The Middle Discourses (Majjhima Nikāya, abbreviated MN) is a collection of 152 discourses in the Pali canon (Tipiṭaka) of the Theravada school of Buddhism. The word “middle” refers to the length of the individual discourses. This is perhaps the most popular collection of early discourses. It contains a wide variety of teachings, many of them presented as narratives between the Buddha and a diverse range of his contemporaries. The collection parallels the Madhyamāgama (MA) of the Sarvāstivāda school, which survives as a translation in the Chinese canon.

Part One: The Root Fifty Discourses
Mūlapañṇāsapāḷi

1. The Division of the Discourse on the Root Mūlapariyāyavagga

1. Mūlapariyāyasutta

The Root of All Things

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā ukkaṭṭhāyaṃ viharati subhagavane sālarājamūle.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Ukkaṭṭhā, in the Subhaga Forest at the root of a magnificent sal tree.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“sabbadhammāmūlapariyāyaṃ vo, bhikkhave, desessāmi.

“Mendicants, I will teach you the explanation of the root of all things.

Tam suṇātha, sādhukaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmī”ti.

Listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Idha, bhikkhave, assutavā puthujjano ariyānaṃ adassāvī ariyadhammassa akovido ariyadhamme avinīto, sappurisānaṃ adassāvī sappurisadhammassa akovido sappurisadhamme avinīto—

“Take an uneducated ordinary person who has not seen the noble ones, and is neither skilled nor trained in the teaching of the noble ones. They’ve not seen good persons, and are neither skilled nor trained in the teaching of the good persons.

pathaviṃ pathavito sañjānāti;

They perceive earth as earth.

pathaviṃ pathavito saññatvā pathaviṃ maññati, pathaviyā maññati, pathavito maññati, pathaviṃ meti maññati, pathaviṃ abhinandati.

But then they identify with earth, they identify regarding earth, they identify as earth, they identify that ‘earth is mine’, they take pleasure in earth.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

‘Apariññātaṃ tassā’ti vadāmi. (1)

Because they haven’t completely understood it, I say.

Āpaṃ āpato sañjānāti;

They perceive water as water.

āpaṃ āpato saññatvā āpaṃ maññati, āpasmimṃ maññati, āpato maññati, āpaṃ meti maññati, āpaṃ abhinandati.

But then they identify with water ...

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

‘Apariññātaṃ tassā’ti vadāmi. (2)

Because they haven't completely understood it, I say.

Tejaṃ tejato sañjānāti;

They perceive fire as fire.

tejaṃ tejato saññatvā tejaṃ maññati, tejasmiṃ maññati, tejato maññati, tejaṃ meti maññati, tejaṃ abhinandati.

But then they identify with fire ...

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

'Apariññātaṃ tassā'ti vadāmi. (3)

Because they haven't completely understood it, I say.

Vāyaṃ vāyato sañjānāti;

They perceive air as air.

vāyaṃ vāyato saññatvā vāyaṃ maññati, vāyasmiṃ maññati, vāyato maññati, vāyaṃ meti maññati, vāyaṃ abhinandati.

But then they identify with air ...

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

'Apariññātaṃ tassā'ti vadāmi. (4)

Because they haven't completely understood it, I say.

Bhūte bhūtato sañjānāti;

They perceive creatures as creatures.

bhūte bhūtato saññatvā bhūte maññati, bhūtesu maññati, bhūtato maññati, bhūte meti maññati, bhūte abhinandati.

But then they identify with creatures ...

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

'Apariññātaṃ tassā'ti vadāmi. (5)

Because they haven't completely understood it, I say.

Deve devato sañjānāti;

They perceive gods as gods.

deve devato saññatvā deve maññati, devesu maññati, devato maññati, deve meti maññati, deve abhinandati.

But then they identify with gods ...

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

‘Apariññātaṃ tassā’ti vadāmi. (6)

Because they haven’t completely understood it, I say.

Pajāpatim pajāpatito sañjānāti;

They perceive the Creator as the Creator.

pajāpatim pajāpatito saññatvā pajāpatim maññati, pajāpatismim maññati, pajāpatito maññati, pajāpatim meti maññati, pajāpatim abhinandati.

But then they identify with the Creator ...

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

‘Apariññātaṃ tassā’ti vadāmi. (7)

Because they haven’t completely understood it, I say.

Brahmaṃ brahmato sañjānāti;

They perceive Brahmā as Brahmā.

brahmaṃ brahmato saññatvā brahmaṃ maññati, brahmasmim maññati, brahmato maññati, brahmaṃ meti maññati, brahmaṃ abhinandati.

But then they identify with Brahmā ...

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

‘Apariññātaṃ tassā’ti vadāmi. (8)

Because they haven’t completely understood it, I say.

Ābhassare ābhassarato sañjānāti;

They perceive the gods of streaming radiance as the gods of streaming radiance.

ābhassare ābhassarato saññatvā ābhassare maññati, ābhassaresu maññati, ābhassarato maññati, ābhassare meti maññati, ābhassare abhinandati.

But then they identify with the gods of streaming radiance ...

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

‘Apariññātaṃ tassā’ti vadāmi. (9)

Because they haven’t completely understood it, I say.

Subhakiṇhe subhakiṇhato sañjānāti;

They perceive the gods replete with glory as the gods replete with glory.

subhakiṇhe subhakiṇhato saññatvā subhakiṇhe maññati, subhakiṇhesu maññati, subhakiṇhato maññati, subhakiṇhe meti maññati, subhakiṇhe abhinandati.

But then they identify with the gods replete with glory ...

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

‘Apariññātaṃ tassā’ti vadāmi. (10)

Because they haven’t completely understood it, I say.

Vehapphale vehapphalato sañjānāti;

They perceive the gods of abundant fruit as the gods of abundant fruit.

vehapphale vehapphalato saññatvā vehapphale maññati, vehapphalesu maññati, vehapphalato maññati, vehapphale meti maññati, vehapphale abhinandati.

But then they identify with the gods of abundant fruit ...

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

‘Apariññātaṃ tassā’ti vadāmi. (11)

Because they haven’t completely understood it, I say.

Abhibhuṃ abhibhuto sañjānāti;

They perceive the Overlord as the Overlord.

abhibhuṃ abhibhuto saññatvā abhibhuṃ maññati, abhibhusmiṃ maññati, abhibhuto maññati, abhibhuṃ meti maññati, abhibhuṃ abhinandati.

But then they identify with the Overlord ...

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

‘Apariññātaṃ tassā’ti vadāmi. (12)

Because they haven’t completely understood it, I say.

Ākāsānañcāyatanam ākāsānañcāyatanato sañjānāti;

They perceive the dimension of infinite space as the dimension of infinite space.

ākāsānañcāyatanam ākāsānañcāyatanato saññatvā ākāsānañcāyatanam maññati, ākāsānañcāyatanasmim maññati, ākāsānañcāyatanato maññati, ākāsānañcāyatanam meti maññati, ākāsānañcāyatanam abhinandati.

But then they identify with the dimension of infinite space ...

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

2. Sabbāsavasutta All the Defilements

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta’s Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tatra kho bhagava bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagava etadvoca:

The Buddha said this:

“sabbāsavaṣaṃvarapariyāyam vo, bhikkhave, desessāmi.

“Mendicants, I will teach you the explanation of the restraint of all defilements.

Tam suṇātha, sādhuḥkaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmi”ti.

Listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evam, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Jānato ahaṃ, bhikkhave, passato āsavānaṃ khayāṃ vadāmi, no ajānato no apassato.

“Mendicants, I say that the ending of defilements is for one who knows and sees, not for one who does not know or see.

Kiñca, bhikkhave, jānato kiñca passato āsavānaṃ khayāṃ vadāmi?

For one who knows and sees what?

Yoniso ca manasikāraṃ ayoniso ca manasikāraṃ.

Proper attention and improper attention.

Ayoniso, bhikkhave, manasikaroto anuppannā ceva āsavā uppajjanti, uppannā ca āsavā pavaḍḍhanti;

When you pay improper attention, defilements arise, and once arisen they grow.

yoniso ca kho, bhikkhave, manasikaroto anuppannā ceva āsavā na uppajjanti, uppannā ca āsavā pahīyanti.

When you pay proper attention, defilements don't arise, and those that have already arisen are given up.

Atthi, bhikkhave, āsavā dassanā pahātabbā, atthi āsavā saṃvarā pahātabbā, atthi āsavā paṭisevanā pahātabbā, atthi āsavā adhvāsanā pahātabbā, atthi āsavā parivajjanā pahātabbā, atthi āsavā vinodanā pahātabbā, atthi āsavā

Some defilements should be given up by seeing, some by restraint, some by using, some by enduring, some by avoiding, some by dispelling, and some by developing.

1. Dassanāpahātabbaāsava

1. Defilements Given Up by Seeing

Katame ca, bhikkhave, āsavā dassanā pahātabbā?

And what are the defilements that should be given up by seeing?

Idha, bhikkhave, assutavā puthujjano ariyānaṃ adassāvī ariyadhammassa akovido ariyadhamme avinīto, sappurisānaṃ adassāvī sappurisadhammassa akovido sappurisadhamme avinīto—

Take an uneducated ordinary person who has not seen the noble ones, and is neither skilled nor trained in the teaching of the noble ones. They've not seen good persons, and are neither skilled nor trained in the teaching of the good persons.

manasikaraṇīye dhamme nappajānāti, amanasikaraṇīye dhamme nappajānāti.

They don't understand to which things they should pay attention and to which things they should not pay attention.

So manasikaraṇīye dhamme appajānanto amanasikaraṇīye dhamme appajānanto, ye dhammā na manasikaraṇīyā, te dhamme manasi karoti, ye dhammā manasikaraṇīyā te dhamme na manasi karoti.

So they pay attention to things they shouldn't and don't pay attention to things they should.

Katame ca, bhikkhave, dhammā na manasikaraṇīyā ye dhamme manasi karoti?

And what are the things to which they pay attention but should not?

Yassa, bhikkhave, dhamme manasikaroto anuppanno vā
kāmasavo uppajjati, uppanno vā kāmasavo pavaḍḍhati;

They are the things that, when attention is paid to them, give rise to unarisen defilements and make arisen defilements grow; the defilements of sensual desire,

anuppanno vā bhavāsavo uppajjati, uppanno vā bhavāsavo
pavaḍḍhati;

desire to be reborn,

anuppanno vā avijjāsavo uppajjati, uppanno vā avijjāsavo pavaḍḍhati—
and ignorance.

ime dhammā na manasikaraṇīyā ye dhamme manasi karoti.
These are the things to which they pay attention but should not.

Katame ca, bhikkhave, dhammā manasikaraṇīyā ye dhamme na manasi karoti?

And what are the things to which they do not pay attention but should?

Yassa, bhikkhave, dhamme manasikaroto anuppanno vā kāmāsavo na uppajjati, uppanno vā kāmāsavo pahīyati;
They are the things that, when attention is paid to them, do not give rise to unarisen defilements and give up arisen defilements; the defilements of sensual desire,

anuppanno vā bhavāsavo na uppajjati, uppanno vā bhavāsavo pahīyati;
desire to be reborn,

anuppanno vā avijjāsavo na uppajjati, uppanno vā avijjāsavo pahīyati—
and ignorance.

ime dhammā manasikaraṇīyā ye dhamme na manasi karoti.
These are the things to which they do not pay attention but should.

Tassa amanasikaraṇīyānaṃ dhammānaṃ manasikārā manasikaraṇīyānaṃ dhammānaṃ amanasikārā anuppannā ceva āsavā uppajjanti uppannā ca āsavā pavaḍḍhanti.

Because of paying attention to what they should not and not paying attention to what they should, unarisen defilements arise and arisen defilements grow.

So evaṃ ayoniso manasi karoti:

This is how they attend improperly:

‘ahosiṃ nu kho ahaṃ atītamaddhānaṃ? Na nu kho ahosiṃ atītamaddhānaṃ? Kiṃ nu kho ahosiṃ atītamaddhānaṃ? Kathaṃ nu kho ahosiṃ atītamaddhānaṃ? Kiṃ hutvā kiṃ ahosiṃ nu kho ahaṃ atītamaddhānaṃ?’

‘Did I exist in the past? Did I not exist in the past? What was I in the past? How was I in the past? After being what, what did I become in the past?’

Bhavissāmi nu kho ahaṃ anāgatamaddhānaṃ? Na nu kho bhavissāmi anāgatamaddhānaṃ? Kiṃ nu kho bhavissāmi anāgatamaddhānaṃ? Kathaṃ nu kho bhavissāmi anāgatamaddhānaṃ? Kiṃ hutvā kiṃ bhavissāmi nu kho ahaṃ anāgatamaddhānaṃ’ti?’

Will I exist in the future? Will I not exist in the future? What will I be in the future? How will I be in the future? After being what, what will I become in the future?’

Etarahi vā paccuppannamaddhānaṃ ajjhattaṃ kathaṅkathī hoti:

Or they are undecided about the present thus:

‘ahaṃ nu khosmi? No nu khosmi? Kiṃ nu khosmi? Kathaṃ nu khosmi? Ayaṃ nu kho satto kuto āgato? So kuhiṃ gāmi bhavissatī’ti?’

‘Am I? Am I not? What am I? How am I? This sentient being—where did it come from? And where will it go?’

Tassa evaṃ ayoniso manasikaroto channaṃ diṭṭhīnaṃ aññatarā diṭṭhi uppajjati.

When they attend improperly in this way, one of the following six views arises in them and is taken as a genuine fact.

‘Atthi me attā’ti vā assa saccato thetato diṭṭhi uppajjati;

The view: ‘My self exists in an absolute sense.’

‘natthi me attā’ti vā assa saccato thetato diṭṭhi uppajjati;

The view: ‘My self does not exist in an absolute sense.’

‘attanāva attānaṃ sañjānāmī’ti vā assa saccato thetato diṭṭhi uppajjati;

The view: ‘I perceive the self with the self.’

‘attanāva anattānaṃ sañjānāmī’ti vā assa saccato thetato diṭṭhi uppajjati;

The view: ‘I perceive what is not-self with the self.’

‘anattanāva attānaṃ sañjānāmī’ti vā assa saccato thetato diṭṭhi uppajjati;

The view: ‘I perceive the self with what is not-self.’

atha vā panassa evaṃ diṭṭhi hoti:

Or they have such a view:

‘yo me ayaṃ attā vado vedeyyo tatra tatra kalyāṇapāpakānaṃ kammānaṃ vipākaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti so kho pana me ayaṃ attā nicco dhuvo sassato avipariṇāmadhammo sassatisamaṃ tatheva ṭhassatī’ti.

‘This self of mine is he who speaks and feels and experiences the results of good and bad deeds in all the different realms. This self is permanent, everlasting, eternal, and imperishable, and will last forever and ever.’

Idaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, diṭṭhigataṃ diṭṭhigahaṇaṃ diṭṭhikantāraṃ diṭṭhivisūkaṃ diṭṭhivipphanditaṃ diṭṭhisamyojanaṃ.

This is called a misconception, the thicket of views, the desert of views, the trick of views, the evasiveness of views, the fetter of views.

Diṭṭhisamyojanasammutto, bhikkhave, assutavā puthujjano na parimuccati jātiyā jarāya maraṇena sokehi paridevehi dukkhehi domanassehi upāyāsehi;

An uneducated ordinary person who is fettered by views is not freed from rebirth, old age, and death, from sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress.

‘na parimuccati dukkhasmā’ti vadāmi.

They're not freed from suffering, I say.

Sutavā ca kho, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako—

ariyānaṃ dassāvī ariyadhammassa kovido ariyadhamme suvinīto, sappurisānaṃ dassāvī sappurisdhammassa kovido sappurisdhamme suvinīto—

But take an educated noble disciple who has seen the noble ones, and is skilled and trained in the teaching of the noble ones. They've seen good persons, and are skilled and trained in the teaching of the good persons.

manasikaraṇīye dhamme pajānāti amanasikaraṇīye dhamme pajānāti.

They understand to which things they should pay attention and to which things they should not pay attention.

So manasikaraṇīye dhamme pajānanto amanasikaraṇīye dhamme pajānanto ye dhammā na manasikaraṇīyā te dhamme na manasi karoti, ye dhammā manasikaraṇīyā te dhamme manasi karoti.

So they pay attention to things they should and don't pay attention to things they shouldn't.

Katame ca, bhikkhave, dhammā na manasikaraṇīyā ye dhamme na manasi karoti?

And what are the things to which they don't pay attention and should not?

Yassa, bhikkhave, dhamme manasikaroto anuppanno vā
kāmasavo uppajjati, uppanno vā kāmasavo pavaḍḍhati;

They are the things that, when attention is paid to them, give rise to unarisen defilements and make arisen defilements grow; the defilements of sensual desire,

anuppanno vā bhavāsavo uppajjati, uppanno vā bhavāsavo
pavaḍḍhati;

desire to be reborn,

anuppanno vā avijjāsavo uppajjati, uppanno vā avijjāsavo pavaḍḍhati—
and ignorance.

ime dhammā na manasikaraṇīyā, ye dhamme na manasi karoti.
These are the things to which they don't pay attention and should not.

Katame ca, bhikkhave, dhammā manasikaraṇīyā ye dhamme manasi karoti?

And what are the things to which they do pay attention and should?

Yassa, bhikkhave, dhamme manasikaroto anuppanno vā kāmāsavo na uppajjati, uppanno vā kāmāsavo pahīyati;
They are the things that, when attention is paid to them, do not give rise to unarisen defilements and give up arisen defilements; the defilements of sensual desire,

anuppanno vā bhavāsavo na uppajjati, uppanno vā bhavāsavo pahīyati;
desire to be reborn,

anuppanno vā avijjāsavo na uppajjati, uppanno vā avijjāsavo pahīyati—
and ignorance.

ime dhammā manasikaraṇīyā ye dhamme manasi karoti.
These are the things to which they do pay attention and should.

Tassa amanasikaraṇīyānaṃ dhammānaṃ amanasikārā manasikaraṇīyānaṃ dhammānaṃ manasikārā anuppannā ceva āsavā na uppajjanti, uppannā ca āsavā pahīyanti.

Because of not paying attention to what they should not and paying attention to what they should, unarisen defilements don't arise and arisen defilements are given up.

So 'idaṃ dukkhaṃ'ti yoniso manasi karoti, 'ayaṃ dukkhasamudayo'ti yoniso manasi karoti, 'ayaṃ dukkhanirodho'ti yoniso manasi karoti, 'ayaṃ dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā'ti yoniso manasi karoti.

They properly attend: 'This is suffering' ... 'This is the origin of suffering' ... 'This is the cessation of suffering' ... 'This is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering'.

Tassa evaṃ yoniso manasikaroto tīṇi saṃyojanāni pahīyanti—
And as they do so, they give up three fetters:

sakkāyadiṭṭhi, vicikicchā, sīlabbataparāmāso.

identity view, doubt, and misapprehension of precepts and observances.

Ime vuccanti, bhikkhave, āsavā dassanā pahātabbā.

These are called the defilements that should be given up by seeing.

2. Saṃvarāpahātabbāsaṃvara

2. Defilements Given Up by Restraint

Katame ca, bhikkhave, āsavā saṃvarā pahātabbā?

And what are the defilements that should be given up by restraint?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu paṭisaṅkhā yoniso cakkhundriyasaṃvarasaṃvuto viharati.

Take a mendicant who, reflecting properly, lives restraining the faculty of the eye.

Yaṅhissa, bhikkhave, cakkhundriyasaṃvaram āsavā vighātapariḷhā, viharato uppajjeyyumaṃ āsavā vighātapariḷhā, cakkhundriyasaṃvaram saṃvutassa viharato evaṃsa te āsavā vighātapariḷhā na honti.

For the distressing and feverish defilements that might arise in someone who lives without restraint of the eye faculty do not arise when there is such restraint.

Yañhissa, bhikkhave, manindriyasamvaram asamvutassa viharato uppajjeyyum āsavā vighātapariḷhā, manindriyasamvaram samvutassa viharato evamsa te āsavā vighātapariḷhā na honti.

For the distressing and feverish defilements that might arise in someone who lives without restraint of the mind faculty do not arise when there is such restraint.

Yañhissa, bhikkhave, samvaram asamvutassa viharato uppajjeyyum āsavā vighātapariḷhā, samvaram samvutassa viharato evamsa te āsavā vighātapariḷhā na honti.

For the distressing and feverish defilements that might arise in someone who lives without restraint do not arise when there is such restraint.

Ime vuccanti, bhikkhave, āsavā samvarā pahātabbā.

These are called the defilements that should be given up by restraint.

3. Paṭisevanāpahātabbāāsava 3. Defilements Given Up by Using Katame ca, bhikkhave, āsavā paṭisevanā pahātabbā?

And what are the defilements that should be given up by using?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu paṭisaṅkhā yoniso cīvaram paṭisevati:

Take a mendicant who, reflecting properly, makes use of robes:

‘yāvadeva sītassa paṭighātāya, uṇhassa paṭighātāya, ḍaṃsamakasavātātapasarīsapasamphassānaṃ paṭighātāya,
yāvadeva hirikopīnappaṭicchādanattham’.

‘Only for the sake of warding off cold and heat; for warding off the touch of flies, mosquitoes, wind, sun, and reptiles; and for covering up the private parts.’

Paṭisaṅkhā yoniso piṇḍapātaṃ paṭisevati:

Reflecting properly, they make use of almsfood:

‘neva davāya, na madāya, na maṇḍanāya, na vibhūsanāya, yāvadeva imassa kāyassa ṭhitiyā yāpanāya, vihiṃsūparatiyā, brahmacariyānuggahāya, iti purāṇaṅca vedanaṃ paṭihaṅkhāmi navaṅca vedanaṃ na uppādessāmi, yātrā ca me bhavissati anavajjatā ca phāsuvihāro ca’.

‘Not for fun, indulgence, adornment, or decoration, but only to sustain this body, to avoid harm, and to support spiritual practice. In this way, I shall put an end to old discomfort and not give rise to new discomfort, and I will live blamelessly and at ease.’

Paṭisaṅkhā yoniso senāsanam paṭisevati:

Reflecting properly, they make use of lodgings:

‘yāvadeva sītassa paṭighātāya, uṇhassa paṭighātāya,
ḍaṃsamakasavātātapasarīsapasamphassānaṃ paṭighātāya,
yāvadeva utuparissayavinodanapaṭisallānārāmattham’.

‘Only for the sake of warding off cold and heat; for warding off the touch of flies, mosquitoes, wind, sun, and reptiles; to shelter from harsh weather and to enjoy retreat.’

Paṭisaṅkhā yoniso gilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhāram paṭisevati:

Reflecting properly, they make use of medicines and supplies for the sick:

‘yāvadeva uppannānaṃ veyyābādhikānaṃ vedanānaṃ paṭighātāya, abyābajjhaparamatāya’.

‘Only for the sake of warding off the pains of illness and to promote good health.’

Yañhissa, bhikkhave, appaṭisevato uppajjeyyum āsavā vighātapariḷāhā, paṭisevato evaṃsa te āsavā vighātapariḷāhā na honti.

For the distressing and feverish defilements that might arise in someone who lives without using these things do not arise when they are used.

Ime vuccanti, bhikkhave, āsavā paṭisevanā pahātabbā.

These are called the defilements that should be given up by using.

4. Adhivāsanāpahātabbaāsava 4. Defilements Given Up by Enduring

Katame ca, bhikkhave, āsavā adhivāsanā pahātabbā?

And what are the defilements that should be given up by enduring?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu paṭisañkhā yoniso khamo hoti sītassa uṇhassa, jighacchāya pipāsāya.

Ḍaṃsamakasavātātapasarīsapasamphassānaṃ, duruttānaṃ durāgatānaṃ vacanapathānaṃ, uppanānaṃ sārīrikānaṃ vedanānaṃ dukkhānaṃ tībānaṃ kharānaṃ kaṭukānaṃ asātānaṃ amanāpānaṃ pāṇaharānaṃ adhivāsakajātiko hoti.

Take a mendicant who, reflecting properly, endures cold, heat, hunger, and thirst. They endure the touch of flies, mosquitoes, wind, sun, and reptiles. They endure rude and unwelcome criticism. And they put up with physical pain—sharp, severe, acute, unpleasant, disagreeable, and life-threatening.

Yañhissa, bhikkhave, anadhivāsayato uppajjeyyum āsavā vighātapariḷāhā, adhivāsayato evaṃsa te āsavā vighātapariḷāhā na honti.

For the distressing and feverish defilements that might arise in someone who lives without enduring these things do not arise when they are endured.

Ime vuccanti, bhikkhave, āsavā adhivāsanā pahātabbā.

These are called the defilements that should be given up by enduring.

5. Parivajjanāpahātabbaāsava

5. Defilements Given Up by Avoiding

Katame ca, bhikkhave, āsavā parivajjanā pahātabbā?

And what are the defilements that should be given up by avoiding?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu paṭisaṅkhā yoniso caṇḍaṃ hatthiṃ parivajjeti, caṇḍaṃ assaṃ parivajjeti, caṇḍaṃ goṇaṃ parivajjeti, caṇḍaṃ kukkuraṃ parivajjeti, ahiṃ khāṇuṃ kaṇṭakaṭṭhānaṃ sobbhaṃ papātaṃ candanikaṃ oḷigallaṃ.

Take a mendicant who, reflecting properly, avoids a wild elephant, a wild horse, a wild ox, a wild dog, a snake, a stump, thorny ground, a pit, a cliff, a swamp, and a sewer.

Yathārūpe anāsane nisinnaṃ yathārūpe agocare carantaṃ yathārūpe pāpake mitte bhajantaṃ viññū sabrahmacārī pāpakesu ṭhānesu okappeyyuṃ, so tañca anāsanaṃ tañca agocaraṃ te ca pāpake mitte paṭisaṅkhā yoniso parivajjeti.

Reflecting properly, they avoid sitting on inappropriate seats, walking in inappropriate neighborhoods, and mixing with bad friends—whatever sensible spiritual companions would believe to be a bad setting.

Yañhissa, bhikkhave, aparivajjayato uppajjeyyuṃ āsavā vighātapariḷāhā, parivajjayato evaṃsa te āsavā vighātapariḷāhā na honti.

For the distressing and feverish defilements that might arise in someone who lives without avoiding these things do not arise when they are avoided.

Ime vuccanti, bhikkhave, āsavā parivajjanā pahātabbā.

These are called the defilements that should be given up by avoiding.

6. Vinodanāpahātabbaāsava 6. Defilements Given Up by Dispelling

Katame ca, bhikkhave, āsavā vinodanā pahātabbā?

And what are the defilements that should be given up by dispelling?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu paṭisaṅkhā yoniso uppannaṃ kāmavitakkaṃ nādhivāseti pajahati vinodeti byantīkaroti anabhāvaṃ gameti, uppannaṃ byāpādavittakkaṃ ...pe... uppannaṃ vihiṃsāvitakkaṃ ...pe... uppannapanne pāpake akusale dhamme nādhivāseti pajahati vinodeti byantīkaroti anabhāvaṃ gameti.

Take a mendicant who, reflecting properly, doesn't tolerate a sensual, malicious, or cruel thought that has arisen, but gives it up, gets rid of it, eliminates it, and obliterates it. They don't tolerate any bad, unskillful qualities that have arisen, but give them up, get rid of them, eliminate them, and obliterate them.

Yañhissa, bhikkhave, avinodayato uppajjeyyumaṃ āsavā vighātapariḷhā, vinodayato evaṃsa te āsavā vighātapariḷhā na honti.

For the distressing and feverish defilements that might arise in someone who lives without dispelling these things do not arise when they are dispelled.

Ime vuccanti, bhikkhave, āsavā vinodanā pahātabbā.

These are called the defilements that should be given up by dispelling.

7. Bhāvanāpahātabbaāsava 7. Defilements Given Up by Developing Katame ca, bhikkhave, āsavā bhāvanā pahātabbā?

And what are the defilements that should be given up by developing?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu paṭisaṅkhā yoniso satisambojjhaṅgaṃ bhāveti vivekanissitaṃ virāganissitaṃ nirodhanissitaṃ vossaggapariṇāmiṃ; paṭisaṅkhā yoniso dhammavicayasambojjhaṅgaṃ bhāveti ...pe... vīriyasambojjhaṅgaṃ bhāveti ... pītisambojjhaṅgaṃ bhāveti ... passaddhisambojjhaṅgaṃ bhāveti ... samādhisambojjhaṅgaṃ bhāveti ... upekkhāsambojjhaṅgaṃ bhāveti vivekanissitaṃ virāganissitaṃ nirodhanissitaṃ vossaggapariṇāmiṃ.

It's when a mendicant, reflecting properly, develops the awakening factors of mindfulness, investigation of principles, energy, rapture, tranquility, immersion, and equanimity, which rely on seclusion, fading away, and cessation, and ripen as letting go.

Yañhissa, bhikkhave, abhāvayato uppajjeyyumaṃ āsavā vighātapariḷāhā, bhāvayato evaṃsa te āsavā vighātapariḷāhā na honti.

For the distressing and feverish defilements that might arise in someone who lives without developing these things do not arise when they are developed.

Ime vuccanti, bhikkhave, āsavā bhāvanā pahātabbā.

These are called the defilements that should be given up by developing.

Yato kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno ye āsavā dassanā pahātabbā te dassanā pahīnā honti, ye āsavā saṃvarā pahātabbā te saṃvarā pahīnā honti, ye āsavā paṭisevanā pahātabbā te paṭisevanā pahīnā honti, ye āsavā adhivāsanā pahātabbā te adhivāsanā pahīnā honti, ye āsavā parivajjanā pahātabbā te parivajjanā pahīnā honti, ye āsavā vinodanā pahātabbā te vinodanā pahīnā honti, ye āsavā bhāvanā pahātabbā te bhāvanā pahīnā honti;

Now, take a mendicant who, by seeing, has given up the defilements that should be given up by seeing. By restraint, they've given up the defilements that should be given up by restraint. By using, they've given up the defilements that should be given up by using. By enduring, they've given up the defilements that should be given up by enduring. By avoiding, they've given up the defilements that should be given up by avoiding. By dispelling, they've given up the defilements that should be given up by dispelling. By developing, they've given up the defilements that should be given up by developing.

ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave: 'bhikkhu sabbāsavaśaṃvarasaṃvuto viharati, acchecchi taṇhaṃ, vivattayi saṃyojanaṃ, sammā mānābhisamayā antamakāsi dukkhassā'”ti.

They're called a mendicant who lives having restrained all defilements, who has cut off craving, untied the fetters, and by rightly comprehending conceit has made an end of suffering.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Sabbāsavasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ dutiyaṃ.

3. Dhammadāyādasutta Heirs in the Teaching

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagava bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagava etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Dhammadāyādā me, bhikkhave, bhavatha, mā āmisadāyādā.

“Mendicants, be my heirs in the teaching, not in material things.

Atthi me tumhesu anukampā:

Out of compassion for you, I think,

‘kinti me sāvaka dhammadāyādā bhavessum, no āmisadāyādā’ti.

‘How can my disciples become heirs in the teaching, not in material things?’

Tumhe ca me, bhikkhave, āmisadāyādā bhaveyyātha no dhammadāyādā, tumhepi tena ādiyā bhaveyyātha:

If you become heirs in material things, not in the teaching, they’ll point to you, saying,

‘āmisadāyādā satthusāvakā viharanti, no dhammadāyādā’ti;

‘The Teacher’s disciples live as heirs in material things, not in the teaching.’

ahampi tena ādiyo bhaveyyaṃ:

And they’ll point to me, saying,

‘āmisadāyādā satthusāvakā viharanti, no dhammadāyādā’ti.

‘The Teacher’s disciples live as heirs in material things, not in the teaching.’

Tumhe ca me, bhikkhave, dhammadāyādā bhaveyyātha, no āmisadāyādā, tumhepi tena na ādiyā bhaveyyātha:

If you become heirs in the teaching, not in material things, they’ll point to you, saying,

‘dhammadāyādā satthusāvakā viharanti, no āmisadāyādā’ti;

‘The Teacher’s disciples live as heirs in the teaching, not in material things.’

ahampi tena na ādiyo bhaveyyaṃ:

And they’ll point to me, saying,

‘dhammadāyādā satthusāvakā viharanti, no āmisadāyādā’ti.

‘The Teacher’s disciples live as heirs in the teaching, not in material things.’

Tasmātiha me, bhikkhave, dhammadāyādā bhavatha, mā āmisadāyādā.

So, mendicants, be my heirs in the teaching, not in material things.

Atthi me tumhesu anukampā:

Out of compassion for you, I think,

‘kinti me sāvakā dhammadāyādā bhavēyyuṃ, no āmisadāyādā’ti.

‘How can my disciples become heirs in the teaching, not in material things?’

Idhāhaṃ, bhikkhave, bhuttāvī assaṃ pavārito paripuṇṇo pariyosito suhito yāvadattho;

Suppose that I had eaten and refused more food, being full, and having had as much as I needed.

siyā ca me piṇḍapāto atirekadhammo chaḍḍanīyadhammo.

And there was some extra alms-food that was going to be thrown away.

Atha dve bhikkhū āgaccheyyuṃ jighacchādubbalyaparetā.

Then two mendicants were to come who were weak with hunger.

Tyāhaṃ evaṃ vadeyyaṃ:

I’d say to them,

‘ahaṃ khomhi, bhikkhave, bhuttāvī pavārito paripuṇṇo pariyosito suhito yāvadattho;

‘Mendicants, I have eaten and refused more food, being full, and having had as much as I need.

atthi ca me ayaṃ piṇḍapāto atirekadhammo chaḍḍanīyadhammo.

And there is this extra alms-food that’s going to be thrown away.

Sace ākaṅkhatha, bhuñjatha, no ce tumhe bhuñjissatha, idānāhaṃ appaharite vā chaḍḍessāmi, appāṇake vā uḍake opilāpessāmī’ti.

Eat it if you like. Otherwise I’ll throw it out where there is little that grows, or drop it into water that has no living creatures.’

Tatrekassa bhikkhuno evamassa:

Then one of those mendicants thought,

‘bhagavā kho bhuttāvī pavārito paripuṇṇo pariyosito suhito yāvadattho;

‘The Buddha has eaten and refused more food.

atthi cāyaṃ bhagavato piṇḍapāto atirekadhammo chaḍḍanīyadhammo.

And he has some extra alms-food that’s going to be thrown away.

Sace mayaṃ na bhuñjissāma, idāni bhagavā appaharite vā chaḍḍessati, appāṇake vā udake opilāpessati.

If we don’t eat it he’ll throw it away.

Vuttaṃ kho panetaṃ bhagavatā:

But the Buddha has also said:

“dhammadāyādā me, bhikkhave, bhavatha, mā āmisadāyādā”ti.

“Be my heirs in the teaching, not in material things.”

Āmisaññataraṃ kho panetaṃ, yadidaṃ piṇḍapāto.

And alms-food is a kind of material thing.

Yannūnāhaṃ imaṃ piṇḍapātaṃ abhuñjitvā imināva jighacchādubbalyena evaṃ imaṃ rattindivaṃ vītināmeyyan’ti.

Instead of eating this alms-food, why don’t I spend this day and night weak with hunger?’

So taṃ piṇḍapātaṃ abhuñjitvā teneva jighacchādubbalyena evaṃ taṃ rattindivaṃ vītināmeyya.

And that’s what they did.

Atha dutiyassa bhikkhuno evamassa:

Then the second of those mendicants thought,

‘bhagavā kho bhuttāvī pavārito paripuṇṇo pariyosito suhito yāvadattho;

‘The Buddha has eaten and refused more food.

atthi cāyaṃ bhagavato piṇḍapāto atirekadhammo chaḍḍanīyadhammo.

And he has some extra alms-food that's going to be thrown away.

Sace mayam na bhuñjissāma, idāni bhagavā appaharite vā chaḍḍessati, appāṇake vā udake opilāpessati.

If we don't eat it he'll throw it away.

Yannūnāham imam piṇḍapātam bhuñjitvā jighacchādubbalyam paṭivinodetvā evam imam rattindivam vītināmeyyan'ti.

Why don't I eat this alms-food, then spend the day and night having got rid of my hunger and weakness?'

So tam piṇḍapātam bhuñjitvā jighacchādubbalyam paṭivinodetvā evam tam rattindivam vītināmeyya.

And that's what they did.

Kiñcāpi so, bhikkhave, bhikkhu tam piṇḍapātam bhuñjitvā jighacchādubbalyam paṭivinodetvā evam tam rattindivam vītināmeyya, atha kho asuyeva me purimo bhikkhu pujjataro ca pāsaṃsataro ca.

Even though that mendicant, after eating the alms-food, spent the day and night rid of hunger and weakness, it is the former mendicant who is more worthy of respect and praise.

Tam kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Taṃhi tassa, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno dīgharattam appicchatāya santuṭṭhiyā sallekhāya subharatāya vīriyārambhāya saṃvattissati.

Because for a long time that will conduce to that mendicant being of few wishes, content, self-effacing, easy to look after, and energetic.

Tasmātiha me, bhikkhave, dhammadāyādā bhavatha, mā āmisadāyādā.

So, mendicants, be my heirs in the teaching, not in material things.

Atthi me tumhesu anukampā:

Out of compassion for you, I think,

‘kinti me sāvakaṃ dhammadāyādā bhaveyyuṃ, no āmisadāyādā’”ti.

‘How can my disciples become heirs in the teaching, not in material things?’”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Idaṃ vatvāna sugato uṭṭhāyāsanā vihāraṃ pāvisi.

When he had spoken, the Holy One got up from his seat and entered his dwelling.

Tatra kho āyasmā sāriputto acirapakkantassa bhagavato bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then soon after the Buddha left, Venerable Sāriputta said to the mendicants, “āvuso bhikkhave”ti.

“Reverends, mendicants!”

“Āvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato sāriputtassa paccassosuṃ.

“Reverend,” they replied.

Āyasmā sāriputto etadavoca:

Sāriputta said this:

“Kittāvatā nu kho, āvuso, satthu pavivittassa viharato sāvakaṃ vivekaṃ nānusikkhanti, kittāvatā ca pana satthu pavivittassa viharato sāvakaṃ vivekamanusikkhanti”ti?

“Reverends, how do the disciples of a Teacher who lives in seclusion not train in seclusion? And how do they train in seclusion?”

“Dūratopi kho mayaṃ, āvuso, āgacchāma āyasmato sāriputtassa santike etassa bhāsitassa atthamaññātuṃ.

“Reverend, we would travel a long way to learn the meaning of this statement in the presence of Venerable Sāriputta.

Sādhū vatāyasmantaṃyeva sārīputtaṃ paṭibhātu etassa bhāsītassa attho;

May Venerable Sārīputta himself please clarify the meaning of this.

āyasmato sārīputtassa sutvā bhikkhū dhāressantī”ti.

The mendicants will listen and remember it.”

“Tena hāvuso, suṇātha, sādhukaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmī”ti.

“Well then, reverends, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato sārīputtassa paccassosum.

“Yes, reverend,” they replied.

Āyasmā sārīputto etadvoca:

Sārīputta said this:

“Kittāvatā nu kho, āvuso, satthu pavivittassa viharato sāvakā vivekaṃ nānusikkhanti?

“Reverends, how do the disciples of a Teacher who lives in seclusion not train in seclusion?”

Idhāvuso, satthu pavivittassa viharato sāvakā vivekaṃ nānusikkhanti,

The disciples of a teacher who lives in seclusion do not train in seclusion.

yesañca dhammānaṃ satthā pahānamāha, te ca dhamme nappajahanti,

They don’t give up what the Teacher tells them to give up.

bāhulikā ca honti, sāthalikā, okkamane pubbaṅgamā, paviveke nikkhattadhurā.

They’re indulgent and slack, leaders in backsliding, neglecting seclusion.

Tatrāvuso, therā bhikkhū tīhi ṭhānehi gārayhā bhavanti.

In this case, the senior mendicants should be criticized on three grounds.

‘Satthu pavivittassa viharato sāvakaṃ vivekaṃ nānusikkhantī’ti—

iminā paṭhamena ṭhānena therā bhikkhū gārayhā bhavanti.

This is the first ground.

‘Yesañca dhammānaṃ satthā pahānamāha te ca dhamme nappajahantī’ti—

iminā dutiyena ṭhānena therā bhikkhū gārayhā bhavanti.

This is the second ground.

‘Bāhulikā ca, sāthalikā, okkamane pubbaṅgamā, paviveke nikkhattadhurā’ti—

‘They’re indulgent and slack, leaders in backsliding, neglecting seclusion.’

iminā tatiyena ṭhānena therā bhikkhū gārayhā bhavanti.

This is the third ground.

Therā, āvuso, bhikkhū imehi tīhi ṭhānehi gārayhā bhavanti.

The senior mendicants should be criticized on these three grounds.

Tatrāvuso, majjhimā bhikkhū ...pe...

In this case, the middle mendicants navā bhikkhū tīhi ṭhānehi gārayhā bhavanti.

and the junior mendicants should be criticized on the same three grounds.

‘Satthu pavivittassa viharato sāvakaṃ vivekaṃ nānusikkhantī’ti—iminā paṭhamena ṭhānena navā bhikkhū gārayhā bhavanti.

‘Yesañca dhammānaṃ satthā pahānamāha te ca dhamme nappajahantī’ti—iminā dutiyena ṭhānena navā bhikkhū gārayhā bhavanti.

‘Bāhulikā ca honti, sāthalikā, okkamane pubbaṅgamā, paviveke nikkhittadhurā’ti—iminā tatiyena ṭhānena navā bhikkhū gārayhā bhavanti.

Navā, āvuso, bhikkhū imehi tīhi ṭhānehi gārayhā bhavanti.

Ettāvatā kho, āvuso, satthu pavivittassa viharato sāvakā vivekaṃ nānusikkhanti.

This is how the disciples of a Teacher who lives in seclusion do not train in seclusion.

Kittāvatā ca panāvuso, satthu pavivittassa viharato sāvakā vivekamanusikkhanti?

And how do the disciples of a teacher who lives in seclusion train in seclusion?

Idhāvuso, satthu pavivittassa viharato sāvakā vivekamanusikkhanti—

The disciples of a teacher who lives in seclusion train in seclusion.

yesañca dhammānaṃ satthā pahānamāha te ca dhamme pajahanti;

They give up what the Teacher tells them to give up.

na ca bāhulikā honti, na sāthalikā okkamane nikkhittadhurā paviveke pubbaṅgamā.

They’re not indulgent and slack, leaders in backsliding, neglecting seclusion.

Tatrāvuso, therā bhikkhū tīhi ṭhānehi pāsaṃsā bhavanti.

In this case, the senior mendicants should be praised on three grounds.

‘Satthu pavivittassa viharato sāvakā vivekamanusikkhanti’ti—
‘The disciples of a teacher who lives in seclusion train in seclusion.’

iminā paṭhamena ṭhānena therā bhikkhū pāsaṃsā bhavanti.

This is the first ground.

‘Yesañca dhammānaṃ satthā pahānamāha te ca dhamme pajahantī’ti—

‘They give up what the Teacher tells them to give up.’

iminā dutiyena ṭhānena therā bhikkhū pāsaṃsā bhavanti.

This is the second ground.

‘Na ca bāhulikā, na sāthalikā okkamane nikkhattadhurā paviveke pubbaṅgamā’ti—

‘They’re not indulgent and slack, leaders in backsliding, neglecting seclusion.’

iminā tatiyena ṭhānena therā bhikkhū pāsaṃsā bhavanti.

This is the third ground.

Therā, āvuso, bhikkhū imehi tīhi ṭhānehi pāsaṃsā bhavanti.

The senior mendicants should be praised on these three grounds.

Navā, āvuso, bhikkhū imehi tīhi ṭhānehi pāsaṃsā bhavanti.

Ettāvatā kho, āvuso, satthu pavivittassa viharato sāvakā vivekamanusikkhanti.

This is how the disciples of a Teacher who lives in seclusion train in seclusion.

Idamavocāyasmā sāriputto.

This is what Venerable Sāriputta said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū āyasmato sāriputtassa bhāsitaṃ

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what Sāriputta said.

Dhammadāyādasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ tatiyaṃ.

4. Bhayabheravasutta

Fear and Dread

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anathapiṇḍikassa ārame.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Atha kho jāṇussoṇi brāhmaṇo yena bhagava tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then the brahmin Jāṇussoṇi went up to the Buddha, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyam katham sāraṇīyam vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho jāṇussoṇi brāhmaṇo bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to the Buddha:

“yeme, bho gotama, kulaputtā bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ uddissa saddhā agāasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajitā, bhavaṃ tesaṃ gotamo pubbaṅgamo, bhavaṃ tesaṃ gotamo bahukāro, bhavaṃ tesaṃ gotamo samādapetā;

“Master Gotama, those gentlemen who have gone forth from the lay life to homelessness out of faith in Master Gotama have Master Gotama to lead the way, help them out, and give them encouragement.

bhoto ca pana gotamassa sã janatã diṭṭhãnugatiṃ ãpajjatĩ”ti.
And those people follow Master Gotama’s example.”

“Evametaṃ, brãhmaṇa, evametaṃ, brãhmaṇa.

“That’s so true, brahmin! Everything you say is true, brahmin!”

Ye te, brãhmaṇa, kulaputtã mamaṃ uddissa saddhã agãrasmã anagãriyaṃ pabbajitã, ahaṃ tesaṃ pubbaṅgamo, ahaṃ tesaṃ bahukãro, ahaṃ tesaṃ samãdapetã;

mama ca pana sã janatã diṭṭhãnugatiṃ ãpajjatĩ”ti.

“Durabhisambhavãni hi kho, bho gotama, araṅṅavanapatthãni pantãni senãsanãni, dukkaraṃ pavivekaṃ, durabhiramaṃ

“But Master Gotama, remote lodgings in the wilderness and the forest are challenging. It’s hard to maintain seclusion and hard to find joy in it.

ekatte, haranti maññe mano vanãni samãdhiṃ alabhamãnassa bhikkhuno”ti.

Staying alone, the forests seem to rob the mind of a mendicant who isn’t immersed in samãdhi.”

“Evametaṃ, brãhmaṇa, evametaṃ, brãhmaṇa.

“That’s so true, brahmin! Everything you say is true, brahmin!”

Durabhisambhavãni hi kho, brãhmaṇa, araṅṅavanapatthãni

ekatte, haranti maññe mano vanãni samãdhiṃ alabhamãnassa bhikkhuno.

Mayhampi kho, brãhmaṇa, pubbeva sambodhã

anabhisambuddhassa bodhisattasseva sato etadahosi:

Before my awakening—when I was still unawakened but intent on awakening—I too thought,

‘durabhisambhavāni hi kho araññavanapatthāni pantāni senāsanāni, dukkaraṃ pavivekaṃ, durabhiraṃ

‘Remote lodgings in the wilderness and the forest are challenging.
It’s hard to maintain seclusion, and hard to find joy in it.

ekatte, haranti maññe mano vanāni samādhiṃ alabhamānassa bhikkhuno’ti.

Staying alone, the forests seem to rob the mind of a mendicant who isn’t immersed in samādhi.’

Tassa mayhaṃ, brāhmaṇa, etadahosi:

Then I thought,

‘ye kho keci samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā

Tassa mayhaṃ, brāhmaṇa, etadahosi:

Then I thought,

'yannūnāhaṃ yā tā rattiyo abhiññātā abhilakkhitā—

'There are certain nights that are recognized as specially portentous:

On such nights, why don't I stay in awe-inspiring and hair-raising shrines in parks, forests, and trees? In such lodgings, hopefully I might see that fear and dread.'

So kho ahaṃ, brāhmaṇa, aparena samayena yā tā rattiyo abhiññātā abhilakkhitā—

Some time later, that's what I did.

cātuddasī pañcadasī aṭṭhamī ca pakkhassa—senāsanesu viharāmi.

Tattha ca me, brāhmaṇa, viharato mago vā āgacchati, moro vā kaṭṭhaṃ pātetī, vāto vā paṇṇakasaṭaṃ ereti;

As I was staying there a deer came by, or a peacock snapped a twig, or the wind rustled the leaves.

tassa mayhaṃ brāhmaṇa etadahosi:

Then I thought,

‘etaṃ nūna taṃ bhayabheravaṃ āgacchatī’ti.

‘Is this that fear and dread coming?’

Tassa mayhaṃ, brāhmaṇa, etadahosi:

Then I thought,

‘kiṃ nu kho ahaṃ aññadatthu bhayapaṭikaṅkhī viharāmi?

‘Why do I always meditate expecting that fear and terror to come?’

Yannūnāhaṃ yathābhūtaṃ yathābhūtassa me taṃ bhayabheravaṃ āgacchati, tathābhūtaṃ tathābhūtova taṃ bhayabheravaṃ paṭivineyyan’ti.

I didn’t stand still or sit down or lie down until I had got rid of that fear and dread while walking.

Tassa mayhaṃ, brāhmaṇa, ṭhitassa taṃ bhayabheravaṃ āgacchati.

Then that fear and dread came upon me as I was standing.

So kho ahaṃ, brāhmaṇa, neva tāva caṅkamāmi na nisīdāmi na nipajjāmi. Yāva ṭhitova taṃ bhayabheravaṃ paṭivinemi.

I didn't walk or sit down or lie down until I had got rid of that fear and dread while standing.

Tassa mayhaṃ, brāhmaṇa, nisinnassa taṃ bhayabheravaṃ āgacchati.

Then that fear and dread came upon me as I was sitting.

So kho ahaṃ, brāhmaṇa, neva tāva nipajjāmi na tiṭṭhāmi na caṅkamāmi, yāva nisinnova taṃ bhayabheravaṃ paṭivinemi.

I didn't lie down or stand still or walk until I had got rid of that fear and dread while sitting.

Santi kho pana, brāhmaṇa, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā rattimyeva samānaṃ divāti sañjānanti, divāyeva samānaṃ rattīti sañjānanti.

There are some ascetics and brahmins who perceive that it's day when in fact it's night, or perceive that it's night when in fact it's day.

Idamahaṃ tesaṃ samaṇabrāhmaṇānaṃ sammohavihārasmiṃ vadāmi.

This meditation of theirs is delusional, I say.

Ahaṃ kho pana, brāhmaṇa, rattimyeva samānaṃ rattīti sañjānāmi, divāyeva samānaṃ divāti sañjānāmi.

I perceive that it's night when in fact it is night, and perceive that it's day when in fact it is day.

Yaṃ kho taṃ, brāhmaṇa, sammā vadamāno vadeyya:

And if there's anyone of whom it may be rightly said that

a being not liable to delusion has arisen in the world for the welfare and happiness of the people, for the benefit, welfare, and happiness of gods and humans, it’s of me that this should be said.

Āraddhaṃ kho pana me, brāhmaṇa, vīriyaṃ ahosi asallīnaṃ, upaṭṭhitā sati asammuṭṭhā, passaddho kāyo asāraddho, samāhitaṃ cittaṃ ekaggaṃ.

My energy was roused up and unflagging, my mindfulness was established and lucid, my body was tranquil and undisturbed, and my mind was immersed in samādhi.

So kho ahaṃ, brāhmaṇa, vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja vihāsim.

Quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, I entered and remained in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhattaṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja vihāsim.

As the placing of the mind and keeping it connected were stilled, I entered and remained in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca vihāsim, sato ca sampajāno sukhañca kāyena paṭisaṃvedesim; yaṃ taṃ ariyā ācikkhanti:

‘upekkhako satimā sukhavihārī’ti tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja vihāsim.

And with the fading away of rapture, I entered and remained in the third absorption, where I meditated with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, ‘Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.’

Sukhassa ca pahānā dukkhassa ca pahānā pubbeva somanassadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamā adukkhamasukhaṃ upekkhāsatipārisuddhiṃ catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja vihāsim.

With the giving up of pleasure and pain, and the ending of former happiness and sadness, I entered and remained in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte pubbenivāsānussatiñāṇāya cittaṃ abhininnāmesim. So anekavihitaṃ pubbenivāsaṃ anussarāmi,

When my mind had become immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—I extended it toward recollection of past lives. I recollected many kinds of past lives.

That is: one, two, three, four, five, ten, twenty, thirty, forty, fifty, a hundred, a thousand, a hundred thousand rebirths; many eons of the world contracting, many eons of the world expanding, many eons of the world contracting and expanding. I remembered: ‘There, I was named this, my clan was that, I looked like this, and that was my food. This was how I felt pleasure and pain, and that was how my life ended. When I passed away from that place I was reborn somewhere else. There, too, I was named this, my clan was that, I looked like this, and that was my food. This was how I felt pleasure and pain, and that was how my life ended. When I passed away from that place I was reborn here.’ And so I recollected my many kinds of past lives, with features and details.

Ayaṃ kho me, brāhmaṇa, rattiyā paṭhame yāme paṭhamā vijjā adhigatā,

This was the first knowledge, which I achieved in the first watch of the night.

avijjā vihatā vijjā uppannā, tamo vihato āloko uppanno, yathā taṃ appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato.

Ignorance was destroyed and knowledge arose; darkness was destroyed and light arose, as happens for a meditator who is diligent, keen, and resolute.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte sattānaṃ cutūpapātaññāya cittaṃ abhininnāmesim.

When my mind had become immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—I extended it toward knowledge of the death and rebirth of sentient beings.

So dibbena cakkhunā visuddhena atikkantamānusakena satte passāmi cavamāne upapajjamāne hīne paṇīte suvaṇṇe dubbaṇṇe sugate duggate yathākammūpage satte pajānāmi: ‘ime vata bhonto sattā kāyaduccaritena samannāgatā

With clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, I saw sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. I understood how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds: 'These dear beings did bad things by way of body, speech, and mind. They spoke ill of the noble ones; they had wrong view; and they chose to act out of that wrong view. When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell. These dear beings, however, did good things by way of body, speech, and mind. They never spoke ill of the noble ones; they had right view; and they chose to act out of that right view. When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.' And so, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, I saw sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. I understood how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds.

Ayaṃ kho me, brāhmaṇa, rattiyaṃ majjhime yāme dutiyaṃ vijjā

This was the second knowledge, which I achieved in the middle watch of the night.

avijjā vihatā vijjā uppannā, tamo vihato āloko uppanno, yathā taṃ appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato.

Ignorance was destroyed and knowledge arose; darkness was destroyed and light arose, as happens for a meditator who is diligent, keen, and resolute.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte āsavānaṃ khayañāṇāya cittaṃ abhininnāmesim̐.

When my mind had become immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—I extended it toward knowledge of the ending of defilements.

So ‘idaṃ dukkhan’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbhaññāsim̐, ‘ayaṃ

I truly understood: ‘This is suffering’ ... ‘This is the origin of suffering’ ... ‘This is the cessation of suffering’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering’.

‘Ime āsavā’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbhaññāsim̐, ‘ayaṃ

I truly understood: ‘These are defilements’ ... ‘This is the origin of defilements’ ... ‘This is the cessation of defilements’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of defilements’.

Tassa me evaṃ jānato evaṃ passato kāmāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccittha, bhavāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccittha, avijjāsavāpi

Knowing and seeing like this, my mind was freed from the defilements of sensuality, desire to be reborn, and ignorance.

Vimuttasmim̐ vimuttamiti ñāṇaṃ ahosi.

When it was freed, I knew it was freed.

‘Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā’ti abbhaññāsīṃ.

I understood: ‘Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.’

Ayaṃ kho me, brāhmaṇa, rattiyā pacchime yāme tatiyā vijjā adhigatā,

This was the third knowledge, which I achieved in the final watch of the night.

avijjā vihatā vijjā uppannā, tamo vihato āloko uppanno, yathā taṃ appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato.

Ignorance was destroyed and knowledge arose; darkness was destroyed and light arose, as happens for a meditator who is diligent, keen, and resolute.

Siyā kho pana te, brāhmaṇa, evamassa:

Brahmin, you might think:

‘ajjāpi nūna samaṇo gotamo avītarāgo avītadoso avītamoho, tasmā araṇṇavanapatthāni pantāni senāsanāni paṭisevatī’ti.

‘Perhaps the Master Gotama is not free of greed, hate, and delusion even today, and that is why he still frequents remote lodgings in the wilderness and the forest.’

Na kho panetaṃ, brāhmaṇa, evaṃ daṭṭhabbaṃ.

But you should not see it like this.

Dve kho ahaṃ, brāhmaṇa, atthavase sampassamāno araṇṇavanapatthāni pantāni senāsanāni paṭisevāmi—

I see two reasons to frequent remote lodgings in the wilderness and the forest.

attano ca diṭṭhadhammasukhavihāraṃ sampassamāno, pacchimañca janataṃ anukampamāno”ti.

I see a happy life for myself in the present, and I have compassion for future generations.”

“Anukampitarūpā vatāyaṃ bhotā gotamena pacchimā janatā, yathā taṃ arahatā sammāsambuddhena.

“Indeed, Master Gotama has compassion for future generations, since he is a perfected one, a fully awakened Buddha.

Abhikkantaṃ, bho gotama. Abhikkantaṃ, bho gotama.

Excellent, Master Gotama! Excellent, Master Gotama!

Seyyathāpi, bho gotama, nikkujjitaṃ vā ukkujjeyya, paṭicchannaṃ vā vivareyya, mūḷhassa vā maggaṃ ācikkheyya, andhakāre vā telapajjotaṃ dhāreyya: ‘cakkhumanto rūpāni dakkhantī’ti; evamevaṃ bhotā gotamena anekapariyāyena dhammo pakāsito.

As if he were righting the overturned, or revealing the hidden, or pointing out the path to the lost, or lighting a lamp in the dark so people with good eyes can see what’s there, Master Gotama has made the teaching clear in many ways.

Esāhaṃ bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ saraṇaṃ gacchāmi dhammañca bhikkhusaṅghaṃca.

I go for refuge to Master Gotama, to the teaching, and to the mendicant Saṅgha.

From this day forth, may Master Gotama remember me as a lay follower who has gone for refuge for life.”

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta’s Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tatra kho āyasmā sāriputto bhikkhū āmantesi:

There Sāriputta addressed the mendicants:

“āvuso bhikkhave”ti.

“Reverends, mendicants!”

“Āvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato sāriputtassa paccassosum.

“Reverend,” they replied.

Āyasmā sāriputto etadavoca:

Sāriputta said this:

“Cattārome, āvuso, puggalā santo saṃvijjamānā lokasmiṃ.

“Mendicants, these four people are found in the world.

In the same way, there are those faithless people who went forth from the lay life to homelessness not out of faith but to earn a livelihood. They're devious, deceitful, and sneaky. They're restless, insolent, fickle, gossipy, and loose-tongued. They do not guard their sense doors or eat in moderation, and they are not dedicated to wakefulness. They don't care about the ascetic life, and don't keenly respect the training. They're indulgent and slack, leaders in backsliding, neglecting seclusion, lazy, and lacking energy. They're unmindful, lacking situational awareness and immersion, with straying minds, witless and stupid. Venerable Sāriputta planes their faults with this exposition of the teaching as if he knows my heart with his heart!

But there are those gentlemen who went forth from the lay life to homelessness out of faith. They're not devious, deceitful, and sneaky. They're not restless, insolent, fickle, gossipy, and loose-tongued. They guard their sense doors and eat in moderation, and they are dedicated to wakefulness. They care about the ascetic life, and keenly respect the training. They're not indulgent or slack, nor are they leaders in backsliding, neglecting seclusion. They're energetic and determined. They're mindful, with situational awareness, immersion, and unified minds; wise, not stupid. Hearing this exposition of the teaching from Venerable Sāriputta, they drink it up and devour it, as it were. And in speech and thought they say:

‘sādhu vata, bho, sabrahmacārī akusalā vuṭṭhāpetvā kusale patitṭhāpetī’ti.

‘It’s good, sirs, that he draws his spiritual companions away from the unskillful and establishes them in the skillful.’

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta’s Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavaṁ bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavaṁ etadvoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Sampannasīlā, bhikkhave, viharatha sampannapātimokkhā;

“Mendicants, live by the ethical precepts and the monastic code. Live restrained in the monastic code, conducting yourselves well and seeking alms in suitable places. Seeing danger in the slightest fault, keep the rules you’ve undertaken.

Ākaṅkheyya ce, bhikkhave, bhikkhu: ‘sābrahmacārīnaṃ piyo ca assaṃ manāpo ca garu ca bhāvanīyo cā’ti, sīlesvevassa paripūrakārī ajjhattaṃ cetosamathamanuyutto anirākatajjhāno vipassanāya samannāgato brūhetā suññāgārānaṃ. (1)

A mendicant might wish: ‘May I be liked and approved by my spiritual companions, respected and admired.’ So let them fulfill their precepts, be committed to inner serenity of the heart, not neglect absorption, be endowed with discernment, and frequent empty huts.

Ākaṅkheyya ce, bhikkhave, bhikkhu: ‘lābhī assaṃ cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhārānaṃ’ti, sīlesvevassa paripūrakārī ajjhattaṃ cetosamathamanuyutto anirākatajjhāno vipassanāya samannāgato brūhetā suññāgārānaṃ. (2)

A mendicant might wish: ‘May I receive robes, alms-food, lodgings, and medicines and supplies for the sick.’ So let them fulfill their precepts, be committed to inner serenity of the heart, not neglect absorption, be endowed with discernment, and frequent empty huts.

Ākaṅkheyya ce, bhikkhave, bhikkhu: ‘yesāhaṃ cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhāraṃ paribhuñjāmi tesaṃ te kārā mahapphalā assu mahānisaṃsā’ti, sīlesvevassa paripūrakārī ajjhattaṃ cetosamathamanuyutto anirākatajjhāno vipassanāya samannāgato brūhetā suññāgārānaṃ. (3)

A mendicant might wish: ‘May the services of those whose robes, alms-food, lodgings, and medicines and supplies for the sick I enjoy be very fruitful and beneficial for them.’ So let them fulfill their precepts ...

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave:

This is called a mendicant who is bathed with the inner bathing.”

Tena kho pana samayena sundarikabhāradvājo brāhmaṇo bhagavato avidūre nisinno hoti.

Now, at that time the brahmin Sundarika Bhāradvāja was sitting not far from the Buddha.

Atha kho sundarikabhāradvājo brāhmaṇo bhagavantam etadavoca:

He said to the Buddha,

“gacchati pana bhavam gotamo bāhukam nadim sināyitun”ti?

“But does Master Gotama go to the river Bāhuka to bathe?”

“Kim, brāhmaṇa, bāhukāya nadiyā?

“Brahmin, why go to the river Bāhuka?

Kim bāhukā nadī karissatī”ti?

What can the river Bāhuka do?”

“Lokkhasammatā hi, bho gotama, bāhukā nadī bahujanassa, puññasammatā hi, bho gotama, bāhukā nadī bahujanassa, bāhukāya pana nadiyā bahujano pāpakammaṃ kataṃ pavāhetī”ti.

“Many people agree that the river Bāhuka bestows cleanliness and merit. And many people wash off their bad deeds in the river Bāhuka.”

Atha kho bhagavā sundarikabhāradvājam brāhmaṇam gāthāhi ajjhabhāsi:

Then the Buddha addressed Sundarika in verse:

“Bāhukaṃ adhikakkañca,

“The Bāhuka and the Adhikakka, gayam sundarikaṃ mapi;

the Gaya and the Sundarika too,

Sarassatiṃ payāgañca,

Sarasvatī and Payāga, atho bāhumatiṃ nadiṃ;

and the river Bāhumati:

Niccampi bālo pakkhando,

a fool can constantly plunge into them kaṇhakammo na sujhati.

but it won't purify their dark deeds.

Kiṃ sundarikā karissati,

What can the Sundarika do?

Kiṃ payāgā kiṃ bāhukā nadī;

What the Payāga or the Bāhuka?

Veriṃ katakibbisam naram,

They can't cleanse a cruel and criminal person

Na hi nam sodhaye pāpakamminam.

from their bad deeds.

Suddhassa ve sadā phaggu,

For the pure in heart it's always Suddhassuposatho sadā;

the spring festival or the sabbath.

Suddhassa sucikamma,

For the pure in heart and clean of deed,

Sadā sampajjate vataṃ;
their vows will always be fulfilled.

Idheva sināhi brāhmaṇa,
It's here alone that you should bathe, brahmin,

Sabbabhūtesu karohi khemataṃ.
making yourself a sanctuary for all creatures.

Sace musā na bhaṇasi,
And if you speak no lies,

sace pāṇaṃ na hiṃsasi;
nor harm any living creature,

Sace adinnaṃ nādiyasi, nor steal anything not given,

saddahāno amaccharī;
and you're faithful and not stingy:

Kim kāhasi gayaṃ gantvā, what's the point of going to Gaya?

udapānopi te gayā”ti.
For any well will be your Gaya!”

Evaṃ vutte, sundarikabhāradvājo brāhmaṇo bhagavantaṃ
etadavoca:

When he had spoken, the brahmin Sundarika Bhāradvāja said to the Buddha, “abhikkantaṃ, bho gotama, abhikkantaṃ, bho gotama.

“Excellent, Master Gotama! Excellent!

Seyyathāpi, bho gotama, nikkujjitaṃ vā ukkujjeyya, paṭicchannaṃ vā vivareyya, mūḷhassa vā maggaṃ ācikkheyya, andhakāre vā telapajjotaṃ dhāreyya—cakkhumanto rūpāni dakkhantīti; evamevaṃ bhotā gotamena anekapariyāyena dhammo pakāsito.

As if he were righting the overturned, or revealing the hidden, or pointing out the path to the lost, or lighting a lamp in the dark so people with good eyes can see what's there, Master Gotama has made the teaching clear in many ways.

Esāhaṃ bhavaṃtaṃ gotamaṃ saraṇaṃ gacchāmi dhammaṅca bhikkhusaṅghaṅca.

I go for refuge to Master Gotama, to the teaching, and to the mendicant Saṅgha.

Labheyāhaṃ bhoṭo gotamassa santike pabbajjaṃ, labheyyaṃ upasampadan”ti.

Sir, may I receive the going forth, the ordination in the Buddha's presence?"

Alattha kho sundarikabhāradvājo brāhmaṇo bhagavato santike pabbajjaṃ, alattha upasampadaṃ.

And the brahmin Sundarika Bhāradvāja received the going forth, the ordination in the Buddha's presence.

Acirūpasampanno kho panāyasmā bhāradvājo eko vūpakaṭṭho appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaraṃ—brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayamaṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihāsi.

Not long after his ordination, Venerable Bhāradvāja, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā”ti abbhaññāsi.

He understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

Aññataro kho panāyasmā bhāradvājo arahataṃ ahoṣīti.

And Venerable Bhāradvāja became one of the perfected.

Vatthasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ sattamaṃ.

8. Sallekhasutta Self-Effacement

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anathapiṇḍikassa ārame.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Atha kho āyasmā mahācundo sāyanhasamayam paṭisallānā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantam nisīdi. Ekamantam nisinno kho āyasmā mahācundo bhagavantam etadavoca:

Then in the late afternoon, Venerable Mahācunda came out of retreat and went to the Buddha. He bowed, sat down to one side, and said to the Buddha:

“yā imā, bhante, anekavihitā diṭṭhiyo loke uppajjanti—

“Sir, there are many different views that arise in the world

attavādapaṭisaṃyuttā vā lokavādapaṭisaṃyuttā vā—

connected with doctrines of the self or with doctrines of the cosmos.

ādimeva nu kho, bhante, bhikkhuno manasikaroto evametāsam diṭṭhīnam pahānam hoti, evametāsam diṭṭhīnam paṭinissaggo hoti”ti?

How does a mendicant who is focusing on the starting point give up and let go of these views?”

“Yā imā, cunda, anekavihitā diṭṭhiyo loke uppajjanti—“Cunda, there are many different views that arise in the world

attavādapaṭisaṃyuttā vā lokavādapaṭisaṃyuttā vā—

A mendicant gives up and lets go of these views by truly seeing with right wisdom where they arise, where they settle in, and where they operate as: ‘This is not mine, I am not this, this is not my self.’

Ṭhānaṃ kho panetaṃ, cunda, vijjati yaṃ idhekacco bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamāṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja vihareyya.

It’s possible that a certain mendicant, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, might enter and remain in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Tassa evamassa:

They might think

‘sallekhena viharāmi’ti.

But in the training of the noble one these are not called ‘self-effacement’;

It's possible that some mendicant, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, might enter and remain in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Tassa evamassa:

They might think

they’re practicing self-effacement.

Na kho panete, cunda, ariyassa vinaye sallekhā vuccanti.

It's possible that some mendicant, with the fading away of rapture, might enter and remain in the third absorption, where they meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, ‘Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.’

Tassa evamassa:

They might think

It’s possible that some mendicant, with the giving up of pleasure and pain, and the ending of former happiness and sadness, might enter and remain in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

Tassa evamassa:

They might think

It’s possible that some mendicant, going totally beyond perceptions of form, with the ending of perceptions of impingement, not focusing on perceptions of diversity, aware that ‘space is infinite’, might enter and remain in the dimension of infinite space.

Tassa evamassa:

They might think

1. Sallekhapariyāya

1. The Exposition of Self-Effacement

Idha kho pana vo, cunda, sallekho karaṇīyo.

Now, Cunda, you should work on self-effacement in each of the following ways.

‘Pare vihiṃsakā bhavissanti, mayamettha avihimsakā bhavissāmā’ti sallekho karaṇīyo. (1)

‘Others will be cruel, but here we will not be cruel.’

‘Pare paṇātipātī bhavissanti, mayamettha paṇātipātā paṭiviratā bhavissāmā’ti sallekho karaṇīyo. (2)

‘Others will kill living creatures, but here we will not kill living creatures.’

‘Pare adinnādāyī bhavissanti, mayamettha adinnādānā paṭiviratā bhavissāmā’ti sallekho karaṇīyo. (3)

‘Others will steal, but here we will not steal.’

‘Pare abrahmacārī bhavissanti, mayamettha brahmacārī bhavissāmā’ti sallekho karaṇīyo. (4)

‘Others will be unchaste, but here we will not be unchaste.’

‘Pare musāvādī bhavissanti, mayamettha musāvādā paṭiviratā bhavissāmā’ti sallekho karaṇīyo. (5)

‘Others will lie, but here we will not lie.’

‘Pare pisuṇavācā bhavissanti, mayamettha pisuṇāya vācāya paṭiviratā bhavissāmā’ti sallekho karaṇīyo. (6)

‘Others will speak divisively, but here we will not speak divisively.’

‘Pare pharusavācā bhavissanti, mayamettha pharusāya vācāya paṭiviratā bhavissāmā’ti sallekho karaṇīyo. (7)

‘Others will speak harshly, but here we will not speak harshly.’

‘Pare samphappalāpī bhavissanti, mayamettha samphappalāpā paṭiviratā bhavissāmā’ti sallekho karaṇīyo. (8)

‘Others will talk nonsense, but here we will not talk nonsense.’

‘Pare abhijjhālū bhavissanti, mayamettha anabhijjhālū bhavissāmā’ti sallekho karaṇīyo. (9)

‘Others will be covetous, but here we will not be covetous.’

‘Pare byāpannacittā bhavissanti, mayamettha abyāpannacittā bhavissāmā’ti sallekho karaṇīyo. (10)

‘Others will have ill will, but here we will not have ill will.’

‘Pare micchādiṭṭhī bhavissanti, mayamettha sammādiṭṭhī bhavissāmā’ti sallekho karaṇīyo. (11)

2. Giving Rise to the Thought

Cittuppādampi kho ahaṃ, cunda, kusalesu dhammesu bahukāraṃ vadāmi, ko pana vādo kāyena vācāya anuvidhīyanāsu.

Cunda, I say that even giving rise to the thought of skillful qualities is very helpful, let alone following that path in body and speech.

Tasmātiha, cunda, ‘pare vihiṃsakā bhavissanti, mayamettha avihimsakā bhavissāmā’ti cittaṃ uppādetabbaṃ.

That’s why you should give rise to the following thoughts. ‘Others will be cruel, but here we will not be cruel.’

‘Pare pāṇātipātī bhavissanti, mayamettha pāṇātipātā paṭiviratā bhavissāmā’ti cittaṃ uppādetabbaṃ ...pe...

Iti kho, cunda, desito mayā sallekhapariyāyo, desito cittuppādapariyāyo, desito parikkamanapariyāyo, desito uparibhāgapariyāyo, desito parinibbānapariyāyo.

So, Cunda, I've taught the expositions by way of self-effacement, giving rise to thought, the way around, going up, and extinguishing.

Yaṃ kho, cunda, satthārā karaṇīyaṃ sāvakānaṃ hitesinā anukampakena anukampaṃ upādāya, kataṃ vo taṃ mayā.

Out of compassion, I've done what a teacher should do who wants what's best for their disciples.

Here are these roots of trees, and here are these empty huts.

Practice absorption, Cunda! Don't be negligent! Don't regret it later!

This is my instruction.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā mahācundo bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Venerable Mahācunda was happy with what the Buddha said.

Catuttālīsapadā vuttā,

Forty-four items have been stated,

9. Sammādiṭṭhisutta Right View

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta's Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho āyasmā sāriputto bhikkhū āmantesi:

There Sāriputta addressed the mendicants:

“āvuso bhikkhave”ti.

“Reverends, mendicants!”

“Āvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato sāriputtassa paccassosum.

“Reverend,” they replied.

Āyasmā sāriputto etadavoca:

Sāriputta said this:

“Sammādiṭṭhi sammādiṭṭhī”ti, āvuso, vuccati.

“Reverends, they speak of this thing called ‘right view’.

Kittāvatā nu kho, āvuso, ariyasāvako sammādiṭṭhi hoti, ujugatāssa diṭṭhi, dhamme aveccappasādena samannāgato, āgato imam saddhamman”ti?

How do you define a noble disciple who has right view, whose view is correct, who has experiential confidence in the teaching, and has come to the true teaching?”

“Dūratopi kho mayaṃ, āvuso, āgaccheyyāma āyasmato sāriputtassa santike etassa bhāsitassa atthamaññātuṃ.

“Reverend, we would travel a long way to learn the meaning of this statement in the presence of Venerable Sāriputta.

Sādhu vatāyasmantaṃyeva sāriputtaṃ paṭibhātu etassa bhāsitassa attho.

May Venerable Sāriputta himself please clarify the meaning of this.

Āyasmato sāriputtassa sutvā bhikkhū dhāressantī”ti.

The mendicants will listen and remember it.”

“Tena hi, āvuso, suṇātha, sādhukaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmi”ti.

“Well then, reverends, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato sāriputtassa paccassosuṃ.

“Yes, reverend,” they replied.

Āyasmā sāriputto etadavoca:

Sāriputta said this:

“Yato kho, āvuso, ariyasāvako akusalañca pajānāti, akusalamūlañca pajānāti, kusalañca pajānāti, kusalamūlañca pajānāti—

“A noble disciple understands the unskillful and its root, and the skillful and its root.

ettāvatāpi kho, āvuso, ariyasāvako sammādiṭṭhi hoti, ujugatāssa diṭṭhi, dhamme aveccappasādena samannāgato, āgato imaṃ saddhammaṃ.

When they’ve done this, they’re defined as a noble disciple who has right view, whose view is correct, who has experiential confidence in the teaching, and has come to the true teaching.

Katamaṃ panāvuso, akusalaṃ, katamaṃ akusalamūlaṃ, katamaṃ kusalaṃ, katamaṃ kusalamūlaṃ?

But what is the unskillful and what is its root? And what is the skillful and what is its root?

Pāṇātipāto kho, āvuso, akusalaṃ, adinnādānaṃ akusalaṃ, kāmesumicchācāro akusalaṃ, musāvādo akusalaṃ, pisuṇā vācā akusalaṃ, pharusā vācā akusalaṃ, samphappalāpo akusalaṃ, abhijjhā akusalaṃ, byāpādo akusalaṃ, micchādiṭṭhi akusalaṃ—

Killing living creatures, stealing, and sexual misconduct; speech that's false, divisive, harsh, or nonsensical; and covetousness, ill will, and wrong view.

idaṃ vuccatāvuso akusalaṃ.

This is called the unskillful.

Katamañcāvuso, akusalamūlaṃ?

And what is the root of the unskillful?

Lobho akusalamūlaṃ, doso akusalamūlaṃ, moho akusalamūlaṃ—

Greed, hate, and delusion.

idaṃ vuccatāvuso, akusalamūlaṃ.

This is called the root of the unskillful.

Katamañcāvuso, kusalaṃ?

And what is the skillful?

Pāṇātipātā veramaṇī kusalaṃ, adinnādānā veramaṇī kusalaṃ, kāmesumicchācārā veramaṇī kusalaṃ, musāvādā veramaṇī kusalaṃ, pisuṇāya vācāya veramaṇī kusalaṃ, pharusāya vācāya veramaṇī kusalaṃ, samphappalāpā veramaṇī kusalaṃ, anabhijjhā kusalaṃ, abyāpādo kusalaṃ, sammādiṭṭhi kusalaṃ—

Avoiding killing living creatures, stealing, and sexual misconduct; avoiding speech that's false, divisive, harsh, or nonsensical; contentment, good will, and right view.

idaṃ vuccatāvuso, kusalaṃ.

This is called the skillful.

Katamañcāvuso, kusalamūlaṃ?

And what is the root of the skillful?

Alobho kusalamūlaṃ, adoso kusalamūlaṃ, amoho kusalamūlaṃ—

Contentment, love, and understanding.

idaṃ vuccatāvuso, kusalamūlaṃ.

This is called the root of the skillful.

Yato kho, āvuso, ariyasāvako evaṃ akusalaṃ pajānāti, evaṃ akusalamūlaṃ pajānāti, evaṃ kusalaṃ pajānāti, evaṃ kusalamūlaṃ pajānāti, so sabbaso rāgānusayaṃ pahāya, paṭighānusayaṃ paṭivinodetvā, ‘asmī’ti diṭṭhimānānusayaṃ samūhanitvā, avijjaṃ pahāya vijjaṃ uppādetvā, diṭṭheva dhamme dukkhassantakaro hoti—

A noble disciple understands in this way the unskillful and its root, and the skillful and its root. They’ve completely given up the underlying tendency to greed, got rid of the underlying tendency to repulsion, and eradicated the underlying tendency to the view and conceit ‘I am’. They’ve given up ignorance and given rise to knowledge, and make an end of suffering in this very life.

When they’ve done this, they’re defined as a noble disciple who has right view, whose view is correct, who has experiential confidence in the teaching, and has come to the true teaching.”

“Sādhāvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato sārīputtassa bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā āyasmantaṃ sārīputtaṃ uttari pañhaṃ apucchum:

Saying “Good, sir,” those mendicants approved and agreed with what Sāriputta said. Then they asked another question:

“siyā panāvuso, aññopi pariyāyo yathā ariyasāvako sammādiṭṭhi hoti, ujugatāssa diṭṭhi, dhamme aveccappasādena samannāgato, āgato imaṃ saddhamman”ti?

“But reverend, might there be another way to describe a noble disciple who has right view, whose view is correct, who has experiential confidence in the teaching, and has come to the true teaching?”

“Siyā, āvuso.

“There might, reverends.

Yato kho, āvuso, ariyasāvako āhāraṅca pajānāti, āhārasamudayaṅca pajānāti, āhāranirodhaṅca pajānāti, āhāranirodhagāminiṃ paṭipadaṅca pajānāti—

A noble disciple understands fuel, its origin, its cessation, and the practice that leads to its cessation.

ettāvatāpi kho, āvuso, ariyasāvako sammādiṭṭhi hoti, ujugatāssa diṭṭhi, dhamme aveccappasādena samannāgato, āgato imaṃ saddhammaṃ.

When they’ve done this, they’re defined as a noble disciple who has right view, whose view is correct, who has experiential confidence in the teaching, and has come to the true teaching.

Katamo panāvuso, āhāro, katamo āhārasamudayo, katamo āhāranirodho, katamā āhāranirodhagāminī paṭipadā?

But what is fuel? What is its origin, its cessation, and the practice that leads to its cessation?

Cattārome, āvuso, āhārā bhūtānaṃ vā sattānaṃ ṭhitiyā, sambhavesīnaṃ vā anuggahāya.

There are these four fuels. They maintain sentient beings that have been born and help those that are about to be born.

Katame cattāro?

What four?

Kabaḷīkāro āhāro oḷāriko vā sukhumo vā, phasso dutiyo, manosañcetanā tatiyā, viññāṇaṃ catutthaṃ.

Solid food, whether coarse or fine; contact is the second, mental intention the third, and consciousness the fourth.

Taṇhāsamudayā āhārasamudayo, taṇhānirodhā āhāranirodho, ayameva ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo āhāranirodhagāminī paṭipadā, seyyathidaṃ—

Fuel originates from craving. Fuel ceases when craving ceases. The practice that leads to the cessation of fuel is simply this noble eightfold path, that is:

sammādiṭṭhi sammāsaṅkappo sammāvācā sammākammanto, sammājīvo sammāvāyāmo sammāsati sammāsamādhi.

Yato kho, āvuso, ariyasāvako evaṃ āhāraṃ pajānāti, evaṃ āhārasamudayaṃ pajānāti, evaṃ āhāranirodhaṃ pajānāti, evaṃ āhāranirodhagāminiṃ paṭipadaṃ pajānāti, so sabbaso rāgānusayaṃ pahāya, paṭighānusayaṃ paṭivinodetvā, ‘asmī’ti diṭṭhimānānusayaṃ samūhanitvā, avijjaṃ pahāya vijjaṃ uppādetvā, diṭṭheva dhamme dukkhassantakaro hoti—

A noble disciple understands in this way fuel, its origin, its cessation, and the practice that leads to its cessation. They’ve completely given up the underlying tendency to greed, got rid of the underlying tendency to repulsion, and eradicated the underlying tendency to the view and conceit ‘I am’. They’ve given up ignorance and given rise to knowledge, and make an end of suffering in this very life.

When they’ve done this, they’re defined as a noble disciple who has right view, whose view is correct, who has experiential confidence in the teaching, and has come to the true teaching.”

“Sādhāvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato sāriputtassa bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā āyasmantaṃ sāriputtaṃ uttari pañhaṃ apucchum:

Saying “Good, sir,” those mendicants ... asked another question:

“But reverend, might there be another way to describe a noble disciple who ... has come to the true teaching?”

“Siyā, āvuso.

“There might, reverends.

Yato kho, āvuso, ariyasāvako dukkhañca pajānāti, dukkhasamudayañca pajānāti, dukkhanirodhañca pajānāti, dukkhanirodhagāminiṃ paṭipadañca pajānāti—

A noble disciple understands suffering, its origin, its cessation, and the practice that leads to its cessation.

Katamaṃ panāvuso, dukkhaṃ, katamo dukkhasamudayo, katamo dukkhanirodho, katamā dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā?

But what is suffering? What is its origin, its cessation, and the practice that leads to its cessation?

Jātipi dukkhā, jarāpi dukkhā, maraṇampi dukkhaṃ, sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsāpi dukkhā, appiyehi sampayogopi dukkho, piyehi vippayogopi dukkho, yampicchaṃ na labhati tampi dukkhaṃ, saṅkhittena pañcupādānakkhandhā dukkhā—

Rebirth is suffering; old age is suffering; death is suffering; sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress are suffering; association with the disliked is suffering; separation from the liked is suffering; not getting what you wish for is suffering. In brief, the five grasping aggregates are suffering.

idaṃ vuccatāvuso, dukkhaṃ.

This is called suffering.

Katamo cāvuso, dukkhasamudayo?

And what is the origin of suffering?

Yāyaṃ taṇhā ponobbhavikā nandīrāgasahagatā tatratatrābhinandinī, seyyathidaṃ—

It's the craving that leads to future rebirth, mixed up with relishing and greed, looking for enjoyment in various different realms. That is,

kāmataṇhā bhavataṇhā vibhavataṇhā—

craving for sensual pleasures, craving for continued existence, and craving to end existence.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso, dukkhasamudayo.

This is called the origin of suffering.

Katamo cāvuso, dukkhanirodho?

And what is the cessation of suffering?

Yo tassāyeva taṇhāya asesavirāganirodho cāgo paṭinissaggo

mutti anālayo—

It's the fading away and cessation of that very same craving with nothing left over; giving it away, letting it go, releasing it, and not adhering to it.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso, dukkhanirodho.

This is called the cessation of suffering.

Katamā cāvuso, dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā?

And what is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering?

Ayameva ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo, seyyathidaṃ—

It is simply this noble eightfold path, that is:

sammādiṭṭhi ...pe... sammāsamādhi—right view ... right immersion.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso, dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā.
This is called the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering.

When they’ve done this, they’re defined as a noble disciple who has right view, whose view is correct, who has experiential confidence in the teaching, and has come to the true teaching.

Katamo panāvuso, āsavo, katamo āsavasamudayo, katamo āsavanirodho, katamā āsavanirodhagāminī paṭipadāti?

Tayome, āvuso, āsavā—

There are these three defilements.

kāmāsavo, bhavāsavo, avijjāsavo.

The defilements of sensuality, desire to be reborn, and ignorance.

Avijjāsamudayā āsavasamudayo, avijjānirodhā āsavanirodho, ayameva ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo āsavanirodhagāminī paṭipadā, seyyathidaṃ—

Defilement originates from ignorance. Defilement ceases when ignorance ceases. The practice that leads to the cessation of defilement is simply this noble eightfold path, that is:

A noble disciple understands in this way defilement, its origin, its cessation, and the practice that leads to its cessation. They’ve completely given up the underlying tendency to greed, got rid of the underlying tendency to repulsion, and eradicated the underlying tendency to the view and conceit ‘I am’. They’ve given up ignorance and given rise to knowledge, and make an end of suffering in this very life.

Idamavocāyasmā sāriputto.

This is what Venerable Sāriputta said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū āyasmato sāriputtassa bhāsitaṃ

10. Satipaṭṭhānasutta Mindfulness Meditation

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā kurūsu viharati kammāsadhammaṃ
nāma kurūnaṃ nigamo.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Kurus, near the Kuru town named Kammāsadamma.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Ekāyano ayaṃ, bhikkhave, maggo sattānaṃ visuddhiyā, sokaparidevānaṃ samatikkamāya, dukkhadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamāya, ñāyassa adhiḅgamāya, nibbānassa sacchikiriyāya, yadidaṃ cattāro satipaṭṭhānā.

“Mendicants, the four kinds of mindfulness meditation are the path to convergence. They are in order to purify sentient beings, to get past sorrow and crying, to make an end of pain and sadness, to end the cycle of suffering, and to realize extinguishment.

Katame cattāro?

What four?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu kāye kāyānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ;

It's when a mendicant meditates by observing an aspect of the body—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

vedanāsu vedanānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ;

They meditate observing an aspect of feelings—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

citte cittānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ;

They meditate observing an aspect of the mind—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

dhammesu dhammānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ.

They meditate observing an aspect of principles—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

Uddeso niṭṭhito.

1. Kāyānupassanā

1. Observing the Body

1.1. Kāyānupassanānāpānāpabba

1.1. Mindfulness of Breathing

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu kāye kāyānupassī viharati?

And how does a mendicant meditate observing an aspect of the body?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu araṅṅagato vā rukkhamūlagato vā suṅṅāgaragato vā nisīdati, pallaṅkaṃ ābhujitvā, ujum kāyaṃ paṇidhāya, parimukhaṃ satim upaṭṭhapetvā.

It's when a mendicant—gone to a wilderness, or to the root of a tree, or to an empty hut—sits down cross-legged, with their body straight, and focuses their mindfulness right there.

So satova assasati, satova passasati.

Just mindful, they breathe in. Mindful, they breathe out.

Dīghaṃ vā assasanto 'dīghaṃ assasāmī'ti pajānāti, dīghaṃ vā passasanto 'dīghaṃ passasāmī'ti pajānāti,

When breathing in heavily they know: 'I'm breathing in heavily.'

When breathing out heavily they know: 'I'm breathing out heavily.'

rassaṃ vā assasanto 'rassaṃ assasāmī'ti pajānāti, rassaṃ vā passasanto 'rassaṃ passasāmī'ti pajānāti.

When breathing in lightly they know: 'I'm breathing in lightly.' When breathing out lightly they know: 'I'm breathing out lightly.'

'Sabbakāyapaṭisaṃvedī assasissāmī'ti sikkhati,

'sabbakāyapaṭisaṃvedī passasissāmī'ti sikkhati.

They practice breathing in experiencing the whole body. They practice breathing out experiencing the whole body.

'Passambhayaṃ kāyasaṅkhāraṃ assasissāmī'ti sikkhati,

'passambhayaṃ kāyasaṅkhāraṃ passasissāmī'ti sikkhati.

They practice breathing in stilling the body's motion. They practice breathing out stilling the body's motion.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, dakkho bhamakāro vā bhamakārantevāsī vā dīghaṃ vā añchanto 'dīghaṃ añchāmī'ti pajānāti, rassaṃ vā añchanto 'rassaṃ añchāmī'ti pajānāti;

It's like a deft carpenter or carpenter's apprentice. When making a deep cut they know: 'I'm making a deep cut,' and when making a shallow cut they know: 'I'm making a shallow cut.'

evameva kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu dīghaṃ vā assasanto
'dīghaṃ assasāmi'ti pajānāti, dīghaṃ vā passasanto 'dīghaṃ passasāmi'ti pajānāti, rassaṃ vā assasanto 'rassaṃ assasāmi'ti pajānāti, rassaṃ vā passasanto 'rassaṃ passasāmi'ti pajānāti;
'sabbakāyapaṭisaṃvedī assasissāmi'ti sikkhati,
'sabbakāyapaṭisaṃvedī passasissāmi'ti sikkhati;
'passambhayaṃ kāyasaṅkhāraṃ assasissāmi'ti sikkhati,
'passambhayaṃ kāyasaṅkhāraṃ passasissāmi'ti sikkhati.

Iti ajjhattaṃ vā kāye kāyānupassī viharati, bahiddhā vā kāye kāyānupassī viharati, ajjhatabhiddhā vā kāye kāyānupassī
viharati;

And so they meditate observing an aspect of the body internally, externally, and both internally and externally.

samudayadhammānupassī vā kāyasmim viharati, vayadhammānupassī vā kāyasmim viharati, samudayavayadhammānupassī vā kāyasmim viharati.

They meditate observing the body as liable to originate, as liable to vanish, and as liable to both originate and vanish.

'Atthi kāyo'ti vā panassa sati paccupaṭṭhitā hoti. Yāvadeva ñāṇamattāya paṭissatimattāya anissito ca viharati, na ca kiñci loke upādiyati.

Or mindfulness is established that the body exists, to the extent necessary for knowledge and mindfulness. They meditate independent, not grasping at anything in the world.

Evampi kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu kāye kāyānupassī viharati.

That's how a mendicant meditates by observing an aspect of the body.

Ānāpānappabbaṃ niṭṭhitam.

1.2. Kāyānupassanāriyāpathapabba

1.2. The Postures

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, bhikkhu gacchanto vā ‘gacchāmī’ti pajānāti, ṭhito vā ‘ṭhitomhī’ti pajānāti, nisinno vā ‘nisinnomhī’ti pajānāti, sayāno vā ‘sayānomhī’ti pajānāti.

Furthermore, when a mendicant is walking they know: ‘I am walking.’ When standing they know: ‘I am standing.’ When sitting they know: ‘I am sitting.’ And when lying down they know: ‘I am lying down.’

Yathā yathā vā panassa kāyo paṇihito hoti tathā tathā nam pajānāti.

Whatever posture their body is in, they know it.

Iti ajjhattam vā kāye kāyānupassī viharati, bahiddhā vā kāye kāyānupassī viharati, ajjhatabhiddhā vā kāye kāyānupassī viharati;

And so they meditate observing an aspect of the body internally, externally, and both internally and externally.

samudayadhammānupassī vā kāyasmim viharati, vayadhammānupassī vā kāyasmim viharati, samudayavayadhammānupassī vā kāyasmim viharati.

They meditate observing the body as liable to originate, as liable to vanish, and as liable to both originate and vanish.

‘Atthi kāyo’ti vā panassa sati paccupaṭṭhitā hoti. Yāvadeva ñāṇamattāya paṭissatimattāya anissito ca viharati, na ca kiñci loke upādiyati.

Or mindfulness is established that the body exists, to the extent necessary for knowledge and mindfulness. They meditate independent, not grasping at anything in the world.

Evampi kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu kāye kāyānupassī viharati.

That too is how a mendicant meditates by observing an aspect of the body.

Iriyāpathapabbam niṭṭhitam.

1.3. Kāyānupassanāsampajānapabba

1.3. Situational Awareness

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, bhikkhu abhikkante paṭikkante sampajānakārī hoti, ālokite vilokite sampajānakārī hoti, samiñjite pasārite sampajānakārī hoti, saṅghāṭipattacīvaradhāraṇe sampajānakārī hoti, asite pīte khāyite sāyite sampajānakārī hoti, uccārapassāvakamme sampajānakārī hoti, gate ṭhite nisinne sutte jāgarite bhāsīte tuṅhībhāve sampajānakārī hoti.

Furthermore, a mendicant acts with situational awareness when going out and coming back; when looking ahead and aside; when bending and extending the limbs; when bearing the outer robe, bowl and robes; when eating, drinking, chewing, and tasting; when urinating and defecating; when walking, standing, sitting, sleeping, waking, speaking, and keeping silent.

Iti ajjhattam vā kāye kāyānupassī viharati ...pe...

And so they meditate observing an aspect of the body internally ...

evampi kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu kāye kāyānupassī viharati.

That too is how a mendicant meditates by observing an aspect of the body.

Sampajānapabbam niṭṭhitam.

1.4. Kāyānupassanāpaṭikūlamanasikārapabba

1.4. Focusing on the Repulsive

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, bhikkhu imameva kāyam uddham pādatalā, adho kesamatthakā, tacapariyantam pūram nānappakārassa asucino paccavekkhati:

Furthermore, a mendicant examines their own body, up from the soles of the feet and down from the tips of the hairs, wrapped in skin and full of many kinds of filth.

‘atthi imasmim̐ kāye kesā lomā nakhā dantā taco maṃsaṃ

‘In this body there is head hair, body hair, nails, teeth, skin, flesh, sinews, bones, bone marrow, kidneys, heart, liver, diaphragm, spleen, lungs, intestines, mesentery, undigested food, feces, bile, phlegm, pus, blood, sweat, fat, tears, grease, saliva, snot, synovial fluid, urine.’

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, ubhatomukhā putoḷi pūrā nānāvihitassa

It’s as if there were a bag with openings at both ends, filled with various kinds of grains, such as fine rice, wheat, mung beans, peas, sesame, and ordinary rice. And someone with good eyesight were to open it and examine the contents: ‘These grains are fine rice, these are wheat, these are mung beans, these are peas, these are sesame, and these are ordinary rice.’

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu imameva kāyam̐ uddham̐

That too is how a mendicant meditates by observing an aspect of the body.

Paṭikūlamanasikārapabbaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ.

1.5. Kāyānupassanādhātumanasikārapabba

1.5. Focusing on the Elements

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu imameva kāyaṃ yathāṭṭhitaṃ yathāpaṇihitaṃ dhātuso paccavekkhati:

Furthermore, a mendicant examines their own body, whatever its placement or posture, according to the elements:

‘atthi imasmiraṃ kāye pathavīdhātu āpodhātu tejodhātu vāyodhātū’ti.

‘In this body there is the earth element, the water element, the fire element, and the air element.’

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, dakkho goghātako vā goghātakantevāsī vā gāviṃ vadhitvā catumahāpathe bilaso vibhajitvā nisinno assa.

It’s as if a deft butcher or butcher’s apprentice were to kill a cow and sit down at the crossroads with the meat cut into portions.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu imameva kāyaṃ yathāṭṭhitaṃ yathāpaṇihitaṃ dhātuso paccavekkhati:

‘atthi imasmiraṃ kāye pathavīdhātu āpodhātu tejodhātu vāyodhātū’ti.

Iti ajjhattaṃ vā kāye kāyānupassī viharati ...pe...

And so they meditate observing an aspect of the body internally ...

evampi kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu kāye kāyānupassī viharati.

That too is how a mendicant meditates by observing an aspect of the body.

Dhātumanasikārapabbam̐ niṭṭhitam̐.

1.6. Kāyānupassanānavasivathikapabba 1.6. *The Charnel Ground Contemplations

Puna caparam̐, bhikkhave, bhikkhu seyyathāpi passeyya sarīram̐ sivathikāya chaḍḍitam̐ ekāhamatam̐ vā dvīhamatam̐ vā tīhamatam̐ vā uddhumātakam̐ vinīlakam̐ vipubbakajātam̐.

Furthermore, suppose a mendicant were to see a corpse discarded in a charnel ground. And it had been dead for one, two, or three days, bloated, livid, and festering.

So imameva kāyam̐ upasam̐harati:

They'd compare it with their own body:

‘ayampi kho kāyo evaṃdhammo evaṃbhāvī evaṃanatīto’ti.

‘This body is also of that same nature, that same kind, and cannot go beyond that.’

Iti ajjhattam̐ vā kāye kāyānupassī viharati ...pe...

4.5. The Truths

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu dhammesu dhammānupassī viharati catūsu ariyasaccesu.

Furthermore, a mendicant meditates by observing an aspect of principles with respect to the four noble truths.

Kathaṅca pana, bhikkhave, bhikkhu dhammesu dhammānupassī viharati catūsu ariyasaccesu?

And how does a mendicant meditate observing an aspect of principles with respect to the four noble truths?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu ‘idaṃ dukkhaṃ’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti, ‘ayaṃ dukkhasamudayo’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti, ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodho’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti, ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti.

It’s when a mendicant truly understands: ‘This is suffering’ ... ‘This is the origin of suffering’ ... ‘This is the cessation of suffering’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering.’

Iti ajjhataṃ vā dhammesu dhammānupassī viharati, bahiddhā vā dhammesu dhammānupassī viharati, ajjhatabhiddhā vā dhammesu dhammānupassī viharati;

The Shorter Discourse on the Lion's Roar

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Idheva, bhikkhave, samaṇo, idha dutiyo samaṇo, idha tatiyo samaṇo, idha catuttho samaṇo;

“Only here is there a true ascetic, here a second ascetic, here a third ascetic, and here a fourth ascetic.

suññā parappavādā samaṇebhi aññehīti.

Other sects are empty of ascetics.’

Evametam, bhikkhave, sammā sīhanādam nadatha.

This, mendicants, is how you should rightly roar your lion's roar.

Ṭhānaṃ kho panetaṃ, bhikkhave, vijjati yaṃ aññatitthiyā paribbājakā evaṃ vadeyyuṃ:

It's possible that wanderers who follow other paths might say:

'ko panāyasmantānaṃ assāso, kiṃ balaṃ, yena tumhe āyasmanto evaṃ vadetha—

'But what is the source of the venerables' self-confidence and forcefulness that they say this?'

idheva samaṇo, idha dutiyo samaṇo, idha tatiyo samaṇo, idha catuttho samaṇo;

suññā parappavādā samaṇebhi aññehī'ti?

Evaṃvādino, bhikkhave, aññatitthiyā paribbājakā evamassu
vacanīyā:

You should say to them:

'atthi kho no, āvuso, tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena cattāro dhammā akkhātā ye mayaṃ attani sampassamānā evaṃ vadema—

'There are four things explained by the Blessed One, who knows and sees, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha. Seeing these things in ourselves we say that:

idheva samaṇo, idha dutiyo samaṇo, idha tatiyo samaṇo, idha
catuttho samaṇo;

"Only here is there a true ascetic, here a second ascetic, here a third ascetic, and here a fourth ascetic.

suññā parappavādā samaṇebhi aññehīti.

Other sects are empty of ascetics."

Katame cattāro?

What four?

Atthi kho no, āvuso, satthari pasādo, atthi dhamme pasādo, atthi sīlesu paripūrakāritā;

We have confidence in the Teacher, we have confidence in the teaching, and we have fulfilled the precepts.

both laypeople and renunciates.

Ime kho no, āvuso, tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena cattāro dhammā akkhātā ye mayam attani

These are the four things.'

idheva samaṇo, idha dutiyo samaṇo, idha tatiyo samaṇo, idha
catuttho samaṇo;

suññā parappavādā samaṇebhi aññehī'ti.

Ṭhānam kho panetaṃ, bhikkhave, vijjati yaṃ aññatitthiyā

It's possible that wanderers who follow other paths might say:

'amhākampi kho, āvuso, atthi satthari pasādo yo amhākaṃ satthā, amhākampi atthi dhamme pasādo yo amhākaṃ

'We too have confidence in the Teacher—our Teacher; we have confidence in the teaching—our teaching; and we have fulfilled the precepts—our precepts.

amhākampi sahadhammikā piyā manāpā—

And we have love and affection for those who share our path,

both laypeople and renunciates.

Idha no, āvuso, ko viseso ko adhippayāso kiṃ nānākaraṇam yadidaṃ tumhākañceva amhākañcā'ti?

What, then, is the difference between you and us?'

Evamvādino, bhikkhave, aññatitthiyā paribbājakā evamassu vacanīyā:

You should say to them:

‘kiṃ panāvuso, ekā niṭṭhā, udāhu puthu niṭṭhā’ti?

‘Well, reverends, is the goal one or many?’

Sammā byākaramānā, bhikkhave, aññatitthiyā paribbājakā evaṃ byākareyyuṃ:

Answering rightly, the wanderers would say:

‘ekāvuso, niṭṭhā, na puthu niṭṭhā’ti.

‘The goal is one, reverends, not many.’

‘Sā panāvuso, niṭṭhā sarāgassa udāhu vītarāgassā’ti?

‘But is that goal for the greedy or for those free of greed?’

Sammā byākaramānā, bhikkhave, aññatitthiyā paribbājakā evaṃ byākareyyuṃ:

Answering rightly, the wanderers would say:

‘vītarāgassāvuso, sā niṭṭhā, na sā niṭṭhā sarāgassā’ti.

‘That goal is for those free of greed, not for the greedy.’

‘Sā panāvuso, niṭṭhā sadosassa udāhu vītadosassā’ti?

‘Sā panāvuso, niṭṭhā sataṇhassa udāhu vītataṇhassā’ti?

‘Is it for those who crave or those rid of craving?’

Sammā byākaramānā, bhikkhave, aññatitthiyā paribbājakā evaṃ

‘vītataṇhassāvuso, sā niṭṭhā, na sā niṭṭhā sataṇhassā’ti.

‘Sā panāvuso, niṭṭhā saupādānassa udāhu anupādānassā’ti?

‘Is it for those who grasp or those who don’t grasp?’

Sammā byākaramānā, bhikkhave, aññatitthiyā paribbājakā evaṃ

‘anupādānassāvuso, sā niṭṭhā, na sā niṭṭhā saupādānassā’ti.

‘Sā panāvuso, niṭṭhā viddasuno udāhu aviddasuno’ti?

‘Is it for the knowledgeable or the ignorant?’

Sammā byākaramānā, bhikkhave, aññatitthiyā paribbājakā evaṃ
byākareyyum:

‘viddasuno, āvuso, sā niṭṭhā, na sā niṭṭhā aviddasuno’ti.

‘Sā panāvuso, niṭṭhā anuruddhappaṭiviruddhassa udāhu ananuruddhaappaṭiviruddhassā’ti?

‘Is it for those who favor and oppose or for those who don’t favor and oppose?’

Sammā byākaramānā, bhikkhave, aññatitthiyā paribbājakā evaṃ
byākareyyum:

‘ananuruddhaappaṭiviruddhassāvuso, sā niṭṭhā, na sā niṭṭhā

‘Sā panāvuso, niṭṭhā papañcārāmassa papañcaratino udāhu nippapañcārāmassa nippapañcaratino’ti?

‘But is that goal for those who enjoy proliferation or for those who enjoy non-proliferation?’

Sammā byākaramānā, bhikkhave, aññatitthiyā paribbājakā evaṃ byākareyyum:

Answering rightly, the wanderers would say:

‘nippapañcārāmassāvuso, sā niṭṭhā nippapañcaratino, na sā niṭṭhā papañcārāmassa papañcaratino’ti.

Dvemā, bhikkhave, diṭṭhiyo—

Mendicants, there are these two views:

bhavadiṭṭhi ca vibhavadiṭṭhi ca.

views favoring continued existence and views favoring ending existence.

Ye hi keci, bhikkhave, samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā bhavadiṭṭhiṃ allīnā bhavadiṭṭhiṃ upagatā bhavadiṭṭhiṃ ajjhositā, vibhavadiṭṭhiyā te paṭiviruddhā.

There are some ascetics and brahmins who don't truly understand these two views' origin, ending, gratification, drawback, and escape. They're greedy, hateful, delusional, craving, grasping, and ignorant. They favor and oppose, and they enjoy proliferation.

Cattārimāni, bhikkhave, upādānāni.

There are these four kinds of grasping.

Katamāni cattāri?

What four?

Kāmupādānaṃ, diṭṭhupādānaṃ, sīlabbatupādānaṃ, attavādupādānaṃ.

Grasping at sensual pleasures, views, precepts and observances, and theories of a self.

Santi, bhikkhave, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā

There are some ascetics and brahmins who claim to propound the complete understanding of all kinds of grasping.

But they don't correctly describe the complete understanding of all kinds of grasping.

It's because that teaching and training is poorly explained and poorly propounded, not emancipating, not leading to peace, proclaimed by someone who is not a fully awakened Buddha.

Tathāgato ca kho, bhikkhave, araham sammāsambuddho

It's because that teaching and training is well explained and well propounded, emancipating, leading to peace, proclaimed by a fully awakened Buddha.

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandunti.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

The Longer Discourse on the Lion's Roar

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava vesāliyam viharati bahinagare aparapure vanasaṇḍe.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Vesālī in a woodland grove behind the town.

Tena kho pana samayena sunakkhatto licchaviputto acirapakkanto hoti imasmā dhammavinayā.

Now at that time Sunakkhatta the Licchavi had recently left this teaching and training.

So vesāliyam parisati evam vācam bhāsati:

He was telling a crowd in Vesālī:

“natthi samaṇassa gotamassa uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanaviseso.

“The ascetic Gotama has no superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones.

Takkapariyāhataṃ samaṇo gotamo dhammaṃ deseti vīmaṃsānucaritaṃ sayampaṭibhānaṃ.

He teaches what he's worked out by logic, following a line of inquiry, expressing his own perspective.

Yassa ca khvāssa atthāya dhammo desito so niyyāti takkarassa sammā dukkhakkhayāyā”ti.

And his teaching leads those who practice it to the complete ending of suffering, the goal for which it's taught.”

Atha kho āyasmā sāriputto pubbaṅhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā pattaḥvaramādāya vesāliṃ piṇḍāya pāvīsi.

Then Venerable Sāriputta robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Vesālī for alms.

Assosi kho āyasmā sāriputto sunakkhattassa licchaviputtassa vesāliyaṃ parisati evaṃ vācaṃ bhāsamānassa:

He heard what Sunakkhatta was saying.

“natthi samaṇassa gotamassa uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāḍadassanaviseso.

Takkapariyāhataṃ samaṇo gotamo dhammaṃ deseti vīmaṃsānucaritaṃ sayampaṭibhānaṃ.

Yassa ca khvāssa atthāya dhammo desito so niyyāti takkarassa sammā dukkhakkhayāya”ti.

Atha kho āyasmā sāriputto vesāliyaṃ piṇḍāya caritvā pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātaṭikkanto yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā sāriputto bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

Then he wandered for alms in Vesālī. After the meal, on his return from alms-round, he went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened.

“sunakkhatto, bhante, licchaviputto acirapakkanto imasmā dhammavinayā.

So vesāliyaṃ parisati evaṃ vācaṃ bhāsati:

‘natthi samaṇassa gotamassa uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāḍadassanaviseso.

Takkapariyāhataṃ samaṇo gotamo dhammaṃ deseti vīmaṃsānucaritaṃ sayampaṭibhānaṃ.

Yassa ca khvāssa atthāya dhammo desito so niyyāti takkarassa sammā dukkhakkhayāyā”’ti.

“Kodhano heso, sāriputta, sunakkhatto moghapuriso.

“Sāriputta, Sunakkhatta, that silly man, is angry.

Kodhā ca panassa esā vācā bhāsītā.

His words are spoken out of anger.

‘Avaṇṇaṃ bhāsissāmī’ti kho, sāriputta, sunakkhatto moghapuriso vaṇṇaṃyeva tathāgatassa bhāsati.

Thinking he criticizes the Realized One, in fact he just praises him.

Vaṇṇo heso, sāriputta, tathāgatassa yo evaṃ vadeyya:

For it is praise of the Realized One to say:

‘yassa ca khvāssa atthāya dhammo desito so niyyāti takkarassa sammā dukkhakkhayāyā’ti.

‘His teaching leads those who practice it to the complete ending of suffering, the goal for which it’s taught.’

Ayampi hi nāma, sāriputta, sunakkhattassa moghapurisassa mayi dhammanvayo na bhavissati:

But there’s no way Sunakkhatta will infer about me from the teaching:

‘itipi so bhagavā arahaṃ sammāsambuddho vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro purisadammasārathi, satthā devamanussānaṃ, buddho bhagavā’ti.

Ayampi hi nāma, sāriputta, sunakkhattassa moghapurisassa mayi dhammanvayo na bhavissati:

And there's no way Sunakkhatta will infer about me from the teaching:

'That Blessed One wields the many kinds of psychic power: multiplying himself and becoming one again; appearing and disappearing; going unimpeded through a wall, a rampart, or a mountain as if through space; diving in and out of the earth as if it were water; walking on water as if it were earth; flying cross-legged through the sky like a bird; touching and stroking with the hand the sun and moon, so mighty and powerful; controlling the body as far as the Brahmā realm.'

Ayampi hi nāma, sārīputta, sunakkhattassa moghapurisassa

Ayampi hi nāma, sārīputta, sunakkhattassa moghapurisassa

And there's no way Sunakkhatta will infer about me from the teaching:

The Realized One possesses ten powers of a Realized One. With these he claims the bull's place, roars his lion's roar in the assemblies, and turns the holy wheel.

Katamāni dasa?

What ten?

Idha, sāriputta, tathāgato ṭhānañca ṭhānato aṭṭhānañca aṭṭhānato yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti.

Firstly, the Realized One truly understands the possible as possible, and the impossible as impossible.

Yampi, sāriputta, tathāgato ṭhānañca ṭhānato aṭṭhānañca aṭṭhānato yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti, idampi, sāriputta, tathāgatassa tathāgatabalaṃ hoti yaṃ balaṃ āgamma tathāgato āsabhaṃ ṭhānaṃ paṭijānāti, parisāsu sīhanādaṃ nadati, brahmacakkaṃ pavatteti. (1)

Since he truly understands this, this is a power of the Realized One. Relying on this he claims the bull's place, roars his lion's roar in the assemblies, and turns the holy wheel.

Puna caparaṃ, sāriputta, tathāgato atītānāgatapaccuppannānaṃ kammaśamādānānaṃ ṭhānaśo hetuśo vipākaṃ yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti.

Furthermore, the Realized One truly understands the result of deeds undertaken in the past, future, and present in terms of causes and reasons.

Yampi, sāriputta, tathāgato atītānāgatapaccuppannānaṃ kammaśamādānānaṃ ṭhānaśo hetuśo vipākaṃ yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti, idampi, sāriputta, tathāgatassa tathāgatabalaṃ hoti yaṃ balaṃ āgamma tathāgato āsabhaṃ ṭhānaṃ paṭijānāti, parisāsu sīhanādaṃ nadati, brahmacakkaṃ pavatteti. (2)

Since he truly understands this, this is a power of the Realized One.

Puna caparaṃ, sāriputta, tathāgato sabbatthagāminīṃ paṭipadaṃ yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti.

Furthermore, the Realized One truly understands where all paths of practice lead.

Furthermore, the Realized One recollects many kinds of past lives. That is: one, two, three, four, five, ten, twenty, thirty, forty, fifty, a hundred, a thousand, a hundred thousand rebirths; many eons of the world contracting, many eons of the world expanding, many eons of the world contracting and expanding. He remembers: 'There, I was named this, my clan was that, I looked like this, and that was my food. This was how I felt pleasure and pain, and that was how my life ended. When I passed away from that place I was reborn somewhere else. There, too, I was named this, my clan was that, I looked like this, and that was my food. This was how I felt pleasure and pain, and that was how my life ended. When I passed away from that place I was reborn here.' And so he recollects his many kinds of past lives, with features and details.

Furthermore, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, the Realized One sees sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. He understands how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds. 'These dear beings did bad things by way of body, speech, and mind. They spoke ill of the noble ones; they had wrong view; and they chose to act out of that wrong view. When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell. These dear beings, however, did good things by way of body, speech, and mind. They never spoke ill of the noble ones; they had right view; and they chose to act out of that right view. When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.' And so, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, he sees sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. He understands how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds.

A Realized One possesses these ten powers of a Realized One. With these he claims the bull's place, roars his lion's roar in the assemblies, and turns the holy wheel.

Yo kho maṃ, sāriputta, evaṃ jānantaṃ evaṃ passantaṃ evaṃ vadeyya:

When I know and see in this way, suppose someone were to say this:

‘natthi samaṇassa gotamassa uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanaviseso;

‘The ascetic Gotama has no superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones.

takkapariyāhataṃ samaṇo gotamo dhammaṃ deseti vīmaṃsānucaritaṃ sayampaṭibhānan’ti,

Seyyathāpi, sāriputta, bhikkhu sīlasampanno samādhisampanno paññāsampanno diṭṭheva dhamme aññaṃ ārādheyya, evaṃ sampadamidaṃ, sāriputta, vadāmi.

Just as a mendicant accomplished in ethics, immersion, and wisdom would reach enlightenment in this very life, such is the consequence, I say.

Taṃ vācaṃ appahāya, taṃ cittaṃ appahāya taṃ diṭṭhiṃ appaṭinissajjitvā yathābhataṃ nikkhitto evaṃ niraye.

Unless they give up that speech and thought, and let go of that view, they will be cast down to hell.

Sāriputta, a Realized One has four kinds of self-assurance. With these he claims the bull’s place, roars his lion’s roar in the assemblies, and turns the holy wheel.

Katamāni cattāri?

What four?

‘Sammāsambuddhassa te paṭijānato ime dhammā anabhisambuddhā’ti. Tatra vata maṃ samaṇo vā brāhmaṇo vā devo vā māro vā brahmā vā koci vā lokasmiṃ sahadhammena paṭicodessatīti nimittametam, sāriputta, na samanupassāmi.

I see no reason for anyone—whether ascetic, brahmin, god, Māra, or Brahmā, or anyone else in the world—to legitimately scold me, saying: ‘You claim to be fully awakened, but you don’t understand these things.’

Etamaham, sāriputta, nimittam asamanupassanto khemappatto abhayappatto vesārajjappatto viharāmi. (1)

Since I see no such reason, I live secure, fearless, and assured.

‘Khīṇāsavassa te paṭijānato ime āsavā aparikkhīṇā’ti. Tatra vata maṃ samaṇo vā brāhmaṇo vā devo vā māro vā brahmā vā koci vā lokasmiṃ sahadhammena paṭicodessatīti nimittametam, sāriputta, na samanupassāmi.

I see no reason for anyone—whether ascetic, brahmin, god, Māra, or Brahmā, or anyone else in the world—to legitimately scold me, saying: ‘You claim to have ended all defilements, but these defilements have not ended.’

Etamaham, sāriputta, nimittam asamanupassanto khemappatto abhayappatto vesārajjappatto viharāmi. (2)

Since I see no such reason, I live secure, fearless, and assured.

‘Ye kho pana te antarāyikā dhammā vuttā, te paṭisevato nālam antarāyā’ti. Tatra vata maṃ samaṇo vā brāhmaṇo vā devo vā māro vā brahmā vā koci vā lokasmiṃ sahadhammena paṭicodessatīti nimittametam, sāriputta, na samanupassāmi.

I see no reason for anyone—whether ascetic, brahmin, god, Māra, or Brahmā, or anyone else in the world—to legitimately scold me, saying: ‘The acts that you say are obstructions are not really obstructions for the one who performs them.’

Etamaḥaṃ, sāriputta, nimittaṃ asamanupassanto khemappatto abhayappatto vesārajjappatto viharāmi. (3)

Since I see no such reason, I live secure, fearless, and assured.

‘Yassa kho pana te atthāya dhammo desito, so na niyyāti takkarassa sammā dukkhakkhayāyā’ti. Tatra vata maṃ samaṇo vā brāhmaṇo vā devo vā māro vā brahmā vā koci vā lokasmiṃ sahadhammena paṭicodessatīti nimittametaṃ, sāriputta, na samanupassāmi.

I see no reason for anyone—whether ascetic, brahmin, god, Māra, or Brahmā, or anyone else in the world—to legitimately scold me, saying: ‘The teaching doesn’t lead those who practice it to the complete ending of suffering, the goal for which you taught it.’

Etamaḥaṃ, sāriputta, nimittaṃ asamanupassanto khemappatto abhayappatto vesārajjappatto viharāmi. (4)

Since I see no such reason, I live secure, fearless, and assured.

Imāni kho, sāriputta, cattāri tathāgatassa vesārajjāni yehi vesārajjehi samannāgato tathāgato āsabhaṃ ṭhānaṃ paṭijānāti, parisāsu sīhanādaṃ nadati, brahmacakkaṃ pavatteti.

A Realized One has these four kinds of self-assurance. With these he claims the bull’s place, roars his lion’s roar in the assemblies, and turns the holy wheel.

Yo kho maṃ, sāriputta, evaṃ jānantaṃ evaṃ passantaṃ evaṃ vadeyya:

When I know and see in this way, suppose someone were to say this:

‘natthi samaṇassa gotamassa uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāḍassanaviseso, takkapariyāhataṃ samaṇo gotamo dhammaṃ deseti vīmaṃsānucaritaṃ sayampaṭibhānan’ti, taṃ, sārīputta, vācaṃ appahāya taṃ cittaṃ appahāya taṃ diṭṭhiṃ appaṭinissajjitvā yathābhataṃ nikkhitto evaṃ niraye.

Unless they give up that speech and that thought, and let go of that view, they will be cast down to hell.

Seyyathāpi, sārīputta, bhikkhu sīlasampanno samādhisampanno paññāsampanno diṭṭheva dhamme aññaṃ ārādheyya, evaṃ sampadamidaṃ, sārīputta, vadāmi.

Taṃ vācaṃ appahāya taṃ cittaṃ appahāya taṃ diṭṭhiṃ appaṭinissajjitvā yathābhataṃ nikkhitto evaṃ niraye.

Aṭṭha kho imā, sārīputta, parisā.
Sārīputta, there are these eight assemblies.

Katamā aṭṭha?
What eight?

Khattiyaparisā, brāhmaṇaparisā, gahapatiparisā, samaṇaparisā, cātumahārājikaparisā, tāvatimsaparisā, māraparisā, brahmaparisā—

The assemblies of aristocrats, brahmins, householders, and ascetics. An assembly of the gods under the Four Great Kings. An assembly of the gods under the Thirty-Three. An assembly of Māras. An assembly of Brahmās.

imā kho, sārīputta, aṭṭha parisā.
These are the eight assemblies.

Imehi kho, sārīputta, catūhi vesārajjehi samannāgato tathāgato imā aṭṭha parisā upasaṅkamati ajjhogāhati.

Possessing these four kinds of self-assurance, the Realized One approaches and enters right into these eight assemblies.

Abhijānāmi kho panāhaṃ, sārīputta, anekasataṃ khattiyaparisāṃ upasaṅkamitā.

