Crossing the Flood

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's Monastery.

Atha kho aññatarā devatā abhikkantāya rattiyā abhikkantavaṇṇā
kevalakappaṃ jetavanam obhāsetvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi. Ekamantaṃ ṭhitā kho sā devatā bhagavantam etadavoca:

Then, late at night, a glorious deity, lighting up the entire Jeta's Grove, went up to the Buddha, bowed, stood to one side, and said to him,

“katham nu tvam, mārisa, oghamatarī”ti?

“Good sir, how did you cross the pond?”

“Appatiṭṭham khvāham, āvuso, anāyūham oghamatarin”ti.

“Yathākatham pana tvam, mārisa, appatiṭṭham anāyūham oghamatarī”ti?

“But in what way did you cross the flood neither standing nor swimming?”

“Yadāsvāhaṃ, āvuso, santiṭṭhāmi tadāssu saṃsīdāmi;

“When I stood still, I went under.

yadāsvāhaṃ, āvuso, āyūhāmi tadāssu nibbuyhāmi.

And when I swam, I was swept away.

Evaṃ khvāhaṃ, āvuso, appatiṭṭhaṃ anāyūhaṃ oghamatarin”ti.

That’s how I crossed the flood neither standing nor swimming.”

“Cirassaṃ vata passāmi,

“After a long time I see brāhmaṇaṃ parinibbutaṃ;

a brahmin extinguished.

Appatiṭṭhaṃ anāyūhaṃ,

Neither standing nor swimming,

tiṇṇaṃ loke visattikaṃ”ti.

he’s crossed over clinging to the world.”

Idamavoca sā devatā.

This is what that deity said,

Samanuñño satthā ahosi.

Atha kho sā devatā:

“samanuñño me satthā”ti bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā tatthevantaradhāyīti.

Then that deity, knowing that the teacher approved, bowed and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before vanishing right there.

“Good sir, do you understand liberation, emancipation, and seclusion for sentient beings?”

“Jānāmi khvāhaṃ, āvuso, sattānaṃ nimokkhaṃ pamokkhaṃ vivekaṃ”ti.

“I do, sir.”

“But how is it that you understand liberation, emancipation, and seclusion for sentient beings?”

“Once upon a time, mendicants, a certain deity of the company of the Thirty-Three was amusing themselves in the Garden of Delight, escorted by a band of nymphs, and supplied and provided with the five kinds of heavenly sensual stimulation. On that occasion they recited this verse:

‘Na te sukhaṃ pajānanti,
‘They don’t know pleasure

20. Samiddhisutta With Samiddhi

Evaṃ me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati tapodārāme.
At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha in the Hot Springs Monastery.

Atha kho āyasmā samiddhi rattiyā paccūsasamayaṃ paccuṭṭhāya yena tapodā tenupasaṅkamaṃ gattāni parisiñcituṃ.
Then Venerable Samiddhi rose at the crack of dawn and went to the hot springs to bathe.

Tapode gattāni parisiñcivā paccuttarivā ekacīvaro aṭṭhāsi gattāni pubbāpayamāno.
When he had bathed and emerged from the water he stood in one robe drying himself.

Atha kho aññatarā devatā abhikkantāya rattiyā abhikkantavaṇṇā
kevalakappaṃ tapodaṃ obhāsetvā yena āyasmā samiddhi tenupasaṅkamaṃ; upasaṅkamaṃ itthā āyasmantaṃ samiddhiṃ gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:

Then, late at night, a glorious deity, lighting up the entire hot springs, went up to Samiddhi, and, standing in the air, addressed him in verse:

“Abhutvā bhikkhasi bhikkhu, “Mendicant, you seek alms before you eat;
na hi bhutvāna bhikkhasi;

you wouldn't seek alms after eating.

Bhutvāna bhikkhu bhikkhassu,
But you should eat first, then seek alms:

mā taṃ kālo upaccagā”ti.
don't let the time pass you by.”

“Kālaṃ vohaṃ na jānāmi,
“I actually don't know the time;

channo kālo na dissati;
it's hidden and unseen.

Tasmā abhutvā bhikkhāmi,
That's why I seek alms before eating,

mā maṃ kālo upaccagā”ti.
so that the time may not pass me by!”

Atha kho sā devatā pathaviyaṃ patiṭṭhahitvā āyasmantaṃ samiddhiṃ etadavoca:

Then that deity landed on the ground and said to Samiddhi,

“daharo tvaṃ, bhikkhu, pabbajito susu kāḷakeso, bhadrena yobbanena samannāgato, paṭhamena vayasā, anikkīḷitāvī kāmesu.

“You've gone forth while young, mendicant. You're black-haired, blessed with youth, in the prime of life, and you've never flirted with sensual pleasures.

Bhuñja, bhikkhu, mānusaḷe kāme;
Enjoy human sensual pleasures!

mā sandiṭṭhikaṃ hitvā kālikaṃ anudhāvī”ti.

Don't give up what is visible in the present to chase after what takes effect over time.”

“Na khvāhaṃ, āvuso, sandiṭṭhikaṃ hitvā kālikaṃ anudhāvāmi.

“I’m not, good sir;

Kālikañca khvāhaṃ, āvuso, hitvā sandiṭṭhikaṃ anudhāvāmi.

I’m giving up what takes effect over time to chase after what is visible in the present.

Kālikā hi, āvuso, kāmā vuttā bhagavatā bahudukkhā bahupāyāsā; ādīnavo ettha bhiyyo.

For the Buddha has said that sensual pleasures take effect over time, with much suffering and distress, and they’re all the more full of drawbacks.

Sandiṭṭhiko ayaṃ dhammo akāliko ehipassiko opaneyyiko paccattaṃ veditabbo viññūhī”ti.

But this teaching is visible in this very life, immediately effective, inviting inspection, relevant, so that sensible people can know it for themselves.”

“Kathañca, bhikkhu, kālikā kāmā vuttā bhagavatā bahudukkhā bahupāyāsā, ādīnavo ettha bhiyyo?

“But in what way, mendicant, has the Buddha said that sensual pleasures take effect over time, with much suffering and distress, and they’re all the more full of drawbacks?

Kathaṃ sandiṭṭhiko ayaṃ dhammo akāliko ehipassiko opaneyyiko paccattaṃ veditabbo viññūhī”ti?

And how is this teaching visible in this very life, immediately effective, inviting inspection, relevant, so that sensible people can know it for themselves?”

“Ahaṃ kho, āvuso, navo acirapabbajito adhunāgato imaṃ dhammavinayaṃ.

“I’m junior, good sir, recently gone forth, newly come to this teaching and training.

Na tāhaṃ sakkomi vitthārena ācikkhituṃ.

Ayaṃ so bhagavā arahaṃ sammāsambuddho rājagahe viharati tapodārāme.

But the Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha is staying near Rājagaha in the Hot Springs Monastery.

Taṃ bhagavantam upasaṅkamtivā etamattham puccha.

You should go to him and ask about this matter.

Yathā te bhagavā byākaroti tathā naṃ dhāreyyāsī”ti.

And you should remember it in line with the Buddha’s answer.”

“Na kho, bhikkhu, sukaro so bhagavā amhehi upasaṅkamtum, aññāhi mahesakkhāhi devatāhi parivuto.

Sace kho tvaṃ, bhikkhu, taṃ bhagavantam upasaṅkamtivā etamattham puccheyyāsi, mayampi āgaccheyyāma dhammassavanāyā”ti.

If you go to the Buddha and ask him about this matter, we’ll come along and listen to the teaching.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho āyasmā samiddhi tassā devatāya paṭissutvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā samiddhi bhagavantam etadavoca:

“Yes, good sir,” Venerable Samiddhi replied. He went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened.

Then he added:

“Idhāhaṃ, bhante, rattiyā paccūsasamayaṃ paccuṭṭhāya yena tapodā tenupasaṅkamtim gattāni parisiñciturū.

"puccha, bhikkhu, puccha, bhikkhu, yamaṃ anuppattā'ti.

“Ask, mendicant, ask! For I have arrived.”

Atha kho bhagavā taṃ devataṃ gāthāhi ajjhabhāsi:

36. Saddhāsutta Faith

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's Monastery.

Atha kho sambahulā satullapakāyikā devatāyo abhikkantāya rattiyā abhikkantavaṇṇā kevalakappaṃ jetavanaṃ obhāsetvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhaṃsu.

Then, late at night, several glorious deities of the Satullapa Group, lighting up the entire Jeta's Grove, went up to the Buddha, bowed, and stood to one side.

Ekamantaṃ ṭhitā kho ekā devatā bhagavato santike imaṃ gāthaṃ abhāsi:

Standing to one side, one deity recited this verse in the Buddha's presence:

“Saddhā dutiyā purisassa hoti, “Faith is a person's partner.

No ce assaddhiyaṃ avatiṭṭhati;
If faithlessness doesn't linger,

Yaso ca kittī ca tatvassa hoti, fame and renown are theirs,

Saggañca so gacchati sarīraṃ vihāyā”ti.
and when they discard this corpse they go to heaven.”

Atha kho aparā devatā bhagavato santike imā gāthāyo abhāsi:
Then another deity recited these verses in the Buddha's presence:

“Kodhaṃ jahe vippajaheyya mānaṃ,

“Give up anger, get rid of conceit,

Samyojanaṃ sabbamatikkameyya;

and get past all the fetters.

Taṃ nāmarūpasmimasajjamānaṃ,

37. Samayasutta The Congregation

Evaṃ me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sakkesu viharati kapilavatthusmim
mahāvane mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhim pañcamattehi
bhikkhusatehi sabbeheva arahantehi;

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Sakyans, near Kapilavatthu in the Great Wood, together with a large Saṅgha of around five hundred mendicants, all of whom were perfected ones.

bhagavantam dassanāya bhikkhusaṅghañca.

And most of the deities from ten solar systems had gathered to see the Buddha and the Saṅgha of mendicants.

Atha kho catunnam suddhāvāsakāyikānam devatānam
etadahosi:

Then four deities of the Pure Abodes, aware of what was happening, thought:

“ayaṃ kho bhagavā sakkesu viharati kapilavatthusmim
mahāvane mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhim pañcamattehi
bhikkhusatehi sabbeheva arahantehi;

dasahi ca lokadhātūhi devatā yebhuyyena sannipatitā honti
bhagavantam dassanāya bhikkhusaṅghañca.

Yannūna mayampi yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkameyyāma;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavato santike paccekam gātham

“Why don’t we go to the Buddha and each recite a verse in his presence?”

Atha kho tā devatā—seyyathāpi nāma balavā puriso samiñjitam vā bāham pasāreyya pasāritam vā bāham samiñjeyya; evameva —suddhāvāsesu devesu antarahitā bhagavato purato pāturahesum.

Then, as easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, they vanished from the Pure Abodes and reappeared in front of the Buddha.

Atha kho tā devatā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantam aṭṭhamsu.

They bowed to the Buddha and stood to one side.

Ekamantam ṭhitā kho ekā devatā bhagavato santike imam
gātham abhāsi:

Standing to one side, one deity recited this verse in the Buddha’s presence:

“Mahāsamayo pavanasmim,

Devakāyā samāgatā;

a host of gods have assembled.

Āgatamha imam dhammasamayaṃ,

We’ve come to this righteous congregation

Dakkhitāye aparājitasanghan”ti.

to see the invincible Saṅgha!”

Atha kho aparā devatā bhagavato santike imam gātham abhāsi:

Then another deity recited this verse in the Buddha’s presence:

“Tatra bhikkhavo samādahaṃsu,

“The mendicants there have immersion,

Cittamattano ujukaṃ akaṃsu;
they've straightened out their own minds.

Sāraṭhīva nettāni gaheṭvā,
Like a charioteer who has taken the reins,

Indriyāni rakkhanti paṇḍitā”ti.
the astute ones protect their senses.”

Atha kho aparā devatā bhagavato santike imaṃ gāthaṃ abhāsi:
Then another deity recited this verse in the Buddha's presence:

“Chetvā khīlaṃ chetvā palighaṃ, “Having cut the stake and cut the bar,

Indakhīlaṃ ūhacca manejā;
they're unstirred, with boundary post uprooted.

Te caranti suddhā vimalā,
They live pure and immaculate,

Cakkhumatā sudantā susunāgā”ti.
the young dragons tamed by the seer.”

Atha kho aparā devatā bhagavato santike imaṃ gāthaṃ abhāsi:
Then another deity recited this verse in the Buddha's presence:

“Ye keci buddhaṃ saraṇaṃ gatāse,
“Anyone who has gone to the Buddha for refuge

Na te gamissanti apāyabhūmiṃ;
won't go to a plane of loss.

38. Sakalikasutta A Splinter

Evaṃ me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati maddakucchismiṃ
migadāye.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha in the Maddakucchi deer park.

Tena kho pana samayena bhagavato pādo sakalikāya khato
hoti.

Now at that time the Buddha's foot had been cut by a splinter.

Bhusā sudamṃ bhagavato vedanā vattanti sārīrikā vedanā dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā asātā amanāpā;

The Buddha was stricken by harrowing pains; physical feelings that were painful, sharp, severe, acute, unpleasant, and disagreeable.

tā sudamṃ bhagavā sato sampajāno adhivāseti avihaññamāno.

But he endured with mindfulness and situational awareness, without worrying.

Atha kho bhagavā catugguṇaṃ saṅghāṭiṃ paññāpetvā dakkhiṇena passena sīhaseyyaṃ kappeti pāde pādam accādhāya sato sampajāno.

And then he spread out his outer robe folded in four and laid down in the lion's posture—on the right side, placing one foot on top of the other—mindful and aware.

Atha kho sattasatā satullapakāyikā devatāyo abhikkantāya rattiyā abhikkantavaṇṇā kevalakappaṃ maddakucchiṃ obhāsetvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamim̐su; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhaṃsu.

Then, late at night, several glorious deities of the Satullapa Group, lighting up the entire Maddukucchi, went up to the Buddha, bowed, and stood to one side.

Ekamantaṃ ṭhitā kho ekā devatā bhagavato santike imaṃ udānaṃ udānesi:

Standing to one side, one deity expressed this heartfelt sentiment in the Buddha's presence:

“nāgo vata, bho, samaṇo gotamo;

“The ascetic Gotama is such an elephant, sir!

nāgavatā ca samuppannā sārīrikā vedanā dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā asātā amanāpā sato sampajāno adhvāseti avihaññamāno”ti.

And as an elephant, he endures painful physical feelings that have come up—sharp, severe, acute, unpleasant, and disagreeable—with mindfulness and situational awareness, without worrying.”

Atha kho aparā devatā bhagavato santike imaṃ udānaṃ udānesi:

Then another deity expressed this heartfelt sentiment in the Buddha's presence:

“sīho vata, bho, samaṇo gotamo;

sīhavatā ca samuppannā sārīrikā vedanā dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā asātā amanāpā sato sampajāno adhvāseti avihaññamāno”ti.

And as a lion, he endures painful physical feelings ... without worrying.”

Atha kho aparā devatā bhagavato santike imaṃ udānaṃ udānesi:

Then another deity expressed this heartfelt sentiment in the Buddha's presence:

ājānīyavatā ca samuppannā sārīrikā vedanā dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā asātā amanāpā sato sampajāno adhivāseti avihaññamāno”ti.

And as a thoroughbred, he endures painful physical feelings ... without worrying.”

Atha kho aparā devatā bhagavato santike imaṃ udānaṃ udānesi:

Then another deity expressed this heartfelt sentiment in the Buddha's presence:

“nisabho vata, bho, samaṇo gotamo;

“The ascetic Gotama is such a chief bull, sir!

nisabhavatā ca samuppannā sārīrikā vedanā dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā asātā amanāpā sato sampajāno adhivāseti avihaññamāno”ti.

And as a chief bull, he endures painful physical feelings ... without worrying.”

Atha kho aparā devatā bhagavato santike imaṃ udānaṃ udānesi:

Then another deity expressed this heartfelt sentiment in the Buddha's presence:

“dhorayho vata, bho, samaṇo gotamo;

dhorayhavatā ca samuppannā sārīrikā vedanā dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā asātā amanāpā sato sampajāno adhivāseti avihaññamāno”ti.

And as a behemoth, he endures painful physical feelings ... without worrying.”

Atha kho aparā devatā bhagavato santike imaṃ udānaṃ udānesi:

Then another deity expressed this heartfelt sentiment in the Buddha’s presence:

“danto vata, bho, samaṇo gotamo;

“The ascetic Gotama is truly tamed, sir!

dantavatā ca samuppannā sārīrikā vedanā dukkhā tibbā kharā kaṭukā asātā amanāpā sato sampajāno adhivāseti avihaññaṃāno”ti.

And as someone tamed, he endures painful physical feelings ... without worrying.”

Atha kho aparā devatā bhagavato santike imaṃ udānaṃ udānesi:

Then another deity expressed this heartfelt sentiment in the Buddha’s presence:

“passa samādhim subhāvitam cittaṅca suvimuttam, na cābhinatham na cāpanatham na ca sasaṅkhāraniggayhavāritagatham.

“See, his immersion is so well developed, and his mind is so well freed—not leaning forward or pulling back, and not held in place by forceful suppression.

Yo evarūpaṃ purisanāgaṃ purisasīhaṃ purisaājānīyaṃ purisanisabhaṃ purisadhorayaṃ purisadantaṃ atikkamitabbaṃ maññeyya kimaññaṃtra adassanā”ti.

If anyone imagines that they can overcome such an elephant of a man, a lion of a man, a thoroughbred of a man, a chief bull of a man, a behemoth of a man, a tamed man—what is that but a failure to see?”

“Pañcavedā satam samam, “Learned in the five Vedas, brahmins practice

Tapassī brāhmaṇā caram;
mortification for a full century.

Cittañca nesaṃ na sammā vimuttaṃ,
But their minds are not properly freed,

for those of base character don’t cross to the far shore.

Taṇhāhipannā vatasīlabaddhā,
Seized by craving, attached to precepts and observances,

Lūkham tapam vassasatam carantā;
they practice rough mortification for a hundred years.

Cittañca nesaṃ na sammā vimuttaṃ,
But their minds are not properly freed,

Hīnattharūpā na pāraṅgamā te.
for those of base character don’t cross to the far shore.

Na mānakāmassa damo idhatthi,
Someone who’s fond of conceit can’t be tamed,

Na monamatthi asamāhitassa;
and someone without immersion can’t be a sage.

Eko araṅṅe viharam pamatto,
Living negligent alone in the wilderness,

Na maccudheyassa tareyya pāran”ti.

“Mānam pahāya susamāhitatto,

2. Devaputta Saṃyutta: On Gods

1. Paṭhamakassapasutta With Kassapa (1st)

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Atha kho kassapo devaputto abhikkantāya rattiyā

devaputto bhagavantam etadavoca:

Then, late at night, the glorious god Kassapa, lighting up the entire Jeta’s Grove, went up to the Buddha, bowed, stood to one side, and said to him, “bhikkhum bhagavā pakāsesi, no ca bhikkhuno anusāsan”ti.

“The Buddha has revealed the mendicant, but not his instructions to a mendicant.”

“Tena hi, kassapa, taññevettha paṭibhātū”ti.

“Well then, Kassapa, clarify this matter yourself.”

“Subhāsitassa sikkhetha,

“They should train in following good advice, samaṇūpāsanassa ca;

in attending closely to ascetics,

Ekāsanassa ca raho,
in sitting alone in hidden places,
cittavūpasamassa cā”ti.
and in calming the mind.”

Idamavoca kassapo devaputto;
That’s what the god Kassapa said,
samanuñño satthā ahosi.

Atha kho kassapo devaputto “samanuñño me satthā”ti

10. Sūriyasutta The Sun

Sāvattihinidānaṃ.

At Sāvattihī.

Tena kho pana समयena sūriyo devaputto rāhunā asurindena gahito hoti.

Now at that time the Sun God had been seized by Rāhu, lord of demons.

Atha kho sūriyo devaputto bhagavantaṃ anussaramāno tāyaṃ velāyaṃ imaṃ gāthaṃ abhāsi:

Then the Sun God, recollecting the Buddha, at that time recited this verse:

“Namo te buddha vīratthu, “Homage to you, Buddha, hero!

vippamuttosi sabbadhi;
You’re freed in every way.

Sambādhapaṭipannosmi,
I’ve wandered into confinement:

tassa me saraṇaṃ bhavā”ti.
be my refuge!”

Atha kho bhagavā sūriyaṃ devaputtaṃ ārabha rāhuṃ asurindaṃ gāthāhi ajjhabhāsi:

Then the Buddha addressed Rāhu in verse concerning the Sun God:

“Tathāgataṃ arahantaṃ,
“The Sun God has gone for refuge

sūriyo saraṇaṃ gato;
to the Realized One, the perfected one.

Rāhu sūriyaṃ pamañcassu, Rāhu, release the Sun!

buddhā lokānukampakā.
Buddhas have compassion for the world!

Yo andhakāre tamasi pabhaṅkaro,
He shines a light in the darkness,

Verocano maṇḍalī uggatejo;
the blazing sun, circle of magnificent flame.

Mā rāhu gilī caramantalikkhe,
Rāhu, do not swallow him as he traverses the sky.

Pajaṃ mamaṃ rāhu pamañca sūriyaṃ”ti.
Rāhu, release my progeny, the Sun!”

Atha kho rāhu asurindo sūriyaṃ devaputtaṃ muñcitvā upasaṅkamtivā saṃviggo lomahaṭṭhajāto ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi.

Then Rāhu, having released the Sun, rushed to see Vepacitti, lord of demons and stood to one side, shocked and awestruck.

Ekamantaṃ ṭhitaṃ kho rāhuṃ asurindaṃ vepacitti asurindo who praised giving.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, catūsu dvāresu dānaṃ dīyittha

I gave gifts at the four gates to ascetics and brahmins, to paupers, vagrants, travelers, and beggars.

Atha kho maṃ, bhante, itthāgāraṃ upasaṅkamtivā etadavoca:

Then the ladies of my harem approached me and said,

‘devassa kho dānaṃ dīyati; amhākaṃ dānaṃ na dīyati.

‘Your Majesty gives gifts, but we don’t.

Sādhu mayampi devaṃ nissāya dānāni dadeyyāma, puññāni kareyyāmā’ti.

Your Majesty, please support us to give gifts and make merit.’

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me,

‘ahaṃ khosmi dāyako dānapati dānassa vaṇṇavādī.

‘I’m a giver, a donor, who praises giving.

Dānaṃ dassāmāti vadante kinti vadeyyan’ti?

When they say, “We would give gifts”, what am I to say?’

So khvāhaṃ, bhante, paṭhamaṃ dvāraṃ itthāgārassa adāsīṃ.

And so I gave the first gate to the ladies of my harem.

Tattha itthāgārassa dānaṃ dīyittha; mama dānaṃ paṭikkami.

There they gave gifts, while my own giving dwindled.

Atha kho maṃ, bhante, khattiyā anuyantā upasaṅkamtivā etadavocuṃ:

Then my aristocrat vassals approached me and said,

‘devassa kho dānaṃ dīyati; itthāgārassa dānaṃ dīyati;

So khvāhaṃ, bhante, dutiyaṃ dvāraṃ khattiyānaṃ

And so I gave the second gate to my aristocrat vassals.

Tattha khattiyānaṃ anuyantānaṃ dānaṃ dīyittha, mama dānaṃ

There they gave gifts, while my own giving dwindled.

Atha kho maṃ, bhante, balakāyo upasaṅkamtivā etadavoca:

Then my troops approached me and said,

‘devassa kho dānaṃ dīyati; itthāgārassa dānaṃ dīyati;

When they say, “We would give gifts”, what am I to say?’

So khvāhaṃ, bhante, catutthaṃ dvāraṃ brāhmaṇagahapatikānaṃ adāsīm.

And so I gave the fourth gate to my brahmins and householders.

Tattha brāhmaṇagahapatikānaṃ dānaṃ dīyittha, mama dānaṃ paṭikkami.

There they gave gifts, while my own giving dwindled.

Atha kho maṃ, bhante, purisā upasaṅkamtivā etadavocum:

Then my men approached me and said,

‘na kho dāni devassa koci dānaṃ dīyatī’ti.

‘Now Your Majesty is not giving gifts at all!’

Evaṃ vuttāhaṃ, bhante, te purise etadavocaṃ:

When they said this, I said to those men,

‘tena hi, bhaṇe, yo bāhiresu janapadesu āyo sañjāyati tato upaḍḍhaṃ antepure pavesetha, upaḍḍhaṃ tattheva dānaṃ detha samaṇabrāhmaṇakapaṇaddhikavanibbakayācakānan’ti.

‘So then, my men, send half of the revenue from the outer districts to the royal compound. Then give half right there to ascetics and brahmins, to paupers, vagrants, travelers, and beggars.’

So khvāhaṃ, bhante, evaṃ dīgharattaṃ katānaṃ puññānaṃ evaṃ dīgharattaṃ katānaṃ kusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ pariyantaṃ nādhigacchāmi—

Sir, for a long time I made so much merit and did so many skillful deeds. I never reached any limit so as to say ettakaṃ puññanti vā ettako puññavipākoti vā ettakaṃ sagge thātabbanti vāti.

‘there’s this much merit’ or ‘there’s this much result of merit’ or ‘for so long I’ll remain in heaven’.

Now at that time several mendicants were staying in the Kosalan lands, in a wilderness hut on the slopes of the Himalayas. They were restless, insolent, fickle, gossipy, loose-tongued, unmindful, lacking situational awareness and immersion, with straying minds and undisciplined faculties.

“Reverend, I say it’s not possible to know or see or reach the end of the world by traveling to a place where there’s no being born, growing old, dying, passing away, or being reborn.”

‘yattha kho, āvuso, na jāyati na jīyati na mīyati na cavati na upapajjati, nāhaṃ taṃ gamanena lokassa antaṃ ñāteyyaṃ daṭṭheyyaṃ patteyyanti vadāmī’ti.

Bhūtapubbāhaṃ, bhante, rohitasso nāma isi ahosiṃ bhojaputto iddhimā vehāsaṅgamo.

Once upon a time, I was a hermit called Rohitassa, son of Bhoja. I was a sky-walker with psychic power.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, evarūpo javo ahosi; seyyathāpi nāma daḷhadhammā dhanuggaho susikkhito katahattho katayoggo katūpāsano lahukena asanena appakasireneva tiriyaṃ tālacchāyaṃ atipāteyya.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, evarūpo padavītihāro ahosi; seyyathāpi nāma puratthimā samuddā pacchimo samuddo.

My stride was such that it could span from the eastern ocean to the western ocean.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, evarūpaṃ icchāgataṃ uppajji:

This wish came to me:

‘ahaṃ gamanena lokassa antaṃ pāpuṇissāmī’ti.

‘I will reach the end of the world by traveling.’

So khvāhaṃ, bhante, evarūpena javena samannāgato evarūpena ca padavītihārena, aññatreva asitapītakhāyitasāyitā aññatra uccārapassāvakkammā aññatra niddākilamathapaṭivindanā vassasatāyuko vassasatajīvī vassasataṃ gantvā appatvāva lokassa antaṃ antarāva kālaṅkato.

Having such speed and stride, I traveled for my whole lifespan of a hundred years—pausing only to eat and drink, go to the toilet, and sleep to dispel weariness—and I passed away along the way, never reaching the end of the world.

Acchariyaṃ, bhante, abbhutaṃ, bhante.

“Na kho panāhaṃ, āvuso, appatvā lokassa antaṃ dukkhassa antakiriyaṃ vadāmi.

“But Reverend, I also say there's no making an end of suffering without reaching the end of the world.

Who on earth would not like Venerable Sāriputta unless they’re a fool, a hater, delusional, or mentally deranged?”

Paṇḍito, bhante, āyasmā sāriputto.

And he too repeated all the terms of praise of Sāriputta, adding,

Mahāpañño, bhante, puthupañño, bhante, hāsapañño, bhante, javanapañño, bhante, tikkhapañño, bhante, nibbedhikapañño, bhante, appiccho, bhante, santuṭṭho, bhante, pavivitto, bhante, asaṃsaṭṭho, bhante, āraddhavīriyo, bhante, vattā, bhante, vacanakkhamo, bhante, codako, bhante, pāpagarahī, bhante, āyasmā sāriputto.

Evaṃ me sutam—

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati veḷuvane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Atha kho sambahulā nānātitthiyasāvakā devaputtā asamo ca

Then, late at night, several glorious gods lit up the entire Bamboo Grove. They were Asama, Sahalī, Niṅka, Ākoṭaka, Vetambarī, and Māṇavagāmiya, and all of them were disciples of various sectarian teachers. They went up to the Buddha, bowed, and stood to one side.

Ekamantaṃ ṭhito kho asamo devaputto pūraṇaṃ kassapaṃ ārabha bhagavato santike imaṃ gāthaṃ abhāsi:

Standing to one side, the god Asama recited this verse about Pūraṇa Kassapa in the Buddha's presence:

“Idha chinditamārite, “In injuring and killing here, in beating and extortion,

Na pāpaṃ samanupassati,

Atha kho sahalī devaputto makkhalīṃ gosālaṃ ārabha

Then the god Sahalī recited this verse about Makkhali Gosala in the Buddha’s presence:

“Tapojigucchāya susaṃvutatto, “Through mortification in disgust of sin he became well restrained.

Vācaṃ pahāya kalahaṃ janena;
He gave up arguing with people.

Samosavajjā virato saccavādī,
Refraining from false speech, he spoke the truth.

Na hi nūna tādisaṃ karoti pāpaṃ”ti.
Surely such a man does no wrong!”

Atha kho nīko devaputto nigaṇṭhaṃ nāṭaputtaṃ ārabha
bhagavato santike imaṃ gāthaṃ abhāsi:

Then the god Niṅka recited this verse about Nigaṇṭha Nātaputta in the Buddha’s presence:

“Jegucchī nipako bhikkhu,

“Disgusted at sin, an alert mendicant,

Cātuyāmasusamvuto;

Atha kho ākoṭako devaputto nānātitthiye ārabbha bhagavato

Then the god Ākoṭaka recited this verse about various sectarian teachers in the Buddha’s presence:

“Pakudhako kātiyāno nigaṇṭho,

“Pakudhaka, Kātiyāna, and Nigaṇṭha,

Ye cāpime makkhalipūraṇāse;

as well as this Makkhali and Pūraṇa:

Gaṇassa satthāro sāmāññappattā,

Teachers of communities, attained ascetics,

Na hi nūna te sappurisehi dūre”ti.

surely they weren’t far from truly good men!”

Atha kho vegabbhari devaputto ākoṭakaṃ devaputtaṃ gāthāya

Then the god Vetambarī replied to the god Ākoṭaka in verse:

“Sahācaritena chavo sigālo,

Atha kho māro pāpimā begabbharim devaputtam anvāvisitvā bhagavato santike imam gātham abhāsi:

Then Māra the Wicked took possession of the god Vetambarī and recited this verse in the Buddha’s presence:

“Tapojigucchāya āyuttā,

Atha kho māṇavagāmiyo devaputto bhagavantaṃ ārabha

11. Sattajaṭilasutta Seven Matted-Hair Ascetics

Ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati pubbārāme migāramātupāsāde.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattḥī in the Eastern Monastery, the stilt longhouse of Migāra's mother.

Tena kho pana samayena bhagavā sāyanhasamayam paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito bahidvārakoṭṭhake nisinno hoti.

Then in the late afternoon, the Buddha came out of retreat and sat outside the gate.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

Then King Pasenadi of Kosala went up to the Buddha, bowed, and sat down to one side.

Tena kho pana samayena satta ca jaṭilā satta ca nigaṇṭhā satta ca acelakā satta ca ekasātakā satta ca paribbājakā parūḷhakacchanakhalomā khārivividhamādāya bhagavato avidūre atikkamanti.

Now at that time seven matted-hair ascetics, seven Jain ascetics, seven naked ascetics, seven one-cloth ascetics, and seven wanderers passed by not far from the Buddha. Their armpits and bodies were hairy, and their nails were long; and they carried their stuff with shoulder-poles.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo utthāyāsanaṃ ekamsam uttarāsaṅgam karitvā dakkhiṇajāṇumaṇḍalam pathaviyaṃ

Then King Pasenadi got up from his seat, arranged his robe over one shoulder, knelt with his right knee on the ground, raised his joined palms toward those various ascetics, and pronounced his name three times:

“rājāhaṃ, bhante, pasenadi kosalo ...pe... rājāhaṃ, bhante,

“Sirs, I am Pasenadi, king of Kosala! ... I am Pasenadi, king of Kosala!”

Now at that time five kings headed by Pasenadi were amusing themselves, supplied and provided with the five kinds of sensual stimulation, and this discussion came up among them:

“kiṃ nu kho kāmānaṃ aggan”ti?
“What’s the best of sensual pleasures?”

Tatrekacce evamāhaṃsu:
Some of them said,

“rūpā kāmānaṃ aggan”ti.
“Sights are the best of sensual pleasures!”

“Come, good sirs, let’s go to the Buddha and ask him about this.

Yathā no bhagavā byākarissati tathā naṃ dhāressāmā”ti.

As he answers, so we’ll remember it.”

“Evaṃ, mārisā”ti kho te rājāno rañño pasenadissa kosalassa paccassosuṃ.

13. Doṇapākasutta A Bucket of Rice

Sāvattthinidānaṃ.
At Sāvattthī.

Tena kho pana समयena rājā pasenadi kosalo doṇapākakuraṃ

Now at that time King Pasenadi of Kosala used to eat rice by the bucket.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo bhuttāvī mahassāsī yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

Then after eating King Pasenadi of Kosala went up to the Buddha, huffing and puffing. He bowed and sat down to one side.

Atha kho bhagavā rājānaṃ pasenadiṃ kosalaṃ bhuttāvīṃ mahassāsīṃ veditvā tāyaṃ velāyaṃ imam gātham abhāsi:

Then, knowing that King Pasenadi was huffing and puffing after eating, on that occasion the Buddha recited this verse:

“Manujassa sadā satīmato,

“When a man is always mindful,

Mattaṃ jānato laddhabhojane;

knowing moderation in eating,

Tanukassa bhavanti vedanā,

his discomfort diminishes,

Saṅikam jīrati āyupālayan”ti.

Tena kho pana samayena sudassano māṇavo rañño pasenadissa kosalassa piṭṭhito ṭhito hoti.

Now at that time the brahmin student Sudassana was standing behind the king.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo sudassanaṃ māṇavaṃ āmantesi:

Then King Pasenadi addressed him,

“ehi tvaṃ, tāta sudassana, bhagavato santike imaṃ gāthaṃ pariyāpuṇitvā mama bhattābhihāre bhattābhihāre bhāsa.

“Please, dear Sudassana, memorize this verse in the Buddha’s presence and recite it to me whenever I am presented with a meal.

Ahañca te devasikaṃ kahāpaṇasataṃ kahāpaṇasataṃ niccaṃ bhikkhaṃ pavattayissāmi”ti.

I’ll set up a regular daily allowance of a hundred dollars for you.”

“Yes, Your Majesty,” replied Sudassana. He memorized that verse in the Buddha’s presence, and then whenever the king was presented with a meal he would repeat it:

“Manujassa sadā satīmato,

“When a man is always mindful,

Mattaṃ jānato laddhabhojane;

knowing moderation in eating,

Tanukassa bhavanti vedanā,

his discomfort diminishes,

Sañjikaṃ jīrati āyupālayan”ti.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo anupubbena

Then the king gradually got used to having no more than a pint of rice.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo aparena samayena

After some time King Pasenadi’s body slimmed right down. Stroking his limbs with his hands, at that time he expressed this heartfelt sentiment:

“ubhayena vata maṃ so bhagavā atthena anukampi—

“In both ways the Buddha has compassion for me:

diṭṭhadhammikenā ceva atthena samparāyikenā cā”ti.

who withdrew to his own capital at Sāvattī.

Atha kho sambahulā bhikkhū pubbaṅhasamayam nivāsetvā

Then, after the meal, when they returned from alms-round, they went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened. Then the Buddha said:

Yet on this day King Pasenadi will have a bad night’s sleep as one defeated.”

And in that battle Pasenadi defeated Ajātasattu and captured him alive.

Atha kho rañño pasenadissa kosalassa etadahosi:

Then King Pasenadi thought,

“kiñcāpi kho myāyaṃ rājā māgadho ajātasattu vedehiputto adubbhantassa dubbhati, atha ca pana me bhāgineyyo hoti.

“Even though I’ve never betrayed this King Ajātasattu, he betrayed me. Still, he is my nephew.

Now that I’ve vanquished all of Ajātasattu’s elephant troops, cavalry, chariots, and infantry, why don’t I let him loose with just his life?”

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo rañño māgadhasa ajātasattuno vedehiputtassa sabbaṃ hatthikāyaṃ pariyādiyitvā sabbaṃ assakāyaṃ pariyādiyitvā sabbaṃ rathakāyaṃ pariyādiyitvā sabbaṃ pattikāyaṃ pariyādiyitvā jīvantameva naṃ osajji.

And that’s what he did.

Atha kho sambahulā bhikkhū pubbaṇhasamayāṃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya sāvattihīṃ piṇḍāya pavasiṃsu.

“Just now, sir, as I was in private retreat this thought came to mind.

‘svākkhāto bhagavatā dhammo, so ca kho kalyāṇamittassa

‘The teaching is well explained by the Buddha. But it’s for someone with good friends, companions, and associates, not for someone with bad friends, companions, and associates.’” “Evametaṃ, mahārāja, evametaṃ, mahārāja.

“That’s so true, great king! That’s so true!” said the Buddha. And he repeated the king’s statement, adding:

Svākkhāto, mahārāja, mayā dhammo. So ca kho kalyāṇamittassa kalyāṇasahāyassa kalyāṇasampavaṅkassa, no pāpamittassa no pāpasahāyassa no pāpasampavaṅkassāti.

Ekamidāhaṃ, mahārāja, samayaṃ sakkesu viharāmi nagarakaṃ nāma sakyānaṃ nigamo.

“Great king, this one time I was staying in the land of the Sakyans where they have a town named Townsville.

Atha kho, mahārāja, ānando bhikkhu yenāhaṃ tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā maṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho, mahārāja, ānando bhikkhu maṃ etadavoca:

Then the mendicant Ānanda came to me, bowed, sat down to one side, and said:

‘upaḍḍhamidaṃ, bhante, brahmacariyassa—yadidaṃ kalyāṇamittatā kalyāṇasahāyatā kalyāṇasampavaṅkatā’ti.

‘Sir, good friends, companions, and associates are half the spiritual life.’

Evaṃ vuttāhaṃ, mahārāja, ānandaṃ bhikkhuṃ etadavocaṃ:

When he had spoken, I said to him:

‘mā hevaṃ, ānanda, mā hevaṃ, ānanda.

‘Not so, Ānanda! Not so, Ānanda!

Sakalameva hidaṃ, ānanda, brahmacariyaṃ—yadidaṃ kalyāṇamittatā kalyāṇasahāyatā kalyāṇasampavaṅkatā.

Good friends, companions, and associates are the whole of the spiritual life.

Kalyāṇamittassetā, ānanda, bhikkhuno pāṭikaṅkhaṃ kalyāṇasahāyassa kalyāṇasampavaṅkassa ariyaṃ aṭṭhaṅgikaṃ maggaṃ bhāvēssati ariyaṃ aṭṭhaṅgikaṃ maggaṃ bahulīkarissati.

A mendicant with good friends, companions, and associates can expect to develop and cultivate the noble eightfold path.

Kathaṅca, ānanda, bhikkhu kalyāṇamitto kalyāṇasahāyo kalyāṇasampavaṅko ariyaṃ aṭṭhaṅgikaṃ maggaṃ bhāveti, ariyaṃ aṭṭhaṅgikaṃ maggaṃ bahulīkaroti?

And how does a mendicant with good friends develop and cultivate the noble eightfold path?

Idhānanda, bhikkhu sammādiṭṭhiṃ bhāveti vivekanissitaṃ virāganissitaṃ nirodhanissitaṃ vossaggapariṇāmiṃ, sammāsaṅkappaṃ bhāveti ... sammāvācaṃ bhāveti ... sammākammaṃ bhāveti ... sammājīvaṃ bhāveti ... sammāvāyāmaṃ bhāveti ... sammāsatīṃ bhāveti ... sammāsamādhiṃ bhāveti vivekanissitaṃ virāganissitaṃ nirodhanissitaṃ vossaggapariṇāmiṃ.

It's when a mendicant develops right view, right thought, right speech, right action, right livelihood, right effort, right mindfulness, and right immersion, which rely on seclusion, fading away, and cessation, and ripen as letting go.

Evaṃ kho, ānanda, bhikkhu kalyāṇamitto kalyāṇasahāyo kalyāṇasampavaṅko ariyaṃ aṭṭhaṅgikaṃ maggaṃ bhāveti, ariyaṃ aṭṭhaṅgikaṃ maggaṃ bahulīkaroti.

That's how a mendicant with good friends develops and cultivates the noble eightfold path.

Tadamināpetam, ānanda, pariyāyena veditabbaṃ yathā sakalamevidaṃ brahmacariyaṃ—yadidaṃ kalyāṇamittatā kalyāṇasahāyatā kalyāṇasampavaṅkatāti.

And here's another way to understand how good friends are the whole of the spiritual life.

Mamañhi, ānanda, kalyāṇamittaṃ āgamma jātidhammā sattā jātiyā parimuccanti, jarādhammā sattā jarāya parimuccanti, byādhidhammā sattā byādhito parimuccanti, maraṇadhammā sattā maraṇena parimuccanti, sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsadhammā sattā sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsehi parimuccanti.

For, by relying on me as a good friend, sentient beings who are liable to rebirth, old age, and death, to sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress are freed from all these things.

Iminā kho etaṃ, ānanda, pariyāyena veditabbaṃ yathā sakalamevidaṃ brahmacariyaṃ—yadidaṃ kalyāṇamittatā kalyāṇasahāyatā kalyāṇasampavaṅkatā'ti.

This is another way to understand how good friends are the whole of the spiritual life.'

“That’s so true, great king! That’s so true!

Bhūtapubbaṃ so, mahārāja, seṭṭhi gahapati taggarasikhiṃ

nāma paccekasambuddhaṃ piṇḍapātena paṭipādesi.

Once upon a time, great king, that financier householder provided alms-food on behalf of a Buddha awakened for himself named Tagarasikhī.

‘Detha samaṇassa piṇḍan’ti vatvā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkāmi.

He instructed: ‘Give alms to that ascetic,’ before getting up from his seat and leaving.

Datvā ca pana pacchā vippaṭisārī ahoṣi:

But after giving he regretted it:

‘varametaṃ piṇḍapātaṃ dāsā vā kammakarā vā bhuñjeyyun’ti.

‘It would have been better to feed the bondservants or workers with that alms-food.’

Bhātu ca pana ekaputtakaṃ sāpateyyassa kāraṇā jīvitā voropesi.

What’s more, he murdered his brother’s only child for the sake of his fortune.

Yaṃ kho so, mahārāja, seṭṭhi gahapati taggarasikhiṃ paccekasambuddhaṃ piṇḍapātena paṭipādesi, tassa kammaṃ vipākena sattakkhattuṃ sugatiṃ saggāṃ lokāṃ upapajji.

Because that financier provided Tagarasikhī with alms-food, as a result of that deed he was reborn seven times in a good place, a heavenly realm.

Tasseva kammaṣṣa vipākāvasesena imissāyeva sāvattiyā sattakkhattuṃ seṭṭhitaṃ kāresi.

And as a residual result of that same deed he held the position of financier seven times right here in Sāvattihī.

Yaṃ kho so, mahārāja, seṭṭhi gahapati datvā pacchā vippaṭṭisārī ahoṣi:

But because that financier regretted giving alms,

‘varametaṃ piṇḍapātaṃ dāsā vā kammakarā vā bhuñjeyyuntī, tassa kammaṣṣa vipākena nāssuḷārāya bhattabhogāya cittaṃ namati, nāssuḷārāya vatthabhogāya cittaṃ namati, nāssuḷārāya yānabhogāya cittaṃ namati, nāssuḷārānaṃ pañcannaṃ kāmaguṇānaṃ bhogāya cittaṃ namati.

as a result of that deed his mind didn’t tend to enjoy nice food, clothes, vehicles, or the five refined kinds of sensual stimulation.

Yaṃ kho so, mahārāja, seṭṭhi gahapati bhātu ca pana ekaputtakaṃ sāpateyyassa kāraṇā jīvitā voropesi, tassa kammaṣṣa vipākena bahūni vassāni bahūni vassasatāni bahūni vassasahassāni bahūni vassasatasahassāni niraye paccittha.

And because that financier murdered his brother’s only child for the sake of his fortune, as a result of that deed he burned in hell for many years, for many hundreds, many thousands, many hundreds of thousands of years.

Tasseva kammaṣṣa vipākāvasesena idaṃ sattamaṃ aputtakaṃ sāpateyyaṃ rājakosaṃ paveseti.

And as a residual result of that same deed, he is childless for the seventh time, his fortune ending up in the royal treasury.

Tassa kho, mahārāja, seṭṭhissa gahapatissa purāṇaṅca puññaṃ parikkhīṇaṃ, navaṅca puññaṃ anupacitaṃ.

Now the old merit of that financier has been used up, and he hasn’t accumulated new merit.

Today, great king, that financier burns in the Great Hell of Screams.”

“Evaṃ, mahārāja, seṭṭhi gahapati mahāroruvaṃ nirayaṃ upapanno”ti.

Then King Pasenadi of Kosala went up to the Buddha, bowed, and sat down to one side. The Buddha said to him:

“cattārome, mahārāja puggalā santo saṃvijjamānā lokasmim.
“Great king, these four people are found in the world.

Katame cattāro?

What four?

1. Tamotamaparāyano,
The dark bound for darkness,
2. tamojotiparāyano,
the dark bound for light,
3. jotitamaparāyano,
the light bound for darkness,
4. jotijotiparāyano.
and the light bound for light.

Kathaṅca, mahārāja puggalo tamotamaparāyano hoti?

And how is a person dark and bound for darkness?

Idha, mahārāja, ekacco puggalo nīce kule paccājāto hoti, caṇḍālakule vā venakule vā nesādakule vā rathakārakule vā pukkusakule vā dalidde appannapānabhojane kasiravuttike, yattha kasirena ghāsacchādo labbhati.

It's when some person is reborn in a low family—a family of outcastes, bamboo-workers, hunters, chariot-makers, or waste-collectors—poor, with little to eat or drink, where life is tough, and food and shelter are hard to find.

So ca hoti dubbaṇṇo duddasiko okoṭimako bāvābādho kāṇo vā kuṇī vā khañjo vā pakkhahato vā, na lābhī annassa pānassa vatthassa yānassa mālāgandhavilepanassa seyyāvasathapadīpeyyassa.

And they're ugly, unsightly, deformed, chronically ill—one-eyed, crippled, lame, or half-paralyzed. They don't get to have food, drink, clothes, and vehicles; garlands, perfumes, and makeup; or bed, house, and lighting.

So kāyena duccharitaṃ carati, vācāya duccharitaṃ carati, manasā duccharitaṃ carati.

And they do bad things by way of body, speech, and mind.

So kāyena duccharitaṃ caritvā vācāya duccharitaṃ caritvā manasā duccharitaṃ caritvā, kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā apāyaṃ duggatiṃ vinipātaṃ nirayaṃ upapajjati.

When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell.

Seyyathāpi, mahārāja, puriso andhakārā vā andhakāraṃ gaccheyya, tamā vā tamaṃ gaccheyya, lohitalamā vā lohitalamaṃ gaccheyya.

This person is like someone who goes from darkness to darkness, from blackness to blackness, from bloodstain to bloodstain.

