Winds

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattḥī in Jeta’s Grove.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“kismiṃ nu kho, bhikkhave, sati, kiṃ upādāya, kiṃ abhinivissa evaṃ diṭṭhi uppajjati:

“Mendicants, when what exists, because of grasping what and insisting on what, does the view arise:

‘na vātā vāyanti, na najjo sandanti, na gabbhiniyo vijāyanti, na candimasūriyā uđenti vā apenti vā esikaṭṭhāyiṭṭhitā’”ti?

‘Winds don’t blow; rivers don’t flow; pregnant women don’t give birth; the moon and stars neither rise nor set, but stand firm like a pillar.’”

“Tena hi, bhikkhave, suṇātha, sādhukaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmi”ti.

“Well then, mendicants, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Rūpe kho, bhikkhave, sati, rūpaṃ upādāya, rūpaṃ abhinivissa evaṃ diṭṭhi uppajjati:

Sāvattthinidānaṃ.

At Sāvattthī.

“Cattārome, bhikkhave, jhāyī.

“Mendicants, there are these four meditators.

Katame cattāro?

What four?

Idha, bhikkhave, ekacco jhāyī samādhismiṃ sātaccakārī hoti, na samādhismiṃ sappāyakārī.

One meditator is skilled in practicing persistently for immersion but not in doing what's conducive to it.

Idha pana, bhikkhave, ekacco jhāyī samādhismiṃ sappāyakārī hoti, na samādhismiṃ sātaccakārī.

One meditator is skilled in doing what's conducive to immersion but not in practicing persistently for it.

Idha pana, bhikkhave, ekacco jhāyī neva samādhismiṃ sātaccakārī hoti, na ca samādhismiṃ sappāyakārī.

One meditator is skilled neither in practicing persistently for immersion nor in doing what's conducive to it.

Idha pana, bhikkhave, ekacco jhāyī samādhismiṃ sātaccakārī ca hoti, samādhismiṃ sappāyakārī ca.

One meditator is skilled both in practicing persistently for immersion and in doing what's conducive to it.

Of these, the meditator skilled both in practicing persistently for immersion and in doing what's conducive to it is the foremost, best, leading, highest, and finest of the four.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, gavā khīraṃ, khīramhā dadhi, dadhimhā navanītaṃ, navanītamhā sappi, sappimhā sappimaṇḍo tatra aggamakkhāyati;

From a cow comes milk, from milk comes curds, from curds come butter, from butter comes ghee, and from ghee comes cream of ghee. And the cream of ghee is said to be the best of these.

evameva kho, bhikkhave, yvāyaṃ jhāyī samādhismiṃ sātaccakārī ca hoti, samādhismiṃ sappāyakārī ca ayaṃ imesaṃ catunnaṃ jhāyīnaṃ aggo ca seṭṭho ca mokkho ca uttamo ca pavaro cā'ti.

In the same way, the meditator skilled both in practicing persistently for immersion and in doing what's conducive to it is the foremost, best, leading, highest, and finest of the four.”

1. Ajjhattāniccasutta The Interior as Impermanent

Evaṃ me sutāṃ.

So I have heard.

Ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Cakkhum, bhikkhave, aniccaṃ.

“Mendicants, the eye is impermanent.

Yadaniccaṃ taṃ dukkhaṃ;

What's impermanent is suffering.

yaṃ dukkhaṃ tadanattā.

What's suffering is not-self.

Yadanattā taṃ ‘netāṃ mama, nesohamasmi, na meso attā’ti evametaṃ yathābhūtaṃ sammappaññāya daṭṭhabbam.

And what's not-self should be truly seen with right understanding like this: 'This is not mine, I am not this, this is not my self.'

28. Ādittasutta Burning

Ekam samayaṃ bhagavā gayāyaṃ viharati gayāsīse saddhiṃ bhikkhusahassena.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Gayā on Gayā Head together with a thousand mendicants.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants:

“sabbaṃ, bhikkhave, ādittaṃ.

“Mendicants, all is burning.

Kiñca, bhikkhave, sabbaṃ ādittaṃ?

Aññathābhāvī bhavasatto loko bhavamevābhinandati.

The world is attached to being, taking pleasure only in being, yet it becomes something else.

Yāvatā, bhikkhave, khandhadhātuāyatanaṃ tampi na maññati, tasmimpi na maññati, tatopi na maññati, taṃ meti na maññati.

As far as the aggregates, elements, and sense fields extend, they don't identify with that, they don't identify in that, they don't identify from that, and they don't identify: 'That is mine.'

So evaṃ amaññamāno na ca kiñci loke upādiyati.

Not identifying, they don't grasp at anything in the world.

Anupādiyaṃ na paritassati. Aparitassaṃ paccattaññeva parinibbāyati.

Not grasping, they're not anxious. Not being anxious, they personally become extinguished.

When he said this, Sārīputta said to him,

“na kho pana mayaṃ passāma āyasmato upasenassa kāyassa

“Yassa nūna, āvuso sāriputta, evamassa:

“Reverend Sāriputta, there may be an impairment in body or deterioration of faculties for someone who thinks:

‘ahaṃ cakkhūti vā mama cakkhūti vā ...pe...

‘I am the eye’ or ‘the eye is mine.’

ahaṃ jivhāti vā mama jivhāti vā ...

Or ‘I am the ear ... nose ... tongue ... body ...’

ahaṃ manoti vā mama manoti vā’.

Tassa mayhañca kho, āvuso sāriputta, kiṃ kāyassa vā

So why would there be an impairment in my body or deterioration of my faculties?”

Tathā hi panāyasmato upasenassa dīgharattaṃ ahaṅkāramamaṅkāramānānusayo susamūhato.

“That must be because Venerable Upasena has long ago totally eradicated ego, possessiveness, and the underlying tendency to conceit.

Tasmā āyasmato upasenassa na evaṃ hoti:

That’s why it doesn’t occur to you:

“‘ahaṃ cakkhūti vā mama cakkhūti vā ...pe...

Or ‘I am the mind’ or ‘the mind is mine.’”

Atha kho te bhikkhū āyasmato upasenassa kāyaṃ mañcakaṃ

Upavāṇa on What is Visible in This Very Life

Atha kho āyasmā upavāṇo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami ...pe...

and said to him:

“sandiṭṭhiko dhammo, sandiṭṭhiko dhammo’ti, bhante, vuccati.
“Sir, they speak of ‘a teaching visible in this very life’.

Kittāvatā nu kho, bhante, sandiṭṭhiko dhammo hoti, akāliko

87. Channasutta With Channa

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati veḷuvane
kalandakanivāpe.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā ca sāriputto āyasmā ca mahācundo āyasmā ca channo gijjhakūṭe pabbate viharanti.
Now at that time the venerables Sāriputta, Mahācunda, and Channa were staying on the Vulture's Peak Mountain.

Tena kho pana samayena yena āyasmā channo ābādhiko hoti dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.

Now at that time Venerable Channa was sick, suffering, gravely ill.

Atha kho āyasmā sāriputto sāyanhasamayaṃ paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yenāyasmā mahācundo tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ mahācundaṃ etadavoca:

Then in the late afternoon, Venerable Sāriputta came out of retreat, went to Venerable Mahācunda and said to him,

“āyāmāvuso cunda, yenāyasmā channo tenupasaṅkamissāma gilānapucchakā”ti.

“Come, Reverend Cunda, let's go to see Venerable Channa and ask about his illness.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho āyasmā mahācundo āyasmato sāriputtassa

“Yes, reverend,” replied Mahācunda.

Atha kho āyasmā ca sāriputto āyasmā ca mahācundo

And then Sāriputta and Mahācunda went to see Channa and sat down on the seats spread out. Sāriputta said to Channa:

“kacci te, āvuso channa, khamanīyaṃ, kacci yāpanīyaṃ, kacci

“I hope you’re keeping well, Reverend Channa; I hope you’re alright. I hope that your pain is fading, not growing, that its fading is evident, not its growing.”

“Na me, āvuso sāriputta, khamanīyaṃ na yāpanīyaṃ, bāḷhā me

“So, Reverend Channa, you should pay close attention to this instruction of the Buddha whenever you can:

‘nissitassa calitaṃ, anissitassa calitaṃ natthi.

‘For the dependent there is agitation. For the independent there’s no agitation.

Calite asati passaddhi hoti.

When there's no agitation there is tranquility.

When there's tranquility there's no inclination.

Natiyā asati āgatigati na hoti.

When there's no inclination, there's no coming and going.

Āgatigatiyā asati cutūpapāto na hoti.

When there's no coming and going, there's no passing away and reappearing.

Cutūpapāte asati nevidha na huraṃ na ubhayamantarena.

When there's no passing away and reappearing, there's no this world or world beyond or between the two.

Then Bāhiya, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyam, kataṃ karam, nāparam itthattāyā”ti abbhaññāsi.

He understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

And Venerable Bāhiya became one of the perfected.

93. Dutiyadvayasutta A Duality (2nd)

“Dvayaṃ, bhikkhave, paṭicca viññāṇaṃ sambhoti.

“Mendicants, consciousness exists dependent on a duality.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, dvayaṃ paṭicca viññāṇaṃ sambhoti?

And what is that duality?

Cakkhuṅca paṭicca rūpe ca uppajjati cakkhuvīññāṇaṃ.

Eye consciousness arises dependent on the eye and sights.

Cakkhu aniccaṃ vipariṇāmi aññathābhāvi.

The eye is impermanent, perishing, and changing.

Rūpā aniccā vipariṇāmino aññathābhāvino.

Sights are impermanent, perishing, and changing.

Itthetaṃ dvayaṃ calañceva byathaṅca aniccaṃ vipariṇāmi aññathābhāvi.

So this duality is tottering and toppling; it’s impermanent, perishing, and changing.

Cakkhuvīññāṇaṃ aniccaṃ vipariṇāmi aññathābhāvi.

Eye consciousness is impermanent, perishing, and changing.

Yopi hetu yopi paccayo cakkhuvīññāṇassa uppādāya, sopi hetu sopi paccayo anicco vipariṇāmī aññathābhāvī.

And the causes and conditions that give rise to eye consciousness are also impermanent, perishing, and changing.

Aniccaṃ kho pana, bhikkhave, paccayaṃ paṭicca uppannaṃ cakkhuvīññāṇaṃ kuto niccaṃ bhavissati.

But since eye consciousness has arisen dependent on conditions that are impermanent, how could it be permanent?

Yā kho, bhikkhave, imesaṃ tiṇṇaṃ dhammānaṃ saṅgati sannipāto samavāyo, ayaṃ vuccati cakkhusamphasso.

The meeting, coming together, and joining together of these three things is called eye contact.

Cakkhusamphassopi anicco vipariṇāmī aññathābhāvī.