I recall having approached an assembly of hundreds of aristocrats.

Tatrapī mayā sannisinnapubbañceva, sallapitapubbañca,
sākacchā ca samāpajjitapubbā.

There I used to sit with them, converse, and engage in discussion.

Tatra vata maṃ bhayaṃ vā sārājjaṃ vā okkamissatīti
nimittametam, sārīputta, na samanupassāmi.

But I don't see any reason to feel afraid or insecure.

Etamaṃ, sārīputta, nimittam asamanupassanto khemappatto abhayappatto vesārājappatto viharāmi.

Since I see no such reason, I live secure, fearless, and assured.

Abhijānāmi kho panāhaṃ, sārīputta, anekasataṃ brāhmaṇaparisaṃ ...pe...

I recall having approached an assembly of hundreds of brahmins ...

gahapatiparisaṃ ...

samaṇaparisaṃ ...

the gods under the Four Great Kings ...

tāvatiṃsaparisaṃ ...

the gods under the Thirty-Three ...

māraparisaṃ ...

Māras ...

brahmaparisaṃ upasaṅkamtā.

Brahmās.

Tatrapī mayā sannisinnapubbañceva, sallapitapubbañca,
sākacchā ca samāpajjitapubbā.

There too I used to sit with them, converse, and engage in discussion.

Tatra vata maṃ bhayaṃ vā sārājjaṃ vā okkamissatīti
nimittametam, sārīputta, na samanupassāmi.

But I don't see any reason to feel afraid or insecure.

Etamaḥaṃ, sāriputta, nimittaṃ asamanupassanto khemappatto abhayappatto vesārajjappatto viharāmi.

Since I see no such reason, I live secure, fearless, and assured.

Yo kho maṃ, sāriputta, evaṃ jānantaṃ evaṃ passantaṃ evaṃ vadeyya:

When I know and see in this way, suppose someone were to say this:

‘natthi samaṇassa gotamassa uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanaviseso, takkapariyāhataṃ samaṇo gotamo dhammaṃ deseti vīmaṃsānucaritaṃ sayampaṭibhānan’ti,

taṃ, sāriputta, vācaṃ appahāya taṃ cittaṃ appahāya taṃ diṭṭhiṃ appaṭinissajjitvā yathābhataṃ nikkhitto evaṃ niraye.

Unless they give up that speech and that thought, and let go of that view, they will be cast down to hell.

Seyyathāpi, sāriputta, bhikkhu sīlasampanno samādhisampanno paññāsampanno diṭṭheva dhamme aññaṃ ārādheyya, evaṃ sampadamidaṃ, sāriputta, vadāmi.

Taṃ vācaṃ appahāya taṃ cittaṃ appahāya taṃ diṭṭhiṃ appaṭinissajjitvā yathābhataṃ nikkhitto evaṃ niraye.

Catasso kho imā, sāriputta, yoniyo.

Sāriputta, there are these four kinds of reproduction.

Katamā catasso?

What four?

Aṇḍajā yoni, jalābujā yoni, saṃsedajā yoni, opapātikā yoni.

Reproduction for creatures born from an egg, from a womb, from moisture, or spontaneously.

Katamā ca, sāriputta, aṇḍajā yoni?

And what is reproduction from an egg?

Ye kho te, sāriputta, sattā aṇḍakosaṃ abhinibbhijja jāyanti—

There are beings who are born by breaking out of an eggshell.

ayaṃ vuccati, sāriputta, aṇḍajā yoni.

This is called reproduction from an egg.

Katamā ca, sāriputta, jalābujā yoni?

And what is reproduction from a womb?

Ye kho te, sāriputta, sattā vatthikosam abhinibbhijja jāyanti—

There are beings who are born by breaking out of the amniotic sac.

ayaṃ vuccati, sāriputta, jalābujā yoni.

This is called reproduction from a womb.

Katamā ca, sāriputta, saṃsedajā yoni?

And what is reproduction from moisture?

Ye kho te, sāriputta, sattā pūtimacche vā jāyanti pūtikunape vā pūtikummāse vā candanikāye vā oḷigalle vā jāyanti—

There are beings who are born in a rotten fish, in a rotten corpse, in rotten dough, in a cesspool or a sump.

ayaṃ vuccati, sāriputta, saṃsedajā yoni.

This is called reproduction from moisture.

Katamā ca, sāriputta, opapātikā yoni?

And what is spontaneous reproduction?

Devā, nerayikā, ekacce ca manussā, ekacce ca vinipātikā—

Gods, hell-beings, certain humans, and certain beings in the lower realms.

ayaṃ vuccati, sāriputta, opapātikā yoni.

This is called spontaneous reproduction.

Imā kho, sāriputta, catasso yoniyo.

These are the four kinds of reproduction.

Yo kho maṃ, sāriputta, evaṃ jānantaṃ evaṃ passantaṃ evaṃ vadeyya:

When I know and see in this way, suppose someone were to say this:

‘natthi samaṇassa gotamassa uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanaviseso, takkapariyāhataṃ samaṇo gotamo dhammaṃ deseti vīmaṃsānucaritaṃ sayampaṭibhānan’ti,

taṃ, sāriputta, vācaṃ appahāya taṃ cittaṃ appahāya taṃ diṭṭhiṃ appaṭinissajjitvā yathābhataṃ nikkhitto evaṃ niraye.

Unless they give up that speech and that thought, and let go of that view, they will be cast down to hell.

Seyyathāpi, sāriputta, bhikkhu sīlasampanno samādhisampanno paññāsampanno diṭṭheva dhamme aññaṃ ārādheyya, evaṃ sampadamidaṃ, sāriputta, vadāmi.

Taṃ vācaṃ appahāya taṃ cittaṃ appahāya taṃ diṭṭhiṃ appaṭinissajjitvā yathābhataṃ nikkhitto evaṃ niraye.

Pañca kho imā, sāriputta, gatiyo.

There are these five destinations.

Katamā pañca?

What five?

Nirayo, tiracchānayani, pettivisayo, manussā, devā.

Hell, the animal realm, the ghost realm, humanity, and the gods.

Nirayañcāhaṃ, sāriputta, pajānāmi, nirayagāmiñca maggaṃ, nirayagāminiñca paṭipadaṃ;

I understand hell, and the path and practice that leads to hell.

yathā paṭipanno ca kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā apāyaṃ duggatiṃ vinipātaṃ nirayaṃ upapajjati tañca pajānāmi.

And I understand how someone practicing that way, when their body breaks up, after death, is reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell.

Tiracchānayaniñcāhaṃ, sārīputta, pajānāmi, tiracchānayaniḡāmiñca maggaṃ, tiracchānayaniḡāminiñca paṭipadaṃ;

I understand the animal realm ...

yathā paṭipanno ca kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā tiracchānayaniṃ upapajjati tañca pajānāmi.

Pettivisiyañcāhaṃ, sārīputta, pajānāmi, pettivisiyagāmiñca maggāṃ, pettivisiyagāminiñca paṭipadaṃ;

yathā paṭipanno ca kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā pettivisiyaṃ upapajjati tañca pajānāmi.

the ghost realm ...

Manusse cāhaṃ, sārīputta, pajānāmi, manussalokagāmiñca maggāṃ, manussalokagāminiñca paṭipadaṃ;

humanity ...

yathā paṭipanno ca kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā manussesu upapajjati tañca pajānāmi.

Deve cāhaṃ, sārīputta, pajānāmi, devalokagāmiñca maggaṃ, devalokagāminiñca paṭipadaṃ;

gods, and the path and practice that leads to the world of the gods.

yathā paṭipanno ca kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā sugatiṃ saggaṃ lokaṃ upapajjati tañca pajānāmi.

And I understand how someone practicing that way, when their body breaks up, after death, is reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.

Nibbānañcāhaṃ, sārīputta, pajānāmi, nibbānagāmiñca maggaṃ, nibbānagāminiñca paṭipadaṃ;

And I understand extinguishment, and the path and practice that leads to extinguishment.

yathā paṭipanno ca āsavānaṃ khayā anāsavaṃ cetovimuttiṃ paññāvimuttiṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayama abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharati tañca pajānāmi.

And I understand how someone practicing that way realizes the undefiled freedom of heart and freedom by wisdom in this very life, and lives having realized it with their own insight due to the ending of defilements.

Idhāhaṃ, sāriputta, ekaccaṃ puggalaṃ evaṃ cetasa ceto paricca pajānāmi—

When I've comprehended the mind of a certain person, I understand:

tathāyaṃ puggalo paṭipanno tathā ca iriyati tañca maggaṃ samārūḷho, yathā kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā apāyaṃ duggatiṃ vinipātaṃ nirayaṃ upapajjissatīti.

'This person is practicing in such a way and has entered such a path that when their body breaks up, after death, they will be reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell.'

Tameṇaṃ passāmi aparena samayena dibbena cakkhunā

Then some time later I see that they have indeed been reborn in hell, where they experience exclusively painful feelings, sharp and severe.

Seyyathāpi, sāriputta, aṅgārakāsu sādhipaporisā pūrā aṅgārānaṃ vītaccikānaṃ vītadhūmaṇaṃ.

Suppose there was a pit of glowing coals deeper than a man's height, full of glowing coals that neither flamed nor smoked.

Atha puriso āgaccheyya ghammābhitatto ghammapareto kilanto

Then along comes a person struggling in the oppressive heat, weary, thirsty, and parched. And they have set out on a path that meets with that same pit of coals.

Tamenam cakkhumā puriso disvā evam vadeyya:

If a person with good eyesight saw them, they'd say:

Seyyathāpi, sāriputta, gūthakūpo sādhipaporiso, pūro gūthassa.
Suppose there was a sewer deeper than a man's height, full to the brim with feces.

Atha puriso āgaccheyya ghammābhitatto ghammapareto kilanto tasito pipāsito ekāyanena maggena tameva gūthakūpaṃ paṇidhāya.

Then along comes a person struggling in the oppressive heat, weary, thirsty, and parched. And they have set out on a path that meets with that same sewer.

Tamenaṃ cakkhumā puriso disvā evaṃ vadeyya:

Avidūre cassā tibbo vanasaṇḍo.

And nearby was a dark forest grove.

Atha puriso āgaccheyya ghammābhitatto ghammapareto kilanto tasito pipāsito ekāyanena maggena tameva pokkharāṇim paṇidhāya.

Then along comes a person struggling in the oppressive heat, weary, thirsty, and parched. And they have set out on a path that meets with that same lotus pond.

Tamenam cakkhumā puriso disvā evam vadeyya:

If a person with good eyesight saw them, they'd say:

'tathā bhavam puriso paṭipanno tathā ca iriyati tañca maggam samārūḷho, yathā imamyeva pokkharāṇim āgamissatī'ti.

'This person is proceeding in such a way and has entered such a path that they will arrive at that very lotus pond.'

Tamenam passeyya aparena samayena tam pokkharāṇim ogāhetvā nhāyitvā ca pivitvā ca sabbadarathakilamathapariḷāham paṭippassambhetvā paccuttarivā tasmim vanasaṇḍe nisinnam vā nipannam vā, ekantasukhā vedanā vedayamānam.

Then some time later they would see that person after they had plunged into that lotus pond, bathed and drunk. When all their stress, weariness, and heat exhaustion had faded away, they emerged and sat or lay down in that woodland thicket, where they experienced exclusively pleasant feelings.

Evameva kho ahaṃ, sāriputta, idhekaccaṃ puggalaṃ evaṃ cetasā ceto paricca pajānāmi:

In the same way, when I've comprehended the mind of a person, I understand:

‘tathāyaṃ puggalo paṭipanno tathā ca iriyati tañca maggaṃ samārūḷho, yathā āsavānaṃ khayā anāsavaṃ cetovimuttiṃ paññāvimuttiṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharissatī’ti.

‘This person is practicing in such a way and has entered such a path that they will realize the undefiled freedom of heart and freedom by wisdom in this very life, and live having realized it with their own insight due to the ending of defilements.’

Tamenaṃ passāmi aparena samayena āsavānaṃ khayā anāsavaṃ cetovimuttiṃ paññāvimuttiṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharantaṃ, ekantasukhā vedanā vedayamānaṃ.

Then some time later I see that they have indeed realized the undefiled freedom of heart and freedom by wisdom in this very life, and live having realized it with their own insight due to the ending of defilements, experiencing exclusively pleasant feelings.

Imā kho, sāriputta, pañca gatiyo.

These are the five destinations.

Yo kho maṃ, sāriputta, evaṃ jānantaṃ evaṃ passantaṃ evaṃ vadeyya:

When I know and see in this way, suppose someone were to say this:

‘natthi samaṇassa gotamassa uttari manussadhammā alamariyaññadassanaviseso;

‘The ascetic Gotama has no superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones.

takkapariyāhataṃ samaṇo gotamo dhammaṃ deseti vīmaṃsānucaritaṃ sayampaṭibhāna’ti

He teaches what he's worked out by logic, following a line of inquiry, expressing his own perspective.'

taṃ, sāriputta, vācaṃ appahāya taṃ cittaṃ appahāya taṃ diṭṭhiṃ appaṭinissajjitvā yathābhataṃ nikkhitto evaṃ niraye.

Unless they give up that speech and that thought, and let go of that view, they will be cast down to hell.

Seyyathāpi, sāriputta, bhikkhu sīlasampanno samādhisampanno paññāsampanno diṭṭheva dhamme aññaṃ ārādheyya; evaṃ sampadamidaṃ, sāriputta, vadāmi

Just as a mendicant accomplished in ethics, immersion, and wisdom would reach enlightenment in this very life, such is the consequence, I say.

taṃ vācaṃ appahāya taṃ cittaṃ appahāya taṃ diṭṭhiṃ appaṭinissajjitvā yathābhataṃ nikkhitto evaṃ niraye.

Unless they give up that speech and thought, and let go of that view, they will be cast down to hell.

Abhijānāmi kho panāhaṃ, sāriputta, caturaṅgasamannāgataṃ brahmacariyaṃ caritā—

Sāriputta, I recall having practiced a spiritual path consisting of four factors.

tapassī sudaṃ homi paramatapassī, lūkho sudaṃ homi paramalūkho, jegucchī sudaṃ homi paramajegucchī, pavivitto sudaṃ homi paramapavivitto.

I used to be a self-mortifier, the ultimate self-mortifier. I used to live rough, the ultimate rough-liver. I used to live in disgust at sin, the ultimate one living in disgust at sin. I used to be secluded, in ultimate seclusion.

Tatrāssu me idaṃ, sāriputta, tapassitāya hoti—acelako homi muttācāro hatthāpalekhano, naehibhaddantiko natiṭṭhabhaddantiko; nābhihaṭaṃ na uddissakataṃ na nimantanaṃ sādiyāmi.

And this is what my self-mortification was like. I went naked, ignoring conventions. I licked my hands, and didn't come or stop when asked. I didn't consent to food brought to me, or food prepared specially for me, or an invitation for a meal.

So na kumbhimukhā paṭiggaṇhāmi, na kaḷopimukhā paṭiggaṇhāmi, na eḷakamantaram, na daṇḍamantaram, na musalamantaram, na dvinnaṃ bhuñjamānānaṃ, na gabbhiniyā, na pāyamānāya, na purisantaragatāya, na saṅkittīsu, na yattha sā upaṭṭhito hoti, na yattha makkhikā saṇḍasaṇḍacārini; na macchaṃ na maṃsaṃ na suraṃ na merayaṃ na thusodakaṃ pivāmi;

I didn't receive anything from a pot or bowl; or from someone who keeps sheep, or who has a weapon or a shovel in their home; or where a couple is eating; or where there is a woman who is pregnant, breastfeeding, or who has a man in her home; or where food for distribution is advertised; or where there's a dog waiting or flies buzzing. I accepted no fish or meat or liquor or wine, and drank no beer.

so ekāgāriko vā homi ekālopiko, dvāgāriko vā homi dvālopiko ...pe... sattāgāriko vā homi sattālopiko;

I went to just one house for alms, taking just one mouthful, or two houses and two mouthfuls, up to seven houses and seven mouthfuls.

ekissāpi dattiyā yāpemi, dvīhipi dattīhi yāpemi ...pe... sattahipi dattīhi yāpemi;

I fed on one saucer a day, two saucers a day, up to seven saucers a day.

ekāhikampi āhāraṃ āhāremi, dvīhikampi āhāraṃ āhāremi ... pe... sattāhikampi āhāraṃ āhāremi; iti evarūpaṃ addhamāsikampi pariyāyabhattabhojanānuyogamanuyutto viharāmi.

I ate once a day, once every second day, up to once a week, and so on, even up to once a fortnight. I lived committed to the practice of eating food at set intervals.

So sākabhakkho vā homi, sāmākabhakkho vā homi, nīvārabhakkho vā homi, daddulabhakkho vā homi, haṭabhakkho vā homi, kaṇabhakkho vā homi, ācāmabhakkho vā homi, piññākabhakkho vā homi, tiṇabhakkho vā homi, gomayabhakkho vā homi, vanamūlaphalāhāro yāpemi pavattaphalabhojī.

I ate herbs, millet, wild rice, poor rice, water lettuce, rice bran, scum from boiling rice, sesame flour, grass, or cow dung. I survived on forest roots and fruits, or eating fallen fruit.

So sāṇānipi dhāremi, masāṇānipi dhāremi, chavadussānipi dhāremi, paṁsukūlānipi dhāremi, tirīṭānipi dhāremi, ajinampi dhāremi, ajinakkhipampi dhāremi, kusacīrampi dhāremi, vākacīrampi dhāremi, phalakacīrampi dhāremi, kesakambalampi dhāremi, vāḷakambalampi dhāremi, ulūkapakkhampi dhāremi;

I wore robes of sunn hemp, mixed hemp, corpse-wrapping cloth, rags, lodh tree bark, antelope hide (whole or in strips), kusa grass, bark, wood-chips, human hair, horse-tail hair, or owls' wings.

kesamassulocakopi homi kesamassulocanānuyogamanuyutto;
I tore out hair and beard, committed to this practice.

ubbhaṭṭhakopi homi āsanapaṭikkhitto;
I constantly stood, refusing seats.

ukkuṭīkopi homi ukkuṭīkappadhānamanuyutto;
I squatted, committed to the endeavor of squatting.

kaṇṭakāpassayīkopi homi kaṇṭakāpassaye seyyaṁ kappemi;
I lay on a mat of thorns, making a mat of thorns my bed.

sāyatatiyakampi udakorohanānuyogamanuyutto viharāmi—
I was committed to the practice of immersion in water three times a day, including the evening.

iti evarūpaṁ anekavihitaṁ kāyassa ātāpanaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto viharāmi.

And so I lived committed to practicing these various ways of mortifying and tormenting the body.

Idaṃsu me, sāriputta, tapassitāya hoti.

Such was my practice of self-mortification.

Tatrāssu me idaṃ, sāriputta, lūkhasmiṃ hoti—

And this is what my rough living was like.

nekavassagaṇikaṃ rajojallaṃ kāye sannicitaṃ hoti
papaṭikajātaṃ.

The dust and dirt built up on my body over many years until it started flaking off.

Seyyathāpi, sāriputta, tindukakhāṇu nekavassagaṇiko sannicito hoti papaṭikajāto, evamevāssu me, sāriputta, nekavassagaṇikaṃ rajojallaṃ kāye sannicitaṃ hoti
papaṭikajātaṃ.

It's like the trunk of a pale-moon ebony tree, which builds up bark over many years until it starts flaking off.

Tassa mayhaṃ, sāriputta, na evaṃ hoti:

But it didn't occur to me:

'aho vatāhaṃ imaṃ rajojallaṃ pāṇinā parimajjeyyaṃ, aññe vā pana me imaṃ rajojallaṃ pāṇinā parimajjeyyun'ti.

'Oh, this dust and dirt must be rubbed off by my hand or another's.'

Evampi me, sāriputta, na hoti.

That didn't occur to me.

Idaṃsu me, sāriputta, lūkhasmiṃ hoti. (1)

Such was my rough living.

Tatrāssu me idaṃ, sāriputta, jegucchismiṃ hoti—

And this is what my living in disgust of sin was like.

so kho ahaṃ, sāriputta, satova abhikkamāmi, satova paṭikkamāmi, yāva udakabindumhipi me dayā paccupaṭṭhitā
hoti:

I'd step forward or back ever so mindfully. I was full of pity even regarding a drop of water, thinking:

'māhaṃ khuddake pāṇe visamagate saṅghātaṃ āpādesin'ti.

'May I not accidentally injure any little creatures that happen to be in the wrong place.'

Idaṃsu me, sārīputta, jegucchismiṃ hoti. (2)

Such was my living in disgust of sin.

Tatrāssu me idaṃ, sārīputta, pavivittasmiṃ hoti—

And this is what my seclusion was like.

so kho ahaṃ, sārīputta, aññataraṃ araññāyatanāṃ ajjhogāhetvā viharāmi.

I would plunge deep into a wilderness region and stay there.

Yadā passāmi gopālakaṃ vā pasupālakaṃ vā tiṇahāraṃ vā kaṭṭhahāraṃ vā vanakammikaṃ vā, vanena vanaṃ gahanena gahanaṃ ninnena ninnāṃ thalena thalaṃ sampatāmi.

When I saw a cowherd or a shepherd, or someone gathering grass or sticks, or a lumberjack, I'd flee from forest to forest, from thicket to thicket, from valley to valley, from uplands to uplands.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Mā maṃ te addasaṃsu ahañca mā te addasanti.

So that I wouldn't see them, nor they me.

Seyyathāpi, sārīputta, āraññako mago manusse disvā vanena vanaṃ gahanena gahanaṃ ninnena ninnāṃ thalena thalaṃ sampatati;

I fled like a wild deer seeing a human being.

evameva kho ahaṃ, sārīputta, yadā passāmi gopālakaṃ vā pasupālakaṃ vā tiṇahāraṃ vā kaṭṭhahāraṃ vā vanakammikaṃ vā vanena vanaṃ gahanena gahanaṃ ninnena ninnāṃ thalena thalaṃ sampatāmi.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Mā maṃ te addasaṃsu ahañca mā te addasanti.

Idaṃsu me, sāriputta, pavivittasmiṃ hoti. (3)

Such was my practice of seclusion.

So kho ahaṃ, sāriputta, ye te goṭṭhā paṭṭhitagāvo apagatagopālakā, tattha catukkuṇḍiko upasaṅkamtivā yāni tāni vacchakānaṃ taruṇakānaṃ dhenupakānaṃ gomayāni tāni sudaṃ āhāremi.

I would go on all fours into the cow-pens after the cattle had left and eat the dung of the young suckling calves.

Yāvakīvañca me, sāriputta, sakaṃ muttakarīsaṃ apariyādinnaṃ hoti, sakaṃyeva sudaṃ muttakarīsaṃ āhāremi.

As long as my own urine and excrement lasted, I would even eat that.

Idaṃsu me, sāriputta, mahāvikaṭabhojanasmiṃ hoti. (4)

Such was my eating of most unnatural things.

So kho ahaṃ, sāriputta, aññataraṃ bhimsanakamaṃ vanasaṇḍaṃ ajjhogāhetvā viharāmi.

I would plunge deep into an awe-inspiring forest grove and stay there.

Tatrāssudaṃ, sāriputta, bhimsanakassa vanasaṇḍassa bhimsanakatasmiṃ hoti—

It was so awe-inspiring that yo koci avītarāgo taṃ vanasaṇḍaṃ pavisati, yebhuyyena lomāni haṃsanti.

normally it would make your hair stand on end if you weren't free of greed.

So kho ahaṃ, sāriputta, yā tā rattiyō sītā hemantikā antaraṭṭhakā himapātasamayā tathārūpāsu rattīsu rattim abbhokāse viharāmi, divā vanasaṇḍe;

And on cold nights like the eight days of winter when the snow falls I stayed in the open by night and in the forest by day.

gimhānaṃ pacchime māse divā abbhokāse viharāmi, rattiṃ vanasaṇḍe.

But in the last month of summer I'd stay in the open by day and in the forest by night.

Apissu maṃ, sāriputta, ayaṃ anacchariyagāthā paṭibhāsi pubbe assutapubbā:

And then these verses, which were neither supernaturally inspired, nor learned before in the past, occurred to me:

‘Sotatto sosinno ceva, ‘Scorched and frozen,

eko bhimsanake vane;
alone in the awe-inspiring forest.

Naggo na caggimāsīno, Naked, no fire to sit beside,

esanāpasuto munī’ti.
the sage still pursues his quest.’

So kho ahaṃ, sāriputta, susāne seyyaṃ kappemi chavaṭṭhikāni upadhāya.

I would make my bed in a charnel ground, with the bones of the dead for a pillow.

Apissu maṃ, sāriputta, gāmaṇḍalā upasaṅkamtivā oṭṭhubhantipi, omuttentipi, paṃsukenapi okiranti, kaṇṇasotesupi salākaṃ pavesenti.

Then the cowboys would come up to me. They'd spit and piss on me, throw mud on me, even poke sticks in my ears.

Na kho panāhaṃ, sāriputta, abhijānāmi tesu pāpakaṃ cittaṃ uppādetā.

But I don't recall ever having a bad thought about them.

Idaṃsu me, sāriputta, upekkhāvihārasmiṃ hoti.
Such was my abiding in equanimity.

Santi kho pana, sāriputta, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā evaṃvādinō evaṃdiṭṭhino:
There are some ascetics and brahmins who have this doctrine and view:

‘āhārena suddhī’ti.
‘Purity comes from food.’

Te evamāhaṃsu:
They say:

‘kolehi yāpemā’ti.
‘Let’s live on jujubes.’

Te kolampi khādanti, kolacuṇṇampi khādanti, kolodakampi pivanti—
So they eat jujubes and jujube powder, and drink jujube juice.

anekavihitampi kolavikatim̐ paribhuñjanti.
And they enjoy many jujube concoctions.

Abhijānāmi kho panāhaṃ, sāriputta, ekaṃyeva kolaṃ āhāraṃ āhāritā.
I recall eating just a single jujube.

Siyā kho pana te, sāriputta, evamassa:
You might think that ‘mahā nūna tena samayena kolo ahoṣī’ti.

at that time the jujubes must have been very big.

Na kho panetaṃ, sāriputta, evaṃ daṭṭhabbaṃ.
But you should not see it like this.

Tadāpi etaparamoyeva kolo ahosi seyyathāpi etarahi.
The jujubes then were at most the same size as today.

Tassa mayhaṃ, sāriputta, ekaṃyeva kolaṃ āhāraṃ āhārayato adhimattakasimānaṃ patto kāyo hoti.

Eating so very little, my body became extremely emaciated.

Seyyathāpi nāma āsītikapabbāni vā kāḷapabbāni vā;
evamevassu me aṅgapaccaṅgāni bhavanti tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, my limbs became like the joints of an eighty-year-old or a corpse,

Seyyathāpi nāma oṭṭhapadaṃ; evamevassu me ānisadaṃ hoti tāyevappāhāratāya.

my bottom became like a camel's hoof,

Seyyathāpi nāma vaṭṭanāvaḷī; evamevassu me piṭṭhikaṅṭako unnatāvanato hoti tāyevappāhāratāya.

my vertebrae stuck out like beads on a string,

Seyyathāpi nāma jarasālāya gopānasiyo oluggaviluggā bhavanti; evamevassu me phāsuḷiyo oluggaviluggā bhavanti
tāyevappāhāratāya.

and my ribs were as gaunt as the broken-down rafters on an old barn.

Seyyathāpi nāma gambhīre udapāne udakatārakā gambhīragatā okkhāyikā dissanti; evamevassu me akkhikūpesu akkhitārakā gambhīragatā okkhāyikā dissanti tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, the gleam of my eyes sank deep in their sockets, like the gleam of water sunk deep down a well.

Seyyathāpi nāma tittakālābu āmakacchinno vātātapena samphuṭito hoti sammilāto; evamevassu me sīsacchavi samphuṭitā hoti sammilātā tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, my scalp shriveled and withered like a green bitter-gourd in the wind and sun.

So kho ahaṃ, sārīputta, ‘udaracchaviṃ parimasissāmī’ti piṭṭhikaṅṭakaṃyeva pariggaṇhāmi, ‘piṭṭhikaṅṭakaṃ parimasissāmī’ti udaracchaviṃyeva pariggaṇhāmi, yāvassu me, sārīputta, udaracchavi piṭṭhikaṅṭakaṃ allīnā hoti
tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, the skin of my belly stuck to my backbone, so that when I tried to rub the skin of my belly I grabbed my backbone, and when I tried to rub my backbone I rubbed the skin of my belly.

So kho ahaṃ, sāriputta, ‘vaccaṃ vā muttaṃ vā karissāmi’ti tattheva avakujjo papatāmi tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, when I tried to urinate or defecate I fell face down right there.

So kho ahaṃ, sāriputta, tameva kāyaṃ assāsento pāṇinā gattāni anomajjāmi. Tassa mayhaṃ, sāriputta, pāṇinā gattāni anomajjato pūtimūlāni lomāni kāyasmā patanti

Due to eating so little, when I tried to relieve my body by rubbing my limbs with my hands, the hair, rotted at its roots, fell out.

Tāyapi kho ahaṃ, sāriputta, iriyāya tāya paṭipadāya tāya dukkarakārikāya nājjhagamaṃ uttarimṃ manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ.

But Sāriputta, I did not achieve any superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones by that conduct, that practice, that grueling work.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Imissāyeva ariyāya paññāya anadhigamā, yāyaṃ ariyā paññā adhigatā ariyā niyyānikā, niyyāti takkarassa sammā

Because I didn't achieve that noble wisdom that's noble and emancipating, and which leads someone who practices it to the complete ending of suffering.

Santi kho pana, sāriputta, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā evaṃvādinō evaṃdiṭṭhino:

There are some ascetics and brahmins who have this doctrine and view:

‘yāvadevāyaṃ bhavaṃ puriso daharo hoti yuvā susukāḷakeso bhadrena yobbanena samannāgato paṭhamena vayasā tāvadeva paramena paññāveyyattiyena samannāgato hoti.

‘So long as this gentleman is youthful, young, black-haired, blessed with youth, in the prime of life he will be endowed with perfect lucidity of wisdom.

Yato ca kho ayam bhavam puriso jīṇṇo hoti vuddho mahallako addhagato vayoanupatto, āsītiko vā nāvutiko vā vassasatiko vā jātiyā, atha tamhā paññāveyyattiyā, parihāyatī’ti.

But when he’s old, elderly, and senior, advanced in years, and has reached the final stage of life—eighty, ninety, or a hundred years old—he will lose his lucidity of wisdom.’

Na kho panetaṃ, sārīputta, evaṃ daṭṭhabbaṃ.

But you should not see it like this.

Ahaṃ kho pana, sārīputta, etarahi jīṇṇo vuddho mahallako addhagato vayoanupatto, āsītiko me vayo vattati.

For now I am old, elderly, and senior, I’m advanced in years, and have reached the final stage of life. I am eighty years old.

Idha me assu, sārīputta, cattāro sāvaka vassasatāyukā vassasatajīvino, paramāya satiyā ca gatiyā ca dhitiyā ca samannāgatā paramena ca paññāveyyattiyena.

Suppose I had four disciples with a lifespan of a hundred years. And they each were perfect in memory, range, retention, and perfect lucidity of wisdom.

Seyyathāpi, sārīputta, daḷhadhammā dhanuggaho sikkhito katahattho katūpāsano lahukena asanena appakasireneva tiriyaṃ tālacchāyaṃ atipāteyya, Imagine how easily a well-trained expert archer with a strong bow would shoot a light arrow across the shadow of a palm tree.

evaṃ adhimattasatimanto evaṃ adhimattagatimanto evaṃ adhimattadhitimanto evaṃ paramena paññāveyyattiyena samannāgatā.

That’s how extraordinary they were in memory, range, retention, and perfect lucidity of wisdom.

Te maṃ catunnaṃ satipaṭṭhānānaṃ upādāyupādāya pañhaṃ puccheyyuraṃ, puṭṭho puṭṭho cāhaṃ tesāṃ byākareyyaṃ, byākatañca me byākatato dhāreyyuṃ, na ca maṃ dutiyakaṃ uttari paṭipuccheyyuṃ.

They'd bring up questions about the four kinds of mindfulness meditation again and again, and I would answer each question. They'd remember the answers and not ask the same question twice.

Aññatra asitapītakhāyitasāyitā aññatra uccārapassāvakkammā, aññatra niddākilamathapaṭivinodanā apariyādinnaṃyevassa, sāriputta, tathāgatassa dhammadesanā, apariyādinnaṃyevassa tathāgatassa dhammapadabyañjanaṃ, apariyādinnaṃyevassa tathāgatassa pañhapaṭibhānaṃ.

And they'd pause only to eat and drink, go to the toilet, and sleep to dispel weariness. But the Realized One would not run out of Dhamma teachings, words and phrases of the teachings, or spontaneous answers.

Atha me te cattāro sāvakaṃ vassasatāyukā vassasatajīvino vassasatassa accayena kālaṃ kareyyuṃ.

And at the end of a hundred years my four disciples would pass away.

Mañcakena cepi maṃ, sāriputta, pariharissatha, nevatthi tathāgatassa paññāveyyattiyassa aññathattaṃ.

Even if you have to carry me around on a stretcher, there will never be any deterioration in the Realized One's lucidity of wisdom.

Yaṃ kho taṃ, sāriputta, sammā vadamāno vadeyya:

And if there's anyone of whom it may be rightly said that ‘asammohadhammo satto loke uppanno bahujanahitāya bahujanasukhāya lokānukampāya atthāya hitāya sukhāya devamanussānaṃ'ti, mameva taṃ sammā vadamāno vadeyya

a being not liable to delusion has arisen in the world for the welfare and happiness of the people, for the benefit, welfare, and happiness of gods and humans, it's of me that this should be said.”

‘asammohadhammo satto loke uppanno bahujanahitāya
bahujanasukhāya lokānukampāya atthāya hitāya sukhāya

devamanussānan””ti.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā nāgasamālo bhagavato piṭṭhito ṭhito hoti bhagavantam̃ bijayamāno.

Now at that time Venerable Nāgasamāla was standing behind the Buddha fanning him.

Atha kho āyasmā nāgasamālo bhagavantam̃ etadavoca:

Then he said to the Buddha:

“acchariyam̃, bhante, abbhutam̃, bhante.

Api hi me, bhante, imam̃ dhammapariyāyam̃ sutvā lomāni haṭṭhāni.

While I was listening to this exposition of the teaching my hair stood up!

Konāmo ayam̃, bhante, dhammapariyāyo””ti?

What is the name of this exposition of the teaching?”

“Tasmātiha tvam̃, nāgasamāla, imam̃ dhammapariyāyam̃ lomahaṃsanapariyāyotveva nam̃ dhārehī””ti.

“Well, Nāgasamāla, you may remember this exposition of the teaching as ‘The Hair-raising Discourse’.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā nāgasamālo bhagavato bhāsitam̃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Venerable Nāgasamāla was happy with what the Buddha said.

Mahāsīhanādasuttam̃ niṭṭhitam̃ dutiyam̃.

The Longer Discourse on the Mass of Suffering

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Atha kho sambahulā bhikkhū pubbaṇhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya savatthim piṇḍāya pāvisimsu.

Then several mendicants robed up in the morning and, taking their bowls and robes, entered Sāvattihī for alms.

Atha kho tesam bhikkhūnam etadahosi:

Then it occurred to him,

“atippago kho tāva savatthiyam piṇḍāya caritum,

yam nūna mayam yena aññatitthiyānam paribbājakānam ārāmo tenupasaṅkameyyāmā”ti.

Why don’t we go to the monastery of the wanderers who follow other paths?”

Atha kho te bhikkhū yena aññatitthiyānam paribbājakānam ārāmo tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamitvā tehi aññatitthiyehi paribbājakehi saddhim sammodimsu;

Then they went to the monastery of the wanderers who follow other paths, and exchanged greetings with the wanderers there.

sammodanīyaṃ kathāṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdiṃsu. Ekamantaṃ nisinne kho te bhikkhū te aññatitthiyā paribbājakā etadavocum:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, they sat down to one side. The wanderers said to them:

“samaṇo, āvuso, gotamo kāmānaṃ pariññaṃ paññapeti, mayampi kāmānaṃ pariññaṃ paññapema;

“Reverends, the ascetic Gotama advocates the complete understanding of sensual pleasures, and so do we.

samaṇo, āvuso, gotamo rūpānaṃ pariññaṃ paññapeti, mayampi rūpānaṃ pariññaṃ paññapema;

The ascetic Gotama advocates the complete understanding of sights, and so do we.

samaṇo, āvuso, gotamo vedanānaṃ pariññaṃ paññapeti, mayampi vedanānaṃ pariññaṃ paññapema;

The ascetic Gotama advocates the complete understanding of feelings, and so do we.

idha no, āvuso, ko viseso, ko adhippayāso, kiṃ nānākaraṇaṃ samaṇassa vā gotamassa amhākaṃ vā—

What, then, is the difference between the ascetic Gotama’s teaching and instruction and ours?”

yadidaṃ dhammadesanāya vā dhammadesanaṃ, anusāsaniyā vā anusāsanin”ti?

Atha kho te bhikkhū tesaṃ aññatitthiyānaṃ paribbājakānaṃ bhāsitaṃ neva abhinandiṃsu, nappaṭikkosiṃsu;

Those mendicants neither approved nor dismissed that statement of the wanderers who follow other paths.

anabhinanditvā appaṭikkosivā uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ pakkamiṃsu:

They got up from their seat, thinking,

“bhagavato santike etassa bhāsitassa atthaṃ ājānissāma”ti.

“We will learn the meaning of this statement from the Buddha himself.”

Atha kho te bhikkhū sāvattiyam piṇḍāya caritvā pacchābhattam piṇḍapātapaṭikkantā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantam nisīdimsu. Ekamantam nisinnā kho te bhikkhū bhagavantam etadvocum:

Then, after the meal, when they returned from alms-round, they went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened. The Buddha said:

“idha mayam, bhante, pubbaṅhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya sāvattim piṇḍāya pāvisimha.

Tesam no, bhante, amhākam etadahosi:

‘atippago kho tāva sāvattiyam piṇḍāya caritum, yam nūna mayam yena aññatitthiyānam paribbājakānam ārāmo
tenupasaṅkameyyāmā’ti.

Atha kho mayam, bhante, yena aññatitthiyānam paribbājakānam ārāmo tenupasaṅkamimha; upasaṅkamtivā tehi aññatitthiyehi paribbājakehi saddhim sammodimha;

sammodanīyam katham saraṇīyam vītisāretvā ekamantam nisīdimha. Ekamantam nisinne kho amhe, bhante, te aññatitthiyā paribbājakā etadvocum:

‘samaṇo, āvuso, gotamo kāmānam pariññam paññapeti, mayampi kāmānam pariññam paññapema.

Samaṇo, āvuso, gotamo rūpānam pariññam paññapeti, mayampi rūpānam pariññam paññapema.

Samaṇo, āvuso, gotamo vedanānam pariññam paññapeti, mayampi vedanānam pariññam paññapema.

Idha no, āvuso, ko viseso, ko adhippayāso, kim nānākaraṇam samaṇassa vā gotamassa amhākam vā, yadidaṃ dhammadesanāya vā dhammadesanaṃ anusāsanīyā vā anusāsanin'ti.

Atha kho mayaṃ, bhante, tesaṃ aññatitthiyānaṃ paribbājakānaṃ bhāsitaṃ neva abhinandimha, nappaṭikkosimha;

anabhinanditvā appaṭikkosivā uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ pakkamimha:

'bhagavato santike etassa bhāsitassa atthaṃ ājānissāma'”ti.

“Evaṃvādino, bhikkhave, aññatitthiyā paribbājakā evamassu
vacanīyā:

“Mendicants, when wanderers who follow other paths say this, you should say to them:

'ko panāvuso, kāmānaṃ assādo, ko ādīnavo, kiṃ nissaraṇaṃ?

‘But reverends, what’s the gratification, the drawback, and the escape when it comes to sensual pleasures?

Ko rūpānaṃ assādo, ko ādīnavo, kiṃ nissaraṇaṃ?

What’s the gratification, the drawback, and the escape when it comes to sights?

Ko vedanānaṃ assādo, ko ādīnavo, kiṃ nissaraṇaṃ'ti?

What’s the gratification, the drawback, and the escape when it comes to feelings?’

Evaṃ puṭṭhā, bhikkhave, aññatitthiyā paribbājakā na ceva sampāyissanti, uttariṅca vighātaṃ āpajjissanti.

Questioned like this, the wanderers who follow other paths would be stumped, and, in addition, would get frustrated.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Yathā taṃ, bhikkhave, avisayasmiṃ.

Because they’re out of their element.

Nāhaṃ taṃ, bhikkhave, passāmi sadevake loke samārake sabrahmaṇe sassamaṇabrāhmaṇiyā pajāya sadevamanussāya yo imesaṃ pañhānaṃ veyyākaraṇena cittaṃ ārādheyya, aññatra tathāgataena vā tathāgatasāvakena vā, ito vā pana sutvā.

I don't see anyone in this world—with its gods, Māras, and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, its gods and humans—who could provide a satisfying answer to these questions except for the Realized One or his disciple or someone who has heard it from them.

Ko ca, bhikkhave, kāmānaṃ assādo?

And what is the gratification of sensual pleasures?

Pañcime, bhikkhave, kāmaguṇā.

There are these five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Katame pañca?

What five?

Cakkhuviññeyyā rūpā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā
kāmūpasamhitā rajanīyā,

Sights known by the eye that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

sotaviññeyyā saddā ...pe...

Sounds known by the ear ...

ghānaviññeyyā gandhā ...

Smells known by the nose ...

jivhāviññeyyā rasā ...

Tastes known by the tongue ...

kāyaviññeyyā phoṭṭhabbā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā
kāmūpasamhitā rajanīyā—

Touches known by the body that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

ime kho, bhikkhave, pañca kāmaguṇā.

These are the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Yaṃ kho, bhikkhave, ime pañca kāmaguṇe paṭicca uppajjati sukhaṃ somanassaṃ—ayaṃ kāmānaṃ assādo.

The pleasure and happiness that arise from these five kinds of sensual stimulation: this is the gratification of sensual pleasures.

Ko ca, bhikkhave, kāmānaṃ ādīnavo?

And what is the drawback of sensual pleasures?

Idha, bhikkhave, kulaputto yena sippaṭṭhānena jīvikam kappeti

It's when a gentleman earns a living by means such as yadi muddāya yadi gaṇanāya yadi saṅkhānena yadi kasiyā yadi vaṇijjāya yadi gorakkhena yadi issatthena yadi rājaporisena yadi sippaññatarena—computing, accounting, calculating, farming, trade, raising cattle, archery, government service, or one of the professions.

sītassa purakkhato uṇhassa purakkhato

ḍaṃsamakasavātātapasarīsapasamphassehi rissamāno

khuppiṭṭhāya mīyamāno;

But they must face cold and heat, being hurt by the touch of flies, mosquitoes, wind, sun, and reptiles, and risking death from hunger and thirst.

ayampi, bhikkhave, kāmānaṃ ādīnavo sandiṭṭhiko, dukkhakkhandho kāmahetu kāmanidānaṃ kāmādhikaraṇaṃ

kāmānameva hetu.

This is a drawback of sensual pleasures apparent in this very life, a mass of suffering caused by sensual pleasures.

Tassa ce, bhikkhave, kulaputtassa evaṃ utṭhahato ghaṭato vāyamato te bhogā nābhiniṭṭhanti.

That gentleman might try hard, strive, and make an effort, but fail to earn any money.

So socati kilamati paridevati urattāḷim kandati, sammohaṃ āpajjati:

If this happens, they sorrow and pine and lament, beating their breast and falling into confusion, saying:

‘moghaṃ vata me uṭṭhānaṃ, aphalo vata me vāyāmo’ti.

‘Oh, my hard work is wasted. My efforts are fruitless!’

Ayampi, bhikkhave, kāmānaṃ ādīnava sandiṭṭhiko
dukkhakkhandho kāmahetu kāmanidānaṃ kāmādhikaraṇaṃ
kāmānameva hetu.

This too is a drawback of sensual pleasures apparent in this very life, a mass of suffering caused by sensual pleasures.

Tassa ce, bhikkhave, kulaputtassa evaṃ uṭṭhahato ghaṭato vāyamato te bhogā abhinipphajjanti.

That gentleman might try hard, strive, and make an effort, and succeed in earning money.

So tesāṃ bhogānaṃ ārakkhādhikaraṇaṃ dukkhaṃ domanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti:

But they experience pain and sadness when they try to protect it, thinking:

‘kinti me bhoge neva rājāno hareyyuṃ, na corā hareyyuṃ, na aggi daheyya, na udakaṃ vaheyya, na appiyā dāyādā hareyyuṃ’ti.

‘How can I prevent my wealth from being taken by rulers or bandits, consumed by fire, swept away by flood, or taken by unloved heirs?’

Tassa evaṃ ārakkhato gopayato te bhoge rājāno vā haranti, corā vā haranti, aggi vā dahati, udakaṃ vā vahati, appiyā vā dāyādā haranti.

And even though they protect it and ward it, rulers or bandits take it, or fire consumes it, or flood sweeps it away, or unloved heirs take it.

So socati kilamati paridevati urattāḷiṃ kandati, sammohaṃ āpajjati:

They sorrow and pine and lament, beating their breast and falling into confusion:

‘yampi me ahosi tampi no natthī’ti.

‘What used to be mine is gone.’

Ayampi, bhikkhave, kāmānaṃ ādīnava sandiṭṭhiko, dukkhakkhandho kāmahetu kāmanidānaṃ kāmādhikaraṇaṃ
kāmānameva hetu.

This too is a drawback of sensual pleasures apparent in this very life, a mass of suffering caused by sensual pleasures.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, kāmahetu kāmanidānaṃ kāmādhikaraṇaṃ kāmānameva hetu rājānopi rājūhi vivadanti, khattiyāpi khattiyehi vivadanti, brāhmaṇāpi brāhmaṇehi vivadanti, gahapatīpi gahapatīhi vivadanti, mātāpi puttana pītārā vivadati, bhātāpi bhātarā vivadati, bhātāpi bhaginiyā vivadati, bhaginīpi bhātarā vivadati, sahāyopi sahāyena vivadati.

Furthermore, for the sake of sensual pleasures kings fight with kings, aristocrats fight with aristocrats, brahmins fight with brahmins, and householders fight with householders. A mother fights with her child, child with mother, father with child, and child with father. Brother fights with brother, brother with sister, sister with brother, and friend fights with friend.

Te tattha kalahaviggahavivādāpannā aññamaññaṃ pāṇīhipi

Once they've started quarreling, arguing, and fighting, they attack each other with fists, stones, rods, and swords,

Te tattha maraṇampi nigacchanti, maraṇamattampi dukkhaṃ.
resulting in death and deadly pain.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, kāmānaṃ ādīnava sandiṭṭhiko,
dukkhakkhandho kāmahetu kāmanidānaṃ kāmādhikaraṇaṃ
kāmānameva hetu.

This too is a drawback of sensual pleasures apparent in this very life, a mass of suffering caused by sensual pleasures.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, kāmahetu kāmanidānaṃ

asīsipi vijjotalantesu.

Furthermore, for the sake of sensual pleasures they don their sword and shield, fasten their bow and arrows, and plunge into a battle massed on both sides, with arrows and spears flying and swords flashing.

Te tattha usūhipi vijjhanti, sattiyāpi vijjhanti, asināpi sīsaṃ

There they are struck with arrows and spears, and their heads are chopped off,

Te tattha maraṇampi nigacchanti, maraṇamattampi dukkhaṃ.
resulting in death and deadly pain.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, kāmaṇaṃ ādīnava sandiṭṭhiko, dukkhakkhandho kāmahetu kāmanidānaṃ kāmadhikaraṇaṃ kāmaṇameva hetu.

This too is a drawback of sensual pleasures apparent in this very life, a mass of suffering caused by sensual pleasures.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, kāmahetu kāmanidānaṃ

Furthermore, for the sake of sensual pleasures they don their sword and shield, fasten their bow and arrows, and charge wetly plastered bastions, with arrows and spears flying and swords flashing.

Te tattha usūhipi vijjhanti, sattiyāpi vijjhanti, chakaṇakāyapi

Te tattha maraṇampi nigacchanti, maraṇamattampi dukkhaṃ.
resulting in death and deadly pain.

Ayampi, bhikkhave, kāmānaṃ ādīnava sandiṭṭhiko,
dukkhakkhandho kāmahetu kāmanidānaṃ kāmādhikaraṇaṃ
kāmānameva hetu.

This too is a drawback of sensual pleasures apparent in this very life, a mass of suffering caused by sensual pleasures.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, kāmahetu kāmanidānaṃ

paradāraṃpi gacchanti.

Furthermore, for the sake of sensual pleasures they break into houses, plunder wealth, steal from isolated buildings, commit highway robbery, and commit adultery.

Tameṇaṃ rājāno gahetvā vividhā kammakāraṇā kārenti—
The rulers would arrest them and subject them to various

Furthermore, for the sake of sensual pleasures, they conduct themselves badly by way of body, speech, and mind.

Te kāyena duccharitaṃ caritvā, vācāya duccharitaṃ caritvā,

Ayampi, bhikkhave, kāmaṇaṃ ādīnava samparāyiko,

This is a drawback of sensual pleasures to do with lives to come, a mass of suffering caused by sensual pleasures.

Kiñca, bhikkhave, kāmaṇaṃ nissaraṇaṃ?

And what is the escape from sensual pleasures?

Yo kho, bhikkhave, kāmesu chandarāgavinayo chandarāgappahānaṃ—idaṃ kāmaṇaṃ nissaraṇaṃ.

Removing and giving up desire and greed for sensual pleasures: this is the escape from sensual pleasures.

Ye hi keci, bhikkhave, samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā evaṃ kāmānaṃ assādañca assādato ādīnavañca ādīnavato nissaraṇaṃ nissaraṇato yathābhūtaṃ nappajānanti te vata sāmaṃ vā kāme pari jānissanti, paraṃ vā tathattāya samādapessanti yathā paṭipanno kāme pari jānissatīti—netam̐ ṭhānaṃ vijjati.

There are ascetics and brahmins who don't truly understand sensual pleasures' gratification, drawback, and escape in this way for what they are. It's impossible for them to completely understand sensual pleasures themselves, or to instruct another so that, practicing accordingly, they will completely understand sensual pleasures.

‘Evaṃ, bhante’.

“Yes, sir.”

It's when a mendicant, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamaṇā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

14. Cūḷadukkhakkhandhasutta

The Shorter Discourse on the Mass of Suffering

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava sakkesu viharati kapilavatthusmim nigrodharam.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Sakyans, near Kapilavatthu in the Banyan Tree Monastery.

Atha kho mahanammo sakko yena bhagava tenupasankami; upasankamitva bhagavantam abhivadetva ekamantam nisidi. Ekamantam nisinno kho mahanammo sakko bhagavantam etadavoca:

Then Mahanamma the Sakyan went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him, “digharattaham, bhante, bhagavatam evam dhammam desitam ajanammi:

“For a long time, sir, I have understood your teaching like this:

‘lobho cittassa upakkilesa, doso cittassa upakkilesa, moho cittassa upakkilesa’ti.

‘Greed, hate, and delusion are corruptions of the mind.’

Evañcāham, bhante, bhagavatam dhammam desitam ajanammi:

‘lobho cittassa upakkilesa, doso cittassa upakkilesa, moho cittassa upakkilesa’ti.

Atha ca pana me ekadā lobhadhammāpi cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhanti, dosadhammāpi cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhanti, mohadhammāpi cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhanti.

Despite understanding this, sometimes my mind is occupied by thoughts of greed, hate, and delusion.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, evaṃ hoti:

‘kosu nāma me dhammo ajjhattaṃ appahīno yena me ekadā lobhadhammāpi cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhanti, dosadhammāpi cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhanti, mohadhammāpi cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhantī’”ti.

I wonder what qualities remain in me that I have such thoughts?”

“So eva kho te, mahānāma, dhammo ajjhattaṃ appahīno yena te ekadā lobhadhammāpi cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhanti, dosadhammāpi cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhanti, mohadhammāpi cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhanti.

“Mahānāma, there is a quality that remains in you that makes you have such thoughts.

So ca hi te, mahānāma, dhammo ajjhattaṃ pahīno abhaviṣṣa, na tvaṃ agāraṃ ajjhāvaseyyāsi, na kāme paribhuñjeyyāsi.

For if you had given up that quality you would not still be living at home and enjoying sensual pleasures.

Yasmā ca kho te, mahānāma, so eva dhammo ajjhattaṃ appahīno tasmā tvaṃ agāraṃ ajjhāvasasi, kāme paribhuñjasi.

But because you haven’t given up that quality you are still living at home and enjoying sensual pleasures.

‘Appassādā kāmā bahudukkhā bahupāyāsā, ādīnavo ettha bhiyyo’ti—

Sensual pleasures give little gratification and much suffering and distress, and they are all the more full of drawbacks.

iti cepi, mahānāma, ariyasāvakassa yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya sudiṭṭhaṃ hoti, so ca aññatreva kāmehi aññatra akusalehi dhammehi pītisukhaṃ nādhigacchati, aññaṃ vā tato santataraṃ;

Even though a noble disciple has clearly seen this with right wisdom, so long as they don't achieve the rapture and bliss that are apart from sensual pleasures and unskillful qualities, or something even more peaceful than that, atha kho so neva tāva anāvaṭṭī kāmesu hoti.

they might still return to sensual pleasures.

Yato ca kho, mahānāma, ariyasāvakassa 'appassādā kāmā bahudukkhā bahupāyāsā, ādīnavo ettha bhiyyo'ti—evametaṃ yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya sudiṭṭhaṃ hoti, so ca aññatreva kāmehi aññatra akusalehi dhammehi pītisukhaṃ adhigacchati aññaṃ vā tato santataraṃ;

But when they do achieve that rapture and bliss, or something more peaceful than that, atha kho so anāvaṭṭī kāmesu hoti.

they will not return to sensual pleasures.

Mayhampi kho, mahānāma, pubbeva sambodhā, anabhisambuddhassa bodhisattasseva sato,

Before my awakening—when I was still unawakened but intent on awakening—I too clearly saw with right wisdom that:

'appassādā kāmā bahudukkhā bahupāyāsā, ādīnavo ettha bhiyyo'ti—evametaṃ yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya sudiṭṭhaṃ hoti,

'Sensual pleasures give little gratification and much suffering and distress, and they are all the more full of drawbacks.'

so ca aññatreva kāmehi aññatra akusalehi dhammehi pītisukhaṃ nājjhagamaṃ, aññaṃ vā tato santataraṃ;

But so long as I didn't achieve the rapture and bliss that are apart from sensual pleasures and unskillful qualities, or something even more peaceful than that, atha khvāhaṃ neva tāva anāvaṭṭī kāmesu paccaññāsīm.

I didn't announce that I would not return to sensual pleasures.

Yato ca kho me, mahānāma, 'appassādā kāmā bahudukkhā bahupāyāsā, ādīnavo ettha bhiyyo'ti—evametam yathābhūtam sammappaññāya sudiṭṭham ahosi, so ca aññatreva kāmehi aññatra akusalehi dhammehi pītisukham ajjhagamam, aññam vā tato santataram;

But when I did achieve that rapture and bliss, or something more peaceful than that, athāham anāvattī kāmesu paccaññāsim.

I announced that I would not return to sensual pleasures.

Ko ca, mahānāma, kāmānam assādo?

And what is the gratification of sensual pleasures?

Pañcime, mahānāma, kāmaguṇā.

There are these five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Katame pañca?

What five?

Cakkhuviññeyyā rūpā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā kāmūpasamhitā rajanīyā;

Sights known by the eye that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

Sounds known by the ear ...

ghānaviññeyyā gandhā ...

Smells known by the nose ...

jivhāviññeyyā rasā ...

Tastes known by the tongue ...

kāyaviññeyyā phoṭṭhabbā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā kāmūpasamhitā rajanīyā—

Touches known by the body that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

ime kho, mahānāma, pañca kāmagaṇā.

These are the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Yaṃ kho, mahānāma, ime pañca kāmagaṇe paṭicca uppajjati sukhaṃ somanassaṃ—

The pleasure and happiness that arise from these five kinds of sensual stimulation: this is the gratification of sensual pleasures.

ayaṃ kāmānaṃ assādo.

Ko ca, mahānāma, kāmānaṃ ādīnavo?

And what is the drawback of sensual pleasures?

Idha, mahānāma, kulaputto yena sippaṭṭhānena jīvikaṃ kappeti

It's when a gentleman earns a living by means such as yadi muddāya yadi gaṇanāya yadi saṅkhānena yadi kasiyā yadi vaṇijjāya yadi gorakkhena yadi issatthena yadi rājaporisena yadi sippaññatarena, computing, accounting, calculating, farming, trade, raising cattle, archery, government service, or one of the professions.

sītassa purakkhato uṇhassa purakkhato

ḍaṃsamakasavātātapasarīsapasaṃphassehi rissamāno

khuppiṇāsāya mīyamāno;

But they must face cold and heat, being hurt by the touch of flies, mosquitoes, wind, sun, and reptiles, and risking death from hunger and thirst.

ayampi, mahānāma, kāmānaṃ ādīnavo sandiṭṭhiko

dukkhakkhandho kāmahetu kāmanidānaṃ kāmādhikaraṇaṃ kāmānameva hetu.

This is a drawback of sensual pleasures apparent in this very life, a mass of suffering caused by sensual pleasures.

Tassa ce, mahānāma, kulaputtassa evaṃ uṭṭhahato ghaṭato vāyamato te bhogā nābhiniṭṭhanti,

That gentleman might try hard, strive, and make an effort, but fail to earn any money.

so socati kilamati paridevati urattāḷim kandati sammohaṃ āpajjati 'moghaṃ vata me uṭṭhānaṃ, aphalo vata me vāyāmo'ti.

If this happens, they sorrow and pine and lament, beating their breast and falling into confusion, saying: 'Oh, my hard work is wasted. My efforts are fruitless!'

Ayampi, mahānāma, kāmānaṃ ādīnava sandiṭṭhiko dukkhakkhandho kāmahetu kāmanidānaṃ kāmādhikaraṇaṃ kāmānameva hetu.

This too is a drawback of sensual pleasures apparent in this very life, a mass of suffering caused by sensual pleasures.

Tassa ce, mahānāma, kulaputtassa evaṃ uṭṭhahato ghaṭato vāyamato te bhogaṃ abhinipphajjanti.

That gentleman might try hard, strive, and make an effort, and succeed in earning money.

So tesaṃ bhogaṇaṃ ārakkhādhikaraṇaṃ dukkhaṃ domanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti:

But they experience pain and sadness when they try to protect it, thinking:

'kinti me bhoge neva rājāno hareyyuṃ, na corā hareyyuṃ, na aggi daheyya, na udakaṃ vaheyya, na appiyā vā dāyādā hareyyun'ti.

'How can I prevent my wealth from being taken by rulers or bandits, consumed by fire, swept away by flood, or taken by unloved heirs?'

Tassa evaṃ ārakkhato gopayato te bhoge rājāno vā haranti, corā vā haranti, aggi vā dahati, udakaṃ vā vahati, appiyā vā dāyādā haranti.

And even though they protect it and ward it, rulers or bandits take it, or fire consumes it, or flood sweeps it away, or unloved heirs take it.

So socati kilamati paridevati urattāḷim kandati sammohaṃ āpajjati:

They sorrow and pine and lament, beating their breast and falling into confusion:

‘yampi me ahosi tampi no natthī’ti.

Ayampi, mahānāma, kāmānaṃ ādīnavo sandiṭṭhiko

Furthermore, for the sake of sensual pleasures kings fight with kings, aristocrats fight with aristocrats, brahmins fight with brahmins, and householders fight with householders. whipping, caning, and clubbing; cutting off hands or feet, or both; cutting off ears or nose, or both; the 'porridge pot', the 'shell-shave', the 'demon's mouth', the 'garland of fire', the 'burning hand', the 'grass blades', the 'bark dress', the 'antelope', the 'meat hook', the 'coins', the 'acid pickle', the 'twisting bar', the 'straw mat'; being splashed with hot oil, being fed to the dogs, being impaled alive, and being beheaded.

Te tattha maraṇampi nigacchanti, maraṇamattampi dukkhaṃ.

These result in death and deadly pain.

Ayampi, mahānāma, kāmānaṃ ādīnavo sandiṭṭhiko

When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell.

Ayampi, mahānāma, kāmānaṃ ādīnavo samparāyiko,

This is a drawback of sensual pleasures to do with lives to come, a mass of suffering caused by sensual pleasures.

Ekamidāhaṃ, mahānāma, samayaṃ rājagahe viharāmi gijjhakūṭe pabbate.

Mahānāma, this one time I was staying near Rājagaha, on the Vulture's Peak Mountain.

Tena kho pana samayena sambahulā nigaṇṭhā isigilipasse kāḷasilāyaṃ ubbhaṭṭhakā honti āsanapaṭikkhittā, opakkamikā dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayanti.

Now at that time several Jain ascetics on the slopes of Isigili at the Black Rock were constantly standing, refusing seats. And they felt painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings due to overexertion.

Atha khvāhaṃ, mahānāma, sāyanhasamayāṃ paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yena isigilipasse kāḷasilā yena te nigaṇṭhā tenupasaṅkamim; upasaṅkamtivā te nigaṇṭhe etadavocaṃ:

Then in the late afternoon, I came out of retreat and went to the Black Rock to visit those Jain ascetics. I said to them,

'kim nu tumhe, āvuso nigaṇṭhā, ubbhaṭṭhakā āsanapaṭikkhittā, opakkamikā dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayathā'ti?

'Reverends, why are you constantly standing, refusing seats, so that you feel painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings due to overexertion?'

Evaṃ vutte, mahānāma, te nigaṇṭhā maṃ etadavocaṃ:

When I said this, those Jain ascetics said to me,

'nigaṇṭho, āvuso, nāṭaputto sabbaññū sabbadassāvī aparisesaṃ ñāṇadassanaṃ paṭijānāti:

'Reverend, the Jain leader Nātaputta claims to be all-knowing and all-seeing, to know and see everything without exception, thus:

“carato ca me tiṭṭhato ca suttassa ca jāgarassa ca satataṃ samitaṃ ñāṇadassanaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ”ti.

“Knowledge and vision are constantly and continually present to me, while walking, standing, sleeping, and waking.”

So evamāha:

He says,

“atthi kho vo, nigaṇṭhā, pubbe pāpakammaṃ kataṃ, taṃ imāya kaṭukāya dukkarakārikāya nijjiretha;

“O Jain ascetics, you have done bad deeds in a past life. Wear them away with these severe and grueling austerities.

yaṃ panettha etarahi kāyena saṃvutā vācāya saṃvutā manasā saṃvutā taṃ āyatim pāpassa kammaṃ akaraṇaṃ;

And when you refrain from such deeds in the present by way of body, speech, and mind, you’re not doing any bad deeds for the future.

iti purāṇānaṃ kammānaṃ tapasā byantibhāvā, navānaṃ kammānaṃ akaraṇā, āyatim anavassavo;

So, due to eliminating past deeds by mortification, and not doing any new deeds, there’s nothing to come up in the future.

āyatim anavassavā kammakkhaya, kammakkhayā dukkhakkhaya, dukkhakkhayā vedanākkhaya, vedanākkhayā sabbaṃ dukkhaṃ nijjiṇṇaṃ bhavissati”ti.

With nothing to come up in the future, deeds end. With the ending of deeds, suffering ends. With the ending of suffering, feeling ends. And with the ending of feeling, all suffering will have been worn away.”

Taṅca panamhākaṃ rucati ceva khamati ca, tena camha attamanā’ti.

We like and accept this, and we are satisfied with it.’

Evaṃ vutte, ahaṃ, mahānāma, te nigaṇṭhe etadavocaṃ:

When they said this, I said to them,

‘kiṃ pana tumhe, āvuso nigaṇṭhā, jānātha—

‘But reverends, do you know ahuvamheva mayaṃ pubbe na nāhuvamhā’ti?

for sure that you existed in the past, and it is not the case that you didn’t exist?’

‘No hidaṃ, āvuso’.

‘No we don’t, reverend.’

‘Kiṃ pana tumhe, āvuso nigaṇṭhā, jānātha—

‘But reverends, do you know akaramheva mayaṃ pubbe pāpakammaṃ na nākaramhā’ti?

for sure that you did bad deeds in the past?’

‘No hidaṃ, āvuso’.

‘No we don’t, reverend.’

‘Kiṃ pana tumhe, āvuso nigaṇṭhā, jānātha—

‘But reverends, do you know

evarūpaṃ vā evarūpaṃ vā pāpakammaṃ akaramhā’ti?

that you did such and such bad deeds?’

‘No hidaṃ, āvuso’.

‘No we don’t, reverend.’

‘Kiṃ pana tumhe, āvuso nigaṇṭhā, jānātha—

‘But reverends, do you know that so much suffering has already been worn away? Or that so much suffering still remains to be worn away? Or that when so much suffering is worn away all suffering will have been worn away?’

‘No hidaṃ, āvuso’.

‘No we don’t, reverend.’

‘Kiṃ pana tumhe, āvuso nigaṇṭhā, jānātha—

‘But reverends, do you know

diṭṭheva dhamme akusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ pahānaṃ, about giving up unskillful qualities in the present life and embracing skillful qualities?’

‘No hidam, āvuso’.

‘No we don’t, reverend.’

‘Iti kira tumhe, āvuso nigaṇṭhā, na jānātha—

‘So it seems that you don’t know any of these things.

ahuvamheva mayaṃ pubbe na nāhuvamhāti, na jānātha—

That being so, when those in the world who are violent and bloody-handed and make their living by cruelty are reborn among humans they go forth as Jain ascetics.’

‘Na kho, āvuso gotama, sukkena sukhaṃ adhigantabbaṃ,

For if pleasure were to be gained through pleasure, King Seniya Bimbisāra of Māgadha would gain pleasure, since he lives in greater pleasure than Venerable Gotama.'

'Addhāyasmantehi nigaṇṭhehi sahasā appaṭisaṅkhā vācā bhāsītā:

'Clearly the venerables have spoken rashly, without reflection.

“na kho, āvuso gotama, sukhena sukhaṃ adhigantabbaṃ, dukkhena kho sukhaṃ adhigantabbaṃ; who lives in greater pleasure, King Bimbisāra or Venerable Gotama?'

Addhāvuso gotama, amhehi sahasā appaṭisaṅkhā vācā bhāsītā, na kho, āvuso gotama, sukhena sukhaṃ adhigantabbaṃ, dukkhena kho sukhaṃ adhigantabbaṃ;

'Clearly we spoke rashly and without reflection.

Idamavoca bhagavā.
That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano mahānāmo sakko bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.
Satisfied, Mahānāma the Sakyan was happy with what the Buddha said.

15. Anumānasutta Measuring Up

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam āyasmā mahāmoggallāno bhaggesu viharati
susumāragire bhesakaḷāvane migadāye.

At one time Venerable Mahāmoggallāna was staying in the land of the Bhaggas on Crocodile Hill, in the deer park at Bhesakaḷā's Wood.

Tatra kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno bhikkhū āmantesi:

There Venerable Mahāmoggallāna addressed the mendicants:

“āvuso bhikkhavo”ti.

“Reverends, mendicants!”

“Āvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato mahāmoggallānassa paccassosum.

“Reverend,” they replied.

Āyasmā mahāmoggallāno etadavoca:

Venerable Mahāmoggallāna said this:

“Pavāreti cepi, āvuso, bhikkhu:

“Suppose a mendicant invites

16. Cetokhilasutta Emotional Barrenness

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anathapiṇḍikassa ārame.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta’s Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tatra kho bhagava bhikkhū amantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagava etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Yassa kassaci, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno pañca cetokhilā appahīnā, pañca cetasovinibandhā asamucchinnā, so vatimasmim dhammavinaye vuddhim virūḷhim vepullaṃ āpajjissatī—netam thānam vijjati.

“Mendicants, when a mendicant has not given up five kinds of emotional barrenness and cut off five emotional shackles, it’s not possible for them to achieve growth, improvement, or maturity in this teaching and training.

Katamāssa pañca cetokhilā appahīnā honti?

What are the five kinds of emotional barrenness they haven't given up?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu satthari kaṅkhati vicikicchati nādhimuccati na sampasīdati.

Firstly, a mendicant has doubts about the Teacher. They're uncertain, undecided, and lacking confidence.

Yo so, bhikkhave, bhikkhu satthari kaṅkhati vicikicchati nādhimuccati na sampasīdati tassa cittaṃ na namati ātappāya anuyogāya sātaccāya padhānāya.

This being so, their mind doesn't incline toward keenness, commitment, persistence, and striving.

Yassa cittaṃ na namati ātappāya anuyogāya sātaccāya padhānāya, evamassāyaṃ paṭhamo cetokhilo appahīno hoti.

This is the first kind of emotional barrenness they haven't given up.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu dhamme kaṅkhati vicikicchati nādhimuccati na sampasīdati ...pe...

Furthermore, a mendicant has doubts about the teaching ...

evamassāyaṃ dutiyo cetokhilo appahīno hoti.

This is the second kind of emotional barrenness.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu saṅghe kaṅkhati vicikicchati nādhimuccati na sampasīdati ...pe...

They have doubts about the Saṅgha ...

evamassāyaṃ tatiyo cetokhilo appahīno hoti.

This is the third kind of emotional barrenness.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sikkhāya kaṅkhati vicikicchati nādhimuccati na sampasīdati.

They have doubts about the training ...

Yo so, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sikkhāya kaṅkhati vicikicchati nādhimuccati na sampasīdati, tassa cittaṃ na namati ātappāya anuyogāya sātaccāya padhānāya.

Yassa cittaṃ na namati ātappāya anuyogāya sātaccāya padhānāya, evamassāyaṃ catuttho cetokhilo appahīno hoti.
This is the fourth kind of emotional barrenness.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sabrahmacārīsu kupito hoti anattamano āhatacitto khilajāto.

Furthermore, a mendicant is angry and upset with their spiritual companions, resentful and closed off.

Yo so, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sabrahmacārīsu kupito hoti anattamano āhatacitto khilajāto, tassa cittaṃ na namati ātappāya anuyogāya sātaccāya padhānāya.

This being so, their mind doesn't incline toward keenness, commitment, persistence, and striving.

Yassa cittaṃ na namati ātappāya anuyogāya sātaccāya padhānāya, evamassāyaṃ pañcamo cetokhilo appahīno hoti.

This is the fifth kind of emotional barrenness they haven't given up.

Imāssa pañca cetokhilā appahīnā honti.

These are the five kinds of emotional barrenness they haven't given up.

Katamāssa pañca cetasovinibandhā asamucchinnā honti?

What are the five emotional shackles they haven't cut off?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu kāme avītarāgo hoti avigatacchando avigatapemo avigatapipāso avigatapariḷāho avigatataṇho.

Firstly, a mendicant isn't free of greed, desire, fondness, thirst, passion, and craving for sensual pleasures.

17. Vanapatthasutta Jungle Thickets

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“vanapatthapariyāyaṃ vo, bhikkhave, desessāmi,

“Mendicants, I will teach you an exposition about jungle thickets.

taṃ suṇātha, sādhukaṃ manasikarotha, bhāsissāmi”ti.

Listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu aññataram vanapattham upanissāya viharati.

“Mendicants, take the case of a mendicant who lives close by a jungle thicket.

Ye ca kho ime pabbajitena jīvitaparikkhārā samudānetabbā— cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhārā— te kasirena samudāgacchanti.

Tena, bhikkhave, bhikkhunā iti paṭisañcikkhitabbaṃ:

‘ahaṃ kho imaṃ puggalaṃ upanissāya viharāmi. Tassa me imaṃ puggalaṃ upanissāya viharato anupaṭṭhitā ceva sati upaṭṭhāti, asamāhitañca cittaṃ samādhīyati, aparikkhīṇā ca āsavā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, ananuppattañca anuttaraṃ yogakkhemaṃ anupāpuṇāmi.

Ye ca kho ime pabbajitena jīvitaparikkhārā samudānetabbā— cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhārā— te kasirena samudāgacchanti.

Na kho panāhaṃ cīvarahetu agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito, na piṇḍapātahetu ...pe... na senāsanahetu ...pe... na gilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhārahetu agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito.

Atha ca pana me imaṃ puggalaṃ upanissāya viharato anupaṭṭhitā ceva sati upaṭṭhāti, asamāhitañca cittaṃ samādhīyati, aparikkhīṇā ca āsavā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, ananuppattañca anuttaraṃ yogakkhemaṃ anupāpuṇāmī'ti.

Tena, bhikkhave, bhikkhunā saṅkhāpi so puggalo anubandhitabbo, na pakkamitabbaṃ.

Idha pana, bhikkhave, bhikkhu aññataraṃ puggalaṃ upanissāya viharati.

Take another case of a mendicant who lives supported by an individual.

Tassa taṃ puggalaṃ upanissāya viharato anupaṭṭhitā ceva sati upaṭṭhāti, asamāhitañca cittaṃ samādhiyati, aparikkhīṇā ca āsavā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, ananuppattañca anuttaraṃ yogakkhemaṃ anupāpuṇāti.

As they do so, their mindfulness becomes established, their mind becomes immersed in samādhi, their defilements come to an end, and they arrive at the supreme sanctuary.

Ye ca kho ime pabbajitena jīvitaparikkhārā samudānetabbā—
cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhārā—te appakasirena samudāgacchanti.

And the necessities of life that a renunciate requires—robes, alms-food, lodgings, and medicines and supplies for the sick—are easy to come by.

Tena, bhikkhave, bhikkhunā iti paṭisañcikkhitabbaṃ:

That mendicant should reflect:

‘ahaṃ kho imaṃ puggalaṃ upanissāya viharāmi. Tassa me imaṃ puggalaṃ upanissāya viharato anupaṭṭhitā ceva sati upaṭṭhāti, asamāhitañca cittaṃ samādhiyati, aparikkhīṇā ca
āsavā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, ananuppattañca anuttaraṃ yogakkhemaṃ anupāpuṇāmi.

‘While living supported by this person, my mindfulness becomes established ...

Ye ca kho ime pabbajitena jīvitaparikkhārā samudānetabbā—
cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhārā—te appakasirena samudāgacchantī’ti.

And the necessities of life are easy to come by.’

Tena, bhikkhave, bhikkhunā yāvajīvampi so puggalo anubandhitabbo, na pakkamitabbaṃ, api panujjamānenapī”ti.
That mendicant should follow that person for the rest of their life.
They shouldn’t leave them, even if sent away.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandunti.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Vanapatthasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ sattamaṃ.

18. Madhupiṇḍikasutta The Honey-Cake

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava sakkesu viharati kapilavatthusmim nigrodharam.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Sakyans, near Kapilavatthu in the Banyan Tree Monastery.

Atha kho bhagava pubbanhasamayam nivasetva pattacivaramadaya kapilavatthum pindaya pavisi.

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Kapilavatthu for alms.

Kapilavatthusmim pindaya caritva pacchabhattam pinḍapataṭikkanto yena mahavanam tenupasankami divaviharam.

He wandered for alms in Kapilavatthu. After the meal, on his return from alms-round, he went to the Great Wood,

Mahavanam ajhogahetva beluvalatthikaya mule divaviharam nisidi.

plunged deep into it, and sat at the root of a young wood apple tree for the day's meditation.

Daṇḍapāṇipi kho sakko jaṅghaviharam anucaṅkamamāno anuvicaramāno yena mahavanam tenupasankami.

Daṇḍapāṇi the Sakyān, while going for a walk,

Mahāvanam ajjhogāhetvā yena beluvalaṭṭhikā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhim sammodi.
plunged deep into the Great Wood. He approached the Buddha and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyam katham sāraṇīyam vītisāretvā daṇḍamolubbha ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi. Ekamantaṃ ṭhito kho daṇḍapāṇi sakko bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he stood to one side leaning on his staff, and said to the Buddha, “kimvādī samaṇo kimakkhāyī”ti?

“What does the ascetic teach? What does he explain?”

“Yathāvādī kho, āvuso, sadevake loke samārake sabrahmake sassamaṇabrāhmaṇiyā pajāya sadevamanussāya na kenaci loke viggayha tiṭṭhati, yathā ca pana kāmehi viśaṃyuttaṃ viharantaṃ taṃ brāhmaṇaṃ akathaṅkathim chinnakukkuccaṃ bhavābhava vītataṇhaṃ saññā nānusenti—

“Sir, my teaching is such that one does not conflict with anyone in this world with its gods, Māras, and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, its gods and humans. And it is such that perceptions do not underlie the brahmin who lives detached from sensual pleasures, without doubting, stripped of worry, and rid of craving for rebirth in this or that state.

evamvādī kho ahaṃ, āvuso, evamakkhāyī”ti.

That’s what I teach, and that’s what I explain.”

Evam vutte, daṇḍapāṇi sakko sīsaṃ okampetvā, jivhaṃ nillāletvā, tivisākhaṃ nalāṭikaṃ nalāṭe vuṭṭhāpetvā daṇḍamolubbha pakkāmi.

When he had spoken, Daṇḍapāṇi shook his head, waggled his tongue, raised his eyebrows until his brow puckered in three furrows, and he departed leaning on his staff.

Atha kho bhagavā sāyanhasamayam paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yena nigrodhārāmo tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā paññatte āsane nisīdi.

Then in the late afternoon, the Buddha came out of retreat and went to the Banyan Tree Monastery, sat down on the seat spread out, and told the mendicants what had happened.

Nisajja kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

“idhāham, bhikkhave, pubbaṅhasamayam nivāsetvā pattaṭṭhāramādāya kapilavatthum piṇḍāya pāvisim.

Kapilavatthusmim piṇḍāya caritvā pacchābhattam piṇḍapātapaṭikkanto yena mahāvanam tenupasaṅkamim divāvihārāya.

Mahāvanam ajjhogāhetvā beluvalaṭṭhikāya mūle divāvihāram nisīdim.

Mahāvanam ajjhogāhetvā yena beluvalaṭṭhikā yenāham tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā mayā saddhim sammodi.

Sammodanīyam katham sāraṇīyam vītisāretvā daṇḍamolubbha ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi. Ekamantaṃ ṭhito kho, bhikkhave, daṇḍapāṇi sakko maṃ etadavoca:

‘kimvādī samaṇo kimakkhāyī’ti?

Evaṃ vutte, aham, bhikkhave, daṇḍapāṇim sakkaṃ etadavocaṃ:

Evam vutte, bhikkhave, daṇḍapāṇi sakko sīsaṃ okampetvā, jivhaṃ nillāḷetvā, tivisākhaṃ nalāṭikaṃ nalāṭe vuṭṭhāpetvā daṇḍamolubbha pakkāmi'ti.

Evam vutte, aññataro bhikkhu bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, one of the mendicants said to him, “kimvādī pana, bhante, bhagavā sadevake loke samārake sabrahmake sassamaṇabrāhmaṇiyā pajāya sadevamanussāya na kenaci loke viggayha tiṭṭhati?

“But sir, what is the teaching such that the Buddha does not conflict with anyone in this world with its gods, Māras, and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, its gods and humans?

And how is it that perceptions do not underlie the Buddha, the brahmin who lives detached from sensual pleasures, without indecision, stripped of worry, and rid of craving for rebirth in this or that state?”

“Yatonidānaṃ, bhikkhu, purisaṃ papañcasaññāsaṅkhā samudācaranti.

“Mendicant, a person is beset by concepts of identity that emerge from the proliferation of perceptions.

This is where these bad, unskillful qualities cease without anything left over.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Idaṃ vatvāna sugato uṭṭhāyāsanā vihāraṃ pāvisi.

When he had spoken, the Holy One got up from his seat and entered his dwelling.

Atha kho tesam bhikkhūnaṃ acirapakkantassa bhagavato

Who can explain in detail the meaning of this brief passage for recitation given by the Buddha?”

Atha kho tesaṃ bhikkhūnaṃ etadahosi:

Then those mendicants thought,

“ayaṃ kho āyasmā mahākaccāno satthu ceva saṃvaṇṇito sambhāvito ca viññūnaṃ sabrahmacārīnaṃ.

Eye consciousness arises dependent on the eye and sights. The meeting of the three is contact. Contact is a condition for feeling. What you feel, you perceive. What you perceive, you think about. What you think about, you proliferate. What you proliferate about is the source from which a person is beset by concepts of identity that emerge from the proliferation of perceptions. This occurs with respect to sights known by the eye in the past, future, and present.

“Yes, reverend,” said those mendicants, approving and agreeing with what Mahākaccāna said. Then they rose from their seats and went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened. Then they said:

19. Dvedhāvitakkasutta Two Kinds of Thought

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Pubbeva me, bhikkhave, sambodhā anabhisambuddhassa bodhisattasseva sato etadahosi:

“Mendicants, before my awakening—when I was still unawakened but intent on awakening—I thought:

‘yannūnāham dvidhā katvā dvidhā katvā vitakke vihareyyan’ti.

‘Why don’t I meditate by continually dividing my thoughts into two classes?’

So kho ahaṃ, bhikkhave, yo cāyaṃ kāmavitakko yo ca byāpādavitaṅko yo ca vihiṃsāvitaṅko—

So I assigned sensual, malicious, and cruel thoughts imaṃ ekaṃ bhāgamakāsiṃ;

to one class.

yo cāyaṃ nekkhammavitakko yo ca abyāpādavitaṅko yo ca avihiṃsāvitaṅko—

And I assigned thoughts of renunciation, good will, and harmlessness imaṃ dutiyaṃ bhāgamakāsiṃ.

to the second class.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhikkhave, evaṃ appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato uppajjati kāmavitakko.

Then, as I meditated—diligent, keen, and resolute—a sensual thought arose.

So evaṃ pajānāmi:

I understood:

‘uppanno kho me ayaṃ kāmavitakko.

‘This sensual thought has arisen in me.

So ca kho attabyābādhāyapi saṃvattati, parabyābādhāyapi saṃvattati, ubhayabyābādhāyapi saṃvattati, paññānirodhiko vighātapakkhiko anibbānasamvattaniko’.

It leads to hurting myself, hurting others, and hurting both. It blocks wisdom, it’s on the side of anguish, and it doesn’t lead to extinguishment.’

‘Attabyābādhāya saṃvattatī’tipi me, bhikkhave, paṭisañcikkhato abbatthaṃ gacchati;

When I reflected that it leads to hurting myself, it went away.

‘parabyābādhāya saṃvattatī’tipi me, bhikkhave, paṭisañcikkhato abbatthaṃ gacchati;

When I reflected that it leads to hurting others, it went away.

‘ubhayabyābādhāya saṁvattatī’tipi me, bhikkhave,

When I reflected that it leads to hurting both, it went away.

‘paññānirodhiko vighātapakkhiko anibbānasaṁvattaniko’tipi me, bhikkhave, paṭisañcikkhato abbattham gacchati.

When I reflected that it blocks wisdom, it’s on the side of anguish, and it doesn’t lead to extinguishment, it went away.

So kho ahaṁ, bhikkhave, uppannuppannam kāmavitakkaṁ pajahameva vinodameva byantameva naṁ akāsiṁ.

So I gave up, got rid of, and eliminated any sensual thoughts that arose.

Tassa mayham, bhikkhave, evaṁ appamattassa ātāpino

Then, as I meditated—diligent, keen, and resolute—a malicious thought arose ...

uppajjati vihiṁsāvitakko.

a cruel thought arose.

So evaṁ pajānāmi:

I understood:

‘uppanno kho me ayaṁ vihiṁsāvitakko.

‘This cruel thought has arisen in me.

So ca kho attabyābādhāyapi saṁvattati, parabyābādhāyapi saṁvattati, ubhayabyābādhāyapi saṁvattati, paññānirodhiko vighātapakkhiko anibbānasaṁvattaniko’.

It leads to hurting myself, hurting others, and hurting both. It blocks wisdom, it’s on the side of anguish, and it doesn’t lead to extinguishment.’

‘Attabyābādhāya saṁvattatī’tipi me, bhikkhave, paṭisañcikkhato abbattham gacchati;

When I reflected that it leads to hurting myself ...

‘parabyābādhāya saṁvattatī’tipi me, bhikkhave, paṭisañcikkhato abbattham gacchati; hurting others ...

‘ubhayabyābādhāya saṁvattatī’tipi me, bhikkhave, paṭisañcikkhato abbattham gacchati; hurting both, it went away.

‘paññānirodhiko vighātapakkhiko anibbānasamvattaniko’tipi me, bhikkhave, paṭisañcikkhato abbattham gacchati.

When I reflected that it blocks wisdom, it’s on the side of anguish, and it doesn’t lead to extinguishment, it went away.

So kho aham, bhikkhave, uppannuppannam vihiṁsāvitakkaṁ pajahameva vinodameva byantameva nam akāsiṁ.

So I gave up, got rid of, and eliminated any cruel thoughts that arose.

In the same way, I saw that unskillful qualities have the drawbacks of sordidness and corruption, and that skillful qualities have the benefit and cleansing power of renunciation.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhikkhave, evaṃ appamattassa ātāpino

Suppose it’s the last month of summer, when all the crops have been gathered into the neighborhood of a village, and a cowherd must take care of the cattle. While at the root of a tree or in the open he need only be mindful that ‘etā gāvo’ti.

the cattle are there.

Evamevaṃ kho, bhikkhave, satikaraṇīyameva ahosi:

Āraddhaṃ kho pana me, bhikkhave, vīriyaṃ ahosi asallīnaṃ, upaṭṭhitā sati asammutṭhā, passaddho kāyo asāraḍḍho, samāhitaṃ cittaṃ ekaggaṃ.

My energy was roused up and unflagging, my mindfulness was established and lucid, my body was tranquil and undisturbed, and my mind was immersed in samādhi.

So kho ahaṃ, bhikkhave, vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajāṃ pītisukhaṃ

Quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, I entered and remained in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhattaṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ

As the placing of the mind and keeping it connected were stilled, I entered and remained in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca vihāsim sato ca sampajāno, sukhañca kāyena paṭisaṃvedesim, yaṃ taṃ ariyā ācikkhanti

‘upekkhako satimā sukhavihārī’ti, tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja vihāsim.

And with the fading away of rapture, I entered and remained in the third absorption, where I meditated with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, ‘Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.’

Sukhassa ca pahānā dukkhassa ca pahānā pubbeva somanassadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamā adukkhamasukhaṃ upekkhāsatipārisuddhiṃ catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja vihāsim.

With the giving up of pleasure and pain, and the ending of former happiness and sadness, I entered and remained in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte pubbenivāsānussatiñāṇāya cittaṃ abhininnāmesim.

When my mind had immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—I extended it toward recollection of past lives.

So anekavihitaṃ pubbenivāsaṃ anussarāmi. Seyyathidaṃ—ekampi jātim ...pe... iti sākāraṃ sauddesaṃ anekavihitaṃ pubbenivāsaṃ anussarāmi.

I recollected many kinds of past lives, with features and details.

When my mind had become immersed in samādhi like this, I extended it toward knowledge of the death and rebirth of sentient beings.

So dibbena cakkhunā visuddhena atikkantamānusakena satte

With clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, I saw sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. I understood how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds.

Ayaṃ kho me, bhikkhave, rattiyā majjhime yāme dutiyā vijjā

This was the second knowledge, which I achieved in the middle watch of the night.

avijjā vihatā vijjā uppannā; tamo vihato āloko uppanno; yathā

Ignorance was destroyed and knowledge arose; darkness was destroyed and light arose, as happens for a meditator who is diligent, keen, and resolute.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte āsavānaṃ khayañāya cittaṃ abhininnāmesim̃.

When my mind had become immersed in samādhi like this, I extended it toward knowledge of the ending of defilements.

So ‘idaṃ dukkhaṃ’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsiṃ, ‘ayaṃ dukkhasamudayo’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsiṃ, ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodho’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsiṃ, ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsiṃ.

I truly understood: ‘This is suffering’ ... ‘This is the origin of suffering’ ... ‘This is the cessation of suffering’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering.’

‘Ime āsavā’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsiṃ, ‘ayaṃ āsavaśamudayo’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsiṃ, ‘ayaṃ āsavanirodho’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsiṃ, ‘ayaṃ āsavanirodhagāminī paṭipadā’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsiṃ.

I truly understood: ‘These are defilements’ ... ‘This is the origin of defilements’ ... ‘This is the cessation of defilements’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of defilements.’

Tassa me evaṃ jānato evaṃ passato kāmāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccittha, bhavāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccittha, avijjāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccittha, vimuttasmiṃ vimuttamiti ñāṇaṃ ahoṣi:

Knowing and seeing like this, my mind was freed from the defilements of sensuality, desire to be reborn, and ignorance.

‘khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā’ti abbaññāsiṃ.

I understood: ‘Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.’

Ayaṃ kho me, bhikkhave, rattiyaṃ pacchime yāme tatiyaṃ vijjā adhigatā;

This was the third knowledge, which I achieved in the last watch of the night.

avijjā vihatā vijjā uppannā; tamo vihato āloko uppanno; yathā taṃ appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato.

Ignorance was destroyed and knowledge arose; darkness was destroyed and light arose, as happens for a meditator who is diligent, keen, and resolute.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, araññe pavane mahantaṃ ninnāṃ pallalaṃ.

Suppose that in a forested wilderness there was an expanse of low-lying marshes, Tameṇaṃ mahāmigasaṅgho upanissāya vihareyya.

and a large herd of deer lived nearby.

Tassa kocideva puriso uppajjeyya anatthakāmo ahitakāmo ayogakkhemakāmo.

Then along comes a person who wants to harm, injure, and threaten them.

So yvāssa maggo khemo sovattiko pītigamanīyo taṃ maggaṃ pidaheyya, vivareyya kummaggaṃ, odaheyya okacaraṃ, ṭhapeyya okacārikaṃ.

They close off the safe, secure path that leads to happiness, and open the wrong path. There they plant domesticated male and female deer as decoys so that, in due course, that herd of deer would fall to ruin and disaster.

Evañhi so, bhikkhave, mahāmigasaṅgho aparena samayena anayabyasaṇaṃ āpajjeyya.

Tasseva kho pana, bhikkhave, mahato migasaṅghassa kocideva puriso uppajjeyya atthakāmo hitakāmo yogakkhemakāmo.

Then along comes a person who wants to help keep the herd of deer safe.

So yvāssa maggo khemo sovattiko pītigamanīyo taṃ maggaṃ vivareyya, pidaheyya kummaggaṃ, ūhaneyya okacaraṃ, nāseyya okacārikaṃ.

They open up the safe, secure path that leads to happiness, and close off the wrong path. They get rid of the decoys Evañhi so, bhikkhave, mahāmigasaṅgho aparena samayena vuddhiṃ virūhiṃ vepullaṃ āpajjeyya.

so that, in due course, that herd of deer would grow, increase, and mature.

Upamā kho me ayam, bhikkhave, katā atthassa viññāpanāya.

I've made up this simile to make a point.

Ayam cevettha attho—

And this is what it means.

mahantaṃ ninnantaṃ pallalanti kho, bhikkhave, kāmaṇametaṃ adhivacanaṃ.

'An expanse of low-lying marshes' is a term for sensual pleasures.

Mahāmigasaṅgho kho, bhikkhave, sattānametaṃ adhivacanaṃ.

'A large herd of deer' is a term for sentient beings.

Puriso anattakāmo ahitakāmo ayogakkhemakāmoti kho, bhikkhave, mārassetaṃ pāpimato adhivacanaṃ.

'A person who wants to harm, injure, and threaten them' is a term for Māra the Wicked.

Kummaggoti kho, bhikkhave, aṭṭhaṅgikassetāṃ micchāmaggaṃ adhivacanaṃ, seyyathidaṃ—

'The wrong path' is a term for the wrong eightfold path, that is, micchādiṭṭhiyā micchāsaṅkappaṃ micchāvācāya micchākammantassa micchāājīvaṃ micchāvāyāmassa micchāsatīyā micchāsamādhissa.

wrong view, wrong thought, wrong speech, wrong action, wrong livelihood, wrong effort, wrong mindfulness, and wrong immersion.

Okacaroti kho, bhikkhave, nandīrāgassetāṃ adhivacanaṃ.

'A domesticated male deer' is a term for desire with relishing.

Okacārikāti kho, bhikkhave, avijjāyetaṃ adhivacanaṃ.

‘A domesticated female deer’ is a term for ignorance.

Puriso atthakāmo hitakāmo yogakkhemakāmoti kho, bhikkhave, tathāgatassetam̐ adhivacanam̐ arahato sammāsambuddhassa.

‘A person who wants to help keep the herd of deer safe’ is a term for the Realized One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha.

Khemo maggo sovattiko pītigamanīyoti kho, bhikkhave, ariyassetam̐ aṭṭhaṅgikassa maggassa adhivacanam̐, seyyathidaṃ—

‘The safe, secure path that leads to happiness’ is a term for the noble eightfold path, that is:

sammādiṭṭhiyā sammāsaṅkappassa sammāvācāya sammākammantassa sammāājīvassa sammāvāyāmassa sammāsatiyā sammāsamādhissa.

Iti kho, bhikkhave, vivaṭṭo mayā khemo maggo sovattiko pītigamanīyo, pihito kummaggo, ūhato okacaro, nāsitā okacārikā.

So, mendicants, I have opened up the safe, secure path to happiness and closed off the wrong path. And I have got rid of the male and female decoys.

Yaṃ, bhikkhave, satthārā karaṇīyaṃ sāvakanāṃ hitesinā anukampakena anumāpam̐ upādāya, kataṃ vo taṃ mayā.

Out of compassion, I’ve done what a teacher should do who wants what’s best for their disciples.

Etāni, bhikkhave, rukkhamūlāni, etāni suññāgārāni; jhāyatha, bhikkhave, mā pamādattha; mā pacchā vipaṭṭisarino ahuvattha.
Ayaṃ vo amhākaṃ anusāsani”ti.

Here are these roots of trees, and here are these empty huts. Practice absorption, mendicants! Don’t be negligent! Don’t regret it later! This is my instruction to you.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Dvedhāvitakkasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ navamaṃ.

Atha kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to the mendicants:

“ārādhayimsu vata me, bhikkhave, bhikkhū ekaṃ samayaṃ cittaṃ.

“Mendicants, I used to be satisfied with the mendicants.

Idhāhaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhū āmantesiṃ—

Once, I addressed them:

ahaṃ kho, bhikkhave, ekāsanabhojanaṃ bhuñjāmi.

‘I eat my food in one sitting per day.

Ekāsanabhojanaṃ kho ahaṃ, bhikkhave, bhuñjamāno appābādhatañca sañjānāmi appātaṅkatañca lahuṭṭhānañca balañca phāsuvihārañca.

Doing so, I find that I'm healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably.

Etha tumhepi, bhikkhave, ekāsanabhojanaṃ bhuñjatha.

You too should eat your food in one sitting per day.

Ekāsanabhojanaṃ kho, bhikkhave, tumhepi bhuñjamānā appābādhatañca sañjānissatha appātañkatañca lahuṭṭhānañca
balañca phāsuvihārañcāti.

Doing so, you'll find that you're healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably.'

Na me, bhikkhave, tesu bhikkhūsu anusāsanī karaṇīyā ahosi;

I didn't have to keep on instructing those mendicants;

satuppādakaraṇīyameva me, bhikkhave, tesu bhikkhūsu ahosi.

I just had to prompt their mindfulness.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, subhūmiyaṃ catumahāpathe ājaññaratho yutto assa ṭhito odhastapatodo.

Suppose a chariot stood harnessed to thoroughbreds at a level crossroads, with a goad ready.

Tamenaṃ dakkho yoggācariyo assadammasārathi abhiruhitvā, vāmena hatthena rasmiyo gahetvā, dakkhiṇena hatthena patodaṃ gahetvā, yenicchakaṃ yadicchakaṃ sāreyyapi paccāsāreyyapi.

Then a deft horse trainer, a master charioteer, might mount the chariot, taking the reins in his right hand and goad in the left. He'd drive out and back wherever he wishes, whenever he wishes.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, na me tesu bhikkhūsu anusāsanī karaṇīyā ahosi,

In the same way, I didn't have to keep on instructing those mendicants;

satuppādakaraṇīyameva me, bhikkhave, tesu bhikkhūsu ahosi.

I just had to prompt their mindfulness.

Tasmātiha, bhikkhave, tumhepi akusalaṃ pajahatha, kusalesu dhammesu āyogaṃ karotha.

So, mendicants, you too should give up what's unskillful and devote yourselves to skillful qualities.

Evañhi tumhepi imasmim̐ dhammavinaye vuddhim̐ virūḷhim̐ vepullaṃ āpajjissatha.

In this way you'll achieve growth, improvement, and maturity in this teaching and training.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, gāmassa vā nigamassa vā avidūre mahantaṃ sālavanaṃ.

Suppose that not far from a town or village there was a large grove of sal trees that was choked with castor-oil weeds.

Tañcassa eḷaṇḍehi sañchannaṃ.

Tassa kocideva puriso uppajjeyya atthakāmo hitakāmo yogakkhemakāmo.

Then along comes a person who wants to help protect and nurture that grove.

So yā tā sālalaṭṭhiyo kuṭilā ojāpaharaṇiyo tā chetvā bahiddhā nīhareyya, antovanaṃ suvisodhitaṃ visodheyya.

They'd cut down the crooked sal saplings that were robbing the sap, and throw them out. They'd clean up the interior of the grove, and properly care for the straight, well-formed sal saplings.

Yā pana tā sālalaṭṭhiyo ujukā sujātā tā sammā parihareyya.

Evañhetam̐, bhikkhave, sālavanaṃ aparena samayena vuddhim̐ virūḷhim̐ vepullaṃ āpajjeyya.

In this way, in due course, that sal grove would grow, increase, and mature.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, tumhepi akusalaṃ pajahatha, kusalesu dhammesu āyogaṃ karotha.

In the same way, mendicants, you too should give up what's unskillful and devote yourselves to skillful qualities.

Evañhi tumhepi imasmim̐ dhammavinaye vuddhim̐ virūḥim̐ vepullam̐ āpajjissatha.

In this way you'll achieve growth, improvement, and maturity in this teaching and training.

Bhūtapubbam̐, bhikkhave, imissāyeva sāvattiyā vedehikā nāma gahapatānī ahosi.

Once upon a time, mendicants, right here in Sāvattī there was a housewife named Vedehikā.

Vedehikāya, bhikkhave, gahapatāniyā evam̐ kalyāṇo kittisaddo abbhuggato:

She had this good reputation:

‘soratā vedehikā gahapatānī, nivātā vedehikā gahapatānī, upasantā vedehikā gahapatānī’ti.

‘The housewife Vedehikā is sweet, even-tempered, and calm.’

Vedehikāya kho pana, bhikkhave, gahapatāniyā kāḷī nāma dāsī ahosi dakkhā analasā susam̐vihitakammantā.

Now, Vedehikā had a bonded maid named Kāḷī who was skilled, tireless, and well-organized in her work.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, kāḷiyā dāsiyā etadahosi:

Then Kāḷī thought,

‘mayham̐ kho ayyāya evam̐ kalyāṇo kittisaddo abbhuggato:

‘My mistress has a good reputation as being

“soratā vedehikā gahapatānī, nivātā vedehikā gahapatānī, upasantā vedehikā gahapatānī”ti.

sweet, even-tempered, and calm.

Kim̐ nu kho me ayyā santam̐yeva nu kho ajjhattam̐ kopam̐ na pātukaroti udāhu asantam̐

But does she actually have anger in her and just not show it? Or does she have no anger?

udāhu mayhamevete kammantā susamvihitā yena me ayyā santamyeva ajjhattaṃ kopaṃ na pātukaroti, no asantaṃ?

Or is it just because my work is well-organized that she doesn't show anger, even though she still has it inside?

Yannūnāhaṃ ayyaṃ vīmaṃseyyan'ti.

Why don't I test my mistress?'

Atha kho, bhikkhave, kāḷī dāsī divā uṭṭhāsi.

So Kāḷī got up during the day.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, vedehikā gahapatānī kāḷīm dāsīm etadavoca:

Vedehikā said to her,

'he je kāḷī'ti.

'What the hell, Kāḷī!'

'Kiṃ, ayye'ti?

'What is it, madam?'

'Kiṃ, je, divā uṭṭhāsī'ti?

'You're getting up in the day—what's up with you, girl?'

'Na khvayye, kiñcī'ti.

'Nothing, madam.'

'No vata re kiñci, pāpi dāsi, divā uṭṭhāsī'ti kupitā anattamanā bhākuṭim akāsi.

'Nothing's up, you bad girl, but you get up in the day!' Angry and upset, she scowled.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, kāḷiyā dāsiyā etadahosi:

Then Kālī thought,

‘santaṃyeva kho me ayyā ajjhattaṃ kopaṃ na pātukaroti, no asantaṃ;

‘My mistress actually has anger in her and just doesn’t show it; it’s not that she has no anger.

mayhamevete kammantā susaṃvihitā, yena me ayyā santaṃyeva ajjhattaṃ kopaṃ na pātukaroti, no asantaṃ.

It’s just because my work is well-organized that she doesn’t show anger, even though she still has it inside.

Yannūnāhaṃ bhiiyoso mattāya ayyaṃ vīmaṃseyyan’ti.

Why don’t I test my mistress further?’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, kālī dāsī divātaraṃyeva uṭṭhāsi.

So Kālī got up later in the day.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, vedehikā gahapatānī kālīm dāsīm
etadavoca:

Vedehikā said to her,

‘he je kālī’ti.

‘What the hell, Kālī!’

‘Kiṃ, ayye’ti?

‘What is it, madam?’

‘Kiṃ, je, divātaraṃ uṭṭhāsī’ti?

‘You’re getting up later in the day—what’s up with you, girl?’

‘Na khvayye, kiñcī’ti.

‘Nothing, madam.’

‘No vata re kiñci, pāpi dāsi, divātaraṃ uṭṭhāsī’ti kupitā anattamanā anattamanavācaṃ nicchāresi.

‘Nothing’s up, you bad girl, but you get up later in the day!’ Angry and upset, she blurted out angry words.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, kāḷiyā dāsiyā etadahosi:

Then Kāḷī thought,

‘santaṃyeva kho me ayyā ajjhattaṃ kopaṃ na pātukaroti, no asantaṃ.

‘My mistress actually has anger in her and just doesn’t show it; it’s not that she has no anger.

Mayhamevete kammantā susaṃvihitā, yena me ayyā
santaṃyeva ajjhattaṃ kopaṃ na pātukaroti, no asantaṃ.

It’s just because my work is well-organized that she doesn’t show anger, even though she still has it inside.

Yannūnāhaṃ bhiyyoso mattāya ayyaṃ vīmaṃseyyan’ti.

Why don’t I test my mistress further?’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, kāḷī dāsī divātaraṃyeva uṭṭhāsī.

So Kāḷī got up even later in the day.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, vedehikā gahapatānī kāḷiṃ dāsiṃ
etadavoca:

Vedehikā said to her,

‘he je kāḷī’ti.

‘What the hell, Kāḷī!’

‘Kiṃ, ayye’ti?

‘What is it, madam?’

‘Kiṃ, je, divā uṭṭhāsī’ti?

‘You’re getting up even later in the day—what’s up with you, girl?’

‘Na khvayye, kiñcī’ti.

‘Nothing, madam.’

‘No vata re kiñci, pāpi dāsi, divā uṭṭhāsī’ti kupitā anattamanā aggaḷasūciṃ gahetvā sīse pahāraṃ adāsi, sīsaṃ vobhindi.

‘Nothing’s up, you bad girl, but you get up even later in the day!’
Angry and upset, she grabbed a rolling-pin and hit Kālī on the head, cracking it open.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, kālī dāsī bhinnena sīsenā lohiteṇa galanteṇa paṭivissakānaṃ ujjhāpesi:

Then Kālī, with blood pouring from her cracked skull, denounced her mistress to the neighbors,

‘passathayye, soratāya kammaṃ;

‘See, ladies, what the sweet one did!

passathayye, nivātāya kammaṃ, passathayye, upasantāya kammaṃ.

See what the even-tempered one did! See what the calm one did!

Kathañhi nāma ekadāsikāya divā uṭṭhāsīti kupitā anattamanā aggaḷasūciṃ gahetvā sīse pahāraṃ dassati, sīsaṃ vobhindissatī’ti.

How on earth can she grab a rolling-pin and hit her only maid on the head, cracking it open, just for getting up late?’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, vedehikāya gahapatāniyā apareṇa samayena evaṃ pāpako kittisaddo abbhuggacchi:

Then after some time the housewife Vedehikā got this bad reputation:

‘caṇḍī vedehikā gahapatānī, anivātā vedehikā gahapatānī, anupasantā vedehikā gahapatānī’ti.

‘The housewife Vedehikā is fierce, ill-tempered, and not calm at all.’

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, idhekacco bhikkhu tāvadeva soratasorato hoti nivātanivāto hoti upasantūpasanto hoti yāva na amanāpā vacanapathā phusanti.

In the same way, a mendicant may be the sweetest of the sweet, the most even-tempered of the even-tempered, the calmest of the calm, so long as they don't encounter any disagreeable criticism.

Yato ca, bhikkhave, bhikkhuṃ amanāpā vacanapathā phusanti, atha bhikkhu 'sorato'ti veditabbo, 'nivāto'ti veditabbo, 'upasanto'ti veditabbo.

But it's when they encounter disagreeable criticism that you'll know whether they're really sweet, even-tempered, and calm.

Nāhaṃ taṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhuṃ 'suvaco'ti vadāmi yo cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhārahetu suvaco hoti, sovacassataṃ āpajjati.

I don't say that a mendicant is easy to admonish if they make themselves easy to admonish only for the sake of robes, alms-food, lodgings, and medicines and supplies for the sick.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Taṃhi so, bhikkhave, bhikkhu cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhāraṃ alabhamāno na suvaco hoti, na sovacassataṃ āpajjati.

Because when they don't get robes, alms-food, lodgings, and medicines and supplies for the sick, they're no longer easy to admonish.

Yo ca kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu dhammaṃyeva sakkaronto, dhammaṃ garuṃ karonto, dhammaṃ mānento, dhammaṃ pūjento, dhammaṃ apacāyamāno suvaco hoti, sovacassataṃ āpajjati, tamahaṃ 'suvaco'ti vadāmi.

But when a mendicant is easy to admonish purely because they honor, respect, revere, worship, and venerate the teaching, then I say that they're easy to admonish.

Tasmātiha, bhikkhave, 'dhammaṃyeva sakkarontā, dhammaṃ garuṃ karontā, dhammaṃ mānentā, dhammaṃ pūjentā, dhammaṃ apacāyamānā suvacā bhavissāma, sovacassataṃ āpajjissāmā'ti.

So, mendicants, you should train yourselves: ‘We will be easy to admonish purely because we honor, respect, revere, worship, and venerate the teaching.’

Evañhi vo, bhikkhave, sikkhitabbaṃ.

That’s how you should train.

Pañcime, bhikkhave, vacanapathā yehi vo pare vadamānā vadeyyuṃ—

Mendicants, there are these five ways in which others might criticize you.

kālena vā akālena vā;

Their speech may be timely or untimely,

bhūtena vā abhūtena vā;

true or false,

saṇhena vā pharusena vā;

gentle or harsh,

atthasaṃhitena vā anatthasaṃhitena vā;

beneficial or harmful,

‘Our minds will remain unaffected. We will blurt out no bad words. We will remain full of compassion, with a heart of love and no secret hate.

We will meditate spreading a heart of love to that person. And with them as a basis, we will meditate spreading a heart like a catskin bag to everyone in the world—abundant, expansive, limitless, free of enmity and ill will.’

Evañhi vo, bhikkhave, sikkhitabbaṃ.

That’s how you should train.

Ubhatodaṇḍakena cepi, bhikkhave, kakacena corā ocarakā

That’s how you should train.

Imañca tumhe, bhikkhave, kakacūpamaṃ ovādaṃ abhikkhaṇaṃ manasi kareyyātha.

If you frequently reflect on this advice—the simile of the saw—

Passatha no tumhe, bhikkhave, taṃ vacanapathaṃ, aṇuṃ vā thūlaṃ vā, yaṃ tumhe nādhivāseyyāthā”ti?

do you see any criticism, large or small, that you could not endure?”

“No hetam, bhante”.

“No, sir.”

“Tasmātiha, bhikkhave, imaṃ kakacūpamaṃ ovādaṃ abhikkhaṇaṃ manasikarotha.

“So, mendicants, you should frequently reflect on this advice, the simile of the saw.

Taṃ vo bhavissati dīgharattaṃ hitāya sukhāyā”ti.

This will be for your lasting welfare and happiness.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Kakacūpamasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ paṭhamaṃ.

22. Alagaddūpamasutta The Simile of the Snake

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava sāvattiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena ariṭṭhassa nāma bhikkhuno gaddhabādhīpubbassa evarūpaṃ pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ uppannaṃ hoti:

Now at that time a mendicant called Ariṭṭha, who had previously been a vulture trapper, had the following harmful misconception:

“tathāhaṃ bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāmi yathā yeme antarāyikā dhammā vuttā bhagavatā te paṭisevato nālaṃ antarāyāyā”ti.

“As I understand the Buddha’s teachings, the acts that he says are obstructions are not really obstructions for the one who performs them.”

Assosum kho sambahulā bhikkhū:

Several mendicants heard about this.

“ariṭṭhassa kira nāma bhikkhuno gaddhabādhīpubbassa evarūpaṃ pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ uppannaṃ:

‘tathāhaṃ bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāmi yathā yeme antarāyikā dhammā vuttā bhagavatā te paṭisevato nālaṃ antarāyāyā’”ti.

Atha kho te bhikkhū yena ariṭṭho bhikkhu gaddhabādhipubbo tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā ariṭṭhaṃ bhikkhuṃ gaddhabādhipubbaṃ etadavocum:

They went up to Ariṭṭha and said to him,

“saccaṃ kira te, āvuso ariṭṭha, evarūpaṃ pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ uppannaṃ:

“Is it really true, Reverend Ariṭṭha, that you have such a harmful misconception:

‘tathāhaṃ bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāmi yathā yeme antarāyikā dhammā vuttā bhagavatā te paṭisevato nālaṃ antarāyāyā’”ti.

“Evaṃ byā kho ahaṃ, āvuso, bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāmi yathā yeme antarāyikā dhammā vuttā bhagavatā te paṭisevato nālaṃ antarāyāyā’”ti.

“Absolutely, reverends. As I understand the Buddha’s teachings, the acts that he says are obstructions are not really obstructions for the one who performs them.”

Atha kho tepi bhikkhū ariṭṭhaṃ bhikkhuṃ gaddhabādhipubbaṃ etasmā pāpakā diṭṭhigatā vivecetukāmā samanuyuñjanti samanugāhanti samanubhāsanti:

Then, wishing to dissuade Ariṭṭha from his view, the mendicants pursued, pressed, and grilled him, “mā hevaṃ, āvuso ariṭṭha, avaca, mā bhagavantam abbhācikkhi; na hi sādhu bhagavato abbhakkhānaṃ, na hi bhagavā evaṃ vadeyya.

“Don’t say that, Ariṭṭha! Don’t misrepresent the Buddha, for misrepresentation of the Buddha is not good. And the Buddha would not say that.

Aneka-pariyāyenāvuso ariṭṭha, antarāyikā dhammā antarāyikā vuttā bhagavatā, alaṅca pana te paṭisevato antarāyāya.

In many ways the Buddha has said that obstructive acts are obstructive, and that they really do obstruct the one who performs them.

Appassādā kāmā vuttā bhagavatā bahudukkhā bahupāyāsā, ādīnavo ettha bhiyyo.

But even though the mendicants pursued, pressed, and grilled him in this way, Ariṭṭha obstinately stuck to his misconception and insisted on stating it.

When they weren’t able to dissuade Ariṭṭha from his view, the mendicants went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened.

Atha kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to the mendicants,

So vata, bhikkhave, aññatreva kāmehi aññatra kāmasaññāya aññatra kāmavitakkehi kāme paṭisevissatīti—netam ṭhānam vijjati.

Truly, mendicants, it's not possible to perform sensual acts without sensual pleasures, sensual perceptions, and sensual thoughts.

Idha, bhikkhave, ekacce moghapurisā dhammaṃ pariyāpuṇanti

Take a foolish person who memorizes the teaching—suttaṃ, geyyaṃ, veyyākaraṇaṃ, gāthaṃ, udānaṃ, itivuttakaṃ, jātaṃ, abbhutadhammaṃ, vedallaṃ.

statements, songs, discussions, verses, inspired exclamations, legends, stories of past lives, amazing stories, and classifications.

Te taṃ dhammaṃ pariyāpuṇitvā tesaṃ dhammānaṃ paññāya atthaṃ na upaparikkhanti.

But they don't examine the meaning of those teachings with wisdom, and so don't come to a reflective acceptance of them.

Te upārambhānisaṃsā ceva dhammaṃ pariyāpuṇanti itivādappamokkhānisaṃsā ca.

They just memorize the teaching for the sake of finding fault and winning debates.

Yassa catthāya dhammaṃ pariyāpuṇanti tañcassa atthaṃ nānubhonti.

They don't realize the goal for which they memorized them.

Tesaṃ te dhammā duggahitā dīgharattaṃ ahitāya dukkhāya saṃvattanti.

Because they're wrongly grasped, those teachings lead to their lasting harm and suffering.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Duggahitattā, bhikkhave, dhammānaṃ.

Because of their wrong grasp of the teachings.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, puriso alagaddatthiko alagaddagavesī alagaddapariyesanaṃ caramāno.

Suppose there was a person in need of a snake. And while wandering in search of a snake and grasp it by the coil or the tail.

So passeyya mahantaṃ alagaddaṃ.

Tassa so alagaddo paṭiparivattitvā hatthe vā bāhāya vā aññatarasmiṃ vā aṅgapaccaṅge ḍaṇṇeyya.

But that snake would twist back and bite them on the hand or the arm or limb,

So tatonidānaṃ maraṇaṃ vā nigaccheyya maraṇamattaṃ vā dukkhaṃ.

resulting in death or deadly pain.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Duggahitattā, bhikkhave, alagaddassa.

Because of their wrong grasp of the snake.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, idhekacce moghapurisā dhammaṃ pariyāpuṇanti—

In the same way, a foolish person memorizes the teaching ...

and those teachings lead to their lasting harm and suffering.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Duggahitattā, bhikkhave, dhammānaṃ.

Because of their wrong grasp of the teachings.

Idha pana, bhikkhave, ekacce kulaputtā dhammaṃ pariyāpuṇanti—

Now, take a gentleman who memorizes the teaching—suttaṃ, geyyaṃ, veyyākaraṇaṃ, gāthaṃ, udānaṃ, itivuttakaṃ, jātakaṃ, abbhutadhammaṃ, vedallaṃ.

statements, songs, discussions, verses, inspired exclamations, legends, stories of past lives, amazing stories, and classifications.

Te taṃ dhammaṃ pariyāpuṇitvā tesaṃ dhammānaṃ paññāya atthaṃ upaparikkhanti.

And once he's memorized them, he examines their meaning with wisdom, Tesaṃ te dhammā paññāya atthaṃ upaparikkhataṃ nijjhānaṃ khamanti.

and comes to a reflective acceptance of them.

Te na ceva upārambhānisamsā dhammaṃ pariyāpuṇanti na itivādappamokkhānisamsā ca.

He doesn't memorize the teaching for the sake of finding fault and winning debates.

Yassa catthāya dhammaṃ pariyāpuṇanti tañcassa atthaṃ anubhonti.

He realizes the goal for which he memorized them.

Tesaṃ te dhammā suggahitā dīgharattaṃ hitāya sukhāya saṃvattanti.

Because they're correctly grasped, those teachings lead to his lasting welfare and happiness.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Suggahitattā bhikkhave dhammānaṃ.

Because of his correct grasp of the teachings.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, puriso alagaddatthiko alagaddagavesī alagaddapariyesanaṃ caramāno.

and hold it down carefully with a cleft stick.

Ajapadena daṇḍena suniggahitaṃ niggahitvā, gīvāya suggahitaṃ gaṇheyya.

Only then would they correctly grasp it by the neck.

Why is that?

Suggahitattā, bhikkhave, alagaddassa.

Because of their correct grasp of the snake.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, idhekacce kulaputtā dhammaṃ pariyāpuṇanti—

Suggahitattā, bhikkhave, dhammānaṃ.

Because of his correct grasp of the teachings.

Tasmātiha, bhikkhave, yassa me bhāsitassa atthaṃ ājāneyyātha, tathā naṃ dhāreyyātha.

So, mendicants, when you understand what I've said, you should remember it accordingly.

Yassa ca pana me bhāsitassa atthaṃ na ājāneyyātha, ahaṃ vo tattha paṭipucchitabbo, ye vā panāssu viyattā bhikkhū.

But if I've said anything that you don't understand, you should ask me about it, or some competent mendicants.

Kullūpamaṃ vo, bhikkhave, dhammaṃ desessāmi nittharaṇatthāya, no gahaṇatthāya.

Mendicants, I will teach you how the Dhamma is similar to a raft: it's for crossing over, not for holding on.

Taṃ suṇātha, sādhukaṃ manasikarotha, bhāssissāmi”ti.

Listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, puriso addhānamaggappaṭipanno.

“Suppose there was a person traveling along the road.

So passeyya mahantaṃ udakaṇṇavaṃ, orimaṃ tīraṃ sāsaṅkaṃ sappaṭibhayaṃ, pārimaṃ tīraṃ khemaṃ appaṭibhayaṃ;

They'd see a large deluge, whose near shore was dubious and perilous, while the far shore was a sanctuary free of peril.

na cassa nāvā santāraṇī uttarasetu vā apārā pāraṃ gamanāya.

But there was no ferryboat or bridge for crossing over.

Tassa evamassa:

They'd think,

‘ayaṃ kho mahāudakaṇṇavo, orimaṃ tīraṃ sāsaṅkaṃ sappaṭibhayaṃ, pārimaṃ tīraṃ khemaṃ appaṭibhayaṃ;

natthi ca nāvā santāraṇī uttarasetu vā apārā pāraṃ gamanāya.

Yannūnāhaṃ tiṇakaṭṭhasākhāpalāsaṃ saṅkaḍḍhitvā, kullaṃ bandhitvā, taṃ kullaṃ nissāya hatthehi ca pādehi ca vāyamamāno sotthinā pāraṃ uttareyyan'ti.

‘Why don't I gather grass, sticks, branches, and leaves and make a raft? Riding on the raft, and paddling with my hands and feet, I can safely reach the far shore.’

Atha kho so, bhikkhave, puriso tiṇakaṭṭhasākhāpalāsaṃ saṅkaḍḍhitvā, kullaṃ bandhitvā taṃ kullaṃ nissāya hatthehi ca pādehi ca vāyamamāno sotthinā pāraṃ uttareyya.

And so they'd do exactly that.

Tassa purisassa uttiṇṇassa pāraṅgatassa evamassa:

And when they'd crossed over to the far shore, they'd think,

'bahukāro kho me ayaṃ kullo;

'This raft has been very helpful to me.

imāhaṃ kullaṃ nissāya hatthehi ca pādehi ca vāyamamāno
sotthinā pāraṃ uttiṇṇo.

Riding on the raft, and paddling with my hands and feet, I have safely crossed over to the far shore.

