃvattati.

This is the path and the practice that leads to rebirth there.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu saddhāya samannāgato
hoti, sīlena samannāgato hoti, sutena samannāgato hoti,
cāgena samannāgato hoti, paññāya samannāgato hoti.

Furthermore, take a mendicant who has faith, ethics, learning, generosity, and wisdom.

Tassa sutāṃ hoti:

And they’ve heard:

‘sahasso brahmā dīghāyuko vaṇṇavā sukhabahulo’ti.

‘The Brahmā of a thousand is long-lived, beautiful, and very happy.’

Sahasso, bhikkhave, brahmā saḥasilokadhātuṃ pharivā adhimuccivā viharati.

Now the Brahmā of a thousand meditates determined on pervading a galaxy of a thousand solar systems,

Yepi tattha sattā upapannā tepi pharivā adhimuccivā viharati.
as well as the sentient beings reborn there.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, cakkhumā puriso ekaṃ āmaṇḍaṃ

As a person might pick up a gallnut in their hand and examine it, evameva kho, bhikkhave, sahasso brahmā sahassilokadhātum pharivā adhimuccivā viharati.

so too the Brahmā of a thousand meditates determined on pervading a galaxy of a thousand solar systems,

Yepi tattha sattā upapannā tepi pharivā adhimuccivā viharati.

as well as the sentient beings reborn there.

Tassa evaṃ hoti:

They think:

‘If only, when my body breaks up, after death, I would be reborn in the company of the Brahmā of a thousand!’

So taṃ cittaṃ dahati, taṃ cittaṃ adhiṭṭhāti, taṃ cittaṃ bhāveti.

They settle on that thought, stabilize it and develop it.

the Brahmā of five thousand is long-lived, beautiful, and very happy.’

Pañcasahasso, bhikkhave, brahmā pañcasahassilokadhātuṃ pharivā adhimuccitvā viharati.

Now the Brahmā of five thousand meditates determined on pervading a galaxy of five thousand solar systems,

Yepi tattha sattā upapannā tepi pharivā adhimuccitvā viharati.

3. The Division on Voidness Suññatavagga

121. Cūḷasuññatasutta The Shorter Discourse on Emptiness

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati pubbarame
migaramatupasade.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in the Eastern Monastery, the stilt longhouse of Migāra’s mother.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando sāyanhasamayam paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantam nisīdi. Ekamantam nisinno kho āyasmā ānando bhagavantam etadavoca:

Then in the late afternoon, Venerable Ānanda came out of retreat and went to the Buddha. He bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him:

“Ekamidam, bhante, samayam bhagavā sakkesu viharati nagarakam nama sakyanam nigamo.

“Sir, this one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Sakyans where they have a town named Townsville.

Tattha me, bhante, bhagavato sammukhā sutam, sammukhā paṭiggahitam:

There I heard and learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

‘suññatāvihārenāham, ānanda, etarahi bahulam viharāmī’ti.

‘Ānanda, these days I usually practice the meditation on emptiness.’

Kacci metam, bhante, sussutam suggahitam sumanasikam supadhāritam”ti?

I trust I properly heard, learned, attended, and remembered that from the Buddha?”

“Taggha te etam, ānanda, sussutam suggahitam sumanasikam supadhāritam.

“Indeed, Ānanda, you properly heard, learned, attended, and remembered that.

Pubbepāham, ānanda, etarahipi suññatāvihārena bahulam viharāmi.

Now, as before, I usually practice the meditation on emptiness.

Seyyathāpi, ānanda, ayam migāramātupāsādo suñño hatthigavassavaḷavena, suñño jātarūparajātana, suñño itthipurisasannipātena atthi cevidam asuññatam yadidam—

Consider this stilt longhouse of Migāra’s mother. It’s empty of elephants, cows, horses, and mares; of gold and money; and of gatherings of men and women.

bhikkhusaṅgham paṭicca ekattam;

There is only this that is not emptiness, namely, the oneness dependent on the mendicant Saṅgha.

evameva kho, ānanda, bhikkhu amanasikarivā gāmasaññaṃ, amanasikarivā manussasaññaṃ, araññasaññaṃ paṭicca

In the same way, a mendicant—ignoring the perception of the village and the perception of people—focuses on the oneness dependent on the perception of wilderness.

Tassa araññasaññāya cittam pakkhandati pasīdati santiṭṭhati adhimuccati.

Their mind becomes eager, confident, settled, and decided in that perception of wilderness.

So evam pajānāti:

They understand:

‘ye assu darathā gāmasaññaṃ paṭicca tedha na santi, ye assu darathā manussasaññaṃ paṭicca tedha na santi, atthi cevāyaṃ darathamattā yadidaṃ—

‘Here there is no stress due to the perception of village or the perception of people.

araññasaññaṃ paṭicca ekattan’ti.

There is only this modicum of stress, namely the oneness dependent on the perception of wilderness.’

So ‘suññaṃ idaṃ saññāgataṃ gāmasaññāyā’ti pajānāti, ‘suññaṃ idaṃ saññāgataṃ manussasaññāyā’ti pajānāti, ‘atthi cevidaṃ asuññataṃ yadidaṃ—

Iti yañhi kho tattha na hoti tena taṃ suññaṃ samanupassati, yaṃ pana tattha avasiṭṭhaṃ hoti taṃ ‘santamidaṃ atthī’ti pajānāti.

And so they regard it as empty of what is not there, but as to what remains they understand that it is present.

Evampissa esā, ānanda, yathābhuccā avipallatthā parisuddhā suññatāvakkanti bhavati.

Puna caparaṃ, ānanda, bhikkhu amanasikarivā manussasaññaṃ, amanasikarivā araññasaññaṃ, pathavīsaññaṃ paṭicca manasi karoti ekattaṃ.

Furthermore, a mendicant—ignoring the perception of people and the perception of wilderness—focuses on the oneness dependent on the perception of earth.

Tassa pathavīsaññāya cittaṃ pakkhandati pasīdati santiṭṭhati adhimuccati.

Their mind becomes eager, confident, settled, and decided in that perception of earth.

Seyyathāpi, ānanda, āsabhacammaṃ saṅkusatena suvihataṃ vigatavalikaṃ;

so too, ignoring the hilly terrain, inaccessible riverlands, stumps and thorns, and rugged mountains, they focus on the oneness dependent on the perception of earth.

Tassa pathavīsaññāya cittaṃ pakkhandati pasīdati santiṭṭhati adhimuccati.

Their mind becomes eager, confident, settled, and decided in that perception of earth.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand:

‘ye assu darathā kāmāsavaṃ paṭicca tedha na santi, ye assu darathā bhavāsavaṃ paṭicca tedha na santi, ye assu darathā avijjāsavaṃ paṭicca tedha na santi, atthi cevāyaṃ darathamattā yadidaṃ—

‘Here there is no stress due to the defilements of sensuality, desire to be reborn, or ignorance.

imameva kāyaṃ paṭicca saḷāyatanikaṃ jīvitapaccayā’ti.

There is only this modicum of stress, namely that associated with the six sense fields dependent on this body and conditioned by life.’

So ‘suññamidaṃ saññāgataṃ kāmāsavenā’ti pajānāti,

‘suññamidaṃ saññāgataṃ bhavāsavenā’ti pajānāti,

‘suññamidaṃ saññāgataṃ avijjāsavenā’ti pajānāti, ‘atthi cevidaṃ asuññataṃ yadidaṃ—

They understand: ‘This field of perception is empty of the perception of the defilements of sensuality, desire to be reborn, and ignorance.

imameva kāyaṃ paṭicca saḷāyatanikaṃ jīvitapaccayā’ti.

There is only this that is not emptiness, namely that associated with the six sense fields dependent on this body and conditioned by life.’

Iti yañhi kho tattha na hoti tena taṃ suññaṃ samanupassati, yaṃ pana tattha avasiṭṭhaṃ hoti taṃ ‘santamidaṃ atthī’ti pajānāti.

And so they regard it as empty of what is not there, but as to what remains they understand that it is present.

Evampissa esā, ānanda, yathābhuccā avipallatthā parisuddhā paramānuttarā suññatāvakkanti bhavati.

That’s how emptiness is born in them—genuine, undistorted, and pure.

Yepi hi keci, ānanda, atītamaddhānaṃ samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā parisuddhaṃ paramānuttaraṃ suññataṃ upasampajja viharĩṃsu, sabbe te imaṃyeva parisuddhaṃ paramānuttaraṃ suññataṃ upasampajja viharĩṃsu.

Whatever ascetics and brahmins enter and remain in the pure, ultimate, supreme emptiness—whether in the past, future, or present—all of them enter and remain in this same pure, ultimate, supreme emptiness.

Yepi hi keci, ānanda, anāgatamaddhānaṃ samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā parisuddhaṃ paramānuttaraṃ suññataṃ upasampajja viharissanti, sabbe te imaṃyeva parisuddhaṃ paramānuttaraṃ suññataṃ upasampajja viharissanti.

Yepi hi keci, ānanda, etarahi samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā parisuddhaṃ paramānuttaraṃ suññataṃ upasampajja viharanti, sabbe te imaṃyeva parisuddhaṃ paramānuttaraṃ suññataṃ upasampajja viharanti.

Tasmātiha, ānanda, ‘parisuddhaṃ paramānuttaraṃ suññataṃ upasampajja viharissāmā’ti—

So, Ānanda, you should train like this: ‘We will enter and remain in the pure, ultimate, supreme emptiness.’

evañhi vo, ānanda, sikkhitabban”ti.

That’s how you should train.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā ānando bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Venerable Ānanda was happy with what the Buddha said.

Cūḷasuññatasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ paṭhamaṃ.

122. Mahāsuññatasutta The Longer Discourse on Emptiness

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava sakkesu viharati kapilavatthusmim nigrodharame.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Sakyans, near Kapilavatthu in the Banyan Tree Monastery.

Atha kho bhagava pubbanhasamayam nivasetva pattacivaramadaya kapilavatthum piṇḍaya pavisi.

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Kapilavatthu for alms.

Kapilavatthusmim piṇḍaya caritva pacchabhattam piṇḍapataṭikkanto yena kaḷakhemakassa sakkassa vihāro tenupasaṅkami divāvihārāya.

He wandered for alms in Kapilavatthu. After the meal, on his return from alms-round, he went to the dwelling of Kāḷakhemaka the Sakyān for the day's meditation.

Tena kho pana samayena kaḷakhemakassa sakkassa vihāre sambahulāni senāsanāni paññattāni honti.

Now at that time many resting places had been spread out at Kāḷakhemaka's dwelling.

Addasā kho bhagava kaḷakhemakassa sakkassa vihāre sambahulāni senāsanāni paññattāni.

The Buddha saw this,

Disvāna bhagavato etadahosi:

and wondered,

“sambahulāni kho kāḷakhemakassa sakkassa vihāre senāsanāni paññattāni.

“Many resting places have been spread out;

Sambahulā nu kho idha bhikkhū viharantī”ti.

are there many mendicants living here?”

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā ānando sambahulehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ ghaṭāya sakkassa vihāre cīvarakammaṃ karoti.

Now at that time Venerable Ānanda, together with many other mendicants, was making robes in Ghaṭa the Sakyan’s dwelling.

Atha kho bhagavā sāyanhasamayam paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yena ghaṭāya sakkassa vihāro tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamitvā paññatte āsane nisīdi.

Then in the late afternoon, the Buddha came out of retreat and went to Ghaṭa’s dwelling, where he sat on the seat spread out

Nisajja kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ āmantesi:

and said to Venerable Ānanda, “sambahulāni kho, ānanda, kāḷakhemakassa sakkassa vihāre senāsanāni paññattāni.

“Many resting places have been spread out at Kāḷakhemaka’s dwelling;

Sambahulā nu kho ettha bhikkhū viharantī”ti?

are many mendicants living there?”

“Sambahulāni, bhante, kāḷakhemakassa sakkassa vihāre senāsanāni paññattāni.

Sambahulā bhikkhū ettha viharanti.

“Indeed there are, sir.

Cīvarakārasamayo no, bhante, vattatī”ti.

It’s currently the time for making robes.”

“Na kho, ānanda, bhikkhu sobhati saṅgaṇikārāmo saṅgaṇikarato saṅgaṇikārāmatam anuyutto gaṇārāmo gaṇarato gaṇasammudito.

“Ānanda, a mendicant doesn’t shine who enjoys company and groups, who loves them and likes to enjoy them.

So vatānanda, bhikkhu saṅgaṇikārāmo saṅgaṇikarato saṅgaṇikārāmatam anuyutto gaṇārāmo gaṇarato gaṇasammudito yaṁ taṁ nekkhammasukham pavivekasukham upasamasukham sambodhisukham tassa sukhasa nikāmalābhī bhavissati akicchālābhī akasiralābhīti—netam ṭhānam vijjati.

It’s simply not possible that such a mendicant will get the pleasure of renunciation, the pleasure of seclusion, the pleasure of peace, the pleasure of awakening when they want, without trouble or difficulty.

Yo ca kho so, ānanda, bhikkhu eko gaṇasmā vūpakaṭṭho viharati tassetam bhikkhuno pāṭikaṅkham yaṁ taṁ nekkhammasukham pavivekasukham upasamasukham sambodhisukham tassa sukhasa nikāmalābhī bhavissati akicchālābhī akasiralābhīti—ṭhānametaṁ vijjati.

But you should expect that a mendicant who lives alone, withdrawn from the group, will get the pleasure of renunciation, the pleasure of seclusion, the pleasure of peace, the pleasure of awakening when they want, without trouble or difficulty. That is possible.

So vatānanda, bhikkhu saṅgaṇikārāmo saṅgaṇikarato saṅgaṇikārāmatam anuyutto gaṇārāmo gaṇarato gaṇasammudito sāmāyikaṁ vā kantaṁ cetovimuttiṁ upasampajja viharissati asāmāyikaṁ vā akuppanti—netam ṭhānam vijjati.

Indeed, Ānanda, it is not possible that a mendicant who enjoys company will enter and remain in the freedom of heart—either that which is temporary and pleasant, or that which is irreversible and unshakable.

Yo ca kho so, ānanda, bhikkhu eko gaṇasmā vūpakaṭṭho viharati tassetam bhikkhuno pāṭikaṅkham sāmāyikam vā kantam cetovimuttim upasampajja viharissati asāmāyikam vā akuppanti—ṭhānametaṃ vijjati.

But it is possible that a mendicant who lives alone, withdrawn from the group will enter and remain in the freedom of heart—either that which is temporary and pleasant, or that which is irreversible and unshakable.

Nāham, ānanda, ekaṃ rūpampi samanupassāmi yattha rattassa yathābhiratassa rūpassa vipariṇāmaññathābhāvā na uppajjeyyum sokaparidevadukkhadomanassūpāyāsā.

Ānanda, I do not see even a single sight which, with its decay and perishing, would not give rise to sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress in someone who has desire and lust for it.

Ayam kho panānanda, vihāro tathāgatena abhisambuddho yadidaṃ—

But the Realized One woke up to this meditation, namely sabbanimittānaṃ amanasikārā ajjhataṃ suññataṃ upasampajja viharitum.

to enter and remain in emptiness internally by not focusing on any signs.

Tatra ce, ānanda, tathāgataṃ iminā vihārena viharantaṃ bhavanti upasaṅkamtāro bhikkhū bhikkhuniyo upāsakā upāsikāyo rājāno rājamahāmattā titthiyā titthiyasāvakā.

Now, suppose that while the Realized One is practicing this meditation, monks, nuns, laymen, laywomen, rulers and their ministers, founders of religious sects, and their disciples go to visit him.

Tatrānanda, tathāgato vivekaninneneva cittena vivekapoṇena vivekapabbhārena vūpakatṭhena nekkhammābhiratena byantībhūtena sabbaso āsavaṭṭhānīyehi dhammehi aññadatthu uyyojanikapaṭisaṃyuttaṃyeva kathaṃ kattā hoti.

In that case, with a mind slanting, sloping, and inclining to seclusion, withdrawn, and loving renunciation, he invariably gives each of them a talk emphasizing the topic of dismissal.

Tasmātihānanda, bhikkhu cepi ākaṅkheyya:

Therefore, if a mendicant might wish:

‘ajjhataṃ suññataṃ upasampajja vihareyyan’ti, tenānanda, bhikkhunā ajjhattameva cittaṃ saṅghapetabbaṃ sannisādetabbaṃ ekodi kātabbaṃ samādahātabbaṃ.

‘May I enter and remain in emptiness internally!’ So they should still, settle, unify, and immerse their mind in samādhi internally.

Kathañcānanda, bhikkhu ajjhattameva cittaṃ saṅghapeti sannisādeti ekodiṃ karoti samādahati?

And how does a mendicant still, settle, unify, and immerse their mind in samādhi internally?

Idhānanda, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi ...pe... paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati ...
pe...

It’s when a mendicant, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption ...

dutiyāṃ jhānaṃ ...

second absorption ...

tatiyāṃ jhānaṃ ...

third absorption ...

catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

fourth absorption.

Evam̄ kho, ānanda, bhikkhu ajjhattameva cittaṃ saṅghapeti sannisādeti ekodiṃ karoti samādahati.

That's how a mendicant stills, settles, unifies, and immerses their mind in samādhi internally.

So ajjhattaṃ suññataṃ manasi karoti.

They focus on emptiness internally,

Tassa ajjhattaṃ suññataṃ manasikaroto suññatāya cittaṃ na pakkhandati nappasīdati na santiṭṭhati na vimuccati.

but their mind isn't eager, confident, settled, and decided.

Evam̄ santametaṃ, ānanda, bhikkhu evam̄ pajānāti:

In that case, they understand:

‘ajjhattaṃ suññataṃ kho me manasikaroto ajjhattaṃ suññatāya cittaṃ na pakkhandati nappasīdati na santiṭṭhati na vimuccatī’ti.

‘I am focusing on emptiness internally, but my mind isn't eager, confident, settled, and decided.’

Itiha tattha sampajāno hoti.

In this way they are aware of the situation.

So bahiddhā suññataṃ manasi karoti ...pe...

They focus on emptiness externally ...

so ajjhatabhiddhā suññataṃ manasi karoti ...pe...

They focus on emptiness internally and externally ...

so āneñjaṃ manasi karoti.

They focus on the imperturbable,

Tassa āneñjaṃ manasikaroto āneñjāya cittaṃ na pakkhandati nappasīdati na santiṭṭhati na vimuccati.

but their mind isn't eager, confident, settled, and decided.

Evam̄ santametaṃ, ānanda, bhikkhu evam̄ pajānāti:

In that case, they understand:

‘āneñjaṃ kho me manasikaroto āneñjāya cittaṃ na pakkhandati nappasīdati na santiṭṭhati na vimuccatī’ti.

‘I am focusing on the imperturbable internally, but my mind isn’t eager, confident, settled, and decided.’

Itiha tattha sampajāno hoti.

In this way they are aware of the situation.

Tenānanda, bhikkhunā tasmimyeva purimasmiṃ samādhinimitte ajjhattameva cittaṃ saṅghapetabbaṃ sannisādetabbaṃ ekodi kātabbaṃ samādahātabbaṃ.

Then that mendicant should still, settle, unify, and immerse their mind in samādhi internally using the same meditation subject as a basis of immersion that they used before.

So ajjhattaṃ suññataṃ manasi karoti.

They focus on emptiness internally,

Tassa ajjhattaṃ suññataṃ manasikaroto ajjhattaṃ suññatāya cittaṃ pakkhandati pasīdati santiṭṭhati vimuccati.

and their mind is eager, confident, settled, and decided.

Evaṃ santametaṃ, ānanda, bhikkhu evaṃ pajānāti:

In that case, they understand:

‘ajjhattaṃ suññataṃ kho me manasikaroto ajjhattaṃ suññatāya cittaṃ pakkhandati pasīdati santiṭṭhati vimuccatī’ti.

‘I am focusing on emptiness internally, and my mind is eager, confident, settled, and decided.’

Itiha tattha sampajāno hoti.

In this way they are aware of the situation.

So bahiddhā suññataṃ manasi karoti ...pe...

They focus on emptiness externally ...

so ajjhatabhiddhā suññataṃ manasi karoti ...pe...

They focus on emptiness internally and externally ...

so āneñjaṃ manasi karoti.

They focus on the imperturbable,

Tassa āneñjaṃ manasikaroto āneñjāya cittaṃ pakkhandati pasīdati santiṭṭhati vimuccati.

and their mind is eager, confident, settled, and decided.

Evaṃ santametaṃ, ānanda, bhikkhu evaṃ pajānāti:

In that case, they understand:

‘āneñjaṃ kho me manasikaroto āneñjāya cittaṃ pakkhandati pasīdati santiṭṭhati vimuccatī’ti.

‘I am focusing on the imperturbable, and my mind is eager, confident, settled, and decided.’

Itiha tattha sampajāno hoti.

In this way they are aware of the situation.

Tassa ce, ānanda, bhikkhuno iminā vihārena viharato caṅkamāya cittaṃ namati, so caṅkamati:

While a mendicant is practicing such meditation, if their mind inclines to walking, they walk, thinking:

‘evaṃ maṃ caṅkamantaṃ nābhijjhādomanassā pāpakā akusalā dhammā anvāssavissantī’ti.

‘While I’m walking, bad, unskillful qualities of desire and aversion will not overwhelm me.’

Itiha tattha sampajāno hoti.

In this way they are aware of the situation.

Tassa ce, ānanda, bhikkhuno iminā vihārena viharato ṭhānāya cittaṃ namati, so tiṭṭhati:

While a mendicant is practicing such meditation, if their mind inclines to standing, they stand, thinking:

‘evaṃ maṃ ṭhitaṃ nābhijjhādomanassā pāpakā akusalā dhammā anvāssavissantī’ti.

‘While I’m standing, bad, unskillful qualities of desire and aversion will not overwhelm me.’

Itiha tattha sampajāno hoti.

In this way they are aware of the situation.

Tassa ce, ānanda, bhikkhuno iminā vihārena viharato nisajjāya cittaṃ namati, so nisīdati:

While a mendicant is practicing such meditation, if their mind inclines to sitting, they sit, thinking:

‘evaṃ maṃ nisinnaṃ nābhijjhādomanassā pāpakā akusalā dhammā anvāssavissantī’ti.

‘While I’m sitting, bad, unskillful qualities of desire and aversion will not overwhelm me.’

Itiha tattha sampajāno hoti.

In this way they are aware of the situation.

Tassa ce, ānanda, bhikkhuno iminā vihārena viharato sayanāya cittaṃ namati, so sayati:

While a mendicant is practicing such meditation, if their mind inclines to lying down, they lie down, thinking:

‘evaṃ maṃ sayantaṃ nābhijjhādomanassā pāpakā akusalā dhammā anvāssavissantī’ti.

‘While I’m lying down, bad, unskillful qualities of desire and aversion will not overwhelm me.’

Itiha tattha sampajāno hoti.

In this way they are aware of the situation.

Tassa ce, ānanda, bhikkhuno iminā vihārena viharato kathāya cittaṃ namati, so:

While a mendicant is practicing such meditation, if their mind inclines to talking, they think:

‘yāyaṃ kathā hīnā gammā pothujjanikā anariyā anatthasamhitā na nibbidāya na virāgāya na nirodhāya na upasamāya na abhiññāya na sambodhāya na nibbānāya samvattati, seyyathidaṃ—rājakathā corakathā mahāmattakathā senākathā bhayakathā yuddhakathā annakathā pānakathā vatthakathā sayanakathā mālākathā gandhakathā ñātikathā yānakathā gāmakathā nigamakathā nagarakathā janapadakathā itthikathā surākathā visikhākathā kumbhaṭṭhānakathā pubbapetakathā

nānattakathā lokakkhāyikā samuddakkhāyikā

'I will not engage in the kind of speech that is low, crude, ordinary, ignoble, and pointless. Such speech doesn't lead to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment. Namely: talk about kings, bandits, and ministers; talk about armies, threats, and wars; talk about food, drink, clothes, and beds; talk about garlands and fragrances; talk about family, vehicles, villages, towns, cities, and countries; talk about women and heroes; street talk and well talk; talk about the departed; motley talk; tales of land and sea; and talk about being reborn in this or that state of existence.'

Itiha tattha sampajāno hoti.

In this way they are aware of the situation.

Yā ca kho ayam̐, ānanda, kathā abhisallekhikā

'evarūpiṃ katham̐ kathessāmī'ti.

'But I will engage in speech about self-effacement that helps open the heart and leads solely to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment. That is, talk about fewness of wishes, contentment, seclusion, aloofness, arousing energy, ethics, immersion, wisdom, freedom, and the knowledge and vision of freedom.'

Itiha tattha sampajāno hoti.

In this way they are aware of the situation.

Tassa ce, ānanda, bhikkhuno iminā vihārena viharato vitakkāya cittam̐ namati, so:

While a mendicant is practicing such meditation, if their mind inclines to thinking, they think:

‘ye te vitakkā hīnā gammā pothujjanikā anariyā anatthasamhitā na nibbidāya na virāgāya na nirodhāya na upasamāya na abhiññāya na sambodhāya na nibbānāya samvattanti, seyyathidaṃ—kāmavitakko byāpādavitakko vihiṃsāvitakko iti evarūpe vitakke na vitakkessāmī’ti.

‘I will not think the kind of thought that is low, crude, ordinary, ignoble, and pointless. Such thoughts don’t lead to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment. That is, sensual, malicious, or cruel thoughts.’

Itiha tattha sampajāno hoti.

In this way they are aware of the situation.

Ye ca kho ime, ānanda, vitakkā ariyā niyyānikā niyyanti takkarassa sammādukkhakkhayāya, seyyathidaṃ—nekkhamavitakko abyāpādavitakko avihimsāvitakko iti: ‘evarūpe vitakke vitakkessāmī’ti.

‘But I will think the kind of thought that is noble and emancipating, and brings one who practices it to the complete ending of suffering. That is, thoughts of renunciation, good will, and harmlessness.’

Itiha tattha sampajāno hoti.

In this way they are aware of the situation.

Pañca kho ime, ānanda, kāmaguṇā.

There are these five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Katame pañca?

What five?

Cakkhaviññeyyā rūpā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā kāmūpasamhitā rajanīyā,

Sights known by the eye that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

sotaviññeyyā saddā ...

Sounds known by the ear ...

ghānaviññeyyā gandhā ...

Smells known by the nose ...

jivhāviññeyyā rasā ...

Tastes known by the tongue ...

kāyaviññeyyā phoṭṭhabbā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā

kāmūpasamhitā rajanīyā—

Touches known by the body that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

ime kho, ānanda, pañca kāmaguṇā.

These are the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Yattha bhikkhunā abhikkhaṇaṃ sakaṃ cittaṃ paccavekkhitabbaṃ:

So you should regularly check your own mind:

‘atthi nu kho me imesu pañcasu kāmaguṇesu aññatarasmim vā aññatarasmim vā āyatane uppajjati cetaso samudācāro’ti?

‘Does my mind take an interest in any of these five kinds of sensual stimulation?’

Sace, ānanda, bhikkhu paccavekkhamāno evaṃ pajānāti:

Suppose that, upon checking, a mendicant knows this:

‘atthi kho me imesu pañcasu kāmaguṇesu aññatarasmim vā

aññatarasmim vā āyatane uppajjati cetaso samudācāro’ti,

‘My mind does take an interest.’

evaṃ santametaṃ, ānanda, bhikkhu evaṃ pajānāti:

In that case, they understand:

‘yo kho imesu pañcasu kāmaguṇesu chandarāgo so me nappahīno’ti.

‘I have not given up desire and greed for the five kinds of sensual stimulation.’

Itiha tattha sampajāno hoti.

In this way they are aware of the situation.

Sace panānanda, bhikkhu paccavekkhamāno evaṃ pajānāti:

But suppose that, upon checking, a mendicant knows this:

‘natthi kho me imesu pañcasu kāmaguṇesu aññatarasmim̐ vā aññatarasmim̐ vā āyatane uppajjati cetaso samudācāro’ti,

‘My mind does not take an interest.’

evaṃ santametaṃ, ānanda, bhikkhu evaṃ pajānāti:

In that case, they understand:

‘yo kho imesu pañcasu kāmaguṇesu chandarāgo so me
pahīno’ti.

‘I have given up desire and greed for the five kinds of sensual stimulation.’

Itiha tattha sampajāno hoti.

In this way they are aware of the situation.

Pañca kho ime, ānanda, upādānakkhandhā yattha bhikkhunā udayabbayānupassinā vihātabbaṃ:

A mendicant should meditate observing rise and fall in these five grasping aggregates:

‘iti rūpaṃ iti rūpassa samudayo iti rūpassa atthaṅgamo,

‘Such is form, such is the origin of form, such is the ending of form.

iti vedanā ...

Such is feeling ...

iti saññā ...

Such is perception ...

iti saṅkhārā ...

Such are choices ...

iti viññāṇaṃ iti viññāṇassa samudayo iti viññāṇassa atthaṅgamo’ti.

Such is consciousness, such is the origin of consciousness, such is the ending of consciousness.’

Tassa imesu pañcasu upādānakkhandhesu udayabbayānupassino viharato yo pañcasu upādānakkhandhesu asmimāno so pahīyati.

As they do so, they give up the conceit ‘I am’ regarding the five grasping aggregates.

Evaṃ santametaṃ, ānanda, bhikkhu evaṃ pajānāti:

In that case, they understand:

‘yo kho imesu pañcasu upādānakkhandhesu asmimāno so me pahīno’ti.

‘I have given up the conceit “I am” regarding the five grasping aggregates.’

Itiha tattha sampajāno hoti.

In this way they are aware of the situation.

Ime kho te, ānanda, dhammā ekantakusalā kusalāyātikā ariyā lokuttarā anavakkantā pāpimatā.

These principles are entirely skillful, with skillful outcomes; they are noble, transcendent, and inaccessible to the Wicked One.

Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, ānanda,

What do you think, Ānanda?

kaṃ atthavaśaṃ sampassamāno arahati sāvako satthāraṃ anubandhituṃ api paṇujjamāno’ti?

For what reason would a disciple value following the Teacher, even if sent away?”

“Bhagavaṃmūlakā no, bhante, dhammā bhagavaṃnettikā bhagavaṃpaṭisaraṇā. Sādhu vata, bhante, bhagavantamyeva paṭibhātu etassa bhāsitassa attho. Bhagavato sutvā bhikkhū dhāressantī”ti.

“Our teachings are rooted in the Buddha. He is our guide and our refuge. Sir, may the Buddha himself please clarify the meaning of this. The mendicants will listen and remember it.”

“Na kho, ānanda, arahati sāvako satthāraṃ anubandhituṃ, yadidaṃ suttaṃ geyyaṃ veyyākaraṇaṃ tassa hetu.

“A disciple should not value following the Teacher for the sake of statements, songs, or discussions.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Dīgharattassa hi te, ānanda, dhammā sutā dhātā vacasā paricitā manasānupekkhitā diṭṭhiyā suppaṭividdhā.

Because for a long time you have learned the teachings, remembering them, reciting them, mentally scrutinizing them, and understanding them with right view.

Yā ca kho ayaṃ, ānanda, kathā abhisallekhikā cetovinīvaraṇasappāyā ekantanibbidāya virāgāya nirodhāya upasamāya abhiññāya sambodhāya nibbānāya saṃvattati, seyyathidaṃ—appicchakathā santuṭṭhikathā pavivekakathā asaṃsaggakathā vīriyārambhakathā sīlakathā samādhikathā paññākathā vimuttikathā vimuttiñāṇadassanakathā—evarūpiyā kho, ānanda, kathāya hetu arahati sāvako satthāraṃ anubandhituṃ api paṇujjamāno.

But a disciple should value following the Teacher, even if asked to go away, for the sake of talk about self-effacement that helps open the heart and leads solely to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment. That is, talk about fewness of wishes, contentment, seclusion, aloofness, arousing energy, ethics, immersion, wisdom, freedom, and the knowledge and vision of freedom.

Evaṃ sante kho, ānanda, ācariyūpaddavo hoti, evaṃ sante antevāsūpaddavo hoti, evaṃ sante brahmacārūpaddavo hoti.

This being so, Ānanda, there is a peril for the teacher, a peril for the student, and a peril for a spiritual practitioner.

Kathañcānanda, ācariyūpaddavo hoti?

And how is there a peril for the teacher?

Idhānanda, ekacco satthā vivittaṃ senāsanam bhajati araṇṇam

It's when some teacher frequents a secluded lodging—a wilderness, the root of a tree, a hill, a ravine, a mountain cave, a charnel ground, a forest, the open air, a heap of straw.

Tassa tathāvūpakaṭṭhassa viharato anvāvattanti

When this happens, they enjoy infatuation, fall into greed, and return to indulgence.

Ayam vuccatānanda, upaddavo ācariyo.

This teacher is said to be imperiled by the teacher's peril.

Ācariyūpaddavena avadhimsu nam pāpakā akusalā dhammā

They're ruined by bad, unskillful qualities that are corrupted, leading to future lives, hurtful, resulting in suffering and future rebirth, old age, and death.

Evaṃ kho, ānanda, ācariyūpaddavo hoti.

That's how there is a peril for the teacher.

Kathañcānanda, antevāsūpaddavo hoti?

And how is there a peril for the student?

Tasseva kho panānanda, satthu sāvako tassa satthu
vivekamanubrūhayamāno

It's when the student of a teacher, emulating their teacher's fostering of seclusion, vivittaṃ senāsanam bhajati araṇṇam rukkhamūlam pabbatam

kandaram giriguham susānam vanapattham abbhokāsam

So anvāvattantesu brāhmaṇagahapatikesu negamesu ceva

When this happens, they enjoy infatuation, fall into greed, and return to indulgence.

Ayam vuccatānanda, upaddavo antevāsī.

This student is said to be imperiled by the student's peril.

Evaṃ kho, ānanda, antevāsūpaddavo hoti.

That's how there is a peril for the student.

Kathañcānanda, brahmacārūpaddavo hoti?

And how is there a peril for a spiritual practitioner?

Idhānanda, tathāgato loke uppajjati araham sammāsambuddho

It's when a Realized One arises in the world, perfected, a fully awakened Buddha, accomplished in knowledge and conduct, holy,

knower of the world, supreme guide for those who wish to train,
teacher of gods and humans, awakened, blessed.

So vivittam senāsanam bhajati araññam rukkhamūlam

He frequents a secluded lodging—a wilderness, the root of a tree, a hill, a ravine, a mountain cave, a charnel ground, a forest, the open air, a heap of straw.

Tassa tathāvūpakatthassa viharato anvāvattanti

While meditating withdrawn, he's visited by a stream of brahmins and householders of the city and country.

So anvāvattantesu brāhmaṇagahapatikesu negamesu ceva jānapadesu ca na muccham nikāmayati, na gedham āpajjati, na

When this happens, he doesn't enjoy infatuation, fall into greed, and return to indulgence.

Tasseva kho panānanda, satthu sāvako tassa satthu
vivekamanubrūhayamāno

But a disciple of this teacher, emulating their teacher's fostering of seclusion, vivittam senāsanam bhajati araññam rukkhamūlam pabbatam kandaram giriguham susanam vanapattham abbhokāsam palālapuñjam.

frequents a secluded lodging—a wilderness, the root of a tree, a hill, a ravine, a mountain cave, a charnel ground, a forest, the open air, a heap of straw.

bāhullāya.

When this happens, they enjoy infatuation, fall into greed, and return to indulgence.

Ayaṃ vuccatānanda, upaddavo brahmacārī.

This spiritual practitioner is said to be imperiled by the spiritual practitioner's peril.

Brahmacārūpaddavena avadhiṃsu naṃ pāpakā akusalā dhammā saṅkilesikā ponobbhavikā sadarā dukkhavipākā āyatim jātijarāmarañiyā.

They're ruined by bad, unskillful qualities that are corrupted, leading to future lives, hurtful, resulting in suffering and future rebirth, old age, and death.

Evaṃ kho, ānanda, brahmacārūpaddavo hoti.

That's how there is a peril for the spiritual practitioner.

Tatrānanda, yo cevāyaṃ ācariyūpaddavo, yo ca antevāsūpaddavo ayaṃ tehi brahmacārūpaddavo dukkhavipākataro ceva kaṭukavipākataro ca, api ca vinipātāya saṃvattati.

And in this context, Ānanda, as compared to the peril of the teacher or the student, the peril of the spiritual practitioner has more painful, bitter results, and even leads to the underworld.

Tasmātiha maṃ, ānanda, mittavatāya samudācaratha, mā sapattavatāya.

So, Ānanda, treat me as a friend, not as an enemy.

Taṃ vo bhavissati dīgharattaṃ hitāya sukhāya.

That will be for your lasting welfare and happiness.

Kathañcānanda, satthāraṃ sāvakā sapattavatāya samudācaranti, no mittavatāya?

And how do disciples treat their Teacher as an enemy, not a friend?

Idhānanda, satthā sāvakānaṃ dhammaṃ deseti anukampako hitesī anukampaṃ upādāya:

It's when the Teacher teaches the Dhamma out of kindness and compassion:

'This is for your welfare. This is for your happiness.'

Tassa sāvakā na sussūsanti, na sotaṃ odahanti, na aññā cittaṃ upaṭṭhapenti, vakkamma ca satthusāsanā vattanti.

But their disciples don't want to listen. They don't pay attention or apply their minds to understand. They proceed having turned away from the Teacher's instruction.

Evaṃ kho, ānanda, satthāraṃ sāvakā sapattavatāya samudācaranti, no mittavatāya.

That's how the disciples treat their Teacher as an enemy, not a friend.

Kathañcānanda, satthāraṃ sāvakā mittavatāya samudācaranti, no sapattavatāya?

pressing you again and again.

Yo sāro so ṭhassatī"ti.

The core will stand the test."

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā ānando bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Venerable Ānanda was happy with what the Buddha said.

Mahāsuññatasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ dutiyaṃ.

123. Acchariyaabbhutasutta Incredible and Amazing

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anathapiṇḍikassa ārame.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Atha kho sambahulānam bhikkhūnam pacchābhattam
piṇḍapātapaṭikkantānam upaṭṭhānasālāyam sannisinnānam
sannipatitānam ayamantarākathā udapādi:

Then after the meal, on return from alms-round, several senior mendicants sat together in the pavilion and this discussion came up among them:

“acchariyam, āvuso, abbhutam, āvuso. Tathāgatassa mahiddhikatā mahānubhāvatā,

“It's incredible, reverends, it's amazing, the power and might of a Realized One!

yatra hi nāma tathāgato atīte buddhe parinibbute chinnapapañce chinnavatume pariyādinnavatṭe sabbadukkhavīvatte jānissati:

For he is able to know the Buddhas of the past who have become completely extinguished, cut off proliferation, cut off the track, finished off the cycle, and transcended suffering.

‘evaṃjaccā te bhagavanto ahesuṃ’ itipi, ‘evaṃnāmā te bhagavanto ahesuṃ’ itipi, ‘evaṅgottā te bhagavanto ahesuṃ’ itipi, ‘evaṃsīlā te bhagavanto ahesuṃ’ itipi, ‘evaṃdhammā te bhagavanto ahesuṃ’ itipi, ‘evaṃpaññā te bhagavanto ahesuṃ’ itipi, ‘evaṃvihārī te bhagavanto ahesuṃ’ itipi, ‘evaṃvimuttā te bhagavanto ahesuṃ’ itipī”ti.

He knows the caste they were born in, and also their names, clans, conduct, teaching, wisdom, meditation, and freedom.”

Evaṃ vutte, āyasmā ānando te bhikkhū etadavoca:

When they said this, Venerable Ānanda said,

“acchariyā ceva, āvuso, tathāgatā
acchariyadhammasamannāgatā ca;

“The Realized Ones are incredible, reverends, and they have incredible qualities.

abbhutā ceva, āvuso, tathāgatā abbhutadhammasamannāgatā
cā”ti.

They’re amazing, and they have amazing qualities.”

Ayañca hidaṃ tesaṃ bhikkhūnaṃ antarākathā vippakatā hoti.

But this conversation among those mendicants was left unfinished.