Tathūpamaṃ, mahārāja, imaṃ puggalaṃ vadāmi.

Evam kho, mahārāja, puggalo tamotamaparāyano hoti.

That's how a person is dark and bound for darkness.

Kathañca, mahārāja, puggalo tamojotiparāyano hoti?

And how is a person dark and bound for light?

Idha, mahārāja, ekacco puggalo nīce kule paccājāto hoti, caṇḍālakule vā venakule vā nesādakule vā rathakārakule vā pukkusakule vā dalidde appannapānabhojane kasiravuttike, yattha kasirena ghāsacchādo labbhati.

It's when some person is reborn in a low family—a family of outcastes, bamboo-workers, hunters, chariot-makers, or waste-collectors—poor, with little to eat or drink, where life is tough, and food and shelter are hard to find.

So ca kho hoti dubbaṇṇo duddasiko okoṭimako bāvābādho, kāṇo vā kuṇī vā khañjo vā pakkhahato vā, na lābhī annassa pānassa vatthassa yānassa mālāgandhavilepanassa seyyāvasathapadīpeyyassa.

And they're ugly, unsightly, deformed, chronically ill—one-eyed, crippled, lame, or half-paralyzed. They don't get to have food, drink, clothes, and vehicles; garlands, perfumes, and makeup; or bed, house, and lighting.

So kāyena sucaritaṃ carati, vācāya sucaritaṃ carati, manasā sucaritaṃ carati.

But they do good things by way of body, speech, and mind.

So kāyena sucaritaṃ caritvā vācāya sucaritaṃ caritvā manasā sucaritaṃ caritvā, kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā sugatīṃ saggaṃ lokāṃ upapajjati.

When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.

Seyyathāpi, mahārāja, puriso pathaviyā vā pallaṅkaṃ āroheyya, pallaṅkā vā assapiṭṭhīṃ āroheyya, assapiṭṭhiyā vā hatthikkhandhaṃ āroheyya, hatthikkhandhā vā pāsādaṃ āroheyya.

Tathūpamāhaṃ, mahārāja, imaṃ puggalaṃ vadāmi.

Evaṃ kho, mahārāja, puggalo tamojotiparāyano hoti.

It's when some person is reborn in an eminent family—a well-to-do family of aristocrats, brahmins, or householders—rich, affluent, and wealthy, with lots of gold and silver, lots of property and assets, and lots of money and grain.

So ca hoti abhirūpo dassanīyo pāsādiko, paramāya vaṇṇapokkharatāya samannāgato, lābhī annassa pānassa vatthassa yānassa mālāgandhavilepanassa seyyāvasathapadīpeyyassa.

And they're attractive, good-looking, lovely, of surpassing beauty. They get to have food, drink, clothes, and vehicles; garlands, perfumes, and makeup; and bed, house, and lighting.

So kāyena duccharitaṃ carati, vācāya duccharitaṃ carati, manasā duccharitaṃ carati.

But they do bad things by way of body, speech, and mind.

So kāyena duccharitaṃ caritvā vācāya duccharitaṃ caritvā manasā duccharitaṃ caritvā, kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā apāyaṃ duggatiṃ vinipātaṃ nirayaṃ upapajjati.

When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell.

1. Tapokammasutta Mortification

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā uruvelāyaṃ viharati najjā nerañjarāya
tīre ajapālanigrodhamūle paṭhamābhisambuddho.

At one time, when he was first awakened, the Buddha was staying near Uruvelā at the root of the goatherd's banyan tree on the bank of the Nerañjarā River.

Atha kho bhagavato rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa evaṃ cetaso
parivittakko udapādi:

Then as he was in private retreat this thought came to his mind, “mutto vatamhi tāya dukkarakārikāya.

“I am truly freed from that grueling work!

Sādhu mutto vatamhi tāya anattasamhitāya dukkarakārikāya.

Thank goodness I'm freed from that pointless grueling work.

Sādhu vatamhi mutto bodhiṃ samajjhagan”ti.

Thank goodness that, steadfast and mindful, I have attained awakening.”

Atha kho māro pāpimā bhagavato cetasā
cetoparivittakkamaññāya yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamitvā bhagavantam gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:

And then Māra the Wicked, knowing what the Buddha was thinking, went up to him and addressed him in verse:

“Tapokammā apakkamma, “You’ve departed from the practice of mortification ye na sujjhanti māṇavā;

by which humans purify themselves.

Asuddho maññasi suddho,
You’re impure, but think yourself pure;

you’ve strayed from the path of purity.”

Atha kho bhagavā “māro ayaṃ pāpimā” iti veditvā māraṃ pāpimantaṃ gāthāhi ajjhabhāsi:

Then the Buddha, knowing that this was Māra the Wicked, replied to him in verse:

“Anatthasaṃhitam ñatvā,
“I realized that it’s pointless;

yaṃ kiñci amaraṃ tapaṃ;
all that mortification in search of immortality

Sabbaṃ natthāvahaṃ hoti,

Ethics, immersion, and wisdom:

Maggam bodhāya bhāvayaṃ;
by developing this path to awakening

Pattosmi paramaṃ suddhim,

Atha kho māro pāpimā “jānāti maṃ bhagavā, jānāti maṃ sugato”ti, dukkhī dummano tatthevantaradhāyīti.

Then Māra the Wicked, thinking, “The Buddha knows me! The Holy One knows me!” miserable and sad, vanished right there.

2. Hatthirājavaṇṇasutta In the Form of an Elephant King

10. Dutiyaāyusutta Life Span (2nd)

Evaṃ me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati veḷuvane
kalandakanivāpe.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tatra kho bhagavā ...pe... etadavoca:
There the Buddha ... said:

“Appamidam, bhikkhave, manussānam āyu.
“Mendicants, the life span of humans is short.

Gamanīyo samparāyo, kattabbaṃ kusalam, caritabbaṃ

You must go to the next life. So you should do what is skillful, you should practice the spiritual life.

Natthi jātassa amaraṇam.
No-one born is immortal.

Yo, bhikkhave, ciraṃ jīvati, so vassasataṃ appaṃ vā bhiyyo”ti.
A long life is a hundred years or a little more.”

Atha kho māro pāpimā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkhami;
upasaṅkhamitvā bhagavantaṃ gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:

Then Māra the Wicked went up to the Buddha and addressed him in verse:

“Nāccayanti ahorattā,
“The days and nights don’t rush by,

Jīvitam nūparujjhati;
and life isn’t cut short.

Āyu anupariyāyati maccānam,
The life of mortals keeps rolling on,

like a chariot’s rim around the hub.”

“Accayanti ahorattā, “The days and nights rush by,

jīvitam uparujjhati;
and then life is cut short.

Āyu khīyati maccānam,
The life of mortals wastes away,

kunnadīnamva odakan”ti.
like the water in tiny streams.”

Atha kho māro pāpimā “jānāti maṃ bhagavā, jānāti maṃ

11. Pāsāṇasutta Boulders

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati gijjhakūṭe pabbate.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, on the Vulture's Peak Mountain.

Tena kho pana samayena bhagavā rattandhakāratimisāyaṃ abbhokāse nisinno hoti, devo ca ekamekam̐ phusāyati.

Now at that time the Buddha was meditating in the open during the dark of night, while a gentle rain drizzled down.

Then Māra the Wicked, wanting to make the Buddha feel fear, terror, and goosebumps, approached him, and crushed some large boulders close by him.

Atha kho bhagavā “māro ayaṃ pāpimā” iti veditvā māraṃ pāpimantaṃ gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:

Then the Buddha, knowing that this was Māra the Wicked, addressed him in verse:

“Sacepi kevalaṃ sabbam̐,

Now at that time the Buddha's foot had been cut by a splinter.

bhusā sudamṃ bhagavato vedanā vattanti sārīrikā dukkhā tībā kharā kaṭukā asātā amanāpā.

The Buddha was stricken by harrowing pains; physical feelings that were painful, sharp, severe, acute, unpleasant, and disagreeable.

Tā sudamṃ bhagavā sato sampajāno adhvāseti avihaññamāno.

But he endured with mindfulness and situational awareness, without worrying.

Atha kho bhagavā catugguṇaṃ saṅghāṭiṃ paññapetvā

“Yaṃ vadanti na taṃ mayhaṃ,

“The things they speak of aren’t mine;

ye vadanti na te ahaṃ;

I’m not someone who speaks like that.

Evaṃ pāpima jānāhi,

So know this, Wicked One:

na me maggampi dakkhasī”ti.

you won’t even see the path I take.”

Atha kho māro pāpimā ...pe... tatthevantaradhāyīti.

Then Māra ... vanished right there.

20. Rajjasutta Ruling

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā kosalesu viharati himavantapadese

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Kosalans, in a wilderness hut on the slopes of the Himalayas.

Atha kho bhagavato rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa evaṃ cetaso
parivitakko udapādi:

Then as he was in private retreat this thought came to his mind,

“sakkā nu kho rajjaṃ kāretuṃ ahanāṃ aghātayaṃ ajinaṃ

“I wonder if it’s possible to rule legitimately, without killing or having someone kill for you; without conquering or having someone conquer for you; without sorrowing or causing sorrow?”

Atha kho māro pāpimā bhagavato cetasā
cetoparivitakkamaññāya yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkhami;

And then Māra the Wicked, knowing what the Buddha was thinking, went up to him and said, “kāretu, bhante, bhagavā rajjaṃ, kāretu, sugato, rajjaṃ ahanāṃ

aghātayaṃ ajinaṃ ajāpayaṃ asocaṃ asocāpayaṃ

“Rule, Blessed One! Rule, Holy One! Rule legitimately, without killing or having someone kill for you; without conquering or having someone conquer for you; without sorrowing or causing sorrow!”

“Kiṃ pana me tvaṃ, pāpima, passasi yaṃ maṃ tvaṃ evaṃ vadesi:

“But what do you see, Wicked One, that you say this to me?”

‘kāretu, bhante, bhagavā rajjaṃ, kāretu sugato, rajjaṃ ahanam aghātayaṃ ajinaṃ ajāpayam asocaṃ asocāpayam dhammenā’”ti?

“Bhagavatā kho, bhante, cattāro iddhipādā bhāvitā bahulīkatā yānīkatā vatthukatā anuṭṭhitā paricitā susamāradhā.

“The Blessed One, sir, has developed and cultivated the four bases for psychic power, made them a vehicle and a basis, kept them up, consolidated them, and properly implemented them.

Atha kho māro pāpimā “jānāti maṃ bhagavā, jānāti maṃ

21. Sambahulasutta Several

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā sakkesu viharati silāvatiyaṃ.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Sakyans near Silāvati.

Tena kho pana samayena sambahulā bhikkhū bhagavato avidūre appamattā ātāpino pahitattā viharanti.

Now at that time several mendicants were meditating not far from the Buddha, diligent, keen, and resolute.

Atha kho māro pāpimā brāhmaṇavaṇṇaṃ abhinimminivā yena te bhikkhū tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā te bhikkhū

etadavoca:

Then Māra the Wicked manifested in the form of a brahmin with a large matted dreadlock, wearing an antelope hide. He was old, bent double, wheezing, and held a staff made of cluster fig tree wood. He went up to those mendicants and said,

“daharā bhavanto pabbajitā susū kāḷakesā bhadrena
yobbanena samannāgatā paṭhamena vayasā anikkīlitāvino

“You’ve gone forth while young, reverends. You’re black-haired, blessed with youth, in the prime of life, and you’ve never flirted with sensual pleasures.

Bhuñjantu bhavanto mānusake kāme.

Enjoy human sensual pleasures.

Mā sandiṭṭhikaṃ hitvā kālikaṃ anudhāvitthā”ti.

Don't give up what is visible in the present to chase after what takes effect over time.”

“Brahmin, that's not what we're doing.

Kālikañca kho mayaṃ, brāhmaṇa, hitvā sandiṭṭhikaṃ anudhāvāma.

We're giving up what takes effect over time to chase after what is visible in the present.

Kālikā hi, brāhmaṇa, kāmā vuttā bhagavatā bahudukkhā bahupāyāsā, ādīnavo ettha bhiyyo.

For the Buddha says that sensual pleasures take effect over time; they give much suffering and distress, and they are all the more full of drawbacks.

Sandiṭṭhiko ayaṃ dhammo akāliko ehipassiko opaneyyiko paccattaṃ veditabbo viññūhī”ti.

But this teaching is visible in this very life, immediately effective, inviting inspection, relevant, so that sensible people can know it for themselves.”

Evaṃ vutte, māro pāpimā sīsaṃ okampetvā jivhaṃ nillāletvā tivisākhaṃ nalāṭe nalāṭikaṃ vuṭṭhāpetvā daṇḍamolubbha pakkāmi.

When they had spoken, Māra the Wicked shook his head, waggled his tongue, raised his eyebrows until his brow puckered in three furrows, and departed leaning on his staff.

Atha kho te bhikkhū yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdiṃsu. Ekamantaṃ nisinnā kho te bhikkhū bhagavantaṃ etadavocum̐:

Then those senior mendicants went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened. The Buddha said, “idha mayaṃ, bhante, bhagavato avidūre appamattā ātāpino pahitattā viharāma.

Atha kho, bhante, aññataro brāhmaṇo mahantena jaṭaṇḍuvena ajinakkhipanivattho jiṇṇo gopānasivaṅko ghurughurupassāsī udumbaraḍaṇḍaṃ gahetvā yena mayaṃ tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā amhe etadavoca:

‘daharā bhavanto pabbajitā susū kāḷakesā bhadrena yobbanena samannāgatā paṭhamena vayasā anikkīlitāvino kāmesu.

Bhuñjantu bhavanto mānusaḷe kāme.

Mā sandiṭṭhikaṃ hitvā kālikaṃ anudhāvitthā’ti.

Evaṃ vutte, mayaṃ, bhante, taṃ brāhmaṇaṃ etadavocumha:

‘na kho mayaṃ, brāhmaṇa, sandiṭṭhikaṃ hitvā kālikaṃ anudhāvāma.

Kālikañca kho mayaṃ, brāhmaṇa, hitvā sandiṭṭhikaṃ anudhāvāma.

Kālikā hi, brāhmaṇa, kāmā vuttā bhagavatā bahudukkhā bahupāyāsā, ādīnavo ettha bhiyyo.

Sandiṭṭhiko ayaṃ dhammo akāliko ehipassiko opaneyyiko paccattaṃ veditabbo viññūhī’ti.

Evaṃ vutte, bhante, so brāhmaṇo sīsaṃ okampetvā jivhaṃ nillāletvā tivasākhāṃ nalāṭe nalāṭikaṃ vuṭṭhāpetvā daṇḍamolubbha pakkanto”ti.

“Neso, bhikkhave, brāhmaṇo.

“Mendicants, that was no brahmin.

Māro eso pāpimā tumhākaṃ vicakkhukammāya āgato”ti.

That was Māra the Wicked who came to pull the wool over your eyes!”

Atha kho bhagavā etamatthaṃ veditvā tāyaṃ velāyaṃ imaṃ gāthaṃ abhāsi:

Then, knowing the meaning of this, on that occasion the Buddha recited this verse:

“Yo dukkhamaddakkhi yatonidānaṃ,

“When a person has seen where suffering comes from Kāmesu so jantu kathaṃ nameyya;

how could they incline towards sensual pleasures?

Upadhiṃ veditvā saṅgoti loke,

22. Samiddhisutta

With Samiddhi

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā sakkesu viharati silāvatiyaṃ.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Sakyans near Silāvati.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā samiddhi bhagavato avidūre appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharati.

Now at that time Venerable Samiddhi was meditating not far from the Buddha, diligent, keen, and resolute.

Atha kho āyasmato samiddhissa rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa evaṃ cetaso parivītakko udapādi:

Then as Venerable Samiddhi was in private retreat this thought came to his mind,

“lābhā vata me, suladdhaṃ vata me,

“I’m so fortunate, so very fortunate,

yassa me satthā araham̐ sammāsambuddho.

to have a teacher who is a perfected one, a fully awakened Buddha!

Lābhā vata me, suladdhaṃ vata me,

I’m so fortunate, so very fortunate,

yvāhaṃ evaṃ svākkhāte dhammavinaye pabbajito.

to have gone forth in a teaching and training so well explained!

Lābhā vata me, suladdhaṃ vata me,

I’m so fortunate, so very fortunate,

yassa me sabrahmacārino sīlavanto kalyāṇadhammā”ti.

Atha kho māro pāpimā āyasmato samiddhissa cetasā

And then Māra the Wicked, knowing what Samiddhi was thinking, went up to him and made a terrifyingly loud noise close by him. It seemed as if the earth was shattering.

Atha kho āyasmā samiddhi yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamitvā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.
Ekamantaṃ nisinno āyasmā samiddhi bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:
Then Samiddhi went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened. The Buddha said,

“idhāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato avidūre appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharāmi.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa evaṃ cetaso

Lābhā vata me, suladdhaṃ vata me,

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, avidūre mahābhayabheravasaddo

“Nesā, samiddhi, pathavī undrīyati.

“Samiddhi, that’s not the earth shattering.

Māro eso pāpimā tuyhaṃ vicakkhukammāya āgato.

That’s Māra the Wicked come to pull the wool over your eyes!

Gaccha tvaṃ, samiddhi, tattheva appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharāhī”ti.

Go back to that same place, Samiddhi, and meditate, diligent, keen, and resolute.”

“Yes, sir,” replied Samiddhi. He got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before leaving.

Dutiyampi kho āyasmā samiddhi tattheva appamatto ātāpī pahitatto vihāsi.

And for a second time Samiddhi was meditating in that same place, diligent, ardent, and resolute.

Dutiyampi kho āyasmato samiddhissa rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa ...pe...

And for a second time he had the same thought ...

and Māra made an earth-shattering noise.

apissudam pathavī maññe undriyati.

Atha kho āyasmā samiddhi māram pāpimantam gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:

Then Samiddhi addressed Māra the Wicked One in verse:

“Saddhāyāham pabbajito,

“I went forth out of faith from the lay life to homelessness.

Sati paññā ca me buddhā,

Atha kho māro pāpimā “jānāti maṃ samiddhi bhikkhū”ti dukkhī

Then Māra the Wicked, thinking, “The mendicant Samiddhi knows me!” miserable and sad, vanished right there.

23. Godhikasutta With Godhika

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati veḷuvane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā godhiko isigilipasse viharati kāḷasilāyaṃ.

Now at that time Venerable Godhika was staying on the slopes of Isigili at the Black Rock.

Atha kho āyasmā godhiko appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto

Then Venerable Godhika, meditating diligent, keen, and resolute, experienced temporary freedom of heart.

Atha kho āyasmā godhiko tamhā sāmayikāya cetovimuttiyā

But then he fell away from that temporary freedom of heart.

Dutiyampi kho āyasmā godhiko appamatto ātāpī pahitatto

For a second ...

Dutiyampi kho āyasmā godhiko tamhā sāmayikāya

Tatiyampi kho āyasmā godhiko appamatto ātāpī pahitatto

Pañcamampi kho āyasmā godhiko ...pe... cetovimuttiṃ phusi.

Pañcamampi kho āyasmā ...pe... vimuttiyā parihāyi.

Chaṭṭhampi kho āyasmā godhiko appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto sāmayaṃ cetovimuttiṃ phusi.

sixth time Godhika experienced temporary freedom of heart.

Chaṭṭhampi kho āyasmā godhiko tamhā sāmayaṃ cetovimuttiyā parihāyi.

But for a sixth time he fell away from it.

Sattamampi kho āyasmā godhiko appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto sāmayaṃ cetovimuttiṃ phusi.

For a seventh time Godhika, meditating diligent, keen, and resolute, experienced temporary freedom of heart.

Atha kho āyasmato godhikassa etadahosi:

Then he thought,

“yāva chaṭṭhaṃ khvāhaṃ sāmayaṃ cetovimuttiyā parihīno.

“I’ve fallen away from this temporary freedom of heart no less than six times.

Yannūnāhaṃ satthaṃ āhareyyan”ti.

Why don’t I slit my wrists?”

Atha kho māro pāpimā āyasmato godhikassa cetasā cetoparivitakkamaññāya yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ gāthāhi ajjhabhāsi:

And then Māra the Wicked, knowing what Godhika was thinking, went up to the Buddha and addressed him in verse:

“Mahāvīra mahāpañña, “O great hero, O greatly wise!

iddhiyā yāsasā jala;
Shining with power and glory.

Sabbaverabhayātīta,
You’ve gone beyond all threats and perils,

pāde vandāmi cakkhuma.
I bow to your feet, O seer!

Sāvako te mahāvīra,
Great hero, master of death,

maraṇaṃ maraṇābhibhū;
your disciple longs for death,

Ākaṅkhati cetayati,
he’s planning for it.

taṃ nisedha jutindhara.
Stop him, O light-bringer!

Kathaṅhi bhagavā tuyhaṃ,
For how, Blessed One, can a disciple of yours,

Sāvako sāsane rato;
one who loves your teaching,

Appattamānaso sekkho,
a trainee who hasn’t achieved their heart’s desire,

Kālaṃ kayirā janesutā”ti.
take his own life, O renowned one?”

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmatā godhikena satthaṃ āharitaṃ hoti.

Now at that time Venerable Godhika had already slit his wrists.

Atha kho bhagavā “māro ayaṃ pāpimā” iti veditvā māraṃ pāpimantaṃ gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:

Then the Buddha, knowing that this was Māra the Wicked, addressed him in verse:

“Evañhi dhīrā kubbanti, “This is how the wise act,

nāvakaṅkhanti jīvitaṃ;
for they don’t long for life.

Samūlaṃ taṇhamabbuyha,
Having plucked out craving, root and all,

godhiko parinibbuto”ti.
Godhika is extinguished.”

Atha kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to the mendicants,

“āyāma, bhikkhave, yena isigilipassaṃ kāḷasilā tenupasaṅkamissāma yattha godhikena kulaputtena satthaṃ āharitaṃ”ti.

“Come, mendicants, let’s go to the Black Rock on the slopes of Isigili where Godhika, who came from a good family, slit his wrists.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Atha kho bhagavā sambahulehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ yena isigilipassaṃ kāḷasilā tenupasaṅkami.

Then the Buddha together with several mendicants went to the Black Rock on the slopes of Isigili.

Addasā kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ godhikaṃ dūratova mañcake vivattakkhandhaṃ semānaṃ.

The Buddha saw Godhika off in the distance lying on his cot, having cast off the aggregates.

Tena kho pana samayena dhūmāyitattaṃ timirāyitattaṃ gacchateva purimaṃ disaṃ, gacchati pacchimaṃ disaṃ, gacchati uttaraṃ disaṃ, gacchati dakkhiṇaṃ disaṃ, gacchati uddhaṃ, gacchati adho, gacchati anudisaṃ.

Now at that time a cloud of black smoke was moving east, west, north, south, above, below, and in-between.

Atha kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to the mendicants,

“passatha no tumhe, bhikkhave, etaṃ dhūmāyitattaṃ timirāyitattaṃ gacchateva purimaṃ disaṃ, gacchati pacchimaṃ disaṃ, gacchati uttaraṃ disaṃ, gacchati dakkhiṇaṃ disaṃ, gacchati uddhaṃ, gacchati adho, gacchati anudisaṃ”ti?

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Eso kho, bhikkhave, māro pāpimā godhikassa kulaputtassa viññāṇaṃ samanvesati:

“That’s Māra the Wicked searching for Godhika’s consciousness, wondering:

‘kattha godhikassa kulaputtassa viññāṇaṃ patiṭṭhitaṃ’ti?

‘Where is Godhika’s consciousness established?’

Appatiṭṭhitena ca, bhikkhave, viññāṇena godhiko kulaputto parinibbuto”ti.

But since his consciousness is not established, Godhika is extinguished.”

Atha kho māro pāpimā beluvapaṇḍuvīṇaṃ ādāya yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:

Then Māra, carrying his harp of yellow wood apple, went up to the Buddha and addressed him in verse:

“Uddhaṃ adho ca tiriyaṃ,

disā anudisā svahaṃ;

in the four quarters and in-between,

Anvesaṃ nādhigacchāmi,

I’ve been searching without success:

godhiko so kuhiṃ gato”ti.

where has that Godhika got to?”

“Yo dhīro dhitisampanno,

“He was a wise and steadfast sage,

jhāyī jhānarato sadā;

a meditator who loved to practice absorption.

without concern for his life.

Jetvāna maccuno senaṃ,

He defeated the army of death,

anāgantvā punabbhavaṃ;

and won’t return for any future life.

Samūlaṃ taṇhamabbuyha,
Having plucked out craving root and all
godhiko parinibbuto”ti.
Godhika is extinguished.”

Tassa sokaparetassa, Stricken with sorrow,
vīṇā kacchā abhassatha;
his harp dropping from his armpit, Tato so dummano yakkho,
that spirit, downcast,

vanished right there.

24. Sattavassānubandhasutta Seven Years of Following

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā uruvelāyaṃ viharati najjā nerañjarāya
tīre ajapālanigrodhe.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Uruvelā at the goatherd's banyan tree on the bank of the Nerañjarā River.

Tena kho pana samayena māro pāpimā sattavassāni bhagavantam anubandho hoti otārāpekkho otāram alabhamāno.

Now at that time Māra the Wicked had been following the Buddha for seven years hoping to find a vulnerability without success.

Atha kho māro pāpimā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:

Then Māra the Wicked went up to the Buddha and addressed him in verse:

“Sokāvatiṇṇo nu vanamhi jhāyasi,

“Are you swamped by sorrow that you meditate in the forest?

Vittam nu jīno uda patthayāno;

Have you lost a fortune, or do you long for one?

Āguṃ nu gāmasmimakāsi kiñci,

Or perhaps you've committed some crime in the village?

Kasmā janena na karosi sakkhim;

Why don't you get too close to people?

Sakkhī na sampajjati kenaci te”ti.

And why does no-one get close to you?”

“Sokassa mūlaṃ palikhāya sabbaṃ,

“I’ve dug out the root of sorrow completely.

Anāgu jhāyāmi asocamāno;

I practice absorption free of guilt or sorrow.

Chetvāna sabbaṃ bhavalobhajappaṃ,

I’ve cut off all greed and hunger for future lives.

Anāsavo jhāyāmi pamattabandhū”ti.

Undefined, I practice absorption, O kinsman of the negligent!”

“Yaṃ vadanti mama yidanti,

“The things they call ‘mine’, ye vadanti mamanti ca;

and those who say ‘it’s mine’:

Ettha ce te mano atthi,

if your mind remains there,

na me samaṇa mokkhasī”ti.

you won’t escape me, ascetic!”

“Yaṃ vadanti na taṃ mayhaṃ,

“The things they speak of aren’t mine;

ye vadanti na te ahaṃ;

I’m not someone who speaks like that.

Evaṃ pāpima jānāhi,

So know this, Wicked One:

na me maggampi dakkhasī”ti.

you won’t even see the path I take.”

“Sace maggaṃ anubuddhaṃ,

“If you’ve discovered the path

why teach it to anyone else?”

“Amaccudheyym̐ pucchanti,

“Those crossing to the far shore the truth without attachments.”

“Seyyathāpi, bhante, gāmassa vā nigamassa vā avidūre

Then several boys or girls would leave the town or village and go to

In the same way, sir, the Buddha has snapped, cracked, and broken off all my tricks, dodges, and evasions.

Abhabbo dānāhaṃ, bhante, puna bhagavantam upasaṅkमितुṃ yadidaṃ otārāpekkho”ti.

Now I'm not able to approach the Buddha again in hopes of finding a vulnerability.”

Atha kho māro pāpimā bhagavato santike imā nibbejanīyā gāthāyo abhāsi:

Then Māra the Wicked recited these verses of disappointment in the Buddha's presence:

“Medavaṇṇaṅca pāsāṇaṃ,

“A crow once circled a stone

vāyaso anupariyagā;

that looked like a lump of fat.

Apettha muduṃ vindema,

‘Perhaps I'll find something tender,’ it thought, api assādanā siyā.

‘perhaps there's something tasty.’

Aladdhā tattha assādaṃ,
But it didn't find anything tasty,

vāyasetto apakkame;
so the crow left that place.

Kākova selamāsajja,
Like the crow that pecked the stone, nibbijāpema gotamā"ti.

I leave Gotama disappointed."

25. Māradhītusutta Māra's Daughters

Atha kho māro pāpimā bhagavato santike imā nibbejanīyā

And then Māra the Wicked, after reciting these verses of disillusionment in the Buddha's presence, left that place. He sat cross-legged on the ground not far from the Buddha, silent, embarrassed, shoulders drooping, downcast, depressed, with nothing to say, scratching the ground with a stick.

Atha kho taṅhā ca arati ca ragā ca māradhītaro yena māro

Then Māra's daughters Craving, Delight, and Lust went up to Māra the Wicked, and addressed him in verse:

“Kenāsi dummano tāta, “Why so downhearted, dad?

purisaṃ kaṃ nu socasi;
What man are you upset about?

Mayaṃ taṃ rāgapāseṇa, We'll catch him with the snare of lust,

āraññamiva kuñjaraṃ;
like an elephant in the wild.

Bandhitvā ānayissāma,

“Araham sugato loke,
“In this world he is the perfected one, the Holy One.

“We serve at your feet, ascetic.”

Atha kho bhagavā na manasākāsi, yathā taṃ anuttare

Māra's daughter Craving addressed the Buddha in verse:

"Sokāvatiṇṇo nu vanamhi jhāyasi,

"Are you swamped by sorrow that you meditate in the forest?

Have you lost a fortune, or do you long for one?

Āguṃ nu gāmasmimakāsi kiñci,

Or perhaps you've committed some crime in the village?

Kasmā janena na karosi sakkhiṃ;

Why don't you get too close to people?

Sakkhī na sampajjati kenaci te"ti.

And why does no-one get close to you?"

"Atthassa pattim hadayassa santim,

"I've reached the goal, peace of heart.

and no-one gets too close to me.”

Atha kho arati māradhītā bhagavantam gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:
Then Māra's daughter Delight addressed the Buddha in verse:

“Kathaṃvihārībahulodha bhikkhu,
“How does a mendicant who has crossed five floods

Pañcoghaṭiṇṇo atarīdha chaṭṭham;

Atha kho ragā māradhītā bhagavato santike gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:

Then Māra's daughter Lust addressed the Buddha in verse:

“Acchejja taṇhaṃ gaṇasaṅghacārī,

“He lives with his community after cutting off craving,

Addhā carissanti bahū ca saddhā;

and many of the faithful will cross over for sure.

1. Āḷavikāsutta With Āḷavikā

Evaṃ me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Atha kho āḷavikā bhikkhunī pubbaṇhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya sāvatthiṃ piṇḍāya pāvisi.

Then the nun Āḷavikā robed up in the morning and, taking her bowl and robe, entered Sāvattihī for alms.

Sāvattiyaṃ piṇḍāya carivā pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātaṭikkantā yena andhavanam tenupasaṅkami vivekatthinī.

She wandered for alms in Sāvattihī. After the meal, on her return from alms-round, she went to the Dark Forest seeking seclusion.

Atha kho māro pāpimā āḷavikāya bhikkhuniyā bhayaṃ chambhitattaṃ lomahaṃsaṃ uppādetukāmo vivekamhā cāvetukāmo yena āḷavikā bhikkhunī tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā āḷavikaṃ bhikkhuniṃ gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:

Then Māra the Wicked, wanting to make the nun Āḷavikā feel fear, terror, and goosebumps, wanting to make her fall away from seclusion, went up to her and addressed her in verse:

“Natthi nissaraṇaṃ loke,

kiṃ vivekena kāhasi;

so what will seclusion do for you?

Bhuñjassu kāmaratiyo,

Enjoy the delights of sensual pleasure;

māhu pacchānutāpinī”ti.

don’t regret it later.”

Atha kho āḷavikāya bhikkhuniyā etadahosi:

Then the nun Āḷavikā thought,

“ko nu khvāyaṃ manusso vā amanusso vā gāthaṃ bhāsati”ti?

“Who’s speaking this verse, a human or a non-human?”

Atha kho āḷavikāya bhikkhuniyā etadahosi:

Then she thought,

“māro kho ayaṃ pāpimā mama bhayaṃ chambhitattaṃ

lomahaṃsaṃ uppādetukāmo vivekamhā cāvetukāmo gāthaṃ

bhāsati”ti.

Atha kho āḷavikā bhikkhunī “māro ayaṃ pāpimā” iti veditvā

māraṃ pāpimantaṃ gāthāhi paccabhāsi:

Then Āḷavikā, knowing that this was Māra the Wicked, replied to him in verse:

“Atthi nissaraṇaṃ loke,

“There is an escape in the world,

paññāya me suphussitaṃ;

and I’ve personally experienced it with wisdom.

Pamattabandhu pāpima,

O Wicked One, kinsman of the negligent, na tvaṃ jānāsi taṃ padaṃ.

you don't know that place.

Sattisūlūpamā kāmā, Sensual pleasures are like swords and stakes;

khandhāsaṃ adhikuṭṭanā;
the aggregates are their chopping block.

Yaṃ tvaṃ kāmaratiṃ brūsi,
What you call sensual delight has become no delight for me."

Atha kho māro pāpimā "jānāti maṃ āḷavikā bhikkhunī"ti dukkhī

Then Māra the Wicked, thinking, "The nun Āḷavikā knows me!"
miserable and sad, vanished right there.

5. Uppalavaṇṇāsutta With Uppalavaṇṇā

Sāvattihinidānaṃ.
At Sāvattihī.

Atha kho uppalavaṇṇā bhikkhunī pubbaṇhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā
...pe...

Then the nun Uppalavaṇṇā robed up in the morning ...

aññatarasmiṃ supupphitasālarukkhamūle aṭṭhāsi.
and stood at the root of a sal tree in full flower.

Atha kho māro pāpimā uppalavaṇṇāya bhikkhuniyā bhayaṃ cāvetukāmo yena uppalavaṇṇā bhikkhunī tenupasaṅkami;

upasaṅkamtivā uppalavaṇṇaṃ bhikkhuniṃ gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:
Then Māra the Wicked, wanting to make the nun Uppalavaṇṇā feel fear, terror, and goosebumps, wanting to make her fall away from immersion, went up to her and addressed her in verse:

“Supupphitaggaṃ upagamma bhikkhuni,
“You’ve come to this sal tree all crowned with flowers,

Ekā tuvaṃ tiṭṭhasi sālamūle;
and stand at its root all alone, O nun.

Na catthi te dutiyā vaṇṇadhātu,
Your beauty is second to none;

Bāle na tvaṃ bhāyasi dhuttakānaṃ”ti.
silly girl, aren’t you afraid of rascals?”

Atha kho uppalavaṇṇāya bhikkhuniyā etadahosi:

Then the nun Uppalavaṇṇā thought,

“ko nu khvāyaṃ manusso vā amanusso vā gāthaṃ bhāsati”ti?

Atha kho uppalavaṇṇāya bhikkhuniyā etadahosi:

Then she thought,

“māro kho ayaṃ pāpimā mama bhayaṃ chambhitattaṃ
lomahaṃsaṃ uppādetukāmo samādhimhā cāvetukāmo gāthaṃ
bhāsati”ti.

“This is Māra the Wicked, wanting to make me feel fear, terror, and goosebumps, wanting to make me fall away from immersion!”

Atha kho uppalavaṇṇā bhikkhuni “māro ayaṃ pāpimā” iti viditvā māraṃ pāpimantaṃ gāthāhi paccabhāsi:

Then Uppalavaṇṇā, knowing that this was Māra the Wicked, replied to him in verse:

“Sataṃ sahaṣṣānipi dhuttakānaṃ,

“Even if 100,000 rascals like you

Idhāgatā tādisakā bhaveyyuṃ;

were to come here,

Lomaṃ na iñjāmi na santasāmi,

I’d stir not a hair nor panic.

Na māra bhāyāmi tamekikāpi.

I’m not scared of you, Māra, even alone.

Esā antaradhāyāmi,

I’ll vanish,

kucchiṃ vā pavisāmi te;

or I’ll enter your belly;

Pakhumantarikāyampi,

I could stand between your eyebrows tiṭṭhantiṃ maṃ na dakkhasi.

and you still wouldn't see me.

Cittasmiṃ vasībhūtāmi,

I'm the master of my own mind,

iddhipādā subhāvitā;

I've developed the bases of psychic power well.

Sabbabandhanamuttāmi,

I'm free from all bonds,

na taṃ bhāyāmi āvuso"ti.

and I'm not afraid of you, sir!"

Atha kho māro pāpimā "jānāti maṃ uppalavaṇṇā bhikkhunī"ti

6. Brahma Saṃyutta: With Brahmās

1. Brahmāyācanasutta The Appeal of Brahmā

Evaṃ me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā uruvelāyaṃ viharati najjā nerañjarāya
tīre ajapālanigrodhamūle paṭhamābhisambuddho.

At one time, when he was first awakened, the Buddha was staying near Uruvelā at the root of the goatherd’s banyan tree on the bank of the Nerañjarā River.

Atha kho bhagavato rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa evaṃ cetaso
parivitakko udapādi:

Then as he was in private retreat this thought came to his mind,

“adhigato kho myāyaṃ dhammo gambhīro duddaso duranubodho santo paṇīto atakkāvacaro nipuṇo paṇḍitavedanīyo.

“This principle I have discovered is deep, hard to see, hard to understand, peaceful, sublime, beyond the scope of reason, subtle, comprehensible to the astute.

Ālayarāmā kho panāyaṃ pajā ālayaratā ālayasammuditā.

But people like attachment, they love it and enjoy it.

Ālayarāmāya kho pana pajāya ālayaratāya ālayasammuditāya duddasaṃ idaṃ ṭhānaṃ yadidaṃ idappaccayatāpaṭiccasamuppādo.

It’s hard for them to see this thing; that is, specific conditionality, dependent origination.

Idampi kho ʘhānaṃ duddasaṃ yadidaṃ sabbasaṅkhārasamatho sabbūpadhipaṭinissaggo taṅhākkhayo virāgo nirodho nibbānaṃ.

It's also hard for them to see this thing; that is, the stilling of all activities, the letting go of all attachments, the ending of craving, fading away, cessation, extinguishment.

Ahañceva kho pana dhammaṃ deseyyaṃ; pare ca me na ājāneyyumaṃ; so mamassa kilamatho, sā mamassa vihesā”ti.

And if I were to teach this principle, others might not understand me, which would be wearying and troublesome for me.”

Apissu bhagavantaṃ imā anacchariyā gāthāyo paṭibhaṃsu
pubbe assutapubbā:

And then these verses, which were neither supernaturally inspired, nor learned before in the past, occurred to the Buddha:

“Kicchena me adhigataṃ,

“I've struggled hard to realize this,

halaṃ dāni pakāsitumaṃ;

enough with trying to explain it!

Rāgadosaparetehi,

This principle is not easily understood

nāyaṃ dhammo susambudho.

by those mired in greed and hate.

Paṭisotagāmiṃ nipuṇaṃ,

Those caught up in greed can't see gambhīraṃ duddasaṃ aṇumaṃ;

what's subtle, going against the stream,

Rāgarattā na dakkhanti, deep, hard to see, and very fine,

tamokhandhena āvuṭṭā”ti.

for they're shrouded in a mass of darkness.”

Itiha bhagavato paṭisañcikkhato appossukkatāya cittaṃ namati, no dhammadesanāya.

And as the Buddha reflected like this, his mind inclined to remaining passive, not to teaching the Dhamma.

Atha kho brahmuno sahampatissa bhagavato cetasā cetoparivitakkamaññāya etadahosi:

Then Brahmā Sahampati, knowing what the Buddha was thinking, thought, “nassati vata bho loko, vinassati vata bho loko, yatra hi nāma tathāgatassa arahato sammāsambuddhassa appossukkatāya cittaṃ namati, no dhammadesanāyā”ti.

“Oh my goodness! The world will be lost, the world will perish! For the mind of the Realized One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha, inclines to remaining passive, not to teaching the Dhamma.”

Atha kho brahmā sahampati—seyyathāpi nāma balavā puriso samiñjitaṃ vā bāhaṃ pasāreyya, pasāritaṃ vā bāhaṃ samiñjeyya; evameva—brahmaloke antarahito bhagavato purato pāturahosi.

Then, as easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, he vanished from the Brahmā realm and reappeared in front of the Buddha.

Atha kho brahmā sahampati ekaṃsaṃ uttarāsaṅgaṃ karitvā dakkhiṇajāṇumaṇḍalaṃ pathaviyaṃ nihantvā yena bhagavā tenañjaliṃ paṇāmetvā bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

He arranged his robe over one shoulder, knelt with his right knee on the ground, raised his joined palms toward the Buddha, and said:

“desetu, bhante, bhagavā dhammaṃ, desetu sugato dhammaṃ.

“Sir, let the Blessed One teach the Dhamma! Let the Holy One teach the Dhamma!

Santi sattā apparajakkhajātikā, assavanatā dhammassa parihāyanti.

There are beings with little dust in their eyes. They're in decline because they haven't heard the teaching.

Bhavissanti dhammassa aññātāro”ti.

There will be those who understand the teaching!”

Idamavoca brahmā sahampati, idaṃ vatvā athāparaṃ etadavoca:

This is what Brahmā Sahampati said. Then he went on to say:

“Pāturahosi magadhesu pubbe,

“Among the Magadhans there appeared in the past

Dhammo asuddho samalehi cintito;

an impure teaching thought up by those still stained.

Apāpuretaṃ amatassa dvāraṃ,

Fling open the door to the deathless!

Suṇantu dhammaṃ vimalenānubuddhaṃ.

Let them hear the teaching the immaculate one discovered.

Sele yathā pabbatamuddhaniṭṭhito,

Standing high on a rocky mountain,

Yathāpi passe janataṃ samantato;

you can see the people all around.

Tathūpamaṃ dhammamayaṃ sumedha,

In just the same way, all-seer, wise one,

Pāsādamāruyha samantacakkhu;

having ascended the Temple of Truth,

Sokāvatiṇṇaṃ janatamapetasoko, rid of sorrow, look upon the people

Avekkhassu jātijarābhibhūtaṃ.

swamped with sorrow, oppressed by rebirth and old age.

Uṭṭhehi vīra vijitasāṅgāma,

Rise, hero! Victor in battle, leader of the caravan,

Satthavāha anaṇa vicara loke;

wander the world without obligation.

Desassu bhagavā dhammaṃ,

Let the Blessed One teach the Dhamma!

Aññātāro bhavissanti”ti.

There will be those who understand!”

Atha kho bhagavā brahmuno ca ajjhesanaṃ veditvā sattesu ca kāruññataṃ paṭicca buddhacakkhunā lokaṃ volokesi.

Then the Buddha, understanding Brahmā’s invitation, surveyed the world with the eye of a Buddha, because of his compassion for sentient beings.

And the Buddha saw sentient beings with little dust in their eyes, and some with much dust in their eyes; with keen faculties and with weak faculties, with good qualities and with bad qualities, easy to teach and hard to teach. And some of them lived seeing the danger in the fault to do with the next world, while others did not.

It's like a pool with blue water lilies, or pink or white lotuses. Some of them sprout and grow in the water without rising above it, thriving underwater. Some of them sprout and grow in the water reaching the water's surface. And some of them sprout and grow in the water but rise up above the water and stand with no water clinging to them.

In the same way, the Buddha saw sentient beings with little dust in their eyes, and some with much dust in their eyes; with keen faculties and with weak faculties, with good qualities and with bad qualities, easy to teach and hard to teach. And some of them lived seeing the danger in the fault to do with the next world, while others did not.

Disvāna brahmānam saṁpatim gāthāya paccabhāsi:

Atha kho brahmā sahampati “katāvakāso khomhi bhagavatā dhammadesanāyā”ti bhagavantam abhivādetvā padakkhiṇam katvā tatthevantaradhāyīti.

Then Brahmā Sahampati, knowing that his request for the Buddha to teach the Dhamma had been granted, bowed and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before vanishing right there.

Respect

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā uruvelāyam viharati najjā nerañjarāya
tīre ajapālanigrodhamūle paṭhamābhisambuddho.

At one time, when he was first awakened, the Buddha was staying near Uruvelā at the root of the goatherd’s banyan tree on the bank of the Nerañjarā River.

Atha kho bhagavato rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa evam cetaso
parivitakko udapādi:

Then as he was in private retreat this thought came to his mind,

“dukkham kho agāravo viharati appatisso, kam nu khvāham samaṇam vā brāhmaṇam vā sakkatvā garum katvā upanissāya vihareyyan”ti?

“It’s unpleasant to live without respect and reverence. What ascetic or brahmin should I honor and respect and rely on?”

Atha kho bhagavato etadahosi:

Then it occurred to him:

“aparipuṇṇassa kho sīlakkhandhassa pāripūriyā aññaṃ samaṇam vā brāhmaṇam vā sakkatvā garum katvā upanissāya vihareyyam.

“I’d honor and respect and rely on another ascetic or brahmin so as to complete the full spectrum of ethics, if it were incomplete.

Na kho panāhaṃ passāmi sadevake loke samāraḥ sabrahmaḥ

But I don't see any other ascetic or brahmin in this world—with its gods, Māras, and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, its gods and humans—who is more accomplished than myself in ethics, who I should honor and respect and rely on.

Aparipuṇṇassa kho samādhikkhandhassa pāripūriyā aṅṅaṃ

I'd honor and respect and rely on another ascetic or brahmin so as to complete the full spectrum of immersion, if it were incomplete.

Aparipuṇṇassa paṅṅākkhandhassa pāripūriyā aṅṅaṃ samaṇaṃ

Aparipuṇṇassa kho vimuttiñāṇadassanakkhandhassa

Then Brahmā Sahampati knew what the Buddha was thinking. As easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, he vanished from the Brahmā realm and reappeared in front of the Buddha.

Atha kho brahmā sahampati ekaṃsaṃ uttarāsaṅgaṃ karitvā yena bhagavā tenañjaliṃ paṇāmetvā bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:
He arranged his robe over one shoulder, raised his joined palms toward the Buddha, and said:

“evametaṃ, bhagavā, evametaṃ, sugata.

“That’s so true, Blessed One! That’s so true, Holy One!

May the Blessed One, who is the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha at present, also honor and respect and rely on this same teaching.”

Idamavoca brahmā sahampati, idaṃ vatvā athāparaṃ etadavoca:

This is what Brahmā Sahampati said. Then he went on to say:

“Ye ca atītā sambuddhā,

With Brahmadeva

Evaṃ me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena aññatarissā brāhmaṇiyā brahmadevo nāma putto bhagavato santike agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito hoti.

Now at that time a certain brahmin lady had a son called Brahmadeva, who had gone forth from the lay life to homelessness in the presence of the Buddha.

Atha kho āyasmā brahmadevo eko vūpakaṭṭho appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaram—brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihāsi.

Then Venerable Brahmadeva, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā”ti abbhaññāsi.

He understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

Aññataro ca panāyasmā brahmadevo arahataṃ ahosi.

And Venerable Brahmadeva became one of the perfected.

Atha kho āyasmā brahmadevo pubbaṇhasamayāṃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya sāvattihī piṇḍāya pāvisi.

Then Brahmadeva robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Sāvattihī for alms.

Sāvattiyaṃ sapaḍānaṃ piṇḍāya caramāno yena sakamātu nivesanaṃ tenupasaṅkama.

Wandering indiscriminately for alms-food in Sāvattihī, he approached his own mother’s house.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmato brahmadevassa mātā brāhmaṇī brahmuno āhutiṃ niccaṃ paggaṇhāti.

Now at that time Brahmadeva’s mother, the brahmin lady, was offering up a regular oblation to Brahmā.