Yannūnāhaṃ imaṃ kullaṃ sīse vā āropetvā khandhe vā uccāretvā yena kāmaṃ pakkameyyan'ti.

Why don't I hoist it on my head or pick it up on my shoulder and go wherever I want?'

Taṃ kiṃ maññatha, bhikkhave,

What do you think, mendicants?

api nu so puriso evaṅkārī tasmim kulle kiccakārī assā'ti?

Would that person be doing what should be done with that raft?"

“No hetam, bhante”.

“No, sir.”

“Kathaṅkārī ca so, bhikkhave, puriso tasmim kulle kiccakārī assa?

“And what, mendicants, should that person do with the raft?

Idha, bhikkhave, tassa purisassa uttiṇṇassa pāraṅgatassa evamassa:

When they'd crossed over they should think,

'bahukāro kho me ayaṃ kullo;

'This raft has been very helpful to me. ...

imāhaṃ kullaṃ nissāya hatthehi ca pādehi ca vāyamamāno
sotthinā pāraṃ uttiṇṇo.

Yannūnāhaṃ imaṃ kullaṃ thale vā ussādetvā udae vā opilāpetvā yena kāmaṃ pakkameyyan'ti.

Why don't I beach it on dry land or set it adrift on the water and go wherever I want?'

Evaṅkāri kho so, bhikkhave, puriso tasmim kulle kiccakāri assa.
That's what that person should do with the raft.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, kullūpamo mayā dhammo desito nittharaṇatthāya, no gahaṇatthāya.

In the same way, I have taught how the teaching is similar to a raft: it's for crossing over, not for holding on.

Kullūpamaṃ vo, bhikkhave, dhammaṃ desitaṃ, ājānantehi dhammāpi vo pahātabbā pageva adhammā.

By understanding the simile of the raft, you will even give up the teachings, let alone what is against the teachings.

Chayimāni, bhikkhave, diṭṭhiṭṭhānāni.

Evaṃ vutte, aññataro bhikkhu bhagavantam etadavoca:

When he said this, one of the mendicants asked the Buddha, “siyā nu kho, bhante, bahiddhā asati paritassanā”ti?

“Sir, can there be anxiety about what doesn’t exist externally?”

“Siyā, bhikkhū”ti—bhagavā avoca.

This is called a mendicant who has lifted up the cross-bar, filled in the trench, and pulled up the pillar; who is unbarred, a noble one with banner and burden put down, detached.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu ukkhittapaligho hoti?

And how has a mendicant lifted the cross-bar?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno avijjā pahīnā hoti, ucchinnamūlā tālāvatthukatā anabhāvaṅkatā, āyatim anuppādadhammā.

It's when a mendicant has given up ignorance, cut it off at the root, made it like a palm stump, obliterated it, so it's unable to arise in the future.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu ariyo pannaddhajo pannabhāro visaṃyutto hoti.

That's how a mendicant is a noble one with banner and burden put down, detached.

Evam vimuttacittam kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhum saindā devā sabrahmakā sapajāpatikā anvesam nādhigacchanti:

When a mendicant's mind is freed like this, the gods together with Indra, Brahmā, and Pajāpati, search as they may, will not find anything that such a Realized One's consciousness depends on.

‘idam nissitam tathāgatassa viññāṇan’ti.

Tam kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Diṭṭhevāham, bhikkhave, dhamme tathāgataṃ ananuvijjoti vadāmi.

Because even in the present life the Realized One is undiscoverable, I say.

Evamvādim kho maṃ, bhikkhave, evamakkhāyim eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā asatā tucchā musā abhūtena abbhācikkhanti:

Though I speak and explain like this, certain ascetics and brahmins misrepresent me with the false, hollow, lying, untruthful claim:

‘venayiko samaṇo gotamo, sato sattassa ucchedaṃ vināsaṃ vibhavaṃ paññāpetī’ti.

‘The ascetic Gotama is an exterminator. He advocates the annihilation, eradication, and obliteration of an existing being.’

Yathā cāhaṃ na, bhikkhave, yathā cāhaṃ na vadāmi, tathā maṃ te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā asatā tucchā musā abhūtena abbhācikkhanti:

I have been falsely misrepresented as being what I am not, and saying what I do not say.

‘venayiko samaṇo gotamo, sato sattassa ucchedaṃ vināsaṃ vibhavaṃ paññāpetī’ti.

Pubbe cāhaṃ, bhikkhave, etarahi ca dukkhañceva paññāpemi, dukkhassa ca nirodhaṃ.

In the past, as today, what I describe is suffering and the cessation of suffering.

Tatra ce, bhikkhave, pare tathāgataṃ akkosanti paribhāsanti rosentī vihesenti, tatra, bhikkhave, tathāgatassa na hoti āghāto na appaccayo na cetaso anabhiraddhi.

This being so, if others abuse, attack, harass, and trouble the Realized One, he doesn't get resentful, bitter, and emotionally exasperated.

Tatra ce, bhikkhave, pare tathāgataṃ sakkaronti garuṃ karonti mānenti pūjenti, tatra, bhikkhave, tathāgatassa na hoti ānando na somanassaṃ na cetaso uppilāvitattaṃ.

Or if others honor, respect, revere, or venerate him, he doesn't get thrilled, elated, and emotionally excited.

Tatra ce, bhikkhave, pare vā tathāgataṃ sakkaronti garuṃ karonti mānenti pūjenti, tatra, bhikkhave, tathāgatassa evaṃ hoti:

He just thinks,

‘This person is carrying us off, burning us, or doing what they want with us?’”

“No hetam, bhante”.

“No, sir.

“Taṃ kissa hetu”?

Why is that?

“Na hi no etaṃ, bhante, attā vā attaniyaṃ vā”ti.

Because that's neither self nor belonging to self.”

“Evameva kho, bhikkhave, yaṃ na tumhākaṃ taṃ pajahatha;

“In the same way, mendicants, give up what isn't yours.

taṃ vo pahīnaṃ dīgharattaṃ hitāya sukhāya bhavissati.

Evaṃ svākkhāto, bhikkhave, mayā dhammo uttāno vivaṭṭo

In this teaching there are mendicants who are perfected, who have ended the defilements, completed the spiritual journey, done what had to be done, laid down the burden, achieved their own goal, utterly ended the fetters of rebirth, and are rightly freed through enlightenment. For them, there is no cycle of rebirths to be found. ...

Evaṃ svākkhāto, bhikkhave, mayā dhammo uttāno vivaṭṭo

In this teaching there are mendicants who have given up the five lower fetters. All of them are reborn spontaneously. They are extinguished there, and are not liable to return from that world. ...

Evaṃ svākkhāto, bhikkhave, mayā dhammo uttāno vivaṭṭo pakāsito chinnapilotiko.

Evaṃ svākkhāte, bhikkhave, mayā dhamme uttāne vivaṭṭe pakāsīte chinnapilotike yesaṃ bhikkhūnaṃ tīṇi saṃyojanāni pahīnāni, rāgadosamohā tanubhūtā, sabbe te sakadāgāmino, sakideva imaṃ lokam āgantvā dukkhassantaṃ karissanti.

In this teaching there are mendicants who, having given up three fetters, and weakened greed, hate, and delusion, are once-returners. All of them come back to this world once only, then make an end of suffering. ...

Evaṃ svākkhāto, bhikkhave, mayā dhammo uttāno vivaṭṭo pakāsito chinnapilotiko.

In this teaching there are mendicants who have ended three fetters. All of them are stream-enterers, not liable to be reborn in the underworld, bound for awakening. ...

Evaṃ svākkhāto, bhikkhave, mayā dhammo uttāno vivaṭṭo pakāsito chinnapilotiko.

Evaṃ svākkhāte, bhikkhave, mayā dhamme uttāne vivaṭṭe pakāsīte chinnapilotike ye te bhikkhū dhammānusārino saddhānusārino sabbe te sambodhiparāyanā.

In this teaching there are mendicants who are followers of principles, or followers by faith. All of them are bound for awakening.

23. Vammikasutta The Ant-Hill

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anathapiṇḍikassa ārame.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā kumārakassapo andhavane

Now at that time Venerable Kassapa the Prince was staying in the Dark Forest.

Atha kho aññatarā devatā abhikkantāya rattiyā abhikkantavaṇṇā aṭṭhāsi. Ekamantaṃ tṭhitā kho sā devatā āyasmantaṃ kumārakassapaṃ etadavoca:

Then, late at night, a glorious deity, lighting up the entire Dark Forest, went up to Kassapa the Prince, stood to one side, and said:

“Bhikkhu bhikkhu, ayam vammiko rattiṃ dhūmayati, divā pajjalati.

“Monk, monk! This ant-hill fumes by night and flames by day.

Brāhmaṇo evamāha:

The brahmin said,

‘abhikkhaṇa, sumedha, satthaṃ ādāyā’ti.

‘Take up the sword and dig, O sage!’

Abhikkhaṇanto sumedho satthaṃ ādāya addasa laṅgiṃ

Taking up the sword and digging, the sage saw a bar:

‘laṅgī, bhadante’ti.

‘A bar, sir!’

Brāhmaṇo evamāha:

The brahmin said,

‘ukkipa laṅgiṃ;

‘Throw out the bar!’

abhikkhaṇa, sumedha, satthaṃ ādāyā’ti.

Take up the sword and dig, O sage!’

Abhikkhaṇanto sumedho satthaṃ ādāya addasa uddhumāyikaṃ.

Taking up the sword and digging, the sage saw a bullfrog:

‘Uddhumāyikā, bhadante’ti.

‘A bullfrog, sir!’

Brāhmaṇo evamāha:

The brahmin said,

‘ukkipa uddhumāyikaṃ;

‘Throw out the bullfrog!’

abhikkhaṇa, sumedha, satthaṃ ādāyā’ti.

Take up the sword and dig, O sage!’

Abhikkhaṇanto sumedho satthaṃ ādāya addasa dvidhāpathaṃ.

Taking up the sword and digging, the sage saw a forked path:

‘Dvidhāpatho, bhadante’ti.

‘A forked path, sir!’

Brāhmaṇo evamāha:

The brahmin said,

‘ukhipa dvidhāpatham;

‘Throw out the forked path!

abhikkhaṇa, sumedha, sattham ādāyā’ti.

Take up the sword and dig, O sage!’

Abhikkhaṇanto sumedho sattham ādāya addasa caṅgavāram.

Taking up the sword and digging, the sage saw a box:

‘Caṅgavāro, bhadante’ti.

‘A box, sir!’

Brāhmaṇo evamāha:

The brahmin said,

‘ukhipa caṅgavāram;

‘Throw out the box!

abhikkhaṇa, sumedha, sattham ādāyā’ti.

Take up the sword and dig, O sage!’

Abhikkhaṇanto sumedho sattham ādāya addasa kummaṁ.

Taking up the sword and digging, the sage saw a tortoise:

‘Kummo, bhadante’ti.

‘A tortoise, sir!’

Brāhmaṇo evamāha:

The brahmin said,

‘ukhipa kummaṁ;

‘Throw out the tortoise!

abhikkhaṇa, sumedha, sattham ādāyā’ti.

Take up the sword and dig, O sage!’

Abhikkhaṇanto sumedho sattham ādāya addasa asisūnaṁ.

Taking up the sword and digging, the sage saw an axe and block:

‘Asisūnā, bhadante’ti.

‘An axe and block, sir!’

Brāhmaṇo evamāha:

The brahmin said,

‘ukhipa asisūnaṃ;

‘Throw out the axe and block!’

abhikkhaṇa, sumedha, satthaṃ ādāyā’ti.

Take up the sword and dig, O sage!’

Abhikkhaṇanto sumedho satthaṃ ādāya addasa maṃsapesiṃ.

Taking up the sword and digging, the sage saw a lump of meat:

‘Maṃsapesi, bhadante’ti.

‘A lump of meat, sir!’

Brāhmaṇo evamāha:

The brahmin said,

‘ukhipa maṃsapesiṃ;

‘Throw out the lump of meat!’

abhikkhaṇa, sumedha, satthaṃ ādāyā’ti.

Take up the sword and dig, O sage!’

Abhikkhaṇanto sumedho satthaṃ ādāya addasa nāgaṃ.

Taking up the sword and digging, the sage saw a dragon:

‘Nāgo, bhadante’ti.

‘A dragon, sir!’

Brāhmaṇo evamāha:

The brahmin said,

‘tiṭṭhatu nāgo, mā nāgaṃ ghaṭṭesi; namo karohi nāgassā’ti.

‘Leave the dragon! Do not disturb the dragon! Worship the dragon!’

Ime kho tvaṃ, bhikkhu, pañhe bhagavantaṃ upasaṅkamitvā

Personally having contentment, seclusion, aloofness, energy, ethics, immersion, wisdom, freedom, and the knowledge and vision of freedom, they speak to the mendicants on all these things. They’re an adviser and instructor, one who educates, encourages, fires up, and inspires their spiritual companions.’”

“Puṇṇo nāma, bhante, āyasmā mantāṇiputto jātibhūmiyaṃ

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā sāriputto bhagavato avidūre

Now at that time Venerable Sāriputta was meditating not far from the Buddha.

Atha kho āyasmato sāriputtassa etadahosi:

Then he thought:

“lābhā āyasmato puṇṇassa mantāṇiputtassa, suladdhalābhā āyasmato puṇṇassa mantāṇiputtassa,

“Puṇṇa Mantāṇiputta is fortunate, so very fortunate,

yassa viññū sabrahmacārī satthu sammukhā anumassa in that his sensible spiritual companions praise him point by point in the presence of the Teacher, and that the Teacher seconds that appreciation.

Appeva nāma mayampi kadāci karahaci āyasmatā puṇṇena

Hopefully, some time or other I’ll get to meet Venerable Puṇṇa, and we can have a discussion.”

Atha kho bhagavā rājagahe yathābhirantaṃ viharitvā yena sāvatti tena cārikaṃ pakkāmi.

When the Buddha had stayed in Rājagaha as long as he wished, he set out for Sāvattī.

Anupubbena cārikaṃ caramāno yena sāvatti tadavasari.

Traveling stage by stage, he arrived at Sāvattī,

Tatra sudarṃ bhagavā sāvattiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

where he stayed in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Assosi kho āyasmā puṇṇo mantāṇiputto: “bhagavā kira sāvattim anupatto; sāvattiyam viharati jetavane anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme”ti.

Puṇṇa heard that the Buddha had arrived at Sāvattī.

Atha kho āyasmā puṇṇo mantāṇiputto senāsanam saṃsāmetvā pattacīvaramādāya yena sāvatti tena cārikaṃ pakkāmi.

Then he set his lodgings in order and, taking his bowl and robe, set out for Sāvattī.

Anupubbena cārikaṃ caramāno yena sāvatti jetavanam anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāmo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

Eventually he came to Sāvattthī and Jeta’s Grove. He went up to the Buddha, bowed, and sat down to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho āyasmantaṃ puṇṇaṃ mantāṇiputtaṃ bhagavā dhammiyā kathāya sandassesī samādapesī samuttejesī sampahaṃsesī.

The Buddha educated, encouraged, fired up, and inspired him with a Dhamma talk.

Atha kho āyasmā puṇṇo mantāṇiputto bhagavatā dhammiyā kathāya sandassito samādapito samuttejito sampahaṃsito bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā yena andhavanaṃ tenupasaṅkami divāvihārāya.

Then, having approved and agreed with what the Buddha said, Puṇṇa got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right. Then he went to the Dark Forest for the day’s meditation.

Atha kho aññataro bhikkhu yenāyasmā sārīputto tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ sārīputtaṃ etadavoca:

Then a certain mendicant went up to Venerable Sārīputta, and said to him, “yassa kho tvaṃ, āvuso sārīputta, puṇṇassa nāma bhikkhuno mantāṇiputtassa abhiṇhaṃ kittayamāno ahosi, so bhagavatā dhammiyā kathāya sandassito samādapito samuttejito sampahaṃsito bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā yena andhavanaṃ tena pakkanto divāvihārāyā”ti.

Atha kho āyasmā sārīputto taramānarūpo nisīdanaṃ ādāya āyasmantaṃ puṇṇaṃ mantāṇiputtaṃ piṭṭhito piṭṭhito anubandhi sīsānulokī.

Sāriputta quickly grabbed his sitting cloth and followed behind Puṇṇa, keeping sight of his head.

Atha kho āyasmā puṇṇo mantāṇiputto andhavanam ajjhogāhetvā aññatarasmim rukkhamūle divāvihāram nisīdi.

Puṇṇa plunged deep into the Dark Forest and sat at the root of a tree for the day's meditation.

Āyasmāpi kho sāriputto andhavanam ajjhogāhetvā aññatarasmim rukkhamūle divāvihāram nisīdi.

And Sāriputta did likewise.

Atha kho āyasmā sāriputto sāyanhasamayam paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yenāyasmā puṇṇo mantāṇiputto tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā āyasmatā puṇṇena mantāṇiputtena saddhim

Then in the late afternoon, Sāriputta came out of retreat, went to Puṇṇa, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyam katham sāraṇīyam vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā sāriputto āyasmantaṃ puṇṇam mantāṇiputtaṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to Puṇṇa:

“Bhagavati no, āvuso, brahmacariyam vussatī”ti?

“Reverend, is our spiritual life lived under the Buddha?”

“Evamāvuso”ti.

“Yes, reverend.”

Then what exactly is the purpose of living the spiritual life under the Buddha?”

“Anupādāparinibbānatthaṃ kho, āvuso, bhagavati brahmacariyaṃ vussatī”ti.

“The purpose of living the spiritual life under the Buddha is extinguishment by not grasping.”

“Kiṃ nu kho, āvuso, sīlavisuddhi anupādāparinibbānan”ti?

“Sīlavisuddhiñce, āvuso, bhagavā anupādāparinibbānaṃ

If the Buddha had declared purification of knowledge and vision to be extinguishment by not grasping, he would have declared that which has grasping to be extinguishment by not grasping.

Aññatra ce, āvuso, imehi dhammehi anupādāparinibbānaṃ abhaviṣṣa, puthujjano parinibbāyeyya.

But if extinguishment by not grasping was something apart from these things, an ordinary person would become extinguished.

Puthujjano hi, āvuso, aññatra imehi dhammehi.

For an ordinary person lacks these things.

Tena hāvuso, upamaṃ te karissāmi;

Well then, reverend, I shall give you a simile.

upamāyapidhekacce viññū purisā bhāsitassa atthaṃ ājānanti.

For by means of a simile some sensible people understand the meaning of what is said.

Seyyathāpi, āvuso, rañño pasenadissa kosalassa sāvattiyam paṭivasantassa sākete kiñcideva accāyikaṃ karaṇīyam uppajjeyya.

Suppose that, while staying in Sāvattī, King Pasenadi of Kosala had some urgent business come up in Sāketa.

Tassa antarā ca sāvattim antarā ca sāketaṃ satta rathavinītāni upaṭṭhapeyyuṃ.

Now, between Sāvattī and Sāketa seven prepared chariots were stationed ready for him.

Atha kho, āvuso, rājā pasenadi kosalo sāvattiyā nikkhamitvā antepuradvārā paṭhamaṃ rathavinītaṃ abhiruheyya, paṭhamena rathavinītena dutiyam rathavinītaṃ pāpuṇeyya, paṭhamaṃ rathavinītaṃ vissajjeyya dutiyam rathavinītaṃ abhiruheyya.

Then Pasenadi, having departed Sāvattī, mounted the first prepared chariot by the gate of the royal compound. The first prepared chariot would bring him to the second, where he'd dismount and mount the second chariot.

Dutiyena rathavinītena tatiyaṃ rathavinītaṃ pāpuṇeyya, dutiyaṃ rathavinītaṃ vissajjeyya, tatiyaṃ rathavinītaṃ abhiruheyya.

The second prepared chariot would bring him to the third ...

Tatiyena rathavinītena catutthaṃ rathavinītaṃ pāpuṇeyya, tatiyaṃ rathavinītaṃ vissajjeyya, catutthaṃ rathavinītaṃ abhiruheyya.

The third prepared chariot would bring him to the fourth ...

Catutthena rathavinītena pañcamaṃ rathavinītaṃ pāpuṇeyya, catutthaṃ rathavinītaṃ vissajjeyya, pañcamaṃ rathavinītaṃ abhiruheyya.

The fourth prepared chariot would bring him to the fifth ...

Pañcamena rathavinītena chaṭṭhaṃ rathavinītaṃ pāpuṇeyya, pañcamaṃ rathavinītaṃ vissajjeyya, chaṭṭhaṃ rathavinītaṃ abhiruheyya.

The fifth prepared chariot would bring him to the sixth ...

Chaṭṭhena rathavinītena sattamaṃ rathavinītaṃ pāpuṇeyya, chaṭṭhaṃ rathavinītaṃ vissajjeyya, sattamaṃ rathavinītaṃ abhiruheyya.

The sixth prepared chariot would bring him to the seventh, where he'd dismount and mount the seventh chariot.

Sattamena rathavinītena sāketam anupāpuṇeyya antepuradvāraṃ.

The seventh prepared chariot would bring him to the gate of the royal compound of Sāketa.

Tamenam antepuradvāragataṃ samānam mittāmaccā ñātisālohitā evaṃ puccheyyūṃ:

And when he was at the gate, friends and colleagues, relatives and kin would ask him:

‘iminā tvaṃ, mahārāja, rathavinītena sāvattiyā sāketaṃ

If asked this, how should King Pasenadi rightly reply?”

“Evaṃ byākaramāno kho, āvuso, rājā pasenadi kosalo sammā

“The king should reply:

‘idha me sāvattiyāṃ paṭivasantassa sākete kiñcideva

The sixth prepared chariot brought me to the seventh, where I dismounted and mounted the seventh chariot.

Sattamena rathavinītena sāketam anupatto antepuradvāran'ti.
The seventh prepared chariot brought me to the gate of the royal compound of Sāketa.'

Evaṃ byākaramāno kho, āvuso, rājā pasenadi kosalo sammā

That's how King Pasenadi should rightly reply."

The spiritual life is lived under the Buddha for the sake of extinguishment by not grasping.”

Evaṃ vutte, āyasmā sāriputto āyasmantaṃ puṇṇaṃ mantāṇiputtaṃ etadavoca:

25. Nivāpasutta Fodder

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadvoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Na, bhikkhave, nevāpiko nivāpaṃ nivapati migajātānaṃ:

“Mendicants, a trapper doesn't cast bait for deer thinking,

‘imaṃ me nivāpaṃ nivuttam migajātā paribhuñjantā dīghāyukā vaṇṇavanto ciram dīghamaddhānaṃ yāpentū’ti.

‘May the deer, enjoying this bait, be healthy and in good condition.
May they live long and prosper!’

Evañca kho, bhikkhave, nevāpiko nivāpaṃ nivapati migajātānaṃ:

A trapper casts bait for deer thinking,

‘imaṃ me nivāpaṃ nivuttaṃ migajātā anupakhajja mucchitā bhojanāni bhuñjissanti, anupakhajja mucchitā bhojanāni bhuñjamānā madam āpajjissanti, mattā samānā pamādam āpajjissanti, pamattā samānā yathākāmakaraṇīyā bhavissanti imasmim nivāpe’ti.

‘When these deer intrude on where I cast the bait, they’ll recklessly enjoy eating it. They’ll become indulgent, then they’ll become negligent, and then they’ll be vulnerable on account of this bait.’

It's when a mendicant, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, bhikkhu andhamakāsi māraṃ, apadaṃ vadhivā māracakkhuṃ adassanaṃ gato pāpimato.

This is called a mendicant who has blinded Māra, put out his eyes without a trace, and gone where the Wicked One cannot see.

Furthermore, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, a mendicant enters and remains in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave ...pe... pāpimato.

Furthermore, with the fading away of rapture, a mendicant enters and remains in the third absorption, where they meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, ‘Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.’

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave ...pe... pāpimato.

Furthermore, giving up pleasure and pain, and ending former happiness and sadness, a mendicant enters and remains in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

Furthermore, a mendicant, going totally beyond perceptions of form, with the ending of perceptions of impingement, not focusing on perceptions of diversity, aware that ‘space is infinite’, enters and remains in the dimension of infinite space.

Furthermore, a mendicant, going totally beyond the dimension of infinite consciousness, aware that ‘there is nothing at all’, enters and remains in the dimension of nothingness.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave ...pe... pāpimato.

This is called a mendicant who has blinded Māra ...

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sabbaso ākiñcaññāyatanam samatikkamma nevasaññānāsaññāyatanam upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, a mendicant, going totally beyond the dimension of nothingness, enters and remains in the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave ...pe... pāpimato.

This is called a mendicant who has blinded Māra ...

Furthermore, a mendicant, going totally beyond the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception, enters and remains in the cessation of perception and feeling. And, having seen with wisdom, their defilements come to an end.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, bhikkhu andhamakāsi māraṃ, apadaṃ vadhitvā māracakkhum adassanaṃ gato pāpimato tiṇṇo loke visattikaṃ”ti.

This is called a mendicant who has blinded Māra, put out his eyes without a trace, and gone where the Wicked One cannot see. And they’ve crossed over clinging to the world.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Nivāpasuttam̐ niṭṭhitam̐ pañcamam̐.

26. Pāsarāsisutta The Noble Search

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Atha kho bhagava pubbaṇhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya savatthim piṇḍāya pāvisi.

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Sāvattihī for alms.

Atha kho sambahulā bhikkhū yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ
etadavocum:

Then several mendicants went up to Venerable Ānanda and said to him, “cirassutā no, āvuso ānanda, bhagavato sammukhā dhammī kathā.

“Reverend, it's been a long time since we've heard a Dhamma talk from the Buddha.

Sādhu mayam, āvuso ānanda, labheyyāma bhagavato sammukhā dhammim katham savanāyā”ti.

It would be good if we got to hear a Dhamma talk from the Buddha.”

“Tena hāyasmanto yena rammakassa brāhmaṇassa assamo tenupasaṅkamatha; appeva nāma labheyyātha bhagavato sammukhā dhammiṃ katham̐ savanāyā”ti.

“Well then, reverends, go to the brahmin Rammaka’s hermitage.

Hopefully you’ll get to hear a Dhamma talk from the Buddha.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato ānandassa paccassosum̐.

“Yes, reverend,” they replied.

Atha kho bhagavā sāvattiyam̐ piṇḍāya carivā pacchābhattam̐ piṇḍapātapaṭikkanto āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ āmantesi:

Then, after the meal, on his return from alms-round, the Buddha addressed Ānanda, “āyāmānanda, yena pubbārāmo migāramātupāsādo tenupasaṅkamissāma divāvihārāyā”ti.

“Come, Ānanda, let’s go to the Eastern Monastery, the stilt longhouse of Migāra’s mother for the day’s meditation.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho āyasmā ānando bhagavato paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” Ānanda replied.

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmatā ānandena saddhim̐ yena pubbārāmo migāramātupāsādo tenupasaṅkami divāvihārāya.

So the Buddha went with Ānanda to the Eastern Monastery.

Atha kho bhagavā sāyanhasamayam̐ paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ āmantesi:

In the late afternoon the Buddha came out of retreat and addressed Ānanda, “āyāmānanda, yena pubbakoṭṭhako tenupasaṅkamissāma gattāni parisiñcitun”ti.

“Come, Ānanda, let’s go to the eastern gate to bathe.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho āyasmā ānando bhagavato paccassosi.
“Yes, sir,” Ānanda replied.

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmatā ānandena saddhiṃ yena pubbakoṭṭhako tenupasaṅkami gattāni parisiñcituṃ.
So the Buddha went with Ānanda to the eastern gate to bathe.

Pubbakoṭṭhake gattāni parisiñcivā paccuttarivā ekacīvaro aṭṭhāsi gattāni pubbāpayamāno.
When he had bathed and emerged from the water he stood in one robe drying himself.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando bhagavantam etadavoca:
Then Ānanda said to the Buddha,

“ayaṃ, bhante, rammakassa brāhmaṇassa assamo avidūre.
“Sir, the hermitage of the brahmin Rammaka is nearby.

Ramaṇīyo, bhante, rammakassa brāhmaṇassa assamo;
It’s so delightful,

pāsādiko, bhante, rammakassa brāhmaṇassa assamo.
so lovely.

Sādhu, bhante, bhagavā yena rammakassa brāhmaṇassa assamo tenupasaṅkamatu anukampaṃ upādāyā”ti.
Please visit it out of compassion.”

Adhivāsesi bhagavā tuṅhībhāvena.
The Buddha consented in silence.

Atha kho bhagavā yena rammakassa brāhmaṇassa assamo tenupasaṅkami.
He went to the brahmin Rammaka’s hermitage.

Tena kho pana samayena sambahulā bhikkhū rammakassa brāhmaṇassa assame dhammiyā kathāya sannisinnā honti.
Now at that time several mendicants were sitting together in the hermitage talking about the teaching.

Atha kho bhagavā bahidvārakoṭṭhake aṭṭhāsi kathāpariyosānaṃ āgamayamāno.

The Buddha stood outside the door waiting for the talk to end.

Atha kho bhagavā kathāpariyosānaṃ veditvā ukkāsitvā aggaḷaṃ ākoṭesi.

When he knew the talk had ended he cleared his throat and knocked with the latch.

Vivarimsu kho te bhikkhū bhagavato dvāraṃ.

The mendicants opened the door for the Buddha,

Atha kho bhagavā rammakassa brāhmaṇassa assamaṃ pavisitvā paññatte āsane nisīdi.

and he entered the hermitage, where he sat on the seat spread out

Nisajja kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

and addressed the mendicants,

“kāya nuttha, bhikkhave, etarahi kathāya sannisinnā? Kā ca pana vo antarākathā vipakatā”ti?

“Mendicants, what were you sitting talking about just now? What conversation was unfinished?”

“Bhagavantameva kho no, bhante, ārabha dhammī kathā vipakatā, atha bhagavā anuppatto”ti.

“Sir, our unfinished discussion on the teaching was about the Buddha himself when the Buddha arrived.”

“Sādhu, bhikkhave.

“Good, mendicants!

Some time later, while still black-haired, blessed with youth, in the prime of life—though my mother and father wished otherwise, weeping with tearful faces—I shaved off my hair and beard, dressed in ocher robes, and went forth from the lay life to homelessness.

So evaṃ pabbajito samāno kiṅkusalagavesī anuttaraṃ

tenupasaṅkamim. upasaṅkamitvā āḷāraṃ kālāmaṃ etadavocaṃ:

Once I had gone forth I set out to discover what is skillful, seeking the supreme state of sublime peace. I approached Āḷāra Kālāma and said to him, ‘icchāmaḥ, āvuso kālāma, imasmim̐ dhammavinaye brahmacariyaḥ caritun’ti.

‘Reverend Kālāma, I wish to live the spiritual life in this teaching and training.’

Evaḥ vutte, bhikkhave, āḷāro kālāmo maḥ etadavoca:

Āḷāra Kālāma replied,

‘viharatāyasmā;

‘Stay, venerable.

tādiso ayaḥ dhammo yattha viññū puriso nacirasseva sakaḥ ācariyakaḥ sayāḥ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihareyyā’ti.

This teaching is such that a sensible person can soon realize their own tradition with their own insight and live having achieved it.’

So kho ahaḥ, bhikkhave, nacirasseva khippameva taḥ dhammaḥ pariyāpuṇim̐.

I quickly memorized that teaching.

So kho ahaḥ, bhikkhave, tāvatakeneva oṭṭhapahatamattena lapitalāpanamattena ñāṇavādañca vadāmi theravādañca, ‘jānāmi passāmī’ti ca paṭijānāmi ahañceva aññe ca.

So far as lip-recital and oral recitation were concerned, I spoke with knowledge and the authority of the elders. I claimed to know and see, and so did others.

Tassa mayhaḥ, bhikkhave, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘na kho āḷāro kālāmo imaḥ dhammaḥ kevalaḥ saddhāmattakena sayāḥ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharāmīti pavedeti;

‘It is not solely by mere faith that Āḷāra Kālāma declares: “I realize this teaching with my own insight, and live having achieved it.”

addhā āḷāro kālāmo imaṃ dhammaṃ jānaṃ passaṃ viharatī’ti.
Surely he meditates knowing and seeing this teaching.’

Atha khvāhaṃ, bhikkhave, yena āḷāro kālāmo tenupasaṅkamim;
upasaṅkamtivā āḷāraṃ kālāmaṃ etadavocaṃ:

So I approached Āḷāra Kālāma and said to him,

‘kittāvatā no, āvuso kālāma, imaṃ dhammaṃ sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharāmīti pavedesī’ti?

‘Reverend Kālāma, to what extent do you say you’ve realized this teaching with your own insight?’

Evaṃ vutte, bhikkhave, āḷāro kālāmo ākiñcaññāyatanam pavedesi.

When I said this, he declared the dimension of nothingness.

Tassa mayham, bhikkhave, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘na kho āḷārasseva kālāmassa atthi saddhā, mayhampatthi

Yannūnāhaṃ yaṃ dhammaṃ āḷāro kālāmo sayāṃ abhiññā

Why don't I make an effort to realize the same teaching that Āḷāra Kālāma says he has realized with his own insight?'

So kho ahaṃ, bhikkhave, nacirasseva khippameva taṃ

I quickly realized that teaching with my own insight, and lived having achieved it.

Atha khvāhaṃ, bhikkhave, yena āḷāro kālāmo tenupasaṅkamim;
upasaṅkamtivā āḷāraṃ kālāmaṃ etadavocaṃ:

So I approached Āḷāra Kālāma and said to him,

'Ettāvatā no, āvuso kālāma, imaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā

'Reverend Kālāma, have you realized this teaching with your own insight up to this point, and declare having achieved it?'

And that is how my teacher Āḷāra Kālāma placed me, his student, on the same position as him, and honored me with lofty praise.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhikkhave, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘This teaching doesn’t lead to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment. It only leads as far as rebirth in the dimension of nothingness.’

So kho ahaṃ, bhikkhave, taṃ dhammaṃ analaṅkaritvā tasmā dhammā nibbijja apakkamim.

Realizing that this teaching was inadequate, I left disappointed.

So kho aham, bhikkhave, kiṃ kusalagavesī anuttaraṃ santivarapadaṃ pariyesamāno magadhesu anupubbena cārikaṃ caramāno yena uruvelā senānigamo tadavasariṃ.

I set out to discover what is skillful, seeking the supreme state of sublime peace. Traveling stage by stage in the Magadhan lands, I arrived at Senanigama near Uruvelā.

Tatthaddasaṃ ramaṇīyaṃ bhūmibhāgaṃ, pāsādikañca vanasaṇḍaṃ, nadiñca sandantiṃ setakaṃ supatitthaṃ ramaṇīyaṃ, samantā ca gocaragāmaṃ.

There I saw a delightful park, a lovely grove with a flowing river that was clean and charming, with smooth banks. And nearby was a village to go for alms.

Tassa mayham, bhikkhave, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘ramaṇīyo vata bho bhūmibhāgo, pāsādiko ca vanasaṇḍo, nadi ca sandati setakā supatitthā ramaṇīyā, samantā ca gocaragāmo.

‘This park is truly delightful, a lovely grove with a flowing river that’s clean and charming, with smooth banks. And nearby there’s a village to go for alms.

Alaṃ vatidaṃ kulaputtassa padhānatthikassa padhānāyā’ti.

This is good enough for a gentleman who wishes to put forth effort in meditation.’

So kho ahaṃ, bhikkhave, tattheva nisīdiṃ—

So I sat down right there, thinking,

‘This is good enough for meditation.’

And so, being myself liable to be reborn, understanding the drawbacks in being liable to be reborn, I sought the unborn supreme sanctuary, extinguishment—and I found it. Being myself liable to grow old, fall sick, die, sorrow, and become corrupted, understanding the drawbacks in these things, I sought the unaging, unailing, undying, sorrowless, uncorrupted supreme sanctuary, extinguishment—and I found it.

Ñāṇaṅca pana me dassanaṃ udapādi:

Knowledge and vision arose in me:

‘akuppā me vimutti, ayamantimā jāti, natthi dāni punabbhavo’ti.

‘My freedom is unshakable; this is my last rebirth; now there are no more future lives.’

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhikkhave, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘adhigato kho myāyaṃ dhammo gambhīro duddaso

‘This principle I have discovered is deep, hard to see, hard to understand, peaceful, sublime, beyond the scope of reason, subtle, comprehensible to the astute.

Ālayarāmā kho panāyaṃ pajā ālayaratā ālayasammuditā.

But people like attachment, they love it and enjoy it.

It’s also hard for them to see this thing; that is, the stilling of all activities, the letting go of all attachments, the ending of craving, fading away, cessation, extinguishment.

Ahañceva kho pana dhammaṃ deseyyaṃ, pare ca me na ājāneyyumaṃ, so mamassa kilamatho, sā mamassa vihesā’ti.

And if I were to teach the Dhamma, others might not understand me, which would be wearying and troublesome for me.'

Apissu maṃ, bhikkhave, imā anacchariyā gāthāyo paṭibhaṃsu pubbe assutapubbā:

And then these verses, which were neither supernaturally inspired, nor learned before in the past, occurred to me:

'Kicchena me adhigataṃ,

'I've struggled hard to realize this,

halaṃ dāni pakāsituṃ;

enough with trying to explain it!

Rāgadosaparetehi,

This teaching is not easily understood nāyaṃ dhammo susambudho.

by those mired in greed and hate.

Paṭisotagāmiṃ nipuṇaṃ,

Those caught up in greed can't see what's subtle, going against the stream,

Rāgarattā na dakkhanti, deep, hard to see, and very fine, tamokhandhena āvuṭṭā'ti.

for they're shrouded in a mass of darkness.'

Itiha me, bhikkhave, paṭisañcikkhato appossukkatāya cittaṃ namati, no dhammadesanāya.

So, as I reflected like this, my mind inclined to remaining passive, not to teaching the Dhamma.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, brahmuno sahampatissa mama cetasā cetoparivitakkamaññāya etadahosi:

Then Brahmā Sahampati, knowing what I was thinking, thought,

‘nassati vata bho loko, vinassati vata bho loko, yatra hi nāma tathāgatassa arahato sammāsambuddhassa appossukkatāya cittaṃ namati, no dhammadesanāyā’ti.

‘Oh my goodness! The world will be lost, the world will perish! For the mind of the Realized One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha, inclines to remaining passive, not to teaching the Dhamma.’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, brahmā sahampati—seyyathāpi nāma balavā puriso samiñjitaṃ vā bāhaṃ pasāreyya, pasāritaṃ vā bāhaṃ samiñjeyya; evameva—brahmaloke antarahito mama purato pāturahosi.

Then, as easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, he vanished from the Brahmā realm and reappeared in front of the Buddha.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, brahmā sahampati ekaṃsaṃ uttarāsaṅgaṃ karitvā yenāhaṃ tenañjaliṃ paṇāmetvā maṃ etadavoca:

He arranged his robe over one shoulder, knelt on his right knee, raised his joined palms toward the Buddha, and said, ‘desetu, bhante, bhagavā dhammaṃ, desetu sugato dhammaṃ.

‘Sir, let the Blessed One teach the Dhamma! Let the Holy One teach the Dhamma!’

Santi sattā apparajakkhajātikā, assavanatā dhammassa parihāyanti.

There are beings with little dust in their eyes. They’re in decline because they haven’t heard the teaching.

There will be those who understand the teaching!’

Idamavoca, bhikkhave, brahmā sahampati.

That's what Brahmā Sahampati said.

Idaṃ vatvā athāparaṃ etadavoca:

Then he went on to say:

‘Pāturahosi magadhesu pubbe,

‘Among the Magadhans there appeared in the past

Dhammo asuddho samalehi cintito;

an impure teaching thought up by those still stained.

Apāpuretaṃ amatassa dvāraṃ,

Atha kho ahaṃ, bhikkhave, brahmuno ca ajjhesanaṃ veditvā

Then, understanding Brahmā's invitation, I surveyed the world with the eye of a Buddha, because of my compassion for sentient beings.

It's like a pool with blue water lilies, or pink or white lotuses. Some of them sprout and grow in the water without rising above it, thriving underwater. Some of them sprout and grow in the water reaching the water's surface. And some of them sprout and grow in the water but rise up above the water and stand with no water clinging to them.

evameva kho ahaṃ, bhikkhave, buddhacakkhunā lokam

In the same way, I saw sentient beings with little dust in their eyes, and some with much dust in their eyes.

Atha khvāhaṃ, bhikkhave, brahmānaṃ sahampatiṃ gāthāya

Then I replied in verse to Brahmā Sahampati:

‘Apārutā tesam amatassa dvārā, ‘Flung open are the doors to the deathless!

Ye sotavanto pamuñcantu saddham;
Let those with ears to hear decide their faith.

Vihimsasaññī paṇaṃ na bhāsim,
Thinking it would be troublesome, Brahmā, I did not teach the sophisticated, sublime Dhamma among humans.’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, brahmā sahampati ‘katāvakāso khomhi

Then Brahmā Sahampati, knowing that his request for me to teach the Dhamma had been granted, bowed and respectfully circled me, keeping me on his right, before vanishing right there.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhikkhave, etadahosi:

Then I thought,

‘kassa nu kho ahaṃ paṭhamaṃ dhammaṃ deseyyaṃ;
‘Who should I teach first of all?

ko imaṃ dhammaṃ khippameva ājānissatī'ti?

Who will quickly understand this teaching?'

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhikkhave, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

'ayaṃ kho āḷāro kālāmo paṇḍito viyatto medhāvī dīgharattaṃ apparajakkhajātiko.

'That Āḷāra Kālāma is astute, competent, clever, and has long had little dust in his eyes.

Yannūnāhaṃ āḷārassa kālāmassa paṭhamaṃ dhammaṃ deseyyaṃ.

Why don't I teach him first of all?

So imaṃ dhammaṃ khippameva ājānissatī'ti.

He'll quickly understand the teaching.'

Atha kho maṃ, bhikkhave, devatā upasaṅkamtivā etadavoca:

But a deity came to me and said,

'sattāhakālaṅkato, bhante, āḷāro kālāmo'ti.

'Sir, Āḷāra Kālāma passed away seven days ago.'

Ñāṇaṅca pana me dassanaṃ udapādi:

And knowledge and vision arose in me,

'sattāhakālaṅkato āḷāro kālāmo'ti.

'Āḷāra Kālāma passed away seven days ago.'

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhikkhave, etadahosi:

I thought,

'mahājāniyo kho āḷāro kālāmo.

'This is a great loss for Āḷāra Kālāma.

Sace hi so imaṃ dhammaṃ suṇeyya, khippameva ājāneyyā'ti.

If he had heard the teaching, he would have understood it quickly.'

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhikkhave, etadahosi:

Then I thought,

‘kassa nu kho ahaṃ paṭhamāṃ dhammāṃ deseyyaṃ;

‘Who should I teach first of all?’

ko imaṃ dhammāṃ khippameva ājānissatī’ti?

Who will quickly understand this teaching?’

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhikkhave, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘ayaṃ kho udako rāmaputto paṇḍito viyatto medhāvī dīgharattaṃ apparajakkhajātiko.

‘That Uddaka, son of Rāma, is astute, competent, clever, and has long had little dust in his eyes.

Yannūnāhaṃ udakassa rāmaputtassa paṭhamāṃ dhammāṃ deseyyaṃ.

Why don’t I teach him first of all?’

So imaṃ dhammāṃ khippameva ājānissatī’ti.

He’ll quickly understand the teaching.’

Atha kho maṃ, bhikkhave, devatā upasaṅkamtivā etadavoca:

But a deity came to me and said,

‘abhidosakālaṅkato, bhante, udako rāmaputto’ti.

‘Sir, Uddaka, son of Rāma, passed away just last night.’

Ñāṇaṅca pana me dassanaṃ udapādi:

And knowledge and vision arose in me,

‘abhidosakālaṅkato udako rāmaputto’ti.

‘Uddaka, son of Rāma, passed away just last night.’

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhikkhave, etadahosi:

I thought,

‘mahājāniyo kho udako rāmaputto.

‘This is a great loss for Uddaka.

Sace hi so imaṃ dhammaṃ suṇeyya, khippameva ājāneyyā’ti.

If he had heard the teaching, he would have understood it quickly.’

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhikkhave, etadahosi:

Then I thought,

‘kassa nu kho ahaṃ paṭhamam dhammaṃ deseyyam;

‘Who should I teach first of all?

ko imaṃ dhammaṃ khippameva ājānissatī’ti?

Who will quickly understand this teaching?’

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhikkhave, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘bahukārā kho me pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū, ye maṃ padhānapahitattam upaṭṭhahimsu.

‘The group of five mendicants were very helpful to me. They looked after me during my time of resolute striving.

Yannūnāham pañcavaggiyānam bhikkhūnam paṭhamam dhammaṃ deseyyan’ti.

Why don’t I teach them first of all?’

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhikkhave, etadahosi:

Then I thought,

‘kahaṃ nu kho etarahi pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū viharantī’ti?

‘Where are the group of five mendicants staying these days?’

Addasaṃ kho ahaṃ, bhikkhave, dibbena cakkhunā visuddhena atikkantamānusakena pañcavaggiye bhikkhū bārāṇasiyam viharante isipatane migadāye.

With clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman I saw that the group of five mendicants were staying near Benares, in the deer park at Isipatana.

Atha khvāhaṃ, bhikkhave, uruvelāyaṃ yathābhirantaṃ viharitvā yena bārāṇasī tena cārikaṃ pakkamim̃.

So, when I had stayed in Uruvelā as long as I wished, I set out for Benares.

Addasā kho maṃ, bhikkhave, upako ājīvako antarā ca gayam̃ antarā ca bodhim̃ addhānamaggappaṭipannaṃ.

While I was traveling along the road between Gaya and Bodhgaya, the Ājīvaka ascetic Upaka saw me

Disvāna maṃ etadavoca:

and said,

‘vip̃pasannāni kho te, āvuso, indriyāni, parisuddho chavivaṇṇo pariyodāto.

‘Reverend, your faculties are so very clear, and your complexion is pure and bright.

Kaṃsi tvaṃ, āvuso, uddissa pabbajito, ko vā te satthā, kassa vā tvaṃ dhammaṃ rocesī’ti?

In whose name have you gone forth, reverend? Who is your Teacher? Whose teaching do you believe in?’

Evaṃ vutte, ahaṃ, bhikkhave, upakaṃ ājīvakaṃ gāthāhi ajjhabhāsīm̃:

I replied to Upaka in verse:

‘Sabbābhibhū sabbavidūhamasmi,

‘I am the champion, the knower of all,

Sabbesu dhammesu anūpalitto;

unsullied in the midst of all things.

Sabbañjaho taṇhākkhaye vimutto,

I’ve given up all, freed through the ending of craving.

Sayaṃ abhiññāya kamuddiseyyaṃ.

Since I know for myself, whose follower should I be?

Na me ācariyo atthi,

I have no teacher.

sadiso me na vijjati;

There is no-one like me.

Sadevakasmim lokasmim,

In the world with its gods, natthi me paṭipuggalo.

I have no counterpart.

Ahañhi arahā loke,

For in this world, I am the perfected one;

aham satthā anuttaro;

I am the supreme Teacher.

Ekomhi sammāsambuddho,

I alone am fully awakened, sītibhūtosmi nibbuto.

cooled, extinguished.

Dhammacakkaṃ pavattetuṃ,

I am going to the city of Kāsi

Gacchāmi kāsinaṃ puraṃ;

to roll forth the Wheel of Dhamma.

Andhībhūtasmiṃ lokasmim,

In this world that is so blind,

Āhañchaṃ amatadundubhin'ti.

I'll beat the deathless drum!

'Yathā kho tvaṃ, āvuso, paṭijānāsi, arahasi anantajino'ti.

'According to what you claim, reverend, you ought to be the Infinite Victor.'

‘Mādisā ve jinā honti,
‘The victors are those who, like me,
ye pattā āsavakkhayaṃ;
have reached the ending of defilements.
Jitā me pāpakā dhammā,
I have conquered bad qualities, Upaka—tasmāhamupaka jino’ti.
that’s why I’m a victor.’

Evaṃ vutte, bhikkhave, upako ājīvako ‘hupeyyapāvuso’ti vatvā sīsaṃ okampetvā ummaggaṃ gahetvā pakkāmi.
When I had spoken, Upaka said: ‘If you say so, reverend.’ Shaking his head, he took a wrong turn and left.

Atha khvāhaṃ, bhikkhave, anupubbena cārikaṃ caramāno yena bārāṇasī isipatanaṃ migadāyo yena pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū tenupasaṅkamīṃ.
Traveling stage by stage, I arrived at Benares, and went to see the group of five mendicants in the deer park at Isipatana.

Addasaṃsu kho maṃ, bhikkhave, pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū dūrato āgacchantaṃ.
The group of five mendicants saw me coming off in the distance

Disvāna aññamaññaṃ saṅghapesuṃ:
and stopped each other, saying,

‘ayaṃ kho, āvuso, samaṇo gotamo āgacchati bāhulliko padhānavibbhanto āvatto bāhullāya.

‘Here comes the ascetic Gotama. He’s so indulgent; he strayed from the struggle and returned to indulgence.

So neva abhivādetabbo, na paccuṭṭhātabbo; nāssa pattacīvaraṃ paṭiggahetabbaṃ.

We shouldn’t bow to him or rise for him or receive his bowl and robe.

Api ca kho āsanam̐ ṭhapetabbam̐, sace ākaṅkhissati nisīdissatī'ti.

But we can set out a seat; he can sit if he likes.'

Yathā yathā kho aham̐, bhikkhave, upasaṅkamim̐ tathā tathā pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū nāsakkhimsu sakāya katikāya saṅṭhātum̐.

Yet as I drew closer, the group of five mendicants were unable to stop themselves as they had agreed.

Appekacce maṃ paccuggantvā pattacīvaram̐ paṭiggahesum̐, appekacce āsanam̐ paññapesum̐, appekacce pādodakam̐ upaṭṭhapesum̐.

Some came out to greet me and receive my bowl and robe, some spread out a seat, while others set out water for washing my feet.

Api ca kho maṃ nāmena ca āvusovādena ca samudācaranti.
But they still addressed me by name and as 'reverend'.

Evaṃ vutte, aham̐, bhikkhave, pañcavaggiye bhikkhū etadavocam̐:

So I said to them,

'mā, bhikkhave, tathāgataṃ nāmena ca āvusovādena ca samudācaratha.

'Mendicants, don't address me by name and as 'reverend'.

Araham̐, bhikkhave, tathāgato sammāsambuddho.

The Realized One is perfected, a fully awakened Buddha.

Odahatha, bhikkhave, sotaṃ, amatamadhigataṃ, ahamanusāsāmi, aham̐ dhammam̐ desemi.

Listen up, mendicants: I have achieved the Deathless! I shall instruct you, I will teach you the Dhamma.

Yathānusiṭṭham̐ tathā paṭipajjamānā nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agārasmā anagāriyam̐ pabbajanti, tadanuttaram̐—brahmacariyapariyosānam̐ diṭṭheva dhamme sayam̐ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharissathā'ti.

By practicing as instructed you will soon realize the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. You will live having achieved with your own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.’

Evaṃ vutte, bhikkhave, pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū maṃ etadavocuṃ:

But they said to me,

‘tāyapi kho tvaṃ, āvuso gotama, iriyāya tāya paṭipadāya tāya dukkarakārikāya nājjhagamā uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ, kiṃ pana tvaṃ etarahi bāhulliko padhānavibbhanto āvatto bāhullāya adhigamissasi uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ’ti?

‘Reverend Gotama, even by that conduct, that practice, that grueling work you did not achieve any superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones. How could you have achieved such a state now that you’ve become indulgent, strayed from the struggle and returned to indulgence?’

Evaṃ vutte, ahaṃ, bhikkhave, pañcavaggiye bhikkhū etadavocaṃ:

So I said to them,

‘na, bhikkhave, tathāgato bāhulliko, na padhānavibbhanto, na āvatto bāhullāya.

‘The Realized One has not become indulgent, strayed from the struggle and returned to indulgence.

Arahaṃ, bhikkhave, tathāgato sammāsambuddho.

The Realized One is perfected, a fully awakened Buddha.

Odahatha, bhikkhave, sotaṃ, amatamadhigataṃ, ahamanusāsāmi, ahaṃ dhammaṃ desemi.

Listen up, mendicants: I have achieved the Deathless! I shall instruct you, I will teach you the Dhamma.

Yathānusiṭṭhaṃ tathā paṭipajjamānā nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaraṃ—brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharissathā’ti.

By practicing as instructed you will soon realize the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life.’

Dutiyampi kho, bhikkhave, pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū maṃ etadavocum:

But for a second time they said to me,

‘tāyapi kho tvaṃ, āvuso gotama, iriyāya tāya paṭipadāya tāya dukkarakārikāya nājjhagamā uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ, kiṃ pana tvaṃ etarahi bāhulliko padhānavibbhanto āvatto bāhullāya adhigamissasi uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesan’ti?

‘Reverend Gotama ... you’ve returned to indulgence.’

Dutiyampi kho ahaṃ, bhikkhave, pañcavaggiye bhikkhū etadavocaṃ:

So for a second time I said to them,

‘na, bhikkhave, tathāgato bāhulliko ...pe...

‘The Realized One has not become indulgent ...’

upasampajja viharissathā’ti.

Tatīyampi kho, bhikkhave, pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū maṃ etadavocum:

But for a third time they said to me,

‘tāyapi kho tvaṃ, āvuso gotama, iriyāya tāya paṭipadāya tāya dukkarakārikāya nājjhagamā uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ, kiṃ pana tvaṃ etarahi bāhulliko padhānavibbhanto āvatto bāhullāya adhigamissasi uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesan’ti?

‘Reverend Gotama, even by that conduct, that practice, that grueling work you did not achieve any superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones. How could you have achieved such a state now that you’ve become indulgent, strayed from the struggle and returned to indulgence?’

Evaṃ vutte, ahaṃ, bhikkhave, pañcavaggiye bhikkhū etadavocaṃ:

So I said to them,

‘abhijānātha me no tumhe, bhikkhave, ito pubbe evarūpaṃ pabhāvitametā’ti?

‘Mendicants, have you ever known me to speak like this before?’

‘No hetāṃ, bhante’.

‘No sir, we have not.’

‘Arahaṃ, bhikkhave, tathāgato sammāsambuddho.

‘The Realized One is perfected, a fully awakened Buddha.

Odahatha, bhikkhave, sotaṃ, amatamadhigataṃ, ahamanusāsāmi, ahaṃ dhammaṃ desemi.

Listen up, mendicants: I have achieved the Deathless! I shall instruct you, I will teach you the Dhamma.

Yathānusiṭṭhaṃ tathā paṭipajjamānā nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaraṃ—brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharissathā’ti.

By practicing as instructed you will soon realize the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. You will live having achieved with your own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.’

Asakkhiṃ kho ahaṃ, bhikkhave, pañcavaggiye bhikkhū saññāpetuṃ.

I was able to persuade the group of five mendicants.

Dvepi sudam̃, bhikkhave, bhikkhū ovaḍāmi, tayo bhikkhū piṇḍāya caranti.

Then sometimes I advised two mendicants, while the other three went for alms.

Yaṃ tayo bhikkhū piṇḍāya caritvā āharanti tena chabbaggiyā yāpema.

Then those three would feed all six of us with what they brought back.

Tayopi sudam̃, bhikkhave, bhikkhū ovaḍāmi, dve bhikkhū piṇḍāya caranti.

Sometimes I advised three mendicants, while the other two went for alms.

Yaṃ dve bhikkhū piṇḍāya caritvā āharanti tena chabbaggiyā yāpema.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū mayā evaṃ ovadiyamānā evaṃ anusāsiyamānā attanā jātidhammā samānā jātidhamme ādīnavaṃ viditvā ajātaṃ anuttaraṃ yogakkhemaṃ nibbānaṃ pariyesamānā ajātaṃ anuttaraṃ yogakkhemaṃ nibbānaṃ ajjhagamaṃsu, attanā jarādhammā samānā jarādhamme ādīnavaṃ viditvā ajaraṃ anuttaraṃ yogakkhemaṃ nibbānaṃ pariyesamānā ajaraṃ anuttaraṃ yogakkhemaṃ nibbānaṃ ajjhagamaṃsu, attanā byādhidhammā samānā ...pe... attanā maraṇadhammā samānā ... attanā sokadhammā samānā ... attanā saṅkilesadhammā samānā saṅkilesadhamme ādīnavaṃ viditvā asaṅkiliṭṭhaṃ anuttaraṃ yogakkhemaṃ nibbānaṃ pariyesamānā asaṅkiliṭṭhaṃ anuttaraṃ yogakkhemaṃ nibbānaṃ ajjhagamaṃsu.

As the group of five mendicants were being advised and instructed by me like this, being themselves liable to be reborn, understanding the drawbacks in being liable to be reborn, they sought the unborn supreme sanctuary, extinguishment—and they found it. Being themselves liable to grow old, fall sick, die, sorrow, and become corrupted, understanding the drawbacks in these things, they sought the unaging, unailing, undying, sorrowless, uncorrupted supreme sanctuary, extinguishment—and they found it.

Ñāṇaṅca pana nesam dassanam udapādi:

Knowledge and vision arose in them:

‘akuppā no vimutti, ayamantimā jāti, natthi dāni punabbhavo’ti.

‘Our freedom is unshakable; this is our last rebirth; now there are no more future lives.’

Pañcime, bhikkhave, kāmaguṇā.

Mendicants, there are these five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Katame pañca?

What five?

Cakkhuviññeyyā rūpā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā

kāmūpasamhitā rajanīyā,

Sights known by the eye that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

sotaviññeyyā saddā ...pe...

Sounds known by the ear ...

ghānaviññeyyā gandhā ...

Smells known by the nose ...

jivhāviññeyyā rasā ...

Tastes known by the tongue ...

kāyaviññeyyā phoṭṭhabbā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā

kāmūpasamhitā rajanīyā.

Touches known by the body that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

Ime kho, bhikkhave, pañca kāmaguṇā.

These are the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Ye hi keci, bhikkhave, samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā ime pañca kāmagaṇe gathitā mucchitā ajjhopannā anādīnavadassāvino anissaraṇapaññā paribhuñjanti, te evamassu veditabbā:

There are ascetics and brahmins who enjoy these five kinds of sensual stimulation tied, infatuated, attached, blind to the drawbacks, and not understanding the escape. You should understand that they have met with calamity and disaster, and are vulnerable to the Wicked One.

‘anayamāpannā byasanamāpannā yathākāmakaraṇīyā pāpimato’.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, ārañṇako mago baddho pāsarāsīm adhisayeyya.

Suppose a deer in the wilderness was lying caught on a pile of snares.

So evamassa veditabbo:

You’d know that it

‘anayamāpanno byasanamāpanno yathākāmakaraṇīyo luddassa.

has met with calamity and disaster, and is vulnerable to the hunter.

Āgacchante ca pana ludde yena kāmaṃ na pakkamissatī’ti.

And when the hunter comes, it cannot flee where it wants.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, ārañṇako mago arañṇe pavane caramāno vissattho gacchati, vissattho tiṭṭhati, vissattho nisīdati, vissattho seyyaṃ kappeti.

Suppose there was a wild deer wandering in the forest that walked, stood, sat, and laid down in confidence.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Anāpāthagato, bhikkhave, luddassa.

Because it’s out of the hunter’s range.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamam jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

In the same way, a mendicant, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, bhikkhu andhamakāsi māraṃ apadaṃ, vadhivā māraccakkuṃ adassanaṃ gato pāpimato.

This is called a mendicant who has blinded Māra, put out his eyes without a trace, and gone where the Wicked One cannot see.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhataṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, a mendicant enters and remains in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave ...pe... pāpimato.

This is called a mendicant who has blinded Māra ...

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca viharati, sato ca sampajāno, sukhañca kāyena paṭisaṃvedeti yaṃ taṃ ariyā ācikkhanti ‘upekkhako satimā sukhavihārī’ti tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, with the fading away of rapture, a mendicant enters and remains in the third absorption, where they meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, ‘Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.’

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave ...pe... pāpimato.

This is called a mendicant who has blinded Māra ...

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sukhasa ca pahānā dukkhasa ca pahānā pubbeva somanassadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamā adukkhamasukhaṃ upekkhāsatipārisuddhiṃ catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, giving up pleasure and pain, and ending former happiness and sadness, a mendicant enters and remains in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave ...pe... pāpimato.

This is called a mendicant who has blinded Māra ...

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sabbaso rūpasaññānaṃ samatikkamā paṭighasaññānaṃ atthaṅgamā nānattasaññānaṃ amanasikārā ‘ananto ākāso’ti ākāsañcāyatanaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, a mendicant, going totally beyond perceptions of form, with the ending of perceptions of impingement, not focusing on perceptions of diversity, aware that ‘space is infinite’, enters and remains in the dimension of infinite space.

Ayam vuccati, bhikkhave ...pe... pāpimato.

This is called a mendicant who has blinded Māra ...

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sabbaso ākāsañcāyatanaṃ samatikkamma ‘anantaṃ viññānaṃ’ti viññānañcāyatanaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, a mendicant, going totally beyond the dimension of infinite space, aware that ‘consciousness is infinite’, enters and remains in the dimension of infinite consciousness.

Ayam vuccati, bhikkhave ...pe... pāpimato.

This is called a mendicant who has blinded Māra ...

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sabbaso viññānañcāyatanaṃ samatikkamma ‘natthi kiñcī’ti ākiñcaññāyatanaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, a mendicant, going totally beyond the dimension of infinite consciousness, aware that ‘there is nothing at all’, enters and remains in the dimension of nothingness.

Ayam vuccati, bhikkhave ...pe... pāpimato.

This is called a mendicant who has blinded Māra ...

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sabbaso ākiñcaññāyatanaṃ samatikkamma nevasaññānāsaññāyatanaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, a mendicant, going totally beyond the dimension of nothingness, enters and remains in the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave ...pe... pāpimato.

This is called a mendicant who has blinded Māra ...

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sabbaso nevasaññānāsaññāyatanaṃ samatikkamma saññāvedayitanirodhaṃ upasampajja viharati, paññāya cassa disvā āsavā parikkhīṇā honti.

Furthermore, a mendicant, going totally beyond the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception, enters and remains in the cessation of perception and feeling. And, having seen with wisdom, their defilements come to an end.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, bhikkhu andhamakāsi māraṃ apadaṃ, vadhivā māracakkhuṃ adassanaṃ gato pāpimato.

This is called a mendicant who has blinded Māra, put out his eyes without a trace, and gone where the Wicked One cannot see.

Tiṇṇo loke visattikaṃ vissattho gacchati, vissattho tiṭṭhati, vissattho nisīdati, vissattho seyyaṃ kappeti.

They've crossed over clinging to the world. And they walk, stand, sit, and lie down in confidence.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Anāpāthagato, bhikkhave, pāpimato”ti.

Because they're out of the Wicked One's range.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandunti.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Pāsarāsisuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ chaṭṭhaṃ.

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattḥī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena jāṇussoṇi brāhmaṇo sabbasetena vaḷavābhiraṭṭhena savatthiyā niyyāti divādivassa.

Now at that time the brahmin Jāṇussoṇi drove out from Sāvattḥī in the middle of the day in an all-white chariot drawn by mares.

Addasā kho jāṇussoṇi brāhmaṇo pilotikam paribbājakam dūratova āgacchantam.

He saw the wanderer Pilotika coming off in the distance,

Disvāna pilotikam paribbājakam etadavoca:

and said to him,

“Handa kuto nu bhavam vacchāyano āgacchati divādivassā”ti?

“So, Master Vacchāyana, where are you coming from in the middle of the day?”

“Ito hi kho aham, bho, āgacchāmi samaṇassa gotamassa santikā”ti.

“Just now, good sir, I've come from the presence of the ascetic Gotama.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññati bhavaṃ vacchāyano samaṇassa gotamassa paññāveyyattiyam paṇḍito maññe”ti.

“What do you think of the ascetic Gotama’s lucidity of wisdom? Do you think he’s astute?”

“Ko cāhaṃ, bho, ko ca samaṇassa gotamassa paññāveyyattiyam jānissāmi.

“My good man, who am I to judge the ascetic Gotama’s lucidity of wisdom?”

Sopi nūnassa tādisova yo samaṇassa gotamassa paññāveyyattiyam jāneyyā”ti.

You’d really have to be on the same level to judge his lucidity of wisdom.”

“Uḷārāya khalu bhavaṃ vacchāyano samaṇam gotamaṃ pasaṃsāya pasaṃsati”ti.

“Ko cāhaṃ, bho, ko ca samaṇam gotamaṃ pasaṃsissāmi,

“Who am I to praise the ascetic Gotama?”

pasatthapasatthova so bhavaṃ gotamo seṭṭho devamanussānan”ti.

He is praised by the praised as the best of gods and humans.”

“Kaṃ pana bhavaṃ vacchāyano atthavaṣaṃ sampassamāno samaṇe gotame evaṃ abhippasanno”ti?

“But for what reason are you so devoted to the ascetic Gotama?”

“Seyyathāpi, bho, kusalo nāgavaniko nāgavanam paviseyya.

“Suppose that a skilled elephant tracker were to enter an elephant wood.

So passeyya nāgavane mahantaṃ hatthipadaṃ, dīghato ca āyataṃ, tiriyañca vitthataṃ.

There he'd see a large elephant's footprint, long and broad.

So niṭṭhaṃ gaccheyya:

He'd draw the conclusion,

'mahā vata bho nāgo'ti.

'This must be a big bull elephant.'

Evameva kho ahaṃ, bho, yato addasaṃ samaṇe gotame cattāri padāni athāhaṃ niṭṭhamagamaṃ:

In the same way, because I saw four footprints of the ascetic Gotama I drew the conclusion,

'sammāsambuddho bhagavā, svākkhāto bhagavatā dhammo, suppaṭipanno bhagavato sāvakaśaṅgho'ti.

'The Blessed One is a fully awakened Buddha. The teaching is well explained. The Saṅgha is practicing well.'

Katamāni cattāri?

What four?

Idhāhaṃ, bho, passāmi ekacce khattiyapaṇḍite nipuṇe kataparappavāde vāavedhirūpe, te bhindantā maññe caranti paññāgatena diṭṭhigatāni.

Firstly, I see some clever aristocrats who are subtle, accomplished in the doctrines of others, hair-splitters. You'd think they live to demolish convictions with their intellect.

Te suṇanti:

They hear,

'samaṇo khalu, bho, gotamo amukaṃ nāma gāmaṃ vā nigamaṃ vā osarissatī'ti.

'So, gentlemen, that ascetic Gotama will come down to such and such village or town.'

Te pañhaṃ abhisāṅkharonti:

They formulate a question, thinking,

‘imaṃ mayam pañham samaṇam gotamaṃ upasaṅkamtivā pucchissāma.

‘We’ll approach the ascetic Gotama and ask him this question.

Evañce no puṭṭho evaṃ byākarissati, evamassa mayam vādam āropessāma.

If he answers like this, we’ll refute him like that;

Evañcepi no puṭṭho evaṃ byākarissati, evampissa mayam vādam āropessāmā’ti.

and if he answers like that, we’ll refute him like this.’

Te suṇanti:

When they hear that

‘samaṇo khalu, bho, gotamo amukaṃ nāma gāmaṃ vā nigamaṃ vā osaṭo’ti.

he has come down

Te yena samaṇo gotamo tenupasaṅkamanti.

they approach him.

Te samaṇo gotamo dhammiyā kathāya sandasseti samādapeti samuttejeti sampahaṃseti.

The ascetic Gotama educates, encourages, fires up, and inspires them with a Dhamma talk.

Te samaṇena gotamena dhammiyā kathāya sandassitā samādapitā samuttejitā sampahaṃsitā na ceva samaṇam gotamaṃ pañham pucchanti, kutossa vādam āropessanti?

They don’t even get around to asking their question to the ascetic Gotama, so how could they refute his answer?

Aññadatthu samaṇasseva gotamassa sāvakā sampajjanti.

Invariably, they become his disciples.

Yadāham, bho, samaṇe gotame imaṃ paṭhamam padam addasaṃ athāham niṭṭhamagamaṃ:

When I saw this first footprint of the ascetic Gotama, I drew the conclusion, ‘sammāsambuddho bhagavā, svākkhāto bhagavatā dhammo, suppaṭipanno bhagavato sāvakaśaṅgho’ti. (1)

‘The Blessed One is a fully awakened Buddha. The teaching is well explained. The Saṅgha is practicing well.’

Puna caparāhaṃ, bho, passāmi idhekacce brāhmaṇapaṇḍite ... pe... (2)

Furthermore, I see some clever brahmins ...

gahapatipaṇḍite ...

some clever householders ...

pe... (3)

they become his disciples.

samaṇapaṇḍite nipuṇe kataparappavāde vāavedhirūpe te bhindantā maññe caranti paññāgatena diṭṭhigatāni.

Furthermore, I see some clever ascetics who are subtle, accomplished in the doctrines of others, hair-splitters. ...

Te suṇanti:

‘samaṇo khalu bho gotamo amukaṃ nāma gāmaṃ vā nigamaṃ vā osarissatī’ti.

Te pañhaṃ abhisaṅkharonti ‘imaṃ mayaṃ pañhaṃ samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ upasaṅkamitvā pucchissāma.

Evañce no puṭṭho evaṃ byākarissati, evamassa mayaṃ vādaṃ āropessāma.

Evañcepi no puṭṭho evaṃ byākarissati, evampissa mayaṃ vādaṃ āropessāmā’ti.

Te suṇanti ‘samaṇo khalu bho gotamo amukaṃ nāma gāmaṃ vā nigamaṃ vā osaṭo’ti.

Te yena samaṇo gotamo tenupasaṅkamanti.

Te samaṇo gotamo dhammiyā kathāya sandasseti samādapeti samuttejeti sampahaṃseti.

Te samaṇena gotamena dhammiyā kathāya sandassitā samādapitā samuttejitā sampahaṃsitā na ceva samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ pañhaṃ pucchanti, kutossa vādaṃ āropessanti?

They don't even get around to asking their question to the ascetic Gotama, so how could they refute his answer?

Aññadatthu samaṇaṃyeva gotamaṃ okāsaṃ yācanti agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajjāya.

Invariably, they ask the ascetic Gotama for the chance to go forth.

Te samaṇo gotamo pabbājeti.

And he gives them the going-forth.

Te tattha pabbajitā samānā vūpakaṭṭhā appamattā ātāpino pahitattā viharantā nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaram—brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharanti.

Soon after going forth, living withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, they realize the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. They live having achieved with their own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

Te evamaṃsu:

They say,

‘manāṃ vata, bho, anassāma, manāṃ vata, bho, panassāma;

‘We were almost lost! We almost perished!

mayañhi pubbe assamaṇāva samānā samaṇamhāti paṭijānimha, abrahmaṇāva samānā brāhmaṇamhāti paṭijānimha, anarahantova samānā arahantamhāti paṭijānimha.

For we used to claim that we were ascetics, brahmins, and perfected ones, but we were none of these things.

Idāni khomha samaṇā, idāni khomha brāhmaṇā, idāni khomha arahanto'ti.

But now we really are ascetics, brahmins, and perfected ones!

Yadāhaṃ, bho, samaṇe gotame imaṃ catutthaṃ padaṃ addasaṃ athāhaṃ niṭṭhamagamaṃ:

When I saw this fourth footprint of the ascetic Gotama, I drew the conclusion,

'sammāsambuddho bhagavā, svākkhāto bhagavatā dhammo, suppaṭipanno bhagavato sāvakaśaṅho'ti. (4)

'The Blessed One is a fully awakened Buddha. The teaching is well explained. The Saṅgha is practicing well.'

Yato kho ahaṃ, bho, samaṇe gotame imāni cattāri padāni addasaṃ athāhaṃ niṭṭhamagamaṃ:

It's because I saw these four footprints of the ascetic Gotama that I drew the conclusion,

'sammāsambuddho bhagavā, svākkhāto bhagavatā dhammo, suppaṭipanno bhagavato sāvakaśaṅho'”ti.

'The Blessed One is a fully awakened Buddha. The teaching is well explained. The Saṅgha is practicing well.'”

Evaṃ vutte, jāṇussoṇi brāhmaṇo sabbasetā vaḷavābhirathā orohitvā ekaṃsaṃ uttarāsaṅgaṃ karitvā yena bhagavā tenaṅjalim paṇāmetvā tikkhattuṃ udānaṃ udānesi:

When he had spoken, Jāṇussoṇi got down from his chariot, arranged his robe over one shoulder, knelt on his right knee, raised his joined palms toward the Buddha, and expressed this heartfelt sentiment three times:

“Namo tassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa;

“Homage to that Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha!

namo tassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa;

Homage to that Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha!

namo tassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassāti.

Homage to that Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha!

Appeva nāma mayampi kadāci karahaci tena bhotā gotamena saddhiṃ samāgaccheyyāma, appeva nāma siyā kocideva kathāsallāpo”ti.

Hopefully, some time or other I’ll get to meet Master Gotama, and we can have a discussion.”

Atha kho jāṇussoṇi brāhmaṇo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamitvā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then the brahmin Jāṇussoṇi went up to the Buddha, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side,

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho jāṇussoṇi brāhmaṇo yāvatako ahoṣi pilotikena paribbājakena saddhiṃ kathāsallāpo taṃ sabbaṃ bhagavato ārocesi.

and informed the Buddha of all they had discussed.

Evaṃ vutte, bhagavā jāṇussoṇiṃ brāhmaṇaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, the Buddha said to him,

“na kho, brāhmaṇa, ettāvatā hatthipadopamo vitthārena paripūro hoti.

“Brahmin, the simile of the elephant’s footprint is not yet completed in detail.

Api ca, brāhmaṇa, yathā hatthipadopamo vitthārena paripūro hoti

As to how it is completed in detail, taṃ suṇāhi, sādhukaṃ manasi karohi, bhāsisāmī”ti.

listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bho”ti kho jāṇussoṇi brāhmaṇo bhagavato paccassosi.

“Yes sir,” Jāṇussoṇi replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Seyyathāpi, brāhmaṇa, nāgavaniko nāgavanam paviseyya.

“Suppose that an elephant tracker were to enter an elephant wood.

So passeyya nāgavane mahantaṃ hatthipadam, dīghato ca āyataṃ, tiriyañca vitthataṃ.

There they’d see a large elephant’s footprint, long and broad.

Yo hoti kusalo nāgavaniko neva tāva niṭṭham gacchati:

A skilled elephant tracker wouldn’t yet come to the conclusion,

‘mahā vata bho nāgo’ti.

‘This must be a big bull elephant.’

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why not?

Santi hi, brāhmaṇa, nāgavane vāmanikā nāma hatthiniyo mahāpadā, tāsam petam padam assati.

Because in an elephant wood there are dwarf she-elephants with big footprints, and this footprint might be one of theirs.

So tamanugacchati.

Tamanugacchanto passati nāgavane mahantaṃ hatthipadam, dīghato ca āyataṃ, tiriyañca vitthataṃ, uccā ca nisevitaṃ.

They keep following the track until they see a big footprint, long and broad, and, high up, signs of usage.

Yo hoti kusalo nāgavaniko neva tāva niṭṭhaṃ gacchati:

A skilled elephant tracker wouldn't yet come to the conclusion,

'mahā vata bho nāgo'ti.

'This must be a big bull elephant.'

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why not?

Santi hi, brāhmaṇa, nāgavane uccā kāḷārikā nāma hatthiniyo mahāpadā, tāsaṃ petaṃ padaṃ assāti.

Because in an elephant wood there are tall she-elephants with long trunks and big footprints, and this footprint might be one of theirs.

So tamanugacchati.

Tamanugacchanto passati nāgavane mahantaṃ hatthipadaṃ, dīghato ca āyataṃ, tiriyañca vitthataṃ, uccā ca nisevitaṃ, uccā ca dantehi ārañjitāni.

They keep following the track until they see a big footprint, long and broad, and, high up, signs of usage and tusk-marks.

Yo hoti kusalo nāgavaniko neva tāva niṭṭhaṃ gacchati:

A skilled elephant tracker wouldn't yet come to the conclusion,

'mahā vata bho nāgo'ti.

'This must be a big bull elephant.'

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why not?

Santi hi, brāhmaṇa, nāgavane uccā kaṇerukā nāma hatthiniyo mahāpadā, tāsaṃ petaṃ padaṃ assāti.

Because in an elephant wood there are tall and fully-grown she-elephants with big footprints, and this footprint might be one of theirs.

So tamanugacchati.

Tamanugacchanto passati nāgavane mahantaṃ hatthipadaṃ, dīghato ca āyataṃ, tiriyañca vitthataṃ, uccā ca nisevitaṃ, uccā ca dantehi ārañjitāni, uccā ca sākhābhaṅgaṃ.

They keep following the track until they see a big footprint, long and broad, and, high up, signs of usage, tusk-marks, and broken branches.

Tañca nāgaṃ passati rukkhamaḷagataṃ vā abbhokāsagataṃ vā gacchantaṃ vā tiṭṭhantaṃ vā nisinnaṃ vā nipannaṃ vā.

And they see that bull elephant walking, standing, sitting, or lying down at the root of a tree or in the open.

So niṭṭhaṃ gacchati:

Then they'd come to the conclusion,

‘ayameva so mahānāgo’ti.

‘This is that big bull elephant.’

Evameva kho, brāhmaṇa, idha tathāgato loke uppajjati arahantaṃ sammāsambuddho vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānaṃ buddho bhagavā.

In the same way, brahmin, a Realized One arises in the world, perfected, a fully awakened Buddha, accomplished in knowledge and conduct, holy, knower of the world, supreme guide for those who wish to train, teacher of gods and humans, awakened, blessed.

So imaṃ lokaṃ sadevakaṃ samāraṃ sabrahmaṃ sassamaṇabrāhmaṇiṃ paṇaṃ sadevamanussaṃ sayamaṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā pavedeti.

He realizes with his own insight this world—with its gods, Māras and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, gods and humans—and he makes it known to others.

So dhammaṃ deseti ādikalyāṇaṃ majjhekalyāṇaṃ pariyosānakalyāṇaṃ sātthaṃ sabyañjanaṃ; kevalaparipuṇṇaṃ parisuddhaṃ brahmacariyaṃ pakāseti.

He teaches Dhamma that's good in the beginning, good in the middle, and good in the end, meaningful and well-phrased. And he reveals a spiritual practice that's entirely complete and pure.

Taṃ dhammaṃ suṇāti gahapati vā gahapatiputto vā aññatarasmiṃ vā kule paccājāto.

A householder hears that teaching, or a householder's child, or someone reborn in some good family.

So taṃ dhammaṃ sutvā tathāgate saddhaṃ paṭilabhati.

They gain faith in the Realized One,

So tena saddhāpaṭilābhena samannāgato iti paṭisañcikkhati:
and reflect,

'sambādho gharāvāso rajopatho, abbhokāso pabbajjā.

'Living in a house is cramped and dirty, but the life of one gone forth is wide open.

Nayidaṃ sukaraṃ agāraṃ ajjhāvasatā ekantaparipuṇṇaṃ
ekantaparisuddhaṃ saṅkhalikhitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ carituṃ.

It's not easy for someone living at home to lead the spiritual life utterly full and pure, like a polished shell.

Yannūnāhaṃ kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajeyyan'ti.

Why don't I shave off my hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from the lay life to homelessness?'

So aparena samayena appaṃ vā bhogakkhandhaṃ pahāya mahantaṃ vā bhogakkhandhaṃ pahāya appaṃ vā ñātiparivaṭṭaṃ pahāya mahantaṃ vā ñātiparivaṭṭaṃ pahāya kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajati.

After some time they give up a large or small fortune, and a large or small family circle. They shave off hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

So evaṃ pabbajito samāno bhikkhūnaṃ sikkhāsājīvasamāpanno pāṇātipātāṃ pahāya pāṇātipātā paṭivirato hoti, nihitadaṇḍo nihitasattho lajjī dayāpanno sabbapāṇabhūtahitānukampī viharati.

Once they've gone forth, they take up the training and livelihood of the mendicants. They give up killing living creatures, renouncing the rod and the sword. They're scrupulous and kind, living full of compassion for all living beings.

Adinnādānaṃ pahāya adinnādānā paṭivirato hoti dinnādāyī dinnapāṭikaṅkhī. Athenena sucibhūtena attanā viharati.

They give up stealing. They take only what's given, and expect only what's given. They keep themselves clean by not thieving.

Abrahmacariyaṃ pahāya brahmacārī hoti ārācārī virato methunā gāmadhammā.

They give up unchastity. They are celibate, set apart, avoiding the common practice of sex.

Musāvādaṃ pahāya musāvādā paṭivirato hoti saccavādī saccasandho theto paccayiko avisaṃvādako lokassa.

They give up lying. They speak the truth and stick to the truth. They're honest and trustworthy, and don't trick the world with their words.

Pisuṇaṃ vācaṃ pahāya pisuṇāya vācāya paṭivirato hoti, ito sutvā na amutra akkhātā imesaṃ bhedāya, amutra vā sutvā na imesaṃ akkhātā amūsaṃ bhedāya. Iti bhinnānaṃ vā sandhātā sahitānaṃ vā anuppadātā, samaggārāmo samaggarato samagganandī samaggakaraṇiṃ vācaṃ bhāsītā hoti.

They give up divisive speech. They don't repeat in one place what they heard in another so as to divide people against each other. Instead, they reconcile those who are divided, supporting unity, delighting in harmony, loving harmony, speaking words that promote harmony.

Pharusam vācam pahāya pharusāya vācāya paṭivirato hoti. Yā sā vācā nelā kaṇṇasukhā pemaṇiyā hadayaṅgamā porī bahujanakantā bahujanamanāpā tathārūpiṃ vācam bhāsitā hoti.

They give up harsh speech. They speak in a way that's mellow, pleasing to the ear, lovely, going to the heart, polite, likable, and agreeable to the people.

Samphappalāpaṃ pahāya samphappalāpā paṭivirato hoti kālavādī bhūtavādī atthavādī dhammavādī vinayavādī, nidhānavatim vācam bhāsitā kālena sāpadesam pariyantavatim atthasamhitam.

They give up talking nonsense. Their words are timely, true, and meaningful, in line with the teaching and training. They say things at the right time which are valuable, reasonable, succinct, and beneficial.

So bījagāmbhūtagāmasamārambhā paṭivirato hoti,
They avoid injuring plants and seeds.

ekabhattiko hoti rattūparato, virato vikālabhojanā,
They eat in one part of the day, abstaining from eating at night and at the wrong time.

naccagītavāditavisūkadassanā paṭivirato hoti,
They avoid dancing, singing, music, and seeing shows.

mālāgandhavilepanadhāraṇamaṇḍanavibhūsanatṭhānā paṭivirato hoti,
They avoid beautifying and adorning themselves with garlands, perfumes, and makeup.

uccāsayanamahāsayanā paṭivirato hoti,
They avoid high and luxurious beds.

jātarūparajatapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti,
They avoid receiving gold and money,

āmakadhaññaṇapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti,
raw grains,

āmakamaṃsapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti,
raw meat,

itthikumārikapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti,
women and girls,

dāsidāspaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti,
male and female bondservants,

ajeḷakapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti,
goats and sheep,

kukkuṭasūkarapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti,
chickens and pigs,

hatthigavāssavaḷavapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti,
elephants, cows, horses, and mares,

khettavatthupaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti,
and fields and land.

dūteyyapahiṇagamanānuyogā paṭivirato hoti,
They avoid running errands and messages;

kayavikkayā paṭivirato hoti,
buying and selling;

tulākūṭakaṃsakūṭamānakūṭā paṭivirato hoti,
falsifying weights, metals, or measures;

ukkoṭanavañcananikatisāciyogā paṭivirato hoti,
bribery, fraud, cheating, and duplicity;

chedanavadhabandhanaviparāmosaālopasahasākārā paṭivirato hoti.
mutilation, murder, abduction, banditry, plunder, and violence.

So santuṭṭho hoti kāyaparihārikena cīvarena kucchiparihārikena piṇḍapātena. So yena yeneva pakkamati samādāyeva pakkamati.

They're content with robes to look after the body and alms-food to look after the belly. Wherever they go, they set out taking only these things.

Seyyathāpi nāma pakkhī sakuṇo yena yeneva ḍeti sapattabhārova ḍeti;

They're like a bird: wherever it flies, wings are its only burden.

evameva bhikkhu santuṭṭho hoti kāyaparihārikena cīvarena kucchiparihārikena piṇḍapātena. So yena yeneva pakkamati samādāyeva pakkamati.

In the same way, a mendicant is content with robes to look after the body and alms-food to look after the belly. Wherever they go, they set out taking only these things.

So iminā ariyena sīlakkhandhena samannāgato ajjhataṃ anavajjasukhaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti.

When they have this entire spectrum of noble ethics, they experience a blameless happiness inside themselves.

So cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā na nimittaggāhī hoti nānubyañjanaggāhī.

When they see a sight with their eyes, they don't get caught up in the features and details.

Yatvādhikaraṇameṇaṃ cakkhundriyaṃ asaṃvutaṃ viharantaṃ abhijjhādomanassā pāpakā akusalā dhammā anvāssaveyyuṃ tassa saṃvarāya paṭipajjati, rakkhati cakkhundriyaṃ, cakkhundriye saṃvaraṃ āpajjati.

If the faculty of sight were left unrestrained, bad unskillful qualities of desire and aversion would become overwhelming. For this reason, they practice restraint, protecting the faculty of sight, and achieving its restraint.

Sotena saddaṃ sutvā ...pe...

When they hear a sound with their ears ...

ghānena gandhaṃ ghāyitvā ...

When they smell an odor with their nose ...

jivhāya rasam sāyivā ...

When they taste a flavor with their tongue ...

kāyena phoṭṭhabbam phusivā ...

When they feel a touch with their body ...

manasā dhammam viññāya na nimittaggāhī hoti nānubyañjanaggāhī.

When they know a thought with their mind, they don't get caught up in the features and details.

Yatvādhikaraṇamenam manindriyam asaṃvutaṃ viharantaṃ abhijjhādomanassā pāpakā akusalā dhammā anvāssaveyyum tassa saṃvarāya paṭipajjati, rakkhati manindriyam, manindriye saṃvaram āpajjati.

If the faculty of mind were left unrestrained, bad unskillful qualities of desire and aversion would become overwhelming. For this reason, they practice restraint, protecting the faculty of mind, and achieving its restraint.

So iminā ariyena indriyasamvarena samannāgato ajjhataṃ abyāsekasukham paṭisamvedeti.

When they have this noble sense restraint, they experience an unsullied bliss inside themselves.

So abhikkante paṭikkante sampajānakārī hoti, ālokite vilokite sampajānakārī hoti, samiñjite pasārite sampajānakārī hoti, saṅghāṭipattacīvaradhāraṇe sampajānakārī hoti, asite pīte khāyite sāyite sampajānakārī hoti, uccārapassāvakamme sampajānakārī hoti, gate ṭhite nisinne sutte jāgarite bhāsīte tuṅhībhave sampajānakārī hoti.

They act with situational awareness when going out and coming back; when looking ahead and aside; when bending and extending the limbs; when bearing the outer robe, bowl and robes; when eating, drinking, chewing, and tasting; when urinating and defecating; when walking, standing, sitting, sleeping, waking, speaking, and keeping silent.

So iminā ca ariyena sīlakkhandhena samannāgato, imāya ca ariyāya santuṭṭhiyā samannāgato iminā ca ariyena indriyasaṁvarena samannāgato, iminā ca ariyena satisampajaññaena samannāgato

When they have this noble spectrum of ethics, this noble contentment, this noble sense restraint, and this noble mindfulness and situational awareness, vivittaṁ senāsanam bhajati araññaṁ rukkhamūlam pabbataṁ kandaram giriguham susānam vanapattham abbhokāsam palālapuñjam.

they frequent a secluded lodging—a wilderness, the root of a tree, a hill, a ravine, a mountain cave, a charnel ground, a forest, the open air, a heap of straw.

So pacchābhattaṁ piṇḍapātaṭikkanto nisīdati pallaṅkam ābhujitvā, ujum kāyam paṇidhāya, parimukham satim upaṭṭhapetvā.

After the meal, they return from alms-round, sit down cross-legged with their body straight, and establish mindfulness right there.

So abhijjam loke pahāya vigatābhijjhena cetasā viharati, abhijjhāya cittaṁ parisodheti.

Giving up desire for the world, they meditate with a heart rid of desire, cleansing the mind of desire.

Byāpādapadosam pahāya abyāpannacitto viharati, sabbapāṇabhūtahitānukampī byāpādapadosā cittaṁ parisodheti.

Giving up ill will and malevolence, they meditate with a mind rid of ill will, full of compassion for all living beings, cleansing the mind of ill will.

Thinamiddhaṃ pahāya vigatathinamiddho viharati ālokasaññī sato sampajāno, thinamiddhā cittaṃ parisodheti.

Giving up dullness and drowsiness, they meditate with a mind rid of dullness and drowsiness, perceiving light, mindful and aware, cleansing the mind of dullness and drowsiness.

Uddhaccakukkuccaṃ pahāya anuddhato viharati, ajjhattaṃ vūpasantacitto uddhaccakukkuccā cittaṃ parisodheti.

Giving up restlessness and remorse, they meditate without restlessness, their mind peaceful inside, cleansing the mind of restlessness and remorse.

Vicikicchaṃ pahāya tiṇṇavicikiccho viharati akathaṅkathī kusalesu dhammesu, vicikicchāya cittaṃ parisodheti.

Giving up doubt, they meditate having gone beyond doubt, not undecided about skillful qualities, cleansing the mind of doubt.

So ime pañca nīvaraṇe pahāya cetaso upakkilese paññāya dubbalīkaṇe,

They give up these five hindrances, corruptions of the heart that weaken wisdom.

vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Then, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, they enter and remain in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

The Longer Simile of the Elephant's Footprint

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho āyasmā sāriputto bhikkhū āmantesi:

There Sāriputta addressed the mendicants,

“āvuso bhikkhave”ti.

“Reverends, mendicants!”

“Āvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato sāriputtassa paccassosum.

“Reverend,” they replied.

Āyasmā sāriputto etadavoca:

Sāriputta said this:

“Seyyathāpi, āvuso, yāni kānici jaṅgalānaṃ paṇānaṃ padajātāni sabbāni tāni hatthipade samodhānaṃ gacchanti, hatthipadaṃ tesam aggamakkhāyati yadidaṃ mahantattena;

“The footprints of all creatures that walk can fit inside an elephant's footprint, so an elephant's footprint is said to be the biggest of them all.

evameva kho, āvuso, ye keci kusalā dhammā sabbete catūsu ariyasaccesu saṅghaṃ gacchanti.

In the same way, all skillful qualities can be included in the four noble truths.

Katamesu catūsu?

What four?

Dukkhe ariyasacce, dukkhasamudaye ariyasacce, dukkhanirodhe ariyasacce, dukkhanirodhagāminiyā paṭipadāya ariyasacce.

The noble truths of suffering, the origin of suffering, the cessation of suffering, and the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering.

Katamañcāvuso, dukkhaṃ ariyasaccaṃ?

And what is the noble truth of suffering?

Jātipi dukkhā, jarāpi dukkhā, maraṇampi dukkhaṃ, sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsāpi dukkhā, yampicchaṃ na labhati tampi dukkhaṃ; saṅkhittena, pañcupādānakkhandhā dukkhā.

Rebirth is suffering; old age is suffering; death is suffering; sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress are suffering; not getting what you wish for is suffering. In brief, the five grasping aggregates are suffering.

Katame cāvuso, pañcupādānakkhandhā?

And what are the five grasping aggregates?

Seyyathidaṃ—rūpupādānakkhandho, vedanupādānakkhandho, saññupādānakkhandho, saṅkhārupādānakkhandho, viññāṇupādānakkhandho.

They are as follows: the grasping aggregates of form, feeling, perception, choices, and consciousness.

Katamo cāvuso, rūpupādānakkhandho?

And what is the grasping aggregate of form?

Cattāri ca mahābhūtāni, catunnañca mahābhūtānaṃ upādāya rūpaṃ.

The four primary elements, and form derived from the four primary elements.

Katamā cāvuso, cattāro mahābhūtā?

And what are the four primary elements?

Pathavīdhātu, āpodhātu, tejodhātu, vāyodhātu.

The elements of earth, water, fire, and air.

Katamā cāvuso, pathavīdhātu?

And what is the earth element?

Pathavīdhātu siyā ajjhattikā, siyā bāhirā.

The earth element may be interior or exterior.

Katamā cāvuso, ajjhattikā pathavīdhātu?

And what is the interior earth element?

Yaṃ ajjhattaṃ paccattaṃ kakkhaḷaṃ kharigataṃ upādinnaṃ, seyyathidaṃ—

Anything hard, solid, and organic that's internal, pertaining to an individual. This includes:

kesā lomā nakhā dantā taco maṃsaṃ nhāru aṭṭhi aṭṭhimiñjaṃ vakkaṃ hadayaṃ yakanāṃ kilomakāṃ pihakāṃ papphāsaṃ antaṃ antaguṇaṃ udariyaṃ karīsaṃ, yaṃ vā panaññampi kiñci ajjhattaṃ paccattaṃ kakkhaḷaṃ kharigataṃ upādinnaṃ.

head hair, body hair, nails, teeth, skin, flesh, sinews, bones, bone marrow, kidneys, heart, liver, diaphragm, spleen, lungs, intestines, mesentery, undigested food, feces, or anything else hard, solid, and organic that's internal, pertaining to an individual.

Ayaṃ vuccatāvuso, ajjhattikā pathavīdhātu.

This is called the interior earth element.

Yā ceva kho pana ajjhattikā pathavīdhātu, yā ca bāhirā pathavīdhātu, pathavīdhātūvesā.

The interior earth element and the exterior earth element are just the earth element.

‘Taṃ netam mama, nesohamasmi, na meso attā’ti—evametam yathābhūtam sammappaññāya daṭṭhabbam.

This should be truly seen with right understanding like this: ‘This is not mine, I am not this, this is not my self.’

Evametam yathābhūtam sammappaññāya disvā pathavīdhātuyā nibbindati, pathavīdhātuyā cittaṃ virājeti.

When you truly see with right understanding, you grow disillusioned with the earth element, detaching the mind from the earth element.

Hoti kho so, āvuso, samayo yaṃ bāhirā āpodhātu pakuppati.

There comes a time when the exterior water element flares up.

Antarahitā tasmim samaye bāhirā pathavīdhātu hoti.

At that time the exterior earth element vanishes.

Tassā hi nāma, āvuso, bāhirāya pathavīdhātuyā tāva mahallikāya aniccatā paññāyissati, khayadhammatā paññāyissati, vayadhammatā paññāyissati, vipariṇāmadhammatā paññāyissati.

So for all its great age, the earth element will be revealed as impermanent, liable to end, vanish, and perish.

Kiṃ panimassa mattaṭṭhakassa kāyassa taṇhupādinnaṃ ‘ahanti vā mamanti vā asmī’ti vā? Atha khvāssa notevettha hoti.

What then of this short-lived body derived from craving? Rather than take it to be ‘I’ or ‘mine’ or ‘I am’, they still just consider it to be none of these things.

Tañce, āvuso, bhikkhum pare akkosanti paribhāsanti rosentī vihesenti, so evam pajānāti:

If others abuse, attack, harass, and trouble that mendicant, they understand:

‘uppannā kho me ayam sotasamphassajā dukkhavedanā.

‘This painful feeling born of ear contact has arisen in me.

Sā ca kho paṭicca, no apaṭicca.

That’s dependent, not independent.

Kim paṭicca?

Dependent on what?

Phassaṃ paṭicca’.

Dependent on contact.’

So phasso aniccoti passati, vedanā aniccāti passati, saññā aniccāti passati, saṅkhārā aniccāti passati, viññāṇaṃ aniccanti passati.

They see that contact, feeling, perception, choices, and consciousness are impermanent.

Tassa dhātārammaṇameva cittaṃ pakkhandati pasīdati santiṭṭhati adhimuccati.

Based on that element alone, their mind becomes eager, confident, settled, and decided.

Tañce, āvuso, bhikkhuṃ pare aniṭṭhehi akantehi amanāpehi samudācaranti—

Others might treat that mendicant with disliking, loathing, and detestation, pāṇisamphassenapi leḍḍusamphassenapi daṇḍasamphassenapi satthasamphassenapi.

striking them with fists, stones, sticks, and swords.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand:

‘tathābhūto kho ayaṃ kāyo yathābhūtasmiṃ kāye pāṇisamphassāpi kamanti, leḍḍusamphassāpi kamanti, daṇḍasamphassāpi kamanti, satthasamphassāpi kamanti.

‘This body is such that fists, stones, sticks, and swords strike it.

Vuttaṃ kho panetaṃ bhagavatā kakacūpamovāde:

But the Buddha has said in the Simile of the Saw:

“ubhatodaṇḍakena cepi, bhikkhave, kakacena corā ocarakā aṅgamaṅgāni okanteyyuraṃ, tatrāpi yo mano padūseyya na me in me.’

Seyyathāpi, āvuso, suṇisā sasuraṃ disvā saṃvijjati saṃvegaṃ āpajjati;

They’re like a daughter-in-law who stirs up a sense of urgency when they see their father-in-law.

evameva kho, āvuso, tassa ce bhikkhuno evaṃ buddhaṃ anussarato, evaṃ dhammaṃ anussarato, evaṃ saṅghaṃ anussarato, upekkhā kusalanissitā na saṅṭhāti, so tena saṃvijjati saṃvegaṃ āpajjati:

‘alābhā vata me, na vata me lābhā; dulladdhaṃ vata me, na vata me suladdhaṃ, yassa me evaṃ buddhaṃ anussarato evaṃ dhammaṃ anussarato, evaṃ saṅghaṃ anussarato, upekkhā kusalanissitā na saṅṭhātī’ti.

Tassa ce, āvuso, bhikkhuno evaṃ buddhaṃ anussarato, evaṃ dhammaṃ anussarato, evaṃ saṅghaṃ anussarato upekkhā kusalanissitā saṅṭhāti, so tena attamano hoti.

But if, while recollecting the Buddha, the teaching, and the Saṅgha in this way, equanimity based on the skillful does become stabilized in them, they’re happy with that.

Ettāvatāpi kho, āvuso, bhikkhuno bahukataṃ hoti.

At this point, much has been done by that mendicant.

Katamā cāvuso, āpodhātu?

And what is the water element?

Āpodhātu siyā ajjhattikā, siyā bāhirā.

The water element may be interior or exterior.

Katamā cāvuso, ajjhattikā āpodhātu?

And what is the interior water element?

Yaṃ ajjhattaṃ paccattaṃ āpo āpogataṃ upādinnaṃ, seyyathidaṃ—

Anything that’s water, watery, and organic that’s internal, pertaining to an individual. This includes:

pittaṃ semhaṃ pubbo lohitaṃ sedo medo assu vasā kheḷo siṅghāṇikā lasikā muttaṃ, yaṃ vā panaññaṃpi kiñci ajjhattaṃ paccattaṃ āpo āpogataṃ upādinnaṃ—

bile, phlegm, pus, blood, sweat, fat, tears, grease, saliva, snot, synovial fluid, urine, or anything else that's water, watery, and organic that's internal, pertaining to an individual.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso, ajjhattikā āpodhātu.

This is called the interior water element.

Yā ceva kho pana ajjhattikā āpodhātu yā ca bāhirā āpodhātu, āpodhātūvesā.

The interior water element and the exterior water element are just the water element.

'Taṃ netaṃ mama, nesohamasmi, na meso attā'ti evametaṃ yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya daṭṭhabbaṃ.

This should be truly seen with right understanding like this: 'This is not mine, I am not this, this is not my self.'

Evametaṃ yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya disvā āpodhātuyā nibbindati, āpodhātuyā cittaṃ virājeti.

When you truly see with right understanding, you grow disillusioned with the water element, detaching the mind from the water element.

Hoti kho so, āvuso, samayo yaṃ bāhirā āpodhātu pakuppati.

There comes a time when the exterior water element flares up.

Sā gāmampi vahati, nigamampi vahati, nagarampi vahati, janapadampi vahati, janapadapadesampi vahati.

It sweeps away villages, towns, cities, countries, and regions.

Hoti kho so, āvuso, samayo yaṃ mahāsamudde pañcayojanasatikānipi udakāni ogacchanti, chayojanasatikānipi udakāni ogacchanti, sattayojanasatikānipi udakāni ogacchanti.

There comes a time when the water in the ocean sinks down a hundred leagues, or two, three, four, five, six, up to seven hundred leagues.

Hoti kho so, āvuso, samayo yaṃ mahāsamudde sattatālampi udakaṃ saṅṭhāti, chattālampi udakaṃ saṅṭhāti, pañcatālampi udakaṃ saṅṭhāti, catuttālampi udakaṃ saṅṭhāti, titālampi udakaṃ saṅṭhāti, dvitālampi udakaṃ saṅṭhāti, tālamattampi udakaṃ saṅṭhāti.

There comes a time when the water in the ocean stands just seven palm trees deep, or six, five, four, three, two, or even just one palm tree deep.

Hoti kho so, āvuso, samayo yaṃ mahāsamudde sattaporisampi udakaṃ saṅṭhāti, chapporisampi udakaṃ saṅṭhāti, pañcaporisampi udakaṃ saṅṭhāti, catupporisampi udakaṃ saṅṭhāti, tiporisampi udakaṃ saṅṭhāti, dviporisampi udakaṃ saṅṭhāti, porisamattampi udakaṃ saṅṭhāti.

There comes a time when the water in the ocean stands just seven fathoms deep, or six, five, four, three, two, or even just one fathom deep.

Hoti kho so, āvuso, samayo yaṃ mahāsamudde aḍḍhaporisampi udakaṃ saṅṭhāti, kaṭimattampi udakaṃ saṅṭhāti, jāṇukamattampi udakaṃ saṅṭhāti, goppakamattampi udakaṃ saṅṭhāti.

There comes a time when the water in the ocean stands just half a fathom deep, or waist deep, or knee deep, or even just ankle deep.

Hoti kho so, āvuso, samayo, yaṃ mahāsamudde aṅgulipabbatemanamattampi udakaṃ na hoti.

There comes a time when there isn't enough water in the ocean even to wet the tip of your finger.

Tassā hi nāma, āvuso, bāhirāya āpodhātuyā tāva mahallikāya aniccatā paññāyissati, khayadhammatā paññāyissati, vayadhammatā paññāyissati, vipariṇāmadhammatā paññāyissati.

So for all its great age, the water element will be revealed as impermanent, liable to end, vanish, and perish.

Kim panimassa mattatṭhakassa kāyassa taṇhupādinnaṣṣa

If, while recollecting the Buddha, the teaching, and the Saṅgha in this way, equanimity based on the skillful does become stabilized in them, they're happy with that.

Ettāvatāpi kho, āvuso, bhikkhuno bahukataṃ hoti.
At this point, much has been done by that mendicant.

Katamā cāvuso, tejodhātu?

Tejodhātu siyā ajjhattikā, siyā bāhirā.
The fire element may be interior or exterior.

Katamā cāvuso, ajjhattikā tejodhātu?
And what is the interior fire element?

Yaṃ ajjhattaṃ paccattaṃ tejo tejogataṃ upādinnaṃ, that which warms, that which ages, that which heats you up when feverish, that which properly digests food and drink, or anything else that's fire, fiery, and organic that's internal, pertaining to an individual.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso, ajjhakkā tejjodhātu.

This is called the interior fire element.

Yā ceva kho pana ajjhakkā tejjodhātu yā ca bāhirā tejjodhātu, tejjodhātūvesā.

The interior fire element and the exterior fire element are just the fire element.

'Taṃ netāṃ mama, nesohamasmi, na meso attā'ti evametaṃ yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya daṭṭhabbaṃ.

This should be truly seen with right understanding like this: 'This is not mine, I am not this, this is not my self.'

Evametaṃ yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya disvā tejjodhātuyā nibbindati, tejjodhātuyā cittaṃ virājeti.

When you truly see with right understanding, you grow disillusioned with the fire element, detaching the mind from the fire element.

Hoti kho so, āvuso, samayo yaṃ bāhirā tejjodhātu pakuppati.

There comes a time when the exterior fire element flares up.

Sā gāmampi dahati, nigamampi dahati, nagarampi dahati, janapadampi dahati, janapadapadesampi dahati.

It burns up villages, towns, cities, countries, and regions until Sā haritantaṃ vā panthantaṃ vā selantaṃ vā udakantaṃ vā ramaṇīyaṃ vā bhūmibhāgaṃ āgamma anāhārā nibbāyati.

it reaches a green field, a roadside, a cliff's edge, a body of water, or cleared parkland, where it's extinguished for lack of fuel.

Hoti kho so, āvuso, samayo yaṃ kukkuṭapattenapi nhārudaddulenapi aggiraṃ gavesanti.

There comes a time when they go looking for a fire, taking just chicken feathers and strips of sinew as kindling.

Tassā hi nāma, āvuso, bāhirāya tejodhātuyā tāva mahallikāya aniccatā paññāyissati, khayadhammatā paññāyissati, vayadhammatā paññāyissati, vipariṇāmadhammatā paññāyissati.

So for all its great age, the fire element will be revealed as impermanent, liable to end, vanish, and perish.

Kim panimassa mattaṭṭhakassa kāyassa taṇhupādinnassa ‘ahanti vā mamanti vā asmī’ti vā?

What then of this short-lived body derived from craving? Rather than take it to be ‘I’ or ‘mine’ or ‘I am’, they still just consider it to be none of these things. ...

Atha khvāssa notevettha hoti ...pe... tassa ce, āvuso, bhikkhuno evaṃ buddhaṃ anussarato evaṃ dhammaṃ anussarato evaṃ saṅghaṃ anussarato upekkhā kusalanissitā saṅghāti, so tena attamano hoti.

If, while recollecting the Buddha, the teaching, and the Saṅgha in this way, equanimity based on the skillful does become stabilized in them, they’re happy with that.

Ettāvatāpi kho, āvuso, bhikkhuno bahukataṃ hoti.

At this point, much has been done by that mendicant.

Katamā cāvuso, vāyodhātu?

And what is the air element?

Vāyodhātu siyā ajjhattikā, siyā bāhirā.

The air element may be interior or exterior.

Katamā cāvuso, ajjhattikā vāyodhātu?

And what is the interior air element?

Yaṃ ajjhattaṃ paccattaṃ vāyo vāyogataṃ upādinnaṃ, seyyathidaṃ—

Anything that’s wind, windy, and organic that’s internal, pertaining to an individual. This includes:

uddhaṅgamā vātā, adhogamā vātā, kucchisayā vātā, koṭṭhāsaya vātā, aṅgamaṅgānusārino vātā, assāso passāso iti, yaṃ vā panaññampi kiñci ajjhattaṃ paccattaṃ vāyo vāyogataṃ upādinnaṃ—winds that go up or down, winds in the belly or the bowels, winds that flow through the limbs, in-breaths and out-breaths, or anything else that's wind, windy, and organic that's internal, pertaining to an individual.

ayaṃ vuccatāvuso, ajjhattikā vāyodhātu.

This is called the interior air element.

Yā ceva kho pana ajjhattikā vāyodhātu, yā ca bāhirā vāyodhātu, vāyodhāturesā.

The interior air element and the exterior air element are just the air element.

'Taṃ netāṃ mama nesohamasmi na meso attā'ti evametaṃ yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya daṭṭhabbaṃ.

This should be truly seen with right understanding like this: 'This is not mine, I am not this, this is not my self.'

Evametaṃ yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya disvā vāyodhātuyā nibbindati vāyodhātuyā cittaṃ virājeti.

When you truly see with right understanding, you reject the air element, detaching the mind from the air element.

Hoti kho so, āvuso, samayo yaṃ bāhirā vāyodhātu pakuppati.

There comes a time when the exterior air element flares up.

Sā gāmampi vahati, nigamampi vahati, nagarampi vahati, janapadampi vahati, janapadapadesampi vahati.

It sweeps away villages, towns, cities, countries, and regions.

Hoti kho so, āvuso, samayo yaṃ gimhānaṃ pacchime māse tālavaṇṭhenapi vidhūpanenapi vātaṃ pariyesanti, ossavanepi tiṇāni na icchanti.

There comes a time, in the last month of summer, when they look for wind by using a palm-leaf or fan, and even the grasses in the drip-fringe of a thatch roof don't stir.

Tassā hi nāma, āvuso, bāhirāya vāyodhātuyā tāva mahallikāya aniccatā paññāyissati, khayadhammatā paññāyissati, vayadhammatā paññāyissati, vipariṇāmadhammatā paññāyissati.

So for all its great age, the air element will be revealed as impermanent, liable to end, vanish, and perish.

Kiṃ panimassa mattaṭṭhakassa kāyassa taṇhupādinnassa 'ahanti vā mamanti vā asmī'ti vā? Atha khvāssa notevettha hoti. What then of this short-lived body derived from craving? Rather than take it to be 'I' or 'mine' or 'I am', they still just consider it to be none of these things. ...

Tañce, āvuso, bhikkhum pare akkosanti paribhāsanti rosentī vihesenti.

If others abuse, attack, harass, and trouble that mendicant, they understand:

So evaṃ pajānāti, uppannā kho me ayaṃ sotasaṃphassaajā dukkhā vedanā.

'This painful feeling born of ear contact has arisen in me.

Sā ca kho paṭicca, no apaṭicca.

That's dependent, not independent.

Kiṃ paṭicca?

Dependent on what?

Phassaṃ paṭicca.

Dependent on contact.

Sopi phasso aniccoti passati, vedanā aniccāti passati, saññā aniccāti passati, saṅkhārā aniccāti passati, viññāṇaṃ aniccanti passati.

They see that contact, feeling, perception, choices, and consciousness are impermanent.

Tassa dhātārammaṇameva cittaṃ pakkhandati pasīdati santiṭṭhati adhimuccati.

Based on that element alone, their mind becomes eager, confident, settled, and decided.

Tañce, āvuso, bhikkhuṃ pare aniṭṭhehi akantehi amanāpehi samudācaranti, pāṇisamphassenapi leḍḍusamphassenapi daṇḍasamphassenapi satthasamphassenapi.

Others might treat that mendicant with disliking, loathing, and detestation, striking them with fists, stones, sticks, and swords.

So evaṃ pajānāti ‘tathābhūto kho ayaṃ kāyo yathābhūtasmiṃ kāye pāṇisamphassāpi kamanti, leḍḍusamphassāpi kamanti, daṇḍasamphassāpi kamanti, satthasamphassāpi kamanti.

They understand: ‘This body is such that fists, stones, sticks, and swords strike it.

Vuttaṃ kho panetaṃ bhagavatā kakacūpamovāde

“ubhatodaṇḍakena cepi, bhikkhave, kakacena corā ocarakā

But the Buddha has said in the Simile of the Saw: “Even if low-down bandits were to sever you limb from limb, anyone who had a thought of hate on that account would not be following my instructions.”

Āraddhaṃ kho pana me vīriyaṃ bhavissati asallīnaṃ, upaṭṭhitā

My energy shall be roused up and unflagging, my mindfulness established and lucid, my body tranquil and undisturbed, and my mind immersed in samādhi.

Kāmaṃ dāni imasmimṃ kāye pāṇisamphassāpi kamantu,

Gladly now, let fists, stones, sticks, and swords strike this body! For this is how the instructions of the Buddhas are followed.’

Tassa ce, āvuso, bhikkhuno evaṃ buddhaṃ anussarato, evaṃ dhammaṃ anussarato, evaṃ saṅghaṃ anussarato upekkhā kusalanissitā na saṅṭhāti.

While recollecting the Buddha, the teaching, and the Saṅgha in this way, equanimity based on the skillful may not become stabilized in them.

So tena saṃvijjati saṃvegaṃ āpajjati:

In that case they stir up a sense of urgency:

‘alābhā vata me, na vata me lābhā; dulladdhaṃ vata me, na vata me suladdhaṃ.

‘It’s my loss, my misfortune,

Yassa me evaṃ buddhaṃ anussarato, evaṃ dhammaṃ anussarato, evaṃ saṅghaṃ anussarato upekkhā kusalanissitā na saṅṭhātī’ti.

that while recollecting the Buddha, the teaching, and the Saṅgha in this way, equanimity based on the skillful does not become stabilized in me.’

Seyyathāpi, āvuso, suṇisā sasuraṃ disvā saṃvijjati saṃvegaṃ āpajjati;

They’re like a daughter-in-law who stirs up a sense of urgency when they see their father-in-law.

evameva kho, āvuso, tassa ce bhikkhuno evaṃ buddhaṃ anussarato, evaṃ dhammaṃ anussarato, evaṃ saṅghaṃ anussarato, upekkhā kusalanissitā na saṅṭhāti.

So tena saṃvijjati saṃvegaṃ āpajjati:

‘alābhā vata me, na vata me lābhā; dulladdhaṃ vata me, na vata me suladdhaṃ.

Yassa me evaṃ buddhaṃ anussarato, evaṃ dhammaṃ anussarato, evaṃ saṅghaṃ anussarato, upekkhā kusalanissitā na saṅṭhātī’ti.

Tassa ce, āvuso, bhikkhuno evaṃ buddhaṃ anussarato, evaṃ dhammaṃ anussarato, evaṃ saṅghaṃ anussarato, upekkhā kusalanissitā saṅṭhāti, so tena attamano hoti.

But if, while recollecting the Buddha, the teaching, and the Saṅgha in this way, equanimity based on the skillful does become stabilized in them, they're happy with that.

Ettāvatāpi kho, āvuso, bhikkhuno bahukataṃ hoti.

At this point, much has been done by that mendicant.

Seyyathāpi, āvuso, kaṭṭhañca paṭicca valliñca paṭicca tiṇaṅca paṭicca mattikañca paṭicca ākāso parivārīto agārantveva saṅkhaṃ gacchati;

When a space is enclosed by sticks, creepers, grass, and mud it becomes known as a 'building'.

evameva kho, āvuso, aṭṭhiñca paṭicca nhāruñca paṭicca maṃsañca paṭicca cammañca paṭicca ākāso parivārīto rūpantveva saṅkhaṃ gacchati.

In the same way, when a space is enclosed by bones, sinews, flesh, and skin it becomes known as a 'form'.

The form produced in this way is included in the grasping aggregate of form. The feeling, perception, choices, and consciousness produced in this way are each included in the corresponding grasping aggregate.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand:

‘evaṃhi kira imesaṃ pañcannaṃ upādānakkhandhānaṃ saṅgho sannipāto samavāyo hoti.

‘So this is how there comes to be inclusion, gathering together, and joining together into these five grasping aggregates.

Vuttaṃ kho panetaṃ bhagavatā:

Idamavoca āyasmā sāriputto.

That’s what Venerable Sāriputta said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū āyasmato sāriputtassa bhāsitaṃ

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what Sāriputta said.

Mahāhatthipadopamasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ aṭṭhamaṃ.

The Longer Simile of the Heartwood

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava rājagahe viharati gijjhakūṭe pabbate acirapakkante devadatte.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, on the Vulture’s Peak Mountain, not long after Devadatta had left.

Tatra kho bhagava devadattam ārabha bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha spoke to the mendicants about Devadatta:

“Idha, bhikkhave, ekacco kulaputto saddhā agāasmā anagāriyam pabbajito hoti:

“Mendicants, take the case of a gentleman who has gone forth from the lay life to homelessness, thinking,

‘otiṇṇomhi jātiyā jarāya maraṇena sokehi paridevehi dukkhehi domanassehi upāyāsehi, dukkhotiṇṇo dukkhapareto,

‘I’m swamped by rebirth, old age, and death; by sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress. I’m swamped by suffering, mired in suffering.

appeva nāma imassa kevalassa dukkhakkhandhassa antakiriya paññāyethā’ti.

Hopefully I can find an end to this entire mass of suffering.’

So evam pabbajito samāno lābhasakkārasilokaṃ abhinibbatteti.

When they’ve gone forth they generate possessions, honor, and popularity.

So tena lābhasakkārasilokena attamano hoti paripuññasankappo.

They're happy with that, and they've got all they wished for.

So tena lābhasakkārasilokena attānukkaṃseti paraṃ vambheti:
And they glorify themselves and put others down because of that:

‘ahamasmi lābhasakkārasilokavā, ime panaññe bhikkhū appaññātā appesakkhā’ti.

‘I’m the one with possessions, honor, and popularity. These other mendicants are obscure and insignificant.’

So tena lābhasakkārasilokena majjati pamajjati pamādaṃ āpajjati, pamatto samāno dukkhaṃ viharati.

And so they become indulgent and fall into negligence regarding those possessions, honor, and popularity. And being negligent they live in suffering.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, puriso sārattiko sāragavesī

Tameṇaṃ cakkhumā puriso disvā evaṃ vadeyya:

That’s why he passed them over, cut off the branches and leaves, and departed imagining they were heartwood.

and stopped short with that.

Idha pana, bhikkhave, ekacco kulaputto saddhā agāasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito hoti:

Next, take a gentleman who has gone forth from the lay life to homelessness ...

So evaṃ pabbajito samāno lābhasakkārasilokaṃ abhinibbatteti.

When they’ve gone forth they generate possessions, honor, and popularity.

So tena lābhasakkārasilokena na attamano hoti na paripuṇṇasaṅkappo.

They’re not happy with that, and haven’t got all they wished for.

So tena lābhasakkārasilokena na attānukkaṃseti, na paraṃ vambheti.

They don’t glorify themselves and put others down on account of that.

So tena lābhasakkārasilokena na majjati nappamajjati na pamādaṃ āpajjati.

Nor do they become indulgent and fall into negligence regarding those possessions, honor, and popularity.

Appamatto samāno sīlasampadaṃ ārādheti.

Being diligent, they become accomplished in ethics.

So tāya sīlasampadāya attamano hoti paripuṇṇasaṅkappo.

They’re happy with that, and they’ve got all they wished for.

So tāya sīlasampadāya attānukkaṃseti, paraṃ vambheti:

And they glorify themselves and put others down on account of that:

‘ahamasmi sīlavā kalyāṇadhammo, ime panaññe bhikkhū dussīlā pāpadhammā’ti.

‘I’m the one who is ethical, of good character. These other mendicants are unethical, of bad character.’

So tāya sīlasampadāya majjati pamajjati pamādaṃ āpajjati, pamatto samāno dukkhaṃ viharati.

And so they become indulgent and fall into negligence regarding their accomplishment in ethics. And being negligent they live in suffering.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, puriso sārattiko sāragavesī sārapiyesanaṃ caramāno mahato rukkhassa tiṭṭhato sāravato atikkammeva sāraṃ atikkamma phegguṃ atikkamma tacam, papaṭikaṃ chetvā ādāya pakkameyya ‘sāraṃ’ti maññaṃāno.

Tamenam cakkhumā puriso disvā evam vadeyya:

If a person with good eyesight saw him they’d say:

‘aññāsi vatāyam bhavam puriso sāram, aññāsi pheggum, aññāsi tacam, aññāsi papaṭikam, aññāsi sākḥāpalāsam.

‘This gentleman knows what heartwood, softwood, bark, shoots, or branches and leaves are.

Katame ca, brāhmaṇa, dhammā ñāṇadassanena uttaritarā ca paṇītatarā ca?

And what are those things that are better and finer than knowledge and vision?

Idha, brāhmaṇa, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Take a mendicant who, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Ayampi kho, brāhmaṇa, dhammo ñāṇadassanena uttaritaro ca paṇītataro ca.

This is something better and finer than knowledge and vision.