Atha kho bhagavā sāyanhasamayam paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yenupaṭṭhānasālā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā paññatte āsane nisīdi.

Then in the late afternoon, the Buddha came out of retreat, went to the assembly hall, sat down on the seat spread out,

Nisajja kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

and addressed the mendicants:

“kāya nuttha, bhikkhave, etarahi kathāya sannisinnā, kā ca pana vo antarākathā vippakatā”ti?

“Mendicants, what were you sitting talking about just now? What conversation was unfinished?”

“Idha, bhante, amhākaṃ pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātaṭikkantānaṃ upaṭṭhānasālāyaṃ sannisinnānaṃ sannipatitānaṃ ayamantarākathā udapādi:

So the mendicants told him what they had been talking about when the Buddha arrived. The Buddha said,

‘acchariyaṃ, āvuso, abbhutaṃ, āvuso, tathāgatassa mahiddhikatā mahānubhāvatā, yatra hi nāma tathāgato atīte buddhe parinibbute chinnapapañce chinnavaṭume pariyādinnavaṭṭe sabbadukkhavītivatte jānissati—

evaṃjaccā te bhagavanto ahesuṃ itipi, evaṃnāmā ... evaṅgottā
... evaṃsīlā ... evaṃdhammā ... evaṃpaññā ... evaṃvihārī ...
evaṃvimuttā te bhagavanto ahesuṃ itipī’ti. Evaṃ vutte, bhante, āyasmā ānando amhe etadavoca:

‘acchariyā ceva, āvuso, tathāgatā
acchariyadhammasamannāgatā ca;

abbhutā ceva, āvuso, tathāgatā abbhutadhammasamannāgatā
cā’ti.

Ayaṃ kho no, bhante, antarākathā vippakatā; atha bhagavā anupatto”ti.

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ āmantesi:

“tasmātiha taṃ, ānanda, bhiiyoso mattāya paṭibhantu tathāgatassa acchariyā abbhutadhammā”ti.

“Well then, Ānanda, say some more about the incredible and amazing qualities of the Realized One.”

“Sammukhā metaṃ, bhante, bhagavato sutāṃ, sammukhā
paṭiggahitaṃ:

“Sir, I have heard and learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

‘sato sampajāno, ānanda, bodhisatto tusitaṃ kāyaṃ upapajjī’ti.

‘Mindful and aware, the being intent on awakening was reborn in the host of Joyful Gods.’

Yampi, bhante, sato sampajāno bodhisatto tusitaṃ kāyaṃ upapajji idampāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato acchariyaṃ abbhutadhammaṃ dhāremi. (1)

This I remember as an incredible quality of the Buddha.

Sammukhā metaṃ, bhante, bhagavato sutāṃ, sammukhā paṭiggahitaṃ:

I have learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

‘sato sampajāno, ānanda, bodhisatto tusite kāye aṭṭhāsī’ti.

‘Mindful and aware, the being intent on awakening remained in the host of Joyful Gods.’

Yampi, bhante, sato sampajāno bodhisatto tusite kāye aṭṭhāsi idampāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato acchariyaṃ abbhutadhammaṃ dhāremi. (2)

This too I remember as an incredible quality of the Buddha.

Sammukhā metaṃ, bhante, bhagavato sutāṃ, sammukhā paṭiggahitaṃ:

I have learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

‘yāvatāyukaṃ, ānanda, bodhisatto tusite kāye aṭṭhāsī’ti.

‘For the whole of that life, the being intent on awakening remained in the host of Joyful Gods.’

Yampi, bhante, yāvatāyukaṃ bodhisatto tusite kāye aṭṭhāsi idampāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato acchariyaṃ abbhutadhammaṃ dhāremi. (3)

This too I remember as an incredible quality of the Buddha.

Sammukhā metaṃ, bhante, bhagavato sutāṃ, sammukhā paṭiggahitaṃ:

I have learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

‘sato sampajāno, ānanda, bodhisatto tusitā, kāyā cavitvā mātukucchiṃ okkamī’ti.

‘Mindful and aware, the being intent on awakening passed away from the host of Joyful Gods and was conceived in his mother’s womb.’

Yampi, bhante, sato sampajāno bodhisatto tusitā kāyā cavitvā mātukucchīm okkami idampāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato acchariyaṃ abbhutadhammaṃ dhāremi. (4)

This too I remember as an incredible quality of the Buddha.

Sammukhā metaṃ, bhante, bhagavato sutāṃ, sammukhā paṭiggahitaṃ:

I have learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

‘yadā, ānanda, bodhisatto tusitā kāyā cavitvā mātukucchīm okkamati,

‘When the being intent on awakening passes away from the host of Joyful Gods, he is conceived in his mother’s womb.

And then—in this world with its gods, Māras and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, gods and humans—an immeasurable, magnificent light appears, surpassing the glory of the gods.

Even in the boundless desolation of interstellar space—so utterly dark that even the light of the moon and the sun, so mighty and powerful, makes no impression—an immeasurable, magnificent light appears, surpassing the glory of the gods.

Yepi tattha sattā upapannā tepi tenobhāsenā aññamaññaṃ sañjānanti—aññepi kira, bho, santi sattā idhūpapannāti.

And even the sentient beings reborn there recognize each other by that light: “So, it seems other sentient beings have been reborn here!”

Ayañca dasasahassī lokadhātu saṅkampati sampakampati sampavedhati appamāṇo ca uḷāro obhāso loke pātubhavati atikkammeva devānaṃ devānubhāvan’ti.

And this galaxy shakes and rocks and trembles. And an immeasurable, magnificent light appears in the world, surpassing the glory of the gods.’

Yampi, bhante ...pe... idampāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato acchariyaṃ abbhutadhammaṃ dhāremi. (5)

This too I remember as an incredible quality of the Buddha.

Sammukhā metaṃ, bhante, bhagavato sutāṃ, sammukhā paṭiggahitaṃ:

I have learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

‘yadā, ānanda, bodhisatto mātukucchiṃ okkanto hoti, cattāro devaputtā catuddisaṃ ārakkhāya upagacchanti—mā naṃ bodhisattaṃ vā bodhisattamātaraṃ vā manusso vā amanusso vā koci vā viheṭhesī’ti.

‘When the being intent on awakening is conceived in his mother’s belly, four deities approach to guard the four directions, so that no human or non-human or anyone at all shall harm the being intent on awakening or his mother.’

Yampi, bhante ...pe... idampāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato acchariyaṃ abbhutadhammaṃ dhāremi. (6)

This too I remember as an incredible quality of the Buddha.

Sammukhā metaṃ, bhante, bhagavato sutāṃ, sammukhā paṭiggahitaṃ:

I have learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

‘yadā, ānanda, bodhisatto mātukucchiṃ okkanto hoti, pakatiyā sīlavatī bodhisattamātā hoti viratā paṇātipātā viratā adinnādānā

viratā kāmesumicchācārā viratā musāvādā viratā

‘When the being intent on awakening is conceived in his mother’s belly, she becomes naturally ethical. She refrains from killing living creatures, stealing, sexual misconduct, lying, and alcoholic drinks that cause negligence.’

Yampi, bhante ...pe... idampāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato
acchariyaṃ abbhutadhammaṃ dhāremi. (7)

This too I remember as an incredible quality of the Buddha.

Sammukhā metaṃ, bhante, bhagavato sutāṃ, sammukhā
paṭiggahitaṃ:

I have learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

‘yadā, ānanda, bodhisatto mātukucchiṃ okkanto hoti, na bodhisattamātu purisesu mānasaṃ uppajjati kāmaguṇūpasamhitaṃ, anatikkamanīyā ca bodhisattamātā hoti kenaci purisena rattacittenā'ti.

‘When the being intent on awakening is conceived in his mother’s belly, she no longer feels sexual desire for men, and she cannot be violated by a man of lustful intent.’

Yampi, bhante ...pe... idampāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato
acchariyaṃ abbhutadhammaṃ dhāremi. (8)

This too I remember as an incredible quality of the Buddha.

Sammukhā metaṃ, bhante, bhagavato sutāṃ, sammukhā
paṭiggahitaṃ:

I have learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

‘yadā, ānanda, bodhisatto mātukucchiṃ okkanto hoti, lābhini bodhisattamātā hoti pañcannaṃ kāmaguṇānaṃ. Sā pañcahi kāmaguṇehi samappitā samaṅgībhūtā paricāretī'ti.

‘When the being intent on awakening is conceived in his mother’s belly, she obtains the five kinds of sensual stimulation and amuses herself, supplied and provided with them.’

Yampi, bhante ...pe... idampāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato acchariyaṃ abbhutadhammaṃ dhāremi. (9)

This too I remember as an incredible quality of the Buddha.

Sammukhā metaṃ, bhante, bhagavato suttaṃ, sammukhā paṭiggahitaṃ:

I have learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

‘yadā, ānanda, bodhisatto mātukucchiṃ okkanto hoti, na bodhisattamātu kocideva ābādho uppajjati; sukhinī bodhisattamātā hoti akilantakāyā; bodhisattañca bodhisattamātā tirokucchigataṃ passati sabbaṅgapaccaṅgaṃ ahīnindriyaṃ.

‘When the being intent on awakening is conceived in his mother’s belly, no afflictions beset her. She’s happy and free of bodily fatigue. And she sees the being intent on awakening in her womb, complete with all his various parts, not deficient in any faculty.

Seyyathāpi, ānanda, maṇi veḷuriyo subho jātimā aṭṭhaṃso suparikammakato. Tatrāssa suttaṃ āvutaṃ nīlaṃ vā pītaṃ vā lohitaṃ vā odātaṃ vā paṇḍusuttaṃ vā.

Suppose there was a beryl gem that was naturally beautiful, eight-faceted, well-worked. And it was strung with a thread of blue, yellow, red, white, or golden brown.

Tameṇaṃ cakkhumā puriso hatthe karitvā paccavekkheyya— ayaṃ kho maṇi veḷuriyo subho jātimā aṭṭhaṃso suparikammakato, tatrīdaṃ suttaṃ āvutaṃ nīlaṃ vā pītaṃ vā lohitaṃ vā odātaṃ vā paṇḍusuttaṃ vāti.

And someone with good eyesight were to take it in their hand and examine it: “This beryl gem is naturally beautiful, eight-faceted, well-worked. And it’s strung with a thread of blue, yellow, red, white, or golden brown.”

Evameva kho, ānanda, yadā bodhisatto mātukucchiṃ okkanto hoti, na bodhisattamātu kocideva ābādho uppajjati; sukhinī bodhisattamātā hoti akilantakāyā; bodhisattañca bodhisattamātā tirokucchigataṃ passati sabbaṅgapaccaṅgaṃ ahīnindriyaṃ'ti.

In the same way, when the being intent on awakening is conceived in his mother's belly, no afflictions beset her. She's happy and free of bodily fatigue. And she sees the being intent on awakening in her womb, complete with all his various parts, not deficient in any faculty.'

Yampi, bhante ...pe... idampāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato acchariyaṃ abbhutadhammaṃ dhāremi. (10)

This too I remember as an incredible quality of the Buddha.

Sammukhā metaṃ, bhante, bhagavato sutam, sammukhā paṭiggahitaṃ:

I have learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

'sattāhajāte, ānanda, bodhisatte bodhisattamātā kālaṃ karoti, tusitaṃ kāyaṃ upapajjati'ti.

'Seven days after the being intent on awakening is born, his mother passes away and is reborn in the host of Joyful Gods.'

Yampi, bhante ...pe... idampāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato acchariyaṃ abbhutadhammaṃ dhāremi. (11)

This too I remember as an incredible quality of the Buddha.

Sammukhā metaṃ, bhante, bhagavato sutam, sammukhā paṭiggahitaṃ:

I have learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

'yathā kho panānanda, aññā itthikā nava vā dasa vā māse gabbhaṃ kucchinā pariharitvā vijāyanti, na hevaṃ bodhisattaṃ bodhisattamātā vijāyati. Daseva māsāni bodhisattaṃ bodhisattamātā kucchinā pariharitvā vijāyati'ti.

'Other women carry the infant in the womb for nine or ten months before giving birth. Not so the mother of the being intent on awakening. She gives birth after exactly ten months.'

Yampi, bhante ...pe... idampāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato acchariyaṃ abbhutadhammaṃ dhāremi. (12)

This too I remember as an incredible quality of the Buddha.

Sammukhā metaṃ, bhante, bhagavato sutāṃ, sammukhā paṭiggahitaṃ:

I have learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

‘yathā kho panānanda, aññā itthikā nisinnā vā nipannā vā vijāyanti, na hevaṃ bodhisattaṃ bodhisattamātā vijāyati. Ṭhitāva bodhisattaṃ bodhisattamātā vijāyatī’ti.

‘Other women give birth while sitting or lying down. Not so the mother of the being intent on awakening. She only gives birth standing up.’

Yampi, bhante ...pe... idampāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato acchariyaṃ abbhutadhammaṃ dhāremi. (13)

This too I remember as an incredible quality of the Buddha.

Sammukhā metaṃ, bhante, bhagavato sutāṃ, sammukhā paṭiggahitaṃ:

I have learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

‘yadā, ānanda, bodhisatto mātukucchimhā nikkhamati, devā naṃ paṭhamaṃ paṭiggaṇhanti pacchā manussā’ti.

‘When the being intent on awakening emerges from his mother’s womb, gods receive him first, then humans.’

Yampi, bhante ...pe... idampāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato acchariyaṃ abbhutadhammaṃ dhāremi. (14)

This too I remember as an incredible quality of the Buddha.

Sammukhā metaṃ, bhante, bhagavato sutāṃ, sammukhā paṭiggahitaṃ:

I have learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

‘yadā, ānanda, bodhisatto mātukucchimhā nikkhamati, appattova bodhisatto pathaviṃ hoti, cattāro naṃ devaputtā paṭiggahetvā mātu purato ṭhapenti—attamanā, devi, hohi; mahesakkho te putto uppanno'ti.

‘When the being intent on awakening emerges from his mother’s womb, before he reaches the ground, four deities receive him and place him before his mother, saying: “Rejoice, O Queen! An illustrious son is born to you.”’

Yampi, bhante ...pe... idampāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato acchariyaṃ abbhutadhammaṃ dhāremi. (15)

This too I remember as an incredible quality of the Buddha.

Sammukhā metaṃ, bhante, bhagavato sutāṃ, sammukhā paṭiggahitaṃ:

I have learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

‘yadā, ānanda, bodhisatto mātukucchimhā nikkhamati, visadova nikkhamati amakkhito udena amakkhito semhena amakkhito ruhirena amakkhito kenaci asucinā suddho visado.

‘When the being intent on awakening emerges from his mother’s womb, he emerges already clean, unsoiled by waters, mucus, blood, or any other kind of impurity, pure and clean.

Seyyathāpi, ānanda, maṇiratanāṃ kāsike vatthe nikkhittaṃ neva maṇiratanāṃ kāsikaṃ vatthaṃ makkheti nāpi kāsikaṃ vatthaṃ maṇiratanāṃ makkheti.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Ubhinnaṃ suddhattā.

Because of the cleanliness of them both.

'As soon as he's born, the being intent on awakening stands firm with his own feet on the ground. Facing north, he takes seven strides with a white parasol held above him, surveys all quarters, and makes this dramatic statement: "I am the foremost in the world! I am the eldest in the world! I am the best in the world! This is my last rebirth. Now there are no more future lives.”

Labheyāhaṃ, āvuso bākula, imasmiṃ dhammavinaye

Reverend Bakkula, may I receive the going forth, the ordination in this teaching and training?”

Alattha kho acelakassapo imasmim dhammavinaye pabbajam, alattha upasampadam.

And the naked ascetic Kassapa received the going forth, the ordination in this teaching and training.

Acirūpasampanno panāyasmā kassapo eko vūpakaṭṭho appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agāasmā anagāriyam pabbajanti, tadanuttaram—brahmacariyapariyosānam diṭṭheva dhamme sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihāsi.

Not long after his ordination, Venerable Kassapa, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitam brahmacariyam, kataṃ karanīyam, nāparam itthattāyā”ti abbhaññāsi.

He understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

Aññataro kho panāyasmā kassapo arahataṃ ahoṣi.

And Venerable Kassapa became one of the perfected.

Atha kho āyasmā bākulo aparena samayena avāpuraṇam ādāya vihārena vihāram upasaṅkamitvā evamāha:

Then some time later Venerable Bakkula took a key and went from dwelling to dwelling, saying, “abhikkamathāyasmanto, abhikkamathāyasmanto. Ajja me parinibbānam bhavissatī”ti.

“Come forth, venerables, come forth! Today will be my final extinguishment.”

“Yampāyasmā bākulo avāpuraṇaṃ ādāya vihārena vihāraṃ upasaṅkamtivā evamāha: ‘abhikkamathāyasmanto, abhikkamathāyasmanto; ajja me parinibbānaṃ bhavissatī’ti, idampi mayaṃ āyasmato bākulassa acchariyaṃ abbhutadhammaṃ dhārema”. (36)

“This too we remember as an incredible quality of Venerable Bakkula.”

Āyasmā bākulo majjhe bhikkhusaṅghassa nisinnakova parinibbāyi.

And Venerable Bakkula became fully extinguished while sitting right in the middle of the Saṅgha.

“Yampāyasmā bākulo majjhe bhikkhusaṅghassa nisinnakova parinibbāyi, idampi mayaṃ āyasmato bākulassa acchariyaṃ abbhutadhammaṃ dhāremā”ti. (37)

“This too we remember as an incredible quality of Venerable Bakkula.”

125. Dantabhūmisutta The Level of the Tamed

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati veḷuvane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tena kho pana samayena aciravato samaṇuddeso

Now at that time the novice Aciravata was staying in a wilderness hut.

Atha kho jayaseno rājakumāro jaṅghāvihāraṃ

Then as Prince Jayasena was going for a walk he approached Aciravata, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ

samaṇuddesaṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to Aciravata, “Sutaṃ metaṃ, bho aggivessana:

“Master Aggivessana, I have heard that ‘idha bhikkhu appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto phuseyya cittassa ekaggatan’”ti.

a mendicant who meditates diligently, keenly, and resolutely can experience unification of mind.”

“Evametaṃ, rājakumāra, evametaṃ, rājakumāra.

“That’s so true, Prince! That’s so true!

Idha bhikkhu appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto phuseyya cittassa ekaggatan’”ti.

A mendicant who meditates diligently, keenly, and resolutely can experience unification of mind.”

“Sādhu me bhavaṃ aggivessano yathāsutaṃ yathāpariyattaṃ dhammaṃ desetū”ti.

“Master Aggivessana, please teach me the Dhamma as you have learned and memorized it.”

“Na kho te ahaṃ, rājakumāra, sakkomi yathāsutaṃ yathāpariyattaṃ dhammaṃ desetum.

“I’m not competent to do so, Prince.

Ahañca hi te, rājakumāra, yathāsutaṃ yathāpariyattaṃ dhammaṃ deseyyaṃ, tvañca me bhāsitassa atthaṃ na ājāneyyāsi; so mamassa kilamatho, sā mamassa vihesā”ti.

For if I were to teach you the Dhamma as I have learned and memorized it, you might not understand the meaning, which would be wearying and troublesome for me.”

“Desetu me bhavaṃ aggivessano yathāsutaṃ yathāpariyattaṃ dhammaṃ.

“Master Aggivessana, please teach me the Dhamma as you have learned and memorized it.

Appevanāmāhaṃ bhoṭo aggivessanassa bhāsitaṣṣa atthaṃ ājāneyyaṃ”ti.

Hopefully I will understand the meaning of what you say.”

“Deseyyaṃ kho te ahaṃ, rājakumāra, yathāsutaṃ yathāpariyattaṃ dhammaṃ.

“Then I shall teach you.

Sace me tvaṃ bhāsitaṣṣa atthaṃ ājāneyyāsi, iccetaṃ kusalaṃ;
If you understand the meaning of what I say, that’s good.

no ce me tvaṃ bhāsitaṣṣa atthaṃ ājāneyyāsi, yathāsake tiṭṭheyyāsi, na maṃ tattha uttariṃ paṭipuccheyyāsi”ti.

If not, then leave each to his own, and do not question me about it further.”

“Desetu me bhavaṃ aggivessano yathāsutaṃ yathāpariyattaṃ dhammaṃ.

“Master Aggivessana, please teach me the Dhamma as you have learned and memorized it.

Sace ahaṃ bhoṭo aggivessanassa bhāsitaṣṣa atthaṃ ājānissāmi, iccetaṃ kusalaṃ;

If I understand the meaning of what you say, that’s good.

Atha kho aciravato samaṇuddeso jayasenaṣṣa rājakumārassa yathāsutaṃ yathāpariyattaṃ dhammaṃ desesi.

Then the novice Aciravata taught Prince Jayasena the Dhamma as he had learned and memorized it.

Evaṃ vutte, jayaseno rājakumāro aciravataṃ samaṇuddesaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, Jayasena said to him,

“aṭṭhānametaṃ, bho aggivessana, anavakāso yaṃ bhikkhu appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto phuseyya cittassa ekaggatan”ti.

“It is impossible, Master Aggivessana, it cannot happen that a mendicant who meditates diligently, keenly, and resolutely can experience unification of mind.”

Atha kho jayaseno rājakumāro aciravatassa samaṇuddesassa aṭṭhānatañca anavakāsatañca pavedetvā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkāmi.

Having declared that this was impossible, Jayasena got up from his seat and left.

Atha kho aciravato samaṇuddeso acirapakkante jayasene rājakumāre yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

Not long after he had left, Aciravata went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho aciravato samaṇuddeso yāvatako ahosi jayasenena rājakumārena saddhiṃ kathāsallāpo taṃ sabbaṃ bhagavato ārocesi.

and informed the Buddha of all they had discussed.

Evaṃ vutte, bhagavā aciravataṃ samaṇuddesaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, the Buddha said to him:

“taṃ kutettha, aggivessana, labbhā.

“How could it possibly be otherwise, Aggivessana?”

Prince Jayasena dwells in the midst of sensual pleasures, enjoying them, consumed by thoughts of them, burning with fever for them, and eagerly seeking more. It's simply impossible for him to know or see or realize what can only be known, seen, and realized by renunciation.

Then the one standing at the foot would say to the one at the peak, ‘yaṃ, samma, kiṃ tvaṃ passasi uparipabbate ṭhito’ti?

‘My friend, what do you see, standing there at the peak?’

So evam̐ vadeyya:

Prince Jayasena dwells in the midst of sensual pleasures, enjoying them, consumed by thoughts of them, burning with fever for them, and eagerly seeking more. It’s simply impossible for him to know or ‘Yes, Your Majesty,’ replied the elephant trainer. He dug a large post into the earth and tethered the elephant to it by the neck, so as to subdue its wild behaviors, its wild memories and thoughts, and its wild stress, weariness, and fever, and to make it happy to be in the neighborhood of a village, and instill behaviors congenial to humans.

Spoken to in such a way by the elephant trainer, the wild elephant wanted to listen. It leant an ear and applied its mind to understand.

‘Stand, sir! Sit, sir!’

Yato kho, aggivessana, āraññaṃ nāgo hatthidamakassa uṭṭhānanisajjāya vacanakaro hoti ovādappaṭikaro, tamenam hatthidamako uttari āneñjaṃ nāma kāraṇaṃ kāreti, mahantassa phalakaṃ soṇḍāya upanibandhati, tomarahattho ca puriso uparigīvāya nisinno hoti, samantato ca tomarahatthā purisā parivāretvā ṭhitā honti, hatthidamako ca dīghatomarayaṭṭhiṃ gahetvā purato ṭhito hoti.

When the wild elephant stands and sits when the trainer says, following instructions, the trainer sets the task called imperturbability. He fastens a large plank to its trunk; a lancer sits on its neck; other lancers surround it on all sides; and the trainer himself stands in front with a long lance.

So āneñjaṃ kāraṇaṃ kāriyamāno neva purime pāde copeti na pacchime pāde copeti, na purimakāyaṃ copeti na pacchimakāyaṃ copeti, na sīsaṃ copeti, na kaṇṇe copeti, na dante copeti, na naṅguṭṭhaṃ copeti, na soṇḍaṃ copeti.

While practicing this task, it doesn’t budge its fore-feet or hind-feet, its fore-quarters or hind-quarters, its head, ears, tusks, tail, or trunk.

The wild bull elephant endures being struck by spears, swords, arrows, and axes; it endures the thunder of the drums, kettledrums, horns, and cymbals. Rid of all crooks and flaws, and purged of defects, it is worthy of a king, fit to serve a king, and considered a factor of kingship.

In the same way, Aggivessana, a Realized One arises in the world, perfected, a fully awakened Buddha, accomplished in knowledge and conduct, holy, knower of the world, supreme guide for those who wish to train, teacher of gods and humans, awakened, blessed.

In the same way, a noble disciple has these four kinds of mindfulness meditation as tethers for the mind so as to subdue behaviors of the lay life, memories and thoughts of the lay life, the stress, weariness, and fever of the lay life, to end the cycle of suffering and to realize extinguishment.

Tassa evaṃ jānato evaṃ passato kāmāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccati, bhavāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccati, avijjāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccati.

Knowing and seeing like this, their mind is freed from the defilements of sensuality, desire to be reborn, and ignorance.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Then Venerable Bhūmija robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, went to the home of Prince Jayasena, where he sat on the seat spread out.

Then when the night had passed, Anuruddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, went to Pañcakaṅga’s home, where he sat on the seat spread out.

Atha kho pañcakaṅga thapati āyasmantaṃ anuruddhaṃ paṇitena khādanīyena bhojanīyena sahatthā santappesi sampavāresi.

Then Pañcakaṅga served and satisfied Anuruddha with his own hands with a variety of delicious foods.

When Anuruddha had eaten and washed his hands and bowl, Pañcakaṅga took a low seat, sat to one side,

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho pañcakaṅga thapati āyasmantaṃ anuruddhaṃ etadavoca:

and said to him:

“Idha maṃ, bhante, therā bhikkhū upasaṅkamtivā evamaṃsu:

‘appamaṇaṃ, gahapati, cetovimuttiṃ bhāvehī’ti.

‘Householder, develop the limitless release of heart.’

Ekacce therā evamaṃsu:

Others have said,

‘mahaggataṃ, gahapati, cetovimuttiṃ bhāvehī’ti.

‘Householder, develop the expansive release of heart.’

Yā cāyaṃ, bhante, appamaṇā cetovimutti yā ca mahaggatā cetovimutti—

Now, the limitless release of the heart and the expansive release of the heart:

ime dhammā nānatthā ceva nānābyañjanā ca, udāhu ekatthā byañjanameva nāna”ti?

do these things differ in both meaning and phrasing? Or do they mean the same thing, and differ only in the phrasing?”

“Tena hi, gahapati, taṃyevettha paṭibhātu, apanṇakante ito bhavissatī”ti.

“Well then, householder, let me know what you think about this. Afterwards you’ll get it for sure.”

“Mayhaṃ kho, bhante, evaṃ hoti:

“Sir, this is what I think.

‘yā cāyaṃ appamāṇā cetovimutti yā ca mahaggatā cetovimutti ime dhammā ekatthā byañjanameva nānan’”ti.

The limitless release of the heart and the expansive release of the heart mean the same thing, and differ only in the phrasing.”

“Yā cāyaṃ, gahapati, appamāṇā cetovimutti yā ca mahaggatā cetovimutti ime dhammā nānatthā ceva nānābyañjanā ca.

“The limitless release of the heart and the expansive release of the heart differ in both meaning and phrasing.

Tadamināpetam, gahapati, pariyāyena veditabbaṃ yathā ime dhammā nānatthā ceva nānābyañjanā ca.

This is a way to understand how these things differ in both meaning and phrasing.

Katamā ca, gahapati, appamāṇā cetovimutti?

And what is the limitless release of the heart?

Idha, gahapati, bhikkhu mettāsahagatena cetasā ekaṃ disaṃ pharivā viharati, tathā dutiyaṃ tathā tatiyaṃ tathā catutthaṃ; iti uddhamadho tiriyaṃ sabbadhi sabbattatāya sabbāvantaṃ lokaṃ mettāsahagatena cetasā vipulena mahaggatena appamāṇena averena abyābajjhena pharivā viharati.

It’s when a mendicant meditates spreading a heart full of love to one direction, and to the second, and to the third, and to the fourth. In the same way above, below, across, everywhere, all around, they spread a heart full of love to the whole world—abundant, expansive, limitless, free of enmity and ill will.

Ayaṃ vuccati, gahapati, appamāṇā cetovimutti.

This is called the limitless release of the heart.

Katamā ca, gahapati, mahaggatā cetovimutti?

And what is the expansive release of the heart?

Idha, gahapati, bhikkhu yāvatā ekaṃ rukkhamūlaṃ

Catasso kho imā gahapati, bhavūpapattiyo.

Householder, there are these four kinds of rebirth in a future life.

Katamā catasso?

What four?

Idha, gahapati, ekacco ‘parittābhā’ti pharivā adhimuccivā viharati.

Take someone who meditates determined on pervading ‘limited radiance’.

So kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā parittābhānaṃ devānaṃ saḥabyataṃ upapajjati.

When their body breaks up, after death, they’re reborn in the company of the gods of limited radiance.

Idha pana, gaḥapati, ekacco ‘appamaṇābhā’ti pharivā adhimuccitvā viharati.

Next, take someone who meditates determined on pervading ‘limitless radiance’.

So kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā appamaṇābhānaṃ devānaṃ saḥabyataṃ upapajjati.

When their body breaks up, after death, they’re reborn in the company of the gods of limitless radiance.

Idha pana, gaḥapati, ekacco ‘saṅkiliṭṭhābhā’ti pharivā adhimuccitvā viharati.

Next, take someone who meditates determined on pervading ‘corrupted radiance’.

So kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā saṅkiliṭṭhābhānaṃ devānaṃ saḥabyataṃ upapajjati.

When their body breaks up, after death, they’re reborn in the company of the gods of corrupted radiance.

Idha pana, gaḥapati, ekacco ‘parisuddhābhā’ti pharivā adhimuccitvā viharati.

Next, take someone who meditates determined on pervading ‘pure radiance’.

So kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā parisuddhābhānaṃ devānaṃ saḥabyataṃ upapajjati.

When their body breaks up, after death, they’re reborn in the company of the gods of pure radiance.

Imā kho, gaḥapati, catasso bhavūpapattiyo.

These are the four kinds of rebirth in a future life.

Hoti kho so, gahapati, samayo, yā tā devatā ekajjhaṃ sannipatanti, tāsāṃ ekajjhaṃ sannipatitānaṃ vaṇṇanānattañhi kho paññāyati no ca ābhānānattaṃ.

There comes a time, householder, when the deities gather together as one. When they do so, a difference in their color is evident, but not in their radiance.

Seyyathāpi, gahapati, puriso sambahulāni telappadīpāni ekaṃ gharaṃ paveseyya.

It's like when a person brings several oil lamps into one house.

Tesaṃ ekaṃ gharaṃ pavesitānaṃ accinānattañhi kho paññāyetha, no ca ābhānānattaṃ;

You can detect a difference in their flames, but not in their radiance.

evameva kho, gahapati, hoti kho so samayo, yā tā devatā ekajjhaṃ sannipatanti tāsāṃ ekajjhaṃ sannipatitānaṃ vaṇṇanānattañhi kho paññāyati, no ca ābhānānattaṃ.

In the same way, when the deities gather together as one, a difference in their color is evident, but not in their radiance.

Hoti kho so, gahapati, samayo, yā tā devatā tato vipakkamanti, tāsāṃ tato vipakkamantīnaṃ vaṇṇanānattañceva paññāyati ābhānānattañca.

There comes a time when those deities go their separate ways. When they do so, a difference both in their color and also in their radiance is evident.

Seyyathāpi, gahapati, puriso tāni sambahulāni telappadīpāni tamhā gharā nīhareyya.

It's like when a person takes those several oil lamps out of that house.

Tesaṃ tato nīhatānaṃ accinānattañceva paññāyetha ābhānānattañca;

You can detect a difference both in their flames and also in their radiance.

evameva kho, gahapati, hoti kho so samayo, yā tā devatā tato vipakkamanti, tāsam tato vipakkamantīnam vaṇṇanānattañceva paññāyati ābhānānattañca.

In the same way, when the deities go their separate ways, a difference both in their color and also in their radiance is evident.

Na kho, gahapati, tāsam devatānam evam hoti:

It's not that those deities think,

'idaṃ amhākaṃ niccanti vā dhuvanti vā sassatanti vā', api ca yattha yattheva tā devatā abhinivisanti tattha tattheva tā devatā abhiramanti.

'What we have is permanent, lasting, and eternal.' Rather, wherever those deities cling, that's where they take pleasure.

Seyyathāpi, gahapati, makkhikānam kājena vā piṭakena vā hariyamānānam na evam hoti:

It's like when flies are being carried along on a carrying-pole or basket. It's not that they think,

'idaṃ amhākaṃ niccanti vā dhuvanti vā sassatanti vā', api ca yattha yattheva tā makkhikā abhinivisanti tattha tattheva tā makkhikā abhiramanti;

'What we have is permanent, lasting, and eternal.' Rather, wherever those flies cling, that's where they take pleasure.

evameva kho, gahapati, tāsam devatānam na evam hoti:

In the same way, it's not that those deities think,

'idaṃ amhākaṃ niccanti vā dhuvanti vā sassatanti vā', api ca yattha yattheva tā devatā abhinivisanti tattha tattheva tā devatā abhiramantī"ti.

'What we have is permanent, lasting, and eternal.' Rather, wherever those deities cling, that's where they take pleasure."

Upamāyapidhekacce viññū purisā bhāsitassa atthaṃ ājānanti.

For by means of a simile some sensible people understand the meaning of what is said.

Seyyathāpi, āvuso kaccāna, telappadīpassa jhāyato telampi aparisuddhaṃ vaṭṭipi aparisuddhā.

Suppose an oil lamp was burning with impure oil and impure wick.

So telassapi aparisuddhattā vaṭṭiyāpi aparisuddhattā andhandhaṃ viya jhāyati;

Because of the impurity of the oil and the wick it burns dimly, as it were.

evameva kho, āvuso kaccāna, idhekacco bhikkhu

‘saṅkiliṭṭhābhā’ti pharivā adhimuccitvā viharati,

In the same way, take some mendicant who meditates determined on pervading ‘corrupted radiance’.

tassa kāyaduṭṭhullampi na suppaṭippassaddhaṃ hoti, thinamiddhampi na susamūhataṃ hoti, uddhaccakukkuccampi na suppaṭivinītaṃ hoti.

Because of this they practice absorption dimly, as it were.

So kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā saṅkiliṭṭhābhānaṃ devānaṃ

When he had spoken, Venerable Abhiya Kaccāna said to Pañcakaṅga the master builder,

“lābhā te, gahapati, suladdhaṃ te, gahapati,

“You’re fortunate, householder, so very fortunate,

yaṃ tvañceva taṃ kaṅkhādhammaṃ pahāsi, mayañcimaṃ dhammapariyāyaṃ alatthamhā savanāyā’”ti.

to have given up your state of uncertainty, and to have got the chance to listen to this exposition of the teaching.”

Anuruddhasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ sattamaṃ.

128. Upakkilesasutta Corruptions

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava kosambiyam viharati ghositarame.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Kosambi, in Ghosita's Monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena kosambiyam bhikkhu bhandanajatā kalahajāta vivādāpannā aññamaññaṃ mukhasattīhi vitudantā viharanti.

Now at that time the mendicants of Kosambi were arguing, quarreling, and fighting, continually wounding each other with barbed words.

Atha kho aññataro bhikkhu yena bhagava tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtva bhagavantaṃ abhivādetva ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi.

Ekamantaṃ t̥hito kho so bhikkhu bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

Then a mendicant went up to the Buddha, bowed, stood to one side, and told him what was happening, adding:

“idha, bhante, kosambiyam bhikkhū bhandanajatā kalahajāta vivādāpannā aññamaññaṃ mukhasattīhi vitudantā viharanti.

Sādhu, bhante, bhagava yena te bhikkhū tenupasaṅkamatu anukampaṃ upādāyā”ti.

“Please, sir go to those mendicants out of compassion.”

Adhivāsesi bhagava tuṅhībhāvena.

The Buddha consented in silence.

Atha kho bhagavā yena te bhikkhū tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā te bhikkhū etadavoca:

Then the Buddha went up to those mendicants and said,

“alaṃ, bhikkhave, mā bhaṇḍanaṃ, mā kalahaṃ, mā viggahaṃ, mā vivādan”ti.

“Enough, mendicants! Stop arguing, quarreling, and fighting.”

Evaṃ vutte, aññataro bhikkhu bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he said this, one of the mendicants said to the Buddha, “āgametu, bhante.

“Wait, sir!

Bhagavā dhammassāmī;

Let the Buddha, the Lord of the Dhamma,

appossukko, bhante, bhagavā diṭṭhadhammasukhavihāraṃ
anuyutto viharatu;

remain passive, dwelling in blissful meditation in the present life.

mayametena bhaṇḍanena kalahena viggahena vivādena paññāyissāmā”ti.

We will be known for this arguing, quarreling, and fighting.”

Dutiyampi kho bhagavā te bhikkhū etadavoca:

For a second time ...

“alaṃ, bhikkhave, mā bhaṇḍanaṃ, mā kalahaṃ, mā viggahaṃ,
mā vivādan”ti.

Dutiyampi kho so bhikkhu bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

“āgametu, bhante.

Bhagavā dhammassāmī;

appossukko, bhante, bhagavā diṭṭhadhammasukhavihāraṃ
anuyutto viharatu;

mayametena bhaṇḍanena kalahena viggahena vivādena paññāyissāmā”ti.

Tatiyampi kho bhagavā te bhikkhū etadavoca:

and a third time the Buddha said to those mendicants, “alaṃ, bhikkhave, mā bhaṇḍanaṃ, mā kalahaṃ, mā viggahaṃ, mā vivādan”ti.

“Enough, mendicants! Stop arguing, quarreling, and fighting.”

Tatiyampi kho so bhikkhu bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

For a third time that mendicant said to the Buddha,

“āgametu, bhante.

“Wait, sir!

Bhagavā dhammassāmī;

Let the Buddha, the Lord of the Dhamma, apossukko, bhante, bhagavā diṭṭhadhammasukhavihāraṃ anuyutto viharatu;

remain passive, dwelling in blissful meditation in the present life.

mayametena bhaṇḍanena kalahena viggahena vivādena paññāyissāmā”ti.

We will be known for this arguing, quarreling, and fighting.”

Atha kho bhagavā pubbaṇhasamayāṃ nivāsetvā

pattacīvaramādāya kosambiraṃ piṇḍāya pāvīsi.

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Kosambi for alms.

Kosambiyaṃ piṇḍāya caritvā pacchābhattaṃ

piṇḍapātaṭikkanto senāsanāṃ saṃsāmetvā

pattacīvaramādāya ṭhitakova imā gāthā abhāsi:

After the meal, on his return from alms-round, he set his lodgings in order. Taking his bowl and robe, he recited these verses while standing right there:

“Puthusaddo samajano, “When many voices shout at once,
na bālo koci maññatha;
no-one thinks that they’re a fool!
Saṅghasmim̐ bhijjamānasmim̐,
While the Saṅgha’s being split,
nāññaṃ bhiyyo amaññarum̐.
none thought another to be better.

Parimuttā paṇḍitābhāsā, Dolts pretending to be astute,
vācāgocarabhāṇino;
they talk, their words right out of bounds.
Yāvicchanti mukhāyāmaṃ,
They blab at will, their mouths agape,
yena nītā na taṃ vidū.
and no-one knows what leads them on.

Akkocchi maṃ avadhi maṃ,
“They abused me, they hit me!
ajini maṃ ahāsi me;
They beat me, they robbed me!”
Ye ca taṃ upanayhanti,
For those who bear such a grudge, veraṃ tesaṃ na sammati.
hatred never ends.

Akkocchi maṃ avadhi maṃ,
“They abused me, they hit me!
ajini maṃ ahāsi me;
They beat me, they robbed me!”