Atha kho brahmuno sahampatissa etadahosi:

Then Brahmā Sahampati thought,

“ayaṃ kho āyasmato brahmadevassa mātā brāhmaṇī brahmuno āhutiṃ niccaṃ paggaṇhāti.

“This Venerable Brahmadeva’s mother, the brahmin lady, offers up a regular oblation to Brahmā.

Yannūnāhaṃ taṃ upasaṅkamitvā saṃvejeyyan”ti.

Why don’t I go and stir up a sense of urgency in her?”

Atha kho brahmā sahampati—seyyathāpi nāma balavā puriso samiñjitaṃ vā bāhaṃ pasāreyya, pasāritaṃ vā bāhaṃ

samiñjeyya; evameva—brahmaloke antarahito āyasmato

Then, as easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, he vanished from the Brahmā realm and reappeared in the house of Brahmadeva's mother.

Atha kho brahmā sahampati vehāsaṃ ṭhito āyasmato brahmadevassa mātaraṃ brāhmaṇiṃ gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:

Then Brahmā Sahampati, while standing in the air, addressed Brahmadeva's mother in verse:

“Dūre ito brāhmaṇi brahmaloko,
“Far from here is the Brahmā realm, madam,

Yassāhutim paggaṇhāsi niccaṃ;
to which you offer a regular oblation.

Netādiso brāhmaṇi brahmabhakkho,
But Brahmā doesn't eat that kind of food.

Kiṃ jappasi brahmapathaṃ ajānaṃ.
Why make invocations, when you don't know the path to Brahmā?

Eso hi te brāhmaṇi brahmadevo,
This Brahmadeva, madam,

Nirūpadhiko atidevapatto;
free of attachments, has surpassed the gods.

Akiñcano bhikkhu anaññaposī,
A mendicant without possessions or dependents,

Yo te so piṇḍāya gharaṃ pavitṭho.
he has entered your house for alms.

Āhuneyyo vedagu bhāvitatto,
He's worthy of offerings to the gods, a knowledge master, self-developed.

Narānaṃ devānañca dakkhiṇeyyo;

He's worthy of a religious donation from gods and men.

Bāhitvā pāpāni anūpalitto,

Having shunned all evils, he's unsullied.

Ghāsesanaṃ iriyati sītibhūto.

Cool at heart, he wanders looking for food.

Na tassa pacchā na puratthamatthi,

He has no before and after,

Santo vidhūmo anigho nirāso;

peaceful, unclouded, untroubled, with no need for hope,

Nikkhattadaṇḍo tasathāvaresu,

he has laid down the rod for all creatures firm and frail.

So tyāhutim̐ bhuñjatu aggapiṇḍam̐.

So let him enjoy your offering of choice alms.

Visenibhūto upasantacitto,

With peaceful mind, he has left the crowd,

Nāgo va danto carati anejo;

he wanders like a tamed elephant, unperturbed.

Bhikkhu susīlo suvimuttacitto,

He's a mendicant fair in ethics, with heart well freed.

So tyāhutim̐ bhuñjatu aggapiṇḍam̐.

So let him enjoy your offering of choice alms.

Tasmiṃ pasannā avikampamānā,

With unwavering confidence in him,

Patitṭhapehi dakkhiṇam̐ dakkhiṇeyye;

present your religious donation to one who is worthy of it.

Karohi puññaṃ sukhamāyatikaṃ,

Now that you've seen the sage who has crossed over, madam,

Disvā munim brāhmaṇi oghatiṇṇanti.

Tasmim pasannā avikampamānā,
With unwavering confidence in him,

Patitṭhapesi dakkhiṇam dakkhiṇeyye;
she presented her religious donation to one who is worthy of it.

Akāsi puñṇam sukhamāyatikam,
After seeing the sage who had crossed over, the brahmin lady

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena bakassa brahmuno evarūpaṃ

Now at that time Baka the Brahmā had the following harmful misconception:

“idaṃ niccaṃ, idaṃ dhuvam, idaṃ sassataṃ, idaṃ kevalaṃ, idaṃ acavanadhammaṃ, idaṃhi na jāyati na jīyati na mīyati na

“This is permanent, this is everlasting, this is eternal, this is whole, this is imperishable. For this is where there's no being born, growing old, dying, passing away, or being reborn. And there's no other escape beyond this.”

Atha kho bhagavā bakassa brahmuno cetasā

Then the Buddha knew what Baka the Brahmā was thinking. As easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, he vanished from Jeta's Grove and reappeared in that Brahmā realm.

Addasā kho bako brahmā bhagavantaṃ dūratova āgacchantaṃ.

Baka the Brahmā saw the Buddha coming off in the distance

Disvāna bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

and said to him,

“ehi kho, mārīsa, svāgataṃ te, mārīsa.

“Come, good sir! Welcome, good sir!

Cirassaṃ kho, mārīsa, imaṃ pariyāyama-kāsi yadidaṃ idhāgama-nāya.

It's been a long time since you took the opportunity to come here.

Idaṅhi, mārīsa, niccaṃ, idaṃ dhuvāṃ, idaṃ sassataṃ, idaṃ kevalaṃ, idaṃ acavanadhammaṃ, idaṅhi na jāyati na jīyati na mīyati na cavati na upapajjati. Ito ca panaññaṃ uttari nissaraṇaṃ natthī”ti.

For this is permanent, this is everlasting, this is eternal, this is complete, this is imperishable. For this is where there's no being born, growing old, dying, passing away, or being reborn. And there's no other escape beyond this.”

Evaṃ vutte, bhagavā bakaṃ brahmānaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, the Buddha said to him,

“avijjāgato vata bho bako brahmā, avijjāgato vata bho bako brahmā.

“Alas, Baka the Brahmā is lost in ignorance! Alas, Baka the Brahmā is lost in ignorance!

Yatra hi nāma aniccaṃyeva samānaṃ niccanti vakkhati, adhuvaṃyeva samānaṃ dhuvanti vakkhati, asassataṃyeva samānaṃ sassatanti vakkhati, akevalaṃyeva samānaṃ kevalanti vakkhati, cavanadhammaṃyeva samānaṃ acavanadhammanti vakkhati.

Because what is actually impermanent, not lasting, transient, incomplete, and perishable, he says is permanent, everlasting, eternal, complete, and imperishable.

Yattha ca pana jāyati ca jīyati ca mīyati ca cavati ca upapajjati ca, tañca tathā vakkhati:

And where there is being born, growing old, dying, passing away, and being reborn, he says that there’s no being born, growing old, dying, passing away, or being reborn.

Santañca panaññaṃ uttari nissaraṇaṃ, ‘natthaññaṃ uttari nissaraṇaṃ’ti vakkhatī”ti.

And although there is another escape beyond this, he says that there’s no other escape beyond this.”

“Dvāsattati gotama puññakammā, “Appañhi etaṃ na hi dīghamāyu, “Anantadassī bhagavāhamasmi, who has gone beyond rebirth and old age and sorrow.

Kim me purāṇaṃ vatasīlavattaṃ,
What precepts and observances did I practice in the past?

Ācikkha me taṃ yamaṃ vijaññā”ti.

“Yaṃ tvaṃ apāyesi bahū manusse,
“You gave drink to many people

They’re the precepts and observances you practiced in the past.

Suttappabuddhova anussarāmi.
I recollect it like one who has wakened from sleep.

Yaṃ eṇikūlasmimṃ janaṃ gahītaṃ,
When people at Deer River Bank were seized,

Amocayī gayhakaṃ nīyamānaṃ;
you released the captives as they were led away.

Taṃ te purāṇaṃ vatasīlavattaṃ,
That’s the precepts and observances you practiced in the past.

Suttappabuddhova anussarāmi.
I recollect it like one who has wakened from sleep.

you freed it wielding mighty force.

Taṃ te purāṇaṃ vatasīlavattaṃ;
That's the precepts and observances you practiced in the past.

Suttappabuddhova anussarāmi.
I recollect it like one who has wakened from sleep.

Kappo ca te baddhacaro ahoṣiṃ,
I used to be your servant named Kappa.

Sambuddhimantaṃ vatiṇaṃ amaññi;
You thought he was intelligent and loyal.

Taṃ te purāṇaṃ vatasīlavattaṃ,
That's the precepts and observances you practiced in the past.

Suttappabuddhova anussarāmi”ti.
I recollect it like one who has wakened from sleep.”

“Addhā pajānāsi mametamāyumaṃ,
“You certainly understand this life span of mine.

Aññepi jānāsi tathā hi buddho;
And others, too, you know; that's why you're the Buddha.

Tathā hi tyāyaṃ jalitānubhāvo, lights up even the Brahmā realm.”

“Yes, good sir,” replied that retinue member. He went to Moggallāna and asked as instructed.

“atthi nu kho, mārisa moggallāna, aññepi tassa bhagavato

Atha kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno taṃ brahmapārisajjaṃ

Then Mahāmoggallāna addressed that member of Brahmā’s retinue in verse:

“Tevijjā iddhipattā ca,

“There are many disciples of the Buddha

Then that member of Brahmā’s retinue, having approved and agreed with what Mahāmoggallāna said, went to that Brahmā and said to him, “āyasmā, mārīsa, mahāmoggallāno evamāha:

“Good sir, Venerable Mahāmoggallāna said this:

‘Tevijjā iddhipattā ca,

‘There are many disciples of the Buddha

Idamavoca so brahmapārisajjo.

That’s what that member of Brahmā’s retinue said.

Attamano ca so brahmā tassa brahmapārisajjassa bhāsitaṃ

Satisfied, that Brahmā was happy with what the member of his retinue said.

Sāvattḥinidānaṃ.
At Sāvattḥī.

Tena kho pana samayena bhagavā divāvihāragato hoti paṭisallīno.

Now at that time the Buddha had gone into retreat for the day's meditation.

Atha kho subrahmā ca paccekabrahmā suddhāvāso ca paccekabrahmā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimṃsu; upasaṅkamtivā paccekaṃ dvārābhāraṃ upanissāya aṭṭhaṃsu. Atha kho subrahmā paccekabrahmā suddhāvāsaṃ paccekabrahmānaṃ etadavoca:

Then the independent brahmās Subrahmā and Suddhāvāsa went to the Buddha and stationed themselves one by each door-post. But Subrahmā said to Suddhāvāsa, “akālo kho tāva, mārisa, bhagavantaṃ payirupāsituṃ;

“Good sir, it's the wrong time to pay homage to the Buddha.

divāvihāragato bhagavā paṭisallīno ca.

He has gone into retreat for the day's meditation.

Asuko ca brahmāloko iddho ceva phīto ca, brahmā ca tatra pamādavihāraṃ viharati.

But such and such Brahmā realm is successful and prosperous, while the Brahmā living there is negligent.

Then, as easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, they vanished from in front of the Buddha and appeared in that Brahmā realm.

Addasā kho so brahmā te brahmāno dūratova āgacchante.

Disvāna te brahmāno etadavoca:

That Brahmā saw those Brahmās coming off in the distance and said to them,

“Well now, good sirs, where have you come from?”

“Āgatā kho mayaṃ, mārīsa, amha tassa bhagavato santikā

When they had spoken, that Brahmā refused to accept their advice.
He multiplied himself a thousand times and said to Subrahmā, “passasi me no tvaṃ, mārisa, evarūpaṃ iddhānubhāvan”ti?

“Good sir, can’t you see that I have such psychic power?”

brahmin should I go to and attend upon?”

Atha kho subrahmā paccekabrahmā dvisahassakkhattuṃ

Then Subrahmā multiplied himself two thousand times and said to that Brahmā,

“Good sir, can’t you see that I have such psychic power?”

“Passāmi kho tyāhaṃ, mārisa, evarūpaṃ iddhānubhāvan”ti.
“I see that, good sir.”

“Tayā ca kho, mārisa, mayā ca sveva bhagavā mahiddhikataro

Then that Brahmā addressed Subrahmā in verse:

“Tayo supaṇṇā caturo ca haṃsā,

“There are three hundreds of phoenixes, four of swans, and five of eagles.

Byagghīnisā pañcasatā ca jhāyino;

Atha kho subrahmā ca paccekabrahmā suddhāvāso ca

Then after inspiring awe in that Brahmā, the independent brahmās Subrahmā and Suddhāvāsa vanished right there.

Evaṃ vutte, bhagavā kokālikaṃ bhikkhuṃ etadavoca:

When this was said, the Buddha said to Kokālika,

“mā hevaṃ, kokālika, avaca; mā hevaṃ, kokālika, avaca.

Acirapakkantassa ca kokālikassa bhikkhuno sāsapamattīhi pīlakāhi sabbo kāyo phuṭo ahoṣi.

Not long after he left his body erupted with boils the size of mustard seeds.

The boils grew to the size of mung beans, then chickpeas, then jujube seeds, then jujubes, then myrobalans, then unripe wood apples, then ripe wood apples. Finally they burst open, and pus and blood oozed out.

Atha kho kokāliko bhikkhu teneva ābādhena kālamakāsi.

Then the mendicant Kokālika died of that illness.

Kālaṅkato ca kokāliko bhikkhu padumaṃ nirayaṃ upapajji sāriputtamoggallānesu cittaṃ āghātevā.

He was reborn in the Pink Lotus hell because of his resentment for Sāriputta and Moggallāna.

“Sir, the mendicant Kokālika has passed away.

Kālaṅkato ca, bhante, kokālika bhikkhu padumaṃ nirayaṃ upapanno sāriputtamoggallānesu cittaṃ āghātetvā”ti.

He was reborn in the Pink Lotus hell because of his resentment for Sāriputta and Moggallāna.”

Idamavoca brahmā sahampati.

That’s what Brahmā Sahampati said.

Idaṃ vatvā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā tatthevantaradhāyīti.

Then he bowed and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right side, before vanishing right there.

Atha kho bhagavā tassā rattiyā accayena bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then, when the night had passed, the Buddha told the mendicants all that had happened.

“imaṃ, bhikkhave, rattiṃ brahmā sahampati abhikkantāya rattiyā abhikkantavaṇṇo kevalakappaṃ jetavanaṃ obhāsetvā yenāhaṃ tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamitvā maṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi. Ekamantaṃ ṭhito kho, bhikkhave, brahmā sahampati maṃ etadavoca:

Idamavoca, bhikkhave, brahmā sahampati, idaṃ vatvā maṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā tatthevantaradhāyī”ti.

Evaṃ vutte, aññataro bhikkhu bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he said this, one of the mendicants asked the Buddha, “kīvadīghaṃ nu kho, bhante, padume niraye āyuppamaṇaṃ”ti?

“Sir, how long is the life span in the Pink Lotus hell?”

“Dīghaṃ kho, bhikkhu, padume niraye āyuppamaṇaṃ.

Taṃ na sukaraṃ saṅkhātum:

It’s not easy to calculate ‘ettakāni vassāni iti vā, ettakāni vassasatāni iti vā, ettakāni vassasahasāni iti vā, ettakāni vassasatasahasāni iti vā’”ti.

how many years, how many hundreds or thousands or hundreds of thousands of years it lasts.”

“Sakkā pana, bhante, upamaṃ kātun”ti?

“But sir, is it possible to give a simile?”

“Sakkā, bhikkhū”ti bhagavā avoca:

“Seyyathāpi, bhikkhu vīsaticchāriko kosalako tilavāho. Tato puriso vassasatassa vassasatassa accayena ekamekaṃ tilaṃ uddhareyya;

“Suppose there was a Kosalan cartload of twenty bushels of sesame seed. And at the end of every hundred years someone would remove a single seed from it.

khippataraṃ kho so, bhikkhu, vīsaticchāriko kosalako tilavāho iminā upakkamena parikkhayaṃ pariyādānaṃ gaccheyya, na tveva eko abbudo nirayo.

By this means the Kosalan cartload of twenty bushels of sesame seed would run out faster than a single lifetime in the Abbuda hell.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhu, vīsati abbudā nirayā, evameko nirabbudanirayo.

Now, twenty lifetimes in the Abbuda hell equal one lifetime in the Nirabbuda hell.

Twenty lifetimes in the Nirabbuda hell equal one lifetime in the Ababa hell.

Twenty lifetimes in the Aṭaṭa hell equal one lifetime in the Ahaha hell.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhu, vīsati ahahā nirayā, evameko kumudo nirayo.
Twenty lifetimes in the Ahaha hell equal one lifetime in the Yellow Lotus hell.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhu, vīsati kumudā nirayā, evameko sogandhiko nirayo.
Twenty lifetimes in the Yellow Lotus hell equal one lifetime in the Sweet-Smelling hell.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhu, vīsati sogandhikā nirayā, evameko uppalanirayo.
Twenty lifetimes in the Sweet-Smelling hell equal one lifetime in the Blue Water Lily hell.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhu, vīsati uppālā nirayā, evameko puṇḍariko nirayo.
Twenty lifetimes in the Blue Water Lily hell equal one lifetime in the White Lotus hell.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhu, vīsati puṇḍarikā nirayā, evameko padumo nirayo.
Twenty lifetimes in the White Lotus hell equal one lifetime in the Pink Lotus hell.

Padume pana, bhikkhu, niraye kokāliko bhikkhu upapanno sāriputtamoggallānesu cittam āghātetvā”ti.
The mendicant Kokālika has been reborn in the Pink Lotus hell because of his resentment for Sāriputta and Moggallāna.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati gijjhakūṭe pabbate acirapakkante devadatte.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, on the Vulture's Peak Mountain, not long after Devadatta had left.

Atha kho brahmā sahampati abhikkantāya rattiyā abhikkantavaṇṇo kevalakappaṃ gijjhakūṭaṃ pabbataṃ obhāsetvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi.

Then, late at night, the beautiful Brahmā Sahampati, lighting up the entire Vulture's Peak, went up to the Buddha, bowed, stood to one side,

Ekamantaṃ ṭhito kho brahmā sahampati devadattaṃ ārabha
bhagavato santike imaṃ gāthaṃ abhāsi:

and recited this verse in the Buddha's presence:

“Phalaṃ ve kadaliṃ hanti,

“The banana tree is destroyed by its own fruit,

phalaṃ veḷuṃ phalaṃ naḷaṃ;

as are the bamboo and the reed.

Sakkāro kāpurisaṃ hanti,

Honor destroys a sinner, gabbho assatarim yathā”ti.

as pregnancy destroys a mule.”

13. Andhakavindasutta At Andhakavinda

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā māgadhesu viharati andhakavinde.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Magadhans at Andhakavinda.

Tena kho pana samayena bhagavā rattandhakāratimisāyaṃ abbhokāse nisinno hoti, devo ca ekamekam̐ phusāyati.

Now at that time the Buddha was meditating in the open during the dark of night, while a gentle rain drizzled down.

Atha kho brahmā sahampati abhikkantāya rattiya abhikkantavaṇṇo kevalakappaṃ andhakavindaṃ obhāsetvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ

Then, late at night, the beautiful Brahmā Sahampati, lighting up the entirety of Andhakavinda, went up to the Buddha, bowed, stood to one side,

Ekamantaṃ ṭhito kho brahmā sahampati bhagavato santike imā gāthāyo abhāsi:

and recited these verses in the Buddha's presence:

“Sevetha pantāni senāsanāni,

“One should frequent secluded lodgings,

14. Aruṇavatīsutta About Aruṇavatī

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvattiyam viharati ...pe...

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī.

tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There he addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, rājā ahosi aruṇavā nāma.

“Once upon a time, mendicants, there was a king named Aruṇavā.

Raṅṅo kho pana, bhikkhave, aruṇavato aruṇavatī nāma rājadhānī ahosi.

He had a capital named Aruṇavatī.

Aruṇavatim kho pana, bhikkhave, rājadhānim sikhī bhagavā aramaṃ sammāsambuddho upanissāya vihāsi.

Sikhī the Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha lived supported by Aruṇavatī.

Sikhissa kho pana, bhikkhave, bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa abhibhūsambhavaṃ nāma sāvakayugaṃ ahosi aggamaṃ bhaddayugaṃ.

Sikhī had a fine pair of chief disciples named Abhibhū and Sambhava.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, sikhī bhagavā arahamaṃ sammāsambuddho abhibhumaṃ bhikkhumaṃ āmantesi:

Then the Buddha Sikhī addressed the mendicant Abhibhū, ‘āyāma, brāhmaṇa, yena aññataro brahmaloko tenupasaṅkamissāma, yāva bhattassa kālo bhavissatī’ti.

‘Come, brahmin, let’s go to one of the brahmā realms until it’s time for our meal.’

‘Evaṃ, bhante’ti kho bhikkhave, abhibhū bhikkhu sikhissa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa paccassosi.

‘Yes, sir,’ replied Abhibhū.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, sikhī bhagavā arahamaṃ sammāsambuddho abhibhū ca bhikkhu—seyyathāpi nāma balavā puriso samiñjitaṃ vā bāhamaṃ pasāreyya, pasāritaṃ vā bāhamaṃ samiñjeyya; evameva—aruṇavatiyā rājadhāniyā antarahitā tasmaṃ brahmaloke pāturahesumaṃ.

Then, as easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, they vanished from Aruṇavatī and appeared in that Brahmā realm.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, sikhī bhagavā arahamaṃ sammāsambuddho abhibhumaṃ bhikkhumaṃ āmantesi:

Then the Buddha Sikhī addressed the mendicant Abhibhū,

‘paṭibhātu, brāhmaṇa, taṃ brahmuno ca brahmaparisāya ca brahmapārisajjanañca dhammī kathā’ti.

‘Brahmin, teach the Dhamma as you feel inspired for that Brahmā, his assembly, and the members of his retinue.’

‘Evaṃ, bhante’ti kho, bhikkhave, abhibhū bhikkhu sikhissa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa paṭissutvā, brahmānañca brahmaparisañca brahmapārisajje ca dhammiyā kathāya sandassesī samādapesi samuttejesī sampahaṃsesī.

‘Yes, sir,’ replied Abhibhū. Then he educated, encouraged, fired up, and inspired them with a Dhamma talk.

Tatra sudamṃ, bhikkhave, brahmā ca brahmaparisā ca brahmapārisajjā ca ujjhāyanti khiyyanti vipācenti:

But the Brahmā, his assembly, and his retinue complained, grumbled, and objected, ‘acchariyaṃ vata, bho, abbhutaṃ vata bho, kathañhi nāma satthari sammukhībhūte sāvako dhammaṃ desessatī’ti.

‘It’s incredible, it’s amazing! How on earth can a disciple teach Dhamma in the presence of the Teacher?’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, sikhī bhagavā arahamṃ sammāsambuddho abhibhumṃ bhikkhumṃ āmantesī:

Then the Buddha Sikhī addressed the mendicant Abhibhū,

‘ujjhāyanti kho te, brāhmaṇa, brahmā ca brahmaparisā ca brahmapārisajjā ca—

‘Brahmin, Brahmā, his assembly, and his retinue are complaining acchariyaṃ vata bho, abbhutaṃ vata bho, kathañhi nāma satthari sammukhībhūte sāvako dhammaṃ desessatīti.

that a disciple teaches Dhamma in the presence of the Teacher.

Tena hi tvaṃ, brāhmaṇa, bhiiyoso mattāya brahmānañca brahmaparisañca brahmapārisajje ca saṃvejehī’ti.

Well then, brahmin, stir them up even more!’

‘Evaṃ, bhante’ti kho, bhikkhave, abhibhū bhikkhu sikhissa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa paṭissutvā dissamānenapi kāyena dhammaṃ desesi, adissamānenapi kāyena dhammaṃ desesi, dissamānenapi heṭṭhimena

upaḍḍhakāyena adissamānena uparimena upaḍḍhakāyena dhammaṃ desesi, dissamānenapi uparimena upaḍḍhakāyena adissamānena heṭṭhimena upaḍḍhakāyena dhammaṃ desesi.

‘Yes, sir,’ replied Abhibhū. Then he taught Dhamma with his body visible; with his body invisible; with the lower half visible and the upper half invisible; and with the upper half visible and the lower half invisible.

Tatra sudamṃ, bhikkhave, brahmā ca brahmaparisā ca brahmapārisajjā ca acchariyabbhutacittajātā ahesumṃ:

And the Brahmā, his assembly, and his retinue, their minds full of wonder and amazement, thought,

‘acchariyaṃ vata bho, abbhutaṃ vata bho, samaṇassa mahiddhikatā mahānubhāvatā’ti.

Atha kho abhibhū bhikkhu sikhimṃ bhagavantaṃ arahantaṃ sammāsambuddhaṃ etadavoca:

Then Abhibhū said to the Buddha Sikhī,

‘abhijānāmi khvāhaṃ, bhante, bhikkhusaṅghassa majjhe evarūpiṃ vācaṃ bhāsītā—

‘Sir, I recall having said this in the middle of the Saṅgha:

pahomi khvāhaṃ, āvuso, brahmaloke ṭhito sahassilokadhātuṃ sarena viññāpetun’ti.

“Standing in the Brahmā realm, I can make my voice heard throughout the galaxy.”

‘Etassa, brāhmaṇa, kālo, etassa, brāhmaṇa, kālo;

‘Now is the time, brahmin! Now is the time, brahmin!

yaṃ tvaṃ, brāhmaṇa, brahmaloke ṭhito sahassilokadhātuṃ sarena viññāpeyyāsī’ti.

Standing in the Brahmā realm, make your voice heard throughout the galaxy.'

'Evaṃ, bhante'ti kho, bhikkhave, abhibhū bhikkhu sikhissa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa paṭissutvā brahmaloke ṭhito imā gāthāyo abhāsi:

'Yes, sir,' replied Abhibhū. Standing in the Brahmā realm, he recited this verse:

'Ārambhatha nikkamatha,
'Rouse yourselves! Try harder!

Yuñjatha buddhasāsane;
Devote yourselves to the teachings of the Buddha!

Dhunātha maccuno senaṃ,
Crush the army of Death,

Naḷāgāraṃva kuñjaro.
as an elephant a hut of reeds.

Yo imasmim dhammavinaye,
Whoever will live diligently

appamatto vihassati;
in this teaching and training,

Pahāya jātisaṃsāraṃ,
giving up transmigration through rebirths,

dukkhassantaṃ karissatī'ti.
will make an end of suffering.'

Atha kho, bhikkhave, sikhī ca bhagavā araham sammāsambuddho abhibhū ca bhikkhu brahmānañca brahmaparisañca brahmapārisajje ca saṃvejetvā—

Having inspired that Brahmā, his assembly, and his retinue with a sense of awe, seyyathāpi nāma ...pe... tasmim̄ brahmaloke antarahitā aruṇavatiyā rājadhāniyā pāturaheṣum̄.

as easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, Sikhī and Abhibhū vanished from that Brahmā realm and appeared in Aruṇavatī.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, sikhī bhagavā araham̄ sammāsambuddho bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha Sikhī addressed the mendicants,

‘assuttha no tumhe, bhikkhave, abhibhussa bhikkhuno brahmaloke ʈhitassa gāthāyo bhāsamānassā’ti?

‘Mendicants, did you hear the mendicant Abhibhū speaking a verse while standing in a Brahmā realm?’

‘Assumha kho mayam̄, bhante, abhibhussa bhikkhuno
brahmaloke ʈhitassa gāthāyo bhāsamānassā’ti.

‘We did, sir.’

‘Yathā katham̄ pana tumhe, bhikkhave, assuttha abhibhussa bhikkhuno brahmaloke ʈhitassa gāthāyo bhāsamānassā’ti?

‘But what exactly did you hear?’

Evaṃ kho mayam̄, bhante, assumha abhibhussa bhikkhuno brahmaloke ʈhitassa gāthāyo bhāsamānassa:

‘This is what we heard, sir:

‘Ārambhatha nikkamatha,

“Rouse yourselves! Try harder!

yuñjatha buddhasāsane;

Devote yourselves to the teachings of the Buddha!

Dhunātha maccuno senam̄,

Crush the army of Death,

naḷāgāram̄va kuñjaro.

as an elephant a hut of reeds.

Yo imasmim̐ dhammavinaye,

Whoever will live heedfully

appamatto vihassati;

in this teaching and training,

Pahāya jātisaṃsāraṃ,

giving up transmigration through rebirths,

dukkhassantaṃ karissatī'ti.

‘Evaṃ kho mayaṃ, bhante, assumha abhibhussa bhikkhuno
brahmaloke t̐hitassa gāthāyo bhāsamānassā’ti.

That’s what we heard, sir.’

‘Sādhu sādhu, bhikkhave;

‘Good, good, mendicants!

sādhu kho tumhe, bhikkhave, assuttha abhibhussa bhikkhuno brahmaloke t̐hitassa gāthāyo bhāsamānassā’”ti.

It’s good that you heard the mendicant Abhibhū speaking this verse while standing in a Brahmā realm.”

Idamavoca bhagavā, attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

That is what the Buddha said. Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

15. Parinibbānasutta Final Extinguishment

Ekam samayaṃ bhagavā kusinārāyaṃ viharati upavattane mallānaṃ sālavane antarena yamakasālānaṃ parinibbānasamaye.

At one time the Buddha was staying between a pair of sal trees in the sal forest of the Mallas at Upavattana near Kusinārā at the time of his final extinguishment.

Atha kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to the mendicants:

“handa dāni, bhikkhave, āmantayāmi vo:

“Come now, mendicants, I say to you all:

‘vayadhammā saṅkhārā, appamādena sampādeṭhā’”ti.

‘Conditions fall apart. Persist with diligence.’”

Ayaṃ tathāgatassa pacchimā vācā.

These were the Realized One’s last words.

Atha kho bhagavā paṭhamāṃ jhānaṃ samāpajji. Paṭhamā jhānā vuṭṭhahitvā dutiyāṃ jhānaṃ samāpajji. Dutiyā jhānā vuṭṭhahitvā ākīñcaññāyatanāṃ samāpajji. Ākiñcaññāyatanā vuṭṭhahitvā nevasaññānāsaññāyatanāṃ samāpajji.

Nevasaññānāsaññāyatanā vuṭṭhahitvā saññāvedayitanirodham samāpajji.

Then the Buddha entered the first absorption. Emerging from that, he entered the second absorption. Emerging from that, he successively entered into and emerged from the third absorption, the fourth absorption, the dimension of infinite space, the dimension of infinite consciousness, the dimension of nothingness, and the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception. Then he entered the cessation of perception and feeling.

Saññāvedayitanirodhā vuṭṭhahitvā nevasaññānāsaññāyatanam samāpajji. Nevasaññānāsaññāyatanā vuṭṭhahitvā ākiñcaññāyatanam samāpajji. Ākiñcaññāyatanā vuṭṭhahitvā viññāṇañcāyatanam samāpajji. Viññāṇañcāyatanā vuṭṭhahitvā ākāsānañcāyatanam samāpajji. Ākāsānañcāyatanā vuṭṭhahitvā catuttham jhānam samāpajji. Catutthā jhānā vuṭṭhahitvā tatiyam jhānam samāpajji. Tatiyā jhānā vuṭṭhahitvā dutiyam jhānam samāpajji. Dutiyā jhānā vuṭṭhahitvā paṭhamam jhānam samāpajji. Paṭhamā jhānā vuṭṭhahitvā dutiyam jhānam samāpajji. Dutiyā jhānā vuṭṭhahitvā tatiyam jhānam samāpajji. Tatiyā jhānā vuṭṭhahitvā catuttham jhānam samāpajji. Catutthā jhānā vuṭṭhahitvā samanantaram bhagavā parinibbāyi.

Then he emerged from the cessation of perception and feeling and entered the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception. Emerging from that, he successively entered into and emerged from the dimension of nothingness, the dimension of infinite consciousness, the dimension of infinite space, the fourth absorption, the third absorption, the second absorption, and the first absorption. Emerging from that, he successively entered into and emerged from the second absorption and the third absorption. Then he entered the fourth absorption. Emerging from that the Buddha immediately became fully extinguished.

Parinibbute bhagavati saha parinibbānā brahmā sahampati imam gātham abhāsi:

When the Buddha became fully extinguished, along with the full extinguishment, Brahmā Sahampati recited this verse:

“Sabbeva nikkhipissanti,

“All creatures in this world

bhūtā loke samussayaṃ;

must lay down this bag of bones.

Yattha etādiso satthā,

For even a Teacher such as this,

loke appaṭipuggalo;

unrivaled in the world,

Tathāgato balappatto,

the Realized One, attained to power,

sambuddho parinibbuto”ti.

the Buddha became fully extinguished.”

Parinibbute bhagavati saha parinibbānā sakko devānamindo

When the Buddha became fully extinguished, Sakka, lord of gods, recited this verse:

“Aniccā vata saṅkhārā,

“Oh! Conditions are impermanent, their nature is to rise and fall;

Uppajjitvā nirujjhanti,

having arisen, they cease;

tesaṃ vūpasamo sukho”ti.

their stilling is true bliss.”

Parinibbute bhagavati saha parinibbānā āyasmā ānando imaṃ

When the Buddha became fully extinguished, Venerable Ānanda
recited this verse:

“Tadāsi yaṃ bhimsanakam,

“Then there was terror!

tadāsi lomahaṃsanam;

Then they had goosebumps!

Sabbākāravārupete,

When the Buddha, endowed with all fine qualities, became fully extinguished.”

Parinibbute bhagavati saha parinibbānā āyasmā anuruddho imā

When the Buddha became fully extinguished, Venerable Anuruddha
recited this verse:

“Nāhu assāsapassāso,

“There was no more breathing for the poised one of steady heart.

1. Dhanañjānīsutta With Dhanañjānī

Evaṃ me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati veḷuvane
kalandakanivāpe.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tena kho pana samayena aññatarassa bhāradvājagottassa brāhmaṇassa dhanañjānī nāma brāhmaṇī abhippasannā hoti buddhe ca dhamme ca saṅhe ca.

Now at that time a certain brahmin lady of the Bhāradvāja clan named Dhanañjānī was devoted to the Buddha, the teaching, and the Saṅgha.

Atha kho dhanañjānī brāhmaṇī bhāradvājagottassa brāhmaṇassa bhattaṃ upasaṃharantī upakkhalitvā tikkhattuṃ udānaṃ udānesi:

Once, while she was bringing her husband his meal she tripped and expressed this heartfelt sentiment three times:

“Namo tassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa.

“Homage to that Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha!

Namo tassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa.

Homage to that Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha!

Namo tassa bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassā”ti.

Homage to that Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha!”

Evaṃ vutte, bhāradvājagotto brāhmaṇo dhanañjāniṃ
brāhmaṇiṃ etadvoca:

When she said this, the brahmin said to Dhanañjānī:

“evamevaṃ paṇāyaṃ vasalī yasmim vā tasmim vā tassa muṇḍakassa samaṇassa vaṇṇaṃ bhāsati.

“That’d be right. For the slightest thing this wretched lady spouts out praise for that bald ascetic.

Idāni tyāhaṃ, vasali, tassa satthuno vādaṃ āropessāmi”ti.

Right now, wretched woman, I’m going to refute your teacher’s doctrine!”

“Na khvāhaṃ taṃ, brāhmaṇa, passāmi sadevake loke samārake sabrahmake sassamaṇabrāhmaṇiyā pajāya sadevamanussāya, yo tassa bhagavato vādaṃ āropeyya arahato sammāsambuddhassa.

“Brahmin, I don’t see anyone in this world—with its gods, Māras, and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, its gods and humans—who can refute the doctrine of the Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha.

Api ca tvaṃ, brāhmaṇa, gaccha, gantvā vijānissasī”ti.

But anyway, you should go. When you’ve gone you’ll understand.”

Atha kho bhāradvājagotto brāhmaṇo kupito anattamano yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then the brahmin of the Bhāradvāja clan, angry and upset, went to the Buddha and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodaniyam katham saraṇiyam vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side,

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho bhāradvājagotto brāhmaṇo
bhagavantaṃ gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:

and addressed the Buddha in verse:

“Kiṃsu chetvā sukhaṃ seti,

“When what is incinerated do you sleep at ease?

kiṃsu chetvā na socati;

When what is incinerated is there no sorrow?

Kissassu ekadhammassa,

What is the one thing

vadhaṃ rocesi gotamā”ti.

whose killing you approve?”

“Kodhaṃ chetvā sukhaṃ seti,

“When anger’s incinerated you sleep at ease.

kodhaṃ chetvā na socati;

When anger’s incinerated there is no sorrow.

Kodhassa visamūlassa,

O brahmin, anger has a poisoned root madhuraggassa brāhmaṇa;

and a honey tip.

Vadhaṃ ariyā pasamsanti,

The noble ones praise its killing,

tañhi chetvā na socatī”ti.

for when it’s incinerated there is no sorrow.”

Evam vutte, bhāradvājagotto brāhmaṇo bhagavantam etadavoca:

When he said this, the brahmin said to the Buddha,

“abhikkantaṃ, bho gotama, abhikkantaṃ, bho gotama.

“Excellent, Master Gotama! Excellent!

Seyyathāpi, bho gotama, nikkujjitaṃ vā ukkujjeyya, paṭicchannaṃ vā vivareyya, mūḷhassa vā maggaṃ ācikkheyya, andhakāre vā telapajjotaṃ dhāreyya: ‘cakkhumanto rūpāni dakkhantī’ti; evamevaṃ bhotā gotamena anekapariyāyena dhammo pakāsito.

As if he were righting the overturned, or revealing the hidden, or pointing out the path to the lost, or lighting a lamp in the dark so people with good eyes can see what’s there, Master Gotama has made the teaching clear in many ways.

Esāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavantaṃ gotamaṃ saraṇaṃ gacchāmi dhammañca bhikkhusaṅghaṃca.

I go for refuge to Master Gotama, to the teaching, and to the mendicant Saṅgha.

Labheyāhaṃ bhoto gotamassa santike pabbajjaṃ, labheyyaṃ upasampadan”ti.

Sir, may I receive the going forth, the ordination in the Buddha’s presence?”

Alattha kho bhāradvājagotto brāhmaṇo bhagavato santike pabbajjaṃ, alattha upasampadaṃ.

And the brahmin received the going forth, the ordination in the Buddha’s presence.

Acirūpasampanno kho panāyasmā bhāradvājo eko vūpakaṭṭho appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti tadanuttaraṃ—brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihāsi.

Not long after his ordination, Venerable Bhāradvāja, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā”ti abbhaññāsi.

He understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

Aññataro ca panāyasmā bhāradvājo arahataṃ ahoṣīti.

And Venerable Bhāradvāja became one of the perfected.

“Sometimes they do, Master Gotama.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, brāhmaṇa, api nu tesam anuppadesi khādanīyaṃ vā bhojanīyaṃ vā sāyanīyaṃ vā”ti?

“Do you then serve them with a variety of foods and savories?”

“Appekadā nesāhaṃ, bho gotama, anuppademi khādanīyaṃ vā bhojanīyaṃ vā sāyanīyaṃ vā”ti.

“Sometimes I do.”

“Sace kho pana te, brāhmaṇa, nappaṭiggaṇhanti, kassa taṃ hotī”ti?

“But if they don’t accept it, brahmin, who does it belong to?”

“Sace te, bho gotama, nappaṭiggaṇhanti, amhākameva taṃ hotī”ti.

“In that case it still belongs to me.”

“Evameva kho, brāhmaṇa, yaṃ tvaṃ amhe anakkosante akkosasi, arosente rosesi, abhaṇḍante bhaṇḍasi, taṃ te mayaṃ nappaṭiggaṇhāma.

Not long after his ordination, Venerable Bhāradvāja the Rude, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

He understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

And Venerable Bhāradvāja became one of the perfected.

"Brahmin, I don't see anyone in this world—with its gods, Māras, and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, its gods and humans—who can properly digest these leftovers, except for the Realized One or one of his disciples.

Tena hi tvaṃ, brāhmaṇa, taṃ habyasesaṃ appaharite vā

Well then, brahmin, throw out those leftovers where there is little that grows, or drop them into water that has no living creatures."

Atha kho sundarikabhāradvājo brāhmaṇo taṃ habyasesaṃ

So Sundarika dropped the leftover offering in water that had no living creatures.

Atha kho so habyaseso udake pakkhitto cicciṭāyati ciṭciṭāyati sandhūpāyati sampadhūpāyati.

And when those leftovers were placed in the water, they sizzled and hissed, steaming and fuming.

Seyyathāpi nāma phālo divasaṃsantatto udake pakkhitto cicciṭāyati ciṭciṭāyati sandhūpāyati sampadhūpāyati;

Suppose there was an iron cauldron that had been heated all day. If you placed it in the water, it would sizzle and hiss, steaming and fuming.

evameva so habyaseso udake pakkhitto cicciṭāyati ciṭciṭāyati sandhūpāyati sampadhūpāyati.

In the same way, when those leftovers were placed in the water, they sizzled and hissed, steaming and fuming.

Atha kho sundarikabhāradvājo brāhmaṇo saṃviggo lomahaṭṭhajāto yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi.

Then Sundarika the brahmin, shocked and awestruck, went up to the Buddha, and stood to one side.

Ekamantaṃ ṭhitaṃ kho sundarikabhāradvājaṃ brāhmaṇaṃ bhagavā gāthāhi ajjhabhāsi:

The Buddha addressed him in verse:

“Mā brāhmaṇa dāru samādahāno,

Always blazing, always serene,

Arahaṃ ahaṃ brahmacariyaṃ carāmi.
I am a perfected one living the spiritual life.

Māno hi te brāhmaṇa khāribhāro,
Conceit, brahmin, is the burden of your possessions,

Kodho dhumo bhasmani mosavajjaṃ;
anger your smoke, and lies your ashes.

The tongue is the ladle and the heart the fire altar;

Attā sudanto purisassa joti.
a well-tamed self is a person's light.

Dhammo rahado brāhmaṇa sīlatittho,
The teaching is a lake with shores of ethics, brahmin,

Anāvilo sabbhi sataṃ pasattho;
unclouded, praised by the fine to the good.

Yattha have vedaguno sinātā,

I declare that man to be one who follows the teaching.”

Evaṃ vutte, sundarikabhāradvājo brāhmaṇo bhagavantaṃ

Evam vutte, bhāradvājagotto brāhmaṇo bhagavantam etadavoca:

When he had spoken, the brahmin said to the Buddha,

“abhikkantaṃ, bho gotama, abhikkantaṃ, bho gotama.

“Excellent, Master Gotama! Excellent! ...

As if he were righting the overturned, or revealing the hidden, or pointing out the path to the lost, or lighting a lamp in the dark so people with good eyes can see what’s there, Master Gotama has made the teaching clear in many ways.

Esāhaṃ bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ saraṇaṃ gacchāmi dhammañca bhikkhusaṅghaṃca.

Not long after his ordination, Venerable Bhāradvāja, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā”ti abbhaññāsi.

He understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

11. Kasibhāradvājasutta With Bhāradvāja the Farmer

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā magadhesu viharati dakkhiṇāgirismim ekanāḷayaṃ brāhmaṇagāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Magadhans in the Southern Hills near the brahmin village of Ekanāḷa.

Tena kho pana samayena kasibhāradvājassa brāhmaṇassa pañcamattāni naṅgalasatāni payuttāni honti vappakāle.

Now at that time the brahmin Bhāradvāja the Farmer had harnessed around five hundred plows, it being the season for sowing.

Atha kho bhagavā pubbaṇhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā
pattacīvaramādāya yena kasibhāradvājassa brāhmaṇassa kammanto tenupasaṅkami.

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, went to where Bhāradvāja the Farmer was working.

Tena kho pana samayena kasibhāradvājassa brāhmaṇassa
parivesanā vattati.

Now at that time Bhāradvāja the Farmer was distributing food.

Atha kho bhagavā yena parivesanā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi.

Then the Buddha went to where the distribution was taking place and stood to one side.

Addasā kho kasibhāradvājo brāhmaṇo bhagavantam piṇḍāya ṭhitam.

Bhāradvāja the Farmer saw him standing for alms

Disvā bhagavantam etadavoca:

and said to him,

“ahaṃ kho, samaṇa, kasāmi ca vapāmi ca, kasitvā ca vapitvā ca bhuñjāmi.

“I plough and sow, ascetic, and then I eat.

Tvampi, samaṇa, kasassu ca vapassu ca, kasitvā ca vapitvā ca

You too should plough and sow, then you may eat.”

“Ahampi kho, brāhmaṇa, kasāmi ca vapāmi ca, kasitvā ca
vapitvā ca bhuñjāmī”ti.

“I too plough and sow, brahmin, and then I eat.”

“Na kho mayam passāma bhoto gotamassa yugam vā naṅgalaṃ vā phālaṃ vā pācanaṃ vā balībadde vā, atha ca pana bhavaṃ

“I don’t see Master Gotama with a yoke or plow or plowshare or goad or oxen, yet he says:

‘ahampi kho, brāhmaṇa, kasāmi ca vapāmi ca, kasitvā ca
vapitvā ca bhuñjāmī”ti.

‘I too plough and sow, brahmin, and then I eat.’”

Atha kho kasibhāradvājo brāhmaṇo bhagavantam gāthāya

Then Bhāradvāja the Farmer addressed the Buddha in verse:

“Kassako paṭijānāsi,

“You claim to be a farmer,

but I don't see your plough.

“Gāthābhigītaṃ me abhojaneyyaṃ,
“Food enchanted by a spell isn't fit for me to eat.

That's not the way of those who see, brahmin.

Gāthābhigītaṃ panudanti buddhā,
The Buddhas reject things enchanted with spells.

like hounds after hogs.

Asantā kira maṃ jammā,
It turns out they’re wicked, those nasty men,

tāta tātāti bhāsare;
though they called me their dear old Dad.

Rakkhasā puttarūpena, They’re monsters in the shape of sons,

te jahanti vayogataṃ.
throwing me out as I’ve grown old.

Assova jiṇṇo nibbhogo,
Like an old, useless horse

Having memorized those verses in the Buddha’s presence, the brahmin recited them to his sons when they were all seated in the council hall with a large crowd. ...

“Yehi jātehi nandissaṃ,

Then the brahmin, taking one pair of garments, went to the Buddha and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ

May Master Gotama please accept my teacher’s fee!”

Paṭiggaheṣi bhagavā anukampaṃ upādāya.

So the Buddha accepted it out of compassion.

Atha kho so brāhmaṇamahāsālo bhagavantam etadavoca:

Then the well-to-do brahmin said to the Buddha,

15. Mānatthaddhasutta

Stuck-Up

Sāvattthinidānaṃ.
At Sāvattthī.

Tena kho pana samayena mānatthaddho nāma brāhmaṇo sāvattthiyaṃ paṭivasati.

Now at that time a brahmin named Stuck-Up was residing in Sāvattthī.

So neva mātaraṃ abhivādeti, na pitaraṃ abhivādeti, na ācariyaṃ abhivādeti, na jeṭṭhabhātaraṃ abhivādeti.

He didn't bow to his mother or father, his teacher, or his oldest brother.

Tena kho pana samayena bhagavā mahatiyā parisāya parivuto dhammaṃ deseti.

Now, at that time the Buddha was teaching Dhamma, surrounded by a large assembly.

Atha kho mānatthaddhassa brāhmaṇassa etadahosi:

Then Stuck-Up thought,

“ayaṃ kho samaṇo gotamo mahatiyā parisāya parivuto
dhammaṃ deseti.

“The ascetic Gotama is teaching Dhamma, surrounded by a large assembly.

Yannūnāhaṃ yena samaṇo gotamo tenupasaṅkameyyaṃ.

Why don't I approach him?

Sace maṃ samaṇo gotamo ālapissati, ahampi taṃ ālapissāmi.

If he speaks to me, I'll speak to him.

No ce maṃ samaṇo gotamo ālapissati, ahampi nālapissāmī”ti.

But if he doesn't speak, neither will I.”

Atha kho mānathaddho brāhmaṇo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā tuṅhībhūto ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi.