Puna caparaṃ, brāhmaṇa, bhikkhu vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhataṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, a mendicant enters and remains in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Ayampi kho, brāhmaṇa, dhammo ñāṇadassanena uttaritaro ca paṇītataro ca.

This too is something better and finer than knowledge and vision.

Puna caparaṃ, brāhmaṇa, bhikkhu pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca viharati, sato ca sampajāno sukhañca kāyena paṭisaṃvedeti, yaṃ taṃ ariyā ācikkhanti: ‘upekkhako satimā sukhavihārī’ti tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, with the fading away of rapture, a mendicant enters and remains in the third absorption, where they meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, ‘Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.’

Ayampi kho, brāhmaṇa, dhammo ñāṇadassanena uttaritaro ca paṇītataro ca.

This too is something better and finer than knowledge and vision.

Puna caparam̐, brāhmaṇa, bhikkhu sukhasa ca pahānā dukkhasa ca pahānā pubbeva somanassadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamā adukkhamasukhaṃ upekkhāsatipārisuddhiṃ catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, giving up pleasure and pain, and ending former happiness and sadness, a mendicant enters and remains in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

Ayampi kho, brāhmaṇa, dhammo ñāṇadassanena uttaritaro ca paṇītataro ca.

This too is something better and finer than knowledge and vision.

Puna caparam̐, brāhmaṇa, bhikkhu sabbaso rūpasaññānaṃ samatikkamā paṭighasaññānaṃ atthaṅgamā nānattasaññānaṃ amanasikārā ‘ananto ākāso’ti ākāsañcāyatanaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, a mendicant, going totally beyond perceptions of form, with the ending of perceptions of impingement, not focusing on perceptions of diversity, aware that ‘space is infinite’, enters and remains in the dimension of infinite space.

Ayampi kho, brāhmaṇa, dhammo ñāṇadassanena uttaritaro ca paṇītataro ca.

This too is something better and finer than knowledge and vision.

Puna caparam̐, brāhmaṇa, bhikkhu sabbaso ākāsañcāyatanaṃ samatikkamma ‘anantaṃ viññāṇa’ti viññāṇañcāyatanaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, a mendicant, going totally beyond the dimension of infinite space, aware that ‘consciousness is infinite’, enters and remains in the dimension of infinite consciousness.

Ayampi kho, brāhmaṇa, dhammo ñāṇadassanena uttaritaro ca paṇītataro ca.

This too is something better and finer than knowledge and vision.

Puna caparaṃ, brāhmaṇa, bhikkhu sabbaso viññāṇañcāyatanaṃ samatikkamma 'natthi kiñcī'ti ākiñcaññāyatanaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, a mendicant, going totally beyond the dimension of infinite consciousness, aware that 'there is nothing at all', enters and remains in the dimension of nothingness.

Ayampi kho, brāhmaṇa, dhammo ñāṇadassanena uttaritaro ca pañītataro ca.

This too is something better and finer than knowledge and vision.

Puna caparaṃ, brāhmaṇa, bhikkhu sabbaso ākiñcaññāyatanaṃ samatikkamma nevasaññānāsaññāyatanaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, take a mendicant who, going totally beyond the dimension of nothingness, enters and remains in the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception.

Ayampi kho, brāhmaṇa, dhammo ñāṇadassanena uttaritaro ca pañītataro ca.

This too is something better and finer than knowledge and vision.

Puna caparaṃ, brāhmaṇa, bhikkhu sabbaso nevasaññānāsaññāyatanaṃ samatikkamma saññāvedayitanirodhaṃ upasampajja viharati, paññāya cassa disvā āsavā parikkhīṇā honti.

Furthermore, take a mendicant who, going totally beyond the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception, enters and remains in the cessation of perception and feeling. And, having seen with wisdom, their defilements come to an end.

Ayampi kho, brāhmaṇa, dhammo ñāṇadassanena uttaritaro ca pañītataro ca.

This too is something better and finer than knowledge and vision.

Ime kho, brāhmaṇa, dhammā ñāṇadassanena uttaritarā ca pañītatarā ca.

The Shorter Discourse at Gosiṅga

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṃ nātike viharati giṅjakāvasathe.

At one time the Buddha was staying at Nādika in the brick house.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā ca anuruddho āyasmā ca nandiyo āyasmā ca kimilo gosiṅgasālavanadāye viharanti.

Now at that time the venerables Anuruddha, Nandiya, and Kimbila were staying in the sal forest park at Gosiṅga.

Atha kho bhagavaṃ sāyanhasamayam paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yena gosiṅgasālavanadāyo tenupasaṅkami.

Then in the late afternoon, the Buddha came out of retreat and went to that park.

Addasā kho dāyapālo bhagavantam dūratova āgacchantam.

The park keeper saw the Buddha coming off in the distance

Disvāna bhagavantam etadavoca:

and said to him,

“mā, samaṇa, etam dāyam pāvisi.

“Don’t come into this park, ascetic.

Santettha tayo kulaputtā attakāmarūpā viharanti.

There are three gentlemen who love themselves staying here.

Mā tesam aphāsumakāsī”ti.

Don't disturb them."

Assosi kho āyasmā anuruddho dāyapālassa bhagavatā saddhiṃ mantayamānassa.

Anuruddha heard the park keeper conversing with the Buddha,

Sutvāna dāyapālaṃ etadavoca:

and said to him,

“mā, āvuso dāyapāla, bhagavantam vāresi.

“Don't keep the Buddha out, good park keeper!

Satthā no bhagavā anuppatto”ti.

Our Teacher, the Blessed One, has arrived.”

Atha kho āyasmā anuruddho yenāyasmā ca nandiyo āyasmā ca kimilo tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantañca nandiyaṃ āyasmantañca kimilaṃ etadavoca:

Then Anuruddha went to Nandiya and Kimbila, and said to them, “abhikkamathāyasmanto, abhikkamathāyasmanto, satthā no bhagavā anuppatto”ti.

“Come forth, venerables, come forth! Our Teacher, the Blessed One, has arrived!”

Atha kho āyasmā ca anuruddho āyasmā ca nandiyo āyasmā ca kimilo bhagavantam paccuggantvā—

Then Anuruddha, Nandiya, and Kimbila came out to greet the Buddha.

eko bhagavato pattacīvaram paṭiggahesi, eko āsanam paññapesi, eko pādodakam upaṭṭhāpesi.

One received his bowl and robe, one spread out a seat, and one set out water for washing his feet.

Nisīdi bhagavā paññatte āsane.

He sat on the seat spread out

Nisajja kho bhagavā pāde pakkhālesi.

and washed his feet.

Tepi kho āyasmanto bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu.

Those venerables bowed and sat down to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho āyasmantaṃ anuruddhaṃ bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said to Anuruddha,

“Kacci vo, anuruddhā, khamanīyaṃ, kacci yāpanīyaṃ, kacci piṇḍakena na kilamathā”ti?

“I hope you’re keeping well, Anuruddha and friends; I hope you’re alright. And I hope you’re having no trouble getting alms-food.”

“Khamanīyaṃ, bhagavā, yāpanīyaṃ, bhagavā; na ca mayaṃ, bhante, piṇḍakena kilamāmā”ti.

“We’re alright, Blessed One, we’re getting by. And we have no trouble getting alms-food.”

“Kacci pana vo, anuruddhā, samaggā sammodamānā avivadamānā khīrodakībhūtā aññamaññaṃ piyacakkhūhi sampassantā viharathā”ti?

“I hope you’re living in harmony, appreciating each other, without quarreling, blending like milk and water, and regarding each other with kindly eyes?”

“Taggha mayaṃ, bhante, samaggā sammodamānā avivadamānā khīrodakībhūtā aññamaññaṃ piyacakkhūhi sampassantā viharāmā”ti.

“Indeed, sir, we live in harmony like this.”

“Yathā kathaṃ pana tumhe, anuruddhā, samaggā sammodamānā avivadamānā khīrodakībhūtā aññamaññaṃ piyacakkhūhi sampassantā viharathā”ti?

“But how do you live this way?”

“Idha mayhaṃ, bhante, evaṃ hoti:

“In this case, sir, I think,

‘lābhā vata me, suladdhaṃ vata me,

‘I’m fortunate, so very fortunate, yohaṃ evarūpehi sabrahmacārīhi saddhiṃ viharāmi’ti.

to live together with spiritual companions such as these.’

Then in the late afternoon, Venerable Mahāmoggallāna came out of retreat, went to Venerable Mahākassapa, and said,

“āyāmāvuso, kassapa, yenāyasmā sāriputto

“Come, Reverend Kassapa, let’s go to Venerable Sāriputta to hear the teaching.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho āyasmā mahākassapo āyasmato mahāmoggallānassa paccassosi.

“Yes, reverend,” Mahākassapa replied.

Atha kho āyasmā ca mahāmoggallāno āyasmā ca mahākassapo āyasmā ca anuruddho yenāyasmā sāriputto tenupasaṅkamimsu dhammassavanāya.

Then, together with Venerable Anuruddha, they went to Sāriputta to hear the teaching.

“Reverend Sāriputta, it’s a mendicant who is very learned, remembering and keeping what they’ve learned. These teachings are good in the beginning, good in the middle, and good in the end, meaningful and well-phrased, describing a spiritual practice that’s entirely full and pure. They are very learned in such teachings, remembering them, reinforcing them by recitation, mentally scrutinizing them, and comprehending them theoretically.

However, listen to me also as to what kind of mendicant would beautify this sal forest park at Gosiṅga.

Idha, sāriputta, bhikkhu pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātaṇṅikanto nisīdati pallaṅkaṃ ābhujitvā ujum kāyaṃ paṇidhāya parimukhaṃ satim upaṭṭhapetvā:

It’s a mendicant who, after the meal, returns from alms-round, sits down cross-legged with their body straight, and establishes mindfulness right there, thinking:

‘na tāvāhaṃ imaṃ pallaṅkaṃ bhindissāmi yāva me nānupādāya āsavehi cittaṃ vimuccissatī’ti.

‘I will not break this sitting posture until my mind is freed from the defilements by not grasping!’

Evarūpena kho, sāriputta, bhikkhunā gosiṅgasālavanam sobheyā”ti.

That’s the kind of mendicant who would beautify this park.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te āyasmanto bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, those venerables were happy with what the Buddha said.

The Longer Discourse on the Cowherd

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta’s Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Ekādasahi, bhikkhave, aṅgehi samannāgato gopālako abhabbo gogaṇam pariharitum phātirū kātum.

“Mendicants, a cowherd with eleven factors can’t maintain and expand a herd of cattle.

Katamehi ekādasahi?

What eleven?

Idha, bhikkhave, gopālako na rūpaññū hoti, na lakkhaṇakusalo hoti, na āsāṭikaṃ hāretā hoti, na vaṇaṃ paṭicchādetā hoti, na dhūmaṃ kattā hoti, na titthaṃ jānāti, na pītaṃ jānāti, na vīthiṃ jānāti, na gocarakusalo hoti anavasesadohī ca hoti. Ye te usabhā gopitaro gopariṇāyakā te na atirekapūjāya pūjetā hoti.

It's when a cowherd doesn't know form, is unskilled in characteristics, doesn't pick out flies' eggs, doesn't dress wounds, doesn't smoke out pests, doesn't know the ford, doesn't know satisfaction, doesn't know the trail, is not skilled in pastures, milks dry, and doesn't show extra respect to the bulls who are fathers and leaders of the herd.

Imehi kho, bhikkhave, ekādasahi aṅgehi samannāgato gopālako abhabbo gogaṇaṃ pariharitum phātiṃ kātum.

A cowherd with these eleven factors can't maintain and expand a herd of cattle.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, ekādasahi dhammehi samannāgato bhikkhu abhabbo imasmiṃ dhammavinaye vuddhiṃ virūhiṃ vepullaṃ āpajjitum.

In the same way, a mendicant with eleven qualities can't achieve growth, improvement, or maturity in this teaching and training.

Katamehi ekādasahi?

What eleven?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na rūpaññū hoti, na lakkhaṇakusalo hoti, na āsāṭikaṃ hāretā hoti, na vaṇaṃ paṭicchādetā hoti, na dhūmaṃ kattā hoti, na titthaṃ jānāti, na pītaṃ jānāti, na vīthiṃ jānāti, na gocarakusalo hoti, anavasesadohī ca hoti. Ye te bhikkhū therā rattaññū cirapabbajitā saṅghapitaro saṅghapariṇāyakā te na atirekapūjāya pūjetā hoti.

It's when a mendicant doesn't know form, is unskilled in characteristics, doesn't pick out flies' eggs, doesn't dress wounds, doesn't smoke out pests, doesn't know the ford, doesn't know satisfaction, doesn't know the trail, is not skilled in pastures, milks dry, and doesn't show extra respect to senior mendicants of long standing, long gone forth, fathers and leaders of the Saṅgha.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na rūpaññū hoti?

And how does a mendicant not know form?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu yaṃ kiñci rūpaṃ sabbaṃ rūpaṃ
'cattāri mahābhūtāni, catunnaṅca mahābhūtānaṃ upādāyarūpan'ti yathābhūtaṃ nappajānāti.

It's when a mendicant doesn't truly understand that all form is the four primary elements, or form derived from the four primary elements.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na rūpaññū hoti. (1)

That's how a mendicant doesn't know form.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na lakkhaṇakusalo hoti?

And how is a mendicant not skilled in characteristics?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu 'kammalakkhaṇo bālo, kammalakkhaṇo paṇḍito'ti yathābhūtaṃ nappajānāti.

It's when a mendicant doesn't understand that a fool is characterized by their deeds, and an astute person is characterized by their deeds.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na lakkhaṇakusalo hoti. (2)

That's how a mendicant isn't skilled in characteristics.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na āsāṭikaṃ hāretā hoti?

And how does a mendicant not pick out flies' eggs?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu uppannaṃ kāmavitakkaṃ adhivāseti, nappajahati na vinodeti na byantī karoti na anabhāvaṃ gameti.
Uppannaṃ byāpādavittakkaṃ ...pe... uppannaṃ vihimsāvitakkaṃ ...pe... uppannuppanne pāpake akusale dhamme adhivāseti, nappajahati na vinodeti na byantī karoti na anabhāvaṃ gameti.

It's when a mendicant tolerates a sensual, malicious, or cruel thought that has arisen. They tolerate any bad, unskillful qualities that have arisen. They don't give them up, get rid of them, eliminate them, and obliterate them.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na āsāṭīkaṃ hāretā hoti. (3)

That's how a mendicant doesn't pick out flies' eggs.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na vaṇaṃ paṭicchādetā hoti?

And how does a mendicant not dress wounds?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā nimittaggāhī hoti anubyañjanaggāhī.

When a mendicant sees a sight with their eyes, they get caught up in the features and details.

Yatvādhikaraṇameṇaṃ cakkhundriyaṃ asaṃvutaṃ viharantaṃ abhijjhādomanassā pāpakā akusalā dhammā anvāssaveyyuṃ, tassa saṃvarāya na paṭipajjati, na rakkhati cakkhundriyaṃ, cakkhundriye na saṃvaraṃ āpajjati.

Since the faculty of sight is left unrestrained, bad unskillful qualities of desire and aversion become overwhelming. They don't practice restraint, they don't protect the faculty of sight, and they don't achieve its restraint.

Sotena saddaṃ sutvā ...pe...

When they hear a sound with their ears ...

know a thought with their mind, they get caught up in the features and details.

Yatvādhikaraṇamenam manindriyam asaṃvutaṃ viharantaṃ abhijjhādomanassā pāpakā akusalā dhammā anvāssaveyyum, tassa saṃvarāya na paṭipajjati, na rakkhati manindriyam, manindriye na saṃvaram āpajjati.

Since the faculty of the mind is left unrestrained, bad unskillful qualities of desire and aversion become overwhelming. They don't practice restraint, they don't protect the faculty of the mind, and they don't achieve its restraint.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na vaṇam paṭicchādetā hoti. (4)
That's how a mendicant doesn't dress wounds.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na dhūmam kattā hoti?

And how does a mendicant not smoke out pests?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu yathāsutaṃ yathāpariyattaṃ dhammaṃ na vitthārena paresaṃ desetā hoti.

It's when a mendicant doesn't teach others the Dhamma in detail as they learned and memorized it.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na dhūmam kattā hoti. (5)

That's how a mendicant doesn't smoke out pests.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na titthaṃ jānāti?

And how does a mendicant not know the ford?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu ye te bhikkhū bahussutā āgatāgamā dhammadharā vinayadharā mātikādhara, te kālena kālam upasaṅkamtivā na paripucchati, na paripaṅhati:

It's when a mendicant doesn't from time to time go up to those mendicants who are very learned—knowledgeable in the scriptures, who have memorized the teachings, the texts on monastic training, and the outlines—and ask them questions:

'idaṃ, bhante, kathaṃ?

'Why, sir, does it say this?

Imassa ko attho'ti?

What does that mean?'

Tassa te āyasmanto avivaṭaṅceva na vivaranti, anuttānīkatañca na uttānīkaronti, anekavihitesu ca kaṅkhāṭhānīyesu dhammesu kaṅkhaṃ na paṭivinodenti.

Those venerables don't clarify what is unclear, reveal what is obscure, and dispel doubt regarding the many doubtful matters.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na titthaṃ jānāti. (6)

That's how a mendicant doesn't know the ford.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na pītaṃ jānāti?

And how does a mendicant not know satisfaction?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu tathāgatappavedite dhammavinaye desiyamāne na labhati atthavedaṃ, na labhati dhammavedaṃ, na labhati dhammūpasamhitaṃ pāmojjaṃ.

It's when a mendicant, when the teaching and training proclaimed by the Realized One are being taught, finds no joy in the meaning and the teaching, and finds no joy connected with the teaching.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na pītaṃ jānāti. (7)

That's how a mendicant doesn't know satisfaction.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na vīthiṃ jānāti?

And how does a mendicant not know the trail?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu ariyaṃ aṭṭhaṅgikaṃ maggaṃ yathābhūtaṃ nappajānāti.

It's when a mendicant doesn't truly understand the noble eightfold path.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na vīthiṃ jānāti. (8)

That's how a mendicant doesn't know the trail.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na gocarakusalo hoti?

And how is a mendicant not skilled in pastures?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu cattāro satipaṭṭhāne yathābhūtaṃ nappajānāti.

It's when a mendicant doesn't truly understand the four kinds of mindfulness meditation.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na gocarakusalo hoti. (9)

That's how a mendicant is not skilled in pastures.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu anavasesadohī hoti?

And how does a mendicant milk dry?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhuṃ saddhā gahapatikā abhihaṭṭhuṃ pavārenti cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhārehi, tatra bhikkhu mattaṃ na jānāti paṭiggahaṇāya.

It's when a mendicant is invited by a householder to accept robes, alms-food, lodgings, and medicines and supplies for the sick, and that mendicant doesn't know moderation in accepting.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu anavasesadohī hoti. (10)

That's how a mendicant milks dry.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu ye te bhikkhū therā rattaññū cirapabbajitā saṅghapitaro saṅghapariṇāyakā te na atirekapūjāya pūjetā hoti?

And how does a mendicant not show extra respect to senior mendicants of long standing, long gone forth, fathers and leaders of the Saṅgha?

That's how a mendicant doesn't show extra respect to senior mendicants of long standing, long gone forth, fathers and leaders of the Saṅgha.

The Shorter Discourse on the Cowherd

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṃ vajjisu viharati ukkacelāyam gaṅgāya nadiyā tīre.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Vajjis near Ukkacelā on the bank of the Ganges river.

Tatra kho bhagavaṃ bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavaṃ etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Bhūtapubbam, bhikkhave, māgadhako gopālako duppaññajātiko, vassānam pacchime māse saradasamaye, asamavekkhitvā gaṅgāya nadiyā orimaṃ tīraṃ, asamavekkhitvā pārimaṃ tīraṃ, atittheneva gāvo patāresi uttaraṃ tīraṃ suvidehānaṃ.

“Once upon a time, mendicants, there was an unintelligent Magadhan cowherd. In the last month of the rainy season, without inspecting the near shore or the far shore, he drove his cattle across a place with no ford on the Ganges river to the land of the Suvidehans on the northern shore.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, gāvo majjhegaṅgāya nadiyā sote āmaṇḍaliyaṃ karitvā tattheva anayabyasanaṃ āpajjimsu.

But the cattle bunched up in mid-stream and came to ruin right there.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Tathā hi so, bhikkhave, māgadhako gopālako duppaññajātiko, vassānaṃ pacchime māse saradasamaye, asamavekkhitvā gaṅgāya nadiyā orimaṃ tīraṃ, asamavekkhitvā pārimaṃ tīraṃ, atittheneva gāvo patāresi uttaraṃ tīraṃ suvidehānaṃ.

Because the unintelligent cowherd failed to inspect the shores before driving the cattle across at a place with no ford.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, ye hi keci samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā akusalā imassa lokassa akusalā parassa lokassa, akusalā māradheyassa akusalā amāradheyassa, akusalā maccudheyassa akusalā amaccudheyassa, tesaṃ ye sotabbaṃ saddahātabbaṃ maññissanti, tesaṃ taṃ bhavissati dīgharattaṃ ahitāya dukkhāya.

In the same way, there are ascetics and brahmins who are unskilled in this world and the other world, unskilled in Māra's sovereignty and its opposite, and unskilled in Death's sovereignty and its opposite. If anyone thinks they are worth listening to and trusting, it will be for their lasting harm and suffering.

Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, māgadhako gopālako sappaññajātiko, vassānaṃ pacchime māse saradasamaye, samavekkhitvā gaṅgāya nadiyā orimaṃ tīraṃ, samavekkhitvā pārimaṃ tīraṃ, tittheneva gāvo patāresi uttaraṃ tīraṃ suvidehānaṃ.

Once upon a time, mendicants, there was an intelligent Magadhan cowherd. In the last month of the rainy season, after inspecting the near shore and the far shore, he drove his cattle across a ford on the Ganges river to the land of the Suvidehans on the northern shore.

So paṭhamam patāresi ye te usabhā gopitaro gopariṇāyakā.

First he drove across the bulls, the fathers and leaders of the herd.

Te tiriyaṃ gaṅgāya sotaṃ chetvā sotthinā pāraṃ agamaṃsu.

They breasted the stream of the Ganges and safely reached the far shore.

Athāpare patāresi balavagāvo dammagāvo.

Then he drove across the strong and tractable cattle.

Tepi tiriyaṃ gaṅgāya sotaṃ chetvā sotthinā pāraṃ agamaṃsu.

They too breasted the stream of the Ganges and safely reached the far shore.

Athāpare patāresi vacchatare vacchatariyo.

Then he drove across the bullocks and heifers.

Tepi tiriyaṃ gaṅgāya sotaṃ chetvā sotthinā pāraṃ agamaṃsu.

They too breasted the stream of the Ganges and safely reached the far shore.

Athāpare patāresi vacchake kisābalake.

Then he drove across the calves and weak cattle.

Tepi tiriyaṃ gaṅgāya sotaṃ chetvā sotthinā pāraṃ agamaṃsu.

They too breasted the stream of the Ganges and safely reached the far shore.

Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, vacchako taruṇako tāvadeva jātako mātugoravakena vuyhamāno, sopi tiriyaṃ gaṅgāya sotaṃ chetvā sotthinā pāraṃ agamāsi.

Once it happened that a baby calf had just been born. Urged on by its mother's lowing, even it managed to breast the stream of the Ganges and safely reach the far shore.

Tam kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Tathā hi so, bhikkhave, māgadhako gopālako sappaññajātiko, vassānaṃ pacchime māse saradasamaye, samavekkhitvā gaṅgāya nadiyā orimaṃ tīraṃ, samavekkhitvā pārimaṃ tīraṃ, tittheneva gāvo patāresi uttaraṃ tīraṃ suvidehānaṃ.

Because the intelligent cowherd inspected both shores before driving the cattle across at a ford.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, ye hi keci samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā kusalā imassa lokassa kusalā parassa lokassa, kusalā māradheyassa kusalā amāradheyassa, kusalā maccudheyassa kusalā amaccudheyassa, tesaṃ ye sotabbaṃ saddahātabbaṃ maññissanti, tesaṃ taṃ bhavissati dīgharattaṃ hitāya sukhāya.

In the same way, there are ascetics and brahmins who are skilled in this world and the other world, skilled in Māra's sovereignty and its opposite, and skilled in Death's sovereignty and its opposite. If anyone thinks they are worth listening to and trusting, it will be for their lasting welfare and happiness.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, ye te usabhā gopitaro gopariṇāyakā te tiriyaṃ gaṅgāya sotaṃ chetvā sotthinā pāraṃ agamaṃsu;

Just like the bulls, fathers and leaders of the herd, who crossed the Ganges to safety evameva kho, bhikkhave, ye te bhikkhū arahanto khīṇāsavā vusitavanto katakaraṇīyā ohitabhārā anuppattasadatthā parikkhīṇabhavasamyojanā sammadaññāvimuttā, te tiriyaṃ māraṃ sotaṃ chetvā sotthinā pāraṅgatā.

are the mendicants who are perfected, who have ended the defilements, completed the spiritual journey, done what had to be done, laid down the burden, achieved their own goal, utterly ended the fetters of rebirth, and are rightly freed through enlightenment. Having breasted Māra's stream, they have safely crossed over to the far shore.

Seyyathāpi te, bhikkhave, balavagāvo dammagāvo tiriyaṃ gaṅgāya sotam chetvā sotthinā pāram agamaṃsu;

Just like the strong and tractable cattle who crossed the Ganges to safety evameva kho, bhikkhave, ye te bhikkhū pañcannaṃ orambhāgiyānaṃ saṃyojanānaṃ parikkhayā opapātikā tattha parinibbāyino anāvattidhammā tasmā lokā, tepi tiriyaṃ mārasa sotam chetvā sotthinā pāram gamissanti.

are the mendicants who, with the ending of the five lower fetters, are reborn spontaneously. They're extinguished there, and are not liable to return from that world. They too, having breasted Māra's stream, will safely cross over to the far shore.

Seyyathāpi te, bhikkhave, vaccharā vacchariyo tiriyaṃ gaṅgāya sotam chetvā sotthinā pāram agamaṃsu;

Just like the bullocks and heifers who crossed the Ganges to safety evameva kho, bhikkhave, ye te bhikkhū tiṇṇaṃ saṃyojanānaṃ parikkhayā rāgadosamohānaṃ tanuttā sakadāgāmino sakideva imaṃ lokam āgantvā dukkhassantaṃ karissanti, tepi tiriyaṃ mārasa sotam chetvā sotthinā pāram gamissanti.

are the mendicants who, with the ending of three fetters, and the weakening of greed, hate, and delusion, are once-returners. They come back to this world once only, then make an end of suffering. They too, having breasted Māra's stream, will safely cross over to the far shore.

Seyyathāpi te, bhikkhave, vacchakā kisābalakā tiriyaṃ gaṅgāya sotam chetvā sotthinā pāram agamaṃsu;

Just like the calves and weak cattle who crossed the Ganges to safety evameva kho, bhikkhave, ye te bhikkhū tiṇṇaṃ saṃyojanānaṃ parikkhayā sotāpannā avinipātadhammā niyatā sambodhiparāyanā, tepi tiriyaṃ mārasa sotam chetvā sotthinā pāram gamissanti.

are the mendicants who, with the ending of three fetters are stream-enterers, not liable to be reborn in the underworld, bound for awakening. They too, having breasted Māra's stream, will safely cross over to the far shore.

Seyyathāpi so, bhikkhave, vacchako taruṇako tāvadeva jātako mātugoravakena vuyhamāno tiriyaṃ gaṅgāya sotaṃ chetvā sotthinā pāraṃ agamāsi;

Just like the baby calf who had just been born, but, urged on by its mother's lowing, still managed to cross the Ganges to safety evameva kho, bhikkhave, ye te bhikkhū dhammānusārino saddhānusārino, tepi tiriyaṃ mārassa sotaṃ chetvā sotthinā pāraṃ gamissanti.

are the mendicants who are followers of principles, followers by faith. They too, having breasted Māra's stream, will safely cross over to the far shore.

Ahaṃ kho pana, bhikkhave, kusalo imassa lokassa kusalo parassa lokassa, kusalo māradheyassa kusalo amāradheyassa, kusalo maccudheyassa kusalo amaccudheyassa. Tassa mayhaṃ, bhikkhave, ye sotabbaṃ saddahātabbaṃ maññissanti, tesaṃ taṃ bhavissati dīgharattaṃ hitāya sukhāyā”ti.

Mendicants, I am skilled in this world and the other world, skilled in Māra's sovereignty and its opposite, and skilled in Death's sovereignty and its opposite. If anyone thinks I am worth listening to and trusting, it will be for their lasting welfare and happiness.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Idaṃ vatvā sugato athāparaṃ etadavoca satthā:

Then the Holy One, the Teacher, went on to say:

The Shorter Discourse With Saccaka

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava vesāliyam viharati mahāvane
kūṭāgārasālāyam.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Vesālī, at the Great Wood, in the hall with the peaked roof.

Tena kho pana samayena saccako nigaṇṭhaputto vesāliyam paṭivasati bhassappavādako paṇḍitavādo sādhusammato bahujanassa.

Now at that time Saccaka, the son of Jain parents, was staying in Vesālī. He was a debater and clever speaker regarded as holy by many people.

So vesāliyam parisati evam vācam bhāsati:

He was telling a crowd in Vesālī,

“nāham taṃ passāmi samaṇam vā brāhmaṇam vā, saṅghim gaṇim gaṇācariyam, api arahantaṃ sammāsambuddham paṭijānamānam, yo mayā vādena vādam samāradho na saṅkampeyya na sampakampeyya na sampavedheyya, yassa na kacchehi sedā mucceyyum.

“If I was to take them on in debate, I don’t see any ascetic or brahmin—leader of an order or a community, or the teacher of a community, even one who claims to be a perfected one, a fully awakened Buddha—who would not shake and rock and tremble, sweating from the armpits.

Thūṇaṃ cepāhaṃ acetanaṃ vādena vādaṃ samārabheyyaṃ, sāpi mayā vādena vādaṃ samāraddhā saṅkampeyya sampakampeyya sampavedheyya.

Even if I took on an insentient post in debate, it would shake and rock and tremble.

Ko pana vādo manussabhūtaṃ”ti?

How much more than a human being!”

Atha kho āyasmā assaji pubbaṅhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya vesāliṃ piṇḍāya pāvisi.

Then Venerable Assaji robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Vesālī for alms.

Addasā kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto vesāliyaṃ jaṅghāvihāraṃ anucaṅkamamāno anuvicaramāno āyasmantaṃ assajim dūratova āgacchantaṃ.

As Saccaka was going for a walk he saw Assaji coming off in the distance.

Disvāna yenāyasmā assaji tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmatā assajinā saddhim sammodi.

He approached him and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodaniyaṃ kathaṃ saraṇiyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi. Ekamantaṃ ṭhito kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto āyasmantaṃ assajim etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, Saccaka stood to one side and said to Assaji, “kathaṃ pana, bho assaji, samaṇo gotamo sāvake vineti, kathaṃbhāgā ca pana samaṇassa gotamassa sāvakesu anusāsanī bahulā pavattatī”ti?

“Master Assaji, how does the ascetic Gotama guide his disciples? And how does instruction to his disciples generally proceed?”

“Evaṃ kho, aggivessana, bhagavā sāvake vineti, evaṃbhāgā ca pana bhagavato sāvakesu anusāsanī bahulā pavattati:

“Aggivessana, this is how the ascetic Gotama guides his disciples, and how instruction to his disciples generally proceeds:

‘rūpaṃ, bhikkhave, aniccaṃ, vedanā aniccā, saññā aniccā, saṅkhārā aniccā, viññāṇaṃ aniccaṃ.

‘Form, feeling, perception, choices, and consciousness are impermanent.

Rūpaṃ, bhikkhave, anattā, vedanā anattā, saññā anattā, saṅkhārā anattā, viññāṇaṃ anattā.

Form, feeling, perception, choices, and consciousness are not-self.

Sabbe saṅkhārā aniccā, sabbe dhammā anattā’ti.

All conditions are impermanent. All things are not-self.’

Evaṃ kho, aggivessana, bhagavā sāvake vineti, evaṃbhāgā ca pana bhagavato sāvakesu anusāsanī bahulā pavattati’ti.

This is how the ascetic Gotama guides his disciples, and how instruction to his disciples generally proceeds.”

“Dussutaṃ vata, bho assaji, assumha ye mayaṃ evaṃvādiṃ samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ assumha.

Appeva nāma mayaṃ kadāci karahaci tena bhotā gotamena saddhiṃ samāgaccheyyāma, appeva nāma siyā kocideva kathāsallāpo, appeva nāma tasmā pāpakā diṭṭhigatā viveceyyāmā’ti.

Hopefully, some time or other I’ll get to meet Master Gotama, and we can have a discussion. And hopefully I can dissuade him from this harmful misconception.”

Tena kho pana samayena pañcamattāni licchavisatāni santhāgāre sannipatitāni honti kenacideva karaṇīyena.

Now at that time around five hundred Licchavis were sitting together at the meeting hall on some business.

Atha kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto yena te licchavī tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā te licchavī etadavoca:

Then Saccaka went up to them and said,

“abhikkamantu bhonto licchavī, abhikkamantu bhonto licchavī, ajja me samaṇena gotamena saddhiṃ kathāsallāpo bhavissati.

“Come forth, good Licchavīs, come forth! Today I am going to have a discussion with the ascetic Gotama.

Sace me samaṇo gotamo tathā patiṭṭhissati yathā ca me ñātaññatarena sāvakena assajinā nāma bhikkhunā patiṭṭhitam, seyyathāpi nāma balavā puriso dīghalomikaṃ eḷakaṃ lomesu gahetvā ākaḍḍheyya parikaḍḍheyya samparikaḍḍheyya;

If he stands by the position stated to me by one of his well-known disciples—a mendicant named Assaji—I’ll take him on in debate and drag him to and fro and round about, like a strong man would drag a fleecy sheep to and fro and round about!

evamevāhaṃ samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ vādena vādaṃ ākaḍḍhissāmi parikaḍḍhissāmi samparikaḍḍhissāmi.

Seyyathāpi nāma balavā soṇḍikākammaḥāro mahantaṃ soṇḍikākiḷaṅjaṃ gambhīre udakarahade pakkhipitvā kaṇṇe
gahetvā ākaḍḍheyya parikaḍḍheyya samparikaḍḍheyya;

Taking him on in debate, I’ll drag him to and fro and round about, like a strong brewer’s worker would toss a large brewer’s sieve into a deep lake, grab it by the corners, and drag it to and fro and round about!

evamevāhaṃ samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ vādena vādaṃ ākaḍḍhissāmi
parikaḍḍhissāmi samparikaḍḍhissāmi.

Seyyathāpi nāma balavā soṇḍikādhutto vālaṃ kaṇṇe gahetvā odhuneyya niddhuneyya nipphoṭeyya;

Taking him on in debate, I’ll shake him down and about, and give him a beating, like a strong brewer’s mixer would grab a strainer by the corners and shake it down and about, and give it a beating!

evamevāhaṃ samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ vādena vādaṃ odhunissāmi niddhunissāmi nipphoṭṭessāmi.

Seyyathāpi nāma kuñjaro satṭhihāyano gambhīraṃ pokkharāṇiṃ ogāhetvā sāṇadhovikaṃ nāma kīḷitajātaṃ kīḷati;
I'll play a game of ear-washing with the ascetic Gotama, like a sixty-year-old elephant would plunge into a deep lotus pond and play a game of ear-washing!

evamevāhaṃ samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ sāṇadhovikaṃ maññe
kīḷitajātaṃ kīḷissāmi.

Abhikkamantu bhonto licchavī, abhikkamantu bhonto licchavī, ajja me samaṇena gotamena saddhiṃ kathāsallāpo bhavissatī”ti.

Come forth, good Licchavīs, come forth! Today I am going to have a discussion with the ascetic Gotama.”

Tatrekacce licchavī evamāhaṃsu:

At that, some of the Licchavis said,

“kiṃ samaṇo gotamo saccakassa nigaṇṭhaputtassa vādaṃ āropessati, atha kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto samaṇassa gotamassa vādaṃ āropessatī”ti?

“How can the ascetic Gotama refute Saccaka’s doctrine, when it is Saccaka who will refute Gotama’s doctrine?”

Ekacce licchavī evamāhaṃsu:

But some of the Licchavis said,

“kiṃ so bhavamāno saccako nigaṇṭhaputto yo bhagavato vādaṃ āropessati, atha kho bhagavā saccakassa nigaṇṭhaputtassa vādaṃ āropessatī”ti?

“Who is Saccaka to refute the Buddha’s doctrine, when it is the Buddha who will refute Saccaka’s doctrine?”

Atha kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto pañcamattehi licchavisatehi parivuto yena mahāvanam kūṭāgārasālā tenupasaṅkami.

Then Saccaka, escorted by the five hundred Licchavis, went to the hall with the peaked roof in the Great Wood.

Tena kho pana समयena sambahulā bhikkhū abbhokāse caṅkamanti.

At that time several mendicants were walking mindfully in the open air.

Atha kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto yena te bhikkhū tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā te bhikkhū etadavoca:

Then Saccaka went up to them and said,

“kham nu kho, bho, etarahi so bhavam gotamo viharati?”

“Gentlemen, where is Master Gotama at present?”

Dassanakāmā hi mayam tam bhavantam gotaman”ti.

For we want to see him.”

“Esa, aggivessana, bhagavā mahāvanam ajjhogāhetvā aññatarasmim rukkhamūle divāvihāram nisinno”ti.

“Aggivessana, the Buddha has plunged deep into the Great Wood and is sitting at the root of a tree for the day’s meditation.”

Atha kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto mahatiyā licchaviparisāya saddhim mahāvanam ajjhogāhetvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhim sammodi.

Then Saccaka, together with a large group of Licchavis, went to see the Buddha in the Great Wood, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyam katham sāraṇīyam vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side.

Tepi kho licchavī appekacce bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu, appekacce bhagavatā saddhim sammodiṃsu, sammodaniyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇiyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdiṃsu. Appekacce yena bhagavā tenañjalim paṇāmetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdiṃsu, appekacce bhagavato santike nāmagottaṃ sāvetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdiṃsu, appekacce tuṅhībhūtā ekamantaṃ nisīdiṃsu.

Before sitting down to one side, some of the Licchavīs bowed, some exchanged greetings and polite conversation, some held up their joined palms toward the Buddha, some announced their name and clan, while some kept silent.

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

Then Saccaka said to the Buddha,

“puccheyyāhaṃ bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ kiñcideva desaṃ, sace me bhavaṃ gotamo okāsaṃ karoti pañhassa veyyākaraṇāyā”ti.

“I’d like to ask Master Gotama about a certain point, if you’d take the time to answer.”

“Puccha, aggivessana, yadākaṅkhasī”ti.

“Ask what you wish, Aggivessana.”

“Kathaṃ pana bhavaṃ gotamo sāvake vineti, kathaṃbhāgā ca pana bhoto gotamassa sāvakesu anusāsanī bahulā pavattatī”ti?

“How does the ascetic Gotama guide his disciples? And how does instruction to his disciples generally proceed?”

“Evaṃ kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, sāvake vinemi, evaṃbhāgā ca pana me sāvakesu anusāsanī bahulā pavattati:

“This is how I guide my disciples, and how instruction to my disciples generally proceeds:

‘rūpaṃ, bhikkhave, aniccaṃ, vedanā aniccā, saññā aniccā, saṅkhārā aniccā, viññāṇaṃ aniccaṃ.

‘Form, feeling, perception, choices, and consciousness are impermanent.

Rūpaṃ, bhikkhave, anattā, vedanā anattā, saññā anattā, saṅkhārā anattā, viññāṇaṃ anattā.

Form, feeling, perception, choices, and consciousness are not-self.

Sabbe saṅkhārā aniccā, sabbe dhammā anattā'ti.

All conditions are impermanent. All things are not-self.'

Evaṃ kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, sāvake vinemi, evaṃbhāgā ca pana me sāvakesu anusāsanī bahulā pavattatī'ti.

This is how I guide my disciples, and how instruction to my disciples generally proceeds.”

“Upamā maṃ, bho gotama, paṭibhātī”ti.

“A simile strikes me, Master Gotama.”

“Paṭibhātu taṃ, aggivessanā”ti bhagavā avoca.

“Then speak as you feel inspired,” said the Buddha.

“Seyyathāpi, bho gotama, ye kecime bījagāmahūtagāmā vuddhiṃ virūḷhiṃ vepullaṃ āpajjanti, sabbe te pathaviṃ nissāya pathaviyaṃ paṭiṭṭhāya.

“All the plants and seeds that achieve growth, increase, and maturity do so depending on the earth and grounded on the earth.

Evamate bījagāmahūtagāmā vuddhiṃ virūḷhiṃ vepullaṃ āpajjanti.

Seyyathāpi vā pana, bho gotama, ye kecime balakaraṇīyā kammantā karīyanti, sabbe te pathaviṃ nissāya pathaviyaṃ paṭiṭṭhāya.

All the hard work that gets done depends on the earth and is grounded on the earth.

Evamate balakaraṇīyā kammantā karīyanti.

Evameva kho, bho gotama, rūpattāyaṃ purisapuggalo rūpe paṭiṭṭhāya puññaṃ vā apuññaṃ vā pasavati, vedanattāyaṃ

purisapuggalo vedanāyaṃ patiṭṭhāya puññaṃ vā apuññaṃ vā pasavati, saññattāyaṃ purisapuggalo saññāyaṃ patiṭṭhāya puññaṃ vā apuññaṃ vā pasavati, saṅkhārattāyaṃ purisapuggalo saṅkhāresu patiṭṭhāya puññaṃ vā apuññaṃ vā pasavati, viññāṇattāyaṃ purisapuggalo viññāṇe patiṭṭhāya puññaṃ vā apuññaṃ vā pasavati”ti.

In the same way, an individual’s self is form. Grounded on form they make good and bad choices. An individual’s self is feeling ... perception ... choices ... consciousness. Grounded on consciousness they make good and bad choices.”

“Nanu tvaṃ, aggivessana, evaṃ vadesi:

“Aggivessana, are you not saying this:

‘rūpaṃ me attā, vedanā me attā, saññā me attā, saṅkhārā me attā, viññāṇaṃ me attā’”ti?

“Ahañhi, bho gotama, evaṃ vadāmi:

“Indeed, Master Gotama, that is what I am saying.

‘rūpaṃ me attā, vedanā me attā, saññā me attā, saṅkhārā me attā, viññāṇaṃ me attā’ti, ayaṅca mahatī janatā”ti.

And this big crowd agrees with me!”

“Kiñhi te, aggivessana, mahatī janatā karissati?

“What has this big crowd to do with you?

lñgha tvaṃ, aggivessana, sakaññeva vādaṃ nibbeṭṭhehī”ti.

Please just explain your own statement.”

“Ahañhi, bho gotama, evaṃ vadāmi:

“Then, Master Gotama, what I am saying is this:

‘rūpaṃ me attā, vedanā me attā, saññā me attā, saṅkhārā me attā, viññāṇaṃ me attā’”ti.

‘Form is my self, feeling is my self, perception is my self, choices are my self, consciousness is my self’.”

“Tena hi, aggivessana, taññevettha paṭipucchissāmi, yathā te khameyya tathā naṃ byākareyyāsi.

“Well then, Aggivessana, I’ll ask you about this in return, and you can answer as you like.

Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, aggivessana,
What do you think, Aggivessana?

vatteyya rañño khattiyassa muddhāvasittassa sakasmim vijite vaso—

Consider an anointed king such as Pasenadi of Kosala or Ajātasattu Vedehiputta of Magadha.

ghātetāyaṃ vā ghātetuṃ, jāpetāyaṃ vā jāpetuṃ, pabbājetāyaṃ vā pabbājetuṃ, seyyathāpi rañño pasenadissa kosalassa, seyyathāpi vā pana rañño māgadhassa ajātasattussa vedehiputtassā”ti?

Would they have the power in their own realm to execute, fine, or banish those who are guilty?”

“Vatteyya, bho gotama, rañño khattiyassa muddhāvasittassa sakasmim vijite vaso—

“An anointed king would have such power, Master Gotama.

ghātetāyaṃ vā ghātetuṃ, jāpetāyaṃ vā jāpetuṃ, pabbājetāyaṃ vā pabbājetuṃ, seyyathāpi rañño pasenadissa kosalassa, seyyathāpi vā pana rañño māgadhassa ajātasattussa vedehiputtassa.

Imesampi hi, bho gotama, saṅghānaṃ gaṇānaṃ—

Even federations such as the have such power in their own realm.

ghātetāyaṃ vā ghātetuṃ, jāpetāyaṃ vā jāpetuṃ, pabbājetāyaṃ vā pabbājetuṃ.

Kiṃ pana rañño khattiyassa muddhāvasittassa, seyyathāpi rañño pasenadissa kosalassa, seyyathāpi vā pana rañño māgadhassa ajātasattussa vedehiputtassa?

So of course an anointed king such as Pasenadi or Ajātasattu Vatteyya, bho gotama, vattituñca maraḥatī”ti.

would wield such power, as is their right.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, aggivessana,

“What do you think, Aggivessana?

yaṃ tvaṃ evaṃ vadesi:

When you say,

‘rūpaṃ me attā’ti, vattati te tasmim rūpe vaso—

‘Form is my self,’ do you have power over that form to say:

evaṃ me rūpaṃ hotu, evaṃ me rūpaṃ mā ahoṣī”ti?

‘May my form be like this! May it not be like that’?”

Evaṃ vutte, saccako nigaṇṭhaputto tuṅhī ahoṣi.

When he said this, Saccaka kept silent.

Dutiyampi kho bhagavā saccakaṃ nigaṇṭhaputtaṃ etadavoca:

The Buddha asked the question a second time,

“taṃ kiṃ maññasi, aggivessana, yaṃ tvaṃ evaṃ vadesi:

‘rūpaṃ me attā’ti, vattati te tasmim rūpe vaso—

evaṃ me rūpaṃ hotu, evaṃ me rūpaṃ mā ahoṣī”ti?

Dutiyampi kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto tuṅhī ahoṣi.

but Saccaka still kept silent.

Atha kho bhagavā saccakaṃ nigaṇṭhaputtaṃ etadavoca:

So the Buddha said to Saccaka,

“byākarohi dāni, aggivessana, na dāni te tuṅhībhāvassa kālo.
“Answer now, Aggivessana. Now is not the time for silence.

Yo koci, aggivessana tathāgatena yāvatatiyaṃ sahadhammikaṃ pañhaṃ puṭṭho na byākaroti, ethevassa sattadhā muddhā phalatī”ti.

If someone fails to answer a legitimate question when asked three times by the Buddha, their head explodes into seven pieces there and then.”

Tena kho pana samayena vajirapāṇi yakkho āyasaṃ vajiraṃ ādāya ādittaṃ sampajjalitaṃ sajotibhūtaṃ saccakassa nigaṇṭhaputtassa uparivehāsaṃ ṭhito hoti:

Now at that time the spirit Vajirapāṇi, taking up a burning iron thunderbolt, blazing and glowing, stood in the sky above Saccaka, thinking,

“sacāyaṃ saccako nigaṇṭhaputto bhagavatā yāvatatiyaṃ sahadhammikaṃ pañhaṃ puṭṭho na byākarissati ethevassa sattadhā muddhaṃ phālessāmī”ti.

“If this Saccaka doesn’t answer when asked a third time, I’ll blow his head into seven pieces there and then!”

Taṃ kho pana vajirapāṇiṃ yakkhaṃ bhagavā ceva passati saccako ca nigaṇṭhaputto.

And both the Buddha and Saccaka could see Vajirapāṇi.

Atha kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto bhīto saṃviggo lomahaṭṭhajāto bhagavantāmyeva tāṇaṃ gavesī bhagavantāmyeva leṇaṃ gavesī bhagavantāmyeva saraṇaṃ gavesī bhagavantaṃ
etadavoca:

Saccaka was terrified, shocked, and awestruck. Looking to the Buddha for shelter, protection, and refuge, he said, “pucchatu maṃ bhavaṃ gotamo, byākarissāmī”ti.

“Ask me, Master Gotama. I will answer.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, aggivessana,
“What do you think, Aggivessana?”

yaṃ tvaṃ evaṃ vadesi:
When you say,

‘rūpaṃ me attā’ti, vattati te tasmim rūpe vaso—
‘Form is my self,’ do you have power over that form to say:

evaṃ me rūpaṃ hotu, evaṃ me rūpaṃ mā ahoṣī’ti?
‘May my form be like this! May it not be like that?’”

“No hidaṃ, bho gotama”.
“No, Master Gotama.”

“Manasi karohi, aggivessana;
“Think about it, Aggivessana!

‘May my feeling be like this! May it not be like that?’”

“No hidaṃ, bho gotama”.
“No, Master Gotama.”

“Manasi karohi, aggivessana;

“No hidaṃ, bho gotama”.

“No, Master Gotama.”

“Manasi karohi, aggivessana;

‘May my choices be like this! May they not be like that?’”

“No hidaṃ, bho gotama”.

“No, Master Gotama.”

“Manasi karohi, aggivessana;

‘May my consciousness be like this! May it not be like that?’”

“No hidaṃ, bho gotama”.

“No, Master Gotama.”

“Aniccaṃ, bho gotama”.

“Impermanent.”

“Yaṃ panāniccaṃ dukkhaṃ vā taṃ sukhaṃ vā”ti?

“But if it's impermanent, is it suffering or happiness?”

“Dukkhaṃ, bho gotama”.

“Kiñhi no siyā, bho gotama?

“Seyyathāpi, aggivessana, puriso sārathhiko sārāgavesī sārāpariyesanam caramāno tiṅham kuṭhāriṃ ādāya vanam paviseyya.

“Suppose, Aggivessana, there was a person in need of heartwood. Wandering in search of heartwood, they’d take a sharp axe and enter a forest.

So tattha passeyya mahantaṃ kadalikkhandhaṃ ujum̐ navam̐ akukkukajātaṃ.

There they'd see a big banana tree, straight and young and grown free of defects.

Tamenam̐ mūle chindeyya, mūle chetvā agge chindeyya, agge chetvā pattavaṭṭim̐ vinibbhujeyya.

They'd cut it down at the base, cut off the top, and unroll the coiled sheaths.

So tattha pattavaṭṭim̐ vinibbhujanto pheggumpi nādhigaccheyya, kuto sāraṃ?

But they wouldn't even find sapwood, much less heartwood.

Evameva kho tvaṃ, aggivessana, mayā sakasmim̐ vāde samanuyuññijyamāno samanugāhiyamāno samanubhāsiyamāno ritto tuccho aparaddho.

In the same way, when pursued, pressed, and grilled by me on your own doctrine, you turn out to be void, hollow, and mistaken.

Bhāsītā kho pana te esā, aggivessana, vesāliyaṃ parisati vācā:

But it was you who stated before the assembly of Vesālī:

‘nāhaṃ taṃ passāmi samaṇam̐ vā brāhmaṇam̐ vā, saṅghim̐ gaṇim̐ gaṇācariyaṃ, api arahantaṃ sammāsambuddhaṃ paṭijānamānaṃ, yo mayā vādena vādaṃ samāradhho na saṅkampeyya na sampakampeyya na sampavedheyya, yassa na kacchehi sedā mucceyyuṃ.

‘If I was to take them on in debate, I don't see any ascetic or brahmin—leader of an order or a community, or the teacher of a community, even one who claims to be a perfected one, a fully awakened Buddha—who would not shake and rock and tremble, sweating from the armpits.

Thūṇam̐ cepāhaṃ acetanaṃ vādena vādaṃ samārabheyyaṃ sāpi mayā vādena vādaṃ samāraddhā saṅkampeyya sampakampeyya sampavedheyya.

Even if I took on an insentient post in debate, it would shake and rock and tremble.

Ko pana vādo manussabhūtassā'ti?

How much more than a human being!

Tuyhaṃ kho pana, aggivessana, appekaccāni sedaphusitāni nalāṭā muttāni, uttarāsaṅgaṃ vinibhinditvā bhūmiyaṃ patitṭhitāni.

But sweat is pouring from your forehead; it's soaked through your robe and drips on the ground.

Mayhaṃ kho pana, aggivessana, natthi etarahi kāyasmimṃ sedo'ti.

While I now have no sweat on my body."

Iti bhagavā tasmimṃ parisati suvaṇṇavaṇṇaṃ kāyaṃ vivari.

So the Buddha revealed his golden body to the assembly.

Evaṃ vutte, saccako nigaṇṭhaputto tuṇhībhūto maṅkubhūto pattakkhandho adhomukho pajjhāyanto appaṭibhāno nisīdi.

When this was said, Saccaka sat silent, embarrassed, shoulders drooping, downcast, depressed, with nothing to say.

Atha kho dummukho licchaviputto saccakaṃ nigaṇṭhaputtaṃ tuṇhībhūtaṃ maṅkubhūtaṃ pattakkhandhaṃ adhomukhaṃ pajjhāyantaṃ appaṭibhānaṃ veditvā bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

Knowing this, the Licchavi Dummukha said to the Buddha, “upamā maṃ, bhagavā, paṭibhātī”ti.

“A simile strikes me, Blessed One.”

“Paṭibhātu taṃ, dummukhā”ti bhagavā avoca.

“Then speak as you feel inspired,” said the Buddha.

“Seyyathāpi, bhante, gāmassa vā nigamassa vā avidūre pokkharāṇī.

“Sir, suppose there was a lotus pond not far from a town or village, Tatrāssa kakkaṭako.

and a crab lived there.

Then several boys or girls would leave the town or village and go to the pond, where they'd pull out the crab and put it on dry land.

Yaññadeva hi so, bhante, kakkaṭako aḷaṃ abhininnāmeyya taṃ

Whenever that crab extended a claw, those boys or girls would snap, crack, and break it off with a stick or a stone.

Evañhi so, bhante, kakkaṭako sabbehi aḷehi sañchinnehi

And when that crab's claws had all been snapped, cracked, and broken off it wouldn't be able to return down into that lotus pond.

Evameva kho, bhante, yāni saccakassa nigaṇṭhaputtassa

In the same way, sir, the Buddha has snapped, cracked, and broken off all Saccaka's tricks, dodges, and evasions.

abhabbo ca dāni, bhante, saccako nigaṇṭhaputto puna

Now he can't get near the Buddha again looking for a debate.”

Evaṃ vutte, saccako nigaṇṭhaputto dummukhaṃ licchaviputtaṃ etadavoca:

But Saccaka said to him,

“āgamehi tvaṃ, dummukha, āgamehi tvaṃ, dummukha, (...) na saddhiṃ mantema.

“Hold on, Dummukha, hold on! I wasn’t talking with you, I was talking with Master Gotama.

Tiṭṭhatesā, bho gotama, amhākañceva aññesañca puthusamaṇabrāhmaṇānaṃ vācā.

Master Gotama, leave aside that statement I made—as did various other ascetics and brahmins—

Vilāpaṃ vilapitaṃ maññe.

it was, like, just a bit of nonsense.

Kittāvatā ca nu kho bho gotamassa sāvako sāsana-karo hoti

Evam vimuttacitto kho, aggivessana, bhikkhu tīhi anuttariyehi samannāgato hoti—

A mendicant whose mind is freed like this has three unsurpassable qualities:

unsurpassable vision, practice, and freedom.

Evaṃ vimuttacitto kho, aggivessana, bhikkhu tathāgataññeva sakkaroti garuṃ karoti māneti pūjeti—

‘The Blessed One is awakened, tamed, serene, crossed over, and extinguished. And he teaches Dhamma for awakening, taming, serenity, crossing over, and extinguishment.’”

Evaṃ vutte, saccako nigaṇṭhaputto bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, Saccaka said to him,

“mayameva, bho gotama, dhamṣī, mayaṃ pagabbā, ye mayaṃ bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ vādena vādaṃ āsādetabbaṃ amaññimha.

“Master Gotama, it was rude and impudent of me to imagine I could attack you in debate.

Siyā hi, bho gotama, āsīvisaṃ ghoravisaṃ āsajja purisassa sotthibhāvo, na tveva bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ āsajja siyā purisassa sotthibhāvo.

They might find safety after attacking a poisonous viper, but not after attacking Master Gotama.

Mayameva, bho gotama, dhaṃsī, mayaṃ pagabbā, ye mayaṃ bhavantāṃ gotamaṃ vādena vādaṃ āsādetabbaṃ amaññimha.
It was rude and impudent of me to imagine I could attack you in debate.

Adhivāsetu me bhavaṃ gotamo svātanāya bhattaṃ saddhiṃ bhikkhusaṅghenā”ti.

Would Master Gotama together with the mendicant Saṅgha please accept tomorrow’s meal from me?”

Adhivāsesi bhagavā tuṅhībhāvena.

The Buddha consented in silence.

Atha kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto bhagavato adhivāsanāṃ viditvā te licchavī āmantesi:

Then, knowing that the Buddha had consented, Saccaka addressed those Licchavis, “suṇantu me bhonto licchavī, samaṇo me gotamo nimantito svātanāya saddhiṃ bhikkhusaṅghena.

“Listen, gentlemen. I have invited the ascetic Gotama together with the Saṅgha of mendicants for tomorrow’s meal.

Tena me abhihareyyātha yamassa patirūpaṃ maññeyyāthā”ti.

You may all bring me what you think is suitable.”

Atha kho te licchavī tassā rattiyā accayena saccakassa nigaṇṭhaputtassa pañcamattāni thālipākasatāni bhattābhihāraṃ abhihariṃsu.

Then, when the night had passed, those Licchavis presented Saccaka with an offering of five hundred servings of food.

Atha kho nigaṇṭhaputto sake ārāme paṇītaṃ khādanīyaṃ bhojanīyaṃ paṭiyādāpetvā bhagavato kālaṃ ārocāpesi:

And Saccaka had a variety of delicious foods prepared in his own home. Then he had the Buddha informed of the time, saying, “kālo, bho gotama, niṭṭhitaṃ bhattaṃ”ti.

Atha kho bhagavā pubbaṅhasamayam nivāsetvā

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, went to Saccaka's park, where he sat on the seat spread out, together with the Saṅgha of mendicants.

Atha kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto buddhappamukham

Then Saccaka served and satisfied the mendicant Saṅgha headed by the Buddha with his own hands with a variety of delicious foods.

Atha kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto bhagavantam bhuttāvim

When the Buddha had eaten and washed his hand and bowl, Saccaka took a low seat and sat to one side.

Ekamantam nisinno kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto bhagavantam

Then Saccaka said to the Buddha,

“yamidaṃ, bho gotama, dāne puññaṅca puññamahī ca taṃ

“Master Gotama, may the merit and the growth of merit in this gift be for the happiness of the donors.”

“Yam kho, aggivessana, tādisam dakkhiṇeyyam āgamma “Aggivessana, whatever comes from giving to a recipient of a religious donation such as yourself—who is not free of greed, hate, and delusion—will accrue to the donors.

Yaṃ kho, aggivessana, mādisaṃ dakkhiṇeyyaṃ āgamma

Whatever comes from giving to a recipient of a religious donation such as myself—who is free of greed, hate, and delusion—will accrue to you.”

The Longer Discourse With Saccaka

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava vesāliyam viharati mahāvane
kūṭāgārasālāyam.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Vesālī, at the Great Wood, in the hall with the peaked roof.

Tena kho pana samayena bhagava pubbaṇhasamayam sunivattho hoti pattacīvaramādāya vesālim piṇḍāya

Now at that time in the morning the Buddha, being properly dressed, took his bowl and robe, wishing to enter Vesālī for alms.

Atha kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto jaṅghāvihāram anucaṅkamamāno anuvicaramāno yena mahāvanam kūṭāgārasālā tenupasaṅkami.

Then as Saccaka, the son of Jain parents, was going for a walk he approached the hall with the peaked roof in the Great Wood.

Addasā kho āyasmā ānando saccakam nigaṇṭhaputtam
dūratova āgacchantam.

Venerable Ānanda saw him coming off in the distance,

Disvāna bhagavantam etadavoca:

and said to the Buddha,

“ayaṃ, bhante, saccako nigaṇṭhaputto āgacchati bhassappavādako paṇḍitavādo sādhusammato bahujanassa.

“Sir, Saccaka, the son of Jain parents, is coming. He’s a debater and clever speaker regarded as holy by many people.

Eso kho, bhante, avaṇṇakāmo buddhassa, avaṇṇakāmo dhammassa, avaṇṇakāmo saṅghassa.

He wants to discredit the Buddha, the teaching, and the Saṅgha.

Sādhū, bhante, bhagavā muhuttaṃ nisīdatu anukampaṃ upādāyā”ti.

Please, sir, sit for a moment out of compassion.”

Nisīdi bhagavā paññatte āsane.

The Buddha sat on the seat spread out.

Atha kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi, sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

Then Saccaka went up to the Buddha, and exchanged greetings with him. When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to the Buddha,

“Santi, bho gotama, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā kāyabhāvanānuyogamanuyuttā viharanti, no cittabhāvanaṃ.

“Master Gotama, there are some ascetics and brahmins who live committed to the practice of developing physical endurance, without developing the mind.

Phusanti hi te, bho gotama, sārīrikaṃ dukkhaṃ vedanaṃ.

They experience painful physical feelings.

Bhūtapubbaṃ, bho gotama, sārīrikāya dukkhāya vedanāya phuṭṭhassa sato ūrukkhambhopi nāma bhavissati, hadayampi nāma phalissati, uṇhampi lohitaṃ mukhato uggamissati, ummādampi pāpuṇissati cittakkhepaṃ.

This happened to someone once. Their thighs became paralyzed, their heart burst, hot blood gushed from their mouth, and they went mad and lost their mind.

Tassa kho etaṃ, bho gotama, kāyanvayaṃ cittaṃ hoti, kāyassa vasena vattati.

Their mind was subject to the body, and the body had power over it.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Abhāvitattā cittassa.

Because their mind was not developed.

Santi pana, bho gotama, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā citta bhāvanānuyogamanuyuttā viharanti, no kāyabhāvanāṃ.

There are some ascetics and brahmins who live committed to the practice of developing the mind, without developing physical endurance.

Phusanti hi te, bho gotama, cetasi kaṃ dukkhaṃ vedanaṃ.

They experience painful mental feelings.

Bhūtapubbaṃ, bho gotama, cetasi kāya dukkhāya vedanāya phuṭṭhassa sato ūrukkhambhopi nāma bhavissati, hadayampi nāma phalissati, uḥhampi lohitaṃ mukhato uggamissati, ummādampi pāpuṇissati citta kkepaṃ.

This happened to someone once. Their thighs became paralyzed, their heart burst, hot blood gushed from their mouth, and they went mad and lost their mind.

Tassa kho eso, bho gotama, citta nvayo kāyo hoti, citta ssa vasena vattati.

Their body was subject to the mind, and the mind had power over it.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Abhāvitattā kāyassa.

Because their physical endurance was not developed.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bho gotama, evaṃ hoti:

It occurs to me that ‘addhā bhoto gotamassa sāvaka citta bhāvanānuyogamanuyuttā viharanti, no kāyabhāvanan’”ti.

Master Gotama’s disciples must live committed to the practice of developing the mind, without developing physical endurance.”

“Kinti pana te, aggivessana, kāyabhāvanā sutā”ti?

“But Aggivessana, what have you heard about the development of physical endurance?”

“Seyyathidaṃ—

“Take, for example,

nando vaccho, kiso saṅkicco, makkhali gosālo—

Nanda Vaccha, Kisa Saṅkicca, and Makkhali Gosāla.

Ekissāpi dattiyā yāpenti, dvīhipi dattīhi yāpenti ...pe... sattahipi dattīhi yāpenti.

They feed on one saucer a day, two saucers a day, up to seven saucers a day.

They eat once a day, once every second day, up to once a week, and so on, even up to once a fortnight. They live committed to the practice of eating food at set intervals.”

“Kiṃ pana te, aggivessana, tāvatakeneva yāpentī”ti?

“But Aggivessana, do they get by on so little?”

“No hidaṃ, bho gotama.

“No, Master Gotama.

Appekadā, bho gotama, uḷārāni uḷārāni khādanīyāni khādanti, uḷārāni uḷārāni bhojanāni bhuñjanti, uḷārāni uḷārāni sāyanīyāni sāyanti, uḷārāni uḷārāni pānāni pivanti.

Sometimes they eat a variety of luxury foods and drink a variety of luxury beverages.

They gather their body's strength, build it up, and get fat.”

“Yaṃ kho te, aggivessana, purimaṃ pahāya pacchā upacinanti, evaṃ imassa kāyassa ācayāpacayo hoti.

“What they earlier gave up, they later got back. That is how there is the increase and decrease of this body.

Kinti pana te, aggivessana, cittabhāvanā sutā”ti?

But Aggivessana, what have you heard about development of the mind?”

Cittabhāvanāya kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto bhagavatā puṭṭho samāno na sampāyāsi.

When Saccaka was questioned by the Buddha about development of the mind, he was unable to answer.

Atha kho bhagavā saccakaṃ nigaṇṭhaputtaṃ etadavoca:

So the Buddha said to Saccaka,

“yāpi kho te esā, aggivessana, purimā kāyabhāvanā bhāsitā sāpi ariyassa vinaye no dhammikā kāyabhāvanā.

“The development of physical endurance that you have described is not the legitimate development of physical endurance in the noble one’s training.

Kāyabhāvanampi kho tvaṃ, aggivessana, na aññāsi, kuto pana tvaṃ cittabhāvanam jānissasi?

And since you don’t even understand the development of physical endurance, how can you possibly understand the development of the mind?

Api ca, aggivessana, yathā abhāvitakāyo ca hoti abhāvitacitto ca, bhāvitakāyo ca hoti bhāvitacitto ca.

Still, as to how someone is undeveloped in physical endurance and mind, and how someone is developed in physical endurance and mind, Taṃ suṇāhi, sādhucaṃ manasi karohi, bhāsissāmī”ti.

listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bho”ti kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto bhagavato paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” replied Saccaka.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Kathaṅca, aggivessana, abhāvitakāyo ca hoti abhāvitacitto ca?

“And how is someone undeveloped in physical endurance and mind?

Idha, aggivessana, assutavato puthujjanassa uppajjati sukhā vedanā.

Take an uneducated ordinary person who has a pleasant feeling.

So sukhāya vedanāya phuṭṭho samāno sukhasārāgī ca hoti sukhasārāgitaṅca āpajjati.

When they experience pleasant feeling they become full of lust for it.

Tassa sā sukhā vedanā nirujjhati.

Then that pleasant feeling ceases.

Sukhāya vedanāya nirodhā uppajjati dukkhā vedanā.

And when it ceases, a painful feeling arises.

So dukkhāya vedanāya phuṭṭho samāno socati kilamati paridevati urattāḷim kandati sammohaṃ āpajjati.

When they experience painful feeling, they sorrow and pine and lament, beating their breast and falling into confusion.

Tassa kho esā, aggivessana, uppannāpi sukhā vedanā cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhati abhāvitattā kāyassa, uppannāpi dukkhā vedanā cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhati abhāvitattā cittassa.

Because their physical endurance is undeveloped, pleasant feelings occupy the mind. And because their mind is undeveloped, painful feelings occupy the mind.

Yassa kassaci, aggivessana, evaṃ ubhatopakkaṃ uppannāpi sukhā vedanā cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhati abhāvitattā kāyassa, uppannāpi dukkhā vedanā cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhati abhāvitattā cittassa, evaṃ kho, aggivessana, abhāvitakāyo ca hoti abhāvitacitto ca.

Someone whose mind is occupied by both pleasant and painful feelings like this is undeveloped in physical endurance and in mind.

Kathañca, aggivessana, bhāvitakāyo ca hoti bhāvitacitto ca?

And how is someone developed in physical endurance and mind?

Idha, aggivessana, sutavato ariyasāvakaṃ uppajjati sukhā vedanā.

Take an educated noble disciple who has a pleasant feeling.

So sukhāya vedanāya phuṭṭho samāno na sukhasārāgī ca hoti, na sukhasārāgitañca āpajjati.

When they experience pleasant feeling they don't become full of lust for it.

Tassa sā sukhā vedanā nirujjhati.

Then that pleasant feeling ceases.

Sukhāya vedanāya nirodhā uppajjati dukkhā vedanā.

And when it ceases, painful feeling arises.

So dukkhāya vedanāya phuṭṭho samāno na socati na kilamati na paridevati na urattāḷim kandati na sammohaṃ āpajjati.

When they experience painful feelings they don't sorrow or pine or lament, beating their breast and falling into confusion.

Tassa kho esā, aggivessana, uppannāpi sukhā vedanā cittaṃ na pariyādāya tiṭṭhati bhāvitattā kāyassa, uppannāpi dukkhā vedanā cittaṃ na pariyādāya tiṭṭhati bhāvitattā cittaṃ.

Because their physical endurance is developed, pleasant feelings don't occupy the mind. And because their mind is developed, painful feelings don't occupy the mind.

Yassa kassaci, aggivessana, evaṃ ubhatopakkhaṃ uppannāpi sukhā vedanā cittaṃ na pariyādāya tiṭṭhati bhāvitattā kāyassa, uppannāpi dukkhā vedanā cittaṃ na pariyādāya tiṭṭhati bhāvitattā cittaṣṣa. Evaṃ kho, aggivessana, bhāvitakāyo ca hoti bhāvitacitto cā”ti.

Someone whose mind is not occupied by both pleasant and painful feelings like this is developed in physical endurance and in mind.”

“Evaṃ pasanno ahaṃ bhoṭo gotamaṣṣa.

“I am quite confident that Master Gotama Bhavañhi gotamo bhāvitakāyo ca hoti bhāvitacitto cā”ti.

is developed in physical endurance and in mind.”

“Addhā kho te ayaṃ, aggivessana, āsajja upanīya vācā bhāsitā, “Your words are clearly invasive and intrusive, Aggivessana.

api ca te ahaṃ byākarissāmi.

Nevertheless, I will answer you.

Yato kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, kesamaṣṣuṃ ohāretvā kāṣāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agāraṣṣmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito, taṃ vata me uppannā vā sukhā vedanā cittaṃ pariyādāya ṭhassati, uppannā vā dukkhā vedanā cittaṃ pariyādāya ṭhassatīti netam ṭhānaṃ vijjatī”ti.

Ever since I shaved off my hair and beard, dressed in ocher robes, and went forth from the lay life to homelessness, it has not been possible for any pleasant or painful feeling to occupy my mind.”

“Na hi nūna bhoṭo gotamaṣṣa uppajjati tathārūpā sukhā vedanā yathārūpā uppannā sukhā vedanā cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭheyya; na hi nūna bhoṭo gotamaṣṣa uppajjati tathārūpā dukkhā vedanā yathārūpā uppannā dukkhā vedanā cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭheyyā”ti.

“Surely you must have had feelings so pleasant or so painful that they could occupy your mind?”

“Kiñhi no siyā, aggivessana?

“How could I not, Aggivessana?

Idha me, aggivessana, pubbeva sambodhā
anabhisambuddhassa bodhisattasseva sato etadahosi:

Before my awakening—when I was still unawakened but intent on awakening—I thought:

‘sambādho gharāvāso rajāpatho, abbhokāso pabbajjā.

‘Living in a house is cramped and dirty, but the life of one gone forth is wide open.

Nayidaṃ sukaraṃ agāraṃ ajjhāvasatā ekantaparipuṇṇaṃ
ekantaparisuddhaṃ saṅkhalikhitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ carituṃ.

It’s not easy for someone living at home to lead the spiritual life utterly full and pure, like a polished shell.

Yannūnāhaṃ kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni
acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajeyyan’ti.

Why don’t I shave off my hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from the lay life to homelessness?’

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, aparena samayena daharova samāno, susukāḷakeso bhadrena yobbanena samannāgato paṭhamena vayasā, akāmakānaṃ mātāpitūnaṃ assumukhānaṃ rudantānaṃ, kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajim.

Some time later, while still black-haired, blessed with youth, in the prime of life—though my mother and father wished otherwise, weeping with tearful faces—I shaved off my hair and beard, dressed in ocher robes, and went forth from the lay life to homelessness.

So evaṃ pabbajito samāno kiṅkusalagavesī anuttaraṃ santivarapadaṃ pariyesamāno yena āḷāro kālāmo
tenupasaṅkamim; upasaṅkamitvā āḷāraṃ kālāmaṃ etadavocaṃ:

Once I had gone forth I set out to discover what is skillful, seeking the supreme state of sublime peace. I approached Āḷāra Kālāma and said to him,

‘icchāmaḥ, āvuso kālāma, imasmim̐ dhammavinaye brahmacariyaṃ caritun’ti.

‘Reverend Kālāma, I wish to live the spiritual life in this teaching and training.’

Evam̐ vutte, aggivessana, āḷāro kālāmo maṃ etadavoca:

Āḷāra Kālāma replied,

‘viharatāyasmā,

‘Stay, venerable.

tādiso ayaṃ dhammo yattha viññū puriso nacirasseva sakaṃ ācariyakaṃ sayam̐ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja

This teaching is such that a sensible person can soon realize their own tradition with their own insight and live having achieved it.’

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, nacirasseva khippameva taṃ dhammaṃ pariyāpuṇim̐.

I quickly memorized that teaching.

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, tāvatakeneva oṭṭhapahatamattena lapitalāpanamattena ñāṇavādañca vadāmi theravādañca, ‘jānāmi passāmī’ti ca paṭijānāmi, ahañceva aññe ca.

So far as lip-recital and oral recitation were concerned, I spoke with knowledge and the authority of the elders. I claimed to know and see, and so did others.

Tassa mayhaṃ, aggivessana, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘na kho āḷāro kālāmo imaṃ dhammaṃ kevalaṃ saddhāmattakena sayam̐ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharāmīti pavedeti,

‘It is not solely by mere faith that Āḷāra Kālāma declares: “I realize this teaching with my own insight, and live having achieved it.”

addhā āḷāro kālāmo imaṃ dhammaṃ jānaṃ passaṃ viharatī’ti.

Surely he meditates knowing and seeing this teaching.'

Atha khvāhaṃ, aggivessana, yena āḷāro kālāmo tenupasaṅkamiraṃ; upasaṅkamtivā āḷāraṃ kālāmaṃ etadavocaṃ:

So I approached Āḷāra Kālāma and said to him,

'kittāvatā no, āvuso kālāma, imaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharāmīti pavedesī'ti?

'Reverend Kālāma, to what extent do you say you've realized this teaching with your own insight?'

Evaṃ vutte, aggivessana, āḷāro kālāmo ākiñcaññāyatanam
pavedesi.

When I said this, he declared the dimension of nothingness.

Tassa mayhaṃ, aggivessana, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

'na kho āḷārasseva kālāmassa atthi saddhā, mayhampatthi
saddhā;

'It's not just Āḷāra Kālāma who has faith,

na kho āḷārasseva kālāmassa atthi vīriyaṃ, mayhampatthi vīriyaṃ;

energy,

na kho āḷārasseva kālāmassa atthi sati, mayhampatthi sati;
mindfulness,

na kho āḷārasseva kālāmassa atthi samādhi, mayhampatthi samādhi;

immersion,

na kho āḷārasseva kālāmassa atthi paññā, mayhampatthi paññā;
and wisdom; I too have these things.

yannūnāhaṃ yaṃ dhammaṃ āḷāro kālāmo sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharāmīti pavedeti tassa dhammassa sacchikiriyāya padaheyyan'ti.

Why don't I make an effort to realize the same teaching that Āḷāra Kālāma says he has realized with his own insight?'

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, nacirasseva khippameva taṃ dhammaṃ sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihāsim.

I quickly realized that teaching with my own insight, and lived having achieved it.

Atha khvāhaṃ, aggivessana, yena āḷāro kālāmo tenupasaṅkamim; upasaṅkamtivā āḷāraṃ kālāmaṃ etadavocaṃ:
So I approached Āḷāra Kālāma and said to him,

'ettāvatā no, āvuso kālāma, imaṃ dhammaṃ sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja pavedesī'ti?

'Reverend Kālāma, have you realized this teaching with your own insight up to this point, and declare having achieved it?'

'Ettāvatā kho ahaṃ, āvuso, imaṃ dhammaṃ sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja pavedemi'ti.

'I have, reverend.'

'Ahampi kho, āvuso, ettāvatā imaṃ dhammaṃ sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharāmi'ti.

'I too have realized this teaching with my own insight up to this point, and live having achieved it.'

'Lābhā no, āvuso, suladdhaṃ no, āvuso,

'We are fortunate, reverend, so very fortunate

ye mayaṃ āyasmantaṃ tādisaṃ sabrahmacāriṃ passāma.

to see a venerable such as yourself as one of our spiritual companions!

Iti yāhaṃ dhammaṃ sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja pavedemi taṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharasi;

So the teaching that I've realized with my own insight, and declare having achieved it, you've realized with your own insight, and live having achieved it.

yaṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharasi tamahaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja pavedemi.

The teaching that you've realized with your own insight, and live having achieved it, I've realized with my own insight, and declare having achieved it.

Iti yāhaṃ dhammaṃ jānāmi taṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ jānāsi; yaṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ jānāsi tamahaṃ dhammaṃ jānāmi.

So the teaching that I know, you know, and the teaching you know, I know.

Iti yādiso ahaṃ tādiso tuvaṃ, yādiso tuvaṃ tādiso ahaṃ.

I am like you and you are like me.

Ehi dāni, āvuso, ubhova santā imaṃ gaṇaṃ pariharāmā'ti.

Come now, reverend! We should both lead this community together.'

Iti kho, aggivessana, āḷāro kālāmo ācariyo me samāno attano antevāsiṃ maṃ samānaṃ attanā samasamaṃ ṭhapesi, uḷārāya ca maṃ pūjāya pūjesi.

And that is how my teacher Āḷāra Kālāma placed me, his student, on the same position as him, and honored me with lofty praise.

Tassa mayhaṃ, aggivessana, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

'nāyaṃ dhammo nibbidāya na virāgāya na nirodhāya na upasamāya na abhiññāya na sambodhāya na nibbānāya saṃvattati, yāvadeva ākiñcaññāyatanūpapattiyā'ti.

'This teaching doesn't lead to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment. It only leads as far as rebirth in the dimension of nothingness.'

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, taṃ dhammaṃ analaṅkaritvā tasmā dhammā nibbijja apakkamim̃.

Realizing that this teaching was inadequate, I left disappointed.

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, kiṅkusalagavesī anuttaraṃ santivarapadaṃ pariyesamāno yena udako rāmaputto tenupasaṅkamim̃; upasaṅkamtivā udakaṃ rāmaputtaṃ etadavocaṃ:

‘Reverend, I wish to live the spiritual life in this teaching and training.’

Evaṃ vutte, aggivessana, udako rāmaputto maṃ etadavoca:

Uddaka replied,

‘viharatāyasmā,

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, nacirasseva khippameva taṃ dhammaṃ pariyāpuṇim̃.

I quickly memorized that teaching.

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, tāvatakeneva oṭṭhapahatamattena lapitalāpanamattena ñāṇavādañca vadāmi theravādañca, ‘jānāmi passāmī’ti ca paṭijānāmi, ahañceva aññe ca.

So far as lip-recital and oral recitation were concerned, I spoke with knowledge and the authority of the elders. I claimed to know and see, and so did others.

Tassa mayham, aggivessana, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

Atha khvāham, aggivessana, yena udako rāmaputto

So I approached Uddaka, son of Rāma, and said to him,

‘Reverend, to what extent did Rāma say he’d realized this teaching with his own insight?’

Evaṃ vutte, aggivessana, udako rāmaputto nevasaññānāsaññāyatanam pavedesi.

When I said this, Uddaka, son of Rāma, declared the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception.

Tassa mayham, aggivessana, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

'He had, reverend.'

'Ahampi kho, āvuso, ettāvatā imaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā

'I too have realized this teaching with my own insight up to this point, and live having achieved it.'

'Lābhā no, āvuso, suladdhaṃ no, āvuso,
'We are fortunate, reverend, so very fortunate

ye mayaṃ āyasmantaṃ tādisaṃ sabrahmacāriṃ passāma.

to see a venerable such as yourself as one of our spiritual companions!

Iti yaṃ dhammaṃ rāmo sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja pavedesi, taṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharasi; yaṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharasi, taṃ dhammaṃ rāmo sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja pavedesi.

The teaching that Rāma had realized with his own insight, and declared having achieved it, you have realized with your own insight, and live having achieved it. The teaching that you've realized with your own insight, and live having achieved it, Rāma had realized with his own insight, and declared having achieved it.

Iti yaṃ dhammaṃ rāmo abhiññāsi taṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ jānāsi; yaṃ tvaṃ dhammaṃ jānāsi taṃ dhammaṃ rāmo abhiññāsi.

So the teaching that Rāma directly knew, you know, and the teaching you know, Rāma directly knew.

Iti yādiso rāmo ahosi tādiso tuvaṃ; yādiso tuvaṃ tādiso rāmo ahosi.

Rāma was like you and you are like Rāma.

Ehi dāni, āvuso, tuvaṃ imaṃ gaṇaṃ pariharā'ti.

Come now, reverend! You should lead this community.'

Iti kho, aggivessana, udako rāmaputto sabrahmacārī me samāno ācariyaṭṭhāne ca maṃ ṭhapesi, uḷārāya ca maṃ pūjāya pūjesi.

And that is how my spiritual companion Uddaka, son of Rāma, placed me in the position of a teacher, and honored me with lofty praise.

Tassa mayhaṃ, aggivessana, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

'nāyaṃ dhammo nibbidāya na virāgāya na nirodhāya na upasaṃyāya na abhiññāya na sambodhāya na nibbānāya saṃvattati, yāvadeva nevasaññānāsaññāyatanūpapattiyā'ti.

‘This teaching doesn’t lead to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment. It only leads as far as rebirth in the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception.’

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, taṃ dhammaṃ analaṅkaritvā tasmā dhammā nibbijja apakkamim.

Realizing that this teaching was inadequate, I left disappointed.

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, kiṅkusalagavesī anuttaraṃ santivarapadaṃ pariyesamāno magadhesu anupubbena cārikaṃ caramāno yena uruvelā senānigamo tadavasariṃ.

I set out to discover what is skillful, seeking the supreme state of sublime peace. Traveling stage by stage in the Magadhan lands, I arrived at Senanigama near Uruvelā.

Tatthaddasaṃ ramaṇīyaṃ bhūmibhāgaṃ, pāsādikañca vanasaṇḍaṃ, nadiñca sandantiṃ setakaṃ supatitthaṃ ramaṇīyaṃ, samantā ca gocaragāmaṃ.

There I saw a delightful park, a lovely grove with a flowing river that was clean and charming, with smooth banks. And nearby was a village to go for alms.

Tassa mayhaṃ, aggivessana, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘ramaṇīyo vata bho bhūmibhāgo, pāsādiko ca vanasaṇḍo, nadi ca sandati setakā supatitthā ramaṇīyā, samantā ca gocaragāmo.

‘This park is truly delightful, a lovely grove with a flowing river that’s clean and charming, with smooth banks. And nearby there’s a village to go for alms.

Alaṃ vatidaṃ kulaputtassa padhānatthikassa padhānāyā’ti.

This is good enough for a gentleman who wishes to put forth effort in meditation.’

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, tattheva nisīdim

So I sat down right there, thinking:

‘alamidaṃ padhānāyā’ti.

‘This is good enough for meditation.’

“Tam kissa hetu”?

Why not?

“Aduñhi, bho gotama, allam kaṭṭham sasneham, kiñcāpi ārakā udakā thale nikkhattam.

Ayaṃ kho maṃ, aggivessana, tatiyā upamā paṭibhāsi anacchariyā pubbe assutapubbā.

This was the third example that occurred to me.

Imā kho maṃ, aggivessana, tisso upamā paṭibhaṃsu anacchariyā pubbe assutapubbā.

These are the three examples, which were neither supernaturally inspired, nor learned before in the past, that occurred to me.

Tassa mayhaṃ, aggivessana, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘yannūnāhaṃ dantebhi dantamādhāya, jivhāya tāluṃ āhacca, cetasā cittaṃ abhiniggaṇheyyaṃ abhinippīleyyaṃ abhisantāpeyyaṃ’ti.

‘Why don’t I, with teeth clenched and tongue pressed against the roof of my mouth, squeeze, squash, and torture mind with mind.’

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, dantebhi dantamādhāya, jivhāya tāluṃ āhacca, cetasā cittaṃ abhiniggaṇhāmi abhinippīlemi abhisantāpemi.

So that's what I did,

Tassa mayhaṃ, aggivessana, dantebhi dantamādhāya jivhāya tāluṃ āhacca cetasā cittaṃ abhiniggaṇhato abhinippīlayato abhisantāpayato kacchehi sedā muccanti.

Seyyathāpi, aggivessana, balavā puriso dubbalataraṃ purisaṃ sīse vā gahetvā khandhe vā gahetvā abhiniggaṇheyya abhinippīleyya abhisantāpeyya;

It was like when a strong man grabs a weaker man by the head or throat or shoulder and squeezes, squashes, and tortures them.

evameva kho me, aggivessana, dantebhi dantamādhāya, jivhāya tāluṃ āhacca, cetasā cittaṃ abhiniggaṇhato abhinippīlayato abhisantāpayato kacchehi sedā muccanti.

In the same way, with teeth clenched and tongue pressed against the roof of my mouth, I squeezed, squashed, and tortured mind with mind until sweat ran from my armpits.

Evarūpāpi kho me, aggivessana, uppannā dukkhā vedanā cittaṃ na pariyādāya tiṭṭhati.

But even such painful feeling did not occupy my mind.

Tassa mayhaṃ, aggivessana, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

But then strong winds ground my head,

But then I got a severe headache,

Seyyathāpi, aggivessana, balavā puriso daḷhena

But then strong winds carved up my belly,

Seyyathāpi, aggivessana, dakkho goghātako vā

Evarūpāpi kho me, aggivessana, uppannā dukkhā vedanā cittaṃ na pariyādāya tiṭṭhati.

But even such painful feeling did not occupy my mind.

Apissu maṃ, aggivessana, devatā disvā evamāhaṃsu:

Then some deities saw me and said,

‘kālaṅkato samaṇo gotamo’ti.

‘The ascetic Gotama is dead.’

Ekaccā devatā evamāhaṃsu:

Others said,

‘na kālaṅkato samaṇo gotamo, api ca kālaṃ karotī’ti.

‘He’s not dead, but he’s dying.’

Ekaccā devatā evamāhaṃsu:

Others said,

‘na kālaṅkato samaṇo gotamo, napi kālaṃ karoti, arahāṃ samaṇo gotamo, vihāro tveva so arahato evarūpo hotī’ti.

‘He’s not dead or dying. The ascetic Gotama is a perfected one, for that is how the perfected ones live.’

Tassa mayhaṃ, aggivessana, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘yannūnāhaṃ sabbaso āhārupacchedāya paṭipajjeyyan’ti.

‘Why don’t I practice completely cutting off food?’

Atha kho maṃ, aggivessana, devatā upasaṅkamtivā
etadavocum:

But deities came to me and said,

‘mā kho tvaṃ, mārisa, sabbaso āhārupacchedāya paṭipajji.

‘Good sir, don’t practice totally cutting off food.

Sace kho tvaṃ, mārisa, sabbaso āhārupacchedāya

If you do, we’ll infuse divine nectar into your pores and you will live on that.’

Tassa mayhaṃ, aggivessana, etadahosi:

Then I thought,

‘ahañceva kho pana sabbaso ajajjitaṃ paṭijāneyyaṃ, imā ca me

‘If I claim to be completely fasting while these deities are infusing divine nectar in my pores, that would be a lie on my part.’

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, tā devatā paccācikkhāmi, ‘halan’ti vadāmi.

So I dismissed those deities, saying, ‘There’s no need.’

Tassa mayhaṃ, aggivessana, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘yannūnāhaṃ thokaṃ thokaṃ āhāraṃ āhāreyyaṃ, pasataṃ pasataṃ, yadi vā muggayūsaṃ, yadi vā kulatthayūsaṃ, yadi vā

‘Why don’t I just take a little bit of food each time, a cup of broth made from mung beans, lentils, chickpeas, or green gram.’

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, thokaṃ thokaṃ āhāraṃ āhāresim, pasataṃ pasataṃ, yadi vā muggayūsaṃ, yadi vā

So that's what I did,

Tassa mayham, aggivessana, thokam thokam aharam until my body became extremely emaciated.

Seyyathāpi nāma āsītikapabbāni vā kāḷapabbāni vā;

Due to eating so little, my limbs became like the joints of an eighty-year-old or a corpse,

Seyyathāpi nāma oṭṭhapadam; evamevassu me ānisadam hoti

my bottom became like a camel's hoof,

Seyyathāpi nāma vaṭṭanāvaḷi; evamevassu me piṭṭhikaṇṭako

Due to eating so little, the gleam of my eyes sank deep in their sockets, like the gleam of water sunk deep down a well.

Seyyathāpi nāma tittakālābu āmakacchinno vātātapena

samphuṭitā hoti sammilātā tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, my scalp shriveled and withered like a green bitter-gourd in the wind and sun.

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, udaracchaviṃ parimasissāmīti piṭṭhikaṇṭakaṃyeva pariggaṇhāmi, piṭṭhikaṇṭakaṃ parimasissāmīti udaracchaviṃyeva pariggaṇhāmi, yāvassu me, aggivessana, udaracchavi piṭṭhikaṇṭakaṃ allīnā hoti tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, the skin of my belly stuck to my backbone, so that when I tried to rub the skin of my belly I grabbed my backbone, and when I tried to rub my backbone I rubbed the skin of my belly.

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, vaccaṃ vā muttaṃ vā karissāmīti tattheva avakujjo papatāmi tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, when I tried to urinate or defecate I fell face down right there.

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, imameva kāyaṃ assāsento pāṇinā gattāni anumajjāmi. Tassa mayhaṃ, aggivessana, pāṇinā gattāni anumajjato pūtimūlāni lomāni kāyasmā papatanti tāyevappāhāratāya.

Due to eating so little, when I tried to relieve my body by rubbing my limbs with my hands, the hair, rotted at its roots, fell out.

Apissu maṃ, aggivessana, manussā disvā evamāhaṃsu: ‘kāḷo samaṇo gotamo’ti.

Then some people saw me and said: ‘The ascetic Gotama is black.’

Ekacce manussā evamāhaṃsu: ‘na kāḷo samaṇo gotamo, sāmo samaṇo gotamo’ti.

Some said: ‘He’s not black, he’s brown.’

Ekacce manussā evamāhaṃsu: ‘na kāḷo samaṇo gotamo, napi sāmo, maṅguracchavi samaṇo gotamo’ti.

Some said: ‘He’s neither black nor brown. The ascetic Gotama has tawny skin.’

Yāvassu me, aggivessana, tāva parisuddho chavivaṇṇo pariyodāto upahato hoti tāyevappāhāratāya.

That’s how far the pure, bright complexion of my skin had been ruined by taking so little food.

Tassa mayhaṃ, aggivessana, etadahosi:

Then I thought,

‘ye kho keci atītamaddhānaṃ samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā opakkamikā dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayīmsu, etāvaparamaṃ, nayito bhiyyo.

‘Whatever ascetics and brahmins have experienced painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings due to overexertion—whether in the past, future, or present—this is as far as it goes, no-one has done more than this.

Yepi hi keci anāgatamaddhānaṃ samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā opakkamikā dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayissanti, etāvaparamaṃ, nayito bhiyyo.

Yepi hi keci etarahi samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā opakkamikā dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayanti, etāvaparamaṃ, nayito bhiyyo.

Na kho panāhaṃ imāya kaṭukāya dukkarakārikāya adhigacchāmi uttari manussadhammā alamariyaññadassanavisesaṃ.

But I have not achieved any superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones by this severe, grueling work.

Siyā nu kho añño maggo bodhāyā’ti?

Could there be another path to awakening?’

Tassa mayhaṃ, aggivessana, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘abhijānāmi kho panāhaṃ pitu sakkassa kammante sītāya jambucchāyāya nisinno vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajāṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharitā.

‘I recall sitting in the cool shade of the rose-apple tree while my father the Sakyan was off working. Quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, I entered and remained in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Siyā nu kho eso maggo bodhāyā'ti?

Could that be the path to awakening?

Tassa mayham, aggivessana, satānusāri viññāṇam ahosi:

Stemming from that memory came the realization:

'eseva maggo bodhāyā'ti.

'That is the path to awakening!'

Tassa mayham, aggivessana, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

'kiṃ nu kho aham tassa sukhasa bhāyāmi, yaṃ taṃ sukham aññatreva kāmehi aññatra akusalehi dhammehī'ti?

'Why am I afraid of that pleasure, for it has nothing to do with sensual pleasures or unskillful qualities?'

Tassa mayham, aggivessana, etadahosi:

Then I thought,

'na kho aham tassa sukhasa bhāyāmi, yaṃ taṃ sukham aññatreva kāmehi aññatra akusalehi dhammehī'ti.

'I'm not afraid of that pleasure, for it has nothing to do with sensual pleasures or unskillful qualities.'

Tassa mayham, aggivessana, etadahosi:

Then I thought,

'na kho taṃ sukaram sukham adhigantum evaṃ adhimattakasimānam pattakāyena, yannūnāham oḷārikam āhāram āhāreyyam odanakummāsan'ti.

'I can't achieve that pleasure with a body so excessively emaciated. Why don't I eat some solid food, some rice and porridge?'

So kho aham, aggivessana, oḷārikam āhāram āhāresim odanakummāsam.

So I ate some solid food.

Tena kho pana maṃ, aggivessana, samayena pañca bhikkhū paccupaṭṭhitā honti:

Now at that time the five mendicants were attending on me, thinking, ‘yaṃ kho samaṇo gotamo dhammaṃ adhigamissati, taṃ no ārocessatī’ti.

‘The ascetic Gotama will tell us of any truth that he realizes.’

Yato kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, oḷārikaṃ āhāraṃ āhāresim odanakummāsaṃ, atha me te pañca bhikkhū nibbija pakkamimsu:

But when I ate some solid food, they left disappointed in me, saying, ‘bāhulliko samaṇo gotamo, padhānavibbhanto, āvatto bāhullāyā’ti.

‘The ascetic Gotama has become indulgent; he has strayed from the struggle and returned to indulgence.’

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, oḷārikaṃ āhāraṃ āhāretvā, balaṃ gahetvā, vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamam jhānam upasampajja vihāsim.

After eating solid food and gathering my strength, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, I entered and remained in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Evarūpāpi kho me, aggivessana, uppannā sukhā vedanā cittaṃ na pariyādāya tiṭṭhati.

But even such pleasant feeling did not occupy my mind.

Vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhattaṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyaṃ jhānam upasampajja vihāsim.

As the placing of the mind and keeping it connected were stilled, I entered and remained in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Evarūpāpi kho me, aggivessana, uppannā sukhā vedanā cittaṃ na pariyādāya tiṭṭhati.

But even such pleasant feeling did not occupy my mind.

Pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca vihāsiṃ, sato ca sampajāno. Sukhañca kāyena paṭisaṃvedesiṃ yaṃ taṃ ariyā ācikkhanti: ‘upekkhako satimā sukhavihārī’ti tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja vihāsiṃ.

And with the fading away of rapture, I entered and remained in the third absorption, where I meditated with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, ‘Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.’

Evarūpāpi kho me, aggivessana, uppannā sukhā vedanā cittaṃ na pariyādāya tiṭṭhati.

But even such pleasant feeling did not occupy my mind.

Sukhassa ca pahānā dukkhassa ca pahānā, pubbeva somanassadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamā, adukkhamasukhaṃ upekkhāsatipārisuddhiṃ catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja vihāsiṃ.

With the giving up of pleasure and pain, and the ending of former happiness and sadness, I entered and remained in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

Evarūpāpi kho me, aggivessana, uppannā sukhā vedanā cittaṃ na pariyādāya tiṭṭhati.

But even such pleasant feeling did not occupy my mind.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte pubbenivāsānussatiñāṇāya cittaṃ abhininnāmesim̐.

When my mind had immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—I extended it toward recollection of past lives.

So anekavihitam̐ pubbenivāsam̐ anussarāmi, seyyathidam̐— ekampi jātim̐ ...pe... iti sākāram̐ sauddesam̐ anekavihitam̐ pubbenivāsam̐ anussarāmi.

I recollected my many kinds of past lives, with features and details.

Ayam̐ kho me, aggivessana, rattiyā paṭhame yāme paṭhamā vijjā adhigatā;

This was the first knowledge, which I achieved in the first watch of the night.

avijjā vihatā, vijjā uppannā; tamo vihato, āloko uppanno; yathā tam̐ appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato.

Ignorance was destroyed and knowledge arose; darkness was destroyed and light arose, as happens for a meditator who is diligent, keen, and resolute.

Evarūpāpi kho me, aggivessana, uppannā sukhā vedanā cittaṃ na pariyādāya tiṭṭhati.

But even such pleasant feeling did not occupy my mind.

So evam̐ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte sattānam̐ cutūpapātañāṇāya cittaṃ abhininnāmesim̐.

When my mind had immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—I extended it toward knowledge of the death and rebirth of sentient beings.

So dibbena cakkhunā visuddhena atikkantamānusakena satte passāmi cavamāne upapajjamāne hīne paṇīte suvaṇṇe dubbaṇṇe sugate duggate yathākammūpage satte pajānāmi ...
pe...

With clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, I saw sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. I understood how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds.

ayaṃ kho me, aggivessana, rattiyā majjhime yāme dutiyā vijjā adhigatā;

This was the second knowledge, which I achieved in the middle watch of the night.

avijjā vihatā, vijjā uppannā; tamo vihato, āloko uppanno; yathā taṃ appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato.

Ignorance was destroyed and knowledge arose; darkness was destroyed and light arose, as happens for a meditator who is diligent, keen, and resolute.

Evarūpāpi kho me, aggivessana, uppannā sukhā vedanā cittaṃ na pariyādāya tiṭṭhati.

But even such pleasant feeling did not occupy my mind.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte āsavānaṃ khayañāṇāya cittaṃ abhininnāmesim.

When my mind had immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—I extended it toward knowledge of the ending of defilements.

So ‘idaṃ dukkhaṃ’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbhaññāsim, ‘ayaṃ dukkhasamudayo’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbhaññāsim, ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodho’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbhaññāsim, ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbhaññāsim.

I truly understood: ‘This is suffering’ ... ‘This is the origin of suffering’ ... ‘This is the cessation of suffering’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering.’

‘Ime āsavā’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbhaññāsim, ‘ayaṃ āsavasamudayo’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbhaññāsim, ‘ayaṃ āsavanirodho’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbhaññāsim, ‘ayaṃ āsavanirodhagāminī paṭipadā’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbhaññāsim.

I truly understood: ‘These are defilements’ ... ‘This is the origin of defilements’ ... ‘This is the cessation of defilements’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of defilements.’

Tassa me evaṃ jānato evaṃ passato kāmāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccittha, bhavāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccittha, avijjāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccittha.

Knowing and seeing like this, my mind was freed from the defilements of sensuality, desire to be reborn, and ignorance.

Vimuttasmiṃ vimuttamiti ñāṇaṃ ahosi.

When it was freed, I knew it was freed.

‘Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā’ti abbhaññāsim.

I understood: ‘Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.’

Ayaṃ kho me, aggivessana, rattiyā pacchime yāme tatiyā vijjā adhigatā;

This was the third knowledge, which I achieved in the last watch of the night.

avijjā vihatā, vijjā uppannā; tamo vihato, āloko uppanno; yathā taṃ appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato.

Ignorance was destroyed and knowledge arose; darkness was destroyed and light arose, as happens for a meditator who is diligent, keen, and resolute.

Evarūpāpi kho me, aggivessana, uppannā sukhā vedanā cittaṃ na pariyādāya tiṭṭhati.

But even such pleasant feeling did not occupy my mind.

Abhijānāmi kho panāhaṃ, aggivessana, anekasatāya parisāya dhammaṃ desetā.

Aggivessana, I recall teaching the Dhamma to an assembly of many hundreds,

Apissu maṃ ekameko evaṃ maññati:

and each person thinks ‘mamevārabba samaṇo gotamo dhammaṃ desetī’ti.

that I am teaching the Dhamma especially for them.

Na kho panetaṃ, aggivessana, evaṃ datṭhabbaṃ;

But it should not be seen like this.

yāvadeva viññāpanatthāya tathāgato paresaṃ dhammaṃ deseti.

The Realized One teaches others only so that they can understand.

So kho ahaṃ, aggivessana, tassāyeva kathāya pariyoṣāne, tasmim̐yeva purimasmiṃ samādhinimitte ajjhattameva cittaṃ saṅṭhapemi sannisādemi ekodiṃ karomi samādahāmi, yena sudaṃ niccakappaṃ viharāmi”ti.

When that talk is finished, I still, settle, unify, and immerse my mind in samādhi internally, using the same meditation subject as a foundation of immersion that I used before, which is my usual meditation.”

“Okappaniyametaṃ bhoto gotamassa yathā taṃ arahato sammāsambuddhassa.

“I’d believe that of Master Gotama, just like a perfected one, a fully awakened Buddha.

Abhijānāti kho pana bhavaṃ gotamo divā supitā”ti?

But do you ever recall sleeping during the day?”

“Abhijānāmahaṃ, aggivessana, gimhānaṃ pacchime māse pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātaṭṭikkanto catugguṇaṃ saṅghāṭim̐ paññapetvā dakkhiṇena passena sato sampajāno niddaṃ okkamitā”ti.

“I do recall that in the last month of the summer, I have spread out my outer robe folded in four and lain down in the lion’s posture—on the right side, placing one foot on top of the other—mindful and aware.”

“Etaṃ kho, bho gotama, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā sammohavihārasmiṃ vadantī”ti?

“Some ascetics and brahmins call that a deluded abiding.”

“Na kho, aggivessana, ettāvatā sammūḷho vā hoti asammūḷho vā.

“That’s not how to define whether someone is deluded or not.

Api ca, aggivessana, yathā sammūḷho ca hoti asammūḷho ca,
But as to how to define whether someone is deluded or not,

taṃ suṇāhi, sādhukaṃ manasi karoḥi, bhāsissāmī”ti.
listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bho”ti kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto bhagavato paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” replied Saccaka.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Yassa kassaci, aggivessana, ye āsavā saṅkilesikā ponobbhavikā sadarā dukkhavipākā āyatim jātijarāmarañiyā appahīnā, tamahaṃ ‘sammūḷho’ti vadāmi.

“Whoever has not given up the defilements—corruptions that lead to future lives and are hurtful, resulting in suffering and future rebirth, old age, and death—is deluded, I say.

Āsavānañhi, aggivessana, appahānā sammūḷho hoti.

For it's not giving up the defilements that makes you deluded.

Yassa kassaci, aggivessana, ye āsavā saṅkilesikā
ponobbhavikā sadarā dukkhavipākā āyatim jātijarāmarañiyā pahīnā, tamahaṃ 'asammūḷho'ti vadāmi.

Whoever has given up the defilements—corruptions that lead to future lives and are hurtful, resulting in suffering and future rebirth, old age, and death—is not deluded, I say.

Āsavānañhi, aggivessana, pahānā asammūḷho hoti.

For it's giving up the defilements that makes you not deluded.

Tathāgatassa kho, aggivessana, ye āsavā saṅkilesikā ponobbhavikā sadarā dukkhavipākā āyatim jātijarāmarañiyā pahīnā ucchinnamūlā tālāvatthukatā anabhāvaṅkatā āyatim
anuppādadhammā.

The Realized One has given up the defilements—corruptions that lead to future lives and are hurtful, resulting in suffering and future rebirth, old age, and death. He has cut them off at the root, made them like a palm stump, obliterated them so they are unable to arise in the future.

Seyyathāpi, aggivessana, tālo matthakacchinno abhabbo puna virūḷhiyā;

Just as a palm tree with its crown cut off is incapable of further growth, evameva kho, aggivessana, tathāgatassa ye āsavā saṅkilesikā ponobbhavikā sadarā dukkhavipākā āyatim jātijarāmarañiyā

pahīnā ucchinnamūlā tālāvatthukatā anabhāvaṅkatā āyatim anuppādadhammā”ti.

in the same way, the Realized One has given up the defilements so they are unable to arise in the future.”

Evaṃ vutte, saccako nigaṇṭhaputto bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, Saccaka said to him,

“acchariyaṃ, bho gotama, abbhutaṃ, bho gotama.

Yāvañcidaṃ bhoṭo gotamassa evaṃ āsajja āsajja sammāsambuddhassa.

When Master Gotama is repeatedly attacked with inappropriate and intrusive criticism, the complexion of his skin brightens and the color of his face becomes clear, just like a perfected one, a fully awakened Buddha.

Abhijānāmahaṃ, bho gotama, pūraṇaṃ kassapaṃ vādena vādaṃ samārabhitā.

I recall taking on Pūraṇa Kassapa in debate.

Sopi mayā vādena vādaṃ samāraddho aññenaññaṃ paṭicari, bahiddhā kathaṃ apanāmesi, kopaṇca dosaṇca appaccayaṇca

He dodged the issue, distracting the discussion with irrelevant points, and displaying annoyance, hate, and bitterness.

Bhoṭo pana gotamassa evaṃ āsajja āsajja vuccamānassa, upanītehi vacanappathehi samudācariyamānassa, chavivaṇṇo

But when Master Gotama is repeatedly attacked with inappropriate and intrusive criticism, the complexion of his skin brightens and the color of his face becomes clear, just like a perfected one, a fully awakened Buddha.

Abhijānāmahaṃ, bho gotama, makkhalim̐ gosālaṃ ...pe...

I recall taking on Makkhali Gosāla, ajitaṃ kesakambalaṃ ...

Ajita Kesakambala,

pakudhaṃ kaccāyanaṃ ...

Pakudha Kaccāyana,

sañjayaṃ belatṭhaputtaṃ ...

Sañjaya Belatṭhiputta, nigaṇṭhaṃ nāṭaputtaṃ vādena vādaṃ samārabhitā.

and Nigaṇṭha Nātaputta in debate.

Sopi mayā vādena vādaṃ samāraddho aññenaññaṃ paṭicari, bahiddhā kathaṃ apanāmesi, kopañca dosañca appaccayañca

They all dodged the issue, distracting the discussion with irrelevant points, and displaying annoyance, hate, and bitterness.

Bhoto pana gotamassa evaṃ āsajja āsajja vuccamānassa, upanītehi vacanappathehi samudācariyamānassa, chavivaṇṇo

arahato sammāsambuddhassa.

But when Master Gotama is repeatedly attacked with inappropriate and intrusive criticism, the complexion of his skin brightens and the color of his face becomes clear, just like a perfected one, a fully awakened Buddha.

Handa ca dāni mayaṃ, bho gotama, gacchāma.

Well, now, Master Gotama, I must go.

Bahukiccā mayaṃ, bahukaraṇīyā”ti.

I have many duties, and much to do.”

“Yassadāni tvaṃ, aggivessana, kālaṃ maññasī”ti.

“Please, Aggivessana, go at your convenience.”

Atha kho saccako nigaṇṭhaputto bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkāmīti.

Then Saccaka, the son of Jain parents, having approved and agreed with what the Buddha said, got up from his seat and left.

Mahāsaccakasuttam̐ niṭṭhitam̐ chaṭṭham̐.

37. Cūḷataṇhāsaṅkhayasutta

The Shorter Discourse on the Ending of Craving

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṁ sāvatthiyam viharati pubbārāme migāramātupāsāde.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in the Eastern Monastery, the stilt longhouse of Migāra’s mother.

Atha kho sakko devānamindo yena bhagavaṁ tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantaṁ aṭṭhāsi.
Ekamantaṁ ṭhito kho sakko devānamindo bhagavantam
etadavoca:

And then Sakka, lord of gods, went up to the Buddha, bowed, stood to one side, and said to him:

“kittāvatā nu kho, bhante, bhikkhu saṅkhittena taṇhāsaṅkhayavimutto hoti accantaniṭṭho accantayogakkhemī accantabrahmacārī accantapariyosāno seṭṭho devamanussānaṁ”ti?

“Sir, how do you briefly define a mendicant who is freed through the ending of craving, who has reached the ultimate end, the ultimate sanctuary, the ultimate spiritual life, the ultimate goal, and is best among gods and humans?”

“Idha, devānaminda, bhikkhuno sutam hoti:

“Lord of Gods, it’s when a mendicant has heard:

‘sabbe dhammā nālaṃ abhinivesāyā’ti.

‘Nothing is worth insisting on.’

Evañcetaṃ, devānaminda, bhikkhuno sutam hoti:

When a mendicant has heard that ‘sabbe dhammā nālaṃ abhinivesāyā’ti.

nothing is worth insisting on,

So sabbaṃ dhammaṃ abhijānāti; sabbaṃ dhammaṃ abhiññāya sabbaṃ dhammaṃ parijānāti; sabbaṃ dhammaṃ pariññāya yaṃ kiñci vedanaṃ vedeti—

they directly know all things. Directly knowing all things, they completely understand all things. Having completely understood all things, when they experience any kind of feeling—pleasant, unpleasant, or neutral—

sukhaṃ vā dukkhaṃ vā adukkhamasukhaṃ vā, so tāsu vedanāsu aniccānupassī viharati, virāgānupassī viharati, nirodhānupassī viharati, paṭinissaggānupassī viharati.

they meditate observing impermanence, dispassion, cessation, and letting go in those feelings.

So tāsu vedanāsu aniccānupassī viharanto, virāgānupassī viharanto, nirodhānupassī viharanto, paṭinissaggānupassī viharanto na kiñci loke upādiyati.

Meditating in this way, they don’t grasp at anything in the world.

Anupādiyaṃ na paritassati, aparitassaṃ paccattaññeva parinibbāyati:

Not grasping, they’re not anxious. Not being anxious, they personally become extinguished.

‘khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā’ti pajānāti.

They understand: ‘Rebirth is ended, the spiritual journey has been completed, what had to be done has been done, there is no return to any state of existence.’

Ettāvatā kho, devānaminda, bhikkhu saṅkhittena taṅhāsaṅkhayavimutto hoti accantaniṭṭho accantayogakkhemī accantabrahmacārī accantapariyosāno seṭṭho devamanussānaṃ”ti.

That’s how I briefly define a mendicant who is freed through the ending of craving, who has reached the ultimate end, the ultimate sanctuary, the ultimate spiritual life, the ultimate goal, and is best among gods and humans.”

Atha kho sakko devānamindo bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā tatthevantaradhāyi.

Then Sakka, lord of gods, having approved and agreed with what the Buddha said, bowed and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before vanishing right there.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā mahāmoggallāno bhagavato avidūre nisinna hoti.

Now, at that time Venerable Mahāmoggallāna was sitting not far from the Buddha.

Atha kho āyasmato mahāmoggallānassa etadahosi:

He thought,

“kiṃ nu kho so yakkho bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhisamecca anumodi udāhu no;

“Did that spirit comprehend what the Buddha said when he agreed with him, or not?

yannūnāhaṃ taṃ yakkhaṃ jāneyyaṃ—

Why don’t I find out?”

yadi vā so yakkho bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhisamecca anumodi yadi vā no”ti?

Atha kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno—seyyathāpi nāma balavā puriso samiñjitaṃ vā bāhaṃ pasāreyya, pasāritaṃ vā bāhaṃ samiñjeyya; evameva—pubbārāme migāramātupāsāde antarahito devesu tāvatimśesu pāturahosi.

And then Venerable Mahāmoggallāna, as easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, vanished from the Eastern Monastery and reappeared among the gods of the Thirty-Three.

Tena kho pana samayena sakko devānamindo ekapuṇḍarīke uyyāne dibbehi pañcahi tūriyasatehi samappito samañgībhūto paricāreti.

Now at that time Sakka was amusing himself in the Single Lotus Park, supplied and provided with a divine orchestra.

Addasā kho sakko devānamindo āyasmantaṃ mahāmoggallānaṃ dūratova āgacchantaṃ.

he dismissed the orchestra, approached Mahāmoggallāna, and said,

“ehi kho, mārīsa moggallāna, svāgataṃ, mārīsa moggallāna.

“Come, my good Moggallāna! Welcome, good sir!

Cirassaṃ kho, mārīsa moggallāna, imaṃ pariyāyaṃ akāsi

It’s been a long time since you took the opportunity to come here.

Nisīda, mārīsa moggallāna, idamāsaṇaṃ paññattaṃ”ti.

Sit, my good Moggallāna, this seat is for you.”

Nisīdi kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno paññatte āsane.

Mahāmoggallāna sat down on the seat spread out,

Sakkopi kho devānamindo aññataraṃ nīcaṃ āsaṇaṃ gahetvā while Sakka took a low seat and sat to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho sakkaṃ devānamindaṃ āyasmā mahāmoggallāno etadavoca:

Mahāmoggallāna said to him,

“yathā kathaṃ pana kho, kosiya, bhagavā saṅkhittena taṇhāsaṅkhayavimuttiṃ abhāsi?

“Kosiya, how did the Buddha briefly explain freedom through the ending of craving?”

Sādhū mayampi etissā kathāya bhāgino assāma savaṇāyā”ti.

Please share this talk with me so that I can also get to hear it.”

“Mayaṃ kho, mārisa moggallāna, bahukiccā bahukaraṇīyā—

“My good Moggallāna, I have many duties, and much to do, appeva sakena karaṇīyena, api ca devānaṃyeva tāvatimsānaṃ karaṇīyena.

not only for myself, but also for the Gods of the Thirty-Three.

Api ca, mārisa moggallāna, sussutaṃyeva hoti suggahitaṃ sumanasikataṃ sūpadhāritaṃ, yaṃ no khippameva antaradhāyati.

Besides, I quickly forget even things I’ve properly heard, learned, attended, and memorized.

Bhūtapubbaṃ, mārisa moggallāna, devāsurasāṅgāmo samupabyūḷho ahoṣi.

Once upon a time, a battle was fought between the gods and the demons.

Tasmiṃ kho pana, mārisa moggallāna, saṅgāme devā jiniṃsu, asurā parājiniṃsu.

In that battle the gods won and the demons lost.

So kho ahaṃ, mārisa moggallāna, taṃ saṅgāmaṃ abhivijinitvā vijitasāṅgāmo tato paṭinivattitvā vejayantaṃ nāma pāsādaṃ māpesiṃ.

When I returned from that battle as a conqueror, I created the Palace of Victory.

Vejayantassa kho, mārīsa moggallāna, pāsādassa ekasataṃ niyyūhaṃ.

The Palace of Victory has a hundred towers.

Ekekasmīṃ niyyūhe satta satta kūṭāgārasatāni.

Each tower has seven hundred chambers.

Ekamekasmīṃ kūṭāgāre satta satta accharāyo.

Each chamber has seven nymphs.

Ekamekissā accharāya satta satta paricārikāyo.

Each nymph has seven maids.

lccheyyāsi no tvaṃ, mārīsa moggallāna, vejayantassa pāsādassa rāmaṇeyyakam daṭṭhun”ti?

Would you like to see the lovely Palace of Victory?”

Adhivāsesi kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno tuṅhībhāvena.

Mahāmoggallāna consented in silence.

Atha kho sakko ca devānamindo vessavaṇo ca mahārājā āyasmantaṃ mahāmoggallānaṃ purakkhatvā yena vejayanto pāsādo tenupasaṅkamīṃsu.

Then, putting Venerable Mahāmoggallāna in front, Sakka, lord of gods, and Vessavaṇa, the Great King, went to the Palace of Victory.

Addasaṃsu kho sakkassa devānamindassa paricārikāyo āyasmantaṃ mahāmoggallānaṃ dūratova āgacchantaṃ;

When they saw Moggallāna coming off in the distance, Sakka’s maids, being prudent and discreet, each went to her own bedroom.

Seyyathāpi nāma suṇisā sasuraṃ disvā ottappati hirīyati;

They were just like a daughter-in-law who is prudent and discreet when they see their father-in-law.

evameva sakkassa devānamindassa paricārikāyo āyasmantaṃ mahāmoggallānaṃ disvā ottappamānā hirīyamānā sakaṃ

Atha kho sakko ca devānamindo vessavaṇo ca mahārājā

Then Sakka and Vessavaṇa encouraged Moggallāna to wander and explore the palace, saying,

“idampi, mārisa moggallāna, passa vejayantassa pāsādassa

“See, in the palace, my good Moggallāna, this lovely thing!

idampi, mārisa moggallāna, passa vejayantassa pāsādassa

And that lovely thing!”

“Sobhati idaṃ āyasmato kosiyaṃ, yathā taṃ pubbe

“That looks nice for Venerable Kosiya, just like for someone who has made merit in the past.

Manussāpi kiñcīdeva rāmaṇeyyakaṃ disvā evamāhaṃsu:

Humans, when they see something lovely, also say:

‘sobhati vata bho yathā devānaṃ tāvatimsānaṃ’ti.

‘It looks nice enough for the Gods of the Thirty-Three!’

Tayidaṃ āyasmato kosiyaṃ sobhati, yathā taṃ pubbe

That looks nice for Venerable Kosiya, just like for someone who has made merit in the past.”

Atha kho āyasmato mahāmogallānassa etadahosi:

Then Moggallāna thought,

“atibāḷhaṃ kho ayaṃ yakkho pamatto viharati.

“This spirit lives much too negligently.

Yannūnāhaṃ imaṃ yakkhaṃ saṃvejeyyaṃ”ti.

Why don't I stir up a sense of urgency in him?"

Atha kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno tathārūpaṃ

Then Moggallāna used his psychic power to make the Palace of Victory shake and rock and tremble with his big toe.

Atha kho sakko ca devānamindo, vessavaṇo ca mahārājā, devā

Then Sakka, Vessavaṇa, and the Gods of the Thirty-Three, their minds full of wonder and amazement, thought,

“acchariyaṃ vata, bho, abbhutaṃ vata, bho.
“It's incredible, it's amazing!

Knowing that Sakka was shocked and awestruck, Moggallāna said to him,

“yathā kathaṃ pana kho, kosiya, bhagavā saṅkhittena “Kosiya, how did the Buddha briefly explain freedom through the Ekamantaṃ ʒhito kho ahaṃ, mārisa moggallāna, bhagavantaṃ etadavocaṃ:

“My dear Moggallāna, I approached the Buddha, bowed, stood to one side, and said to him, ‘kittāvatā nu kho, bhante, bhikkhu saṅkhittena taṇhāsaṅkhayavimutto hoti accantaniṭṭho accantayogakkhemī accantabrahmacārī accantapariyosāno seṭṭho devamanussānaṃ’ti?

‘Sir, how do you briefly define a mendicant who is freed with the ending of craving, who has reached the ultimate end, the ultimate sanctuary, the ultimate spiritual life, the ultimate goal, and is best among gods and humans?’

Evaṃ vutte, mārisa moggallāna, bhagavā maṃ etadavoca:

When I had spoken the Buddha said to me:

Evaṃ kho me, mārisa moggallāna, bhagavā saṅkhittena taṇhāsaṅkhayavimuttiṃ abhāsī”ti.

That's how the Buddha briefly explained freedom through the ending of craving to me.”

Atha kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno sakkassa devānamindassa bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā—seyyathāpi nāma balavā puriso samiñjitaṃ vā bāhaṃ pasāreyya, pasāritaṃ vā bāhaṃ

Moggallāna approved and agreed with what Sakka said. As easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, he vanished from among the Gods of the Thirty-Three and reappeared in the Eastern Monastery.