Ye ca taṃ nupanayhanti,
For those who bear no such grudge, veraṃ tesūpasammati.
hatred has an end.

Na hi verena verāni,
For never is hatred
sammantīdha kudācanaṃ;
settled by hate,
Averena ca sammanti,
it's only settled by love:
esa dhammo sanantano.
this is an ancient law.

Pare ca na vijānanti, Others don't understand
mayamettha yamāse;
that here we need to be restrained.
Ye ca tattha vijānanti,
But those who do understand this,
tato sammanti medhagā.
being clever, settle their quarrels.

Aṭṭhicchinnā pāṇaharā, Breakers of bones and takers of life,
gavassadhanahārino;
thieves of cattle, horses, wealth, Raṭṭhaṃ vilumpamānānaṃ,
those who plunder the nation:
tesampi hoti saṅgati;

even they can come together,

Kasmā tumhākaṃ no siyā.

so why on earth can't you?

Sace labhetha nipakaṃ sahāyaṃ,

If you find an alert companion,

Saddhiṃ caraṃ sādhuvihāri dhīraṃ;

a wise and virtuous friend,

Abhibhuyya sabbāni parissayāni, then, overcoming all challenges,

Careyya tenattamano satīmā.

wander with them, joyful and mindful.

No ce labhetha nipakaṃ sahāyaṃ,

If you find no alert companion,

Saddhiṃ caraṃ sādhuvihāri dhīraṃ;

no wise and virtuous friend,

Rājāva raṭṭhaṃ vijitaṃ pahāya,

then, like a king who flees his conquered realm,

Eko care mātaṅgaraññaeva nāgo.

wander alone like a tusker in the wilds.

Ekassa caritaṃ seyyo,

It's better to wander alone,

Natthi bāle sahāyatā;

there's no fellowship with fools.

Eko care na ca pāpāni kayirā,

Wander alone and do no wrong,

Apossukko mātaṅgaraññaeva nāgo”ti.

at ease like a tusker in the wilds.”

Atha kho bhagavā ʘhitakova imā gāthā bhāsitvā yena bālakaloᅇakāragāmo tenupasaᅇkamaᅇ.

After speaking these verses while standing, the Buddha went to the village of the child salt-miners,

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā bhagu bālakaloᅇakāragāme
viharati.

where Venerable Bhagu was staying at the time.

Addasā kho āyasmā bhagu bhagavantaᅇ dūratova āgacchantaᅇ.

Bhagu saw the Buddha coming off in the distance,

Disvāna āsanaᅇ paᅇᅇapesi udakaᅇca pādānaᅇ dhovanaᅇ.
so he spread out a seat and placed water for washing the feet.

Nisīdi bhagavā paᅇᅇatte āsane.

The Buddha sat on the seat spread out,

Nisajja pāde pakkhālesi.

and washed his feet.

Āyasmāpi kho bhagu bhagavantaᅇ abhivādetvā ekamantaᅇ
nisīdi.

Bhagu bowed to the Buddha and sat down to one side.

Ekamantaᅇ nisinnaᅇ kho āyasmantaᅇ bhaguᅇ bhagavā
etadavoca:

The Buddha said to him,

“kacci, bhikkhu, khamanīyaᅇ, kacci yāpanīyaᅇ, kacci piᅇᅇakena na kilamasī”ti?

“I hope you’re keeping well, mendicant; I hope you’re all right. And I hope you’re having no trouble getting alms-food.”

“Khamanīyaᅇ bhagavā, yāpanīyaᅇ bhagavā, na cāhaᅇ, bhante, piᅇᅇakena kilamāmī”ti.

“I’m keeping well, sir; I’m all right. And I’m having no trouble getting alms-food.”

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ bhaguṃ dhammiyā kathāya sandassetvā samādapetvā samuttejetvā sampahaṃsetvā uṭṭhāyāsanā yena pācīnavaṃsadāyo tenupasaṅkami.

Then the Buddha educated, encouraged, fired up, and inspired Bhagu with a Dhamma talk, after which he got up from his seat and set out for the Eastern Bamboo Park.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā ca anuruddho āyasmā ca nandiyo āyasmā ca kimilo pācīnavaṃsadāye viharanti.

Now at that time the venerables Anuruddha, Nandiya, and Kimbila were staying in the Eastern Bamboo Park.

Addasā kho dāyapālo bhagavantaṃ dūratova āgacchantaṃ.

The park keeper saw the Buddha coming off in the distance

Disvāna bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

and said to the Buddha,

“mā, mahāsamaṇa, etaṃ dāyaṃ pāvisi.

“Don’t come into this park, ascetic.

Santettha tayo kulaputtā attakāmarūpā viharanti.

There are three gentlemen who love themselves staying here.

Mā tesaṃ aphāsumakāsī”ti.

Don’t disturb them.”

Assosi kho āyasmā anuruddho dāyapālassa bhagavatā saddhiṃ mantayamānassa.

Anuruddha heard the park keeper conversing with the Buddha,

Sutvāna dāyapālaṃ etadavoca:

and said to him,

“mā, āvuso dāyapāla, bhagavantaṃ vāresi.

“Don’t keep the Buddha out, good park keeper!

Satthā no bhagavā anuppatto”ti.

Our Teacher, the Blessed One, has arrived.”

Atha kho āyasmā anuruddho yenāyasmā ca nandiyo yenāyasmā ca kimilo tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantañca nandiyaṃ āyasmantañca kimilaṃ etadavoca:

Then Anuruddha went to Nandiya and Kimbila, and said to them, “abhikkamathāyasmanto, abhikkamathāyasmanto, satthā no bhagavā anuppatto”ti.

“Come forth, venerables, come forth! Our Teacher, the Blessed One, has arrived!”

Atha kho āyasmā ca anuruddho āyasmā ca nandiyo āyasmā ca kimilo bhagavantaṃ paccuggantvā

Then Anuruddha, Nandiya, and Kimbila came out to greet the Buddha.

eko bhagavato pattacīvaram paṭiggahesi, eko āsanam paññapesi, eko pādodakam upaṭṭhapesi.

One received his bowl and robe, one spread out a seat, and one set out water for washing his feet.

Nisīdi bhagavā paññatte āsane.

The Buddha sat on the seat spread out

Nisajja pāde pakkhālesi.

and washed his feet.

Tepi kho āyasmanto bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdiṃsu.

Those venerables bowed and sat down to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho āyasmantaṃ anuruddham bhagavā
etadavoca:

The Buddha said to Anuruddha,

“kacci vo, anuruddhā, khamanīyam, kacci yāpanīyam, kacci piṇḍakena na kilamathā”ti?

“I hope you’re keeping well, Anuruddha and friends; I hope you’re all right. And I hope you’re having no trouble getting alms-food.”

“Khamanīyaṃ bhagavā, yāpanīyaṃ bhagavā, na ca mayāṃ, bhante, piṇḍakena kilamāmā”ti.

“I hope you’re living in harmony, appreciating each other, without quarreling, blending like milk and water, and regarding each other with kindly eyes?”

“Taggha mayāṃ, bhante, samaggā sammodayamānā avivadamānā khīrodakībhūtā aññamaññaṃ piyacakkhūhi sampassantā viharāmā”ti.

“Indeed, sir, we live in harmony as you say.”

“Yathā kathaṃ pana tumhe, anuruddhā, samaggā sammodayamānā avivadamānā khīrodakībhūtā aññamaññaṃ piyacakkhūhi sampassantā viharathā”ti?

“Idha mayhaṃ, bhante, evaṃ hoti:

“In this case, sir, I think:

‘lābhā vata me, suladdhaṃ vata me

‘I’m fortunate, so very fortunate, yohaṃ evarūpehi sabrahmacārīhi saddhiṃ viharāmī’ti.

to live together with spiritual companions such as these.’

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, imesu āyasmantesu mettaṃ kāyakammaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ āvi ceva raho ca,

I consistently treat these venerables with kindness by way of body, speech, and mind, both in public and in private.

mettaṃ vacīkammaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ āvi ceva raho ca,

mettaṃ manokammaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ āvi ceva raho ca.

Tassa, mayhaṃ, bhante, evaṃ hoti:

I think:

‘yannūnāhaṃ sakaṃ cittaṃ nikkhipitvā imesaṃyeva
āyasmantānaṃ cittassa vasena vatteyyan’ti.

‘Why don’t I set aside my own ideas and just go along with these venerables’ ideas?’

So kho ahaṃ, bhante, sakaṃ cittaṃ nikkhipitvā imesaṃyeva āyasmantānaṃ cittassa vasena vattāmi.

And that’s what I do.

Nānā hi kho no, bhante, kāyā, ekañca pana maññe cittaṃ”ti.

Though we’re different in body, sir, we’re one in mind, it seems to me.”

Āyasmāpi kho nandiyo ...pe...

And the venerables Nandiya and Kimbila spoke likewise, and they added:

āyasmāpi kho kimilo bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

“mayhampi kho, bhante, evaṃ hoti:

‘lābhā vata me, suladdhaṃ vata me

yohaṃ evarūpehi sabrahmacārīhi saddhiṃ viharāmi’ti.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, imesu āyasmantesu mettaṃ kāyakammaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ āvi ceva raho ca,

mettaṃ vacīkammaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ āvi ceva raho ca,

mettaṃ manokammaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ āvi ceva raho ca.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, evaṃ hoti:

‘yannūnāhaṃ sakaṃ cittaṃ nikkhipitvā imesaṃyeva
āyasmantānaṃ cittassa vasena vatteyyan’ti.

So kho ahaṃ, bhante, sakaṃ cittaṃ nikkhipitvā imesaṃyeva āyasmantānaṃ cittassa vasena vattāmi.

Nānā hi kho no, bhante, kāyā, ekañca pana maññe cittanti.

Evaṃ kho mayaṃ, bhante, samaggā sammodamānā avivadamānā khīrodakībhūtā aññamaññaṃ piyacakkhūhi sampassantā viharāmā”ti.

“That’s how we live in harmony, appreciating each other, without quarreling, blending like milk and water, and regarding each other with kindly eyes.”

“Sādhu sādhu, anuruddhā.

“Good, good, Anuruddha and friends!

Kacci pana vo, anuruddhā, appamattā ātāpino pahitattā viharathā”ti?

But I hope you’re living diligently, keen, and resolute?”

“Taggha mayaṃ, bhante, appamattā ātāpino pahitattā viharāmā”ti.

“Indeed, sir, we live diligently.”

“Yathā kathaṃ pana tumhe, anuruddhā, appamattā ātāpino pahitattā viharathā”ti?

“But how do you live this way?”

“Idha, bhante, amhākaṃ yo paṭhamaṃ gāmato piṇḍāya paṭikkamati, so āsanāni paññapeti, pānīyaṃ paribhojanīyaṃ upaṭṭhāpeti, avakkārapātiṃ upaṭṭhāpeti.

“In this case, sir, whoever returns first from alms-round prepares the seats, and puts out the drinking water and the rubbish bin.

Yo pacchā gāmato piṇḍāya paṭikkamati—sace hoti bhuttāvaseso, sace ākaṅkhati, bhuñjati; no ce ākaṅkhati, appaharite vā chaḍḍeti apāṇake vā udake opilāpeti—

If there's anything left over, whoever returns last eats it if they like. Otherwise they throw it out where there is little that grows, or drop it into water that has no living creatures.

so āsanāni paṭisāmeti, pānīyaṃ paribhojanīyaṃ paṭisāmeti, avakkārapātiṃ dhovivā paṭisāmeti, bhattaggaṃ sammajjati.

Then they put away the seats, drinking water, and rubbish bin, and sweep the refectory.

Yo passati pānīyaghaṭaṃ vā paribhojanīyaghaṭaṃ vā vaccaghaṭaṃ vā rittaṃ tucchaṃ so upaṭṭhāpeti.

If someone sees that the pot of water for washing, drinking, or the toilet is empty they set it up.

Sacassa hoti avisayhaṃ, hatthavikārena dutiyaṃ āmantetvā hatthavilaṅghakena upaṭṭhāpema, na tveva mayaṃ, bhante, tappaccayā vācaṃ bhindāma.

If he can't do it, he summons another with a wave of the hand, and they set it up by lifting it with their hands. But we don't break into speech for that reason.

Pañcāhikaṃ kho pana mayaṃ, bhante, sabbarattiṃ dhammiyā kathāya sannisīdāma.

And every five days we sit together for the whole night and discuss the teachings.

Evaṃ kho mayaṃ, bhante, appamattā ātāpino pahitattā viharāmā”ti.

That's how we live diligently, keen, and resolute.”

“Sādhu sādhu, anuruddhā.

“Good, good, Anuruddha and friends!

Atthi pana vo, anuruddhā, evaṃ appamattānaṃ ātāpīnaṃ pahitattānaṃ viharataṃ uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanaviseso adhigato phāsuvihāro”ti?

But as you live diligently like this, have you achieved any superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones, a meditation at ease?”

“Idha mayaṃ, bhante, appamattā ātāpino pahitattā viharantā obhāsañceva sañjānāma dassanañca rūpānaṃ.

“Well, sir, while meditating diligent, keen, and resolute, we perceive both light and vision of forms.

So kho pana no obhāso nacirasseva antaradhāyati dassanañca rūpānaṃ;

But before long the light and the vision of forms vanish.

tañca nimittaṃ nappaṭivijjhāmā”ti.

We haven’t worked out the reason for that.”

“Taṃ kho pana vo, anuruddhā, nimittaṃ paṭivijjhitabbaṃ.

“Well, you should work out the reason for that.

Ahampi sudaṃ, anuruddhā, pubbeva sambodhā anabhisambuddho bodhisattova samāno obhāsañceva sañjānāmi dassanañca rūpānaṃ.

Before my awakening—when I was still unawakened but intent on awakening—I too perceived both light and vision of forms.

So kho pana me obhāso nacirasseva antaradhāyati dassanañca
rūpānaṃ.

But before long my light and vision of forms vanished.

Tassa mayhaṃ, anuruddhā, etadahosi:

It occurred to me:

‘ko nu kho hetu ko paccayo yena me obhāso antaradhāyati dassanañca rūpānaṃ’ti?

‘What’s the cause, what’s the reason why my light and vision of forms vanish?’

Tassa mayhaṃ, anuruddhā, etadahosi:

It occurred to me:

‘vicikicchā kho me udapādi, vicikicchādhikaraṇaṃ pana me

‘Doubt arose in me, and because of that my immersion fell away.

Samādhimhi cute obhāso antaradhāyati dassanañca rūpānaṃ.
When immersion falls away, the light and vision of forms vanish.

Sohaṃ tathā karissāmi yathā me puna na vicikicchā

I'll make sure that doubt will not arise in me again.'

So kho ahaṃ, anuruddhā, appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto obhāsañceva sañjānāmi dassanañca rūpānaṃ.

While meditating diligent, keen, and resolute, I perceived both light and vision of forms.

So kho pana me obhāso nacirasseva antaradhāyati dassanañca
rūpānaṃ.

But before long my light and vision of forms vanished.

Tassa mayhaṃ, anuruddhā, etadahosi:

It occurred to me:

'ko nu kho hetu ko paccayo yena me obhāso antaradhāyati
dassanañca rūpānaṃ'ti?

'What's the cause, what's the reason why my light and vision of forms vanish?'

Tassa mayhaṃ, anuruddhā, etadahosi:

It occurred to me:

'amanasikāro kho me udapādi, amanasikārādhikaraṇaṃ pana

'Loss of focus arose in me, and because of that my immersion fell away.

Samādhimhi cute obhāso antaradhāyati dassanañca rūpānaṃ.
When immersion falls away, the light and vision of forms vanish.

Sohaṃ tathā karissāmi yathā me puna na vicikicchā

I'll make sure that neither doubt nor loss of focus will arise in me again.'

So kho ahaṃ, anuruddhā ...pe...

While meditating ...

tassa mayhaṃ, anuruddhā, etadahosi:

‘thinamiddhaṃ kho me udapādi, thinamiddhādhikaraṇaṅca

‘Dullness and drowsiness arose in me ...

Samādhimhi cute obhāso antaradhāyati dassanaṅca rūpānaṃ.

Sohaṃ tathā karissāmi yathā me puna na vicikicchā

‘I’ll make sure that neither doubt nor loss of focus nor dullness and drowsiness will arise in me again.’

So kho ahaṃ, anuruddhā ...pe...

While meditating ...

tassa mayhaṃ, anuruddhā, etadahosi:

‘chambhitattaṃ kho me udapādi, chambhitattādhikaraṇaṅca

‘Terror arose in me, and because of that my immersion fell away.

Samādhimhi cute obhāso antaradhāyati dassanaṅca rūpānaṃ.

When immersion falls away, the light and vision of forms vanish.

Seyyathāpi, anuruddhā, puriso addhānamaggappaṭipanno,

In the same way, terror arose in me ...

Samādhimhi cute obhāso antaradhāyati dassanaṅca rūpānaṃ.

Sohaṃ tathā karissāmi yathā me puna na vicikicchā

I'll make sure that neither doubt nor loss of focus nor dullness and drowsiness nor terror will arise in me again.'

So kho ahaṃ, anuruddhā ...pe...

While meditating ...

tassa mayhaṃ, anuruddhā, etadahosi:

'uppilaṃ kho me udapādi, uppilādhikaraṇaṅca pana me samādhī cavi.

'Excitement arose in me, and because of that my immersion fell away.

Samādhimhi cute obhāso antaradhāyati dassanaṅca rūpānaṃ.

When immersion falls away, the light and vision of forms vanish.

Seyyathāpi, anuruddhā, puriso ekaṃ nidhimukhaṃ gavesanto

Suppose a person was looking for an entrance to a hidden treasure. And all at once they'd come across five entrances! They'd feel excited because of that.

evameva kho me, anuruddhā, uppilaṃ udapādi,

In the same way, excitement arose in me ...

Samādhimhi cute obhāso antaradhāyati dassanaṅca rūpānaṃ.

Sohaṃ tathā karissāmi yathā me puna na vicikicchā

I'll make sure that neither doubt nor loss of focus nor dullness and drowsiness nor terror nor excitement will arise in me again.'

So kho ahaṃ, anuruddhā ...pe...

While meditating ...

tassa mayhaṃ, anuruddhā, etadahosi:

‘duṭṭhullaṃ kho me udapādi, duṭṭhullādhikaraṇaṅca pana me samādhī cavi.

‘Discomfort arose in me ...

Samādhimhi cute obhāso antaradhāyati dassanaṅca rūpānaṃ.

Sohaṃ tathā karissāmi yathā me puna na vicikicchā

I’ll make sure that neither doubt nor loss of focus nor dullness and drowsiness nor terror nor excitement nor discomfort will arise in me again.’

So kho ahaṃ, anuruddhā ...pe...

While meditating ...

tassa mayhaṃ, anuruddhā, etadahosi:

‘accāraddhavīriyaṃ kho me udapādi,

‘Excessive energy arose in me, and because of that my immersion fell away.

Samādhimhi cute obhāso antaradhāyati dassanaṅca rūpānaṃ.

When immersion falls away, the light and vision of forms vanish.

Seyyathāpi, anuruddhā, puriso ubhohi hatthehi vaṭṭakaṃ

Suppose a person was to grip a quail too tightly in this hands—it would die right there.

So kho aham, anuruddhā, appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto obhāsañhi kho sañjānāmi, na ca rūpāni passāmi;

While meditating diligent, keen, and resolute, I perceived light but did not see forms,

Tassa mayhaṃ, anuruddhā, etadahosi:
I thought:

'ye kho me cittassa upakkilesā te me pahīnā.
'I've given up my mental corruptions.

Handa dānāhaṃ tividhena samādhiṃ bhāvemī'ti.
Now let me develop immersion in three ways.'

So kho ahaṃ, anuruddhā, savitakkampi savicāraṃ samādhiṃ samādhiṃ bhāvesiṃ, nippītikampi samādhiṃ bhāvesiṃ, sātasahagatampi samādhiṃ bhāvesiṃ, upekkhāsahagatampi samādhiṃ bhāvesiṃ.

I developed immersion while placing the mind and keeping it connected; without placing the mind, but just keeping it connected; without placing the mind or keeping it connected; with rapture;
without rapture; with pleasure; with equanimity.

Yato kho me, anuruddhā, savitakkopi savicāro samādhī bhāvito ahoṣi, avitakkopi vicāramatto samādhī bhāvito ahoṣi, avitakkopi avicāro samādhī bhāvito ahoṣi, sappītikopi samādhī bhāvito ahoṣi, nippītikopi samādhī bhāvito ahoṣi, sātasahagatopi samādhī bhāvito ahoṣi, upekkhāsahagatopi samādhī bhāvito ahoṣi.

When I had developed immersion in these ways,

Ñāṇaṅca pana me dassanaṃ udapādi,
the knowledge and vision arose in me:

akuppā me cetovimutti. Ayamantimā jāti, natthi dāni punabbhavo”ti.

‘My freedom is unshakable; this is my last rebirth; now there are no more future lives.’”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā anuruddho bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.
Satisfied, Venerable Anuruddha was happy with what the Buddha said.

Upakkilesasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ aṭṭhamaṃ.

129. Bālapaṇḍitasutta The Foolish and the Astute

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta’s Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tatra kho bhagava bhikkhū amantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagava etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Tṭimāni, bhikkhave, bālassa bālalakkhaṇāni bālanimittāni bālāpadānāni.

“These are the three characteristics, signs, and manifestations of a fool.

Katamāni tṭi?

What three?

Idha, bhikkhave, bālo duccintitacintī ca hoti dubbhāsītabhāsī ca dukkaṭakammakārī ca.

A fool thinks poorly, speaks poorly, and acts poorly.

No cetam, bhikkhave, bālo duccintitacintī ca abhavissa dubbhāsītabhāsī ca dukkaṭakammakārī ca kena nam paṇḍitā jāneyyum:

If a fool didn't think poorly, speak poorly, and act poorly, then how would the astute know of them,

'bālo ayam bhavam asappuriso'ti?

'This fellow is a fool, a bad person'?

Yasmā ca kho, bhikkhave, bālo duccintitacintī ca hoti dubbhāsītabhāsī ca dukkaṭakammakārī ca tasmā nam paṇḍitā jānanti:

But since a fool does think poorly, speak poorly, and act poorly, then the astute do know of them,

'bālo ayam bhavam asappuriso'ti.

'This fellow is a fool, a bad person'.

Sa kho so, bhikkhave, bālo tividham diṭṭheva dhamme dukkham domanassam paṭisamvedeti.

A fool experiences three kinds of suffering and sadness in the present life.

Sace, bhikkhave, bālo sabhāyam vā nisinno hoti, rathikāya vā nisinno hoti, siṅghāṭake vā nisinno hoti;

Suppose a fool is sitting in a council hall, a street, or a crossroad, tatra ce jano tajjam tassarupam katham manteti.

where people are discussing what is proper and fitting.

Sace, bhikkhave, bālo paṇātipātī hoti, adinnādāyī hoti, kāmesumicchācārī hoti, musāvādī hoti, surāmerayamajjapamādaṭṭhāyī hoti.

And suppose that fool is someone who kills living creatures, steals, commits sexual misconduct, lies, and uses alcoholic drinks that cause negligence.

Tatra, bhikkhave, bālassa evaṃ hoti:

Then that fool thinks,

‘yaṃ kho jano tajjaṃ tassāruppaṃ kathaṃ manteti,

‘These people are discussing what is proper and fitting.

saṃvijjanteva te dhammā mayi, ahañca tesu dhammesu sandissāmi’ti.

But those things are found in me and I am seen in them!’

Idaṃ, bhikkhave, bālo paṭhamaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme dukkhaṃ domanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti.

This is the first kind of suffering and sadness that a fool experiences in the present life.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bālo passati rājāno coraṃ āgucāriṃ gahetvā vividhā kammakāraṇā kārente—

Furthermore, a fool sees that the kings have arrested a bandit, a criminal, and subjected them to various punishments—

kasāhipi tāḷente vettehipi tāḷente addhadaṇḍakehipi tāḷente hatthampi chindante pādampi chindante hatthapādampi chindante kaṇṇampi chindante nāsampi chindante kaṇṇanāsampi chindante bilaṅgathālikampi karonte saṅkhamuṇḍikampi karonte rāhumukhampi karonte jotimālikampi karonte hatthapajjotikampi karonte erakavattikampi karonte cīrakavāsikampi karonte eṇeyyakampi karonte baḷisamaṃsikampi karonte kahāpaṇikampi karonte khārāpatacchikampi karonte palighaparivattikampi karonte palālapīṭhakampi karonte tattenapi telena osiñcante sunakhehipi khādāpente jīvantampi sūle uttāsente asināpi whipping, caning, and clubbing; cutting off hands or feet, or both; cutting off ears or nose, or both; the ‘porridge pot’, the ‘shell-shave’, the ‘demon’s mouth’, the ‘garland of fire’, the ‘burning hand’, the ‘grass blades’, the ‘bark dress’, the ‘antelope’, the ‘meat hook’, the ‘coins’, the ‘acid pickle’, the ‘twisting bar’, the ‘straw mat’; being splashed with hot oil, being fed to the dogs, being impaled alive, and being beheaded.

Tatra, bhikkhave, bālassa evaṃ hoti:

Then that fool thinks,

‘yathārūpānaṃ kho pāpakānaṃ kammānaṃ hetu rājāno coraṃ āgucāriṃ gahetvā vividhā kammakāraṇā kārenti—

‘The kinds of deeds for which the kings inflict such punishments—kasāhipi tāḷenti ...pe... asināpi sīsaṃ chindanti; saṃvijjanteva te dhammā mayi, ahañca tesu dhammesu sandissāmi.

those things are found in me and I am seen in them!

Mañcepi rājāno jāneyyuraṃ, mampi rājāno gahetvā vividhā kammakāraṇā kāreyyuraṃ—

If the kings find out about me, they will inflict the same kinds of punishments on me!’

kasāhipi tāḷeyyuraṃ ...pe... jīvantampi sūle uttāseyyuraṃ, asināpi sīsaṃ chindeyyun’ti.

Idampi, bhikkhave, bālo dutiyaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme dukkhaṃ domanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti.

This is the second kind of suffering and sadness that a fool experiences in the present life.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bālaṃ piṭhasamārūḷhaṃ vā mañcasamārūḷhaṃ vā chamāyaṃ vā semānaṃ, yānissa pubbe pāpakāni kammāni katāni kāyena duccharitāni vācāya duccharitāni manasā duccharitāni tānissa tamhi samaye olambanti ajjholambanti abhippalambanti.

Furthermore, when a fool is resting on a chair or a bed or on the ground, their past bad deeds—misconduct of body, speech, and mind—settle down upon them, rest down upon them, and lay down upon them.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, mahataṃ pabbatakūṭānaṃ chāyā sāyanhasamayāṃ pathaviyā olambanti ajjholambanti abhippalambanti;

It is like the shadow of a great mountain peak in the evening as it settles down, rests down, and lays down upon the earth.

evameva kho, bhikkhave, bālaṃ piṭhasamārūḷhaṃ vā mañcasamārūḷhaṃ vā chamāyaṃ vā semānaṃ, yānissa pubbe pāpakāni kammāni katāni kāyena duccharitāni vācāya duccaritāni manasā duccharitāni tānissa tamhi samaye olambanti ajjholambanti abhippalambanti.

In the same way, when a fool is resting on a chair or a bed or on the ground, their past bad deeds—misconduct of body, speech, and mind—settle down upon them, rest down upon them, and lay down upon them.

Tatra, bhikkhave, bālassa evaṃ hoti:

Then that fool thinks,

‘akataṃ vata me kalyāṇaṃ, akataṃ kusalaṃ, akataṃ bhīruttāṇaṃ;

‘Well, I haven’t done good and skillful things that keep me safe.

kataṃ pāpaṃ, kataṃ luddaṃ, kataṃ kibbisaṃ.

And I have done bad, violent, and corrupt things.

Yāvatā, bho, akatakalyāṇānaṃ akatakusalānaṃ akatabhīruttāṇānaṃ katapāpānaṃ kataluddānaṃ katakibbisānaṃ gati taṃ gatiṃ pecca gacchāmi’ti.

When I depart, I’ll go to the place where people who’ve done such things go.’

So socati kilamati paridevati urattāḷiṃ kandati sammohaṃ āpajjati.

They sorrow and pine and lament, beating their breasts and falling into confusion.

Idampi, bhikkhave, bālo tatiyaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme dukkhaṃ domanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti.

This is the third kind of suffering and sadness that a fool experiences in the present life.

Sa kho so, bhikkhave, bālo kāyena duccharitaṃ caritvā vācāya duccharitaṃ caritvā manasā duccharitaṃ caritvā kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā apāyaṃ duggatiṃ vinipātaṃ nirayaṃ upapajjati. Having done bad things by way of body, speech, and mind, when their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell.

Yaṃ kho taṃ, bhikkhave, sammā vadamāno vadeyya:

And if there's anything of which it may be rightly said that ‘ekantaṃ aniṭṭhaṃ ekantaṃ akantaṃ ekantaṃ amanāpan’ti, nirayameva taṃ sammā vadamāno vadeyya:

it is utterly unlikable, undesirable, and disagreeable, it is of hell that this should be said.

‘ekantaṃ aniṭṭhaṃ ekantaṃ akantaṃ ekantaṃ amanāpan’ti.

Yāvañcidaṃ, bhikkhave, upamāpi na sukarā yāva dukkhā nirayā”ti.

So much so that it's not easy to give a simile for how painful hell is.”

Evaṃ vutte, aññataro bhikkhu bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he said this, one of the mendicants asked the Buddha,

“sakkā pana, bhante, upamaṃ kātun”ti?

“But sir, is it possible to give a simile?”

“Sakkā, bhikkhū”ti bhagavā avoca.

“It's possible,” said the Buddha.

“Seyyathāpi, bhikkhu, coraṃ āgucāriṃ gahetvā rañño dasseyyuṃ:

“Suppose they arrest a bandit, a criminal and present him to the king, saying, ‘ayaṃ kho, deva, coro āgucārī, imassa yaṃ icchasi taṃ daṇḍaṃ paṇehī’ti.

‘Your Majesty, this is a bandit, a criminal. Punish him as you will.’

Tameṇaṃ rājā evaṃ vadeyya:

The king would say,

‘gacchatha, bho, imaṃ purisaṃ pubbaṇhasamayaṃ sattisatena hanathā’ti.

‘Go, my men, and strike this man in the morning with a hundred spears!’

Tameṇaṃ pubbaṇhasamayaṃ sattisatena haneyyumaṃ.

The king’s men did as they were told.

Atha rājā majjhanhikasamayaṃ evaṃ vadeyya:

Then at midday the king would say,

‘ambho, kathaṃ so puriso’ti?

‘My men, how is that man?’

‘Tattheva, deva, jīvatī’ti.

‘He’s still alive, Your Majesty.’

Tameṇaṃ rājā evaṃ vadeyya:

The king would say,

‘gacchatha, bho, taṃ purisaṃ majjhanhikasamayaṃ sattisatena hanathā’ti.

‘Go, my men, and strike this man in the midday with a hundred spears!’

Tameṇaṃ majjhanhikasamayaṃ sattisatena haneyyumaṃ.

The king’s men did as they were told.

Atha rājā sāyanhasamayaṃ evaṃ vadeyya:

Then late in the afternoon the king would say,

‘ambho, kathaṃ so puriso’ti?

‘My men, how is that man?’

‘Tattheva, deva, jīvatī’ti.

‘He’s still alive, Your Majesty.’

Tamenam rājā evam vadeyya:

The king would say,

‘gacchatha, bho, tam purisam sāyanhasamayam sattisatena hanathā’ti.

‘Go, my men, and strike this man in the late afternoon with a hundred spears!’

Tamenam sāyanhasamayam sattisatena haneyyum.

The king’s men did as they were told.

Tam kim maññatha, bhikkhave,

What do you think, mendicants?

api nu so puriso tīhi sattisatehi haññamāno tatonidānam dukkham domanassam paṭisamvediyethā”ti?

Would that man experience pain and distress from being struck with three hundred spears?”

“Ekissāpi, bhante, sattiyā haññamāno so puriso tatonidānam dukkham domanassam paṭisamvediyetha, ko pana vādo tīhi sattisatehī”ti?

“Sir, that man would experience pain and distress from being struck with one spear, let alone three hundred spears!”

Atha kho bhagavā parittam paṇimattam pāsānam gahetvā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha, picking up a stone the size of his palm, addressed the mendicants,

“Tam kim maññatha, bhikkhave,

“What do you think, mendicants?

katamo nu kho mahantataro—yo cāyam mayā paritto paṇimatto pāsāno gahito, yo ca himavā pabbatarājā”ti?

Which is bigger: the stone the size of my palm that I've picked up, or the Himalayas, the king of mountains?"

“Appamattako ayaṃ, bhante, bhagavatā paritto pāṇimatto pāsāṇo gahito, himavantaṃ pabbatarājānaṃ upanidhāya saṅkhampi na upeti, kalabhāgampi na upeti, upanidhampi na upe”ti.

“Sir, the stone you've picked up is tiny. Compared to the Himalayas, it doesn't even count, it's not even a fraction, there's no comparison.”

“Evameva kho, bhikkhave, yaṃ so puriso tīhi sattisatehi haññamāno tatonidānaṃ dukkhaṃ domanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti taṃ nirayakassa dukkhassa upanidhāya saṅkhampi na upeti, kalabhāgampi na upeti, upanidhampi na upeti.

“In the same way, compared to the suffering in hell, the pain and distress experienced by that man due to being struck with three hundred spears doesn't even count, it's not even a fraction, there's no comparison.

Tameṇaṃ, bhikkhave, nirayapālā pañcavidhabandhanaṃ nāma kammakāraṇaṃ karonti—

The wardens of hell punish them with the five-fold crucifixion.

tattaṃ ayokhilaṃ hatthe gamenti, tattaṃ ayokhilaṃ dutiye hatthe gamenti, tattaṃ ayokhilaṃ pāde gamenti, tattaṃ ayokhilaṃ dutiye pāde gamenti, tattaṃ ayokhilaṃ majjhe urasmiṃ gamenti.

They drive red-hot stakes through the hands and feet, and another in the middle of the chest.

So tattha dukkhā tibbā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedeti, na ca tāva kālaṃ karoti yāva na taṃ pāpakammaṃ byantīhoti.

And there they feel painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings—but they don't die until that bad deed is eliminated.

Tamenam, bhikkhave, nirayapālā samvesetvā kuṭhārīhi tacchanti.

The wardens of hell throw them down and hack them with axes. ...

So tattha dukkhā tikkhā ...pe... byantīhoti.

Tamenam, bhikkhave, nirayapālā uddhampādam adhosiram gahetvā vāsīhi tacchanti.

They hang them upside-down and hack them with hatchets. ...

So tattha dukkhā tikkhā ...pe... byantīhoti.

Tamenam, bhikkhave, nirayapālā rathe yojetvā ādittāya pathaviyā sampajjalitāya sajotibhūtāya sārentipi paccāsārentipi.

They harness them to a chariot, and drive them back and forth across burning ground, blazing and glowing. ...

So tattha dukkhā tikkhā ...pe... byantīhoti.

Tamenam, bhikkhave, nirayapālā mahantaṃ aṅgārapabbataṃ ādittaṃ sampajjalitaṃ sajotibhūtaṃ āropentipi oropentipi.

They make them climb up and down a huge mountain of burning coals, blazing and glowing. ...

So tattha dukkhā tikkhā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedeti, na ca tāva kālaṃ karoti yāva na taṃ pāpakammaṃ byantīhoti.

Tamenam, bhikkhave, nirayapālā uddhampādam adhosiram gahetvā tattāya lohakumbhiyā pakkhipanti ādittāya sampajjalitāya sajotibhūtāya.

The wardens of hell turn them upside down and throw them into a red-hot copper pot, burning, blazing, and glowing.

So tattha pheṇuddehakaṃ paccati.

So tattha pheṇuddehakaṃ paccamāno sakimpi uddhaṃ gacchati, sakimpi adho gacchati, sakimpi tiriyaṃ gacchati.

There they're seared in boiling scum, and they're swept up and down and round and round.

So tattha dukkhā tibbā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedeti, na ca tāva kālaṃ karoti yāva na taṃ pāpakammaṃ byantīhoti.

And there they feel painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings—but they don't die until that bad deed is eliminated.

Tamenam, bhikkhave, nirayapālā mahāniraye pakkhipanti.

The wardens of hell toss them in the Great Hell.

So kho pana, bhikkhave, mahānirayo—

Now, about that Great Hell:

Catukkaṇṇo catudvāro,

'Four are its corners, four its doors,

vibhatto bhāgasō mito;

divided into measured parts.

Ayopākārapariyanto,

Surrounded by an iron wall,

ayasā paṭikujjito.

of iron is its roof.

Tassa ayomayā bhūmi,

The ground is even made of iron,

jalitā tejasā yutā;

it burns with fierce fire.

Samantā yojanasataṃ,

The heat forever radiates

pharivā tiṭṭhati sabbadā.

a hundred leagues around.'

Anekapariyāyenapi kho ahaṃ, bhikkhave, nirayakathaṃ katheyyaṃ;

I could tell you many different things about hell.

yāvañcidaṃ, bhikkhave, na sukarā akkhānena pāpuṇitum yāva dukkhā nirayā.

So much so that it's not easy to completely describe the suffering in hell.

Santi, bhikkhave, tiracchānagatā pāṇā tiṇabhakkhā.

There are, mendicants, animals that feed on grass.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Na hettha, bhikkhave, atthi dhammacariyā samacariyā kusalakiriyā puññakiriyā.

Because in that place there’s no principled or moral conduct, and no doing what is good and skillful.

Aññamaññakhādikā ettha, bhikkhave, vattati dubbalakhādikā.
There they just prey on each other, preying on the weak.

Sa kho so, bhikkhave, bālo sace kadāci karahaci dīghassa

When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell.

Suppose a gambler on the first unlucky throw were to lose his wife and child, all his property, and then get thrown in jail.

Appamattako so, bhikkhave, kaliggaho yaṃ so akkhadhutto paṭhameneva kaliggahena puttampi jīyetha, dārampi jīyetha, sabbaṃ sāpateyyampi jīyetha, uttariṃpi adhibandhaṃ nigaccheyya.

But such an unlucky throw is trivial compared to the unlucky throw whereby a fool, having done bad things by way of body, speech, and mind, when their body breaks up, after death, is reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell.

Ayaṃ, bhikkhave, kevalā paripūrā bālabhūmīti.

This is the total fulfillment of the fool's level.

Tīṇimāni, bhikkhave, paṇḍitassa paṇḍitalakkhaṇāni paṇḍitanimittāni paṇḍitāpadānāni.

There are these three characteristics, signs, and manifestations of an astute person.

Katamāni tīṇi?

What three?

Idha, bhikkhave, paṇḍito sucintitacintī ca hoti subhāsitaḥ ca sukatakkamaḥ ca.

An astute person thinks well, speaks well, and acts well.

No cetā, bhikkhave, paṇḍito sucintitacintī ca abhaviṣṣa subhāsitaḥ ca sukatakkamaḥ ca, kena naṃ paṇḍitā jāneyyumaḥ:

If an astute person didn't think well, speak well, and act well, then how would the astute know of them,

'paṇḍito ayaṃ bhavaṃ sappuriso'ti?

'This fellow is astute, a good person'?

Yasmā ca kho, bhikkhave, paṇḍito sucintitacintī ca hoti subhāsita bhāsī ca sukatakammakārī ca tasmā naṃ paṇḍitā jānanti:

But since an astute person does think well, speak well, and act well, then the astute do know of them,

'paṇḍito ayaṃ bhavaṃ sappuriso'ti.

'This fellow is astute, a good person'.

Sa kho so, bhikkhave, paṇḍito tividhaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sukhaṃ somanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti.

An astute person experiences three kinds of pleasure and happiness in the present life.

Sace, bhikkhave, paṇḍito sabhāyaṃ vā nisinno hoti, rathikāya vā nisinno hoti, siṅghāṭake vā nisinno hoti;

Suppose an astute person is sitting in a council hall, a street, or a crossroad, tatra ce jano tajjaṃ tassāruppaṃ kathaṃ manteti.

where people are discussing about what is proper and fitting.