Eye contact is also impermanent, perishing, and changing.

Yopi hetu yopi paccayo cakkhusamphassassa uppādāya, sopi hetu sopi paccayo anicco vipariṇāmī aññathābhāvī.

And the causes and conditions that give rise to eye contact are also impermanent, perishing, and changing.

Aniccaṃ kho pana, bhikkhave, paccayaṃ paṭicca uppanno cakkhusamphasso kuto nicco bhavissati.

But since eye contact has arisen dependent on conditions that are impermanent, how could it be permanent?

Phuṭṭho, bhikkhave, vedeti, phuṭṭho ceteti, phuṭṭho sañjānāti.

Contacted, one feels, intends, and perceives.

Itthetepi dhammā calā ceva byathā ca aniccā vipariṇāmino aññathābhāvino ...pe...

So these things are tottering and toppling; they're impermanent, perishing, and changing.

Jivhañca paṭicca rase ca uppajjati jivhāviññānaṃ.

Ear consciousness ... Nose consciousness ... Tongue consciousness ... Body consciousness ...

Jivhā aniccā vipariṇāmī aññathābhāvī.

Rasā aniccā vipariṇāmino aññathābhāvino.

Itthetaṃ dvayaṃ calañceva byathañca aniccaṃ vipariṇāmi aññathābhāvī.

Jivhāviññāṇaṃ aniccaṃ vipariṇāmi aññathābhāvi.

Yopi hetu yopi paccayo jivhāviññāṇassa uppādāya, sopi hetu sopi paccayo anicco vipariṇāmī aññathābhāvī.

Aniccaṃ kho pana, bhikkhave, paccayaṃ paṭicca uppannaṃ jivhāviññāṇaṃ, kuto niccaṃ bhavissati.

Yā kho, bhikkhave, imesaṃ tiṇṇaṃ dhammānaṃ saṅgati sannipāto samavāyo, ayaṃ vuccati jivhāsamphasso.

Jivhāsamphassopi anicco vipariṇāmī aññathābhāvī.

Yopi hetu yopi paccayo jivhāsamphassassa uppādāya, sopi hetu sopi paccayo anicco vipariṇāmī aññathābhāvī.

Aniccaṃ kho pana, bhikkhave, paccayaṃ paṭicca uppanno jivhāsamphasso, kuto nicco bhavissati.

Phuṭṭho, bhikkhave, vedeti, phuṭṭho ceteti, phuṭṭho sañjānāti.

Itthetepi dhammā calā ceva byathā ca aniccā vipariṇāmino aññathābhāvino ...pe...

Manaṅca paṭicca dhamme ca uppajjati manoviññāṇaṃ.

Mind consciousness arises dependent on the mind and thoughts.

Mano anicco vipariṇāmī aññathābhāvī.

The mind is impermanent, perishing, and changing.

Dhammā aniccā vipariṇāmino aññathābhāvino.

Thoughts are impermanent, perishing, and changing.

Itthetaṃ dvayaṃ calañceva byathaṅca aniccaṃ vipariṇāmi aññathābhāvi.

So this duality is tottering and toppling; it's impermanent, perishing, and changing.

Manoviññāṇaṃ aniccaṃ vipariṇāmi aññathābhāvi.

Mind consciousness is impermanent, perishing, and changing.

Yopi hetu yopi paccayo manoviññāṇassa uppādāya, sopi hetu sopi paccayo anicco vipariṇāmī aññathābhāvī.

And the causes and conditions that give rise to mind consciousness are also impermanent, perishing, and changing.

Aniccaṃ kho pana, bhikkhave, paccayaṃ paṭicca uppannaṃ manoviññāṇaṃ, kuto niccaṃ bhavissati.

But since mind consciousness has arisen dependent on conditions that are impermanent, how could it be permanent?

Yā kho, bhikkhave, imesaṃ tiṇṇaṃ dhammānaṃ saṅgati sannipāto samavāyo, ayaṃ vuccati manosamphasso.

The meeting, coming together, and joining together of these three things is called mind contact.

Manosamphassopi anicco vipariṇāmī aññathābhāvī.

Mind contact is also impermanent, perishing, and changing.

Yopi hetu yopi paccayo manosamphassassa uppādāya, sopi hetu sopi paccayo anicco vipariṇāmī aññathābhāvī.

And the causes and conditions that give rise to mind contact are also impermanent, perishing, and changing.

Aniccaṃ kho pana, bhikkhave, paccayaṃ paṭicca uppanno manosamphasso, kuto nicco bhavissati.

But since mind contact has arisen dependent on conditions that are impermanent, how could it be permanent?

Phuṭṭho, bhikkhave, vedeti, phuṭṭho ceteti, phuṭṭho sañjānāti.

Contacted, one feels, intends, and perceives.

Itthetepi dhammā calā ceva byathā ca aniccā vipariṇāmino aññathābhāvino.

So these things are tottering and toppling; they're impermanent, perishing, and changing.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, dvayaṃ paṭicca viññāṇaṃ sambhotī”ti.

This is how consciousness exists dependent on a duality.”

Then Māluṅkyaputta, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ

Traveling to the End of the World

“Nāhaṃ, bhikkhave, gamanena lokassa antaṃ ñāteyyaṃ, daṭṭheyyaṃ, patteyyanti vadāmi.

“Mendicants, I say it’s not possible to know or see or reach the end of the world by traveling.

Na ca panāhaṃ, bhikkhave, appatvā lokassa antaṃ dukkhassa antakiriyaṃ vadāmi”ti.

But I also say there’s no making an end of suffering without reaching the end of the world.”

Idaṃ vatvā bhagavā uṭṭhāyāsanā vihāraṃ pāvisi.

When he had spoken, the Holy One got up from his seat and entered his dwelling.

Atha kho tesāṃ bhikkhūnaṃ acirapakkantassa bhagavato etadahosi:

Soon after the Buddha left, those mendicants considered,

“idaṃ kho no, āvuso, bhagavā saṅkhittena uddesaṃ uddisitvā vitthārena atthaṃ avibhajitvā uṭṭhāyāsanā vihāraṃ pavitṭho:

“The Buddha gave this brief passage for recitation, then entered his dwelling without explaining the meaning in detail. ...

“nāhaṃ, bhikkhave, gamanena lokassa antaṃ ñāteyyaṃ, daṭṭheyyaṃ, patteyyan”ti vadāmi.

Na ca panāhaṃ, bhikkhave, appatvā lokassa antaṃ dukkhassa

Ko nu kho imassa bhagavatā saṅkhittena uddesassa uddiṭṭhassa vitthārena atthaṃ avibhattassa vitthārena atthaṃ vibhajeyyā”ti?

Who can explain in detail the meaning of this brief passage for recitation given by the Buddha?”

Atha kho tesaṃ bhikkhūnaṃ etadahosi:

Then those mendicants thought,

“ayaṃ kho āyasmā ānando satthu ceva saṃvaṇṇito, sambhāvito ca viññūnaṃ sabrahmacārīnaṃ.

Pahoti cāyasmā ānando imassa bhagavatā saṅkhittena uddesassa uddiṭṭhassa vitthārena atthaṃ avibhattassa vitthārena atthaṃ vibhajitum.

He is capable of explaining in detail the meaning of this brief passage for recitation given by the Buddha.

Yannūna mayaṃ yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkameyyāma; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etamatthaṃ paṭipuccheyyāmā”ti.

Let’s go to him, and ask him about this matter.”

Atha kho te bhikkhū yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmatā ānandena saddhiṃ sammodimsu.

Then those mendicants went to Ānanda and exchanged greetings with him.

“May Venerable Ānanda please explain this.”

“Seyyathāpi, āvuso, puriso sārathhiko sāragavesī sārapiyesanaṃ caramāno mahato rukkhassa tiṭṭhato sāravato

atikkammeva, mūlaṃ atikkammeva, khandhaṃ sākāpalāse

“Reverends, suppose there was a person in need of heartwood. And while wandering in search of heartwood he’d come across a large tree standing with heartwood. But he’d pass over the roots and trunk, imagining that the heartwood should be sought in the branches and leaves.

Such is the consequence for the venerables. Though you were face to face with the Buddha, you passed him by, imagining that you should ask me about this matter.

So hāvuso, bhagavā jānaṃ jānāti, passaṃ passati—

For he is the Buddha, who knows and sees. He is vision, he is knowledge, he is the truth, he is supreme. He is the teacher, the proclaimer, the elucidator of meaning, the bestower of the deathless, the lord of truth, the Realized One.

“Addhāvuso ānanda, bhagavā jānaṃ jānāti, passaṃ passati—

“Certainly he is the Buddha, who knows and sees. He is vision, he is knowledge, he is the truth, he is supreme. He is the teacher, the Api cāyasmā ānando satthu ceva saṃvaṇṇito, sambhāvito ca viññūnaṃ sabrahmacārīnaṃ.

Still, Venerable Ānanda is praised by the Buddha and esteemed by his sensible spiritual companions.

Pahoti cāyasmā ānando imassa bhagavatā saṅkhittena uddesassa uddiṭṭhassa vitthārena atthaṃ avibhattassa vitthārena atthaṃ vibhajitum.

You are capable of explaining in detail the meaning of this brief passage for recitation given by the Buddha.

Vibhajatāyasmā ānando agarum karitvā”ti.

Please explain this, if it's no trouble.”

“Tenahāvuso, suṇātha, sādhu kaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmī”ti.

“Then listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato ānandassa paccassosum.

“Yes, reverend,” they replied.

Āyasmā ānando etadavoca:

Ānanda said this:

“Yaṃ kho vo, āvuso, bhagavā saṅkhittena uddesaṃ uddisitvā vitthārena atthaṃ avibhajitvā uṭṭhāyāsanā vihāraṃ pavīṭṭho:

The Kinds of Sensual Stimulation

“Pubbeva me, bhikkhave, sambodhā anabhisambuddhassa bodhisattasseva sato etadahosi:

“Mendicants, before my awakening—when I was still unawakened but intent on awakening—I thought:

‘yeme pañca kāmaguṇā cetaso samphuṭṭhapubbā atītā niruddhā vipariṇatā, tatra me cittaṃ bahulaṃ gacchamānaṃ gaccheyya paccuppannesu vā appaṃ vā anāgatesu’.

‘My mind might often stray towards the five kinds of sensual stimulation that I formerly experienced—which have passed, ceased, and perished—or to those in the present, or in the future a little.’

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhikkhave, etadahosi:

Then it occurred to me:

‘yeme pañca kāmaguṇā cetaso samphuṭṭhapubbā atītā niruddhā vipariṇatā, tatra me attarūpena appamādo sati cetaso ārakkho karaṇīyo’.