Atha kho sakkassa devānamindassa paricārikāyo acirapakkante

“Good sir, was that the Blessed One, your Teacher?”

“Na kho me, mārisa, so bhagavā satthā.

“No, it was not.

Satisfied, Venerable Mahāmoggallāna was happy with what the Buddha said.

38. Mahātaṇhāsaṅkhasutta

The Longer Discourse on the Ending of Craving

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena sātissa nāma bhikkhuno kevaṭṭaputtassa evarūpaṃ pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ uppannaṃ
hoti:

Now at that time a mendicant called Sāti, the fisherman’s son, had the following harmful misconception:

“tathāhaṃ bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāmi yathā tadevidaṃ viññāṇaṃ sandhāvati saṃsarati anaññaṃ”ti.

“As I understand the Buddha’s teachings, it is this very same consciousness that roams and transmigrates, not another.”

Assosum kho sambahulā bhikkhū:

Several mendicants heard about this.

“sātissa kira nāma bhikkhuno kevaṭṭaputtassa evarūpaṃ pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ uppannaṃ:

‘tathāhaṃ bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāmi yathā tadevidaṃ viññāṇaṃ sandhāvati saṃsarati, anaññaṃ’”ti.

Atha kho te bhikkhū yena sāti bhikkhu kevaṭṭaputto tenupasaṅkamim̐su; upasaṅkamtivā sātīm bhikkhum̐ kevaṭṭaputtam̐ etadavocum̐:

They went up to Sāti and said to him,

“saccam̐ kira te, āvuso sāti, evarūpaṃ pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ uppannam̐:

“Is it really true, Reverend Sāti, that you have such a harmful misconception:

‘tathāham̐ bhagavatā dhammam̐ desitam̐ ājānāmi yathā tadevidam̐ viññāṇam̐ sandhāvati saṃsarati, anaññan’”ti?

‘As I understand the Buddha’s teachings, it is this very same consciousness that roams and transmigrates, not another’?”

“Evaṃ byā kho aham̐, āvuso, bhagavatā dhammam̐ desitam̐ ājānāmi yathā tadevidam̐ viññāṇam̐ sandhāvati saṃsarati, anaññan’”ti.

“Absolutely, reverends. As I understand the Buddha’s teachings, it is this very same consciousness that roams and transmigrates, not another.”

Atha kho te bhikkhū sātīm bhikkhum̐ kevaṭṭaputtam̐ etasmā pāpakā diṭṭhigatā vivecetukāmā samanuyuñjanti samanugāhanti samanubhāsanti:

Then, wishing to dissuade Sāti from his view, the mendicants pursued, pressed, and grilled him,

“mā evaṃ, āvuso sāti, avaca, mā bhagavantam̐ abbhācikkhi, na hi sādhu bhagavato abbhakkhānam̐, na hi bhagavā evaṃ vadeyya.

“Don’t say that, Sāti! Don’t misrepresent the Buddha, for misrepresentation of the Buddha is not good. And the Buddha would not say that.

Anekapariyāyenāvuso sāti, paṭiccasamuppannam̐ viññāṇam̐ vuttam̐ bhagavatā, aññatra paccayā natthi viññāṇassa sambhavo”ti.

In many ways the Buddha has said that consciousness is dependently originated, since consciousness does not arise without a cause.”

Evampi kho sāti bhikkhu kevaṭṭaputto tehi bhikkhūhi samanuyuññijyamāno samanugāhiyamāno samanubhāsiyamāno tadeva pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ thāmasā parāmāsā abhinivissa voharati:

But even though the mendicants pressed him in this way, Sāti obstinately stuck to his misconception and insisted on stating it.

“evaṃ byā kho ahaṃ, āvuso, bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāmi yathā tadevidaṃ viññāṇaṃ sandhāvati saṃsarati anaññaṃ”ti.

Yato kho te bhikkhū nāsakkhiṃsu sātiraṃ bhikkhuraṃ kevaṭṭaputtaṃ etasmā pāpakā diṭṭhigatā viveceturaṃ, atha kho te bhikkhū yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamiṃsu; upasaṅkamitvā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdiṃsu. Ekamantaṃ nisinnā kho te bhikkhū bhagavantaṃ etadavocuraṃ:

When they weren’t able to dissuade Sāti from his view, the mendicants went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened.

“sātissa nāma, bhante, bhikkhuno kevaṭṭaputtassa evarūpaṃ pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ uppannaṃ:

Evaṃ vutte, bhante, sāti bhikkhu kevaṭṭaputto amhe etadavoca:

‘evaṃ byā kho ahaṃ, āvuso, bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāmi yathā tadevidaṃ viññāṇaṃ sandhāvati saṃsarati, anaññaṃ’ti.

Atha kho bhagavā aññataraṃ bhikkhuṃ āmantesi:

So the Buddha said to a certain monk,

“ehi tvaṃ bhikkhu, mama vacanena sātīṃ bhikkhuṃ

“Please, monk, in my name tell the mendicant Sāti that “Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho so bhikkhu bhagavato paṭissutvā yena

“Yes, sir,” that monk replied. He went to Sāti and said to him,

“Yes, reverend,” Sāti replied. He went to the Buddha, bowed, and sat down to one side. The Buddha said to him,

“saccaṃ kira te, sāti, evarūpaṃ pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ

“Is it really true, Sāti, that you have such a harmful misconception:

“Evaṃ byā kho ahaṃ, bhante, bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ “Absolutely, sir. As I understand the Buddha’s teachings, it is this very same consciousness that roams and transmigrates, not another.”

“Katamaṃ taṃ, sāti, viññāṇaṃ”ti?

“Sāti, what is that consciousness?”

“Yvāyaṃ, bhante, vado vedeyyo tatra tatra kalyāṇapāpakānaṃ kammānaṃ vipākaṃ paṭisaṃvedetī”ti.

“Sir, it is he who speaks and feels and experiences the results of good and bad deeds in all the different realms.”

“Kassa nu kho nāma tvaṃ, moghapurisa, mayā evaṃ dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāsi?

“Silly man, who on earth have you ever known me to teach in that way?”

Nanu mayā, moghapurisa, anekapariyāyena paṭiccasamuppannaṃ viññāṇaṃ vuttaṃ, aññatra paccayā natthi viññāṇassa sambhavoti?

Haven’t I said in many ways that consciousness is dependently originated, since consciousness does not arise without a cause?

But still you misrepresent me by your wrong grasp, harm yourself, and make much bad karma.

Taṃhi te, moghapurisa, bhavissati dīgharattaṃ ahitāya dukkhāyā”ti.

This will be for your lasting harm and suffering.”

Atha kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to the mendicants,

“Taṃ kiṃ maññatha, bhikkhave,

“What do you think, mendicants?”

api nāyaṃ sāti bhikkhu kevaṭṭaputto usmīkatopi imasmim dhammavinaye”ti?

Has this mendicant Sāti kindled even a spark of wisdom in this teaching and training?”

“Kiñhi siyā, bhante?

“How could that be, sir?

No, sir.”

Evaṃ vutte, sāti bhikkhu kevaṭṭaputto tuṅhībhūto maṅkubhūto pattakkhandho adhomukho pajjhāyanto appaṭibhāno nisīdi.

When this was said, Sāti sat silent, embarrassed, shoulders drooping, downcast, depressed, with nothing to say.

Atha kho bhagavā sātīm bhikkhum kevaṭṭaputtam tuṅhībhūtam maṅkubhūtam pattakkhandham adhomukham pajjhāyantam appaṭibhānam veditvā sātīm bhikkhum kevaṭṭaputtam etadavoca:

Knowing this, the Buddha said,

“paññāyissasi kho tvam, moghapurisa, etena sakena pāpakena diṭṭhigatena.

“Silly man, you will be known by your own harmful misconception.

Idhāham bhikkhū paṭipucchissāmī”ti.

I’ll question the mendicants about this.”

Atha kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to the mendicants,

“tumhepi me, bhikkhave, evaṃ dhammam desitam ājānātha yathāyaṃ sāti bhikkhu kevaṭṭaputto attanā duggahitena amhe ceva abbhācikkhati, attānañca khaṇati, bahuñca apuññaṃ pasavatī”ti?

“Mendicants, do you understand my teachings as Sāti does, when he misrepresents me by his wrong grasp, harms himself, and makes much bad karma?”

“No hetam, bhante.

“No, sir.

Anekapariyāyena hi no, bhante, paṭiccasamuppannam viññāṇam vuttam bhagavatā, aññatra paccayā natthi viññāṇassa sambhavo”ti.

For in many ways the Buddha has told us that consciousness is dependently originated, since consciousness does not arise without a cause.”

“Sādhu sādhu, bhikkhave.

“Good, good, mendicants!

Sādhu kho me tumhe, bhikkhave, evam dhammam desitam ājānātha.

It’s good that you understand my teaching like this.

Anekapariyāyena hi vo, bhikkhave, paṭiccasamuppannam viññāṇam vuttam mayā, aññatra paccayā natthi viññāṇassa sambhavo”ti.

For in many ways I have told you that consciousness is dependently originated, since consciousness does not arise without a cause.

Atha ca panāyam sāti bhikkhu kevaṭṭaputto attanā duggahitena amhe ceva abbhācikkhati, attānañca khaṇati, bahuñca apuññaṃ pasavati.

But still this Sāti misrepresents me by his wrong grasp, harms himself, and makes much bad karma.

Taṃhi tassa moghapurisassa bhavissati dīgharattam ahitāya dukkhāya.

This will be for his lasting harm and suffering.

“Good, mendicants! You have been guided by me with this teaching that’s visible in this very life, immediately effective, inviting inspection, relevant, so that sensible people can know it for themselves.

Sandiṭṭhiko ayaṃ, bhikkhave, dhammo akāliko ehipassiko opaneyyiko paccattaṃ veditabbo viññūhi—

For when I said that this teaching is visible in this very life, immediately effective, inviting inspection, relevant, so that sensible people can know it for themselves, iti yantaṃ vuttaṃ, idametaṃ paṭicca vuttanti.

this is what I was referring to.

Tiṇṇaṃ kho pana, bhikkhave, sannipātā gabbhassāvakkanti hoti.

Mendicants, when three things come together an embryo is conceived.

Idha mātāpitāro ca sannipatitā honti, mātā ca na utunī hoti, gandhabbo ca na paccupaṭṭhito hoti, neva tāva gabbhassāvakkanti hoti.

In a case where the mother and father come together, but the mother is not in the fertile part of her menstrual cycle, and the spirit being reborn is not present, the embryo is not conceived.

Idha mātāpitaro ca sannipatitā honti, mātā ca utunī hoti, gandhabbo ca na paccupaṭṭhito hoti, neva tāva gabbhassāvakkanti hoti.

In a case where the mother and father come together, the mother is in the fertile part of her menstrual cycle, but the spirit being reborn is not present, the embryo is not conceived.

Yato ca kho, bhikkhave, mātāpitaro ca sannipatitā honti, mātā ca utunī hoti, gandhabbo ca paccupaṭṭhito hoti—evaṃ tiṇṇaṃ sannipātā gabbhassāvakkanti hoti.

But when these three things come together—the mother and father come together, the mother is in the fertile part of her menstrual cycle, and the spirit being reborn is present—an embryo is conceived.

Tamenaṃ, bhikkhave, mātā nava vā dasa vā māse gabbhaṃ kucchinā pariharati mahatā saṃsayena garubhāraṃ.

The mother nurtures the embryo in her womb for nine or ten months at great risk to her heavy burden.

Tamenaṃ, bhikkhave, mātā navannaṃ vā dasannaṃ vā māsānaṃ accayena vijāyati mahatā saṃsayena garubhāraṃ.

When nine or ten months have passed, the mother gives birth at great risk to her heavy burden.

Tamenaṃ jātaṃ samānaṃ sakena lohiteṇa poseti.

When the infant is born she nourishes it with her own blood.

Lohitañhetam, bhikkhave, ariyassa vinaye yadidaṃ mātuthaññaṃ.

For mother's milk is regarded as blood in the training of the noble one.

But consider when a Realized One arises in the world, perfected, a fully awakened Buddha, accomplished in knowledge and conduct, holy, knower of the world, supreme guide for those who wish to train, teacher of gods and humans, awakened, blessed.

So imam̃ lokam̃ sadevakam̃ samārakam̃ sabrahmakam̃

They gain faith in the Realized One,

So tena saddhāpaṭilābhena samannāgato iti paṭisañcikkhati:

and reflect,

After some time they give up a large or small fortune, and a large or small family circle. They shave off hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

So evaṃ pabbajito samāno bhikkhūnaṃ

sabbapāṇabhūtāhitānukampī viharati.

Once they’ve gone forth, they take up the training and livelihood of the mendicants. They give up killing living creatures, renouncing the rod and the sword. They’re scrupulous and kind, living full of compassion for all living beings.

Adinnādānaṃ pahāya adinnādānā paṭivirato hoti, dinnādāyī dinnapāṭikaṅkhī athenena sucibhūtena attanā viharati.

They give up stealing. They take only what's given, and expect only what's given. They keep themselves clean by not thieving.

Abrahmacariyaṃ pahāya brahmacārī hoti, ārācārī virato methunā gāmadhammā.

They give up unchastity. They are celibate, set apart, avoiding the common practice of sex.

Musāvādaṃ pahāya musāvādā paṭivirato hoti, saccavādī saccasandho theto paccayiko avisaṃvādako lokassa.

They give up lying. They speak the truth and stick to the truth. They're honest and trustworthy, and don't trick the world with their words.

Pisuṇaṃ vācaṃ pahāya pisuṇāya vācāya paṭivirato hoti—ito sutvā na amutra akkhātā imesaṃ bhedāya, amutra vā sutvā na imesaṃ akkhātā amūsaṃ bhedāya. Iti bhinnānaṃ vā sandhātā, sahitānaṃ vā anuppadātā samaggārāmo samaggarato samagganandī, samaggakaraṇiṃ vācaṃ bhāsītā hoti.

They give up divisive speech. They don't repeat in one place what they heard in another so as to divide people against each other. Instead, they reconcile those who are divided, supporting unity, delighting in harmony, loving harmony, speaking words that promote harmony.

Pharusāṃ vācaṃ pahāya pharusāya vācāya paṭivirato hoti—yā sā vācā nelā kaṇṇasukhā pemaṇiyā hadayaṅgamā porī bahujanakantā bahujanamanāpā tathārūpiṃ vācaṃ bhāsītā hoti.

They give up harsh speech. They speak in a way that's mellow, pleasing to the ear, lovely, going to the heart, polite, likable and agreeable to the people.

Samphappalāpaṃ pahāya samphappalāpā paṭivirato hoti, atthasaṃhitam̐.

They give up talking nonsense. Their words are timely, true, and meaningful, in line with the teaching and training. They say things at the right time which are valuable, reasonable, succinct, and beneficial.

So bījagāma bhūtagāmasamārambhā paṭivirato hoti,

They avoid injuring plants and seeds.

ekabhattiko hoti rattūparato, virato vikālabhojanā.

They eat in one part of the day, abstaining from eating at night and food at the wrong time.

Naccagītavāditavisūkadassanā paṭivirato hoti,

They avoid dancing, singing, music, and seeing shows.

mālāgandhavilepanadhāraṇamaṇḍanavibhūsanatṭhānā
paṭivirato hoti,

They avoid beautifying and adorning themselves with garlands, perfumes, and makeup.

uccāsayanamahāsayanā paṭivirato hoti,

They avoid high and luxurious beds.

jātarūparajata paṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti,

They avoid receiving gold and money,

āmakadhaññapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti,

raw grains,

āmakamaṃsapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti,

raw meat,

itthikumārikapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti,

women and girls,

dāsīdāsapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti,

male and female bondservants,

ajeḷakapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti,
goats and sheep,

kukkuṭasūkarapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti,
chickens and pigs,

hatthigavāssavaḷavapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti,
elephants, cows, horses, and mares,

khettavatthupaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti,
and fields and land.

dūteyyapahiṇagamanānuyogā paṭivirato hoti,
They avoid running errands and messages;

kayavikkayā paṭivirato hoti,
buying and selling;

tulākūṭakaṃsakūṭamānakūṭā paṭivirato hoti,
falsifying weights, metals, or measures;

ukkoṭanavañcananikatisāciyogā paṭivirato hoti,
bribery, fraud, cheating, and duplicity;

chedanavadhabandhanaviparāmosaālopasahasākārā paṭivirato hoti.

mutilation, murder, abduction, banditry, plunder, and violence.

So santuṭṭho hoti kāyaparihārikena cīvarena kucchiparihārikena piṇḍapātena. So yena yeneva pakkamati samādāyeva pakkamati.

They're content with robes to look after the body and alms-food to look after the belly. Wherever they go, they set out taking only these things.

Seyyathāpi nāma pakkhī sakuṇo yena yeneva ḍeti sapattabhārova ḍeti;

They're like a bird: wherever it flies, wings are its only burden.

evameva bhikkhu santuṭṭho hoti kāyaparihārikena cīvarena, kucchiparihārikena piṇḍapātena. So yena yeneva pakkamati samādāyeva pakkamati.

In the same way, a mendicant is content with robes to look after the body and alms-food to look after the belly. Wherever they go, they set out taking only these things.

So iminā ariyena sīlakkhandhena samannāgato ajjhataṃ anavajjasukhaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti.

When they have this entire spectrum of noble ethics, they experience a blameless happiness inside themselves.

So cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā na nimittaggāhī hoti nānubyañjanaggāhī.

When they see a sight with their eyes, they don't get caught up in the features and details.

Yatvādhikaraṇameṇaṃ cakkhundriyaṃ asaṃvutaṃ viharantaṃ abhijjhādomanassā pāpakā akusalā dhammā anvāssaveyyuṃ tassa saṃvarāya paṭipajjati, rakkhati cakkhundriyaṃ, cakkhundriye saṃvaraṃ āpajjati.

If the faculty of sight were left unrestrained, bad unskillful qualities of desire and aversion would become overwhelming. For this reason, they practice restraint, protecting the faculty of sight, and achieving its restraint.

When they know a thought with their mind, they don't get caught up in the features and details.

Yatvādhikaraṇamenam manindriyam asaṃvutaṃ viharantaṃ

If the faculty of mind were left unrestrained, bad unskillful qualities of desire and aversion would become overwhelming. For this reason, they practice restraint, protecting the faculty of mind, and achieving its restraint.

So iminā ariyena indriyasamvarena samannāgato ajjhataṃ

When they have this noble sense restraint, they experience an unsullied bliss inside themselves.

So abhikkante paṭikkante sampajānakārī hoti, ālokite vilokite

They act with situational awareness when going out and coming back; when looking ahead and aside; when bending and extending the limbs; when bearing the outer robe, bowl and robes; when eating, drinking, chewing, and tasting; when urinating and defecating; when walking, standing, sitting, sleeping, waking, speaking, and keeping silent.

So iminā ca ariyena sīlakkhandhena samannāgato, imāya ca ariyāya santuṭṭhiyā samannāgato, iminā ca ariyena indriyasamvarena samannāgato, iminā ca ariyena

When they have this noble spectrum of ethics, this noble sense restraint, and this noble mindfulness and situational awareness, vivittam senāsanam bhajati—araññam rukkhamūlam pabbatam kandaram giriguham susānam vanapattham abbhokāsam palālapuñjam.

they frequent a secluded lodging—a wilderness, the root of a tree, a hill, a ravine, a mountain cave, a charnel ground, a forest, the open air, a heap of straw.

So pacchābhattam piṇḍapātaṭikkanto nisīdati pallaṅkam ābhujitvā, ujum kāyam pañidhāya, parimukham satim upaṭṭhapetvā.

After the meal, they return from alms-round, sit down cross-legged with their body straight, and establish mindfulness right there.

So abhijjam loke pahāya vigatābhijjena cetasā viharati, abhijjhāya cittaṃ parisodheti;

Giving up desire for the world, they meditate with a heart rid of desire, cleansing the mind of desire.

byāpādapadosam pahāya abyāpannacitto viharati, sabbapāṇabhūtahitānukampī, byāpādapadosā cittaṃ parisodheti;

Giving up ill will and malevolence, they meditate with a mind rid of ill will, full of compassion for all living beings, cleansing the mind of ill will.

thinamiddham pahāya vigatathinamiddho viharati ālokasaññī, sato sampajāno, thinamiddhā cittaṃ parisodheti;

Giving up dullness and drowsiness, they meditate with a mind rid of dullness and drowsiness, perceiving light, mindful and aware, cleansing the mind of dullness and drowsiness.

uddhaccakukkuccam pahāya anuddhato viharati ajjhataṃ vūpasantacitto, uddhaccakukkuccā cittaṃ parisodheti;

Giving up restlessness and remorse, they meditate without restlessness, their mind peaceful inside, cleansing the mind of restlessness and remorse.

vicikiccham pahāya tiṇṇavicikiccho viharati akathaṅkathī kusalesu dhammesu, vicikicchāya cittaṃ parisodheti.

Giving up doubt, they meditate having gone beyond doubt, not undecided about skillful qualities, cleansing the mind of doubt.

So ime pañca nīvaraṇe pahāya cetaso upakkilese paññāya
dubbalīkaṇe,

They give up these five hindrances, corruptions of the heart that weaken wisdom.

vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamam jhānam
upasampajja viharati.

Then, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, they enter and remain in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhataṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ ...pe...

Furthermore, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, a mendicant enters and remains in the second absorption

...

tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ ...pe...

third absorption ...

catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

fourth absorption.

So cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā piyarūpe rūpe na sārājati, appiyarūpe rūpe na byāpajjati, upaṭṭhitakāyasati ca viharati appamañacetaso.

When they see a sight with their eyes, if it's pleasant they don't desire it, and if it's unpleasant they don't dislike it. They live with mindfulness of the body established and a limitless heart.

Tañca cetovimuttiṃ paññāvimuttiṃ yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti yatthassa te pāpakā akusalā dhammā aparisesā nirujjhanti.

And they truly understand the freedom of heart and freedom by wisdom where those arisen bad, unskillful qualities cease without anything left over.

So evaṃ anurodhavirodhavippahīno yaṃ kiñci vedanaṃ vedeti,

The Longer Discourse at Assapura

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṅgesu viharati assapuram nama aṅgānam nigamo.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Aṅgas, near the Aṅgan town named Assapura.

Tatra kho bhagavaṅ bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavaṅ etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Samaṇā samaṇāti vo, bhikkhave, jano sañjānāti.

“Mendicants, people label you as ascetics.

Tumhe ca pana ‘ke tumhe’ti puṭṭhā samānā ‘samaṇāmhā’ti paṭijānātha;

And when they ask you what you are, you claim to be ascetics.

tesaṃ vo, bhikkhave, evaṃsamaññaṇaṃ sataṃ

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu vivittaṃ senāsaṇaṃ bhajati—araññaṃ rukkhamaṃ pabbataṃ kandaraṃ giriguhaṃ susānaṃ vanappatthaṃ abbhokāsaṃ palālapuñjaṃ.

Take a mendicant who frequents a secluded lodging—a wilderness, the root of a tree, a hill, a ravine, a mountain cave, a charnel ground, a forest, the open air, a heap of straw.

So pacchābhattam piṇḍapātaṭikkanto nisīdati pallaṅkam ābhujitvā, ujum kāyam paṇidhāya parimukham satim upaṭṭhapetvā.

After the meal, they return from alms-round, sit down cross-legged with their body straight, and establish mindfulness right there.

So abhijjham loke pahāya vigatābhijjhena cetasā viharati, abhijjhāya cittaṃ parisodheti;

Giving up desire for the world, they meditate with a heart rid of desire, cleansing the mind of desire.

byāpādapadosam pahāya abyāpannacitto viharati, sabbapāṇabhūtahitānukampī, byāpādapadosā cittaṃ parisodheti;

Giving up ill will and malevolence, they meditate with a mind rid of ill will, full of compassion for all living beings, cleansing the mind of ill will.

thinamiddham pahāya vigatathinamiddho viharati, ālokasaññī sato sampajāno, thinamiddhā cittaṃ parisodheti;

Giving up dullness and drowsiness, they meditate with a mind rid of dullness and drowsiness, perceiving light, mindful and aware, cleansing the mind of dullness and drowsiness.

uddhaccakukkuccam pahāya anuddhato viharati, ajjhattam vūpasantacitto, uddhaccakukkuccā cittaṃ parisodheti;

Giving up restlessness and remorse, they meditate without restlessness, their mind peaceful inside, cleansing the mind of restlessness and remorse.

vicikiccham pahāya tiṇṇavicikiccho viharati, akathaṅkathī kusalesu dhammesu, vicikicchāya cittaṃ parisodheti.

Giving up doubt, they meditate having gone beyond doubt, not undecided about skillful qualities, cleansing the mind of doubt.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu yathā iṇaṃ yathā rogaṃ kantāraddhānamaggaṃ, ime pañca nīvaraṇe appahīne attani samanupassati.

In the same way, as long as these five hindrances are not given up inside themselves, a mendicant regards them as a debt, a disease, a prison, slavery, and a desert crossing.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, āṇaṇyaṃ yathā ārogyaṃ yathā bandhanāmokkhaṃ yathā bhujissaṃ yathā khemantabhūmiṃ; evameva bhikkhu ime pañca nīvaraṇe pahīne attani samanupassati.

But when these five hindrances are given up inside themselves, a mendicant regards this as freedom from debt, good health, release from prison, emancipation, and sanctuary.

So ime pañca nīvaraṇe pahāya cetaso upakkilese paññāya dubbalīkaṇe,

They give up these five hindrances, corruptions of the heart that weaken wisdom.

vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi, savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Then, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, they enter and remain in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

So imameva kāyaṃ vivekajena pītisukhena abhisandeti parisandeti paripūreti parippharati, nāssa kiñci sabbāvato kāyassa vivekajena pītisukhena apphuṭaṃ hoti.

They drench, steep, fill, and spread their body with rapture and bliss born of seclusion. There's no part of the body that's not spread with rapture and bliss born of seclusion.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, dakkho nhāpako vā nhāpakantevāsī vā kaṃsathāle nhānīyacuṇṇāni ākiritvā udakena paripphosakaṃ paripphosakaṃ sanneyya. Sāyaṃ nhānīyapiṇḍi snehānugatā snehaparetā santarabāhirā, phuṭā snehena na ca pagghariṇī.

It's like when a deft bathroom attendant or their apprentice pours bath powder into a bronze dish, sprinkling it little by little with water. They knead it until the ball of bath powder is soaked and saturated with moisture, spread through inside and out; yet no moisture oozes out.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu imameva kāyaṃ vivekajena pītisukhena abhisandeti parisandeti paripūreti parippharati, nāssa kiñci sabbāvato kāyassa vivekajena pītisukhena apphuṭaṃ hoti.

In the same way, a mendicant drenches, steeps, fills, and spreads their body with rapture and bliss born of seclusion. There's no part of the body that's not spread with rapture and bliss born of seclusion.

Furthermore, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, a mendicant enters and remains in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

So imameva kāyaṃ samādhijena pītisukhena abhisandeti parisandeti paripūreti parippharati, nāssa kiñci sabbāvato kāyassa samādhijena pītisukhena apphuṭaṃ hoti.

They drench, steep, fill, and spread their body with rapture and bliss born of immersion. There's no part of the body that's not spread with rapture and bliss born of immersion.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, udakarahado ubbhidodako. It's like a deep lake fed by spring water. There's no inlet to the east, west, north, or south, and no rainfall to replenish it from time to time.

But the stream of cool water welling up in the lake drenches, steeps, fills, and spreads throughout the lake. There's no part of the lake that's not spread through with cool water.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu imameva kāyaṃ samādhijena pītisukhena abhisandeti parisandeti paripūreti parippharati, nāssa kiñci sabbāvato kāyassa samādhijena pītisukhena apphuṭaṃ hoti.

In the same way, a mendicant drenches, steeps, fills, and spreads their body with rapture and bliss born of immersion. There's no part of the body that's not spread with rapture and bliss born of immersion.

Furthermore, with the fading away of rapture, a mendicant enters and remains in the third absorption, where they meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, 'Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.'

So imameva kāyaṃ nippītikena sukhena abhisandeti parisandeti paripūreti parippharati, nāssa kiñci sabbāvato kāyassa nippītikena sukhena apphuṭaṃ hoti.

They drench, steep, fill, and spread their body with bliss free of rapture. There's no part of the body that's not spread with bliss free of rapture.

It's like a pool with blue water lilies, or pink or white lotuses. Some of them sprout and grow in the water without rising above it, thriving underwater. From the tip to the root they're drenched, steeped, filled, and soaked with cool water. There's no part of them that's not soaked with cool water.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu imameva kāyaṃ nippītikena sukhena abhisandeti parisandeti paripūreti parippharati, nāssa kiñci sabbāvato kāyassa nippītikena sukhena apphuṭaṃ hoti.

Furthermore, giving up pleasure and pain, and ending former happiness and sadness, a mendicant enters and remains in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

So imameva kāyaṃ parisuddhena cetasā pariyodātena pharivā nisinno hoti, nāssa kiñci sabbāvato kāyassa parisuddhena cetasā pariyodātena apphuṭaṃ hoti.

This mendicant is called an ‘ascetic’, a ‘brahmin’, a ‘bathed initiate’, a ‘knowledge master’, a ‘scholar’, a ‘noble one’, and a ‘perfected one’.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu samaṇo hoti?

And how is a mendicant an ascetic?

Samitāssa honti pāpakā akusalā dhammā, saṅkilesikā, ponobbhaviḱā, sadarā, dukkhavipākā, āyatim, jātijarāmarañiyā.

They have quelled the bad, unskillful qualities that are corrupted, leading to future lives, hurtful, resulting in suffering and future rebirth, old age, and death.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu samaṇo hoti.

That’s how a mendicant is an ascetic.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu brāhmaṇo hoti?

And how is a mendicant a brahmin?

Bāhitāssa honti pāpakā akusalā dhammā, saṅkilesikā, ponobbhaviḱā, sadarā, dukkhavipākā, āyatim, jātijarāmarañiyā.

They have barred out the bad, unskillful qualities.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu brāhmaṇo hoti.

That’s how a mendicant is a brahmin.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu nhātako hoti?

Nhātāssa honti pāpakā akusalā dhammā, saṅkilesikā, ponobbhaviḱā, sadarā, dukkhavipākā, āyatim, jātijarāmarañiyā.

They have bathed off the bad, unskillful qualities.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu nhātako hoti.

That’s how a mendicant is a bathed initiate.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu vedagū hoti?

And how is a mendicant a knowledge master?

Viditāssa honti pāpakā akusalā dhammā, saṅkilesikā,

They have known the bad, unskillful qualities.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu vedagū hoti.
That's how a mendicant is a knowledge master.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sottiyo hoti?
And how is a mendicant a scholar?

Nissutāssa honti pāpakā akusalā dhammā, saṅkilesikā,

They are far away from the bad, unskillful qualities.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu ariyo hoti.
That's how a mendicant is a noble one.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu araham hoti?
And how is a mendicant a perfected one?

Ārakāssa honti pāpakā akusalā dhammā, saṅkilesikā,

They are far away from the bad, unskillful qualities that are corrupted, leading to future lives, hurtful, resulting in suffering and future rebirth, old age, and death.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu araham hoti”ti.
That's how a mendicant is a perfected one.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

40. Cūḷaassapurasutta

The Shorter Discourse at Assapura

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṅgesu viharati assapuram nama aṅgānam nigamo.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Aṅgas, near the Aṅgan town named Assapura.

Tatra kho bhagavaṅ bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavaṅ etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Samaṇā samaṇāti vo, bhikkhave, jano sañjānāti.

“Mendicants, people label you as ascetics.

Tumhe ca pana ‘ke tumhe’ti puṭṭhā samānā ‘samaṇāmhā’ti paṭijānātha.

And when they ask you what you are, you claim to be ascetics.

Tesaṃ vo, bhikkhave, evaṃsamaññaṃ satam evaṃpaṭiññaṃ satam:

Given this label and this claim, you should train like this: ‘We will practice in the way that is proper for an ascetic. That way our label will be accurate and our claim correct.

‘yā samaṇasāmīcippaṭipadā taṃ paṭipajjissāma; evaṃ no ayaṃ amhākaṃ samañña ca saccā bhavissati paṭiñña ca bhūtā;

yesañca mayaṃ

cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhāraṃ paribhuñjāma, tesaṃ te kārā amhesu mahapphalā bhavissanti mahānisaṃsā, amhākañcevāyaṃ pabbajjā avañjhā bhavissati saphalā saudrayā’ti.

Any robes, alms-food, lodgings, and medicines and supplies for the sick that we use will be very fruitful and beneficial for the donor. And our going forth will not be wasted, but will be fruitful and fertile.’

Evañhi vo, bhikkhave, sikkhitabbaṃ.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu na samaṇasāmīcippaṭipadaṃ paṭipanno hoti?

And how does a mendicant not practice in the way that is proper for an ascetic?

Yassa kassaci, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno abhijjhālussa abhijjhā pāpicchassa pāpikā icchā appahīnā hoti, micchādiṭṭhikassa micchādiṭṭhi appahīnā hoti—

There are some mendicants who have not given up covetousness, ill will, irritability, hostility, disdain, contempt, jealousy, stinginess, deviousness, deceit, bad desires, and wrong view.

imesaṃ kho ahaṃ, bhikkhave, samaṇamalānaṃ

These stains, defects, and dregs of an ascetic are grounds for rebirth in places of loss, and are experienced in bad places. As long as they have not given these up, they do not practice in the way that is proper for an ascetic, I say.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, matajaṃ nāma āvudhajātaṃ

I say that such a mendicant’s going forth may be compared to the kind of weapon called ‘death-dealer’—double-edged, hardened, and keen—covered and wrapped in the outer robe.

Imagine that just by wearing an outer robe someone with covetousness, ill will, irritability, hostility, disdain, contempt, jealousy, stinginess, deviousness, deceit, bad desires, and wrong view could give up these things. If that were the case, your friends and colleagues, relatives and kin would make you an outer robe wearer

These stains, defects, and dregs of an ascetic are grounds for rebirth in places of loss, and are experienced in bad places. When they have given these up, they are practicing in the way that is proper for an ascetic, I say.

41. Sāleyyakasutta The People of Sālā

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava kosalesu carikam caramano mahata bhikkhusanghena saddhim yena salā nama kosalanam
brahmanagamō tadavasari.

At one time the Buddha was wandering in the land of the Kosalans together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants when he arrived at a village of the Kosalan brahmins named Sālā.

Assosum kho sāleyyakā brahmanagahapatikā:

The brahmins and householders of Sālā heard,

“samaṇo khalu, bho, gotamo sakyaputto sakyakulā pabbajito kosalesu carikam caramano mahata bhikkhusanghena saddhim
salam anuppatto.

“It seems the ascetic Gotama—a Sakyan, gone forth from a Sakyan family—while wandering in the land of the Kosalans has arrived at Sālā, together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants.

Tam kho pana bhavantam gotamam evam kalyāṇo kittisaddo
abhuggato:

He has this good reputation:

‘itipi so bhagava araham sammāsambuddho vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānam buddho bhagavā’.

So imaṃ lokam sadevakam samarakam sabrahmakam sassamaṇabrāhmaṇim pajam sadevamanussam sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā pavedeti.

He has realized with his own insight this world—with its gods, Māras and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, gods and humans—and he makes it known to others.

So dhammam deseti ādikalyāṇam majjhekalyāṇam pariyosānakalyāṇam sāttham sabyañjanam;

He proclaims a teaching that is good in the beginning, good in the middle, and good in the end, with the right meaning and phrasing.

kevalaparipuṇṇam parisuddham brahmacariyam pakāseti.

He reveals an entirely full and pure spiritual life.

Sādhu kho pana tathārūpānam arahatam dassanam hoti”ti.

It’s good to see such perfected ones.”

Atha kho sāleyyakā brāhmaṇagahapatikā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā appekacce bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantam nisīdimsu; appekacce bhagavatā saddhim sammodimsu, sammodanīyam katham sāraṇīyam vītisāretvā ekamantam nisīdimsu; appekacce yena bhagavā tenañjalim paṇāmetvā ekamantam nisīdimsu; appekacce bhagavato santike nāmagottam sāvetvā ekamantam nisīdimsu; appekacce tuṅhībhūtā ekamantam nisīdimsu. Ekamantam nisinnā kho sāleyyakā brāhmaṇagahapatikā bhagavantam etadavocum:

Then the brahmins and householders of Sālā went up to the Buddha. Before sitting down to one side, some bowed, some exchanged greetings and polite conversation, some held up their joined palms toward the Buddha, some announced their name and clan, while some kept silent. Seated to one side they said to the Buddha:

“ko nu kho, bho gotama, hetu, ko paccayo, yena m’idhekacce sattā kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā apāyaṃ duggatiṃ vinipātaṃ nirayaṃ upapajjanti?”

“What is the cause, Master Gotama, what is the reason why some sentient beings, when their body breaks up, after death, are reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell?”

Ko pana, bho gotama, hetu, ko paccayo, yena m’idhekacce sattā kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā sugatiṃ saggāṃ lokaṃ upapajjanti”ti?”

And what is the cause, Master Gotama, what is the reason why some sentient beings, when their body breaks up, after death, are reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm?”

“Adhammacariyāvisamacariyāhetu kho, gahapatayo, evam’idhekacce sattā kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā apāyaṃ duggatiṃ vinipātaṃ nirayaṃ upapajjanti.

“Unprincipled and immoral conduct is the reason why some sentient beings, when their body breaks up, after death, are reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell.

Dhammacariyāsamacariyāhetu kho, gahapatayo, evam’idhekacce sattā kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā sugatiṃ saggāṃ lokaṃ upapajjanti”ti.

Principled and moral conduct is the reason why some sentient beings, when their body breaks up, after death, are reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.”

“Na kho mayaṃ imassa bho gotamassa saṅkhittena bhāsitaṃ, vitthārena atthaṃ avibhattaṃ, vitthārena atthaṃ ājānāma.

“We don’t understand the detailed meaning of Master Gotama’s brief statement.

Sādhū no bhavaṃ gotamo tathā dhammaṃ desetu, yathā mayaṃ imassa bho gotamassa saṅkhittena bhāsitaṃ, vitthārena atthaṃ avibhattassa, vitthārena atthaṃ

Master Gotama, please teach us this matter in detail so we can understand the meaning.”

“Tena hi, gahapatayo, suṇātha, sādhukaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmi”ti.

“Well then, householders, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bho”ti kho sāleyyakā brāhmaṇagahapatikā bhagavato paccassosum.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Tividhaṃ kho, gahapatayo, kāyena

“Householders, unprincipled and immoral conduct is threefold by way of body, fourfold by way of speech, and threefold by way of mind.

Kathaṅca, gahapatayo, tividhaṃ kāyena

And how is unprincipled and immoral conduct threefold by way of body?

Idha, gahapatayo, ekacco paṇātipātī hoti, luddo lohitapāṇi

It’s when a certain person kills living creatures. They’re violent, bloody-handed, a hardened killer, merciless to living beings.

Adinnādāyī kho pana hoti. Yam taṃ parassa paravittūpakaraṇaṃ, gāmagataṃ vā araṇṇagataṃ vā, taṃ adinnaṃ theyyasaṅkhātā ādātā hoti.

Kāmesumicchācārī kho pana hoti. Yā tā māturakkhitā piturakkhitā mātāpiturakkhitā bhāturakkhitā bhaginirakkhitā ñātirakkhitā gottarakkhitā dhammarakkhitā sassāmikā sapaṛidaṇḍā antamaso mālāguḷaparikkhittāpi, tathārūpāsu cārittaṃ āpajjitā hoti.

They commit sexual misconduct. They have sexual relations with women who have their mother, father, both mother and father, brother, sister, relatives, or clan as guardian. They have sexual relations with a woman who is protected on principle, or who has a husband, or whose violation is punishable by law, or even one who has been garlanded as a token of betrothal.

Evaṃ kho, gahapatayo, tividhaṃ kāyena adhammacariyāvisamacariyā hoti.

This is how unprincipled and immoral conduct is threefold by way of body.

Kathaṅca, gahapatayo, catubbidhaṃ vācāya adhammacariyāvisamacariyā hoti?

And how is unprincipled and immoral conduct fourfold by way of speech?

Idha, gahapatayo, ekacco musāvādī hoti. Sabhāgato vā parisāgato vā, ñātimajjhagato vā pūgamajjhagato vā rājakulamajjhagato vā, abhinīto sakkhipuṭṭho: ‘ehambho purisa, yaṃ jānāsi taṃ vadehī’ti, so ajānaṃ vā āha: ‘jānāmī’ti, jānaṃ vā āha: na jānāmī’ti, ‘apassaṃ vā āha: ‘passāmī’ti, passaṃ vā āha: ‘na passāmī’ti. Iti attahetu vā parahetu vā āmisakiñcikkhahetu vā sampajānamusā bhāsītā hoti.

It's when a certain person lies. They're summoned to a council, an assembly, a family meeting, a guild, or to the royal court, and asked to bear witness: 'Please, mister, say what you know.' Not knowing, they say 'I know.' Knowing, they say 'I don't know.' Not seeing, they say 'I see.' And seeing, they say 'I don't see.' So they deliberately lie for the sake of themselves or another, or for some trivial worldly reason.

Pisuṇavāco kho pana hoti. Ito sutvā amutra akkhātā imesaṃ bhedāya, amutra vā sutvā imesaṃ akkhātā amūsaṃ bhedāya. Iti samaggānaṃ vā bhettā, bhinnānaṃ vā anuppadātā, vaggārāmo vaggarato vagganandī vaggakaraṇiṃ vācaṃ bhāsītā hoti.

They speak divisively. They repeat in one place what they heard in another so as to divide people against each other. And so they divide those who are harmonious, supporting division, delighting in division, loving division, speaking words that promote division.

Pharusavāco kho pana hoti. Yā sā vācā aṇḍakā kakkasā parakaṭukā parābhisajjanī kodhasāmantā asamādhisaṃvattanikā, tathārūpiṃ vācaṃ bhāsītā hoti.

They speak harshly. They use the kinds of words that are cruel, nasty, hurtful, offensive, bordering on anger, not leading to immersion.

Samphappalāpī kho pana hoti. Akālavādī abhūtavādī anatthavādī adhammavādī avinayavādī. Anidhānavatiṃ vācaṃ bhāsītā hoti akālena anapadesaṃ apariyantavatiṃ anatthasaṃhitā.

They talk nonsense. Their speech is untimely, and is neither factual nor beneficial. It has nothing to do with the teaching or the training. Their words have no value, and are untimely, unreasonable, rambling, and pointless.

Evaṃ kho, gahapatayo, catubbidhaṃ vācāya adhammacariyāvisamacariyā hoti.

This is how unprincipled and immoral conduct is fourfold by way of speech.

Kathañca, gahapatayo, tividhañ manasā

And how is unprincipled and immoral conduct threefold by way of mind?

Idha, gahapatayo, ekacco abhijjhālu hoti, yañ tañ parassa paravittūpakaraṇaṃ tañ abhijjhātā hoti: ‘aho vata yañ parassa

It's when a certain person is covetous. They covet the wealth and belongings of others: ‘Oh, if only their belongings were mine!’

Byāpannacitto kho pana hoti paduṭṭhamanasañkappo: ‘ime

They have ill will and malicious intentions: ‘May these sentient beings be killed, slaughtered, slain, destroyed, or annihilated!’

Micchādiṭṭhiko kho pana hoti viparītadassano:

They have wrong view. Their perspective is distorted:

‘natthi dinnam natthi yiṭṭham natthi hutañ, natthi

‘There’s no meaning in giving, sacrifice, or offerings. There’s no fruit or result of good and bad deeds. There’s no afterlife. There’s no obligation to mother and father. No beings are reborn spontaneously. And there’s no ascetic or brahmin who is well attained and practiced, and who describes the afterlife after realizing it with their own insight.’

Evam̐ kho, gahapatayo, tividham̐ manasā

This is how unprincipled and immoral conduct is threefold by way of mind.

This is how principled and moral conduct is fourfold by way of speech.

Kathaṅca, gahapatayo, tividhaṃ manasā dhammacariyāsamacariyā hoti?

And how is principled and moral conduct threefold by way of mind?

Idha, gahapatayo, ekacco anabhijjhālu hoti, yaṃ taṃ parassa paravittūpakaraṇaṃ taṃ nābhijjhātā hoti: ‘aho vata yaṃ parassa taṃ mamassā’ti.

It's when a certain person is not covetous. They don't covet the wealth and belongings of others: 'Oh, if only their belongings were mine!'

Abyāpannacitto kho pana hoti appaduṭṭhamanasaṅkappo: ‘ime sattā averā abyābajjhā anīghā sukhī attānaṃ pariharantū’ti.

They have a kind heart and loving intentions: 'May these sentient beings live free of enmity and ill will, untroubled and happy!'

Sammādiṭṭhiko kho pana hoti aviparītadassano:

They have right view, an undistorted perspective:

‘atthi dinnam atthi yiṭṭham atthi hutam, atthi sukatadukkaṭānam kammānam phalam vipāko, atthi ayam loko atthi paro loko, atthi mātā atthi pitā, atthi sattā opapātikā, atthi loke samaṇabrāhmaṇā sammaggatā sammāpaṭipannā ye imaṅca lokam paraṅca lokam sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā pavedentī’ti.

'There is meaning in giving, sacrifice, and offerings. There are fruits and results of good and bad deeds. There is an afterlife. There is obligation to mother and father. There are beings reborn spontaneously. And there are ascetics and brahmins who are well attained and practiced, and who describe the afterlife after realizing it with their own insight.'

Evam kho, gahapatayo, tividham manasā dhammacariyāsamacariyā hoti.

This is how principled and moral conduct is threefold by way of mind.

Evam dhammacariyāsamacariyāhetu kho, gahapatayo, evam'idhekacce sattā kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā sugatim saggaṃ lokam upapajjanti.

This is how principled and moral conduct is the reason why some sentient beings, when their body breaks up, after death, are reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.

Ākaṅkheyya ce, gahapatayo, dhammacārī samacārī:

A person of principled and moral conduct might wish:

‘aho vatāhaṃ kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā

43. Mahāvedallasutta The Great Classification

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Atha kho āyasmā mahākoṭṭhiko sāyanhasamayam paṭisallānā āyasmatā sāriputtena saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then in the late afternoon, Venerable Mahākoṭṭhita came out of retreat, went to Venerable Sāriputta, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyam katham saraṇīyam vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā mahākoṭṭhiko āyasmantaṃ sāriputtaṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to Sāriputta:

“Duppañño duppañño'ti, āvuso, vuccati.

“Reverend, they speak of ‘a witless person’.

Kittāvatā nu kho, āvuso, duppaññoti vuccatī'ti?

How is a witless person defined?”

“Nappajānāti nappajānātī”ti kho, āvuso, tasmā duppaññoti vuccati.

“Reverend, they’re called witless because they don’t understand.

Kiñca nappajānāti?

And what don’t they understand?

‘Idaṃ dukkhan’ti nappajānāti, ‘ayaṃ dukkhasamudayo’ti nappajānāti, ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodho’ti nappajānāti, ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā’ti nappajānāti.

They don’t understand: ‘This is suffering’ ... ‘This is the origin of suffering’ ... ‘This is the cessation of suffering’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering.’

‘Nappajānāti nappajānātī’ti kho, āvuso, tasmā duppaññoti vuccatī”ti.

They’re called witless because they don’t understand.”

“Sādhāvuso”ti kho āyasmā mahākoṭṭhiko āyasmato sāriputtassa bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā āyasmantaṃ sāriputtaṃ uttariṃ pañhaṃ apucchi:

Saying “Good, reverend,” Mahākoṭṭhita approved and agreed with what Sāriputta said. Then he asked another question:

“Paññavā paññavā’ti, āvuso, vuccati.

“They speak of ‘a wise person’.

Kittāvatā nu kho, āvuso, paññavāti vuccatī”ti?

How is a wise person defined?”

“Pajānāti pajānātī”ti kho, āvuso, tasmā paññavāti vuccati.

“They’re called wise because they understand.

Kiñca pajānāti?

And what do they understand?

‘Idaṃ dukkhan’ti pajānāti, ‘ayaṃ dukkhasamudayo’ti pajānāti, ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodho’ti pajānāti, ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā'ti pajānāti.

They understand: 'This is suffering' ... 'This is the origin of suffering' ... 'This is the cessation of suffering' ... 'This is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering.'

'Pajānāti pajānātī'ti kho, āvuso, tasmā paññavāti vuccatī'ti.

They're called wise because they understand."

“Viññāṇaṃ viññāṇan'ti, āvuso, vuccati.

“They speak of 'consciousness'.

Kittāvatā nu kho, āvuso, viññāṇanti vuccatī'ti?

How is consciousness defined?"

“Tena hāvuso, upamaṃ te karissāmi;

“Well then, reverend, I shall give you a simile.

upamāyapidhekacce viññū purisā bhāsitassa atthaṃ ājānanti.

For by means of a simile some sensible people understand the meaning of what is said.

Seyyathāpi, āvuso, telappadīpassa jhāyato acciṃ paṭicca ābhā paññāyati, ābhaṃ paṭicca acci paññāyati;

Suppose there was an oil lamp burning. The light appears dependent on the flame, and the flame appears dependent on the light.

evameva kho, āvuso, āyu usmaṃ paṭicca tiṭṭhati, usmā āyuraṃ paṭicca tiṭṭhatī”ti.

In the same way, life depends on warmth to continue, and warmth depends on life to continue.”

“Teva nu kho, āvuso, āyusaṅkhārā, te vedaniyā dhammā udāhu aññe āyusaṅkhārā aññe vedaniyā dhammā”ti?

“Are the life forces the same things as the phenomena that are felt? Or are they different things?”

“Na kho, āvuso, teva āyusaṅkhārā te vedaniyā dhammā.

“The life forces are not the same things as the phenomena that are felt.

Te ca hāvuso, āyusaṅkhārā abhaviṃsu te vedaniyā dhammā, na yidaṃ saññāvedayitanirodhaṃ samāpannassa bhikkhuno vuṭṭhānaṃ paññāyetha.

For if the life forces and the phenomena that are felt were the same things, a mendicant who had attained the cessation of perception and feeling would not emerge from it.

Yasmā ca kho, āvuso, aññe āyusaṅkhārā aññe vedaniyā dhammā, tasmā saññāvedayitanirodhaṃ samāpannassa paṭippassaddhā, cittasaṅkhārā niruddhā paṭippassaddhā, āyu na parikkhīṇo, usmā avūpasantā, indriyāni vipasannāni.

When a mendicant has attained the cessation of perception and feeling, their physical, verbal, and mental processes have ceased and stilled. But their vitality is not spent; their warmth is not dissipated; and their faculties are very clear.

Yvāyaṃ, āvuso, mato kālaṅkato, yo cāyaṃ bhikkhu saññāvedayitanirodhaṃ samāpanno—idaṃ nesaṃ nānākaraṇaṃ”ti.

That’s the difference between someone who has passed away and a mendicant who has attained the cessation of perception and feeling.”

But there's also a way in which they mean the same thing, and differ only in the phrasing.

Katamo cāvuso, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma ime dhammā nānāttā ceva nānābyañjanā ca?

And what's the way in which these things differ in both meaning and phrasing?

Idhāvuso, bhikkhu mettāsahagatena cetasā ekaṃ disaṃ pharivā viharati, tathā dutiyaṃ, tathā tatiyaṃ, tathā catutthaṃ. Iti uddhamadho tiriyaṃ sabbadhi sabbattatāya sabbāvantaṃ lokaṃ mettāsahagatena cetasā vipulena mahaggatena appamāṇena averena abyābajjhena pharivā viharati.

Firstly, a mendicant meditates spreading a heart full of love to one direction, and to the second, and to the third, and to the fourth. In the same way above, below, across, everywhere, all around, they spread a heart full of love to the whole world—abundant, expansive, limitless, free of enmity and ill will.

Karuṇāsahagatena cetasā ...pe...

They meditate spreading a heart full of compassion ...

muditāsahagatena cetasā ...

They meditate spreading a heart full of rejoicing ...

upekkhāsahagatena cetasā ekaṃ disaṃ pharivā viharati, tathā dutiyaṃ, tathā tatiyaṃ, tathā catutthaṃ. Iti uddhamadho tiriyaṃ sabbadhi sabbattatāya sabbāvantaṃ lokaṃ upekkhāsahagatena cetasā vipulena mahaggatena appamāṇena averena abyābajjhena pharivā viharati.

They meditate spreading a heart full of equanimity to one direction, and to the second, and to the third, and to the fourth. In the same way above, below, across, everywhere, all around, they spread a heart full of equanimity to the whole world—abundant, expansive, limitless, free of enmity and ill will.

Ayaṃ vuccatāvuso, appamaṇā cetovimutti.

This is called the limitless heart's release.

Katamā cāvuso, ākiñcaññā cetovimutti?

And what is the heart's release through nothingness?

Idhāvuso, bhikkhu sabbaso viññāṇaṅcāyatanam samatikkamma natthi kiñcīti ākiñcaññāyatanam upasampajja viharati.

It's when a mendicant, going totally beyond the dimension of infinite consciousness, aware that 'there is nothing at all', enters and remains in the dimension of nothingness.

Ayaṃ vuccatāvuso, ākiñcaññā cetovimutti.

This is called the heart's release through nothingness.

Katamā cāvuso, suññatā cetovimutti?

And what is the heart's release through emptiness?

Idhāvuso, bhikkhu araṇṇagato vā rukkhamūlagato vā suññāgāragato vā iti paṭisañcikkhati:

It's when a mendicant has gone to a wilderness, or to the root of a tree, or to an empty hut, and reflects like this:

'suññamidaṃ attena vā attaniyena vā'ti.

'This is empty of a self or what belongs to a self.'

Ayaṃ vuccatāvuso, suññatā cetovimutti.

This is called the heart's release through emptiness.

Katamā cāvuso, animittā cetovimutti?

And what is the signless heart's release?

Idhāvuso, bhikkhu sabbanimittānam amanasikārā animittam cetosamādhim upasampajja viharati.

It's when a mendicant, not focusing on any signs, enters and remains in the signless immersion of the heart.

Ayaṃ vuccatāvuso, animittā cetovimutti.

This is called the signless heart's release.

Ayaṃ kho, āvuso, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma ime dhammā nānāthā ceva nānābyañjanā ca.

This is the way in which these things differ in both meaning and phrasing.

Katamo cāvuso, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma ime dhammā ekatthā byañjanameva nānaṃ?

And what's the way in which they mean the same thing, and differ only in the phrasing?

Rāgo kho, āvuso, pamāṇakaraṇo, doso pamāṇakaraṇo, moho pamāṇakaraṇo.

Greed, hate, and delusion are makers of limits.

Te khīṇāsavassa bhikkhuno pahīnā ucchinnamūlā tālāvatthukatā anabhāvaṅkatā āyatim̐ anuppādadhammā.

A mendicant who has ended the defilements has given these up, cut them off at the root, made them like a palm stump, and obliterated them, so they are unable to arise in the future.

Idamavocāyasmā sāriputto.

This is what Venerable Sāriputta said.

Attamano āyasmā mahākoṭṭhiko āyasmato sāriputtassa bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Venerable Mahākoṭṭhita was happy with what Sāriputta said.

Mahāvedallasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ tatiyaṃ.

44. Cūḷavedallasutta The Shorter Classification

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṃ rājagahe viharati veḷuvane
kalandakanivāpe.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Atha kho visākho upāsako yena dhammadinnā bhikkhunī tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtvā dhammadinnaṃ bhikkhuniṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho visākho upāsako dhammadinnaṃ bhikkhuniṃ etadavoca:

Then the layman Visākha went to see the nun Dhammadinnā, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to her:

“sakkāyo sakkāyo'ti, ayye, vuccati.

“Ma'am, they speak of this thing called 'identity'.

Katamo nu kho, ayye, sakkāyo vutto bhagavatā'ti?

What is this identity that the Buddha spoke of?”

“Pañca kho ime, āvuso visākha, upādānakkhandhā sakkāyo vutto bhagavatā,

“Visākha, the Buddha said that these five grasping aggregates are identity.

seyyathidaṃ—rūpupādānakkhandho, vedanupādānakkhandho, saññupādānakkhandho, saṅkhārupādānakkhandho, viññāṇupādānakkhandho.

That is: form, feeling, perception, choices, and consciousness.

Ime kho, āvuso visākhā, pañcupādānakkhandhā sakkāyo vutto bhagavatā”ti.

The Buddha said that these five grasping aggregates are identity.”

“Sādhayye”ti kho visākho upāsako dhammadinnāya bhikkhuniyā bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā dhammadinnaṃ bhikkhuniṃ uttariṃ pañhaṃ apucchi:

Saying “Good, ma’am,” Visākhā approved and agreed with what Dhammadinnā said. Then he asked another question:

“sakkāyasamudayo sakkāyasamudayo’ti, ayye, vuccati.

“Ma’am, they speak of this thing called ‘the origin of identity’.

Katamo nu kho, ayye, sakkāyasamudayo vutto bhagavatā”ti?

What is the origin of identity that the Buddha spoke of?”

“Yāyaṃ, āvuso visākhā, taṇhā ponobbhavikā nandīrāgasahagatā tatratatrābhinandinī, seyyathidaṃ—

“It’s the craving that leads to future rebirth, mixed up with relishing and greed, taking pleasure in various different realms. That is, kāmataṇhā bhavataṇhā vibhavataṇhā;

craving for sensual pleasures, craving to continue existence, and craving to end existence.

ayaṃ kho, āvuso visākhā, sakkāyasamudayo vutto bhagavatā”ti.

The Buddha said that this is the origin of identity.”

“Sakkāyanirodho sakkāyanirodho’ti, ayye, vuccati.

“Ma’am, they speak of this thing called ‘the cessation of identity’.

Katamo nu kho, ayye, sakkāyanirodho vutto bhagavatā”ti?
What is the cessation of identity that the Buddha spoke of?”

“Yo kho, āvuso visākha, tassāyeva taṇhāya asesavirāganirodho cāgo paṭinissaggo mutti anālayo;

“It’s the fading away and cessation of that very same craving with nothing left over; giving it away, letting it go, releasing it, and not adhering to it.

ayaṃ kho, āvuso visākha, sakkāyanirodho vutto bhagavatā”ti.
The Buddha said that this is the cessation of identity.”

“Sakkāyanirodhagāminī paṭipadā sakkāyanirodhagāminī paṭipadā”ti, ayye, vuccati.

“Ma’am, they speak of the practice that leads to the cessation of identity.

Katamā nu kho, ayye, sakkāyanirodhagāminī paṭipadā vuttā bhagavatā”ti?

What is the practice that leads to the cessation of identity that the Buddha spoke of?”

“Ayameva kho, āvuso visākha, ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo sakkāyanirodhagāminī paṭipadā vuttā bhagavatā, seyyathidaṃ

“The practice that leads to the cessation of identity that the Buddha spoke of is simply this noble eightfold path, that is:

sammādiṭṭhi sammāsaṅkappo sammāvācā sammākammanto sammāājīvo sammāvāyāmo sammāsati sammāsamādhi”ti.

“Taññeva nu kho, ayye, upādānaṃ te pañcupādānakkhandhā udāhu aññatra pañcahupādānakkhandhehi upādānan”ti?

“But ma’am, is that grasping the exact same thing as the five grasping aggregates? Or is grasping one thing and the five grasping aggregates another?”

“Na kho, āvuso visākha, taññeva upādānaṃ te pañcupādānakkhandhā, nāpi aññatra pañcahupādānakkhandhehi upādānaṃ.

“That grasping is not the exact same thing as the five grasping aggregates. Nor is grasping one thing and the five grasping aggregates another.

Yo kho, āvuso visākha, pañcasu upādānakkhandhesu chandarāgo taṃ tattha upādānaṃ”ti.

The desire and greed for the five grasping aggregates is the grasping there.”

“Kathaṃ panāyye, sakkāyadiṭṭhi hotī”ti?

“But ma’am, how does identity view come about?”

“Idhāvuso visākha, assutavā puthujjano, ariyānaṃ adassāvī ariyadhammassa akovido ariyadhamme avinīto, sappurisānaṃ adassāvī sappurisadhammassa akovido sappurisadhamme avinīto,

“But ma’am, what is the noble eightfold path?”

“Ayameva kho, āvuso visākha, ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo, seyyathidaṃ—

“It is simply this noble eightfold path, that is:

sammāditṭhi sammāsaṅkappo sammāvācā sammākammanto sammājīvo sammāvāyāmo sammāsati sammāsamādhi”ti.

“Ariyo panāyye, aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo saṅkhato udāhu asaṅkhato”ti?

“But ma’am, is the noble eightfold path conditioned or unconditioned?”

“Ariyo kho, āvuso visākha, aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo saṅkhato”ti.

“The noble eightfold path is conditioned.”

“Ariyena nu kho, ayye, aṭṭhaṅgikena maggena tayo khandhā saṅgahitā udāhu tīhi khandhehi ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo saṅgahito”ti?

“Are the three practice categories included in the noble eightfold path? Or is the noble eightfold path included in the three practice categories?”

“Na kho, āvuso visākha, ariyena aṭṭhaṅgikena maggena tayo khandhā saṅgahitā; tīhi ca kho, āvuso visākha, khandhehi ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo saṅgahito.

“The three practice categories are not included in the noble eightfold path. Rather, the noble eightfold path is included in the three practice categories.

Right view and right thought: these things are included in the category of wisdom.”

“Katamo panāyye, samādhi, katame dhammā samādhinimittā, katame dhammā samādhiparikkhārā, katamā samādhibhāvanā”ti?

“But ma’am, what is immersion? What things are the foundations of immersion? What things are the prerequisites for immersion? What is the development of immersion?”

“Yā kho, āvuso visākha, cittassa ekaggatā ayaṃ samādhi; “Unification of the mind is immersion.

cattāro satipaṭṭhānā samādhinimittā;

“Kati panāyye, saṅkhārā”ti?

“How many processes are there?”

“Tayome, āvuso visākha, saṅkhārā—

“There are these three processes.

kāyasaṅkhāro, vacīsaṅkhāro, cittasaṅkhāro”ti.

Physical, verbal, and mental processes.”

“Katamo panāyye, kāyasaṅkhāro, katamo vacīsaṅkhāro, katamo cittasaṅkhāro”ti?

“But ma’am, what is the physical process? What’s the verbal process? What’s the mental process?”

“Assāsapassāsā kho, āvuso visākha, kāyasaṅkhāro, vitakkavicārā vacīsaṅkhāro, saññā ca vedanā ca cittasaṅkhāro”ti.

“Breathing is a physical process. Placing the mind and keeping it connected are verbal processes. Perception and feeling are mental processes.”

“Kasmā panāyye, assāsapassāsā kāyasaṅkhāro, kasmā vitakkavicārā vacīsaṅkhāro, kasmā saññā ca vedanā ca cittasaṅkhāro”ti?

“But ma’am, why is breathing a physical process? Why are placing the mind and keeping it connected verbal processes? Why are perception and feeling mental processes?”

“Assāsapassāsā kho, āvuso visākha, kāyikā ete dhammā kāyappaṭibaddhā, tasmā assāsapassāsā kāyasaṅkhāro.

“Breathing is physical. It’s tied up with the body, that’s why breathing is a physical process.

First you place the mind and keep it connected, then you break into speech. That’s why placing the mind and keeping it connected are verbal processes.

Saññā ca vedanā ca cetasikā ete dhammā cittappaṭibaddhā, tasmā saññā ca vedanā ca cittasaṅkhāro”ti.

Perception and feeling are mental. They’re tied up with the mind, that’s why perception and feeling are mental processes.”

“Katham panāyye, saññāvedayitanirodhasamāpatti hotī”ti?

“But ma’am, how does someone attain the cessation of perception and feeling?”

“Na kho, āvuso visākha, saññāvedayitanirodham samāpajjantassa bhikkhuno evaṃ hoti:

“But ma’am, which arise first for a mendicant who is emerging from the cessation of perception and feeling: physical, verbal, or mental processes?”

“Saññāvedayitanirodhasamāpattiyā vuṭṭhahantassa kho, āvuso visākha, bhikkhuno paṭhamam̐ uppajjati cittasaṅkhāro, tato kāyasaṅkhāro, tato vacīsaṅkhāro”ti.

“Mental processes arise first, then physical, then verbal.”

“Saññāvedayitanirodhasamāpattiyā vuṭṭhitam̐ panāyye, bhikkhum̐ kati phassā phusantī”ti?

“Saññāvedayitanirodhasamāpattiyā vuṭṭhitam̐ kho, āvuso visākha, bhikkhum̐ tayo phassā phusanti—suññato phasso, animitto phasso, appaṇihito phasso”ti.

“They experience three kinds of contact: emptiness, signless, and undirected contacts.”

“Saññāvedayitanirodhasamāpattiyā vuṭṭhitassa panāyye, bhikkhuno kimninnam̐ cittam̐ hoti kimpoṇam̐ kimpabbhāran”ti?

“Saññāvedayitanirodhasamāpattiyā vuṭṭhitassa kho, āvuso visākha, bhikkhuno vivekaninnam̐ cittam̐ hoti, vivekapoṇam̐ vivekapabbhāran”ti.

“Their mind slants, slopes, and inclines to seclusion.”

“Kati panāyye, vedanā”ti?

“But ma’am, how many feelings are there?”

“Tisso kho imā, āvuso visākha, vedanā—

“There are three feelings:

sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā, adukkhamasukhā vedanā”ti.
pleasant, painful, and neutral feeling.”

“Katamā panāyye, sukhā vedanā, katamā dukkhā vedanā, katamā adukkhamasukhā vedanā”ti?

“What are these three feelings?”

“Yaṃ kho, āvuso visākha, kāyikaṃ vā cetasikaṃ vā sukhaṃ Anything felt physically or mentally as painful or unpleasant.

ayaṃ dukkhā vedanā.

This is painful feeling.

Yaṃ kho, āvuso visākha, kāyikaṃ vā cetasikaṃ vā neva sātaṃ nāsātaṃ vedayitaṃ—

Anything felt physically or mentally as neither pleasurable nor painful.

ayaṃ adukkhamasukhā vedanā”ti.

This is neutral feeling.”

“Sukhā panāyye, vedanā kiṃsukhā kiṃdukkhā, dukkhā vedanā kiṃsukhā kiṃdukkhā, adukkhamasukhā vedanā kiṃsukhā kiṃdukkhā”ti?

“What is pleasant and what is painful in each of the three feelings?”

“Sukhā kho, āvuso visākha, vedanā ṭhitisukhā vipariṇāmadukkhā;

“Pleasant feeling is pleasant when it remains and painful when it perishes.

dukkhā vedanā t̥hitidukkhā vipariṇāmasukhā;

Painful feeling is painful when it remains and pleasant when it perishes.

adukkhamasukhā vedanā ñāṇasukhā aññāṇadukkhā”ti.

Neutral feeling is pleasant when there is knowledge, and painful when there is ignorance.”

“Sukhāya panāyye, vedanāya kiṃ anusayo anuseti, dukkhāya vedanāya kiṃ anusayo anuseti, adukkhamasukhāya vedanāya kiṃ anusayo anusetī”ti?

“What underlying tendencies underlie each of the three feelings?”

“Sukhāya kho, āvuso visākha, vedanāya rāgānusayo anuseti, dukkhāya vedanāya paṭighānusayo anuseti, adukkhamasukhāya vedanāya avijjānusayo anusetī”ti.

“The underlying tendency for greed underlies pleasant feeling. The underlying tendency for repulsion underlies painful feeling. The underlying tendency for ignorance underlies neutral feeling.”

“Sabbāya nu kho, ayye, sukhāya vedanāya rāgānusayo anuseti, sabbāya dukkhāya vedanāya paṭighānusayo anuseti, sabbāya adukkhamasukhāya vedanāya avijjānusayo anusetī”ti?

“Do these underlying tendencies always underlie these feelings?”

“Na kho, āvuso visākha, sabbāya sukhāya vedanāya rāgānusayo anuseti, na sabbāya dukkhāya vedanāya paṭighānusayo anuseti, na sabbāya adukkhamasukhāya vedanāya avijjānusayo anusetī”ti.

“No, they do not.”

“Sukhāya panāyye, vedanāya kiṃ pahātabbaṃ, dukkhāya vedanāya kiṃ pahātabbaṃ, adukkhamasukhāya vedanāya kiṃ pahātabban”ti?

“What should be given up in regard to each of these three feelings?”

“Sukhāya kho, āvuso visākha, vedanāya rāgānusayo pahātabbo, dukkhāya vedanāya paṭighānusayo pahātabbo, adukkhamasukhāya vedanāya avijjānusayo pahātabbo”ti.

“The underlying tendency to greed should be given up when it comes to pleasant feeling. The underlying tendency to repulsion should be given up when it comes to painful feeling. The underlying tendency to ignorance should be given up when it comes to neutral feeling.”

“Sabbāya nu kho, ayye, sukhāya vedanāya rāgānusayo pahātabbo, sabbāya dukkhāya vedanāya paṭighānusayo pahātabbo, sabbāya adukkhamasukhāya vedanāya avijjānusayo pahātabbo”ti?

“Should these underlying tendencies be given up regarding all instances of these feelings?”

“Na kho, āvuso visākha, sabbāya sukhāya vedanāya rāgānusayo pahātabbo, na sabbāya dukkhāya vedanāya paṭighānusayo pahātabbo, na sabbāya adukkhamasukhāya vedanāya avijjānusayo pahātabbo.

“No, not in all instances.

Take a mendicant who, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Rāgaṃ tena pajahati, na tattha rāgānusayo anuseti.

With this they give up greed, and the underlying tendency to greed does not lie within that.

Idhāvuso visākha, bhikkhu iti paṭisañcikkhati:

And take a mendicant who reflects:

‘kudāssu nāmāhaṃ tadāyatanam upasampajja viharissāmi yadariyā etarahi āyatanam upasampajja viharantī’ti?

‘Oh, when will I enter and remain in the same dimension that the noble ones enter and remain in today?’

Nursing such a longing for the supreme liberations gives rise to sadness due to longing.

Paṭigham tena pajahati, na tattha paṭighānusayo anuseti.

With this they give up repulsion, and the underlying tendency to repulsion does not lie within that.

Idhāvuso visākha, bhikkhu sukhasa ca pahānā, dukkhasa ca pahānā, pubbeva somanassadomanassānam atthaṅgamā, adukkhamasukham upekkhāsatipārisuddhim catuttham jhānam upasampajja viharati.

Take a mendicant who, giving up pleasure and pain, and ending former happiness and sadness, enters and remains in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

Avijjam tena pajahati, na tattha avijjānusayo anuseti”ti.

With this they give up ignorance, and the underlying tendency to ignorance does not lie within that.”

“Sukhāya panāyye, vedanāya kiṃ paṭibhāgo”ti?

“But ma’am, what is the counterpart of pleasant feeling?”

“Sukhāya kho, āvuso visākha, vedanāya dukkhā vedanā paṭibhāgo”ti.

“Painful feeling.”

“Dukkhāya pannāyye, vedanāya kiṃ paṭibhāgo”ti?

“What is the counterpart of painful feeling?”

“Dukkhāya kho, āvuso visākha, vedanāya sukhā vedanā paṭibhāgo”ti.

“Pleasant feeling.”

“Your question goes too far, Visākha. You couldn’t figure out the limit of questions.

Nibbānogadhañhi, āvuso visākha, brahmacariyaṃ, nibbānaparāyanaṃ nibbānapariyosānaṃ.

For extinguishment is the culmination, destination, and end of the spiritual life.

Ākaṅkhamāno ca tvaṃ, āvuso visākha, bhagavantaṃ upasaṅkamtivā etamatthaṃ puccheyyāsi, yathā ca te bhagavā byākaroti tathā naṃ dhāreyyāsī”ti.

If you wish, go to the Buddha and ask him this question. You should remember it in line with his answer.”

Atha kho visākho upāsako dhammadinnāya bhikkhuniyā bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsana dhammadinnaṃ bhikkhuniṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

And then the layman Visākha approved and agreed with what the nun Dhammadinnā said. He got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled her, keeping her on his right. Then he went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side,

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho visākho upāsako yāvatako ahoṣi dhammadinnāya bhikkhuniyā saddhiṃ kathāsallāpo taṃ sabbhaṃ bhagavato ārocesi.

and informed the Buddha of all they had discussed.

Evaṃ vutte, bhagavā visākhaṃ upāsakaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, the Buddha said to him,

“paṇḍitā, visākha, dhammadinnā bhikkhunī, mahāpaññā, visākha, dhammadinnā bhikkhunī.

“The nun Dhammadinnā is astute, Visākha, she has great wisdom.

Mañcepi tvaṃ, visākha, etamatthaṃ puccheyyāsi, ahampi taṃ evamevaṃ byākareyyaṃ, yathā taṃ dhammadinnāya bhikkhuniyā byākataṃ.

If you came to me and asked this question, I would answer it in exactly the same way as the nun Dhammadinnā.

Eso cevetassa attho. Evañca naṃ dhārehī”ti.

That is what it means, and that’s how you should remember it.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano visākho upāsako bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, the layman Visākha was happy with what the Buddha said.

The Shorter Discourse on Taking Up Practices

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“cattārimāni, bhikkhave, dhammasamādānāni.

“Mendicants, there are these four ways of taking up practices.

Katamāni cattāri?

What four?

Atthi, bhikkhave, dhammasamādānaṃ paccuppannasukhaṃ āyatim dukkhavipākaṃ;

There is a way of taking up practices that is pleasant now but results in future pain.

atthi, bhikkhave, dhammasamādānaṃ
paccuppannadukkhañceva āyatiñca dukkhavipākaṃ;

There is a way of taking up practices that is painful now and results in future pain.

atthi, bhikkhave, dhammasamādānaṃ paccuppannadukkhaṃ āyatiṃ sukhavipākaṃ;

There is a way of taking up practices that is painful now but results in future pleasure.

atthi, bhikkhave, dhammasamādānaṃ paccuppannasukhañceva āyatiñca sukhavipākaṃ.

There is a way of taking up practices that is pleasant now and results in future pleasure.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, dhammasamādānaṃ paccuppannasukhaṃ āyatiṃ dukkhavipākaṃ?

And what is the way of taking up practices that is pleasant now but results in future pain?

Santi, bhikkhave, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā evaṃvādinō
evaṃdiṭṭhino:

There are some ascetics and brahmins who have this doctrine and view:

‘natthi kāmesu doso’ti.

Te kāmesu pātabyataṃ āpajjanti.

They throw themselves into sensual pleasures,

Te kho moḷibaddhāhi paribbājikāhi paricārenti.

cavorting with female wanderers with fancy hair-dos.

Te evamāhaṃsu:

They say,

‘kiṃsu nāma te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā kāmesu anāgatabhayaṃ sampassamānā kāmānaṃ pahānamāhaṃsu, kāmānaṃ pariññaṃ paññapenti?

‘What future danger do those ascetics and brahmins see in sensual pleasures that they speak of giving up sensual pleasures, and advocate the complete understanding of sensual pleasures?’

Sukho imissā paribbājikāya taruṇāya mudukāya lomasāya bāhāya samphasso’ti te kāmesu pātabyataṃ āpajjanti.

Pleasant is the touch of this female wanderer’s arm, tender, soft, and downy!’ And they throw themselves into sensual pleasures.

Te kāmesu pātabyataṃ āpajjitvā kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā apāyaṃ duggatiṃ vinipātaṃ nirayaṃ upapajjanti.

When their body breaks up, after death, they’re reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell.

Te tattha dukkhā tippā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayanti.

And there they feel painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings.

Te evamāhaṃsu:

They say,

‘idaṃ kho te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā kāmesu anāgatabhayaṃ sampassamānā kāmānaṃ pahānamāhaṃsu, kāmānaṃ pariññaṃ paññapenti, ime hi mayaṃ kāmahetu kāmanidānaṃ dukkhā tippā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayāma’ti.

‘This is that future danger that those ascetics and brahmins saw. For it is because of sensual pleasures that I’m feeling painful, sharp, severe, acute feelings.’

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, gimhānaṃ pacchime māse māluvāsipāṭikā phaleyya.

Suppose that in the last month of summer a camel’s foot creeper pod were to burst open

Atha kho taṃ, bhikkhave, māluvābijaṃ aññatarasmim sālāmūle nipateyya.

and a seed were to fall at the root of a sal tree.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, yā tasmim̐ sāle adhivatthā devatā sā bhītā saṁviggaṃ santāsaṃ āpajjeyya.

Then the deity haunting that sal tree would become apprehensive and nervous.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, tasmim̐ sāle adhivatthāya devatāya mittāmaccā ñātisālohitā ārāmadevatā vanadevatā rukkhadevatā osadhitiṇavanappatīsu adhivatthā devatā saṅgamma samāgamma evaṃ samassāseyyuṃ:

But their friends and colleagues, relatives and kin—deities of the parks, forests, trees, and those who haunt the herbs, grass, and big trees—would come together to reassure them,

‘mā bhavaṃ bhāyi, mā bhavaṃ bhāyi;

‘Do not fear, sir, do not fear!

appeva nāmetaṃ māluvābijaṃ moro vā gileyya, mago vā khādeyya, davaḍāho vā ḍaheyya, vanakammikā vā uddhareyyuṃ, upacikā vā uṭṭhaheyyuṃ, abijaṃ vā panassā’ti.

Hopefully that seed will be swallowed by a peacock, or eaten by a deer, or burnt by a forest fire, or picked up by a lumberjack, or eaten by termites, or it may not even be fertile.’

Atha kho taṃ, bhikkhave, māluvābijaṃ neva moro gileyya, na mago khādeyya, na davaḍāho ḍaheyya, na vanakammikā uddhareyyuṃ, na upacikā uṭṭhaheyyuṃ, bijañca panassa taṃ pāvussakena meghena abhippavuṭṭhaṃ sammadeva viruheyya.

But none of these things happened. And the seed was fertile, so that when the clouds soaked it with rain, it sprouted.

Sāssa māluvālatā taruṇā mudukā lomasā vilambinī, sā taṃ sālāṃ upaniseveyya.

And the creeper wound its tender, soft, and downy tendrils around that sal tree.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, tasmim̐ sāle adhivatthāya devatāya evamassa:

Then the deity thought,

‘kiṃsu nāma te bhonto mittāmaccā ñātisālohitā ārāmadevatā devatā māluvābīje anāgatabhayaṃ sampassamānā saṅgamma samāgamma evaṃ samassāsesuṃ:

‘What future danger did my friends see when they said:

“mā bhavaṃ bhāyi mā bhavaṃ bhāyi,
‘Do not fear, sir, do not fear!

appeva nāmetaṃ māluvābījaṃ moro vā gileyya, mago vā

Hopefully that seed will be swallowed by a peacock, or eaten by a deer, or burnt by a forest fire, or picked up by a lumberjack, or eaten by termites, or it may not even be fertile.’

sukho imissā māluvālatāya taruṇāya mudukāya lomasāya vilambiniyā samphasso’ti.

Pleasant is the touch of this creeper’s tender, soft, and downy tendrils.’

Sā taṃ sālāṃ anuparihareyya.

Then the creeper enfolded the sal tree,

Sā taṃ sālāṃ anupariharitvā upari viṭabhiṃ kareyya.

made a canopy over it,

Upari viṭabhiṃ karitvā oghanāṃ janeyya.

draped a curtain around it,

Oghanāṃ janetvā ye tassa sālassa mahantā mahantā khandhā te padāleyya.

and split apart all the main branches.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, tasmīṃ sāle adhivatthāya devatāya
evamassa:

Then the deity thought,

‘idaṃ kho te bhonto mittāmaccā ñātisālohitā ārāmadevatā vanadevatā rukkhadevatā osadhitiṇavanappatīsu adhivatthā devatā māluvābīje anāgatabhayaṃ sampassamānā saṅgamma samāgamma evaṃ samassāsesuṃ:

‘This is the future danger that my friends saw!

Yañcāhaṃ māluvābījahetu dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā vedanā vedayāmi’ti.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, santi eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā evaṃvādino evaṃdiṭṭhino ‘natthi kāmesu doso’ti.

In the same way, there are some ascetics and brahmins who have this doctrine and view: ‘There’s nothing wrong with sensual pleasures’ ...

Idaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, dhammasamādānaṃ
paccuppannasukhaṃ āyatiṃ dukkhavipākaṃ.

This is called the way of taking up practices that is pleasant now but results in future pain.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, dhammasamādānaṃ
paccuppannadukkhañceva āyatiñca dukkhavipākaṃ?

And what is the way of taking up practices that is painful now and results in future pain?

Idha, bhikkhave, ekacco acelako hoti muttācāro hatthāpalekhano, naehibhaddantiko, natitṭhabhaddantiko, nābhihaṭaṃ, na uddissakataṃ, na nimantanaṃ sādīyati,

It’s when someone goes naked, ignoring conventions. They lick their hands, and don’t come or wait when asked. They don’t consent to food brought to them, or food prepared on purpose for them, or an invitation for a meal.

so na kumbhimukhā paṭiggaṇhāti, na kaḷopimukhā paṭiggaṇhāti, na eḷakamantaraṃ, na daṇḍamantaraṃ, na musalamantaraṃ, na dvinnaṃ bhuñjamānānaṃ, na gabbhīniyā, na pāyamānāya, na purisantaragatāya, na saṅkittīsu, na yattha sā upaṭṭhito hoti, na yattha makkhikā saṇḍasaṇḍacārīnī, na macchaṃ, na maṃsaṃ, na suraṃ, na merayaṃ, na thusodakaṃ pivati.

They don’t receive anything from a pot or bowl; or from someone who keeps sheep, or who has a weapon or a shovel in their home; or where a couple is eating; or where there is a woman who is pregnant, breastfeeding, or who has a man in her home; or where there’s a dog waiting or flies buzzing. They accept no fish or meat or liquor or wine, and drink no beer.

So ekāgāriko vā hoti ekālopiko, dvāgāriko vā hoti dvālopiko ... pe... sattāgāriko vā hoti sattālopiko.

They go to just one house for alms, taking just one mouthful, or two houses and two mouthfuls, up to seven houses and seven mouthfuls.

Ekissāpi dattiyā yāpeti, dvīhipi dattīhi yāpeti ... sattahipi dattīhi yāpeti.

They feed on one saucer a day, two saucers a day, up to seven saucers a day.

Ekāhikampi āhāraṃ āhāreti, dvīhikampi āhāraṃ āhāreti ... sattāhikampi āhāraṃ āhāreti. Iti evarūpaṃ addhamāsikampi pariyāyabhattabhojanānuyogamanuyutto viharati.

They eat once a day, once every second day, up to once a week, and so on, even up to once a fortnight. They live committed to the practice of eating food at set intervals.

So sākabhakkho vā hoti, sāmākabhakkho vā hoti, nīvārabhakkho vā hoti, daddulabhakkho vā hoti, haṭṭabhakkho vā hoti, kaṇabhakkho vā hoti, ācāmabhakkho vā hoti, piññākabhakkho vā hoti, tiṇabhakkho vā hoti, gomayabhakkho vā hoti, vanamūlaphalāhāro yāpeti pavattaphalabhōjī.

They eat herbs, millet, wild rice, poor rice, water lettuce, rice bran, scum from boiling rice, sesame flour, grass, or cow dung. They survive on forest roots and fruits, or eating fallen fruit.

So sāṇānipi dhāreti, masāṇānipi dhāreti, chavadussānipi dhāreti, paṃsukūlānipi dhāreti, tirīṭānipi dhāreti, ajinampi dhāreti, ajinakkhipampi dhāreti, kusacīrampi dhāreti, vākacīrampi dhāreti, phalakacīrampi dhāreti, kesakambalampi dhāreti, vāḷakambalampi dhāreti, ulūkapakkhampi dhāreti,

They wear robes of sunn hemp, mixed hemp, corpse-wrapping cloth, rags, lodh tree bark, antelope hide (whole or in strips), kusa grass, bark, wood-chips, human hair, horse-tail hair, or owls' wings.

kesamassulocakopi hoti, kesamassulocanānuyogamanuyutto,

They tear out their hair and beard, committed to this practice.

ubbhaṭṭhakopi hoti, āsanapaṭikkhitto,

They stand forever, refusing seats.

ukkuṭikopi hoti ukkuṭikappadhānamanuyutto,

They squat, committed to persisting in the squatting position.

kaṇṭakāpassayikopi hoti, kaṇṭakāpassaye seyyaṃ kappeti,

They lie on a mat of thorns, making a mat of thorns their bed.

sāyatatiyakampi udakorohanānuyogamanuyutto viharati.

They're committed to the practice of immersion in water three times a day, including the evening.

Iti evarūpaṃ anekavihiṭaṃ kāyassa ātāpanaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto viharati.

And so they live committed to practicing these various ways of mortifying and tormenting the body.

So kāyassa bhedā paraṃ maraṇā apāyaṃ duggatiṃ vinipātaṃ nirayaṃ upapajjati.

When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell.

Idaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, dhammasamādānaṃ

paccuppannadukkhañceva āyatiñca dukkhavipākaṃ.

This is called the way of taking up practices that is painful now and results in future pain.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, dhammasamādānaṃ

paccuppannadukkhaṃ āyatiṃ sukhavipākaṃ?

And what is the way of taking up practices that is painful now but results in future pleasure?

Idha, bhikkhave, ekacco pakatiyā tibbarāgajātiko hoti, so abhikkhaṇaṃ rāgajaṃ dukkhaṃ domanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti;

It's when someone is ordinarily full of acute greed, hate, and delusion. They often feel the pain and sadness that greed, hate, and delusion bring.

pakatiyā tibbadosajātiko hoti, so abhikkhaṇaṃ dosajaṃ dukkhaṃ domanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti;

pakatiyā tibbamohajātiko hoti, so abhikkhaṇaṃ mohajaṃ dukkhaṃ domanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti.

So sahāpi dukkhena, sahāpi domanassena, assumukhopi rudamāno paripuṇṇaṃ parisuddhaṃ brahmacariyaṃ carati.
They lead the full and pure spiritual life in pain and sadness, weeping, with tearful faces.

So kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā sugatiṃ saggāṃ lokāṃ upapajjati.

When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.

Idaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, dhammasamādānaṃ paccuppannadukkhaṃ āyatiṃ sukhavipākaṃ.

This is called the way of taking up practices that is painful now but results in future pleasure.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, dhammasamādānaṃ paccuppannasukhañceva āyatiñca sukhavipākaṃ?

And what is the way of taking up practices that is pleasant now and results in future pleasure?

Idha, bhikkhave, ekacco pakatiyā na tibbarāgajātiko hoti, so na abhikkhaṇaṃ rāgajaṃ dukkhaṃ domanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti;
It's when someone is not ordinarily full of acute greed, hate, and delusion. They rarely feel the pain and sadness that greed, hate, and delusion bring.

pakatiyā na tibbadosajātiko hoti, so na abhikkhaṇaṃ dosajaṃ dukkhaṃ domanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti; pakatiyā na tibbamohajātiko hoti, so na abhikkhaṇaṃ mohajaṃ dukkhaṃ domanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti.

So vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ

upasampajja viharati.

Quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, they enter and remain in the first absorption ...

Vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhataṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ ...pe...

second absorption ...

tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ ...

third absorption ...

catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

fourth absorption.

So kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā sugatiṃ saggaṃ lokaṃ upapajjati.

When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.

Idaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, dhammasamādānaṃ paccuppannasukhañceva āyatiñca sukhavipākaṃ.

This is called the way of taking up practices that is pleasant now and results in future pleasure.

Imāni kho, bhikkhave, cattāri dhammasamādānāni”ti.

These are the four ways of taking up practices.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

46. Mahādhammasamādānasutta The Great Discourse on Taking Up Practices

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tatra kho bhagava bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagava etadvoca:

The Buddha said this:

“yebhuyyena, bhikkhave, sattā evaṅkāmā evaṅchandā evaṅadhippāyā:

“Mendicants, sentient beings typically have the wish, desire, and hope:

‘aho vata aniṭṭhā akantā amanāpā dhammā parihāyeyyum, iṭṭhā kantā manāpā dhammā abhivaḍḍheyun’ti.

‘Oh, if only unlikable, undesirable, and disagreeable things would decrease, and likable, desirable, and agreeable things would increase!’

Tesaṃ, bhikkhave, sattānaṃ evaṅkāmānaṃ evaṃchandānaṃ evaṃadhippāyānaṃ aniṭṭhā akantā amanāpā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti, iṭṭhā kantā manāpā dhammā parihāyanti.

But exactly the opposite happens to them.

Tatra tumhe, bhikkhave, kaṃ hetuṃ paccethā”ti?

What do you take to be the reason for this?”

“Tena hi, bhikkhave, suṇātha, sādhu kaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmī”ti.

“Well then, mendicants, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Idha, bhikkhave, assutavā puthujjano, ariyānaṃ adassāvī ariyadhammassa akovido ariyadhamme avinīto, sappurisānaṃ adassāvī sappurisadhammassa akovido sappurisadhamme avinīto, “Take an uneducated ordinary person who has not seen the noble ones, and is neither skilled nor trained in the teaching of the noble ones. They’ve not seen good persons, and are neither skilled nor trained in the teaching of the good persons.

sevitabbe dhamme na jānāti asevitabbe dhamme na jānāti, bhajitabbe dhamme na jānāti abhajitabbe dhamme na jānāti.

They don't know what practices they should cultivate and foster, and what practices they shouldn't cultivate and foster.

So sevitabbe dhamme ajānanto asevitabbe dhamme ajānanto, bhajitabbe dhamme ajānanto abhajitabbe dhamme ajānanto, asevitabbe dhamme sevati sevitabbe dhamme na sevati, abhajitabbe dhamme bhajati bhajitabbe dhamme na bhajati.

So they cultivate and foster practices they shouldn't, and don't cultivate and foster practices they should.

Tassa asevitabbe dhamme sevato sevitabbe dhamme asevato, abhajitabbe dhamme bhajato bhajitabbe dhamme abhajato aniṭṭhā akantā amanāpā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti, iṭṭhā kantā manāpā dhammā parihāyanti.

When they do so, unlikable, undesirable, and disagreeable things increase, and likable, desirable, and agreeable things decrease.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Evañhetam, bhikkhave, hoti yathā taṃ aviddasuno.

Because that's what it's like for someone who doesn't know.

Sutavā ca kho, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako, ariyānaṃ dassāvī ariyadhammassa kovido ariyadhamme suvinīto, sappurisānaṃ dassāvī sappurisdhammassa kovido sappurisdhamme suvinīto,

But an educated noble disciple has seen the noble ones, and is skilled and trained in the teaching of the noble ones. They've seen good persons, and are skilled and trained in the teaching of the good persons.

sevitabbe dhamme jānāti asevitabbe dhamme jānāti, bhajitabbe dhamme jānāti abhajitabbe dhamme jānāti.

They know what practices they should cultivate and foster, and what practices they shouldn't cultivate and foster.

So sevitabbe dhamme jānanto asevtabbe dhamme jānanto, bhajitabbe dhamme jānanto abhajitabbe dhamme jānanto, asevtabbe dhamme na sevati sevitabbe dhamme sevati, abhajitabbe dhamme na bhajati bhajitabbe dhamme bhajati.

So they cultivate and foster practices they should, and don't cultivate and foster practices they shouldn't.

Tassa asevtabbe dhamme asevato sevitabbe dhamme sevato, abhajitabbe dhamme abhajato bhajitabbe dhamme bhajato, aniṭṭhā akantā amanāpā dhammā parihāyanti, iṭṭhā kantā manāpā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti.

When they do so, unlikable, undesirable, and disagreeable things decrease, and likable, desirable, and agreeable things increase.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Evañhetam, bhikkhave, hoti yathā taṃ viddasuno.

Because that's what it's like for someone who knows.

Cattārimāni, bhikkhave, dhammasamādānāni.

Mendicants, there are these four ways of taking up practices.

Katamāni cattāri?

What four?

Atthi, bhikkhave, dhammasamādānaṃ

There is a way of taking up practices that is painful now but results in future pleasure.

atthi, bhikkhave, dhammasamādānaṃ paccuppannasukhañceva āyatiñca sukhavipākaṃ.

There is a way of taking up practices that is pleasant now and results in future pleasure.

Tatra, bhikkhave, yamidaṃ dhammasamādānaṃ paccuppannadukkhañceva āyatiñca dukkhavipākaṃ, taṃ avidvā avijjāgato yathābhūtaṃ nappajānāti:

When it comes to the way of taking up practices that is painful now and results in future pain, an ignoramus, without knowing this, doesn't truly understand:

'idaṃ kho dhammasamādānaṃ paccuppannadukkhañceva āyatiñca dukkhavipākaṃ'ti.

'This is the way of taking up practices that is painful now and results in future pain.'

Taṃ avidvā avijjāgato yathābhūtaṃ appajānanto taṃ sevati, taṃ na parivajjeti.

So instead of avoiding that practice, they cultivate it.

Tassa taṃ sevato, taṃ aparivajjayato, aniṭṭhā akantā amanāpā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti, iṭṭhā kantā manāpā dhammā parihāyanti.

When they do so, unlikable, undesirable, and disagreeable things increase, and likable, desirable, and agreeable things decrease.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Evañhetam, bhikkhave, hoti yathā taṃ aviddasuno. (1)

Because that's what it's like for someone who doesn't know.

Tatra, bhikkhave, yamidaṃ dhammasamādānaṃ paccuppannasukhaṃ āyatim dukkhavipākaṃ taṃ avidvā avijjāgato yathābhūtaṃ nappajānāti:

When it comes to the way of taking up practices that is pleasant now and results in future pain, an ignoramus ...

Taṃ avidvā avijjāgato yathābhūtaṃ appajānanto taṃ sevati, taṃ na parivajjeti.

cultivates it ...

Tassa taṃ sevato, taṃ aparivajjayato, aniṭṭhā akantā amanāpā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti, iṭṭhā kantā manāpā dhammā parihāyanti.

and disagreeable things increase ...

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Tatra, bhikkhave, yamidaṃ dhammasamādānaṃ paccuppannadukkhāya āyatim sukhavipākaṃ, taṃ avidvā avijjāgato yathābhūtaṃ nappajānāti:

Why is that?

Evañhetam, bhikkhave, hoti yathā taṃ aviddasuno. (4)

Because that's what it's like for someone who doesn't know.

Tatra, bhikkhave, yamidaṃ dhammasamādānaṃ paccuppannadukkhañceva āyatiñca dukkhavipākaṃ taṃ vidvā vijjāgato yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti:

‘This is the way of taking up practices that is painful now and results in future pain.’

Taṃ vidvā vijjāgato yathābhūtaṃ pajānanto taṃ na sevati, taṃ parivajjeti.

So instead of cultivating that practice, they avoid it.

Tassa taṃ asevato, taṃ parivajjayato, aniṭṭhā akantā amanāpā dhammā parihāyanti, iṭṭhā kantā manāpā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, dhammasamādānaṃ
paccuppannadukkhañceva āyatiñca dukkhavipākaṃ?

And what is the way of taking up practices that is painful now and results in future pain?

Idha, bhikkhave, ekacco sahāpi dukkhena sahāpi domanassena pāṇātipātī hoti, pāṇātipātapaccayā ca dukkhaṃ domanassaṃ

It's when someone in pain and sadness kills living creatures, steals, and commits sexual misconduct. They use speech that's false, divisive, harsh, or nonsensical. And they're covetous, malicious, with wrong view. Because of these things they experience pain and sadness.

It's when someone in pain and sadness doesn't kill living creatures, steal, or commit sexual misconduct. They don't use speech that's false, divisive, harsh, or nonsensical. And they're contented, kind-hearted, with right view. Because of these things they experience pain and sadness.

sahāpi dukkhena sahāpi domanassena adinnādānā paṭivirato hoti, adinnādānā veramaṇīpaccayā ca dukkhaṃ domanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti;

Idam, vuccati, bhikkhave, dhammasamādānam paccuppannasukhañceva āyatiñca sukhavipākam.

This is called the way of taking up practices that is pleasant now and results in future pleasure.

Imāni kho, bhikkhave, cattāri dhammasamādānāni. (4)

These are the four ways of taking up practices.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, tittakālābu visena saṃsaṭṭho.

Suppose there was some bitter gourd mixed with poison.

Atha puriso āgaccheyya jīvitukāmo amaritukāmo suhakāmo dukkhappaṭikūlo.

Then a man would come along who wants to live and doesn't want to die, who wants to be happy and recoils from pain.

Tamenam evam vadeyyum:

They'd say to him:

'ambho purisa, ayam tittakālābu visena saṃsaṭṭho,

'Here, mister, this is bitter gourd mixed with poison.

sace ākaṅkhasi piva.

Drink it if you like.

Tassa te pivato ceva nacchādessati vaṇṇenapi gandhenapi rasenapi, pivitvā ca pana maraṇaṃ vā nigacchasi maraṇamattaṃ vā dukkhaṃ'ti.

If you drink it, the color, aroma, and flavor will be unappetizing, and it will result in death or deadly pain.'

So taṃ appaṭisaṅkhāya piveyya, nappaṭinissajjeyya.

He wouldn't reject it. Without reflection, he'd drink it.

Tassa taṃ pivato ceva nacchādeyya vaṇṇenapi gandhenapi rasenapi, pivitvā ca pana maraṇaṃ vā nigaccheyya maraṇamattaṃ vā dukkhaṃ.

The color, aroma, and flavor would be unappetizing, and it would result in death or deadly pain.

Tathūpamāhaṃ, bhikkhave, imaṃ dhammasamādānaṃ vadāmi, yamidaṃ dhammasamādānaṃ paccuppannadukkhañceva āyatiṅca dukkhavipākaṃ. (1)

This is comparable to the way of taking up practices that is painful now and results in future pain, I say.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, āpānīyakaṃso vaṇṇasampanno gandhasampanno rasasampanno.

Suppose there was a bronze cup of beverage that had a nice color, aroma, and flavor.

So ca kho visena saṃsaṭṭho.

But it was mixed with poison.

Atha puriso āgaccheyya jīvitukāmo amaritukāmo sukhakāmo dukkhappaṭikūlo.

Then a man would come along who wants to live and doesn't want to die, who wants to be happy and recoils from pain.

Tameṇaṃ evaṃ vadeyyuṃ:

They'd say to him:

‘ambho purisa, ayam āpānīyakamso vaṇṇasampanno gandhasampanno rasasampanno.

‘Here, mister, this bronze cup of beverage has a nice color, aroma, and flavor.

So ca kho visena saṃsaṭṭho,
But it’s mixed with poison.

sace ākaṅkhasi piva.
Drink it if you like.

Tassa te pivatohi kho chādessati vaṇṇenapi gandhenapi rasenapi, pivitvā ca pana maraṇam vā nigacchasi maraṇamattam vā dukkhan’ti.

If you drink it, the color, aroma, and flavor will be appetizing, but it will result in death or deadly pain.’

So tam appaṭisaṅkhāya piveyya, nappaṭinissajjeyya.
He wouldn’t reject it. Without reflection, he’d drink it.

Tassa tam pivatohi kho chādeyya vaṇṇenapi gandhenapi rasenapi, pivitvā ca pana maraṇam vā nigaccheyya maraṇamattam vā dukkham.

The color, aroma, and flavor would be appetizing, but it would result in death or deadly pain.

Tathūpamāham, bhikkhave, imam dhammasamādānam vadāmi, yamidaṃ dhammasamādānam paccuppannasukham āyatim dukkhavipākam. (2)

This is comparable to the way of taking up practices that is pleasant now and results in future pain, I say.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, pūtimuttam nānābhesajjehi saṃsaṭṭham.

Suppose there was some fermented urine mixed with different medicines.

Atha puriso āgaccheyya paṇḍukarogī.

Then a man with jaundice would come along.

Tamenam̐ evam̐ vadeyyum̐:

They'd say to him:

'ambho purisa, idam̐ pūtimuttam̐ nānābhesajjehi saṃsaṭṭham̐, sace ākaṅkhasi piva.

'Here, mister, this is fermented urine mixed with different medicines. Drink it if you like.

Tassa te pivatohi kho nacchādessati vaṇṇenapi gandhenapi rasenapi, pivivā ca pana sukhī bhavissasī'ti.

If you drink it, the color, aroma, and flavor will be unappetizing, but after drinking it you will be happy.'

So tam̐ paṭisaṅkhāya piveyya, nappaṭinissajjeyya.

He wouldn't reject it. After reflection, he'd drink it.

Tassa tam̐ pivatohi kho nacchādeyya vaṇṇenapi gandhenapi rasenapi, pivivā ca pana sukhī assa.

The color, aroma, and flavor would be unappetizing, but after drinking it he would be happy.

Tathūpamāham̐, bhikkhave, imam̐ dhammasamādānam̐ vadāmi, yamidam̐ dhammasamādānam̐ paccuppannadukkham̐ āyatim̐ sukhavipākam̐. (3)

This is comparable to the way of taking up practices that is painful now and results in future pleasure, I say.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, dadhi ca madhu ca sappi ca phāṇitañca ekajjham̐ saṃsaṭṭham̐.

Suppose there was some curds, honey, ghee, and molasses all mixed together.

Atha puriso āgaccheyya lohitapakkhandiko.

Then a man with dysentery would come along.

Tamenam̐ evam̐ vadeyyum̐:

They'd say to him:

'ambho purisa, idam̐ dadhi ca madhu ca sappi ca phāṇitañca ekajjham̐ saṃsaṭṭham̐, sace ākaṅkhasi piva.

‘Here, mister, this is curds, honey, ghee, and molasses all mixed together. Drink it if you like.

Tassa te pivato ceva chādessati vaṇṇenapi gandhenapi rasenapi, pivitvā ca pana sukhī bhavissasī’ti.

If you drink it, the color, aroma, and flavor will be appetizing, and after drinking it you will be happy.’

So taṃ paṭisaṅkhāya piveyya, nappaṭinissajjeyya.

He wouldn’t reject it. After reflection, he’d drink it.

Tassa taṃ pivato ceva chādeyya vaṇṇenapi gandhenapi rasenapi, pivitvā ca pana sukhī assa.

The color, aroma, and flavor would be appetizing, and after drinking it he would be happy.

Tathūpamāhaṃ, bhikkhave, imaṃ dhammasamādānaṃ vadāmi, yamidaṃ dhammasamādānaṃ paccuppannasukhañceva āyatiñca sukhavipākaṃ. (4)

This is comparable to the way of taking up practices that is pleasant now and results in future pleasure, I say.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, vassānaṃ pacchime māse saradasamaye viddhe vigatavalāhake deve ādicco nabhaṃ abhussakkamāno sabbaṃ ākāsagataṃ tamagataṃ abhivihacca bhāsate ca tapate ca virocate ca;

It’s like the time after the rainy season when the sky is clear and cloudless. And when the sun rises, it dispels all the darkness from the sky as it shines and glows and radiates.

evameva kho, bhikkhave, yamidaṃ dhammasamādānaṃ paccuppannasukhañceva āyatiñca sukhavipākaṃ tadaññe puthusamaṇabrāhmaṇaparappavāde abhivihacca bhāsate ca tapate ca virocate cā’ti.

In the same way, this way of taking up practices that is pleasant now and results in future pleasure dispels the doctrines of the various other ascetics and brahmins as it shines and glows and radiates.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Mahādhammasamādānasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ chaṭṭhaṃ.

47. Vīmaṃsakasutta The Inquirer

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“vīmaṃsakena, bhikkhave, bhikkhunā parassa cetopariyāyaṃ ajānantena tathāgate samannesanā kātabbā
'sammāsambuddho vā no vā' iti viññāṇāyā”ti.

“Mendicants, a mendicant who is an inquirer, unable to comprehend another's mind, should scrutinize the Realized One to see whether he is a fully awakened Buddha or not.”

“Our teachings are rooted in the Buddha. He is our guide and our refuge. Sir, may the Buddha himself please clarify the meaning of this. The mendicants will listen and remember it.”

“Tena hi, bhikkhave, suṇātha, sādhu kaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmi”ti.

“Well then, mendicants, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosun.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Vīmaṃsakena, bhikkhave, bhikkhunā parassa cetopariyāyaṃ ajānanta dvīsu dhammesu tathāgato samannesitabbo cakkhusotaviññeyyesu dhammesu:

“Mendicants, a mendicant who is an inquirer, unable to comprehend another’s mind, should scrutinize the Realized One for two things—things that can be seen and heard:

‘ye saṅkiliṭṭhā cakkhusotaviññeyyā dhammā, saṃvijjanti vā te tathāgatassa no vā’ti?’

‘Can anything corrupt be seen or heard in the Realized One or not?’

Tameṇaṃ samannesamāno evaṃ jānāti:

Scrutinizing him they find that

‘ye saṅkiliṭṭhā cakkhusotaviññeyyā dhammā, na te tathāgatassa saṃvijjanti’ti. (1) nothing corrupt can be seen or heard in the Realized One.

Yato naṃ samannesamāno evaṃ jānāti:

‘ye saṅkiliṭṭhā cakkhusotaviññeyyā dhammā, na te tathāgatassa saṁvijjantī’ti, tato naṁ uttarim̄ samannesati:

They scrutinize further:

‘ye vītimissā cakkhusotaviññeyyā dhammā, saṁvijjanti vā te tathāgatassa no vā’ti?

‘Can anything mixed be seen or heard in the Realized One or not?’

Tamenam̄ samannesamāno evam̄ jānāti:

Scrutinizing him they find that

‘ye vītimissā cakkhusotaviññeyyā dhammā, na te tathāgatassa saṁvijjantī’ti. (2)

nothing mixed can be seen or heard in the Realized One.

Yato naṁ samannesamāno evam̄ jānāti:

‘ye vītimissā cakkhusotaviññeyyā dhammā, na te tathāgatassa saṁvijjantī’ti, tato naṁ uttarim̄ samannesati:

They scrutinize further:

‘ye vodātā cakkhusotaviññeyyā dhammā, saṁvijjanti vā te tathāgatassa no vā’ti?

‘Can anything clean be seen or heard in the Realized One or not?’

Tamenam̄ samannesamāno evam̄ jānāti:

Scrutinizing him they find that

‘ye vodātā cakkhusotaviññeyyā dhammā, saṁvijjanti te tathāgatassā’ti. (3) clean things can be seen and heard in the Realized One.

Yato naṁ samannesamāno evam̄ jānāti:

‘ye vodātā cakkhusotaviññeyyā dhammā, saṁvijjanti te tathāgatassā’ti, tato naṁ uttarim̄ samannesati:

They scrutinize further:

‘dīgharattam̄ samāpanno ayamāyasmā imam̄ kusalam̄ dhammam̄, udāhu ittarasamāpanno’ti?

‘Did the venerable attain this skillful state a long time ago, or just recently?’

Tamenam samannesamāno evam jānāti:

Scrutinizing him they find that

‘dīgharattaṃ samāpanno ayamāyasmā imam kusalam dhammaṃ, nāyamāyasmā ittarasamāpanno’ti. (4)

the venerable attained this skillful state a long time ago, not just recently.

Yato nam samannesamāno evam jānāti:

‘dīgharattaṃ samāpanno ayamāyasmā imam kusalam dhammaṃ, nāyamāyasmā ittarasamāpanno’ti, tato nam uttarim samannesati:

They scrutinize further:

‘ñattajjhāpanno ayamāyasmā bhikkhu yasappatto, saṃvijjantassa idhekacce ādīnavā’ti?

‘Are certain dangers found in that venerable mendicant who has achieved fame and renown?’

Na tāva, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno idhekacce ādīnavā saṃvijjanti yāva na ñattajjhāpanno hoti yasappatto.

For, mendicants, so long as a mendicant has not achieved fame and renown, certain dangers are not found in them.

Yato ca kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu ñattajjhāpanno hoti yasappatto, athassa idhekacce ādīnavā saṃvijjanti.

But when they achieve fame and renown, those dangers appear.

Tamenam samannesamāno evam jānāti:

Scrutinizing him they find that

‘ñattajjhāpanno ayamāyasmā bhikkhu yasappatto, nāssa idhekacce ādīnavā saṃvijjanti’ti. (5)

those dangers are not found in that venerable mendicant who has achieved fame and renown.

Yato naṃ samannesamāno evaṃ jānāti:

‘ñattajjhāpanno ayamāyasmā bhikkhu yasappatto, nāssa idhekacce ādīnavā saṃvijjantī’ti, tato naṃ uttarim̐ samannesati:
They scrutinize further:

‘abhayūparato ayamāyasmā, nāyamāyasmā bhayūparato;
‘Is this venerable securely stopped or insecurely stopped?’

vītarāgattā kāme na sevati khayā rāgassā’ti?
Is the reason they don’t indulge in sensual pleasures that they’re free of greed because greed has ended?’

Tamenam̐ samannesamāno evaṃ jānāti:
Scrutinizing him they find that ‘abhayūparato ayamāyasmā, nāyamāyasmā bhayūparato;

that venerable is securely stopped, not insecurely stopped.

vītarāgattā kāme na sevati khayā rāgassā’ti. (6)
The reason they don’t indulge in sensual pleasures is that they’re free of greed because greed has ended.

Tañce, bhikkhave, bhikkhum̐ pare evaṃ puccheyyum̐:
If others should ask that mendicant,

‘ke panāyasmato ākārā, ke anvayā, yenāyasmā evaṃ vadesi—
‘But what reason and evidence does the venerable have for saying this?’

abhayūparato ayamāyasmā, nāyamāyasmā bhayūparato;
vītarāgattā kāme na sevati khayā rāgassā’ti.

Sammā byākaramāno, bhikkhave, bhikkhu evaṃ byākareyya:
Answering rightly, the mendicant should say,

‘tathā hi pana ayamāyasmā saṅghe vā viharanto eko vā viharanto, ye ca tattha sugatā ye ca tattha duggatā, ye ca tattha gaṇamanusāsanti, ye ca idhekacce āmisesu sandissanti, ye ca idhekacce āmisenā anupalittā, nāyamāyasmā taṃ tena avajānāti.

‘Because, whether that venerable is staying in a community or alone, some people there are in a good state or a sorry state, some instruct a group, and some indulge in material pleasures, while others remain unsullied. Yet that venerable doesn’t look down on them for that.

Sammukhā kho pana metaṃ bhagavato sutam sammukhā paṭiggahitaṃ—

Also, I have heard and learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

abhayūparatohamasmi, nāhamasmi bhayūparato, vītarāgattā kāme na sevāmi khayā rāgassā’ti.

“I am securely stopped, not insecurely stopped. The reason I don’t indulge in sensual pleasures is that I’m free of greed because greed has ended.”

Tatra, bhikkhave, tathāgatova uttarim paṭipucchitabbo:

Next, they should ask the Realized One himself about this,

‘ye saṅkiliṭṭhā cakkhusotaviññeyyā dhammā, saṃvijjanti vā te tathāgatassa no vā’ti?

‘Can anything corrupt be seen or heard in the Realized One or not?’

Byākaramāno, bhikkhave, tathāgato evaṃ byākareyya:

The Realized One would answer,

‘ye saṅkiliṭṭhā cakkhusotaviññeyyā dhammā, na te tathāgatassa saṃvijjantī’ti. (1)

‘Nothing corrupt can be seen or heard in the Realized One.’

‘Ye vītimissā cakkhusotaviññeyyā dhammā, saṃvijjanti vā te tathāgatassa no vā’ti?

‘Can anything mixed be seen or heard in the Realized One or not?’

Byākaramāno, bhikkhave, tathāgato evaṃ byākareyya:

The Realized One would answer,

‘ye vītimissā cakkhusotaviññeyyā dhammā, na te tathāgatassa saṃvijjantī’ti. (2)

‘Nothing mixed can be seen or heard in the Realized One.’

‘Ye vodātā cakkhusotaviññeyyā dhammā, saṁvijjanti vā te tathāgatassa no vā’ti?’

‘Can anything clean be seen or heard in the Realized One or not?’

Byākaramāno, bhikkhave, tathāgato evaṁ byākareyya:

The Realized One would answer,

‘ye vodātā cakkhusotaviññeyyā dhammā, saṁvijjanti te tathāgatassa;

‘Clean things can be seen and heard in the Realized One.

etaṁ pathohamasmi, etaṁ gocaro, no ca tena tammayo’ti. (3)

I am that range and that territory, but I do not identify with that.’

Evaṁvādiṁ kho, bhikkhave, satthāraṁ arahati sāvako upasaṅkमितुṁ dhammassavanāya.

A disciple ought to approach a teacher who has such a doctrine in order to listen to the teaching.

Tassa satthā dhammaṁ deseti uttaruttariṁ paṇītapañītaṁ kaṇhasukkasappaṭibhāgaṁ.

The teacher explains Dhamma with its higher and higher stages, with its better and better stages, with its dark and bright sides.

It is firm, and cannot be shifted by any ascetic or brahmin or god or Māra or Brahmā or by anyone in the world.

This is how to scrutinize the Realized One's qualities.

Evañca pana tathāgato dhammatāsusamanniṭṭho hoti”ti.

But the Realized One has already been properly searched in this way by nature.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandunti.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Vīmaṃsakasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ sattamaṃ.

48. Kosambiyasutta

The Mendicants of Kosambi

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava kosambiyam viharati ghositarame.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Kosambi, in Ghosita's Monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena kosambiyam bhikkhu bhandanajatā kalahatā vivādāpanā aññamaññaṃ mukhasattīhi vitudantā viharanti.

Now at that time the mendicants of Kosambi were arguing, quarreling, and fighting, continually wounding each other with barbed words.

Te na ceva aññamaññaṃ saññāpentī na ca saññattim upenti, na ca aññamaññaṃ nijjhāpentī, na ca nijjhattim upenti.

They couldn't persuade each other or be persuaded, nor could they convince each other or be convinced.

Atha kho aññataro bhikkhu yena bhagava tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtvā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho so bhikkhu bhagavantam etadavoca:

Then a mendicant went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what was happening.

“idha, bhante, kosambiyam bhikkhū bhandanajatā kalahatā vivādāpanā aññamaññaṃ mukhasattīhi vitudantā viharanti, te na ceva aññamaññaṃ saññāpenti, na ca saññattim upenti, na ca aññamaññaṃ nijjhāpenti, na ca nijjhattim upenti”ti.

Atha kho bhagavā aññataraṃ bhikkhuṃ āmantesi:

So the Buddha said to a certain monk,

“ehi tvaṃ, bhikkhu, mama vacanena te bhikkhū āmantehi:

“Please, monk, in my name tell those mendicants that ‘sathā vo āyasmante āmantetī’”ti.

the teacher summons them.

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho so bhikkhu bhagavato paṭissutvā yena te bhikkhū tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā te bhikkhū etadavoca:

“Yes, sir,” that monk replied. He went to those monks and said, “sathā āyasmante āmantetī”ti.

“Venerables, the teacher summons you.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū tassa bhikkhuno paṭissutvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu. Ekamantaṃ nisinne kho te bhikkhū bhagavā etadavoca:

“Yes, reverend,” those monks replied. They went to the Buddha, bowed, and sat down to one side. The Buddha said to them, “saccaṃ kira tumhe, bhikkhave, bhaṇḍanajātā kalahajātā vivādāpannā aññamaññaṃ mukhasattīhi vitudentā viharatha,

“Is it really true, mendicants, that you have been arguing, quarreling, and fighting, continually wounding each other with barbed words?

te na ceva aññamaññaṃ saññāpetha, na ca saññattim upetha, na ca aññamaññaṃ nijjhāpetha, na ca nijjhattim upethā”ti?

And that you can’t persuade each other or be persuaded, nor can you convince each other or be convinced?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir,” they said.

“Taṃ kiṃ maññaṭṭha, bhikkhave,

“What do you think, mendicants?

yasmiṃ tumhe samaye bhaṇḍana-jātā kalahajātā vivādāpannā añña-maññaṃ mukhasattīhi vitudantā viharatha, api nu tumhākaṃ tasmīṃ samaye mettaṃ kāyakammaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ hoti sabrahmacārīsu āvi ceva raho ca, mettaṃ vacīkammaṃ ...pe... mettaṃ manokammaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ hoti sabrahmacārīsu āvi ceva raho cā”ti?

When you’re arguing, quarreling, and fighting, continually wounding each other with barbed words, are you treating your spiritual companions with kindness by way of body, speech, and mind, both in public and in private?”

“No hettaṃ, bhante”.

“No, sir.”

“Iti kira, bhikkhave, yasmiṃ tumhe samaye bhaṇḍana-jātā kalahajātā vivādāpannā añña-maññaṃ mukhasattīhi vitudantā viharatha, neva tumhākaṃ tasmīṃ samaye mettaṃ kāyakammaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ hoti sabrahmacārīsu āvi ceva raho ca, na mettaṃ vacīkammaṃ ...pe... na mettaṃ manokammaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ hoti sabrahmacārīsu āvi ceva raho ca.

“So it seems that when you’re arguing you are not treating each other with kindness.

Atha kiñcaraṃ tumhe, moghapurisā, kiṃ jānantā kiṃ passantā bhaṇḍana-jātā kalahajātā vivādāpannā añña-maññaṃ mukhasattīhi vitudantā viharatha, te na ceva añña-maññaṃ saññāpetha, na ca saññattim upetha, na ca añña-maññaṃ nijjhāpetha, na ca nijjhattim upetha?

So what exactly do you know and see, you foolish men, that you behave in such a way?

Tañhi tumhākaṃ, moghapurisā, bhavissati dīgharattaṃ ahitāya dukkhāyā”ti.

This will be for your lasting harm and suffering.”

Atha kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to the mendicants:

“chayime, bhikkhave, dhammā sāraṇīyā piyakaraṇā garukaraṇā saṅgahāya avivādāya sāmaggīyā ekībhāvāya saṃvattanti.

“Mendicants, these six warm-hearted qualities make for fondness and respect, conducing to inclusion, harmony, and unity, without quarreling.

Katame cha?

What six?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno mettaṃ kāyakammaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ hoti sabrahmacārīsu āvi ceva raho ca.

Firstly, a mendicant consistently treats their spiritual companions with bodily kindness, both in public and in private.

Ayampi dhammo sāraṇīyo piyakaraṇo garukaraṇo saṅgahāya avivādāya sāmaggīyā ekībhāvāya saṃvattati. (1)

This warm-hearted quality makes for fondness and respect, conducing to inclusion, harmony, and unity, without quarreling.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno mettaṃ vacīkammaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ hoti sabrahmacārīsu āvi ceva raho ca.

Furthermore, a mendicant consistently treats their spiritual companions with verbal kindness ...

Ayampi dhammo sāraṇīyo piyakaraṇo garukaraṇo saṅgahāya avivādāya sāmaggīyā ekībhāvāya saṃvattati. (2)

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno mettaṃ manokammaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ hoti sabrahmacārīsu āvi ceva raho ca.

Furthermore, a mendicant consistently treats their spiritual companions with mental kindness ...

Ayampi dhammo sāraṇīyo piyakaraṇo garukaraṇo saṅgahāya avivādāya sāmaggīyā ekībhāvāya saṁvattati. (3)

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu ye te lābhā dhammikā dhammaladdhā antamaso pattapariyāpannamattampi, tathārūpehi lābhehi appaṭivibhattabhogī hoti sīlavantehi sabrahmacārīhi sādharmaṇabhogī.

Furthermore, a mendicant shares without reservation any material possessions they have gained by legitimate means, even the food placed in the alms-bowl, using them in common with their ethical spiritual companions ...