Sace, bhikkhave, paṇḍito paṇātipātā paṭivirato hoti, adinnādānā paṭivirato hoti, kāmesumicchācārā paṭivirato hoti, musāvādā paṭivirato hoti, surāmerayamajjappamādaṭṭhānā paṭivirato hoti;

And suppose that astute person is someone who refrains from killing living creatures, stealing, committing sexual misconduct, lying, and alcoholic drinks that cause negligence.

tatra, bhikkhave, paṇḍitassa evaṃ hoti:

Then that astute person thinks,

'yaṃ kho jano tajjaṃ tassāruppaṃ kathaṃ manteti;

'These people are discussing what is proper and fitting.

saṃvijjanteva te dhammā mayi, ahañca tesu dhammesu sandissāmī'ti.

And those things are found in me and I am seen in them.'

Idaṃ, bhikkhave, paṇḍito paṭhamañ ditṭheva dhamme sukhaṃ somanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti.

This is the first kind of pleasure and happiness that an astute person experiences in the present life.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, paṇḍito passati rājāno coraṃ āgucāriṃ gahetvā vividhā kammakāraṇā kārente—

Furthermore, an astute person sees that the kings have arrested a bandit, a criminal, and subjected them to various punishments—kasāhipi tālente vettehipi tālente addhadaṇḍakehipi tālente hatthampi chindante pādampi chindante hatthapādampi chindante kaṇṇampi chindante nāsampi chindante kaṇṇanāsampi chindante bilaṅgathālikampi karonte saṅkhamuṇḍikampi karonte rāhumukhampi karonte jotimālikampi karonte hatthapajjotikampi karonte erakavattikampi karonte cīrakavāsikampi karonte eṇeyyakampi karonte balisamaṃsikampi karonte kahāpaṇikampi karonte khārāpatacchikampi karonte palighaparivattikampi karonte palālapīṭhakampi karonte tattenapi telena osiñcante sunakhehipi khādāpente jīvantampi sūle uttāsente asināpi sīsañ chindante.

whipping, caning, and clubbing; cutting off hands or feet, or both; cutting off ears or nose, or both; the 'porridge pot', the 'shell-shave', the 'demon's mouth', the 'garland of fire', the 'burning hand', the 'grass blades', the 'bark dress', the 'antelope', the 'meat hook', the 'coins', the 'acid pickle', the 'twisting bar', the 'straw mat'; being splashed with hot oil, being fed to the dogs, being impaled alive, and being beheaded.

Tatra, bhikkhave, paṇḍitassa evañ hoti:

Then that astute person thinks,

‘yathārūpānaṃ kho pāpakānaṃ kammānaṃ hetu rājāno coraṃ āgucāriṃ gahetvā vividhā kammakāraṇā kārenti kasāhipi tāḷenti, vettehipi tāḷenti, addhadaṇḍakehipi tāḷenti, hatthampi chindanti, pādampi chindanti, hatthapādampi chindanti, kaṇṇampi chindanti, nāsampi chindanti, kaṇṇanāsampi chindanti, bilaṅgathālikampi karonti, saṅkhamuṇḍikampi karonti, rāhumukhampi karonti, jotimālikampi karonti, hatthapajjotikampi karonti, erakavattikampi karonti, cīrakavāsikampi karonti, eṇeyyakampi karonti, balisamaṃsikampi karonti, kahāpaṇikampi karonti, khārāpatacchikampi karonti, palighaparivattikampi karonti, palālapīṭhakampi karonti, tattenapi telena osiñcanti, sunakhehipi khādāpenti, jīvantampi sūle uttāsenti, asināpi sīsāṃ chindanti, na te dhammā mayi saṃvijjanti, ahañca na tesu dhammesu sandissāmī’ti.

‘The kinds of deeds for which the kings inflict such punishments—those things are not found in me and I am not seen in them!’

Idampi, bhikkhave, paṇḍito dutiyaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sukhaṃ somanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti.

This is the second kind of pleasure and happiness that an astute person experiences in the present life.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, paṇḍitaṃ pīṭhasamārūḷhaṃ vā mañcasamārūḷhaṃ vā chamāyaṃ vā semānaṃ, yānissa pubbe kalyāṇāni kammāni katāni kāyena sucaritāni vācāya sucaritāni manasā sucaritāni tānissa tamhi samaye olambanti ...pe...

Furthermore, when an astute person is resting on a chair or a bed or on the ground, their past good deeds—good conduct of body, speech, and mind—settle down upon them, rest down upon them, and lay down upon them.

seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, mahataṃ pabbatakūṭānaṃ chāyā sāyanhasamayaṃ pathaviyā olambanti ajjholambanti abhippalambanti;

It is like the shadow of a great mountain peak in the evening as it settles down, rests down, and lays down upon the earth.

evameva kho, bhikkhave, paṇḍitaṃ pīṭhasamārūḷhaṃ vā mañcasamārūḷhaṃ vā chamāyaṃ vā semānaṃ yānissa pubbe kalyāṇāni kammāni katāni kāyena sucaritāni vācāya sucaritāni manasā sucaritāni tānissa tamhi samaye olambanti ajjholambanti abhippalambanti.

In the same way, when an astute person is resting on a chair or a bed or on the ground, their past good deeds—good conduct of body, speech, and mind—settle down upon them, rest down upon them, and lay down upon them.

Tatra, bhikkhave, paṇḍitassa evaṃ hoti:

Then that astute person thinks,

‘akataṃ vata me pāpaṃ, akataṃ luddaṃ, akataṃ kibbisaṃ;
‘Well, I haven’t done bad, violent, and corrupt things.

kataṃ kalyāṇaṃ, kataṃ kusalaṃ, kataṃ bhīruttāṇaṃ.

And I have done good and skillful deeds that keep me safe.

Yāvatā, bho, akatapāpānaṃ akataluddānaṃ akatakibbisānaṃ katakalyāṇānaṃ katakusalānaṃ katabhīruttāṇānaṃ gati taṃ gatiṃ pecca gacchāmi’ti.

When I pass away, I’ll go to the place where people who’ve done such things go.’

So na socati, na kilamati, na paridevati, na urattāliṃ kandati, na sammohaṃ āpajjati.

So they don’t sorrow and pine and lament, beating their breast and falling into confusion.

Idampi, bhikkhave, paṇḍito tatiyaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sukhaṃ somanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti.

This is the third kind of pleasure and happiness that an astute person experiences in the present life.

Sa kho so, bhikkhave, paṇḍito kāyena sucaritaṃ caritvā vācāya sucaritaṃ caritvā manasā sucaritaṃ caritvā kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ marañā sugatiṃ saggāṃ lokāṃ upapajjati.

When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.

Yaṃ kho taṃ, bhikkhave, sammā vadamāno vadeyya:

And if there's anything of which it may be rightly said that

'ekantaṃ iṭṭhaṃ ekantaṃ kantaṃ ekantaṃ manāpan'ti, saggameva taṃ sammā vadamāno vadeyya:

it is utterly likable, desirable, and agreeable, it is of heaven that this should be said.

'ekantaṃ iṭṭhaṃ ekantaṃ kantaṃ ekantaṃ manāpan'ti.

Yāvañcidaṃ, bhikkhave, upamāpi na sukarā yāva sukhā saggā"ti.

So much so that it's not easy to give a simile for how pleasurable heaven is."

Evaṃ vutte, aññataro bhikkhu bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he said this, one of the mendicants asked the Buddha,

"sakkā pana, bhante, upamaṃ kātun"ti?

"But sir, is it possible to give a simile?"

"Sakkā, bhikkhū"ti bhagavā avoca.

"It's possible," said the Buddha.

"Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, rājā cakkavattī sattahi ratanehi samannāgato catūhi ca iddhīhi tatonidānaṃ sukhaṃ somanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti.

"Suppose there was a king, a wheel-turning monarch who possessed seven treasures and four blessings, and experienced pleasure and happiness because of them.

Katamehi sattahi?

What seven?

Idha, bhikkhave, rañño khattiyassa muddhāvasittassa tadahuposathe pannarase sīsamnhātassa uposathikassa uparipāsādavaragatassa dibbam cakkaratanaṃ pātubhavati sahasāraṃ sanemikaṃ sanābhikaṃ sabbākāraparipūraṃ.

It's when, on the fifteenth day sabbath, an anointed aristocratic king has bathed his head and gone upstairs in the stilt longhouse to observe the sabbath. And the heavenly wheel-treasure appears to him, with a thousand spokes, with rim and hub, complete in every detail.

Tam disvāna rañño khattiyassa muddhāvasittassa evaṃ hoti:

Seeing this, the king thinks,

'sutaṃ kho pana metaṃ yassa rañño khattiyassa muddhāvasittassa tadahuposathe pannarase sīsamnhātassa uposathikassa uparipāsādavaragatassa dibbam cakkaratanaṃ pātubhavati sahasāraṃ sanemikaṃ sanābhikaṃ sabbākāraparipūraṃ, so hoti rājā cakkavattīti.

'I have heard that when the heavenly wheel-treasure appears to a king in this way, he becomes a wheel-turning monarch.

Assaṃ nu kho ahaṃ rājā cakkavattī'ti?

Am I then a wheel-turning monarch?'

Atha kho, bhikkhave, rājā khattiyo muddhāvasitto vāmena hatthena bhīṅkāraṃ gahetvā dakkhiṇena hatthena cakkaratanaṃ abbhukkirati:

Then the anointed king, taking a ceremonial vase in his left hand, besprinkled the wheel-treasure with his right hand, saying,

'pavattatu bhavaṃ cakkaratanaṃ, abhivijjātu bhavaṃ cakkaratanaṃ'ti.

'Roll forth, O wheel-treasure! Triumph, O wheel-treasure!'

Atha kho tam, bhikkhave, cakkaratanaṃ puratthimaṃ disaṃ pavattati. Anvadeva rājā cakkavattī saddhim caturaṅginīyā senāya. Yasmim̄ kho pana, bhikkhave, padese cakkaratanam̄ patiṭṭhāti tattha rājā cakkavattī vāsam̄ upeti saddhim̄

caturaṅginiyā senāya.

Then the wheel-treasure rolls towards the east. And the king follows it together with his army of four divisions. In whatever place the wheel-treasure stands still, there the king comes to stay together with his army.

Ye kho pana, bhikkhave, puratthimāya disāya paṭirājāno te rājānam̄ cakkavattim̄ upasaṅkamitvā evamāhaṃsu:

And any opposing rulers of the eastern quarter come to the wheel-turning monarch and say,

‘ehi kho, mahārāja. Svāgataṃ te, mahārāja. Sakaṃ te, mahārāja.
Anusāsa, mahārājā’ti.

‘Come, great king! Welcome, great king! We are yours, great king, instruct us.’

Rājā cakkavattī evamāha:

The wheel-turning monarch says,

‘pāṇo na hantabbo, adinnaṃ nādātammaṃ, kāmesumicchā na caritabbā, musā na bhāsitabbā, majjaṃ na pātammaṃ, yathābhuttaṅca bhuñjathā’ti.

‘Do not kill living creatures. Do not steal. Do not commit sexual misconduct. Do not lie. Do not drink alcohol. Maintain the current level of taxation.’

Ye kho pana, bhikkhave, puratthimāya disāya paṭirājāno te rañño cakkavattissa anuyantā bhavanti.

And so the opposing rulers of the eastern quarter become his vassals.

Atha kho taṃ, bhikkhave, cakkaratanam̄ puratthimam̄ samuddam̄ ajjhogāhetvā paccuttarivā dakkhiṇam̄ disam̄ pavattati ...pe...

Then the wheel-treasure, having plunged into the eastern ocean and emerged again, rolls towards the south. ...

dakkhiṇaṃ samuddaṃ ajjhogāhetvā paccuttarivā pacchimaṃ disaṃ pavattati ...pe...

Having plunged into the southern ocean and emerged again, it rolls towards the west. ...

pacchimaṃ samuddaṃ ajjhogāhetvā paccuttarivā uttaraṃ disaṃ pavattati anvadeva rājā cakkavattī saddhiṃ caturaṅginiyā senāya. Yasmiṃ kho pana, bhikkhave, padese cakkaratanāṃ patiṭṭhāti tattha rājā cakkavattī vāsaṃ upeti saddhiṃ caturaṅginiyā senāya.

Having plunged into the western ocean and emerged again, it rolls towards the north, followed by the king together with his army of four divisions. In whatever place the wheel-treasure stands still, there the king comes to stay together with his army.

Ye kho pana, bhikkhave, uttarāya disāya paṭirājāno te rājānaṃ cakkavattim upasaṅkamitvā evamaṃsu:

And any opposing rulers of the northern quarter come to the wheel-turning monarch and say, ‘ehi kho, mahārāja. Svāgataṃ te, mahārāja. Sakaṃ te, mahārāja.

Anusāsa, mahārājā’ti.

‘Come, great king! Welcome, great king! We are yours, great king, instruct us.’

Rājā cakkavattī evamaṃsa:

The wheel-turning monarch says,

‘pāṇo na hantabbo, adinnaṃ nādātappaṃ, kāmesumicchā na caritabbā, musā na bhāsitabbā, majjaṃ na pātappaṃ; yathābhuttaṅca bhujjathā’ti.

‘Do not kill living creatures. Do not steal. Do not commit sexual misconduct. Do not lie. Do not drink alcohol. Maintain the current level of taxation.’

Ye kho pana, bhikkhave, uttarāya disāya paṭirājāno te rañño cakkavattissa anuyantā bhavanti.

And so the rulers of the northern quarter become his vassals.

Atha kho taṃ, bhikkhave, cakkaratanam̐ samuddapariyantam̐ pathaviṃ abhivijinitvā tameva rājadhāniṃ paccāgantvā rañño cakkavattissa antepuradvāre akkhāhatam̐ maññe tiṭṭhati rañño cakkavattissa antepuradvāram̐ upasobhayamānam̐.

And then the wheel-treasure, having triumphed over this land surrounded by ocean, returns to the royal capital. There it stands still at the gate to the royal compound as if fixed to an axle, illuminating the royal compound.

Rañño, bhikkhave, cakkavattissa evarūpaṃ cakkaratanam̐ pātubhavati. (1)

Such is the wheel-treasure that appears to the wheel-turning monarch.

Puna caparam̐, bhikkhave, rañño cakkavattissa hatthiratanam̐ pātubhavati—

Next, the elephant-treasure appears to the wheel-turning monarch.

sabbaseto sattappatiṭṭho iddhimā vehāsaṅgamo uposatho nāma nāgarājā.

It was an all-white sky-walker with psychic power, touching the ground in seven places, a king of elephants named Sabbath.

Seeing him, the king was impressed,

‘bhaddakam̐ vata bho hatthiyānam̐, sace damatham̐ upeyyā’ti.

Atha kho taṃ, bhikkhave, hatthiratanam̐ seyyathāpi nāma bhaddo hatthājānīyo dīgharattam̐ suparidanto evameva damatham̐ upeti.

Then the elephant-treasure submitted to taming, as if he were a fine thoroughbred elephant that had been tamed for a long time.

Once it so happened that the wheel-turning monarch, testing that same elephant-treasure, mounted him in the morning and traversed the land surrounded by ocean before returning to the royal capital in time for breakfast.

Raño, bhikkhave, cakkavattissa evarupam hatthiratanam

Such is the elephant-treasure that appears to the wheel-turning monarch.

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, raño cakkavattissa assaratanam

Next, the horse-treasure appears to the wheel-turning monarch.

sabbaseto kalasiso munjakeso iddhimā vehāsaṅgamo valāhako

It was an all-white sky-walker with psychic power, with head of black and mane like woven reeds, a royal steed named Thundercloud.

Tam disvāna raño cakkavattissa cittam pasīdati:

Seeing him, the king was impressed,

‘bhaddakam vata bho assayānam, sace damatham upeyyā’ti.

‘This would truly be a fine horse vehicle, if he would submit to taming.’

Atha kho tam, bhikkhave, assaratanam seyyathāpi nāma

Then the horse-treasure submitted to taming, as if he were a fine thoroughbred horse that had been tamed for a long time.

Bhūtapubbam, bhikkhave, rājā cakkavattī tameva assaratanam

Once it so happened that the wheel-turning monarch, testing that same horse-treasure, mounted him in the morning and traversed the land surrounded by ocean before returning to the royal capital in time for breakfast.

Raṅṅo, bhikkhave, cakkavattissa evarūpaṃ assaratanāṃ pātubhavati. (3)

Such is the horse-treasure that appears to the wheel-turning monarch.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, raṅṅo cakkavattissa maṇiratanāṃ pātubhavati.

Next, the jewel-treasure appears to the wheel-turning monarch.

So hoti maṇi veḷuriyo subho jātimā aṭṭhaṃso suparikammakato.
It is a beryl gem that's naturally beautiful, eight-faceted, well-worked.

Tassa kho pana, bhikkhave, maṇiratanassa ābhā samantā yojanaṃ phuṭā hoti.

And the radiance of that jewel spreads all-round for a league.

Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, rājā cakkavattī tameva maṇiratanāṃ vīmaṃsamāno caturaṅginiṃ senāṃ sannayhitvā maṇiṃ dhajaggaṃ āropetvā rattandhakāratimisāya pāyāsi.

Once it so happened that the wheel-turning monarch, testing that same jewel-treasure, mobilized his army of four divisions and, with the jewel hoisted on his banner, set out in the dark of the night.

Ye kho pana, bhikkhave, samantā gāmā ahesuṃ te tenobhāsena kammante payojesuṃ 'divā'ti maññamānā.

Then the villagers around them set off to work, thinking that it was day.

Raṅṅo, bhikkhave, cakkavattissa evarūpaṃ maṇiratanāṃ pātubhavati. (4)

Such is the jewel-treasure that appears to the wheel-turning monarch.

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, rañño cakkavattissa itthiratanam pātubhavati.

Next, the woman-treasure appears to the wheel-turning monarch.

Sā abhirūpā dassanīyā pāsādikā paramāya vaṇṇapokkharatāya samannāgatā nātidīghā nātirassā nātikisā nātithūlā nātikālikā nāccodātā, atikkantā mānusaṃ vaṇṇam, appattā dibbam vaṇṇam.

She is attractive, good-looking, lovely, of surpassing beauty. She's neither too tall nor too short; neither too thin nor too fat; neither too dark nor too light. She outdoes human beauty without reaching divine beauty.

Tassa kho pana, bhikkhave, itthiratanassa evarūpo kāyasamphasso hoti, seyyathāpi nāma tūlapicuno vā kappāsapicuno vā.

And her touch is like a tuft of cotton-wool or kapok.

Tassa kho pana, bhikkhave, itthiratanassa sīte uṇhāni gattāni honti, uṇhe sītāni gattāni honti.

When it's cool her limbs are warm, and when it's warm her limbs are cool.

Tassa kho pana, bhikkhave, itthiratanassa kāyato candanagandho vāyati, mukhato uppalagandho vāyati.

The fragrance of sandal floats from her body, and lotus from her mouth.

Tam kho pana, bhikkhave, itthiratanam rañño cakkavattissa pubbuṭṭhāyinī hoti pacchānipātinī kiṅkārapaṭissāvinī manāpacārinī piyavādinī.

She gets up before the king and goes to bed after him, and is obliging, behaving nicely and speaking politely.

Tam kho pana, bhikkhave, itthiratanam rājānam cakkavattim manasāpi no aticarati, kuto pana kāyena?

The woman-treasure does not betray the wheel-turning monarch even in thought, still less in deed.

Raṅṅo, bhikkhave, cakkavattissa evarūpaṃ itthiratanam pātubhavati. (5)

Such is the woman-treasure who appears to the wheel-turning monarch.

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, raṅṅo cakkavattissa gahapatiratanam pātubhavati.

Next, the householder-treasure appears to the wheel-turning monarch.

Tassa kammavipākaṃ dibbacakkhu pātubhavati, yena nidhiṃ passati sassāmikampi assāmikampi.

The power of clairvoyance manifests in him as a result of past deeds, by which he sees hidden treasure, both owned and ownerless.

So rājānam cakkavattim upasaṅkamtivā evamāha:

He approaches the wheel-turning monarch and says,

‘apossukko tvaṃ, deva, hohi. Ahaṃ te dhanena dhanakaraṇīyaṃ karissāmī’ti.

‘Relax, sire. I will take care of the treasury.’

Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, rājā cakkavattī tameva gahapatiratanam vīmaṃsamāno nāvaṃ abhiruhitvā majjhe gaṅgāya nadiyā sotaṃ ogāhitvā gahapatiratanam etadavoca:

Once it so happened that the wheel-turning monarch, testing that same householder-treasure, boarded a boat and sailed to the middle of the Ganges river. Then he said to the householder-treasure, ‘attho me, gahapati, hiraṅṅasuvaṇṇenā’ti.

‘Householder, I need gold coins and bullion.’

‘Tena hi, mahārāja, ekaṃ tīraṃ nāvā upetū’ti.

‘Well then, great king, draw the boat up to one shore.’

‘Idheva me, gahapati, attho hiraṅṅasuvaṇṇenā’ti.

Atha kho taṃ, bhikkhave, gahapatiratanam ubho hi hatthehi udake omasitvā pūram hiraññasuvaṇṇassa kumbhiṃ uddharitvā rājānam cakkavattiṃ etadavoca:

Then that householder-treasure, immersing both hands in the water, pulled up a pot full of gold coin and bullion, and said to the king, ‘alamettāvatā, mahārāja. Katamettāvatā, mahārāja. Pūjitamettāvatā, mahārājā’ti.

‘Is this sufficient, great king? Has enough been done, great king, enough offered?’

Rājā cakkavattī evamāha:

The wheel-turning monarch said,

‘alamettāvatā, gahapati. Katamettāvatā, gahapati. Pūjitamettāvatā, gahapatī’ti.

‘That is sufficient, householder. Enough has been done, enough offered.’

Raṅṅo, bhikkhave, cakkavattissa evarūpaṃ gahapatiratanam pātubhavati. (6)

Such is the householder-treasure that appears to the wheel-turning monarch.

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, raṅṅo cakkavattissa pariṇāyakaratanam pātubhavati—

Next, the counselor-treasure appears to the wheel-turning monarch.

paṇḍito byatto medhāvī paṭibalo rājānam cakkavattiṃ upayāpetabbaṃ upayāpetum apayāpetabbaṃ apayāpetum ṭhapetabbaṃ ṭhapetum.

He is astute, competent, intelligent, and capable of getting the king to appoint who should be appointed, dismiss who should be dismissed, and retain who should be retained.

So rājānam cakkavattiṃ upasaṅkamtivā evamāha:

He approaches the wheel-turning monarch and says,

‘apossukko tvam, deva, hohi. Ahamanusāsissāmī’ti.

‘Relax, sire. I shall issue instructions.’

Raṅṅo, bhikkhave, cakkavattissa evarūpaṃ pariṇāyakaratanam pātubhavati.

Such is the counselor-treasure that appears to the wheel-turning monarch.

Rājā, bhikkhave, cakkavattī imehi sattahi ratanehi samannāgato hoti. (7)

These are the seven treasures possessed by a wheel-turning monarch.

Katamāhi catūhi iddhīhi?

And what are the four blessings?

Idha, bhikkhave, rājā cakkavattī abhirūpo hoti dassanīyo pāsādiko paramāya vaṇṇapokkharatāya samannāgato ativiya aññehi manussehi.

A wheel-turning monarch is attractive, good-looking, lovely, of surpassing beauty, more so than other people.

Rājā, bhikkhave, cakkavattī imāya paṭhamāya iddhiyā samannāgato hoti.

This is the first blessing.

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, rājā cakkavattī dīghāyuko hoti ciraṭṭhitiko ativiya aññehi manussehi.

Furthermore, he is long-lived, more so than other people.

Rājā, bhikkhave, cakkavattī imāya dutiyāya iddhiyā samannāgato hoti.

This is the second blessing.

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, rājā cakkavattī appābādho hoti appātaṅko samavepākiniyā gahaṇiyā samannāgato nātisītāya nāccuṅhāya ativiya aññehi manussehi.

Furthermore, he is rarely ill or unwell, and his stomach digests well, being neither too hot nor too cold, more so than other people.

Rājā, bhikkhave, cakkavattī imāya tatiyāya iddhiyā samannāgato hoti.

This is the third blessing.

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, rājā cakkavattī brāhmaṇagahapatikānaṃ piyo hoti manāpo.

Furthermore, a wheel-turning monarch is as dear and beloved to the brahmins and householders

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, pitā puttānaṃ piyo hoti manāpo;
as a father is to his children.

evameva kho, bhikkhave, rājā cakkavattī brāhmaṇagahapatikānaṃ piyo hoti manāpo.

Raññopi, bhikkhave, cakkavattissa brāhmaṇagahapatikā piyā honti manāpā.

And the brahmins and householders are as dear to the wheel-turning monarch

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, pitu puttā piyā honti manāpā;
as children are to their father.

evameva kho, bhikkhave, raññopi cakkavattissa brāhmaṇagahapatikā piyā honti manāpā.

Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, rājā cakkavattī caturaṅginiyā senāya uyyānabhūmiṃ niyyāsi.

Once it so happened that a wheel-turning monarch went with his army of four divisions to visit a park.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, brāhmaṇagahapatikā rājānaṃ cakkavattim upasaṅkamtivā evamāhaṃsu:

Then the brahmins and householders went up to him and said, ‘ataramāno, deva, yāhi yathā taṃ mayāṃ cirataraṃ passeyyāmā’ti.

‘Slow down, Your Majesty, so we may see you longer!’

Rājāpi, bhikkhave, cakkavattī sārathim āmantesi:

And the king addressed his charioteer,

‘ataramāno, sārathi, pesehi yathā maṃ brāhmaṇagahapatikā cirataraṃ passeyyun’ti.

‘Drive slowly, charioteer, so I can see the brahmins and householders longer!’

Rājā, bhikkhave, cakkavattī imāya catutthāya iddhiyā samannāgato hoti.

This is the fourth blessing.

Rājā, bhikkhave, cakkavattī imāhi catūhi iddhīhi samannāgato hoti.

These are the four blessings possessed by a wheel-turning monarch.

Taṃ kiṃ maññatha, bhikkhave,

What do you think, mendicants?

api nu kho rājā cakkavattī imehi sattahi ratanehi samannāgato imāhi catūhi ca iddhīhi tatonidānaṃ sukhaṃ somanassaṃ paṭisaṃvediyethā”ti?

Would a wheel-turning monarch who possessed these seven treasures and these four blessings experience pleasure and happiness because of them?”

“Ekamekenapi, bhante, ratanena samannāgato rājā cakkavattī tatonidānaṃ sukhaṃ somanassaṃ paṭisaṃvediyetha, ko pana vādo sattahi ratanehi catūhi ca iddhīhi”ti?

“Sir, a wheel-turning monarch who possessed even a single one of these treasures would experience pleasure and happiness because of that, let alone all seven treasures and four blessings!”

Atha kho bhagavā parittaṃ paṇimattaṃ pāsāṇaṃ gahetvā
bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha, picking up a stone the size of his palm, addressed the mendicants,

“Taṃ kiṃ maññatha, bhikkhave,
“What do you think, mendicants?

katamo nu kho mahantataro—yo cāyaṃ mayā paritto paṇimatto pāsāṇo gahito yo ca himavā pabbatarājā”ti?

Which is bigger: the stone the size of my palm that I’ve picked up, or the Himalayas, the king of mountains?”

“Appamattako ayaṃ, bhante, bhagavatā paritto paṇimatto pāsāṇo gahito; himavantaṃ pabbatarājānaṃ upanidhāya saṅkhampi na upeti; kalabhāgampi na upeti; upanidhampi na upetī”ti.

“Sir, the stone you’ve picked up is tiny. Compared to the Himalayas, it doesn’t even count, it’s not even a fraction, there’s no comparison.”

“Evameva kho, bhikkhave, yaṃ rājā cakkavattī sattahi ratanehi samannāgato catūhi ca iddhīhi tatonidānaṃ sukhaṃ somanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti taṃ dibbassa sukhasa upanidhāya saṅkhampi na upeti; kalabhāgampi na upeti; upanidhampi na upeti.

“In the same way, compared to the happiness of heaven, the pleasure and happiness experienced by a wheel-turning monarch due to those seven treasures and those four blessings doesn’t even count, it’s not even a fraction, there’s no comparison.

Sa kho so, bhikkhave, paṇḍito sace kadāci karahaci dīghassa addhuno accayena manussattaṃ āgacchati, yāni tāni uccākulāni—

And suppose that astute person, after a very long time, returned to the human realm.

khattiyamahāsālakulaṃ vā brāhmaṇamahāsālakulaṃ vā gahapatimahāsālakulaṃ vā tathārūpe kule paccājāyati aḍḍhe mahaddhane mahābhoge pahūtajātarūparajate pahūtavittūpakaraṇe pahūtadhanadhañṇe.

They'd be reborn in a well-to-do family of aristocrats, brahmins, or householders—rich, affluent, and wealthy, with lots of gold and silver, lots of property and assets, and lots of money and grain.

So ca hoti abhirūpo dassanīyo pāsādiko paramāya vaṇṇapokkharatāya samannāgato, lābhī annassa pānassa seyyāvasathapadīpeyyassa.

And they'd be attractive, good-looking, lovely, of surpassing beauty. They'd get to have food, drink, clothes, and vehicles; garlands, perfumes, and makeup; and a bed, house, and lighting.

So kāyena sucaritaṃ carati, vācāya sucaritaṃ carati, manasā sucaritaṃ carati.

And they do good things by way of body, speech, and mind.

So kāyena sucaritaṃ caritvā, vācāya sucaritaṃ caritvā, manasā sucaritaṃ caritvā, kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā sugatiṃ saggaṃ lokaṃ upapajjati.

When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, akkhadhutto paṭhameneva kaṭaggahena mahantaṃ bhogakkhandhaṃ adhigaccheyya;

Suppose a gambler on the first lucky throw was to win a big pile of money.

appamattako so, bhikkhave, kaṭaggaho yaṃ so akkhadhutto paṭhameneva kaṭaggahena mahantaṃ bhogakkhandhaṃ adhigaccheyya.

But such a lucky throw is trivial compared to

Atha kho ayameva tato mahantataro kaṭaggaho yaṃ so paṇḍito kāyena sucaritaṃ caritvā, vācāya sucaritaṃ caritvā, manasā

sucaritaṃ caritvā kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā sugatiṃ saggaṃ lokaṃ upapajati.

the lucky throw whereby an astute person, when their body breaks up, after death, is reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.

Ayaṃ, bhikkhave, kevalā paripūrā paṇḍitabhūmī”ti.

This is the total fulfillment of the astute person’s level.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Bālapaṇḍitasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ navamaṃ.

130. Devadūtasutta Messengers of the Gods

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, dve agārā sadvārā, tattha cakkhumā nikkhamantepi anucaṅkamantepi anuvicarantepi;

“Mendicants, suppose there were two houses with doors. A person with good eyesight standing in between them would see people entering and leaving a house and wandering to and fro.

In the same way, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, I see sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. I understand how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds: ‘These dear beings did good things by way of body, speech, and mind. They never spoke ill of the noble ones; they had right view; and they chose to act out of that right view. When their body breaks up, after death, they’re reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm, or among humans. These dear beings did bad things by way of body, speech, and mind. They spoke ill of the noble ones; they had wrong view; and they chose to act out of that wrong view. When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in the ghost realm, the animal realm, or in a lower realm, a bad destination, a world of misery, hell.'

Tamenam, bhikkhave, nirayapālā nānābāhāsu gahetvā yamassa rañño dassenti:

Then the wardens of hell take them by the arms and present them to King Yama, saying,

'ayam, deva, puriso amatteyyo apetteyyo asāmañño

'Your Majesty, this person did not pay due respect to their mother and father, ascetics and brahmins, or honor the elders in the family.

May Your Majesty punish them!'

Tamenam, bhikkhave, yamo rājā paṭhamam devadūtam

Then King Yama pursues, presses, and grills them about the first messenger of the gods.

'ambho purisa, na tvaṃ addasa manussesu paṭhamam

'Mister, did you not see the first messenger of the gods that appeared among human beings?'

So evamāha:

He says,

'nāddasam, bhante'ti.

'I saw nothing, sir.'

Tamenam, bhikkhave, yamo rājā evamāha:

Then King Yama says,

Tameṇaṃ, bhikkhave, yamo rājā pañcamaṃ devadūtaṃ samanuyuñjitvā samanugāhitvā samanubhāsivā tuṅhī hoti.

Then, after grilling them about the fifth messenger of the gods, King Yama falls silent.

Tamenam, bhikkhave, nirayapālā pañcavidhabandhanam nāma kammakāraṇam karonti—

Then the wardens of hell punish them with the five-fold crucifixion.

tattam ayokhilaṃ hatthe gamenti, tattam ayokhilaṃ dutiye hatthe gamenti, tattam ayokhilaṃ pāde gamenti, tattam ayokhilaṃ dutiye pāde gamenti, tattam ayokhilaṃ majjheurasmiṃ gamenti.

They drive red-hot stakes through the hands and feet, and another in the middle of the chest.

So tattha dukkhā tibbā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedeti, na ca tāva kālam karoti yāva na tam pāpakammaṃ byantīhoti.

And there they feel painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings—but they don't die until that bad deed is eliminated.

Tamenam, bhikkhave, nirayapālā samvesetvā kuṭhārīhi tacchanti ...pe...

Then the wardens of hell throw them down and hack them with axes.

tamenam, bhikkhave, nirayapālā uddhampādam adhosiram gahetvā vāsīhi tacchanti ...pe...

They hang them upside-down and hack them with hatchets. ...

tamenam, bhikkhave, nirayapālā rathe yojetvā ādittāya pathaviyā sampajjalitāya sajotibhūtāya sārentipi, paccāsārentipi ...pe...

They harness them to a chariot, and drive them back and forth across burning ground, blazing and glowing. ...

tamenam, bhikkhave, nirayapālā mahantaṃ aṅgārapabbataṃ ādittaṃ sampajjalitaṃ sajotibhūtaṃ āropentipi oropentipi ...

They make them climb up and down a huge mountain of burning coals, blazing and glowing. ...

tamenam, bhikkhave, nirayapālā uddhampādaṃ adhosiraṃ gahetvā tattāya lohakumbhiyā pakkhipanti ādittāya sampajjalitāya sajotibhūtāya.

Then the wardens of hell turn them upside down and throw them in a red-hot copper pot, burning, blazing, and glowing.

So tattha pheṇuddehakaṃ paccati.

So tattha pheṇuddehakaṃ paccamāno sakimpi uddhaṃ gacchati, sakimpi adho gacchati, sakimpi tiriyaṃ gacchati.

There they're seared in boiling scum, and they're swept up and down and round and round.

So tattha dukkhā tibbā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedeti, na ca tāva kālaṃ karoti yāva na taṃ pāpakammaṃ byantīhoti.

And there they feel painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings—but they don't die until that bad deed is eliminated.

Tamenam, bhikkhave, nirayapālā mahāniraye pakkhipanti.

Then the wardens of hell toss them into the Great Hell.

So kho pana, bhikkhave, mahānirayo—

Now, about that Great Hell:

Catukkaṇṇo catudvāro,

'Four are its corners, four its doors,

vibhatto bhāgasō mito;

divided into measured parts.

Ayopākārapariyanto,

Surrounded by an iron wall,

ayasā paṭikujjito.
of iron is its roof.

Tassa ayomayā bhūmi,
The ground is even made of iron,

jalitā tejasāyutā;
it burns with fierce fire.

Samantā yojanasataṃ,
The heat forever radiates

pharivā tiṭṭhati sabbadā.
a hundred leagues around.’

Tassa kho pana, bhikkhave, mahānirayassa puratthimāya bhittiyā acci uṭṭhahitvā pacchimāya bhittiyā paṭihaññati, pacchimāya bhittiyā acci uṭṭhahitvā puratthimāya bhittiyā paṭihaññati, uttarāya bhittiyā acci uṭṭhahitvā dakkhiṇāya bhittiyā paṭihaññati, dakkhiṇāya bhittiyā acci uṭṭhahitvā uttarāya bhittiyā paṭihaññati, heṭṭhā acci uṭṭhahitvā upari paṭihaññati, uparito acci uṭṭhahitvā heṭṭhā paṭihaññati.

Now in the Great Hell, flames surge out of the walls and crash into the opposite wall: from east to west, from west to east, from north to south, from south to north, from bottom to top, from top to bottom.

So tattha dukkhā tibbā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedeti, na ca tāva kālaṃ karoti yāva na taṃ pāpakammaṃ byantīhoti.

And there they feel painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings—but they don’t die until that bad deed is eliminated.

Hoti kho so, bhikkhave, samayo yaṃ kadāci karahaci dīghassa addhuno accayena tassa mahānirayassa puratthimaṃ dvāraṃ apāpurīyati.

There comes a time when, after a very long period has passed, the eastern gate of the Great Hell is opened.

So tattha sīghena javena dhāvati.

So they run there as fast as they can.

Tassa sīghena javena dhāvato chavimpi ḍayhati, cammampi ḍayhati, maṃsampi ḍayhati, nhārumpi ḍayhati, aṭṭhīnipi sampadhūpāyanti, ubbhataṃ tādīsameva hoti.

And as they run, their outer skin, inner skin, flesh, and sinews burn and even their bones smoke. Such is their escape;

Yato ca kho so, bhikkhave, bahusampatto hoti, atha taṃ dvāraṃ pidhīyati.

but when they've managed to make it most of the way, the gate is slammed shut.

So tattha dukkhā tibbā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedeti, na ca tāva kālaṃ karoti yāva na taṃ pāpakammaṃ byantīhoti.

And there they feel painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings—but they don't die until that bad deed is eliminated.

uttaraṃ dvāraṃ apāpurīyati ...pe...

northern gate ...

dakkhiṇaṃ dvāraṃ apāpurīyati.

southern gate of the Great hell is opened.

So tattha sīghena javena dhāvati.

So they run there as fast as they can.

Tassa sīghena javena dhāvato chavimpi ḍayhati, cammampi ḍayhati, maṃsampi ḍayhati, nhārumpi ḍayhati, aṭṭhīnipi sampadhūpāyanti, ubbhataṃ tādīsameva hoti.

And as they run, their outer skin, inner skin, flesh, and sinews burn and even their bones smoke. Such is their escape;

So tena dvārena nikkhamati.

and they make it out that door.

Tassa kho pana, bhikkhave, mahānirayassa samanantarā sahitameva mahanto gūthanirayo.

Immediately adjacent to the Great Hell is the vast Dung Hell.

So tattha patati.

And that's where they fall.

Tasmim kho pana, bhikkhave, gūthaniraye sūcimukhā paṇā chaviṃ chindanti, chaviṃ chetvā cammaṃ chindanti, cammaṃ chetvā maṃsaṃ chindanti, maṃsaṃ chetvā nhāruṃ chindanti, nhārum chetvā aṭṭhim chindanti, aṭṭhim chetvā aṭṭhimiñjam khādanti.

In that Dung Hell there are needle-mouthed creatures that bore through the outer skin, the inner skin, the flesh, sinews, and bones, until they reach the marrow and devour it.

So tattha dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedeti, na ca tāva kālam karoti yāva na tam pāpakammaṃ byantīhoti. (1)

And there they feel painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings—but they don't die until that bad deed is eliminated.

Tassa kho pana, bhikkhave, gūthanirayassa samanantarā sahitameva mahanto kukkulanirayo.

Immediately adjacent to the Dung Hell is the vast Hell of Hot Coals.

So tattha patati.

And that's where they fall.

So tattha dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedeti, na ca tāva kālam karoti yāva na tam pāpakammaṃ byantīhoti. (2)

And there they feel painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings—but they don't die until that bad deed is eliminated.

Tassa kho pana, bhikkhave, kukkulanirayassa samanantarā sahitameva mahantaṃ simbalivanaṃ uddhaṃ yojanamuggataṃ soḷasaṅgulakaṇṭakaṃ ādittaṃ sampajjalitaṃ sajotibhūtaṃ.