‘In my own way I should practice diligence, mindfulness, and protecting the mind regarding the five kinds of sensual stimulation that I formerly experienced—which have passed, ceased, and perished.’

Tasmātiha, bhikkhave, tumhākampi ye te pañca kāmaguṇā cetaso samphuṭṭhapubbā atītā niruddhā vipariṇatā, tatra vo cittaṃ bahulaṃ gacchamānaṃ gaccheyya paccuppannesu vā appaṃ vā anāgatesu.

So, mendicants, your minds might also often stray towards the five kinds of sensual stimulation that you formerly experienced—which have passed, ceased, and perished—or to those in the present, or in the future a little.

Tasmātiha, bhikkhave, tumhākampi ye te pañca kāmaguṇā cetaso samphuṭṭhapubbā atītā niruddhā vipariṇatā, tatra vo attarūpehi appamādo sati cetaso ārakkho karaṇīyo.

So in your own way you should practice diligence, mindfulness, and protecting the mind regarding the five kinds of sensual stimulation that I formerly experienced—which have passed, ceased, and perished.

Tasmātiha, bhikkhave, se āyatane veditabbe yattha cakkhu ca nirujjhati, rūpasaññā ca nirujjhati, se āyatane veditabbe ...pe...

Then those mendicants thought,

“ayaṃ kho āyasmā ānando satthu ceva saṃvaṇṇito, sambhāvito ca viññūnaṃ sabrahmacārīnaṃ.

“This Venerable Ānanda is praised by the Buddha and esteemed by his sensible spiritual companions.

Pahoti cāyasmā ānando imassa bhagavatā saṅkhittena uddesassa uddiṭṭhassa vitthārena atthaṃ avibhattassa vitthārena atthaṃ vibhajitum.

He is capable of explaining in detail the meaning of this brief summary given by the Buddha.

Yannūna mayaṃ yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkameyyāma; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etamatthaṃ paṭipuccheyyāmā”ti.

Let’s go to him, and ask him about this matter.”

Atha kho te bhikkhū yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmatā ānandena saddhiṃ sammodimsu.

Then those mendicants went to Ānanda, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdiṃsu. Ekamantaṃ nisinnā kho te bhikkhū āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etadavocuṃ:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, they sat down to one side. They told him what had happened, and said, “Idaṃ kho no, āvuso ānanda, bhagavā saṅkhittena uddesaṃ uddisitvā vitthārena atthaṃ avibhajitvā uṭṭhāyāsanā vihāraṃ pavitṭho:

yattha jivhā ca nirujjhati, rasasaññā ca nirujjhati, se āyatane veditabbe ...pe...

yattha mano ca nirujjhati, dhammasaññā ca nirujjhati, se āyatane veditabbe’ti.

Tesaṃ no, āvuso, amhākaṃ acirapakkantassa bhagavato etadahosi:

‘idaṃ kho no, āvuso, bhagavā saṅkhittena uddesaṃ uddisitvā vitthārena atthaṃ avibhajitvā uṭṭhāyāsanā vihāraṃ pavitṭho:

yattha mano ca nirujjhati, dhammasaññā ca nirujjhati, se āyatane veditabbe”ti.

Ko nu kho imassa bhagavatā saṅkhittena uddesassa uddiṭṭhassa vitthārena atthaṃ avibhattassa vitthārena atthaṃ vibhajeyyā’ti?

Tesaṃ no, āvuso, amhākaṃ etadahosi:

‘ayaṃ kho āyasmā ānando satthu ceva saṃvaṇṇito, sambhāvito ca viññūnaṃ sabrahmacārīnaṃ.

Pahoti cāyasmā ānando imassa bhagavatā saṅkhittena uddesassa uddiṭṭhassa vitthārena atthaṃ avibhattassa vitthārena atthaṃ vibhajitūṃ.

Yannūna mayaṃ yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkameyyāma; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etamatthaṃ paṭipuccheyyāmā’ti.

Vibhajatāyasmā ānando”ti.

“May Venerable Ānanda please explain this.”

“Seyyathāpi, āvuso, puriso sārattiko sāragavesī sārapiyesanaṃ caramāno mahato rukkhassa ...pe...

“Reverends, suppose there was a person in need of heartwood. ...”

vibhajatāyasmā ānando agarūṃ karitvā”ti.

“Please explain this, if it’s no trouble.”

“Tenahāvuso, suṇātha, sādhukaṃ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmī”ti.

“Then listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evamāvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato ānandassa paccassosūṃ.

“Yes, reverend,” they replied.

Āyasmā ānando etadavoca:

Ānanda said this:

“Yaṃ kho vo, āvuso, bhagavā saṅkhittena uddesaṃ uddisitvā vitthārena atthaṃ avibhajitvā uṭṭhāyāsanā vihāraṃ pavitṭho:

“Reverends, the Buddha gave this brief summary, then entered his dwelling without explaining the meaning in detail:

‘tasmātiha, bhikkhave, se āyatane veditabbe yattha cakkhu ca nirujjhati, rūpasaññā ca nirujjhati, se āyatane veditabbe ...pe...

Imassa khvāhaṃ, āvuso, bhagavatā saṅkhittena uddesassa uddiṭṭhassa vitthārena atthaṃ avibhattassa vitthārena atthaṃ ājānāmi.

And this is how I understand the detailed meaning of this summary.

Saḷāyatananirodhaṃ no etaṃ, āvuso, bhagavatā sandhāya bhāsitaṃ:

The Buddha was referring to the cessation of the six sense fields when he said:

‘tasmātiha, bhikkhave, se āyatane veditabbe, yattha cakkhu ca nirujjhati, rūpasaññā ca nirujjhati, se āyatane veditabbe ...pe...

mind ceases and perception of thoughts fades away.’

Ayaṃ kho, āvuso, bhagavā saṅkhittena uddesaṃ uddisitvā vitthārena atthaṃ avibhajitvā uṭṭhāyāsanā vihāraṃ pavitṭho:

The Buddha gave this brief summary, then entered his dwelling without explaining the meaning in detail.

Imassa khvāhaṃ, āvuso, bhagavatā saṅkhittena uddesassa uddiṭṭhassa vitthārena atthaṃ avibhattassa evaṃ vitthārena atthaṃ ājānāmi.

And this is how I understand the detailed meaning of this summary.

Ākaṅkhamānā ca pana tumhe āyasmanto bhagavantamyeva upasaṅkamatha;

Then they said, “And Ānanda explained the meaning to us in this manner, with these words and phrases.”

“Paṇḍito, bhikkhave, ānando; mahāpañño, bhikkhave, ānando. “Mendicants, Ānanda is astute, he has great wisdom.

Mañcepi tumhe, bhikkhave, etamatthaṃ paṭipuccheyyātha, ahampi taṃ evamevaṃ byākareyyaṃ yathā taṃ ānandena byākataṃ.

If you came to me and asked this question, I would answer it in exactly the same way as Ānanda.

Sāriputta and the Pupil

Ekam̐ samayaṃ āyasmā sāriputto sāvattiyam̐ viharati jetavane anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time Venerable Sāriputta was staying near Sāvattihī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Atha kho aññataro bhikkhu yenāyasmā sāriputto tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtvaṃ āyasmatā sāriputtena saddhim̐ sammodi.

Then a certain mendicant went up to Venerable Sāriputta, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodaniyam̐ katham̐ sāraṇiyam̐ vītisāretvaṃ ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho so bhikkhu āyasmantaṃ sāriputtam̐ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side, and said to him, “saddhivihāriko, āvuso sāriputta, bhikkhu sikkham̐ paccakkhāya hīnāvatto”ti.

“Reverend Sāriputta, a mendicant pupil of mine has rejected the training and returned to a lesser life.”

“Evametaṃ, āvuso, hoti indriyesu aguttadvārassa, bhojane amattaññuno, jāgariyam̐ ananuyuttassa.

“That's how it is, reverend, when someone doesn't guard the sense doors, eats too much, and is not committed to wakefulness.

‘So vatāvuso, bhikkhu indriyesu aguttadvāro bhojane amattaññū jāgariyam̐ ananuyutto yāvajīvam̐ paripuṇṇam̐ parisuddham brahmacariyam santānessatī'ti netam ṭhānam vijjati.

It's not possible for such a mendicant to maintain the full and pure spiritual life for the rest of their life.

'So vatāvuso, bhikkhu indriyesu guttadvāro, bhojane mattaññū, jāgariyam anuyutto yāvajivam paripuṇṇam parisuddham brahmacariyam santānessatī'ti ṭhānametaṃ vijjati.

But it is possible for a mendicant to maintain the full and pure spiritual life for the rest of their life if they guard the sense doors, eat in moderation, and are committed to wakefulness.

Kathañcāvuso, indriyesu guttadvāro hoti?

And how does someone guard the sense doors?

Idhāvuso, bhikkhu cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā na nimittaggāhī hoti nānubyañjanaggāhī.

When a mendicant sees a sight with the eyes, they don't get caught up in the features and details.

Yatvādhikaraṇamenam cakkhundriyam asaṃvutaṃ viharantaṃ abhijjhādomanassā pāpakā akusalā dhammā anvāssaveyyuṃ tassa saṃvarāya paṭipajjati, rakkhati cakkhundriyam, cakkhundriye saṃvaram āpajjati.

If the faculty of sight were left unrestrained, bad unskillful qualities of desire and aversion would become overwhelming. For this reason, they practice restraint, protecting the faculty of sight, and achieving its restraint.

Sotena saddam sutvā ...

When they hear a sound with their ears ...

ghānena gandham ghāyitvā ...

When they smell an odor with their nose ...

jivhāya rasam sāyitvā ...

When they taste a flavor with their tongue ...

kāyena phoṭṭhabbam phusitvā ...

When they feel a touch with their body ...

manasā dhammaṃ viññāya na nimittaggāhī hoti nānubyañjanaggāhī.

When they know a thought with their mind, they don't get caught up in the features and details.

Yatvādhikaraṇamenasā manindriyaṃ asaṃvutaṃ viharantaṃ abhijjhādomanassā pāpakā akusalā dhammā anvāssaveyyuṃ, tassa saṃvarāya paṭipajjati, rakkhati manindriyaṃ, manindriye saṃvaraṃ āpajjati.

If the faculty of mind were left unrestrained, bad unskillful qualities of desire and aversion would become overwhelming. For this reason, they practice restraint, protecting the faculty of mind, and achieving its restraint.

Evaṃ kho, āvuso, indriyesu guttadvāro hoti.

That's how someone guards the sense doors.

Kathañcāvuso, bhojane mattaññū hoti?

And how does someone eat in moderation?