Ayampi dhammo sāraṇīyo piyakaraṇo garukaraṇo saṅgahāya avivādāya sāmaggīyā ekībhāvāya saṁvattati. (4)

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu yāni tāni sīlāni akhaṇḍāni acchiddāni asabalāni akammāsāni bhujissāni viññuppasatthāni aparāmaṭṭhāni samādhisaṁvattanikāni tathārūpesu sīlesu sīlasāmaññagato viharati sabrahmacārīhi āvi ceva raho ca.

Furthermore, a mendicant lives according to the precepts shared with their spiritual companions, both in public and in private. Those precepts are unbroken, impeccable, spotless, and unmarred, liberating, praised by sensible people, not mistaken, and leading to immersion. ...

Ayampi dhammo sāraṇīyo piyakaraṇo garukaraṇo saṅgahāya avivādāya sāmaggīyā ekībhāvāya saṁvattati. (5)

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu yāyaṃ diṭṭhi ariyā niyyānikā niyyāti takkarassa sammā dukkhakkhayāya tathārūpāya diṭṭhiyā diṭṭhisāmaññagato viharati sabrahmacārīhi āvi ceva raho ca.

Furthermore, a mendicant lives according to the view shared with their spiritual companions, both in public and in private. That view is noble and emancipating, and leads one who practices it to the complete ending of suffering.

Ayampi dhammo sāraṇīyo piyakaraṇo garukaraṇo saṅgahāya avivādāya sāmaggīyā ekībhāvāya saṁvattati. (6)

This warm-hearted quality makes for fondness and respect, conducing to inclusion, harmony, and unity, without quarreling.

Ime kho, bhikkhave, cha sāraṇīyā dhammā piyakaraṇā garukaraṇā saṅgahāya avivādāya sāmaggīyā ekībhāvāya saṁvattanti.

These six warm-hearted qualities make for fondness and respect, conducing to inclusion, harmony, and unity, without quarreling.

Imesaṁ kho, bhikkhave, channaṁ sāraṇīyānaṁ dhammānaṁ etaṁ aggaṁ etaṁ saṅgāhikaṁ etaṁ saṅghāṭanikaṁ—yadidaṁ yāyaṁ diṭṭhi ariyā niyyānikā niyyāti takkarassa sammā dukkhakkhayāya.

Of these six warm-hearted qualities, the chief is the view that is noble and emancipating, and leads one who practices it to the complete ending of suffering. It holds and binds everything together.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, kūṭāgārassa etaṁ aggaṁ etaṁ saṅgāhikaṁ etaṁ saṅghāṭanikaṁ yadidaṁ kūṭaṁ;

It's like a bungalow. The roof-peak is the chief point, which holds and binds everything together.

evameva kho, bhikkhave, imesaṁ channaṁ sāraṇīyānaṁ dhammānaṁ etaṁ aggaṁ etaṁ saṅgāhikaṁ etaṁ saṅghāṭanikaṁ yadidaṁ yāyaṁ diṭṭhi ariyā niyyānikā niyyāti takkarassa sammā dukkhakkhayāya.

In the same way, of these six warm-hearted qualities, the chief is the view that is noble and emancipating, and leads one who practices it to the complete ending of suffering. It holds and binds everything together.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, yāyaṃ diṭṭhi ariyā niyyānikā niyyāti takkarassa sammā dukkhakkhayāya?

And how does the view that is noble and emancipating lead one who practices it to the complete ending of suffering?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu araññagato vā rukkhamūlagato vā suññāgāragato vā iti paṭisañcikkhati:

It's when a mendicant has gone to a wilderness, or to the root of a tree, or to an empty hut, and reflects like this,

'atthi nu kho me taṃ pariyuṭṭhānaṃ ajjhattaṃ appahīnaṃ, yenāhaṃ pariyuṭṭhānena pariyuṭṭhitacitto yathābhūtaṃ nappajāneyyaṃ na passeyyan'ti?

'Is there anything that I'm overcome with internally and haven't given up, because of which I might not accurately know and see?'

Sace, bhikkhave, bhikkhu kāmarāgapariyuṭṭhito hoti, pariyuṭṭhitacittova hoti.

If a mendicant is overcome with sensual desire, it's their mind that's overcome.

Sace, bhikkhave, bhikkhu byāpādapariyuṭṭhito hoti, pariyuṭṭhitacittova hoti.

If a mendicant is overcome with ill will,

Sace, bhikkhave, bhikkhu thinamiddhapariyuṭṭhito hoti, pariyuṭṭhitacittova hoti.

dullness and drowsiness,

Sace, bhikkhave, bhikkhu uddhaccakukkuccapariyuṭṭhito hoti, pariyuṭṭhitacittova hoti.

restlessness and remorse,

Sace, bhikkhave, bhikkhu vicikicchāpariyuṭṭhito hoti, pariyuṭṭhitacittova hoti.

doubt,

Sace, bhikkhave, bhikkhu idhalokacintāya pasuto hoti, pariyuṭṭhitacittova hoti.

pursuing speculation about this world,

Sace, bhikkhave, bhikkhu paralokacintāya pasuto hoti, pariyaṭṭhitacittova hoti.

pursuing speculation about the next world,

Sace, bhikkhave, bhikkhu bhaṇḍanajāto kalahajāto vivādāpanno aññamaññaṃ mukhasattīhi vitudanto viharati, pariyaṭṭhitacittova hoti.

or arguing, quarreling, and fighting, continually wounding others with barbed words, it's their mind that's overcome.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand,

‘natthi kho me taṃ pariyaṭṭhānaṃ ajjhattaṃ appahīnaṃ, yenāhaṃ pariyaṭṭhānena pariyaṭṭhitacitto yathābhūtaṃ nappajāneyyaṃ na passeyyaṃ.

‘There is nothing that I’m overcome with internally and haven’t given up, because of which I might not accurately know and see.

Suppaṇihitaṃ me mānasaṃ saccānaṃ bodhāyā’ti.

My mind is properly disposed for awakening to the truths.’

Idamassa paṭhamaṃ ñāṇaṃ adhigataṃ hoti ariyaṃ lokuttaraṃ asādhāraṇaṃ puthujjanehi. (1)

This is the first knowledge they have achieved that is noble and transcendent, and is not shared with ordinary people.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako iti paṭisañcikkhati:

Furthermore, a noble disciple reflects,

‘imaṃ nu kho ahaṃ diṭṭhiṃ āsevanto bhāvento bahuḷīkaronto labhāmi paccattaṃ samathaṃ, labhāmi paccattaṃ nibbutin’ti?

‘When I develop, cultivate, and make much of this view, do I personally gain serenity and quenching?’

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand,

‘imaṃ kho ahaṃ diṭṭhiṃ āsevanto bhāvento bahuḷīkaronto labhāmi paccattaṃ samathaṃ, labhāmi paccattaṃ nibbutin’ti.

‘When I develop, cultivate, and make much of this view, I personally gain serenity and quenching.’

Idamassa dutiyam ñāṇam adhigataṃ hoti ariyam lokuttaram asādhāraṇam puthujjanehi. (2)

This is their second knowledge ...

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako iti paṭisañcikkhati:

Furthermore, a noble disciple reflects,

‘yathārūpāyaṃ dīṭṭhiyā samannāgato, atthi nu kho ito bahiddhā añño samaṇo vā brāhmaṇo vā tathārūpāya dīṭṭhiyā samannāgato’ti?

‘Are there any ascetics or brahmins outside of the Buddhist community who have the same kind of view that I have?’

So evam pajānāti:

They understand,

‘yathārūpāyaṃ dīṭṭhiyā samannāgato, natthi ito bahiddhā añño samaṇo vā brāhmaṇo vā tathārūpāya dīṭṭhiyā samannāgato’ti.

‘There are no ascetics or brahmins outside of the Buddhist community who have the same kind of view that I have.’

Idamassa tatiyam ñāṇam adhigataṃ hoti ariyam lokuttaram asādhāraṇam puthujjanehi. (3)

This is their third knowledge ...

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako iti paṭisañcikkhati:

Furthermore, a noble disciple reflects,

‘yathārūpāya dhammatāya dīṭṭhisampanno puggalo samannāgato, ahampi tathārūpāya dhammatāya samannāgato’ti.

Kathamrūpāya ca, bhikkhave, dhammatāya dīṭṭhisampanno puggalo samannāgato?

And what, mendicants, is the nature of a person accomplished in view?

Dhammatā esā, bhikkhave, diṭṭhisampannessa puggalassa:
This is the nature of a person accomplished in view.

‘kiñcāpi tathārūpim āpattim āpajjati, yathārūpāya āpattiyā vuṭṭhānaṃ paññāyati, atha kho naṃ khippameva satthari vā
viññūsu vā sabrahmacārīsu deseti vivarati uttānīkaroti;

Though they may fall into a kind of offense for which rehabilitation has been laid down, they quickly disclose, clarify, and reveal it to the Teacher or a sensible spiritual companion.

desetvā vivaritvā uttānīkatvā āyatim saṃvaram āpajjati’.
And having revealed it they restrain themselves in the future.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, daharo kumāro mando uttānaseyyako hatthena vā pādena vā aṅgāraṃ akkamitvā khippameva paṭisaṃharati;

Suppose there was a little baby boy. If he puts his hand or foot on a burning coal, he quickly pulls it back.

evameva kho, bhikkhave, dhammatā esā diṭṭhisampannessa puggalassa:

In the same way, this is the nature of a person accomplished in view.

‘kiñcāpi tathārūpim āpattim āpajjati yathārūpāya āpattiyā
vuṭṭhānaṃ paññāyati, atha kho naṃ khippameva satthari vā
viññūsu vā sabrahmacārīsu deseti vivarati uttānīkaroti;

Though they may still fall into a kind of offense for which rehabilitation has been laid down, they quickly reveal it to the Teacher or a sensible spiritual companion.

desetvā vivaritvā uttānīkatvā āyatim saṃvaram āpajjati’.
And having revealed it they restrain themselves in the future.

So evaṃ pajānāti:
They understand,

‘yathārūpāya dhammatāya diṭṭhisampanno puggalo samannāgato, ahampi tathārūpāya dhammatāya

samannāgato'ti.

'I have the same nature as a person accomplished in view.'

Idamassa catuttham ñāṇam adhigataṃ hoti ariyam lokuttaram asādhāraṇam puthujjanehi. (4)

This is their fourth knowledge ...

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako iti paṭisañcikkhati:

Furthermore, a noble disciple reflects,

'yathārūpāya dhammatāya diṭṭhisampanno puggalo
samannāgato, ahampi tathārūpāya dhammatāya
samannāgato'ti.

'Do I have the same nature as a person accomplished in view?'

Kathamrūpāya ca, bhikkhave, dhammatāya diṭṭhisampanno puggalo samannāgato?

And what, mendicants, is the nature of a person accomplished in view?

Dhammatā esā, bhikkhave, diṭṭhisampannassa puggalassa:

This is the nature of a person accomplished in view.

'kiñcāpi yāni tāni sabrahmacārīnam uccāvacāni kiñkaraṇīyāni tattha ussukkaṃ āpanno hoti, atha khvāssa tibbāpekkhā hoti adhisīlasikkhāya adhicittasikkhāya adhipaññāsikkhāya'.

Though they might manage a diverse spectrum of duties for their spiritual companions, they still feel a keen regard for the training in higher ethics, higher mind, and higher wisdom.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, gāvī taruṇavacchā thambañca ālumpati vacchakañca apacinati;

Suppose there was a cow with a baby calf. She keeps the calf close as she grazes.

evameva kho, bhikkhave, dhammatā esā diṭṭhisampannassa
puggalassa:

In the same way, this is the nature of a person accomplished in view.

‘kiñcāpi yāni tāni sabrahmacārīnaṃ uccāvacāni kiñkaraṇīyāni tattha ussukkaṃ āpanno hoti, atha khvāssa tibbāpekkhā hoti adhisīlasikkhāya adhiccittasikkhāya adhipaññāsikkhāya’.

Though they might manage a diverse spectrum of duties for their spiritual companions, they still feel a keen regard for the training in higher ethics, higher mind, and higher wisdom.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand,

‘yathārūpāya dhammatāya diṭṭhisampanno puggalo samannāgato, ahampi tathārūpāya dhammatāya samannāgato’ti.

‘I have the same nature as a person accomplished in view.’

Idamassa pañcamaṃ ñāṇaṃ adhigataṃ hoti ariyaṃ lokuttaraṃ asādhāraṇaṃ puthujjanehi. (5)

This is their fifth knowledge ...

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako iti paṭisañcikkhati:

Furthermore, a noble disciple reflects,

‘yathārūpāya balatāya diṭṭhisampanno puggalo samannāgato, ahampi tathārūpāya balatāya samannāgato’ti.

‘Do I have the same strength as a person accomplished in view?’

Kathaṃrūpāya ca, bhikkhave, balatāya diṭṭhisampanno puggalo samannāgato?

And what, mendicants, is the strength of a person accomplished in view?

Balatā esā, bhikkhave, diṭṭhisampannassa puggalassa yaṃ tathāgatappavedite dhammavinaye desiyamāne aṭṭhiṃ katvā manasikatvā sabbacetasā samannāharitvā ohitasoto dhammaṃ suṇāti.

The strength of a person accomplished in view is that, when the teaching and training proclaimed by the Realized One are being taught, they pay heed, pay attention, engage wholeheartedly, and lend an ear.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand,

‘yathārūpāya balatāya diṭṭhisampanno puggalo samannāgato, ahampi tathārūpāya balatāya samannāgato’ti.

‘I have the same strength as a person accomplished in view.’

Idamassa chaṭṭhaṃ ñāṇaṃ adhigataṃ hoti ariyaṃ lokuttaraṃ asādhāraṇaṃ puthujjanehi. (6)

This is their sixth knowledge ...

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako iti paṭisañcikkhati:

Furthermore, a noble disciple reflects,

‘yathārūpāya balatāya diṭṭhisampanno puggalo samannāgato,
ahampi tathārūpāya balatāya samannāgato’ti.

‘Do I have the same strength as a person accomplished in view?’

Kathaṃrūpāya ca, bhikkhave, balatāya diṭṭhisampanno puggalo samannāgato?

And what, mendicants, is the strength of a person accomplished in view?

Balatā esā, bhikkhave, diṭṭhisampannassa puggalassa yaṃ tathāgatappavedite dhammavinaye desiyamāne labhati atthavedaṃ, labhati dhammavedaṃ, labhati dhammūpasamhitaṃ pāmojjaṃ.

The strength of a person accomplished in view is that, when the teaching and training proclaimed by the Realized One are being taught, they find joy in the meaning and the teaching, and find joy connected with the teaching.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand,

‘yathārūpāya balatāya diṭṭhisampanno puggalo samannāgato,
ahampi tathārūpāya balatāya samannāgato’ti.

‘I have the same strength as a person accomplished in view.’

Idamassa sattamaṃ ñāṇaṃ adhigataṃ hoti ariyaṃ lokuttaraṃ asādhāraṇaṃ puthujjanehi. (7)

This is the seventh knowledge they have achieved that is noble and transcendent, and is not shared with ordinary people.

Evaṃ sattaṅgasamannāgatassa kho, bhikkhave, ariyasāvakassa dhammatā susamanniṭṭhā hoti sotāpattiṃ phalāsacchikiriyāya.

When a noble disciple has these seven factors, they have properly investigated their own nature with respect to the realization of the fruit of stream-entry.

Evaṃ sattaṅgasamannāgato kho, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako sotāpattiṃ phalāsamannāgato hoti”ti.

A noble disciple with these seven factors has the fruit of stream-entry.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamaṇā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Kosambiyasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ aṭṭhamaṃ.

49. Brahmanimantanikasutta On the Invitation of Brahmā

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagava bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagava etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Ekamidāham, bhikkhave, samayam ukkaṭṭhāyam viharāmi subhagavane sālārājamūle.

“At one time, mendicants, I was staying near Ukkaṭṭhā, in the Subhaga Forest at the root of a magnificent sal tree.

Tena kho pana, bhikkhave, samayena bakassa brahmuno evarūpaṃ pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ uppannaṃ hoti:

Now at that time Baka the Brahmā had the following harmful misconception:

‘idaṃ niccaṃ, idaṃ dhuvaṃ, idaṃ sassataṃ, idaṃ kevalaṃ, idaṃ acavanadhammaṃ, idaṃhi na jāyati na jīyati na mīyati na cavati na upapajjati, ito ca panaññaṃ uttari nissaraṇaṃ natthī’ti.
‘This is permanent, this is everlasting, this is eternal, this is whole, this is imperishable. For this is where there’s no being born, growing old, dying, passing away, or being reborn. And there’s no other escape beyond this.’

Atha khvāhaṃ, bhikkhave, bakassa brahmuno cetasā cetoparivitakkamaññāya—

Then I knew what Baka the Brahmā was thinking.

seyyathāpi nāma balavā puriso samiñjitaṃ vā bāhaṃ pasāreyya, pasāritaṃ vā bāhaṃ samiñjeyya; evameva—ukkaṭṭhāyaṃ subhagavane sālarājamūle antarahito tasmim brahmaloke pāturaḥosiṃ.

As easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, I vanished from the Subhaga Forest and reappeared in that Brahmā realm.

Addasā kho maṃ, bhikkhave, bako brahmā dūratova
āgacchantaṃ;

Baka saw me coming off in the distance

disvāna maṃ etadavoca:

and said,

‘ehi kho, mārisa, svāgataṃ, mārisa.

‘Come, good sir! Welcome, good sir!

Cirassaṃ kho, mārisa, imaṃ pariyāyamakāsi yadidaṃ idhāgamanāya.

It’s been a long time since you took the opportunity to come here.

Idaṃhi, mārisa, niccaṃ, idaṃ dhuvaṃ, idaṃ sassataṃ, idaṃ kevalaṃ, idaṃ acavanadhammaṃ, idaṃhi na jāyati na jīyati na mīyati na cavati na upapajjati. Ito ca panaññaṃ uttari nissaraṇaṃ natthī’ti.

For this is permanent, this is everlasting, this is eternal, this is complete, this is imperishable. For this is where there's no being born, growing old, dying, passing away, or being reborn. And there's no other escape beyond this.'

Evam vutte, aham, bhikkhave, bakaṃ brahmānaṃ etadavocaṃ:
When he had spoken, I said to him,

‘avijjāgato vata bho bako brahmā, avijjāgato vata bho bako brahmā;

‘Alas, Baka the Brahmā is lost in ignorance! Alas, Baka the Brahmā is lost in ignorance!

yatra hi nāma aniccaṃyeva samānaṃ niccanti vakkhati, addhuvāṃyeva samānaṃ dhuvanti vakkhati, asassataṃyeva samānaṃ sassatanti vakkhati, akevalaṃyeva samānaṃ kevalanti vakkhati, cavanadhammaṃyeva samānaṃ acavanadhammanti vakkhati;

Because what is actually impermanent, not lasting, transient, incomplete, and perishable, he says is permanent, everlasting, eternal, complete, and imperishable.

yattha ca pana jāyati jīyati mīyati cavati upapajjati tañca vakkhati:

And where there is being born, growing old, dying, passing away, and being reborn, he says that “idañhi na jāyati na jīyati na mīyati na cavati na upapajjati”ti;

there's no being born, growing old, dying, passing away, or being reborn.

santañca panaññaṃ uttari nissaraṇaṃ “natthaññaṃ uttari nissaraṇaṃ”ti vakkhati'ti.

And although there is another escape beyond this, he says that there's no other escape beyond this.'

Atha kho, bhikkhave, māro pāpimā aññataraṃ brahmapārisajjaṃ anvāvisitvā maṃ etadavoca:

Then Māra the Wicked took possession of a member of Brahmā's retinue and said this to me,

'bhikkhu bhikkhu, metamāsado metamāsado, eso hi, bhikkhu, brahmā mahābrahmā abhibhū anabhibhūto aññadatthudaso vasavattī issaro kattā nimmātā seṭṭho sajitā vasī pitā bhūtabhabyānaṃ.

'Mendicant, mendicant! Don't attack this one! Don't attack this one! For this is Brahmā, the Great Brahmā, the Undefeated, the Champion, the Universal Seer, the Wielder of Power, the Lord God, the Maker, the Author, the Best, the Begetter, the Controller, the Father of those who have been born and those yet to be born.

Ahesuṃ kho ye, bhikkhu, tayā pubbe samaṇabrāhmaṇā lokasmiṃ pathavīgarahakā pathavījigucchakā, āpagarahakā āpajigucchakā, tejagarahakā tejajigucchakā, vāyagarahakā vāyajigucchakā, bhūtagarahakā bhūtajigucchakā, devagarahakā devajigucchakā, pajāpatigarahakā pajāpatijigucchakā, brahmagarahakā brahmajigucchakā—

There have been ascetics and brahmins before you, mendicant, who criticized and loathed earth, water, air, fire, creatures, gods, the Creator, and Brahmā.

te kāyassa bhedaṃ paṇupacchedā hīne kāye patitṭhitā ahesuṃ.

When their bodies broke up and their breath was cut off they were reborn in a lower realm.

Ye pana, bhikkhu, tayā pubbe samaṇabrāhmaṇā lokasmiṃ pathavīpasāṃsakā pathavābhinandino, āpapasāṃsakā āpābhinandino, tejapasāṃsakā tejābhinandino, vāyapasāṃsakā vāyābhinandino, bhūtapasāṃsakā bhūtābhinandino, devapasāṃsakā devābhinandino, pajāpatīpasāṃsakā pajāpatābhinandino, brahmapasāṃsakā brahmābhinandino—

There have been ascetics and brahmins before you, mendicant, who praised and approved earth, water, air, fire, creatures, gods, the Creator, and Brahmā.

te kāyassa bhedaṃ paṇupacchedaṃ paṇite kāye paṭiṭṭhitā.

When their bodies broke up and their breath was cut off they were reborn in a higher realm.

Taṃ tāhaṃ, bhikkhu, evaṃ vadāmi:

So, mendicant, I tell you this:

“iṅha tvaṃ, mārisa, yadeva te brahmā āha tadeva tvaṃ karohi, mā tvaṃ brahmuno vacanaṃ upātivattittho”.

please, good sir, do exactly what Brahmā says. Don't go beyond the word of Brahmā.

Sace kho tvaṃ, bhikkhu, brahmuno vacanaṃ upātivattissasi, seyyathāpi nāma puriso sirim āgacchantim daṇḍena paṭippanāmeyya, seyyathāpi vā pana, bhikkhu, puriso narakappapāte papatanto hatthehi ca pādehi ca pathavim virādheyya, evaṃ sampadamidaṃ, bhikkhu, tuyhaṃ bhavissati.

If you do, then the consequence for you will be like that of a person who, when Lady Luck approaches, wards her off with a staff, or someone who shoves away the ground as they fall down the chasm into hell.

Iṅha tvaṃ, mārisa, yadeva te brahmā āha tadeva tvaṃ karohi, mā tvaṃ brahmuno vacanaṃ upātivattittho.

Please, dear sir, do exactly what Brahmā says. Don't go beyond the word of Brahmā.

Nanu tvaṃ, bhikkhu, passasi brahmaparisam sannipatitan'ti?

Do you not see the assembly of Brahmā gathered here?

Iti kho maṃ, bhikkhave, māro pāpimā brahmaparisam upanesi.

And that is how Māra the Wicked presented the assembly of Brahmā to me as an example.

Evaṃ vutte, ahaṃ, bhikkhave, māraṃ pāpimantaṃ etadavocaṃ:

When he had spoken, I said to Māra,

‘jānāmi kho tāhaṃ, pāpima; mā tvaṃ maññittho:

‘I know you, Wicked One. Do not think,

“na maṃ jānātī”ti.

“He does not know me.”

Māro tvamasi, pāpima.

You are Māra the Wicked.

Yo ceva, pāpima, brahmā, yā ca brahmaparisā, ye ca brahmapārisajjā, sabbeva tava hatthagatā sabbeva tava vasaṅgatā.

And Brahmā, Brahmā’s assembly, and Brahmā’s retinue have all fallen into your hands; they’re under your sway.

Tuyhañhi, pāpima, evaṃ hoti:

And you think,

“esopi me assa hatthagato, esopi me assa vasaṅgato”ti.

“Maybe this one, too, has fallen into my hands; maybe he’s under my sway!”

Ahaṃ kho pana, pāpima, neva tava hatthagato neva tava vasaṅgato’ti.

But I haven’t fallen into your hands; I’m not under your sway.’

Evaṃ vutte, bhikkhave, bako brahmā maṃ etadavoca:

When I had spoken, Baka the Brahmā said to me,

‘ahañhi, mārisa, niccaṃyeva samānaṃ “niccan”ti vadāmi, dhavaṃyeva samānaṃ “dhuvan”ti vadāmi, sassataṃyeva samānaṃ “sassatan”ti vadāmi, kevalaṃyeva samānaṃ “kevalan”ti vadāmi, acavanadhammaṃyeva samānaṃ “acavanadhamman”ti vadāmi, yattha ca pana na jāyati na jīyati na mīyati na cavati na upapajjati tadevāhaṃ vadāmi:

‘But, good sir, what I say is permanent, everlasting, eternal, complete, and imperishable is in fact permanent, everlasting, eternal, complete, and imperishable. And where I say there’s no being born, growing old, dying, passing away, or being reborn there is in fact no being born, growing old, dying, passing away, or being reborn.

“idañhi na jāyati na jīyati na mīyati na cavati na upapajjati”ti.

Asantañca panaññaṃ uttari nissaraṇaṃ “natthaññaṃ uttari nissaraṇaṃ”ti vadāmi.

And when I say there's no other escape beyond this there is in fact no other escape beyond this.

Ahesuṃ kho, bhikkhu, tayā pubbe samaṇabrāhmaṇā lokasmiṃ yāvatakaṃ tuyhaṃ kasiṇaṃ āyu tāvatakaṃ tesāṃ tapokammameva ahosi.

There have been ascetics and brahmins in the world before you, mendicant, whose self-mortification lasted as long as your entire life.

Taṃ tāhaṃ, bhikkhu, evaṃ vadāmi:

So, mendicant, I tell you this:

“na cevaññaṃ uttari nissaraṇaṃ dakkhissasi, yāvadeva ca pana kilamathassa vighātassa bhāgī bhavissasi.

you will never find another escape beyond this, and you will eventually get weary and frustrated.

'Well, good sir, if you have directly known that which is not within the scope of experience based on all, may your words not turn out to be void and hollow!

Viññāṇaṃ anidassanaṃ anantaṃ sabbato pabhaṃ, taṃ pathaviyā pathavattena ananubhūtaṃ, āpassa āpattena ananubhūtaṃ, tejassa tejattena ananubhūtaṃ, vāyassa vāyattena ananubhūtaṃ, bhūtānaṃ bhūtattena ananubhūtaṃ, devānaṃ devattena ananubhūtaṃ, pajāpatissa pajāpatittena ananubhūtaṃ, brahmānaṃ brahmattena ananubhūtaṃ, ābhassarānaṃ ābhassarattena ananubhūtaṃ, subhakiṇhānaṃ subhakiṇhattena ananubhūtaṃ, vehapphalānaṃ vehapphalattena ananubhūtaṃ, abhibhussa abhibhuttena ananubhūtaṃ, sabbassa sabbattena ananubhūtaṃ.

Consciousness that is invisible, infinite, entirely given up—that's what is not within the scope of experience based on earth, water, fire, air, creatures, gods, the Creator, Brahmā, the gods of streaming radiance, the gods replete with glory, the gods of abundant fruit, the Overlord, and the all.

Handa carahi te, mārisa, passa antaradhāyāmī'ti.

Well look now, good sir, I will vanish from you!

'Handa carahi me tvaṃ, brahme, antaradhāyassu, sace visahasī'ti.

'All right, then, Brahmā, vanish from me—if you can.'

Atha kho, bhikkhave, bako brahmā:

Then Baka the Brahmā said,

'antaradhāyissāmi samaṇassa gotamassa, antaradhāyissāmi samaṇassa gotamassā'ti nevassu me sakkoti antaradhāyitum.

'I will vanish from the ascetic Gotama! I will vanish from the ascetic Gotama!' But he was unable to vanish from me.

Evaṃ vutte, ahaṃ, bhikkhave, bakaṃ brahmānaṃ etadavocaṃ:

So I said to him,

‘handa carahi te brahme antaradhāyāmī’ti.

‘Well look now, Brahmā, I will vanish from you!’

‘Handa carahi me tvaṃ, mārisa, antaradhāyassu sace visahasī’ti.

‘All right, then, good sir, vanish from me—if you can.’

Atha kho ahaṃ, bhikkhave, tathārūpaṃ iddhābhisaṅkhāraṃ abhisaṅkhāsīm:

Then I used my psychic power to will that ‘ettāvatā brahmā ca brahmaparisā ca brahmapārisajjā ca saddaṅca me sossanti, na ca maṃ dakkhantī’ti.

my voice would extend so that Brahmā, his assembly, and his retinue would hear me, but they would not see me.

Antarahito imaṃ gāthaṃ abhāsīm:

And while invisible I recited this verse:

‘Bhavevāhaṃ bhayaṃ disvā,

‘Seeing the danger in continued existence—

bhavaṅca vibhavesinaṃ;

that life in any existence will cease to be—

Bhavaṃ nābhivadiṃ kiñci,

I didn’t welcome any kind of existence,

nandiṅca na upādiyin’ti.

and didn’t grasp at relishing.’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, brahmā ca brahmaparisā ca brahmapārisajjā ca acchariyabbhutacittajātā ahesuṃ:

Then Brahmā, his assembly, and his retinue, their minds full of wonder and amazement, thought,

‘acchariyaṃ vata bho, abbhutaṃ vata bho.

Samaṇassa gotamassa mahiddhikatā mahānubhāvatā, na ca vata no ito pubbe diṭṭho vā, suto vā, añño samaṇo vā brāhmaṇo vā evaṃ mahiddhiko evaṃ mahānubhāvo yathāyaṃ samaṇo gotamo sakyaputto sakyakulā pabbajito.

The ascetic Gotama has such psychic power and might! We've never before seen or heard of any other ascetic or brahmin with psychic power and might like the ascetic Gotama, who has gone forth from the Sakyan clan.

Bhavarāmāya vata, bho, pajāya bhavaratāya bhavasammuditāya samūlaṃ bhavaṃ udabbahī'ti.

Though people enjoy continued existence, loving it so much, he has extracted it down to its root.'

Atha kho, bhikkhave, māro pāpimā aññataraṃ brahmapārisajjaṃ anvāvisitvā maṃ etadavoca:

Then Māra the Wicked took possession of a member of Brahmā's retinue and said this to me,

'sace kho tvaṃ, mārisa, evaṃ pajānāsi, sace tvaṃ evaṃ anubuddho, mā sāvake upanesi, mā pabbajite;

'If such is your understanding, good sir, do not present it to your disciples or those gone forth!

mā sāvakānaṃ dhammaṃ desesi, mā pabbajitānaṃ;

Do not teach this Dhamma to your disciples or those gone forth!

mā sāvakesu gedhimakāsi, mā pabbajitesu.

Do not wish this for your disciples or those gone forth!

Ahesuṃ kho, bhikkhu, tayā pubbe samaṇabrāhmaṇā lokasmiṃ arahanto sammāsambuddhā paṭijānamānā.

There have been ascetics and brahmins before you, mendicant, who claimed to be perfected ones, fully awakened Buddhas.

Te sāvake upanesuṃ pabbajite, sāvakānaṃ dhammaṃ desesuṃ pabbajitānaṃ, sāvakesu gedhimakāsu pabbajitesu, te sāvake

upanetvā pabbajite, sāvakānaṃ dhammaṃ desetvā pabbajitānaṃ, sāvakesu gedhitacittā pabbajitesu,

They presented, taught, and wished this for their disciples and those gone forth.

kāyassa bhedaṃ pāṇupacchedā hīne kāye paṭiṭṭhitā.

When their bodies broke up and their breath was cut off they were reborn in a lower realm.

Ahesuṃ ye pana, bhikkhu, tayā pubbe samaṇabrāhmaṇā lokasmim̃ arahanto sammāsambuddhā paṭijānamānā.

But there have also been other ascetics and brahmins before you, mendicant, who claimed to be perfected ones, fully awakened Buddhas.

Te na sāvake upanesuṃ na pabbajite, na sāvakānaṃ dhammaṃ desesuṃ na pabbajitānaṃ, na sāvakesu gedhimakāmsu na pabbajitesu, te na sāvake upanetvā na pabbajite, na sāvakānaṃ dhammaṃ desetvā na pabbajitānaṃ, na sāvakesu gedhitacittā na pabbajitesu,

They did not present, teach, or wish this for their disciples and those gone forth.

kāyassa bhedaṃ pāṇupacchedā paṇīte kāye paṭiṭṭhitā.

When their bodies broke up and their breath was cut off they were reborn in a higher realm.

Taṃ tāhaṃ, bhikkhu, evaṃ vadāmi—

So, mendicant, I tell you this:

iṅgha tvaṃ, mārisa, appossukko

diṭṭhadhammasukhavihāraṃ anuyutto viharassu, anakkhātaṃ kusalaṅhi, mārisa, mā paraṃ ovaḍāhī'ti.

please, good sir, remain passive, dwelling in blissful meditation in the present life, for this is better left unsaid. Good sir, do not instruct others.'

Evam vutte, aham, bhikkhave, maram papimantam etadavocam:
When he had spoken, I said to Māra,

‘janāmi kho tāham, pāpima, mā tvam maññittho:
‘I know you, Wicked One. Do not think,

“na mam jānātī”ti.
“He doesn’t know me.”

Māro tvamasi, pāpima.
You are Māra the Wicked.

Na mam tvam, pāpima, hitānukampī evam vadesi;
You don’t speak to me like this out of compassion, ahitānukampī mam tvam, pāpima, evam vadesi.

but with no compassion.

Tuyhañhi, pāpima, evam hoti:
For you think,

“yesam samaṇo gotamo dhammam desessati, te me visayam upātivattissantī”ti.
“Those who the ascetic Gotama teaches will go beyond my reach.”

Asammāsambuddhāva pana te, pāpima, samānā sammāsambuddhāmhāti paṭijānimsu.

Those who formerly claimed to be fully awakened Buddhas were not in fact fully awakened Buddhas.

Aham kho pana, pāpima, sammāsambuddhova samāno sammāsambuddhomhīti paṭijānāmi.

But I am.

Desentopi hi, pāpima, tathāgato sāvakānam dhammam tādisova adesentopi hi, pāpima, tathāgato sāvakānam dhammam tādisova.

The Realized One remains as such whether or not he teaches disciples.

Upanentopi hi, pāpima, tathāgato sāvake tādisoṇa, anupanentopi hi, pāpima, tathāgato sāvake tādisoṇa.

The Realized One remains as such whether or not he presents the teaching to disciples.

Taṃ kiṣṣa hetu?

Why is that?

Tathāgatassa, pāpima, ye āsavā saṅkilesikā ponobbhaviḱā sadarā dukkhaviḱā āyatim̄ jātijarāmaṇiyā—

Because the Realized One has given up the defilements—corruptions that lead to future lives and are hurtful, resulting in suffering and future rebirth, old age, and death.

te pahīnā ucchinnamūlā tālāvattḱatā anabhāvaṅkatā āyatim̄
anuppādadhammā.

He has cut them off at the root, made them like a palm stump, obliterated them so they are unable to arise in the future.

Seyyathāpi, pāpima, tālo matḱakacchinno abhabbo puna virūḱhiyā;

Just as a palm tree with its crown cut off is incapable of further growth,

evameva kho, pāpima, tathāgatassa ye āsavā saṅkilesikā ponobbhaviḱā sadarā dukkhaviḱā āyatim̄ jātijarāmaṇiyā—

the Realized One has given up the defilements—corruptions that lead to future lives and are hurtful, resulting in suffering and future rebirth, old age, and death.

te pahīnā ucchinnamūlā tālāvattḱatā anabhāvaṅkatā āyatim̄
anuppādadhammā'ti.

He has cut them off at the root, made them like a palm stump, obliterated them so they are unable to arise in the future.”

Iti hidam̄ māṛassa ca anālapanatāya brahmuno ca abhinimantanatāya, tasmā imassa veyyākaraṇassa brahmanimantanikantveva adhivacanan'ti.

And so, because of the silencing of Māra, and because of the invitation of Brahmā, the name of this discussion is “On the Invitation of Brahmā”.

Brahmanimantanikasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ navamaṃ.

50. Māratajjanīyasutta The Rebuke of Māra

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam āyasmā mahāmoggallāno bhaggesu viharati
susumāragire bhesakaḷāvane migadāye.

At one time Venerable Mahāmoggallāna was staying in the land of the Bhaggas on Crocodile Hill, in the deer park at Bhesakaḷā's Wood.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā mahāmoggallāno abbhokāse caṅkamati.

At that time Moggallāna was walking mindfully in the open air.

Tena kho pana samayena māro pāpimā āyasmato mahāmoggallānassa kucchigato hoti koṭṭhamanupaviṭṭho.

Now at that time Māra the Wicked had got inside Moggallāna's belly.

Atha kho āyasmato mahāmoggallānassa etadahosi:

Moggallāna thought,

“kim nu kho me kucchi garugaro viya?

“Why now is my belly so very heavy,

Māsācitam maññe”ti.

like I've just eaten a load of beans?”

Atha kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno caṅkamā orohitvā vihāram pavisitvā paññatte āsane nisīdi.

Then he stepped down from the walking path, entered his dwelling, sat down on the seat spread out,

Nisajja kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno paccattam yoniso manasākāsi.

and investigated inside himself.

Addasā kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno māram pāpimantam kucchigatam koṭṭhamanupaviṭṭham.

He saw that Māra the Wicked had got inside his belly.

Disvāna māram pāpimantam etadavoca:

So he said to Māra,

“nikkhama, pāpima;

“Come out, Wicked One,

nikkhama, pāpima.

come out!

Mā tathāgatam vihesesi, mā tathāgatasāvakaṃ.

Do not harass the Realized One or his disciple.

Mā te ahosi dīgharattam ahitāya dukkhāyā”ti.

Don’t create lasting harm and suffering for yourself!”

Atha kho mārassa pāpimato etadahosi:

Then Māra thought,

“ajānameva kho maṃ ayam samaṇo apassam evamāha:

“This ascetic doesn’t really know me or see me when he tells me to come out.

‘nikkhama, pāpima;

nikkhama, pāpima.

Mā tathāgatam vihesesi, mā tathāgatasāvakaṃ.

Mā te ahosi dīgharattam ahitāya dukkhāyā’ti.

Yopissa so satthā sopi maṃ neva khippaṃ jāneyya, kuto pana maṃ ayaṃ sāvako jānissatī”ti?

Not even the Teacher could recognize me so quickly, so how could a disciple?”

Atha kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno māraṃ pāpimantaṃ etadavoca:

Then Moggallāna said to Māra,

“evampi kho tāhaṃ, pāpima, jānāmi, mā tvaṃ maññittho:

“I know you even when you’re like this, Wicked One. Do not think,

‘na maṃ jānātī’ti.

‘He doesn’t know me.’

Māro tvamasi, pāpima;

You are Māra the Wicked.

tuyhañhi, pāpima, evaṃ hoti:

And you think,

‘ajānameva kho maṃ ayaṃ samaṇo apassaṃ evamāha—

‘This ascetic doesn’t really know me or see me when he tells me to come out.

nikkhama, pāpima;

nikkhama, pāpima.

Mā tathāgataṃ vihesesi, mā tathāgatasāvakaṃ.

Mā te ahosi dīgharattaṃ ahitāya dukkhāyāti.

Yopissa so satthā sopi maṃ neva khippaṃ jāneyya, kuto pana maṃ ayaṃ sāvako jānissatī”ti?

Not even the Teacher could recognize me so quickly, so how could a disciple?”

Atha kho māraṃ pāpimato etadahosi:

Then Māra thought,

“jānameva kho maṃ ayaṃ samaṇo passaṃ evamāha:

“This ascetic really does know me and see me when he tells me to come out.”

‘nikkhama, pāpima;

nikkhama, pāpima.

Mā tathāgataṃ vihesesi, mā tathāgatasāvakaṃ.

Mā te ahosi dīgharattaṃ ahitāya dukkhāyā”’ti.

Atha kho māro pāpimā āyasmato mahāmoggallānassa mukhato uggantvā paccaggaḷe aṭṭhāsī.

Then Māra came up out of Moggallāna’s mouth and stood against the door bar.

Addasā kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno māraṃ pāpimantaṃ paccaggaḷe ṭhitaṃ;

Moggallāna saw him there disvāna māraṃ pāpimantaṃ etadavoca:

and said,

“etthāpi kho tāhaṃ, pāpima, passāmi; mā tvaṃ maññittho

“I see you even there, Wicked One. Do not think,

‘na maṃ passatī’ti.

‘He doesn’t see me.’

Eso tvaṃ, pāpima, paccaggaḷe ṭhito.

That’s you, Wicked One, standing against the door bar.

Bhūtapubbāhaṃ, pāpima, dūsī nāma māro ahosiṃ, tassa me kāḷī nāma bhaginī.

Once upon a time, Wicked One, I was a Māra named Dūsī, and I had a sister named Kāḷī.

Tassā tvaṃ putto.

You were her son,

So me tvaṃ bhāgineyyo ahosi.

which made you my nephew.

Tena kho pana, pāpima, samayena kakusandho bhagavā arahaṃ sammāsambuddho loke uppanno hoti.

At that time Kakusandha, the Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha arose in the world.

Kakusandhassa kho pana, pāpima, bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa vidhurasañjīvaṃ nāma sāvakayugaṃ ahosi aggaṃ bhaddayugaṃ.

Kakusandha had a fine pair of chief disciples named Vidhura and Sañjīva.

Yāvatā kho pana, pāpima, kakusandhassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa sāvakā.

Of all the disciples of the Buddha Kakusandha,

Tesu na ca koci āyasmatā vidhurena samasamo hoti yadidaṃ dhammadesanāya.

none were the equal of Venerable Vidhura in teaching Dhamma.

Iminā kho evaṃ, pāpima, pariyāyena āyasmato vidhurassa vidhuroteva samaññā udapādi.

And that's how he came to be known as Vidhura.

Āyasmā pana, pāpima, sañjīvo araññagatopi rukkhamūlagatopi suññāgāragatopi appakasireneva saññāvedayitanirodhaṃ samāpajjati.

But when Venerable Sañjīva had gone to a wilderness, or to the root of a tree, or to an empty hut, he easily attained the cessation of perception and feeling.

Bhūtapubbaṃ, pāpima, āyasmā sañjīvo aññatarasmim rukkhamūle saññāvedayitanirodhaṃ samāpanno nisinno hoti.

Once upon a time, Sañjīva was sitting at the root of a certain tree having attained the cessation of perception and feeling.

Addasaṃsu kho, pāpima, gopālakā pasupālakā kassakā pathāvino āyasmantaṃ sañjīvaṃ aññatarasmim̐ rukkhamūle saññāvedayitanirodhaṃ samāpannaṃ nisinnaṃ;

Some cowherds, shepherds, farmers, and passers-by saw him sitting there disvāna tesaṃ etadahosi:

and said,

‘acchariyaṃ vata bho, abbhutaṃ vata, bho.

Ayaṃ samaṇo nisinnakova kālaṅkato.

This ascetic passed away while sitting.

Handa naṃ dahāmā’ti.

We should cremate him.’

Atha kho te, pāpima, gopālakā pasupālakā kassakā pathāvino tiṇaṅca kaṭṭhaṅca gomayaṅca saṅkaḍḍhitvā āyasmato sañjīvassa kāye upacinitvā aggim̐ datvā pakkamimsu.

They collected grass, wood, and cow-dung, heaped it all on Sañjīva’s body, set it on fire, and left.

Atha kho, pāpima, āyasmā sañjīvo tassā rattiyā accayena tāya samāpattiyā vuṭṭhahitvā cīvarāni papphoṭetvā pubbaṇhasamayam̐ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya gāmaṃ piṇḍāya pāvisi.

Then, when the night had passed, Sañjīva emerged from that attainment, shook out his robes, and, since it was morning, he robed up and entered the village for alms.

Addasaṃsu kho te, pāpima, gopālakā pasupālakā kassakā pathāvino āyasmantaṃ sañjīvaṃ piṇḍāya carantaṃ;

Those cowherds, shepherds, farmers, and passers-by saw him wandering for alms disvāna nesaṃ etadahosi:

and said,

‘acchariyaṃ vata bho, abbhutaṃ vata, bho.

Ayaṃ samaṇo nisinnakova kālaṅkato, svāyaṃ paṭisañjīvito’ti.

This ascetic passed away while sitting, and now he has come back to life!’

Iminā kho evaṃ, pāpima, pariyāyena āyasmato sañjīvassa sañjīvoteva samaññā udapādi.

And that’s how he came to be known as Sañjīva.

Atha kho, pāpima, dūsissa māraṃ etadahosi:

Then it occurred to Māra Dūsī,

‘imesaṃ kho ahaṃ bhikkhūnaṃ sīlavantānaṃ kalyāṇadhammaṃ neva jānāmi āgatiṃ vā gatiṃ vā.

‘I don’t know the course of rebirth of these ethical mendicants of good character.

Yannūnāhaṃ brāhmaṇagahapatike anvāvisēyyaṃ—

Why don’t I take possession of these brahmins and householders and say, etha, tumhe bhikkhū sīlavante kalyāṇadhamme akkosatha paribhāsatha rosetha vihesetha.

“Come, all of you, abuse, attack, harass, and trouble the ethical mendicants of good character.

Appēva nāma tumhehi akkosiyamānānaṃ paribhāsiyamānānaṃ rosiyamānānaṃ vihesiyamānānaṃ siyā cittassa aññathattaṃ, yathā taṃ dūsī māro labhetha otāraṃ’ti.

Hopefully by doing this we can upset their minds so that Māra Dūsī can find a vulnerability.”

Atha kho te, pāpima, dūsī māro brāhmaṇagahapatike anvāvisi:

And that’s exactly what he did.

‘etha, tumhe bhikkhū sīlavante kalyāṇadhamme akkosatha paribhāsatha rosetha vihesetha.

Appeva nāma tumhehi akkosiyamānānaṃ paribhāsiyamānānaṃ

Atha kho te, pāpima, brāhmaṇagahapatikā anvāvisiṭṭhā dūsinā mārena bhikkhū sīlavante kalyāṇadhamme akkosanti paribhāsanti rosentī vihesenti:

Then those brahmins and householders abused, attacked, harassed, and troubled the ethical mendicants of good character:

In the same way, these shavelings, fake ascetics, riffraff, black spawn from the feet of our Kinsman, say, 'We practice absorption meditation! We practice absorption meditation!' Slouching, downcast, and dopey, they meditate and concentrate and contemplate and ruminate.'

Ye kho pana, pāpima, tena samayena manussā kālaṃ karonti

Most of the people who died at that time—when their body broke up, after death—were reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell.

Atha kho, pāpima, kakuṣandho bhagavā araham sammāsambuddho bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then Kakusandha the Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha, addressed the mendicants:

‘anvāviṭṭhā kho, bhikkhave, brāhmaṇagahapatikā dūsinā ‘Mendicants, the brahmins and householders have been possessed by Māra Dūsī.

equanimity.

Atha kho, pāpima, dūsissa māraṃ etadahosi:
Then it occurred to Māra Dūsī,

‘evampi kho ahaṃ karonto imesaṃ bhikkhūnaṃ sīlavantaṃ kalyāṇadhammaṃ neva jānāmi āgatiṃ vā gatiṃ vā, yannūnāhaṃ brāhmaṇagahapatike anvāvisēyyaṃ:

‘Even when I do this I don’t know the course of rebirth of these ethical mendicants of good character. Why don’t I take possession of these brahmins and householders and say,

“etha, tumhe bhikkhū sīlavante kalyāṇadhamme sakkarotha garuṃ karotha mānetha pūjetha, “Come, all of you, honor, respect, esteem, and venerate the ethical mendicants of good character.

appeva nāma tumhehi sakkariyamānānaṃ garukariyamānānaṃ māniyamānānaṃ pūjijyamānānaṃ siyā cittassa aññathattaṃ, yathā taṃ dūsī māro labhetha otāraṃ”’ti.

Hopefully by doing this we can upset their minds so that Māra Dūsī can find a vulnerability.”

Atha kho te, pāpima, dūsī māro brāhmaṇagahapatike anvāvisi:

And that’s exactly what he did.

‘etha, tumhe bhikkhū sīlavante kalyāṇadhamme sakkarotha garuṃ karotha mānetha pūjetha, appeva nāma tumhehi sakkariyamānānaṃ garukariyamānānaṃ māniyamānānaṃ pūjijyamānānaṃ siyā cittassa aññathattaṃ, yathā taṃ dūsī māro labhetha otāraṃ’ti.

Atha kho te, pāpima, brāhmaṇagahapatikā anvāviṭṭhā dūsinā mārena bhikkhū sīlavante kalyāṇadhamme sakkaronti garuṃ karonti mānenti pūjenti.

Then those brahmins and householders honored, respected, esteemed, and venerated the ethical mendicants of good character.

Ye kho pana, pāpima, tena samayena manussā kālaṃ karonti yebhuyyena kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā sugatiṃ saggam lokaṃ upapajjanti.

Most of the people who died at that time—when their body broke up, after death—were reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.

Atha kho, pāpima, kakusandho bhagavā araham sammāsambuddho bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then Kakusandha the Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha, addressed the mendicants:

‘anvāviṭṭhā kho, bhikkhave, brāhmaṇagahapatikā dūsinā mārena:

‘Mendicants, the brahmins and householders have been possessed by Māra Dūsī.

“etha, tumhe bhikkhū sīlavante kalyāṇadhamme sakkarotha garuṃ karotha mānetha pūjetha,

He told them to venerate you appeva nāma tumhehi sakkariyamānānaṃ garukariyamānānaṃ māniyamānānaṃ pūjiamānānaṃ siyā cittassa aññathattaṃ, yathā taṃ dūsī māro labhetha otāraṃ”ti.

in the hope of upsetting your minds so that he can find a vulnerability.

Etha, tumhe, bhikkhave, asubhānupassino kāye viharatha, āhāre paṭikūlasaññino, sabbaloke anabhiratisaññino, sabbasaṅkhāresu aniccānupassino’ti.

Come, all you mendicants, meditate observing the ugliness of the body, perceiving the repulsiveness of food, perceiving dissatisfaction with the whole world, and observing the impermanence of all conditions.’

Atha kho te, pāpima, bhikkhū kakusandhena bhagavatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena evaṃ ovadiyamānā evaṃ anusāsiyamānā araññagatāpi rukkhamūlagatāpi suññāgāragatāpi asubhānupassino kāye viharīmsu, āhāre paṭikūlasaññino, sabbaloke anabhiratisaññino, sabbasaṅkhāresu aniccānupassino.

When those mendicants were instructed and advised by the Buddha Kakusandha in this way, they went to a wilderness, or to the root of a tree, or to an empty hut, where they meditated observing the ugliness of the body, perceiving the repulsiveness of food, perceiving dissatisfaction with the whole world, and observing the impermanence of all conditions.

Atha kho, pāpima, kakusandho bhagavā araham̃ sammāsambuddho pubbaṅhasamayam̃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya āyasmatā vidhurena pacchāsamaṇena gāmam̃ piṇḍāya pāvīsi.

Then the Buddha Kakusandha robed up in the morning and, taking this bowl and robe, entered the village for alms with Venerable Vidhura as his second monk.

Atha kho, pāpima, dūsī māro aññataram̃ kumārakam̃ anvāvisitvā sakkharam̃ gaḥetvā āyasmato vidhurassa sīse pahāramadāsi;
sīsam̃ vobhindi.

Then Māra Dūsī took possession of a certain boy, picked up a rock, and hit Vidhura on the head, cracking it open.

Atha kho, pāpima, āyasmā vidhuro bhinnena sīsenā lohītenā gaḷantena kakusandham̃yeva bhagavantam̃ arahantam̃ sammāsambuddham̃ piṭṭhito piṭṭhito anubandhi.

Then Vidhura, with blood pouring from his cracked skull, still followed behind the Buddha Kakusandha.

Atha kho, pāpima, kakusandho bhagavā araham̃
sammāsambuddho nāgāpalokitam̃ apalokesi:

Then the Buddha Kakusandha turned his whole body, the way that elephants do, to look back, saying, ‘na vāyam̃ dūsī māro mattamaññāsī’ti.

‘This Māra Dūsī knows no bounds.’

Sahāpalokanāya ca pana, pāpima, dūsī māro tamhā ca ṭhānā cavi mahānirayaṅca upapajji.

And with that look Māra Dūsī fell from that place and was reborn in the Great Hell.

Tassa kho pana, pāpima, mahānirayassa tayo nāmadheyyā honti—

Now that Great Hell is known by three names:

chaphassāyataniko itipi, saṅkusamāhato itipi, paccattavedaniyo itipi.

‘The Six Fields of Contact’ and also ‘The Impaling With Spikes’ and also ‘Individually Painful’.

Atha kho maṃ, pāpima, nirayapālā upasaṅkamtivā etadavocum:

Then the wardens of hell came to me and said,

‘yadā kho te, mārisa, saṅkunā saṅku hadaye samāgaccheyya.

‘When stake meets stake in your heart,

Atha naṃ tvaṃ jāneyyāsi:

you will know that “vassasahassaṃ me niraye paccamānassā””ti.

you’ve been roasting in hell for a thousand years.’

So kho ahaṃ, pāpima, bahūni vassāni bahūni vassasatāni bahūni vassasahassāni tasmim̐ mahāniraye apaccim̐.

I roasted for many years, many centuries, many millennia in that Great Hell.

Dasavassasahassāni tasseva mahānirayassa ussade apaccim̐ vuṭṭhānimam̐ nāma vedanam̐ vediyamāno.

For ten thousand years I roasted in the annex of that Great Hell, experiencing the pain called ‘emergence’.

Tassa mayham̐, pāpima, evarūpo kāyo hoti, seyyathāpi

My body was in human form,

Evarūpaṃ sīsaṃ hoti, seyyathāpi macchassa.

but I had the head of a fish.

you'll fall into suffering.

Yo vejayantapāsāde,

I'm the one who asked Sakka sakkaṃ so paripucchati;

in the Palace of Victory:

Api vāsava jānāsi,

'Vāsava, do you know the freedom

taṇhākkhayavimuttiyo;
that comes with the ending of craving?’

Tassa sakko viyākāsi,
And I’m the one to whom Sakka admitted the truth when asked.

Yo etamabhijānāti,
Dark One, if you attack

a mendicant who directly knows this,

Tādisaṃ bhikkhumāsajja,
a disciple of the Buddha,

kaṇha dukkhaṃ nigacchasi.
you’ll fall into suffering.

Yo brahmaṃ paripucchati, I’m the one who asked Brahmā sudhammāyābhito sabhaṃ;

in the Hall of Justice before the assembly:

Ajjāpi tyāvuso diṭṭhi, ‘Friend, do you still have the same view

yā te diṭṭhi pure ahu;
that you had in the past?

Passasi vītivattantaṃ,
Or do you see the radiance

brahmaloke pabhassaraṃ.
transcending the Brahmā realm?’

Tassa brahmā viyākāsi,
And I’m the one to whom Brahmā anupubbaṃ yathātathaṃ;

truthfully admitted his progress:

Na me mārisa sā diṭṭhi,
'Good sir, I don't have that view
yā me diṭṭhi pure ahu.
that I had in the past.

Passāmi vītivattantaṃ,
I see the radiance

brahmaloke pabhassaraṃ;
transcending the Brahmā realm.

Sohaṃ ajja kathaṃ vajjaṃ,
So how could I say today

Yo mahāmeruno kūṭaṃ,
I'm the one who has touched the peak of Mount Meru vimokkhena aphassayi;

using the power of meditative liberation.

Vanaṃ pubbavidehānaṃ,

I've visited the forests of the people that will last a long time, terminator!

Māra nibbinda buddhamhā, Forget about the Buddha, Māra!

āsaṃ mākāsi bhikkhusu.
And give up your hopes for the mendicants!"

Iti māraṃ atajjesi,
That is how, in the Bhesakaḷā grove,

bhikkhu bhesakaḷāvane;
the mendicant rebuked Māra.

Tato so dummano yakkho,
That spirit, downcast,

Part Two: The Middle Fifty Discourses
Majjhimaṇṇāsapāḷi

1. The Division on Householders Gahapativagga

51. Kandarakasutta With Kandaraka

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava campāyam viharati gagarāya pokkharāṇiyā tīre mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhim.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Campā on the banks of the Gagarā Lotus Pond together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants.

Atha kho pesso ca hatthārohaputto kandarako ca paribbājako yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā pesso hatthārohaputto bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantam nisīdi.

Then Pessa the elephant driver's son and Kandaraka the wanderer went to see the Buddha. When they had approached, Pessa bowed and sat down to one side.

Kandarako pana paribbājako bhagavatā saddhim sammodi.
Sammodanīyam katham sāraṇīyam vītisāretvā ekamantam aṭṭhāsi.

But the wanderer Kandaraka exchanged greetings with the Buddha and stood to one side.

Ekamantam t̥hito kho kandarako paribbājako tuṅhībhūtam tuṅhībhūtam bhikkhusaṅgham anuviloketvā bhagavantam
etadavoca:

He looked around the mendicant Saṅgha, who were so very silent, and said to the Buddha:

“acchariyaṃ, bho gotama, abbhutaṃ, bho gotama.

Yāvañcidaṃ bhotā gotamena sammā bhikkhusaṅgho

How the mendicant Saṅgha has been led to practice properly by Master Gotama!

Yepi te, bho gotama, ahesuṃ atītamaddhānaṃ arahanto

All the perfected ones, the fully awakened Buddhas in the past or the future who lead the mendicant Saṅgha to practice properly will at best do so

seyyathāpi etarahi bhotā gotamena sammā bhikkhusaṅgho like Master Gotama does in the present.”

Yepi te, bho gotama, bhavissanti anāgatamaddhānaṃ arahanto future who lead the mendicant Saṅgha to practice properly will at best do so

seyyathāpi etarahi mayā sammā bhikkhusaṅgho paṭipādito.

like I do in the present.

Yepi te, kandaraka, bhavissanti anāgatamaddhānaṃ arahanto sammāsambuddhā tepi bhagavanto etaparamaṃyeva sammā bhikkhusaṅghaṃ paṭipādessanti—seyyathāpi etarahi mayā sammā bhikkhusaṅgho paṭipādito.

Santi hi, kandaraka, bhikkhū imasmim bhikkhusaṅghe arahanto khīṇāsavā vusitavanto katakaraṇīyā ohitabhārā anuppattasadatthā parikkhīṇabhavasamyojanā sammadaññāvimuttā.

For in this mendicant Saṅgha there are perfected mendicants, who have ended the defilements, completed the spiritual journey, done what had to be done, laid down the burden, achieved their own goal, utterly ended the fetters of rebirth, and are rightly freed through enlightenment.

Santi hi, kandaraka, bhikkhū imasmim bhikkhusaṅghe sekkhā santatasīlā santatavuttino nipakā nipakavuttino;

And in this mendicant Saṅgha there are trainee mendicants who are consistently ethical, living consistently, alert, living alertly.

te catūsu satipaṭṭhānesu suppatiṭṭhitacittā viharanti.

They meditate with their minds firmly established in the four kinds of mindfulness meditation.

Katamesu catūsu?

What four?

Idha, kandaraka, bhikkhu kāye kāyānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ;

It's when a mendicant meditates by observing an aspect of the body—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

vedanāsu vedanānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ;

They meditate observing an aspect of feelings—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

citte cittānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassam;

They meditate observing an aspect of principles—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.”

Evam vutte, pesso hatthārohaputto bhagavantam etadvoca:

When he had spoken, Pessa said to the Buddha:

“acchariyam, bhante, abbhutam, bhante.

Yāva supaññattā cime, bhante, bhagavatā cattāro satipaṭṭhānā sattānam visuddhiyā sokaparidevānam samatikkamāya dukkhadomanassānam atthaṅgamāya ñāyassa adhigamāya nibbānassa sacchikiriyāya.

how much the Buddha has clearly described the four kinds of mindfulness meditation! They are in order to purify sentient beings, to get past sorrow and crying, to make an end of pain and sadness, to end the cycle of suffering, and to realize extinguishment.

Mayampi hi, bhante, gihī odātavasanā kālena kālam imesu catūsu satipaṭṭhānesu suppatitṭhitacittā viharāma.

For we white-clothed laypeople also from time to time meditate with our minds well established in the four kinds of mindfulness meditation.

Idha mayam, bhante, kāye kāyānupassino viharāma ātāpino sampajānā satimanto, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassam; principles—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

Acchariyaṃ, bhante, abbhutaṃ, bhante.
It's incredible, sir, it's amazing!

Yāvañcidaṃ, bhante, bhagavā evaṃ manussagahane evaṃ

How the Buddha knows what's best for sentient beings, even though people continue to be so shady, rotten, and tricky.

Gahanañhetam, bhante, yadidaṃ manussā;
For human beings are shady, sir, uttānakañhetam, bhante, yadidaṃ pasavo.

while the animal is obvious.

Ahañhi, bhante, pahomi hatthidammaṃ sāretum.
For I can drive an elephant in training,

Yāvatakena antarena campam gatāgataṃ karissati sabbāni tāni sāṭṭheyyāni kūṭheyyāni vañkeyyāni jimheyyāni pātukarissati.
and while going back and forth in Campā it'll try all the tricks, bluffs, ruses, and feints that it can.

Amhākaṃ pana, bhante, dāsāti vā pessāti vā kammakarāti vā

But my bondservants, employees, and workers behave one way by body, another by speech, and their minds another.

Acchariyaṃ, bhante, abbhutaṃ, bhante.
It's incredible, sir, it's amazing!

Yāvañcidaṃ, bhante, bhagavā evaṃ manussagahane evaṃ manussakasaṭe evaṃ manussasāṭheyye vattamāne sattānaṃ hitāhitaṃ jānāti.

“Evametaṃ, pessa, evametaṃ, pessa.

“That's so true, Pessa! That's so true!

Gahanañhetam, pessa, yadidaṃ manussā;

For human beings are shady,

while the animal is obvious.

Cattārome, pessa, puggalā santo saṃvijjamānā lokasmiṃ.

Pessa, these four people are found in the world.

Katame cattāro?

What four?

1. Idha, pessa, ekacco puggalo attantapo hoti attaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto; One person mortifies themselves, committed to the practice of mortifying themselves.
2. idha pana, pessa, ekacco puggalo parantapo hoti paraparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto; One person mortifies others, committed to the practice of mortifying others.
3. idha pana, pessa, ekacco puggalo attantapo ca hoti attaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto, parantapo ca paraparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto; One person mortifies themselves and others, committed to the practice of mortifying themselves and others.

4. idha pana, pessa, ekacco puggalo nevattantapo hoti nāttaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto na parantapo na paraparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto. One person doesn't mortify either themselves or others, committed to the practice of not mortifying themselves or others. So anattantapo aparantapo diṭṭheva dhamme nicchāto nibbuto sītībhūto sukhappaṭisaṃvedī brahmabhūtena attanā viharati. They live without wishes in the present life, extinguished, cooled, experiencing bliss, having become holy in themselves.

Imesaṃ, pessa, catunnaṃ puggalānaṃ katamo te puggalo cittaṃ ārādhetī”ti?

Which one of these four people do you like the sound of?”

“Yvāyaṃ, bhante, puggalo attantapo attaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto, ayaṃ me puggalo cittaṃ nārādheti.

“Sir, I don't like the sound of the first three people.

I only like the sound of the last person, who doesn't mortify either themselves or others.”

“Kasmā pana te, pessa, ime tayo puggalā cittaṃ nārādhentī”ti?
“But why don’t you like the sound of those three people?”

“Yvāyaṃ, bhante, puggalo attantapo

That’s why I don’t like the sound of that person.

Yopāyaṃ, bhante, puggalo parantapo

The person who doesn’t mortify either themselves or others—living without wishes, extinguished, cooled, experiencing bliss, having become holy in themselves—does not torment themselves or others, both of whom want to be happy and recoil from pain.

so attānañca parañca sukhakāmañ dukkhapaṭikkūlañ neva ātāpeti na paritāpeti—

I have many duties, and much to do.”

“Yassadāni tvañ, pessa, kālañ maññasi”ti.

“Please, Pessa, go at your convenience.”

Atha kho pesso hatthārohaputto bhagavato bhāsitañ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsanā bhagavantañ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇañ katvā pakkāmi.

And then Pessa the elephant driver's son approved and agreed with what the Buddha said. He got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before leaving.

Atha kho bhagavā acirapakkante pesse hatthārohaputte bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then, not long after he had left, the Buddha addressed the mendicants:

“paṇḍito, bhikkhave, pesso hatthārohaputto;

“Mendicants, Pessa the elephant driver's son is astute.

mahāpañño, bhikkhave, pesso hatthārohaputto.

He has great wisdom.

If he had sat here a little longer so that I could have analyzed these four people in detail, he would have greatly benefited.

Api ca, bhikkhave, ettāvatāpi pesso hatthārohaputto mahatā atthena saṃyutto”ti.

Still, even with this much he has already greatly benefited.”

“Etassa, bhagavā, kālo, etassa, sugata, kālo,

“Now is the time, Blessed One! Now is the time, Holy One!

yaṃ bhagavā ime cattāro puggale vitthārena vibhajeyya.

May the Buddha analyze these four people in detail. The mendicants will listen and remember it.”

“Tena hi, bhikkhave, suṇātha, sādhukaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmī”ti.

“Well then, mendicants, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Katamo ca, bhikkhave, puggalo attantapo attaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto? Idha, bhikkhave, ekacco puggalo acelako hoti muttācāro hatthāpalekhano naehibhaddantiko natiṭṭhabhaddantiko; nābhihaṭaṃ na uddissakataṃ na nimantanāṃ sādiyati;

“And what person mortifies themselves, committed to the practice of mortifying themselves? It’s when someone goes naked, ignoring conventions. They lick their hands, and don’t come or wait when asked. They don’t consent to food brought to them, or food prepared for them, or an invitation for a meal.

It's when a Realized One arises in the world, perfected, a fully awakened Buddha, accomplished in knowledge and conduct, holy, knower of the world, supreme guide for those who wish to train, teacher of gods and humans, awakened, blessed.

So imam lokam sadevakam samarakam sabrahmakam

He has realized with his own insight this world—with its gods, Māras and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, gods and humans—and he makes it known to others.

So dhammam deseti ādikalyāṇam majjhekalyāṇam pariyosānakalyāṇam sāttham sabyañjanam, kevalaparipuṇṇam

He teaches Dhamma that's good in the beginning, good in the middle, and good in the end, meaningful and well-phrased. And he reveals a spiritual practice that's entirely full and pure.

Taṃ dhammaṃ suṇāti gahapati vā gahapatiputto vā

A householder hears that teaching, or a householder's child, or someone reborn in some clan.

So taṃ dhammaṃ sutvā tathāgate saddhaṃ paṭilabhati.

They gain faith in the Realized One,

So tena saddhāpaṭilābhena samannāgato iti paṭisañcikkhati:
and reflect:

‘sambādho gharāvāso rajāpatho, abbhokāso pabbajjā.

‘Living in a house is cramped and dirty, but the life of one gone forth is wide open.

Nayidaṃ sukaraṃ agāraṃ ajjhāvasatā ekantaparipuṇṇaṃ

It's not easy for someone living at home to lead the spiritual life utterly full and pure, like a polished shell.

Yannūnaṃ kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni

After some time they give up a large or small fortune, and a large or small family circle. They shave off hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

So evaṃ pabbajito samāno bhikkhūnaṃ

Once they've gone forth, they take up the training and livelihood of the mendicants. They give up killing living creatures, renouncing the rod and the sword. They're scrupulous and kind, living full of compassion for all living beings.

Adinnādānaṃ pahāya adinnādānā paṭivirato hoti dinnādāyī dinnapāṭikaṅkhī, athenena sucibhūtena attanā viharati.

They give up stealing. They take only what's given, and expect only what's given. They keep themselves clean by not thieving.

Abrahmacariyaṃ pahāya brahmacārī hoti ārācārī virato methunā gāmadhammā.

They give up unchastity. They are celibate, set apart, avoiding the common practice of sex.

Musāvādaṃ pahāya musāvādā paṭivirato hoti saccavādī saccasandho theto paccayiko avisaṃvādako lokassa.

They give up lying. They speak the truth and stick to the truth. They're honest and trustworthy, and don't trick the world with their words.

Pisuṇaṃ vācaṃ pahāya pisuṇāya vācāya paṭivirato hoti, ito sutvā na amutra akkhātā imesaṃ bhedāya, amutra vā sutvā na imesaṃ akkhātā amūsaṃ bhedāya—iti bhinnānaṃ vā sandhātā sahitānaṃ vā anuppadātā samaggārāmo samaggarato samagganandī samaggakaraṇiṃ vācaṃ bhāsītā hoti.

They give up divisive speech. They don't repeat in one place what they heard in another so as to divide people against each other. Instead, they reconcile those who are divided, supporting unity, delighting in harmony, loving harmony, speaking words that promote harmony.

Pharusāṃ vācaṃ pahāya pharusāya vācāya paṭivirato hoti, yā sā vācā nelā kaṇṇasukhā pemaṇiyā hadayaṅgamā porī bahujanakantā bahujanamanāpā tathārūpiṃ vācaṃ bhāsītā hoti.

They give up harsh speech. They speak in a way that's mellow, pleasing to the ear, lovely, going to the heart, polite, likable and agreeable to the people.

Samphappalāpaṃ pahāya samphappalāpā paṭivirato hoti

They give up talking nonsense. Their words are timely, true, and meaningful, in line with the teaching and training. They say things at the right time which are valuable, reasonable, succinct, and beneficial.

So bījagāma bhūtagāmasamārambhā paṭivirato hoti,
They avoid injuring plants and seeds.

ekabhattiko hoti rattūparato virato vikālabhojanā;
They eat in one part of the day, abstaining from eating at night and food at the wrong time.

naccagītavāditavisūkadassanā paṭivirato hoti;
They avoid dancing, singing, music, and seeing shows.

mālāgandhavilepanadhāraṇamaṇḍanavibhūsanatṭhānā

They avoid beautifying and adorning themselves with garlands, perfumes, and makeup.

uccāsayanamahāsayanā paṭivirato hoti;
They avoid high and luxurious beds.

jātarūparajata paṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti;
They avoid receiving gold and money,

āmakadhaññapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti;
raw grains,

raw meat,

itthikumārika paṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti;
women and girls,

dāsidadāspaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti;
male and female bondservants,

ajeḷakapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti;

goats and sheep,

kukkuṭasūkarapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti;

chickens and pigs,

hatthigavassavaḷavapaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti;

elephants, cows, horses, and mares,

khettavatthupaṭiggahaṇā paṭivirato hoti;

and fields and land.

dūteyyapahiṇagamanānuyogā paṭivirato hoti;

They avoid running errands and messages;

kayavikkayā paṭivirato hoti;

buying and selling;

tulākūṭakaṃsakūṭamānakūṭā paṭivirato hoti;

falsifying weights, metals, or measures;

ukkoṭanavañcananikatisāciyogā paṭivirato hoti;

bribery, fraud, cheating, and duplicity;

chedanavadhabandhanaviparāmosaālopasahasākārā paṭivirato hoti.

mutilation, murder, abduction, banditry, plunder, and violence.

So santuṭṭho hoti kāyaparihārikena cīvarena kucchiparihārikena piṇḍapātena. So yena yeneva pakkamati, samādāyeva pakkamati.

They're content with robes to look after the body and alms-food to look after the belly. Wherever they go, they set out taking only these things.

Seyyathāpi nāma pakkhī sakuṇo yena yeneva ḍeti, sapattabhārova ḍeti;

They're like a bird: wherever it flies, wings are its only burden.

evameva bhikkhu santuṭṭho hoti kāyaparihārikena cīvarena kucchiparihārikena piṇḍapātena. So yena yeneva pakkamati, samādāyeva pakkamati.

In the same way, a mendicant is content with robes to look after the body and alms-food to look after the belly. Wherever they go, they set out taking only these things.

So iminā ariyena sīlakkhandhena samannāgato ajjhataṃ anavajjasukhaṃ paṭisaṃvedeti.

When they have this entire spectrum of noble ethics, they experience a blameless happiness inside themselves.

So cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā na nimittaggāhī hoti nānubyañjanaggāhī.

When they see a sight with their eyes, they don't get caught up in the features and details.

Yatvādhikaraṇameṇaṃ cakkhundriyaṃ asaṃvutaṃ viharantaṃ abhijjhādomanassā pāpakā akusalā dhammā anvāssaveyyuṃ tassa saṃvarāya paṭipajjati, rakkhati cakkhundriyaṃ, cakkhundriye saṃvaraṃ āpajjati.

If the faculty of sight were left unrestrained, bad unskillful qualities of desire and aversion would become overwhelming. For this reason, they practice restraint, protecting the faculty of sight, and achieving its restraint.

Sotena saddaṃ sutvā ...pe...

When they hear a sound with their ears ...

ghānena gandhaṃ ghāyitvā ...pe...

When they smell an odor with their nose ...

jivhāya rasaṃ sāyitvā ...pe...

When they taste a flavor with their tongue ...

kāyena phoṭṭhabbaṃ phusitvā ...pe...

When they feel a touch with their body ...

manasā dhammaṃ viññāya na nimittaggāhī hoti nānubyañjanaggāhī.

When they know a thought with their mind, they don't get caught up in the features and details.

Yatvādhikaraṇamenam manindriyam asaṁvutaṁ viharantaṁ abhijjhādomanassā pāpakā akusalā dhammā anvāssaveyyuṁ tassa saṁvarāya paṭipajjati, rakkhati manindriyam, manindriye saṁvaram āpajjati.

If the faculty of mind were left unrestrained, bad unskillful qualities of desire and aversion would become overwhelming. For this reason, they practice restraint, protecting the faculty of mind, and achieving its restraint.

So iminā ariyena indriyasaṁvarena samannāgato ajjhataṁ abyāsekasukhaṁ paṭisaṁvedeti.

When they have this noble sense restraint, they experience an unsullied bliss inside themselves.

So abhikkante paṭikkante sampajānakārī hoti, ālokite vilokite sampajānakārī hoti, samiñjite pasārite sampajānakārī hoti, saṅghāṭipattacīvaradhāraṇe sampajānakārī hoti, asite pīte khāyite sāyite sampajānakārī hoti, uccārapassāvakamme sampajānakārī hoti, gate ṭhite nisinne sutte jāgarite bhāsīte tuṅhībhāve sampajānakārī hoti.

They act with situational awareness when going out and coming back; when looking ahead and aside; when bending and extending the limbs; when bearing the outer robe, bowl and robes; when eating, drinking, chewing, and tasting; when urinating and defecating; when walking, standing, sitting, sleeping, waking, speaking, and keeping silent.

So iminā ca ariyena sīlakkhandhena samannāgato, imāya ca ariyāya santuṭṭhiyā samannāgato, iminā ca ariyena indriyasaṁvarena samannāgato, iminā ca ariyena satisampajaññaena samannāgato

When they have this noble spectrum of ethics, this noble contentment, this noble sense restraint, and this noble mindfulness and situational awareness,

vivittam senāsanam bhajati araṇṇam rukkhamūlam pabbatam kandaram giriguham susānam vanapattham abbhokāsam palālapuñjam.

they frequent a secluded lodging—a wilderness, the root of a tree, a hill, a ravine, a mountain cave, a charnel ground, a forest, the open air, a heap of straw.

So pacchābhattam piṇḍapātaṭikkanto nisīdati pallaṅkam ābhujitvā ujum kāyam paṇidhāya parimukham satim upaṭṭhapetvā.

After the meal, they return from alms-round, sit down cross-legged with their body straight, and establish mindfulness right there.

So abhijjam loke pahāya vigatābhijjhena cetasā viharati, abhijjhāya cittaṃ parisodheti,

Giving up desire for the world, they meditate with a heart rid of desire, cleansing the mind of desire.

byāpādapadosam pahāya abyāpannacitto viharati sabbapāṇabhūtahitānukampī, byāpādapadosā cittaṃ

Giving up ill will, they meditate with a mind rid of ill will, full of compassion for all living beings, cleansing the mind of ill will and malevolence.

thinamiddham pahāya vigatathinamiddho viharati ālokasaññī sato sampajāno, thinamiddhā cittaṃ parisodheti;

Giving up dullness and drowsiness, they meditate with a mind rid of dullness and drowsiness, perceiving light, mindful and aware, cleansing the mind of dullness and drowsiness.

uddhaccakukkuccam pahāya anuddhato viharati ajjhataṃ vūpasantacitto, uddhaccakukkuccā cittaṃ parisodheti;

Giving up restlessness and remorse, they meditate without restlessness, their mind peaceful inside, cleansing the mind of restlessness and remorse.

vicikiccham pahāya tiṇṇavicikiccho viharati akathaṅkathī kusalesu dhammesu, vicikicchāya cittaṃ parisodheti.

Giving up doubt, they meditate having gone beyond doubt, not undecided about skillful qualities, cleansing the mind of doubt.

So ime pañca nīvaraṇe pahāya cetaso upakkilese paññāya
dubbalīkaṇe,

They give up these five hindrances, corruptions of the heart that weaken wisdom.

vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamam jhānam
upasampajja viharati;

Then, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, they enter and remain in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhataṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyaṃ jhānam upasampajja viharati;

As the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, they enter and remain in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca viharati sato ca sampajāno sukhañca kāyena paṭisaṃvedeti, yaṃ taṃ ariyā ācikkhanti:
'upekkhako satimā sukhavihārī'ti tatiyaṃ jhānam upasampajja
viharati;

And with the fading away of rapture, they enter and remain in the third absorption, where they meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, 'Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.'

sukhassa ca pahānā dukkhassa ca pahānā pubbeva somanassadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamā adukkhamasukhaṃ upekkhāsatipārisuddhiṃ catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja
viharati.

Giving up pleasure and pain, and ending former happiness and sadness, they enter and remain in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe
vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte

They recollect many kinds of past lives, that is, one, two, three, four, five, ten, twenty, thirty, forty, fifty, a hundred, a thousand, a hundred thousand rebirths; many eons of the world contracting, many eons of the world expanding, many eons of the world contracting and expanding. They remember: ‘There, I was named this, my clan was that, I looked like this, and that was my food. This was how I felt pleasure and pain, and that was how my life ended. When I passed away from that place I was reborn somewhere else. There, too, I was named this, my clan was that, I looked like this, and that was my food. This was how I felt pleasure and pain, and that was how my life ended. When I passed away from that place I was reborn here.’ And so they recollect their many kinds of past lives, with features and details.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte sattānaṃ cutūpapātaññāya cittaṃ abhininnāmeti.

When their mind has become immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—they extend it toward knowledge of the death and rebirth of sentient beings.

With clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, they see sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. They understand how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds: ‘These dear beings did bad things by way of body, speech, and mind. They spoke ill of the noble ones; they had wrong view; and they chose to act out of that wrong view. When their body breaks up, after death, they’re reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell. These dear beings, however, did good things by way of body, speech, and mind. They never spoke ill of the noble ones; they had right view; and they chose to act out of that right view. When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.' And so, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, they see sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. They understand how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte āsavānaṃ khayañāṇāya cittaṃ abhininnāmeti.

52. Aṭṭhakanāgarasutta

The Man From the City of Aṭṭhaka

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam āyasmā ānando vesāliyam viharati beluvagāmake.

At one time Venerable Ānanda was staying near Vesālī in the little village of Beluva.

Tena kho pana samayena dasamo gahapati aṭṭhakanāgaro pāṭaliputtam anuppatto hoti kenacideva karanīyena.

Now at that time the householder Dasama from the city of Aṭṭhaka had arrived at Pāṭaliputta on some business.

Atha kho dasamo gahapati aṭṭhakanāgaro yena kukkuṭārāmo yena aññataro bhikkhu tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā tam bhikkhum abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho dasamo gahapati aṭṭhakanāgaro tam bhikkhum etadavoca:

He went to the Chicken Monastery, approached a certain mendicant, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him, “kham nu kho, bhante, āyasmā ānando etarahi viharati?

“Sir, where is Venerable Ānanda now staying?

Dassanakāmā hi mayam tam āyasmantaṃ ānandan”ti.

For I want to see him.”

“Eso, gahapati, āyasmā ānando vesāliyam viharati beluvagāmake”ti.

“Householder, Venerable Ānanda is staying near Vesālī in the little village of Beluva.”

Atha kho dasamo gahapati aṭṭhakanāgaro pāṭaliputte taṃ karaṇīyaṃ tīretvā yena vesālī yena beluvagāmako yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho dasamo gahapati aṭṭhakanāgaro āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etadavoca:

Then the householder Dasama, having concluded his business there, went to the little village of Beluva in Vesālī to see Ānanda. He bowed, sat down to one side, and said to Ānanda:

“atthi nu kho, bhante ānanda, tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena ekadhammo akkhāto yattha bhikkhuno appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato avimuttañceva cittaṃ vimuccati, aparikkhīṇā ca āsavā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, ananuppattañca anuttaraṃ yogakkhemaṃ anupāpuṇātī”ti?

“Sir, Ānanda, is there one thing that has been rightly explained by the Blessed One—who knows and sees, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha—practicing which a diligent, keen, and resolute mendicant’s mind is freed, their defilements are ended, and they arrive at the supreme sanctuary?”

“Atthi kho, gahapati, tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena ekadhammo akkhāto, yattha bhikkhuno appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato avimuttañceva cittaṃ vimuccati, aparikkhīṇā ca āsavā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, ananuppattañca anuttaraṃ yogakkhemaṃ anupāpuṇātī”ti.

“There is, householder.”

“Katamo pana, bhante ānanda, tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena ekadhammo akkhāto, yattha bhikkhuno appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato avimuttañceva cittaṃ vimuccati, aparikkhīṇā ca āsavā parikkhayaṃ gacchanti, ananuppattañca anuttaraṃ yogakkhemaṃ anupāpuṇāti”ti?

“And what is that one thing?”

“Idha, gahapati, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

“Householder, it’s when a mendicant, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:

Then they reflect:

‘idampi kho paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ abhisaṅkhatam abhisañcetayitam.

‘Even this first absorption is produced by choices and intentions.’

Yaṃ kho pana kiñci abhisaṅkhatam abhisañcetayitam tadaniccaṃ nirodhadhamman’ti pajānāti.

They understand: ‘But whatever is produced by choices and intentions is impermanent and liable to cessation.’

So tattha ṭhito āsavānaṃ khayaṃ pāpuṇāti.

Abiding in that they attain the ending of defilements.

No ce āsavānaṃ khayaṃ pāpuṇāti, teneva dhammarāgena tāya dhammanandiyā pañcannaṃ orambhāgiyānaṃ saṃyojanānaṃ parikkhayā opapātiko hoti tattha parinibbāyī anāvattidhammo tasmā lokā.

If they don’t attain the ending of defilements, with the ending of the five lower fetters they’re reborn spontaneously, because of their passion and love for that meditation. They are extinguished there, and are not liable to return from that world.

Ayampi kho, gahapati, tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā

This is one thing that has been rightly explained by the Blessed One—who knows and sees, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha—practicing which a diligent, keen, and resolute mendicant’s mind is freed, their defilements are ended, and they arrive at the supreme sanctuary.

Furthermore, householder, a mendicant, going totally beyond perceptions of form, with the ending of perceptions of impingement, not focusing on perceptions of diversity, aware that ‘space is infinite’, enters and remains in the dimension of infinite space.

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:

Then they reflect:

‘ayampi kho ākāsañcāyatanasamāpatti abhisañkhatā abhisañcetayitā.

‘Even this attainment of the dimension of infinite space is produced by choices and intentions.’

Yaṃ kho pana kiñci abhisañkhatam abhisañcetayitam tadaniccam nirodhadhamman’ti pajānāti.

Puna caparam̃, gahapati, bhikkhu sabbaso viññāṇañcāyatanam̃ samatikkamma ‘natthi kiñcī’ti ākiñcaññāyatanam̃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, a mendicant, going totally beyond the dimension of infinite consciousness, aware that ‘there is nothing at all’, enters and remains in the dimension of nothingness.

So iti paṭisañcikkhati:

Then they reflect:

‘ayampi kho ākiñcaññāyatanasamāpatti abhisaṅkhatā abhisañcetayitā.

Yaṃ kho pana kiñci abhisaṅkhatam̃ abhisañcetayitam̃ tadaniccaṃ nirodhadhamman’ti pajānāti.

They understand: ‘But whatever is produced by choices and intentions is impermanent and liable to cessation.’

So tattha ʘhito āsavānaṃ khayāṃ pāpuṇāti.

This too is one thing that has been rightly explained by the Blessed One—who knows and sees, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha—practicing which a diligent, keen, and resolute mendicant’s mind is freed, their defilements are ended, and they arrive at the supreme sanctuary.”

Evaṃ vutte, dasamo gahapati aṭṭhakanāgaro āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etadvoca:

53. Sekhasutta A Trainee

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava sakkesu viharati kapilavattusmim
nigrodharam.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Sakyans, near Kapilavatthu in the Banyan Tree Monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena kappilavattavanam sakyanam navam santhagaram acirakaritam hoti anajjhavuttam samanena va brahmanena va kenaci va manussabhutena.

Now at that time a new town hall had recently been constructed for the Sakyans of Kapilavatthu. It had not yet been occupied by an ascetic or brahmin or any person at all.

Atha kho kappilavattava sakyā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivadetvā ekamantam nisidimsu. Ekamantam nisinnā kho kappilavattava sakyā bhagavantam etadavocum:

Then the Sakyans of Kapilavatthu went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him:

“idha, bhante, kappilavattavanam sakyanam navam santhagaram acirakaritam anajjhavuttam samanena va brahmanena va kenaci va manussabhutena.

“Sir, a new town hall has recently been constructed for the Sakyans of Kapilavatthu. It has not yet been occupied by an ascetic or brahmin or any person at all.

Taṃ, bhante, bhagavā paṭhamam̐ paribhuñjatu. Bhagavatā paṭhamam̐ paribhuttam̐ pacchā kāpilavatthavā sakyā paribhuñjissanti.

May the Buddha be the first to use it, and only then will the Sakyans of Kapilavatthu use it.

Tadassa kāpilavatthavānam̐ sakyānam̐ dīgharattam̐ hitāya sukhāyā”ti.

That would be for the lasting welfare and happiness of the Sakyans of Kapilavatthu.”

Adhivāsesi bhagavā tuṅhībhāvena.

The Buddha consented in silence.

Atha kho kāpilavatthavā sakyā bhagavato adhivāsanam̐ veditvā uṭṭhāyāsanā bhagavantam̐ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇam̐ katvā yena navam̐ santhāgāram̐ tenupasaṅkamim̐su; upasaṅkamtivā sabbasantharim̐ santhāgāram̐ santharivā āsanāni paññapetvā udakamaṇikam̐ upaṭṭhapetvā telappadīpam̐ āropetvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamim̐su;

Then, knowing that the Buddha had consented, the Sakyans got up from their seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on their right. Then they went to the new town hall, where they spread carpets all over, prepared seats, set up a water jar, and placed a lamp. Then they went back to the Buddha, upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam̐ abhivādetvā ekamantam̐ aṭṭham̐su.

bowed, stood to one side,

Ekamantam̐ ṭhitā kho kāpilavatthavā sakyā bhagavantam̐ etadavocum̐:

and told him of their preparations, saying,

“sabbasantharim̐ santhatam̐, bhante, santhāgāram̐, āsanāni paññattāni, udakamaṇiko upaṭṭhāpito, telappadīpo āropito.

Yassadāni, bhante, bhagavā kālaṃ maññatī”ti.

“Please, sir, come at your convenience.”

Atha kho bhagavā nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya saddhiṃ upasaṅkhamitvā pāde pakkhāletvā santhāgāraṃ pavisitvā majjhimaṃ thambhaṃ nissāya puratthābhimukho nisīdi.

Then the Buddha robed up and, taking his bowl and robe, went to the new town hall together with the Saṅgha of mendicants. Having washed his feet he entered the town hall and sat against the central column facing east.

Bhikkhusaṅghopi kho pāde pakkhāletvā santhāgāraṃ pavisitvā pacchimaṃ bhittiṃ nissāya puratthābhimukho nisīdi, bhagavantāmyeva purakkhatvā.

The Saṅgha of mendicants also washed their feet, entered the town hall, and sat against the west wall facing east, with the Buddha right in front of them.

Kāpilavatthavāpi kho sakyā pāde pakkhāletvā santhāgāraṃ pavisitvā puratthimaṃ bhittiṃ nissāya pacchimābhimukhā

The Sakyans of Kapilavatthu also washed their feet, entered the town hall, and sat against the east wall facing west, with the Buddha right in front of them.

Atha kho bhagavā kāpilavatthave sakye bahudeva rattim dhammiyā kathāya sandassetvā samādapetvā samuttejetvā sampahaṃsetvā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ āmantesi:

The Buddha spent most of the night educating, encouraging, firing up, and inspiring the Sakyans with a Dhamma talk. Then he addressed Venerable Ānanda,

“paṭibhātu taṃ, ānanda, kāpilavatthavānaṃ sakyānaṃ sekho pāṭipado.

“Ānanda, speak about the practicing trainee to the Sakyans of Kapilavatthu as you feel inspired.

Piṭṭhi me āgilāyati;

My back is sore,

tamahaṃ āyamissāmī”ti.

I’ll stretch it.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho āyasmā ānando bhagavato paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” Ānanda replied.

Atha kho bhagavā catugguṇaṃ saṅghāṭiṃ paññāpetvā

And then the Buddha spread out his outer robe folded in four and laid down in the lion’s posture—on the right side, placing one foot on top of the other—mindful and aware, and focused on the time of getting up.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando mahānāmaṃ sakkaṃ āmantesi:

Then Ānanda addressed Mahānāma the Sakyan:

“idha, mahānāma, ariyasāvako sīlasampanno hoti, indriyesu

“Mahānāma, a noble disciple is accomplished in ethics, guards the sense doors, eats in moderation, and is dedicated to wakefulness. ‘Not for fun, indulgence, adornment, or decoration, but only to sustain this body, to avoid harm, and to support spiritual practice. In this way, I shall put an end to old discomfort and not give rise to new discomfort, and I will live blamelessly and at ease.’

Evaṃ kho, mahānāma, ariyasāvako bhojane mattaññū hoti. (3)

That's how a noble disciple eats in moderation.

Kathañca, mahānāma, ariyasāvako jāgariyaṃ anuyutto hoti?
And how is a noble disciple dedicated to wakefulness?

Idha, mahānāma, ariyasāvako divasaṃ caṅkamena nisajjāya āvaraṇīyehi dhammehi cittaṃ parisodheti,
It's when a noble disciple practices walking and sitting meditation by day, purifying their mind from obstacles.

In the evening, they continue to practice walking and sitting meditation.

rattiyā pacchimaṃ yāmaṃ paccuṭṭhāya caṅkamena nisajjāya āvaraṇīyehi dhammehi cittaṃ parisodheti.
In the last part of the night, they get up and continue to practice walking and sitting meditation, purifying their mind from obstacles.

Evaṃ kho, mahānāma, ariyasāvako jāgariyaṃ anuyutto hoti. (4)
That's how a noble disciple is dedicated to wakefulness.

Kathañca, mahānāma, ariyasāvako sattahi saddhammehi samannāgato hoti?

And how does a noble disciple have seven good qualities?

Idha, mahānāma, ariyasāvako saddho hoti, saddahati tathāgatassa bodhiṃ:

It's when a noble disciple has faith in the Realized One's awakening:

'itipi so bhagavā arahaṃ sammāsambuddho vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro

Hirimā hoti, hiriyati kāyaduccaritena vacīduccaritena manoduccaritena, hiriyati pāpakānaṃ akusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ samāpattiyā.

They have a conscience. They’re conscientious about bad conduct by way of body, speech, and mind, and conscientious about having any bad, unskillful qualities.

Ottappī hoti, ottappati kāyaduccaritena vacīduccaritena manoduccaritena, ottappati pāpakānaṃ akusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ samāpattiyā.

They exercise prudence. They’re prudent when it comes to bad conduct by way of body, speech, and mind, and prudent when it comes to acquiring any bad, unskillful qualities.

They’re very learned, remembering and keeping what they’ve learned. These teachings are good in the beginning, good in the middle, and good in the end, meaningful and well-phrased, describing a spiritual practice that’s entirely full and pure. They are very learned in such teachings, remembering them, reinforcing them by recitation, mentally scrutinizing them, and comprehending them theoretically.

They live with energy roused up for giving up unskillful qualities and embracing skillful qualities. They're strong, staunchly vigorous, not slacking off when it comes to developing skillful qualities.

Satimā hoti, paramena satinepakkena samannāgato,

That's how a noble disciple gets the four absorptions—blissful meditations in the present life that belong to the higher mind—when they want, without trouble or difficulty.

Yato kho, mahānāma, ariyasāvako evaṃ sīlasampanno hoti,

When a noble disciple is accomplished in ethics, guards the sense doors, eats in moderation, and is dedicated to wakefulness; and they have seven good qualities, and they get the four absorptions—blissful meditations in the present life that belong to the higher mind—when they want, without trouble or difficulty, they are called a noble disciple who is a practicing trainee. Their eggs are unspoiled, and they are capable of breaking out of their shell, becoming awakened, and achieving the supreme sanctuary.

atha kho bhabbāva te kukkuṭapotakā pādanakhasikhāya vā mukhatuṇḍakena vā aṇḍakosaṃ padāletvā sotthinā abhinibbhijjituṃ.

Still they can break out and hatch safely.

Evameva kho, mahānāma, yato ariyasāvako evaṃ sīlasampanno hoti, evaṃ indriyesu guttadvāro hoti, evaṃ bhojane mattaññū hoti, evaṃ jāgariyaṃ anuyutto hoti, evaṃ sattahi saddhammehi samannāgato hoti, evaṃ catunnaṃ jhānānaṃ ābhicetasikānaṃ diṭṭhadhammasukhavihārānaṃ nikāmalābhī hoti akicchālābhī akasiralābhī, ayaṃ vuccati, mahānāma, ariyasāvako sekho pāṭipado apuccaṇḍatāya samāpanno, bhabbo abhinibbhidāya, bhabbo sambodhāya, bhabbo anuttarassa yogakkhemassa adhigamāya.

In the same way, when a noble disciple is practicing all these things they are called a noble disciple who is a practicing trainee. Their eggs are unspoiled, and they are capable of breaking out of their shell, becoming awakened, and achieving the supreme sanctuary.

Relying on this supreme purity of mindfulness and equanimity, that noble disciple, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, sees sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. ... They understand how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds.

Relying on this supreme purity of mindfulness and equanimity, that noble disciple realizes the undefiled freedom of heart and freedom by wisdom in this very life. And they live having realized it with their own insight due to the ending of defilements.

and realizing the undefiled freedom of heart and freedom by wisdom in this very life due to the ending of defilements.

Ayaṃ vuccati, mahānāma, ariyasāvako vijjāsampanno itipi caraṇasampanno itipi vijjācaraṇasampanno itipi.
This noble disciple is said to be ‘accomplished in knowledge’, and also ‘accomplished in conduct’, and also ‘accomplished in knowledge and conduct’.

Brahmunāpesā, mahānāma, sanaṅkumārena gāthā bhāsītā:
And Brahmā Sanaṅkumāra also spoke this verse:

‘Khattiyo seṭṭho janetasmiṃ,

Atha kho bhagavā uṭṭhahitvā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ āmantesi:

Then the Buddha got up and said to Venerable Ānanda, “sādhu sādhu, ānanda,

“Good, good, Ānanda!

It’s good that you spoke to the Sakyans of Kapilavatthu about the practicing trainee.”

Idamavocāyasmā ānando.

This is what Venerable Ānanda said, and the teacher approved.

Attamanā kāpilavatthavā sakyā āyasmato ānandassa bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the Sakyans of Kapilavatthu were happy with what Venerable Ānanda said.

54. Potaliyasutta

With Potaliya the Wanderer

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṅ aṅguttarāpesu viharati āpaṇam nāma aṅguttarāpānam nigamo.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Northern Āpaṇas, near the town of theirs named Āpaṇa.

Atha kho bhagavaṅ pubbaṅhasamayam nivāsetvā paccācivaramādāya āpaṇam piṇḍāya pāvīsi.

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Āpaṇa for alms.

Āpaṇe piṇḍāya caritvā pacchābhattam piṇḍapātapāṭikkanto yenaññataro vanasaṅḍo tenupasaṅkami divāvihārāya.

He wandered for alms in Āpaṇa. After the meal, on his return from alms-round, he went to a certain forest grove for the day's meditation.

Tam vanasaṅḍam ajjhogāhetvā aññatarasmim rukkhamūle divāvihāram nisīdi.

Having plunged deep into it, he sat at the root of a certain tree for the day's meditation.

Potaliyopi kho gahapati sampannanivāsanapāvuraṇo chattupāhanāhi jaṅghāvihāram anucaṅkamamāno anuvicaramāno yena so vanasaṅḍo tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā taṃ vanasaṅḍaṃ ajjhogāhetvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

Potaliya the householder also approached that forest grove while going for a walk. He was well dressed in a cloak and sarong, with parasol and sandals. Having plunged deep into it, he went up to the Buddha, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi. Ekamantaṃ ṭhitaṃ kho potaliyaṃ gahapatiṃ bhagavā etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he stood to one side, and the Buddha said to him, “saṃvijjanti kho, gahapati, āsanāni; sace ākaṅkhasi nisīdā”ti.

“There are seats, householder. Please sit if you wish.”

Evaṃ vutte, potaliyo gahapati “gahapativādena maṃ samaṇo gotamo samudācaratī”ti kupito anattamano tuṅhī ahoṣi.

When he said this, Potaliya was angry and upset. Thinking, “The ascetic Gotama addresses me as ‘householder!’” he stayed silent.

Dutiyampi kho bhagavā ...pe...

For a second time ...

tatiyampi kho bhagavā potaliyaṃ gahapatiṃ etadavoca:

and a third time the Buddha said to him,

“saṃvijjanti kho, gahapati, āsanāni; sace ākaṅkhasi nisīdā”ti.

“There are seats, householder. Please sit if you wish.”

Evaṃ vutte, potaliyo gahapati “gahapativādena maṃ samaṇo gotamo samudācaratī”ti kupito anattamano bhagavantam etadavoca:

When he said this, Potaliya was angry and upset. Thinking, “The ascetic Gotama addresses me as ‘householder!’” he said to the Buddha, “tayidaṃ, bho gotama, nacchannaṃ, tayidaṃ nappatirūpaṃ, yaṃ maṃ tvaṃ gahapativādena samudācarasī”ti.

“Master Gotama, it is neither proper nor appropriate for you to address me as ‘householder’.”

“Te hi te, gahapati, ākāra, te liṅgā, te nimittā yathā taṃ gahapatissā”ti.

“Well, householder, you have the features, attributes, and signs of a householder.”

“Tathā hi pana me, bho gotama, sabbe kammantā paṭikkhittā, sabbe vohārā samucchinnā”ti.

“Master Gotama, it’s because I have refused all work and cut off all judgments.”

“Yathā kathaṃ pana te, gahapati, sabbe kammantā paṭikkhittā, sabbe vohārā samucchinnā”ti?

“Householder, in what way have you refused all work and cut off all judgments?”

“Idha me, bho gotama, yaṃ ahosi dhanam vā dhaññaṃ vā rajataṃ vā jātarūpaṃ vā sabbaṃ taṃ puttānaṃ dāyajjaṃ niyyātaṃ, tatthāhaṃ anovādī anupavādī ghāsacchādanaparamo viharāmi.

“Master Gotama, all the money, grain, gold, and silver I used to have has been handed over to my children as their inheritance. And in this matter I do not advise or reprimand them, but live with nothing more than food and clothes.

Evaṃ kho me, bho gotama, sabbe kammantā paṭikkhittā, sabbe vohārā samucchinnā”ti.

That’s how I have refused all work and cut off all judgments.”

“Aññathā kho tvaṃ, gahapati, vohārasamucchedaṃ vadasi, aññathā ca pana ariyassa vinaye vohārasamucchedo hotī”ti.

“The cutting off of judgments as you describe it is one thing, householder, but the cutting off of judgments in the noble one’s training is quite different.”

“Yathā katham̐ pana, bhante, ariyassa vinaye vohārasamucchedo hoti?”

“But what, sir, is cutting off of judgments in the noble one’s training?”

Sādhū me, bhante, bhagavā tathā dhammam̐ desetū yathā

Sir, please teach me this.”

“Tena hi, gahapati, suṇāhi, sādhuḥkam̐ manasi karohi, bhāsissāmi”ti.

“Well then, householder, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho potaliyo gahapati bhagavato paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” said Potaliya.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“aṭṭha kho ime, gahapati, dhammā ariyassa vinaye vohārasamucchedāya samvattanti.

“Householder, these eight things lead to the cutting off of judgments in the noble one’s training.

These are the eight things—stated in brief without being analyzed in detail—that lead to the cutting off of judgments in the noble one's training.”

“Ye me, bhante, bhagavatā aṭṭha dhammā saṅkhittena vuttā, vitthārena avibhattā, ariyassa vinaye vohārasamucchedāya saṁvattanti, sādhu me, bhante, bhagavā ime aṭṭha dhamme vitthārena vibhajatu anukampaṁ upādāyā”ti.

“Sir, please teach me these eight things in detail out of compassion.”

Sa kho so, gahapati, ariyasāvako imaṃyeva anuttaraṃ upekkhāsatipārisuddhiṃ āgamma āsavānaṃ khayā anāsavaṃ cetovimuttiṃ paññāvimuttiṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharati.

Relying on this supreme purity of mindfulness and equanimity, that noble disciple realizes the undefiled freedom of heart and freedom by wisdom in this very life. And they live having realized it with their own insight due to the ending of defilements.

Ettāvatā kho, gahapati, ariyassa vinaye sabbena sabbāṃ sabbathā sabbāṃ vohārasamucchedo hoti.

That's how there is the cutting off of judgments in each and every respect in the noble one's training.

Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, gahapati,
What do you think, householder?

yathā ariyassa vinaye sabbena sabbāṃ sabbathā sabbāṃ vohārasamucchedo hoti, api nu tvaṃ evarūpaṃ vohārasamucchedaṃ attani samanupassasī'ti?

Do you regard yourself as having cut off judgments in a way comparable to the cutting off of judgments in each and every respect in the noble one's training?"

“Ko cāhaṃ, bhante, ko ca ariyassa vinaye sabbena sabbāṃ sabbathā sabbāṃ vohārasamucchedo.

“Who am I compared to one who has cut off judgments in each and every respect in the noble one's training?

Ārakā ahaṃ, bhante, ariyassa vinaye sabbena sabbam sabbathā sabbam vohārasamucchedā.

I am far from that.

Mayaṅhi, bhante, pubbe aññatitthiye paribbājake anājānīyeva samāne ājānīyāti amaññimha, anājānīyeva samāne ājānīyabhojanaṃ bhojimha, anājānīyeva samāne ājānīyaṭhāne ṭhapimha;

Sir, I used to think that the wanderers following other paths were thoroughbreds, and I fed them and treated them accordingly, but they were not actually thoroughbreds.

bhikkhū pana mayaṃ, bhante, ājānīyeva samāne anājānīyāti amaññimha, ājānīyeva samāne anājānīyabhojanaṃ bhojimha, ājānīyeva samāne anājānīyaṭhāne ṭhapimha;

I thought that the mendicants were not thoroughbreds, and I fed them and treated them accordingly, but they actually were thoroughbreds.

idāni pana mayaṃ, bhante, aññatitthiye paribbājake anājānīyeva samāne anājānīyāti jānissāma, anājānīyeva samāne anājānīyabhojanaṃ bhojessāma, anājānīyeva samāne anājānīyaṭhāne ṭhapessāma.

But now I shall understand that the wanderers following other paths are not actually thoroughbreds, and I will feed them and treat them accordingly.

Bhikkhū pana mayaṃ, bhante, ājānīyeva samāne ājānīyāti jānissāma, ājānīyeva samāne ājānīyabhojanaṃ bhojessāma, ājānīyeva samāne ājānīyaṭhāne ṭhapessāma.

And I shall understand that the mendicants actually are thoroughbreds, and I will feed them and treat them accordingly.

Ajanesi vata me, bhante, bhagavā samaṇesu samaṇappemaṃ, samaṇesu samaṇappasādaṃ, samaṇesu samaṇagāraṃ.

The Buddha has inspired me to have love, confidence, and respect for ascetics!

Abhikkantaṃ, bhante, abhikkantaṃ, bhante.

Excellent, sir! Excellent!

Seyyathāpi, bhante, nikkujjitaṃ vā ukkujjeyya, paṭicchannaṃ vā vivareyya, mūḷhassa vā maggaṃ ācikkheyya, andhakāre vā telapajjotaṃ dhāreyya, ‘cakkhumanto rūpāni dakkhantī’ti; evamevaṃ kho, bhante, bhagavatā anekapariyāyena dhammo pakāsito.

As if he were righting the overturned, or revealing the hidden, or pointing out the path to the lost, or lighting a lamp in the dark so people with good eyes can see what’s there, the Buddha has made the teaching clear in many ways.

Esāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavantaṃ saraṇaṃ gacchāmi dhammañca bhikkhusaṅghaṃca.

I go for refuge to the Buddha, to the teaching, and to the mendicant Saṅgha.

Upāsakaṃ maṃ bhagavā dhāretu ajjatagge pāṇupetaṃ saraṇaṃ gataṃ”ti.

From this day forth, may the Buddha remember me as a lay follower who has gone for refuge for life.”

Potaliyasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ catutthaṃ.

55. Jīvakasutta

With Jīvaka

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā rājagahe viharati jīvakassa komārabhaccassa ambavane.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha in the Mango Grove of Jīvaka Komārabhacca.

Atha kho jīvako komārabhacco yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantam nisīdi.
Ekamantam nisinno kho jīvako komārabhacco bhagavantam
etadavoca:

Then Jīvaka went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to the Buddha:

“sutam metam, bhante:

“Sir, I have heard this:

‘samaṇam gotamam uddissa pāṇam ārabhanti, tam samaṇo gotamo jānam uddissakataṃ maṃsam paribhuñjati paṭiccakammaṃ’ti.

‘They slaughter living creatures specially for the ascetic Gotama. The ascetic Gotama knowingly eats meat prepared on purpose for him: this is a deed he caused.’

Ye te, bhante, evamāhaṃsu: ‘samaṇam gotamam uddissa pāṇam ārabhanti, tam samaṇo gotamo jānam uddissakataṃ maṃsaṃ paribhuñjati paṭiccakammaṃ'ti, kacci te, bhante, bhagavato vuttavādino, na ca bhagavantaṃ abhūtena abbhācikkhanti, dhammassa cānudhammaṃ byākaronti, na ca koci sahadhammiko vādānuvādo gārayhaṃ ṭhānaṃ āgacchatī'ti?

I trust that those who say this repeat what the Buddha has said, and do not misrepresent him with an untruth? Is their explanation in line with the teaching? Are there any legitimate grounds for rebuke and criticism?"

“Ye te, jīvaka, evamaṃsu: ‘samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ uddissa pāṇaṃ ārabhanti, taṃ samaṇo gotamo jānaṃ uddissakataṃ maṃsaṃ paribhuñjati paṭiccakammaṃ'ti na me te vuttavādino, abbhācikkhanti ca maṃ te asatā abhūtena.

“Jīvaka, those who say this do not repeat what I have said. They misrepresent me with what is false and untrue.

Tīhi kho ahaṃ, jīvaka, ṭhānehi maṃsaṃ aparibhoganti vadāmi.
In three cases I say that meat may not be eaten:

Diṭṭhaṃ, suttaṃ, parisaṅkitaṃ—it's seen, heard, or suspected.

imehi kho ahaṃ, jīvaka, tīhi ṭhānehi maṃsaṃ aparibhoganti

These are three cases in which meat may not be eaten.

Tīhi kho ahaṃ, jīvaka, ṭhānehi maṃsaṃ paribhoganti vadāmi.
In three cases I say that meat may be eaten:

Adiṭṭhaṃ, asuttaṃ, aparisaṅkitaṃ—it's not seen, heard, or suspected.

imehi kho ahaṃ, jīvaka, tīhi ṭhānehi maṃsaṃ paribhoganti

These are three cases in which meat may be eaten.

Idha, jīvaka, bhikkhu aññataram gāmaṃ vā nigamaṃ vā upanissāya viharati.

Take the case of a mendicant living supported by a town or village.

So mettāsahagatena cetasā ekaṃ disaṃ pharivā viharati, tathā dutiyam, tathā tatiyam, tathā catuttham. Iti uddhamadho tiriyaṃ sabbadhi sabbattāya sabbāvantam lokam mettāsahagatena cetasā vipulena mahaggatena appamāṇena averena abyābajjhena pharivā viharati.

They meditate spreading a heart full of love to one direction, and to the second, and to the third, and to the fourth. In the same way above, below, across, everywhere, all around, they spread a heart full of love to the whole world—abundant, expansive, limitless, free of enmity and ill will.

Tamenam gahapati vā gahapatiputto vā upasaṅkamtivā svātanāya bhattena nimanteti.

A householder or their child approaches and invites them for the next day's meal.

Ākaṅkhamānova, jīvaka, bhikkhu adhivāseti.

The mendicant accepts if they want.

So tassā rattiyā accayena pubbaṅhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya yena tassa gahapatissa vā gahapatiputtassa vā nivesanam tenupasaṅkamati; upasaṅkamtivā paññatte āsane nisīdati.

When the night has passed, they robe up in the morning, take their bowl and robe, and approach that householder's home, where they sit on the seat spread out.

Tamenam so gahapati vā gahapatiputto vā paṇītena piṇḍapātena parivisati.

That householder or their child serves them with delicious alms-food.

Tassa na evam hoti:

It never occurs to them,

‘It’s so good that this householder serves me with delicious alms-food!

Aho vata māyaṃ gahapati vā gahapatiputto vā āyatimpi evarūpena paṇītena piṇḍapātena pariviseyyā’ti—evampissa na hoti.

They don’t think that.

So taṃ piṇḍapātaṃ agathito amucchito anajjhopanno ādīnavadassāvī nissaraṇapañño paribhuñjati.

Jīvakasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ pañcamaṃ.

56. Upālisutta With Upāli

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṃ nālandāyaṃ viharati pāvārikambavane.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Nālandā in Pāvārika's mango grove.

Tena kho pana samayena nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto nālandāyaṃ paṭivasati mahatiyā nigaṇṭhapaṇisāya saddhim.

At that time Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta was residing at Nālandā together with a large assembly of Jain ascetics.

Atha kho dīghatapassī nigaṇṭho nālandāyaṃ piṇḍāya caritvā pacchābhattam piṇḍapāṭapaṭikkanto yena pāvārikambavanam yena bhagavaṃ tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhim sammodi.

Then the Jain ascetic Dīgha Tapassī wandered for alms in Nālandā. After the meal, on his return from alms-round, he went to Pāvārika's mango grove. There he approached the Buddha, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodaniyam katham sāraṇiyam vītisāretvā ekamantam aṭṭhāsi. Ekamantam ṭhitam kho dīghatapassim nigaṇṭham bhagavaṃ etadvoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he stood to one side. The Buddha said to him, “saṃvijjanti kho, tapassi, āsanāni; sace ākaṅkhasi nisīdā”ti.

“There are seats, Tapassī. Please sit if you wish.”

Evam vutte, dīghatapassī nigaṇṭho aññataram nīcam āsanam gahetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

When he said this, Dīgha Tapassī took a low seat and sat to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho dīghatapassim nigaṇṭham bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said to him,

“kati pana, tapassi, nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto kammāni paññapeti pāpassa kammaṃ kiriyāya pāpassa kammaṃ pavattiyā”ti?

“Tapassī, how many kinds of deed does Nigaṇṭha Nātaputta describe for performing bad deeds?”

“Na kho, āvuso gotama, āciṇṇaṃ nigaṇṭhassa nāṭaputtassa ‘kammaṃ, kamman’ti paññapetum; “Reverend Gotama, Nigaṇṭha Nātaputta doesn’t usually speak in terms of ‘deeds’.

‘daṇḍam, daṇḍan’ti kho, āvuso gotama, āciṇṇaṃ nigaṇṭhassa nāṭaputtassa paññapetun’ti.

He usually speaks in terms of ‘rods’.”

“Kati pana, tapassi, nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto daṇḍāni paññapeti pāpassa kammaṃ kiriyāya pāpassa kammaṃ pavattiyā”ti?

“Then how many kinds of rod does Nigaṇṭha Nātaputta describe for performing bad deeds?”

“Tīṇi kho, āvuso gotama, nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto daṇḍāni paññapeti pāpassa kammaṃ kiriyāya pāpassa kammaṃ pavattiyāti, seyyathidaṃ—“Nigaṇṭha Nātaputta describes three kinds of rod for performing bad deeds:

kāyadaṇḍaṃ, vacīdaṇḍaṃ, manodaṇḍaṃ”ti.
the physical rod, the verbal rod, and the mental rod.”

“Kiṃ pana, tapassi, aññadeva kāyadaṇḍaṃ, aññaṃ vacīdaṇḍaṃ, aññaṃ manodaṇḍaṃ”ti?
“But are these kinds of rod all distinct from each other?”

“Aññadeva, āvuso gotama, kāyadaṇḍaṃ, aññaṃ vacīdaṇḍaṃ, aññaṃ manodaṇḍaṃ”ti.
“Yes, each is quite distinct.”

“Imesaṃ pana, tapassi, tiṇṇaṃ daṇḍānaṃ evaṃ paṭivibhattānaṃ evaṃ paṭivisiṭṭhānaṃ katamaṃ daṇḍaṃ nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto mahāsāvajjatarāṃ paññapeti pāpassa kammaṃ kiriyāya pāpassa kammaṃ pavattiyā, yadi vā kāyadaṇḍaṃ, yadi vā vacīdaṇḍaṃ, yadi vā manodaṇḍaṃ”ti?
“Of the three rods thus analyzed and differentiated, which rod does Nigaṇṭha Nātaputta describe as being the most blameworthy for performing bad deeds: the physical rod, the verbal rod, or the mental rod?”

“Imesaṃ kho, āvuso gotama, tiṇṇaṃ daṇḍānaṃ evaṃ paṭivibhattānaṃ evaṃ paṭivisiṭṭhānaṃ kāyadaṇḍaṃ nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto mahāsāvajjatarāṃ paññapeti pāpassa kammaṃ kiriyāya pāpassa kammaṃ pavattiyā, no tathā vacīdaṇḍaṃ, no tathā manodaṇḍaṃ”ti.
“Nigaṇṭha Nātaputta describes the physical rod as being the most blameworthy for performing bad deeds, not so much the verbal rod or the mental rod.”

“Kāyadaṇḍanti, tapassi, vadesi”?
“Do you say the physical rod, Tapassī?”

“Kāyadaṇḍanti, āvuso gotama, vadāmi”.

“I say the physical rod, Reverend Gotama.”

“Kāyadaṇḍanti, tapassi, vadesi”?

“Do you say the physical rod, Tapassī?”

“Kāyadaṇḍanti, āvuso gotama, vadāmi”.

“I say the physical rod, Reverend Gotama.”

“Kāyadaṇḍanti, tapassi, vadesi”?

“Do you say the physical rod, Tapassī?”

“Kāyadaṇḍanti, āvuso gotama, vadāmi”ti.

“I say the physical rod, Reverend Gotama.”

Itiha bhagavā dīghatapassim̐ nigaṇṭham̐ imasmim̐ kathāvatthusmim̐ yāvatatīyakam̐ patīṭṭhāpesi.

Thus the Buddha made Dīgha Tapassī stand by this point up to the third time.

Evaṃ vutte, dīghatapassī nigaṇṭho bhagavantam̐ etadavoca:

When this was said, Dīgha Tapassī said to the Buddha,

“tvam̐ panāvuso gotama, kati daṇḍāni paññapesi pāpassa kammaṣṣa kiriyāya pāpassa kammaṣṣa pavattiyā”ti?

“But Reverend Gotama, how many kinds of rod do you describe for performing bad deeds?”

“Na kho, tapassi, āciṇṇam̐ tathāgatassa ‘daṇḍam̐, daṇḍan’ti paññapetum̐;

“Tapassī, the Realized One doesn’t usually speak in terms of ‘rods’.

‘kammaṃ, kamman’ti kho, tapassi, āciṇṇam̐ tathāgatassa paññapetun’”ti?

He usually speaks in terms of ‘deeds’.”

“Tvaṃ panāvuso gotama, kati kammāni paññapesi pāpassa kammaṣṣa kiriyāya pāpassa kammaṣṣa pavattiyā”ti?

“Then how many kinds of deed do you describe for performing bad deeds?”

“Tīṇi kho ahaṃ, tapassi, kammāni paññapemi pāpassa kammaṣṣa kiriyāya pāpassa kammaṣṣa pavattiyā, seyyathidaṃ

“I describe three kinds of deed for performing bad deeds:

physical deeds, verbal deeds, and mental deeds.”

“Kiṃ panāvuso gotama, aññadeva kāyakammaṃ, aññaṃ vacīkammaṃ, aññaṃ manokammaṃ”ti?

“But are these kinds of deed all distinct from each other?”

“Aññadeva, tapassi, kāyakammaṃ, aññaṃ vacīkammaṃ, aññaṃ manokammaṃ”ti.

“Yes, each is quite distinct.”

“Imesaṃ panāvuso gotama, tiṇṇaṃ kammānaṃ evaṃ paṭivibhattānaṃ evaṃ paṭivisiṭṭhānaṃ katamaṃ kammaṃ mahāsāvajjatarāṃ paññapesi pāpassa kammaṣṣa kiriyāya pāpassa kammaṣṣa pavattiyā, yadi vā kāyakammaṃ, yadi vā vacīkammaṃ, yadi vā manokammaṃ”ti?

“Of the three deeds thus analyzed and differentiated, which deed do you describe as being the most blameworthy for performing bad deeds: physical deeds, verbal deeds, or mental deeds?”

“Imesaṃ kho ahaṃ, tapassi, tiṇṇaṃ kammānaṃ evaṃ paṭivibhattānaṃ evaṃ paṭivisiṭṭhānaṃ manokammaṃ mahāsāvajjatarāṃ paññapemi pāpassa kammaṣṣa kiriyāya pāpassa kammaṣṣa pavattiyā, no tathā kāyakammaṃ, no tathā vacīkammaṃ”ti.

“I describe mental deeds as being the most blameworthy for performing bad deeds, not so much physical deeds or verbal deeds.”

“Manokammanti, āvuso gotama, vadesi”?

“Do you say mental deeds, Reverend Gotama?”

“Manokammanti, tapassi, vadāmi”.

“I say mental deeds, Tapassī.”

“Manokammanti, āvuso gotama, vadesi”?

“Do you say mental deeds, Reverend Gotama?”

“Manokammanti, tapassi, vadāmi”.

“I say mental deeds, Tapassī.”

“Manokammanti, āvuso gotama, vadesi”?

“Do you say mental deeds, Reverend Gotama?”

“Manokammanti, tapassi, vadāmī”ti.

“I say mental deeds, Tapassī.”