Immediately adjacent to the Hell of Hot Coals is the vast Hell of the Red Silk-Cotton Wood. It's a league high, full of sixteen-inch thorns, burning, blazing, and glowing.

Tattha āropentipi oropentipi.

And there they make them climb up and down.

So tattha dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedeti, na ca tāva kālam karoti yāva na tam pāpakammaṃ byantīhoti. (3)

And there they feel painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings—but they don't die until that bad deed is eliminated.

Tassa kho pana, bhikkhave, simbalivanassa samanantarā sahitameva mahantaṃ asipattavanaṃ.

Immediately adjacent to the Hell of the Red Silk-Cotton Wood is the vast Hell of the Sword-Leaf Trees.

So tattha pavisati.

They enter that.

Tassa vāteritāni pattāni patitāni hatthampi chindanti, pādampi chindanti, hatthapādampi chindanti, kaṇṇampi chindanti, nāsampi chindanti, kaṇṇanāsampi chindanti.

There the fallen leaves blown by the wind cut their hands, feet, both hands and feet; they cut their ears, nose, both ears and nose.

So tattha dukkhā tikkhā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedeti, na ca tāva
kālaṃ karoti yāva na taṃ pāpakammaṃ byantīhoti. (4)

And there they feel painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings—but they don't die until that bad deed is eliminated.

Tassa kho pana, bhikkhave, asipattavanassa samanantarā sahitameva mahatī khārodakā nadī.

Immediately adjacent to the Hell of the Sword-Leaf Trees is the vast Acid Hell.

So tattha patati.

And that's where they fall.

So tattha anusotampi vuyhati, paṭisotampi vuyhati, anusotapaṭisotampi vuyhati.

There they are swept upstream, swept downstream, and swept both up and down stream.

So tattha dukkhā tikkhā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedeti, na ca tāva
kālaṃ karoti yāva na taṃ pāpakammaṃ byantīhoti. (5)

And there they feel painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings—but they don't die until that bad deed is eliminated.

Tamevaṃ, bhikkhave, nirayapālā balisena uddharitvā thale patiṭṭhāpetvā evamaṃsu:

Then the wardens of hell pull them out and place them on dry land, and say, ‘ambho purisa, kiṃ icchasi’ti?

‘Mister, what do you want?’

So evamāha:

They say,

‘jighacchitosmi, bhante’ti.

‘I’m hungry, sir.’

Tamenam, bhikkhave, nirayapālā tattena ayosaṅkunā mukhaṃ vivarivā ādittena sampajjalitena sajotibhūtena tattaṃ lohagaḷam mukhe pakkhipanti ādittaṃ sampajjalitaṃ sajotibhūtaṃ.

The wardens of hell force open their mouth with a hot iron spike—burning, blazing, glowing—and shove in a red-hot copper ball, burning, blazing, and glowing.

So tassa oṭṭhampi dahati, mukhampi dahati, kaṇṭhampi dahati, urampampi dahati, antampampi antagaṇṭhampi ādāya adhobhāgā nikkhamati.

Tatra kho bhagava bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagava etadvoca:

The Buddha said this:

“bhaddekarattassa vo, bhikkhave, uddesañca vibhaṅgañca

132. Ānandabhaddekarattasutta Ānanda and One Fine Night

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā ānando upaṭṭhānasālāyam

Now at that time Venerable Ānanda was educating, encouraging, firing up, and inspiring the mendicants in the assembly hall with a Dhamma talk on the topic of the recitation passage and analysis of One Fine Night.

Atha kho bhagava sāyanhasamayam paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito

Then in the late afternoon, the Buddha came out of retreat, went to the assembly hall, where he sat on the seat spread out,

Nisajja kho bhagava bhikkhū āmantesi:

and addressed the mendicants,

“ko nu kho, bhikkhave, upaṭṭhānasālāyaṃ bhikkhūnaṃ dhammiyā kathāya sandassesī samādapesi samuttejesī sampahaṃsesī, bhaddekarattassa uddesaṅca vibhaṅgaṅca abhāsī”ti?

“Who was inspiring the mendicants with a talk on the recitation passage and analysis of One Fine Night?”

“It was Venerable Ānanda, sir.”

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to Venerable Ānanda,

“But in what way were you inspiring the mendicants with a talk on the recitation passage and analysis of One Fine Night?”

“Evaṃ kho ahaṃ, bhante, bhikkhūnaṃ dhammiyā kathāya sandassesīṃ samādapesiṃ samuttejesīṃ sampahaṃsesīṃ, bhaddekarattassa uddesaṅca vibhaṅgaṅca abhāsīṃ—

Imassa kho ahaṃ, āvuso, bhagavatā saṅkhittena uddesassa uddiṭṭhassa vitthārena atthaṃ avibhattassa evaṃ vitthārena atthaṃ ājānāmi—

And this is how I understand the detailed meaning of this passage for recitation.

Kathaṅca, āvuso, atītaṃ anvāgameti?

And how do you run back to the past?

Iti me cakkhu ahoṣi atītamaddhānaṃ iti rūpāti—

Consciousness gets tied up there with desire and lust, thinking: ‘In the past I had such eyes and such sights.’

tattha chandarāgappaṭibaddhaṃ hoti viññāṇaṃ,

So you take pleasure in that, and that's when you run back to the past.

evaṃ kho, āvuso, atītaṃ anvāgameti.

That's how you run back to the past.

Kathaṅca, āvuso, atītaṃ nānvāgameti?

And how do you not run back to the past?

Iti me cakkhu ahosi atītamaddhānaṃ iti rūpāti—

Consciousness doesn't get tied up there with desire and lust, thinking: 'In the past I had such eyes and such sights.'

tattha na chandarāgappaṭibaddhaṃ hoti viññāṇaṃ, na chandarāgappaṭibaddhattā viññāṇassa na tadabhinandati, na tadabhinandanto atītaṃ nānvāgameti.

evaṃ kho, āvuso, atītaṃ nānvāgameti.
That's how you don't run back to the past.

Kathañca, āvuso, anāgataṃ paṭikañkhati?
And how do you hope for the future?

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Mahākaccānabhaddekarattasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ tatiyaṃ.

134. Lomasakaṅgiyabhaddekarattasutta Lomasakaṅgiya and One Fine Night

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṁ sāvattiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā lomasakaṅgiyo sakkesu viharati kapilavatthusmiṁ nigrodhārāme.

Now at that time Venerable Lomasakaṅgiya was staying in the Sakyan country at Kapilavatthu in the Banyan Tree Monastery.

Atha kho candano devaputto abhikkantāya rattiyā abhikkantaṇṇo kevalakappaṁ nigrodhārāmaṁ obhāsetvā yenāyasmā lomasakaṅgiyo tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtvā ekamantaṁ aṭṭhāsi. Ekamantaṁ t̥hito kho candano devaputto āyasmantaṁ lomasakaṅgiyaṁ etadavoca:

Then, late at night, the glorious god Candana, lighting up the entire Banyan Tree Monastery, went up to the Venerable Lomasakaṅgiya, and stood to one side. Standing to one side, he said to Lomasakaṅgiya:

“dhāresi tvaṁ, bhikkhu, bhaddekarattassa uddesaṅca vibhaṅgaṅcā”ti?

“Mendicant, do you remember the recitation passage and analysis of One Fine Night?”

“Na kho ahaṃ, āvuso, dhāremi bhaddekarattassa uddesañca vibhaṅgañca.

“No, reverend, I do not.

Tvaṃ panāvuso, dhāresi bhaddekarattassa uddesañca vibhaṅgañcā”ti?

Do you?”

“Ahampi kho, bhikkhu, na dhāremi bhaddekarattassa uddesañca vibhaṅgañca.

“I also do not.

Dhāresi pana tvaṃ, bhikkhu, bhaddekarattiyo gāthā”ti?

But do you remember just the verses on One Fine Night?”

“Na kho ahaṃ, āvuso, dhāremi bhaddekarattiyo gāthā.

“I do not.

Tvaṃ panāvuso, dhāresi bhaddekarattiyo gāthā”ti?

Do you?”

“Dhāremi kho ahaṃ, bhikkhu, bhaddekarattiyo gāthā”ti.

“I do.”

“Yathā kathaṃ pana tvaṃ, āvuso, dhāresi bhaddekarattiyo gāthā”ti?

“How do you remember the verses on One Fine Night?”

“Ekamidaṃ, bhikkhu, samayaṃ bhagavā devesu tāvatimsesu viharati pāricchattakamūle paṇḍukambalasilāyaṃ.

“This one time, the Buddha was staying among the gods of the Thirty-Three at the root of the Shady Orchard Tree on the stone spread with a cream rug.

Tatra bhagavā devānaṃ tāvatiṃsānaṃ bhaddekarattassa uddesaṇca vibhaṅgaṇca abhāsi:

There he taught the recitation passage and analysis of One Fine Night to the gods of the Thirty-Three:

‘Atītaṃ nānvāgameyya,
‘Don’t run back to the past,

nappaṭikaṅkhe anāgataṃ;
don’t hope for the future.

Yadatītaṃ pahīnaṃ taṃ, What’s past is left behind;

appattaṇca anāgataṃ.
the future has not arrived;

Paccuppannaṇca yo dhammaṃ, and phenomena in the present

tattha tattha vipassati;
are clearly seen in every case.

Asaṃhīraṃ asaṅkappaṃ, Knowing this, foster it—

taṃ vidvā manubrūhaye.
unfaltering, unshakable.

Ajjeva kiccamātappaṃ, Today’s the day to keenly work—

ko jaññā maraṇaṃ suve;
who knows, tomorrow may bring death!

Na hi no saṅgamaṃ tena,
For there is no bargain to be struck with Death and his mighty hordes.

Evaṃvihāriṃ ātāpiṃ,
The peaceful sage explained it's those who truly have that one fine night.'

Evaṃ kho ahaṃ, bhikkhu, dhāremi bhaddekarattiyo gāthā.
That's how I remember the verses of One Fine Night.

Uggaṇhāhi tvaṃ, bhikkhu, bhaddekarattassa uddesaṅca vibhaṅgaṅca;
Learn the recitation passage and analysis of One Fine Night, mendicant,

pariyāpuṇāhi tvaṃ, bhikkhu, bhaddekarattassa uddesaṅca vibhaṅgaṅca;
memorize it,

dhārehi tvaṃ, bhikkhu, bhaddekarattassa uddesaṅca vibhaṅgaṅca.
and remember it.

Atthasaṃhito, bhikkhu, bhaddekarattassa uddeso ca vibhaṅgo ca ādibrahmacariyako'ti.
It is beneficial and relates to the fundamentals of the spiritual life."

Idamavoca candano devaputto.
That's what the god Candana said

Idaṃ vatvā tatthevantaradhāyi.
before vanishing right there.

Atha kho āyasmā lomasakaṅgiyo tassā rattiyā accayena senāsanam̐ saṃsāmetvā pattacīvaramādāya yena sāvatti tena cārikam̐ pakkāmi.

Then Lomasakaṅgiya set his lodgings in order and, taking his bowl and robe, set out for Sāvattī.

Eventually he came to Sāvattī and Jeta's Grove. He went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened. Then he added:

“Ekamidāham̐, bhante, samayam̐ sakkesu viharāmi kapilavatthusmim̐ nigrodhārāme.

Atha kho, bhante, aññataro devaputto abhikkantāya rattiyā abhikkantavaṅṅo kevalakappam̐ nigrodhārāmaṃ obhāsetvā yenāham̐ tenupasaṅkhami; upasaṅkhamitvā ekamantam̐ aṭṭhāsi. Ekamantam̐ ṭhito kho, bhante, so devaputto maṃ etadavoca:

'Yathā kathaṃ pana tvaṃ, āvuso, dhāresi bhaddekarattiyo gāthā'ti?

'Ekamidaṃ, bhikkhu, samayaṃ bhagavā devesu tāvatimsesu viharati pāricchattakamūle paṇḍukambalasilāyaṃ.

Tatra kho bhagavā devānaṃ tāvatimsānaṃ bhaddekarattassa uddesaṅca vibhaṅgaṅca abhāsi:

“Atītaṃ nānvāgameyya,

“Sir, please teach me the recitation passage and analysis of One Fine night.”

“Jānāsi pana tvaṃ, bhikkhu, taṃ devaputtan”ti?

“But mendicant, do you know that god?”

“Na kho ahaṃ, bhante, jānāmi taṃ devaputtan”ti.

“I do not, sir.”

“Candano nāma so, bhikkhu, devaputto.

“That god was named Candana.

Candano, bhikkhu, devaputto aṭṭhiṃ katvā manasikatvā sabbacetasā samannāharitvā ohitasoto dhammaṃ suṇāti.

Candana pays heed, pays attention, engages wholeheartedly, and lends an ear to the teaching.

135. Cūḷakammavibhaṅgasutta The Shorter Analysis of Deeds

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṁ sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane,
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Atha kho subho māṇavo todeyyaputto yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhim sammodi.

Then the brahmin student Subha, Todeyya's son, approached the Buddha, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyam katham sāraṇīyam vītisāretvā ekamantaṁ nisīdi. Ekamantaṁ nisinno kho subho māṇavo todeyyaputto bhagavantaṁ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to the Buddha:

“Ko nu kho, bho gotama, hetu ko paccayo yena manussānamyeva sataṁ manussabhūtānaṁ dissanti hīnappaṇītātā?”

“What is the cause, Master Gotama, what is the reason why even among those who are human beings some are seen to be inferior and superior?”

Dissanti hi, bho gotama, manussā appāyukā, dissanti dīghāyukā;

For people are seen who are short-lived and long-lived, dissanti bavhābādhā, dissanti appābādhā;

sickly and healthy,

dissanti dubbaṇṇā, dissanti vaṇṇavanto;

ugly and beautiful,

dissanti appesakkhā, dissanti mahesakkhā;

insignificant and illustrious,

dissanti appabhogā, dissanti mahābhogā;

poor and rich,

dissanti nīcakulīnā, dissanti uccākulīnā;

from low and eminent families, dissanti duppaññā, dissanti paññavanto.

witless and wise.

Ko nu kho, bho gotama, hetu ko paccayo yena manussānaṃyeva sataṃ manussabhūtānaṃ dissanti hīnappaṇītatā”ti?

What is the reason why even among those who are human beings some are seen to be inferior and superior?”

“Kammassakā, māṇava, sattā kammadāyādā kammayonī kammabandhū kammappaṭisaraṇā.

inferior and superior.”

“Na kho ahaṃ imassa bhoṭo gotamassa saṅkhittena bhāsitassa vitthārena atthaṃ avibhattassa vitthārena atthaṃ ājānāmi.

“I don’t understand the meaning of what Master Gotama has said in brief, without explaining the details.

Sādhū me bhavaṃ gotamo tathā dhammaṃ desetu yathā ahaṃ imassa bhoṭo gotamassa saṅkhittena bhāsitassa vitthārena atthaṃ avibhattassa vitthārena atthaṃ ājāneyyaṃ”ti.

Master Gotama, please teach me this matter in detail so I can understand the meaning.”

“Tena hi, māṇava, suṇāhi, sādhukaṃ manasi karohi; bhāsissāmi”ti.

“Well then, student, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bho”ti kho subho māṇavo todeyyaputto bhagavato paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” replied Subha.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Idha, māṇava, ekacco itthī vā puriso vā paṇātipātī hoti luddo lohita-pāṇi hatapahate niviṭṭho adayāpanno paṇabhūtesu.

“Take some woman or man who kills living creatures. They’re violent, bloody-handed, a hardened killer, merciless to living beings.

So tena kammaṇa evaṃ samattena evaṃ samādinna kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā apāyaṃ duggatiṃ vinipātaṃ nirayaṃ upapajjati.

Because of undertaking such deeds, when their body breaks up, after death, they’re reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell.

No ce kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā apāyaṃ duggatiṃ vinipātaṃ nirayaṃ upapajjati, sace manussattaṃ āgacchati yattha yattha paccājayati appāyuko hoti.

If they're not reborn in a place of loss, but return to the human realm, then wherever they're reborn they're short-lived.

Appāyukasaṃvattanikā esā, māṇava, paṭipadā yadidaṃ—

For killing living creatures is the path leading to a short lifespan.

pāṇātipātī hoti luddo lohitaṇṇi hatapahate nivitṭho adayāpanno pāṇabhūtesu. (1)

Idha pana, māṇava, ekacco itthī vā puriso vā pāṇātipātaṃ pahāya pāṇātipātā paṭivirato hoti nihitadaṇḍo nihitasattho, lajjī dayāpanno sabbapāṇabhūtahitānukampī viharati.

But take some woman or man who gives up killing living creatures. They renounce the rod and the sword. They're scrupulous and kind, living full of compassion for all living beings.

So tena kammaṇa evaṃ samattena evaṃ samādinnaṇa kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā sugatiṃ saggāṃ lokāṃ upapajjati.

Because of undertaking such deeds, when their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.

No ce kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā sugatiṃ saggāṃ lokāṃ upapajjati, sace manussattaṃ āgacchati yattha yattha paccājayati dīghāyuko hoti.

If they're not reborn in a heavenly realm, but return to the human realm, then wherever they're reborn they're long-lived.

Dīghāyukasaṃvattanikā esā, māṇava, paṭipadā yadidaṃ—

For not killing living creatures is the path leading to a long lifespan.

pāṇātipātaṃ pahāya pāṇātipātā paṭivirato hoti nihitadaṇḍo nihitasattho, lajjī dayāpanno sabbapāṇabhūtahitānukampī viharati. (1)

Idha, māṇava, ekacco itthī vā puriso vā sattānaṃ viheṭṭhakajātiko hoti, pāṇinā vā leḍḍunā vā daṇḍena vā satthena vā.

Take some woman or man who habitually hurts living creatures with a fist, stone, rod, or sword.

So tena kamma evaṃ samattena evaṃ samādinna kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā apāyaṃ duggatiṃ vinipātaṃ nirayaṃ upapajjati.

Because of undertaking such deeds, after death they're reborn in a place of loss ...

or if they return to the human realm, they're sickly ...

Bāvābādhasaṃvattanikā esā, māṇava, paṭipadā yadidaṃ—

Idha pana, māṇava, ekacco itthī vā puriso vā sattānaṃ

But take some woman or man who does not habitually hurt living creatures with a fist, stone, rod, or sword.

So tena kamma evaṃ samattena evaṃ samādinna kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā sugatiṃ saggāṃ lokaṃ upapajjati.

Because of undertaking such deeds, after death they're reborn in a heavenly realm ...

No ce kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā sugatiṃ saggāṃ lokaṃ or if they return to the human realm, they're healthy ...

Appābādhasaṃvattanikā esā, māṇava, paṭipadā yadidaṃ—

Idha, māṇava, ekacco itthī vā puriso vā kodhano hoti

Take some woman or man who is irritable and bad-tempered.

Appampi vutto samāno abhisajjati kuppati byāpajjati patitṭhīyati kopañca dosañca appaccayañca pātukaroti.

Even when lightly criticized they lose their temper, becoming annoyed, hostile, and hard-hearted, and displaying annoyance, hate, and bitterness.

So tena kammaena evaṃ samattena evaṃ samādinna kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā apāyaṃ duggatiṃ vinipātaṃ nirayaṃ upapajjati.

Because of undertaking such deeds, after death they're reborn in a place of loss ...

No ce kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā apāyaṃ duggatiṃ vinipātaṃ nirayaṃ upapajjati, sace manussattaṃ āgacchati yattha yattha paccājāyati dubbaṇṇo hoti.

appampi vutto samāno abhisajjati kuppati byāpajjati patitṭhīyati kopañca dosañca appaccayañca pātukaroti. (3)

Idha pana, māṇava, ekacco itthī vā puriso vā akkoddhano hoti anupāyāsabahulo;

But take some woman or man who isn't irritable and bad-tempered.

bahumpi vutto samāno nābhisajjati na kuppati na byāpajjati na patitṭhīyati na kopañca dosañca appaccayañca pātukaroti.

Even when heavily criticized, they don't lose their temper, become annoyed, hostile, and hard-hearted, or display annoyance, hate, and bitterness.

So tena kammaena evaṃ samattena evaṃ samādinna kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā sugatiṃ saggaraṃ lokaṃ upapajjati.

Because of undertaking such deeds, after death they're reborn in a heavenly realm ...

No ce kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā sugatiṃ saggaṃ lokam or if they return to the human realm, they're lovely ...

Pāsādikasaṃvattanikā esā, māṇava, paṭipadā yadidaṃ—akkodhano hoti anupāyāsabahulo;

bahumpi vutto samāno nābhisajjati na kuppati na byāpajjati na

They envy, resent, and begrudge the possessions, honor, respect, reverence, homage, and veneration given to others.

So tena kammaena evaṃ samattena evaṃ samādinna kāyassa

So tena kammaena evaṃ samattena evaṃ samādinna kāyassa

Take some woman or man who doesn't give to ascetics or brahmins such things as food, drink, clothing, vehicles; garlands, perfumes, and makeup; and bed, house, and lighting.

So tena kammaena evaṃ samattena evaṃ samādinna kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā apāyaṃ duggatiṃ vinipātaṃ nirayaṃ

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati veḷuvane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā samiddhi araññaḷikāyaṃ

Now at that time Venerable Samiddhi was staying in a wilderness hut.

Atha kho potaliputto paribbājako jaṅghāvihāraṃ

Then as the wanderer Potaliputta was going for a walk he came up to Venerable Samiddhi and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho potaliputto paribbājako āyasmantaṃ samiddhiṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to him:

“sammukhā metañ, āvuso samiddhi, samaṇassa gotamassa sutañ, sammukhā paṭiggahitañ:

“Reverend Samiddhi, I have heard and learned this in the presence of the ascetic Gotama:

‘moghañ kāyakammañ moghañ vacīkammañ, manokammameva saccañ’ti.

‘Deeds by way of body and speech are done in vain. Only mental deeds are real.’

Atthi ca sā samāpatti yañ samāpattiñ samāpanno na kiñci vediyatī”ti?

And: ‘There is such an attainment where the one who enters it does not feel anything at all.’”

“Mā hevañ, āvuso potaliputta, avaca; mā hevañ, āvuso potaliputta, avaca; mā bhagavantañ abbhācikkhi. Na hi sādhu bhagavato abbhakkhānañ. Na hi bhagavā evañ vadeyya:

“Don’t say that, Reverend Potaliputta, don’t say that! Don’t misrepresent the Buddha, for misrepresentation of the Buddha is not good. And the Buddha would not say this.

‘moghañ kāyakammañ moghañ vacīkammañ, manokammameva saccañ’ti.

‘Atthi ca kho sā, āvuso, samāpatti yañ samāpattiñ samāpanno na kiñci vediyatī”ti.

But, reverend, there is such an attainment where the one who enters it does not feel anything at all.”

“Kīvacirañ pabbajitosi, āvuso samiddhī”ti?

“Reverend Samiddhi, how long has it been since you went forth?”

“Na cirañ, āvuso, tīṇi vassānī”ti.

“Not long, reverend: three years.”

“Ettha dāni mayam there bhikkhū kim vakkhāma, yatra hi nāma evamnavo bhikkhu sathāram parirakkhitabbaṃ maññissati.

“Well now, what are we to say to the senior mendicants, when even such a junior mendicant imagines their Teacher needs defending?”

“After doing an intentional deed by way of body, speech, or mind, reverend, one feels suffering.”

Atha kho potaliputto paribbājako āyasmato samiddhissa bhāsitaṃ neva abhinandi nappaṭikkosi;

Atha kho āyasmā samiddhi acirapakkante potaliputte paribbājake yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmatā ānandena saddhiṃ sammodi.

Soon after he had left, Venerable Samiddhi went to Venerable Ānanda, and exchanged greetings with him.

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side, and informed Ānanda of all they had discussed.

Evaṃ vutte, āyasmā ānando āyasmantaṃ samiddhiṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, Ānanda said to him,

“atthi kho idaṃ, āvuso samiddhi, kathāpābhaṭaṃ bhagavantaṃ dassaṇāya.

“Reverend Samiddhi, we should see the Buddha about this matter.

Āyāmāvuso samiddhi, yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamissāma; upasaṅkamtivā etamatthaṃ bhagavato ārocessāma.

Come, let's go to the Buddha and inform him about this.

“Evamāvuso”ti kho āyasmā samiddhi āyasmato ānandassa paccassosi.

“Yes, reverend,” Samiddhi replied.

Atha kho āyasmā ca ānando āyasmā ca samiddhi yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu.

Then Ānanda and Samiddhi went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā ānando yāvatako ahosi āyasmato samiddhissa potaliputtana paribbājakena saddhiṃ kathāsallāpo taṃ sabbaṃ bhagavato ārocesi.

and told him what had happened.

Evaṃ vutte, bhagavā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etadavoca:

When they had spoken, the Buddha said to Ānanda, “dassanampi kho ahaṃ, ānanda, potaliputtassa paribbājakassa nābhijānāmi, kuto panevarūpaṃ kathāsallāpaṃ?

“I don't recall even seeing the wanderer Potaliputta, Ānanda, so how could we have had such a discussion?

Iminā ca, ānanda, samiddhinā moghapurisena potaliputtassa paribbājakassa vibhajjabyākaraṇīyo pañho ekaṃsena byākato”ti.

The wanderer Potaliputta’s question should have been answered after analyzing it, but this foolish person answered definitively.”

Evaṃ vutte, āyasmā udāyī bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he said this, Venerable Udāyī said to him,

“sace pana, bhante, āyasmatā samiddhinā idaṃ sandhāya bhāsitaṃ—

“But perhaps, sir, Venerable Samiddhi spoke in reference to the statement:

yaṃ kiñci vedayitaṃ taṃ dukkhasmin”ti.

‘Suffering includes whatever is felt.’”

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ āmantesi:

But the Buddha said to Venerable Ānanda,

“passasi no tvaṃ, ānanda, imassa udāyissa moghapurisassa ummaṅgaṃ?

“See how this foolish person Udāyī comes up with an idea?

Aññāsiṃ kho ahaṃ, ānanda:

I knew that ‘idānevāyaṃ udāyī moghapuriso ummujjamāno ayoniso ummujjissatī’ti.

he was going to come up with such an irrational idea.

Ādiṃyeva, ānanda, potaliputtena paribbājakena tisso vedanā pucchitā.

Right from the start Potaliputta asked about the three feelings.

Sacāyaṃ, ānanda, samiddhi moghapuriso potaliputtassa paribbājakassa evaṃ puṭṭho evaṃ byākareyya:

Suppose the foolish person Samiddhi had answered the wanderer Potaliputta’s question like this:

‘sañcetanikaṃ, āvuso potaliputta, kammaṃ katvā kāyena vācāya manasā sukhavedanīyaṃ sukhaṃ so vedayati;

‘After doing an intentional deed to be experienced as pleasant by way of body, speech, or mind, one feels pleasure.

sañcetanikaṃ, āvuso potaliputta, kammaṃ katvā kāyena vācāya manasā dukkhavedanīyaṃ dukkhaṃ so vedayati;

After doing an intentional deed to be experienced as painful by way of body, speech, or mind, one feels pain.

sañcetanikaṃ, āvuso potaliputta, kammaṃ katvā kāyena vācāya manasā adukkhamasukhavedanīyaṃ adukkhamasukhaṃ so vedayati’ti.

After doing an intentional deed to be experienced as neutral by way of body, speech, or mind, one feels neutral.’

Evaṃ byākaramāno kho, ānanda, samiddhi moghapuriso potaliputtassa paribbājakassa sammā byākaramāno byākareyya.

Answering in this way, Samiddhi would have rightly answered Potaliputta.

Api ca, ānanda, ke ca aññatitthiyā paribbājakā bālā abyattā ke ca tathāgatassa mahākammavibhaṅgaṃ jānissanti?

Still, who are those foolish and incompetent wanderers who follow other paths to understand the Realized One’s great analysis of deeds?

Sace tumhe, ānanda, suṇeyyātha tathāgatassa mahākammavibhaṅgaṃ vibhajantassā”ti.

Ānanda, if only you would all listen to the Realized One’s explanation of the great analysis of deeds.”

“Etassa, bhagavā, kālo, etassa, sugata, kālo

“Now is the time, Blessed One! Now is the time, Holy One!

Let the Buddha explain the great analysis of deeds. The mendicants will listen and remember it.”

“Tena hānanda, suṇāhi, sādhukaṃ manasi karohi; bhāsissāmi”ti.

“Well then, Ānanda, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho āyasmā ānando bhagavato paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” Ānanda replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Cattārome, ānanda, puggalā santo saṃvijjamānā lokasmim̃.

“Ānanda, these four people are found in the world.

137. Saḷāyatanaṅgasutta The Analysis of the Six Sense Fields

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattḥī in Jeta's Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadvoca:

The Buddha said this:

“saḷāyatanaṅgaṃ vo, bhikkhave, desessāmi.

“Mendicants, I shall teach you the analysis of the six sense fields.

Taṃ suṇātha, sādhukaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmi”ti.

Listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Cha ajjhattikāni āyatanāni veditabbāni, cha bāhirāni āyatanāni veditabbāni, cha viññāṇakāyā veditabbā, cha phassakāyā veditabbā, aṭṭhārasa manopavicārā veditabbā, chattim̐sa sattapadā veditabbā, tatra idaṃ nissāya idaṃ pajahatha, tayo satipaṭṭhānā yadariyo sevati yadariyo sevamāno satthā gaṇamanusāsitumarahati, so vuccati yoggācariyānaṃ anuttaro purisadammasārathī’ti—

“The six interior sense fields should be understood. The six exterior sense fields should be understood. The six classes of consciousness should be understood. The six classes of contact should be understood. The eighteen mental preoccupations should be understood. The thirty-six positions of sentient beings should be understood. Therein, relying on this, give up that. The Noble One cultivates the establishment of mindfulness in three cases, by virtue of which they are a Teacher worthy to instruct a group. Of all meditation teachers, it is he that is called the supreme guide for those who wish to train.’

ayamuddeso saḷāyatanavibhaṅgassa.

This is the recitation passage for the analysis of the six sense fields.

‘Cha ajjhattikāni āyatanāni veditabbāni’ti—

‘The six interior sense fields should be understood.’

iti kho panetaṃ vuttaṃ. Kiñcetaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ?

That’s what I said, but why did I say it?

‘Cakkhāyatanam̐ sotāyatanam̐ ghānāyatanam̐ jivhāyatanam̐ kāyāyatanam̐ manāyatanam̐—

There are the sense fields of the eye, ear, nose, tongue, body, and mind.

cha ajjhattikāni āyatanāni veditabbāni’ti—

‘The six interior sense fields should be understood.’

iti yaṃ taṃ vuttaṃ idametaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ. (1)

That's what I said, and this is why I said it.

‘Cha bāhirāni āyatanāni veditabbānī’ti—

‘The six exterior sense fields should be understood.’

iti kho panetaṃ vuttaṃ. Kiñcetaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ?

That's what I said, but why did I say it?

‘Rūpāyatanam saddāyatanam gandhāyatanam rasāyatanam

There are the sense fields of sights, sounds, smells, tastes, touches, and thoughts.

cha bāhirāni āyatanāni veditabbānī’ti—

‘The six exterior sense fields should be understood.’

iti yaṃ taṃ vuttaṃ idametaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ. (2)

That's what I said, and this is why I said it.

‘Cha viññāṇakāyā veditabbā’ti—

‘The six classes of consciousness should be understood.’

iti kho panetaṃ vuttaṃ. Kiñcetaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ?

‘Cakkhaviññāṇam sotaviññāṇam ghānaviññāṇam

There are eye, ear, nose, tongue, body, and mind consciousness.

cha viññāṇakāyā veditabbā’ti—

‘The six classes of consciousness should be understood.’

iti yaṃ taṃ vuttaṃ idametaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ. (3)

That's what I said, and this is why I said it.

‘Cha phassakāyā veditabbā’ti—

‘The six classes of contact should be understood.’

iti kho panetaṃ vuttaṃ. Kiñcetaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ?

That's what I said, but why did I say it?

‘Cakkhusamphasso sotasamphasso ghānasamphasso

There is contact through the eye, ear, nose, tongue, body, and mind.

cha phassakāyā veditabbā’ti—

‘The six classes of contact should be understood.’

iti yaṃ taṃ vuttaṃ idametaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ. (4)

That's what I said, and this is why I said it.

‘Aṭṭhārasa manopavicārā veditabbā’ti—

‘The eighteen mental preoccupations should be understood.’

iti kho panetaṃ vuttaṃ. Kiñcetaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ?

That's what I said, but why did I say it?

‘Cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā somanassaṭṭhānīyaṃ rūpaṃ

Seeing a sight with the eye, one is preoccupied with a sight that's a basis for happiness or sadness or equanimity.

Sotena saddaṃ sutvā ...pe...

Hearing a sound with the ear ...

ghānena gandhaṃ ghāyitvā ...

Smelling an odor with the nose ...

jivhāya rasaṃ sāyitvā ...

Tasting a flavor with the tongue ...

kāyena phoṭṭhabbaṃ phusitvā ...

Feeling a touch with the body ...

manasā dhammaṃ viññāya somanassaṭṭhānīyaṃ dhammaṃ upavicarati, domanassaṭṭhānīyaṃ dhammaṃ upavicarati, upekkhāṭṭhānīyaṃ dhammaṃ upavicarati.

Becoming conscious of a thought with the mind, one is preoccupied with a thought that's a basis for happiness or sadness or equanimity.

Iti cha somanassūpavicārā, cha domanassūpavicārā, cha upekkhūpavicārā, aṭṭhārasa manopavicārā veditabbā'ti—

So there are six preoccupations with happiness, six preoccupations with sadness, and six preoccupations with equanimity. 'The eighteen mental preoccupations should be understood.'

iti yaṃ taṃ vuttaṃ idametaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ. (5)

That's what I said, and this is why I said it.

'Chattimsa sattapadā veditabbā'ti—

'The thirty-six positions of sentient beings should be understood.'

iti kho panetaṃ vuttaṃ. Kiñcetaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ?

That's what I said, but why did I say it?

Cha gehasitāni somanassāni, cha nekkhammasitāni somanassāni, cha gehasitāni domanassāni, cha nekkhammasitāni domanassāni, cha gehasitā upekkhā, cha nekkhammasitā upekkhā.

There are six kinds of lay happiness and six kinds of renunciate happiness. There are six kinds of lay sadness and six kinds of renunciate sadness. There are six kinds of lay equanimity and six kinds of renunciate equanimity.

But driven by the Realized One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha, a person in training proceeds in eight directions:

Rūpī rūpāni passati—

Having physical form, they see visions.

ayaṃ ekā disā;

This is the first direction.

ajjhattaṃ arūpasaññī bahiddhā rūpāni passati—

Not perceiving physical form internally, they see visions externally.

ayaṃ dutiyā disā;

This is the second direction.

subhantveva adhimutto hoti—

They're focused only on beauty.

ayaṃ tatiyā disā;

This is the third direction.

Going totally beyond perceptions of form, with the ending of perceptions of impingement, not focusing on perceptions of diversity, aware that ‘space is infinite’, they enter and remain in the dimension of infinite space.

ayam catutthi disa;

This is the fourth direction.

sabbaso akāsānañcāyatanam samatikkamma ‘anantaṃ viññāṇa’ti viññāṇañcāyatanam upasampajja viharati—

Going totally beyond the dimension of infinite space, aware that ‘consciousness is infinite’, they enter and remain in the dimension of infinite consciousness.

sabbaso viññāṇañcāyatanam samatikkamma ‘natthi kiñcī’ti ākiñcaññāyatanam upasampajja viharati—

Going totally beyond the dimension of infinite consciousness, aware that ‘there is nothing at all’, they enter and remain in the dimension of nothingness.

ayam chaṭṭhī disa;

This is the sixth direction.

sabbaso ākiñcaññāyatanam samatikkamma nevasaññānāsaññāyatanam upasampajja viharati—

Going totally beyond the dimension of nothingness, they enter and remain in the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception.

ayam sattamī disa;

This is the seventh direction.

sabbaso nevasaññānāsaññāyatanam samatikkamma saññāvedayitanirodham upasampajja viharati—

Going totally beyond the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception, they enter and remain in the cessation of perception and feeling.

ayaṃ aṭṭhamī disā.

This is the eighth direction.

Tathāgatena, bhikkhave, arahatā sammāsambuddhena purisadammo sārīto imā aṭṭha disā vidhāvati.

Driven by the Realized One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha, a person in training proceeds in these eight directions.

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Saḷāyatanaṅgasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ sattamaṃ.

138. Uddesavibhaṅgasutta The Analysis of a Recitation Passage

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadvoca:

The Buddha said this:

“uddesavibhaṅgaṃ vo, bhikkhave, desessāmi.

“Mendicants, I shall teach you the analysis of a recitation passage.

Taṃ suṇātha, sādhukaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmī”ti.

Listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Tathā tathā, bhikkhave, bhikkhu upaparikkheyya yathā yathā upaparikkhato bahiddhā cassa viññāṇaṃ avikkhittaṃ avisaṭaṃ, ajjhattaṃ asaṅghitaṃ anupādāya na paritasseyya.

“A mendicant should examine in any such a way that their consciousness is neither scattered and diffused externally nor stuck internally, and they are not anxious because of grasping.

Bahiddhā, bhikkhave, viññāṇe avikkhitte avisaṭe sati ajjhattaṃ asaṅghite anupādāya aparitassato āyatiṃ jātijārāmarañadukkhāsamudayasambhavo na hotī”ti.

When this is the case and they are no longer anxious, there is for them no coming to be of the origin of suffering—of rebirth, old age, and death in the future.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Idaṃ vatvāna sugato uṭṭhāyāsanā vihāraṃ pāvīsi.

When he had spoken, the Holy One got up from his seat and entered his dwelling.

Atha kho tesaṃ bhikkhūnaṃ, acirapakkantassa bhagavato, etadahosi:

Soon after the Buddha left, those mendicants considered, “idaṃ kho no, āvuso, bhagavā saṅkhittena uddesaṃ uddisitvā vitthārena atthaṃ avibhajitvā uṭṭhāyāsanā vihāraṃ pavīṭṭho:

“The Buddha gave this brief passage for recitation, then entered his dwelling without explaining the meaning in detail.

‘A mendicant should examine in any such a way that their consciousness is neither scattered and diffused externally nor stuck internally, and they are not anxious because of grasping. When this is the case and they are no longer anxious, there is for them no coming to be of the origin of suffering—of rebirth, old age, and death in the future.’

Imassa kho ahaṃ, āvuso, bhagavatā saṅkhittena uddesassa uddiṭṭhassa vitthārena atthaṃ avibhattassa evaṃ vitthārena atthaṃ ājānāmi.

And this is how I understand the detailed meaning of this passage for recitation.

Kathañcāvuso, bahiddhā viññāṇaṃ vikkhittaṃ visaṭanti vuccati?

And how is consciousness scattered and diffused externally?

Idhāvuso, bhikkhuno cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā rūpanimittānusāri viññāṇaṃ hoti rūpanimittassādagadhitam

rūpanimittassādavinibandhaṃ vikkhittaṃ visaṭanti vuccati.

Take a mendicant who sees a sight with their eyes. Their consciousness follows after the features of that sight, tied, attached, and fettered to gratification in its features. So their consciousness is said to be scattered and diffused externally.

Sotena saddaṃ sutvā ...pe...

When they hear a sound with their ears ...

ghānena gandhaṃ ghāyitvā ...

When they smell an odor with their nose ...

jivhāya rasaṃ sāyitvā ...

When they taste a flavor with their tongue ...

When they know a thought with their mind, their consciousness follows after the features of that thought, tied, attached, and fettered to gratification in its features. So their consciousness is said to be scattered and diffused externally.

Evaṃ kho, āvuso, bahiddhā viññāṇaṃ vikkhittaṃ visaṭanti vuccati.

That's how consciousness is scattered and diffused externally.

Kathañcāvuso, bahiddhā viññāṇaṃ avikkhittaṃ avisaṭanti
vuccati?

And how is consciousness not scattered and diffused externally?