Idhāvuso, bhikkhu paṭisaṅkhā yoniso āhāraṃ āhāreti:

It's when a mendicant reflects properly on the food that they eat:

'neva davāya, na madāya, na maṇḍanāya, na vibhūsanāya, yāvadeva imassa kāyassa ṭhitiyā yāpanāya, vihiṃsūparatiyā, brahmacariyānuggahāya. Iti purāṇaṅca vedanaṃ paṭihaṅkhāmi, navaṅca vedanaṃ na uppādessāmi, yātrā ca me bhavissati, anavajjatā ca phāsuvihāro cā'ti.

'Not for fun, indulgence, adornment, or decoration, but only to sustain this body, to avoid harm, and to support spiritual practice. In this way, I shall put an end to old discomfort and not give rise to new discomfort, and I will live blamelessly and at ease.'

Evaṃ kho, āvuso, bhojane mattaññū hoti.

That's how someone eats in moderation.

Kathañcāvuso, jāgariyaṃ anuyutto hoti?

And how is someone committed to wakefulness?

Idhāvuso, bhikkhu divasaṃ caṅkamaṇa nisajjāya āvaraṇīyehi dhammehi cittaṃ parisodheti.

It's when a mendicant practices walking and sitting meditation by day, purifying their mind from obstacles.

Rattiyā paṭhamam yāmaṃ caṅkamaṇa nisajjāya āvaraṇīyehi dhammehi cittaṃ parisodheti.

In the evening, they continue to practice walking and sitting meditation.

Rattiyā majjhimam yāmaṃ dakkhiṇena passena sīhaseyyam kappeti pāde pādam accādhāya sato sampajāno, uṭṭhānasaññaṃ manasi karitvā.

In the middle of the night, they lie down in the lion's posture—on the right side, placing one foot on top of the other—mindful and aware, and focused on the time of getting up.

Rattiyā pacchimam yāmaṃ paccuṭṭhāya caṅkamaṇa nisajjāya āvaraṇīyehi dhammehi cittaṃ parisodheti.

In the last part of the night, they get up and continue to practice walking and sitting meditation, purifying their mind from obstacles.

Evaṃ kho, āvuso, jāgariyam anuyutto hoti.

That's how someone is committed to wakefulness.

Tasmātihāvuso, evaṃ sikkhitabbaṃ:

So you should train like this:

‘indriyesu guttadvārā bhavissāma, bhojane mattañño, jāgariyam anuyuttā’ti.

‘We will guard the sense doors, eat in moderation, and be committed to wakefulness.’

Evañhi vo, āvuso, sikkhitabbaṃ”ti.

That's how you should train.”

121. Rāhulovādasutta Advice to Rāhula

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattḥī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

Atha kho bhagavato rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa evaṃ cetaso parivitakko udapādi:

Then as he was in private retreat this thought came to his mind, “paripakkā kho rāhulassa vimuttiparipācaniyā dhammā;

“The qualities that ripen in freedom have ripened in Rāhula.

yannūnāhaṃ rāhulaṃ uttarim̐ āsavānaṃ khaye vineyyan”ti.
Why don’t I lead him further to the ending of defilements?”

Atha kho bhagavā pubbaṇhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya sāvatthiyaṃ piṇḍāya caritvā

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, wandered for alms in Sāvattḥī.

pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātaṭikkanto āyasmantaṃ rāhulaṃ āmantesi:

After the meal, on his return from alms-round, he addressed Venerable Rāhula, “gaṇhāhi, rāhula, nisīdanaṃ.

“Rāhula, get your sitting cloth.

Yena andhavanaṃ tenupasaṅkamissāma divāvihārāyā”ti.
Let’s go to the Dark Forest for the day’s meditation.”

“Yes, sir,” replied Rāhula. Taking his sitting cloth he followed behind the Buddha.

Tena kho pana samayena anekāni devatāsahassāni bhagavantam anubandhāni honti:

Now at that time many thousands of deities followed the Buddha, thinking, “ajja bhagavā āyasmantam rāhulam uttarim āsavānam khaye vinessatī”ti.

“Today the Buddha will lead Rāhula further to the ending of defilements!”

Atha kho bhagavā andhavanam ajjhogāhetvā aññatarasmim rukkhamūle paññatte āsane nisīdi.

Then the Buddha plunged deep into the Dark Forest and sat at the root of a tree on the seat spread out.

Āyasmāpi kho rāhulo bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantam nisīdi.

Rāhula bowed to the Buddha and sat down to one side.

Ekamantam nisinnam kho āyasmantam rāhulam bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said to him:

“Tam kim maññasi, rāhula,

Ekam̐ samayaṃ āyasmā piṇḍolabhāradvājo kosambiyam̐ viharati ghositārāme.

Yāva subhāsitañcidaṃ, bho bhāradvāja, tena bhagavatā jānatā passatā arahatā sammāsambuddhena.

How well this was said by the Buddha!

Esova kho, bho bhāradvāja, hetu, esa paccayo yenime daharā bhikkhū susū kāḷakesā bhadrena yobbanena samannāgatā paṭhamena vayasā anikīlitāvino kāmesu yāvajīvaṃ paripuṇṇaṃ parisuddhaṃ brahmacariyaṃ caranti, addhānañca āpādentīti.

This is the real cause, this is the reason why these young monks practice the full and pure spiritual life as long as they live, maintaining it for a long time.

Ahampi kho, bho bhāradvāja, yasmiṃ samaye arakkhiteneva kāyena, arakkhitāya vācāya, arakkhitena cittaena, anupaṭṭhitāya satiyā, asaṃvutehi indriyehi antepuraṃ pavisāmi, ativiya maṃ tasmīṃ samaye lobhadhammā parisahanti.

For sometimes I too enter the harem with unprotected body, speech, mind, mindfulness, and sense faculties. At those times powerful thoughts of desire get the better of me.

Yasmiñca khvāhaṃ, bho bhāradvāja, samaye rakkhiteneva kāyena, rakkhitāya vācāya, rakkhitena cittaena, upaṭṭhitāya satiyā, saṃvutehi indriyehi antepuraṃ pavisāmi, na maṃ tathā tasmīṃ samaye lobhadhammā parisahanti.

But sometimes I enter the harem with protected body, speech, mind, mindfulness, and sense faculties. At those times such thoughts of desire don't get the better of me.

Abhikkantaṃ, bho bhāradvāja, abhikkantaṃ, bho bhāradvāja.
Excellent, Master Bhāradvāja! Excellent!

Seyyathāpi, bho bhāradvāja, nikkujjitaṃ vā ukkujjeyya, paṭicchannaṃ vā vivareyya, mūḷhassa vā maggaṃ ācikkheyya, andhakāre vā telapajjotaṃ dhāreyya: 'cakkhumanto rūpāni dakkhantī'ti; evamevaṃ bhotā bhāradvājena anekapariyāyena dhammo pakāsito.

As if he were righting the overturned, or revealing the hidden, or pointing out the path to the lost, or lighting a lamp in the dark so people with good eyes can see what's there, Master Bhāradvāja has made the teaching clear in many ways.

Esāhaṃ, bho bhāradvāja, taṃ bhagavantaṃ saraṇaṃ gacchāmi, dhammañca, bhikkhusaṅghañca.

I go for refuge to the Buddha, to the teaching, and to the mendicant Saṅgha.

Upāsakaṃ maṃ bhavaṃ bhāradvājo dhāretu ajjatagge pāṇupetaṃ saraṇaṃ gataṃ”ti.

From this day forth, may Master Bhāradvāja remember me as a lay follower who has gone for refuge for life.”

132. Lohiccasutta With Lohicca

Ekam̐ samayaṃ āyasmā mahākaccāno avantīsu viharati makkarakate araṅṅakuṭikāyaṃ.

At one time Venerable Mahākaccāna was staying in the land of the Avantīs in a wilderness hut near Makkarakaṭa.

Atha kho lohiccassa brāhmaṇassa sambahulā antevāsikā kaṭṭhahārakā māṇavakā yenāyasmato mahākaccānassa araṅṅakuṭikā tenupasaṅkamīṃsu; upasaṅkamtivā parito parito kuṭikāya anucaṅkamanti anuvicaranti uccāsaddā mahāsaddā kānici kānici seleyyakāni karonti:

Then several youths, students of the brahmin Lohicca, approached Mahākaccāna's wilderness hut while collecting firewood. They walked and wandered all around the hut, making a dreadful racket and all kinds of jeers:

“ime pana muṇḍakā samaṇakā ibbhā kaṇhā bandhupādāpaccā, imesaṃ bhāratakānaṃ sakkatā garukatā mānitā pūjitā apacitā”ti.

“These shavelings, fake ascetics, riffraff, black spawn from the feet of our Kinsman, the Lord! They're honored, respected, esteemed, revered, and venerated by those who pretend to inherit Vedic culture.”

Atha kho āyasmā mahākaccāno vihārā nikkhamitvā te māṇavake etadavoca:

And then Mahākaccāna left his dwelling and said to those brahmin students, “mā māṇavakā saddamakattha;

“Students, stop being so noisy.

dhammaṃ vo bhāsisāmī”ti.

I will speak to you on the teaching.”

Evaṃ vutte, te māṇavakā tuṅhī ahesuṃ.

When this was said, the students fell silent.

Atha kho āyasmā mahākaccāno te māṇavake gāthāhi ajjhabhāsi:

Then Mahākaccāna recited these verses for them.

“Sīluttamā pubbatarā ahesuṃ,

“The brahmins of old excelled in ethics,

Te brāhmaṇā ye purāṇaṃ saranti;

and remembered the ancient traditions.

Guttāni dvārāni surakkhitāni,

Atha kho te māṇavakā kupitā anattamanā yena lohicco

Then those students, offended and upset, went to the brahmin Lohicca and said to him, “yagghe bhavaṃ jāneyya, samaṇo mahākaccāno brāhmaṇānaṃ mante ekaṃsena apavadati, paṭikkosati”ti?

“Please, master, you should know this. The ascetic Mahākaccāna condemns and rejects outright the hymns of the brahmins!”

Evaṃ vutte, lohicco brāhmaṇo kupito ahosi anattamano.

When they said this, Lohicca was offended and upset.

Atha kho lohiccassa brāhmaṇassa etadahosi:

Then he thought,

“But it wouldn’t be appropriate for me to abuse or insult the ascetic Mahākaccāna solely because of what I’ve heard from these students.

Yannūnāhaṃ upasaṅkamtivā puccheyyaṃ”ti.

Why don’t I go and ask him about it?”

Atha kho lohicco brāhmaṇo tehi māṇavakehi saddhiṃ

133. Verahaccānisutta Verahaccāni

Ekam̐ samayaṃ āyasmā udāyī kāmaṇḍāyaṃ viharati todeyyassa brāhmaṇassa ambavane.

At one time Venerable Udāyī was staying near Kāmaṇḍā in the brahmin Todeyya's mango grove.