Itiha dīghatapassī nigaṇṭho bhagavantaṃ imasmim̃ kathāvatthusmim̃ yāvataiyakaṃ patiṭṭhāpetvā uṭṭhāyāsanā yena nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto tenupasaṅkama.

Thus the Jain ascetic Dīgha Tapassī made the Buddha stand by this point up to the third time, after which he got up from his seat and went to see Nigaṇṭha Nātaputta.

Tena kho pana समयena nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto mahatiyā gihiparisāya saddhim̃ nisinno hoti bālakiniyā parisāya upālīpamukhāya.

Now at that time Nigaṇṭha Nātaputta was sitting together with a large assembly of laypeople of Bālaka headed by Upālī.

Addasā kho nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto dīghatapassim̐ nigaṇṭham̐ dūratova āgacchantam̐;

Nigaṇṭha Nātaputta saw Dīgha Tapassī coming off in the distance disvāna dīghatapassim̐ nigaṇṭham̐ etadavoca:

and said to him,

“handa kuto nu tvam̐, tapassi, āgacchasi divā divassā”ti?

“So, Tapassī, where are you coming from in the middle of the day?”

“Ito hi kho aham̐, bhante, āgacchāmi samaṇassa gotamassa santikā”ti.

“Just now, sir, I’ve come from the presence of the ascetic Gotama.”

“Ahu pana te, tapassi, samaṇena gotamena saddhim̐ kocideva kathāsallāpo”ti?

“But did you have some discussion with him?”

“Ahu kho me, bhante, samaṇena gotamena saddhim̐ kocideva kathāsallāpo”ti.

“I did.”

“Yathā katham̐ pana te, tapassi, ahu samaṇena gotamena saddhim̐ kocideva kathāsallāpo”ti?

“And what kind of discussion did you have with him?”

Atha kho dīghatapassī nigaṇṭho yāvatako ahosi bhagavatā saddhim̐ kathāsallāpo tam̐ sabbam̐ nigaṇṭhassa nāṭaputtassa ārocesi.

Then Dīgha Tapassī informed Nigaṇṭha Nātaputta of all they had discussed.

Evam̐ vutte, nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto dīghatapassim̐ nigaṇṭham̐ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, Nigaṇṭha said to him,

“sādhu sādhu, tapassi.

“Good, good, Tapassī!

Yathā taṃ sutavatā sāvakena sammadeva satthusāsanāṃ ājānāntena evameva dīghatapassinā nigaṇṭhena samaṇassa gotamassa byākataṃ.

Dīgha Tapassī has answered the ascetic Gotama like an educated disciple who rightly understands their teacher’s instructions.

Kiñhi sobhati chavo manodaṇḍo imassa evaṃ oḷārikassa kāyadaṇḍassa upanidhāya.

For how impressive is the measly mental rod when compared with the substantial physical rod?

Atha kho kāyadaṇḍova mahāsāvajjataro pāpassa kammassa kiriyaṃ pāpassa kammassa pavattiyā, no tathā vacīdaṇḍo, no tathā manodaṇḍo”ti.

Rather, the physical rod is the most blameworthy for performing bad deeds, not so much the verbal rod or the mental rod.”

Evaṃ vutte, upāli gahapati nigaṇṭhaṃ nāṭaputtaṃ etadavoca:

When he said this, the householder Upāli said to him, “sādhu sādhu, bhante dīghatapassī.

“Good, sir! Well done, Dīgha Tapassī!

Yathā taṃ sutavatā sāvakena sammadeva satthusāsanāṃ ājānāntena evamevaṃ bhadāntena tapassinā samaṇassa gotamassa byākataṃ.

The honorable Tapassī has answered the ascetic Gotama like an educated disciple who rightly understands their teacher’s instructions.

Kiñhi sobhati chavo manodaṇḍo imassa evaṃ oḷārikassa
kāyadaṇḍassa upanidhāya.

For how impressive is the measly mental rod when compared with the substantial physical rod?

Atha kho kāyadaṇḍova mahāsāvajjataro pāpassa kammassa
kiriyaṃ pāpassa kammassa pavattiyā, no tathā vacīdaṇḍo, no

tathā manodaṇḍo.

Rather, the physical rod is the most blameworthy for performing bad deeds, not so much the verbal rod or the mental rod.

Handa cāhaṃ, bhante, gacchāmi samaṇassa gotamassa imasmim̐ kathāvatthusmim̐ vādaṃ āropessāmi.

I'd better go and refute the ascetic Gotama's doctrine regarding this point.

Sace me samaṇo gotamo tathā paṭiṭṭhahissati yathā bhadantena tapassinā paṭiṭṭhāpitaṃ; seyyathāpi nāma balavā puriso samparikaḍḍhissāmi.

If he stands by the position that he stated to Dīgha Tapassī, I'll take him on in debate and drag him to and fro and round about, like a strong man would drag a fleecy sheep to and fro and round about!

Seyyathāpi nāma balavā soṇḍikākammaḥāro mahantaṃ

evamevāhaṃ samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ vādena vādaṃ ākaḍḍhissāmi
parikaḍḍhissāmi samparikaḍḍhissāmi.

Taking him on in debate, I'll drag him to and fro and round about, like a strong brewer's worker would toss a large brewer's sieve into a deep lake, grab it by the corners, and drag it to and fro and round about!

Seyyathāpi nāma balavā soṇḍikādhutto vālaṃ kaṇṇe gahetvā odhuneyya niddhuneyya nipphoṭeyya; evamevāhaṃ samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ vādena vādaṃ odhunissāmi niddhunissāmi nipphoṭessāmi.

Taking him on in debate, I'll shake him down and about and give him a beating, like a strong brewer's mixer would grab a strainer by the corners and shake it down and about, and give it a beating!

Seyyathāpi nāma kuñjaro saṭṭhihāyano gambhīraṃ

evamevāhaṃ samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ sāṇadhovikaṃ maññe
kīḷitajātaṃ kīḷissāmi.

I'll play a game of ear-washing with the ascetic Gotama, like a sixty-year-old elephant would plunge into a deep lotus pond and play a game of ear-washing!

Handa cāhaṃ, bhante, gacchāmi samaṇassa gotamassa imasmim̃ kathāvatthusmim̃ vādaṃ āropessāmī”ti.

Sir, I'd better go and refute the ascetic Gotama's doctrine on this point.”

“Gaccha tvaṃ, gahapati, samaṇassa gotamassa imasmim̃

“Go, householder, refute the ascetic Gotama's doctrine on this point.

Ahaṃ vā hi, gahapati, samaṇassa gotamassa vādaṃ āropeyyaṃ, dīghatapassī vā nigaṇṭho, tvaṃ vā”ti.

For either I should do so, or Dīgha Tapassī, or you.”

Evaṃ vutte, dīghatapassī nigaṇṭho nigaṇṭhaṃ nāṭaputtaṃ
etadavoca:

When he said this, Dīgha Tapassī said to Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta,

“na kho metaṃ, bhante, rucati yaṃ upāli gahapati samaṇassa gotamassa vādaṃ āropeyya.

“Sir, I don't believe it's a good idea for the householder Upāli to rebut the ascetic Gotama's doctrine.

Samaṇo hi, bhante, gotamo māyāvī āvaṭṭaniṃ māyaṃ jānāti yāya aññatitthiyānaṃ sāvake āvaṭṭetī”ti.

For the ascetic Gotama is a magician. He knows a conversion magic, and uses it to convert the disciples of those who follow other paths.”

“Aṭṭhānaṃ kho etaṃ, tapassi, anavakāso yaṃ upāli gahapati samaṇassa gotamassa sāvakattaṃ upagaccheyya.

“It is impossible, Tapassī, it cannot happen that Upāli could become Gotama’s disciple.

Ṭhānañca kho etaṃ vijjati yaṃ samaṇo gotamo upālissa gahapatissa sāvakattaṃ upagaccheyya.

But it is possible that Gotama could become Upāli’s disciple.

Gaccha tvaṃ, gahapati, samaṇassa gotamassa imasmim̐ kathāvatthusmim̐ vādaṃ āropehi.

Go, householder, refute the ascetic Gotama’s doctrine on this point.

Ahaṃ vā hi, gahapati, samaṇassa gotamassa vādaṃ āropeyyaṃ, dīghatapassī vā nigaṇṭho, tvaṃ vā”ti.

For either I should do so, or Dīgha Tapassī, or you.”

Dutiyampi kho dīghatapassī ...pe...

For a second time ...

tatiyampi kho dīghatapassī nigaṇṭho nigaṇṭhaṃ nāṭaputtaṃ etadavoca:

and a third time, Dīgha Tapassī said to Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta, “na kho metaṃ, bhante, rucati yaṃ upāli gahapati samaṇassa gotamassa vādaṃ āropeyya.

“Sir, I don’t believe it’s a good idea for the householder Upāli to rebut the ascetic Gotama’s doctrine.

Samaṇo hi, bhante, gotamo māyāvī āvaṭṭaniṃ māyaṃ jānāti yāya aññatitthiyānaṃ sāvake āvaṭṭetī”ti.

For the ascetic Gotama is a magician. He knows a conversion magic, and uses it to convert the disciples of those who follow other paths.”

“Aṭṭhānaṃ kho etaṃ, tapassi, anavakāso yaṃ upāli gahapati samaṇassa gotamassa sāvakattaṃ upagaccheyya.

“It is impossible, Tapassī, it cannot happen that Upāli could become Gotama’s disciple.

Ṭhānañca kho etaṃ vijjati yaṃ samaṇo gotamo upālissa gahapatissa sāvakattaṃ upagaccheyya.

But it is possible that Gotama could become Upāli's disciple.

Gaccha tvaṃ, gahapati, samaṇassa gotamassa imasmiṃ kathāvatthusmiṃ vādaṃ āropehi.

Go, householder, refute the ascetic Gotama's doctrine on this point.

Ahaṃ vā hi, gahapati, samaṇassa gotamassa vādaṃ āropeyyaṃ, dīghatapassī vā nigaṇṭho, tvaṃ vā”ti.

For either I should do so, or Dīgha Tapassī, or you.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho upāli gahapati nigaṇṭhassa nāṭaputtassa paṭissutvā uṭṭhāyāsanā nigaṇṭhaṃ nāṭaputtaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā yena pāvārikambavanaṃ yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtvā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho upāli gahapati bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

“Yes, sir,” replied the householder Upāli to Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta. He got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled him, keeping him on his right. Then he went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him, “āgamā nu khvidha, bhante, dīghatapassī nigaṇṭho”ti?

“Sir, did the Jain ascetic Dīgha Tapassī come here?”

“Āgamā khvidha, gahapati, dīghatapassī nigaṇṭho”ti.

“He did, householder.”

“Ahu kho pana te, bhante, dīghatapassinā nigaṇṭhena saddhiṃ kocideva kathāsallāpo”ti?

“But did you have some discussion with him?”

“Ahu kho me, gahapati, dīghatapassinā nigaṇṭhena saddhiṃ kocideva kathāsallāpo”ti.

“I did.”

“Yathā katham̐ pana te, bhante, ahu dīghatapassinā nigaṇṭhena saddhim̐ kocideva kathāsallāpo”ti?

“And what kind of discussion did you have with him?”

Atha kho bhagavā yāvatako ahosi dīghatapassinā nigaṇṭhena saddhim̐ kathāsallāpo tam̐ sabbam̐ upālissa gahapatissa ārocesi.

Then the Buddha informed Upāli of all they had discussed.

Evam̐ vutte, upāli gahapati bhagavantam̐ etadavoca:

When he said this, the householder Upāli said to him, “sādhu sādhu, bhante tapassī.

“Good, sir, well done by Tapassī!

Yathā tam̐ sutavatā sāvakena sammadeva satthusāsanam̐ ājānantena evamevam̐ dīghatapassinā nigaṇṭhena bhagavato byākatam̐.

“Sace kho tvam̐, gahapati, sacce patiṭṭhāya manteyyāsi siyā no ettha kathāsallāpo”ti.

“Householder, so long as you debate on the basis of truth, we can have some discussion about this.”

“Sacce ahaṃ, bhante, patitṭhāya mantessāmi;

“I will debate on the basis of truth, sir.

Let us have some discussion about this.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, gahapati,

“What do you think, householder?

idhassa nigaṇṭho ābādhiko dukkhito bāḷhagilāno

Take a Jain ascetic who is sick, suffering, gravely ill. They reject cold water and use only hot water.

So sītodakaṃ alabhamāno kālaṃ kareyya.

Not getting cold water, they might die.

Imassa pana, gahapati, nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto katthūpapattim

Now, where does Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta say they would be reborn?”

“Atthi, bhante, manosattā nāma devā tattha so upapajjati”.

“Sir, there are gods called ‘mind-bound’. They would be reborn there.

“Taṃ kissa hetu”?

Why is that?

“Asu hi, bhante, manopaṭibaddho kālaṃ karotī”ti.

Because they died with mental attachment.”

“Manasi karohi, gahapati, manasi karitvā kho, gahapati, “Asañcetanikaṃ, bhante, nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto no mahāsāvajjaṃ paññapetī’”ti.

“Sir, Nigaṇṭha Nātaputta says that unintentional acts are not very blameworthy.”

“Sace pana, gahapati, cetetī”ti?

“But if they are intentional?”

“Mahāsāvajjaṃ, bhante, hotī”ti.

“Then they are very blameworthy.”

“Cetanaṃ pana, gahapati, nigaṇṭho nātaputto kismim paññapetī”ti?

“Purimenevāhaṃ, bhante, opammaṃ bhagavato attamaṇo abhiraddho.

“Sir, I was already delighted and satisfied by the Buddha’s very first simile.

Api cāhaṃ imāni bhagavato vicitrāni pañhapaṭibhānāni sotukāmo, evāhaṃ bhagavantaṃ paccanīkaṃ kātabbaṃ amaññissaṃ.

Nevertheless, I wanted to hear the Buddha's various solutions to the problem, so I thought I'd oppose you in this way.

Abhikkantaṃ, bhante, abhikkantaṃ, bhante.

Excellent, sir! Excellent!

Seyyathāpi, bhante, nikkujjitaṃ vā ukkujjeyya, paṭicchannaṃ vā vivareyya, mūḷhassa vā maggaṃ ācikkheyya, andhakāre vā telapajjotaṃ dhāreyya: 'cakkhumanto rūpāni dakkhantī'ti; evamevaṃ bhagavatā anekapariyāyena dhammo pakāsito.

As if he were righting the overturned, or revealing the hidden, or pointing out the path to the lost, or lighting a lamp in the dark so people with good eyes can see what's there, the Buddha has made the teaching clear in many ways.

Esāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavantaṃ saraṇaṃ gacchāmi dhammañca bhikkhusaṅghaṃ.

I go for refuge to the Buddha, to the teaching, and to the mendicant Saṅgha.

Upāsakaṃ maṃ bhagavā dhāretu ajjatagge pāṇupetaṃ saraṇaṃ gataṃ'ti.

From this day forth, may the Buddha remember me as a lay follower who has gone for refuge for life."

"Anuviccakāraṃ kho, gahapati, karohi, anuviccakāro tumhādisānaṃ ñātamanussānaṃ sādhu hotī'ti.

"Householder, you should act after careful consideration. It's good for well-known people such as yourself to act after careful consideration."

"Imināpāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato bhiiyoso mattāya attamano abhiraddho yaṃ maṃ bhagavā evamāha: 'anuviccakāraṃ kho, gahapati, karohi, anuviccakāro tumhādisānaṃ ñātamanussānaṃ sādhu hotī'ti.

"Now I'm even more delighted and satisfied with the Buddha, since he tells me to act after careful consideration.

Mañhi, bhante, aññatitthiyā sāvakaṃ labhitvā kevalakappaṃ nāḷandaṃ paṭākaṃ parihareyyuṃ:

For if the followers of other paths were to gain me as a disciple, they'd carry a banner all over Nāḷandā, saying:

‘upāli amhākaṃ gahapati sāvakattaṃ upagato’ti.

‘The householder Upāli has become our disciple!’

Atha ca pana maṃ bhagavā evamāha:

And yet the Buddha says:

‘anuviccakāraṃ kho, gahapati, karohi, anuviccakāro tumhādisānaṃ ñātamanussānaṃ sādhu hotī’ti.

‘Householder, you should act after careful consideration. It’s good for well-known people such as yourself to act after careful consideration.’

Esāhaṃ, bhante, dutiyampi bhagavantaṃ saraṇaṃ gacchāmi dhammañca bhikkhusaṅghaṃca.

For a second time, I go for refuge to the Buddha, to the teaching, and to the mendicant Saṅgha.

Upāsakaṃ maṃ bhagavā dhāretu ajjatagge pāṇupetaṃ saraṇaṃ gataṃ”ti.

From this day forth, may the Buddha remember me as a lay follower who has gone for refuge for life.”

“Dīgharattaṃ kho te, gahapati, nigaṇṭhānaṃ opānabhūtaṃ kulaṃ yena nesaṃ upagatānaṃ piṇḍakaṃ dātabbaṃ maññeyyāsī”ti.

“For a long time now, householder, your family has been a well-spring of support for the Jain ascetics. You should consider giving to them when they come.”

“Imināpāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato bhiiyoso mattāya attamano abhiraddho yaṃ maṃ bhagavā evamāha: ‘dīgharattaṃ kho te,

Only what is given to my disciples is very fruitful, not what is given to the disciples of others.’

Atha ca pana maṃ bhagavā nigaṇṭhesuṃpi dāne samādapeti.

Yet the Buddha encourages me to give to the Jain ascetics.

Api ca, bhante, mayamettha kālaṃ jānissāma.

Well, sir, we’ll know the proper time for that.

Esāhaṃ, bhante, tatiyampi bhagavantaṃ saraṇaṃ gacchāmi dhammañca bhikkhusaṅghaṃca.

For a third time, I go for refuge to the Buddha, to the teaching, and to the mendicant Saṅgha.

Upāsakaṃ maṃ bhagavā dhāretu ajjatagge pāṇupetaṃ saraṇaṃ gatan’ti.

From this day forth, may the Buddha remember me as a lay follower who has gone for refuge for life.”

Atha kho bhagavā upālissa gahapatissa anupubbim̐ katham̐ kathesi, seyyathidam̐—

Then the Buddha taught the householder Upāli step by step, with dānakatham̐ sīlakatham̐ saggakatham̐, kāmānam̐ ādīnavam̐ okāram̐ saṅkilesam̐, nekkhamme ānisaṃsam̐ pakāsesi.

a talk on giving, ethical conduct, and heaven. He explained the drawbacks of sensual pleasures, so sordid and corrupt, and the benefit of renunciation.

Yadā bhagavā aññāsi upālim̐ gahapatim̐ kallacittam̐ muducittam̐ vinīvaraṇacittam̐ udaggacittam̐ pasannacittam̐, atha yā buddhānam̐ sāmukkaṃsikā dhammadesanā tam̐ pakāsesi—

And when he knew that Upāli's mind was ready, pliable, rid of hindrances, joyful, and confident he explained the special teaching of the Buddhas:

dukkham̐, samudayam̐, nirodham̐, maggam̐.

suffering, its origin, its cessation, and the path.

Seyyathāpi nāma suddham̐ vattham̐ apagatakāḷakam̐ sammadeva rajanam̐ paṭiggaṇheyya;

Just as a clean cloth rid of stains would properly absorb dye, evameva upālissa gahapatissa tasmim̐yeva āsane virajam̐ vītamalam̐ dhammacakkhum̐ udapādi:

in that very seat the stainless, immaculate vision of the Dhamma arose in Upāli:

“yam̐ kiñci samudayadhammam̐ sabbam̐ tam̐ nirodhadhamman”ti.

“Everything that has a beginning has an end.”

Atha kho upāli gahapati diṭṭhadhammo pattadhammo viditadhammo pariyogāḷhadhammo tiṇṇavicikiccho vigatakathaṅkatho vesārajjappatto aparappaccayo satthusāsane bhagavantam̐ etadavoca:

Then Upāli saw, attained, understood, and fathomed the Dhamma. He went beyond doubt, got rid of indecision, and became self-assured and independent of others regarding the Teacher's instructions.

“handa ca dāni mayaṃ, bhante, gacchāma, bahukiccā mayaṃ bahukaraṇīyā”ti.

He said to the Buddha, “Well, now, sir, I must go. I have many duties, and much to do.”

“Yassadāni tvaṃ, gahapati, kālaṃ maññasī”ti.

“Please, householder, go at your convenience.”

Atha kho upāli gahapati bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsanā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā yena sakaṃ nivesanaṃ tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā dovārikaṃ āmantesi:

And then the householder Upāli approved and agreed with what the Buddha said. He got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right. Then he went back to his own home, where he addressed the gatekeeper, “ajjatagge, samma dovārika, āvarāmi dvāraṃ nigaṇṭhānaṃ nigaṇṭhīnaṃ, anāvaṭaṃ dvāraṃ bhagavato bhikkhūnaṃ bhikkhunīnaṃ upāsakānaṃ upāsikānaṃ.

“My good gatekeeper, from this day forth close the gate to Jain monks and nuns, and open it for the Buddha's monks, nuns, laymen, and laywomen.

From now on the householder Upāli has become a disciple of the ascetic Gotama.

Āvaṭaṃ dvāraṃ nigaṇṭhānaṃ nigaṇṭhīnaṃ, anāvaṭaṃ dvāraṃ bhagavato bhikkhūnaṃ bhikkhunīnaṃ upāsakānaṃ upāsikānaṃ.

If you require alms-food, wait here, they will bring it to you.”

“Evaṃ, bhante””ti kho dovāriko upālissa gahapatissa paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” replied the gatekeeper.

Assosi kho dīghatapassī nigaṇṭho:

Dīgha Tapassī heard that

“Sir, they say that the householder Upāli has become a disciple of the ascetic Gotama.”

“Aṭṭhānaṃ kho etaṃ, tapassi, anavakāso yaṃ upāli gahapati samaṇassa gotamassa sāvakattaṃ upagaccheyya.

Atha kho dīghatapassī nigaṇṭho yena upālissa gahapatissa nivesanaṃ tenupasaṅkama.

Then Dīgha Tapassī went to Upāli's home.

Addasā kho dovāriko dīghatapassim nigaṇṭhaṃ dūratova āgacchantaṃ.

Kassa taṃ, gahapati, sāvakaṃ dhāremā’ti?

Whose disciple should we remember you as?”

Evaṃ vutte, upāli gahapati uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ ekaṃsaṃ uttarāsaṅgaṃ karitvā yena bhagavā tenaṅjalim paṇāmetvā nigaṇṭhaṃ nāṭaputtaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, the householder Upāli got up from his seat, arranged his robe over one shoulder, raised his joined palms in the direction of the Buddha, and said to Nigaṇṭha Nātaputta, “tena hi, bhante, suṇohi yassāhaṃ sāvako’ti:

“Well then, sir, hear whose disciple I am:

“Dhīrassa vigatamohassa,

The wise one, free of delusion,

Pabhinnakhīlassa vijitavijayassa; rid of barrenness, victor in battle;

Anīghassa susamacittassa,

he’s untroubled and so even-minded,

Vuddhasīlassa sādhipaññaassa;

with the virtue of an elder and the wisdom of a saint,

Vesamantarassa vimalassa, immaculate in the midst of it all:

Bhagavato tassa sāvako hamasmi.

he is the Buddha, and I am his disciple.

Akathaṅkathissa tusitassa,

He has no indecision, he’s content,

Vantalokāmisassa muditassa;

joyful, he has spat out the world’s bait;

Katasamaṇassa manujassa,

he has completed the ascetic’s task as a human,

Antimasārīrassa narassa;

a man who bears his final body;

Anopamassa virajassa,

he’s beyond compare, he’s stainless:

Bhagavato tassa sāvako hamasmi.

he is the Buddha, and I am his disciple.

Asaṁsayassa kusalassa,

He’s free of doubt, he’s skillful,

Venayikassa sārathivarassa;
he's a trainer, an excellent charioteer;

Anuttarassa ruciradhammassa, supreme, with brilliant qualities,

Nikkaṅkhassa pabhāsakassa; confident, his light shines forth;

Mānacchidassa vīrassa,
he has cut off conceit, he's a hero:

Bhagavato tassa sāvako hamasmi.
he is the Buddha, and I am his disciple.

Nisabhassa appameyyassa,
The chief bull, immeasurable,

Gambhīrassa monapattassa;
profound, sagacious;

Khemaṅkarassa vedassa,
he is the builder of sanctuary, knowledgeable,

Dhammatṭhassa saṁvutattassa;
firm in principle and restrained;

Saṅgātigassa muttassa,
he has got over clinging and is liberated:

Bhagavato tassa sāvako hamasmi.
he is the Buddha, and I am his disciple.

Nāgassa pantasenassa,
He's a giant, living remotely,

Khīṇasaṁyojanassa muttassa;
he's ended the fetters and is liberated;

Paṭimantakassa dhonassa,
he's skilled in dialogue and cleansed,

Pannadhajassa vītarāgassa;
with banner put down, desireless;

Dantassa nippapañcassa,
he's tamed, and doesn't proliferate:

Bhagavato tassa sāvakoḥamasmi.
he is the Buddha, and I am his disciple.

Isisattamassa akuhassa,
He is the seventh sage, free of deceit,

Tevijjassa brahmapattassa;
with three knowledges, he has attained to holiness,

Nhātakassa padakassa,
he has bathed, he knows philology,

Passaddhassa veditavedassa;
he's tranquil, he understands what is known;

Purindadassa sakkassa,
he crushes resistance, he is the lord:

Bhagavato tassa sāvakoḥamasmi.
he is the Buddha, and I am his disciple.

Ariyassa bhāvitattassa,
The noble one, self-developed,

Pattipattassa veyyākaraṇassa;
he has attained the goal and explains it;

Satimato vipassissa,
he is mindful, discerning,

Anabhinatassa no apanatassa;
neither leaning forward nor pulling back,

Anejassa vasippattassa,
he's unstirred, attained to mastery:

Bhagavato tassa sāvakoḥamasmi.
he is the Buddha, and I am his disciple.

Samuggatassa jhāyissa,
He has risen up, he practices absorption,

Ananugatantarassa suddhassa;
not following inner thoughts, he is pure,

Asitassa hitassa,
independent, and fearless;

Pavivittassa aggappattassa;
secluded, he has reached the peak,

Tiṇṇassa tārayantassa, crossed over, he helps others across:

Bhagavato tassa sāvakoḥamasmi.
he is the Buddha, and I am his disciple.

Santassa bhūripaññassa,
He's peaceful, his wisdom is vast,

Mahāpaññassa vītalobhassa;
with great wisdom, he's free of greed;

Tathāgatassa sugatassa,
he is the Realized One, the Holy One,

Appaṭipuggalassa asamassa;
unrivaled, unequaled,

Visāradassa nipuṇassa, assured, and subtle:

Bhagavato tassa sāvakoḥamasmi.
he is the Buddha, and I am his disciple.

Taṇhacchidassa buddhassa,
He has cut off craving and is awakened,

Vītadhūmassa anupalittassa;

free of fuming, unsullied;

Āhuneyyassa yakkhassa,

a mighty spirit worthy of offerings,

Uttamapuggalassa atulassa;

best of men, inestimable,

Mahato yasaggapattassa,

grand, he has reached the peak of glory:

Bhagavato tassa sāvakoḥasmī”ti.

he is the Buddha, and I am his disciple.”

“Kadā saññūḷhā pana te, gahapati, ime samaṇassa gotamassa vaṇṇā”ti?

“But when did you compose these praises of the ascetic Gotama’s beautiful qualities, householder?”

“Seyyathāpi, bhante, nānāpupphānaṃ mahāpuppharāsi, tamenāṃ dakkho mālākāro vā mālākārantevāsī vā vicittaṃ mālaṃ gantheyya;

“Sir, suppose there was a large heap of many different flowers. A deft garland-maker or their apprentice could tie them into a colorful garland.

evameva kho, bhante, so bhagavā anekavaṇṇo anekasatavaṇṇo.

In the same way, the Buddha has many beautiful qualities to praise, many hundreds of such qualities.

Ko hi, bhante, vaṇṇārahassa vaṇṇaṃ na karissatī”ti?

Who, sir, would not praise the praiseworthy?”

Atha kho nigaṇṭhassa nāṭaputtassa bhagavato sakkāraṃ asahamānassa tattheva uṇhaṃ lohitaṃ mukhato uggacchīti.

Unable to bear this honor paid to the Buddha, Nigaṇṭha Nātaputta spewed hot blood from his mouth there and then.

Upālisuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ chaṭṭhaṃ.

57. Kukkuravatikasutta

The Ascetic Who Behaved Like a Dog

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṃ kolyesu viharati haliddavasanaṃ nāma kolyānam nigamo.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Koliyans, where they have a town named Haliddavasana.

Atha kho puṇṇo ca kolyaputto govatiko acelo ca seniyo kukkuravatiko yena bhagavaṃ tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtvaṃ puṇṇo kolyaputto govatiko bhagavantam abhivādetvaṃ ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Acelo pana seniyo kukkuravatiko bhagavatā saddhim sammodi. Sammodaniyam katham saraṇīyam vītisāretvaṃ kukkurova palikujjitvaṃ ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

Then Puṇṇa Kolyaputta, who had taken a vow to behave like a cow, and Seniya, a naked ascetic who had taken a vow to behave like a dog, went to see the Buddha. Puṇṇa bowed to the Buddha and sat down to one side, while Seniya exchanged greetings and polite conversation with him before sitting down to one side curled up like a dog.

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho puṇṇo kolyaputto govatiko bhagavantam etadvoca:

Puṇṇa said to the Buddha,

“ayaṃ, bhante, acelo seniyo kukkuravatiko dukkarakāraḥ chamānikkhitaṃ bhojanaṃ bhujjati.

“Sir, this naked dog ascetic Seniya does a hard thing: he eats food placed on the ground.

Tassa taṃ kukkuravataṃ dīgharattaṃ samattaṃ samādinnaṃ.

For a long time he has undertaken that observance to behave like a dog.

Tassa kā gati, ko abhisamparāyo”ti?

Where will he be reborn in his next life?”

“Alaṃ, puṇṇa, tiṭṭhatetaṃ; mā maṃ etaṃ pucchī”ti.

“Enough, Puṇṇa, let it be. Don’t ask me that.”

Dutiyampi kho puṇṇo koliyaputto govatiko ...pe...

For a second time ...

tatiyampi kho puṇṇo koliyaputto govatiko bhagavantaṃ
etadavoca:

and a third time, Puṇṇa said to the Buddha,

“ayaṃ, bhante, acelo seniyo kukkuravatiko dukkarakāraḥ
chamānikkhitaṃ bhojanaṃ bhujjati.

“Sir, this naked dog ascetic Seniya does a hard thing: he eats food placed on the ground.

Tassa taṃ kukkuravataṃ dīgharattaṃ samattaṃ samādinnaṃ.

For a long time he has undertaken that observance to behave like a dog.

Tassa kā gati, ko abhisamparāyo”ti?

Where will he be reborn in his next life?”

“Addhā kho te ahaṃ, puṇṇa, na labhāmi.

“Clearly, Puṇṇa, I’m not getting through to you when I say:

Alaṃ, puṇṇa, tiṭṭhatetaṃ; mā maṃ etaṃ pucchīti;

‘Enough, Puṇṇa, let it be. Don’t ask me that.’

api ca tyāhaṃ byākarissāmi.
Nevertheless, I will answer you.

Idha, puṇṇa, ekacco kukkuravataṃ bhāveti paripuṇṇaṃ abbokiṇṇaṃ, kukkurasīlaṃ bhāveti paripuṇṇaṃ abbokiṇṇaṃ, kukkuracittaṃ bhāveti paripuṇṇaṃ abbokiṇṇaṃ, kukkurākappaṃ bhāveti paripuṇṇaṃ abbokiṇṇaṃ.

Take someone who develops the dog observance fully and uninterruptedly. They develop a dog's ethics, a dog's mentality, and a dog's behavior fully and uninterruptedly.

So kukkuravataṃ bhāvetvā paripuṇṇaṃ abbokiṇṇaṃ, kukkurasīlaṃ bhāvetvā paripuṇṇaṃ abbokiṇṇaṃ, kukkuracittaṃ bhāvetvā paripuṇṇaṃ abbokiṇṇaṃ, kukkurākappaṃ bhāvetvā paripuṇṇaṃ abbokiṇṇaṃ kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā kukkurānaṃ saḥabyataṃ upapajjati.

When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in the company of dogs.

Sace kho panassa evaṃdiṭṭhi hoti: 'imināhaṃ sīlena vā vatena vā tapena vā brahmacariyena vā devo vā bhavissāmi devaññataro vā'ti, sāssa hoti micchādiṭṭhi.

But if they have such a view: 'By this precept or observance or mortification or spiritual life, may I become one of the gods!' This is their wrong view.

Micchādiṭṭhissa kho ahaṃ, puṇṇa, dvinnaṃ gatīnaṃ aññataraṃ gatiṃ vadāmi—nirayaṃ vā tiracchānayaṇiṃ vā.

An individual with wrong view is reborn in one of two places, I say: hell or the animal realm.

Iti kho, puṇṇa, sampajjamānaṃ kukkuravataṃ kukkurānaṃ saḥabyataṃ upaneti, vipajjamānaṃ nirayan'ti.

So if the dog observance succeeds it leads to rebirth in the company of dogs, but if it fails it leads to hell."

Evam vutte, acelo seniyo kukkuravatiko parodi, assūni pavattesi.

When he said this, Seniya cried and burst out in tears.

Atha kho bhagavā puṇṇaṃ koliyaputtam govatikam etadavoca:

The Buddha said to Puṇṇa,

“etaṃ kho te ahaṃ, puṇṇa, nālattham.

“This is what I didn’t get through to you when I said:

Alaṃ, puṇṇa, tiṭṭhatetaṃ; mā maṃ etaṃ pucchī”ti.

‘Enough, Puṇṇa, let it be. Don’t ask me that.’”

“Nāham, bhante, etaṃ rodāmi yaṃ maṃ bhagavā evamāha;

“Sir, I’m not crying because of what the Buddha said.

api ca me idaṃ, bhante, kukkuravataṃ dīgharattaṃ samattaṃ samādinnaṃ.

But, sir, for a long time I have undertaken this observance to behave like a dog.

Ayaṃ, bhante, puṇṇo koliyaputto govatiko.

Sir, this Puṇṇa has taken a vow to behave like a cow.

Tassa taṃ govataṃ dīgharattaṃ samattaṃ samādinnaṃ.

For a long time he has undertaken that observance to behave like a cow.

Tassa kā gati, ko abhisamparāyo”ti?

Where will he be reborn in his next life?”

“Alaṃ, seniya, tiṭṭhatetaṃ; mā maṃ etaṃ pucchī”ti.

“Enough, Seniya, let it be. Don’t ask me that.”

Dutiyampi kho acelo seniyo ...pe...

For a second time ...

tatīyampi kho acelo seniyo kukkuravatiko bhagavantam etadavoca:

and a third time Seniya said to the Buddha,

“ayaṃ, bhante, puṇṇo koliyaputto govatiko.

For a long time he has undertaken that observance to behave like a cow.

Tassa kā gati, ko abhisamparāyo”ti?

Where will he be reborn in his next life?”

“Addhā kho te ahaṃ, seniya, na labhāmi.

“Clearly, Seniya, I’m not getting through to you when I say:

Nevertheless, I will answer you.

Idha, seniya, ekacco govataṃ bhāveti paripuṇṇaṃ abbokiṇṇaṃ, gosīlaṃ bhāveti paripuṇṇaṃ abbokiṇṇaṃ, gocittaṃ bhāveti paripuṇṇaṃ abbokiṇṇaṃ, gavākappaṃ bhāveti paripuṇṇaṃ abbokiṇṇaṃ.

Take someone who develops the cow observance fully and uninterruptedly. They develop a cow’s ethics, a cow’s mentality, and a cow’s behavior fully and uninterruptedly.

So govataṃ bhāvetvā paripuṇṇaṃ abbokiṇṇaṃ, gosīlaṃ bhāvetvā paripuṇṇaṃ abbokiṇṇaṃ, gocittaṃ bhāvetvā paripuṇṇaṃ abbokiṇṇaṃ, gavākappaṃ bhāvetvā paripuṇṇaṃ abbokiṇṇaṃ kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā gunnaṃ saḥabyataṃ upapajjati.

Evaṃ vutte, puṇṇo koliyaputto govatiko parodi, assūni pavattesi.

When he said this, Puṇṇa cried and burst out in tears.

Atha kho bhagavā acelaṃ seniyaṃ kukkuravatikaṃ etadavoca:

The Buddha said to Seniya,

“etaṃ kho te ahaṃ, seniya, nālatthaṃ.

“This is what I didn't get through to you when I said:

Alaṃ, seniya, tiṭṭhatetaṃ; mā maṃ etaṃ pucchī'ti.

api ca me idaṃ, bhante, govataṃ dīgharattaṃ samattaṃ samādinnaṃ.

But, sir, for a long time I have undertaken this observance to behave like a cow.

Evaṃ pasanno ahaṃ, bhante, bhagavati;

I am quite confident that the Buddha pahoti bhagavā tathā dhammaṃ desetuṃ yathā ahaṃ cevimaṃ govataṃ pajaheyyaṃ, ayañceva acelo seniyo kukkuravatiko taṃ kukkuravataṃ pajaheyyā”ti.

is capable of teaching me so that I can give up this cow observance, and the naked ascetic Seniya can give up that dog observance.”

“Tena hi, puṇṇa, suṇāhi, sādhukaṃ manasi karohi, bhāsissāmi”ti.

“Well then, Puṇṇa, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho puṇṇo koliyaputto govatiko bhagavato paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” he replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Cattārimāni, puṇṇa, kammāni mayā sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā paveditāni.

“Puṇṇa, I declare these four kinds of deeds, having realized them with my own insight.

Katamāni cattāri?

What four?

1. Atthi, puṇṇa, kammaṃ kaṇhaṃ kaṇhavipākaṃ; There are dark deeds with dark results;
2. atthi, puṇṇa, kammaṃ sukkaṃ sukkavipākaṃ; bright deeds with bright results;
3. atthi, puṇṇa, kammaṃ kaṇhasukkaṃ kaṇhasukkvipākaṃ; dark and bright deeds with dark and bright results; and
4. atthi, puṇṇa, kammaṃ akaṇhaṃ asukkaṃ akaṇhaasukkvipākaṃ, kammakkhayāya saṃvattati. neither dark nor bright deeds with neither dark nor bright results, which lead to the ending of deeds.

Katamañca, puñña, kammaṃ kaṇhaṃ kaṇhavipākaṃ?

And what are dark deeds with dark results?

Idha, puñña, ekacco sabyābajjhaṃ kāyasaṅkhāraṃ abhisāṅkharoti, sabyābajjhaṃ vacīsaṅkhāraṃ abhisāṅkharoti, sabyābajjhaṃ manosaṅkhāraṃ abhisāṅkharoti.

It's when someone makes hurtful choices by way of body, speech, and mind.

So sabyābajjhaṃ kāyasaṅkhāraṃ abhisāṅkharitvā, sabyābajjhaṃ vacīsaṅkhāraṃ abhisāṅkharitvā, sabyābajjhaṃ manosaṅkhāraṃ abhisāṅkharitvā, sabyābajjhaṃ lokaṃ upapajjati.

Having made these choices, they're reborn in a hurtful world,

Tameṇaṃ sabyābajjhaṃ lokaṃ upapannaṃ samānaṃ sabyābajjhā phassā phusanti.

where hurtful contacts touch them.

So sabyābajjhehi phassehi phuṭṭho samāno sabyābajjhaṃ vedanaṃ vedeti ekantadukkhaṃ, seyyathāpi sattā nerayikā.

Touched by hurtful contacts, they experience hurtful feelings that are exclusively painful—like the beings in hell.

Iti kho, puñña, bhūtā bhūtassa upapatti hoti;

This is how a being is born from a being.

yaṃ karoti tena upapajjati,

For your deeds determine your rebirth,

upapannameṇaṃ phassā phusanti.

and when you're reborn contacts affect you.

Evampāhaṃ, puñña, 'kammadāyādā sattā'ti vadāmi.

This is why I say that sentient beings are heirs to their deeds.

Idaṃ vuccati, puñña, kammaṃ kaṇhaṃ kaṇhavipākaṃ. (1)

These are called dark deeds with dark results.

Katamañca, puñña, kammaṃ sukkaṃ sukkavipākaṃ?

And what are bright deeds with bright results?

Idha, puṇṇa, ekacco abyābajjhaṃ kāyasaṅkhāraṃ abhisāṅkharoti, abyābajjhaṃ vacīsaṅkhāraṃ abhisāṅkharoti, abyābajjhaṃ manosaṅkhāraṃ abhisāṅkharoti.

It's when someone makes pleasing choices by way of body, speech, and mind.

So abyābajjhaṃ kāyasaṅkhāraṃ abhisāṅkharitvā, abyābajjhaṃ vacīsaṅkhāraṃ abhisāṅkharitvā, abyābajjhaṃ manosaṅkhāraṃ abhisāṅkharitvā abyābajjhaṃ lokaṃ upapajjati.

Having made these choices, they are reborn in a pleasing world,

Tamenaṃ abyābajjhaṃ lokaṃ upapannaṃ samānaṃ abyābajjhā phassā phusanti.

where pleasing contacts touch them.

So abyābajjhehi phassehi phuṭṭho samāno abyābajjhaṃ vedanaṃ vedeti ekantasukhaṃ, seyyathāpi devā subhakiṇhā.

Touched by pleasing contacts, they experience pleasing feelings that are exclusively happy—like the gods replete with glory.

Iti kho, puṇṇa, bhūtā bhūtassa upapatti hoti;

This is how a being is born from a being.

yaṃ karoti tena upapajjati,

For your deeds determine your rebirth,

upapannamenam phassā phusanti.

and when you're reborn contacts affect you.

Evampāhaṃ, puṇṇa, 'kammadāyādā sattā'ti vadāmi.

This is why I say that sentient beings are heirs to their deeds.

Idaṃ vuccati, puṇṇa, kammaṃ sukkaṃ sukkavipākaṃ. (2)

These are called bright deeds with bright results.

Katamañca, puṇṇa, kammaṃ kaṇhasukkaṃ kaṇhasukkavipākaṃ?

And what are dark and bright deeds with dark and bright results?

Idha, puṇṇa, ekacco sabyābajjhampi abyābajjhampi kāyasaṅkhāraṃ abhisaṅkharoti, sabyābajjhampi abyābajjhampi vacīsaṅkhāraṃ abhisaṅkharoti, sabyābajjhampi abyābajjhampi manosaṅkhāraṃ abhisaṅkharoti.

It's when someone makes both hurtful and pleasing choices by way of body, speech, and mind.

So sabyābajjhampi abyābajjhampi kāyasaṅkhāraṃ abhisaṅkharitvā, sabyābajjhampi abyābajjhampi vacīsaṅkhāraṃ abhisaṅkharitvā, sabyābajjhampi abyābajjhampi manosaṅkhāraṃ abhisaṅkharitvā sabyābajjhampi abyābajjhampi lokam upapajjati.

Having made these choices, they are reborn in a world that is both hurtful and pleasing,

Tamenam sabyābajjhampi abyābajjhampi lokam upapannam samānam sabyābajjhāpi abyābajjhāpi phassā phusanti.

where hurtful and pleasing contacts touch them.

So sabyābajjhehipi abyābajjhehipi phassehi phuṭṭho samāno sabyābajjhampi abyābajjhampi vedanam vedeti vokiṇṇasukhadukkham, seyyathāpi manussā ekacce ca devā ekacce ca vinipātikā.

Touched by both hurtful and pleasing contacts, they experience both hurtful and pleasing feelings that are a mixture of pleasure and pain—like humans, some gods, and some beings in the underworld.

Iti kho, puṇṇa, bhūtā bhūtassa upapatti hoti;

This is how a being is born from a being.

yam karoti tena upapajjati.

For what you do brings about your rebirth,

Upapannamenam phassā phusanti.

and when you're reborn contacts affect you.

Evampāham, puṇṇa, 'kammadāyādā sattā'ti vadāmi.

This is why I say that sentient beings are heirs to their deeds.

Idaṃ vuccati, puṇṇa, kammaṃ kaṇhasukkaṃ
kaṇhasukkavipākaṃ. (3)

These are called dark and bright deeds with dark and bright results.

Katamañca, puṇṇa, kammaṃ akaṇhaṃ asukkaṃ akaṇhaasukkavipākaṃ, kammakkhayāya saṃvattati?

And what are neither dark nor bright deeds with neither dark nor bright results, which lead to the ending of deeds?

Tatra, puṇṇa, yamidaṃ kammaṃ kaṇhaṃ kaṇhavipākaṃ tassa pahānāya yā cetanā, yamidaṃ kammaṃ sukkaṃ sukkavipākaṃ tassa pahānāya yā cetanā, yamidaṃ kammaṃ kaṇhasukkaṃ kaṇhasukkavipākaṃ tassa pahānāya yā cetanā—

It's the intention to give up dark deeds with dark results, bright deeds with bright results, and both dark and bright deeds with both dark and bright results.

idaṃ vuccati, puṇṇa, kammaṃ akaṇhaṃ asukkaṃ akaṇhaasukkavipākaṃ, kammakkhayāya saṃvattatīti.

These are called neither dark nor bright deeds with neither dark nor bright results, which lead to the ending of deeds.

Imāni kho, puṇṇa, cattāri kammāni mayā sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā paveditānī”ti. (4)

These are the four kinds of deeds that I declare, having realized them with my own insight.”

Evaṃ vutte, puṇṇo koliyaputto govatiko bhagavantam
etadavoca:

When he had spoken, Puṇṇa Koliyaputta the observer of cow behavior said to the Buddha, “abhikkantaṃ, bhante, abhikkantaṃ, bhante.

“Excellent, sir! Excellent! ...

Seyyathāpi, bhante ...pe...

upāsakaṃ maṃ bhagavā dhāretu ajjatagge pāṇupetaṃ saraṇaṃ gataṃ”ti.

From this day forth, may the Buddha remember me as a lay follower who has gone for refuge for life.”

Acelo pana seniyo kukkuravatiko bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

And Seniya the naked dog ascetic said to the Buddha,

“abhikkantaṃ, bhante, abhikkantaṃ, bhante.

“Excellent, sir! Excellent! ...

Seyyathāpi, bhante ...pe... pakāsito.

Esāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavantaṃ saraṇaṃ gacchāmi dhammañca bhikkhusaṅghaṃ.

I go for refuge to the Buddha, to the teaching, and to the mendicant Saṅgha.

Labheyāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato santike pabbajjaṃ, labheyyaṃ upasampadaṃ”ti.

Sir, may I receive the going forth, the ordination in the Buddha’s presence?”

“Yo kho, seniya, aññatitthiyapubbo imasmiṃ dhammavinaye ākaṅkhati pabbajjaṃ, ākaṅkhati upasampadaṃ so cattāro māse parivasati. Catunnaṃ māsānaṃ accayena āraddhacittā bhikkhū pabbājenti, upasampādentī bhikkhubhāvāya.

“Seniya, if someone formerly ordained in another sect wishes to take the going forth, the ordination in this teaching and training, they must spend four months on probation. When four months have passed, if the mendicants are satisfied, they’ll give the going forth, the ordination into monkhood.

Api ca mettha puggalavemattatā veditā”ti.

However, I have recognized individual differences in this matter.”

“Sace, bhante, aññatitthiyapubbā imasmiṃ dhammavinaye ākaṅkantaṃ pabbajjaṃ ākaṅkantaṃ upasampadaṃ te cattāro māse parivasanti catunnaṃ māsānaṃ accayena āraddhacittā bhikkhū pabbājenti upasampādentī bhikkhubhāvāya, ahaṃ cattāri vassāni parivasissāmi catunnaṃ vassānaṃ accayena āraddhacittā bhikkhū pabbājentu, upasampādentu bhikkhubhāvāyā”ti.

“Sir, if four months probation are required in such a case, I’ll spend four years on probation. When four years have passed, if the mendicants are satisfied, let them give me the going forth, the ordination into monkhood.”

Alattha kho acelo seniyo kukkuravatiko bhagavato santike pabbajjaṃ, alattha upasampadaṃ.

And the naked dog ascetic Seniya received the going forth, the ordination in the Buddha’s presence.

Acirūpasampanno kho panāyasmā seniyo eko vūpakaṭṭho appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, Tadanuttaraṃ—brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihāsi.

Not long after his ordination, Venerable Seniya, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā”ti abbhaññāsi.

He understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

Aññataro kho panāyasmā seniyo arahataṃ ahoṣīti.

And Venerable Seniya became one of the perfected.

Kukkuravatikasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ sattamaṃ.

58. Abhayarājakumārasutta With Prince Abhaya

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava rājagahe viharati veļuvane
kalandakanivāpe.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Atha kho abhaya rājakumāro yena nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā nigaṇṭham nāṭaputtam abhivādetvā ekamantam nisīdi. Ekamantam nisinnam kho abhayam rājakumāram nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto etadavoca:

Then Prince Abhaya went up to Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta, bowed, and sat down to one side. Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta said to him, “ehi tvam, rājakumāra, samaṇassa gotamassa vādam āropehi.

“Come, prince, refute the ascetic Gotama's doctrine.

Evam te kalyāṇo kittisaddo abhuggacchissati:

Then you will get a good reputation:

‘abhayena rājakumārena samaṇassa gotamassa evam mahiddhikassa evam mahānubhāvassa vādo āropito’”ti.

‘Prince Abhaya refuted the doctrine of the ascetic Gotama, so mighty and powerful!’”

“Yathā katham panāham, bhante, samaṇassa gotamassa evam mahiddhikassa evam mahānubhāvassa vādam āropessāmī”ti?

“But sir, how am I to do this?”

“Ehi tvaṃ, rājakumāra, yena samaṇo gotamo tenupasaṅkama; upasaṅkamtivā samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ evaṃ vadehi:

“Here, prince, go to the ascetic Gotama and say to him:

‘bhāseyya nu kho, bhante, tathāgato taṃ vācaṃ yā sā vācā paresaṃ appiyā amanāpā’ti?

‘Sir, might the Realized One utter speech that is disliked by others?’

Sace te samaṇo gotamo evaṃ puṭṭho evaṃ byākaroti:

When he’s asked this, if he answers:

‘bhāseyya, rājakumāra, tathāgato taṃ vācaṃ yā sā vācā paresaṃ appiyā amanāpā’ti, tamenāṃ tvaṃ evaṃ vadeyyāsi:

‘He might, prince,’ say this to him,

‘atha kiñcaraḥi te, bhante, puthujjanena nānākaraṇaṃ?

‘Then, sir, what exactly is the difference between you and an ordinary person?’

Puthujjanopi hi taṃ vācaṃ bhāseyya yā sā vācā paresaṃ appiyā amanāpā’ti.

For even an ordinary person might utter speech that is disliked by others.’

Sace pana te samaṇo gotamo evaṃ puṭṭho evaṃ byākaroti:

But if he answers,

‘na, rājakumāra, tathāgato taṃ vācaṃ bhāseyya yā sā vācā paresaṃ appiyā amanāpā’ti, tamenāṃ tvaṃ evaṃ vadeyyāsi:

‘He would not, prince,’ say this to him:

‘atha kiñcaraḥi te, bhante, devadatto byākato:

‘Then, sir, why exactly did you declare of Devadatta:

“āpāyiko devadatto, nerayiko devadatto, kappatṭho devadatto, atekiccho devadatto”ti?

“Devadatta is going to a place of loss, to hell, there to remain for an eon, irredeemable”?

Tāya ca pana te vācāya devadatto kupito ahosi anattamano'ti.
Devadatta was angry and upset with what you said.'

Imaṃ kho te, rājakumāra, samaṇo gotamo ubhatokoṭikaṃ pañhaṃ puṭṭho samāno neva sakkhiti uggilituṃ na sakkhiti ogilituṃ.

When you put this dilemma to him, the Buddha won't be able to either spit it out or swallow it down.

Seyyathāpi nāma purisassa ayosiṅghāṭakaṃ kaṇṭhe vilaggaṃ, so neva sakuṇeyya uggilituṃ na sakuṇeyya ogilituṃ;

He'll be like a man with an iron cross stuck in his throat, unable to either spit it out or swallow it down."

evameva kho te, rājakumāra, samaṇo gotamo imaṃ ubhatokoṭikaṃ pañhaṃ puṭṭho samāno neva sakkhiti uggilituṃ na sakkhiti ogilituṃ'ti.

"Evaṃ, bhante'ti kho abhayo rājakumāro nigaṇṭhassa nāṭaputtassa paṭissutvā uṭṭhāyāsanā nigaṇṭhaṃ nāṭaputtaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

"Yes, sir," replied Abhaya. He got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta, keeping him on his right. Then he went to the Buddha, bowed, and sat down to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinnassa kho abhayassa rājakumārassa sūriyaṃ ulloketvā etadahosi:

Then he looked up at the sun and thought,

"akālo kho ajja bhagavato vādaṃ āropetuṃ.

"It's too late to refute the Buddha's doctrine today.

Sve dānāhaṃ sake nivesane bhagavato vādaṃ āropessāmi'ti bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

I shall refute his doctrine in my own home tomorrow." He said to the Buddha, “adhivāsetu me, bhante, bhagavā svātanāya attacattuttho bhattan”ti.

“Sir, may the Buddha please accept tomorrow’s meal from me, together with three other monks.”

Adhivāsesi bhagavā tuṅhībhāvena.

The Buddha consented in silence.

Atha kho abhayo rājakumāro bhagavato adhivāsanam veditvā uṭṭhāyāsanā bhagavantam abhivādetvā padakkhiṇam katvā pakkāmi.

Then, knowing that the Buddha had consented, Abhaya got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before leaving.

Atha kho bhagavā tassā rattiyā accayena pubbaṅhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya yena abhayassa rājakumārassa nivesanam tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamitvā paññatte āsane nisīdi.

Then when the night had passed, the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, went to Abhaya’s home, and sat down on the seat spread out.

Atha kho abhayo rājakumāro bhagavantam paṇītena khādanīyena bhojanīyena sahatthā santappesi sampavāresi.

Then Abhaya served and satisfied the Buddha with his own hands with a variety of delicious foods.

Atha kho abhayo rājakumāro bhagavantam bhuttāvim onītapattapāṇim aññataram nīcam āsanam gahetvā ekamantam nisīdi.

When the Buddha had eaten and washed his hand and bowl, Abhaya took a low seat, sat to one side,

Ekamantam nisinno kho abhayo rājakumāro bhagavantam etadavoca:

and said to him,

“bhāseyya nu kho, bhante, tathāgato taṃ vācaṃ yā sā vācā paresaṃ appiyā amanāpā”ti?

“Sir, might the Realized One utter speech that is disliked by others?”

“Na khvettha, rājakumāra, ekaṃsenā”ti.

“This is no simple matter, prince.”

“Ettha, bhante, anassaṃ nigaṇṭhā”ti.

“Then the Jains have lost in this, sir.”

“Kiṃ pana tvaṃ, rājakumāra, evaṃ vadesi:

“But prince, why do you say that the Jains have lost in this?”

‘ettha, bhante, anassaṃ nigaṇṭhā’”ti?

“Idhāhaṃ, bhante, yena nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto tenupasaṅkama; upasaṅkamitvā nigaṇṭhaṃ nāṭaputtaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdiṃ. Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho maṃ, bhante, nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto etadavoca:

Then Abhaya told the Buddha all that had happened.

‘ehi tvaṃ, rājakumāra, samaṇassa gotamassa vādaṃ āropehi.

Evaṃ te kalyāṇo kittisaddo abbhuggacchissati—

abhayena rājakumārena samaṇassa gotamassa evaṃ mahiddhikassa evaṃ mahānubhāvassa vādo āropito’ti.

Evaṃ vutte, ahaṃ, bhante, nigaṇṭhaṃ nāṭaputtaṃ etadavocaṃ:

‘yathā kathaṃ panāhaṃ, bhante, samaṇassa gotamassa evaṃ mahiddhikassa evaṃ mahānubhāvassa vādaṃ āropessāmi’ti?

‘Ehi tvaṃ, rājakumāra, yena samaṇo gotamo tenupasaṅkama; upasaṅkamitvā samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ evaṃ vadehi:

“bhāseyya nu kho, bhante, tathāgato taṃ vācaṃ yā sā vācā paresaṃ appiyā amanāpā”ti?

Sace te samaṇo gotamo evaṃ puṭṭho evaṃ byākaroti:

“bhāseyya, rājakumāra, tathāgato taṃ vācaṃ yā sā vācā paresaṃ appiyā amanāpā”ti, tamenam tvaṃ evaṃ vadeyyāsi:

“atha kiñcarahi te, bhante, puthujjanena nānākaraṇaṃ?

Puthujjanopi hi taṃ vācaṃ bhāseyya yā sā vācā paresaṃ appiyā amanāpā”ti.

Sace pana te samaṇo gotamo evaṃ puṭṭho evaṃ byākaroti:

“na, rājakumāra, tathāgato taṃ vācaṃ bhāseyya yā sā vācā paresaṃ appiyā amanāpā”ti, tamenam tvaṃ evaṃ vadeyyāsi—atha kiñcarahi te, bhante, devadatto byākato:

“āpāyiko devadatto, nerayiko devadatto, kappaṭṭho devadatto, atekiccho devadatto”ti?

Tāya ca pana te vācāya devadatto kupito ahosi anattamano’ti.

Imaṃ kho te, rājakumāra, samaṇo gotamo ubhatokoṭikaṃ pañhaṃ puṭṭho samāno neva sakkhiti uggilituṃ na sakkhiti ogilituṃ.

Seyyathāpi nāma purisassa ayosiṅghāṭakaṃ kaṇṭhe vilaggaṃ, so neva sakkuṇeyya uggilituṃ na sakkuṇeyya ogilituṃ;

evameva kho te, rājakumāra, samaṇo gotamo imaṃ ubhatokoṭikaṃ pañhaṃ puṭṭho samāno neva sakkhiti uggilituṃ na sakkhiti ogilituṃ”ti.

Tena kho pana samayena daharo kumāro mando uttānaseyyako abhayassa rājakumārassa aṅke nisinno hoti.

Now at that time a little baby boy was sitting in Prince Abhaya’s lap.

Atha kho bhagavā abhayaṃ rājakumāraṃ etadavoca:

Then the Buddha said to Abhaya,

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, rājakumāra,

“What do you think, prince?

sacāyaṃ kumāro tuyhaṃ vā pamādamanvāya dhātiyā vā pamādamanvāya kaṭṭhaṃ vā kaṭhalaṃ vā mukhe āhareyya, kinti

If—because of your negligence or his nurse’s negligence—your boy was to put a stick or stone in his mouth, what would you do to him?”

“Āhareyyassāhaṃ, bhante.

“I’d try to take it out, sir.

Sace, bhante, na sakuṇeyyaṃ ādikeneva āhattuṃ, vāmena

If that didn’t work, I’d hold his head with my left hand, and take it out using a hooked finger of my right hand, even if it drew blood.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Atthi me, bhante, kumāre anukampā”ti.

Because I have compassion for the boy, sir.”

“Evameva kho, rājakumāra, yaṃ tathāgato vācaṃ jānāti

“In the same way, prince, the Realized One does not utter speech that he knows to be untrue, false, and harmful, and which is disliked by others.

Yampi tathāgato vācaṃ jānāti bhūtaṃ tacchaṃ

The Realized One does not utter speech that he knows to be true and substantive, but which is harmful and disliked by others.

Yañca kho tathāgato vācaṃ jānāti bhūtaṃ tacchaṃ

The Realized One knows the right time to speak so as to explain what he knows to be true, substantive, and beneficial, but which is disliked by others.

Yaṃ tathāgato vācaṃ jānāti abhūtaṃ atacchaṃ anattasaṃhitaṃ sā ca paresaṃ piyā manāpā, na taṃ tathāgato

The Realized One does not utter speech that he knows to be untrue, false, and harmful, but which is liked by others.

Yampi tathāgato vācaṃ jānāti bhūtaṃ tacchaṃ anattasaṃhitaṃ sā ca paresaṃ piyā manāpā tampi tathāgato

The Realized One does not utter speech that he knows to be true and substantive, but which is harmful, even if it is liked by others.

Yañca tathāgato vācaṃ jānāti bhūtaṃ tacchaṃ attasaṃhitaṃ

The Realized One knows the right time to speak so as to explain what he knows to be true, substantive, and beneficial, and which is liked by others.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Atthi, rājakumāra, tathāgatassa sattesu anukampā”ti.

Because the Realized One has compassion for sentient beings.”

“Yeme, bhante, khattiyapaṇḍitāpi brāhmaṇapaṇḍitāpi

Are you skilled in the various parts of a chariot?"

“Evaṃ, bhante, kusalo ahaṃ rathassa aṅgapaccaṅgānaṃ”ti.

“I am, sir.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, rājakumāra,

“What do you think, prince?

“Ahañhi, bhante, rathiko saññāto kusalo rathassa aṅgapaccaṅgaṃ.

“Sir, I'm well-known as a charioteer skilled in a chariot's parts.

Sabbāni me rathassa aṅgapaccaṅgāni suviditāni.

All the parts are well-known to me.

Ṭhānasovetaṃ maṃ paṭibhāseyyā”ti.

The answer just appears to me on the spot.”

“Evameva kho, rājakumāra, ye te khattiyapaṇḍitāpi

“In the same way, when clever aristocrats, brahmins, householders, or ascetics come to see me with a question already planned, the answer just appears to me on the spot.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Sā hi, rājakumāra, tathāgatassa dhammadhātu suppaṭividdhā yassā dhammadhātuyā suppaṭividdhattā ṭhānasovetaṃ

Because the Realized One has clearly comprehended the principle of the teachings, so that the answer just appears to him on the spot.”

Evaṃ vutte, abhaya rājakumāro bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, Prince Abhaya said to the Buddha, “abhikkantaṃ, bhante, abhikkantaṃ, bhante ...pe...

“Excellent, sir! Excellent! ...

ajjatagge pāṇupetaṃ saraṇaṃ gataṃ”ti.

From this day forth, may Master Gotama remember me as a lay follower who has gone for refuge for life.”

Abhaya rājakumārasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ aṭṭhamaṃ.

59. Bahuvedanīyasutta The Many Kinds of Feeling

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava sāvattiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta’s Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Atha kho pañcakaṅgo thapati yenāyasmā udāyī tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ udāyīm abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho pañcakaṅgo thapati āyasmantaṃ udāyīm etadavoca:

Then the master builder Pañcakaṅga went up to Venerable Udāyī, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him,

“kati nu kho, bhante udāyi, vedanā vuttā bhagavatā”ti?

“Sir, how many feelings has the Buddha spoken of?”

“Tisso kho, thapati, vedanā vuttā bhagavatā.

“Master builder, the Buddha has spoken of three feelings:

Sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā, adukkhamasukhā vedanā—
pleasant, painful, and neutral.

imā kho, thapati, tisso vedanā vuttā bhagavatā”ti.

The Buddha has spoken of these three feelings.”

Evam vutte, pañcakaṅgo thapati āyasmantaṃ udāyīṃ etadavoca:

When he said this, Pañcakaṅga said to Udāyī,

“na kho, bhante udāyī, tisso vedanā vuttā bhagavatā;
“Sir, Udāyī, the Buddha hasn’t spoken of three feelings.

dve vedanā vuttā bhagavatā—

He’s spoken of two feelings:

sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā.

pleasant and painful.

Yāyaṃ, bhante, adukkhamasukhā vedanā santasmim̐ esā paṇīte sukhe vuttā bhagavatā”ti.

The Buddha said that neutral feeling is included as a peaceful and subtle kind of pleasure.”

Dutiyampi kho āyasmā udāyī pañcakaṅgaṃ thapatim̐ etadavoca:

For a second time, Udāyī said to Pañcakaṅga,

“na kho, gahapati, dve vedanā vuttā bhagavatā;

“The Buddha hasn’t spoken of two feelings,

tisso vedanā vuttā bhagavatā.

he’s spoken of three.”

Sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā, adukkhamasukhā vedanā—

imā kho, thapati, tisso vedanā vuttā bhagavatā”ti.

Dutiyampi kho pañcakaṅgo thapati āyasmantaṃ udāyīṃ etadavoca:

For a second time, Pañcakaṅga said to Udāyī,

“na kho, bhante udāyī, tisso vedanā vuttā bhagavatā;

“The Buddha hasn’t spoken of three feelings,

dve vedanā vuttā bhagavatā—

he’s spoken of two.”

sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā.

Yāyaṃ, bhante, adukkhamasukhā vedanā santasmim̐ esā paṇīte sukhe vuttā bhagavatā”ti.

Tatiyampi kho āyasmā udāyī pañcakaṅgaṃ thapatim̐ etadavoca:
And for a third time, Udāyī said to Pañcakaṅga,

“na kho, thapati, dve vedanā vuttā bhagavatā;

“The Buddha hasn’t spoken of two feelings,

tisso vedanā vuttā bhagavatā.

he’s spoken of three.”

Sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā, adukkhamasukhā vedanā—

imā kho, thapati, tisso vedanā vuttā bhagavatā”ti.

Tatiyampi kho pañcakaṅgo thapati āyasmantaṃ udāyim̐
etadavoca:

And for a third time, Pañcakaṅga said to Udāyī,

“na kho, bhante udāyi, tisso vedanā vuttā bhagavatā,

“The Buddha hasn’t spoken of three feelings,

dve vedanā vuttā bhagavatā—

he’s spoken of two.”

sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā.

Yāyaṃ, bhante, adukkhamasukhā vedanā santasmim̐ esā paṇīte
sukhe vuttā bhagavatā”ti.

Neva kho sakkhi āyasmā udāyī pañcakaṅgaṃ thapatim̐ saññāpetuṃ, na panāsakkhi pañcakaṅgo thapati āyasmantaṃ udāyim̐ saññāpetuṃ.

But neither was able to persuade the other.

Assosi kho āyasmā ānando āyasmato udāyissa pañcakaṅgena thapatinā saddhim̐ imaṃ kathāsallāpaṃ.

Venerable Ānanda heard this discussion between Udāyī and Pañcakaṅga.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam̐ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

Then he went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side,

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā ānando yāvatako ahosi āyasmato udāyissa pañcakaṅgena thapatinā saddhiṃ kathāsallāpo taṃ sabbaṃ bhagavato ārocesi.

and informed the Buddha of all they had discussed.

Evaṃ vutte, bhagavā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, the Buddha said to him:

“santaññeva kho, ānanda, pariyāyaṃ pañcakaṅgo thapati udāyissa nābbhanumodi, santaññeva ca pana pariyāyaṃ udāyī pañcakaṅgassa thapatissa nābbhanumodi.

“Ānanda, the explanation by the mendicant Udāyī, which the master builder Pañcakaṅga didn’t agree with, was quite correct. But the explanation by Pañcakaṅga, which Udāyī didn’t agree with, was also quite correct.

Dvepānanda, vedanā vuttā mayā pariyāyena, tissopi vedanā vuttā mayā pariyāyena, pañcapi vedanā vuttā mayā pariyāyena, chapi vedanā vuttā mayā pariyāyena, aṭṭhārasapi vedanā vuttā mayā pariyāyena, chattimsapi vedanā vuttā mayā pariyāyena, aṭṭhasatampi vedanā vuttā mayā pariyāyena.

In one explanation I’ve spoken of two feelings. In another explanation I’ve spoken of three feelings, or five, six, eighteen, thirty-six, or a hundred and eight feelings.

Evaṃ pariyāyadesito kho, ānanda, mayā dhammo.

I’ve explained the teaching in all these different ways.

Evaṃ pariyāyadesite kho, ānanda, mayā dhamme ye aññamaññassa subhāsitaṃ sulapitaṃ na samanujānissanti na samanumaññissanti na samanumodissanti tesametaṃ pāṭikaṅkhaṃ—bhaṇḍana-jātā kalahajātā vivādāpannā aññamaññaṃ mukhasattīhi vitudantā viharissanti.

This being so, you can expect that those who don't concede, approve, or agree with what has been well spoken will argue, quarrel, and fight, continually wounding each other with barbed words.

Evaṃ pariyāyadesito kho, ānanda, mayā dhammo.

I've explained the teaching in all these different ways.

Evaṃ pariyāyadesite kho, ānanda, mayā dhamme ye aññamañña-sabhāsitaṃ sulapitaṃ samanujānissanti samanumaññissanti samanumodissanti tesametaṃ pāṭikaṅkhaṃ—samaggā sammodamānā avivadamānā khīrodakībhūtā aññamaññaṃ piyacakkhūhi sampassantā viharissanti.

This being so, you can expect that those who do concede, approve, or agree with what has been well spoken will live in harmony, appreciating each other, without quarreling, blending like milk and water, and regarding each other with kindly eyes.

Pañca kho ime, ānanda, kāmaguṇā.

There are these five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Katame pañca?

What five?

Cakkhaviññeyyā rūpā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā kāmapasaṃhitā rajanīyā,

Sights known by the eye that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

sotaviññeyyā saddā ...pe...

Sounds known by the ear ...

ghānaviññeyyā gandhā ...pe...

Smells known by the nose ...

jivhāviññeyyā rasā ...pe...

Tastes known by the tongue ...

kāyaviññeyyā phoṭṭhabbā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā
kāmūpasamhitā rajanīyā—

Touches known by the body that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

ime kho, ānanda, pañca kāmaguṇā.

These are the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Yaṃ kho, ānanda, ime pañca kāmaguṇe paṭicca uppajjati sukhaṃ somanassaṃ idaṃ vuccati kāmasukhaṃ.

The pleasure and happiness that arise from these five kinds of sensual stimulation is called sensual pleasure.

Yo kho, ānanda, evaṃ vadeyya: ‘etaparamaṃ sattā sukhaṃ somanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedentī’ti, idamassa nānujānāmi.

‘The ascetic Gotama spoke of the cessation of perception and feeling, and he includes it in happiness.

Tayidaṃ kiṃsu, tayidaṃ kathaṃsū’ti?

What's up with that?’

Evaṃvādino, ānanda, aññatitthiyā paribbājakā evamassu vacanīyā:

When wanderers who follow other paths say this, you should say to them,

‘na kho, āvuso, bhagavā sukhaṃyeva vedanaṃ sandhāya sukhasmiṃ paññapeti;

‘Reverends, when the Buddha describes what's included in happiness, he's not just referring to pleasant feeling.

api ca, āvuso, yattha yattha sukhaṃ upalabbhati ya hiṃ ya hiṃ taṃ taṃ tathāgato sukhasmiṃ paññapeti””ti.

The Realized One describes pleasure as included in happiness wherever it's found, and in whatever context.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

60. Apaṇṇakasutta Guaranteed

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava kosalesu carikam caramano mahata
bhikkhusanghena saddhim yena salā nama kosalanam
brahmanagamō tadavasari.

At one time the Buddha was wandering in the land of the Kosalans together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants when he arrived at a village of the Kosalan brahmins named Sālā.

Assosum kho saleyyakā brahmanagahapatikā:

The brahmins and householders of Sālā heard:

“samaṇo khalu bho gotamo sakyaputto sakyakulā pabbajito kosalesu carikam caramano mahata bhikkhusanghena saddhim
salam anuppatto.

“It seems the ascetic Gotama—a Sakyan, gone forth from a Sakyan family—wandering in the land of the Kosalans has arrived at Sālā, together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants.

Tam kho pana bhavantam gotamam evam kalyāṇo kittisaddo
abhuggato:

He has this good reputation:

‘itipi so bhagava araham sammāsambuddho
vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro

purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānaṃ buddho bhagavā'ti.

‘That Blessed One is perfected, a fully awakened Buddha, accomplished in knowledge and conduct, holy, knower of the world, supreme guide for those who wish to train, teacher of gods and humans, awakened, blessed.’

So imaṃ lokam sadevakaṃ samāraṃ sabrahmaṃ sassamaṇabrāhmaṇiṃ pajam sadevamanussaṃ sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā pavedeti.

He has realized with his own insight this world—with its gods, Māras and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, gods and humans—and he makes it known to others.

So dhammaṃ deseti ādikalyāṇaṃ majjhekalyāṇaṃ pariyosānakalyāṇaṃ sātthaṃ sabyañjanaṃ, kevalaparipuṇṇaṃ parisuddhaṃ brahmacariyaṃ pakāseti.

He teaches Dhamma that’s good in the beginning, good in the middle, and good in the end, meaningful and well-phrased. And he reveals a spiritual practice that’s entirely full and pure.

Sādhū kho pana tathārūpānaṃ arahataṃ dassanaṃ hoti”ti.
It’s good to see such perfected ones.”

Atha kho sāleyyakā brāhmaṇagahapatikā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā appekacce bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu. Appekacce bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodimsu; sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ saraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu. Appekacce yena bhagavā tenañjalim paṇāmetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu. Then the brahmins and householders of Sālā went up to the Buddha. Before sitting down to one side, some bowed, some exchanged greetings and polite conversation, some held up their joined palms toward the Buddha, some announced their name and clan, while some kept silent. The Buddha said to them:

“atthi pana vo, gahapatayo, koci manāpo satthā yasmim̃ vo ākāravatī saddhā paṭiladdhā”ti?

“So, householders, is there some other teacher you’re happy with, in whom you have acquired grounded faith?”

“Natthi kho no, bhante, koci manāpo satthā yasmim̃ no ākāravatī saddhā paṭiladdhā”ti.

“No, sir.”

“Manāpaṃ vo, gahapatayo, satthāraṃ alabhantehi ayaṃ apaṇṇako dhammo samādāya vattitabbo.

“Since you haven’t found a teacher you’re happy with, you should undertake and implement this guaranteed teaching.

Apaṇṇako hi, gahapatayo, dhammo samatto samādinno, so vo bhavissati dīgharattaṃ hitāya sukhāya.

For when the guaranteed teaching is undertaken, it will be for your lasting welfare and happiness.

Katamo ca, gahapatayo, apaṇṇako dhammo?

And what is the guaranteed teaching?

Santi, gahapatayo, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā evaṃvādino evaṃdiṭṭhino:

There are some ascetics and brahmins who have this doctrine and view:

‘natthi dinnam̃, natthi yiṭṭham̃, natthi hutam̃; natthi sukatadukkaṭānam̃ kammānam̃ phalam̃ vipāko, natthi ayaṃ loko, natthi paro loko; natthi mātā, natthi pitā; natthi sattā opapātikā; natthi loke samaṇabrāhmaṇā sammaggatā sammā paṭipannā ye imaṅca lokam̃ paraṅca lokam̃ sayam̃ abhiññā sacchikatvā pavedentī’ti.

Tesaṃyeva kho, gahapatayo, samaṇabrāhmaṇānaṃ eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā ujuvipaccanīkavādā.

And there are some ascetics and brahmins whose doctrine directly contradicts this.

Te evamaṃsu:

They say:

‘atthi dinnam, atthi yiṭṭham, atthi hutam; atthi sukatadukkaṭānaṃ kammānaṃ phalaṃ vipāko; atthi ayam loko, atthi paro loko; atthi mātā, atthi pitā; atthi sattā opapātikā; atthi loke samaṇabrāhmaṇā sammaggatā sammā paṭipannā ye imaṅca lokam paraṅca lokam sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā pavedentī’ti.

‘There is meaning in giving, sacrifice, and offerings. There are fruits and results of good and bad deeds. There is an afterlife. There is obligation to mother and father. There are beings reborn spontaneously. And there are ascetics and brahmins who are well attained and practiced, and who describe the afterlife after realizing it with their own insight.’

Tam kim maññatha, gahapatayo:

What do you think, householders?

‘nanume samaṇabrāhmaṇā aññamaññassa ujuvipaccanīkavādā’”ti?

Don’t these doctrines directly contradict each other?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Tatra, gahapatayo, ye te samaṇabrāhmaṇā evaṃvādinō evaṃdiṭṭhino:

“Since this is so, consider those ascetics and brahmins whose view is that ‘natthi dinnam, natthi yiṭṭham ...pe... ye imaṅca lokam paraṅca lokam sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā pavedentī’ti there’s no meaning in giving, etc.

tesametaṃ pāṭikaṅkham—yamidaṃ kāyasucaritaṃ, vacīsucaritaṃ, manosucaritaṃ—ime tayo kusale dhamme abhinivajjetvā yamidaṃ kāyaduccaritaṃ, vacīduccaritaṃ, manoduccaritaṃ—ime tayo akusale dhamme samādāya vattissanti.

You can expect that they will reject good conduct by way of body, speech, and mind, and undertake and implement bad conduct by way of body, speech, and mind.

Tam kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Na hi te bhonto samaṇabrāhmaṇā passanti akusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ ādīnaṃ okāraṃ saṅkilesaṃ, kusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ nekkhamme ānisaṃsaṃ vodānapakkham.

Because those ascetics and brahmins don’t see that unskillful qualities are full of drawbacks, sordidness, and corruption, or that skillful qualities have the benefit and cleansing power of renunciation.

Santaṃyeva pana paraṃ lokam ‘natthi paro loko’ tissa diṭṭhi hoti; sāssa hoti micchādiṭṭhi.

Moreover, since there actually is another world, their view that there is no other world is wrong view.

Santaṃyeva kho pana paraṃ lokam ‘natthi paro loko’ti saṅkappeti; svāssa hoti micchāsaṅkappo.

Since there actually is another world, their thought that there is no other world is wrong thought.

Santaṃyeva kho pana paraṃ lokam ‘natthi paro loko’ti vācam bhāsati; sāssa hoti micchāvācā.

Since there actually is another world, their speech that there is no other world is wrong speech.

Santaṃyeva kho pana paraṃ lokam ‘natthi paro loko’ti āha; ye te arahanto paralokaviduno tesamayaṃ paccanīkam karoti.

Since there actually is another world, in saying that there is no other world they contradict those perfected ones who know the other world.

Santaṃyeva kho pana paraṃ lokam ‘natthi paro loko’ti paraṃ saññāpeti; sāssa hoti asaddhammasaññatti.

Since there actually is another world, in convincing another that there is no other world they are convincing them to accept an untrue teaching.

Tāya ca pana asaddhammasaññattiyā attānukkamseti, paraṃ vambheti.

And on account of that they glorify themselves and put others down.

Iti pubbeva kho panassa susīlyam pahīnam hoti, dussīlyam paccupaṭṭhitam—yañca diṭṭheva dhamme viññūnaṃ gārayho, yañca kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā apāyaṃ duggatiṃ vinipātaṃ nirayaṃ upapajjissati.

For they are criticized by sensible people in the present life, and when their body breaks up, after death, they will be reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell.

Evamassāyaṃ apaṇṇako dhammo dussamatto samādinno, ekaṃsaṃ pharivā tiṭṭhati, riñcati kusalaṃ ṭhānaṃ.

Now, owing to form, bad things are seen: taking up the rod and the sword, quarrels, arguments, and fights, accusations, divisive speech, and lies.

‘Natthi kho panetaṃ sabbaso arūpe’ti.

But those things don’t exist where it is totally formless.’

So iti paṭisaṅkhāya rūpānaṃyeva nibbidāya virāgāya nirodhāya

Cattārome, gahapatayo, puggalā santo saṃvijjamānā lokasmiṃ.
Householders, these four people are found in the world.

Katame cattāro?

What four?

1. Idha, gahapatayo, ekacco puggalo attantapo hoti attaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto. One person mortifies themselves, committed to the practice of mortifying themselves.
2. Idha, gahapatayo, ekacco puggalo parantapo hoti paraparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto. One person mortifies others, committed to the practice of mortifying others.
3. Idha, gahapatayo, ekacco puggalo attantapo ca hoti attaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto parantapo ca paraparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto. One person mortifies themselves and others, committed to the practice of mortifying themselves and others.
4. Idha, gahapatayo, ekacco puggalo nevattantapo hoti nāttaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto na parantapo na paraparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto; One person doesn't mortify either themselves or others, committed to the practice of not mortifying themselves or others. so anattantapo aparantapo diṭṭheva dhamme nicchāto nibbuto sītībhūto sukhappaṭisaṃvedī brahmabhūtena attanā viharati. They live without wishes in the present life, extinguished, cooled, experiencing bliss, having become holy in themselves.

Katamo ca, gahapatayo, puggalo attantapo attaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto?

And what person mortifies themselves, committed to the practice of mortifying themselves?

Idha, gahapatayo, ekacco puggalo acelako hoti muttācāro

It's when someone goes naked, ignoring conventions. ...

And so they live committed to practicing these various ways of mortifying and tormenting the body.

Ayaṃ vuccati, gahapatayo, puggalo attantapo

This is called a person who mortifies themselves, being committed to the practice of mortifying themselves.

Katamo ca, gahapatayo, puggalo parantapo

When their mind has become immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—they extend it toward knowledge of the death and rebirth of sentient beings.

So dibbena cakkhunā visuddhena atikkantamānusakena satte passati cavamāne upapajjamāne hīne paṇīte suvaṇṇe dubbaṇṇe, sugate duggate ...pe... yathākammūpage satte pajānāti.

With clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, they see sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. ... They understand how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe vigatūpakkilese mudubhūte kammaniye ṭhite āneñjappatte āsavānaṃ khayañāṇāya cittaṃ abhininnāmeti.

When their mind has become immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—they extend it toward knowledge of the ending of defilements.

So ‘idaṃ dukkhaṇ’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti ...pe...

They truly understand: ‘This is suffering’ ... ‘This is the origin of suffering’ ... ‘This is the cessation of suffering’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering’.

‘ayaṃ āsavanirodhagāminī paṭipadā’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti.

They truly understand: ‘These are defilements’ ... ‘This is the origin of defilements’ ... ‘This is the cessation of defilements’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of defilements’.

Tassa evaṃ jānato evaṃ passato kāmāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccati, bhavāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccati, avijjāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccati.

Knowing and seeing like this, their mind is freed from the defilements of sensuality, desire to be reborn, and ignorance.

Vimuttasmiṃ vimuttamiti ñāṇaṃ hoti.

When they’re freed, they know they’re freed.

‘Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā’ti pajānāti.

They understand: ‘Rebirth is ended, the spiritual journey has been completed, what had to be done has been done, there is no return to any state of existence.’

Ayaṃ vuccati, gahapatayo, puggalo nevattantapo nāttaparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto na parantapo na paraparitāpanānuyogamanuyutto;

They live without wishes in the present life, extinguished, cooled, experiencing bliss, having become holy in themselves.”

Evaṃ vutte, sāleyyakā brāhmaṇagahapatikā bhagavantam etadavocuṃ:

When he had spoken, the brahmins and householders of Sālā said to the Buddha, “abhikkantaṃ, bho gotama, abhikkantaṃ, bho gotama.

As if he were righting the overturned, or revealing the hidden, or pointing out the path to the lost, or lighting a lamp in the dark so people with good eyes can see what’s there, Master Gotama has made the teaching clear in many ways.

Ete mayaṃ bhavaṃtaṃ gotamaṃ saraṇaṃ gacchāma

From this day forth, may Master Gotama remember us as lay followers who have gone for refuge for life.”

2. The Division on Bhikkhus Bhikkhuvagga

61. Ambalaṭṭhikarāhulovādasutta Advice to Rāhula at Ambalaṭṭhika

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṃ rājagahe viharati veḷuvane
kalandakanivāpe.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā rāhulo ambalaṭṭhikāyam
viharati.

Now at that time Venerable Rāhula was staying at Ambalaṭṭhikā.

Atha kho bhagavaṃ sāyanhasamayam paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yena ambalaṭṭhikā yenāyasmā rāhulo tenupasaṅkami.

Then in the late afternoon, the Buddha came out of retreat and went to Ambalaṭṭhika to see Venerable Rāhula.

Addasā kho āyasmā rāhulo bhagavantam dūratova āgacchantam.

Rāhula saw the Buddha coming off in the distance.

Disvāna āsanam paññāpesi, udakañca pādānam.

He spread out a seat and placed water for washing the feet.

Nisīdi bhagavaṃ paññatte āsane.

The Buddha sat on the seat spread out,

Nisajja pāde pakkhālesi.

and washed his feet.

Āyasmāpi kho rāhulo bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

Rāhula bowed to the Buddha and sat down to one side.

Atha kho bhagavā parittaṃ udakāvasesaṃ udakādhāne ṭhapetvā āyasmantaṃ rāhulaṃ āmantesi:

Then the Buddha, leaving a little water in the pot, addressed Rāhula, “passasi no tvaṃ, rāhula, imaṃ parittaṃ udakāvasesaṃ udakādhāne ṭhapitaṃ”ti?

“Rāhula, do you see this little bit of water left in the pot?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Evaṃ parittakaṃ kho, rāhula, tesaṃ sāmaññaṃ yesaṃ natthi sampajānamusāvāde lajjā”ti.

“That’s how little of the ascetic’s nature is left in those who are not ashamed to tell a deliberate lie.”

Atha kho bhagavā parittaṃ udakāvasesaṃ chaḍḍetvā āyasmantaṃ rāhulaṃ āmantesi:

Then the Buddha, tossing away what little water was left in the pot, said to Rāhula, “passasi no tvaṃ, rāhula, parittaṃ udakāvasesaṃ chaḍḍitaṃ”ti?

“Do you see this little bit of water that was tossed away?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Evaṃ chaḍḍitaṃ kho, rāhula, tesaṃ sāmaññaṃ yesaṃ natthi sampajānamusāvāde lajjā”ti.

“That’s how the ascetic’s nature is tossed away in those who are not ashamed to tell a deliberate lie.”

Atha kho bhagavā taṃ udakādhānaṃ nikkujjitvā āyasmantaṃ rāhulaṃ āmantesi:

Then the Buddha, turning the pot upside down, said to Rāhula, “passasi no tvaṃ, rāhula, imaṃ udakādhānaṃ nikkujjitaṃ”ti?

“Do you see how this pot is turned upside down?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Evaṃ nikkujjitaṃ kho, rāhula, tesaṃ sāmaññaṃ yesaṃ natthi sampajānamusāvāde lajjā”ti.

“That’s how the ascetic’s nature is turned upside down in those who are not ashamed to tell a deliberate lie.”

Atha kho bhagavā taṃ udakādhānaṃ ukkujjitvā āyasmantaṃ rāhulaṃ āmantesi:

Then the Buddha, turning the pot right side up, said to Rāhula, “passasi no tvaṃ, rāhula, imaṃ udakādhānaṃ rittaṃ tucchaṃ”ti?

“Do you see how this pot is vacant and hollow?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Evaṃ rittaṃ tucchaṃ kho, rāhula, tesaṃ sāmaññaṃ yesaṃ natthi sampajānamusāvāde lajjāti.

“That’s how vacant and hollow the ascetic’s nature is in those who are not ashamed to tell a deliberate lie.

Seyyathāpi, rāhula, rañño nāgo īsādanto urūḷhavā abhijāto saṅgāmāvacaro saṅgāmagato purimehipi pādehi kammaṃ karoti, pacchimehipi pādehi kammaṃ karoti, purimenapi kāyena kammaṃ karoti, pacchimenapi kāyena kammaṃ karoti, sīsenapi

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā rāhulo bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Venerable Rāhula was happy with what the Buddha said.

Ambalaṭṭhikarāhulovādasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ paṭhamam.

62. Mahārāhulovādasutta The Longer Advice to Rāhula

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava savatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Atha kho bhagava pubbaṇhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacivaramādāya savatthim piṇḍāya pāvisi.

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Sāvattihī for alms.

Āyasmāpi kho rāhulo pubbaṇhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacivaramādāya bhagavantam piṭṭhito piṭṭhito anubandhi.

And Venerable Rāhula also robed up and followed behind the Buddha.

Atha kho bhagava apaloketvā āyasmantaṃ rāhulaṃ āmantesi:

Then the Buddha looked back at Rāhula and said,

“yam kiñci, rāhula, rūpaṃ—atītānāgatapaccuppannaṃ ajjhattaṃ vā bahiddhā vā oḷārikaṃ vā sukhumāṃ vā hīnaṃ vā paṇītaṃ vā yaṃ dūre santike vā—sabbaṃ rūpaṃ ‘netam mama, nesohamasmi, na meso attā’ti evametam yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya daṭṭhabban”ti.

“Rāhula, you should truly see any kind of form at all—past, future, or present; internal or external; coarse or fine; inferior or superior; far or near: all form—with right understanding: ‘This is not mine, I am not this, this is not my self.’”

“Rūpameva nu kho, bhagavā, rūpameva nu kho, sugatā”ti?
“Only form, Blessed One? Only form, Holy One?”

“Rūpampi, rāhula, vedanāpi, rāhula, saññāpi, rāhula, saṅkhārāpi, rāhula, viññāṇampi, rāhulā”ti.
“Form, Rāhula, as well as feeling and perception and choices and consciousness.”

Atha kho āyasmā rāhulo “ko najja bhagavatā sammukhā ovādena ovadito gāmaṃ piṇḍāya pavisissatī”ti tato paṇivattitvā aññatarasmim rukkhamūle nisīdi pallaṅkaṃ ābhujitvā ujum kāyaṃ paṇidhāya parimukhaṃ satim upaṭṭhapetvā.

Then Rāhula thought, “Who would go to the village for alms today after being advised directly by the Buddha?” Turning back, he sat down at the root of a certain tree cross-legged, with his body straight, and established mindfulness right there.

Addasā kho āyasmā sārputto āyasmantaṃ rāhulaṃ aññatarasmim rukkhamūle nisinnaṃ pallaṅkaṃ ābhujitvā ujum kāyaṃ paṇidhāya parimukhaṃ satim upaṭṭhapetvā.

Venerable Sāriputta saw him sitting there,

Disvāna āyasmantaṃ rāhulaṃ āmantesi:
and addressed him,

“ānāpānassatim, rāhula, bhāvanaṃ bhāvehi.

“Rāhula, develop mindfulness of breathing.

Ānāpānassati, rāhula, bhāvanā bhāvitā bahulīkatā mahapphalā hoti mahānisamsā”ti.

When mindfulness of breathing is developed and cultivated it's very fruitful and beneficial.”

Atha kho āyasmā rāhulo sāyanhasamayam paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantam nisīdi. Ekamantam nisinno kho āyasmā rāhulo bhagavantam etadavoca:

Then in the late afternoon, Rāhula came out of retreat, went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him:

“katham bhāvitā nu kho, bhante, ānāpānassati, katham bahulīkatā mahapphalā hoti mahānisaṃsā”ti?

“Sir, how is mindfulness of breathing developed and cultivated to be very fruitful and beneficial?”

Yaṃ ajjhattam paccattam ākāsam ākāsatam upādinnaṃ, seyyathidaṃ—

Anything that’s space, spacious, and organic that’s internal, pertaining to an individual. This includes:

kaṇṇacchiddam nāsacchiddam mukhadvāram, yena ca asitapītakhāyitasāyitam ajjhoharati, yattha ca asitapītakhāyitasāyitam santiṭṭhati, yena ca asitapītakhāyitasāyitam adhobhāgam nikkhamati, yaṃ vā panaññampi kiñci ajjhattam paccattam ākāsam ākāsatam, agham aghagatam, vivaram vivaragatam, asamphuṭṭham, maṃsalohitehi upādinnaṃ—the ear canals, nostrils, and mouth; and the space for swallowing what is eaten and drunk, the space where it stays, and the space for excreting it from the nether regions.

ayaṃ vuccati, rāhula, ajjhattikā ākāsadhātu.

This is called the interior space element.

Yā ceva kho pana ajjhattikā ākāsadhātu yā ca bāhirā ākāsadhātu ākāsadhātūvesā.

The interior space element and the exterior space element are just the space element.

Taṃ ‘netam mama, nesohamasmi, na meso attā’ti—evametaṃ yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya daṭṭhabbam.

This should be truly seen with right understanding like this: ‘This is not mine, I am not this, this is not my self.’

Evametaṃ yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya disvā ākāsadhātuyā cittaṃ nibbindati, ākāsadhātuyā cittaṃ virājeti.

When you truly see with right understanding, you reject the space element, detaching the mind from the space element.

Pathavīsamaṃ, rāhula, bhāvanaṃ bhāvehi.

Rāhula, meditate like the earth.

Pathavīsamañhi te, rāhula, bhāvanaṃ bhāvayato uppannā

Suppose they were to toss both clean and unclean things on the earth, like feces, urine, spit, pus, and blood. The earth isn’t horrified, repelled, and disgusted because of this.

evameva kho tvaṃ, rāhula, pathavīsamaṃ bhāvanaṃ bhāvehi.

In the same way, meditate like the earth.

Pathavīsamañhi te, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvayato uppannā manāpāmanāpā phassā cittaṃ na pariyādāya ṭhassanti.

For when you meditate like the earth, pleasant and unpleasant contacts will not occupy your mind.

Āposamaṃ, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvehi.

Meditate like water.

Āposamañhi te, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvayato uppannā manāpāmanāpā phassā cittaṃ na pariyādāya ṭhassanti.

For when you meditate like water, pleasant and unpleasant contacts will not occupy your mind.

In the same way, meditate like water.

Āposamañhi te, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvayato uppannā manāpāmanāpā phassā cittaṃ na pariyādāya ṭhassanti.

For when you meditate like water, pleasant and unpleasant contacts will not occupy your mind.

Tejosamaṃ, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvehi.

Meditate like fire.

Tejosamañhi te, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvayato uppannā manāpāmanāpā phassā cittaṃ na pariyādāya ṭhassanti.

For when you meditate like fire, pleasant and unpleasant contacts will not occupy your mind.

Suppose a fire were to burn both clean and unclean things, like feces, urine, spit, pus, and blood. The fire isn't horrified, repelled, and disgusted because of this.

evameva kho tvaṃ, rāhula, tejosamaṃ bhāvanaṃ bhāvehi.

In the same way, meditate like fire.

Tejosamañhi te, rāhula, bhāvanaṃ bhāvayato uppannā manāpāmanāpā phassā cittaṃ na pariyādāya ṭhassanti.

For when you meditate like fire, pleasant and unpleasant contacts will not occupy your mind.

Vāyosamaṃ, rāhula, bhāvanaṃ bhāvehi.

Meditate like wind.

Vāyosamañhi te, rāhula, bhāvanaṃ bhāvayato uppannā manāpāmanāpā phassā cittaṃ na pariyādāya ṭhassanti.

For when you meditate like wind, pleasant and unpleasant contacts will not occupy your mind.

Seyyathāpi, rāhula, vāyo sucimpi upavāyati, asucimpi upavāyati, gūthagatampi upavāyati, muttagatampi upavāyati, kheḷagatampi upavāyati, pubbagatampi upavāyati, lohitagatampi upavāyati, na ca tena vāyo aṭṭiyati vā harāyati vā jigucchati vā;

evameva kho tvaṃ, rāhula, vāyosamaṃ bhāvanaṃ bhāvehi.

In the same way, meditate like the wind.

Vāyosamañhi te, rāhula, bhāvanaṃ bhāvayato uppannā manāpāmanāpā phassā cittaṃ na pariyādāya ṭhassanti.

For when you meditate like wind, pleasant and unpleasant contacts will not occupy your mind.

Ākāśasamaṃ, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvehi.

Meditate like space.

Ākāśasamañhi te, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvayato uppannā manāpāmanāpā phassā cittaṃ na pariyādāya ṭhassanti.

For when you meditate like space, pleasant and unpleasant contacts will not occupy your mind.

Seyyathāpi, rāhula, ākāso na katthaci patitṭhito;

Just as space is not established anywhere, evameva kho tvaṃ, rāhula, ākāśasamaṃ bhāvanam bhāvehi.

in the same way, meditate like space.

Ākāśasamañhi te, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvayato uppannā

For when you meditate like space, pleasant and unpleasant contacts will not occupy your mind.

Mettaṃ, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvehi.

Meditate on love.

Mettañhi te, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvayato yo byāpādo so

For when you meditate on love any ill will will be given up.

Karuṇam, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvehi.

Meditate on compassion.

Karuṇañhi te, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvayato yā vihesā sā

For when you meditate on compassion any cruelty will be given up.

Muditaṃ, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvehi.

Meditate on rejoicing.

Muditañhi te, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvayato yā arati sā

For when you meditate on rejoicing any negativity will be given up.

Upekkham, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvehi.

Meditate on equanimity.

Upekkhañhi te, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvayato yo paṭigho so pahīyissati.

For when you meditate on equanimity any repulsion will be given up.

Asubham, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvehi.

Meditate on ugliness.

Asubhañhi te, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvayato yo rāgo so pahīyissati.

For when you meditate on ugliness any lust will be given up.

Aniccasaññaṃ, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvehi.

Meditate on impermanence.

Aniccasaññañhi te, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvayato yo asmimāno so pahīyissati.

For when you meditate on impermanence any conceit 'I am' will be given up.

Ānāpānassatim, rāhula, bhāvanam bhāvehi.

Develop mindfulness of breathing.

Ānāpānassati hi te, rāhula, bhāvitā bahulīkatā mahapphalā hoti mahānisamsā.

When mindfulness of breathing is developed and cultivated it's very fruitful and beneficial.

Katham bhāvitā ca, rāhula, ānāpānassati, katham bahulīkatā mahapphalā hoti mahānisamsā?

And how is mindfulness of breathing developed and cultivated to be very fruitful and beneficial?

Idha, rāhula, bhikkhu araññagato vā rukkhamūlagato vā suññāgāragato vā nisīdati pallaṅkam ābhujitvā ujum kāyam paṇidhāya parimukhaṃ satim̐ upaṭṭhapetvā.

It's when a mendicant—gone to a wilderness, or to the root of a tree, or to an empty hut—sits down cross-legged, with their body straight, and establishes mindfulness right there.

So satova assasati satova passasati.

Just mindful, they breath in. Mindful, they breath out.

Dīghaṃ vā assasanto 'dīghaṃ assasāmī'ti pajānāti, dīghaṃ vā passasanto 'dīghaṃ passasāmī'ti pajānāti;

When breathing out heavily they know: 'I'm breathing out heavily.'

rassaṃ vā assasanto 'rassaṃ assasāmī'ti pajānāti, rassaṃ vā passasanto 'rassaṃ passasāmī'ti pajānāti.

When breathing in lightly they know: 'I'm breathing in lightly.' When breathing out lightly they know: 'I'm breathing out lightly.'

They practice breathing in observing letting go. They practice breathing out observing letting go.

Evam bhāvitā kho, rāhula, ānāpānassati, evam bahulīkatā mahapphalā hoti mahānisamsā.

Mindfulness of breathing, when developed and cultivated in this way, is very fruitful and beneficial.

Evam bhāvitāya, rāhula, ānāpānassatiyā, evam bahulīkatāya yepi te carimakā assāsā tepi veditāva nirujjhanti no aviditā’ti.

When mindfulness of breathing is developed and cultivated in this way, even when the final breaths in and out cease, they are known, not unknown.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā rāhulo bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Venerable Rāhula was happy with what the Buddha said.

Mahārāhulovādasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ dutiyaṃ.

63. Cūḷamālukyasutta The Shorter Discourse With Māluṅkya

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Atha kho āyasmato mālukyaputtassa rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa evam cetaso parivitakko udapādi:

Then as Venerable Māluṅkya was in private retreat this thought came to his mind:

“yānimāni diṭṭhigatāni bhagavatā abyākatāni ṭhapitāni paṭikkhittāni:

“There are several convictions that the Buddha has left undeclared; he has set them aside and refused to comment on them.

‘sassato loko’tipi, ‘asassato loko’tipi, ‘antavā loko’tipi, ‘anantavā loko’tipi, ‘taṃ jīvaṃ taṃ sarīran’tipi, ‘aññaṃ jīvaṃ tathāgato param maraṇā’tipi, ‘hoti ca na ca hoti tathāgato param maraṇā’tipi, ‘neva hoti na na hoti tathāgato param maraṇā’tipi—

For example: the world is eternal, or not eternal, or finite, or infinite; the soul and the body are the same thing, or they are different things; after death, a Realized One exists, or doesn't exist, or both exists and doesn't exist, or neither exists nor doesn't exist.

tāni me bhagavā na byākaroti.

The Buddha does not give me a straight answer on these points.

Yāni me bhagavā na byākaroti taṃ me na rucati, taṃ me nakkhamati.

I don't like that, and do not accept it.

Sohaṃ bhagavantam upasaṅkamtivā etamattham pucchissāmi.

I'll go to him and ask him about this.

Sace me bhagavā byākarissati:

If he gives me a straight answer on any of these points,

'sassato loko'ti vā 'asassato loko'ti vā ...pe...

'neva hoti na na hoti tathāgato param maraṇā'ti vā—evāhaṃ bhagavati brahmacariyam carissāmi;

I will live the spiritual life under him.

evāhaṃ sikkham paccakkhāya hīnāyāvattissāmī'ti.

I will reject the training and return to a lesser life."

Then in the late afternoon, Māluṅkya came out of retreat and went to the Buddha. He bowed, sat down to one side, and told the Buddha of his thoughts. He then continued:

"Idha mayham, bhante, rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa evam cetaso parivitakko udapādi—or that after death a Realized One neither exists nor doesn’t exist.’

abyākatameva taṃ, mālukyaputta, tathāgatena assa, atha so puggalo kālaṃ kareyya.

That would still remain undeclared by the Realized One, and meanwhile that person would die.

Seyyathāpi, mālukyaputta, puriso sallena viddho assa savisena gāḷhapalepanena.

Suppose a man was struck by an arrow thickly smeared with poison.

Tassa mittāmaccā ñātisālohitā bhisakkaṃ sallakattaṃ upaṭṭhapeyyuṃ.

His friends and colleagues, relatives and kin would get a field surgeon to treat him.

So evaṃ vadeyya:

But the man would say:

‘na tāvāhaṃ imaṃ sallaṃ āharissāmi yāva na taṃ purisaṃ jānāmi yenamhi viddho, khattiyo vā brāhmaṇo vā vesso vā suddo vā’ti;

‘I won’t pull out this arrow as long as I don’t know whether the man who wounded me was an aristocrat, a brahmin, a merchant, or a worker.’

so evaṃ vadeyya:

He’d say:

And it is the defeat of these things in this very life that I advocate.

Tasmātiha, mālukyaputta, abyākatañca me abyākatato dhāretha;

So, Māluṅkyaputta, you should remember what I have not declared as undeclared, byākatañca me byākatato dhāretha.

and what I have declared as declared.

Kiñca, māluṅkyaputta, mayā abyākatam?
And what have I not declared?

'Sassato loko'ti māluṅkyaputta, mayā abyākatam;
I have not declared the following: 'the world is eternal,'

'asassato loko'ti—
'the world is not eternal,'

mayā abyākatam;

'antavā loko'ti—
'the world is finite,'

mayā abyākatam;

'anantavā loko'ti—
'the world is infinite,'

mayā abyākatam;

'tam jīvaṃ tam sarīraṃ'ti—
'the soul and the body are the same thing,'

mayā abyākatam;

'aññaṃ jīvaṃ aññaṃ sarīraṃ'ti—
'the soul and the body are different things,'

mayā abyākatam;

'hoti tathāgato param maraṇā'ti—
'a Realized One exists after death,'

mayā abyākatam;

'na hoti tathāgato param maraṇā'ti—
'a Realized One doesn't exist after death,'

mayā abyākatam;

‘hoti ca na ca hoti tathāgato param maraṇā’ti—

‘a Realized One both exists and doesn’t exist after death,’

mayā abyākatam;

‘neva hoti na na hoti tathāgato param maraṇā’ti—

‘a Realized One neither exists nor doesn’t exist after death.’

mayā abyākatam.

Kasmā cetam, mālukyaputta, mayā abyākatam?

And why haven’t I declared these things?

Na hetam, mālukyaputta, atthasamhitam na

Because they aren’t beneficial or relevant to the fundamentals of the spiritual life. They don’t lead to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment.

Tasmā tam mayā abyākatam.

That’s why I haven’t declared them.

Kiñca, mālukyaputta, mayā byākatam?

And what have I declared?

‘Idam dukkhan’ti, mālukyaputta, mayā byākatam;

I have declared the following: ‘this is suffering,’

‘ayam dukkhasamudayo’ti—

‘this is the origin of suffering,’

mayā byākatam;

‘ayam dukkhanirodho’ti—

‘this is the cessation of suffering,’

mayā byākatam;

‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā’ti—
‘this is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering.’

mayā byākatam.

Kasmā cetaṃ, mālukyaputta, mayā byākatam?

And why have I declared these things?

Etañhi, mālukyaputta, atthasamhitam etaṃ ādibrahmacariyakam

Because they are beneficial and relevant to the fundamentals of the spiritual life. They lead to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment.

Tasmā taṃ mayā byākatam.

That’s why I have declared them.

Tasmātiha, mālukyaputta, abyākatañca me abyākatato dhāretha;

So, Māluṅkyaputta, you should remember what I have not declared as undeclared, and what I have declared as declared.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā mālukyaputto bhagavato bhāsitaṃ

Satisfied, Venerable Māluṅkyaputta was happy with what the Buddha said.

Cūḷamālukyasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ tatiyaṃ.

64. Mahāmālukyasutta The Longer Discourse With Māluṅkya

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṁ sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta’s Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavaṁ bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavaṁ etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“dhāretha no tumhe, bhikkhave, mayā desitāni pañcorambhāgiyāni saṁyojanāni”ti?

“Mendicants, do you remember the five lower fetters that I taught?”

Evam vutte, āyasmā mālukyaputto bhagavantam etadavoca:

When he said this, Venerable Māluṅkyaputta said to him,

“ahaṃ kho, bhante, dhāremi bhagavatā desitāni pañcorambhāgiyāni saṃyojanāni”ti.

“Sir, I remember them.”

“Yathā kathaṃ pana tvaṃ, mālukyaputta, dhāresi mayā desitāni pañcorambhāgiyāni saṃyojanāni”ti?

“But how do you remember them?”

“Sakkāyadiṭṭhiṃ kho ahaṃ, bhante, bhagavatā orambhāgiyaṃ saṃyojanaṃ desitaṃ dhāremi;

“I remember the lower fetters taught by the Buddha as follows:
identity view,

vicikicchaṃ kho ahaṃ, bhante, bhagavatā orambhāgiyaṃ saṃyojanaṃ desitaṃ dhāremi;

doubt,

sīlabbataparāmāsaṃ kho ahaṃ, bhante, bhagavatā orambhāgiyaṃ saṃyojanaṃ desitaṃ dhāremi;

misapprehension of precepts and observances,

kāmacchandaṃ kho ahaṃ, bhante, bhagavatā orambhāgiyaṃ saṃyojanaṃ desitaṃ dhāremi;

sensual desire,

byāpādaṃ kho ahaṃ, bhante, bhagavatā orambhāgiyaṃ and ill will.

Evaṃ kho ahaṃ, bhante, dhāremi bhagavatā desitāni

That’s how I remember the five lower fetters taught by the Buddha.”

“Kassa kho nāma tvaṃ, mālukyaputta, imāni evaṃ

“Who on earth do you remember being taught the five lower fetters in that way?

Evaṃ vutte, āyasmā ānando bhagavantam etadavoca:

When he said this, Venerable Ānanda said to the Buddha,

“etassa, bhagavā, kālo, etassa, sugata, kālo

“Well then, Ānanda, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho āyasmā ānando bhagavato paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” Ānanda replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

should be regarded as being like that strong person.

Katamo cānanda, maggo, katamā paṭipadā pañcannaṃ orambhāgiyānaṃ saṃyojanānaṃ pahānāya?

And what, Ānanda, is the path and the practice for giving up the five lower fetters?

Idhānanda, bhikkhu upadhivivekā akusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ pahānā sabbaso kāyaduṭṭhullānaṃ paṭippassaddhiyā vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

It's when a mendicant—due to the seclusion from attachments, the giving up of unskillful qualities, and the complete settling of physical discomfort—quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

So yadeva tattha hoti rūpagataṃ vedanāgataṃ saññāgataṃ saṅkhāragataṃ viññāṇagataṃ te dhamme aniccato dukkhato rogato gaṇḍato sallato aghato ābādhato parato palokato suññato anattato samanupassati.

They contemplate the phenomena there—including in form, feeling, perception, choices, and consciousness—as impermanent, as suffering, as diseased, as an abscess, as a dart, as misery, as an affliction, as alien, as falling apart, as empty, as not-self.

So tehi dhammehi cittaṃ paṭivāpeti.

They turn their mind away from those things,

So tehi dhammehi cittaṃ paṭivāpetvā amatāya dhātuyā cittaṃ upasaṃharati:

and apply it to the deathless element:

‘etaṃ santaṃ etaṃ paṇītaṃ yadidaṃ sabbasañkhārasamatho sabbūpadhipaṭinissaggo taṇhākkhayo virāgo nirodho nibbānaṃ’ti.

‘This is peaceful; this is sublime—that is, the stilling of all activities, the letting go of all attachments, the ending of craving, cessation, extinguishment.’

So tattha ṭhito āsavānaṃ khayāṃ pāpuṇāti;

Abiding in that they attain the ending of defilements.

no ce āsavānaṃ khayāṃ pāpuṇāti teneva dhammarāgena tāya dhammanandiyā pañcannaṃ orambhāgiyānaṃ saṃyojanānaṃ parikkhayā opapātiko hoti, tattha parinibbāyī, anāvattidhammo tasmā lokā.

If they don’t attain the ending of defilements, with the ending of the five lower fetters they’re reborn spontaneously, because of their passion and love for that meditation. They are extinguished there, and are not liable to return from that world.

Ayampi kho, ānanda, maggo ayaṃ paṭipadā pañcannaṃ orambhāgiyānaṃ saṃyojanānaṃ pahānāya.

This is the path and the practice for giving up the five lower fetters.

Puna caparaṃ, ānanda, bhikkhu vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ... pe... dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati ...pe...

Furthermore, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, a mendicant enters and remains in the second absorption

...

tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ ...pe...

third absorption ...

catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

fourth absorption.

So yadeva tattha hoti rūpagataṃ vedanāgataṃ saññāgataṃ

Furthermore, a mendicant, going totally beyond perceptions of form, with the ending of perceptions of impingement, not focusing on perceptions of diversity, aware that 'space is infinite', enters and remains in the dimension of infinite space.

So yadeva tattha hoti vedanāgataṃ saññāgataṃ saṅkhāragataṃ

Puna caparaṃ, ānanda, bhikkhu sabbaso ākāsānañcāyatanaṃ samatikkamma 'anantaṃ viññāṇaṃ'ti viññāṇañcāyatanaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, a mendicant, going totally beyond the dimension of infinite space, aware that 'consciousness is infinite', enters and remains in the dimension of infinite consciousness.

So yadeva tattha hoti vedanāgataṃ saññāgataṃ saṅkhāragataṃ viññāṇagataṃ ...

Furthermore, a mendicant, going totally beyond the dimension of infinite consciousness, aware that 'there is nothing at all', enters and remains in the dimension of nothingness.

So yadeva tattha hoti vedanāgataṃ saññāgataṃ saṅkhāragataṃ viññāṇagataṃ ...

Ayampi kho, ānanda, maggo ayaṃ paṭipadā pañcannaṃ orambhāgiyānaṃ saṃyojanānaṃ pahānāyā”ti.

This too is the path and the practice for giving up the five lower fetters.”

“Eso ce, bhante, maggo esā paṭipadā pañcannaṃ orambhāgiyānaṃ saṃyojanānaṃ pahānāya, atha kiñcarahi idhekacce bhikkhū cetovimuttino ekacce bhikkhū paññāvimuttino”ti?

“Sir, if this is the path and the practice for giving up the five lower fetters, how come some mendicants here are released in heart while others are released by wisdom?”

“Ettha kho panesāhaṃ, ānanda, indriyavemattataṃ vadāmi”ti.

“In that case, I say it is the diversity of their faculties.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā ānando bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Venerable Ānanda was happy with what the Buddha said.

Mahāmālukyasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ catutthaṃ.

65. Bhaddālisutta

With Bhaddāli

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta’s Grove,
Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadvoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Aham kho, bhikkhave, ekāsanabhojanam bhuñjāmi;

“Mendicants, I eat my food in one sitting per day.

ekāsanabhojanam kho, aham, bhikkhave, bhuñjamāno appābādhatañca sañjānāmi appātaṅkatañca lahuṭṭhānañca
balañca phāsuvihārañca.

Doing so, I find that I’m healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably.

Etha, tumhepi, bhikkhave, ekāsanabhojanam̐ bhuñjatha;
You too should eat your food in one sitting per day.

ekāsanabhojanam̐ kho, bhikkhave, tumhepi bhuñjamānā appābādhatañca sañjānissatha appātañkatañca lahuṭṭhānañca
balañca phāsuvihārañcā”ti.

Doing so, you’ll find that you’re healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably.”

Evam̐ vutte, āyasmā bhaddāli bhagavantam̐ etadavoca:

When he said this, Venerable Bhaddāli said to the Buddha, “aham̐ kho, bhante, na ussahāmi ekāsanabhojanam̐ bhuñjitem̐;

“Sir, I’m not going to try to eat my food in one sitting per day.

ekāsanabhojanañhi me, bhante, bhuñjato siyā kukkucam̐, siyā vippaṭisāro”ti.

For when eating once a day I might feel remorse and regret.”

“Tena hi tvam̐, bhaddāli, yattha nimantito assasi tattha ekadesam̐ bhuñjivā ekadesam̐ nīharitvāpi bhuñjeyyāsi.

“Well then, Bhaddāli, eat one part of the meal in the place where you’re invited, and bring the rest back to eat.

Evampi kho tvam̐, bhaddāli, bhuñjamāno ekāsano yāpessasi”ti.

Eating this way, too, you will sustain yourself.”

“Evampi kho aham̐, bhante, na ussahāmi bhuñjitem̐;

“Sir, I’m not going to try to eat that way, either.

evampi hi me, bhante, bhuñjato siyā kukkucam̐, siyā
vippaṭisāro”ti.

For when eating that way I might also feel remorse and regret.”

Atha kho āyasmā bhaddāli bhagavatā sikkhāpade paññāpiyamāne bhikkhusaṅghe sikkham̐ samādiyamāne anussāham̐ pavedesi.

Then, as this rule was being laid down by the Buddha and the Saṅgha was undertaking it, Bhaddāli announced he would not try to keep it.

Atha kho āyasmā bhaddāli sabbam tam temāsam na bhagavato sammukhībhāvaṃ adāsi, yathā tam satthusāsane sikkhāya aparipūrakārī.

Then for the whole of that three months Bhaddāli did not present himself in the presence of the Buddha, as happens when someone doesn't fulfill the training according to the Teacher's instructions.

Tena kho pana samayena sambahulā bhikkhū bhagavato cīvarakammaṃ karonti—

At that time several mendicants were making a robe for the Buddha, thinking that niṭṭhitacīvaro bhagavā temāsaccayena cārikaṃ pakkamissatīti.

when his robe was finished and the three months of the rains residence had passed the Buddha would set out wandering.

Atha kho āyasmā bhaddāli yena te bhikkhū tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtvā tehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then Bhaddāli went up to those mendicants, and exchanged greetings with them.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho āyasmantaṃ bhaddāliṃ te bhikkhū etadvocum:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side. The mendicants said to Bhaddāli, “idaṃ kho, āvuso bhaddāli, bhagavato cīvarakammaṃ karīyati.

“Reverend Bhaddāli, this robe is being made for the Buddha.

Niṭṭhitacīvaro bhagavā temāsaccayena cārikaṃ pakkamissati.

When it's finished and the three months of the rains residence have passed the Buddha will set out wandering.

lñghāvuso bhaddāli, etaṃ dosakaṃ sādhukaṃ manasi karohi, mā te pacchā dukkarataraṃ ahosī”ti.

Come on, Bhaddāli, learn your lesson. Don't make it hard for yourself later on.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho āyasmā bhaddāli tesaṃ bhikkhūnaṃ paṭissutvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkama; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā bhaddāli bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

“Yes, reverends,” Bhaddāli replied. He went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him, “accayo maṃ, bhante, accagamā yathābālaṃ yathāmūḷhaṃ yathāakusalaṃ, yohaṃ bhagavatā sikkhāpade paññāpiyamāne bhikkhusaṅghe sikkhaṃ samādiyamāne anussāhaṃ pavedesiṃ.

“I have made a mistake, sir. It was foolish, stupid, and unskillful of me that, as this rule was being laid down by the Buddha and the Saṅgha was undertaking it, I announced I would not try to keep it.

Tassa me, bhante, bhagavā accayaṃ accayato paṭiggaṇhātu āyatim samvarāyā”ti.

Please, sir, accept my mistake for what it is, so I will restrain myself in future.”

“Indeed, Bhaddāli, you made a mistake. ...

Yato ca kho tvaṃ, bhaddāli, accayaṃ accayato disvā

But since you have recognized your mistake for what it is, and have dealt with it properly, I accept it.

Vuddhihesā, bhaddāli, ariyassa vinaye yo accayaṃ accayato disvā yathādhammaṃ paṭikaroti, āyatim saṃvaram āpajjati.

For it is growth in the training of the noble one to recognize a mistake for what it is, deal with it properly, and commit to restraint in the future.

Idha, bhaddāli, ekacco bhikkhu satthusāsane sikkhāya aparipūrakārī hoti.

Bhaddāli, take a mendicant who doesn’t fulfill the training according to the Teacher’s instructions.

Tassa evaṃ hoti:

They think,

‘yannūnāhaṃ vivittaṃ senāsaṇaṃ bhajeyyaṃ araññaṃ rukkhamūlaṃ pabbataṃ kandaraṃ giriguhaṃ susānaṃ vanapatthaṃ abbhokāsaṃ palālapuñjaṃ.

‘Why don’t I frequent a secluded lodging—a wilderness, the root of a tree, a hill, a ravine, a mountain cave, a charnel ground, a forest, the open air, a heap of straw.

Appeva nāmāhaṃ uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ sacchikareyyan’ti.

Hopefully I’ll realize a superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones.’

So vivittaṃ senāsaṇaṃ bhajati araññaṃ rukkhamūlaṃ pabbataṃ kandaraṃ giriguhaṃ susānaṃ vanapatthaṃ abbhokāsaṃ palālapuñjaṃ.

So they frequent a secluded lodging.

Tassa tathāvūpakaṭṭhassa viharato satthāpi upavadati, anuviccapi viññū sabrahmacārī upavadanti, devatāpi upavadanti, attāpi attānaṃ upavadati.

While they’re living withdrawn, they’re reprimanded by the Teacher, by sensible spiritual companions after examination, by deities, and by themselves.

So satthārāpi upavadito, anuviccapi viññūhi sabrahmacārīhi upavadito, devatāhipi upavadito, attanāpi attānaṃ upavadito na uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ sacchikaroti.

Being reprimanded in this way, they don’t realize any superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Evañhi taṃ, bhaddāli, hoti yathā taṃ satthusāsane sikkhāya aparipūrakārissa.

Because that’s how it is when someone doesn’t fulfill the training according to the Teacher’s instructions.

Idha pana, bhaddāli, ekacco bhikkhu satthusāsane sikkhāya paripūrakārī hoti.

But take a mendicant who does fulfill the training according to the Teacher's instructions.

Tassa evaṃ hoti:

They think,

‘yannūnāhaṃ vivittaṃ senāsanāṃ bhajeyyaṃ araññaṃ rukkhamūlaṃ pabbataṃ kandaraṃ giriguhaṃ susānaṃ vanapatthaṃ abbhokāsaṃ palālapuñjaṃ.

‘Why don't I frequent a secluded lodging—a wilderness, the root of a tree, a hill, a ravine, a mountain cave, a charnel ground, a forest, the open air, a heap of straw.