Idhāvuso, bhikkhuno cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā na rūpanimittānusāri viññāṇaṃ hoti, na rūpanimittassādagadhitāṃ na rūpanimittassādavinibandhaṃ na rūpanimittassādasāmyojanasāmyuttaṃ bahiddhā viññāṇaṃ avikkhittaṃ avisaṭanti vuccati.

Take a mendicant who sees a sight with their eyes. Their consciousness doesn't follow after the features of that sight, and is not tied, attached, and fettered to gratification in its features. So their consciousness is said to be not scattered and diffused externally.

Sotena saddaṃ sutvā ...pe...

When they hear a sound with their ears ...

ghānena gandhaṃ ghāyitvā ...

When they smell an odor with their nose ...

jivhāya rasaṃ sāyitvā ...

When they taste a flavor with their tongue ...

When they know a thought with their mind, their consciousness doesn't follow after the features of that thought, and is not tied, attached, and fettered to gratification in its features. So their consciousness is said to be not scattered and diffused externally.

Evaṃ kho, āvuso, bahiddhā viññāṇaṃ avikkhittaṃ avisaṭanti vuccati.

That's how consciousness is not scattered and diffused externally.

Kathañcāvuso, ajjhattaṃ saṅghitanti vuccati?

And how is their consciousness stuck internally?

Idhāvuso, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamañ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Take a mendicant who, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Tassa vivekajapītisukhānusāri viññāṇañ hoti vivekajapītisukhassādagadhitañ vivekajapītisukhassādavinibandhaṃ vivekajapītisukhassādasāmyojanasāmyuttaṃ ajjhataṃ cittaṃ saṅghitanti vuccati.

Their consciousness follows after that rapture and bliss born of seclusion, tied, attached, and fettered to gratification in that rapture and bliss born of seclusion. So their mind is said to be stuck internally.

Puna caparaṃ, āvuso, bhikkhu vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhataṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, a mendicant enters and remains in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Tassa samādhijapītisukhānusāri viññāṇañ hoti samādhijapītisukhassādagadhitañ samādhijapītisukhassādavinibandhaṃ samādhijapītisukhassādasāmyojanasāmyuttaṃ ajjhataṃ cittaṃ saṅghitanti vuccati.

Their consciousness follows after that rapture and bliss born of immersion, tied, attached, and fettered to gratification in that rapture and bliss born of immersion. So their mind is said to be stuck internally.

Puna caparam, āvuso, bhikkhu pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca viharati sato ca sampajāno sukhañca kāyena paṭisaṃvedeti, yaṃ taṃ ariyā ācikkhanti: ‘upekkhako satimā sukhavihārī’ti tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, with the fading away of rapture, a mendicant enters and remains in the third absorption, where they meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, ‘Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.’

Tassa upekkhānusāri viññāṇaṃ hoti upekkhāsukhassādagadhitaṃ upekkhāsukhassādavinibandhaṃ upekkhāsukhassādasamyojanasammuttaṃ ajjhattaṃ cittaṃ saṅghitanti vuccati.

Their consciousness follows after that equanimity, tied, attached, and fettered to gratification in that equanimous bliss. So their mind is said to be stuck internally.

Puna caparam, āvuso, bhikkhu sukhasa ca pahānā dukkhasa ca pahānā pubbeva somanassadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamā adukkhamasukhaṃ upekkhāsatipārisuddhiṃ catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, giving up pleasure and pain, and ending former happiness and sadness, a mendicant enters and remains in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

Tassa adukkhamasukhānusāri viññāṇaṃ hoti adukkhamasukhassādagadhitaṃ adukkhamasukhassādavinibandhaṃ adukkhamasukhassādasamyojanasammuttaṃ ajjhattaṃ cittaṃ asaṅghitanti vuccati.

Their consciousness follows after that neutral feeling, tied, attached, and fettered to gratification in that neutral feeling. So their mind is said to be stuck internally.

Evaṃ kho, āvuso, ajjhataṃ saṅghitanti vuccati.

That's how their consciousness is stuck internally.

Kathañcāvuso, ajjhataṃ asaṅghitanti vuccati?

And how is their consciousness not stuck internally?

Idhāvuso, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi ...pe... paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

It's when a mendicant, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Their consciousness doesn't follow after that rapture and bliss born of seclusion, and is not tied, attached, and fettered to gratification in that rapture and bliss born of seclusion. So their mind is said to be not stuck internally.

Puna caparaṃ, āvuso, bhikkhu vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ... pe... dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, they enter the second absorption ...

Tassa na samādhijapītisukhānusāri viññāṇaṃ hoti na samādhijapītisukhassādagadhitaṃ na samādhijapītisukhassādavinibandhaṃ na samādhijapītisukhassādasamyojanasamyuttaṃ ajjhataṃ cittaṃ asaṅghitanti vuccati.

Their consciousness doesn't follow after that rapture and bliss born of immersion ...

Puna caparam, āvuso, bhikkhu pītiyā ca virāgā ...pe... tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, they enter and remain in the third absorption ...

Tassa na upekkhānusāri viññāṇaṃ hoti na upekkhāsukhassādagadhitāṃ na upekkhāsukhassādavinibandhaṃ na upekkhāsukhassādasāmyojanasāmyuttaṃ ajjhataṃ cittaṃ asaṅghitanti vuccati.

Their consciousness doesn't follow after that equanimity, and is not tied, attached, and fettered to gratification in that equanimous bliss. So their mind is said to be not stuck internally.

Puna caparam, āvuso, bhikkhu sukhasa ca pahānā dukkhasa ca pahānā pubbeva somanassadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamā adukkhamasukhaṃ upekkhāsatipārisuddhiṃ catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, they enter and remain in the fourth absorption ...

Tassa na adukkhamasukhānusāri viññāṇaṃ hoti na adukkhamasukhassādagadhitāṃ na adukkhamasukhassādavinibandhaṃ na adukkhamasukhassādasāmyojanasāmyuttaṃ ajjhataṃ cittaṃ asaṅghitanti vuccati.

Their consciousness doesn't follow after that neutral feeling, and is not tied, attached, and fettered to gratification in that neutral feeling. So their mind is said to be not stuck internally.

Evaṃ kho, āvuso, ajjhataṃ asaṅghitanti vuccati.

That's how their consciousness is not stuck internally.

That is what it means, and that’s how you should remember it.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Uddesavibhaṅgasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ aṭṭhamaṃ.

139. Araṇavibhaṅgasutta The Analysis of Non-Conflict

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā sāvattiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta's Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadvoca:

The Buddha said this:

“araṇavibhaṅgaṃ vo, bhikkhave, desessāmi.

“Mendicants, I shall teach you the analysis of non-conflict.

Tam suṇātha, sādhuḥkaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmī”ti.

Listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Na kāmasukhamanuyuñjeyya hīnaṃ gammaṃ pothujjanikaṃ anariyaṃ anatthasaṃhitaṃ, na ca attakilamathānuyogamanuyuñjeyya dukkhaṃ anariyaṃ anatthasaṃhitaṃ.

“Don’t indulge in sensual pleasures, which are low, crude, ordinary, ignoble, and pointless. And don’t indulge in self-mortification, which is painful, ignoble, and pointless.

Ete kho, bhikkhave, ubho ante anupagamma majjhimā paṭipadā tathāgatena abhisambuddhā, cakkhukaraṇī ñāṇakaraṇī upasaṃyā abhiññāya sambodhāya nibbānāya saṃvattati.

Avoiding these two extremes, the Realized One woke up by understanding the middle way of practice, which gives vision and knowledge, and leads to peace, direct knowledge, awakening, and extinguishment.

Ussādanañca jaññā, apasādanañca jaññā;

Know what it means to flatter and to rebuke.

ussādanañca ñatvā apasādanañca ñatvā nevussādeyya, na apasādeyya, dhammameva deseyya.

Knowing these, avoid them, and just teach Dhamma.

Sukhavinicchayaṃ jaññā;

Know how to assess different kinds of pleasure.

sukhavinicchayaṃ ñatvā ajjhattaṃ sukhamanuyuñjeyya.

Knowing this, pursue inner bliss.

Rahovādaṃ na bhāseyya, sammukhā na khīṇaṃ bhaṇe.

Don’t talk behind people’s backs, and don’t speak sharply in their presence.

Ataramānova bhāseyya, no taramāno.

Don’t speak hurriedly.

Janapadaniruttiṃ nābhiniveseyya, samaññaṃ nātidhāveyyāti—

Don't insist on local terminology and don't override normal usage.

ayamuddeso araṇavibhaṅgassa.

This is the recitation passage for the analysis of non-conflict.

'Na kāmasukhamanuyuñjeyya hīnaṃ gammaṃ pothujjanikaṃ anariyaṃ anattasaṃhitaṃ, na ca attakilamathānuyogamanuyuñjeyya dukkhaṃ anariyaṃ anattasaṃhitaṃ'ti—

Pleasure linked to sensuality is low, crude, ordinary, ignoble, and pointless. Indulging in such happiness is a principle beset by pain, harm, stress, and fever, and it is the wrong way.

Yo kāmapaṭisandhisukhino somanassānuyogaṃ ananuyogo hīnaṃ gammaṃ pothujjanikaṃ anariyaṃ anattasaṃhitaṃ, adukkho eso dhammo anupaghāto anupāyāso apariḷāho; sammāpaṭipadā.

sammādiṭṭhi, sammāsaṅkappo, sammāvācā, sammākammanto, sammāājīvo, sammāvāyāmo, sammāsati, sammāsamādhi.

iti kho panetaṃ vuttaṃ. Kiñcetaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ?
That’s what I said, but why did I say it?

Pañcime, bhikkhave, kāmaguṇā.
There are these five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Katame pañca?
What five?

Cakkhuviññeyyā rūpā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā
kāmūpasamhitā rajanīyā,
Sights known by the eye that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

sotaviññeyyā saddā ...

Sounds known by the ear ...

ghānaviññeyyā gandhā ...

Smells known by the nose ...

jivhāviññeyyā rasā ...

Tastes known by the tongue ...

kāyaviññeyyā phoṭṭhabbā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā
kāmapasamhitā rajanīyā—

Touches known by the body that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

ime kho, bhikkhave, pañca kāmaguṇā.

These are the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Yaṃ kho, bhikkhave, ime pañca kāmaguṇe paṭicca uppajjati sukhaṃ somanassaṃ idaṃ vuccati kāmasukhaṃ mīḷhasukhaṃ puthujjanasukhaṃ anariyasukhaṃ.

The pleasure and happiness that arise from these five kinds of sensual stimulation is called sensual pleasure—a filthy, common, ignoble pleasure.

‘Na āsevitabbaṃ, na bhāvetabbaṃ, na bahulīkātabbaṃ, bhāyitabbaṃ etassa sukhaṃ—vadāmi.

Such pleasure should not be cultivated or developed, but should be feared, I say.

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ
paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Now, take a mendicant who, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhattaṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso
ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ
dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

As the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, they enter and remain in the second absorption ...

Pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca viharati ...pe... tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ ...
pe...

third absorption ...

catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

fourth absorption.

Idaṃ vuccati nekkhammasukhaṃ pavivekasukhaṃ upasamasukhaṃ sambodhisukhaṃ.

This is called the pleasure of renunciation, the pleasure of seclusion, the pleasure of peace, the pleasure of awakening.

‘Āsevitabbaṃ, bhāvetabbaṃ, bahulīkātabbaṃ, na bhāyitabbaṃ etassa sukhassā’ti—vadāmi.

Such pleasure should be cultivated and developed, and should not be feared, I say.

And however it is known in those various localities, you speak accordingly, thinking: ‘It seems that the venerables are referring to this.’

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, janapadaniruttiyā ca anabhiniveso hoti, samaññāya ca anatisāro.

That's how you don't insist on local terminology and don't override normal usage.

‘Janapadaniruttim nābhiniveseyya samaññaṃ nātidhāveyyā’ti—‘Don't insist on local terminology and don't override normal usage.’

iti yaṃ taṃ vuttaṃ, idametaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ.

140. Dhātuvibhaṅgasutta The Analysis of the Elements

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava magadhesu carikam caramano yena rajagham tadavasari;

At one time the Buddha was wandering in the Magadhan lands when he arrived at Rājagaha.

yena bhaggavo kumbhakaro tenupasankami; upasankamitva bhaggavam kumbhakaram etadavoca:

He went to see Bhaggava the potter, and said,

“sace te, bhaggava, agaru viharemu avesane ekarattan”ti.

“Bhaggava, if it is no trouble, I’d like to spend a single night in your workshop.”

“Na kho me, bhante, garu.

Atthi cettha pabbajito pathhamam vasupagato.

But there’s a renunciate already staying there.

Sace so anujanati, viharatha, bhante, yathasukhan”ti.

If he allows it, sir, you may stay as long as you like.”

Tena kho pana samayena pukkusati nama kulaputto bhagavantam uddissa saddhaya agarasmā anagariyam pabbajito.

Now at that time a gentleman named Pukkusāti had gone forth from the lay life to homelessness out of faith in the Buddha.

So tasmim̐ kumbhakārāvesane paṭhamam̐ vāsūpagato hoti.
And it was he who had first taken up residence in the workshop.

Atha kho bhagavā yenāyasmā pukkusāti tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ pukkusātīm̐ etadavoca:

Then the Buddha approached Venerable Pukkusāti and said, “sace te, bhikkhu, agaru viharemu āvesane ekarattan”ti.

“Mendicant, if it is no trouble, I’d like to spend a single night in the workshop.”

“Urundaṃ, āvuso, kumbhakārāvesanaṃ.

“The potter’s workshop is spacious, reverend.

Viharatāyasmā yathāsukhan”ti.

Please stay as long as you like.”

Atha kho bhagavā kumbhakārāvesanaṃ pavisitvā ekamantaṃ tiṇasanthārakaṃ paññāpetvā nisīdi pallaṅkaṃ ābhujitvā ujum̐ kāyaṃ paṇidhāya parimukhaṃ satim̐ upaṭṭhapetvā.

Then the Buddha entered the workshop and spread out a grass mat to one side. He sat down cross-legged, with his body straight, and established mindfulness right there.

Atha kho bhagavā bahudeva rattim̐ nisajjāya vītināmesi.

He spent most of the night sitting meditation,

Āyasmāpi kho pukkusāti bahudeva rattim̐ nisajjāya vītināmesi.

and so did Pukkusāti.

Atha kho bhagavato etadahosi:

Then it occurred to the Buddha,

“pāsādikaṃ kho ayaṃ kulaputto iriyati.

“This gentleman’s conduct is impressive.

Yannūnāhaṃ puccheyyan”ti.

Why don’t I question him?”

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ pukkusātiṃ etadavoca:

So the Buddha said to Pukkusāti,

“kaṃsi tvaṃ, bhikkhu, uddissa pabbajito? Ko vā te satthā?

Kassa vā tvaṃ dhammaṃ rocesī”ti?

“Atthāvuso, samaṇo gotamo sakyaputto sakyakulā pabbajito.

“Reverend, there is the ascetic Gotama—a Sakyian, gone forth from a Sakyian family.

Taṃ kho pana bhagavantaṃ gotamaṃ evaṃ kalyāṇo kittisaddo abbhuggato:

He has this good reputation:

‘itipi so bhagavā arahaṃ sammāsambuddho

vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro

purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānaṃ buddho

bhagavā’ti.

Tāhaṃ bhagavantaṃ uddissa pabbajito.

I’ve gone forth in his name.

So ca me bhagavā satthā.

That Blessed One is my Teacher,

Tassa cāhaṃ bhagavato dhammaṃ rocemī”ti.

and I believe in his teaching.”

“Kahaṃ pana, bhikkhu, etarahi so bhagavā viharati araham̃ sammāsambuddho”ti.

“But mendicant, where is the Blessed One at present, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha?”

“Atthāvuso, uttaresu janapadesu sāvatti nāma nagaram̃.

“In the northern lands there is a city called Sāvattī.

Tattha so bhagavā etarahi viharati araham̃ sammāsambuddho”ti.

There the Blessed One is now staying, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha.”

“Diṭṭhapubbo pana te, bhikkhu, so bhagavā;

“But have you ever seen that Buddha?

disvā ca pana jāneyyāsī”ti?

Would you recognize him if you saw him?”

“Na kho me, āvuso, diṭṭhapubbo so bhagavā;

“No, I’ve never seen him, disvā cāham̃ na jāneyyan”ti.

and I wouldn’t recognize him if I did.”

Atha kho bhagavato etadahosi:

Then it occurred to the Buddha,

“mamañca khvāyam̃ kulaputto uddissa pabbajito.

“This gentleman has gone forth in my name.

Yannūnassāham̃ dhammam̃ deseyyan”ti.

Why don’t I teach him the Dhamma?”

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ pukkusātiṃ āmantesi:

So the Buddha said to Pukkusāti,

“dhammam̃ te, bhikkhu, desessāmi.

“Mendicant, I shall teach you the Dhamma.

Taṃ suṇāhi, sādhukaṃ manasi karohi; bhāsissāmi”ti.

Listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho āyasmā pukkusāti bhagavato paccassosi.

“Yes, reverend,” replied Pukkusāti.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Cha dhāturo ayaṃ, bhikkhu, puriso cha phassāyatano aṭṭhārasa manopavicāro caturādhiṭṭhāno;

“This person has six elements, six fields of contact, and eighteen mental preoccupations.

yattha ṭhitam maññassavā nappavattanti, maññassave kho pana nappavattamāne muni santoti vuccati.

They have four foundations, standing on which the streams of identification don’t flow. And when the streams of identification don’t flow, they’re called a sage at peace.

Paññaṃ nappamajjeyya, saccamanurakkheyya, cāgamanubrūheyya, santimeva so sikkheyvā’ti—

Don’t neglect wisdom, preserve truth, foster generosity, and train only for peace.’

ayamuddeso dhātuvibhaṅgassa.

This is the recitation passage for the analysis of the elements.

‘Cha dhāturo ayaṃ, bhikkhu, puriso’ti—

‘This person has six elements.’

iti kho panetaṃ vuttaṃ. Kiñcetaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ?

That’s what I said, but why did I say it?

Chayimā, bhikkhu, dhātuyo—

There are these six elements:

pathavīdhātu, āpodhātu, tejodhātu, vāyodhātu, ākāsadhātu, viññāṇadhātu.

the elements of earth, water, fire, air, space, and consciousness.

‘Cha dhāturo ayam, bhikkhu, puriso’ti—

‘This person has six elements.’

iti yaṃ taṃ vuttaṃ, idametaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ.

That’s what I said, and this is why I said it.

‘Cha phassāyatano ayam, bhikkhu, puriso’ti—

‘This person has six fields of contact.’

iti kho panetaṃ vuttaṃ. Kiñcetaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ?

That’s what I said, but why did I say it?

Cakkhusamphassāyatanaṃ, sotasamphassāyatanaṃ, ghānasamphassāyatanaṃ, jivhāsamphassāyatanaṃ, kāyasamphassāyatanaṃ, manosamphassāyatanaṃ.

The fields of contact of the eye, ear, nose, tongue, body, and mind.

‘Cha phassāyatano ayam, bhikkhu, puriso’ti—

‘This person has six fields of contact.’

iti yaṃ taṃ vuttaṃ, idametaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ.

That’s what I said, and this is why I said it.

‘Aṭṭhārasa manopavicāro ayam, bhikkhu, puriso’ti—

‘This person has eighteen mental preoccupations.’

iti kho panetaṃ vuttaṃ. Kiñcetaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ?

That’s what I said, but why did I say it?

Cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā somanassaṭṭhāniyaṃ rūpaṃ upavicarati, domanassaṭṭhāniyaṃ rūpaṃ upavicarati, upekkhāṭṭhāniyaṃ rūpaṃ upavicarati;

Seeing a sight with the eye, one is preoccupied with a sight that’s a basis for happiness or sadness or equanimity.

sotena saddaṃ sutvā ...pe...

Hearing a sound with the ear ...

ghānena gandham ghāyivā ...

Smelling an odor with the nose ...

jivhāya rasam sāyivā ...

Tasting a flavor with the tongue ...

kāyena phoṭṭhabbam phusivā ...

Feeling a touch with the body ...

manasā dhammam viññāya somanassaṭṭhānīyam dhammam upavicarati, domanassaṭṭhānīyam dhammam upavicarati, upekkhāṭṭhānīyam dhammam upavicarati—

Becoming conscious of a thought with the mind, one is preoccupied with a thought that's a basis for happiness or sadness or equanimity.

iti cha somanassupavicārā, cha domanassupavicārā, cha upekkhupavicārā.

So there are six preoccupations with happiness, six preoccupations with sadness, and six preoccupations with equanimity.

‘Aṭṭhārasa manopavicāro ayam, bhikkhu, puriso’ti—

‘This person has eighteen mental preoccupations.’

iti yaṃ taṃ vuttaṃ, idametaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ.

That's what I said, and this is why I said it.

‘Caturādhiṭṭhāno ayam, bhikkhu, puriso’ti—

‘This person has four foundations.’

iti kho panetaṃ vuttaṃ. Kiñcetaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ?

That's what I said, but why did I say it?

Paññādhiṭṭhāno, saccādhiṭṭhāno, cāgādhiṭṭhāno, upasamādhiṭṭhāno.

The foundations of wisdom, truth, generosity, and peace.

‘Caturādhiṭṭhāno ayam, bhikkhu, puriso’ti—

‘This person has four foundations.’

iti yaṃ taṃ vuttaṃ idametaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ.

That's what I said, and this is why I said it.

‘Paññaṃ nappamajjeyya, saccamanurakkheyya,

‘Don’t neglect wisdom, preserve truth, foster generosity, and train only for peace.’

iti kho panetaṃ vuttaṃ. Kiñcetaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ?

That's what I said, but why did I say it?

Kathaṅca, bhikkhu, paññaṃ nappamajjati?

And how does one not neglect wisdom?

Chayimā, bhikkhu, dhātuyo—

There are these six elements:

pathavīdhātu, āpodhātu, tejodhātu, vāyodhātu, ākāsadhātu, viññāṇadhātu.

the elements of earth, water, fire, air, space, and consciousness.

winds that go up or down, winds in the belly or the bowels, winds that flow through the limbs, in-breaths and out-breaths, or anything else that's air, airy, and organic that's internal, pertaining to an individual.

ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhu, ajjhaticā vāyodhātu.

This is called the interior air element.

Yā ceva kho pana ajjhaticā vāyodhātu yā ca bāhirā vāyodhātu vāyodhātūvesā.

The interior air element and the exterior air element are just the air element.

'Taṃ netaṃ mama, nesohamasmi, na meso attā'ti—evametaṃ yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya daṭṭhabbaṃ.

This should be truly seen with right understanding like this: 'This is not mine, I am not this, this is not my self.'

Evametaṃ yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya disvā vāyodhātuyā nibbindati, vāyodhātuyā cittaṃ virājeti.

When you truly see with right understanding, you reject the air element, detaching the mind from the air element.

Katamā ca, bhikkhu, ākāsadhātu?

And what is the space element?

Ākāsadhātu siyā ajjhaticā siyā bāhirā.

The space element may be interior or exterior.

Katamā ca, bhikkhu, ajjhaticā ākāsadhātu?

And what is the interior space element?

Athāparaṃ viññāṇaṃyeva avasissati parisuddhaṃ pariyodātaṃ.

There remains only consciousness, pure and bright.

Tena ca viññāṇena kiṃ vijānāti?

And what does that consciousness know?

‘Sukhaṃ’tipi vijānāti, ‘dukkhaṃ’tipi vijānāti, ‘aduḡkhamasukhaṃ’tipi vijānāti.

It knows ‘pleasure’ and ‘pain’ and ‘neutral’.

Sukhavedaniyaṃ, bhikkhu, phassaṃ paṭicca uppajjati sukhā vedanā.

Pleasant feeling arises dependent on a contact to be experienced as pleasant.

So sukhaṃ vedanaṃ vedayamāno ‘sukhaṃ vedanaṃ vedayāmī’ti pajānāti.

When they feel a pleasant feeling, they know: ‘I feel a pleasant feeling.’

‘Tasseva sukhavedaniyassa phassassa nirodhā yaṃ tajaṃ vedayitaṃ sukhavedaniyaṃ phassaṃ paṭicca uppannā sukhā vedanā sā nirujjhati, sā vūpasammatī’ti pajānāti.

They know: ‘With the cessation of that contact to be experienced as pleasant, the corresponding pleasant feeling ceases and stops.’

Dukkhavedaniyaṃ, bhikkhu, phassaṃ paṭicca uppajjati dukkhā vedanā.

Painful feeling arises dependent on a contact to be experienced as painful.

So dukkhaṃ vedanaṃ vedayamāno ‘dukkhaṃ vedanaṃ vedayāmī’ti pajānāti.

When they feel a painful feeling, they know: ‘I feel a painful feeling.’

‘Tasseva dukkhavedaniyassa phassassa nirodhā yaṃ tajaṃ vedayitaṃ dukkhavedaniyaṃ phassaṃ paṭicca uppannā dukkhā vedanā sā nirujjhati, sā vūpasammatī’ti pajānāti.

They know: ‘With the cessation of that contact to be experienced as painful, the corresponding painful feeling ceases and stops.’

Adukkhamasukhavedaniyaṃ, bhikkhu, phassaṃ paṭicca uppajjati adukkhamasukhā vedanā.

Neutral feeling arises dependent on a contact to be experienced as neutral.

So adukkhamasukhaṃ vedanaṃ vedayamāno

‘adukkhamasukhaṃ vedanaṃ vedayāmī’ti pajānāti.

When they feel a neutral feeling, they know: ‘I feel a neutral feeling.’

‘Tasseva adukkhamasukhavedaniyassa phassassa nirodhā yaṃ tajjaṃ vedayitaṃ adukkhamasukhavedaniyaṃ phassaṃ paṭicca uppannā adukkhamasukhā vedanā sā nirujjhati, sā vūpasammatī’ti pajānāti.

They know: ‘With the cessation of that contact to be experienced as neutral, the corresponding neutral feeling ceases and stops.’

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhu, dvinnaṃ kaṭṭhānaṃ saṅghaṭṭā samodhānā usmā jāyati, tejo abhinibbattati, tesāmyeva dvinnaṃ kaṭṭhānaṃ nānābhāvā vinikkhepā yā tajiā usmā sā nirujjhati, sā vūpasammati;

When you rub two sticks together, heat is generated and fire is produced. But when you part the sticks and lay them aside, any corresponding heat ceases and stops.

evameva kho, bhikkhu, sukhavedaniyaṃ phassaṃ paṭicca uppajjati sukhā vedanā.

In the same way, pleasant feeling arises dependent on a contact to be experienced as pleasant. ...

So sukhaṃ vedanaṃ vedayamāno ‘sukhaṃ vedanaṃ vedayāmī’ti pajānāti.

‘Tasseva sukhavedaniyassa phassassa nirodhā yaṃ tajjaṃ vedayitaṃ sukhavedaniyaṃ phassaṃ paṭicca uppannā sukhā vedanā sā nirujjhati, sā vūpasammatī’ti pajānāti.

Dukkavedaniyaṃ, bhikkhu, phassaṃ paṭicca uppajjati dukkhā vedanā.

So dukkhaṃ vedanaṃ vedayamāno ‘dukkhaṃ vedanaṃ vedayāmī’ti pajānāti.

‘Tasseva dukkhavedaniyassa phassassa nirodhā yaṃ tajjaṃ vedayitaṃ dukkhavedaniyaṃ phassaṃ paṭicca uppannā dukkhā vedanā sā nirujjhati, sā vūpasammatī’ti pajānāti.

Adukkhamasukhavedaniyaṃ, bhikkhu, phassaṃ paṭicca uppajjati adukkkhamasukhā vedanā.

So adukkkhamasukhaṃ vedanaṃ vedayamāno ‘adukkkhamasukhaṃ vedanaṃ vedayāmī’ti pajānāti.

‘Tasseva adukkkhamasukhavedaniyassa phassassa nirodhā yaṃ tajjaṃ vedayitaṃ adukkkhamasukhavedaniyaṃ phassaṃ paṭicca uppannā adukkkhamasukhā vedanā sā nirujjhati, sā vūpasammatī’ti pajānāti.

They know: ‘With the cessation of that contact to be experienced as neutral, the corresponding neutral feeling ceases and stops.’

Athāparaṃ upekkhāyeva avasissati parisuddhā pariyodātā

It’s like when a goldsmith or a goldsmith’s apprentice prepares a forge, fires the crucible, picks up some gold with tongs and puts it in the crucible. From time to time they fan it, from time to time they sprinkle water on it, and from time to time they just watch over it. That gold becomes pliable, workable, and radiant, not brittle, and is ready to be worked. Then the goldsmith can successfully create any kind of ornament they want, whether a bracelet, earrings, a necklace, or a golden garland.

evameva kho, bhikkhu, athāparam upekkhāyeva avasissati parisuddhā pariyodātā mudu ca kammaññā ca pabhassarā ca.
In the same way, there remains only equanimity, pure, bright, pliable, workable, and radiant.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand:

‘Imañce ahaṃ upekkhaṃ evaṃ parisuddhaṃ evaṃ pariyodātaṃ ākāsānañcāyatanaṃ upasaṃhareyyaṃ, tadanudhammañca cittaṃ bhāveyyaṃ.

‘If I were to apply this equanimity, so pure and bright, to the dimension of infinite space, my mind would develop accordingly.

Evaṃ me ayaṃ upekkhā tannissitā tadupādānā ciraṃ dīghamaddhānaṃ tiṭṭheyya.

And this equanimity of mine, relying on that and grasping it, would remain for a very long time.

Imañce ahaṃ upekkhaṃ evaṃ parisuddhaṃ evaṃ pariyodātaṃ viññāṇañcāyatanaṃ upasaṃhareyyaṃ, tadanudhammañca cittaṃ bhāveyyaṃ.

If I were to apply this equanimity, so pure and bright, to the dimension of infinite consciousness, my mind would develop accordingly.

Evaṃ me ayaṃ upekkhā tannissitā tadupādānā ciraṃ dīghamaddhānaṃ tiṭṭheyya.

And this equanimity of mine, relying on that and grasping it, would remain for a very long time.

Imañce ahaṃ upekkhaṃ evaṃ parisuddhaṃ evaṃ pariyodātaṃ ākiñcaññāyatanaṃ upasaṃhareyyaṃ, tadanudhammañca cittaṃ bhāveyyaṃ.

If I were to apply this equanimity, so pure and bright, to the dimension of nothingness, my mind would develop accordingly.

Evaṃ me ayaṃ upekkhā tannissitā tadupādānā ciraṃ dīghamaddhānaṃ tiṭṭheyya.

And this equanimity of mine, relying on that and grasping it, would remain for a very long time.

Imañce ahaṃ upekkhaṃ evaṃ parisuddhaṃ evaṃ pariyodātaṃ nevasaññānāsaññāyatanaṃ upasaṃhareyyaṃ, tadanudhammañca cittaṃ bhāveyyaṃ.

If I were to apply this equanimity, so pure and bright, to the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception, my mind would develop accordingly.

Evaṃ me ayaṃ upekkhā tannissitā tadupādānā ciraṃ dīghamaddhānaṃ tiṭṭheyyā'ti.

And this equanimity of mine, relying on that and grasping it, would remain for a very long time.'

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand:

'imañce ahaṃ upekkhaṃ evaṃ parisuddhaṃ evaṃ pariyodātaṃ ākāsānañcāyatanaṃ upasaṃhareyyaṃ, tadanudhammañca
cittaṃ bhāveyyaṃ;

'If I were to apply this equanimity, so pure and bright, to the dimension of infinite space, my mind would develop accordingly.

saṅkhatametaṃ.

But that is conditioned.

Imañce ahaṃ upekkhaṃ evaṃ parisuddhaṃ evaṃ pariyodātaṃ viññāṇañcāyatanaṃ upasaṃhareyyaṃ, tadanudhammañca
cittaṃ bhāveyyaṃ;

If I were to apply this equanimity, so pure and bright, to the dimension of infinite consciousness ...

saṅkhatametaṃ.

Imañce ahaṃ upekkhaṃ evaṃ parisuddhaṃ evaṃ pariyodātaṃ ākiñcaññāyatanaṃ upasaṃhareyyaṃ, tadanudhammañca nothingness ...

saṅkhatametam.

Imañce ahaṃ upekkhaṃ evaṃ parisuddhaṃ evaṃ pariyodātaṃ nevasaññānāsaññāyatanam upasamhāreyyam, tadanudhammañca cittaṃ bhāveyyam;

neither perception nor non-perception, my mind would develop accordingly.

saṅkhatametam'ti.

But that is conditioned.'

So neva taṃ abhisāṅkharoti, na abhisāñcetayati bhavāya vā vibhavāya vā.

They neither make a choice nor form an intention to continue existence or to end existence.

So anabhisāṅkharonto anabhisāñcetayanto bhavāya vā vibhavāya vā na kiñci loke upādiyati,

Because of this, they don't grasp at anything in the world.

anupādiyam na paritassati, aparitassam paccattamyeva parinibbāyati.

Not grasping, they're not anxious. Not being anxious, they personally become extinguished.

'Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyam, kataṃ karaṇīyam, nāparam itthattāyā'ti pajānāti.

They understand: 'Rebirth is ended, the spiritual journey has been completed, what had to be done has been done, there is no return to any state of existence.'

So sukhañce vedanam vedeti, 'sā aniccā'ti pajānāti,
'anajjhositā'ti pajānāti, 'anabhinanditā'ti pajānāti.

If they feel a pleasant feeling, they understand that it's impermanent, that they're not attached to it, and that they don't take pleasure in it.

Dukkhañce vedanam vedeti, 'sā aniccā'ti pajānāti, 'anajjhositā'ti pajānāti, 'anabhinanditā'ti pajānāti.

If they feel a painful feeling, they understand that it's impermanent, that they're not attached to it, and that they don't take pleasure in it.

Adukkhamasukhañce vedanañ vedeti, 'sā aniccā'ti pajānāti, 'anajjhositā'ti pajānāti, 'anabhinanditā'ti pajānāti.

If they feel a neutral feeling, they understand that it's impermanent, that they're not attached to it, and that they don't take pleasure in it.

So sukhañce vedanañ vedeti, visaṃyutto nañ vedeti;

If they feel a pleasant feeling, they feel it detached.

dukkhañce vedanañ vedeti, visaṃyutto nañ vedeti;

If they feel a painful feeling, they feel it detached.

adukkkhamasukhañce vedanañ vedeti, visaṃyutto nañ vedeti.

If they feel a neutral feeling, they feel it detached.

So kāyapariyantikañ vedanañ vedayamāno 'kāyapariyantikañ vedanañ vedayāmī'ti pajānāti, jīvitapariyantikañ vedanañ vedayamāno 'jīvitapariyantikañ vedanañ vedayāmī'ti pajānāti,

Feeling the end of the body approaching, they understand: 'I feel the end of the body approaching.' Feeling the end of life approaching, they understand: 'I feel the end of life approaching.'

'kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā uddhañ jīvitapariyādānā idheva sabbavedayitāni anabhinanditāni sītībhavissantī'ti pajānāti.

They understand: 'When my body breaks up and my life has come to an end, everything that's felt, since I no longer take pleasure in it, will become cool right here.'

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhu, telañca paṭicca vaṭṭiñca paṭicca telappadīpo jhāyati;

Suppose an oil lamp depended on oil and a wick to burn.

tasseva telassa ca vaṭṭiyā ca pariyādānā aññassa ca anupahārā anāhāro nibbāyati;

As the oil and the wick are used up, it would be extinguished due to lack of fuel.

evameva kho, bhikkhu, kāyapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayamāno ‘kāyapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayāmī’ti pajānāti, jīvitapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayamāno ‘jīvitapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayāmī’ti pajānāti,

In the same way, feeling the end of the body approaching, they understand: ‘I feel the end of the body approaching.’ Feeling the end of life approaching, they understand: ‘I feel the end of life approaching.’

‘kāyassa bhedā paramā maraṇā uddham jīvitapariyādānā idheva

They understand: ‘When my body breaks up and my life has come to an end, everything that’s felt, since I no longer take pleasure in it, will become cool right here.’

‘Don’t neglect wisdom, preserve truth, foster generosity, and train only for peace.’

iti yaṃ taṃ vuttaṃ, idametaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ.

That’s what I said, and this is why I said it.

‘Yattha ṭhitaṃ maññassavā nappavattanti, maññassave kho

‘They have four foundations, standing on which the streams of identification don’t flow. And when the streams of identification don’t flow, they’re called a sage at peace.’

iti kho panetaṃ vuttaṃ. Kiñcetaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ?

That's what I said, but why did I say it?

‘Asmī’ti, bhikkhu, maññitametaṃ, ‘ayamahasmī’ti maññitametaṃ, ‘bhavissan’ti maññitametaṃ, ‘na bhavissan’ti maññitametaṃ, ‘rūpī bhavissan’ti maññitametaṃ, ‘arūpī bhavissan’ti maññitametaṃ, ‘saññī bhavissan’ti maññitametaṃ, ‘asaññī bhavissan’ti maññitametaṃ, ‘nevasaññīnāsaññī bhavissan’ti maññitametaṃ.

These are all forms of identifying: ‘I am’, ‘I am this’, ‘I will be’, ‘I will not be’, ‘I will have form’, ‘I will be formless’, ‘I will be percipient’, ‘I will be non-percipient’, ‘I will be neither percipient nor non-percipient.’

Maññitaṃ, bhikkhu, rogo maññitaṃ gaṇḍo maññitaṃ sallaṃ.

For they have nothing which would cause them to be reborn. Not being reborn, how could they grow old? Not growing old, how could they die? Not dying, how could they be shaken? Not shaking, for what could they yearn?

‘Yattha ʘhitaṃ maññassavā nappavattanti, maññassave kho pana nappavattamāne muni santoti vuccatī’ti—

‘They have four foundations, standing on which the streams of identification don’t flow. And when the streams of identification don’t flow, they’re called a sage at peace.’

iti yaṃ taṃ vuttaṃ, idametaṃ paṭicca vuttaṃ.

That's what I said, and this is why I said it.

Imaṃ kho me tvaṃ, bhikkhu, saṅkhittena chadhātuvibhaṅgaṃ dhārehī”ti.

Mendicant, you should remember this brief analysis of the six elements.”

Atha kho āyasmā pukkusāti:

Then Venerable Pukkusāti thought,

“sathā kira me anuppatto, sugato kira me anuppatto, sammāsambuddho kira me anuppatto”ti utṭhāyāsanā ekaṃsaṃ cīvaraṃ katvā bhagavato pādesu sirasā nipatitvā bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

“It seems the Teacher has come to me! The Holy One has come to me! The fully awakened Buddha has come to me!” He got up from his seat, arranged his robe over one shoulder, bowed with his head to the Buddha's feet, and said, “accayo maṃ, bhante, accagamā yathābālaṃ yathāmūḷhaṃ yathākusalaṃ, yohaṃ bhagavantaṃ āvusovādena samudācaritabbaṃ amaññissaṃ.

“I have made a mistake, sir. It was foolish, stupid, and unskillful of me to presume to address the Buddha as ‘reverend’.

Tassa me, bhante, bhagavā accayaṃ accayato paṭiggaṇhātu āyatiṃ saṃvarāyā”ti.

Please, sir, accept my mistake for what it is, so I will restrain myself in future.”

“Taggha tvaṃ, bhikkhu, accayo accagamā yathābālaṃ yathāmūḷhaṃ yathākusalaṃ, yaṃ maṃ tvaṃ āvusovādena samudācaritabbaṃ amaññittha.

“Indeed, mendicant, you made a mistake. It was foolish, stupid, and unskillful of you to act in that way.

Yato ca kho tvaṃ, bhikkhu, accayaṃ accayato disvā yathādhammaṃ paṭikarosi, taṃ te mayaṃ paṭiggaṇhāma.

But since you have recognized your mistake for what it is, and have dealt with it properly, I accept it.

Vuddhihesā, bhikkhu, ariyassa vinaye yo accayaṃ accayato disvā yathādhammaṃ paṭikaroti, āyatim samvaram āpajjatī”ti.

For it is growth in the training of the noble one to recognize a mistake for what it is, deal with it properly, and commit to restraint in the future.”

“Labheyyāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato santike upasampadan”ti.