Atha kho verahaccānigottāya brāhmaṇiyā antevāsī māṇavako yenāyasmā udāyī tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmatā udāyinā saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then a boy who was a student of the brahmin lady of the Verahaccāni clan went up to Udāyī and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho taṃ māṇavakaṃ āyasmā udāyī dhammiyā kathāya sandassesī samādapesī samuttejesī sampahaṃsesī.

Udāyī educated, encouraged, fired up, and inspired that student with a Dhamma talk.

Atha kho so māṇavako āyasmatā udāyinā dhammiyā kathāya sandassito samādapito samuttejito sampahaṃsīto uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ yena verahaccānigottā brāhmaṇī tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā verahaccānigottaṃ brāhmaṇiṃ etadavoca:

Then that student went to the brahmin lady of the Verahaccāni clan and said to her, “yagghe, bhoti, jāneyyāsi.

“Please, madam, you should know this.

Samaṇo udāyī dhammaṃ deseti ādikalyāṇaṃ majjhakalyāṇaṃ

The ascetic Udāyī teaches Dhamma that’s good in the beginning, good in the middle, and good in the end, meaningful and well-phrased. And he reveals a spiritual practice that’s entirely full and pure.”

“Tena hi tvaṃ, māṇavaka, mama vacanena samaṇaṃ udāyīṃ

“Then, student, invite him in my name for tomorrow’s meal.”

“Evaṃ, bhotī”ti kho so māṇavako verahaccānigottāya

“Yes, madam,” he replied. He went to Udāyī and said,

“adhivāsetu kira, bhavaṃ udāyī amhākaṃ ācariyabhariyāya

“Sir, may Master Udāyī please accept an offering of tomorrow’s meal from my teacher’s wife, the brahmin lady of the Verahaccāni clan.”

Adhivāsesi kho āyasmā udāyī tuṅhībhāvena.

Udāyī consented in silence.

Atha kho āyasmā udāyī tassā rattiyā accayena

Then when the night had passed, Udāyī robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, went to the brahmin lady’s home, and sat down on the seat spread out.

Atha kho verahaccānigottā brāhmaṇī āyasmantaṃ udāyīṃ

When Udāyī had eaten and washed his hand and bowl, she put on a pair of shoes, sat on a high seat, covered her head, and said to him, “bhaṇa, samaṇa, dhammaṃ”ti.

“Ascetic, preach the Dhamma.”

“Bhavissati, bhagini, samayo”ti vatvā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkami.

“There will be an occasion for that, sister,” he replied, then got up from his seat and left.

Dutiyampi kho so māṇavako yenāyasmā udāyī tenupasaṅkhami;

She said to him, “You keep praising the ascetic Udāyī like this.

For the masters respect the teaching.”

“Tena hi tvaṃ, māṇavaka, mama vacanena samaṇaṃ udāyimaṃ

134. Devadahasutta At Devadaha

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā sakkesu viharati devadahaṃ nāma sakyānaṃ nigamo.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Sakyans, near the Sakyan town named Devadaha.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants:

“nāhaṃ, bhikkhave, sabbesaṃyeva bhikkhūnaṃ chasu phassāyatanesu appamādena karaṇīyanti vadāmi, na ca panāhaṃ, bhikkhave, sabbesaṃyeva bhikkhūnaṃ chasu phassāyatanesu nāppamādena karaṇīyanti vadāmi.

“When it comes to the six fields of contact, mendicants, I don’t say that all mendicants have work to do with diligence, nor do I say that none of them have work to do with diligence.

Ye te, bhikkhave, bhikkhū arahanto khīṇāsavā vusitavanto katakaraṇīyā ohitabhārā anuppattasadatthā parikkhīṇabhavasamyojanā sammadaññāvimuttā, tesāhaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhūnaṃ chasu phassāyatanesu nāppamādena karaṇīyanti vadāmi.

I say that, when it comes to the six fields of contact, mendicants don’t have work to do with diligence if they are perfected, with defilements ended, having completed the spiritual journey, done what had to be done, laid down the burden, achieved their own goal, utterly ended the fetters of rebirth, and become rightly freed through enlightenment.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Kataṃ tesāṃ appamādena, abhabbā te pamajjitum.

They've done their work with diligence, and are incapable of negligence.

Ye ca kho te, bhikkhave, bhikkhū sekkhā appattamānasā anuttaraṃ yogakkhemaṃ patthayamānā viharanti, tesāhaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhūnaṃ chasu phassāyatanesu appamādena karaṇīyanti vadāmi.

I say that, when it comes to the six fields of contact, mendicants do have work to do with diligence if they are trainees, who haven't achieved their heart's desire, but live aspiring to the supreme sanctuary.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

160. Jīvakambavanasamādhisutta On Immersion at Jīvaka's Mango Grove

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati jīvakambavane.
At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha in Jīvaka's Mango Grove.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:
There the Buddha addressed the mendicants:

“bhikkhavo”ti ...pe...

“samādhim̐, bhikkhave, bhāvettha.

“Mendicants, develop immersion.

Samāhitassa, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno yathābhūtaṃ okkhāyati.

For a mendicant with immersion, things become truly clear.

Kiñca yathābhūtaṃ okkhāyati?

Suppose there was a person in need of heartwood. Wandering in search of heartwood, they'd take a sharp axe and enter a forest. There they'd see a big banana tree, straight and young and grown free of defects. They'd cut it down at the base, cut off the root, cut off the top, and unroll the coiled sheaths. But they wouldn't even find sapwood, much less heartwood.

Evameva kho, āvuso, bhikkhu chasu phassāyatanesu

In the same way, a mendicant sees these six fields of contact as neither self nor belonging to self.

So seeing, they don't grasp anything in the world.

Anupādiyaṃ na paritassati. Aparitassaṃ paccattaññeva

Seeing this, a learned noble disciple grows disillusioned with the eye, sights, eye consciousness, and eye contact. And they become disillusioned with the painful, pleasant, or neutral feeling that arises conditioned by eye contact.

yampidaṃ manosamphassapaccayā uppajjati vedayitaṃ mind ... painful, pleasant, or neutral feeling that arises conditioned by mind contact.

Nibbindaṃ virajjati; virāgā vimuccati; vimuttasmiṃ vimuttamiti

Being disillusioned, desire fades away. When desire fades away they're freed. When they're freed, they know they're freed.

238. Āsīvisopamasutta The Simile of the Vipers

“Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, cattāro āsīvisā uggatejā ghoravisā.
“Mendicants, suppose there were four lethal poisonous vipers.

Atha puriso āgaccheyya jīvitukāmo amaritukāmo sukhakāmo dukkhappaṭikūlo.

Then a person would come along who wants to live and doesn't want to die, who wants to be happy and recoils from pain.

Tamenam evam vadeyyum:

They'd say to him,

‘ime te, ambho purisa, cattāro āsīvisā uggatejā ghoravisā kālena kālam vuṭṭhāpetabbā, kālena kālam nhāpetabbā, kālena kālam bhojetabbā, kālena kālam samvesetabbā.

‘Mister, here are four lethal poisonous vipers. They must be periodically picked up, washed, fed, and put to sleep.

Yadā ca kho te, ambho purisa, imesaṃ catunnam āsīvisānam uggatejānam ghoravisānam aññataro vā aññataro vā kuppissati, tato tvaṃ, ambho purisa, maraṇam vā nigacchasi, maraṇamattam vā dukkham.

But when one or other of these four poisonous vipers gets angry with you, you'll meet with death or deadly pain.

Yaṃ te, ambho purisa, karaṇīyam taṃ karohī'ti.

So then, mister, do what has to be done.'

Atha kho so, bhikkhave, puriso bhīto catunnam āsīvisānam uggatejānam ghoravisānam yena vā tena vā palāyetha.

Then that man, terrified of those four poisonous vipers, would flee this way or that.

Tamenam evam vadeyyum:

They'd say to him,

'ime kho, ambho purisa, pañca vadhakā paccatthikā piṭṭhito piṭṭhito anubandhā, yattheva nam passissāma tattheva jīvitā voropessāmāti.

'Mister, there are five deadly enemies chasing you, thinking: "When we catch sight of him, we'll murder him right there!"

Yam te, ambho purisa, karaṇīyam tam karohī'ti.

So then, mister, do what has to be done.'

Atha kho so, bhikkhave, puriso bhīto catunnam āsīvisānam uggatejānam ghoravisānam, bhīto pañcannam vadhakānam paccatthikānam yena vā tena vā palāyetha.

Then that man, terrified of those four poisonous vipers and those five deadly enemies, would flee this way or that.

Tamenam evam vadeyyum:

They'd say to him,

'ayam te, ambho purisa, chaṭṭho antaracaro vadhako ukkhittāsiko piṭṭhito piṭṭhito anubandho yattheva nam passissāmi tattheva siro pātessāmīti.

'Mister, there's a sixth hidden killer chasing you with a drawn sword, thinking: "When I catch sight of him, I'll chop off his head right there!"

Yam te, ambho purisa, karaṇīyam tam karohī'ti.

So then, mister, do what has to be done.'

Atha kho so, bhikkhave, puriso bhīto catunnam āsīvisānam uggatejānam ghoravisānam, bhīto pañcannam vadhakānam paccatthikānam, bhīto chaṭṭhassa antaracarassa vadhakassa ukkhittāsikassa yena vā tena vā palāyetha.

Then that man, terrified of those four poisonous vipers and those five deadly enemies and the hidden killer, would flee this way or that.

So passeyya suññaṃ gāmaṃ.

He'd see an empty village.

Yaññadeva gharaṃ paviseyya rittakaññeva paviseyya tucchakaññeva paviseyya suññakaññeva paviseyya.

But whatever house he enters is vacant, deserted, and empty.

Yaññadeva bhājanaṃ parimaseyya rittakaññeva parimaseyya tucchakaññeva parimaseyya suññakaññeva parimaseyya.

And whatever vessel he touches is vacant, hollow, and empty.

Tameṇaṃ evaṃ vadeyyuṃ:

They'd say to him,

'idāni, ambho purisa, imaṃ suññaṃ gāmaṃ corā gāmaghātakā pavisanti.

'Mister, there are bandits who raid villages, and they're striking now.

Yaṃ te, ambho purisa, karaṇīyaṃ taṃ karohī'ti.

So then, mister, do what has to be done.'

Atha kho so, bhikkhave, puriso bhīto catunnaṃ āsīvisānaṃ uggatejānaṃ ghoravisānaṃ, bhīto pañcannaṃ vadhakānaṃ paccatthikānaṃ, bhīto chaṭṭhassa antaracarassa vadhakassa ukkhittāsikassa, bhīto corānaṃ gāmaghātakānaṃ yena vā tena vā palāyetha.