Appeva nāmāhaṃ uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ sacchikareyyan'ti.

Hopefully I'll realize a superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones.'

So vivittaṃ senāsanāṃ bhajati araññaṃ rukkhamūlaṃ pabbataṃ kandaraṃ giriguhaṃ susānaṃ vanapatthaṃ abbhokāsaṃ palālapuñjaṃ.

They frequent a secluded lodging—a wilderness, the root of a tree, a hill, a ravine, a mountain cave, a charnel ground, a forest, the open air, a heap of straw.

Tassa tathāvūpakaṭṭhassa viharato satthāpi na upavadati, anuviccapi viññū sabrahmacārī na upavadanti, devatāpi na upavadanti, attāpi attānaṃ na upavadati.

While they're living withdrawn, they're not reprimanded by the Teacher, by sensible spiritual companions after examination, by deities, or by themselves.

So satthārāpi anupavadito, anuviccapi viññūhi sabrahmacārīhi anupavadito, devatāhipi anupavadito, attanāpi attānaṃ anupavadito uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ sacchikaroti.

Not being reprimanded in this way, they realize a superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones.

So vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamam jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, they enter and remain in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Tam kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Evañhi tam, bhaddāli, hoti yathā tam satthusāsane sikkhāya paripūrakārissa.

Because that's what happens when someone fulfills the training according to the Teacher's instructions.

Puna caparaṃ, bhaddāli, bhikkhu vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhataṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, a mendicant enters and remains in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Tam kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Evañhi tam, bhaddāli, hoti yathā tam satthusāsane sikkhāya paripūrakārissa.

Because that's what happens when someone fulfills the training according to the Teacher's instructions.

Puna caparam, bhaddāli, bhikkhu pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca viharati, sato ca sampajāno sukhañca kāyena paṭisaṃvedeti, yaṃ taṃ ariyā ācikkhanti: ‘upekkhako satimā sukhavihārī’ti tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, with the fading away of rapture, a mendicant enters and remains in the third absorption, where they meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, ‘Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.’

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Evañhi taṃ, bhaddāli, hoti yathā taṃ satthusāsane sikkhāya paripūrakārissa.

Because that’s what happens when someone fulfills the training according to the Teacher’s instructions.

Puna caparam, bhaddāli, bhikkhu sukhasa ca pahānā dukkhasa ca pahānā pubbeva somanassadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamā adukkhamasukhaṃ upekkhāsatipārisuddhiṃ catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Furthermore, giving up pleasure and pain, and ending former happiness and sadness, a mendicant enters and remains in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Evañhi taṃ, bhaddāli, hoti yathā taṃ satthusāsane sikkhāya paripūrakārissa.

Because that’s what happens when someone fulfills the training according to the Teacher’s instructions.

When their mind has become immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—they extend it toward recollection of past lives.

So anekavihitaṃ pubbenivāsaṃ anussarati, seyyathidaṃ—

They recollect many kinds of past lives, that is, one, two, three, four, five, ten, twenty, thirty, forty, fifty, a hundred, a thousand, a hundred thousand rebirths; many eons of the world contracting, many eons of the world expanding, many eons of the world contracting and expanding. ... They recollect their many kinds of past lives, with features and details.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Evañhi taṃ, bhaddāli, hoti yathā taṃ satthusāsane sikkhāya

Because that's what happens when someone fulfills the training according to the Teacher's instructions.

So evaṃ samāhite citte parisuddhe pariyodāte anaṅgaṇe

When their mind has become immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—they extend it toward knowledge of the death and rebirth of sentient beings.

So dibbena cakkhunā visuddhena atikkantamānusakena satte

dibbena cakkhunā visuddhena atikkantamānusakena ...pe...
yathākammūpage satte pajānāti.

With clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, they see sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. They understand how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds: ‘These dear beings did bad things by way of body, speech, and mind. ... They’re reborn in the underworld, hell. These dear beings, however, did good things by way of body, speech, and mind. ... they’re reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.’ And so, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman ... they understand how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds.

Tam kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Evañhi tam, bhaddāli, hoti yathā tam satthusāsane sikkhāya

When their mind has become immersed in samādhi like this—purified, bright, flawless, rid of corruptions, pliable, workable, steady, and imperturbable—they extend it toward knowledge of the ending of defilements.

So ‘idaṃ dukkhan’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti, ‘ayaṃ

They truly understand: ‘This is suffering’ ... ‘This is the origin of suffering’ ... ‘This is the cessation of suffering’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering’.

‘ime āsavā’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti, ‘ayaṃ āsavaśamudayo’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti, ‘ayaṃ āsavanirodho’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti, ‘ayaṃ āsavanirodhagāminī paṭipadā’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti.

They truly understand: ‘These are defilements’ ... ‘This is the origin of defilements’ ... ‘This is the cessation of defilements’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of defilements’.

Tassa evaṃ jānato evaṃ passato kāmāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccati, bhavāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccati, avijjāsavāpi cittaṃ vimuccati.

Knowing and seeing like this, their mind is freed from the defilements of sensuality, desire to be reborn, and ignorance.

Vimuttasmiṃ vimuttamiti ñāṇaṃ hoti.

When they’re freed, they know they’re freed.

‘Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā’ti pajānāti.

They understand: ‘Rebirth is ended, the spiritual journey has been completed, what had to be done has been done, there is no return to any state of existence.’

“That’s how it is, Bhaddāli. When sentient beings are in decline and the true teaching is disappearing there are more training rules and fewer enlightened mendicants.

Na tāva, bhaddāli, satthā sāvakanāṃ sikkhāpadaṃ paññāpeti yāva na idhekacce āsavaṭṭhānīyā dhammā saṅghe pātubhavanti.

The Teacher doesn't lay down training rules for disciples as long as certain defiling influences have not appeared in the Saṅgha.

Yato ca kho, bhaddāli, idhekacce āsavaṭṭhānīyā dhammā saṅghe pātubhavanti, atha satthā sāvakanāṃ sikkhāpadaṃ paññāpeti tesamīyeva āsavaṭṭhānīyānaṃ dhammānaṃ paṭighātāya.

But when such defiling influences appear in the Saṅgha, the Teacher lays down training rules for disciples to protect against them.

Na tāva, bhaddāli, idhekacce āsavaṭṭhānīyā dhammā saṅghe pātubhavanti yāva na saṅgho mahattaṃ patto hoti.

And they don't appear until the Saṅgha has attained a great size, Yato ca kho, bhaddāli, saṅgho mahattaṃ patto hoti, atha idhekacce āsavaṭṭhānīyā dhammā saṅghe pātubhavanti.

Atha satthā sāvakanāṃ sikkhāpadaṃ paññāpeti tesamīyeva āsavaṭṭhānīyānaṃ dhammānaṃ paṭighātāya.

Na tāva, bhaddāli, idhekacce āsavaṭṭhānīyā dhammā saṅghe pātubhavanti yāva na saṅgho lābhaggaṃ patto hoti, yasaggaṃ patto hoti, bāhusaccaṃ patto hoti, rattaññutaṃ patto hoti.

an abundance of material support and fame, learning, and seniority.

Yato ca kho, bhaddāli, saṅgho rattaññutaṃ patto hoti, atha idhekacce āsavaṭṭhānīyā dhammā saṅghe pātubhavanti, atha satthā sāvakanāṃ sikkhāpadaṃ paññāpeti tesamīyeva āsavaṭṭhānīyānaṃ dhammānaṃ paṭighātāya.

But when the Saṅgha has attained these things, then such defiling influences appear in the Saṅgha, and the Teacher lays down training rules for disciples to protect against them.

Appakā kho tumhe, bhaddāli, tena samayena ahuvattha yadā vo ahaṃ ājānīyasusūpamaṃ dhammapariyāyaṃ desesiṃ.

There were only a few of you there at the time when I taught the exposition of the teaching on the simile of the thoroughbred colt.

Taṃ sarasi bhaddālī”ti?

Do you remember that, Bhaddāli?”

“No hetam, bhante”.

“No, sir.”

“Tatra, bhaddāli, kaṃ hetuṃ pacesī”ti?

“What do you believe the reason for that is?”

“So hi nūnāhaṃ, bhante, dīgharattaṃ satthusāsane sikkhāya aparipūrakārī ahoṣiṃ”ti.

“Sir, it’s surely because for a long time now I haven’t fulfilled the training according to the Teacher’s instructions.”

“Na kho, bhaddāli, eseva hetu, esa paccayo.

“That’s not the only reason, Bhaddāli.

Api ca me tvaṃ, bhaddāli, dīgharattaṃ cetasā cetoparicca vidito:

Rather, for a long time I have comprehended your mind and known:

‘na cāyaṃ moghapuriso mayā dhamme desiyamāne aṭṭhiṃ katvā manasi katvā sabbacetaso samannāharitvā ohitasoto dhammaṃ suṇāti’ti.

‘While I’m teaching, this silly man doesn’t pay heed, pay attention, engage wholeheartedly, or lend an ear.’

Api ca te ahaṃ, bhaddāli, ājānīyasusūpamaṃ dhammapariyāyaṃ desessāmi.

Still, Bhaddāli, I shall teach the exposition of the teaching on the simile of the thoroughbred colt.

Tam suṇāhi, sādhuḥkaṃ manasi karohi; bhāsissāmī”ti.
Listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho āyasmā bhaddāli bhagavato paccassosi.
“Yes, sir,” Bhaddāli replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:
The Buddha said this:

“Seyyathāpi, bhaddāli, dakkho assadamako bhadraṃ

“Suppose a deft horse trainer were to obtain a fine thoroughbred.
First of all he’d make it get used to wearing the bit.

Tassa mukhādhāne kāraṇaṃ kāriyamānassa hontiyeva

When it has done this, the horse trainer next makes it get used to walking in procession, circling, prancing, galloping, charging, the protocols and traditions of court, and in the very best speed, fleetness, and friendliness.

Tassa uttame jave uttame haye uttame sākhalye kāraṇam̐

When it has done this, the horse trainer next rewards it with a grooming and a rub down.

Imehi kho, bhaddāli, dasahaṅgehi samannāgato bhadro

A fine royal thoroughbred with these ten factors is worthy of a king, fit to serve a king, and reckoned as a factor of kingship.

In the same way, a mendicant with ten qualities is worthy of offerings dedicated to the gods, worthy of hospitality, worthy of a religious donation, worthy of veneration with joined palms, and is the supreme field of merit for the world.

Katamehi dasahi?

What ten?

Idha, bhaddāli, bhikkhu asekhāya sammādiṭṭhiyā samannāgato hoti, asekhena sammāsaṅkappena samannāgato hoti, asekhāya sammāvācāya samannāgato hoti, asekhena sammākammantena samannāgato hoti, asekhena sammāājīvena samannāgato hoti, asekhena sammāvāyāmena samannāgato hoti, asekhāya sammāsatīyā samannāgato hoti, asekhena sammāsamādhinā samannāgato hoti, asekhena sammāñāṇena samannāgato hoti, asekhāya sammāvimuttiyā samannāgato hoti—

It's when a mendicant has an adept's right view, right thought, right speech, right action, right livelihood, right effort, right mindfulness, right immersion, right knowledge, and right freedom.

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā bhaddāli bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Venerable Bhaddāli was happy with what the Buddha said.

Bhaddālisuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ pañcamaṃ.

66. Laṭukikopamasutta The Simile of the Quail

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṅ aṅguttarāpesu viharati āpaṇam nāma aṅguttarāpānam nigamo.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Northern Āpaṇas, near the town of theirs named Āpaṇa.

Atha kho bhagavaṅ pubbaṅhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya āpaṇam piṇḍāya pāvīsi.

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Āpaṇa for alms.

Āpaṇe piṇḍāya caritvā pacchābhattam piṇḍapātaṭikkanto yenaññataro vanasaṅḍo tenupasaṅkami divāvihārāya.

He wandered for alms in Āpaṇa. After the meal, on his return from alms-round, he went to a certain forest grove for the day's meditation.

Tam vanasaṅḍam ajjhogāhetvā aññatarasmim rukkhamūle divāvihāram nisīdi.

Having plunged deep into it, he sat at the root of a certain tree for the day's meditation.

Āyasmāpi kho udāyī pubbaṅhasamayam nivāsetvā
pattacīvaramādāya āpaṇam piṇḍāya pāvīsi.

Venerable Udāyī also robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Āpaṇa for alms.

Āpaṇe piṇḍāya caritvā pacchābhattam piṇḍapātapatiḥkanto yena so vanasaṇḍo tenupasaṅkami divāvihārāya.

He wandered for alms in Āpaṇa. After the meal, on his return from alms-round, he went to a certain forest grove for the day's meditation.

Tam vanasaṇḍam ajjhogāhetvā aññatarasmim rukkhamūle

Then in the late afternoon, Udāyī came out of retreat and went to the Buddha. He bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him:

“idha mayhaṃ, bhante, rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa evaṃ cetaso parivitakko udapādi:

In the past, mendicants went wandering for alms in the dark of the night. They walked into a swamp, or fell into a sewer, or collided with a thorn bush, or collided with a sleeping cow, or encountered youths escaping a crime or on their way to commit one, or were invited by a female to commit a lewd act.

Bhūtapubbāhaṃ, bhante, rattandhakāratimisāyaṃ piṇḍāya carāmi.

In the same way, take a person practicing to give up and let go of attachments.

Tameṇaṃ upadhipahānāya paṭipannaṃ upadhipaṭinissaggāya kadāci karahaci satisammosā upadhipaṭisaṃyuttā sarasaṅkappā samudācaranti;

As they do so, every so often they lose mindfulness, and memories and thoughts connected with attachments beset them.

dandho, udāyi, satuppādo.

Their mindfulness is slow to come up,

Atha kho naṃ khippameva pajahati, vinodeti, byantīkaroti, anabhāvaṃ gameti.

but they quickly give them up, get rid of, eliminate, and obliterate those thoughts.

Imampi kho ahaṃ, udāyi, puggalaṃ ‘saṃyutto’ti vadāmi no ‘visaṃyutto’.

I also call this person ‘fettered’, not ‘detached’.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Indriyavemattatā hi me, udāyi, imasmiṃ puggale veditā.

Because I understand the diversity of faculties as it applies to this person.

Idha panudāyi, ekacco puggalo ‘upadhi dukkhassa mūlan’ti—

Take another person who, understanding that attachment is the root of suffering, iti veditvā nirupadhi hoti, upadhisaṅkhaye vimutto.

is freed with the ending of attachments.

Imaṃ kho ahaṃ, udāyi, puggalaṃ ‘visaṃyutto’ti vadāmi no ‘saṃyutto’ti.

I call this person ‘detached’, not ‘fettered’.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Indriyavemattatā hi me, udāyi, imasmiṃ puggale veditā.

Because I understand the diversity of faculties as it applies to this person.

Ime kho, udāyi, cattāro puggalā santo saṃvijjamānā lokasmiṃ.

These are the four people found in the world.

Pañca kho ime, udāyi, kāmaguṇā.

Udāyī, these are the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Katame pañca?

What five?

Cakkhuviññeyyā rūpā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā
kāmuṇasamhitā rajanīyā,

Sights known by the eye that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

sotaviññeyyā saddā ...pe...

Sounds known by the ear ...

ghānaviññeyyā gandhā ...

Smells known by the nose ...

jivhāviññeyyā rasā ...

Tastes known by the tongue ...

kāyaviññeyyā phoṭṭhabbā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā
kāmuṇasamhitā rajanīyā.

Touches known by the body that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

Ime kho, udāyi, pañca kāmaguṇā.

These are the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Yaṃ kho, udāyi, ime pañca kāmaguṇe paṭicca uppajjati sukhaṃ somanassaṃ idaṃ vuccati kāmasukhaṃ miḥhasukhaṃ puthujjanasukhaṃ anariyasukhaṃ, na sevitabbaṃ, na bhāvetabbaṃ, na bahulīkātabbaṃ; ‘bhāyitabbaṃ etassa sukhassā’ti vadāmi.

The pleasure and happiness that arise from these five kinds of sensual stimulation is called sensual pleasure—a filthy, ordinary, ignoble pleasure. Such pleasure should not be cultivated or developed, but should be feared, I say.

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi ...pe... paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ
upasampajja viharati

Take a mendicant who, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption ...

vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ...pe... dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ
upasampajja viharati,
second absorption ...

pītiyā ca virāgā ...pe... tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati,
third absorption ...

sukhassa ca pahānā ...pe... catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.
fourth absorption.

Idaṃ vuccati nekkhammasukhaṃ pavivekasukhaṃ upasamasukhaṃ sambodhasukhaṃ, āsevitabbaṃ, bhāvetabbaṃ, bahulīkātabbaṃ; ‘na bhāyitabbaṃ etassa
sukhassā’ti vadāmi.

This is called the pleasure of renunciation, the pleasure of seclusion, the pleasure of peace, the pleasure of awakening. Such pleasure should be cultivated and developed, and should not be feared, I say.

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi ...pe... paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ
upasampajja viharati;

Take a mendicant who, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption.

idaṃ kho ahaṃ, udāyi, iñjitasmiṃ vadāmi.

This belongs to the perturbable, I say.

Kiñca tattha iñjitasmiṃ?

And what there belongs to the perturbable?

Yadeva tattha vitakkavicārā aniruddhā honti idaṃ tattha iñjitasmiṃ.

Whatever placing of the mind and keeping it connected has not ceased there is what belongs to the perturbable.

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ...pe... dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati;

Take a mendicant who, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, enters and remains in the second absorption.

idampi kho ahaṃ, udāyi, iñjitasmiṃ vadāmi.

This belongs to the perturbable, I say.

Kiñca tattha iñjitasmiṃ?

And what there belongs to the perturbable?

Yadeva tattha pītisukhaṃ aniruddhaṃ hoti idaṃ tattha iñjitasmiṃ.

Whatever rapture and bliss has not ceased there is what belongs to the perturbable.

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu pītiyā ca virāgā ...pe... tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati;

Take a mendicant who, with the fading away of rapture, enters and remains in the third absorption.

idampi kho ahaṃ, udāyi, iñjitasmiṃ vadāmi.

This belongs to the perturbable.

Kiñca tattha iñjitasmiṃ?

And what there belongs to the perturbable?

Yadeva tattha upekkhāsukhaṃ aniruddhaṃ hoti idaṃ tattha iñjitasmiṃ.

Whatever equanimous bliss has not ceased there is what belongs to the perturbable.

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu sukhasa ca pahānā ...pe... catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati;

Take a mendicant who, giving up pleasure and pain, enters and remains in the fourth absorption.

idaṃ kho ahaṃ, udāyi, aniñjitasmiṃ vadāmi.

This belongs to the imperturbable.

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi ...pe... paṭhamam̐ jhānam̐ upasampajja viharati;

Take a mendicant who, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption.

idam̐ kho aham̐, udāyi, ‘analan’ti vadāmi, ‘pajahathā’ti vadāmi, ‘samatikkamathā’ti vadāmi.

But this is not enough, I say: give it up, go beyond it.

Ko ca tassa samatikkamo?

And what goes beyond it?

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu vitakkavicārānam̐ vūpasamā ...pe... dutiyam̐ jhānam̐ upasampajja viharati, ayam̐ tassa samatikkamo;

Take a mendicant who, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, enters and remains in the second absorption. That goes beyond it.

idampi kho aham̐, udāyi, ‘analan’ti vadāmi, ‘pajahathā’ti vadāmi, ‘samatikkamathā’ti vadāmi.

But this too is not enough, I say: give it up, go beyond it.

Ko ca tassa samatikkamo?

And what goes beyond it?

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu pītiyā ca virāgā ...pe... tatiyam̐ jhānam̐ upasampajja viharati, ayam̐ tassa samatikkamo;

Take a mendicant who, with the fading away of rapture, enters and remains in the third absorption. That goes beyond it.

idampi kho aham̐, udāyi, ‘analan’ti vadāmi, ‘pajahathā’ti vadāmi, ‘samatikkamathā’ti vadāmi.

But this too is not enough, I say: give it up, go beyond it.

Ko ca tassa samatikkamo?

And what goes beyond it?

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu sukhasa ca pahānā ...pe... catuttham jhānam upasampajja viharati, ayam tassa samatikkamo;

Take a mendicant who, giving up pleasure and pain, enters and remains in the fourth absorption. That goes beyond it.

idampi kho aham, udāyi, ‘analan’ti vadāmi, ‘pajahathā’ti vadāmi, ‘samatikkamathā’ti vadāmi.

But this too is not enough, I say: give it up, go beyond it.

Ko ca tassa samatikkamo?

And what goes beyond it?

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu sabbaso rūpasaññānam samatikkamā paṭighasaññānam atthaṅgamā nānattasaññānam amanasikārā ‘ananto ākāso’ti ākāsañcāyatanam upasampajja viharati, ayam tassa samatikkamo;

Take a mendicant who, going totally beyond perceptions of form, with the ending of perceptions of impingement, not focusing on perceptions of diversity, aware that ‘space is infinite’, enters and remains in the dimension of infinite space. That goes beyond it.

idampi kho aham, udāyi, ‘analan’ti vadāmi, ‘pajahathā’ti vadāmi, ‘samatikkamathā’ti vadāmi.

But this too is not enough, I say: give it up, go beyond it.

Ko ca tassa samatikkamo?

And what goes beyond it?

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu sabbaso ākāsañcāyatanam samatikkamma ‘anantaṃ viññāṇan’ti viññāṇañcāyatanam upasampajja viharati,
ayam tassa samatikkamo;

Take a mendicant who, going totally beyond the dimension of infinite space, aware that ‘consciousness is infinite’, enters and remains in the dimension of infinite consciousness. That goes beyond it.

idampi kho aham, udāyi, ‘analan’ti vadāmi, ‘pajahathā’ti vadāmi, ‘samatikkamathā’ti vadāmi.

But this too is not enough, I say: give it up, go beyond it.

Ko ca tassa samatikkamo?

And what goes beyond it?

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu sabbaso viññāṇañcāyatanaṃ samatikkamma
'natthi kiñcī'ti ākiñcaññāyatanaṃ upasampajja viharati, ayaṃ tassa samatikkamo;

Take a mendicant who, going totally beyond the dimension of infinite consciousness, aware that 'there is nothing at all', enters and remains in the dimension of nothingness. That goes beyond it.

idampi kho ahaṃ, udāyi, 'analan'ti vadāmi, 'pajahathā'ti vadāmi,
'samatikkamathā'ti vadāmi.

But this too is not enough, I say: give it up, go beyond it.

Ko ca tassa samatikkamo?

And what goes beyond it?

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu sabbaso ākiñcaññāyatanaṃ samatikkamma nevasaññānāsaññāyatanaṃ upasampajja viharati, ayaṃ tassa samatikkamo;

Take a mendicant who, going totally beyond the dimension of nothingness, enters and remains in the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception. That goes beyond it.

idampi kho ahaṃ, udāyi, 'analan'ti vadāmi, 'pajahathā'ti vadāmi,
'samatikkamathā'ti vadāmi.

But this too is not enough, I say: give it up, go beyond it.

Ko ca tassa samatikkamo?

And what goes beyond it?

Idhudāyi, bhikkhu sabbaso nevasaññānāsaññāyatanaṃ samatikkamma saññāvedayitanirodhaṃ upasampajja viharati, ayaṃ tassa samatikkamo;

Take a mendicant who, going totally beyond the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception, enters and remains in the cessation of perception and feeling. That goes beyond it.

iti kho ahaṃ, udāyi, nevasaññānāsaññāyatanassapi pahānaṃ vadāmi.

So, Udāyī, I even recommend giving up the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception.

Passasi no tvaṃ, udāyi, taṃ saṃyojanaṃ aṇuṃ vā thūlaṃ vā yassāhaṃ no pahānaṃ vadāmi”ti?

Do you see any fetter, large or small, that I don't recommend giving up?"

“No hetāṃ, bhante”ti.

“No, sir.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamano āyasmā udāyī bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinandīti.

Satisfied, Venerable Udāyī was happy with what the Buddha said.

Laṭukikopamasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ chaṭṭhaṃ.

67. Cātumasutta At Cātumā

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā cātumāyam viharati āmalakīvane.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Cātumā in a myrobalan grove.

Tena kho pana samayena sāriputtamoggallānappamukhāni pañcamattāni bhikkhusatāni cātumam anuppattāni honti bhagavantam dassanāya.

Now at that time around five hundred mendicants headed by Sāriputta and Moggallāna arrived at Cātumā to see the Buddha.

Te ca āgantukā bhikkhū nevāsikehi bhikkhūhi saddhim paṭisammodamānā senāsanāni paññāpayamānā pattacīvarāni paṭisāmayamānā uccāsaddā mahāsaddā ahesum.

And the visiting mendicants, while exchanging pleasantries with the resident mendicants, preparing their lodgings, and putting away their bowls and robes, made a dreadful racket.

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to Venerable Ānanda,

“ke panete, ānanda, uccāsaddā mahāsaddā, kevaṭṭā maññe macchavilope”ti?

“Ānanda, who’s making that dreadful racket? You’d think it was fishermen hauling in a catch!”

“Etāni, bhante, sāriputtamoggallānappamukhāni pañcamattāni bhikkhusatāni cātumaṃ anuppattāni bhagavantaṃ dassanāya.
And Ānanda told him what had happened.

Te āgantukā bhikkhū nevāsikehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ paṭisammodamānā senāsanāni paññāpayamānā pattacīvarāni paṭisāmayamānā uccāsaddā mahāsaddā”ti.

“Tenahānanda, mama vacanena te bhikkhū āmantehi:
“Well then, Ānanda, in my name tell those mendicants that ‘sathā āyasmante āmantetī’”ti.

the teacher summons them.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho āyasmā ānando bhagavato paṭissutvā yena te bhikkhū tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā te bhikkhū etadavoca:

“Yes, sir,” Ānanda replied. He went to those mendicants and said,

“sathā āyasmante āmantetī”ti.

“Venerables, the teacher summons you.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato ānandassa paṭissutvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimṃsu; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimṃsu. Ekamantaṃ nisinne kho te bhikkhū bhagavā etadavoca:

“Yes, reverend,” replied those mendicants. Then they rose from their seats and went to the Buddha, bowed, and sat down to one side. The Buddha said to them:

“kiṃ nu tumhe, bhikkhave, uccāsaddā mahāsaddā, kevaṭṭā maññe macchavilope”ti?

“Mendicants, what’s with that dreadful racket? You’d think it was fishermen hauling in a catch!”

“Imāni, bhante, sāriputtamoggallānappamukhāni pañcamattāni bhikkhusatāni cātumaṃ anuppattāni bhagavantaṃ dassanāya.
And they told him what had happened.

Teme āgantukā bhikkhū nevāsikehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ paṭisammodamānā senāsanāni paññāpayamānā pattacīvarāni paṭisāmayamānā uccāsaddā mahāsaddā”ti.

“Gacchatha, bhikkhave, paṇāmemi vo, na vo mama santike vatthabban”ti.

“Go away, mendicants, I dismiss you. You are not to stay in my presence.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paṭissutvā uṭṭhāyāsanā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā senāsaṇaṃ saṃsāmetvā pattacīvaramādāya pakkamiṃsu.
“Yes, sir,” replied those mendicants. They got up from their seats, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on their right. They set their lodgings in order and left, taking their bowls and robes.

Tena kho pana samayena cātumeyyakā sakyā santhāgāre sannipatitā honti kenacideva karaṇīyena.

Now at that time the Sakyans of Cātumā were sitting together at the meeting hall on some business.

Addasaṃsu kho cātumeyyakā sakyā te bhikkhū dūratova āgacchante;

Seeing those mendicants coming off in the distance, disvāna yena te bhikkhū tenupasaṅkamimṃsu; upasaṅkamtivā te bhikkhū etadavocum:

they went up to them and said,

“handa kahaṃ pana tumhe āyasmanto gacchathā”ti?

“Hello venerables, where are you going?”

“Bhagavatā kho, āvuso, bhikkhusaṅgho paṇāmito”ti.

“Sirs, the mendicant Saṅgha has been dismissed by the Buddha.”

“Tenahāyasmanto muhuttaṃ nisīdatha, appeva nāma mayaṃ sakkuṇeyyāma bhagavantaṃ pasādetun”ti.

“Well then, venerables, sit here for a minute. Hopefully we’ll be able to restore the Buddha’s confidence.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū cātumeyyakānaṃ sakyānaṃ paccassosun.

“Yes, sirs,” replied the mendicants.

Atha kho cātumeyyakā sakyā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu. Ekamantaṃ nisinnā kho cātumeyyakā sakyā bhagavantaṃ etadavocun:

Then the Sakyans of Cātumā went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him:

“abhinandatu, bhante, bhagavā bhikkhusaṅghaṃ;

“May the Buddha approve of the mendicant Saṅgha!

abhivadatu, bhante, bhagavā bhikkhusaṅghaṃ.

Then Brahmā Sahampati knew what the Buddha was thinking. As easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, he vanished from the Brahmā realm and reappeared in front of the Buddha.

Atha kho brahmā sahampati ekaṃsaṃ uttarāsaṅgaṃ karitvā

Asakkhiṃsu kho cātumeyyakā ca sakyā brahmā ca sahampati bhagavantāṃ pasādetuṃ bījūpamena ca taruṇūpamena ca.

The Sakyans of Cātumā and Brahmā Sahampati were able to restore the Buddha's confidence with the similes of the seedlings and the calf.

Atha kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then Venerable Mahāmoggallāna addressed the mendicants, “uṭṭhethāvuso, gaṇhatha pattacīvaraṃ.

“Get up, reverends, and pick up your bowls and robes.

Pasādito bhagavā cātumeyyakehi ca sakyehi brahmunā ca sahapatinā bījūpamena ca taruṇūpamena cā”ti.

The Buddha’s confidence has been restored.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato mahāmoggallānassa paṭissutvā uṭṭhāyāsanā pattacīvaramādāya yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamim̐su; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam̐ abhivādetvā ekamantam̐ nisīdim̐su. Ekamantam̐ nisinnam̐ kho āyasmantam̐ sāriputtam̐ bhagavā etadavoca:

“Yes, reverend,” replied those mendicants. Then they rose from their seats and, taking their bowls and robes, went to the Buddha, bowed, and sat down to one side. The Buddha said to Venerable Sāriputta, “kinti te, sāriputta, ahosi mayā bhikkhusaṅghe paṇāmite”ti?

“Sāriputta, what did you think when the mendicant Saṅgha was dismissed by me?”

“Evaṃ kho me, bhante, ahosi:

“Sir, I thought this:

‘bhagavatā bhikkhusaṅgho paṇāmito.

‘The Buddha has dismissed the mendicant Saṅgha.

Appossukko dāni bhagavā diṭṭhadhammasukhavihāram̐ anuyutto viharissati, mayampi dāni appossukkā diṭṭhadhammasukhavihāramanuyuttā viharissāmā”ti.

Now he will remain passive, dwelling in blissful meditation in the present life, and so will we.”

“Āgamehi tvaṃ, sāriputta, āgamehi tvaṃ, sāriputta, diṭṭhadhammasukhavihāran”ti.

“Hold on, Sāriputta, hold on! Don’t you ever think such a thing again!”

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmantam̐ mahāmoggallānam̐ āmantesi:

Then the Buddha addressed Venerable Mahāmoggallāna, “kinti te, moggallāna, ahosi mayā bhikkhusaṅghe paṇāmite”ti?

“Moggallāna, what did you think when the mendicant Saṅgha was dismissed by me?”

“Evaṃ kho me, bhante, ahosi:

“Sir, I thought this:

Now he will remain passive, dwelling in blissful meditation in the present life. Meanwhile, Venerable Sāriputta and I will lead the mendicant Saṅgha.”

“Sādhu sādhu, moggallāna.

“Good, good, Moggallāna!

Ahaṃ vā hi, moggallāna, bhikkhusaṅghaṃ parihareyyaṃ sāriputtamoggallānā vā”ti.

For either I should lead the mendicant Saṅgha, or else Sāriputta and Moggallāna.”

Atha kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to the mendicants:

“cattārimāni, bhikkhave, bhayāni udakorohante pāṭikaṅkhitabbāni.

“Mendicants, when you go into the water you should anticipate four dangers.

Katamāni cattāri?

What four?

Ūmibhayaṃ, kumbhīlabhayaṃ, āvaṭṭabhayaṃ, susukābhayaṃ—

The dangers of waves, crocodiles, whirlpools, and sharks.

imāni, bhikkhave, cattāri bhayāni udakorohante
pāṭikaṅkhitabbāni.

These are the four dangers that anyone who enters the water should anticipate.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, cattārimāni bhayāni idhekacce puggale imasmiṃ dhammavinaye agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajite pāṭikaṅkhitabbāni.

In the same way, a gentleman who goes forth from the lay life to homelessness in this teaching and training should anticipate four dangers.

Katamāni cattāri?

What four?

Ūmibhayaṃ, kumbhīlabhayaṃ, āvaṭṭabhayaṃ, susukābhayaṃ.

The dangers of waves, crocodiles, whirlpools, and sharks.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, ūmibhayaṃ?

And what, mendicants, is the danger of waves?

Idha, bhikkhave, ekacco kulaputto saddhā agārasmā
anagāriyaṃ pabbajito hoti:

It's when a gentleman has gone forth from the lay life to homelessness, thinking:

‘otiṇṇomhi jātiyā jarāya maraṇena sokehi paridevehi dukkhehi
domanassehi upāyāsehi dukkhotiṇṇo dukkhapareto;

‘I'm swamped by rebirth, old age, and death; by sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress. I'm swamped by suffering, mired in suffering.

appeva nāma imassa kevalassa dukkhakkhandhassa antakiriyaṃ paññāyethā'ti.

Hopefully I can find an end to this entire mass of suffering.'

Tamenam tathā pabbajitam samānam sabrahmacārī ovadanti, anusāsanti:

When they've gone forth, their spiritual companions advise and instruct them:

‘evam te abhikkamitabbam, evam te paṭikkamitabbam, evam te ālokitabbam, evam te vilokitabbam, evam te samiñjitabbam, evam te pasāritabbam, evam te saṅghāṭipattacīvaram dhāretabban’ti.

‘You should go out like this, and come back like that. You should look to the front like this, and to the side like that. You should contract your limbs like this, and extend them like that. This is how you should bear your outer robe, bowl, and robes.’

Tassa evam hoti:

They think:

‘mayam kho pubbe agāriyabhūtā samānā aññe ovadāma, anusāsāma.

‘Formerly, as laypeople, we advised and instructed others.

Ime panamhākam puttamattā maññe, nattamattā maññe, amhe ovaḍitabbam anusāsitabbam maññantī’ti.

And now these mendicants—who you’d think were our children or grandchildren—imagine they can advise and instruct us!’

So sikkham paccakkhāya hīnāyāvattati.

They reject the training and return to a lesser life.

Ayam vuccati, bhikkhave, ūmibhayassa bhīto sikkham paccakkhāya hīnāyāvatto.

This is called one who rejects the training and returns to a lesser life because they’re afraid of the danger of waves.

‘Ūmibhayan’ti kho, bhikkhave, kodhupāyāsassetam adhivacanam.

‘Danger of waves’ is a term for anger and distress.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, kumbhīlabhayam?

And what, mendicants, is the danger of crocodiles?

Idha, bhikkhave, ekacco kulaputto saddhā agāasmā
anagāriyaṃ pabbajito hoti:

It's when a gentleman has gone forth from the lay life to homelessness, thinking:

‘otiṇṇomhi jātiyā jarāya maraṇena sokehi paridevehi dukkhehi domanassehi upāyāsehi dukkhotiṇṇo dukkhapareto;

‘I'm swamped by rebirth, old age, and death; by sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress. I'm swamped by suffering, mired in suffering.

appeva nāma imassa kevalassa dukkhakkhandhassa antakiriyaṃ
paññāyethā'ti.

Hopefully I can find an end to this entire mass of suffering.'

Tamenam tathā pabbajitaṃ samānaṃ sabrahmacārī ovadanti anusāsanti:

When they've gone forth, their spiritual companions advise and instruct them:

‘idaṃ te khāditabbaṃ, idaṃ te na khāditabbaṃ; idaṃ te pātabban'ti.

‘You may eat, consume, taste, and drink these things, but not those.
You may eat what's allowable, but not what's unallowable. You may eat at the right time, but not at the wrong time.'

Tassa evaṃ hoti: ‘mayaṃ kho pubbe agāriyabhūtā samānā yaṃ icchāma taṃ khādāma, yaṃ na icchāma na taṃ khādāma; yaṃ

icchāma taṃ bhuñjāma, yaṃ na icchāma na taṃ bhuñjāma; yaṃ icchāma taṃ sāyāma, yaṃ na icchāma na taṃ sāyāma; yaṃ icchāma taṃ pivāma, yaṃ na icchāma na taṃ pivāma;

They think: ‘When we were laypeople, we used to eat, consume, taste, and drink what we wanted, not what we didn’t want.

kappiyampi khādāma, akappiyampi khādāma; kappiyampi bhuñjāma, akappiyampi bhuñjāma; kappiyampi sāyāma, akappiyampi sāyāma; kappiyampi pivāma, akappiyampi pivāma; kālepi khādāma, vikālepi khādāma; kālepi bhuñjāma vikālepi bhuñjāma; kālepi sāyāma, vikālepi sāyāma; kālepi pivāma, vikālepi pivāma.

We ate and drank both allowable and unallowable things, at the right time and the wrong time.

Yampi no saddhā gahapatikā divā vikāle paṇītaṃ khādanīyaṃ bhojanīyaṃ denti tatthapime mukhāvaraṇaṃ maññe karontī’ti.

And these faithful householders give us a variety of delicious foods at the wrong time of day. But these mendicants imagine they can gag our mouths!’

So sikkhaṃ paccakkhāya hīnāyāvattati.

They reject the training and return to a lesser life.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, kumbhīlabhayassa bhīto sikkhaṃ paccakkhāya hīnāyāvatto.

This is called one who rejects the training and returns to a lesser life because they’re afraid of the danger of crocodiles.

‘Kumbhīlabhayaṃ’ti kho, bhikkhave, odarikattassetamādhivacanaṃ.

‘Danger of crocodiles’ is a term for gluttony.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, āvaṭṭabhayaṃ?

And what, mendicants, is the danger of whirlpools?

Idha, bhikkhave, ekacco kulaputto saddhā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito hoti:

It's when a gentleman has gone forth from the lay life to homelessness, thinking:

‘otiṇṇomhi jātiyā jarāya maraṇena sokehi paridevehi dukkhehi domanassehi upāyāsehi dukkhotiṇṇo dukkhapareto;

‘I’m swamped by rebirth, old age, and death; by sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress. I’m swamped by suffering, mired in suffering.

appeva nāma imassa kevalassa dukkhakkhandhassa antakiriyā paññāyethā’ti.

Hopefully I can find an end to this entire mass of suffering.’

So evaṃ pabbajito samāno pubbaṇhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya gāmaṃ vā nigamaṃ vā piṇḍāya pavisati.

When they’ve gone forth, they robe up in the morning and, taking their bowl and robe, enter a village or town for alms without guarding body, speech, and mind, without establishing mindfulness, and without restraining the sense faculties.

Arakkhiteneva kāyena arakkhitāya vācāya anupaṭṭhitāya satiyā asaṃvutehi indriyehi so tattha passati gahapatim vā gahapatiputtam vā pañcahi kāmagaṇehi samappitam samaṅgībhūtam paricārayamānam.

There they see a householder or their child amusing themselves, supplied and provided with the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Tassa evaṃ hoti:

They think:

‘mayam kho pubbe agāriyabhūtā samānā pañcahi kāmagaṇehi samappitā samaṅgībhūtā paricārimhā.

‘Formerly, as laypeople, we amused ourselves, supplied and provided with the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Saṃvijjanti kho pana me kule bhogā.

And it’s true that my family is wealthy.

Sakkā bhoge ca bhuñjitum puññāni ca kātun’ti.

I can both enjoy my wealth and make merit.’

So sikkhaṃ paccakkhāya hīnāyāvattati.

They reject the training and return to a lesser life.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, āvaṭṭabhayassa bhīto sikkhaṃ paccakkhāya hīnāyāvatto.

This is called one who rejects the training and returns to a lesser life because they're afraid of the danger of whirlpools.

'Āvaṭṭabhayan'ti kho, bhikkhave, pañcannetaṃ kāmagaṇānaṃ adhivacanaṃ.

'Danger of whirlpools' is a term for the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, susukābhayaṃ?

And what, mendicants, is the danger of sharks?

Idha, bhikkhave, ekacco kulaputto saddhā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito hoti:

It's when a gentleman has gone forth from the lay life to homelessness, thinking:

'otiṇṇomhi jātiyā jarāya maraṇena sokehi paridevehi dukkhehi domanassehi upāyāsehi dukkhotiṇṇo dukkhapareto;

'I'm swamped by rebirth, old age, and death; by sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress. I'm swamped by suffering, mired in suffering.

appeva nāma imassa kevalassa dukkhakkhandhassa antakiriyaṃ paññāyethā'ti.

Hopefully I can find an end to this entire mass of suffering.'

So evaṃ pabbajito samāno pubbaṇhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya gāmaṃ vā nigamaṃ vā piṇḍāya pavisati.

When they've gone forth, they robe up in the morning and, taking their bowl and robe, enter a village or town for alms without guarding body, speech, and mind, without establishing mindfulness, and without restraining the sense faculties.

Arakkhiteneva kāyena arakkhitāya vācāya anupaṭṭhitāya satiyā asaṃvutehi indriyehi so tattha passati mātugāmaṃ dunnivatthaṃ vā duppārutam vā.

There they see a female scantily clad, with revealing clothes.

Tassa mātugāmaṃ disvā dunnivatthaṃ vā duppārutam vā rāgo cittam anuddhamseti.

Lust infects their mind,

So rāgānuddhamāsenā cittaṃ sikkham paccakkhāya hīnāyāvattati.

so they reject the training and return to a lesser life.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, susukābhayassa bhīto sikkham paccakkhāya hīnāyāvatto.

This is called one who rejects the training and returns to a lesser life because they're afraid of the danger of sharks.

'Susukābhayan'ti kho, bhikkhave, mātugāmassetaṃ adhivacanaṃ.

'Danger of sharks' is a term for females.

Imāni kho, bhikkhave, cattāri bhayāni, idhekacce puggale imasmim dhammavinaye agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajite pāṭikaṅkhitabbānī"ti.

These are the four dangers that a gentleman who goes forth from the lay life to homelessness in this teaching and training should anticipate."

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Cātumasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ sattamaṃ.

68. Naḷakapānasutta At Naḷakapāna

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava kosalesu viharati naḷakapāne palāsavane.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Kosalans near Naḷakapāna in the Parrot Tree grove.

Tena kho pana samayena sambahulā abhiññātā abhiññātā kulaputtā bhagavantam uddissa saddhā agāasmā anagāriyam pabbajitā honti—

Now at that time several very well-known gentlemen had gone forth from the lay life to homelessness out of faith in the Buddha—

āyasmā ca anuruddho, āyasmā ca bhaddiyo, āyasmā ca kimilo, āyasmā ca bhagu, āyasmā ca koṇḍañño, āyasmā ca revato, āyasmā ca ānando, aññe ca abhiññātā abhiññātā kulaputtā.

The venerables Anuruddha, Bhaddiya, Kimbila, Bhagu, Koṇḍañña, Revata, Ānanda, and other very well-known gentlemen.

Tena kho pana samayena bhagava bhikkhusaṅghaparivuto abbhokāse nisinno hoti.

Now at that time the Buddha was sitting in the open, surrounded by the mendicant Saṅgha.

Atha kho bhagava te kulaputte ārabha bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha spoke to the mendicants about those gentlemen:

“ye te, bhikkhave, kulaputtā mamaṃ uddissa saddhā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajitā, kacci te, bhikkhave, bhikkhū abhiratā brahmacariye”ti?

“Mendicants, those gentlemen who have gone forth from the lay life to homelessness out of faith in me—I trust they’re satisfied with the spiritual life?”

Evam vutte, te bhikkhū tuṅhī ahesuṃ.

When this was said, the mendicants kept silent.

Dutiyampi kho bhagavā te kulaputte ārabba bhikkhū āmantesi:

For a second and a third time the Buddha asked the same question.

“ye te, bhikkhave, kulaputtā mamaṃ uddissa saddhā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajitā, kacci te, bhikkhave, bhikkhū abhiratā brahmacariye”ti?

Dutiyampi kho te bhikkhū tuṅhī ahesuṃ.

Tatīyampi kho bhagavā te kulaputte ārabba bhikkhū āmantesi:

“ye te, bhikkhave, kulaputtā mamaṃ uddissa saddhā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajitā, kacci te, bhikkhave, bhikkhū abhiratā brahmacariye”ti?

Tatīyampi kho te bhikkhū tuṅhī ahesuṃ.

For a third time, the mendicants kept silent.

Atha kho bhagavato etadahosi:

Then it occurred to the Buddha,

“yannūnāhaṃ te kulaputte puccheyyan”ti.

“Why don’t I question just those gentlemen?”

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ anuruddhaṃ āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to Venerable Anuruddha,

“kacci tumhe, anuruddhā, abhiratā brahmacariye”ti?

“Anuruddha and friends, I hope you’re satisfied with the spiritual life?”

“Taggha mayaṃ, bhante, abhiratā brahmacariye”ti.

“Indeed, sir, we are satisfied with the spiritual life.”

“Sādhu sādhu, anuruddhā.

“Good, good, Anuruddha and friends!

Etaṃ kho, anuruddhā, tumhākaṃ patirūpaṃ kulaputtānaṃ saddhā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajitānaṃ yaṃ tumhe abhiraṃeyyātha brahmacariye.

It’s appropriate for gentlemen like yourselves, who have gone forth in faith from the lay life to homelessness, to be satisfied with the spiritual life.

Yena tumhe, anuruddhā, bhadrena yobbanena samannāgatā paṭhamena vayasā susukāḷakesā kāme paribhuñjeyyātha tena tumhe, anuruddhā, bhadrenapi yobbanena samannāgatā paṭhamena vayasā susukāḷakesā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajitā.

Since you’re blessed with youth, in the prime of life, black-haired, you could have enjoyed sensual pleasures; yet you have gone forth from the lay life to homelessness.

Te ca kho pana tumhe, anuruddhā, neva rājābhinītā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajitā, na corābhinītā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajitā, na iṇaṭṭā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajitā, na bhayaṭṭā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajitā, nājīvikāpakatā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajitā.

But you didn’t go forth because you were forced to by kings or bandits, or because you’re in debt or threatened, or to earn a living.

Api ca khomhi otiṇṇo jātiyā jarāya maraṇena sokehi paridevehi dukkhehi domanassehi upāyāsehi, dukkhotiṇṇo dukkhapareto;
Rather, didn’t you go forth thinking: ‘I’m swamped by rebirth, old age, and death; by sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress. I’m swamped by suffering, mired in suffering.

appeva nāma imassa kevalassa dukkhakkhandhassa antakiriya
paññāyethāti—

Hopefully I can find an end to this entire mass of suffering’?”

nanu tumhe, anuruddhā, evaṃ saddhā agāasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajitā”ti?

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Evaṃ pabbajitena ca pana, anuruddhā, kulaputtena kimassa karaṇīyaṃ?

“But, Anuruddha and friends, when a gentleman has gone forth like this, what should he do?

Vivekaṃ, anuruddhā, kāmehi vivekaṃ akusalehi dhammehi pītisukhaṃ nādhigacchati aññaṃ vā tato santataraṃ, tassa abhijjhāpi cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhati, byāpādopi cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhati, thinamiddhampi cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhati uddhaccakukkucampi cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhati, vicikicchāpi cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhati, aratīpi cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhati, tandīpi cittaṃ pariyādāya tiṭṭhati.

Vivekaṃ, anuruddhā, kāmehi vivekaṃ akusalehi dhammehi pītisukhaṃ nādhigacchati aññaṃ vā tato santataraṃ.

Vivekaṃ, anuruddhā, kāmehi vivekaṃ akusalehi dhammehi pītisukhaṃ adhigacchati aññaṃ vā tato santataraṃ.

That's someone who does achieve the rapture and bliss that are secluded from sensual pleasures and unskillful qualities, or something even more peaceful than that.

Kinti vo, anuruddhā, mayi hoti:

Is this what you think of me?

‘ye āsavā saṅkilesikā ponobbhavikā sadarā dukkhavipākā āyatim jātijarāmarañiyā, appahīnā te tathāgatassa;

‘The Realized One has not given up the defilements, the corruptions that lead to future lives and are hurtful, resulting in suffering and future rebirth, old age, and death.

tasmā tathāgato saṅkhāyekaṃ paṭisevati, saṅkhāyekaṃ adhvāseti, saṅkhāyekaṃ parivajjeti, saṅkhāyekaṃ vinodeti’”ti?

That's why, after reflection, he uses some things, endures some things, avoids some things, and gets rid of some things.”

“Na kho no, bhante, bhagavati evaṃ hoti:

“No sir, we don't think of you that way.

‘ye āsavā saṅkilesikā ponobbhavikā sadarā dukkhavipākā āyatim jātijarāmarañiyā, appahīnā te tathāgatassa;

tasmā tathāgato saṅkhāyekaṃ paṭisevati, saṅkhāyekaṃ adhvāseti, saṅkhāyekaṃ parivajjeti, saṅkhāyekaṃ vinodeti’”ti.

Evaṃ kho no, bhante, bhagavati hoti:

We think of you this way:

‘ye āsavā saṅkilesikā ponobbhavikā sadarā dukkhavipākā āyatim jātijarāmarāṇiyā, pahīnā te tathāgatassa;

‘The Realized One has given up the defilements, the corruptions that lead to future lives and are hurtful, resulting in suffering and future rebirth, old age, and death.

tasmā tathāgato saṅkhāyekaṃ paṭisevati, saṅkhāyekaṃ adhivāseti, saṅkhāyekaṃ parivajjeti, saṅkhāyekaṃ vinodeti””ti.

That’s why, after reflection, he uses some things, endures some things, avoids some things, and gets rid of some things.”

“Sādhu sādhu, anuruddhā.

“Good, good, Anuruddha and friends!

Tathāgatassa, anuruddhā, ye āsavā saṅkilesikā ponobbhavikā

anuppādadhammā.

The Realized One has given up the defilements, the corruptions that lead to future lives and are hurtful, resulting in suffering and future rebirth, old age, and death. He has cut them off at the root, made them like a palm stump, obliterated them so they are unable to arise in the future.

Seyyathāpi, anuruddhā, tālo matthakacchinno abhabbo

Just as a palm tree with its crown cut off is incapable of further growth, evameva kho, anuruddhā, tathāgatassa ye āsavā saṅkilesikā pahīnā te ucchinnamūlā tālāvatthukatā anabhāvaṅkatā āyatim

anuppādadhammā;

in the same way, the Realized One has given up the defilements so they are unable to arise in the future.

tasmā tathāgato saṅkhāyekaṃ paṭisevati, saṅkhāyekaṃ adhivāseti, saṅkhāyekaṃ parivajjeti, saṅkhāyekaṃ vinodeti.

That's why, after reflection, he uses some things, endures some things, avoids some things, and gets rid of some things.

Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, anuruddhā,

What do you think, Anuruddha and friends?

kaṃ atthavasam̐ sampassamāno tathāgato sāvake abbatīte

What advantage does the Realized One see in declaring the rebirth of his disciples who have passed away:

‘asu amutra upapanno; asu amutra upapanno’”ti?

‘This one is reborn here, while that one is reborn there’?”

“Bhagavaṃmūlakā no, bhante, dhammā bhagavaṃnettikā

“Our teachings are rooted in the Buddha. He is our guide and our refuge. Sir, may the Buddha himself please clarify the meaning of this. The mendicants will listen and remember it.”

“Na kho, anuruddhā, tathāgato janakuhanattham̐ na janalapanattham̐ na lābhasakkārasilokānisamsattham̐ na ‘iti byākaroti:

“The Realized One does not declare such things for the sake of deceiving people or flattering them, nor for the benefit of possessions, honor, or popularity, nor thinking, ‘So let people know about me!’

‘asu amutra upapanno, asu amutra upapanno’”ti.

Santi ca kho, anuruddhā, kulaputtā saddhā uḷāavedā

Rather, there are gentlemen of faith who are full of sublime joy and gladness.

Te taṃ sutvā tadatthāya cittaṃ upasaṃharanti.

When they hear that, they apply their minds to that end.

Tesaṃ taṃ, anuruddhā, hoti dīgharattaṃ hitāya sukhāya.

That is for their lasting welfare and happiness.

Idhānuruddhā, bhikkhu suṇāti:

Take a monk who hears this:

‘itthannāmo bhikkhu kālaṅkato;

‘The monk named so-and-so has passed away.

Recollecting that monk’s faith, ethics, learning, generosity, and wisdom, he applies his mind to that end.

Evampi kho, anuruddhā, bhikkhuno phāsuvihāro hoti.

That’s how a monk lives at ease.

Idhānuruddhā, bhikkhu suṇāti:

Take a monk who hears this:

had such ethics, such qualities, such wisdom, such meditation, or such freedom.

So tassa saddhaṅca sīlaṅca sutaṅca cāgaṅca paññaṅca

Recollecting that monk’s faith, ethics, learning, generosity, and wisdom, he applies his mind to that end.

Evampi kho, anuruddhā, bhikkhuno phāsuvihāro hoti.

That too is how a monk lives at ease.

Idhānuruddhā, bhikkhu suṇāti:

Take a monk who hears this:

69. Goliyānisutta With Gulissāni

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā rājagahe viharati veļuvane
kalandakanivāpe.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tena kho pana samayena goliyāni nāma bhikkhu āraññiko padasamācāro saṅghamajjhe osaṭo hoti kenacideva karaṇīyena.

Now at that time a wilderness mendicant of lax behavior named Gulissāni had come down to the midst of the Saṅgha on some business.

Tatra kho āyasmā sāriputto goliyāniṃ bhikkhuṃ ārabha bhikkhū āmantesi:

There Venerable Sāriputta spoke to the mendicants about Gulissāni:

“Āraññikenāvuso, bhikkhunā saṅhagatena saṅghe viharantena sabrahmacārīsu sagāravena bhavitabbaṃ sappatissena.

“Reverends, a wilderness monk who has come to stay in the Saṅgha should have respect and reverence for his spiritual companions.

Sace, āvuso, āraññiko bhikkhu saṅhagato saṅghe viharanto sabrahmacārīsu agāravo hoti appatisso, tassa bhavanti vattāro.

If he doesn't, there'll be some who say:

‘Kiṃ panimassāyasmato āraññikassa ekassāraññe serivihārena, yo ayamāyasmā sabrahmacārīsu agāravo hoti appatisso’ti—
‘What’s the point of this wilderness venerable’s staying alone and autonomous in the wilderness, since he has no respect and reverence for his spiritual companions?’

tassa bhavanti vattāro.

Tasmā āraññikena bhikkhunā saṅghagatena saṅghe viharantena sabrahmacārīsu sagāravena bhavitabbaṃ sappatissena. (1)

That’s why a wilderness monk who has come to stay in the Saṅgha should have respect and reverence for his spiritual companions.

Āraññikenāvuso, bhikkhunā saṅghagatena saṅghe viharantena āsanakusalena bhavitabbaṃ:

A wilderness monk who has come to stay in the Saṅgha should be careful where he sits, thinking:

‘iti there ca bhikkhū nānupakhajja nisīdissāmi nave ca bhikkhū na āsanena paṭibāhissāmī’ti.

‘I shall sit so that I don’t intrude on the senior monks and I don’t block the junior monks from a seat.’

Sace, āvuso, āraññiko bhikkhu saṅghagato saṅghe viharanto na āsanakusalo hoti, tassa bhavanti vattāro.

If he doesn’t, there’ll be some who say:

‘Kiṃ panimassāyasmato āraññikassa ekassāraññe serivihārena, yo ayamāyasmā āsanakusalo na hotī’ti—

‘What’s the point of this wilderness venerable’s staying alone and autonomous in the wilderness, since he’s not careful where he sits?’

tassa bhavanti vattāro.

Tasmā āraññikena bhikkhunā saṅghagatena saṅghe viharantena āsanakusalena bhavitabbaṃ. (2)

That’s why a wilderness monk who has come to stay in the Saṅgha should be careful where he sits.

Āraññikenāvuso, bhikkhunā saṅghagatena saṅghe viharantena ābhisamācārikopi dhammo jānitabbo.

A wilderness monk who has come to stay in the Saṅgha should know even the supplementary regulations.

Sace, āvuso, āraññiko bhikkhu saṅghagato saṅghe viharanto ābhisamācārikampi dhammaṃ na jānāti, tassa bhavanti vattāro.

If he doesn't, there'll be some who say:

‘Kiṃ panimassāyasmato āraññikassa ekassāraññe serivihārena yo ayamāyasmā ābhisamācārikampi dhammaṃ na jānātī’ti—

‘What’s the point of this wilderness venerable’s staying alone and autonomous in the wilderness, since he doesn’t even know the supplementary regulations?’

tassa bhavanti vattāro.

Tasmā āraññikena bhikkhunā saṅghagatena saṅghe viharantena ābhisamācārikopi dhammo jānitabbo. (3)

That’s why a wilderness monk who has come to stay in the Saṅgha should know even the supplementary regulations.

Āraññikenāvuso, bhikkhunā saṅghagatena saṅghe viharantena nātikālena gāmo pavisitabbo nātidivā paṭikkamittaṃ.

A wilderness monk who has come to stay in the Saṅgha shouldn’t enter the village too early or return too late in the day.

Sace, āvuso, āraññiko bhikkhu saṅghagato saṅghe viharanto atikālena gāmaṃ pavisati atidivā paṭikkamati, tassa bhavanti vattāro.

If he does so, there’ll be some who say:

‘Kiṃ panimassāyasmato āraññikassa ekassāraññe serivihārena yo ayamāyasmā atikālena gāmaṃ pavisati atidivā paṭikkamatī’ti

‘What’s the point of this wilderness venerable’s staying alone and autonomous in the wilderness, since he enters the village too early or returns too late in the day?’

tassa bhavanti vattāro.

Tasmā āraññikena bhikkhunā saṅghagatena saṅghe viharantena nātikālena gāmo pavisitabbo, nātidivā paṭikkamitabbaṃ. (4)

That's why a wilderness monk who has come to stay in the Saṅgha shouldn't enter the village too early or return too late in the day.

Āraññikenāvuso, bhikkhunā saṅghagatena saṅghe viharantena na purebhattaṃ pacchābhattaṃ kulesu cārittaṃ āpajjitabbaṃ.

A wilderness monk who has come to stay in the Saṅgha shouldn't socialize with families before or after the meal.

Sace, āvuso, āraññiko bhikkhu saṅghagato saṅghe viharanto purebhattaṃ pacchābhattaṃ kulesu cārittaṃ āpajjati, tassa bhavanti vattāro.

If he does so, there'll be some who say:

'Ayaṃ nūnimassāyasmato āraññikassa ekassāraññe serivihārena viharato vikālacariyā bahuḷikatā, tamenam saṅghagatampi samudācaratī'ti—

'This wilderness venerable, staying alone and autonomous in the wilderness, must be used to wandering about at the wrong time, since he behaves like this when he's come to the Saṅgha.'

tassa bhavanti vattāro.

Tasmā āraññikena bhikkhunā saṅghagatena saṅghe viharantena na purebhattaṃ pacchābhattaṃ kulesu cārittaṃ āpajjitabbaṃ. (5)

That's why a wilderness monk who has come to stay in the Saṅgha shouldn't socialize with families before or after the meal.

Āraññikenāvuso, bhikkhunā saṅghagatena saṅghe viharantena anuddhatena bhavitabbaṃ acapalena.

A wilderness monk who has come to stay in the Saṅgha shouldn't be restless and fickle.

Sace, āvuso, āraññiko bhikkhu saṅghagato saṅghe viharanto uddhato hoti capalo, tassa bhavanti vattāro.

If he is, there'll be some who say:

'Idaṃ nūnimassāyasmato āraññikassa ekassāraññe serivihārena viharato uddhaccaṃ cāpalyaṃ bahuḷīkataṃ, tamenāṃ saṅghagatampi samudācaratī'ti—

'This wilderness venerable, staying alone and autonomous in the wilderness, must be used to being restless and fickle, since he behaves like this when he's come to the Saṅgha.'

tassa bhavanti vattāro.

Tasmā āraññikena bhikkhunā saṅghagatena saṅghe viharantena anuddhatena bhavitabbaṃ acapalena. (6)

That's why a wilderness monk who has come to stay in the Saṅgha shouldn't be restless and fickle.

Āraññikenāvuso, bhikkhunā saṅghagatena saṅghe viharantena amukharena bhavitabbaṃ avikiṇṇavācena.

A wilderness monk who has come to stay in the Saṅgha shouldn't be gossipy and loose-tongued.

Sace, āvuso, āraññiko bhikkhu saṅghagato saṅghe viharanto mukharo hoti vikiṇṇavāco, tassa bhavanti vattāro.

If he is, there'll be some who say:

'Kiṃ panimassāyasmato āraññikassa ekassāraññe serivihārena yo ayamāyasmā mukharo vikiṇṇavāco'ti—

'What's the point of this wilderness venerable's staying alone and autonomous in the wilderness, since he's gossipy and loose-tongued?'

tassa bhavanti vattāro.

Tasmā āraññikena bhikkhunā saṅghagatena saṅghe viharantena amukharena bhavitabbaṃ avikiṇṇavācena. (7)

That's why a wilderness monk who has come to stay in the Saṅgha shouldn't be gossipy and loose-tongued.

Āraññikenāvuso, bhikkhunā saṅhagatena saṅghe viharantena suvacena bhavitabbaṃ kalyāṇamittena.

A wilderness monk who has come to stay in the Saṅgha should be easy to admonish, with good friends.

Sace, āvuso, āraññiko bhikkhu saṅhagato saṅghe viharanto dubbaco hoti pāpamitto, tassa bhavanti vattāro.

If he's hard to admonish, with bad friends, there'll be some who say:

'Kiṃ panimassāyasmato āraññikassa ekassāraññe serivihārena yo ayamāyasmā dubbaco pāpamitto'ti—

'What's the point of this wilderness venerable's staying alone and autonomous in the wilderness, since he's hard to admonish, with bad friends?'

tassa bhavanti vattāro.

Tasmā āraññikena bhikkhunā saṅhagatena saṅghe viharantena suvacena bhavitabbaṃ kalyāṇamittena. (8)

That's why a wilderness monk who has come to stay in the Saṅgha should be easy to admonish, with good friends.

Āraññikenāvuso, bhikkhunā indriyesu guttadvārena bhavitabbaṃ.

A wilderness monk should guard the sense doors.

Sace, āvuso, āraññiko bhikkhu indriyesu aguttadvāro hoti, tassa bhavanti vattāro.

If he doesn't, there'll be some who say:

'Kiṃ panimassāyasmato āraññikassa ekassāraññe serivihārena yo ayamāyasmā indriyesu aguttadvāro'ti—

'What's the point of this wilderness venerable's staying alone and autonomous in the wilderness, since he doesn't guard the sense doors?'

tassa bhavanti vattāro.

Tasmā āraññikena bhikkhunā indriyesu guttadvārena bhavitabbaṃ. (9)

That's why a wilderness monk should guard the sense doors.

Āraññikenāvuso, bhikkhunā bhojane mattaññunā bhavitabbaṃ.

A wilderness monk should eat in moderation.

Sace, āvuso, āraññiko bhikkhu bhojane amattaññū hoti, tassa bhavanti vattāro.

If he doesn't, there'll be some who say:

'Kiṃ panimassāyasmato āraññikassa ekassāraññe serivihārena yo ayamāyasmā bhojane amattaññū'ti—

'What's the point of this wilderness venerable's staying alone and autonomous in the wilderness, since he eats too much?'

tassa bhavanti vattāro.

Tasmā āraññikena bhikkhunā bhojane mattaññunā bhavitabbaṃ. (10)

That's why a wilderness monk should eat in moderation.

Āraññikenāvuso, bhikkhunā jāgariyaṃ anuyuttena bhavitabbaṃ.

A wilderness monk should be committed to wakefulness.

Sace, āvuso, āraññiko bhikkhu jāgariyaṃ ananuyutto hoti, tassa bhavanti vattāro.

If he isn't, there'll be some who say:

'Kiṃ panimassāyasmato āraññikassa ekassāraññe serivihārena yo ayamāyasmā jāgariyaṃ ananuyutto'ti—

'What's the point of this wilderness venerable's staying alone and autonomous in the wilderness, since he's not committed to wakefulness?'

tassa bhavanti vattāro.

Tasmā āraññikena bhikkhunā jāgariyaṃ anuyuttena bhavitabbaṃ. (11)

That's why a wilderness monk should be committed to wakefulness.

Āraññikenāvuso, bhikkhunā āraddhavīriyena bhavitabbaṃ.
A wilderness monk should be energetic.

Sace, āvuso, āraññiko bhikkhu kusīto hoti, tassa bhavanti vattāro.

If he isn't, there'll be some who say:

‘Kiṃ panimassāyasmato āraññikassa ekassāraññe serivihārena yo ayamāyasmā kusīto’ti—

‘What’s the point of this wilderness venerable’s staying alone and autonomous in the wilderness, since he’s not energetic?’

tassa bhavanti vattāro.

Tasmā āraññikena bhikkhunā āraddhavīriyena bhavitabbaṃ.
(12)

That’s why a wilderness monk should be energetic.

Āraññikenāvuso, bhikkhunā upaṭṭhitassatinā bhavitabbaṃ.
A wilderness monk should be mindful.

Sace, āvuso, āraññiko bhikkhu muṭṭhassatī hoti, tassa bhavanti vattāro.

If he isn't, there'll be some who say:

‘Kiṃ panimassāyasmato āraññikassa ekassāraññe serivihārena yo ayamāyasmā muṭṭhassatī’ti—

‘What’s the point of this wilderness venerable’s staying alone and autonomous in the wilderness, since he’s not mindful?’

tassa bhavanti vattāro.

Tasmā āraññikena bhikkhunā upaṭṭhitassatinā bhavitabbaṃ.
(13)

That’s why a wilderness monk should be mindful.

Āraññikenāvuso, bhikkhunā samāhitena bhavitabbaṃ.
A wilderness monk should have immersion.

Sace, āvuso, āraññiko bhikkhu asamāhito hoti, tassa bhavanti vattāro.

If he doesn't, there'll be some who say:

'Kim panimassāyasmato āraññikassa ekassāraññe serivihārena yo ayamāyasmā asamāhito'ti—

'What's the point of this wilderness venerable's staying alone and autonomous in the wilderness, since he doesn't have immersion?'

tassa bhavanti vattāro.

Tasmā āraññikena bhikkhunā samāhitena bhavitabbaṃ. (14)

That's why a wilderness monk should have immersion.

Āraññikenāvuso, bhikkhunā paññavatā bhavitabbaṃ.

A wilderness monk should be wise.

Sace, āvuso, āraññiko bhikkhu duppañño hoti, tassa bhavanti vattāro.

If he isn't, there'll be some who say:

'Kim panimassāyasmato āraññikassa ekassāraññe serivihārena yo ayamāyasmā duppañño'ti—

'What's the point of this wilderness venerable's staying alone and autonomous in the wilderness, since he's not wise?'

tassa bhavanti vattāro.

Tasmā āraññikena bhikkhunā paññavatā bhavitabbaṃ. (15)

That's why a wilderness monk should be wise.

Āraññikenāvuso, bhikkhunā abhidhamme abhivinaye yogo karaṇīyo.

A wilderness monk should make an effort to learn the teaching and training.

Santāvuso, āraññikaṃ bhikkhuṃ abhidhamme abhivinaye pañhaṃ pucchitāro.

There are those who will question a wilderness monk about the teaching and training.

Sace, āvuso, āraññiko bhikkhu abhidhamme abhivinaye pañhaṃ puṭṭho na sampāyati, tassa bhavanti vattāro.

If he fails to answer, there'll be some who say:

‘Kiṃ panimassāyasmato āraññikassa ekassāraññe serivihārena yo ayamāyasmā abhidhamme abhivinaye pañhaṃ puṭṭho na sampāyati’ti—

‘What’s the point of this wilderness venerable’s staying alone and autonomous in the wilderness, since he can’t answer a question about the teaching and training?’

tassa bhavanti vattāro.

Tasmā āraññikena bhikkhunā abhidhamme abhivinaye yogo karaṇīyo. (16)

That’s why a wilderness monk should make an effort to learn the teaching and training.

Āraññikenāvuso, bhikkhunā ye te santā vimokkhā atikkamma rūpe āruppā tattha yogo karaṇīyo.

A wilderness monk should practice meditation to realize the peaceful liberations that are formless, transcending form.

Santāvuso, āraññikaṃ bhikkhuṃ ye te santā vimokkhā atikkamma rūpe āruppā tattha pañhaṃ pucchitāro.

There are those who will question a wilderness monk regarding the formless liberations.

Sace, āvuso, āraññiko bhikkhu ye te santā vimokkhā atikkamma rūpe āruppā tattha pañhaṃ puṭṭho na sampāyati, tassa bhavanti vattāro.

If he fails to answer, there'll be some who say:

‘Kiṃ panimassāyasmato āraññikassa ekassāraññe serivihārena yo ayamāyasmā ye te santā vimokkhā atikkamma rūpe āruppā tattha pañhaṃ puṭṭho na sampāyati’ti—

‘What’s the point of this wilderness venerable’s staying alone and autonomous in the wilderness, since he can’t answer a question about the formless liberations?’

tassa bhavanti vattāro.

Tasmā āraññikena bhikkhunā ye te santā vimokkhā atikkamma rūpe āruppā tattha yogo karaṇīyo. (17)

That's why a wilderness monk should practice meditation to realize the peaceful liberations that are formless, transcending form.

Āraññikenāvuso, bhikkhunā uttari manussadhamme yogo karaṇīyo.

A wilderness monk should practice meditation to realize the superhuman state.

Santāvuso, āraññikaṃ bhikkhuṃ uttari manussadhamme pañhaṃ pucchitāro.

There are those who will question a wilderness monk about the superhuman state.

Sace, āvuso, āraññiko bhikkhu uttari manussadhamme pañhaṃ puṭṭho na sampāyati, tassa bhavanti vattāro.

If he fails to answer, there'll be some who say:

'Kiṃ panimassāyasmato āraññikassa ekassāraññe serivihārena yo ayamāyasmā yassatthāya pabbajito tamatthaṃ na jānāti'ti—

tassa bhavanti vattāro.

Tasmā āraññikena bhikkhunā uttari manussadhamme yogo karaṇīyo"ti. (18)

That's why a wilderness monk should practice meditation to realize the superhuman state."

Evam vutte, āyasmā mahāmoggallāno āyasmantaṃ sāriputtaṃ etadavoca:

When Venerable Sāriputta said this, Venerable Mahāmoggallāna said to him, “āraññikeneva nu kho, āvuso sāriputta, bhikkhunā ime dhammā samādāya vattitabbā udāhu gāmantavihārināpī”ti?

“Reverend Sāriputta, should these things be undertaken and followed only by wilderness monks, or by those who live in the neighborhood of a village as well?”

“Āraññikenāpi kho, āvuso moggallāna, bhikkhunā ime dhammā samādāya vattitabbā pageva gāmantavihārinā”ti.

“Reverend Moggallāna, these things should be undertaken and followed by wilderness monks, and still more by those who live in the neighborhood of a village.”

70. Kīṭāgirisutta At Kīṭāgiri

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṃ kāsīsu cārikam carati mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhim.

At one time the Buddha was wandering in the land of the Kāsīs together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants.

Tatra kho bhagavaṃ bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants:

“aham kho, bhikkhave, aññatreva rattibhojanā bhuñjāmi.

“Mendicants, I abstain from eating at night.

Aññatra kho panāham, bhikkhave, rattibhojanā bhuñjamāno appābādhatañca sañjānāmi appātaṅkatañca lahuṭṭhānañca
balañca phāsuvihārañca.

Doing so, I find that I’m healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably.

Etha, tumhepi, bhikkhave, aññatreva rattibhojanā bhuñjatha.

You too should abstain from eating at night.

Aññatra kho pana, bhikkhave, tumhepi rattibhojanā bhuñjamānā appābādhatañca sañjānissatha appātaṅkatañca lahuṭṭhānañca balañca phāsuvihārañcā”ti.

Doing so, you’ll find that you’re healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.
“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Atha kho bhagavā kāsīsu anupubbena cārikaṃ caramāno yena kīṭāgiri nāma kāsīnaṃ nigamo tadavasari.

Then the Buddha, traveling stage by stage in the land of the Kāsīs, arrived at a town of the Kāsīs named Kīṭāgiri, Tatra sudamṃ bhagavā kīṭāgirisimṃ viharati kāsīnaṃ nigame.

and stayed there.

Tena kho pana samayena assajipunabbasukā nāma bhikkhū kīṭāgirismimṃ āvāsikā honti.

Now at that time the mendicants who followed Assaji and Punabbasuka were residing at Kīṭāgiri.

Atha kho sambahulā bhikkhū yena assajipunabbasukā bhikkhū tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā assajipunabbasuke bhikkhū etadvocumṃ:

Then several mendicants went up to them and said,

“bhagavā kho, āvuso, aññatreva rattibhojanā bhuñjati bhikkhusaṅgho ca.

“Reverends, the Buddha abstains from eating at night, and so does the mendicant Saṅgha.

Aññatra kho panāvuso, rattibhojanā bhuñjamānā appābādhatañca sañjānanti appātaṅkatañca lahuṭṭhānañca balañca phāsuvihārañca.

Doing so, they find that they’re healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably.

Etha, tumhepi, āvuso, aññatreva rattibhojanā bhuñjatha.

You too should abstain from eating at night.

Aññatra kho panāvuso, tumhepi rattibhojanā bhuñjamānā appābādhatañca sañjānissatha appātaṅkatañca lahuṭṭhānañca balañca phāsuvihārañcā”ti.

Doing so, you'll find that you're healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably."

Evam vutte, assajipunabbasukā bhikkhū te bhikkhū etadavocum:

When they said this, the mendicants who followed Assaji and Punabbasuka said to them, “mayam kho, āvuso, sāyañceva bhuñjāma pāto ca divā ca vikāle.

“Reverends, we eat in the evening, the morning, and at the wrong time of day.

Te mayam sāyañceva bhuñjamānā pāto ca divā ca vikāle appābādhatañca sañjānāma appātañkatañca lahuṭṭhānañca balañca phāsuvihārañca.

Doing so, we find that we're healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably.

Te mayam kim sandiṭṭhikaṃ hitvā kālikaṃ anudhāvissāma?

Why should we give up what is visible in the present to chase after what takes effect over time?

Sāyañceva mayam bhuñjissāma pāto ca divā ca vikāle”ti.

We shall eat in the evening, the morning, and at the wrong time of day.”

Yato kho te bhikkhū nāsakkhimsu assajipunabbasuke bhikkhū saññāpetum, atha yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu. Ekamantaṃ nisinnā kho te bhikkhū bhagavantam etadavocum:

Since those mendicants were unable to convince the mendicants who were followers of Assaji and Punabbasuka, they approached the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened.

“idha mayaṃ, bhante, yena assajipunabbasukā bhikkhū tenupasaṅkamimha; upasaṅkamtivā assajipunabbasuke bhikkhū etadavocumha:

‘bhagavā kho, āvuso, aññatreva rattibhojanā bhuñjati bhikkhusaṅgho ca;

aññatra kho panāvuso, rattibhojanā bhuñjamānā appābādhatañca sañjānanti appātaṅkatañca lahuṭṭhānañca balañca phāsuvihārañca.

Etha, tumhepi, āvuso, aññatreva rattibhojanā bhuñjatha.

Aññatra kho panāvuso, tumhepi rattibhojanā bhuñjamānā appābādhatañca sañjānissatha appātaṅkatañca lahuṭṭhānañca balañca phāsuvihārañcā’ti.

Evam vutte, bhante, assajipunabbasukā bhikkhū amhe etadavocum:

‘mayaṃ kho, āvuso, sāyañceva bhuñjāma pāto ca divā ca vikāle.

Te mayaṃ sāyañceva bhuñjamānā pāto ca divā ca vikāle appābādhatañca sañjānāma appātaṅkatañca lahuṭṭhānañca balañca phāsuvihārañca.

Te mayaṃ kiṃ sandiṭṭhikaṃ hitvā kālikaṃ anudhāvissāma?

Sāyañceva mayaṃ bhuñjissāma pāto ca divā ca vikāle’ti.

Yato kho mayaṃ, bhante, nāsakkhimha assajipunabbasuke bhikkhū saññāpetum, atha mayaṃ etamatthaṃ bhagavato ārocemā”ti.

Atha kho bhagavā aññataram bhikkhum āmantesi:

So the Buddha said to a certain monk,

“ehi tvaṃ, bhikkhu, mama vacanena assajipunabbasuke bhikkhū āmantehi:

“Please, monk, in my name tell the mendicants who follow Assaji and Punabbasuka that ‘satthā āyasmante āmantetī’”ti.

the teacher summons them.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho so bhikkhu bhagavato paṭissutvā yena assajipunabbasukā bhikkhū tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā assajipunabbasuke bhikkhū etadavoca:

“Yes, sir,” that monk replied. He went to those mendicants and said, “satthā āyasmante āmantetī”ti.

“Venerables, the teacher summons you.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho assajipunabbasukā bhikkhū tassa bhikkhuno paṭissutvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamim̐su; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdim̐su. Ekamantaṃ nisinne kho assajipunabbasuke bhikkhū bhagavā etadavoca:

“Yes, reverend,” those mendicants replied. They went to the Buddha, bowed, and sat down to one side.

“saccaṃ kira, bhikkhave, sambahulā bhikkhū tumhe upasaṅkamtivā etadavocum̐:

The Buddha said to them, “Is it really true, mendicants, that several mendicants went to you and said:

‘bhagavā kho, āvuso, aññatreva rattibhojanā bhuñjati bhikkhusaṅgho ca.

‘Reverends, the Buddha abstains from eating at night, and so does the mendicant Saṅgha.

Aññatra kho panāvuso, rattibhojanā bhuñjamānā appābādhatañca sañjānanti appātaṅkatañca lahuṭṭhānañca balañca phāsuvihārañca.

Doing so, they find that they’re healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably.

Etha, tumhepi, āvuso, aññatreva rattibhojanā bhuñjatha.

You too should abstain from eating at night.

Aññatra kho panāvuso, tumhepi rattibhojanā bhuñjamānā appābādhatañca sañjānissatha appātaṅkatañca lahuṭṭhānañca balañca phāsuvihārañcā’ti.

Doing so, you’ll find that you’re healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably.’

Evaṃ vutte, kira, bhikkhave, tumhe te bhikkhū evaṃ avacuttha:
When they said this, did you really say to them:

‘mayaṃ kho panāvuso, sāyañceva bhuñjāma pāto ca divā ca vikāle.

‘Reverends, we eat in the evening, the morning, and at the wrong time of day.

Te mayaṃ sāyañceva bhuñjamānā pāto ca divā ca vikāle appābādhatañca sañjānāma appātaṅkatañca lahuṭṭhānañca balañca phāsuvihārañca.

Doing so, we find that we’re healthy and well, nimble, strong, and living comfortably.

Te mayaṃ kiṃ sandiṭṭhikaṃ hitvā kālikaṃ anudhāvissāma?

Why should we give up what is visible in the present to chase after what takes effect over time?

Sāyañceva mayaṃ bhuñjissāma pāto ca divā ca vikāle”’ti.

We shall eat in the evening, the morning, and at the wrong time of day.”’

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Kiṃ nu me tumhe, bhikkhave, evaṃ dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānātha yaṃ kiñcāyaṃ purisapuggalo paṭisaṃvedeti sukhaṃ vā dukkhaṃ vā adukkhamasukhaṃ vā tassa akusalā dhammā parihāyanti kusalā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti”’ti?

“Mendicants, have you ever known me to teach the Dhamma like this: no matter what this individual experiences—pleasurable, painful, or neutral—their unskillful qualities decline and their skillful qualities grow?”

“No hetam, bhante”.

“No, sir.”

“Nanu me tumhe, bhikkhave, evaṃ dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānātha idhekaccassa yaṃ evarūpaṃ sukhaṃ vedanaṃ vedayato akusalā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti kusalā dhammā parihāyanti, idha panekaccassa evarūpaṃ sukhaṃ vedanaṃ vedayato akusalā dhammā parihāyanti, kusalā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti, idhekaccassa evarūpaṃ dukkhaṃ vedanaṃ vedayato akusalā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti kusalā dhammā parihāyanti, idha panekaccassa evarūpaṃ dukkhaṃ vedanaṃ vedayato akusalā dhammā parihāyanti kusalā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti, idhekaccassa evarūpaṃ adukkhamasukhaṃ vedanaṃ vedayato akusalā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti kusalā dhammā parihāyanti, idha panekaccassa evarūpaṃ adukkhamasukhaṃ vedanaṃ vedayato akusalā dhammā parihāyanti kusalā dhammā abhivaḍḍhanti”ti?

“Haven’t you known me to teach the Dhamma like this: ‘When someone feels this kind of pleasant feeling, unskillful qualities grow and skillful qualities decline. But when someone feels that kind of pleasant feeling, unskillful qualities decline and skillful qualities grow. When someone feels this kind of painful feeling, unskillful qualities grow and skillful qualities decline. When someone feels this kind of neutral feeling, unskillful qualities grow and skillful qualities decline. But when someone feels that kind of neutral feeling, unskillful qualities decline and skillful qualities grow’?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Sādhū, bhikkhave.

Mayā cetāṃ, bhikkhave, aññātaṃ abhaviṣṣa adiṭṭhaṃ aviditaṃ asacchikataṃ aphaṣṣitaṃ paññāya:

'When someone feels that kind of neutral feeling, unskillful qualities decline and skillful qualities grow.' Since this is so, that's why I say:
'You should enter and remain in that kind of neutral feeling.'

Nāhaṃ, bhikkhave, sabbesaṃyeva bhikkhūnaṃ 'appamādena

I say that mendicants don't have work to do with diligence if they are perfected, with defilements ended, having completed the spiritual journey, done what had to be done, laid down the burden, achieved their own goal, utterly ended the fetters of rebirth, and become rightly freed through enlightenment.

It’s when someone in whom faith has arisen approaches a teacher. They pay homage, lend an ear, hear the teachings, remember the teachings, reflect on their meaning, and accept them after consideration. Then enthusiasm springs up; they make an effort, weigh up, and persevere. Persevering, they directly realize the ultimate truth, and see it with penetrating wisdom.

3. The Division on Wanderers Paribbājakavagga

71. Tevijjavacchasutta

To Vacchagotta on the Three Knowledges

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava vesāliyam viharati mahāvane
kūṭāgārasālāyam.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Vesālī, at the Great Wood, in the hall with the peaked roof.

Tena kho pana samayena vacchagotto paribbājako ekapuṇḍarīke paribbājakārāme paṭivasati.

Now at that time the wanderer Vacchagotta was residing in the Single Lotus Monastery of the wanderers.

Atha kho bhagava pubbaṇhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya vesālim piṇḍāya pāvisi.

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Vesālī for alms.

Atha kho bhagavato etadahosi:

Then it occurred to him,

“atippago kho tāva vesāliyam piṇḍāya caritum;

“It’s too early to wander for alms in Vesālī.

yannūnāham yena ekapuṇḍarīko paribbājakārāmo yena vacchagotto paribbājako tenupasaṅkameyyan”ti.

Why don’t I visit the wanderer Vacchagotta at the Single Lotus Monastery?”

Atha kho bhagavā yena ekapuṇḍarīko paribbājakārāmo yena vacchagotto paribbājako tenupasaṅkami.

So that's what he did.

Addasā kho vacchagotto paribbājako bhagavantam dūratova āgacchantam.

Vacchagotta saw the Buddha coming off in the distance,

Disvāna bhagavantam etadavoca:

and said to him,

“Etu kho, bhante, bhagavā.

“Come, Blessed One!

Svāgataṃ, bhante, bhagavato.

Welcome, Blessed One!

Cirassaṃ kho, bhante, bhagavā imaṃ pariyāyamakāsi yadidaṃ idhāgamanāya.

It's been a long time since you took the opportunity to come here.

Nisīdatu, bhante, bhagavā idamāsanam paññattan”ti.

Please, sir, sit down, this seat is ready.”

Nisīdi bhagavā paññatte āsane.

The Buddha sat on the seat spread out,

Vacchagottopi kho paribbājako aññataram nīcam āsanam gahetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

while Vacchagotta took a low seat and sat to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho vacchagotto paribbājako bhagavantam etadavoca:

Then Vacchagotta said to the Buddha:

“sutaṃ metaṃ, bhante:

“Sir, I have heard this:

‘samaṇo gotamo sabbaññū sabbadassāvī, aparisesaṃ ñāṇadassanaṃ paṭijānāti,

‘The ascetic Gotama claims to be all-knowing and all-seeing, to know and see everything without exception, thus:

carato ca me tiṭṭhato ca suttassa ca jāgarassa ca satataṃ samitaṃ ñāṇadassanaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ’ti.

“Knowledge and vision are constantly and continually present to me, while walking, standing, sleeping, and waking.”

Ye te, bhante, evamaṃsu: ‘samaṇo gotamo sabbaññū sabbadassāvī, aparisesaṃ ñāṇadassanaṃ paṭijānāti, carato ca me tiṭṭhato ca suttassa ca jāgarassa ca satataṃ samitaṃ ñāṇadassanaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ’ti, kacci te, bhante, bhagavato vuttavādino, na ca bhagavantaṃ abhūtena abbhācikkhanti, dhammassa cānudhammaṃ byākaronti, na ca koci sahadhammiko vādānuvādo gārayhaṃ ṭhānaṃ āgacchatī”ti?

I trust that those who say this repeat what the Buddha has said, and do not misrepresent him with an untruth? Is their explanation in line with the teaching? Are there any legitimate grounds for rebuke and criticism?”

“Ye te, vaccha, evamaṃsu: ‘samaṇo gotamo sabbaññū sabbadassāvī, aparisesaṃ ñāṇadassanaṃ paṭijānāti, carato ca me tiṭṭhato ca suttassa ca jāgarassa ca satataṃ samitaṃ ñāṇadassanaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ’ti, na me te vuttavādino, abbhācikkhanti ca pana maṃ asatā abhūtenā”ti.

“Vaccha, those who say this do not repeat what I have said. They misrepresent me with what is false and untrue.”

“Kathaṃ byākaramānā pana mayaṃ, bhante, vuttavādino ceva bhagavato assāma, na ca bhagavantaṃ abhūtena abbhācikkheyyāma, dhammassa cānudhammaṃ byākareyyāma, na ca koci sahadhammiko vādānuvādo gārayhaṃ ṭhānaṃ āgaccheyyā”ti?

“So how should we answer so as to repeat what the Buddha has said, and not misrepresent him with an untruth? How should we explain in line with his teaching, with no legitimate grounds for rebuke and criticism?”

“Tevijjo samaṇo gotamo’ti kho, vaccha, byākaramāno vuttavādī ceva me assa, na ca maṃ abhūtena abbhācikkheyya, dhammassa cānudhammaṃ byākareyya, na ca koci sahadhammiko vādānuvādo gārayhaṃ ṭhānaṃ āgaccheyya.

“The ascetic Gotama has the three knowledges.’ Answering like this you would repeat what I have said, and not misrepresent me with an untruth. You would explain in line with my teaching, and there would be no legitimate grounds for rebuke and criticism.

Ahañhi, vaccha, yāvadeva ākañkhāmi anekavihitaṃ pubbenivāsaṃ anussarāmi, seyyathidaṃ—ekampi jātiṃ dvepi jātiyo ...pe... iti sākāraṃ sauddesaṃ anekavihitaṃ pubbenivāsaṃ anussarāmi.

For, Vaccha, whenever I want, I recollect my many kinds of past lives.

That is: one, two, three, four, five, ten, twenty, thirty, forty, fifty, a hundred, a thousand, a hundred thousand rebirths; many eons of the world contracting, many eons of the world expanding, many eons of the world contracting and expanding. I remember: ‘There, I was named this, my clan was that, I looked like this, and that was my food. This was how I felt pleasure and pain, and that was how my life ended. When I passed away from that place I was reborn somewhere else. There, too, I was named this, my clan was that, I looked like this, and that was my food. This was how I felt pleasure and pain, and that was how my life ended. When I passed away from that place I was reborn here.’ And so I recollect my many kinds of past lives, with features and details.

...pe... yathākammūpage satte pajānāmi.

And whenever I want, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, I see sentient beings passing away and being reborn— inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. I understand how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds.

And I have realized the undefiled freedom of heart and freedom by wisdom in this very life. I live having realized it with my own insight due to the ending of defilements.

Evañ vutte, vacchagotto paribbājako bhagavantañ etadavoca:

When he said this, the wanderer Vacchagotta said to the Buddha,

“atthi nu kho, bho gotama, koci gihī gihisaṃyojanañ appahāya

Evam vutte, vacchagotto paribbājako bhagavantam etadavoca:
When he said this, the wanderer Vacchagotta said to the Buddha:

“seyyathāpi, bho gotama, gāmassa vā nigamassa vā avidūre mahāsālarukkho.

“Master Gotama, suppose there was a large sal tree not far from a town or village.

In the same way, Master Gotama's dispensation is rid of branches and foliage, bark and shoots, and softwood, consisting purely of heartwood.

The Longer Discourse With Vacchagotta

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṃ rājagahe viharati veḷuvane
kalandakanivāpe.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Atha kho vacchagotto paribbājako yena bhagavaṃ tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamitvā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then the wanderer Vacchagotta went up to the Buddha and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyam katham sāraṇīyam vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho vacchagotto paribbājako
bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to the Buddha, “dīgharattāhaṃ bhotā gotamena sahakathī.

“For a long time I have had discussions with Master Gotama.

Sādhū me bhavaṃ gotamo saṅkhittena kusalākusalaṃ desetū”ti.

Please teach me in brief what is skillful and what is unskillful.”

“Saṅkhittena kho te ahaṃ, vaccha, kusalākusalaṃ deseyyaṃ, vitthārena kho te ahaṃ, vaccha, kusalākusalaṃ deseyyaṃ;

“Vaccha, I can teach you what is skillful and what is unskillful in brief or in detail.

api ca te ahaṃ, vaccha, saṅkhittena kusalākusalaṃ desessāmi.
Still, let me do so in brief.

Taṃ suṇāhi, sādhukaṃ manasi karohi, bhāsissāmi”ti.
Listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bho”ti kho vacchagotto paribbājako bhagavato paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” Vaccha replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Lobho kho, vaccha, akusalaṃ, alobho kusalaṃ;

“Greed is unskillful, contentment is skillful.

doso kho, vaccha, akusalaṃ, adoso kusalaṃ;

Hate is unskillful, love is skillful.

moho kho, vaccha, akusalaṃ, amoho kusalaṃ.

Delusion is unskillful, understanding is skillful.

Iti kho, vaccha, ime tayo dhammā akusalā, tayo dhammā kusalā.

So there are these three unskillful things and three that are skillful.

Pāṇātipāto kho, vaccha, akusalaṃ, pāṇātipātā veramaṇī kusalaṃ;

Killing living creatures, stealing, and sexual misconduct; speech that’s false, divisive, harsh, or nonsensical; covetousness, ill will, and wrong view: these things are unskillful.

adinnādānaṃ kho, vaccha, akusalaṃ, adinnādānā veramaṇī kusalaṃ;

Refraining from killing living creatures, stealing, and sexual misconduct; refraining from speech that’s false, divisive, harsh, or nonsensical; contentment, kind-heartedness, and right view: these things are skillful.

kāmesumicchācāro kho, vaccha, akusalam̐, kāmesumicchācārā veramaṇī kusalam̐;

musāvādo kho, vaccha, akusalam̐, musāvādā veramaṇī kusalam̐;

pisuṇā vācā kho, vaccha, akusalam̐, pisuṇāya vācāya veramaṇī kusalam̐;

pharusā vācā kho, vaccha, akusalam̐, pharusāya vācāya veramaṇī kusalam̐;

samphappalāpo kho, vaccha, akusalam̐, samhappalāpā veramaṇī kusalam̐;

abhijjhā kho, vaccha, akusalam̐, anabhijjhā kusalam̐;

byāpādo kho, vaccha, akusalam̐, abyāpādo kusalam̐;

micchādiṭṭhi kho, vaccha, akusalam̐ sammādiṭṭhi kusalam̐.

Iti kho, vaccha, ime dasa dhammā akusalā, dasa dhammā kusalā.

So there are these ten unskillful things and ten that are skillful.

Yato kho, vaccha, bhikkhuno taṇhā pahīnā hoti ucchinnamūlā tālāvatthukatā anabhāvaṅkatā āyatim̐ anuppādadhammā, so hoti bhikkhu araham̐ khīṇāsavo vusitavā katakaraṇīyo ohitabhāro anuppattasadattho parikkhīṇabhavasam̐yojano sammadaññāvimutto”ti.

When a mendicant has given up craving so it is cut off at the root, made like a palm stump, obliterated, and unable to arise in the future, that mendicant is perfected. They’ve ended the defilements, completed the spiritual journey, done what had to be done, laid down the burden, achieved their own true goal, utterly ended the fetters of rebirth, and are rightly freed through enlightenment.”

Atha kho āyasmā vacchagotto bhagavato bhāsitaṃ

And then Venerable Vacchagotta approved and agreed with what the Buddha said. He got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before leaving.

Atha kho āyasmā vacchagotto eko vūpakaṭṭho appamatto ātāpī

Then Vacchagotta, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyam, kataṃ karaṇīyam, nāparam

He understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

And Venerable Vacchagotta became one of the perfected.

“Reverend, we are going to see the Buddha.”

Then those mendicants went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him, “Sir, the mendicant Vacchagotta bows with his head to your feet and says:

“Pubbeva me, bhikkhave, vacchagotto bhikkhu cetasā ceto

Evam me sutam—

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, on the Vulture's Peak Mountain in the Boar's Cave.

Atha kho dīghanakho paribbājako yena bhagavā

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he stood to one side, and said to the Buddha, “ahañhi, bho gotama, evaṃvādī evaṃdiṭṭhi:

“Master Gotama, this is my doctrine and view:

‘I believe in nothing.’”

“Yāpi kho te esā, aggivessana, diṭṭhi:

Aggivessana, this body is physical. It's made up of the four primary elements, produced by mother and father, built up from rice and porridge, liable to impermanence, to wearing away and erosion, to breaking up and destruction. You should see it as impermanent, as suffering, as diseased, as an abscess, as a dart, as misery, as an affliction, as alien, as falling apart, as empty, as not-self.

Tassimaṃ kāyaṃ aniccato dukkhato rogato gaṇḍato sallato

Doing so, you'll give up desire, affection, and subservience to the body.

Tisso kho imā, aggivessana, vedanā—

There are these three feelings:

sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā, adukkhamasukhā vedanā.

pleasant, painful, and neutral.

Yasmim̐, aggivessana, samaye sukhaṃ vedanaṃ vedeti, neva tasmim̐ samaye dukkhaṃ vedanaṃ vedeti, na adukkhamasukhaṃ vedanaṃ vedeti;

At a time when you feel a pleasant feeling, you don't feel a painful or neutral feeling;

sukhaṃyeva tasmim̐ samaye vedanaṃ vedeti.

you only feel a pleasant feeling.

Yasmim̐, aggivessana, samaye dukkhaṃ vedanaṃ vedeti, neva tasmim̐ samaye sukhaṃ vedanaṃ vedeti, na adukkhamasukhaṃ vedanaṃ vedeti;

At a time when you feel a painful feeling, you don't feel a pleasant or neutral feeling;

dukkhaṃyeva tasmim̐ samaye vedanaṃ vedeti.

you only feel a painful feeling.

Yasmim̐, aggivessana, samaye adukkhamasukhaṃ vedanaṃ vedeti, neva tasmim̐ samaye sukhaṃ vedanaṃ vedeti, na dukkhaṃ vedanaṃ vedeti;

At a time when you feel a neutral feeling, you don't feel a pleasant or painful feeling;

adukkhamasukhaṃyeva tasmim̐ samaye vedanaṃ vedeti.

you only feel a neutral feeling.

Sukhāpi kho, aggivessana, vedanā aniccā saṅkhatā paṭiccasamuppannā khayadhammā vayadhammā virāgadhammā nirodhadhammā;

Pleasant, painful, and neutral feelings are impermanent, conditioned, dependently originated, liable to end, vanish, fade away, and cease.

dukkhāpi kho, aggivessana, vedanā aniccā saṅkhatā paṭiccasamuppannā khayadhammā vayadhammā virāgadhammā nirodhadhammā; adukkhamasukhāpi kho, aggivessana, vedanā aniccā saṅkhatā paṭiccasamuppannā khayadhammā vayadhammā virāgadhammā nirodhadhammā.

Evam passam, aggivessana, sutavā ariyasāvako sukhāyapi vedanāya nibbindati, dukkhāyapi vedanāya nibbindati, adukkhamasukhāyapi vedanāya nibbindati;

Seeing this, a learned noble disciple grows disillusioned with pleasant, painful, and neutral feelings.

nibbindam virajjati, virāgā vimuccati. Vimuttasmim, vimuttamiti ñāṇam hoti.

Being disillusioned, desire fades away. When desire fades away they're freed. When they're freed, they know they're freed.

'Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparam itthattāyā'ti pajānāti.

They understand: 'Rebirth is ended, the spiritual journey has been completed, what had to be done has been done, there is no return to any state of existence.'

Evam vimuttacitto kho, aggivessana, bhikkhu na kenaci samvadati, na kenaci vivadati, yañca loke vuttam tena voharati, aparāmasan'ti.

A mendicant whose mind is freed like this doesn't side with anyone or fight with anyone. They speak the language of the world without misapprehending it."

Tena kho pana समयena āyasmā sārīputto bhagavato piṭṭhito ṭhito hoti bhagavantam bījaya māno.

Now at that time Venerable Sāriputta was standing behind the Buddha fanning him.

Atha kho āyasmato sārīputtassa etadahosi:

Then he thought,

"tesam tesam kira no bhagavā dhammānam abhiññā pahānamāha, tesam tesam kira no sugato dhammānam abhiññā paṭinissaggamāhā'ti.

"It seems the Buddha speaks of giving up and letting go all these things through direct knowledge."

Iti hidam āyasmato sāriputtassa paṭisañcikkhato anupādāya āsavehi cittaṃ vimucci.

Reflecting like this, Venerable Sāriputta’s mind was freed from the defilements by not grasping.

Dīghanakhasa pana paribbājakassa virajaṃ vītamalaṃ

And the stainless, immaculate vision of the Dhamma arose in the wanderer Dīghanakha:

“Everything that has a beginning has an end.”

Atha kho dīghanakho paribbājako diṭṭhadhammo pattadhammo

Then Dīghanakha saw, attained, understood, and fathomed the Dhamma. He went beyond doubt, got rid of indecision, and became self-assured and independent of others regarding the Teacher’s instructions. He said to the Buddha:

“abhikkantaṃ, bho gotama, abhikkantaṃ, bho gotama.

“Excellent, Master Gotama! Excellent!

Seyyathāpi, bho gotama, nikkujjitaṃ vā ukkujjeyya, dhammo pakāsito.

As if he were righting the overturned, or revealing the hidden, or pointing out the path to the lost, or lighting a lamp in the dark so people with good eyes can see what’s there, Master Gotama has made the teaching clear in many ways.

Esāhaṃ bhavaṃtaṃ gotamaṃ saraṇaṃ gacchāmi dhammaṃca bhikkhusaṅghaṃca.

I go for refuge to Master Gotama, to the teaching, and to the mendicant Saṅgha.

Upāsakaṃ maṃ bhavaṃ gotamo dhāretu ajjatagge pāṇupetaṃ saraṇaṃ gataṃ”ti.

From this day forth, may Master Gotama remember me as a lay follower who has gone for refuge for life.”

Dīghanakhasuttaṃ niṭṭhitaṃ catutthaṃ.

75. Māgaṇḍiyasutta With Māgaṇḍiya

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā kurūsu viharati kammāsadhammaṃ nāma kurūnaṃ nigamo, bhāradvājagottassa brāhmaṇassa agyāgāre tiṇsanthārake.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Kurus, near the Kuru town named Kammāsadamma, on a grass mat in the fire chamber of a brahmin of the Bhāradvāja clan.

Atha kho bhagavā pubbaṇhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya kammāsadhammaṃ piṇḍāya pāvisi.

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Kammāsadamma for alms.

Kammāsadhammaṃ piṇḍāya caritvā pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātaṭikkanto yena aññataro vanasaṇḍo tenupasaṅkami divāvihārāya.

He wandered for alms in Kammāsadamma. After the meal, on his return from alms-round, he went to a certain forest grove for the day's meditation.

Tam vanasaṇḍam ajjhogāhetvā aññatarasmim rukkhamūle divāvihāraṃ nisīdi.

Having plunged deep into it, he sat at the root of a certain tree for the day's meditation.

Atha kho māgaṇḍiyo paribbājako jaṅghāvihāraṃ anucaṅkamamāno anuvicaramāno yena bhāradvājagottassa brāhmaṇassa agyāgāraṃ tenupasaṅkami.

Then as the wanderer Māgaṇḍiya was going for a walk he approached that fire chamber.

Addasā kho māgaṇḍiyo paribbājako bhāradvājagottassa brāhmaṇassa agyāgāre tiṇasanthāraṃ paññattaṃ.

He saw the grass mat spread out there

Disvāna bhāradvājagottaṃ brāhmaṇaṃ etadavoca:

and asked the brahmin of the Bhāradvāja clan,

“kassa nvayaṃ bhoto bhāradvājassa agyāgāre tiṇasanthāraṃ paññatto, samaṇaseyyānurūpaṃ maññe”ti?

“Mister Bhāradvāja, who has this grass mat been spread out for? It looks like an ascetic’s bed.”

“Atthi, bho māgaṇḍiya, samaṇo gotamo sakyaputto sakyakulā pabbajito.

“There is the ascetic Gotama, a Sakyan, gone forth from a Sakyan family.

Taṃ kho pana bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ evaṃ kalyāṇo kittisaddo abbhuggato:

He has this good reputation:

‘itipi so bhagavā arahaṃ sammāsambuddho vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānaṃ buddho bhagavā’ti.

Tassesā bhoto gotamassa seyyā paññattā”ti.

This bed has been spread for that Master Gotama.”

“Duddiṭṭhaṃ vata, bho bhāradvāja, addasāma;

“Well, it’s a sad sight, Mister Bhāradvāja, duddiṭṭhaṃ vata, bho bhāradvāja, addasāma.

a very sad sight indeed,

Ye mayaṃ tassa bhoto gotamassa bhūnahuno seyyaṃ addasāmā”ti.

to see a bed for Master Gotama, that life-destroyer!”

“Rakkhassetam, māgaṇḍiya, vācam;

“Be careful what you say, Māgaṇḍiya,

rakkhassetam, māgaṇḍiya, vācam.

be careful what you say.

Bahū hi tassa bhoto gotamassa khattiyapaṇḍitāpi brāhmaṇapaṇḍitāpi gahapatipaṇḍitāpi samaṇapaṇḍitāpi abhippasannā vinītā ariye ñāye dhamme kusale”ti.

Many astute aristocrats, brahmins, householders, and ascetics are devoted to Master Gotama. They’ve been guided by him in the noble method, the skillful teaching.”

“Sammukhā cepi mayaṃ, bho bhāradvāja, taṃ bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ passeyyāma, sammukhāpi naṃ vadeyyāma:

“Even if I was to see Master Gotama face to face, Mister Bhāradvāja, I would say to his face:

‘bhūnahu samaṇo gotamo’ti.

‘The ascetic Gotama is a life-destroyer.’

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Evañhi no sutte ocaratī”ti.

Because that’s what it implies in a discourse of ours.”

“Sace taṃ bhoto māgaṇḍiyassa agaru āroceyyāmi taṃ samaṇassa gotamassā”ti.

“If you don’t mind, I’ll tell the ascetic Gotama about this.”

“Appossukko bhavaṃ bhāradvājo vuttova naṃ vadeyyā”ti.

“Don’t worry, Mister Bharadvāja. You may tell him exactly what I’ve said.”

Assosi kho bhagavā dibbāya sotadhātuyā visuddhāya atikkantamānusikāya bhāradvājagottassa brāhmaṇassa māgaṇḍiyena paribbājakena saddhiṃ imaṃ kathāsallāpaṃ.

With clairaudience that is purified and superhuman, the Buddha heard this discussion between the brahmin of the Bhāradvāja clan and the wanderer Māgaṇḍiya.

Atha kho bhagavā sāyanhasamayaṃ paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yena bhāradvājagottassa brāhmaṇassa agyāgāraṃ tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā nisīdi bhagavā paññatte tiṇasanthārake.

Coming out of retreat, he went to the brahmin’s fire chamber and sat on the grass mat.

Atha kho bhāradvājagotto brāhmaṇo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then the brahmin of the Bhāradvāja clan went to the Buddha and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho bhāradvājagottaṃ brāhmaṇaṃ bhagavā etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side. The Buddha said to him, “ahu pana te, bhāradvāja, māgaṇḍiyena paribbājakena saddhiṃ imaṃyeva tiṇasanthārakaṃ ārabha kocideva kathāsallāpo”ti?

“Bhāradvāja, did you have a discussion with the wanderer Māgaṇḍiya about this grass mat?”

Evaṃ vutte, bhāradvājagotto brāhmaṇo saṃviggo lomahaṭṭhajāto bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he said this, the brahmin said to the Buddha, “etadeva kho pana mayaṃ bhoto gotamassa ārocetukāmā.

“I wanted to mention this very thing to Master Gotama, Atha ca pana bhavaṃ gotamo anakkhātāmyeva akkhāsī”ti.

but you brought it up before I had a chance.”

Ayañca hi bhagavato bhāradvājagottena brāhmaṇena saddhiṃ antarākathā vippakatā hoti.

But this conversation between the Buddha and the brahmin was left unfinished.

Atha kho māgaṇḍiyo paribbājako jaṅghāvihāraṃ anucaṅkamamāno anuvicaramāno yena bhāradvājagottassa brāhmaṇassa agyāgāraṃ yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then as the wanderer Māgaṇḍiya was going for a walk he approached that fire chamber. He went up to the Buddha, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho māgaṇḍiyaṃ paribbājakaṃ bhagavā etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side, and the Buddha said to him:

“Cakkhuṃ kho, māgaṇḍiya, rūpārāmaṃ rūparataṃ rūpasammuditaṃ.

“Māgaṇḍiya, the eye likes sights, it loves them and enjoys them.

Taṃ tathāgatassa dantaṃ guttaṃ rakkhitaṃ saṃvutaṃ, tassa ca saṃvarāya dhammaṃ deseti.

That’s been tamed, guarded, protected and restrained by the Realized One, and he teaches Dhamma for its restraint.

Idaṃ nu te etaṃ, māgaṇḍiya, sandhāya bhāsitaṃ:

“Etadeva kho pana me, bho gotama, sandhāya bhāsitaṃ:
“That’s exactly what I was referring to.

‘bhūnahu samaṇo gotamo’ti.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Because that’s what it implies in a discourse of ours.”

“Sotaṃ kho, māgaṇḍiya, saddārāmaṃ ...pe...

“The ear likes sounds ...

Sā tathāgatassa dantā guttā rakkhitā saṃvutā, tassā ca

Idaṃ nu te etaṃ, māgaṇḍiya, sandhāya bhāsitaṃ:

“Etadeva kho pana me, bho gotama, sandhāya bhāsitaṃ:

That person was affected by leprosy, with sores and blisters on their limbs. Being devoured by worms, scratching with their nails at the opening of their wounds, their sense faculties were impaired. So even though the fire was actually painful to touch, they had a distorted perception that it was pleasant.”

“Evameva kho, māgaṇḍiya, atītampi addhānaṃ kāmā dukkhasamphassā ceva mahābhitāpā ca mahāpariḷāhā ca, anāgatampi addhānaṃ kāmā dukkhasamphassā ceva mahābhitāpā ca mahāpariḷāhā ca, etarahipi paccuppannaṃ addhānaṃ kāmā dukkhasamphassā ceva mahābhitāpā ca mahāpariḷāhā ca.

“In the same way, sensual pleasures of the past, future, and present are painful to touch, fiercely burning and scorching.

Ime ca, māgaṇḍiya, sattā kāmesu avītarāgā kāmataṇhāhi khajjamānā kāmapariḷāhena pariḍayhamānā upahatindriyā dukkhasamphassesuyeva kāmesu sukhamiti viparītasaññaṃ paccalatthum.

These sentient beings who are not free from sensual pleasures—being consumed by craving for sensual pleasures, burning with passion for sensual pleasures—have impaired sense faculties. So even though sensual pleasures are actually painful to touch, they have a distorted perception that they are pleasant.

Seyyathāpi, māgaṇḍiya, kuṭṭhī puriso arugatto pakkagatto kimīhi khajjamāno nakhehi vaṇamukhāni vippatacchamāno aṅgārakāsuyā kāyaṃ paritāpeti.

Suppose there was a person affected by leprosy, with sores and blisters on their limbs. Being devoured by worms, scratching with their nails at the opening of their wounds, they’re cauterizing their body over a pit of glowing coals.

Yathā yathā kho, māgaṇḍiya, asu kuṭṭhī puriso arugatto pakkagatto kimīhi khajjamāno nakhehi vaṇamukhāni vippatacchamāno aṅgārakāsuyā kāyaṃ paritāpeti tathā tathāssa tāni vaṇamukhāni asucitarāni ceva honti duggandhatarāni ca pūtikatarāni ca, hoti ceva kāci sātammā assādamattā—yadidaṃ vaṇamukhānaṃ kaṇḍūvanahetu;

The more they scratch their wounds and cauterize their body, the more their wounds become foul, stinking, and infected. But still, they derive a degree of pleasure and gratification from the itchiness of their wounds.

evameva kho, māgaṇḍiya, sattā kāmesu avītarāgā kāmataṇhāhi khajjamānā kāmapariḷāhena ca pariḍayhamānā kāme paṭisevanti.

In the same way, I see other sentient beings who are not free from sensual pleasures being consumed by craving for sensual pleasures, burning with passion for sensual pleasures, indulging in sensual pleasures.

Yathā yathā kho, māgaṇḍiya, sattā kāmesu avītarāgā kāmataṇhāhi khajjamānā kāmapariḷāhena ca pariḍayhamānā kāme paṭisevanti tathā tathā tesam tesam sattānam kāmataṇhā ceva pavaḍḍhati, kāmapariḷāhena ca pariḍayhanti, hoti ceva sātammā assādamattā—yadidaṃ pañcakāmaḡe paṭicca.

The more they indulge in sensual pleasures, the more their craving for sensual pleasures grows, and the more they burn with passion for sensual pleasures. But still, they derive a degree of pleasure and gratification from the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Tam kiṃ maññasi, māgaṇḍiya,

Have you seen or heard of a king or a royal minister of the past, future, or present, amusing themselves supplied and provided with the five kinds of sensual stimulation, who—without giving up craving for sensual pleasures and dispelling passion for sensual pleasures—lives rid of thirst, their mind peaceful inside?”

“No hidaṃ, bho gotama”.

“No, Master Gotama.”

“Sādhu, māgaṇḍiya.

On the contrary, all the ascetics or brahmins of the past, future, or present who live rid of thirst, their minds peaceful inside, do so after truly understanding the origin, ending, gratification, drawback, and escape of sensual pleasures, and after giving up craving and dispelling passion for sensual pleasures.”

Atha kho bhagavā tāyaṃ velāyaṃ imaṃ udānaṃ udānesi:

Then on that occasion the Buddha expressed this heartfelt sentiment:

“Ārogyaparamā lābhā,

“Health is the ultimate blessing;

extinguishment, the ultimate happiness.

Aṭṭhaṅgiko ca maggānaṃ,

Of paths, the ultimate is eightfold—

Evaṃ vutte, māgaṇḍiyo paribbājako bhagavantam etadavoca:

When he said this, Māgaṇḍiya said to him,

“acchariyam, bho gotama, abbhutam, bho gotama.

Yāva subhāsitañcidaṃ bhotā gotamena:

How well said this was by Master Gotama!

And it agrees, Master Gotama.”

“Yaṃ pana te etaṃ, māgaṇḍiya, sutam pubbakānaṃ

“But Māgaṇḍiya, when you heard that wanderers of the past said this,

‘ārogyaparamā lābhā, nibbānaṃ paramaṃ sukhaṃ’ti, katamaṃ what is that health? And what is that extinguishment?”

Evaṃ vutte, māgaṇḍiyo paribbājako sakāneva sudaṃ gattāni

When he said this, Māgaṇḍiya stroked his own limbs with his hands, saying:

“This is that health, Master Gotama, this is that extinguishment!

Ahañhi, bho gotama, etarahi arogo sukhī, na mañ kiñci ābādhatī”ti.

For I am now healthy and happy, and have no afflictions.”

“Seyyathāpi, māgaṇḍiya, jaccandho puriso;

Not long after his ordination, Venerable Māgaṇḍiya, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, realized the supreme culmination of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā”ti abbhaññāsi.

He understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

Aññataro kho panāyasmā māgaṇḍiyo arahataṃ ahoṣīti.

And Venerable Māgaṇḍiya became one of the perfected.

76. Sandakasutta With Sandaka

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagava kosambiyam viharati ghositarame.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Kosambi, in Ghosita's Monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena sandako paribbajako pilakkhaguhayam pavasati mahataya paribbajakaparisaya saddhim pancamattehi paribbajakasatehi.

Now at that time the wanderer Sandaka was residing at the cave of the wavy leaf fig tree together with a large assembly of around five hundred wanderers.

Atha kho aysma anando sayanhasamayam pavasallana vuttthito bhikkhu amantesi:

Then in the late afternoon, Venerable Ananda came out of retreat and addressed the mendicants:

“ayamavuso, yena devakatasobbho tenupasankamissama guhadassanaya”ti.

“Come, reverends, let's go to the Devakata Pool to see the cave.”

“Evamavuso”ti kho te bhikkhu aysmato anandassa paccassosum.

“Yes, reverend,” they replied.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando sambahulehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ yena devakatasobbho tenupasaṅkami.

Then Ānanda together with several mendicants went to the Devakata Pool.

Tena kho pana samayena sandako paribbājako mahatīyā paribbājakaparisāya saddhiṃ nisinno hoti unnādinīyā uccāsaddamahāsaddāya anekavihitam tiracchānakatham kathentiya, seyyathidam—

Now at that time, Sandaka and the large assembly of wanderers were sitting together making an uproar, a dreadful racket. They engaged in all kinds of unworthy talk, such as rājakatham corakatham mahāmatthakatham senākatham bhayakatham yuddhakatham annakatham pānakatham vatthakatham sayanakatham mālākatham gandhakatham ñātikatham yānakatham gāmakatham nigamakatham nagarakatham janapadakatham itthikatham sūrakatham visikhākatham kumbhaṭṭhānakatham pubbapetakatham nānattakatham lokakkhāyikam samuddakkhāyikam itibhavābhavakatham iti vā.

talk about kings, bandits, and ministers; talk about armies, threats, and wars; talk about food, drink, clothes, and beds; talk about garlands and fragrances; talk about family, vehicles, villages, towns, cities, and countries; talk about women and heroes; street talk and well talk; talk about the departed; motley talk; tales of land and sea; and talk about being reborn in this or that state of existence.

Addasā kho sandako paribbājako āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ dūratova āgacchantaṃ.

Sandaka saw Ānanda coming off in the distance,

Disvāna sakaṃ parisam saṅṭhāpesi:

and hushed his own assembly,

“appasaddā bhonto hontu, mā bhonto saddamakatta;

“Be quiet, good sirs, don’t make a sound.

ayaṃ samaṇassa gotamassa sāvako āgacchati samaṇo ānando.
The ascetic Ānanda, a disciple of the ascetic Gotama, is coming.

Yāvatā kho pana samaṇassa gotamassa sāvakā kosambiyaṃ paṭivasanti, ayaṃ tesaṃ aññataro samaṇo ānando.
He is included among the disciples of the ascetic Gotama, who is residing near Kosambī.

Appasaddakāmā kho pana te āyasmanto appasaddavinītā appasaddassa vaṇṇavādino;
Such venerables like the quiet, are educated to be quiet, and praise the quiet.

appeva nāma appasaddaṃ parisam veditvā upasaṅkamitabbaṃ maññeyyā”ti.
Hopefully if he sees that our assembly is quiet he’ll see fit to approach.”

Atha kho te paribbājakā tuṅhī ahesuṃ.
Then those wanderers fell silent.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando yena sandako paribbājako tenupasaṅkami.
Then Venerable Ānanda went up to the wanderer Sandaka,

Atha kho sandako paribbājako āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etadavoca:
who said to him,

“etu kho bhavaṃ ānando, svāgataṃ bhoto ānandassa.
“Come, Master Ānanda! Welcome, Master Ānanda!

Cirassaṃ kho bhavaṃ ānando imaṃ pariyāyamakāsi yadidaṃ idhāgamanāya.
It’s been a long time since you took the opportunity to come here.

Nisīdatu bhavaṃ ānando, idamāsaṇaṃ paññattan”ti.
Please, sir, sit down, this seat is ready.”

Nisīdi kho āyasmā ānando paññatte āsane.

Ānanda sat down on the seat spread out,

Sandakopi kho paribbājako aññataram nīcam āsanam gahetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

while Sandaka took a low seat and sat to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho sandakaṃ paribbājakaṃ āyasmā ānando etadavoca:

Ānanda said to Sandaka,

“kāya nuttha, sandaka, etarahi kathāya sannisinnā, kā ca pana vo antarākathā vippakatā”ti?

“Sandaka, what were you sitting talking about just now? What conversation was unfinished?”

“Tiṭṭhatesā, bho ānanda, kathā yāya mayaṃ etarahi kathāya sannisinnā.

“Master Ānanda, leave aside what we were sitting talking about just now.

Nesā bhoto ānandassa kathā dullabhā bhavissati pacchāpi savanāya.

It won't be hard for you to hear about that later.

Sādhū vata bhavantaṃyeva ānandaṃ paṭibhātu sake ācariyake dhammīkathā”ti.

It'd be great if Master Ānanda himself would give a Dhamma talk explaining his own tradition.”

“Tena hi, sandaka, suṇāhi, sādhuṃ manasi karohi, bhāsissāmi”ti.

“Well then, Sandaka, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bho”ti kho sandako paribbājako āyasmato ānandassa paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” replied Sandaka.

Āyasmā ānando etadavoca:

Venerable Ānanda said this:

“cattārome, sandaka, tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena abrahmacariyavāsā akkhātā cattāri ca anassāsikāni brahmacariyāni akkhātāni, yattha viññū puriso sasakkaṃ brahmacariyaṃ na vaseyya, vasanto ca nārādheyya ñāyaṃ dhammaṃ kusalan”ti.

“Sandaka, these things have been explained by the Blessed One, who knows and sees, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha: four ways that negate the spiritual life, and four kinds of unreliable spiritual life. A sensible person would, to the best of their ability, not practice such spiritual paths, and if they did practice them, they wouldn’t succeed in the procedure of the skillful teaching.”