“Sir, may I receive the going forth, the ordination in the Buddha’s presence?”

“Paripuṇṇaṃ pana te, bhikkhu, pattacīvaran”ti?

“But mendicant, are your bowl and robes complete?”

“Na kho me, bhante, paripuṇṇaṃ pattacīvaran”ti.

“No, sir, they are not.”

“Na kho, bhikkhu, tathāgatā aparipuṇṇapattacīvaram

“The Realized Ones do not ordain those whose bowl and robes are incomplete.”

Atha kho āyasmā pukkusāti bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā

And then Venerable Pukkusāti approved and agreed with what the Buddha said. He got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before leaving.

Atha kho āyasmantaṃ pukkusātiṃ pattacīvarapariyesanaṃ

But while he was wandering in search of a bowl and robes, a stray cow took his life.

Atha kho sambahulā bhikkhū yena bhagavā

Then several mendicants went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him,

“yo so, bhante, pukkusāti nāma kulaputto bhagavatā saṅkhittena ovādena ovadito so kālaṅkato.

“Sir, the gentleman named Pukkusāti, who was advised in brief by the Buddha, has passed away.

Tassa kā gati, ko abhisamparāyo”ti?

Where has he been reborn in his next life?”

“Paṇḍito, bhikkhave, pukkusāti kulaputto paccapādi vihesesi.

“Mendicants, Pukkusāti was astute. He practiced in line with the teachings, and did not trouble me about the teachings.

Pukkusāti, bhikkhave, kulaputto pañcannaṃ orambhāgiyānaṃ

With the ending of the five lower fetters, he’s been reborn spontaneously and will become extinguished there, not liable to return from that world.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Dhātuvibhaṅgasuttaṃ niṭṭhitam dasamaṃ.

141. Saccavibhaṅgasutta The Analysis of the Truths

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṁ bārāṇasiyam viharati isipatane
migadāye.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Benares, in the deer park at Isipatana.

Tatra kho bhagavaṁ bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavaṁ etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Tathāgatena, bhikkhave, arahatā sammāsambuddhena bārāṇasiyam isipatane migadāye anuttaram dhammacakkaṁ pavattitaṁ appaṭivattiyam samaṇena vā brāhmaṇena vā devena vā mārena vā brahmunā vā kenaci vā lokasmiṁ, yadidaṁ—

“Near Benares, in the deer park at Isipatana, the Realized One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha rolled forth the supreme Wheel of Dhamma. And that wheel cannot be rolled back by any ascetic or brahmin or god or Māra or Brahmā or by anyone in the world.

catunnaṃ ariyasaccānaṃ ācikkhanā desanā paññāpanā

It is the teaching, advocating, establishing, clarifying, analyzing, and revealing of the four noble truths.

Katamesaṃ catunnaṃ?

What four?

Dukkhasa ariyasaccassa ācikkhanā desanā paññāpanā

It is the teaching, advocating, establishing, clarifying, analyzing, and revealing of the four noble truths.

Sevatha, bhikkhave, sāriputtamoggallāne;

Mendicants, you should cultivate friendship with Sāriputta and Moggallāna.

bhajatha, bhikkhave, sāriputtamoggallāne.

You should associate with Sāriputta and Moggallāna.

Paṇḍitā bhikkhū anuggāhakā sabrahmacārīnaṃ.

They're astute, and they support their spiritual companions.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, janetā, evaṃ sāriputto;

Sāriputta is just like the mother who gives birth, seyyathāpi jātassa āpādetā, evaṃ moggallāno.

while Moggallāna is like the one who raises the child.

Sāriputto, bhikkhave, sotāpattiphale vineti, moggallāno

Sāriputta guides people to the fruit of stream-entry, Moggallāna to the highest goal.

Sāriputto, bhikkhave, pahoti cattāri ariyasaccāni vitthārena

Sāriputta is able to teach, assert, establish, clarify, analyze, and reveal the four noble truths.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Idaṃ vatvāna sugato utthāyāsanā vihāraṃ pāvisi.

When he had spoken, the Holy One got up from his seat and entered his dwelling.

Tatra kho āyasmā sāriputto acirapakkantassa bhagavato
bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then soon after the Buddha left, Venerable Sāriputta said to the mendicants, “āvuso bhikkhave”ti.

“Reverends, mendicants!”

“Āvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato sāriputtassa paccassosum.

“Reverend,” they replied.

Āyasmā sāriputto etadavoca:

Sāriputta said this:

“Tathāgatena, āvuso, arahatā sammāsambuddhena

The noble truths of suffering, the origin of suffering, the cessation of suffering, and the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering.

Katamañcāvuso, dukkhaṃ ariyasaccaṃ?

And what is the noble truth of suffering?

Jātipi dukkhā, jarāpi dukkhā, maraṇampi dukkhaṃ, sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsāpi dukkhā, yampicchaṃ dukkhā.

Rebirth is suffering; old age is suffering; death is suffering; sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress are suffering; not getting what you wish for is suffering. In brief, the five grasping aggregates are suffering.

Katamā cāvuso, jāti?

And what is rebirth?

Yā tesam tesam sattānaṃ tamhi tamhi sattanikāye jāti sañjāti okkanti abhinibbatti khandhānaṃ pātubhāvo āyatanānaṃ paṭilābho,

The rebirth, inception, conception, reincarnation, manifestation of the aggregates, and acquisition of the sense fields of the various sentient beings in the various orders of sentient beings.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso: 'jāti'.

This is called rebirth.

Katamā cāvuso, jarā?

And what is old age?

Yā tesam tesam sattānaṃ tamhi tamhi sattanikāye jarā jīraṇatā khaṇḍiccaṃ pāliccaṃ valittacatā āyuno saṃhāni indriyānaṃ paripāko,

The old age, decrepitude, broken teeth, grey hair, wrinkly skin, diminished vitality, and failing faculties of the various sentient beings in the various orders of sentient beings.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso: ‘jarā’.

This is called old age.

Katamañcāvuso, maraṇaṃ?

And what is death?

Yā tesāṃ tesāṃ sattānaṃ tamhā tamhā sattanikāyā cuti cavanatā bhedo antaradhānaṃ maccu maraṇaṃ kālaṅkiriya khandhānaṃ bhedo kaḷavarassa nikkhepo jīvitindriyassupacchedo,

The passing away, perishing, disintegration, demise, mortality, death, decease, breaking up of the aggregates, laying to rest of the corpse, and cutting off of the life faculty of the various sentient beings in the various orders of sentient beings.

idaṃ vuccatāvuso: ‘maraṇaṃ’.

This is called death.

Katamo cāvuso, soko?

And what is sorrow?

Yo kho, āvuso, aññataraññatarena byasanena samannāgatassa aññataraññatarena dukkhadhammena phuṭṭhassa soko socanā socitattaṃ antosoko antoparisoko,

The sorrow, sorrowing, state of sorrow, inner sorrow, inner deep sorrow in someone who has undergone misfortune, who has experienced suffering.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso: ‘soko’.

This is called sorrow.

Katamo cāvuso, paridevo?

And what is lamentation?

Yo kho, āvuso, aññataraññatarena byasanena samannāgatassa aññataraññatarena dukkhadhammena phuṭṭhassa ādevo paridevo ādevanā paridevanā ādevitattaṃ paridevitattaṃ,

The wail, lament, wailing, lamenting, state of wailing and lamentation in someone who has undergone misfortune, who has experienced suffering.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso: ‘paridevo’.

This is called lamentation.

Katamañcāvuso, dukkhaṃ?

And what is pain?

Yaṃ kho, āvuso, kāyikaṃ dukkhaṃ kāyikaṃ asātaṃ kāyasamphassaṃ dukkhaṃ asātaṃ vedayitaṃ,

Physical pain, physical displeasure, the painful, unpleasant feeling that’s born from physical contact.

idaṃ vuccatāvuso: ‘dukkhaṃ’.

This is called pain.

Katamañcāvuso, domanassaṃ?

And what is sadness?

Yaṃ kho, āvuso, cetasikaṃ dukkhaṃ cetasikaṃ asātaṃ manosamphassaṃ dukkhaṃ asātaṃ vedayitaṃ,

Mental pain, mental displeasure, the painful, unpleasant feeling that’s born from mind contact.

idaṃ vuccatāvuso: ‘domanassaṃ’.

This is called sadness.

Katamo cāvuso, upāyāso?

And what is distress?

Yo kho, āvuso, aññataraññatarena byasanena samannāgatassa

aññataraññatarena dukkhadhammena phuṭṭhassa āyāso upāyāso āyāsitattaṃ upāyāsitattaṃ,

The stress, distress, state of stress and distress in someone who has undergone misfortune, who has experienced suffering.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso: ‘upāyāso’.

This is called distress.

Katamañcāvuso, yampicchaṃ na labhati tampi dukkhaṃ?

And what is ‘not getting what you wish for is suffering’?

Jātidhammānaṃ, āvuso, sattānaṃ evaṃ icchā uppajjati:

In sentient beings who are liable to be reborn, such a wish arises:

‘aho vata mayaṃ na jātidhammā assāma; na ca vata no jāti āgaccheyyā’ti.

‘Oh, if only we were not liable to be reborn! If only rebirth would not come to us!’

Na kho panetaṃ icchāya pattabbaṃ.

But you can’t get that by wishing.

Idampi: ‘yampicchaṃ na labhati tampi dukkhaṃ’.

This is: ‘not getting what you wish for is suffering.’

Jarādhammānaṃ, āvuso, sattānaṃ ...pe...

In sentient beings who are liable to grow old ...

byādhidhammānaṃ, āvuso, sattānaṃ ...

maraṇadhammānaṃ, āvuso, sattānaṃ ...

die ...

sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsadhammānaṃ, āvuso, sattānaṃ evaṃ icchā uppajjati:

experience sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress, such a wish arises:

‘aho vata mayaṃ na

sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsadhammā assāma; na ca vata no sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā āgaccheyyūn’ti.

‘Oh, if only we were not liable to experience sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress! If only sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress would not come to us!’

Na kho panetaṃ icchāya pattabbaṃ.

But you can't get that by wishing.

Idampi: 'yampicchaṃ na labhati tampi dukkhaṃ'.

This is: 'not getting what you wish for is suffering.'

Katame cāvuso, saṅkhittena pañcupādānakkhandhā dukkhā?

And what is 'in brief, the five grasping aggregates are suffering'?

Seyyathidaṃ—rūpupādānakkhandho, vedanupādānakkhandho, saññupādānakkhandho, saṅkhārupādānakkhandho, viññāṇupādānakkhandho.

They are the grasping aggregates that consist of form, feeling, perception, choices, and consciousness.

Ime vuccantāvuso: 'saṅkhittena pañcupādānakkhandhā dukkhā'.

This is called 'in brief, the five grasping aggregates are suffering.'

Idaṃ vuccatāvuso: 'dukkhaṃ ariyasaccaṃ'.

This is called the noble truth of suffering.

Katamañcāvuso, dukkhasamudayaṃ ariyasaccaṃ?

And what is the noble truth of the origin of suffering?

Yāyaṃ taṇhā ponobbhavikā nandīrāgasahagatā tatratatrābhinandinī, seyyathidaṃ—

It's the craving that leads to future rebirth, mixed up with relishing and greed, looking for enjoyment in various different realms. That is, kāmataṇhā bhavataṇhā vibhavataṇhā, craving for sensual pleasures, craving to continue existence, and craving to end existence.

idaṃ vuccatāvuso: 'dukkhasamudayaṃ ariyasaccaṃ'.

This is called the noble truth of the origin of suffering.

Katamañcāvuso, dukkhanirodhaṃ ariyasaccaṃ?

And what is the noble truth of the cessation of suffering?

Yo tassāyeva taṇhāya asesavirāganirodho cāgo paṭinissaggo mutti anālayo,

It's the fading away and cessation of that very same craving with nothing left over; giving it away, letting it go, releasing it, and not adhering to it.

idaṃ vuccatāvuso: 'dukkhanirodhaṃ ariyasaccaṃ'.

This is called the noble truth of the cessation of suffering.

Katamañcāvuso, dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā ariyasaccaṃ?

And what is the noble truth of the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering?

Ayameva ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo, seyyathidaṃ—

It is simply this noble eightfold path, that is:

sammādiṭṭhi, sammāsaṅkappo, sammāvācā, sammākammanto, sammāājīvo, sammāvāyāmo, sammāsati, sammāsamādhi.

Katamā cāvuso, sammādiṭṭhi?

And what is right view?

Yaṃ kho, āvuso, dukkhe ñāṇaṃ, dukkhasamudaye ñāṇaṃ, dukkhanirodhe ñāṇaṃ, dukkhanirodhagāminiyā paṭipadāya ñāṇaṃ,

Knowing about suffering, the origin of suffering, the cessation of suffering, and the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso: 'sammādiṭṭhi'.

This is called right view.

Katamo cāvuso, sammāsaṅkappo?

And what is right thought?

Nekkhammasaṅkappo, abyāpādasāṅkappo, avihimsāsāṅkappo,

Thoughts of renunciation, good will, and harmlessness.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso: ‘sammāsaṅkappo’.

This is called right thought.

Katamā cāvuso, sammāvācā?

And what is right speech?

Musāvādā veramaṇī, pisuṇāya vācāya veramaṇī, pharusāya vācāya veramaṇī, samphappalāpā veramaṇī,

Refraining from lying, divisive speech, harsh speech, and talking nonsense.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso: ‘sammāvācā’.

This is called right speech.

Katamo cāvuso, sammākammanto?

And what is right action?

Pāṇātipātā veramaṇī, adinnādānā veramaṇī, kāmesumicchācārā veramaṇī,

Refraining from killing living creatures, stealing, and sexual misconduct.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso: ‘sammākammanto’.

This is called right action.

Katamo cāvuso, sammāājīvo?

And what is right livelihood?

Idhāvuso, ariyasāvako micchāājīvaṃ pahāya sammāājīvena jīvikaṃ kappeti,

It's when a noble disciple gives up wrong livelihood and earns a living by right livelihood.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso: ‘sammāājīvo’.

This is called right livelihood.

Katamo cāvuso, sammāvāyāmo?

And what is right effort?

Idhāvuso, bhikkhu anuppannānaṃ pāpakānaṃ akusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ anuppādāya chandaṃ janeti vāyamati vīriyaṃ ārabhati cittaṃ paggaṇhāti padahati,

It's when a mendicant generates enthusiasm, tries, makes an effort, exerts the mind, and strives so that bad, unskillful qualities don't arise.

uppannānaṃ pāpakānaṃ akusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ pahānāya chandaṃ janeti vāyamati vīriyaṃ ārabhati cittaṃ paggaṇhāti padahati,

They generate enthusiasm, try, make an effort, exert the mind, and strive so that bad, unskillful qualities that have arisen are given up.

anuppannānaṃ kusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ uppādāya chandaṃ janeti vāyamati vīriyaṃ ārabhati cittaṃ paggaṇhāti padahati,

They generate enthusiasm, try, make an effort, exert the mind, and strive so that skillful qualities arise.

uppannānaṃ kusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ ṭhitiyā asamosāya bhīyyobhāvāya vepullāya bhāvanāya pāripūriyā chandaṃ janeti vāyamati vīriyaṃ ārabhati cittaṃ paggaṇhāti padahati,

They generate enthusiasm, try, make an effort, exert the mind, and strive so that skillful qualities that have arisen remain, are not lost, but increase, mature, and are completed by development.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso: 'sammāvāyāmo'.

This is called right effort.

Katamā cāvuso, sammāsati?

And what is right mindfulness?

Idhāvuso, bhikkhu kāye kāyānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ.

It's when a mendicant meditates by observing an aspect of the body—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

Vedanāsu vedanānupassī viharati ...pe...

They meditate observing an aspect of feelings ...

citte cittānupassī viharati ...

mind ...

dhammesu dhammānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā
vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ,

principles—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso: ‘sammāsati’.

This is called right mindfulness.

Katamo cāvuso, sammāsamādhī?

And what is right immersion?

Idhāvuso, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi
dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ
paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati,

It's when a mendicant, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhattaṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso
ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ
dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati,

As the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, they enter and remain in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca viharati ...pe... tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ ...
pe...

And with the fading away of rapture, they enter and remain in the third absorption, where they meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, ‘Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.’

catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati,

Giving up pleasure and pain, and ending former happiness and sadness, they enter and remain in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso: ‘sammāsamādhī’.

This is called right immersion.

Idaṃ vuccatāvuso: ‘dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā ariyasaccaṃ’.

This is called the noble truth of the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering.

Tathāgatenāvuso, arahatā sammāsambuddhena bārāṇasiyaṃ isipatane migadāye anuttaraṃ dhammacakkaṃ pavattitaṃ appaṭivattiyaṃ samaṇena vā brāhmaṇena vā devena vā mārena vā brahmunā vā kenaci vā lokasmiṃ, yadidaṃ—

Near Benares, in the deer park at Isipatana, the Realized One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha rolled forth the supreme Wheel of Dhamma. And that wheel cannot be rolled back by any ascetic or brahmin or god or Māra or Brahmā or by anyone in the world.

imesaṃ catunnaṃ ariyasaccānaṃ ācikkhanā desanā paññāpanā paṭṭhapanā vivaraṇā vibhajanā uttānīkamman”ti.

It is the teaching, advocating, establishing, clarifying, analyzing, and revealing of the four noble truths.”

Idamavoca āyasmā sāriputto.

That’s what Venerable Sāriputta said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū āyasmato sāriputtassa bhāsitaṃ abhinandunti.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what Sāriputta said.

Saccavibhaṅgasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ ekādasamaṃ.

142. Dakkhiṇāvibhaṅgasutta The Analysis of Religious Donations

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava sakkesu viharati kapilavatthusmim nigrodharam.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Sakyans, near Kapilavatthu in the Banyan Tree Monastery.

Atha kho mahapajapati gotami navam dussayugam adaya yena bhagava tenupasankami; upasankamitva bhagavantam abhivadetva ekamantam nisidi. Ekamantam nisinnā kho mahapajapati gotami bhagavantam etadvoca:

Then Mahāpajāpati Gotamī approached the Buddha bringing a new pair of garments. She bowed, sat down to one side, and said to the Buddha,

“idam me, bhante, navam dussayugam bhagavantam uddissa samam kantom samam vayitam.

“Sir, I have spun and woven this new pair of garments specially for the Buddha.

Tam me, bhante, bhagava patigganhatu anukampam upadaya”ti.

May the Buddha please accept this from me out of compassion.”

Evam vutte, bhagava mahapajapatim gotamim etadvoca:

When she said this, the Buddha said to her,

“saṅghe, gotami, dehi.

“Give it to the Saṅgha, Gotamī.

Saṅghe te dinne ahañceva pūjito bhavissāmi saṅgho cā”ti.

When you give to the Saṅgha, both the Saṅgha and I will be honored.”

Dutiyampi kho mahāpajāpati gotamī bhagavantam etadavoca:

For a second time ...

“idaṃ me, bhante, navam dussayugam bhagavantam uddissa sāmam kantaṃ sāmam vāyitaṃ.

Taṃ me, bhante, bhagavā paṭiggaṇhātu anukampaṃ upādāyā”ti.

Dutiyampi kho bhagavā mahāpajāpatim gotamim etadavoca:

“saṅghe, gotami, dehi.

Saṅghe te dinne ahañceva pūjito bhavissāmi saṅgho cā”ti.

Tatīyampi kho mahāpajāpati gotamī bhagavantam etadavoca:

For a third time, Mahāpajāpatī Gotamī said to the Buddha,

“idaṃ me, bhante, navam dussayugam bhagavantam uddissa sāmam kantaṃ sāmam vāyitaṃ.

“Sir, I have spun and woven this new pair of garments specially for the Buddha.

Taṃ me, bhante, bhagavā paṭiggaṇhātu anukampaṃ upādāyā”ti.

May the Buddha please accept this from me out of compassion.”

Tatīyampi kho bhagavā mahāpajāpatim gotamim etadavoca:

And for a third time, the Buddha said to her,

“saṅghe, gotami, dehi.

“Give it to the Saṅgha, Gotamī.

Saṅghe te dinne ahañceva pūjito bhavissāmi saṅgho cā”ti.

When you give to the Saṅgha, both the Saṅgha and I will be honored.”

Evam vutte, āyasmā ānando bhagavantam etadavoca:

When he said this, Venerable Ānanda said to the Buddha, “paṭiggaṇhātu, bhante, bhagavā mahāpajāpatiyā gotamiyā navam dussayugam.

“Sir, please accept the new pair of garments from Mahāpajāpatī Gotamī.

Bahūpakārā, bhante, mahāpajāpati gotamī bhagavato mātucchā āpādikā posikā khīrassa dāyikā;

Sir, Mahāpajāpatī was very helpful to the Buddha. As his aunt, she raised him, nurtured him, and gave him her milk.

bhagavantam janettiyā kālaṅkatāya thaññam pāyesi.

When the Buddha’s birth mother passed away, she nurtured him at her own breast.

Bhagavāpi, bhante, bahūpakāro mahāpajāpatiyā gotamiyā.

And the Buddha has been very helpful to Mahāpajāpatī.

Bhagavantam, bhante, āgamma mahāpajāpati gotamī buddham saraṇam gatā, dhammam saraṇam gatā, saṅgham saraṇam gatā.

It is owing to the Buddha that Mahāpajāpatī has gone for refuge to the Buddha, the teaching, and the Saṅgha.

It's owing to the Buddha that she is free of doubt regarding suffering, its origin, its cessation, and the practice that leads to its cessation.

Bhagavāpi, bhante, bahūpakāro mahāpajāpatiyā gotamiyā”ti.
The Buddha has been very helpful to Mahāpajāpatī.”

“Evametaṃ, ānanda.

Cuddasa kho panimānanda, pāṭipuggalikā dakkhiṇā.

Ānanda, there are these fourteen religious donations to individuals.

Katamā cuddasa?

What fourteen?

Tathāgate arahante sammāsambuddhe dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift to the Realized One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha.

ayaṃ paṭhamā pāṭipuggalikā dakkhiṇā.

This is the first religious donation to an individual.

Paccekasambuddhe dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift to a Buddha awakened for themselves.

ayaṃ dutiyā pāṭipuggalikā dakkhiṇā.

This is the second religious donation to an individual.

Tathāgatasāvake arahante dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift to a perfected one.

ayaṃ tatiyā pāṭipuggalikā dakkhiṇā.

This is the third religious donation to an individual.

Arahattaphalāsacchikiriyāya paṭipanne dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift to someone practicing to realize the fruit of perfection.

ayaṃ catutthī pāṭipuggalikā dakkhiṇā.

This is the fourth religious donation to an individual.

Anāgāmissa dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift to a non-returner.

ayaṃ pañcamī pāṭipuggalikā dakkhiṇā.

This is the fifth religious donation to an individual.

Anāgāmiphālāsacchikiriyāya paṭipanne dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift to someone practicing to realize the fruit of non-return.

ayaṃ chaṭṭhī pāṭipuggalikā dakkhiṇā.

This is the sixth religious donation to an individual.

Sakadāgāmissa dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift to a once-returner.

ayaṃ sattamī paṭipuggalikā dakkhiṇā.

This is the seventh religious donation to an individual.

Sakadāgāmi phalasaṅgahikāya paṭipanne dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift to someone practicing to realize the fruit of once-return.

ayaṃ aṭṭhamī paṭipuggalikā dakkhiṇā.

This is the eighth religious donation to an individual.

Sotāpanne dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift to a stream-enterer.

ayaṃ navamī paṭipuggalikā dakkhiṇā.

This is the ninth religious donation to an individual.

Sotāpatti phalasaṅgahikāya paṭipanne dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift to someone practicing to realize the fruit of stream-entry.

ayaṃ dasamī paṭipuggalikā dakkhiṇā.

This is the tenth religious donation to an individual.

Bāhirake kāmesu vītarāge dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift to someone outside of Buddhism who is free of sensual desire.

ayaṃ ekādasamī paṭipuggalikā dakkhiṇā.

This is the eleventh religious donation to an individual.

Puthujjanasīlavante dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift to an ordinary person who has good ethical conduct.

ayaṃ dvādasamī paṭipuggalikā dakkhiṇā.

This is the twelfth religious donation to an individual.

Puthujjanadussīle dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift to an ordinary person who has bad ethical conduct.

ayaṃ terasamī paṭipuggalikā dakkhiṇā.

This is the thirteenth religious donation to an individual.

Tiracchānagate dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift to an animal.

ayaṃ cuddasamī paṭipuggalikā dakkhiṇāti.

This is the fourteenth religious donation to an individual.

Tatrānanda, tiracchānagate dānaṃ datvā sataguṇā dakkhiṇā paṭikaṅkhitabbā, puthujjanadussīle dānaṃ datvā sahasaguṇā dakkhiṇā paṭikaṅkhitabbā, puthujjanasīlavante dānaṃ datvā satahasaguṇā dakkhiṇā paṭikaṅkhitabbā, bāhirake kāmesu vītarāge dānaṃ datvā koṭisatasahasaguṇā dakkhiṇā paṭikaṅkhitabbā, sotāpattiphalasacchikiriyāya paṭipanne dānaṃ datvā asaṅkheyyā appameyyā dakkhiṇā paṭikaṅkhitabbā, ko pana vādo sotāpanne, ko pana vādo sakadāgāmiphalasacchikiriyāya paṭipanne, ko pana vādo sakadāgāmissa, ko pana vādo anāgāmiphalasacchikiriyāya paṭipanne, ko pana vādo anāgāmissa, ko pana vādo arahattaphalasacchikiriyāya paṭipanne, ko pana vādo arahante, ko pana vādo paccekasambuddhe, ko pana vādo tathāgate arahante sammāsambuddhe.

Now, Ānanda, gifts to the following persons may be expected to yield the following returns. To an animal, a hundred times. To an unethical ordinary person, a thousand. To an ethical ordinary person, a hundred thousand. To an outsider free of sensual desire, 10,000,000,000. But a gift to someone practicing to realize the fruit of stream-entry may be expected to yield incalculable, immeasurable returns. How much more so a gift to a stream-enterer, someone practicing to realize the fruit of once-return, a once-returner, someone practicing to realize the fruit of non-return, a non-returner, someone practicing to realize the fruit of perfection, a perfected one, or a Buddha awakened for themselves? How much more so a Realized One, a perfected one, a fully awakened Buddha?

Satta kho panimānanda, saṅghagatā dakkhiṇā.

But there are, Ānanda, seven religious donations bestowed on a Saṅgha.

Katamā satta?

What seven?

Buddhappamukhe ubhatoṣaṅghe dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift to the communities of both monks and nuns headed by the Buddha.

ayaṃ paṭhamā saṅghagatā dakkhiṇā.

This is the first religious donation bestowed on a Saṅgha.

Tathāgate parinibbute ubhatoṣaṅghe dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift to the communities of both monks and nuns after the Buddha has finally become extinguished.

ayaṃ dutiyā saṅghagatā dakkhiṇā.

This is the second religious donation bestowed on a Saṅgha.

Bhikkhusaṅghe dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift to the Saṅgha of monks.

ayaṃ tatiyā saṅghagatā dakkhiṇā.

This is the third religious donation bestowed on a Saṅgha.

Bhikkhunisaṅghe dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift to the Saṅgha of nuns.

ayaṃ catutthī saṅghagatā dakkhiṇā.

This is the fourth religious donation bestowed on a Saṅgha.

‘Ettakā me bhikkhū ca bhikkhuniyo ca saṅghato uddissathā’ti dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift, thinking: ‘Appoint this many monks and nuns for me from the Saṅgha.’

ayaṃ pañcamī saṅghagatā dakkhiṇā.

This is the fifth religious donation bestowed on a Saṅgha.

‘Ettakā me bhikkhū saṅghato uddissathā’ti dānaṃ deti—

One gives a gift, thinking: ‘Appoint this many monks for me from the Saṅgha.’

ayaṃ chaṭṭhī saṅghagatā dakkhiṇā.

This is the sixth religious donation bestowed on a Saṅgha.

‘Ettakā me bhikkhuniyo saṅghato uddissathā’ti dānaṃ deti—
One gives a gift, thinking: ‘Appoint this many nuns for me from the Saṅgha.’

ayaṃ sattamī saṅhagatā dakkhiṇā.

This is the seventh religious donation bestowed on a Saṅgha.

Bhavissanti kho panānanda, anāgamaddhānaṃ gotrabhuno kāśāvakaṅṭhā dussīlā pāpadhammā.

In times to come there will be members of the spiritual family merely by virtue of wearing ocher cloth around their necks; but they are unethical and of bad character.

Tesu dussīlesu saṅghaṃ uddissa dānaṃ dassanti.

People will give gifts to those unethical people in the name of the Saṅgha.

Tadāpāhaṃ, ānanda, saṅhagataṃ dakkhiṇaṃ asaṅkheyyaṃ appameyyaṃ vadāmi.

Even then, I say, a religious donation bestowed on the Saṅgha is incalculable and immeasurable.

Na tvevāhaṃ, ānanda, kenaci pariyāyena saṅhagatāya dakkhiṇāya paṭipuggalikaṃ dānaṃ mahapphalataraṃ vadāmi.

But I say that there is no way a personal offering can be more fruitful than one bestowed on a Saṅgha.

Catasso kho imā, ānanda, dakkhiṇā visuddhiyo.

Ānanda, there are these four ways of purifying a religious donation.

Katamā catasso?

What four?

Atthānanda, dakkhiṇā dāyakato visujjhati no paṭiggāhakato.

There’s a religious donation that’s purified by the giver, not the recipient.

Atthānanda, dakkhiṇā paṭiggāhakato visujjhati no dāyakato.

There's a religious donation that's purified by the recipient, not the giver.

Atthānanda, dakkhiṇā neva dāyakato visujjhati no paṭiggāhakato.

There's a religious donation that's purified by neither the giver nor the recipient.

Atthānanda, dakkhiṇā dāyakato ceva visujjhati paṭiggāhakato ca.

There's a religious donation that's purified by both the giver and the recipient.

Kathañcānanda, dakkhiṇā dāyakato visujjhati no paṭiggāhakato?

And how is a religious donation purified by the giver, not the recipient?

Idhānanda, dāyako hoti sīlavā kalyāṇadhammo, paṭiggāhakā honti dussīlā pāpadhammā—

It's when the giver is ethical, of good character, but the recipient is unethical, of bad character.

evaṃ kho, ānanda, dakkhiṇā dāyakato visujjhati no paṭiggāhakato.

Kathañcānanda, dakkhiṇā paṭiggāhakato visujjhati no dāyakato?

And how is a religious donation purified by the recipient, not the giver?

Idhānanda, dāyako hoti dussīlo pāpadhammo, paṭiggāhakā honti sīlavanto kalyāṇadhammā—

It's when the giver is unethical, of bad character, but the recipient is ethical, of good character.

evaṃ kho, ānanda, dakkhiṇā paṭiggāhakato visujjhati no dāyakato.

Kathañcānanda, dakkhiṇā neva dāyakato visujjhati no paṭiggāhakato?

And how is a religious donation purified by neither the giver nor the recipient?

Idhānanda, dāyako ca hoti dussīlo pāpadhammo, paṭiggāhakā ca honti dussilā pāpadhammā—

It's when both the giver and the recipient are unethical, of bad character.

evaṃ kho, ānanda, dakkhiṇā neva dāyakato visujjhati no paṭiggāhakato.

Kathañcānanda, dakkhiṇā dāyakato ceva visujjhati paṭiggāhakato ca?

And how is a religious donation purified by both the giver and the recipient?

Idhānanda, dāyako ca hoti sīlavā kalyāṇadhammo, paṭiggāhakā ca honti sīlavanto kalyāṇadhammā—

It's when both the giver and the recipient are ethical, of good character.

evaṃ kho, ānanda, dakkhiṇā dāyakato ceva visujjhati paṭiggāhakato ca.

Imā kho, ānanda, catasso dakkhiṇā visuddhiyo”ti.

These are the four ways of purifying a religious donation.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Idaṃ vatvāna sugato athāparaṃ etadavoca satthā:

Then the Holy One, the Teacher, went on to say:

“Yo sīlavā dussīlesu dadāti dānaṃ,

“When an ethical person with trusting heart

Dhammena laddhaṃ supasannacitto;

gives a proper gift to unethical persons,

Abhisaddhaṃ kammaphalaṃ uḷāraṃ,
trusting in the ample fruit of deeds,

Sā dakkhiṇā dāyakato visujjhati.
that offering is purified by the giver.

Yo dussīlo sīlavantesu dadāti dānaṃ,
When an unethical and untrusting person,

Adhammena laddhaṃ appasannacitto;
gives an improper gift to ethical persons,

Anabhisaddhaṃ kammaphalaṃ uḷāraṃ,
not trusting in the ample fruit of deeds,

Sā dakkhiṇā paṭiggāhakato visujjhati.
that offering is purified by the receivers.

Yo dussīlo dussīlesu dadāti dānaṃ,
When an unethical and untrusting person,

Adhammena laddhaṃ appasannacitto;
gives an improper gift to unethical persons,

Anabhisaddhaṃ kammaphalaṃ uḷāraṃ,
not trusting in the ample fruit of deeds,

Na taṃ dānaṃ vipulapphalanti brūmi.
I declare that gift is not very fruitful.

Yo sīlavā sīlavantesu dadāti dānaṃ,
When an ethical person with trusting heart

Dhammena laddhaṃ supasannacitto;
gives a proper gift to ethical persons,

Abhisaddhaṃ kammaphalaṃ uḷāraṃ,
trusting in the ample fruit of deeds,

Taṃ ve dānaṃ vipulapphalanti brūmi.
I declare that gift is abundantly fruitful.

Yo vītarāgo vītarāgesu dadāti dānaṃ,
But when a passionless one gives to the passionless

Dhammena laddhaṃ supasannacitto;
a proper gift with trusting heart,

Abhisaddahaṃ kammaphalaṃ uḷāraṃ,
trusting in the ample fruit of deeds,

Taṃ ve dānaṃ āmisadānānamaggaṃ”ti.
that’s truly the best of material gifts.”

5. The Division of the Sixfold Base Saḷāyatanavagga

143. Anāthapiṇḍikovādasutta Advice to Anāthapiṇḍika

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā sāvattiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta's Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena anāthapiṇḍiko gahapati ābādhiko hoti dukkhito bāḥgilāno.

Now at that time the householder Anāthapiṇḍika was sick, suffering, gravely ill.

Atha kho anāthapiṇḍiko gahapati aññataram purisam āmantesi:

Then he addressed a man,

“ehi tvam, ambho purisa, yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkama; upasaṅkamtvā mama vacanena bhagavato pāde sirasā
vandāhi:

“Please, mister, go to the Buddha, and in my name bow with your head to his feet. Say to him:

‘anāthapiṇḍiko, bhante, gahapati ābādhiko dukkhito bāḥgilāno.

‘Sir, the householder Anāthapiṇḍika is sick, suffering, gravely ill.

So bhagavato pāde sirasā vandatī’ti.

He bows with his head to your feet.’

Yena cāyasmā sāriputto tenupasaṅkama; upasaṅkamtivā mama vacanena āyasmato sāriputtassa pāde sirasā vandāhi:

Then go to Venerable Sāriputta, and in my name bow with your head to his feet. Say to him:

‘anāthapiṇḍiko, bhante, gahapati ābādhiko dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.

‘Sir, the householder Anāthapiṇḍika is sick, suffering, gravely ill.

So āyasmato sāriputtassa pāde sirasā vandatī’ti.

He bows with his head to your feet.’

Evañca vadehi:

And then say:

‘sādhu kira, bhante, āyasmā sāriputto yena anāthapiṇḍikassa gahapatissa nivesanaṃ tenupasaṅkamatu anukampaṃ upādāyā’”ti.

‘Sir, please visit him at his home out of compassion.’”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho so puriso anāthapiṇḍikassa gahapatissa paṭissutvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho so puriso bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

“Yes, sir,” that man replied. He did as Anāthapiṇḍika asked.

“anāthapiṇḍiko, bhante, gahapati ābādhiko dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.

So bhagavato pāde sirasā vandatī’”ti.

Yena cāyasmā sāriputto tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ sāriputtaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho so puriso āyasmantaṃ sāriputtaṃ etadavoca:

“anāthapiṇḍiko, bhante, gahapati ābādhiko dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.

So āyasmato sāriputtassa pāde sirasā vandati;

evañca vadeti:

‘sādhu kira, bhante, āyasmā sārīputto yena anāthapiṇḍikassa gahapatissa nivesanaṃ tenupasaṅkamatu anukampaṃ upādāyā’”ti.

Adhivāsesi kho āyasmā sārīputto tuṅhībhāvena.

Sārīputta consented in silence.

Atha kho āyasmā sārīputto nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya āyasmatā ānandena pacchāsamaṇena yena anāthapiṇḍikassa gahapatissa nivesanaṃ tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā paññatte āsane nisīdi. Nisajja kho āyasmā sārīputto anāthapiṇḍikaṃ gahapatiṃ etadavoca:

Then Venerable Sārīputta robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, went with Venerable Ānanda as his second monk to Anāthapiṇḍika’s home. He sat down on the seat spread out, and said to Anāthapiṇḍika, “kacci te, gahapati, khamanīyaṃ, kacci yāpanīyaṃ? Kacci te dukkhā vedanā paṭikkamanti, no abhikkamanti; paṭikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no abhikkamo””ti?

“Householder, I hope you’re keeping well; I hope you’re alright. And I hope the pain is fading, not growing, that its fading is evident, not its growing.”

“Na me, bhante sārīputta, khamanīyaṃ na yāpanīyaṃ. Bāḷhā me dukkhā vedanā abhikkamanti, no paṭikkamanti; abhikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no paṭikkamo.

“I’m not keeping well, Master Sārīputta, I’m not alright. The pain is terrible and growing, not fading, its growing, not its fading, is evident.

Seyyathāpi, bhante sārīputta, balavā puriso tiṅhena sikharena muddhani abhimattheyya; evameva kho me, bhante sārīputta, adhimattā vātā muddhani ūhananti.

The winds piercing my head are so severe, it feels like a strong man drilling into my head with a sharp point.

Na me, bhante sārīputta, khamanīyaṃ na yāpanīyaṃ. Bāḷhā me dukkhā vedanā abhikkamanti, no paṭikkamanti; abhikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no paṭikkamo.

Seyyathāpi, bhante sārīputta, balavā puriso daḷhena varattakhaṇḍena sīse sīsaveṭṭhaṃ dadeyya; evameva kho me, bhante sārīputta, adhimattā sīse sīsavedanā.

The pain in my head is so severe, it feels like a strong man tightening a tough leather strap around my head.

Na me, bhante sārīputta, khamanīyaṃ na yāpanīyaṃ. Bāḷhā me dukkhā vedanā abhikkamanti, no paṭikkamanti; abhikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no paṭikkamo.

Seyyathāpi, bhante sārīputta, dakkho goghātako vā goghātakantevāsī vā tiṇhena govikantanena kucchiṃ parikanteyya; evameva kho me, bhante sārīputta, adhimattā vātā kucchiṃ parikantanti.

The winds piercing my belly are so severe, it feels like a deft butcher or their apprentice is slicing my belly open with a meat cleaver.

Na me, bhante sārīputta, khamanīyaṃ na yāpanīyaṃ. Bāḷhā me dukkhā vedanā abhikkamanti, no paṭikkamanti; abhikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no paṭikkamo.

Seyyathāpi, bhante sārīputta, dve balavanto purisā dubbalataraṃ purisaṃ nānābāhāsu gahetvā aṅgārakāsuyā santāpeyyuṃ, samparītāpeyyuṃ; evameva kho me, bhante sārīputta, adhimatto kāyasmīṃ ḍāho.

The burning in my body is so severe, it feels like two strong men grabbing a weaker man by the arms to burn and scorch him on a pit of glowing coals. That's how severe the burning is in my body.

Na me, bhante sārīputta, khamanīyaṃ na yāpanīyaṃ. Bāḷhā me dukkhā vedanā abhikkamanti, no paṭikkamanti; abhikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no paṭikkamo”ti.