Then that man, terrified of those four poisonous vipers and those five deadly enemies and the hidden killer and the bandits, would flee this way or that.

So passeyya mahantaṃ udakaṇṇavaṃ orimaṃ tīraṃ sāsaṅkaṃ sappaṭibhayaṃ, pārīmaṃ tīraṃ khemaṃ appaṭibhayaṃ.

He'd see a large deluge, whose near shore is dubious and perilous, while the far shore is a sanctuary free of peril.

Na cassa nāvā santāraṇī uttarasetu vā apārā pāraṃ gamanāya.
But there's no ferryboat or bridge for crossing over.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, tassa purisassa evamassa:
Then that man thought,

‘ayaṃ kho mahāudakaṇṇavo orimaṃ tīraṃ sāsaṅkaṃ sappaṭibhayaṃ, pārimaṃ tīraṃ khemaṃ appaṭibhayaṃ, natthi ca nāvā santāraṇī uttarasetu vā apārā pāraṃ gamanāya.

Yannūnāhaṃ tiṇakaṭṭhasākhāpalāsaṃ saṅkaḍḍhitvā kullaṃ bandhitvā taṃ kullaṃ nissāya hatthehi ca pādehi ca vāyamamāno sotthinā pāraṃ gaccheyyan’ti.

‘Why don’t I gather grass, sticks, branches, and leaves and make a raft? Riding on the raft, and paddling with my hands and feet, I can safely reach the far shore.’

Atha kho so, bhikkhave, puriso tiṇakaṭṭhasākhāpalāsaṃ saṅkaḍḍhitvā kullaṃ bandhitvā taṃ kullaṃ nissāya hatthehi ca pādehi ca vāyamamāno sotthinā pāraṃ gaccheyya, tiṇṇo pāraṅgato thale tiṭṭhati brāhmaṇo.

And so that man did exactly that. Having crossed over and gone beyond, the brahmin stands on the far shore.

Upamā kho myāyaṃ, bhikkhave, katā atthassa viññāpanāya.
I’ve made up this simile to make a point.

Ayañcetha attho—
And this is the point.

cattāro āsīvisā uggatejā ghoravisāti kho, bhikkhave, catunnetam mahābhūtānaṃ adhivacanaṃ—

‘Four lethal poisonous vipers’ is a term for the four primary elements:

pathavīdhātuyā, āpodhātuyā, tejodhātuyā, vāyodhātuyā.
the elements of earth, water, fire, and air.

Pañca vadhakā paccatthikāti kho, bhikkhave, pañcannetaṃ upādānakkhandhānaṃ adhivacanaṃ, seyyathidaṃ—

‘Five deadly enemies’ is a term for the five grasping aggregates, that is:

239. Rathopamasutta The Simile of the Chariot

“Tīhi, bhikkhave, dhammehi samannāgato bhikkhu diṭṭheva dhamme sukhasomanassabahulo viharati, yoni cassa āraddhā hoti āsavānaṃ khayāya.

“Mendicants, when a mendicant has three qualities they’re full of joy and happiness in the present life, and they have laid the groundwork for ending the defilements.

Katamehi tīhi?

What three?

Indriyesu guttadvāro hoti, bhojane mattaññū, jāgariyaṃ anuyutto.

They guard the sense doors, eat in moderation, and are committed to wakefulness.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu indriyesu guttadvāro hoti?

And how does a mendicant guard the sense doors?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā na nimittaggāhī hoti, nānubyañjanaggāhī;

That's how a mendicant guards the sense doors.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu bhojane mattaṅṅū hoti?

And how does a mendicant eat in moderation?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu paṭisaṅkhā yoniso āhāraṃ āhāreti:

It's when a mendicant reflects properly on the food that they eat:

'neva davāya, na madāya, na maṇḍanāya, na vibhūsanāya,

It's like a person who puts ointment on a wound only so that it can heal; or who oils an axle only so that it can carry a load.

evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu paṭisaṅkhā yoniso āhāraṃ āhāreti:

In the same way, a mendicant reflects properly on the food that they eat:

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu bhojane mattaññū hoti.

That's how a mendicant eats in moderation.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu jāgariyaṃ anuyutto hoti?

And how is a mendicant committed to wakefulness?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu divasaṃ caṅkamaṇa nisajjāya āvaraṇīyehi dhammehi cittaṃ parisodheti.

It's when a mendicant practices walking and sitting meditation by day, purifying their mind from obstacles.

Rattiyā paṭhamaṃ yāmaṃ caṅkamaṇa nisajjāya āvaraṇīyehi dhammehi cittaṃ parisodheti.

In the evening, they continue to practice walking and sitting meditation.

In the middle of the night, they lie down in the lion's posture—on the right side, placing one foot on top of the other—mindful and aware, and focused on the time of getting up.

Rattiyā pacchimam yāmaṃ paccuṭṭhāya caṅkamaṇa nisajjāya āvaraṇīyehi dhammehi cittaṃ parisodheti.

In the last part of the night, they get up and continue to practice walking and sitting meditation, purifying their mind from obstacles.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu jāgariyam anuyutto hoti.

This is how a mendicant is committed to wakefulness.

240. Kummopamasutta The Simile of the Tortoise

“Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, kummo kacchapo sāyanhasamayaṃ

“Once upon a time, mendicants, a tortoise was grazing along the bank of a river in the afternoon.

Siṅgālopi kho, bhikkhave, sāyanhasamayaṃ anunadītīre gocarapasuto ahosi.

At the same time, a jackal was also hunting along the river bank.

Addasā kho, bhikkhave, kummo kacchapo siṅgālaṃ dūratova

The tortoise saw the jackal off in the distance hunting,

Disvāna soṇḍipañcamāni aṅgāni sake kapāle samodahitvā so it drew its limbs and neck inside its shell, and kept still and silent.

Siṅgālopi kho, bhikkhave, addasa kummaṃ kacchapaṃ dūratova gocarapasutaṃ.

But the jackal also saw the tortoise off in the distance grazing.

Disvāna yena kummo kacchapo tenupasaṅkhami; upasaṅkhamitvā

So it went up to the tortoise and waiting nearby, thinking,

‘yadāyaṃ kummo kacchapo soṇḍipañcamānaṃ aṅgānaṃ

‘When that tortoise sticks one or other of its limbs or neck out from its shell, I’ll grab it right there, rip it out, and eat it!’

Yadā kho, bhikkhave, kummo kacchapo soṇḍipañcamānaṃ aṅgānaṃ aṅṅataraṃ vā aṅṅataraṃ vā aṅgaṃ na abhininnāmi, atha siṅgālo kummamhā nibbijja pakkāmi, otāraṃ alabhamāno.
But when that tortoise didn't stick one or other of its limbs or neck out from its shell, the jackal left disappointed, since it couldn't find a vulnerability.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, tumhepi māro pāpimā satataṃ samitaṃ paccupaṭṭhito:

Tasmātiha, bhikkhave, indriyesu guttadvārā viharatha.

That's why you should live with sense doors guarded.

Cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā mā nimittaggāhino ahuvattha, mā anubyañjanaggāhino.

If the faculty of sight were left unrestrained, bad unskillful qualities of desire and aversion would become overwhelming. For this reason, practice restraint, protecting the faculty of sight, and achieving its restraint.

Sotena saddaṃ sutvā ...

When you hear a sound with your ears ...

When you feel a touch with your body ...

manasā dhammaṃ viññāya mā nimittaggāhino ahuvattha, mā anubyañjanaggāhino.

When you know a thought with your mind, don't get caught up in the features and details.

If the faculty of mind were left unrestrained, bad unskillful qualities of desire and aversion would become overwhelming. For this reason, practice restraint, protecting the faculty of mind, and achieving its restraint.

Yato tumhe, bhikkhave, indriyesu guttadvārā viharissatha, atha tumhehipi māro pāpimā nibbijja pakkamissati, otāraṃ alabhamāno—

241. Paṭhamadārukkhandhopamasutta The Simile of the Tree Trunk (1st)

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā kosambiyaṃ viharati gaṅgāya nadiyā tīre.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Kosambi on the bank of the Ganges river.

Addasā kho bhagavā mahantaṃ dārukkhandhaṃ gaṅgāya nadiyā sotena vuyhamānaṃ.

Seeing a large tree trunk being carried along by the current,

Disvāna bhikkhū āmantesi:

he addressed the mendicants,

“passatha no tumhe, bhikkhave, amuṃ mahantaṃ dārukkhandhaṃ gaṅgāya nadiyā sotena vuyhamānaṃ”ti?

“Mendicants, do you see that large tree trunk being carried along by the current of the Ganges river?”

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Sace so, bhikkhave, dārukkhandho na orimaṃ tīraṃ upagacchati, na pārimaṃ tīraṃ upagacchati, na majjhe saṃsīdissati, na thale ussīdissati, na manussaggāho gahessati, na amanussaggāho gahessati, na āvaṭṭaggāho gahessati, na antopūti bhavissati; “Mendicants, assume that that tree trunk doesn’t collide with the near shore or the far shore, or sink in the middle, or get stranded on high ground. And assume that it doesn't get taken by humans or non-humans or caught up in a whirlpool, and that it doesn't rot away.

evañhi so, bhikkhave, dārukkhandho samuddaninno bhavissati samuddapoṇo samuddapabbhāro.

In that case, that tree trunk will slant, slope, and incline towards the ocean.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Samuddaninno, bhikkhave, gaṅgāya nadiyā soto samuddapoṇo samuddapabbhāro.

Because the current of the Ganges river slants, slopes, and inclines towards the ocean.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, sace tumhepi na orimaṃ tīraṃ upagacchatha, na pārimaṃ tīraṃ upagacchatha;

In the same way, assume that you don't collide with the near shore or the far shore, or sink in the middle, or get stranded on high ground. And assume that you don't get taken by humans or non-humans or caught up in a whirlpool, and that you don't rot away.

na majjhe saṃsīdissatha, na thale ussīdissatha, na manussaggāho gahessati, na amanussaggāho gahessati, na āvaṭṭaggāho gahessati, na antopūtī bhavissatha; evaṃ tumhe, bhikkhave, nibbānaninnā bhavissatha nibbānapoṇā nibbānapabbhārā.

In that case, you will slant, slope, and incline towards extinguishment.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Nibbānaninnā, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi nibbānapoṇā nibbānapabbhārā”ti.

Because right view slants, slopes, and inclines towards extinguishment.”

Evam vutte, aññataro bhikkhu bhagavantam etadavoca:

When he said this, one of the mendicants asked the Buddha:

“kim nu kho, bhante, orimam tīram, kim pārimam tīram, ko majjhe saṃsādo, ko thale ussādo, ko manussaggāho, ko amanussaggāho, ko āvaṭṭaggāho, ko antopūtibhāvo”ti?