Then the brahmin Stuck-Up went up to the Buddha, and stood silently to one side.

Atha kho bhagavā taṃ nālapi.

But the Buddha didn't speak to him.

Atha kho mānathaddho brāhmaṇo:

Then Stuck-Up thought,

“nāyaṃ samaṇo gotamo kiñci jānātī”ti tatova puna

“This ascetic Gotama knows nothing!” And he wanted to go back from there right away.

Atha kho bhagavā mānathaddhassa brāhmaṇassa cetasā cetoparivitakkamaññāya mānathaddhaṃ brāhmaṇaṃ gāthāya

Then the Buddha, knowing what Stuck-Up was thinking, addressed him in verse:

“Na mānaṃ brāhmaṇa sādhu,

“It's not good to foster conceit atthikassīdha brāhmaṇa;

if you want what's good for you, brahmin.

Yena atthena āgacchi,

You should foster the goal

which brought you here.”

Atha kho mānatthaddho brāhmaṇo:

Then Stuck-Up thought,

“cittaṃ me samaṇo gotamo jānātī”ti tattheva bhagavato pādesu sirasā nipatitvā bhagavato pādāni mukhena ca paricumbati pāṇīhi ca parisambāhati, nāmañca sāveti:

“The ascetic Gotama knows my mind!” He bowed with his head to the Buddha’s feet, caressing them and covering them with kisses, and pronounced his name:

“mānatthaddhāhaṃ, bho gotama, mānatthaddhāhaṃ, bho gotamā”ti.

“Master Gotama, I am Stuck-Up! I am Stuck-Up!”

Atha kho sā parisā abbhutavittajātā ahosi:

Then that assembly was stunned:

“acchariyaṃ vata bho, abbhutaṃ vata bho.

Ayañhi mānatthaddho brāhmaṇo neva mātaraṃ abhivādeti, na pitaraṃ abhivādeti, na ācariyaṃ abhivādeti, na jeṭṭhabhātaraṃ abhivādeti;

This brahmin Stuck-Up doesn’t bow to his mother or father, his teacher, or his oldest brother.

atha ca pana samaṇe gotame evarūpaṃ paramanipaccakāraṃ karotī”ti.

Yet he shows such utmost devotion to the ascetic Gotama!”

Atha kho bhagavā mānatthaddhaṃ brāhmaṇaṃ etadavoca:

Then the Buddha said to the brahmin Stuck-Up,

“alaṃ, brāhmaṇa, uṭṭhehi, sake āsane nisīda.

“Enough, brahmin. Get up, and take your own seat.

Yato te mayi cittaṃ pasannaṃ”ti.

For your mind has confidence in me.”

Atha kho mānathaddho brāhmaṇo sake āsane nisīditvā
bhagavantaṃ gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:

Then Stuck-Up took his seat and said to the Buddha:

“Kesu na mānaṃ kayirātha,

“Regarding whom should you not be conceited?

kesu cassa sagāravo;

Who should you respect?

Kyassa apacitā assu,

“Mātari pitari cāpi,

Now at that time there was a brahmin named Saṅgārava staying in Sāvattihī. He practiced purification by water, believing in purification by water. He lived committed to the practice of immersing himself in water at dawn and dusk.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando pubbaṅhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya sāvattihiṃ piṇḍāya pāvīsi.
Then Venerable Ānanda robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Sāvattihī for alms.

Atha kho saṅgāravo brāhmaṇo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtīvā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then the brahmin Saṅgārava went up to the Buddha, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho saṅgāravaṃ brāhmaṇaṃ bhagavā etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side. The Buddha said to him, “saccaṃ kira tvaṃ, brāhmaṇa, udakasuddhiko, udakena suddhiṃ pacesi, sāyaṃ pātaṃ udakorohanānuyogamanuyutto viharasī”ti?

“Is it really true, brahmin, that you practice purification by water, believing in purification by water; that you live committed to the practice of immersing yourself in water at dawn and dusk?”

“Evaṃ, bho gotama”.

“Yes, Master Gotama.”

“Kiṃ pana tvaṃ, brāhmaṇa, atthavaṣaṃ sampassamaṇo

“But brahmin, for what reason do you practice purification by water?”

“Idha me, bho gotama, yaṃ divā pāpakammaṃ kataṃ hoti, taṃ sāyaṃ nhānena pavāhemi, yaṃ rattiṃ pāpakammaṃ kataṃ hoti taṃ pātaṃ nhānena pavāhemi.

“It’s because, Master Gotama, whatever bad deeds I’ve done during the day I wash off by bathing at dusk; and whatever bad deeds I’ve done during the night, I wash off by bathing at dawn.

Imaṃ khvāhaṃ, bho gotama, atthavaṣaṃ sampassamaṇo

That’s the reason why I practice purification by water.”

“Dhammo rahado brāhmaṇa sīlatittho,

Evaṃ vutte, saṅgāravo brāhmaṇo bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

22. Khomadussasutta At Khomadussa

Evaṃ me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sakkesu viharati khomadussam

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Sakyans, where they have a town named Khomadussa.

Atha kho bhagavā pubbaṇhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā
pattacīvaramādāya khomadussam nigamaṃ piṇḍāya pāvisi.
Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Khomadussa for alms.

Tena kho pana samayena khomadussakā brāhmaṇagahapatikā

Now at that time the brahmins and householders of Khomadussa were gathered in the council hall for some business, while a gentle rain drizzled down.

Atha kho bhagavā yena sā sabhā tenupasaṅkami.
Then the Buddha approached that council.

Addasaṃsu khomadussakā brāhmaṇagahapatikā bhagavantam

5. Subhāsitasutta Well-Spoken Words

Sāvattihinidānaṃ.
At Sāvattihī.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:
There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.
“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.
“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:
The Buddha said this:

“Catūhi, bhikkhave, aṅgehi samannāgatā vācā subhāsītā hoti, no dubbhāsītā; anavajjā ca ananuvajjā ca viññūnaṃ.
“Mendicants, speech that has four factors is well spoken, not poorly spoken. It’s blameless and is not criticized by sensible people.

Katamehi catūhi?
What four?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu subhāsitaṃyeva bhāsati no dubbhāsitaṃ, dhammaṃyeva bhāsati no adhammaṃ, piyaṃyeva bhāsati no appiyaṃ, saccaṃyeva bhāsati no alikaṃ.
It’s when a mendicant speaks well, not poorly; they speak on the teaching, not against the teaching; they speak pleasantly, not unpleasantly; and they speak truthfully, not falsely.

Imehi kho, bhikkhave, catūhi aṅgehi samannāgatā vācā subhāsītā hoti, no dubbhāsītā, anavajjā ca ananuvajjā ca viññūnan”ti.

Speech with these four factors is well spoken, not poorly spoken. It’s blameless and is not criticized by sensible people.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Idaṃ vatvāna sugato athāparam etadavoca satthā:

Then the Holy One, the Teacher, went on to say:

“Subhāsitaṃ uttamamāhu santo,

“Good people say that well-spoken words are foremost;

Dhammaṃ bhaṇe nādhammaṃ taṃ dutiyaṃ;

second, speak on the teaching, not against it;

Piyaṃ bhaṇe nāppiyaṃ taṃ tatiyaṃ, third, speak pleasantly, not unpleasantly;

and fourth, speak truthfully, not falsely.”

Atha kho āyasmā vaṅgīso uṭṭhāyāsanā ekaṃsaṃ uttarāsaṅgaṃ karitvā yena bhagavā tenaṅjalim paṇāmetvā bhagavantam etadavoca:

Then Venerable Vaṅgīsa got up from his seat, arranged his robe over one shoulder, raised his joined palms toward the Buddha, and said, “paṭibhāti maṃ, bhagavā, paṭibhāti maṃ, sugatā”ti.

“Paṭibhātu taṃ, vaṅgīsā”ti bhagavā avoca.

“Then speak as you feel inspired,” said the Buddha.

Atha kho āyasmā vaṅgīso bhagavantam̐ sammukhā sārubbhāhi

Then Vaṅgīsa extolled the Buddha in his presence with fitting verses:

The Invitation to Admonish

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati pubbārāme migāramātupāsāde mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhiṃ pañcamattehi bhikkhusatehi sabbeheva arahantehi.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in the Eastern Monastery, the stilt longhouse of Migāra’s mother, together with a large Saṅgha of around five hundred monks, all of whom were perfected ones.

Tena kho pana samayena bhagavā tadahuposathe pannarase pavāraṇāya bhikkhusaṅghaparivuto abbhokāse nisinno hoti.

Now, at that time it was the sabbath—the full moon on the fifteenth day—and the Buddha was sitting in the open surrounded by the Saṅgha of monks for the invitation to admonish.

Atha kho bhagavā tuṅhībhūtaṃ bhikkhusaṅghaṃ anuviloketvā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha looked around the Saṅgha of monks, who were so very silent. He addressed them:

“handa dāni, bhikkhave, pavāremi vo.

“Come now, monks, I invite you all:

Na ca me kiñci garahatha kāyikaṃ vā vācasikaṃ vā”ti.

Is there anything I’ve done by way of body or speech that you would criticize?”

Evam̐ vutte, āyasmā sārīputto uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ ekamsaṃ uttarāsaṅgaṃ karitvā yena bhagavā tenañjalim̐ paṇāmetvā bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, Venerable Sāriputta got up from his seat, arranged his robe over one shoulder, raised his joined palms toward the Buddha, and said:

“na kho mayaṃ, bhante, bhagavato kiñci garahāma kāyikaṃ vā vācasikaṃ vā.

“There is nothing, sir, that you’ve done by way of body or speech that we would criticize.

Bhagavā hi, bhante, anuppannassa maggassa uppādetā, asañjātassa maggassa sañjanetā, anakkhātassa maggassa akkhātā, maggaññū maggavidū maggakovido.

For the Blessed One is the one who gave rise to the unarisen path, who gave birth to the unborn path, who explained the unexplained path. He is the knower of the path, the discoverer of the path, the expert on the path.

Maggānugā ca, bhante, etarahi sāvakā viharanti pacchā samannāgatā;

And now the disciples live following the path; they acquire it later.

ahañca kho, bhante, bhagavantaṃ pavāremi.

And sir, I invite the Blessed One.

Na ca me bhagavā kiñci garahati kāyikaṃ vā vācasikaṃ vā”ti.

Is there anything I’ve done by way of body or speech that you would criticize?”

“Na khvāhaṃ te, sāriputta, kiñci garahāmi kāyikaṃ vā vācasikaṃ vā.

“There is nothing, Sāriputta, that you’ve done by way of body or speech that I would criticize.

Paṇḍito tvaṃ, sāriputta, mahāpañño tvaṃ, sāriputta, puthupañño tvaṃ, sāriputta, hāsapañño tvaṃ, sāriputta, javanapañño tvaṃ, sāriputta, tikkhapañño tvaṃ, sāriputta, nibbedhikapañño tvaṃ, sāriputta.

Sāriputta, you are astute. You have great wisdom, widespread wisdom, laughing wisdom, swift wisdom, sharp wisdom, penetrating wisdom.

Seyyathāpi, sāriputta, rañño cakkavattissa jeṭṭhaputto pitarā pavattitaṃ cakkam sammadeva anuppavatteti;

A wheel-turning monarch's oldest son rightly keeps wielding the power set in motion by his father.

evameva kho tvaṃ, sāriputta, mayā anuttaram dhammacakkam pavattitaṃ sammadeva anuppavattesi”ti.

In the same way, Sāriputta rightly keeps rolling the supreme Wheel of Dhamma that was rolled forth by me.”

“No ce kira me, bhante, bhagavā kiñci garahati kāyikaṃ vā vācasikaṃ vā.

“Since it seems I have done nothing worthy of the Blessed One's criticism, Imesaṃ pana, bhante, bhagavā pañcannaṃ bhikkhusatānaṃ na kiñci garahati kāyikaṃ vā vācasikaṃ vā”ti.

is there anything these five hundred monks have done by way of body or speech that you would criticize?”

“Imesampi khvāhaṃ, sāriputta, pañcannaṃ bhikkhusatānaṃ na kiñci garahāmi kāyikaṃ vā vācasikaṃ vā.

“There is nothing, Sāriputta, that these five hundred monks have done by way of body or speech that I would criticize.

Imesañhi, sāriputta, pañcannaṃ bhikkhusatānaṃ satṭhi bhikkhū tevijjā, satṭhi bhikkhū chaḷabhiññā, satṭhi bhikkhū ubhatobhāgavimuttā, atha itare paññāvimuttā”ti.

For of these five hundred monks, sixty have the three knowledges, sixty have the six direct knowledges, sixty are freed both ways, and the rest are freed by wisdom.”

Atha kho āyasmā vaṅgīso utṭhāyāsanaṃ ekaṃsaṃ uttarāsaṅgaṃ karitvā yena bhagavā tenañjalim paṇāmetvā bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

Then Venerable Vaṅgīsa got up from his seat, arranged his robe over one shoulder, raised his joined palms toward the Buddha, and said, “paṭibhāti maṃ, bhagavā, paṭibhāti maṃ, sugatā”ti.

“I feel inspired to speak, Blessed One! I feel inspired to speak, Holy One!”

“Paṭibhātu taṃ, vaṅgīsā”ti bhagavā avoca.

“Then speak as you feel inspired,” said the Buddha.

Atha kho āyasmā vaṅgīso bhagavantam sammukhā sārubbāhi gāthāhi abhitthavi:

Then Vaṅgīsa extolled the Buddha in his presence with fitting verses:

“Ajja pannarase visuddhiyā,

“Today, on the fifteenth day sabbath,

Bhikkhū pañcasatā samāgatā;

five hundred monks have gathered together to purify their precepts.

Tena kho pana samayena so bhikkhu divāvihāragato pāpake

The deity haunting that forest had compassion for that mendicant, and wanted what's best for them. So they approached that mendicant wanting to stir them up, and addressed them in verse:

“Vivekakāmosi vanaṃ pavitṭho,

Getting Up

Ekam̐ samayaṃ aññataro bhikkhu kosalesu viharati aññatarasmim̐ vanasaṇḍe.

At one time one of the mendicants was staying in the land of the Kosalans in a certain forest grove.

Tena kho pana samayena so bhikkhu divāvihāragato supati.
Now at that time that mendicant fell asleep during the day's meditation.

Atha kho yā tasmim̐ vanasaṇḍe adhivatthā devatā tassa

The deity haunting that forest had compassion for that mendicant, and wanted what's best for them. So they approached that mendicant wanting to stir them up, and addressed them in verse:

“Uṭṭhehi bhikkhu kim̐ sesi, “Get up, mendicant! Why lie down?

ko attho supitena te;
What's the point in your sleeping?

Āturassa hi kā niddā,
What slumber can there be for those afflicted,

sallavidhassa ruppato.
injured, pierced by an arrow?

Yāya saddhāya pabbajito,
You should amplify the faith

agārasmānagāriyaṃ;
that led you to go forth

Tameva saddhaṃ brūhehi, from the home life to homelessness.

mā niddāya vasaṃ gamī”ti.
Don’t fall under the sway of slumber.”

“Aniccā addhuvā kāmā, “Sensual pleasures are impermanent and unstable,

yesu mandova mucchito;
but idiots still fall for them.

Baddhesu muttaṃ asitaṃ,
Among those who are bound, they’re free and unattached:

kasmā pabbajitaṃ tape.
why bother a renunciate?

Chandarāgassa vinayā,
By removing desire and greed,

avijjāsamatikkamā;
by going beyond ignorance,

Tāṃ ñāṇaṃ paramodānaṃ,
that knowledge has been perfectly cleansed:

kasmā pabbajitaṃ tape.
why bother a renunciate?

Chetvā avijjaṃ vijjāya,
By breaking ignorance with knowledge,

āsavānaṃ parikkhayā;
by the ending of defilements,

Asokaṃ anupāyāsaṃ, they're sorrowless, unstressed:

kasmā pabbajitaṃ tape.
why bother a renunciate?

Āraddhavīriyaṃ pahitattaṃ,
Energetic, resolute,

Niccaṃ daḷhaparakkamaṃ;
always staunchly vigorous,

Then the deity haunting that forest approached Kassapagotta wanting to stir him up, and recited these verses:

“Giriduggacaram̐ chetaṃ,

“A tribal hunter wandering the rugged hills

Not seeing those mendicants, the deity haunting that forest cried.
And on that occasion they recited this verse:

“Arati viya mejja khāyati,

“Seeing so many vacated seats today,

Bahuke disvāna vivitte āsane;

it seems to me that they must have become dissatisfied.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Āḷavī in the haunt of the native spirit Āḷavaka.

Atha kho āḷavako yakkho yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamitvā bhagavantam etadavoca:

Then the native spirit Āḷavaka went up to the Buddha, and said to him:

“nikkhama, samaṇā”ti.

“Get out, ascetic!”

“Sādhāvuso”ti bhagavā nikkhami.

Saying, “All right, sir,” the Buddha went out.

“Pavisa, samaṇā”ti.

Evaṃ me sutam—

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvattiyam viharati jetavane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, asurā deve abhiyaṃsu.

“Once upon a time, mendicants, the demons marched against the gods.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, sakko devānamindo suvīraṃ devaputtaṃ
āmantesi:

Then Sakka, lord of gods, addressed the god Suvīra,

‘ete, tāta suvīra, asurā deve abhiyanti.

‘Dear Suvīra, the demons march against the gods!

Gaccha, tāta suvīra, asure paccuyyāhī'ti.

Go, and march against the demons!

'Evaṃ, bhaddantavā'ti kho, bhikkhave, suvīro devaputto

'Yes, lord,' replied Suvīra. But he fell into negligence.

Dutiyampi kho, bhikkhave, sakko devānamindo suvīraṃ

For a second time Sakka addressed Suvīra,

'ete, tāta suvīra, asurā deve abhiyanti.

'Yes, lord,' replied Suvīra. But for a second time he fell into negligence.

Tatīyampi kho, bhikkhave, sakko devānamindo suvīraṃ

For a third time Sakka addressed Suvīra,

'ete, tāta suvīra, asurā deve abhiyanti.

'Dear Suvīra, the demons march against the gods!

Gaccha, tāta suvīra, asure paccuyyāhī'ti.

Go, and march against the demons!

'Evaṃ, bhaddantavā'ti kho, bhikkhave, suvīro devaputto

‘Yes, lord,’ replied Suvīra. But for a third time he fell into negligence.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, sakko devānamindo suvīraṃ devaputtaṃ
gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:

Then Sakka addressed the god Suvīra in verse:

‘Anuṭṭhahaṃ avāyāmaṃ,

where you can achieve happiness

Suvīra tattha gacchāhi,

Atha kho, bhikkhave, sakko devānamindo deve tāvatimse

Then Sakka, lord of gods, addressed the gods of the Thirty-Three:

‘Sace, mārisā, devānaṃ saṅgāmagatānaṃ uppajjeyya bhayaṃ

‘Good sirs, when the gods are fighting, if you get scared or terrified, just look up at my banner’s crest.

Mamañhi vo dhajaggaṃ ullokayataṃ yaṃ bhavissati bhayaṃ vā chambhitattaṃ vā lomahaṃso vā, so pahīyissati.

Then your fear and terror will go away.

No ce me dhajaggaṃ ullokeyyātha, atha pajāpatissa devarājassa dhajaggaṃ ullokeyyātha.

If you can’t see my banner’s crest, then look up at the banner’s crest of Pajāpati, king of gods.

Pajāpatissa hi vo devarājassa dhajaggaṃ ullokayataṃ yaṃ bhavissati bhayaṃ vā chambhitattaṃ vā lomahaṃso vā, so pahīyissati.

Then your fear and terror will go away.

No ce pajāpatissa devarājassa dhajaggaṃ ullokeyyātha, atha varuṇassa devarājassa dhajaggaṃ ullokeyyātha.

If you can’t see his banner’s crest, then look up at the banner’s crest of Varuṇa, king of gods.

Varuṇassa hi vo devarājassa dhajaggaṃ ullokayataṃ yaṃ bhavissati bhayaṃ vā chambhitattaṃ vā lomahaṃso vā, so pahīyissati.

Then your fear and terror will go away.

If you can’t see his banner’s crest, then look up at the banner’s crest of Īsāna, king of gods.

Īsānassa hi vo devarājassa dhajaggaṃ ullokayataṃ yaṃ bhavissati bhayaṃ vā chambhitattaṃ vā lomahaṃso vā, so pahīyissatī’ti.

Then your fear and terror will go away.’

Taṃ kho pana, bhikkhave, sakkassa vā devānamindassa dhajaggaṃ ullokayataṃ, pajāpatissa vā devarājassa dhajaggaṃ ullokayataṃ, varuṇassa vā devarājassa dhajaggaṃ ullokayataṃ, īsānassa vā devarājassa dhajaggaṃ ullokayataṃ yaṃ bhavissati bhayaṃ vā chambhitattaṃ vā lomahaṃso vā, so pahīyethāpi nopi pahīyetha.

However, when they look up at those banner's crests their fear and terror might go away or it might not.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Sakko hi, bhikkhave, devānamindo avītarāgo avītadoso avītamoho bhīru chambhī utrāsī palāyīti.

Because Sakka is not free of greed, hate, and delusion. He gets fearful, scared, terrified, and runs away.

Ahañca kho, bhikkhave, evaṃ vadāmi:

But, mendicants, I say this:

‘sace tumhākaṃ, bhikkhave, araññagatānaṃ vā rukkhamūlagatānaṃ vā suññāgāragatānaṃ vā uppajjeyya bhayaṃ vā chambhitattaṃ vā lomahaṃso vā, mameva tasmim̐ samaye anussareyyātha:

‘That Blessed One is perfected, a fully awakened Buddha, accomplished in knowledge and conduct, holy, knower of the world, supreme guide for those who wish to train, teacher of gods and humans, awakened, blessed.’

Mamañhi vo, bhikkhave, anussarataṃ yaṃ bhavissati bhayaṃ vā chambhitattaṃ vā lomahaṃso vā, so pahīyissati.

Then your fear and terror will go away.

No ce maṃ anussareyyātha, atha dhammaṃ anussareyyātha:

If you can't recollect me, then recollect the teaching:

“svākkhāto bhagavatā dhammo sandiṭṭhiko akāliko ehipassiko

‘The teaching is well explained by the Buddha—visible in this very life, immediately effective, inviting inspection, relevant, so that sensible people can know it for themselves.’

Dhammañhi vo, bhikkhave, anussarataṃ yaṃ bhavissati bhayaṃ vā chambhitattaṃ vā lomahaṃso vā, so pahīyissati.

Then your fear and terror will go away.

No ce dhammaṃ anussareyyātha, atha saṅghaṃ anussareyyātha:

If you can't recollect the teaching, then recollect the Saṅgha:

“suppaṭipanno bhagavato sāvakaśaṅgho ujuppaṭipanno

‘The Saṅgha of the Buddha’s disciples is practicing the way that’s good, straightforward, methodical, and proper. It consists of the four pairs, the eight individuals. This is the Saṅgha of the Buddha’s disciples that is worthy of offerings dedicated to the gods, worthy of hospitality, worthy of a religious donation, worthy of greeting with joined palms, and is the supreme field of merit for the world.’

Saṅghañhi vo, bhikkhave, anussarataṃ yaṃ bhavissati bhayaṃ
vā chambhitattaṃ vā lomahaṃso vā, so pahīyissati.

Then your fear and terror will go away.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Tathāgato hi, bhikkhave, araham̐ sammāsambuddho vītarāgo vītadoso vītamoho abhīru acchambhī anutrāsī apalāyī”ti.

Because the Realized One is free of greed, hate, and delusion. He does not get fearful, scared, terrified, or run away.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Idaṃ vatvāna sugato athāparam̐ etadavoca satthā:

Then the Holy One, the Teacher, went on to say:

“Araññe rukkhamūle vā,

“In the wilderness, at a tree’s root,

4. Vepacittisutta With Vepacitti

Sāvattihinidānaṃ.

At Sāvattihī.

“Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, devāsurasañgāmo samupabyūḷho
ahosi.

“Once upon a time, mendicants, a battle was fought between the gods and the demons.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, vepacitti asurindo asure āmantesi:

Then Vepacitti, lord of demons, addressed the demons,

‘sace, mārisā, devānaṃ asurasañgāme samupabyūḷhe asurā jineyyuṃ devā parājineyyuṃ, yena naṃ sakkaṃ devānamindaṃ kaṅṭhapañcamehi bandhanehi bandhitvā mama santike āneyyātha asurapuran’ti.

‘My good sirs, if the demons defeat the gods in this battle, bind Sakka, the lord of gods, by his limbs and neck and bring him to my presence in the castle of demons.’

Sakkopi kho, bhikkhave, devānamindo deve tāvatimse
āmantesi:

Meanwhile, Sakka, lord of gods, addressed the gods of the Thirty-Three,

‘sace, mārisā, devānaṃ asurasañgāme samupabyūḷhe devā jineyyuṃ asurā parājineyyuṃ, yena naṃ vepacittiṃ asurindaṃ
kaṅṭhapañcamehi bandhanehi bandhitvā mama santike
āneyyātha sudhammasabhan’ti.

‘My good sirs, if the gods defeat the demons in this battle, bind Vepacitti by his limbs and neck and bring him to my presence in the Sudhamma hall of the gods.’

Tasmim̃ kho pana, bhikkhave, saṅgāme devā jinim̃su, asurā parājinim̃su.

In that battle the gods won and the demons lost.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, devā tāvatim̃sā vepacittim̃ asurindaṃ kaṅṭhapañcamehi bandhanehi bandhitvā sakkassa devānamindassa santike ānesum̃ sudhammasabham̃.

So the gods of the Thirty-Three bound Vepacitti by his limbs and neck and brought him to Sakka’s presence in the Sudhamma hall of the gods.

Tatra sudam̃, bhikkhave, vepacitti asurindo kaṅṭhapañcamehi bandhanehi baddho sakkaṃ devānamindaṃ sudhammasabham̃ pavisantañca nikkhamantañca asabbhāhi pharusāhi vācāhi akkosati paribhāsati.

And as Sakka was entering and leaving the hall, Vepacitti abused and insulted him with rude, harsh words.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, mātali saṅgāhako sakkaṃ devānamindaṃ gāthāhi ajjhabhāsi:

So Mātali the charioteer addressed Sakka in verse,

‘Bhayā nu maghavā sakka,

‘O Maghavā, O Sakka,

dubbalyā no titikkhasi;

is it from fear or from weakness

Suṇanto pharusam̃ vācam̃, that you put up with such harsh words

sammukhā vepacittino’ti.

in the presence of Vepacitti?’

‘Nāhaṃ bhayā na dubbalyā, ‘It’s not out of fear or weakness

khamāmi vepacittino;
that I’m patient with Vepacitti.

Kathañhi mādiso viññū,
For how can a sensible person like me

bālena paṭisaṃyuje’ti.
get in a fight with a fool?’

‘Bhiyyo bālā pabhijjeyyum, ‘Fools would vent even more no cassa paṭisedhako;

if there’s no-one to put a stop to them.

Tasmā bhusena daṇḍena,
So a wise one should stop

dhīro bālaṃ nisedhaye’ti.
a fool with forceful punishment.’

‘Etadeva ahaṃ maññe,
‘I think that this is the only way

bālassa paṭisedhanaṃ;
to put a stop to a fool,

Paraṃ saṅkupitaṃ ñatvā,
when you know that the other is upset, yo sato upasammatī’ti.

be mindful and stay calm.’

‘Etadeva titikkhāya,
‘I see this fault, Vāsava, vajjaṃ passāmi vāsava;

in just being patient.

Yadā naṃ maññati bālo,

When a fool thinks,

bhayā myāyaṃ titikkhati;

“He puts up with me out of fear,”

Ajjhāruhati dummedho,

the idiot will go after you even harder,

gova bhiyyo palāyinan’ti.

like a cow chasing someone who runs away.’

‘Kāmaṃ maññatu vā mā vā,

‘Let him think this if he wishes, or not—

bhayā myāyaṃ titikkhati;

“He puts up with me out of fear.”

Sadatthaparamā atthā,

Of goals culminating in one’s own good,

khantiyā bhiyyo na vijjati.

none better than patience is found.

Yo have balavā santo,

When a strong person

dubbalassa titikkhati;

puts up with a weakling,

Tamāhu paramaṃ khantiṃ,

they call that the ultimate patience,

niccaṃ khamati dubbalo.

for a weakling must always be patient.

Abalaṃ taṃ balaṃ āhu,

The strength of folly

yassa bālabalaṃ balaṃ;

is really just weakness, they say.

Balassa dhammaguttassa,
But no-one can challenge a person

paṭivattā na vijjati.
who's strong, guarded by the teaching.

Tasseva tena pāpiyo,
When you get angry at an angry person yo kuddhaṃ paṭikujjhati;

you just make things worse for yourself.

Kuddhaṃ appaṭikujjhanto,
When you don't get angry at an angry person

saṅgāmaṃ jeti dujjayaṃ.
you win a battle hard to win.

Ubhinnamatthaṃ carati,
When you know that the other is angry,

attano ca parassa ca;
you act for the good of both

Paraṃ saṅkupitaṃ ñatvā,
yourself and the other

yo sato upasammati.
if you're mindful and stay calm.

Ubhinnaṃ tikicchantaṇaṃ,
People unfamiliar with the teaching

attano ca parassa ca;
consider one who heals both

Janā maññanti bāloti, oneself and the other

ye dhammassa akovidā'ti.
to be a fool.'

So hi nāma, bhikkhave, sakko devānamindo sakaṃ puññaphalaṃ upajīvamāno devānaṃ tāvatimsānaṃ issariyādhipaccaṃ rajjaṃ kārento khantisoraccassa vaṇṇavādī bhavissati.

So, mendicants, even Sakka, lord of gods—while living off of the fruit of his good and bad deeds, and ruling as sovereign lord over these gods of the Thirty-Three—will speak in praise of patience and gentleness.

Idha kho taṃ, bhikkhave, sobhetha yaṃ tumhe evaṃ svākkhāte dhammavinaye pabbajitā samānā khamā ca bhavyeyātha soratā cā'ti.

But since you have gone forth in such a well explained teaching and training, it would be truly beautiful for you to be patient and gentle!"

5. Subhāsitaḥayasutta Victory by Good Speech

Sāvattḥinidānaṃ.
At Sāvattḥī.

“Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, devāsurasāṅgāmo samupabyūḥho
ahosi.

“Once upon a time, mendicants, a battle was fought between the gods and the demons.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, vepacitti asurindo sakkaṃ devānamindaṃ
etadavoca:

Then Vepacitti, lord of demons, said to Sakka, lord of gods,

‘hotu, devānaminda, subhāsitena jayo’ti.

‘Lord of gods, let there be victory by fine words!’

‘Hotu, vepacitti, subhāsitena jayo’ti.

‘Vepacitti, let there be victory by fine words!’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, devā ca asurā ca pārisajje ṭhapesuṃ:

Then the gods and the demons appointed a panel of judges, saying,

‘ime no subhāsitaḍubbhāsitaṃ ājānissantī’ti.

‘These will understand our good and bad statements.’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, vepacitti asurindo sakkaṃ devānamindaṃ

Then Vepacitti, lord of demons, said to Sakka, lord of gods,

‘bhaṇa, devānaminda, gāthan’ti.

‘Lord of gods, recite a verse!’

Evaṃ vutte, bhikkhave, sakko devānamindo vepacittiṃ

When he said this, Sakka said to him,

‘tumhe khvettha, vepacitti, pubbadevā.

‘Vepacitti, you are the elder god here.

Bhaṇa, vepacitti, gāthan’ti.

Recite a verse.’

Evaṃ vutte, bhikkhave, vepacitti asurindo imaṃ gāthaṃ abhāsi:

So Vepacitti recited this verse:

Bhāsitāya kho pana, bhikkhave, vepacittinā asurindena gāthāya

The demons applauded Vepacitti’s verse, while the gods remained silent.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, vepacitti asurindo sakkaṃ devānamindaṃ

Then Vepacitti said to Sakka,

‘bhaṇa, devānaminda, gāthan’ti.

‘Lord of gods, recite a verse!’

Bhāsītāya kho pana, bhikkhave, sakkena devānamindena gāthāya, devā anumodimsu, asurā tuṅhī ahesuṃ.

The gods applauded Sakka’s verse, while the demons remained silent.

Then Sakka said to Vepacitti,

‘bhaṇa, vepacitti, gāthan’ti.

Bhāsītāya kho pana, bhikkhave, vepacittinā asurindena gāthāya

The demons applauded Vepacitti’s verse, while the gods remained silent.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, vepacitti asurindo sakkaṃ devānamindaṃ

Then Vepacitti said to Sakka,

The gods applauded Sakka's verses, while the demons remained silent.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, devānañca asurānañca pārisajjā

6. Kulāvakasutta Bird Nests

Sāvattiyam.
At Sāvattihī.

“Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, devāsurasañgāmo samupabyūḷho

“Once upon a time, mendicants, a battle was fought between the gods and the demons.

Tasmiṃ kho pana, bhikkhave, saṅgāme asurā jiniṃsu, devā

In that battle the demons won and the gods lost.

Parājitā ca kho, bhikkhave, devā apāyaṃsveva uttarenamukhā, abhiyaṃsveva ne asurā.

Defeated, the gods fled north with the demons in pursuit.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, sakko devānamindo mātali saṅgāhakaṃ
gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:

Then Sakka, lord of gods, addressed his charioteer Mātali in verse:

‘Kulāvakā mātali simbalismiṃ, ‘Mātali, don’t ram the bird nests

Īsāmukhena parivajjayassu;
in the red silk-cotton woods with your chariot pole.

Kāmaṃ cajāma asuresu pāṇaṃ, than deprive these birds of their nests.’

‘Evaṃ, bhaddantavā’ti kho, bhikkhave, mātali saṅgāhako sakkassa devānamindassa paṭissutvā saḥassayuttaṃ ājaññarathaṃ paccudāvattesi.

‘Yes, lord,’ replied Mātali. And he turned the chariot back around, with its team of a thousand thoroughbreds.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, asurānaṃ etadahosi:

Then the demons thought,

‘paccudāvatto kho dāni sakkassa devānamindassa saḥassayutto ājaññaratho.

‘Now Sakka’s chariot has turned back.

Dutiyampi kho devā asurehi saṅgāmessantī’ti bhītā

The demons will have to fight the gods a second time!’ Terrified, they retreated right away to the castle of the demons.

Iti kho, bhikkhave, sakkassa devānamindassa dhammena jayo ahosī’ti.

And that’s how Sakka came to win victory by principle.”

7. Nadubbhīyasutta Not Betray

Sāvattiyam.
At Sāvattihī.

“Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, sakkassa devānamindassa rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa evaṃ cetaso parivitakko udapādi:
“Once upon a time, mendicants, as Sakka, lord of gods, was in private retreat this thought came to his mind, ‘yopi me assa supaccatthiko tassapāhaṃ na dubbheyyan’ti.
‘I should never betray even a sworn enemy.’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, vepacitti asurindo sakkassa devānamindassa cetasā cetoparivitakkamaññāya yena sakko devānamindo tenupasaṅkami.
And then Vepacitti, lord of demons, knowing what Sakka was thinking, approached him.

Addasā kho, bhikkhave, sakko devānamindo vepacittim asurindaṃ dūratova āgacchantam.
Sakka saw Vepacitti coming off in the distance,

Disvāna vepacittim asurindaṃ etadavoca:
and said to him,

‘tiṭṭha, vepacitti, gahitosī’ti.
‘Stop, Vepacitti, you’re caught!’

‘Yadeva te, mārisa, pubbe cittaṃ, tadeva tvaṃ mā pajahāsī’ti.

‘Dear sir, don’t give up the idea you just had!’

‘Sapassu ca me, vepacitti, adubbhāyā’ti.

‘Swear, Vepacitti, that you won’t betray me.’

‘Yaṃ musā bhaṇato pāpaṃ,

‘Whatever bad things happen to a liar,

Yaṃ pāpaṃ ariyūpavādino;

or to someone who slanders the noble ones,

Mittadduno ca yaṃ pāpaṃ,

or to someone who betrays a friend,

Yaṃ pāpaṃ akatañño;

or to someone who’s ungrateful,

8. Verocanaasurindasutta Verocana, Lord of Demons

Sāvattthiyaṃ jetavane.

Near Sāvattthī in Jeta's Grove.

Tena kho pana समयena bhagavā divāvihāragato hoti paṭisallīno.

Now at that time the Buddha had gone into retreat for the day's meditation.

Atha kho sakko ca devānamindo verocano ca asurindo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā paccekaṃ dvārabāhaṃ nissāya aṭṭhaṃsu.

Then Sakka, lord of gods, and Verocana, lord of demons, approached the Buddha and stationed themselves one by each door-post.

Atha kho verocano asurindo bhagavato santike imaṃ gāthaṃ
abhāsi:

Then Verocana recited this verse in the Buddha's presence:

“Vāyametheva puriso,

“A man should make an effort

yāva atthassa nipphadā;

until his goal is accomplished.

Nipphannasobhano attho,

When goals are accomplished they shine:

verocanavaco idan”ti.

this is the word of Verocana!”

“Vāyametheva puriso,

“A man should make an effort

yāva atthassa nipphadā;

until his goal is accomplished.

Nipphannasobhano attho,

Of goals that shine when accomplished,

none better than patience is found.”

“Sabbe sattā atthajātā,

“All beings are goal-orientated,

as befits them in each case.

Samyogaparamā tveva,

But connection is the ultimate of pleasures for all living creatures.

Nipphannasobhano attho,

When goals are accomplished they shine:

verocanavaco idan”ti.

this is the word of Verocana!”

“Sabbe sattā atthajātā,

9. Araññāyatanaśisutta Hermits in the Wilderness

Sāvattiyaṃ.
At Sāvattī.

“Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, sambahulā isayo sīlavanto
kalyāṇadhammā araññāyatane paṇṇakuṭīsu sammanti.

“Once upon a time, mendicants, several hermits who were ethical, of good character, settled in leaf huts in a wilderness region.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, sakko ca devānamindo vepacitti ca asurindo yena te isayo sīlavanto kalyāṇadhammā tenupasaṅkamīsu.

Then Sakka, lord of gods, and Vepacitti, lord of demons, went to those hermits.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, vepacitti asurindo paṭaliyo upāhanā ārohitvā khaggaṃ olaggetvā chāttena dhāriyamānena aggadvārena assamaṃ pavisitvā te isayo sīlavante kalyāṇadhamme apabyāmato karitvā atikkami.

Vepacitti put on his boots, strapped on his sword, and, carrying a sunshade, entered the hermitage through the main gate. He walked right past those hermits, keeping them at a distance.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, sakko devānamindo paṭaliyo upāhanā orohitvā khaggaṃ aññesaṃ datvā chāttaṃ apanāmetvā dvārenea assamaṃ pavisitvā te isayo sīlavante kalyāṇadhamme anuvātaṃ pañjaliko namassamāno aṭṭhāsi.

Sakka took off his boots, gave his sword to others, and, putting down his sunshade, entered the hermitage through a gate he happened upon. He stood downwind of those hermits, revering them with joined palms.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, te isayo sīlavanto kalyāṇadhammā
sakkaṃ devānamindaṃ gāthāya ajjhabhāsimsu:

Then those hermits addressed Sakka in verse:

‘Gandho isīnaṃ ciradikkhitānaṃ,

‘When hermits have been long ordained,

Kāyā cuto gacchati mālutena;

the odor of their bodies goes with the wind.

Ito paṭikkamma sahasanetta,

You’d better leave, O thousand-eyed!

Gandho isīnaṃ asuci devarājā’ti.

The odor of the hermits is unclean, king of gods.’

‘Gandho isīnaṃ ciradikkhitānaṃ,

‘When hermits have been long ordained,

Kāyā cuto gacchatu mālutena;

let the odor of their bodies go with the wind.

Sucitrapupphaṃ sirasmiṃva mālaṃ,

We yearn for this odor, sirs,

Gandhaṃ etaṃ paṭikaṅkhāma bhante;

like a colorful crown of flowers.

Na hettha devā paṭikūlasañño””ti.

The gods don’t see it as repulsive.”

10. Samuddakasutta Hermits by the Ocean

Sāvattiyaṃ.
At Sāvattihī.

“Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, sambahulā isayo sīlavanto
kalyāṇadhammā samuddatīre paṇṇakuṭīsu sammanti.

“Once upon a time, mendicants, several hermits who were ethical, of good character, settled in leaf huts by the ocean.

Tena kho pana samayena devāsurasañgāmo samupabyūḷho
ahosi.

Now at that time a battle was fought between the gods and the demons.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, tesāṃ isīnaṃ sīlavantānaṃ kalyāṇadhammānaṃ etadahosi:

Then the hermits thought,

‘dhammikā kho devā, adhammikā asurā.

‘The gods are principled, the demons are unprincipled.

Siyāpi no asurato bhayaṃ.

We may be at risk from the demons.

Yannūna mayaṃ sambaraṃ asurindaṃ upasaṅkamtivā abhayadakkhiṇaṃ yāceyyāma’ti.

Why don’t we approach Sambara, lord of demons, and beg him for a pledge of safety.’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, te isayo sīlavanto kalyāṇadhammā—
seyyathāpi nāma balavā puriso samiñjitaṃ vā bāhaṃ pasāreyya, pasāritaṃ vā bāhaṃ samiñjeyya; evameva—samuddatīre paṇṇakuṭṭisu antarahitā sambarassa asurindassa sammukhe pāturahesuṃ.

Then, as easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, those hermits vanished from those leaf huts by the ocean and reappeared in Sambara's presence.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, te isayo sīlavanto kalyāṇadhammā
sambaraṃ asurindaṃ gāthāya ajjhabhāsimsu:

Then those hermits addressed Sambara in verse:

'Isayo sambaraṃ pattā,

'The hermits have come to Sambara

yācanti abhayadakkhiṇaṃ;

to beg for a pledge of safety.

Kāmaṅkaro hi te dātuṃ,

For you can give them what you wish,

bhayassa abhayassa vā'ti.

whether danger or safety.'

'Isīnaṃ abhayaṃ natthi,

'There is no safety for hermits,

duṭṭhānaṃ sakkasevinaṃ;

the hated associates of Sakka!

Abhayaṃ yācamānānaṃ,

Though you beg me for your safety,

bhayameva dadāmi vo'ti.

I'll only give you fear!

'Abhayaṃ yācamānānaṃ,

'Though we beg you for our safety,

bhayameva dadāsi no;
you give us only fear.

Paṭiggaṇhāma te etaṃ,
This is what we get from you:

akkhayaṃ hotu te bhayaṃ.
may endless peril come to you!

Yādisaṃ vapate bījaṃ,
Whatever kind of seed you sow,

tādisaṃ harate phalaṃ;
that is the fruit you reap.

Kalyāṇakārī kalyāṇaṃ,
A doer of good gets good,

pāpakārī ca pāpakaṃ;
a doer of bad gets bad.

Pavuttaṃ tāta te bījaṃ,
You have sown your own seed, friend,

phalaṃ paccanubhossasī'ti.
now you'll experience the fruit.'

Atha kho, bhikkhave, te isayo sīlavanto kalyāṇadhammā
sambaraṃ asurindaṃ abhisapitvā—seyyathāpi nāma balavā

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum̐.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, aññataro puriso imasmim̐yeva

Atha kho sakko devānamindo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi.

And then Sakka, lord of gods, went up to the Buddha, bowed, stood to one side,

Ekamantaṃ ṭhito kho sakko devānamindo bhagavantaṃ
gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:

and said to him:

“Kiṃsu chetvā sukhaṃ seti,

“When what is incinerated do you sleep at ease?

“Kodhaṃ chetvā sukhaṃ seti,

“When anger's incinerated you sleep at ease.

kodhaṃ chetvā na socati;

When anger's incinerated there is no sorrow.

Kodhassa visamūlassa,
O Vāsava, anger has a poisoned root

for when it’s incinerated there is no sorrow.”

22. Dubbaṇṇiyasutta Ugly

Sāvattthiyaṃ jetavane.

Near Sāvattthī in Jeta's Grove.

Tatra kho ...pe... etadavoca:

“bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, aññataro yakkho dubbaṇṇo
okoṭimako sakkassa devānamindassa āsane nisinno ahosi.

“Once upon a time, mendicants, there was a native spirit who was ugly and deformed. He sat on the throne of Sakka, lord of gods.

Tatra sudarṃ, bhikkhave, devā tāvatimsā ujjhāyanti khiyyanti vipācenti:

But the gods of the Thirty-Three complained, grumbled, and objected, ‘acchariyaṃ vata bho, abbhutaṃ vata bho.

‘It's incredible, it's amazing!

Ayaṃ yakkho dubbaṇṇo okoṭimako sakkassa devānamindassa āsane nisinno'ti.

This ugly and deformed spirit is sitting on the throne of Sakka, the lord of gods.'

Yathā yathā kho, bhikkhave, devā tāvatimsā ujjhāyanti khiyyanti vipācenti tathā tathā so yakkho abhirūpataro ceva hoti dassanīyataro ca pāsādikataro ca.

But the more the gods complained, the more attractive, good-looking, and lovely that spirit became.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, devā tāvatimsā yena sakko devānamindo tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā sakkam devānamindam etadavocum:

So the gods went up to Sakka and told him what had happened, adding, ‘idha te, mārisa, aññataro yakkho dubbaṇṇo okoṭimako sakkassa devānamindassa āsane nisinno.

Tatra sudam, mārisa, devā tāvatimsā ujjhāyanti khiyyanti vipācenti:

“acchariyam vata bho, abbhutam vata bho.

Ayam yakkho dubbaṇṇo okoṭimako sakkassa devānamindassa āsane nisinno”ti.

Yathā yathā kho, mārisa, devā ujjhāyanti khiyyanti vipācenti tathā tathā so yakkho abhirūpataro ceva hoti dassanīyataro ca pāsādikataro cāti.

So hi nūna, mārisa, kodhabhakkho yakkho bhavissatī’ti.

‘Surely, good sir, that must be the anger-eating spirit!’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, sakko devānamindo yena so kodhabhakkho yakkho tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā ekaṁsam uttarāsaṅgam karitvā dakkhiṇajāṇumaṇḍalam pathaviyam nihantvā yena so kodhabhakkho yakkho tenañjalim paṇāmetvā tikkhattum nāmam sāveti:

Then Sakka went up to that spirit, arranged his robe over one shoulder, knelt with his right knee on the ground, raised his joined palms toward the anger-eating spirit, and pronounced his name three times:

‘sakkoham, mārisa, devānamindo, sakkoham, mārisa, devānamindo’ti.

‘Good sir, I am Sakka, lord of gods! Good sir, I am Sakka, the lord of gods!’

Yathā yathā kho, bhikkhave, sakko devānamindo nāmaṃ sāvesi tathā tathā so yakkho dubbaṇṇataro ceva ahosi okoṭimakataro ca.

But the more Sakka pronounced his name, the uglier and more deformed the spirit became,

Dubbaṇṇataro ceva hutvā okoṭimakataro ca tatthevantaradhāyīti.

until eventually it vanished right there.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, sakko devānamindo sake āsane nisīditvā deve tāvatimse anunayamāno tāyaṃ velāyaṃ imā gāthāyo
abhāsi:

Then Sakka, lord of gods, guiding the gods of the Thirty-Three, recited this verse:

‘Na sūpahatacittomhi,

‘My mind isn’t easily upset;

nāvattena suvānayo;

I’m not easily drawn into the maelstrom.

Na vo cirāhaṃ kujjhāmi,

Na ca dhammāni kittaye;

nor do I advertise my own virtues.

out of regard for my own welfare.””