I'm not keeping well, Master Sārīputta, I'm not alright. The pain is terrible and growing, not fading, its growing, not its fading, is evident.”

Evaṃ vutte, anāthapiṇḍiko gahapati parodi, assūni pavattesi.

When he said this, Anāthapiṇḍika cried and burst out in tears.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando anāthapiṇḍikaṃ gahapatiṃ etadavoca:

Venerable Ānanda said to him,

“olīyasi kho tvaṃ, gahapati, saṃsīdasi kho tvaṃ, gahapatī”ti?

“Are you failing, householder? Are you fading, householder?”

“Nāhaṃ, bhante ānanda, olīyāmi, napi saṃsīdāmi;

“No, sir.

api ca me dīgharattaṃ satthā payirupāsito manobhāvanīyā ca bhikkhū;

But for a long time I have paid homage to the Buddha and the esteemed mendicants.

na ca me evarūpī dhammī kathā sutapubbā”ti.

Yet I have never before heard such a Dhamma talk.”

“Na kho, gahapati, gihīnaṃ odātavasanānaṃ evarūpī dhammī kathā paṭibhāti; “Householder, it does not occur to us to teach such a Dhamma talk to white-clothed laypeople.

pabbajitānaṃ kho, gahapati, evarūpī dhammī kathā paṭibhātī”ti.
Rather, we teach like this to those gone forth.”

“Tena hi, bhante sārīputta, gihīnampi odātavasanānaṃ evarūpī dhammī kathā paṭibhātu.

“Well then, Master Sārīputta, let it occur to you to teach such a Dhamma talk to white-clothed laypeople as well!

Santi hi, bhante, kulaputtā apparajakkhajātikā, assavanatā dhammassa parihāyanti;

There are gentlemen with little dust in their eyes. They’re in decline because they haven’t heard the teaching.

bhavissanti dhammassa aññātāro”ti.

There will be those who understand the teaching!”

Atha kho āyasmā ca sārīputto āyasmā ca ānando anāthapiṇḍikaṃ gahapatiṃ iminā ovādena ovaditvā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkamīṃsu.

And when the venerables Sārīputta and Ānanda had given the householder Anāthapiṇḍika this advice they got up from their seat and left.

Atha kho anāthapiṇḍiko gahapati, acirapakkante āyasmante ca sārīputte āyasmante ca ānande, kālamakāsi tusitaṃ kāyaṃ upapajji.

Not long after they had left, Anāthapiṇḍika passed away and was reborn in the host of Joyful Gods.

Atha kho anāthapiṇḍiko devaputto abhikkantāya rattiyā abhikkantavaṇṇo kevalakappaṃ jetavanaṃ obhāsetvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi.

Then, late at night, the glorious god Anāthapiṇḍika, lighting up the entire Jeta's Grove, went up to the Buddha, bowed, stood to one side,

Ekamantaṃ t̥hito kho anāthapiṇḍiko devaputto bhagavantaṃ gāthāhi ajjhabhāsi:

and addressed the Buddha in verse:

“Idañhi taṃ jetavanaṃ,

“This is indeed that Jeta's Grove, isisaṅghanisevitaṃ;

frequented by the Saṅgha of hermits,

Āvutthaṃ dhammarājena, where the King of Dhamma stayed:

pītisañjananaṃ mama.

it brings me joy!

Kammaṃ vijjā ca dhammo ca,

Deeds, knowledge, and principle;

sīlaṃ jīvitamuttamaṃ;

ethical conduct, an excellent livelihood;

Etena maccā sujjhanti,

by these are mortals purified,

na gottena dhanena vā.

not by clan or wealth.

Tasmā hi paṇḍito poso,

That's why an astute person,

sampassaṃ atthamattano;

seeing what's good for themselves,

Yoniso vicine dhammaṃ,

would examine the teaching rationally,

evaṃ tattha visujjhati.
and thus be purified in it.

Sāriputtova paññāya, Sāriputta has true wisdom,

sīlena upasamena ca;
ethics, and also peace.

Yopi pāraṅgato bhikkhu,
Any mendicant who has crossed over etāvaparamo siyā”ti.

can at best equal him.”

Idamavoca anāthapiṇḍiko devaputto.
This is what the god Anāthapiṇḍika said,

Samanuñño satthā ahosi.
and the teacher approved.

Atha kho anāthapiṇḍiko devaputto:
Then the god Anāthapiṇḍika,

“samanuñño me satthā”ti bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā tatthevantaradhāyi.

knowing that the teacher approved, bowed and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before vanishing right there.

Atha kho bhagavā tassā rattiyā accayena bhikkhū āmantesi:
Then, when the night had passed, the Buddha told the mendicants all that had happened.

“imaṃ, bhikkhave, rattiṃ aññataro devaputto abhikkantāya rattiyā abhikkantavaṇṇo kevalakappaṃ jetavanaṃ obhāsetvā yenāhaṃ tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā maṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi.

Ekamantaṃ ṭhito kho so devaputto maṃ gāthāhi ajjhabhāsi:

‘Idañhi taṃ jetavanaṃ,

Kammaṃ vijjā ca dhammo ca,
sīlaṃ jīvitamuttamaṃ;
Etena maccā sujjhanti,
na gottena dhanena vā.

Tasmā hi paṇḍito poso,
sampaṣsaṃ atthamattano;
Yoniso vicine dhammaṃ,
evaṃ tattha visujjhati.

Sāriputtova paññāya,
sīlena upasamena ca;
Yopi pāraṅgato bhikkhu,
etāvaparamo siyā’ti.

Idamavoca, bhikkhave, so devaputto.

‘Samanuñño me satthā’ti maṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā tatthevantaradhāyī’ti.

Evaṃ vutte, āyasmā ānando bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, Venerable Ānanda said to the Buddha:

“so hi nūna so, bhante, anāthapiṇḍiko devaputto bhavissati.

“Sir, that god must surely have been Anāthapiṇḍika.

Anāthapiṇḍiko, bhante, gahapati āyasmante sāriputte abhippasanno ahoṣī”ti.

For the householder Anāthapiṇḍika was devoted to Venerable Sāriputta.”

“Sādhu sādhu, ānanda.

“Good, good, Ānanda.

Yāvatakaṃ kho, ānanda, takkāya pattaḃbaṃ, anuppattaṃ taṃ tayā.

You’ve reached the logical conclusion, as far as logic goes.

Anāthapiṇḍiko so, ānanda, devaputto”ti.

For that was indeed the god Anāthapiṇḍika.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā ānando bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Venerable Ānanda was happy with what the Buddha said.

Anāthapiṇḍikovādasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ paṭhamam.

144. Channovādasutta Advice to Channa

Evaṃ me sutāṃ—

So I have heard.

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati veļuvane
kalandakanivāpe.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā ca sāriputto āyasmā ca mahācundo āyasmā ca channo gijjhakūṭe pabbate viharanti.

Now at that time the venerables Sāriputta, Mahācunda, and Channa were staying on the Vulture's Peak Mountain.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā channo ābādhiko hoti dukkhito bāļhagilāno.

Now at that time Venerable Channa was sick, suffering, gravely ill.

Atha kho āyasmā sāriputto sāyanhasamayaṃ paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yenāyasmā mahācundo tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ mahācundaṃ etadavoca:

Then in the late afternoon, Venerable Sāriputta came out of retreat, went to Venerable Mahācunda and said to him,

“āyāmāvuso cunda, yenāyasmā channo tenupasaṅkamissāma gilānapucchakā”ti.

“Come, Reverend Cunda, let's go to see Venerable Channa and ask about his illness.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho āyasmā mahācundo āyasmato sāriputtassa paccassosi.

“Yes, reverend,” replied Mahācunda.

Atha kho āyasmā ca sāriputto āyasmā ca mahācundo yenāyasmā channo tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmatā channena saddhiṃ sammodimsu.

And then Sāriputta and Mahācunda went to see Channa and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā sāriputto āyasmantaṃ channaṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, they sat down to one side. Then Sāriputta said to Channa, “kacci te, āvuso channa, khamanīyaṃ, kacci yāpanīyaṃ? Kacci te dukkhā vedanā paṭikkamanti, no abhikkamanti; paṭikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no abhikkamo”ti?

“I hope you’re keeping well, Reverend Channa; I hope you’re alright. I hope that your pain is fading, not growing, that its fading is evident, not its growing.”

“Na me, āvuso sāriputta, khamanīyaṃ na yāpanīyaṃ. Bāḷhā me dukkhā vedanā abhikkamanti, no paṭikkamanti; abhikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no paṭikkamo.

“Reverend Sāriputta, I’m not keeping well, I’m not alright. The pain is terrible and growing, not fading; its growing is evident, not its fading.

Seyyathāpi, āvuso sāriputta, balavā puriso tiṅhena sikharena muddhani abhimattheyya; evameva kho me, āvuso sāriputta, adhimattā vātā muddhani ūhananti.

The winds piercing my head are so severe, it feels like a strong man drilling into my head with a sharp point.

Na me, āvuso sāriputta, khamanīyaṃ na yāpanīyaṃ. Bāḷhā me dukkhā vedanā abhikkamanti, no paṭikkamanti; abhikkamosānaṃ paññāyati no paṭikkamo.

Seyyathāpi, āvuso sāriputta, balavā puriso daḷhena varattakkhaṇḍena sīse sīsaveṭhaṃ dadeyya; evameva kho me, āvuso sāriputta, adhimattā sīse sīsavedanā.

The pain in my head is so severe, it feels like a strong man tightening a tough leather strap around my head.

Na me, āvuso sāriputta, khamanīyaṃ na yāpanīyaṃ. Bāḷhā me dukkhā vedanā abhikkamanti, no paṭikkamanti; abhikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no paṭikkamo.

Seyyathāpi, āvuso sāriputta, dakkho goghātako vā goghātakantevāsī vā tiṇhena govikantanena kucchiṃ parikanteyya; evameva kho me, āvuso sāriputta, adhimattā vātā kucchiṃ parikantanti.

The winds piercing my belly are so severe, it feels like a deft butcher or their apprentice is slicing my belly open with a meat cleaver.

Na me, āvuso sāriputta, khamanīyaṃ na yāpanīyaṃ. Bāḷhā me dukkhā vedanā abhikkamanti, no paṭikkamanti; abhikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no paṭikkamo.

Seyyathāpi, āvuso sāriputta, dve balavanto purisā dubbalataraṃ purisaṃ nānābāhāsu gahetvā aṅgārakāsuyā santāpeyyuṃ samparitāpeyyuṃ; evameva kho me, āvuso sāriputta, adhimatto kāyasmīṃ dāho.

The burning in my body is so severe, it feels like two strong men grabbing a weaker man by the arms to burn and scorch him on a pit of glowing coals.

Na me, āvuso sāriputta, khamanīyaṃ na yāpanīyaṃ. Bāḷhā me dukkhā vedanā abhikkamanti, no paṭikkamanti; abhikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no paṭikkamo.

I'm not keeping well, I'm not alright. The pain is terrible and growing, not fading; its growing is evident, not its fading.

Satthaṃ, āvuso sāriputta, āharissāmi, nāvakaṅkhāmi jīvitaṃ”ti.

Reverend Sāriputta, I will slit my wrists. I don't wish to live.”

“Māyasmā channo satthaṃ āharesi.

“Please don't slit your wrists!

“So, Reverend Channa, you should pay close attention to this instruction of the Buddha whenever you can:

‘nissitassa calitaṁ, anissitassa calitaṁ natthi.

‘For the dependent there is agitation. For the independent there’s no agitation.

Calite asati passaddhi,

When there’s no agitation there is tranquility.

“Sir, Venerable Channa has slit his wrists.

Where has he been reborn in his next life?”

“Nanu te, sāriputta, channena bhikkhunā sammukhāyeva anupavajjatā byākatā”ti?

“Sāriputta, didn't the mendicant Channa declare his blamelessness to you personally?”

“Atthi, bhante, pubbajiraṃ nāma vajjigāmo.

“Sir, there is a Vajjian village named Pubbavijjhana where Channa had families with whom he was friendly, intimate, and familiar.”

“Honti hete, sāriputta, channassa bhikkhuno mittakulāni suhajjakulāni upavajjakulāni.

“The mendicant Channa did indeed have such families.

Nāhaṃ, sāriputta, ettāvatā ‘saupavajjo’ti vadāmi.

But this is not enough for me to call someone ‘blameworthy’.

Yo kho, sāriputta, imañca kāyaṃ nikkhipati aññañca kāyaṃ

When someone lays down this body and takes up another body, I call them ‘blameworthy’.

Taṃ channassa bhikkhuno natthi.

But the mendicant Channa did no such thing.

‘Anupavajjo channo bhikkhu satthaṃ āhasesī’ti evametaṃ,

You should remember this: ‘The mendicant Channa slit his wrists blamelessly.’”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā sāriputto bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Venerable Sāriputta was happy with what the Buddha said.

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane

Then in the late afternoon, Venerable Puṇṇa came out of retreat and went to the Buddha. He bowed, sat down to one side, and said to the Buddha, “sādhu maṃ, bhante, bhagavā saṅkhittena ovādena ovadatu, yamahaṃ bhagavato dhammaṃ sutvā eko vūpakaṭṭho

“Sir, may the Buddha please teach me Dhamma in brief. When I've heard it, I'll live alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute.”

“Tena hi, puṇṇa, suṇāhi, sādhu kaṃ manasi karohi; bhāsissāmī”ti.

“Well then, Puṇṇa, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho āyasmā puṇṇo bhagavato paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” replied Puṇṇa.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Santi kho, puṇṇa, cakkhuviññeyyā rūpā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā kāmūpasamhitā rajanīyā.

146. Nandakovādasutta Advice from Nandaka

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Atha kho mahāpajāpatigotamī pañcamattehi bhikkhunisatehi bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantam aṭṭhāsi. Ekamantam ṭhitā kho mahāpajāpatigotamī bhagavantam etadavoca:

Then Mahāpajāpatī Gotamī together with around five hundred nuns approached the Buddha, bowed, stood to one side, and said to him, “ovadatu, bhante, bhagavā bhikkhuniyo;

“Sir, may the Buddha please advise anusāsatu, bhante, bhagavā bhikkhuniyo;

and instruct the nuns.

karotu, bhante, bhagavā bhikkhunīnam dhammiṃ kathan”ti.

Please give the nuns a Dhamma talk.”

Tena kho pana samayena therā bhikkhū bhikkhuniyo ovadanti pariyāyena.

Now at that time the senior monks were taking turns to advise the nuns.

Āyasmā nandako na icchatī bhikkhuniyo ovaditum̐ pariyāyena.
But Venerable Nandaka didn't want to take his turn.

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to Venerable Ānanda,

“kassa nu kho, ānanda, ajja pariyāyo bhikkhuniyo ovaditum̐ pariyāyenā”ti?

“Ānanda, whose turn is it to advise the nuns today?”

“Sabbeheva, bhante, kato pariyāyo bhikkhuniyo ovaditum̐ pariyāyena.

“It's Nandaka's turn, sir,

Ayaṃ, bhante, āyasmā nandako na icchatī bhikkhuniyo ovaditum̐ pariyāyenā”ti.

but he doesn't want to do it.”

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ nandakaṃ āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to Nandaka,

“ovada, nandaka, bhikkhuniyo;

“Nandaka, please advise anusāsa, nandaka, bhikkhuniyo;

and instruct the nuns.

karohi tvaṃ, brāhmaṇa, bhikkhunīnaṃ dhammiṃ kathan”ti.

Please, brahmin, give the nuns a Dhamma talk.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho āyasmā nandako bhagavato paṭissutvā pubbaṅhasamayāṃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya sāvattiṃ piṇḍāya pāvīsi.

“Yes, sir,” replied Nandaka. Then, in the morning, he robed up and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Sāvattī for alms.

He wandered for alms in Sāvattḥī. After the meal, on his return from alms-round, he went to the Royal Monastery with a companion.

Addasaṃsu kho tā bhikkhuniyo āyasmantaṃ nandakaṃ dūratova āgacchantaṃ.

Those nuns saw him coming off in the distance,

Disvāna āsanaṃ paññāpesuṃ, udakañca pādānaṃ upaṭṭhapesuṃ.

so they spread out a seat and placed water for washing the feet.

Nisīdi kho āyasmā nandako paññatte āsane.

Nandaka sat down on the seat spread out,

Nisajja pāde pakkhālesi.

and washed his feet.

Tāpi kho bhikkhuniyo āyasmantaṃ nandakaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdiṃsu.

Those nuns bowed, and sat down to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinnā kho tā bhikkhuniyo āyasmā nandako etadavoca:

Nandaka said to them,

“paṭipucchakathā kho, bhaginiyo, bhavissati.

147. Cūḷarāhulovādasutta The Shorter Advice to Rāhula

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṁ sāvattiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Atha kho bhagavato rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa evam cetaso parivitakko udapādi:

Then as he was in private retreat this thought came to his mind, “paripakkā kho rāhulassa vimuttiparipācanīyā dhammā.

“The qualities that ripen in freedom have ripened in Rāhula.

Yannūnāhaṁ rāhulaṁ uttarim āsavānaṁ khaye vineyyan”ti.

Why don’t I lead him further to the ending of defilements?”

Atha kho bhagavā pubbaṅhasamayam nivāsetvā
pattacīvaramādāya sāvattim piṇḍāya pāvīsi.

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Sāvattī for alms.

Sāvattiyam piṇḍāya carivā pacchābhattaṁ piṇḍapātaṭikkanto āyasmantaṁ rāhulaṁ āmantesi:

Then, after the meal, on his return from alms-round, he addressed Venerable Rāhula, “gaṇhāhi, rāhula, nisīdanam;

“Rāhula, get your sitting cloth.

yena andhavanam tenupasaṅkamissāma divāvihārāyā”ti.

Let’s go to the Dark Forest for the day’s meditation.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho āyasmā rāhulo bhagavato paṭissutvā nisīdanam ādāya bhagavantam piṭṭhito piṭṭhito anubandhi.

“Yes, sir,” replied Rāhula. Taking his sitting cloth he followed behind the Buddha.

Tena kho pana samayena anekāni devatāsahassāni bhagavantam anubandhāni honti:

Now at that time many thousands of deities followed the Buddha, thinking,

“ajja bhagavā āyasmantam rāhulam uttarim āsavānam khaye vinessatī”ti.

“Today the Buddha will lead Rāhula further to the ending of defilements!”

Atha kho bhagavā andhavanam ajjhogāhetvā aññatarasmim rukkhamūle paññatte āsane nisīdi.

Then the Buddha plunged deep into the Dark Forest and sat at the root of a tree on the seat spread out.

Āyasmāpi kho rāhulo bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantam
nisīdi.

Rāhula bowed to the Buddha and sat down to one side.

Ekamantam nisinnam kho āyasmantam rāhulam bhagavā
etadavoca:

The Buddha said to him:

“Tam kim maññasi, rāhula,

“What do you think, Rāhula?”

Is the eye permanent or impermanent?”

“Aniccaṃ, bhante”.

“Impermanent, sir.”

“Yaṃ paṇāniccaṃ dukkhaṃ vā taṃ sukhaṃ vā”ti?

“But if it’s impermanent, is it suffering or happiness?”

“Suffering, sir.”

“No hetāṃ, bhante”.

“No, sir.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, rāhula,

This is the sixth set of six.

‘Cakkhu attā’ti yo vadeyya taṃ na upapajjati.

If anyone says, ‘the eye is self,’ that is not tenable.

Cakkhussa uppādopi vayopi paññāyati.

The arising and vanishing of the eye is evident,

Yassa kho pana uppādopi vayopi paññāyati, ‘attā me uppajjati
ca veti cā’ti iccassa evamāgataṃ hoti.

so it would follow that one’s self arises and vanishes.

Tasmā taṃ na upapajjati:

That’s why it’s not tenable to claim that ‘cakkhu attā’ti yo vadeyya.

the eye is self.

Iti cakkhu anattā.

So the eye is not self.

‘Rūpā attā’ti yo vadeyya taṃ na upapajjati.

If anyone says, ‘sights are self,’ that is not tenable.

Rūpānaṃ uppādopi vayopi paññāyati.

The arising and vanishing of sights is evident,

Yassa kho pana uppādopi vayopi paññāyati, ‘attā me uppajjati
ca veti cā’ti iccassa evamāgataṃ hoti.

so it would follow that one’s self arises and vanishes.

Tasmā taṃ na upapajjati:

That’s why it’s not tenable to claim that ‘rūpā attā’ti yo vadeyya.

sights are self.

Iti cakkhu anattā, rūpā anattā.

So the eye is not self and sights are not self.

‘Cakkhuviññāṇaṃ attā’ti yo vadeyya taṃ na upapajjati.

If anyone says, ‘eye consciousness is self,’ that is not tenable.

Cakkhuviññāṇassa uppādopi vayopi paññāyati.

The arising and vanishing of eye consciousness is evident,

Yassa kho pana uppādopi vayopi paññāyati, ‘attā me uppajjati
ca veti cā’ti iccassa evamāgataṃ hoti.

so it would follow that one’s self arises and vanishes.

Tasmā taṃ na upapajjati:

That’s why it’s not tenable to claim that ‘cakkhuviññāṇaṃ attā’ti yo vadeyya.

eye consciousness is self.

Iti cakkhu anattā, rūpā anattā, cakkhuviññāṇaṃ anattā.

So the eye, sights, and eye consciousness are not self.

‘Cakkhusamphasso attā’ti yo vadeyya taṃ na upapajjati.

If anyone says, ‘eye contact is self,’ that is not tenable.

Cakkhusamphassassa uppādopi vayopi paññāyati.

The arising and vanishing of eye contact is evident,

Yassa kho pana uppādopi vayopi paññāyati, ‘attā me uppajjati ca veti cā’ti iccassa evamāgataṃ hoti.

so it would follow that one’s self arises and vanishes.

Tasmā taṃ na upapajjati:

That’s why it’s not tenable to claim that ‘cakkhusamphasso attā’ti yo vadeyya.

eye contact is self.

Iti cakkhu anattā, rūpā anattā, cakkhuviññāṇaṃ anattā, cakkhusamphasso anattā.

So the eye, sights, eye consciousness, and eye contact are not self.

‘Vedanā attā’ti yo vadeyya taṃ na upapajjati.

If anyone says, ‘feeling is self,’ that is not tenable.

Vedanāya uppādopi vayopi paññāyati.

The arising and vanishing of feeling is evident,

Yassa kho pana uppādopi vayopi paññāyati, ‘attā me uppajjati ca veti cā’ti iccassa evamāgataṃ hoti.

so it would follow that one’s self arises and vanishes.

Tasmā taṃ na upapajjati:

That’s why it’s not tenable to claim that

‘vedanā attā’ti yo vadeyya.

feeling is self.

Iti cakkhu anattā, rūpā anattā, cakkhuviññāṇaṃ anattā, cakkhusamphasso anattā, vedanā anattā.

So the eye, sights, eye consciousness, eye contact, and feeling are not self.

‘Taṇhā attā’ti yo vadeyya taṃ na upapajjati.

If anyone says, ‘craving is self,’ that is not tenable.

Taṇhāya uppādopi vayopi paññāyati.

The arising and vanishing of craving is evident,

Yassa kho pana uppādopi vayopi paññāyati, ‘attā me uppajjati ca veti cā’ti iccassa evamāgataṃ hoti.

so it would follow that one’s self arises and vanishes.

Tasmā taṃ na upapajjati:

That’s why it’s not tenable to claim that ‘taṇhā attā’ti yo vadeyya.

craving is self.

Iti cakkhu anattā, rūpā anattā, cakkhuviññāṇaṃ anattā, cakkhusamphasso anattā, vedanā anattā, taṇhā anattā.

So the eye, sights, eye consciousness, eye contact, feeling, and craving are not self.

‘Sotaṃ attā’ti yo vadeyya ...pe...

If anyone says, ‘the ear is self’ ...

‘ghānaṃ attā’ti yo vadeyya ...pe...

‘the nose is self’ ...

‘jivhā attā’ti yo vadeyya ...pe...

‘the tongue is self’ ...

‘kāyo attā’ti yo vadeyya ...pe...

‘the body is self’ ...

‘mano attā’ti yo vadeyya taṃ na upapajjati.

‘the mind is self,’ that is not tenable.

Manassa uppādopi vayopi paññāyati.

The arising and vanishing of the mind is evident,

Yassa kho pana uppādopi vayopi paññāyati, ‘attā me uppajjati ca veti cā’ti iccassa evamāgataṃ hoti.

so it would follow that one’s self arises and vanishes.

Tasmā taṃ na upapajjati:

That’s why it’s not tenable to claim that ‘mano attā’ti yo vadeyya.

the mind is self.

Iti mano anattā.

So the mind is not self.

‘Dhammā attā’ti yo vadeyya taṃ na upapajjati.

If anyone says, ‘thoughts are self’ ...

Dhammānaṃ uppādopi vayopi paññāyati.

Yassa kho pana uppādopi vayopi paññāyati, ‘attā me uppajjati
ca veti cā’ti iccassa evamāgataṃ hoti.

Tasmā taṃ na upapajjati:

‘dhammā attā’ti yo vadeyya.

Iti mano anattā, dhammā anattā.

‘Manoviññāṇaṃ attā’ti yo vadeyya taṃ na upapajjati.

‘mind consciousness is self’ ...

Manoviññāṇassa uppādopi vayopi paññāyati.

Yassa kho pana uppādopi vayopi paññāyati, ‘attā me uppajjati
ca veti cā’ti iccassa evamāgataṃ hoti.

Tasmā taṃ na upapajjati:

‘manoviññāṇaṃ attā’ti yo vadeyya.

Iti mano anattā, dhammā anattā, manoviññāṇaṃ anattā.

‘Manosamphasso attā’ti yo vadeyya taṃ na upapajjati.

‘mind contact is self’ ...

Manosamphassassa uppādopi vayopi paññāyati.

Yassa kho pana uppādopi vayopi paññāyati, ‘attā me uppajjati
ca veti cā’ti iccassa evamāgataṃ hoti.

Tasmā taṃ na upapajjati:

‘manosamphasso attā’ti yo vadeyya.

Iti mano anattā, dhammā anattā, manoviññāṇaṃ anattā, manosamphasso anattā.

‘Vedanā attā’ti yo vadeyya taṃ na upapajjati.
‘feeling is self’ ...

Vedanāya uppādopi vayopi paññāyati.

Yassa kho pana uppādopi vayopi paññāyati, ‘attā me uppajjati
ca veti cā’ti iccassa evamāgataṃ hoti.

Tasmā taṃ na upapajjati:

‘vedanā attā’ti yo vadeyya.

Iti mano anattā, dhammā anattā, manoviññāṇaṃ anattā, manosamphasso anattā, vedanā anattā.

‘Taṇhā attā’ti yo vadeyya taṃ na upapajjati.
‘craving is self,’ that is not tenable.

Taṇhāya uppādopi vayopi paññāyati.

The arising and vanishing of craving is evident,

Yassa kho pana uppādopi vayopi paññāyati, ‘attā me uppajjati
ca veti cā’ti iccassa evamāgataṃ hoti.

so it would follow that one’s self arises and vanishes.

Tasmā taṃ na upapajjati:

That’s why it’s not tenable to claim that ‘taṇhā attā’ti yo vadeyya.

craving is self.

Iti mano anattā, dhammā anattā, manoviññāṇaṃ anattā, manosamphasso anattā, vedanā anattā, taṇhā anattā.

So the mind, thoughts, mind consciousness, mind contact, feeling, and craving are not self.

149. Mahāsaḷāyatanikasutta

The Great Discourse on the Six Sense Fields

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava sāvattiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagava bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagava etadvoca:

The Buddha said this:

“mahāsaḷāyatanikaṃ vo, bhikkhave, desessāmi.

“Mendicants, I shall teach you the great discourse on the six sense fields.

Tam suṇātha, sādhuḥkaṃ manasi karotha, bhāssissāmī”ti.

Listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evam, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Cakkhum, bhikkhave, ajānaṃ apassaṃ yathābhūtaṃ, rūpe ajānaṃ apassaṃ yathābhūtaṃ, cakkhuviññāṇaṃ ajānaṃ apassaṃ yathābhūtaṃ, cakkhusamphassaṃ ajānaṃ apassaṃ sārājati.

“Mendicants, when you don’t truly know and see the eye, sights, eye consciousness, eye contact, and what is felt as pleasant, painful, or neutral that arises conditioned by eye contact, you’re aroused by desire for these things.

Tassa sārattassa saṃyuttassa sammūḷhassa assādānupassino viharato āyatiṃ pañcupādānakkhandhā upacayaṃ gacchanti.

Someone who lives aroused like this—fettered, confused, concentrating on gratification—accumulates the five grasping aggregates for themselves in the future.

Taṇhā cassa ponobbhavikā nandīrāgasahagatā tatratatrābhinandinī, sā cassa pavaḍḍhati.

And their craving—which leads to future rebirth, mixed up with relishing and greed, looking for enjoyment in various different realms—grows.

Tassa kāyikāpi darathā pavaḍḍhanti, cetasikāpi darathā

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Mahāsaḷāyatanikasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ sattamaṃ.

150. Nagaravindeyyasutta With the People of Nagaravinda

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava kosalesu carikam caramano mahata bhikkhusanghena saddhim yena nagaravindam nama kosalanam brahmananam gamo tadavasari.

At one time the Buddha was wandering in the land of the Kosalans together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants when he arrived at a village of the Kosalan brahmins named Nagaravinda.

Assosum kho nagaravindeyyaka brahmanagahapatika:

The brahmins and householders of Nagaravinda heard,

“samaṇo khalu, bho, gotamo sakyaputto sakyakula pabbajito kosalesu carikam caramano mahata bhikkhusanghena saddhim nagaravindam anuppatto.

“It seems the ascetic Gotama—a Sakyan, gone forth from a Sakyan family—while wandering in the land of the Kosalans has arrived at Nagaravinda, together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants.

Tam kho pana bhavantam gotamam evam kalyano kittisaddo
abhuggato:

He has this good reputation:

‘itipi so bhagava araham sammāsambuddho
vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro
purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānam buddho
bhagavā’ti.

‘That Blessed One is perfected, a fully awakened Buddha, accomplished in knowledge and conduct, holy, knower of the world, supreme guide for those who wish to train, teacher of gods and humans, awakened, blessed.’

So imaṃ lokam sadevakam samarakam sabrahmakam sassamaṇabrāhmaṇim pajam sadevamanussam sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā pavedeti.

He has realized with his own insight this world—with its gods, Māras and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, gods and humans—and he makes it known to others.

So dhammam deseti ādikalyāṇam majjhekalyāṇam pariyosānakalyāṇam sāttham sabyañjanam, kevalaparipuṇṇam parisuddham brahmacariyam pakāseti.

He teaches Dhamma that’s good in the beginning, good in the middle, and good in the end, meaningful and well-phrased. And he reveals a spiritual practice that’s entirely full and pure.

Sādhu kho pana tathārūpānam arahatam dassanam hoti”ti.
It’s good to see such perfected ones.”

Then the brahmins and householders of Nagaravinda went up to the Buddha. Before sitting down to one side, some bowed, some exchanged greetings and polite conversation, some held up their joined palms toward the Buddha, some announced their name and clan, while some kept silent. The Buddha said to them:

152. Indriyabhāvanāsutta

The Development of the Faculties

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā gajaṅgalāyaṃ viharati suveḷuvane.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Kajaṅgalā in a bamboo grove.

Atha kho uttaro māṇavo pārāsiviyantevāsī yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then the brahmin student Uttara, a pupil of the brahmin Pārāsariya, approached the Buddha, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho uttaraṃ māṇavaṃ pārāsiviyantevāsīṃ bhagavā etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side. The Buddha said to him, “deseti, uttara, pārāsivīyo brāhmaṇo sāvakaṇaṃ indriyabhāvanan”ti?

“Uttara, does Pārāsariya teach his disciples the development of the faculties?”

“Deseti, bho gotama, pārāsivīyo brāhmaṇo sāvakaṇaṃ indriyabhāvanan”ti.

“He does, Master Gotama.”

“Yathā katham̐ pana, uttara, deseti pārāsiviyo brāhmaṇo sāvakānaṃ indriyabhāvanan”ti?

“But how does he teach it?”

“Idha, bho gotama, cakkhunā rūpaṃ na passati, sotena saddaṃ na suṇāti—“Master Gotama, it’s when the eye sees no sight and the ear hears no sound.

evaṃ kho, bho gotama, deseti pārāsiviyo brāhmaṇo sāvakānaṃ indriyabhāvanan”ti.

That’s how Pārāsariya teaches his disciples the development of the faculties.”

“Evaṃ sante kho, uttara, andho bhāvitindriyo bhavissati, badhiro bhāvitindriyo bhavissati;

“In that case, Uttara, a blind person and a deaf person will have developed faculties yathā pārāsiviyassa brāhmaṇassa vacanaṃ.

according to what Pārāsariya says.

Andho hi, uttara, cakkhunā rūpaṃ na passati, badhiro sotena saddaṃ na suṇāti”ti.

For a blind person sees no sight with the eye and a deaf person hears no sound with the ear.”

Evaṃ vutte, uttaro māṇavo pārāsiviyantevāsī tuṅhībhūto maṅkubhūto pattakkhandho adhomukho pajjhāyanto appaṭibhāno nisīdi.

When he said this, Uttara sat silent, embarrassed, shoulders drooping, downcast, depressed, with nothing to say.

Atha kho bhagavā uttaraṃ māṇavaṃ pārāsiviyantevāsīṃ tuṅhībhūtaṃ maṅkubhūtaṃ pattakkhandhaṃ adhomukhaṃ pajjhāyantaṃ appaṭibhānaṃ veditvā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ āmantesi:

Knowing this, the Buddha addressed Venerable Ānanda, “aññathā kho, ānanda, deseti pārāsiviyo brāhmaṇo sāvakānaṃ indriyabhāvanā, aññathā ca panānanda, ariyassa vinaye anuttarā indriyabhāvanā hotī”ti.

“Ānanda, the development of the faculties taught by Pārāsariya is quite different from the supreme development of the faculties in the training of the noble one.”

“Etassa, bhagavā, kālo; etassa, sugata, kālo

“Now is the time, Blessed One! Now is the time, Holy One.

yaṃ bhagavā ariyassa vinaye anuttaraṃ indriyabhāvanāṃ deseyya. Bhagavato sutvā bhikkhū dhāressantī”ti.

Let the Buddha teach the supreme development of the faculties in the training of the noble one. The mendicants will listen and remember it.”

“Tenahānanda, suṇāhi, sādhukaṃ manasi karohi; bhāsissāmī”ti.

“Well then, Ānanda, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho āyasmā ānando bhagavato paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” Ānanda replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Kathañcānanda, ariyassa vinaye anuttarā indriyabhāvanā hoti?

“And how, Ānanda, is there the supreme development of the faculties in the training of the noble one?

Idhānanda, bhikkhuno cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā uppajjati manāpaṃ, uppajjati amanāpaṃ, uppajjati manāpāmanāpaṃ.

When a mendicant sees a sight with their eyes, liking, disliking, and both liking and disliking come up in them.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand:

‘uppannaṃ kho me idaṃ manāpaṃ, uppannaṃ amanāpaṃ,
uppannaṃ manāpāmanāpaṃ.

‘Liking, disliking, and both liking and disliking have come up in me.

Tañca kho saṅkhataṃ oḷārikaṃ paṭiccasamuppannaṃ.

Such is the speed, the swiftness, the ease with which any liking, disliking, and both liking and disliking at all that came up in them cease, and equanimity becomes stabilized.

ayaṃ vuccatānanda, ariyassa vinaye anuttarā indriyabhāvanā ghānaviññeyyesu gandhesu.

In the training of the noble one this is called the supreme development of the faculties regarding smells known by the nose.

Puna caparaṃ, ānanda, bhikkhuno jivhāya rasaṃ sāyivā uppajjati manāpaṃ, uppajjati amanāpaṃ, uppajjati manāpāmanāpaṃ.

Furthermore, when a mendicant tastes a flavor with their tongue, liking, disliking, and both liking and disliking come up in them.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand:

‘uppannaṃ kho me idaṃ manāpaṃ, uppannaṃ amanāpaṃ,
uppannaṃ manāpāmanāpaṃ.

‘Liking, disliking, and both liking and disliking have come up in me.

Taṅca kho saṅkhataṃ oḷārikaṃ paṭiccasamuppannaṃ.

That’s conditioned, coarse, and dependently originated.

ayam vuccatānanda, ariyassa vinaye anuttarā indriyabhāvanā manoviññeyyesu dhammesu.

In the training of the noble one this is called the supreme development of the faculties regarding thoughts known by the mind.

Evam̐ kho, ānanda, ariyassa vinaye anuttarā indriyabhāvanā hoti.

That's how there is the supreme development of the faculties in the training of the noble one.

Kathañcānanda, sekho hoti pāṭipado?

And how are they a practicing trainee?

Idhānanda, bhikkhuno cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā uppajjati manāpaṃ, uppajjati amanāpaṃ, uppajjati manāpāmanāpaṃ.

When a mendicant sees a sight with their eyes, liking, disliking, and both liking and disliking come up in them.

So tena uppannena manāpena uppannena amanāpena uppannena manāpāmanāpena aṭṭiyati harāyati jigucchati.

They are horrified, repelled, and disgusted by that.

Sotena saddaṃ sutvā ...pe...

When they hear a sound with their ears ...

ghānena gandhaṃ ghāyivā ...

When they smell an odor with their nose ...

jivhāya rasaṃ sāyivā ...

When they taste a flavor with their tongue ...

kāyena phoṭṭhabbaṃ phusivā ...

When they feel a touch with their body ...

manasā dhammaṃ viññāya uppajjati manāpaṃ, uppajjati amanāpaṃ, uppajjati manāpāmanāpaṃ.

When they know a thought with their mind, liking, disliking, and both liking and disliking come up in them.

So tena uppannena manāpena uppannena amanāpena uppannena manāpāmanāpena aṭṭiyati harāyati jigucchati.

They are horrified, repelled, and disgusted by that.

Evam̐ kho, ānanda, sekho hoti pāṭipado.

That's how they are a practicing trainee.

Kathañcānanda, ariyo hoti bhāvitindriyo?

And how are they a noble one with developed faculties?

Idhānanda, bhikkhuno cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā uppajjati manāpaṃ, uppajjati amanāpaṃ, uppajjati manāpāmanāpaṃ.

When a mendicant sees a sight with their eyes, liking, disliking, and both liking and disliking come up in them.

So sace ākañkhati: ‘paṭikūle appaṭikūlasaññī vihareyyan’ti, appaṭikūlasaññī tattha viharati.

If they wish: ‘May I meditate perceiving the unrepulsive in the repulsive,’ that’s what they do.

If they wish: ‘May I meditate staying equanimous, mindful and aware, rejecting both the repulsive and the unrepulsive,’ that’s what they do.

Evaṁ kho, ānanda, ariyo hoti bhāvitindriyo.

That’s how they are a noble one with developed faculties.

Iti kho, ānanda, desitā mayā ariyassa vinaye anuttarā indriyabhāvanā, desito sekho pāṭipado, desito ariyo bhāvitindriyo.

So, Ānanda, I have taught the supreme development of the faculties in the training of the noble one, I have taught the practicing trainee, and I have taught the noble one with developed faculties.

Yaṃ kho, ānanda, satthārā karaṇīyaṃ sāvakaṇaṃ hitesinā anukampakena anumānaṃ upādāya, kataṃ vo taṃ mayā.

Out of compassion, I've done what a teacher should do who wants what's best for their disciples.

Etāni, ānanda, rukkhamūlāni, etāni suññāgārāni, jhāyathānanda, mā pamādattha, mā pacchā vippaṭṭisārino ahuvattha. Ayaṃ vo amhākaṃ anusāsanī"ti.

Here are these roots of trees, and here are these empty huts. Practice absorption, Ānanda! Don't be negligent! Don't regret it later! This is my instruction to you."

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā ānando bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Venerable Ānanda was happy with what the Buddha said.