“But sir, what’s the near shore and what’s the far shore? What’s sinking in the middle? What’s getting stranded on high ground? What’s getting taken by humans or non-humans? What’s getting caught up in a whirlpool? And what’s rotting away?”

“Orimam tīran’ti kho, bhikkhu, channetaṃ ajjhattikānaṃ āyatanānaṃ adhivacanaṃ.

“The near shore’, mendicant, is a term for the six interior sense fields.

‘Pārimam tīran’ti kho, bhikkhu, channetaṃ bāhirānaṃ āyatanānaṃ adhivacanaṃ.

‘The far shore’ is a term for the six exterior sense fields.

‘Majjhe saṃsādo’ti kho, bhikkhu, nandīrāgassetam adhivacanaṃ.

‘Sinking in the middle’ is a term for desire with relishing.

‘Thale ussādo’ti kho, bhikkhu, asmimānassetam adhivacanaṃ.

‘Stranded on high ground’ is a term for the conceit ‘I am’.

Katamo ca, bhikkhu, manussaggāho?

And what’s getting taken by humans?

Idha, bhikkhu, gihīhi saṃsaṭṭho viharati, sahanandī sahasokī, sukhitesu sukhitō, dukkhitesu dukkhito, uppannesu kiccakaraṇīyesu attanā tesu yogaṃ āpajjati.

It’s when someone mixes closely with laypeople, sharing their joys and sorrows—happy when they’re happy and sad when they’re sad —and getting involved in their business.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhu, manussaggāho.

That's called getting taken by humans.

Katamo ca, bhikkhu, amanussaggāho?

And what's getting taken by non-humans?

Idha, bhikkhu, ekacco aññataraṃ devanikāyaṃ paṇidhāya brahmacariyaṃ carati: 'imināhaṃ sīlena vā vatena vā tapena vā brahmacariyena vā devo vā bhavissāmi devaññataro vā'ti.

It's when someone lives the spiritual life wishing to be reborn in one of the orders of gods: 'By this precept or observance or mortification or spiritual life, may I become one of the gods!'

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhu, amanussaggāho.

That's called getting taken by non-humans.

'Āvaṭṭaggāho'ti kho, bhikkhu, pañcannetaṃ kāmaguṇānaṃ adhivacanaṃ.

'Caught up in a whirlpool' is a term for the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Katamo ca, bhikkhu, antopūtibhāvo?

And what's rotting away?

Idha, bhikkhu, ekacco dussīlo hoti pāpadhammo asucisaṅkassarasamācāro paṭicchannakammanto assamaṇo samaṇapaṭiñño abrahmacārī brahmacāripaṭiñño antopūti avassuto kasambujāto.

It's when some person is unethical, of bad qualities, filthy, with suspicious behavior, underhand, no true ascetic or spiritual practitioner—though claiming to be one—rotten inside, corrupt, and depraved.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhu, 'antopūtibhāvo'ti.

This is called 'rotting away'."

Tena kho pana samayena nando gopālako bhagavato avidūre ṭhito hoti.

Now, at that time Nanda the cowherd was sitting not far from the Buddha.

Atha kho nando gopālako bhagavantam etadavoca:

Then he said to the Buddha:

“aham kho, bhante, na orimam tīram upagacchāmi, na pārimam tīram upagacchāmi, na majjhe saṁsīdissāmi, na thale ussīdissāmi, na mam manussaggāho gahessati, na amanussaggāho gahessati, na āvaṭṭaggāho gahessati, na antopūti bhavissāmi.

“I won’t collide with the near shore or the far shore, or sink in the middle, or get stranded on high ground. And I won’t get taken by humans or non-humans or caught up in a whirlpool, and I won’t rot away.

Labheyāham, bhante, bhagavato santike pabbajjam, labheyam upasampadan”ti.

Sir, may I receive the going forth, the ordination in the Buddha’s presence?”

“Tena hi tvam, nanda, sāmikānam gāvo niyyātehī”ti.

“Well then, Nanda, return the cows to their owners.”

“Gamissantī, bhante, gāvo vacchagiddhiniyo”ti.

“Sir, the cows will go back by themselves, since they love their calves.”

“Niyyāteheva tvam, nanda, sāmikānam gāvo”ti.

“Still, Nanda, you should return them to their owners.”

Atha kho nando gopālako sāmikānam gāvo niyyātetvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtvā bhagavantam

etadavoca:

Then Nanda, after returning the cows to their owners, went up to the Buddha and said to him, “niyyātītā, bhante, sāmikānaṃ gāvo.

“Sir, I have returned the cows to their owners.

Labheyyāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato santike pabbajjaṃ, labheyyaṃ upasampadaṃ”ti.

May I receive the going forth, the ordination in the Buddha’s presence?”

Alattha kho nando gopālako bhagavato santike pabbajjaṃ, alattha upasampadaṃ.

And the cowherd Nanda received the going forth, the ordination in the Buddha’s presence.

Acirūpasampanno ca panāyasmā nando eko vūpakaṭṭho ...pe...

Not long after his ordination, aññataro ca panāyasmā nando arahataṃ ahoṣīti.

Venerable Nanda became one of the perfected.

Catutthaṃ.

242. Dutiyadārukkhandhopamasutta The Simile of the Tree Trunk (2nd)

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā kimilāyaṃ viharati gaṅgāya nadiyā tīre.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Kimibilā on the bank of the Ganges river.

Addasā kho bhagavā mahantaṃ dārukkhandhaṃ gaṅgāya nadiyā sotena vuyhamānaṃ.

Seeing a large tree trunk being carried along by the current,

Disvāna bhikkhū āmantesi:

he addressed the mendicants:

“passatha no tumhe, bhikkhave, amuṃ mahantaṃ dārukkhandhaṃ gaṅgāya nadiyā sotena vuyhamānaṃ”ti?

“Mendicants, do you see that large tree trunk being carried along by the current of the Ganges river?”

“Evaṃ, bhante” ...pe...

“Yes, sir,” they replied. ...

evaṃ vutte, āyasmā kimilo bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When this was said, Venerable Kimbila said to the Buddha:

“kiṃ nu kho, bhante, orimaṃ tīraṃ ...pe...

“But sir, what’s the near shore and what’s the far shore? What’s sinking in the middle? What’s getting stranded on high ground? What’s getting taken by humans or non-humans? What’s getting caught up in a whirlpool? And what’s rotting away?” ...

“katamo ca, kimila, antopūtibhāvo.

“And what, Kimbila, is rotting away?

Idha, kimila, bhikkhu aññataraṃ saṅkiliṭṭhaṃ āpattiṃ āpanno

It’s when a mendicant has committed the kind of corrupt offense from which there is no rehabilitation.

Ayaṃ vuccati, kimila, antopūtibhāvo”ti.

This is called ‘rotting away’.”

Pañcamaṃ.

243. Avassutapariyāyasutta The Explanation on the Corrupt

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā sakkesu viharati kapilavatthusmiṃ nigrodhārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Sakyans, near Kapilavatthu in the Banyan Tree Monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena kāpilavatthavānaṃ sakyānaṃ navam̐ santhāgāraṃ acirakāritaṃ hoti anajjhāvuṭṭhaṃ samaṇena vā brāhmaṇena vā kenaci vā manussabhūtena.

Now at that time a new town hall had recently been constructed for the Sakyans of Kapilavatthu. It had not yet been occupied by an ascetic or brahmin or any person at all.

Atha kho kāpilavatthavā sakyā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamim̐su; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdim̐su. Ekamantaṃ nisinnā kho kāpilavatthavā sakyā bhagavantaṃ etadavocum̐:

Then the Sakyans of Kapilavatthu went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him, “idha, bhante, kāpilavatthavānaṃ sakyānaṃ navam̐ santhāgāraṃ acirakāritaṃ anajjhāvuṭṭhaṃ samaṇena vā brāhmaṇena vā kenaci vā manussabhūtena.

“Sir, a new town hall has recently been constructed for the Sakyans of Kapilavatthu. It has not yet been occupied by an ascetic or brahmin or any person at all.

Taṃ, bhante, bhagavā paṭhamaṃ paribhuñjatu.

May the Buddha be the first to use it, and only then will the Sakyans of Kapilavatthu use it.

Bhagavatā paṭhamam paribhuttam pacchā kāpilavatthavā sakyā paribhuñjissanti.

Tadassa kāpilavatthavānam sakyānam dīgharattam hitāya sukhāyā”ti.

That would be for the lasting welfare and happiness of the Sakyans of Kapilavatthu.”

Adhivāsesi bhagavā tuṅhībhāvena.

The Buddha consented in silence.

Atha kho kāpilavatthavā sakyā bhagavato adhivāsanam veditvā utṭhāyāsanā bhagavantam abhivādetvā padakkhiṇam katvā yena navam santhāgāram tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā sabbasantharim santhāgāram santharivā āsanāni paññāpetvā udakamaṇikam patitṭhāpetvā telappadīpam āropetvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam etadavocum:

Knowing that the Buddha had consented, the Sakyans got up from their seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on their right. Then they went to the new town hall, where they spread carpets all over, prepared seats, set up a water jar, and placed a lamp. Then they went back to the Buddha and told him of their preparations, saying, “sabbasantharisanthataṃ, bhante, santhāgāram, āsanāni paññattāni, udakamaṇiko patitṭhāpito, telappadīpo āropito.

Yassadāni, bhante, bhagavā kālam maññatī”ti.

“Please, sir, come at your convenience.”

Atha kho bhagavā nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya saddhim bhikkhusaṅghena yena navam santhāgāram tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā pāde pakkhāletvā santhāgāram pavisitvā majjhimaṃ thambham nissāya puratthābhimukho nisīdi.

Then the Buddha robed up and, taking his bowl and robe, went to the new town hall together with the Saṅgha of mendicants. Having washed his feet he entered the town hall and sat against the central column facing east.

Bhikkhusaṅghopi kho pāde pakkhāletvā santhāgāraṃ pavisitvā pacchimaṃ bhittiṃ nissāya puratthābhimukho nisīdi bhagavantāṃyeva purakkhatvā.

The Saṅgha of mendicants also washed their feet, entered the town hall, and sat against the west wall facing east, with the Buddha right in front of them.

Kāpilavatthavā sakyā pāde pakkhāletvā santhāgāraṃ pavisitvā puratthimaṃ bhittiṃ nissāya pacchimābhimukhā nisīdiṃsu bhagavantāṃyeva purakkhatvā.

The Sakyans of Kapilavatthu also washed their feet, entered the town hall, and sat against the east wall facing west, with the Buddha right in front of them.