23. Sambarimāyāsutta The Sambari Sorcery

Sāvattiyam̐ ...pe...
At Sāvattihī.

bhagavā etadavoca:
The Buddha said this:

“bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, vepacitti asurindo ābādhiko ahoṣi dukkhito bāḥhagilāno.

“Once upon a time, mendicants, Vepacitti, lord of demons, was sick, suffering, gravely ill.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, sakko devānamindo yena vepacitti asurindo tenupasaṅkamaṃ gilānapucchako.

So Sakka went to see him to ask after his illness.

Addasā kho, bhikkhave, vepacitti asurindo sakkaṃ devānamindaṃ dūratova āgacchantaṃ.

Vepacitti saw Sakka coming off in the distance,

Disvāna sakkaṃ devānamindaṃ etadavoca:
and said to him,

‘tikiccha maṃ, devānamindā’ti.

‘Heal me, lord of gods!’

‘Vācehi maṃ, vepacitti, sambarimāyan’ti.

‘Teach me, Vepacitti, the Sambari sorcery.’

‘Na tāvāhaṃ vācemi, yāvāhaṃ, mārisa, asure paṭipucchāmi’ti.
‘I can’t do that, good sir, until I have consulted with the demons.’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, vepacitti asurindo asure paṭipucchi:

Then Vepacitti, lord of demons, asked the demons,

‘vācemahaṃ, mārisā, sakkaṃ devānamindaṃ sambarimāyan’ti?

‘Good sirs, may I teach the Sambari sorcery to Sakka, lord of gods?’

‘Mā kho tvaṃ, mārisa, vācesi sakkaṃ devānamindaṃ sambarimāyan’ti.

‘Do not, good sir, teach the Sambari sorcery to Sakka!’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, vepacitti asurindo sakkaṃ devānamindaṃ
gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:

So Vepacitti addressed Sakka in verse:

‘Māyāvī maghavā sakka,

‘O Maghavā, O Sakka,

devarāja sujampati;

king of gods, Sujā’s husband,

Upeti nirayaṃ ghoraṃ,

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, bhavo?

And what is continued existence?

Tayo me, bhikkhave, bhavā—

There are these three states of existence.

kāmabhavo, rūpabhavo, arūpabhavo.

Existence in the sensual realm, the realm of luminous form, and the formless realm.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, bhavo.

This is called continued existence.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, upādānaṃ?

And what is grasping?

Cattārimāni, bhikkhave, upādānāni—

There are these four kinds of grasping.

kāmapādānaṃ, diṭṭhupādānaṃ, sīlabbatupādānaṃ, attavādupādānaṃ.

Grasping at sensual pleasures, views, precepts and observances, and theories of a self.

Idaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, upādānaṃ.

This is called grasping.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, taṇhā?

And what is craving?

Chayime, bhikkhave, taṇhākāyā—

There are these six classes of craving.

rūpataṇhā, saddataṇhā, gandhataṇhā, rasataṇhā, phoṭṭhabbataṇhā, dhammataṇhā.

Craving for sights, sounds, smells, tastes, touches, and thoughts.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, taṇhā.

This is called craving.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, vedanā?

And what is feeling?

Chayime, bhikkhave, vedanākāyā—

There are these six classes of feeling.

cakkhusamphassajā vedanā, sotasamphassajā vedanā, ghānasamphassajā vedanā, jivhāsamphassajā vedanā, kāyasamphassajā vedanā, manosamphassajā vedanā.

Feeling born of contact through the eye, ear, nose, tongue, body, and mind.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, vedanā.

This is called feeling.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, phasso?

And what is contact?

Chayime, bhikkhave, phassakāyā—

There are these six classes of contact.

cakkhusamphasso, sotasamphasso, ghānasamphasso, jivhāsamphasso, kāyasamphasso, manosamphasso.

Contact through the eye, ear, nose, tongue, body, and mind.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, phasso.

This is called contact.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, saḷāyatanam?

And what are the six sense fields?

Cakkhāyatanam, sotāyatanam, ghānāyatanam, jivhāyatanam, kāyāyatanam, manāyatanam—

The sense fields of the eye, ear, nose, tongue, body, and mind.

idaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, saḷāyatanam.

These are called the six sense fields.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, nāmarūpaṃ?

And what are name and form?

Vedanā, saññā, cetanā, phasso, manasikāro—

Feeling, perception, intention, contact, and attention.

idaṃ vuccati nāmaṃ.

This is called name.

Cattāro ca mahābhūtā, catunnañca mahābhūtānam upādāyarūpaṃ.

The four primary elements, and form derived from the four primary elements.

Idaṃ vuccati rūpaṃ.

This is called form.

Iti idañca nāmaṃ, idañca rūpaṃ.

Such is name and such is form.

Idaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, nāmarūpaṃ.

These are called name and form.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, viññāṇaṃ?

And what is consciousness?

Chayime, bhikkhave, viññāṇakāyā—

There are these six classes of consciousness.

cakkhaviññāṇaṃ, sotaviññāṇaṃ, ghānaviññāṇaṃ, jivhāviññāṇaṃ, kāyaviññāṇaṃ, manoviññāṇaṃ.

Eye, ear, nose, tongue, body, and mind consciousness.

Idaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, viññāṇaṃ.

This is called consciousness.

Katame ca, bhikkhave, saṅkhārā?

And what are choices?

Tayome, bhikkhave, saṅkhārā—

There are three kinds of choices.

kāyasaṅkhāro, vacīsaṅkhāro, cittasaṅkhāro.

Choices by way of body, speech, and mind.

Ime vuccanti, bhikkhave, saṅkhārā.

These are called choices.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, avijjā?

And what is ignorance?

Yaṃ kho, bhikkhave, dukkhe aññāṇaṃ, dukkhasamudaye aññāṇaṃ, dukkhanirodhe aññāṇaṃ, dukkhanirodhagāminiyā paṭipadāya aññāṇaṃ.

Not knowing about suffering, the origin of suffering, the cessation of suffering, and the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, avijjā.

This is called ignorance.

Iti kho, bhikkhave, avijjāpaccayā saṅkhārā;

And so, ignorance is a condition for choices.

saṅkhārapaccayā viññāṇaṃ ...pe...

Choices are a condition for consciousness. ...

4. Vipassīsutta About Vipassī

Sāvattiyam viharati ...pe...
At Sāvattī.

“vipassissa, bhikkhave, bhagavato arahato sammāsambuddhassa pubbeva sambodhā anabhisambuddhassa bodhisattasseva sato etadahosi: “Mendicants, Vipassī the Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha had this thought before his awakening, when he was still unawakened but intent on awakening:

‘kicchaṃ vatāyaṃ loko āpanno jāyati ca jīyati ca mīyati ca cavati ca upapajjati ca.

‘Alas, this world has fallen into trouble. It’s born, grows old, dies, passes away, and is reborn,

Atha ca panimassa dukkhassa nissaraṇaṃ nappajānāti

yet it doesn’t understand how to escape from this suffering, from old age and death.

Kudāssu nāma imassa dukkhassa nissaraṇaṃ paññāyissati jarāmaṇassā’ti?

Oh, when will an escape be found from this suffering, from old age and death?’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, vipassissa bodhisattassa etadahosi:
Then Vipassī, the one intent on awakening, thought:

‘kimhi nu kho sati jarāmaraṇaṃ hoti, kiṃpaccayā jarāmaraṇaṃ’ti?

‘When what exists is there old age and death? What is a condition for old age and death?’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, vipassissa bodhisattassa yoniso manasikārā ahu paññāya abhisamayo:

Then, through proper attention, Vipassī comprehended with wisdom:

‘jātiyā kho sati jarāmaraṇaṃ hoti, jātipaccayā jarāmaraṇaṃ’ti.

‘When rebirth exists there’s old age and death. Rebirth is a condition for old age and death.’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, vipassissa bodhisattassa etadahosi:

Then Vipassī thought:

‘kimhi nu kho sati jāti hoti, kiṃpaccayā jāti’ti?

‘When what exists is there rebirth? What is a condition for rebirth?’

“Kaccāna, this world mostly relies on the dual notions of existence and non-existence.

Lokasamudayaṃ kho, kaccāna, yathābhūtam sammappaññāya

But when you truly see the origin of the world with right understanding, you won’t have the notion of non-existence regarding the world.

Lokanirodhaṃ kho, kaccāna, yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya passato yā loke atthitā sā na hoti.

And when you truly see the cessation of the world with right understanding, you won't have the notion of existence regarding the world.

'Dukkameva uppajjamānaṃ uppajjati, dukkhaṃ nirujjhamānaṃ nirujjhati'ti na kaṅkhati na vicikichati aparapaccayā ñāṇamevassa ettha hoti.

you'll have no doubt or uncertainty that what arises is just suffering arising, and what ceases is just suffering ceasing. Your knowledge about this is independent of others.

Ettāvatā kho, kaccāna, sammādiṭṭhi hoti.

This is how right view is defined.

17. Acelakassapasutta With Kassapa, the Naked Ascetic

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati veḷuvane
kalandakanivāpe.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Atha kho bhagavā pubbaṇhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā
pattacīvaramādāya rājagahaṃ piṇḍāya pāvīsi.

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Rājagaha for alms.

Addasā kho acelo kassapo bhagavantam dūratova āgacchantam.

The naked ascetic Kassapa saw the Buddha coming off in the distance.

Disvāna yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamitvā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

He went up to the Buddha, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyam katham sāraṇīyam vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi. Ekamantaṃ ṭhito kho acelo kassapo bhagavantam
etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he stood to one side, and said to the Buddha,

“puccheyyāma mayam bhavantam gotamam kañcideva desam, sace no bhavam gotamo okāsam karoti pañhassa
veyyākaraṇāyā”ti.

“I’d like to ask Master Gotama about a certain point, if you’d take the time to answer.”

“Akālo kho tāva, kassapa, pañhassa;

“Kassapa, it’s the wrong time for questions.

antaragharam pavitṭhamhā”ti.

We’ve entered an inhabited area.”

Dutiyampi kho acelo kassapo bhagavantam etadavoca:

A second time,

“puccheyyāma mayam bhavantam gotamam kañcideva desam,
sace no bhavam gotamo okāsam karoti pañhassa

“Akālo kho tāva, kassapa, pañhassa;

antaragharam pavitṭhamhā”ti.

Tatīyampi kho acelo kassapo ...pe...

and a third time, Kassapa spoke to the Buddha and the Buddha replied.

antaragharam pavitṭhamhāti.

Evam vutte, acelo kassapo bhagavantam etadavoca:

When this was said, Kassapa said to the Buddha,

“na kho pana mayam bhavantam gotamam bahudeva

“I don’t want to ask much.”

“Puccha, kassapa, yadākaṅkhasī”ti.

“Ask what you wish, Kassapa.”

“Kiṃ nu kho, bho gotama, ‘sayañkataṃ dukkhan’ti?

“Well, Master Gotama, is suffering made by oneself?”

‘Mā hevaṃ, kassapā’ti bhagavā avoca.

“Not so, Kassapa,” said the Buddha.

‘Kiṃ pana, bho gotama, parañkataṃ dukkhan’ti?

“Then is suffering made by another?”

‘Mā hevaṃ, kassapā’ti bhagavā avoca.

“Not so, Kassapa,” said the Buddha.

‘Kiṃ nu kho, bho gotama, sayañkatañca parañkatañca dukkhan’ti?

“Well, is suffering made by both oneself and another?”

‘Mā hevaṃ, kassapā’ti bhagavā avoca.

“Not so, Kassapa,” said the Buddha.

‘Kiṃ pana, bho gotama, asayañkāraṃ aparāñkāraṃ adhiccasamuppannaṃ dukkhan’ti?

“Then does suffering arise by chance, not made by oneself or another?”

‘Mā hevaṃ, kassapā’ti bhagavā avoca.

“Not so, Kassapa,” said the Buddha.

‘Kiṃ nu kho, bho gotama, natthi dukkhan’ti?

“Well, is there no such thing as suffering?”

‘Na kho, kassapa, natthi dukkhaṃ.

‘Kiṃ nu kho, bho gotama, ‘sayāṅkataṃ dukkhaṃ’ti iti puṭṭho samāno ‘mā hevaṃ, kassapā’ti vadesi.

“Master Gotama, when asked these questions, you say ‘not so’.

‘Kiṃ pana, bho gotama, paraṅkataṃ dukkhaṃ’ti iti puṭṭho samāno ‘mā hevaṃ, kassapā’ti vadesi.

‘Kiṃ nu kho, bho gotama, sayāṅkataṃca paraṅkataṃca dukkhaṃ’ti iti puṭṭho samāno ‘mā hevaṃ, kassapā’ti vadesi.

Ācikkhatu ca me, bhante, bhagavā dukkhaṃ.
Sir, explain suffering to me!

Desetu ca me, bhante, bhagavā dukkhan'ti.

“So karoti so paṭisaṃvedayatī'ti kho, kassapa, ādito sato
'sayaṅkataṃ dukkhan'ti iti vadaṃ sassataṃ etaṃ pareti.
“Suppose that the person who does the deed experiences the result.
Then for one who has existed since the beginning, suffering is made

Suppose that one person does the deed and another experiences the result. Then for one stricken by feeling, suffering is made by another. This statement leans toward annihilationism.

Ete te, kassapa, ubho ante anupagamma majjhena tathāgato
dhammaṃ deseti:
Avoiding these two extremes, the Realized One teaches by the middle way:

'avijjāpaccayā saṅkhārā;

Evaṃ vutte, acelo kassapo bhagavantam etadvoca:

When this was said, Kassapa said to the Buddha,

“abhikkantam, bhante, abhikkantam, bhante.

“Excellent, sir! Excellent!

‘cakkhumanto rūpāni dakkhantī’ti; evamevaṃ bhagavatā

As if he were righting the overturned, or revealing the hidden, or pointing out the path to the lost, or lighting a lamp in the dark so people with good eyes can see what’s there, the Buddha has made the teaching clear in many ways.

Esāham, bhante, bhagavantam saraṇam gacchāmi dhammañca

I go for refuge to the Buddha, to the teaching, and to the mendicant Saṅgha.

Labheyāham, bhante, bhagavato santike pabbajam,

Sir, may I receive the going forth, the ordination in the Buddha’s presence?”

“Yo kho, kassapa, aññatitthiyapubbo imasmim dhammavinaye “Kassapa, if someone formerly ordained in another sect wishes to take the going forth, the ordination in this teaching and training, they must spend four months on probation. When four months have passed, if the mendicants are satisfied, they'll give the going forth, the ordination into monkhood.

Api ca mayā puggalavemattatā veditā”ti.

However, I have recognized individual differences.”

“Sace, bhante, aññatitthiyapubbo imasmim dhammavinaye ākaṅkhati pabbajam, ākaṅkhati upasampadam, cattāro māse parivasati. Catunnam māsānam accayena āraddhacittā bhikkhū pabbājenti upasampādentī bhikkhubhāvāya. Aham cattāri vassāni parivasissāmi, catunnam vassānam accayena āraddhacittā bhikkhū pabbājentu upasampādentu bhikkhubhāvāyā”ti.

“Sir, if four months probation are required in such a case, I'll spend four years on probation. When four years have passed, if the mendicants are satisfied, let them give me the going forth, the ordination into monkhood.”

Alattha kho acelo kassapo bhagavato santike pabbajam, alattha upasampadam.

And the naked ascetic Kassapa received the going forth, the ordination in the Buddha's presence.

Acirūpasampanno ca panāyasmā kassapo eko vūpakaṭṭho appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agāasmā anagāriyam pabbajanti tadanuttaram—brahmacariyapariyosānam diṭṭheva dhamme sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihāsi.

Not long after his ordination, Venerable Kassapa, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme culmination of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitam brahmacariyam, katam karanīyam, nāparam itthattāyā”ti abhhaññāsi.

He understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

Aññataro ca panāyasmā kassapo arahataṃ ahoṣīti.

And Venerable Kassapa became one of the perfected.

Name and form are conditions for the six sense fields ...

Consciousness is a condition for name and form ...

saṅkhārapaccayā, bhikkhave, viññāṇam ...

Choices are a condition for consciousness ...

avijjāpaccayā, bhikkhave, saṅkhārā

Ignorance is a condition for choices.

uppādā vā tathāgatānaṃ anuppādā vā tathāgatānaṃ, t̥hitāva s̥ā dhātu dhammaṭṭhitatā dhammaniyāmatā idappaccayatā.

Whether Realized Ones arise or not, this law of nature persists, this regularity of natural principles, this invariance of natural principles, specific conditionality.

Taṃ tathāgato abhisambujjhati abhisameti.

A Realized One understands this and comprehends it,

Abhisambujjhitvā abhisametvā ācikkhati deseti paññāpeti paṭṭhapeti vivarati vibhajati uttānīkaroti.

then he explains, teaches, asserts, establishes, clarifies, analyzes, and reveals it.

‘Passathā’ti cāha:

‘Look,’ he says,

‘avijjāpaccayā, bhikkhave, saṅkhārā’.

‘Ignorance is a condition for choices.’

Iti kho, bhikkhave, yā tatra tathatā avitathatā anaññathatā idappaccayatā—

So the fact that this is real, not unreal, not otherwise; the specific conditionality of it:

ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, paṭiccasamuppādo.

this is called dependent origination.

Katame ca, bhikkhave, paṭiccasamuppannā dhammā?

And what are the dependently originated phenomena?

Jarāmarañāṃ, bhikkhave, aniccaṃ saṅkhataṃ paṭiccasamuppannaṃ khayadhammaṃ vayadhammaṃ virāgadhammaṃ nirodhadhammaṃ.

Old age and death are impermanent, conditioned, dependently originated, liable to end, vanish, fade away, and cease.

avijjā, bhikkhave, aniccā saṅkhatā paṭiccasamuppannā

Ignorance is impermanent, conditioned, dependently originated, liable to end, vanish, fade away, and cease.

Ime vuccanti, bhikkhave, paṭiccasamuppannā dhammā.
These are called the dependently originated phenomena.

Yato kho, bhikkhave, ariyasāvakaṃsa ‘ayañca paṭiccasamuppādo, ime ca paṭiccasamuppannā dhammā’ yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya sudiṭṭhā honti, so vata pubbantam vā paṭidhāvissati:

When a noble disciple has clearly seen with right wisdom this dependent origination and these dependently originated phenomena as they are, it’s impossible for them to turn back to the past, thinking:

‘ahosiṃ nu kho aham atītamaddhānaṃ, nanu kho ahosiṃ atītamaddhānaṃ, kiṃ nu kho ahosiṃ atītamaddhānaṃ, kathaṃ nu kho ahosiṃ atītamaddhānaṃ, kiṃ hutvā kiṃ ahosiṃ nu kho aham atītamaddhānaṃ’ti;

‘Did I exist in the past? Did I not exist in the past? What was I in the past? How was I in the past? After being what, what did I become in the past?’

aparantaṃ vā upadhāvissati:

Or to turn forward to the future, thinking:

‘bhavissāmi nu kho aham anāgatamaddhānaṃ, nanu kho bhavissāmi anāgatamaddhānaṃ, kiṃ nu kho bhavissāmi anāgatamaddhānaṃ, kathaṃ nu kho bhavissāmi anāgatamaddhānaṃ, kiṃ hutvā kiṃ bhavissāmi nu kho aham anāgatamaddhānaṃ’ti;

‘Will I exist in the future? Will I not exist in the future? What will I be in the future? How will I be in the future? After being what, what will I become in the future?’

etarahi vā paccuppannaṃ addhānaṃ ajjhantaṃ kathaṃkathī bhavissati:

Or to be undecided about the present, thinking:

‘aham nu khoṃsi, no nu khoṃsi, kiṃ nu khoṃsi, kathaṃ nu khoṃsi, ayaṃ nu kho satto kuto āgato, so kuhiṃ gamissatī’ti—‘Am I? Am I not? What am I? How am I? This sentient being—where did it come from? And where will it go?’

netam thānaṃ vijjati.

Tam kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Tathā hi, bhikkhave, ariyasāvakassa ayañca paṭiccasamuppādo ime ca paṭiccasamuppannā dhammā yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya sudiṭṭhā”ti.

Because that noble disciple has clearly seen with right wisdom this dependent origination and these dependently originated phenomena as they are.”

Then Venerable Sāriputta robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Rājagaha for alms.

Atha kho āyasmato sāriputtassa etadahosi:

Then it occurred to him,

“atippago kho tāva rājagahe piṇḍāya caritum.

Yannūnāham yena aññatitthiyānam paribbājakānam ārāmo

Then he went to the monastery of the wanderers who follow other paths, and exchanged greetings with the wanderers there.

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side. The wanderers said to him:

“Santāvuso sāriputta, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā kammavādā sayāṅkataṃ dukkhaṃ paññapenti.

“Reverend Sāriputta, there are ascetics and brahmins who teach the efficacy of deeds. Some of them declare that suffering is made by oneself.

Santi panāvuso sāriputta, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā kammavādā paraṅkataṃ dukkhaṃ paññapenti.

Some of them declare that suffering is made by another.

Santāvuso sāriputta, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā kammavādā sayāṅkatañca paraṅkatañca dukkhaṃ paññapenti.

Some of them declare that suffering is made by both oneself and another.

Santi panāvuso sāriputta, eke samaṇabrāhmaṇā kammavādā asayaṅkāraṃ aparāṅkāraṃ adhiccasamuppannaṃ dukkhaṃ paññapenti.

Some of them declare that suffering arises by chance, not made by oneself or another.

Idha, panāvuso sāriputta, samaṇo gotamo kiṃvādī kimakkhāyī?
What does the ascetic Gotama say about this? How does he explain it?

Kathaṃ byākaramānā ca mayaṃ vuttavādino ceva samaṇassa gotamassa assāma, na ca samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ abhūtena abbhācikkheyyāma, dhammassa cānudhammaṃ byākareyyāma, na ca koci sahadhammiko vādānupāto gārayhaṃ ṭhānaṃ āgaccheyyā”ti?

How should we answer so as to repeat what the ascetic Gotama has said, and not misrepresent him with an untruth? How should we explain in line with his teaching, with no legitimate grounds for rebuke and criticism?”

“Paṭiccasamuppannaṃ kho, āvuso, dukkhaṃ vuttaṃ bhagavatā.

“Reverends, the Buddha said that suffering is dependently originated.

Kim paṭicca?

Dependent on what?

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati.
At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī.

With Kaḷāra the Aristocrat

Sāvattthiyaṃ viharati.
At Sāvattthī.

Atha kho kaḷārakhattiyo bhikkhu yenāyasmā sāriputto

Then the mendicant Kaḷāra the Aristocrat went up to Venerable Sāriputta and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to him,

“moḷiyaphagguno, āvuso sāriputta, bhikkhu sikkhaṃ

“Reverend Sāriputta, the mendicant Phagguno of the Top-Knot has rejected the training and returned to a lesser life.”

“Na hi nūna so āyasmā imasmiṃ dhammavinaye

“That venerable mustn’t have got any satisfaction in this teaching and training.”

“Tena hāyasmā sāriputto imasmiṃ dhammavinaye assāsaṃ

“Well then, has Venerable Sāriputta found satisfaction in this teaching and training?”

“Na khvāhaṃ, āvuso, kaṅkhāmī”ti.

“Reverend, I have no uncertainty.”

“Āyatim, panāvuso”ti?

“But what of the future?”

“Na khvāhaṃ, āvuso, vicikicchāmī”ti.

“I have no doubt.”

Atha kho kaḷārakhattiyo bhikkhu uṭṭhāyāsana yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho kaḷārakhattiyo bhikkhu bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

Then Kaḷāra the Aristocrat went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him, “āyasmatā, bhante, sāriputtena aññā byākatā:

“Sir, Venerable Sāriputta has declared enlightenment:

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.
“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:
The Buddha said this:

“Katamāni, bhikkhave, catucattārīsaṃ ñāṇavatthūni?
“And what are the forty-four grounds for knowledge?

Knowledge of choices, knowledge of the origin of choices, knowledge of the cessation of choices, and knowledge of the practice that leads to the cessation of choices.

Imāni vuccanti, bhikkhave, catucattārīsaṃ ñāṇavatthūni.
These are called the forty-four grounds for knowledge.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, jarāmaraṇaṃ?
And what is old age and death?

Yā tesam tesam sattānam tamhi tamhi sattanikāye jarā jīraṇatā khaṇḍiccam pāliccam valittacatā āyuno samhāni indriyānam paripāko,

The old age, decrepitude, broken teeth, grey hair, wrinkly skin, diminished vitality, and failing faculties of the various sentient beings in the various orders of sentient beings.

ayaṃ vuccati jarā.

This is called old age.

Yā tesam tesam sattānam tamhā tamhā sattanikāyā cuti cavanatā bhedo antaradhānam maccu maraṇam kālakiriyā khandhānam bhedo kaḷavarassa nikkhepo.

The passing away, perishing, disintegration, demise, mortality, death, decease, breaking up of the aggregates, and laying to rest of the corpse of the various sentient beings in the various orders of sentient beings.

Idaṃ vuccati maraṇam.

This is called death.

Iti ayaṅca jarā, idaṅca maraṇam;

Such is old age, and such is death.

idaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, jarāmarāṇam.

This is called old age and death.

Jāṭisamudayā jarāmarāṇasamudayo;

Rebirth is the origin of old age and death.

jāṭinirodhā jarāmarāṇanirodho;

When rebirth ceases, old age and death cease.

ayameva ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo jarāmarāṇanirodhagāminī paṭipadā, seyyathidaṃ—

The practice that leads to the cessation of old age and death is simply this noble eightfold path, that is:

sammādiṭṭhi ...pe... sammāsamādhī.

Yato kho, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako evaṃ jarāmaṇaṃ pajānāti, evaṃ jarāmaṇasamudayaṃ pajānāti, evaṃ jarāmaṇanirodhaṃ pajānāti, evaṃ jarāmaṇanirodhagāminiṃ paṭipadaṃ pajānāti, idamassa dhamme ñāṇaṃ.

A noble disciple understands old age and death, their origin, their cessation, and the practice that leads to their cessation. This is their knowledge of the present phenomenon.

So iminā dhammena diṭṭhena viditena akālikena pattena pariyoḡaḷhena atītānāgatena yaṃ neti.

With this present phenomenon that is seen, known, immediate, attained, and fathomed, they infer to the past and future.

‘The Saṅgha of the Buddha’s disciples is practicing the way that’s good, straightforward, methodical, and proper. It consists of the four pairs, the eight individuals. This is the Saṅgha of the Buddha’s disciples that is worthy of offerings to the gods, worthy of hospitality, worthy of a religious donation, worthy of greeting with joined palms, and is the supreme field of merit for the world.’

Ariyakantehi sīlehi samannāgato hoti akhaṇḍehi acchiddehi asabalehi akammāsehi bhujissehi viññuppasatthehi aparāmaṭṭhehi samādhisaṃvattanikehi.

kismim asati jarāmaṇaṃ na hoti’ti?

Atha kho, bhikkhave, sutavato ariyasāvakaṃ aparappaccayā ñāṇamevettha hoti:

Rather, a learned noble disciple has only knowledge about this that is independent of others:

‘imasmim asati idaṃ na hoti, imassa nirodhā idaṃ nirujjhati.

‘When this doesn’t exist, that is not; due to the cessation of this, that ceases. That is:

Avijjāya asati saṅkhārā na honti;

When ignorance doesn’t exist, choices don’t come to be.

saṅkhāresu asati viññāṇaṃ na hoti;

When choices don’t exist consciousness doesn’t come to be.

viññāṇe asati nāmarūpaṃ na hoti;

When consciousness doesn’t exist name and form don’t come to be.

nāmarūpe asati saḷāyatanaṃ na hoti ...pe...

When name and form don't exist the six sense fields don't come to be. ...

jātiyā asati jarāmaraṇaṃ na hotī'ti.

When rebirth doesn't exist old age and death don't come to be.'

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand:

'evamayāṃ loko nirujjhatī'ti.

'This is the cessation of the world.'

Yato kho, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako evaṃ lokassa samudayañca atthaṅgamañca yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti, ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako diṭṭhisampanno itipi, dassanasampanno itipi, āgato imaṃ saddhammaṃ itipi, passati imaṃ saddhammaṃ itipi, sekkhena ñāṇena samannāgato itipi, sekkhāya vijjāya samannāgato itipi, dhammasotaṃ samāpanno itipi, ariyo nibbedhikapañño itipi, amatadvāraṃ āhacca tiṭṭhati itipī'ti.

A noble disciple comes to understand the world, its origin, its cessation, and the practice that leads to its cessation. Such a noble disciple is called 'one accomplished in view', 'one accomplished in vision', 'one who has come to the true teaching', 'one who sees this true teaching', 'one endowed with a trainee's knowledge', 'one who has entered the stream of the teaching', 'a noble one with penetrative wisdom', and 'one who stands pushing open the door of the deathless'."

51. Parivīmaṃsanāsutta A Full Inquiry

Evaṃ me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Kittāvatā nu kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu parivīmaṃsamāno parivīmaṃseyya sabbaso sammā dukkhakkhayāyā”ti?

“Mendicants, how do you define a mendicant who is making a full inquiry for the complete ending of suffering?”

“Bhagavaṃmūlakā no, bhante, dhammā bhagavaṃnettikā bhagavaṃpaṭisaraṇā. Sādhu vata, bhante, bhagavantamyeva paṭibhātu etassa bhāsitassa attho. Bhagavato sutvā bhikkhū dhāressantī”ti.

“Our teachings are rooted in the Buddha. He is our guide and our refuge. Sir, may the Buddha himself please clarify the meaning of this. The mendicants will listen and remember it.”

“Tena hi, bhikkhave, suṇātha, sādhukaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmi”ti.

“Well then, mendicants, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosun.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu parivīmaṃsamāno parivīmaṃsati:

“Mendicants, take a mendicant who makes a full inquiry:

‘yaṃ kho idaṃ anekavidhaṃ nānappakāraṃ dukkhaṃ loke uppajjati jarāmaṇaṃ;

‘The suffering that arises in the world starting with old age and death takes many and diverse forms.

idaṃ nu kho dukkhaṃ kiṃnidānaṃ kiṃsamudayaṃ kiṃjātikaṃ kiṃpabhavaṃ?

What is the source, origin, birthplace, and inception of this suffering?

Kismiṃ sati jarāmaṇaṃ hoti, kismiṃ asati jarāmaṇaṃ na hotī’ti?

When what exists do old age and death come to be? When what does not exist do old age and death not come to be?’

So parivīmaṃsamāno evaṃ pajānāti:

While making a full inquiry they understand:

‘yaṃ kho idaṃ anekavidhaṃ nānappakāraṃ dukkhaṃ loke uppajjati jarāmaṇaṃ, idaṃ kho dukkhaṃ jātinidānaṃ jātisamudayaṃ jātijātikaṃ jātipbhavaṃ.

‘The suffering that arises in the world starting with old age and death takes many and diverse forms. The source of this suffering is rebirth.

Jātiyā sati jarāmaṇaṃ hoti, jātiyā asati jarāmaṇaṃ na hotī’ti.

When rebirth exists, old age and death come to be. When rebirth doesn’t exist, old age and death don’t come to be.’

So jarāmaṇaṅca pajānāti, jarāmaṇasamudayaṅca pajānāti, jarāmaṇanirodhaṅca pajānāti, yā ca jarāmaṇanirodhasāruggāminī paṭipadā taṅca pajānāti, tathā paṭipanno ca hoti anudhammacārī;

They understand old age and death, their origin, their cessation, and the fitting practice for their cessation. And they practice in line with that path.

ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sabbaso sammā dukkhakkhaya paṭipanno jarāmaṇanirodhāya.

This is called a mendicant who is practicing for the complete ending of suffering, for the cessation of old age and death.

Athāparaṃ parivīmaṃsamāno parivīmaṃsati:

Then they inquire further:

‘jāti panāyaṃ kiṃnidānā kiṃsamudayā kiṃjātikā kiṃpabhavā, kismiṃ sati jāti hoti, kismiṃ asati jāti na hotī’ti?

‘But what is the source of this rebirth? When what exists does rebirth come to be? And when what does not exist does rebirth not come to be?’

So parivīmaṃsamāno evaṃ pajānāti:

While making a full inquiry they understand:

‘jāti bhavanidānā bhavasamudayā bhavajātikā bhavappabhavā;

bhave sati jāti hoti, bhave asati jāti na hotī’ti.

When continued existence exists, rebirth comes to be. When continued existence does not exist, rebirth doesn’t come to be.’

So jātiñca pajānāti, jātisamudayañca pajānāti, jātinirodhañca pajānāti, yā ca jātinirodhasāruggāminī paṭipadā tañca pajānāti, tathā paṭipanno ca hoti anudhammacārī;

They understand rebirth, its origin, its cessation, and the fitting practice for its cessation. And they practice in line with that path.

ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sabbaso sammā dukkhakkhaya paṭipanno jātinirodhāya.

This is called a mendicant who is practicing for the complete ending of suffering, for the cessation of rebirth.

Athāparaṃ parivīmaṃsamāno parivīmaṃsati:

Then they inquire further:

‘bhavo panāyaṃ kiṃnidāno ...pe...

‘But what is the source of this continued existence? ...’ ...

upādānaṃ panidaṃ kiṃnidānaṃ ...

‘But what is the source of this grasping? ...’ ...

taṇhā panāyaṃ kiṃnidānā ...

‘But what is the source of this craving? ...’ ...

vedanā ...

‘But what is the source of this feeling? ...’ ...

phasso ...

‘But what is the source of this contact? ...’ ...

saḷāyatanaṃ panidaṃ kiṃnidānaṃ ...

‘But what is the source of these six sense fields? ...’ ...

nāmarūpaṃ panidaṃ ...

‘But what is the source of this name and form? ...’ ...

viññāṇaṃ panidaṃ ...

‘But what is the source of this consciousness? ...’ ...

saṅkhārā panime kiṃnidānā kiṃsamudayā kiṃjātikā kiṃpabhavā;

‘But what is the source of these choices?’

kismiṃ sati saṅkhārā honti, kismiṃ asati saṅkhārā na hontī'ti?
When what exists do choices come to be? When what does not exist do choices not come to be?'

So parivīmaṃsamāno evaṃ pajānāti:
While making a full inquiry they understand:

'saṅkhārā avijjānidānā avijjāsamudayā avijjājātikā
avijjāpabhavā;
'Ignorance is the source of choices.

avijjāya sati saṅkhārā honti, avijjāya asati saṅkhārā na hontī'ti.
When ignorance exists, choices come to be. When ignorance does not exist, choices don't come to be.'

So saṅkhāre ca pajānāti, saṅkhārasamudayañca pajānāti, saṅkhāranirodhañca pajānāti, yā ca saṅkhāranirodhasārūppagāminī paṭipadā tañca pajānāti, tathā paṭipanno ca hoti anudhammacārī;
They understand choices, their origin, their cessation, and the fitting practice for their cessation. And they practice in line with that path.

ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sabbaso sammā dukkhakkhayāya paṭipanno saṅkhāranirodhāya.
This is called a mendicant who is practicing for the complete ending of suffering, for the cessation of choices.

Avijjāgato yaṃ, bhikkhave, purisapuggalo puññañce saṅkhāraṃ abhisāṅkharoti, puññūpagaṃ hoti viññāṇaṃ.
If an ignorant individual makes a good choice, their consciousness enters a good realm.

Apuññañce saṅkhāraṃ abhisāṅkharoti, apuññūpagaṃ hoti
viññāṇaṃ.
If they make a bad choice, their consciousness enters a bad realm.

Āneñjañce saṅkhāraṃ abhisāṅkharoti āneñjūpagaṃ hoti
viññāṇaṃ.

If they make an imperturbable choice, their consciousness enters an imperturbable realm.

Yato kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno avijjā pahīnā hoti vijjā uppannā, so avijjāvirāgā vijjuppādā neva puññābhisañkhāraṃ abhisañkharoti na apuññābhisañkhāraṃ abhisañkharoti na āneñjābhisañkhāraṃ abhisañkharoti.

When a mendicant has given up ignorance and given rise to knowledge, they don't make a good choice, a bad choice, or an imperturbable choice.

Anabhisañkharonto anabhisañcetayanto na kiñci loke upādiyati;

Not choosing or intending, they don't grasp at anything in the world.

anupādiyaṃ na paritassati, aparitassaṃ paccattaññeva parinibbāyati.

Not grasping, they're not anxious. Not being anxious, they personally become extinguished.

'Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā'ti pajānāti.

They understand: 'Rebirth is ended, the spiritual journey has been completed, what had to be done has been done, there is no return to any state of existence.'

So sukhañce vedanaṃ vedayati, sā aniccāti pajānāti, anajjhositāti pajānāti, anabhinanditāti pajānāti.

If they feel a pleasant feeling, they understand that it's impermanent, that they're not attached to it, and that they don't take pleasure in it.

Dukkhañce vedanaṃ vedayati, sā aniccāti pajānāti, anajjhositāti pajānāti, anabhinanditāti pajānāti.

If they feel a painful feeling, they understand that it's impermanent, that they're not attached to it, and that they don't take pleasure in it.

Adukkhamasukhañce vedanaṃ vedayati, sā aniccāti pajānāti, anajjhositāti pajānāti, anabhinanditāti pajānāti.

If they feel a neutral feeling, they understand that it's impermanent, that they're not attached to it, and that they don't take pleasure in it.

So sukhañce vedanaṃ vedayati, visaṃyutto naṃ vedayati.

If they feel a pleasant feeling, they feel it detached.

Dukkhañce vedanaṃ vedayati, visaṃyutto naṃ vedayati.

If they feel a painful feeling, they feel it detached.

Adukkhamasukhañce vedanaṃ vedayati, visaṃyutto naṃ vedayati.

If they feel a neutral feeling, they feel it detached.

So kāyapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayamāno kāyapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayāmīti pajānāti, jīvitapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayamāno jīvitapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayāmīti pajānāti.

Feeling the end of the body approaching, they understand: 'I feel the end of the body approaching.' Feeling the end of life approaching, they understand: 'I feel the end of life approaching.'

Kāyassa bhedaṃ uddhaṃ jīvitapariyādānā idheva sabbavedayitāni anabhinanditāni sītībhavissanti, sarīrāni avasissantīti pajānāti.

They understand: 'When my body breaks up and my life has come to an end, everything that's felt, since I no longer take pleasure in it, will become cool right here. Only bodily remains will be left.'

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, puriso kumbhakārapākā uṇhaṃ kumbhaṃ uddharitvā same bhūmibhāge paṭisisseyya.

Suppose a person were to remove a hot clay pot from a potter's kiln and place it down on level ground.

Tatra yāyaṃ usmā sā tattheva vūpasameyya, kapallāni avasisseyyuṃ.

Its heat would dissipate right there, and the shards would be left behind.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu kāyapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayamāno kāyapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayāmīti pajānāti, jīvitapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayamāno jīvitapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayāmīti pajānāti.

In the same way, feeling the end of the body approaching, they understand: ‘I feel the end of the body approaching.’ Feeling the end of life approaching, they understand: ‘I feel the end of life approaching.’

Kāyassa bhedaṃ uddhaṃ jīvitapariyādānā idheva sabbavedayitāni anabhinanditāni sītībhavissanti, sarīrāni avasissantīti pajānāti.

They understand: ‘When my body breaks up and my life has come to an end, everything that’s felt, since I no longer take pleasure in it, will become cool right here. Only bodily remains will be left.’

Taṃ kiṃ maññatha, bhikkhave,

“Sādhu sādhu, bhikkhave, evamevaṃ, bhikkhave, netvaṃ aññathā.

“Good, good, mendicants! That’s how it is, not otherwise.

Saddahatha me vaṃ, bhikkhave, adhimuccatha, nikkāṅkhā ettha hotha nibbīkicchā.

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā kurūsu viharati kammāsadhammaṃ

61. Assutavāsutta Uneducated

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme ...

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery. ...

“assutavā, bhikkhave, puthujjano imasmim cātumahābhūtikasmim kāyasmim nibbindeyyapi virajjeyyapi vimucceyyapi.

“Mendicants, when it comes to this body made up of the four primary elements, an uneducated ordinary person might become disillusioned, dispassionate, and freed.

Tam kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Dissati, bhikkhave, imassa cātumahābhūtikassa kāyassa
ācayopi apacayopi ādānampi nikkhepanampi.

This body made up of the four primary elements is seen to accumulate and disperse, to be taken up and laid to rest.

Tasmā tatrāssutavā puthujjano nibbindeyyapi virajjeyyapi
vimucceyyapi.

That's why, when it comes to this body, an uneducated ordinary person might become disillusioned, dispassionate, and freed.

Yañca kho etaṃ, bhikkhave, vuccati cittaṃ itipi, mano itipi, viññāṇaṃ itipi, tatrāssutavā puthujjano nālaṃ nibbindituṃ nālaṃ virajjituṃ nālaṃ vimuccituṃ.

But when it comes to that which is called ‘mind’ or ‘sentience’ or ‘consciousness’, an uneducated ordinary person is unable to become disillusioned, dispassionate, or freed.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Dīgharattañhetuṃ, bhikkhave, assutavato puthujjanassa ajjhositaṃ mamāyitaṃ parāmaṭṭhaṃ:

Because for a long time they’ve been attached to it, thought of it as their own, and mistaken it:

‘etaṃ mama, esohamasmi, eso me attā’ti.

‘This is mine, I am this, this is my self.’

Tasmā tatrāssutavā puthujjano nālaṃ nibbindituṃ nālaṃ virajjituṃ nālaṃ vimuccituṃ.

That’s why, when it comes to this mind, an uneducated ordinary person is unable to become disillusioned, dispassionate, and freed.

Varaṃ, bhikkhave, assutavā puthujjano imaṃ cātumahābhūtikaṃ kāyaṃ attato upagaccheyya, na tveva cittaṃ.

But an uneducated ordinary person would be better off taking this body made up of the four primary elements to be their self, rather than the mind.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

This body made up of the four primary elements is seen to last for a year, or for two, three, four, five, ten, twenty, thirty, forty, fifty, or a hundred years, or even longer.

Yañca kho etaṃ, bhikkhave, vuccati cittaṃ itipi, mano itipi, evameva kho, bhikkhave, yamidaṃ vuccati cittaṃ itipi, mano

62. Dutiyaassutavāsutta Uneducated (2nd)

Sāvattthiyaṃ viharati.
At Sāvattthī.

“Assutavā, bhikkhave, puthujjano imasmiṃ

“Mendicants, when it comes to this body made up of the four primary elements, an uneducated ordinary person might become disillusioned, dispassionate, and freed.

Taṃ kissa hetu?
Why is that?

Dissati, bhikkhave, imassa cātumahābhūtikassa kāyassa

This body made up of the four primary elements is seen to accumulate and disperse, to be taken up and laid to rest.

Tasmā tatrāssutavā puthujjano nibbindeyyapi virajjeyyapi

That’s why, when it comes to this body, an uneducated ordinary person might become disillusioned, dispassionate, and freed.

But when it comes to that which is called ‘mind’ or ‘sentience’ or ‘consciousness’, an uneducated ordinary person is unable to become disillusioned, dispassionate, or freed.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Dīgharattañhetam, bhikkhave, assutavato puthujjanassa ajjhositam mamāyitam parāmaṭṭham:

Because for a long time they've been attached to it, thought of it as their own, and mistaken it:

'etaṃ mama, esohamasmi, eso me attā'ti.

'This is mine, I am this, this is my self.'

Tasmā tatrāssutavā puthujjano nālam nibbinditum nālam virajjitum nālam vimuccitum.

That's why, when it comes to this mind, an uneducated ordinary person is unable to become disillusioned, dispassionate, and freed.

Varam, bhikkhave, assutavā puthujjano imam

But an uneducated ordinary person would be better off taking this body made up of the four primary elements to be their self, rather than the mind.

63. Puttamaṃsasutta A Child's Flesh

Sāvattiyam ...
At Sāvattihī.

“cattārome, bhikkhave, āhārā bhūtānaṃ vā sattānaṃ t̥hitiyā sambhavesīnaṃ vā anuggahāya.

“Mendicants, there are these four fuels. They maintain sentient beings that have been born and help those that are about to be born.

Katame cattāro?

What four?

Kabaḷīkāro āhāro oḷāriko vā sukhumo vā, phasso dutiyo, manosañcetanā tatiyā, viññānaṃ catuttham.

Solid food, whether coarse or fine; contact is the second, mental intention the third, and consciousness the fourth.

Ime kho, bhikkhave, cattāro āhārā bhūtānaṃ vā sattānaṃ t̥hitiyā sambhavesīnaṃ vā anuggahāya.

These are the four fuels that maintain sentient beings that have been born and help those that are about to be born.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, kabaḷīkāro āhāro daṭṭhabbo?

And how should you regard solid food?

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, dve jāyampatikā parittaṃ sambalaṃ ādāya kantāramaggaṃ paṭipajjeyyuraṃ.

Suppose a couple who were husband and wife set out to cross a desert, taking limited supplies.

Tesamassa ekaputtako piyo manāpo.

They had an only child, dear and beloved.

Atha kho tesam, bhikkhave, dvinnam jāyampatikānam kantāragatānam yā parittā sambalamattā, sā parikkhayam pariyādānam gaccheyya.

As the couple were crossing the desert their limited quantity of supplies would run out,

Siyā ca nesam kantārāveseso anatiṇṇo.

and they'd still have the rest of the desert to cross.

Atha kho tesam, bhikkhave, dvinnam jāyampatikānam evamassa:

Then it would occur to that couple:

'amhākam kho yā parittā sambalamattā sā parikkhīṇā pariyādiṇṇā.

'Our limited quantity of supplies has run out,

Atthi cāyam kantārāveseso anittiṇṇo.

and we still have the rest of the desert to cross.

Yannūna mayam imam ekaputtakam piyam manāpam vadhitvā vallūraṅca soṇḍikaṅca karitvā puttamaṃsāni khādantā evam tam kantārāvesesam nitthareyyāma, mā sabbeva tayo vinassimhā'ti.

Why don't we kill our only child, so dear and beloved, and prepare dried and spiced meat? Then we can make it across the desert by eating our child's flesh. Let not all three perish.'

Atha kho te, bhikkhave, dve jāyampatikā tam ekaputtakam piyam manāpam vadhitvā vallūraṅca soṇḍikaṅca karitvā puttamaṃsāni khādantā evam tam kantārāvesesam nitthareyyum.

Then that couple would kill their only child, so dear and beloved, and prepare dried and spiced meat. They'd make it across the desert by eating their child's flesh.

Te puttamaṃsāni ceva khādeyyum, ure ca paṭipiseyyum:

And as they'd eat their child's flesh, they'd beat their breasts and cry:

‘kahaṃ, ekaputtaka, kahaṃ, ekaputtakā’ti.

‘Where are you, our only child? Where are you, our only child?’

Taṃ kiṃ maññatha, bhikkhave,

What do you think, mendicants?

api nu te davāya vā āhāraṃ āhāreyyuṃ, madāya vā āhāraṃ āhāreyyuṃ, maṇḍanāya vā āhāraṃ āhāreyyuṃ, vibhūsanāya vā

Would they eat that food for fun, indulgence, adornment, or decoration?”

“No hetam, bhante”.

“No, sir.”

“Nanu te, bhikkhave, yāvadeva kantārassa nittharaṇatthāya āhāraṃ āhāreyyun”ti?

“Wouldn’t they eat that food just so they could make it across the desert?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Evameva khvāhaṃ, bhikkhave, kabaḷikāro āhāro datṭhabbo’ti vadāmi.

“I say that this is how you should regard solid food.

Kabaḷikāre, bhikkhave, āhāre pariññāte pañca kāmaguṇiko rāgo pariññāto hoti.

When solid food is completely understood, desire for the five kinds of sensual stimulation is completely understood.

Pañca kāmaguṇike rāge pariññāte natthi taṃ saṃyojanaṃ yena saṃyojanena saṃyutto ariyasāvako puna imaṃ lokaṃ āgaccheyya.

When desire for the five kinds of sensual stimulation is completely understood, a noble disciple is bound by no fetter that might return them again to this world.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, phassāhāro daṭṭhabbo?

And how should you regard contact as fuel?

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, gāvī nīccammā kuṭṭaṅce nissāya tiṭṭheyya. Ye kuṭṭanissitā paṇā te naṃ khādeyyum.

Suppose there was a flayed cow. If she stands by a wall, the creatures on the wall bite her.

Rukkhañce nissāya tiṭṭheyya, ye rukkhanissitā paṇā te naṃ khādeyyum.

If she stands under a tree, the creatures in the tree bite her.

Udakañce nissāya tiṭṭheyya, ye udakanissitā paṇā te naṃ khādeyyum.

If she stands in some water, the creatures in the water bite her.

Ākāsañce nissāya tiṭṭheyya, ye ākāsanissitā paṇā te naṃ khādeyyum.

If she stands in the open, the creatures in the open bite her.

Yaṃ yadeva hi sā, bhikkhave, gāvī nīccammā nissāya tiṭṭheyya, ye tannissitā paṇā te naṃ khādeyyum.

Wherever that flayed cow stands, the creatures there would bite her.

Evameva khvāhaṃ, bhikkhave, ‘phassāhāro daṭṭhabbo’ti vadāmi.

I say that this is how you should regard contact as fuel.

Phasse, bhikkhave, āhāre pariññāte tisso vedanā pariññātā honti.

When contact as fuel is completely understood, the three feelings are completely understood.

Tīsu vedanāsu pariññātāsu ariyasāvakassa natthi kiñci uttarikaraṇīyanti vadāmi.

When the three feelings are completely understood, a noble disciple has nothing further to do, I say.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, manosañcetanāhāro daṭṭhabbo?

And how should you regard mental intention as fuel?

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, aṅgārakāsu sādhipaporisā puṇṇā aṅgārānaṃ vītaccikānaṃ vītadhūmaṃ.

Suppose there was a pit of glowing coals deeper than a man's height, filled with glowing coals that neither flamed nor smoked.

Atha puriso āgaccheyya jīvitukāmo amaritukāmo sukhakāmo dukkhappaṭikūlo.

Then a person would come along who wants to live and doesn't want to die, who wants to be happy and recoils from pain.

Tameṇaṃ dve balavanto purisā nānābhāsu gahetvā taṃ aṅgārakāsuṃ upakaḍḍheyyuṃ.

Then two strong men would grab them by the arms and drag them towards the pit of glowing coals.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, tassa purisassa ārakāvassa cetanā ārakā patthanā ārakā paṇidhi.

Then that person's intention, aim, and wish would be to get far away.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Evañhi, bhikkhave, tassa purisassa hoti:

Because that person would think:

‘imañcāhaṃ aṅgārakāsuṃ papatissāmi, tatonidānaṃ maraṇaṃ vā nigacchāmi maraṇamattaṃ vā dukkhaṃ’ti.

‘If I fall in that pit of glowing coals, that will result in my death or deadly pain.’

Evameva khvāhaṃ, bhikkhave, ‘manosañcetanāhāro daṭṭhabbo’ti vadāmi.

I say that this is how you should regard mental intention as fuel.

Manosañcetanāya, bhikkhave, āhāre pariññāte tisso taṇhā pariññātā honti.

When mental intention as fuel is completely understood, the three cravings are completely understood.

Tīsu taṇhāsu pariññātāsu ariyasāvakaṃ natthi kiñci uttarikaraṇīyanti vadāmi.

When the three cravings are completely understood, a noble disciple has nothing further to do, I say.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, viññāṇāhāro daṭṭhabbo?

And how should you regard consciousness as fuel?

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, coraṃ āgucāriṃ gahetvā rañño dasseyyumaṃ:

Suppose they were to arrest a bandit, a criminal and present him to the king, saying:

‘ayaṃ te, deva, cora āgucārī, imassa yaṃ icchasi taṃ daḍḍaṃ paṇehī’ti.

‘Your Majesty, this is a bandit, a criminal. Punish him as you will.’

Tameṃ rājā evaṃ vadeyya:

The king would say:

‘gacchatha, bho, imaṃ purisaṃ pubbaṇhasamayaṃ sattisatena hanathā’ti.

‘Go, my men, and strike this man in the morning with a hundred spears!’

Tameṃ pubbaṇhasamayaṃ sattisatena haneyyumaṃ.

The king’s men did as they were told.

Atha rājā majjhanhikasamayaṃ evaṃ vadeyya:

Then at midday the king would say:

‘ambho, kathaṃ so puriso’ti?

‘My men, how is that man?’

‘Tatheva, deva, jīvatī’ti.

‘He’s still alive, Your Majesty.’

Tamenam rājā evam vadeyya:

The king would say:

‘gacchatha, bho, tam purisam majjhanhikasamayam sattisatena hanathā’ti.

‘Go, my men, and strike this man in the middle of the day with a hundred spears!’

Tamenam majjhanhikasamayam sattisatena haneyyum.

The king’s men did as they were told.

Atha rājā sāyanhasamayam evam vadeyya:

Then late in the afternoon the king would say:

‘ambho, katham so puriso’ti?

‘My men, how is that man?’

‘Tatheva, deva, jīvatī’ti.

‘He’s still alive, Your Majesty.’

Tamenam rājā evam vadeyya:

The king would say:

‘gacchatha, bho, tam purisam sāyanhasamayam sattisatena hanathā’ti.

‘Go, my men, and strike this man in the late afternoon with a hundred spears!’

Tamenam sāyanhasamayam sattisatena haneyyum.

The king’s men did as they were told.

Tam kim maññatha, bhikkhave,

What do you think, mendicants?

api nu so puriso divasam tīhi sattisatehi haññamāno tatonidānam dukkham domanassam paṭisamvediyethā”ti?

Would that man experience pain and distress from being struck with three hundred spears a day?”

“Ekissāpi, bhante, sattiyā haññamāno tatonidānaṃ dukkhaṃ domanassaṃ paṭisaṃvediyetha;

“Sir, that man would experience pain and distress from being struck with one spear,

ko pana vādo tīhi sattisatehi haññamāno”ti.

let alone three hundred spears!”

“Evameva khvāhaṃ, bhikkhave, viññāṇāhāro daṭṭhabboti
vadāmi.

“I say that this is how you should regard consciousness as fuel.

Viññāṇe, bhikkhave, āhāre pariññāte nāmarūpaṃ pariññātaṃ hoti, nāmarūpe pariññāte ariyasāvakassa natthi kiñci uttarikaṇṭiyanti vadāmī”ti.

When consciousness as fuel is completely understood, name and form is completely understood. When name and form are completely understood, a noble disciple has nothing further to do, I say.”

Sāvattthiyaṃ viharati.
At Sāvattthī.

“Pubbe me, bhikkhave, sambodhā anabhisambuddhassa

“Mendicants, before my awakening—when I was still unawakened
but intent on awakening—I thought:

‘kicchā vatāyaṃ loko āpanno jāyati ca jīyati ca mīyati ca cavati

‘Alas, this world has fallen into trouble. It’s born, grows old, dies, passes away, and is reborn,

Oh, when will an escape be found from this suffering, from old age and death?’

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhikkhave, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me:

‘kimhi nu kho sati jarāmaṇaṃ hoti, kiṃpaccayā

‘When what exists is there old age and death? What is a condition for old age and death?’

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, puriso araññe pavane caramāno passeyya purāṇaṃ maggaṃ purāṇañjasaṃ pubbakehi manussehi anuyātaṃ.

66. Sammasasutta Self-examination

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṃ kurūsu viharati kammāsadhammam
nāma kurūnam nigamo.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Kurus, near the Kuru town named Kammāsadamma.

Tatra kho bhagavaṃ bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavaṃ etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“sammasatha no tumhe, bhikkhave, antaram sammasan”ti.

“Mendicants, do you perform inner self-examination?”

Evam vutte, aññataro bhikkhu bhagavantam etadavoca:

When he said this, one of the mendicants said to the Buddha, “aham kho, bhante, sammasāmi antaram sammasan”ti.

“Sir, I perform inner self-examination.”

“Yathā kathaṃ pana tvaṃ, bhikkhu, sammasasi antaraṃ sammasan”ti?

“But mendicant, how do you perform inner self-examination?”

Atha kho so bhikkhu byākāsi.

Then that mendicant answered,

Yathā so bhikkhu byākāsi na so bhikkhu bhagavato cittaṃ ārādhesi.

but the Buddha was not happy with the answer.

Evaṃ vutte, āyasmā ānando bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he had spoken, Venerable Ānanda said to the Buddha, “etassa, bhagavā, kālo; etassa, sugata, kālo;

“Now is the time, Blessed One! Now is the time, Holy One!

yaṃ bhagavā antaraṃ sammasaṃ bhāseyya. Bhagavato sutvā bhikkhū dhāressantī”ti.

Let the Buddha speak of the inner self-examination. The mendicants will listen and remember it.”

“Tenahānanda, suṇātha, sādhukaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmī”ti.

“Well then, Ānanda, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sammasamāno sammasati antaraṃ sammasaṃ:

“Take a mendicant who performs inner self-examination:

‘yaṃ kho idaṃ anekavidhaṃ nānappakāraṃ dukkhaṃ loke uppajjati jarāmaṇaṃ.

‘The suffering that arises in the world starting with old age and death takes many and diverse forms.

Idaṃ kho dukkhaṃ kiṃnidānaṃ kiṃsamudayaṃ kiṃjātikaṃ kiṃpabhavaṃ, kismiṃ sati jarāmaṇaṃ hoti, kismiṃ asati jarāmaṇaṃ na hotī’ti?

But what is the source of this suffering? When what exists do old age and death come to be? And when what does not exist do old age and death not come to be?’

So sammasaṃāno evaṃ jānāti:

While examining they know:

‘yaṃ kho idaṃ anekavidhaṃ nānappaḥāraṃ dukkhaṃ loke uppajjati jarāmaṇaṃ.

‘The suffering that arises in the world starting with old age and death takes many and diverse forms.

Idaṃ kho dukkhaṃ upadhinidānaṃ upadhisamudayaṃ upadhijātikaṃ upadhipabhavaṃ, upadhisimiṃ sati jarāmaṇaṃ hoti, upadhisimiṃ asati jarāmaṇaṃ na hotī’ti.

The source of this suffering is attachment. When attachments exist old age and death come to be. And when attachments do not exist old age and death don’t come to be.’

So jarāmaṇaṇca pajānāti jarāmaṇasamudayaṇca pajānāti jarāmaṇanirodhaṇca pajānāti yā ca jarāmaṇanirodhasārappagāminī paṭipadā taṇca pajānāti.

They understand old age and death, their origin, their cessation, and the fitting practice for their cessation.

Tathāpaṭipanno ca hoti anudhammacārī.

And they practice in line with that path.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sabbaso sammā dukkhakkhaya paṭipanno jarāmaṇanirodhāya.

This is called a mendicant who is practicing for the complete ending of suffering, for the cessation of old age and death.

Athāparam sammasamāno sammasati antaram sammasam:

They perform further inner self-examination:

‘upadhi panāyam kimnidāno kimsamudayo kimjātiko kimpabhavo, kismiṃ sati upadhi hoti, kismiṃ asati upadhi na hotī’ti?

‘But what is the source of this attachment? When what exists does attachment come to be? And when what does not exist does attachment not come to be?’

So sammasamāno evaṃ jānāti:

While examining they know:

‘upadhi taṇhānidāno taṇhāsamudayo taṇhājātiko taṇhāpabhavo, taṇhāya sati upadhi hoti, taṇhāya asati upadhi na hotī’ti.

‘The source of this attachment is craving. When craving exists attachments come to be. And when craving doesn’t exist attachments don’t come to be.’

So upadhiñca pajānāti upadhisamudayañca pajānāti upadhinirodhañca pajānāti yā ca upadhinirodhasāruggāminī paṭipadā tañca pajānāti.

They understand attachments, their origin, their cessation, and the fitting practice for their cessation.

Tathāpaṭipanno ca hoti anudhammacārī.

And they practice in line with that path.

Ayam vuccati, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sabbaso sammā dukkhakkhayāya paṭipanno upadhinirodhāya.

This is called a mendicant who is practicing for the complete ending of suffering, for the cessation of attachments.

Athāparam sammasamāno sammasati antaram sammasam:

They perform further inner self-examination:

‘taṇhā panāyam kattha uppajjamānā uppajjati, kattha nivisamānā nivisatī’ti?

‘But where does that craving arise and where does it settle?’

So sammāsamāno evaṃ jānāti—

While examining they know:

yaṃ kho loke piyarūpaṃ sātārūpaṃ etthesā taṇhā uppajjamānā uppajjati, ettha nivisaṃmānā nivasati.

‘That craving arises and settles on whatever in the world seems nice and pleasant.

Kiñca loke piyarūpaṃ sātārūpaṃ?

And what in the world seems nice and pleasant?

Cakkhuṃ loke piyarūpaṃ, sātārūpaṃ, etthesā taṇhā uppajjamānā uppajjati, ettha nivisaṃmānā nivasati.

The eye in the world seems nice and pleasant, and it is there that craving arises and settles.

Sotaṃ loke piyarūpaṃ sātārūpaṃ ...pe...

The ear ...

ghānaṃ loke piyarūpaṃ sātārūpaṃ ...

jivhā loke piyarūpaṃ sātārūpaṃ ...

tongue ...

kāyo loke piyarūpaṃ sātārūpaṃ ...

body ...

mano loke piyarūpaṃ sātārūpaṃ, etthesā taṇhā uppajjamānā uppajjati ettha nivisaṃmānā nivasati.

mind in the world seems nice and pleasant, and it is there that craving arises and settles.’

Ye hi keci, bhikkhave, atītamaddhānaṃ samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā yaṃ loke piyarūpaṃ sātārūpaṃ taṃ niccato addakkhuṃ sukhato addakkhuṃ attato addakkhuṃ ārogyato addakkhuṃ khemato addakkhuṃ.

There were ascetics and brahmins of the past who saw the things that seem nice and pleasant in the world as permanent, as pleasurable, as self, as healthy, and as safe.

Te taṇhaṃ vaḍḍhesuṃ.

Their craving grew.

Ye taṇhaṃ vaḍḍhesuṃ te upadhiṃ vaḍḍhesuṃ.

As their craving grew, their attachments grew.

Ye upadhiṃ vaḍḍhesuṃ te dukkhaṃ vaḍḍhesuṃ.

As their attachments grew, their suffering grew.

Ye dukkhaṃ vaḍḍhesuṃ te na parimuccim̐su jātiyā jarāya maraṇena sokehi paridevehi dukkhehi domanassehi upāyāsehi, na parimuccim̐su dukkhasmāti vadāmi.

And as their suffering grew, they were not freed from rebirth, old age, and death, from sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress. They were not freed from suffering, I say.

Yepi hi keci, bhikkhave, anāgatamaddhānaṃ samaṇā vā brāhmaṇā vā yaṃ loke piyarūpaṃ sātārūpaṃ taṃ niccato dakkhissanti sukhato dakkhissanti attato dakkhissanti ārogyato dakkhissanti khemato dakkhissanti.

There will be ascetics and brahmins in the future who will see the things that seem nice and pleasant in the world as permanent, as pleasurable, as self, as healthy, and as safe.

Te taṇhaṃ vaḍḍhissanti.

Their craving will grow.

At one time Venerable Sārīputta and Venerable Mahākoṭṭhita were staying near Benares, in the deer park at Isipatana.

Atha kho āyasmā mahākoṭṭhiko sāyanhasamayaṃ paṭisallānā

In the same way, when ignorance surges it makes choices surge. When choices surge they make consciousness surge. When consciousness surges it makes name and form surge. When name and form surge they make the six sense fields surge. When the six sense fields surge they make contact surge. When contact surges it makes feeling surge. When feeling surges it makes craving surge. When craving surges it makes grasping surge. When grasping surges it makes continued existence surge. When continued existence surges it makes rebirth surge. When rebirth surges it makes old age and death surge.

70. Susimaparibbājakasutta The Wanderer Susīma

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati veḷuvane
kalandakanivāpe.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tena kho pana samayena bhagavā sakkato hoti garukato mānito pūjito apacito lābhī cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhārāna
ṃ.

Now at that time the Buddha was honored, respected, revered, venerated, and esteemed. And he received robes, alms-food, lodgings, and medicines and supplies for the sick.

Bhikkhusaṅghopi sakkato hoti garukato mānito pūjito apacito lābhī cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhārāna
ṃ.

And the mendicant Saṅgha was also honored, respected, revered, venerated, and esteemed. And they received robes, alms-food, lodgings, and medicines and supplies for the sick.

Aññatitthiyā pana paribbājakā asakkatā honti agarukatā amānitā apūjitā anapacitā, na lābhino cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhārāna
ṃ.

But the wanderers who followed other paths were not honored, respected, esteemed, revered, and venerated. And they didn't receive robes, alms-food, lodgings, and medicines and supplies for the sick.

Tena kho pana samayena susimo paribbājako rājagahe paṭivasati mahatiyā paribbājakaparisāya saddhiṃ.

Now at that time the wanderer Susīma was residing at Rājagaha together with a large community of wanderers.

Atha kho susimassa paribbājakassa parisā susimaṃ paribbājakaṃ etadvocum:

Then his community said to Susīma,

“ehi tvaṃ, āvuso susima, samaṇe gotame brahmacariyaṃ cara.
“Reverend Susīma, please live the spiritual life with the ascetic Gotama.

Tvaṃ dhammaṃ pariyāpuṇitvā amhe vāceyyāsi.

Memorize that teaching and have us recite it with you.

Taṃ mayaṃ dhammaṃ pariyāpuṇitvā gihīnaṃ bhāsissāma.

When we've memorized it we'll recite it to the laity.

Evaṃ mayampi sakkatā bhavissāma garukatā mānitā pūjitā apacitā lābhino cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhārānan

”ti.

In this way we too will be honored, respected, esteemed, revered, and venerated. And we'll receive robes, alms-food, lodgings, and medicines and supplies for the sick.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho susimo paribbājako sakāya parisāya paṭissuṇitvā yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamitvā āyasmatā ānandena saddhiṃ sammodi.

“Yes, reverends,” replied Susīma. Then he went to Venerable Ānanda, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodaniyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇiyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho susimo paribbājako āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to Ānanda,

“icchāmahaṃ, āvuso ānanda, imasmiṃ dhammavinaye
brahmacariyaṃ caritun”ti.

“Reverend Ānanda, I wish to live the spiritual life in this teaching and training.”

Atha kho āyasmā ānando susimaṃ paribbājakaṃ ādāya yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkama; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā ānando bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

Then Ānanda took Susīma to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him, “ayaṃ, bhante, susimo paribbājako evamaḥa:

“Sir, this wanderer Susīma says that

‘icchāmahaṃ, āvuso ānanda, imasmiṃ dhammavinaye
brahmacariyaṃ caritun’”ti.

he wishes to live the spiritual life in this teaching and training.”

“Tenahānanda, susimaṃ pabbājethā”ti.

“Well then, Ānanda, give Susīma the going forth.”

Alattha kho susimo paribbājako bhagavato santike pabbajjaṃ, alattha upasampadaṃ.

And the wanderer Susīma received the going forth, the ordination in the Buddha’s presence.

Tena kho pana samayena sambahulehi bhikkhūhi bhagavato santike aññā byākatā hoti:

Now at that time several mendicants had declared their enlightenment in the Buddha’s presence:

“khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyāti pajānāmā”ti.

“We understand: ‘Rebirth is ended, the spiritual journey has been completed, what had to be done has been done, there is no return to any state of existence.’”

Assosi kho āyasmā susimo:

Venerable Susīma heard about this.

“sambahulehi kira bhikkhūhi bhagavato santike aññā byākatā:

‘khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā’ti pajānāmā’ti.

Atha kho āyasmā susimo yena te bhikkhū tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamitvā tehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ sammodi.

He went up to those mendicants, and exchanged greetings with them.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā susimo te bhikkhū etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to those mendicants, “saccaṃ kirāyasmantehi bhagavato santike aññā byākatā:

“Is it really true that the venerables have declared enlightenment in the Buddha’s presence?”

‘khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā’ti pajānāmā’ti?

“Evamāvuso”ti.

1. Nakhasikhāsutta A Fingernail

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvattiyam viharati jetavane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Atha kho bhagavā parittam nakhasikhāyaṃ paṃsum āropetvā

Then the Buddha, picking up a little bit of dirt under his fingernail, addressed the mendicants:

“Tam kiṃ maññatha, bhikkhave,
“What do you think, mendicants?

katamaṃ nu kho bahutaram, yo vāyaṃ mayā paritto dimension of infinite space, the element of the dimension of infinite consciousness, the element of the dimension of nothingness, the element of the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception, and the element of the cessation of perception and feeling.

imā kho, bhikkhave, satta dhātuyo”ti.
These are the seven elements.”

Evaṃ vutte, aññataro bhikkhu bhagavantam etadavoca:
When he said this, one of the mendicants asked the Buddha,

“yā cāyaṃ, bhante, ābhādhātu yā ca subhadhātu yā ca ākāsānañcāyatanadhātu yā ca viññāṇañcāyatanadhātu yā ca ākiñcaññāyatanadhātu yā ca nevasaññānāsaññāyatanadhātu yā ca saññāvedayitanirodhadhātu—imā nu kho, bhante, dhātuyo kiṃ paṭicca paññāyanti”ti?

“Sir, due to what does each of these elements appear?”

“Yāyaṃ, bhikkhu, ābhādhātu—ayaṃ dhātu andhakāraṃ paṭicca paññāyati.

“Mendicant, the element of light appears due to the element of darkness.

Yāyaṃ, bhikkhu, subhadhātu—ayaṃ dhātu asubhaṃ paṭicca paññāyati.

The element of beauty appears due to the element of ugliness.

Yāyaṃ, bhikkhu, ākāsañcāyatanadhātu—ayaṃ dhātu rūpaṃ paṭicca paññāyati.

The element of the dimension of infinite space appears due to the element of form.

Yāyaṃ, bhikkhu, viññāṇañcāyatanadhātu—ayaṃ dhātu ākāsañcāyatanam paṭicca paññāyati.

The element of the dimension of infinite consciousness appears due to the element of the dimension of infinite space.

Yāyaṃ, bhikkhu, ākiñcaññāyatanadhātu—ayaṃ dhātu viññāṇañcāyatanam paṭicca paññāyati.

The element of the dimension of nothingness appears due to the element of the dimension of infinite consciousness.

Yāyaṃ, bhikkhu, nevasaññānāsaññāyatanadhātu—ayaṃ dhātu ākiñcaññāyatanam paṭicca paññāyati.

The element of the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception appears due to the element of the dimension of nothingness.

Yāyaṃ, bhikkhu, saññāvedayitanirodhadhātu—ayaṃ dhātu nirodham paṭicca paññāyatī”ti.

The element of the cessation of perception and feeling appears due to the element of cessation.”

“Yā cāyaṃ, bhante, ābhādhātu yā ca subhadhātu yā ca ākāsañcāyatanadhātu yā ca viññāṇañcāyatanadhātu yā ca ākiñcaññāyatanadhātu yā ca nevasaññānāsaññāyatanadhātu yā ca saññāvedayitanirodhadhātu—imā nu kho, bhante, dhātuyo kathaṃ samāpatti pattaḃā”ti?

“Sir, how is each of these elements to be attained?”

“Yā cāyaṃ, bhikkhu, ābhādhātu yā ca subhadhātu yā ca ākāsānañcāyatanadhātu yā ca viññāṇañcāyatanadhātu yā ca ākiñcaññāyatanadhātu—imā dhātuyo saññāsamāpatti pattaḃā.

“The elements of light, beauty, the dimension of infinite space, the dimension of infinite consciousness, and the dimension of nothingness are attainments with perception.

Yāyaṃ, bhikkhu, nevasaññānāsaññāyatanadhātu—ayaṃ dhātu saṅkhārāvasesasamāpatti pattaḃā.

The element of the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception is an attainment with only a residue of conditioned phenomena.

Yāyaṃ, bhikkhu, saññāvedayitanirodhadhātu—ayaṃ dhātu nirodhasamāpatti pattaḃā”ti.

The element of the cessation of perception and feeling is an attainment of cessation.”

12. Sanidānasutta With a Cause

Sāvattthiyaṃ viharati.
At Sāvattthī.

“Sanidānaṃ, bhikkhave, uppajjati kāmavitakko, no anidānaṃ;
sanidānaṃ uppajjati byāpādavitakko, no anidānaṃ; sanidānaṃ uppajjati vihiṃsāvitakko, no anidānaṃ.

“Mendicants, sensual, malicious, and cruel thoughts arise for a reason, not without reason.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, sanidānaṃ uppajjati kāmavitakko, no anidānaṃ; sanidānaṃ uppajjati byāpādavitakko, no anidānaṃ; sanidānaṃ uppajjati vihiṃsāvitakko, no anidānaṃ?

And how do sensual, malicious, and cruel thoughts arise for a reason, not without reason?

Kāmadhātuṃ, bhikkhave, paṭicca uppajjati kāmasaññā, kāmasaññaṃ paṭicca uppajjati kāmasaṅkappo, kāmasaṅkappaṃ paṭicca uppajjati kāmacchando, kāmacchandaṃ paṭicca uppajjati kāmapariḷāho, kāmapariḷāhaṃ paṭicca uppajjati kāmapariyesanā.

The element of sensuality gives rise to sensual perceptions. Sensual perceptions give rise to sensual thoughts. Sensual thoughts give rise to sensual desires. Sensual desires give rise to sensual passions. Sensual passions give rise to searches for sensual pleasures.

Kāmapariyesanaṃ, bhikkhave, pariyesamāno assutavā puthujjano tīhi ṭhānehi micchā paṭipajjati—kāyena, vācāya, manasā.

An uneducated ordinary person on a search for sensual pleasures behaves badly in three ways: by body, speech, and mind.

Byāpādadhātum, bhikkhave, paṭicca uppajjati byāpādasaññā, byāpādasaññaṃ paṭicca uppajjati byāpādasaṅkappo ...pe... byāpādacchando ... byāpādapariḷāho ... byāpādapariyesanā ...
The element of malice gives rise to malicious perceptions. Malicious perceptions give rise to malicious thoughts. ... malicious desires ... malicious passions ... malicious searches ...

byāpādapariyesanaṃ, bhikkhave, pariyesamāno assutavā puthujjano tīhi ṭhānehi micchā paṭipajjati—kāyena, vācāya, manasā.

An uneducated ordinary person on a malicious search behaves badly in three ways: by body, speech, and mind.

Vihimsādhātum, bhikkhave, paṭicca uppajjati vihimśasaññā; vihimśasaññaṃ paṭicca uppajjati vihimśasaṅkappo ...pe... vihimśāchando ... vihimśāpariḷāho ... vihimśāpariyesanā ...
The element of cruelty gives rise to cruel perceptions. Cruel perceptions give rise to cruel thoughts. ... cruel desires ... cruel passions ... cruel searches ...

vihimśāpariyesanaṃ, bhikkhave, pariyesamāno assutavā puthujjano tīhi ṭhānehi micchā paṭipajjati—kāyena, vācāya, manasā.

An uneducated ordinary person on a cruel search behaves badly in three ways: by body, speech, and mind.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, puriso ādittam tiṇukkam sukke tiṇadāye nikkhipeyya; no ce hatthehi ca pādehi ca khippameva nibbāpeyya. Evañhi, bhikkhave, ye tiṇakatṭhanissitā pāṇā te anayabyasanaṃ āpajjeyyum.

Suppose a person was to drop a burning torch in a thicket of dry grass. If they don't quickly extinguish it with their hands and feet, the creatures living in the grass and wood would come to ruin.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, yo hi koci samaṇo vā brāhmaṇo vā uppannaṃ visamagataṃ saññaṃ na khippameva pajahati vinodeti byantīkaroti anabhāvaṃ gameti, so diṭṭhe ceva dhamme dukkhaṃ viharati savighātaṃ saupāyāsaṃ sapariḷāhaṃ;

In the same way, a corrupt perception might arise in an ascetic or brahmin. If they don't quickly give it up, get rid of it, eliminate it, and obliterate it, they'll suffer in the present life, with anguish, distress, and fever.

kāyassa ca bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā duggati pāṭikaṅkhā.

And when the body breaks up, after death, they can expect to be reborn in a bad place.

Sanidānaṃ, bhikkhave, uppajjati nekkhammavitakko, no anidānaṃ; sanidānaṃ uppajjati abyāpādavitaṅko, no anidānaṃ; sanidānaṃ uppajjati avihimsāvitakko, no anidānaṃ.

Thoughts of renunciation, good will, and harmlessness arise for a reason, not without reason.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, sanidānaṃ uppajjati nekkhammavitakko, no anidānaṃ; sanidānaṃ uppajjati abyāpādavitaṅko, no anidānaṃ; sanidānaṃ uppajjati avihimsāvitakko, no anidānaṃ?

And how do thoughts of renunciation, good will, and harmlessness arise for a reason, not without reason?

Nekkhammadhātuṃ, bhikkhave, paṭicca uppajjati nekkhammasaññaṃ,

The element of renunciation gives rise to perceptions of renunciation.

nekkhammasaññaṃ paṭicca uppajjati nekkhammasaṅkappo, Perceptions of renunciation give rise to thoughts of renunciation.

nekkhammasaṅkappaṃ paṭicca uppajjati nekkhammacchando, Thoughts of renunciation give rise to enthusiasm for renunciation.

nekkhammacchandaṃ paṭicca uppajjati nekkhammapariḷāho,

Enthusiasm for renunciation gives rise to fervor for renunciation.

nekkhammapariḷāhaṃ paṭicca uppajjati nekkhammapariyesanā;

Fervor for renunciation gives rise to the search for renunciation.

The element of good will gives rise to perceptions of good will.

abyāpādasaññaṃ paṭicca uppajjati abyāpādasaṅkappo ...pe...

Perceptions of good will give rise to thoughts of good will. ...

abyāpādacchando ...

An educated noble disciple on a search for good will behaves well in three ways: by body, speech, and mind.

Avihimsādhātuṃ, bhikkhave, paṭicca uppajjati avihimsāsaññā,

The element of harmlessness gives rise to harmlessness perceptions.

avihimsāsaññaṃ paṭicca uppajjati avihimsāsaṅkappo,

Harmlessness perceptions give rise to harmlessness thoughts. ...

avihimsāsaṅkappaṃ paṭicca uppajjati avihimsāchando, enthusiasm for harmlessness ...

13. Giñjakāvasathasutta In the Brick Hall

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā ñātike viharati giñjakāvasathe.

At one time the Buddha was staying at Nādika in the brick house.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum̐.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Dhātum̐, bhikkhave, paṭicca uppajjati saññā, uppajjati diṭṭhi, uppajjati vitakko”ti.

“Mendicants, an element gives rise to a perception, a view, and a thought.”

Evaṃ vutte, āyasmā kaccāno bhagavantam̐ etadavoca:

When he said this, Venerable Kaccāna said to the Buddha, “yāyaṃ, bhante, diṭṭhi:

“Sir, regarding

‘asammāsambuddhesu sammāsambuddhā’ti, ayaṃ nu kho, bhante, diṭṭhi kiṃ paṭicca paññāyatī’ti?

those who are not fully awakened Buddhas, there is a view that they are in fact fully awakened Buddhas. Due to what does this view appear?”

“Mahati kho esā, kaccāna, dhātu yadidaṃ avijjādhātu.

Hīnaṃ, kaccāna, dhātuṃ paṭicca uppajjati hīnā saññā, hīnā diṭṭhi, hīno vitakko, hīnā cetanā, hīnā patthanā, hīno paṇidhi, hīno puggalo, hīnā vācā;

An inferior element gives rise to inferior perceptions, inferior views, inferior thoughts, inferior intentions, inferior aims, inferior wishes, an inferior person, and inferior speech.

hīnaṃ ācikkhati deseti paññapeti paṭṭhapeti vivarati vibhajati uttānīkaroti;

One explains, teaches, asserts, establishes, clarifies, analyzes, and reveals the inferior.

hīnā tassa upapattīti vadāmi.

I say that their rebirth is inferior.

Majjhimaṃ, kaccāna, dhātuṃ paṭicca uppajjati majjhimā saññā, majjhimā diṭṭhi, majjhimo vitakko, majjhimā cetanā, majjhimā patthanā, majjhimo paṇidhi, majjhimo puggalo, majjhimā vācā;

A middling element gives rise to middling perceptions, middling views, middling thoughts, middling intentions, middling aims, middling wishes, a middling person, and middling speech.

majjhimaṃ ācikkhati deseti paññapeti paṭṭhapeti vivarati vibhajati uttānīkaroti;

One explains, teaches, asserts, establishes, clarifies, analyzes, and reveals the middling.

majjhimā tassa upapattīti vadāmi.

I say that their rebirth is middling.

Paṇītaṃ, kaccāna, dhātuṃ paṭicca uppajjati paṇītā saññā, paṇītā diṭṭhi, paṇīto vitakko, paṇītā cetanā, paṇītā patthanā, paṇīto paṇidhi, paṇīto puggalo, paṇītā vācā;

A superior element gives rise to superior perceptions, superior views, superior thoughts, superior intentions, superior aims, superior wishes, a superior person, and superior speech.

paṇītaṃ ācikkhati deseti paññapeti paṭṭhapeti vivarati vibhajati uttānīkaroti;

One explains, teaches, asserts, establishes, clarifies, analyzes, and reveals the superior.

paṇītā tassa upapattīti vadāmī”ti.

I say that their rebirth is superior.”

Tatiyaṃ.

14. Hīnādhimuttikasutta Bad Attitudes

Sāvattiyaṃ viharati.
At Sāvattihī.

“Dhātusova, bhikkhave, sattā saṃsandanti samenti.
“Mendicants, sentient beings come together and converge because of an element.

Hīnādhimuttikā hīnādhimuttikehi saddhiṃ saṃsandanti samenti;

Those who have a bad attitude come together and converge with those who have a bad attitude.

kalyāṇādhimuttikā kalyāṇādhimuttikehi saddhiṃ saṃsandanti samenti.

Those who have a good attitude come together and converge with those who have a good attitude.

Etarahipi kho, bhikkhave, paccuppannaṃ addhānaṃ dhātusova sattā saṃsandanti samenti.

At present, too, sentient beings come together and converge because of an element.

Hīnādhimuttikā hīnādhimuttikehi saddhiṃ saṃsandanti samenti;

Those who have a bad attitude come together and converge with those who have a bad attitude.

kalyāṇādhimuttikā kalyāṇādhimuttikehi saddhiṃ saṃsandanti samenti”ti.

Those who have a good attitude come together and converge with those who have a good attitude.”

Catutthaṃ.

15. Caṅkamasutta Walking Together

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati gijjhakūṭe pabbate.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, on the Vulture's Peak Mountain.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā sārputto sambahulehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ bhagavato avidūre caṅkamati;

Now at that time Venerable Sārputta was walking together with several mendicants not far from the Buddha.

āyasmāpi kho mahāmogallāno sambahulehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ bhagavato avidūre caṅkamati;

Venerable Mahāmogallāna was doing likewise, as were

āyasmāpi kho mahākassapo sambahulehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ
bhagavato avidūre caṅkamati;

Venerable Mahākassapa,

āyasmāpi kho anuruddho sambahulehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ
bhagavato avidūre caṅkamati;

Venerable Anuruddha,

āyasmāpi kho puṇṇo mantāniputto sambahulehi bhikkhūhi
saddhiṃ bhagavato avidūre caṅkamati;

Venerable Puṇṇa Mantāniputta,

āyasmāpi kho upāli sambahulehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ bhagavato avidūre caṅkamati;

Venerable Upāli,

āyasmāpi kho ānando sambahulehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ
bhagavato avidūre caṅkamati;

Venerable Ānanda,

devadattopi kho sambahulehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ bhagavato
avidūre caṅkamati.
and Devadatta.

Atha kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to the mendicants,

“passatha no tumhe, bhikkhave, sāriputtaṃ sambahulehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ caṅkamantaṃ”ti?

“Mendicants, do you see Sāriputta walking together with several mendicants?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Sabbe kho ete, bhikkhave, bhikkhū mahāpaññā.

“All of those mendicants have great wisdom.

Passatha no tumhe, bhikkhave, moggallānaṃ sambahulehi

Do you see Puṇṇa Mantāniputta walking together with several mendicants?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Sabbe kho ete, bhikkhave, bhikkhū dhammakathikā.

“All of those mendicants are Dhamma speakers.

Passatha no tumhe, bhikkhave, upāliṃ sambahulehi bhikkhūhi

Do you see Upāli walking together with several mendicants?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Sabbe kho ete, bhikkhave, bhikkhū vinayadharā.

“All of those mendicants are experts in monastic training.

Passatha no tumhe, bhikkhave, ānandaṃ sambahulehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ caṅkamantan”ti?

Do you see Ānanda walking together with several mendicants?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Sabbe kho ete, bhikkhave, bhikkhū bahussutā.

“All of those mendicants are very learned.

Passatha no tumhe, bhikkhave, devadattaṃ sambahulehi

Do you see Devadatta walking together with several mendicants?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Sabbe kho ete, bhikkhave, bhikkhū pāpicchā.

“All of those mendicants have bad desires.

Dhātusova, bhikkhave, sattā saṃsandanti samenti.

Sentient beings come together and converge because of an element.

30. Catudhātusutta Four Elements

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery. ...

“catasso imā, bhikkhave, dhātuyo.

“Mendicants, there are these four elements.

“Mendicants, before my awakening—when I was still unawakened
but intent on awakening—I thought:

‘ko nu kho pathavīdhātuyā assādo, ko ādīnavo, kiṃ

15. Anamatagga Saṃyutta:
On the Unknowable Beginnin

1. Tiṇakaṭṭhasutta Grass and Sticks

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Anamataggoyam, bhikkhave, saṃsāro.

“Mendicants, transmigration has no known beginning.

Pubbā koṭi na paññāyati avijjānīvaraṇānam sattānam taṇhāsaṃyojanānam sandhāvataṃ saṃsarataṃ.

No first point is found of sentient beings roaming and transmigrating, hindered by ignorance and fettered by craving.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, puriso yaṃ imasmiṃ jambudīpe tiṇakaṭṭhasākhāpalāsam taṃ chetvā ekajjhaṃ saṃharitvā caturaṅgulaṃ caturaṅgulaṃ ghaṭikaṃ katvā nikkhipeyya:

Suppose a person was to strip all the grass, sticks, branches, and leaves in India, gather them together into one pile, and chop them each into four inch pieces. They'd lay them down, saying:

'ayaṃ me mātā, tassā me mātu ayaṃ mātā'ti, apariyādinna, bhikkhave, tassa purisassa mātumātarō assu, atha imasmim̐ jambudīpe tiṇakaṭṭhasākāhāpālāsaṃ parikkhayaṃ pariyādānaṃ gaccheyya.

'This is my mother, this is my grandmother.' The grass, sticks, branches, and leaves of India would run out before that person's mothers and grandmothers.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Anamataggoyaṃ, bhikkhave, saṃsāro.

Transmigration has no known beginning.

Pubbā koṭi na paññāyati avijjānīvaraṇānaṃ sattānaṃ taṇhāsaṃyojanānaṃ sandhāvataṃ saṃsarataṃ.

Evaṃ dīgharattaṃ vo, bhikkhave, dukkhaṃ paccaṇubhūtaṃ tibbaṃ paccaṇubhūtaṃ byasanaṃ paccaṇubhūtaṃ, kaṭasī vaḍḍhitā.

For such a long time you have undergone suffering, agony, and disaster, swelling the cemeteries.

Suppose a person was to make the whole earth into clay balls the size of jujube seeds. They'd lay them down, saying:

‘ayaṃ me pitā, tassa me pitu ayaṃ pitā’ti, apariyādinnāva

13. Tiṃsamattasutta Thirty Mendicants

Rājagahe viharati veḷuvane.

Near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove.

Atha kho tiṃsamattā pāveyyakā bhikkhū sabbe āraññikā sabbe piṇḍapātikā sabbe paṃsukūlikā sabbe tecīvarikā sabbe sasāmyojanā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantam nisīdimsu.

Then thirty mendicants from Pāvā went to the Buddha. All of them lived in the wilderness, ate only alms-food, wore rag robes, and owned just three robes; yet they all still had fetters. They bowed to the Buddha and sat down to one side.

Atha kho bhagavato etadahosi:

Then it occurred to the Buddha,

“ime kho tiṃsamattā pāveyyakā bhikkhū sabbe āraññikā sabbe piṇḍapātikā sabbe paṃsukūlikā sabbe tecīvarikā sabbe sasāmyojanā.

“These thirty mendicants from Pāvā live in the wilderness, eat only alms-food, wear rag robes, and own just three robes; yet they all still have fetters.

Yannūnāham imesaṃ tathā dhammaṃ deseyyaṃ yathā nesaṃ imasmimyeva āsane anupādāya āsavehi cittāni vimucceyyun”ti.

Why don't I teach them the Dhamma in such a way that their minds are freed from defilements by not grasping while sitting in this very seat?”

Atha kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Anamataggoyam, bhikkhave, saṃsāro.

“Mendicants, transmigration has no known beginning.

Pubbā koṭi na paññāyati avijjānīvaraṇānaṃ sattānaṃ

“As we understand the Buddha’s teaching, the flow of blood we’ve shed when our head was chopped off while roaming and transmigrating is more than the water in the four oceans.”

“Sādhu sādhu, bhikkhave, sādhu kho me tumhe, bhikkhave, evaṃ dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānātha.

Whenever I want, I wield the many kinds of psychic power: multiplying myself and becoming one again; going unimpeded through a wall, a rampart, or a mountain as if through space; diving in and out of the earth as if it were water; walking on water as if it were earth; flying cross-legged through the sky like a bird; touching and stroking with the hand the sun and moon, so mighty and powerful. Whenever I want, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, I see sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. I understand how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds. ‘These dear beings did bad things by way of body, speech, and mind. They spoke ill of the noble ones; they had wrong view; and they chose to act out of that wrong view. When their body breaks up, after death, they’re reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell. These dear beings, however, did good things by way of body, speech, and mind. They never spoke ill of the noble ones; they had right view; and they chose to act out of that right view. When their body breaks up, after death, they’re reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.’ And so, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, I see sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. I understand how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds.

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekaṃ samayaṃ āyasmā mahākassapo sāvatthiyaṃ viharati

At one time Venerable Mahākassapa was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando pubbaṅhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā

Then Venerable Ānanda robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, went to Mahākassapa and said,

“āyāma, bhante kassapa, yena aññataro bhikkhunupassayo

“Kassapa, come, sir. Let's go to one of the nuns' quarters.”

“Gaccha tvaṃ, āvuso ānanda, bahukicco tvaṃ bahukaraṇīyo”ti.

“You go, Reverend Ānanda. You have many duties and responsibilities.”

Dutiyampi kho āyasmā ānando āyasmantaṃ mahākassapaṃ
etadavoca:

And a second time ...

“āyāma, bhante kassapa, yena aññataro bhikkhunupassayo
tenupasaṅkamissāmā”ti.

“Gaccha tvaṃ, āvuso ānanda, bahukicco tvaṃ bahukaraṇīyo”ti.

Tatiyampi kho āyasmā ānando āyasmantaṃ mahākassapaṃ etadavoca:

And a third time, Ānanda said,

“āyāma, bhante kassapa, yena aññataro bhikkhunupassayo tenupasaṅkamissāmā”ti.

“Kassapa, come, sir. Let’s go to one of the nuns’ quarters.”

Atha kho āyasmā mahākassapo pubbaṅhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya āyasmatā ānandena pacchāsamaṇena yena aññataro bhikkhunupassayo tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā paññatte āsane nisīdi.

Then Venerable Mahākassapa robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, went with Venerable Ānanda as his second monk to one of the nuns’ quarters, where he sat on the seat spread out.

Atha kho sambahulā bhikkhuniyo yenāyasmā mahākassapo tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ mahākassapaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu.

And then several nuns went up to Mahākassapa, bowed, and sat down to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinnā kho tā bhikkhuniyo āyasmā mahākassapo dhammiyā kathāya sandassesī samādapesī samuttejesī sampahaṃsesī.

Mahākassapa educated, encouraged, fired up, and inspired those nuns with a Dhamma talk, after which he got up from his seat and left.

When Venerable Ānanda had wandered in the Southern Hills as long as he wished, he set out for Rājagaha, to the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground. He went up to Venerable Mahākassapa, bowed, and sat down to one side. Mahākassapa said to him:

“kati nu kho, āvuso ānanda, atthavase paṭicca bhagavatā kulesu tikabhojanam paññattan”ti?

“Reverend Ānanda, for how many reasons did the Buddha lay down a rule against eating in groups of more than three among families?”

“Tayo kho, bhante kassapa, atthavase paṭicca bhagavatā kulesu tikabhojanam paññattan—

“Sir, the Buddha laid down that rule for three reasons.

dummaṅkūnam puggalānam niggahāya pesalānam bhikkhūnam phāsuvihārāya, mā pāpicchā pakkham nissāya saṅgham bhindeyyum, kulānuddayatāya ca.

For keeping difficult persons in check and for the comfort of good-hearted mendicants. To prevent those of wicked desires from taking sides and dividing the Saṅgha. And out of consideration for families.

Ime kho, bhante kassapa, tayo atthavase paṭicca bhagavatā kulesu tikabhojanam paññattan”ti.

These are the three reasons why the Buddha laid down that rule.”

Assosi kho thullanandā bhikkhunī:

The nun Thullanandā heard a rumor that

“ayyena kira mahākassapena ayyo ānando vedehamuni

Master Mahākassapa had rebuked Master Ānanda the Videhan sage

“How can Master Mahākassapa, who formerly followed another path, presume to rebuke Master Ānanda the Videhan sage by calling him a boy?”

Assosi kho āyasmā mahākassapo thullanandāya bhikkhuniyā imam̐ vācam̐ bhāsamānāya.

Mahākassapa heard Thullanandā say these words,

and he said to Ānanda,

“tagghāvuso ānanda, thullanandāya bhikkhuniyā sahasā appaṭisaṅkhā vācā bhāsītā.

“Indeed, Reverend Ānanda, the nun Thullanandā spoke rashly and without reflection.

Yatvāham̐, āvuso, kesamassum̐ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni acchādetvā agārasmā anagāriyam̐ pabbajito, nābhijānāmi aññam̐ satthāram̐ uddisitā, aññatra tena bhagavatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena.

Since I shaved off my hair and beard, dressed in ocher robes, and went forth from the lay life to homelessness, I don’t recall acknowledging any other teacher apart from the Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha.

Pubbe me, āvuso, agārikabhūtassa sato etadahosi:

Formerly when I was still a layman, I thought:

‘sambādho gharāvāso rajāpatho, abbhokāso pabbajjā.

‘Living in a house is cramped and dirty, but the life of one gone forth is wide open.

Nayidam̐ sukaram̐ agāram̐ ajjhāvasatā ekantaparipuṇṇam̐ ekantaparissuddham̐ saṅkhalikhitam̐ brahmacariyam̐ caritum̐.

It’s not easy for someone living at home to lead the spiritual life utterly full and pure, like a polished shell.

Yannūnāhaṃ kesamassuṃ ohāretvā kāsāyāni vatthāni

Why don't I shave off my hair and beard, dress in ocher robes, and go forth from the lay life to homelessness?'

After some time I made an outer robe of patches and, in the name of the perfected ones in the world, I shaved off my hair and beard, dressed in ocher robes, and went forth from the lay life to homelessness.

So evaṃ pabbajito samāno addhānamaggappaṭipanno addasaṃ

When I had gone forth, I traveled along the road between Rājagaha and Nālanda, where I saw the Buddha sitting at the Bahuputta Shrine.

Disvāna me etadahosi:

Seeing him, I thought:

'satthārañca vatāhaṃ passeyyaṃ, bhagavantameva

'Sir, the Buddha is my Teacher, I am his disciple!

satthā me, bhante, bhagavā, sāvako hamasmī'ti.

The Buddha is my Teacher, I am his disciple!'

Evaṃ vutte, maṃ, āvuso, bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said to me,

'yo kho, kassapa, evaṃ sabbacetasā samannāgataṃ sāvakaṃ ajānaññaeva vadeyya jānāmīti, apassaññaeva vadeyya passāmīti, muddhāpi tassa vipateyya.

'Kassapa, if anyone was to say to such a wholehearted disciple that they know when they don't know, or that they see when they don't see, their head would explode.

Ahaṃ kho pana, kassapa, jānaññaeva vadāmi jānāmīti, passaññaeva vadāmi passāmīti.

But Kassapa, when I say that I know and see I really do know and see.

Tasmātiha te, kassapa, evaṃ sikkhitabbaṃ:

So you should train like this:

“tibbaṃ me hirottappaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ bhavissati thesu navesu majjhimesū”ti.

“I will set up a keen sense of conscience and prudence for seniors, juniors, and those in the middle.”

Evañhi te, kassapa, sikkhitabbaṃ.

That's how you should train.

Tasmātiha te, kassapa, evaṃ sikkhitabbaṃ:

And you should train like this:

“yaṃ kiñci dhammaṃ suṇissāmi kusalūpasamhitaṃ sabbaṃ taṃ aṭṭhiṃ katvā manasi karitvā sabbacetasā samannāharitvā ohitasoto dhammaṃ suṇissāmī”ti.

“Whenever I hear a teaching connected with what’s skillful, I will pay heed, pay attention, engage wholeheartedly, and lend an ear to that teaching.”

Evañhi te, kassapa, sikkhitabbaṃ.

That’s how you should train.

Tasmātiha te, kassapa, evaṃ sikkhitabbaṃ:

And you should train like this:

“sātasahagatā ca me kāyagatāsati na vijahissatī”ti.

“I will never neglect mindfulness of the body that is full of pleasure.”

Evañhi te, kassapa, sikkhitabbanti’.

That’s how you should train.’

Atha kho maṃ, āvuso, bhagavā iminā ovādena ovaditvā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkāmi.

And when the Buddha had given me this advice he got up from his seat and left.

Sattāhameva khvāhaṃ, āvuso, saraṇo ratṭhapiṇḍaṃ bhuñjīm aṭṭhamiyā aññā udapādi.

For seven days I ate the nation’s almsfood as a debtor. On the eighth day I was enlightened.

Atha kho, āvuso, bhagavā maggā okkamma yena aññataraṃ rukkhamūlaṃ tenupasaṅkamaṃ.

And then the Buddha left the road and went to the root of a tree.

Atha khvāhaṃ, āvuso, paṭapilotikānaṃ saṅghāṭīm catugguṇaṃ paññapetvā bhagavantaṃ etadavocaṃ:

So I spread out my outer robe of patches folded in four and said to him,

‘idha, bhante, bhagavā nisīdatu, yaṃ mamassa dīgharattaṃ hitāya sukhāyā’ti.

‘Sir, sit here. That would be for my lasting welfare and happiness.’

Nisīdi kho, āvuso, bhagavā paññatte āsane.

The Buddha sat on the seat spread out

Nisajja kho maṃ, āvuso, bhagavā etadavoca:

and said to me,

‘mudukā kho tyāyaṃ, kassapa, paṭapilotikānaṃ saṅghāṭī’ti.

‘Kassapa, this outer robe of patches is soft.’

‘Paṭiggaṇhātu me, bhante, bhagavā paṭapilotikānaṃ saṅghāṭim anukampaṃ upādāyā’ti.

‘Sir, please accept my outer robe of patches out of compassion.’

‘Dhāressasi pana me tvaṃ, kassapa, sāṇāni paṃsukūlāni nibbasanānī’ti.

‘In that case, Kassapa, will you wear my worn-out hempen rag robe?’

‘Dhāressāmahaṃ, bhante, bhagavato sāṇāni paṃsukūlāni
nibbasanānī’ti.

‘I will wear it, sir.’

So khvāhaṃ, āvuso, paṭapilotikānaṃ saṅghāṭim bhagavato pādāsīm.

And so I presented my outer robe of patches to the Buddha,

Ahaṃ pana bhagavato sāṇāni paṃsukūlāni nibbasanāni paṭipajjīm.

and the Buddha presented me with his worn-out hempen rag robe.

Yañhi taṃ, āvuso, sammā vadamāno vadeyya:

For if anyone should be rightly called

‘bhagavato putto oraso mukhato jāto dhammajo

the Buddha’s true-born child, born from his mouth, born of the teaching, created by the teaching, heir to the teaching, and receiver of his worn-out hempen rag robes, it’s me.

‘bhagavato putto oraso mukhato jāto dhammajo dhammanimmito dhammadāyādo, paṭiggahitāni sāṇāni paṃsukūlāni nibbasanānī’ti.

Ahaṃ kho, āvuso, yāvade ākaṅkhāmi vivicceva kāmehi vivicca

Whenever I want, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, I enter and remain in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected. ...

12. Paraṃmaraṇasutta The Realized One After Death

Ekam̐ samayaṃ āyasmā ca mahākassapo āyasmā ca sārīputto

At one time Venerable Mahākassapa and Venerable Sārīputta were staying near Benares, in the deer park at Isipatana.

Atha kho āyasmā sārīputto sāyanhasamayaṃ paṭisallānā upasaṅkamtivā āyasmatā mahākassapena saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then in the late afternoon, Venerable Sārīputta came out of retreat, went to Venerable Mahākassapa, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodaniyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇiyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ
nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā sārīputto āyasmantaṃ mahākassapaṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to Mahākassapa:

“kiṃ nu kho, āvuso kassapa, hoti tathāgato paraṃ maraṇā”ti?
“Reverend Kassapa, does a Realized One exist after death?”

“Abyākataṃ kho etaṃ, āvuso, bhagavatā:
“Reverend, this has not been declared by the Buddha.”

‘hoti tathāgato paraṃ maraṇā’”ti.

“Kiṃ panāvuso, na hoti tathāgato paraṃ maraṇā”ti?
“Well then, does a Realized One not exist after death?”

“Evampi kho, āvuso, abyākataṃ bhagavatā:

“This too has not been declared by the Buddha.”

‘na hoti tathāgato paraṃ maraṇā’”ti.

“Kiṃ nu kho, āvuso, hoti ca na ca hoti tathāgato paraṃ maraṇā”ti?

“Well then, does a Realized One both exist and not exist after death?”

“Abyākataṃ kho etaṃ, āvuso, bhagavatā:

“This too has not been declared by the Buddha.”

‘hoti ca na ca hoti tathāgato paraṃ maraṇā’”ti.

“Kiṃ panāvuso, neva hoti, na na hoti tathāgato paraṃ maraṇā”ti?

“Well then, does a Realized One neither exist nor not exist after death?”

“Evampi kho, āvuso, abyākataṃ bhagavatā:

“This too has not been declared by the Buddha.”

‘neva hoti na na hoti tathāgato paraṃ maraṇā’”ti.

“Kasmā cetāṃ, āvuso, abyākataṃ bhagavatā”ti?

“And why has this not been declared by the Buddha?”

“Na hetāṃ, āvuso, atthasaṃhitaṃ nādirahmacariyakaṃ na nibbidāya na virāgāya na nirodhāya na upasamāya na abhiññāya na sambodhāya na nibbānāya saṃvattati.

Tasmā taṃ abyākataṃ bhagavatā”ti.

That's why it has not been declared by the Buddha.”

“Atha kiñcarahāvuso, byākataṃ bhagavatā”ti?

“So what now has been declared by the Buddha?”

“Idaṃ ‘dukkhaṃ’ti kho, āvuso, byākataṃ bhagavatā;

“This is suffering’ has been declared by the Buddha.

ayaṃ ‘dukkhasamudayo’ti byākataṃ bhagavatā;

‘This is the origin of suffering’ ...

ayaṃ ‘dukkhanirodho’ti byākataṃ bhagavatā;

‘This is the cessation of suffering’ ...

ayaṃ ‘dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā’ti byākataṃ bhagavatā”ti.

‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering’ has been declared by the Buddha.”

“Kasmā cetāṃ, āvuso, byākataṃ bhagavatā”ti?

“And why has this been declared by the Buddha?”

“Etañhi, āvuso, atthasaṃhitāṃ etaṃ ādibrahmacariyakāṃ etaṃ nibbidāya virāgāya nirodhāya upasamāya abhiññāya sambodhāya nibbānāya saṃvattati.

“Because it’s beneficial and relevant to the fundamentals of the spiritual life. It leads to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment.

Tasmā taṃ byākataṃ bhagavatā”ti.

That’s why it has been declared by the Buddha.”

13. Saddhammappatirūpakasutta The Counterfeit of the True Teaching

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvattiyam viharati jetavane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Atha kho āyasmā mahākassapo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.
Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā mahākassapo bhagavantam
etadavoca:

Then Venerable Mahākassapa went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him:

“ko nu kho, bhante, hetu ko paccayo, yena pubbe appatarāni ceva sikkhāpadāni ahesuṃ bahutarā ca bhikkhū aññāya saṅghahimsu?

“What is the cause, sir, what is the reason why there used to be fewer training rules but more enlightened mendicants?”

Ko pana, bhante, hetu ko paccayo, yenetarahi bahutarāni ceva sikkhāpadāni appatarā ca bhikkhū aññāya saṅghahantī”ti?

And what is the cause, what is the reason why these days there are more training rules and fewer enlightened mendicants?”

“Evañcetaṃ, kassapa, hoti sattesu hāyamānesu saddhamme antaradhāyamāne, bahutarāni ceva sikkhāpadāni honti appatarā ca bhikkhū aññāya saṅghahanti.

“That’s how it is, Kassapa. When sentient beings are in decline and the true teaching is disappearing there are more training rules and fewer enlightened mendicants.

Na tāva, kassapa, saddhammassa antaradhānaṃ hoti yāva na saddhammappatirūpakaṃ loke uppajjati.

The true teaching doesn’t disappear as long the counterfeit of the true teaching hasn’t appeared in the world.

Yato ca kho, kassapa, saddhammappatirūpakaṃ loke uppajjati, atha saddhammassa antaradhānaṃ hoti.

But when the counterfeit of the true teaching appears in the world then the true teaching disappears.

Seyyathāpi, kassapa, na tāva jātarūpassa antaradhānaṃ hoti yāva na jātarūpappatirūpakaṃ loke uppajjati.

It’s like true gold, which doesn’t disappear as long as counterfeit gold hasn’t appeared in the world.

Yato ca kho, kassapa, jātarūpappatirūpakaṃ loke uppajjati, atha kho jātarūpassa antaradhānaṃ hoti.

But when counterfeit gold appears in the world then real gold disappears.

Evameva kho, kassapa, na tāva saddhammassa antaradhānaṃ hoti yāva na saddhammappatirūpakaṃ loke uppajjati.

In the same way, the true teaching doesn’t disappear as long the counterfeit of the true teaching hasn’t appeared in the world.

Yato ca kho, kassapa, saddhammappatirūpakaṃ loke uppajjati, atha saddhammassa antaradhānaṃ hoti.

But when the counterfeit of the true teaching appears in the world then the true teaching disappears.

Na kho, kassapa, pathavīdhātu saddhammaṃ antaradhāpeti, na āpodhātu saddhammaṃ antaradhāpeti, na tejodhātu saddhammaṃ antaradhāpeti, na vāyodhātu saddhammaṃ antaradhāpeti;

It's not the elements of earth, water, fire, or air that make the true teaching disappear.

atha kho idheva te uppajjanti moghapurisā ye imaṃ saddhammaṃ antaradhāpentī.

Rather, it's the foolish people who appear right here that make the true teaching disappear.

Seyyathāpi, kassapa, nāvā ādikeneva opilavati;

The true teaching doesn't disappear like a ship that sinks all at once.

na kho, kassapa, evaṃ saddhammassa antaradhānaṃ hoti.

These five detrimental things lead to the decline and disappearance of the true teaching.

Pañca khome, kassapa, dhammā saddhammassa ṭhitiyā asammosāya anantaradhānāya saṃvattanti.

There are five things that lead to the continuation, persistence, and enduring of the true teaching.

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

30. Bhikkhusutta A Mendicant With Defilements Ended

Sāvattiyam viharati.
At Sāvattihī.

“Yopi so, bhikkhave, bhikkhu araham khīṇāsavo tassapāham lābhasakkārasiloko antarāyāya vadāmi”ti.

“Mendicants, possessions, honor, and popularity are an obstacle even for a mendicant who is perfected, with defilements ended.”

Evam vutte, āyasmā ānando bhagavantam etadavoca:
When he said this, Venerable Ānanda said to the Buddha, “kissa pana, bhante, khīṇāsavassa bhikkhuno lābhasakkārasiloko antarāyāya”ti?

“Sir, what do possessions, honor, and popularity obstruct for a mendicant with defilements ended?”

“Yā hissa sā, ānanda, akuppā cetovimutti nāham tassā lābhasakkārasilokam antarāyāya vadāmi.

“Ānanda, I don’t say that possessions, honor, and popularity obstruct the unshakable freedom of heart.

Ye ca khvassa, ānanda, appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato diṭṭhadhammasukhavihārā adhigatā tesāhamassa lābhasakkārasilokam antarāyāya vadāmi.

35. Acirapakkantasutta Shortly After He Left

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati gijjhakūṭe pabbate acirapakkante devadatte.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, on the Vulture's Peak Mountain, not long after Devadatta had left.

Tatra kho bhagavā devadattaṃ ārabba bhikkhū āmantesi:
There the Buddha spoke to the mendicants about Devadatta:

“attavadhāya, bhikkhave, devadattassa lābhasakkārasiloko udapādi, parābhavāya devadattassa lābhasakkārasiloko udapādi.

“Possessions, honor, and popularity came to Devadatta for his own ruin and downfall.

evameva kho, bhikkhave, attavadhāya devadattassa

In the same way, possessions, honor, and popularity came to Devadatta for his own ruin and downfall.

Evaṃ dāruṇo kho, bhikkhave, lābhasakkārasiloko.

Evañhi vo, bhikkhave, sikkhitabban”ti.

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Idaṃ vatvāna sugato athāparaṃ etadavoca satthā:

Then the Holy One, the Teacher, went on to say:

“Phalaṃ ve kadaliṃ hanti,

“The banana tree is destroyed by its own fruit,

phalaṃ veḷuṃ phalaṃ naḷaṃ;

as are the bamboo and the reed.

1. Aṭṭhisutta
A Skeleton

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavaṃ rājagaha viharati veḷuvane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā ca lakkhaṇo āyasmā ca mahāmoggallāno gijjhakūṭe pabbate viharanti.

Now at that time Venerable Lakkhaṇa and Venerable Mahāmoggallāna were staying on the Vulture's Peak Mountain.

Atha kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno pubbaṇhasamayam nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya yenāyasmā lakkhaṇo tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtvaṃ āyasmantaṃ lakkhaṇam
etadavoca:

Then Mahāmoggallāna robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, went to Lakkhaṇa and said to him, “āyāmāvuso lakkhaṇa, rājagahaṃ piṇḍāya pavisissāmā”ti.

“Come, Reverend Lakkhaṇa, let's enter Rājagaha for alms.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho āyasmā lakkhaṇo āyasmato mahāmoggallānassa paccassosi.

“Yes, reverend,” Lakkhaṇa replied.

Atha kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno gijjhakūṭā pabbatā orohanto aññatarasmim padese sitam pātvākāsi.

As Mahāmogallāna was descending from Vulture’s Peak Mountain he smiled at a certain spot.

Atha kho āyasmā lakkhaṇo āyasmantaṃ mahāmogallānaṃ etadavoca:

So Lakkhaṇa said to Mahāmogallāna,

“ko nu kho, āvuso moggallāna, hetu ko paccayo sitassa pātukammāyā”ti?

“What is the cause, Reverend Moggallāna, what is the reason you smiled?”

“Akālo kho, āvuso lakkhaṇa, etassa pañhassa.

“Reverend Lakkhaṇa, it’s the wrong time for this question.

Bhagavato maṃ santike etaṃ pañhaṃ pucchā”ti.

Ask me when we’re in the Buddha’s presence.”

Atha kho āyasmā ca lakkhaṇo āyasmā ca mahāmogallāno rājagahe piṇḍāya caritvā pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātaṭikkantā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu. Ekamantaṃ nisīno kho āyasmā lakkhaṇo āyasmantaṃ mahāmogallānaṃ etadavoca:

Then Lakkhaṇa and Mahāmogallāna wandered for alms in Rājagaha. After the meal, on their return from alms-round, they went to the Buddha, bowed, and sat down to one side. Lakkhaṇa said to Mahāmogallāna:

“idhāyasmā mahāmogallāno gijjhakūṭā pabbatā orohanto aññatarasmim padese sitaṃ pātvākāsi.

“Just now, as Mahāmogallāna was descending from Vulture’s Peak Mountain he smiled at a certain spot.

such an entity,

such an incarnation!”

Atha kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to the mendicants:

“cakkhubhūtā vata, bhikkhave, sāvakā viharanti;

“Mendicants, there are disciples who live full of vision and knowledge, ñāṇabhūtā vata, bhikkhave, sāvakā viharanti, yatra hi nāma sāvako evarūpaṃ ñassati vā dakkhati vā sakkhiṃ vā karissati.

which would be for their lasting harm and suffering.

Eso, bhikkhave, satto imasmiṃyeva rājagahe goghātako ahoṣi.

As a result of that deed he burned in hell for many years, many hundreds, many thousands, many hundreds of thousands of years. Now he experiences the residual result of that deed in such an incarnation.”

Evaṃ me sutam—

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tatra kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno bhikkhū āmantesi:

There Venerable Mahāmoggallāna addressed the mendicants:

“āvuso bhikkhave”ti.

“Reverends, mendicants!”

“Āvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato mahāmoggallānassa

“Reverend,” they replied.

Āyasmā mahāmoggallāno etadavoca:

Venerable Mahāmoggallāna said this:

“idha mayhaṃ, āvuso, rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa evaṃ cetaso
parivitakko udapādi:

“Just now, reverends, as I was in private retreat this thought came to mind:

‘ariyo tuṇhībhāvo, ariyo tuṇhībhāvoti vuccati.

‘They speak of this thing called “noble silence”.

Katamo nu kho ariyo tuṇhībhāvo’ti?

What then is this noble silence?’

Tassa mayham āvuso, etadahosi:

It occurred to me:

‘idha bhikkhu vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhataṃ

‘As the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, a mendicant enters and remains in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Ayaṃ vuccati ariyo tuṅhībhāvo’ti.

This is called noble silence.’

So khvāhaṃ, āvuso, vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhataṃ

And so, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected were stilled, I was entering and remaining in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Tassa mayham, āvuso, iminā vihārena viharato vitakkasahagatā

While I was in that meditation, perceptions and attentions accompanied by placing the mind beset me.

Atha kho maṃ, āvuso, bhagavā iddhiyā upasaṅkamtivā
etadavoca:

Then the Buddha came up to me with his psychic power and said,

‘moggallāna moggallāna, mā, brāhmaṇa, ariyaṃ tuṇhībhāvaṃ pamādo, ariye tuṇhībhāve cittaṃ saṅṭhapehi, ariye tuṇhībhāve cittaṃ ekodibhāvaṃ karohi, ariye tuṇhībhāve cittaṃ samādahā’ti.

‘Moggallāna, Moggallāna! Don’t neglect noble silence, brahmin! Settle your mind in noble silence; unify your mind and bring it to immersion in noble silence.’

So khvāhaṃ, āvuso, aparena samayena vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhattaṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharāmi.

And so, after some time, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected were stilled, I entered and remained in the second absorption ...

Yañhi taṃ, āvuso, sammā vadamāno vadeyya:

‘Alas, the illustrious Teacher, so mighty and powerful, has vanished!

Sace hi bhagavā ciraṃ dīghamaddhānaṃ tiṭṭheyya tadassa

If the Buddha was to remain for a long time, that would be for the welfare and happiness of the people, for the benefit, welfare, and happiness of gods and humans.’”

Tathā hi panāyasmato sāriputtassa dīgharattaṃ

“That must be because Venerable Sāriputta has long ago totally eradicated ego, possessiveness, and the underlying tendency to conceit.

Tasmā āyasmato sārīputtassa satthupi vipariṇāmaññathābhāvā

3. Ghaṭasutta A Mound of Salt

Evaṃ me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvattiyam viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā ca sāriputto āyasmā ca mahāmogallāno rājagahe viharanti veḷuvane kalandakanivāpe ekavihāre.

At that time Venerables Sāriputta and Moggallāna were staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels’ feeding ground.

Atha kho āyasmā sāriputto sāyanhasamayaṃ paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yenāyasmā mahāmogallāno tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmatā mahāmogallānena saddhiṃ
sammodi.

Then in the late afternoon, Venerable Sāriputta came out of retreat, went to Venerable Moggallāna, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ
nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā sāriputto āyasmantaṃ mahāmogallānaṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, Sāriputta sat down to one side, and said to Mahāmogallāna:

“Vipprasannāni kho te, āvuso moggallāna, indriyāni;

“Reverend Moggallāna, your faculties are so very clear, and your complexion is pure and bright.

parisuddho mukhavaṇṇo pariyodāto santena nūnāyasmā mahāmoggallāno ajja vihārena vihāsī”ti.

Have you spent the day in a peaceful meditation?”

“Oḷārikena khvāhaṃ, āvuso, ajja vihārena vihāsīm.

“Reverend, I’ve spent the day in a coarse meditation.

Api ca me ahosi dhammī kathā”ti.

But I have had some Dhamma talk.”

“Kena saddhiṃ panāyasmato mahāmoggallānassa ahosi dhammī kathā”ti?

“Who did you have a Dhamma talk with?”

“Bhagavatā kho me, āvuso, saddhiṃ ahosi dhammī kathā”ti.

“With the Buddha.”

“Dūre kho, āvuso, bhagavā etarahi sāvattiyāṃ viharati jetavane anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

“But Reverend, the Buddha is far away. He’s staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Kiṃ nu kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno bhagavantāṃ iddhiyā upasaṅkami;

Did you go to him with your psychic power, udāhu bhagavā āyasmantaṃ mahāmoggallānaṃ iddhiyā upasaṅkamī”ti?

or did he come to you?”

“Na khvāhaṃ, āvuso, bhagavantāṃ iddhiyā upasaṅkamim;

“No reverend, I didn’t go to him with my psychic power, napi maṃ bhagavā iddhiyā upasaṅkami.

nor did he come to me.

Api ca me yāvatā bhagavā ettāvatā dibbacakkhu visujjhi dībā ca sotadhātu.

Rather, the Buddha cleared his clairvoyance and clairauidence towards me, Bhagavatopi yāvatāhaṃ ettāvatā dibbacakkhu visujjhi dībā ca sotadhātū”ti.

and I cleared my clairvoyance and clairauidence towards him.”

“Yathākathaṃ paṇāyasmato mahāmoggallānassa bhagavatā saddhiṃ ahosi dhammī kathā”ti?

“But what manner of Dhamma talk did you have together?”

“Idhāhaṃ, āvuso, bhagavantam etadavocaṃ:

“Well, reverend, I said to the Buddha,

‘āraddhavīriyo āraddhavīriyoti, bhante, vuccati.

‘Sir, they speak of one who is energetic.

Kittāvatā nu kho, bhante, āraddhavīriyo hotī’ti?

How is an energetic person defined?’

Evaṃ vutte, maṃ, āvuso, bhagavā etadavoca:

When I said this, the Buddha said,

‘idha, moggallāna, bhikkhu āraddhavīriyo viharati—

‘Moggallāna, it’s when a mendicant lives with energy roused up:

kāmaṃ taco ca nhāru ca aṭṭhi ca avasissatu, sarīre upassussatu maṃsalohitaṃ, yaṃ taṃ purisathāmena purisavīriyena purisaparakkamena pattabbaṃ na taṃ apāpuṇitvā vīriyassa saṅghānaṃ bhavissatīti.

“Gladly, let only skin, sinews, and bones remain! Let the flesh and blood waste away in my body! I will not stop trying until I have achieved what is possible by manly strength, energy, and vigor.”

Evaṃ kho, moggallāna, āraddhavīriyo hotī’ti.

That's how a person is energetic.'

Evaṃ kho me, āvuso, bhagavatā saddhiṃ ahosi dhammī

That's the Dhamma talk I had together with the Buddha.”

“Seyyathāpi, āvuso, himavato pabbatarājassa parittā

Venerable Mahāmoggallāna is so mighty and powerful he could, if he wished, live on for the eon.”

“Seyyathāpi, āvuso, mahatiyā loṇaghaṭṭāya parittā loṇasakkharāya yāvadeva upanikkhepanamattāya;

“Reverend, next to Venerable Sāriputta I'm like a few grains of salt next to a mound of salt.

evameva kho mayaṃ āyasmato sāriputtassa yāvadeva upanikkhepanamattāya.

Āyasmā hi sāriputto bhagavatā anekapariyāyena thomito

Venerable Sāriputta has been commended, complimented, and praised by the Buddha:

‘Sāriputtova paññāya,

‘In wisdom,

Itiha te ubho mahānāgā aññamaññassa subhāsitaṃ sulapitaṃ

And so these two spiritual giants agreed with each others’ fine words.

Now at that time a certain junior monk, after his meal, on his return from alms-round, entered his dwelling, where he adhered to passivity and silence. And he didn't help the mendicants out when it was time to sew robes.

Atha kho sambahulā bhikkhū yena bhagavā

Then several mendicants went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened.

“idha, bhante, aññataro navo bhikkhu pacchābhattaṃ

Atha kho bhagavā aññataram bhikkhum āmantesi:
So the Buddha said to a certain monk,

“ehi tvam, bhikkhu, mama vacanena taṃ bhikkhum āmantehi

“Please, monk, in my name tell that monk that the Teacher summons him.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho so bhikkhu bhagavato paṭissutvā yena so bhikkhu tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā taṃ bhikkhuṃ etadavoca:

“Reverend, the teacher summons you.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho so bhikkhu tassa bhikkhuno paṭissutvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho taṃ bhikkhuṃ bhagavā etadavoca:

“Yes, reverend,” that monk replied. He went to the Buddha, bowed, and sat down to one side. The Buddha said to him:

“saccaṃ kira tvaṃ, bhikkhu, pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātaṭikkanto vihāraṃ pavisitvā appossukko tuṅhībhūto saṅkasāyasi, na bhikkhūnaṃ veyyāvaccam karosi cīvarakārasamaye”ti?

“Is it really true, monk, that after your meal, on your return from alms-round, you entered your dwelling, where you adhered to passivity and silence, and you didn’t help the mendicants out when it was time to sew robes?”

“Ahampi kho, bhante, sakaṃ kiccaṃ karomī”ti.

“Sir, I am doing my own work.”

Atha kho bhagavā tassa bhikkhuno cetasā cetoparivitakkamaññāya bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha, knowing what that monk was thinking, addressed the mendicants:

“mā kho tumhe, bhikkhave, etassa bhikkhuno ujjhāyittha.

“Mendicants, don’t complain about this monk.

This monk gets the four absorptions—blissful meditations in the present life that belong to the higher mind—when he wants, without trouble or difficulty. He has realized the supreme culmination of the spiritual path in this very life, and lives having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

Now at that time Venerable Visākha, Pañcālī's son, was educating, encouraging, firing up, and inspiring the mendicants in the assembly hall with a Dhamma talk. His words were polished, clear, articulate, expressing the meaning, comprehensive, and independent.

Atha kho bhagavā sāyanhasamayaṃ paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yena

It’s good that you educate, encourage, fire up, and inspire the mendicants in the assembly hall with a Dhamma talk, with words that are polished, clear, articulate, expressing the meaning, comprehensive, and independent.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Idaṃ vatvāna sugato athāparaṃ etadavoca satthā:

Then the Holy One, the Teacher, went on to say:

Then Venerable Nanda—the Buddha’s cousin on his mother’s side—dressed in nicely pressed and ironed robes, applied eyeshadow, and took a polished black bowl. He went to the Buddha, bowed, and sat down to one side. The Buddha said to him:

“na kho te taṃ, nanda, patirūpaṃ kulaputtassa saddhā

Atha kho so bhikkhu bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsanā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā pakkāmi.

And then that mendicant approved and agreed with what the Buddha said. He got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before leaving.

Atha kho so bhikkhu eko vūpakaṭṭho appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agāasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaraṃ—brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihāsi.

Then that mendicant, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā”ti abbhaññāsi.

He understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā bārāṇasiyaṃ viharati isipatane
migadāye.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Benares, in the deer park at Isipatana.

Tatra kho bhagavā pañcavaggiye bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the group of five mendicants:

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum̐.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Rūpaṃ, bhikkhave, anattā.

“Mendicants, form is not-self.

Rūpañca hidaṃ, bhikkhave, attā abhavissa, nayidaṃ rūpaṃ ābādhāya saṃvatteyya, labbheṭṭha ca rūpe:

For if form were self, it wouldn't lead to affliction. And you could compel form:

‘evaṃ me rūpaṃ hotu, evaṃ me rūpaṃ mā ahoṣī’ti.

‘May my form be like this! May it not be like that!’

Yasmā ca kho, bhikkhave, rūpaṃ anattā, tasmā rūpaṃ ābādhāya saṃvattati, na ca labbhati rūpe:

But because form is not-self, it leads to affliction. And you can't compel form:

‘evaṃ me rūpaṃ hotu, evaṃ me rūpaṃ mā ahoṣī’ti.
‘May my form be like this! May it not be like that!’

Vedanā anattā.

Feeling is not-self ...

Vedanā ca hidaṃ, bhikkhave, attā abhaviṣṣa, nayidaṃ vedanā ābādhāya saṃvatteyya, labbheṭṭha ca vedanāya:

Choices are not-self ...

Saṅkhārā ca hidaṃ, bhikkhave, attā abhaviṣṣaṃsu, nayidaṃ saṅkhārā ābādhāya saṃvatteyyuṃ, labbheṭṭha ca saṅkhāresu:

‘evaṃ me saṅkhārā hontu, evaṃ me saṅkhārā mā ahesun’ti.

Yasmā ca kho, bhikkhave, saṅkhārā anattā, tasmā saṅkhārā ābādhāya saṃvattanti, na ca labbhati saṅkhāresu:

‘evaṃ me saṅkhārā hontu, evaṃ me saṅkhārā mā ahesun’ti.

Viññāṇaṃ anattā.

Consciousness is not-self.

Viññāṇaṃ ca hidaṃ, bhikkhave, attā abhaviṣṣa, nayidaṃ viññāṇaṃ ābādhāya saṃvatteyya, labbheṭṭha ca viññāṇe:

For if consciousness were self, it wouldn't lead to affliction. And you could compel consciousness:

‘evaṃ me viññāṇaṃ hotu, evaṃ me viññāṇaṃ mā ahoṣī’ti.
‘May my consciousness be like this! May it not be like that!’

Yasmā ca kho, bhikkhave, viññāṇaṃ anattā, tasmā viññāṇaṃ ābādhāya saṃvattati, na ca labbhati viññāṇe:

‘May my consciousness be like this! May it not be like that!’

Taṃ kiṃ maññatha, bhikkhave,
What do you think, mendicants?

rūpaṃ niccaṃ vā aniccaṃ vā”ti?
Is form permanent or impermanent?”

“Aniccaṃ, bhante”.
“Impermanent, sir.”

“Yaṃ paṇāniccaṃ dukkhaṃ vā taṃ sukhaṃ vā”ti?

Evam̐ passam̐, bhikkhave, sutavā ariyasāvako rūpasmimpi nibbindati, vedanāyapi nibbindati, saññāyapi nibbindati, saṅkhāresupi nibbindati, viññāṇasmimpi nibbindati.

Seeing this, a learned noble disciple grows disillusioned with form, feeling, perception, choices, and consciousness.

Nibbindam̐ virajjati; virāgā vimuccati. Vimuttasmim̐ vimuttamiti ñāṇam̐ hoti.

Being disillusioned, desire fades away. When desire fades away they're freed. When they're freed, they know they're freed.

'Khīṇā jāti, vusitam̐ brahmacariyam̐, kataṁ karaṇīyam̐, nāparam̐ itthattāyā'ti pajānātī'ti.

They understand: 'Rebirth is ended, the spiritual journey has been completed, what had to be done has been done, there is no return to any state of existence.'

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṁ abhinandum̐.

Satisfied, the group of five mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.

Imasmiñca pana veyyākaraṇasmim̐ bhaññamāne pañcavaggiyānam̐ bhikkhūnam̐ anupādāya āsavehi cittāni vimuccim̐sūti.

And while this discourse was being spoken, the minds of the group of five mendicants were freed from defilements by not grasping.

Sattamaṁ.

Then Mahāli the Licchavi went up to the Buddha ... and said to him:

“Pūraṇo, bhante, kassapo evamāha:

“Sir, Pūraṇa Kassapa says this:

‘natthi hetu natthi paccayo sattānaṃ saṅkilesāya;

‘There is no cause or condition for the corruption of sentient beings.

“Good, good, mendicant!

Sādhu kho tvaṃ, bhikkhu, mayā saṅkhittena bhāsitassa vitthārena attham̐ ājānāsī.

It’s good that you understand the detailed meaning of what I’ve said in brief like this.

Rūpaṃ kho, bhikkhu, upādiyamāno baddho māraṣṣa;
When you grasp form you're bound by Māra.

anupādiyamāno mutto pāpimato.
Not grasping, you're free from the Wicked One.

viññāṇaṃ upādiyamāno baddho māraṣṣa;
consciousness, you're bound by Māra.

anupādiyamāno mutto pāpimato.
Not grasping, you're free from the Wicked One.

Imaṣṣa kho, bhikkhu, mayā saṅkhittena bhāṣitassa evaṃ vitthārena attho daṭṭhabbo'ti.
This is how to understand the detailed meaning of what I said in brief."

Atha kho so bhikkhu bhagavato bhāṣitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsanā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā pakkāmi.
And then that mendicant approved and agreed with what the Buddha said. He got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before leaving.

Atha kho so bhikkhu eko vūpakaṭṭho appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agāraṣṣmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaraṃ—brahmacariyapariyoṣānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayāṃ abhiñña sacchikatvā upasampajja viharati.

Then that mendicant, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā”ti abbhaññāsi.

He understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

Aññataro ca pana so bhikkhu arahataṃ ahoṣīti.

And that mendicant became one of the perfected.

Deformed by what?

Sītenapi ruppati, uñhenapi ruppati, jighacchāyapi ruppati, pipāsāyapi ruppati,

ḍaṃsamakasavātātapasarīsapasamphassenapi ruppati.

Deformed by cold, heat, hunger, and thirst, and deformed by the touch of flies, mosquitoes, wind, sun, and reptiles.

Ruppatīti kho, bhikkhave, tasmā 'rūpan'ti vuccati.

It's deformed; that's why it's called 'form'.

Kiñca, bhikkhave, vedanaṃ vadetha?

And why do you call it feeling?

Vedayatīti kho, bhikkhave, tasmā 'vedanā'ti vuccati.

It feels; that's why it's called 'feeling'.

Kiñca vedayati?

And what does it feel?

Sukhampi vedayati, dukkhampi vedayati, adukkhamasukhampi vedayati.

80. Piṇḍolyasutta Beggars

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā sakkesu viharati kapilavatthusmiṃ nigrodhārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Sakyans, near Kapilavatthu in the Banyan Tree Monastery.

Atha kho bhagavā kismiñcideva pakaraṇe bhikkhusaṅghaṃ paṇāmetvā pubbaṅhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya kapilavatthum̐ piṇḍāya pāvīsi.

Then the Buddha, having dismissed the mendicant Saṅgha for some reason, robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Kapilavatthu for alms.

Kapilavatthusmiṃ piṇḍāya caritvā pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātapaṭikkanto yena mahāvanaṃ tenupasaṅkami divāvihārāya.

He wandered for alms in Kapilavatthu. After the meal, on his return from alms-round, he went to the Great Wood, Mahāvanaṃ ajjhogāhetvā beluvalaṭṭhikāya mūle divāvihāraṃ nisīdi.

plunged deep into it, and sat at the root of a young wood apple tree for the day's meditation.

Atha kho bhagavato rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa evaṃ cetaso parivitakko udapādi:

Then as he was in private retreat this thought came to his mind, “mayā kho bhikkhusaṅgho pabāḷho.

“I've sent the mendicant Saṅgha away.

Santettha bhikkhū navā acirapabbajitā adhunāgatā imam dhammavinayam.

But there are mendicants here who are junior, recently gone forth, newly come to this teaching and training.

Tesam mamam apassantānam siyā aññathattam siyā vipariṇāmo.

Not seeing me they may change and fall apart.

Seyyathāpi nāma vacchassa taruṇassa mātaram apassantassa siyā aññathattam siyā vipariṇāmo;

In the same way, there are mendicants here who are junior, recently gone forth, newly come to this teaching and training.

tesam mamam alabhantānam dassanāya siyā aññathattam siyā vipariṇāmo.

Not seeing me they may change and fall apart.

Yannūnāham yatheva mayā pubbe bhikkhusaṅgho anuggahito, evameva etarahi anuggaṇḥeyyam bhikkhusaṅghan”ti.

Why don't I support the mendicant Saṅgha now as I did in the past?"

Atha kho brahmā sahampati bhagavato cetasā cetoparivitakkamaññāya—seyyathāpi nāma balavā puriso samiñjitaṃ vā bāham pasāreyya pasāritaṃ vā bāham samiñjeyya; evameva—brahmaloke antarahito bhagavato purato pāturahosi.

Then Brahmā Sahampati knew what the Buddha was thinking. As easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, he vanished from the Brahmā realm and reappeared in front of the Buddha.

Atha kho brahmā sahampati ekaṃsaṃ uttarāsaṅgaṃ karitvā yena bhagavā tenañjaliṃ paṇāmetvā bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:
He arranged his robe over one shoulder, raised his joined palms toward the Buddha, and said:

“evametaṃ, bhagavā, evametaṃ, sugata.
“That’s so true, Blessed One! That’s so true, Holy One!

Bhagavatā, bhante, bhikkhusaṅgho pabāḷho.
The Buddha has sent the mendicant Saṅgha away.

Santettha bhikkhū navā acirapabbajitā adhunāgatā imaṃ dhammavinayaṃ.
But there are mendicants who are junior, recently gone forth, newly come to this teaching and training. ...

Tesaṃ bhagavantaṃ apassantānaṃ siyā aññathattaṃ siyā vipariṇāmo.

Seyyathāpi nāma vacchassa taruṇassa mātaraṃ apassantassa siyā aññathattaṃ siyā vipariṇāmo;

Seyyathāpi nāma bījānaṃ taruṇānaṃ udakaṃ alabhantānaṃ siyā aññathattaṃ siyā vipariṇāmo;

evameva santettha bhikkhū navā acirapabbajitā adhunāgatā imaṃ dhammavinayaṃ, tesaṃ bhagavantaṃ alabhantānaṃ dassanāya siyā aññathattaṃ siyā vipariṇāmo.

Abhinandatu, bhante, bhagavā bhikkhusaṅghaṃ;
May the Buddha be happy with the mendicant Saṅgha!

abhivadatu, bhante, bhagavā bhikkhusaṅghaṃ.

May the Buddha welcome the mendicant Saṅgha!

Yatheva bhagavatā pubbe bhikkhusaṅgho anuggahito, evameva etarahi anuggaṇhātu bhikkhusaṅghan”ti.

May the Buddha support the mendicant Saṅgha now as he did in the past!”

Adhivāsesi bhagavā tuṅhībhāvena.

The Buddha consented in silence.

Atha kho brahmā sahampati bhagavato adhivāsanam veditvā bhagavantam abhivādetvā padakkhiṇam katvā tatthevantaradhāyi.

Then Brahmā Sahampati, knowing that the Buddha had consented, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before vanishing right there.

Atha kho bhagavā sāyanhasamayam paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yena nigrodhārāmo tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā paññatte āsane nisīdi.

Then in the late afternoon, the Buddha came out of retreat and went to the Banyan Tree Monastery, where he sat on the seat spread out.

Nisajja kho bhagavā tathārūpam iddhābhisāṅkhāram abhisāṅkhāsi yathā te bhikkhū ekadvīhikāya sārājjamānarūpā yenāham tenupasaṅkameyyum.

Then he used his psychic power to will that the mendicants would come to him timidly, alone or in pairs.

Tepi bhikkhū ekadvīhikāya sārājjamānarūpā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantam nisīdimsu. Ekamantam nisinne kho te bhikkhū bhagavā etadavoca:

Those mendicants approached the Buddha timidly, bowed, and sat down to one side. The Buddha said to them:

“Antamidam, bhikkhave, jīvikānam yadidam piṇḍolyam.

“Mendicants, this relying on alms is an extreme lifestyle.

Abhisāpoyaṃ, bhikkhave, lokasmiṃ piṇḍolo vicarasi pattapāṇīti.

The world curses you: ‘You beggar, walking bowl in hand!’

Tañca kho etaṃ, bhikkhave, kulaputtā upenti atthavasikā,

Yet earnest gentlemen take it up for a good reason.

neva rājābhinītā, na corābhinītā, na iṇaṭṭā, na bhayaṭṭā, na

Not because they’ve been forced to by kings or bandits, or because they’re in debt or threatened, or to earn a living.

api ca kho otiṇṇāma jātiyā jarāya maraṇena sokehi paridevehi dukkhehi domanassehi upāyāsehi dukkhotiṇṇā dukkhaparetā

But because they’re swamped by rebirth, old age, and death; by sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress. They’re swamped by suffering, mired in suffering.

appeva nāma imassa kevalassa dukkhakkhandhassa antakiriya paññāyethāti.

And they think, ‘Hopefully I can find an end to this entire mass of suffering.’

Evaṃ pabbajito cāyaṃ, bhikkhave, kulaputto.

That’s how this gentleman has gone forth.

So ca hoti abhijjhālu kāmesu tibbasārāgo byāpannacitto paduṭṭhamanasaṅkappo muṭṭhassati asampajāno asamāhito vibbhantacitto pākatindriyo.

Yet they covet sensual pleasures; they’re infatuated, full of ill will and malicious intent. They are unmindful, lacking situational awareness and immersion, with straying mind and undisciplined faculties.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, chavālātaṃ ubhatopadittaṃ majjhe gūthagataṃ, neva gāme kaṭṭhatthaṃ pharati, nāraññe kaṭṭhatthaṃ pharati.

Suppose there was a firebrand for lighting a funeral pyre, burning at both ends, and smeared with dung in the middle. It couldn't be used as timber either in the village or the wilderness.

Tathūpamāhaṃ, bhikkhave, imaṃ puggalaṃ vadāmi gihibhogā ca parihīno, sāmaññatthañca na paripūreti.

I say that person is just like this. They've missed out on the pleasures of the lay life, and haven't fulfilled the goal of the ascetic life.

Tayome, bhikkhave, akusalavitakkā—

There are these three unskillful thoughts.

kāmavitakko, byāpādavitakko, vihiṃsāvitakko.

Sensual, malicious, and cruel thoughts.

Ime ca bhikkhave, tayo akusalavitakkā kva aparisesā nirujjhanti?

And where do these three unskillful thoughts cease without anything left over?

Catūsu vā satipaṭṭhānesu suppatiṭṭhitacittassa viharato animittaṃ vā samādhiṃ bhāvayato.

In those who meditate with their mind firmly established in the four kinds of mindfulness meditation; or who develop signless immersion.

Yāvañcidaṃ, bhikkhave, alameva animitto samādhi bhāvetuṃ.

Just this much is quite enough motivation to develop signless immersion.

Animitto, bhikkhave, samādhi bhāvito bahulīkato mahapphalo hoti mahānisamso.

When signless immersion is developed and cultivated it is very fruitful and beneficial.

Dvemā, bhikkhave, diṭṭhiyo—

There are these two views.

bhavadiṭṭhi ca vibhavadiṭṭhi ca.

Views favoring continued existence and views favoring ending existence.

Tatra kho, bhikkhave, sutavā ariyasāvako iti paṭisañcikkhati:

A noble disciple reflects on this:

‘atthi nu kho taṃ kiñci lokasmiṃ yamaḥ upādiyamāno na vajjavā assan’ti?’

‘Is there anything in the world that I could grasp without fault?’

So evaṃ pajānāti:

Rebirth is a condition that gives rise to old age and death, sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress.

Evametassa kevalassa dukkhakkhandhassa samudayo assā’ti.

That is how this entire mass of suffering originates.

Taṃ kiṃ maññatha, bhikkhave,

81. Pālileyyasutta At Pārileyya

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā kosambiyam̐ viharati ghoṣitārāme.
At one time the Buddha was staying near Kosambi, in Ghosita's Monastery.

Atha kho bhagavā pubbaṇhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Kosambi for alms.

After the meal, on his return from alms-round, he set his lodgings in order himself. Taking his bowl and robe, without informing his attendants or taking leave of the mendicant Saṅgha, he set out to go wandering alone, with no companion.

Atha kho aññataro bhikkhu acirapakkantassa bhagavato yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā
āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etadavoca:

Then, not long after the Buddha had left, one of the mendicants went to Venerable Ānanda and told him what had happened.

“esāvuso ānanda, bhagavā sāmam̐ senāsanam̐ saṃsāmetvā pattacīvaramādāya anāmantetvā upaṭṭhāke anapaloketvā

“Yasmiṃ, āvuso, samaye bhagavā sāmaṃ senāsaṇaṃ anapaloketvā bhikkhusaṅghaṃ eko adutiyo cārikaṃ pakkamati, Ānanda said, “Reverend, when the Buddha leaves like this it means he wants to stay alone.

na bhagavā tasmīṃ samaye kenaci anubandhitabbo hotī”ti.

At this time no-one should follow him.”

Atha kho bhagavā anupubbena cārikaṃ caramāno yena pālileyyakaṃ tadavasari.

Then the Buddha, traveling stage by stage, arrived at Pārileyya,

Tatra sudamṃ bhagavā pālileyyake viharati bhaddasālamūle.

where he stayed at the root of a sacred sal tree.

Atha kho sambahulā bhikkhū yenāyasmā ānando

Then several mendicants went up to Venerable Ānanda and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, they sat down to one side and said to him,

“cirassutā kho no, āvuso ānanda, bhagavato sammukhā dhammī kathā;

“Reverend, it’s been a long time since we’ve heard a Dhamma talk from the Buddha.

icchāma mayaṃ, āvuso ānanda, bhagavato sammukhā

We wish to hear a Dhamma talk from the Buddha.”

Atha kho āyasmā ānando tehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ yena pālileyyakam̐ bhaddasālamūlam̐ yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam̐ abhivādetvā ekamantam̐ nisīdi.

Then Venerable Ānanda together with those mendicants went to Pārileyya to see the Buddha. They bowed and sat down to one side,

Ekamantam̐ nisinne kho te bhikkhū bhagavā dhammiyā kathāya sandassesesi samādapesi samuttejesi sampahaṃsesi.

and the Buddha educated, encouraged, fired up, and inspired them with a Dhamma talk.

Tena kho pana samayena aññatarassa bhikkhuno evaṃ cetaso

Now at that time one of the monks had the thought,

“katham̐ nu kho jānato katham̐ passato anantarā āsavānam̐

“How do you know and see in order to end the defilements in the present life?”

Atha kho bhagavā tassa bhikkhuno cetasā

Then the Buddha, knowing what that monk was thinking, addressed the mendicants:

“vicayaso desito, bhikkhave, mayā dhammo;

Take an uneducated ordinary person who has not seen the noble ones, and is neither skilled nor trained in the teaching of the noble ones. They've not seen good persons, and are neither skilled nor trained in the teaching of the good persons.

rūpaṃ attato samanupassati.

They regard form as self.

Yā kho pana sā, bhikkhave, samanupassanā saṅkhāro so.

But that regarding is just a conditioned phenomenon.

So pana saṅkhāro kimnidāno kiṃsamudayo kimjātiko kimṃpabhavo?

And what's the source, origin, birthplace, and root of that conditioned phenomenon?

Avijjāsamphassajena, bhikkhave, vedayitena phuṭṭhassa assutavato puthujjanassa uppannā taṇhā;

When an uneducated ordinary person is struck by feelings born of contact with ignorance, craving arises.

tatojo so saṅkhāro.

That conditioned phenomenon is born from that.

Iti kho, bhikkhave, sopi saṅkhāro anicco saṅkhato

So that conditioned phenomenon is impermanent, conditioned, and dependently originated.

Sāpi taṇhā aniccā saṅkhatā paṭiccasamuppannā.

And that craving,

Sāpi vedanā, sopi phasso anicco saṅkhato that feeling, that contact,

Sāpi avijjā aniccā saṅkhatā paṭiccasamuppannā.

and that ignorance are also impermanent, conditioned, and dependently originated.

Evampi kho, bhikkhave, jānato evaṃ passato anantarā

That's how you should know and see in order to end the defilements in the present life.

Na heva kho rūpaṃ attato samanupassati;

Perhaps they don't regard form as self,

api ca kho rūpavantam attanam samanupassati.

but they still regard self as possessing form.

Yā kho pana sā, bhikkhave, samanupassanā saṅkhāro so.

But that regarding is just a conditioned phenomenon. ...

but they still regard form in self.

Yā kho pana sā, bhikkhave, samanupassanā saṅkhāro so.

Perhaps they don't regard form as self, or self as possessing form, or form in self,

api ca kho rūpasmim attānaṃ samanupassati.
but they still regard self in form.

Yā kho pana sā, bhikkhave, samanupassanā saṅkhāro so.
But that regarding is just a conditioned phenomenon. ...

consciousness as self ...

Yā kho pana sā, bhikkhave, samanupassanā saṅkhāro so.

But that regarding is just a conditioned phenomenon.

So pana saṅkhāro kimnidāno ...pe... kimpabhavo?

And what's the source of that conditioned phenomenon?

Avijjāsamphassajena, bhikkhave, vedayitena phuṭṭhassa assutavato puthujjanassa uppannā taṇhā;

When an uneducated ordinary person is struck by feelings born of contact with ignorance, craving arises.

tatojo so saṅkhāro.

That conditioned phenomenon is born from that.

Iti kho, bhikkhave, sopi saṅkhāro anicco saṅkhato

That's how you should know and see in order to end the defilements in the present life.

Na heva kho rūpaṃ attato samanupassati,

‘The self and the cosmos are one and the same. After passing away I will be permanent, everlasting, eternal, and imperishable.’

Yā kho pana sā, bhikkhave, sassatadiṭṭhi saṅkhāro so.
But that eternalist view is just a conditioned phenomenon.

So pana saṅkhāro kimnidāno ...pe...

And what’s the source of that conditioned phenomenon? ...

evampi kho, bhikkhave, jānato evaṃ passato anantarā āsavānaṃ khayō hoti.

Still, they have doubts and uncertainties. They’re undecided about the true teaching.

Yā kho pana sā, bhikkhave, kaṅkhitā vicikicchitā aniṭṭhaṅgatatā saddhamme saṅkhāro so.

That doubt and uncertainty, the indecision about the true teaching, is just a conditioned phenomenon.

So pana saṅkhāro kimnidāno kimsamudayo kimjātiko kimpabhavo?

And what’s the source of that conditioned phenomenon?

Avijjāsamphassajena, bhikkhave, vedayitena phuṭṭhassa assutavato puthujjanassa uppannā taṇhā;

82. Puṇṇamasutta A Full Moon Night

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati pubbārāme migāramātupāsāde mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhiṃ.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in the Eastern Monastery, the stilt longhouse of Migāra’s mother, together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants.

Tena kho pana samayena bhagavā tadahuposathe pannarase puṇṇāya puṇṇamāya rattiyā bhikkhusaṅghaparivuto ajjhokāse nisinno hoti.

Now, at that time it was the sabbath—the full moon on the fifteenth day—and the Buddha was sitting surrounded by the Saṅgha of monks.

Atha kho aññataro bhikkhu uṭṭhāyāsanā ekamsaṃ uttarāsaṅgaṃ karitvā yena bhagavā tenañjalim̐ paṇāmetvā bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

Then one of the mendicants got up from their seat, arranged their robe over one shoulder, raised their joined palms toward the Buddha, and said:

“puccheyyāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavantaṃ kiñcideva desaṃ, sace me bhagavā okāsaṃ karoti pañhassa veyyākaraṇāyā”ti?

“Sir, I’d like to ask the Buddha about a certain point, if you’d take the time to answer.”

“Tena hi tvaṃ, bhikkhu, sake āsane nisīditvā puccha yadākaṅkhasī”ti.

“Well then, mendicant, take your own seat and ask what you wish.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho so bhikkhu bhagavato paṭissutvā sake āsane nisīditvā bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

“Yes, sir,” replied that mendicant. He took his seat and said to the Buddha:

“ime nu kho, bhante, pañcupādānakkhandhā, seyyathidaṃ—

“Sir, are these the five grasping aggregates, that is:

rūpupādānakkhandho, vedanupādānakkhandho, saññupādānakkhandho, saṅkhārupādānakkhandho, viññāṇupādānakkhandho”ti.

form, feeling, perception, choices, and consciousness?”

“Ime kho, bhikkhu, pañcupādānakkhandhā;

“Yes, they are,” replied the Buddha.

Seyyathidaṃ—rūpupādānakkhandho ...pe... viññāṇupādānakkhandho”ti.

“Sādhu, bhante”ti kho so bhikkhu bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā bhagavantaṃ uttariṃ pañhaṃ apucchi:

Saying “Good, sir”, that mendicant approved and agreed with what the Buddha said. Then he asked another question:

“Ime kho pana, bhante, pañcupādānakkhandhā kiṃmūlakā”ti?

“But sir, what is the root of these five grasping aggregates?”

“Ime kho, bhikkhu, pañcupādānakkhandhā chandamūlakā”ti ... pe...

“These five grasping aggregates are rooted in desire.” ...

taññeva nu kho, bhante, upādānaṃ te pañcupādānakkhandhā udāhu aññatra pañcahi upādānakkhandhehi upādānaṃ”ti?

“But sir, is that grasping the exact same thing as the five grasping aggregates? Or is grasping one thing and the five grasping aggregates another?”

“Na kho, bhikkhu, taññeva upādānaṃ te pañcupādānakkhandhā nāpi aññatra pañcahi upādānakkhandhehi upādānaṃ, api ca yo tattha chandarāgo taṃ tattha upādānaṃ”ti.

“Neither. Rather, the desire and greed for them is the grasping there.”

“Sādhu, bhante”ti kho so bhikkhu ...pe... uttarim pañhaṃ apucchi:

Saying “Good, sir”, that mendicant asked another question:

“Siyā pana, bhante, pañcupādānakkhandhesu chandarāgavemattatā”ti?

“But sir, can there be different kinds of desire and greed for the five grasping aggregates?”

“Siyā, bhikkhū”ti bhagavā avoca:

“There can,” said the Buddha.

“idha, bhikkhu, ekaccassa evaṃ hoti:

‘evaṃrūpo siyaṃ anāgatamaddhānaṃ, evaṃvedano siyaṃ anāgatamaddhānaṃ, evaṃsañño siyaṃ anāgatamaddhānaṃ, evaṃsaṅkhāro siyaṃ anāgatamaddhānaṃ, evaṃviññāṇo siyaṃ anāgatamaddhānaṃ’ti.

84. Tissasutta With Tissa

Sāvattihinidānaṃ.
At Sāvattihī.

Tena kho pana समयena āyasmā tisso bhagavato

Now at that time Venerable Tissa, the Buddha's paternal cousin, informed several mendicants:

“api me, āvuso, madhurakajāto viya kāyo; “Reverends, my body feels like it's drugged. I'm disorientated, the teachings don't inspire me, and dullness and drowsiness fill my mind. I live the spiritual life dissatisfied, and have doubts about the teachings.”

Then several mendicants went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened.

“āyasmā, bhante, tisso bhagavato pitucchāputto sambahulānaṃ bhikkhūnaṃ evamāroceti:

85. Yamakasutta With Yamaka

Ekam̐ samayaṃ āyasmā sāriputto sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time Venerable Sāriputta was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena yamakassa nāma bhikkhuno evarūpaṃ pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ uppannaṃ hoti:

Now at that time a mendicant called Yamaka had the following harmful misconception:

“tathāhaṃ bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāmi, yathā khīṇāsavo bhikkhu kāyassa bheda ucchijjati vinassati, na hoti paraṃ maraṇā”ti.

“As I understand the Buddha's teaching, a mendicant who has ended the defilements is annihilated and destroyed when their body breaks up, and doesn't exist after death.”

Assosuraṃ kho sambahulā bhikkhū yamakassa kira nāma bhikkhuno evarūpaṃ pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ uppannaṃ hoti:

Several mendicants heard about this.

“tathāhaṃ bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāmi, yathā khīṇāsavo bhikkhu kāyassa bheda ucchijjati vinassati, na hoti paraṃ maraṇā”ti.

Atha kho te bhikkhū yenāyasmā yamako tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamitvā āyasmatā yamakena saddhiṃ sammodiṃsu.

They went to Yamaka and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodaniyam katham saraṇiyam vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu. Ekamantaṃ nisinnā kho te bhikkhū āyasmantaṃ yamakaṃ etadavocum:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, they sat down to one side and said to him,

“Saccam kira te, āvuso yamaka, evarūpaṃ pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ uppannaṃ:

“Is it really true, Reverend Yamaka, that you have such a harmful misconception:

‘tathāhaṃ bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāmi, yathā khīṇāsavo bhikkhu kāyassa bhedaṃ ucchijjati vinassati, na hoti paraṃ maraṇā’”ti?

‘As I understand the Buddha’s teaching, a mendicant who has ended the defilements is annihilated and destroyed when their body breaks up, and doesn’t exist after death.’”

“Evaṃ khvāhaṃ, āvuso, bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāmi:

“Yes, reverends, that’s how I understand the Buddha’s teaching.”

‘khīṇāsavo bhikkhu kāyassa bhedaṃ ucchijjati vinassati, na hoti paraṃ maraṇā’”ti.

“Mā, āvuso yamaka, evaṃ avaca, mā bhagavantaṃ abbhācikkhi. Na hi sādhu bhagavato abbhācikkhanaṃ. Na hi bhagavā evaṃ vadeyya:

“Don’t say that, Yamaka! Don’t misrepresent the Buddha, for misrepresentation of the Buddha is not good. And the Buddha would not say that.”

‘khīṇāsavo bhikkhu kāyassa bhedaṃ ucchijjati vinassati, na hoti paraṃ maraṇā’”ti.

Evampi kho āyasmā yamako tehi bhikkhūhi vuccamāno tatheva taṃ pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ thāmasā parāmāsā abhinivissa voharati:

But even though admonished by those mendicants, Yamaka obstinately stuck to that misconception and insisted on stating it.

“tathāhaṃ bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāmi, yathā khīṇāsavo bhikkhu kāyassa bheda ucchijjati vinassati, na hoti paraṃ maraṇā”ti.

Yato kho te bhikkhū nāsakkhiṃsu āyasmantaṃ yamakaṃ etasmā pāpakā diṭṭhigatā vivecetum, atha kho te bhikkhū uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ yenāyasmā sāriputto tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ sāriputtaṃ etadavocum:

When those mendicants were unable to dissuade Yamaka from that misconception, they got up from their seats and went to see Venerable Sāriputta. They told him what had happened, and said, “yamakassa nāma, āvuso sāriputta, bhikkhuno evarūpaṃ pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ uppannaṃ:

‘tathāhaṃ bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāmi yathā khīṇāsavo bhikkhu kāyassa bheda ucchijjati vinassati, na hoti paraṃ maraṇā’ti.

Sādhāyasmā sāriputto yena yamako bhikkhu tenupasaṅkamatu anukampaṃ upādāyā”ti.

“May Venerable Sāriputta please go to the mendicant Yamaka out of compassion.”

Adhivāsesi kho āyasmā sāriputto tuṅhībhāvena.

Sāriputta consented in silence.

Atha kho āyasmā sāriputto sāyanhasamayaṃ paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yenāyasmā yamako tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmatā yamakena saddhiṃ sammodi ...pe... ekamantaṃ nisinna kho āyasmā sāriputto āyasmantaṃ yamakaṃ etadavoca:

Then in the late afternoon, Venerable Sāriputta came out of retreat, went to Venerable Yamaka and exchanged greetings with him.

Seated to one side he said to Yamaka:

“Saccam kira te, āvuso yamaka, evarūpaṃ pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ uppannaṃ:

“Evaṃ khvāhaṃ, āvuso, bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāmi, yathā khīṇāsavo bhikkhu kāyassa bheda ucchijjati vinassati, na hoti paraṃ maraṇā’”ti.

“In that case, Reverend Yamaka, since you don’t acknowledge the Realized One as a genuine fact in the present life, is it appropriate to declare:

‘tathāhaṃ bhagavatā dhammaṃ desitaṃ ājānāmi, yathā khīṇāsavo bhikkhu kāyassa bhedaṃ ucchijjati vinassati, na hoti paraṃ maraṇā’”ti?

‘As I understand the Buddha’s teaching, a mendicant who has ended the defilements is annihilated and destroyed when their body breaks up, and doesn’t exist after death.’?”

“Ahu kho me taṃ, āvuso sāriputta, pubbe aviddasuno pāpakaṃ diṭṭhigataṃ;

But now that I’ve heard the teaching from Venerable Sāriputta I’ve given up that misconception, and I’ve comprehended the teaching.”

“Sace taṃ, āvuso yamaka, evaṃ puccheyyuṃ:

“Reverend Yamaka, suppose they were to ask you:

‘yo so, āvuso yamaka, bhikkhu arahamaṃ khīṇāsavo so kāyassa bhedaṃ paraṃ maraṇā kiṃ hotī’”ti?

‘When their body breaks up, after death, what happens to a perfected one, who has ended the defilements?’

Evaṃ puṭṭho tvaṃ, āvuso yamaka, kinti byākareyyāsī”ti?

How would you answer?”

“Sace maṃ, āvuso, evaṃ puccheyyuṃ:

Evaṃ puṭṭhohaṃ, āvuso, evaṃ byākareyyaṃ:

I’d answer like this:

‘rūpaṃ kho, āvuso, aniccaṃ.

‘Reverend, form is impermanent.

Evaṃ puṭṭhohaṃ, āvuso, evaṃ byākareyyan’ti.

That’s how I’d answer such a question.”

“Sādhu sādhu, āvuso yamaka.

“Good, good, Reverend Yamaka!

Tena hāvuso yamaka, upamaṃ te karissāmi etasseva atthassa

Well then, I shall give you a simile to make the meaning even clearer.

Seyyathāpi, āvuso yamaka, gahapati vā gahapatiputto vā aḍḍho

Suppose there was a householder or householder's son who was rich, with a lot of money and great wealth, and a bodyguard for protection.

Tassa kocideva puriso uppajjeyya anattakāmo ahitakāmo

Then along comes a person who wants to harm, injure, and threaten him, and take his life.

Tassa evamassa:

They'd think:

'ayaṃ kho gahapati vā gahapatiputto vā aḍḍho mahaddhano

'This householder or householder's son is rich, with a lot of money and great wealth,

so ca ārakkhasampanno;
and a bodyguard for protection.

nāyaṃ sukaro pasayha jīvitā voropetuṃ.

It won't be easy to take his life by force.

Yannūnāhaṃ anupakhajja jīvitā voropeyyan'ti.

Why don't I get close to him, then take his life?'

So taṃ gahapatiṃ vā gahapatiputtaṃ vā upasaṅkamtivā evaṃ

So he goes up to that householder or householder's son and says:

'upaṭṭhaheyyaṃ taṃ, bhante'ti.

'Sir, I would serve you.'

Tamevaṃ so gahapati vā gahapatiputto vā upaṭṭhāpeyya.

Then they would serve that householder or householder's son.

So upaṭṭhaheyya pubbuṭṭhāyī pacchānipātī kiṅkārapaṭissāvī

They'd get up before him and go to bed after him, and be obliging, behaving nicely and speaking politely.

Tassa so gahapati vā gahapatiputto vā mittatopi nam

The householder or householder's son would consider them as a friend and come to trust them.

Yadā kho, āvuso, tassa purisassa evamassa:

they've gained the trust of the householder or householder's son, then, when they know he's alone, they'd take his life with a sharp knife.

Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, āvuso yamaka,
What do you think, Yamaka?

yadā hi so puriso amuṃ gahapatiṃ vā gahapatiputtaṃ vā

Yadāpi so upaṭṭhahati pubbuṭṭhāyī pacchānipātī

And when they got up before him and went to bed after him, being then,

Vadhakañca pana santam na aññasi:

though he didn't know that

'vadhako me'ti.

this was his killer?

Yadāpi nam rahogataṃ viditvā tiṅhena satthena jīvitā voropeti,

And when, knowing he was alone, they took his life with a sharp knife, weren't they a killer then,

Vadhakañca pana santam na aññasi:

this was his killer?"

“Evamāvuso”ti.

“Yes, reverend.”

86. Anurādhasutta With Anurādha

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā vesāliyaṃ viharati mahāvane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Vesālī, at the Great Wood, in the hall with the peaked roof.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā anurādho bhagavato avidūre

Now at that time Venerable Anurādha was staying not far from the Buddha in a wilderness hut.

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, they sat down to one side and said to him:

“yo so, āvuso anurādha, tathāgato uttamapuriso paramapuriso paramapattipatto, taṃ tathāgato imesu catūsu ṭhānesu paññāpayamāno paññāpeti:

“Reverend Anurādha, when a Realized One is describing a Realized One—a supreme person, highest of people, who has reached the highest point—they describe them in these four ways:

‘hoti tathāgato param̃ maraṇā’ti vā, ‘na hoti tathāgato param̃ maraṇā’ti vā, ‘hoti ca na ca hoti tathāgato param̃ maraṇā’ti vā, ‘neva hoti na na hoti tathāgato param̃ maraṇā’ti vā’”ti?

After death, a Realized One exists, or doesn’t exist, or both exists and doesn’t exist, or neither exists nor doesn’t exist.”

Evaṃ vutte, āyasmā anurādho te aññatitthiye paribbājake etadavoca:

9. Senior Mendicants

87. Vakkalisutta With Vakkali

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati veḷuvane
kalandakanivāpe.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā vakkali kumbhakāranivesane viharati ābādhiko dukkhito bāl̐hagilāno.

Now at that time Venerable Vakkali was staying in a potter's shed, and he was sick, suffering, gravely ill.

Atha kho āyasmā vakkali upaṭṭhāke āmantesi:

Then he addressed his carers,

“etha tumhe, āvuso, yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamatha;
upasaṅkamtivā mama vacanena bhagavato pāde sirasā
vandatha:

“Please, reverends, go to the Buddha, and in my name bow with your head to his feet. Say to him:

‘vakkali, bhante, bhikkhu ābādhiko dukkhito bāl̐hagilāno, so bhagavato pāde sirasā vandatī’ti.

‘Sir, the mendicant Vakkali is sick, suffering, and gravely ill. He bows with his head to your feet.’

Evañca vadetha:

And then say:

‘sādhu kira, bhante, bhagavā yena vakkali bhikkhu tenupasaṅkamatu anukampaṃ upādāyā’”ti.

‘Sir, please go to the mendicant Vakkali out of compassion.’”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato vakkalissa paṭissutvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamim̐su; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdim̐su. Ekamantaṃ nisinnā kho te bhikkhū bhagavantaṃ etadavocum̐:

“Yes, reverend,” those monks replied. They did as he asked.

“vakkali, bhante, bhikkhu ābādhiko dukkhito bāḷhagilāno, so bhagavato pāde sirasā vandati;

evañca pana vadeti:

‘sādhu kira, bhante, bhagavā yena vakkali bhikkhu tenupasaṅkamatu anukampaṃ upādāyā’”ti.

Adhivāsesi bhagavā tuṅhībhāvena.

The Buddha consented in silence.

Atha kho bhagavā nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya yenāyasmā vakkali tenupasaṅkami.

Then the Buddha robed up and, taking his bowl and robes, went to Venerable Vakkali.

Addasā kho āyasmā vakkali bhagavantaṃ dūratova āgacchantaṃ. Disvāna mañcake samadhosi.

Venerable Vakkali saw the Buddha coming off in the distance and tried to rise on his cot.

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ vakkalim̐ etadavoca:

But the Buddha said to him,

“alam̐, vakkali, mā tvaṃ mañcake samadhosi.

Santimāni āsanāni paññattāni; tatthāham̐ nisīdissāmī”ti.

There are some seats spread out, I will sit there.”

Nisīdi bhagavā paññatte āsane. Nisajja kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ vakkaliṃ etadavoca:

He sat on the seat spread out and said to Vakkali,

“kacci te, vakkali, khamanīyaṃ, kacci yāpanīyaṃ, kacci dukkhā vedanā paṭikkamanti, no abhikkamanti; paṭikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no abhikkamo”ti?

“Vakkali, I hope you’re keeping well; I hope you’re alright. And I hope the pain is fading, not growing, that its fading is evident, not its growing.”

“Na me, bhante, khamanīyaṃ, na yāpanīyaṃ; bālḥā me dukkhā vedanā abhikkamanti, no paṭikkamanti; abhikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no paṭikkamo”ti.

“Sir, I’m not all right, I’m not getting by. My pain is terrible and growing, not fading; its growing is apparent, not its fading.”

“Kacci te, vakkali, na kiñci kukkuccaṃ, na koci vippaṭisāro”ti?
“I hope you don’t have any remorse or regret?”

“Taggha me, bhante, anappakaṃ kukkuccaṃ, anappako vippaṭisāro”ti.

“Indeed, sir, I have no little remorse and regret.”

“Kacci pana taṃ, vakkali, attā sīlato na upavadatī”ti?

“I hope you have no reason to blame yourself when it comes to ethical conduct?”

“Na kho maṃ, bhante, attā sīlato upavadatī”ti.

“No sir, I have no reason to blame myself when it comes to ethical conduct.”

“No ce kira taṃ, vakkali, attā sīlato upavadati; atha kiñca te kukkuccaṃ ko ca vippaṭisāro”ti?

“In that case, Vakkali, why do you have remorse and regret?”

“Cirapaṭikāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavantaṃ dassaṇāya upasaṅkamtukāmo, natthi ca me kāyasmim̐ tāvatikā balamattā, yāvatāhaṃ bhagavantaṃ dassaṇāya upasaṅkameyyan”ti.

“For a long time I’ve wanted to go and see the Buddha, but I was physically too weak.”

“Alaṃ, vakkali, kiṃ te iminā pūtikāyena diṭṭhena?

“Enough, Vakkali! Why would you want to see this rotten body?”

Yo kho, vakkali, dhammaṃ passati so maṃ passati;

One who sees the teaching sees me.

yo maṃ passati so dhammaṃ passati.

One who sees me sees the teaching.

Dhammañhi, vakkali, passanto maṃ passati;

Seeing the teaching, you see me.

maṃ passanto dhammaṃ passati.

Seeing me, you see the teaching.

Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, vakkali,

What do you think, Vakkali?

rūpaṃ niccaṃ vā aniccaṃ vā”ti?

Is form permanent or impermanent?”

“Aniccaṃ, bhante”.

“Impermanent, sir.”

“Yaṃ paṇāniccaṃ dukkhaṃ vā taṃ sukhaṃ vā”ti?

“But if it’s impermanent, is it suffering or happiness?”

“Dukkhaṃ, bhante”.

“Suffering, sir.”

“Yaṃ paṇāniccaṃ dukkhaṃ vipariṇāmadhammaṃ, kallaṃ nu taṃ samanupassituṃ:

“But if it’s impermanent, suffering, and perishable, is it fit to be regarded thus:

‘etaṃ mama, esohamasmi, eso me attā’”ti?

‘This is mine, I am this, this is my self’?”

“No hetam, bhante”.

“No, sir.”

“Vedanā ...

“Is feeling ...

saññā ...

saṅkhārā ...

viññāṇaṃ niccaṃ vā aniccaṃ vā”ti?

consciousness permanent or impermanent?”

“Aniccaṃ, bhante” ...pe...

“Impermanent, sir.” ...

eso me attāti?

“No hetam, bhante”.

“Tasmātiha ...pe...

“So you should truly see ...

evaṃ passaṃ ...pe...

Seeing this ...

nāparaṃ itthattāyāti pajānāti”ti.

They understand: ‘... there is no return to any state of existence.’”

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ vakkaliṃ iminā ovādena ovaditvā uṭṭhāyāsanā yena gijjhakūṭo pabbato tena pakkāmi.

And then, after giving Venerable Vakkali this advice, the Buddha got up from his seat and went to the Vulture’s Peak Mountain.

Atha kho āyasmā vakkali acirapakkantassa bhagavato
upaṭṭhāke āmantesi:

Then Venerable Vakkali addressed his carers,

“etha maṃ, āvuso, mañcakaṃ āropetvā yena isigilipassaṃ kāḷasilā tenupasaṅkamatha.

“Come on, reverends, lift my cot and take me to the Black Rock on the slopes of Isigili.

Kathañhi nāma mādiso antaraghare kālaṃ kattabbaṃ maññeyyā”ti?

It’s unthinkable for one like me to die in an inhabited area!”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato vakkalissa paṭissutvā āyasmantaṃ vakkaliṃ mañcakaṃ āropetvā yena isigilipassaṃ kāḷasilā tenupasaṅkamimsu.

“Yes, reverend,” replied those mendicants, and did as he asked.

Atha kho bhagavā tañca rattim tañca divāvasesaṃ gijjhakūṭe pabbate vihāsi.

Meanwhile, the Buddha spent the rest of that night and day on Vulture’s Peak Mountain.

Atha kho dve devatāyo abhikkantāya rattiyā abhikkantavaṇṇā kevalakappaṃ gijjhakūṭaṃ obhāsetvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu ...pe... ekamantaṃ aṭṭhaṃsu.

Then, late at night, two glorious deities, lighting up the entire Vulture’s Peak, went up to the Buddha, bowed, and stood to one side.

Ekamantaṃ ṭhitā kho ekā devatā bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

One deity said to him,

“vakkali, bhante, bhikkhu vimokkhāya cetetī”ti.

“Sir, the mendicant Vakkali is intent on liberation!”

Aparā devatā bhagavantam etadavoca:

And another deity said to him,

“so hi nūna, bhante, suvimutto vimuccissatī”ti.

“He’ll definitely be well-freed!”

Idamavocum tā devatāyo.

This is what those deities said.

Idam vatvā bhagavantam abhivādetvā padakkhiṇam katvā tatthevantaradhāyimsu.

Then they bowed and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on their right side, before vanishing right there.

Atha kho bhagavā tassā rattiyā accayena bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then, when the night had passed, the Buddha addressed the mendicants:

“etha tumhe, bhikkhave, yena vakkali bhikkhu

tenupasaṅkamatha; upasaṅkamtivā vakkalim bhikkhum evam vadetha:

“Come, mendicants, go to the mendicant Vakkali and tell him:

‘Suṇāvuso tvaṃ, vakkali, bhagavato vacanam dvinnaṅca devatānam.

‘Vakkali, hear the word of the Buddha and two deities.

Imam, āvuso, rattim dve devatāyo abhikkantāya rattiyā abhikkantavaṇṇā kevalakappam gijjhakūṭam obhāsetvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhamsu.

Late last night, two glorious deities, lighting up the entire Vulture's Peak, went up to the Buddha, bowed, and stood to one side.

Ekamantaṃ ʘhitā kho, āvuso, ekā devatā bhagavantaṃ etadavoca—

One deity said to him,

vakkali, bhante, bhikkhu vimokkhāya cetetīti.

“Sir, the mendicant Vakkali is intent on liberation!”

Aparā devatā bhagavantaṃ etadavoca—

And another deity said to him,

so hi nūna, bhante, suvimutto vimuccissatīti.

“He'll definitely be well-freed!”

Bhagavā ca taṃ, āvuso vakkali, evamāha—

And the Buddha said,

mā bhāyi, vakkali;

“Do not fear, Vakkali,

mā bhāyi, vakkali.

do not fear!

Apāpakaṃ te maraṇaṃ bhavissati, apāpikā kālakiriyā””ti.

Your death will not be a bad one; your passing will not be a bad one.”””

“Evaṃ, bhante””ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paṭissutvā yenāyasmā vakkali tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ vakkaliṃ etadavocum:

“Yes, sir,” those monks replied. They went to Vakkali and said to him:

“suṇāvuso vakkali, bhagavato vacanaṃ dvinnañca devatānan””ti.

“Vakkali, hear the word of the Buddha and two deities.”

Atha kho āyasmā vakkali upaṭṭhāke āmantesi:

Then Vakkali addressed his carers,

“etha maṃ, āvuso, mañcakā oropetha.

“Please, reverends, help me off my cot.

Kathañhi nāma mādiso ucce āsane nisīditvā tassa bhagavato sāsanam sotabham maññeyyā”ti.

It’s unthinkable for one like me to listen to the Buddha’s instructions sitting on a high seat.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato vakkalissa paṭissutvā āyasmantaṃ vakkaliṃ mañcakā oropesuṃ.

“Yes, reverend,” replied those mendicants, and helped him off his cot.

“Imaṃ, āvuso, rattiṃ dve devatāyo abhikkantāya rattiyā ...pe...
ekamantaṃ aṭṭhaṃsu.

They repeated what the Buddha had said.

Ekamantaṃ ṭhitā kho, āvuso, ekā devatā bhagavantaṃ
etadavoca:

‘vakkali, bhante, bhikkhu vimokkhāya cetetī’ti.

Aparā devatā bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

‘so hi nūna, bhante, suvimutto vimuccissatī’ti.

Bhagavā ca taṃ, āvuso vakkali, evamāha:

‘mā bhāyi, vakkali;

mā bhāyi, vakkali.

Apāpakaṃ te maraṇaṃ bhavissati, apāpikā kālakiriyā””ti.

“Tena hāvuso, mama vacanena bhagavato pāde sirasā
vandatha:

Vakkali said, “Well then, reverends, in my name bow with your head to the Buddha’s feet. Say to him:

‘vakkali, bhante, bhikkhu ābādhiko dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.

‘Sir, the mendicant Vakkali is sick, suffering, gravely ill.

So bhagavato pāde sirasā vandatī’ti.

He bows with his head to your feet.’

Evañca vadetha:

And then say:

‘rūpaṃ aniccaṃ.

‘Form is impermanent.

Tāhaṃ, bhante, na kaṅkhāmi.

I have no doubt of that.

Yadaniccaṃ taṃ dukkhanti na vicikicchāmi.

I’m certain that what is impermanent is suffering.

Yadaniccaṃ dukkhaṃ vipariṇāmadhammaṃ, natthi me tattha chando vā rāgo vā pemaṃ vāti na vicikicchāmi.

And I’m certain that I have no desire or greed or fondness for what is impermanent, suffering, and perishable.

Vedanā aniccā.

Feeling is impermanent ...

Tāhaṃ, bhante, na kaṅkhāmi.

Yadaniccaṃ taṃ dukkhanti na vicikicchāmi.

Yadaniccaṃ dukkhaṃ vipariṇāmadhammaṃ, natthi me tattha chando vā rāgo vā pemaṃ vāti na vicikicchāmi.

Saññā ...

saṅkhārā aniccā.

Choices are impermanent ...

Tāhaṃ, bhante, na kaṅkhāmi.

Yadaniccaṃ taṃ dukkhanti na vicikicchāmi.

Yadaniccaṃ dukkhaṃ vipariṇāmadhammaṃ, natthi me tattha chando vā rāgo vā pemaṃ vāti na vicikicchāmi.

Viññāṇaṃ aniccaṃ.

Consciousness is impermanent.

Tāhaṃ, bhante, na kaṅkhāmi.

I have no doubt of that.

Yadaniccaṃ taṃ dukkhanti na vicikicchāmi.

I'm certain that what is impermanent is suffering.

Yadaniccaṃ dukkhaṃ vipariṇāmadhammaṃ, natthi me tattha chando vā rāgo vā pemaṃ vāti na vicikicchāmi””ti.

And I'm certain that I have no desire or greed or fondness for what is impermanent, suffering, and perishable.”

“Evamāvuso””ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato vakkalissa paṭissutvā pakkamiṃsu.

“Yes, reverend,” those monks replied, and left.

Atha kho āyasmā vakkali acirapakkantesu tesu bhikkhūsu satthaṃ āharesi.

And then, not long after those mendicants had left, Venerable Vakkali slit his wrists.

Atha kho te bhikkhū yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimṃsu; upasaṅkamtivā ekamantaṃ nisīdimṃsu. Ekamantaṃ nisinnā kho te bhikkhū bhagavantaṃ etadavocuṃ:

Then those senior mendicants went up to the Buddha and told him Vakkali's message.

“vakkali, bhante, bhikkhu ābādhiko dukkhito bāḷhagilāno;

so bhagavato pāde sirasā vandati;

evañca vadeti:

‘rūpaṃ aniccaṃ.

Tāhaṃ, bhante, na kaṅkhāmi.

Yadaniccaṃ taṃ dukkhanti na vicikicchāmi.

Yadaniccaṃ dukkhaṃ vipariṇāmadhammaṃ, natthi me tattha chando vā rāgo vā pemaṃ vāti na vicikicchāmi.

Vedanā ...

saññā ...

saṅkhārā ...

viññāṇaṃ aniccaṃ.

Tāhaṃ, bhante, na kaṅkhāmi.

Yadaniccaṃ taṃ dukkhanti na vicikicchāmi.

Yadaniccaṃ dukkhaṃ vipariṇāmadhammaṃ, natthi me tattha chando vā rāgo vā pemaṃ vāti na vicikicchāmi”ti.

Atha kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha said to the mendicants,

“āyāma, bhikkhave, yena isigilipassaṃ kāḷasilā tenupasaṅkamissāma;

“Come, mendicants, let’s go to the Black Rock on the slopes of Isigili, yattha vakkalinā kulaputtena satthamāharitaṃ”ti.

where Vakkali, the gentleman, slit his wrists.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosun.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Atha kho bhagavā sambahulehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ yena isigilipassaṃ kāḷasilā tenupasaṅkami.

Then the Buddha together with several mendicants went to the Black Rock on the slopes of Isigili.

Addasā kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ vakkaliṃ dūratova mañcake vivattakkhandhaṃ semānaṃ.

The Buddha saw Vakkali off in the distance lying on his cot, having cast off the aggregates.

Tena kho pana samayena dhūmāyitattaṃ timirāyitattaṃ gacchateva purimaṃ disaṃ, gacchati pacchimaṃ disaṃ, gacchati uttaraṃ disaṃ, gacchati dakkhiṇaṃ disaṃ, gacchati uddhaṃ disaṃ, gacchati adho disaṃ, gacchati anudisaṃ.

Now at that time a cloud of black smoke was moving east, west, north, south, above, below, and in-between.

Atha kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

The Buddha said to the mendicants,

“passatha no tumhe, bhikkhave, etaṃ dhūmāyitattaṃ timirāyitattaṃ gacchateva purimaṃ disaṃ ...pe... gacchati anudisaṃ”ti.

“Mendicants, do you see that cloud of black smoke moving east, west, north, south, above, below, and in-between?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Eso kho, bhikkhave, māro pāpimā vakkalissa kulaputtassa viññāṇaṃ samanvesati:

“That’s Māra the Wicked searching for Vakkali’s consciousness, wondering:

‘kattha vakkalissa kulaputtassa viññāṇaṃ patiṭṭhitaṃ’ti?

‘Where is Vakkali’s consciousness established?’

Appatiṭṭhitena ca, bhikkhave, viññāṇena vakkali kulaputto parinibbuto”ti.

But since his consciousness is not established, Vakkali is extinguished.”

88. Assajisutta With Assaji

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati veḷuvane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā assaji kassapakārāme

Now at that time Venerable Assaji was staying in a monastery built by a Kassapa, and he was sick, suffering, gravely ill.

Atha kho āyasmā assaji upaṭṭhāke āmantesi:

Then he addressed his carers:

“etha tumhe, āvuso, yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamatha;

The Buddha consented in silence.

Atha kho bhagavā sāyanhasamayam̐ paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yenāyasmā assaji tenupasaṅkami.

89. Khemakasutta With Khemaka

Ekam samayaṃ sambahulā therā bhikkhū kosambiyam viharanti ghoṣitārāme.

At one time several senior mendicants were staying near Kosambi, in Ghosita's Monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā khemako badarikārāme viharati ābādhiko dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.

Now at that time Venerable Khemaka was staying in the Jujube Tree Monastery, and he was sick, suffering, gravely ill.

Atha kho therā bhikkhū sāyanhasamayaṃ paṭisallānā vuṭṭhitā āyasmantaṃ dāsakaṃ āmantesuṃ:

In the late afternoon those senior mendicants came out of retreat and addressed Venerable Dāsaka,

“ehi tvaṃ, āvuso dāsaka, yena khemako bhikkhu tenupasaṅkama; upasaṅkamtivā khemakaṃ bhikkhum evaṃ vadehi:

“Please, Reverend Dāsaka, go to the mendicant Khemaka and say to him:

‘therā taṃ, āvuso khemaka, evamāhaṃsu—

‘Reverend Khemaka, the seniors

kacci te, āvuso, khamanīyaṃ, kacci yāpanīyaṃ, kacci dukkhā vedanā paṭikkamanti no abhikkamanti, paṭikkamosānaṃ paññāyati no abhikkamo”’ti?

hope you're keeping well; they hope you're alright. They hope that your pain is fading, not growing, that its fading is evident, not its growing.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho āyasmā dāsako therānaṃ bhikkhūnaṃ paṭissutvā yenāyasmā khemako tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ khemakaṃ etadvoca:

“Yes, reverends,” replied Dāsaka. He went to Khemaka and said to him:

“therā taṃ, āvuso khemaka, evamāhaṃsu:

“Reverend Khemaka, the seniors

‘kacci te, āvuso, khamanīyaṃ ...pe... no abhikkamo’”ti?

hope you’re keeping well; they hope you’re alright. They hope that your pain is fading, not growing, that its fading is evident, not its growing.”

“Na me, āvuso, khamanīyaṃ na yāpanīyaṃ ...pe...

abhikkamosānaṃ paññāyati no paṭikkamo’”ti.

“Reverend, I’m not keeping well, I’m not alright. My pain is terrible and growing, not fading; its growing is evident, not its fading.”

Atha kho āyasmā dāsako yena therā bhikkhū tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā there bhikkhū etadvoca:

Then Dāsaka went to those seniors and told them what had happened. They said, “khemako, āvuso, bhikkhu evamāha:

‘na me, āvuso, khamanīyaṃ ...pe... abhikkamosānaṃ paññāyati no paṭikkamo’”ti.

“Ehi tvaṃ, āvuso dāsaka, yena khemako bhikkhu
tenupasaṅkama; upasaṅkamtivā khemakaṃ bhikkhuṃ evaṃ

“Please, Reverend Dāsaka, go to the mendicant Khemaka and say to him:

“Yes, reverends,” replied Dāsaka. He relayed the message to Khemaka, who replied:

“Evamāvuso”ti kho āyasmā dāsako therānam bhikkhūnam paṭissutvā yenāyasmā khemako ...pe...

“Yes, reverends,” replied Dāsaka. He relayed the message to Khemaka, who replied:

Tameṇaṃ rajako sāmikānaṃ deti. Tameṇaṃ sāmikā gandhaparibhāvite karaṇḍake nikkhipanti.

The launderer returns it to its owners, who store it in a chest permeated with scent.

Yopissa hoti anusahagato ūsagandho vā khāragandho vā gomayagandho vā asamūhato, sopi samugghātaṃ gacchati.

And that lingering scent would be eradicated.

Evameva kho, āvuso, kiñcāpi ariyasāvakaṃsa pañcorambhāgiyāni saṃyojanāni pahīnāni bhavanti, atha khvassa hoti yeva pañcasu upādānakkhandhesu anusahagato ‘asmī’ti, māno ‘asmī’ti, chando ‘asmī’ti anusayo asamūhato.

Evaṃ vutte, therā bhikkhū āyasmantaṃ khemakaṃ etadavocuṃ:

When he said this, the senior mendicants said to Venerable Khemaka, “na kho mayaṃ āyasmantaṃ khemakaṃ vihesāpekhā pucchimha, api cāyasmā khemako pahosi tassa bhagavato sāsanaṃ vitthārena ācikkhituṃ desetūṃ paññāpetuṃ paṭṭhapetuṃ vivarituṃ vibhajituṃ uttānīkātuṃ.

Idamavoca āyasmā khemako.

That's what Venerable Khemaka said.

Attamanā therā bhikkhū āyasmato khemakassa bhāsitaṃ

Satisfied, the senior mendicants were happy with what Venerable Khemaka said.

And while this discourse was being spoken, the minds of sixty senior mendicants and of Venerable Khemaka were freed from defilements by not grasping.

“May the venerable senior mendicants advise me and instruct me!
May they give me a Dhamma talk so that I can see the teaching!”

Evaṃ vutte, therā bhikkhū āyasmantaṃ channaṃ etadavocuṃ:
When he said this, the senior mendicants said to Venerable Channa:

“rūpaṃ kho, āvuso channa, aniccaṃ;

“Sammukhā metāṃ, āvuso channa, bhagavato sutāṃ, sammukhā paṭiggahitaṃ kaccānagottaṃ bhikkhuṃ ovadantassa—

“Reverend Channa, I heard and learned in the presence of the Buddha his advice to the mendicant Kaccānagotta:

dvayanissito khvāyaṃ, kaccāna, loko yebhuyyena atthitañceva natthitañca.

‘Kaccāna, this world mostly relies on the dual notions of existence and non-existence.

Lokasamudayaṃ kho, kaccāna, yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya passato yā loke natthitā, sā na hoti.

But when you truly see the origin of the world with right understanding, you won't have the notion of non-existence regarding the world.

Lokanirodhaṃ kho, kaccāna, yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya passato yā loke atthitā, sā na hoti.

And when you truly see the cessation of the world with right understanding, you won't have the notion of existence regarding the world.

Upayupādānābhinivesavinibandho khvāyaṃ, kaccāna, loko yebhuyyena

The world is for the most part shackled by attraction, grasping, and insisting.

taṃ cāyaṃ upayupādānaṃ cetaso adhiṭṭhānābhinivesānusayaṃ na upeti na upādiyati nādhiṭṭhāti 'attā me'ti.

But if—when it comes to this attraction, grasping, mental fixation, insistence, and underlying tendency—you don't get attracted, grasp, and commit to the notion “my self”,

Dukkhameva uppajjamānaṃ uppajjati, dukkhaṃ nirujjhamānaṃ nirujjhatīti na kaṅkhati na vicikicchati.

you'll have no doubt or uncertainty that what arises is just suffering arising, and what ceases is just suffering ceasing.

Aparappaccayā ñāṇamevassa ettha hoti.

Your knowledge about this is independent of others.

Ettāvatā kho, kaccāna, sammādiṭṭhi hoti.

This is how right view is defined.

Sabbamatthīti kho, kaccāna, ayameko anto.

“All exists”: this is one extreme.

Sabbaṃ natthīti ayaṃ dutiyo anto.

“All doesn’t exist”: this is the second extreme.

Ete te, kaccāna, ubho ante anupagamma majjhena tathāgato dhammaṃ deseti—

Avoiding these two extremes, the Realized One teaches by the middle way:

avijjāpaccayā saṅkhārā;

“Ignorance is a condition for choices.

saṅkhārapaccayā viññāṇaṃ ...pe...

Choices are a condition for consciousness. ...

evametassa kevalassa dukkhakkhandhassa samudayo hoti.

That is how this entire mass of suffering originates.

Avijjāya tveva asesavirāganirodhā saṅkhāranirodho ...pe...

When ignorance fades away and ceases with nothing left over, choices cease. ...

evametassa kevalassa dukkhakkhandhassa nirodho hotī”ti.

That is how this entire mass of suffering ceases.””

“Evametaṃ, āvuso ānanda, hoti yesaṃ āyasmantānaṃ tādisā sabrahmacārayo anukampakā atthakāmā ovādakā anusāsakā.

“Reverend Ānanda, this is how it is when you have such venerables as spiritual companions to advise and instruct you out of kindness and compassion.

Idaṅca pana me āyasmato ānandassa dhammadesanaṃ sutvā dhammo abhisamito”ti.

And now that I’ve heard this teaching from Venerable Ānanda, I’ve comprehended the teaching.”

95. Pheṇapiṇḍūpamasutta A Lump of Foam

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā ayujjhāyaṃ viharati gaṅgāya nadiyā tīre.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Ayojjhā on the bank of the Ganges river.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants:

“Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, ayaṃ gaṅgā nadī mahantaṃ pheṇapiṇḍaṃ āvaheyya. Tameṇaṃ cakkhumā puriso passeyya nijjhāyeyya yoniso upaparikkheyya. Tassa taṃ passato nijjhāyato yoniso upaparikkhato rittakaññeva khāyeyya, tucchakaññeva khāyeyya, asārakaññeva khāyeyya. Kiñhi siyā, bhikkhave, pheṇapiṇḍe sāro?

“Mendicants, suppose this Ganges river was carrying along a big lump of foam. And a person with good eyesight would see it and contemplate it, examining it carefully. And it would appear to them as completely void, hollow, and insubstantial. For what substance could there be in a lump of foam?

In the same way, a mendicant sees and contemplates any kind of consciousness at all—past, future, or present; internal or external; coarse or fine; inferior or superior; near or far—examining it carefully. And it appears to them as completely void, hollow, and insubstantial. For what substance could there be in consciousness?

Evaṃ passaṃ, bhikkhave, sutavā ariyasāvako rūpasmimpi nibbindati, vedanāyapi ... saññāyapi ... saṅkhāresupi ...

Being disillusioned, desire fades away. When desire fades away they're freed. When they're freed, they know they're freed.

“Mendicants, transmigration has no known beginning.

Pubbā koṭi na paññāyati avijjānīvaraṇānaṃ sattānaṃ

No first point is found of sentient beings roaming and transmigrating, hindered by ignorance and fettered by craving.

“Jānato ahaṃ, bhikkhave, passato āsavānaṃ khayaṃ vadāmi, no ajānato no apassato.

“Mendicants, I say that the ending of defilements is for one who knows and sees, not for one who does not know or see.

Kiñca, bhikkhave, jānato kiṃ passato āsavānaṃ khayō hoti?
For one who knows and sees what?

‘Iti rūpaṃ, iti rūpassa samudayo, iti rūpassa atthaṅgamo;