Atha kho bhagavā kāpilavatthave sakye bahudeva rattim dhammiyā kathāya sandassetvā samādapetvā samuttejetvā sampahaṃsetvā uyyojesi:

The Buddha spent most of the night educating, encouraging, firing up, and inspiring the Sakyans with a Dhamma talk. Then he dismissed them, saying, “abhikkantā kho, gotamā, ratti.

“The night is getting late, Gotamas.

Yassadāni kālaṃ maññathā”ti.

Please go at your convenience.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho kāpilavatthavā sakyā bhagavato paṭissutvā uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā pakkamimṃsu.

“Yes, sir,” replied the Sakyans. They got up from their seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on their right, before leaving.

Atha kho bhagavā acirapakkantesu kāpilavatthavesu sakyesu āyasmantaṃ mahāmoggallānaṃ āmantesi:

And then, soon after the Sakyans had left, the Buddha addressed Venerable Mahāmoggallāna, “vigatathinamidhho kho, moggallāna, bhikkhusaṅgho.

“Moggallāna, the Saṅgha of mendicants is rid of dullness and drowsiness.

Paṭibhātu taṃ, moggallāna, bhikkhūnaṃ dhammī kathā.

Give them some Dhamma talk as you feel inspired.

Piṭṭhi me āgilāyati;

My back is sore,

tamahaṃ āyamissāmī”ti.

I’ll stretch it.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno bhagavato paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” Mahāmoggallāna replied.

Atha kho bhagavā catugguṇaṃ saṅghāṭiṃ paññapetvā dakkhiṇena passena sīhaseyyaṃ kappesi, pāde pādaṃ accādhāya, sato sampajāno uṭṭhānasaññaṃ manasi karitvā.

And then the Buddha spread out his outer robe folded in four and laid down in the lion’s posture—on the right side, placing one foot on top of the other—mindful and aware, and focused on the time of getting up.

Tatra kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno bhikkhū āmantesi:

There Venerable Mahāmoggallāna addressed the mendicants:

“āvuso bhikkhave”ti.

“Reverends, mendicants!”

“Āvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato mahāmoggallānassa paccassosum.

“Reverend,” they replied.

Āyasmā mahāmoggallāno etadavoca:

“I will teach you the explanation of the corrupt and the uncorrupted.

“Yes, reverend,” they replied.

Āyasmā mahāmoggallāno etadavoca:

In the same way, though that mendicant conducts themselves and lives in this way, every so often they might lose mindfulness, and bad, unskillful memories and thoughts prone to fetters arise. If this happens, their mindfulness is slow to come up, but they quickly give them up, get rid of, eliminate, and obliterate those thoughts.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno cāro ca vihāro ca anubuddho hoti; yathā carantaṃ viharantaṃ abhijjhādomanassā pāpakā akusalā dhammā nānussavanti.

This is how a mendicant has awakened to a way of conduct and a way of living such that, when they live in that way, bad, unskillful qualities of desire and grief don't overwhelm them.

In the same way, when a mendicant's mind is subdued, well subdued when it comes to the six fields of contact, becomes stilled internally; it settles, unifies, and becomes immersed in samādhi.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, rañño vā rājamahāmattassa vā vīṇāya saddo assutapubbo assa.

which make a sound when they’re played.’

So tam vinañca dasadhā vā satadhā vā phāleyya, dasadhā vā

But he'd split that harp into ten pieces or a hundred pieces, then splinter it up.

Sakalikaṃ sakalikaṃ karitvā agginā ḍaheyya, agginā ḍahitvā masiṃ kareyya.

He'd burn the splinters with fire, and reduce them to ashes.

Masiṃ karitvā mahāvāte vā ophuneyya, nadiyā vā sīghasotāya pavāheyya.

Then he'd sweep away the ashes in a strong wind, or float them away down a swift stream.

So evaṃ vadeyya:

Then he'd say,

'asatī kirāyaṃ, bho, vīṇā nāma, yathevaṃ yaṃ kiñci vīṇā nāma ettha ca panāyaṃ jano ativeლაṃ pamatto palaḷito'ti.

'It seems that there's nothing to this thing called an arched harp or whatever's called an arched harp! But people waste their time with it, negligent and heedless!'

In the same way, some mendicant goes to a village or a wilderness and gets scolded, ‘ayañca so āyasmā evaṅkārī evamsamācāro asucigāmaṅṭako’ti.

‘This venerable, acting like this, behaving like this, is a filthy village thorn.’

Tam kaṇṭakoti iti veditvā samvaro ca asamvaro ca veditabbo.

Understanding that they’re a thorn, they should understand restraint and lack of restraint.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, asaṃvaro hoti?

248. Yavakalāpisutta The Sheaf of Barley

“Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, yavakalāpī cātumahāpathe nikkhattā “Mendicants, suppose a sheaf of barley was placed at a crossroads.

Atha cha purisā āgaccheyyūṃ byābhaṅgihatthā.

Then six people would come along carrying flails,

Te yavakalāpim chahi byābhaṅgīhi haneyyūṃ.

and started threshing the sheaf of barley.

Evañhi sā, bhikkhave, yavakalāpī suhatā assa chahi

So that sheaf of barley would be thoroughly threshed by those six flails.

Atha sattamo puriso āgaccheyya byābhaṅgihattho.

Then a seventh person would come along carrying a flail,

So taṃ yavakalāpim sattamāya byābhaṅgiyā haneyya.

and they'd give the sheaf of barley a seventh threshing.

Evañhi sā bhikkhave, yavakalāpī suhatatarā assa, sattamāya

Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, devāsurasāṅgāmo samupabyūḷho ahosi.

Once upon a time, a battle was fought between the gods and the demons.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, vepacitti asurindo asure āmantesi:

Then Vepacitti, lord of demons, addressed the demons,

‘sace, mārisā, devāsurasāṅgāme samupabyūḷhe asurā jineyyum devā parājineyyum, yena naṃ sakkaṃ devānamindaṃ kaṅṭhapañcamehi bandhanehi bandhitvā mama santike āneyyātha asurapuran’ti.

‘My good sirs, if the demons defeat the gods in this battle, bind Sakka, the lord of gods, by his limbs and neck and bring him to my presence in the castle of demons.’

Sakkopi kho, bhikkhave, devānamindo deve tāvatimse āmantesi:

Meanwhile, Sakka, lord of gods, addressed the gods of the Thirty-Three,

‘sace, mārisā, devāsurasāṅgāme samupabyūḷhe devā jineyyum asurā parājineyyum, yena naṃ vepacittim asurindaṃ

kaṇṭhapañcamehi bandhanehi bandhitvā mama santike āneyyātha sudhammaṃ devasabhan'ti.

‘My good sirs, if the gods defeat the demons in this battle, bind Vepacitti by his limbs and neck and bring him to my presence in the Sudhamma hall of the gods.’

Tasmim̐ kho pana, bhikkhave, saṅgāme devā jiniṃsu, asurā parājiniṃsu.

In that battle the gods won and the demons lost.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, devā tāvatimsā vepacittim̐ asurindaṃ kaṇṭhapañcamehi bandhanehi bandhitvā sakkassa devānamindassa santike ānesum̐ sudhammaṃ devasabham̐.

So the gods of the Thirty-Three bound Vepacitti by his limbs and neck and brought him to Sakka’s presence in the Sudhamma hall of the gods.

Tatra sudaṃ, bhikkhave, vepacitti asurindo kaṇṭhapañcamehi bandhanehi baddho hoti.

And there Vepacitti remained bound by his limbs and neck.

Yadā kho, bhikkhave, vepacittissa asurindassa evaṃ hoti:

That is, until he thought,

‘dhammikā kho devā, adhammikā asurā, idheva dānāham̐ devapuraṃ gacchāmī’ti.

‘It’s the gods who are principled, while the demons are unprincipled. Now I belong right here in the castle of the gods.’

Atha kaṇṭhapañcamehi bandhanehi muttam̐ attānam̐ samanupassati, dibbehi ca pañcahi kāmaguṇehi samappito samaṅgībhūto paricāreti.

Then he found himself freed from the bonds on his limbs and neck. He entertained himself, supplied and provided with the five kinds of heavenly sensual stimulation.

Yadā ca kho, bhikkhave, vepacittissa asurindassa evaṃ hoti:

But when he thought,

‘dhammikā kho asurā, adhammikā devā, tattheva dānāhaṃ asurapuraṃ gamissāmi’ti.

Now I will go over there to the castle of the demons,’ atha kaṇṭhapañcamehi bandhanehi baddhaṃ attānaṃ samanupassati, dibbehi ca pañcahi kāmagaṇehi parihāyati.

he found himself bound by his limbs and neck, and the five kinds of heavenly sensual stimulation disappeared.

Evaṃ sukhumāṃ kho, bhikkhave, vepacittibandhanaṃ.

That’s how subtly Vepacitti was bound.

Tato sukhumataraṃ mārabandhanaṃ.

But the bonds of Māra are even more subtle than that.

Maññaṃāno kho, bhikkhave, baddho mārasa, amaññaṃāno

The underlying tendency to greed should be given up when it comes to pleasant feeling. The underlying tendency to repulsion should be given up when it comes to painful feeling. The underlying tendency to ignorance should be given up when it comes to neutral feeling.

Yato kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno sukhāya vedanāya rāgānusayo

5. Daṭṭhabbasutta Should Be Seen

“Tisso imā, bhikkhave, vedanā.

“Mendicants, there are these three feelings.

Katamā tisso?

What three?

Sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā, adukkhamasukhā vedanā.

Pleasant, painful, and neutral feeling.

Sukhā, bhikkhave, vedanā dukkhato daṭṭhabbā, dukkhā vedanā sallato daṭṭhabbā, adukkhamasukhā vedanā aniccato daṭṭhabbā.

Pleasant feeling should be seen as suffering. Painful feeling should be seen as a dart. Neutral feeling should be seen as impermanent.

Yato kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno sukhā vedanā dukkhato diṭṭhā hoti, dukkhā vedanā sallato diṭṭhā hoti, adukkhamasukhā vedanā aniccato diṭṭhā hoti—

When a mendicant has seen these three feelings in this way, ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, ‘bhikkhu sammaddaso acchecchi taṇhaṃ, vivattayi saṃyojanaṃ, sammā mānābhisamayā antamakāsi dukkhassā’ti.

they’re called a mendicant who has cut off craving, untied the fetters, and by rightly comprehending conceit has made an end of suffering.

Yo sukhaṃ dukkhato adda,

A mendicant who sees pleasure as pain, dukkhamaddakkhi sallato;

and suffering as a dart,

Adukkhamasukhaṃ santaṃ, and that peaceful, neutral feeling addakkhi naṃ aniccato.

as impermanent

Sa ve sammaddaso bhikkhu, sees rightly;

parijānāti vedanā;
they completely understand feelings.

So vedanā pariññāya, Completely understanding feelings,

diṭṭhe dhamme anāsavo;
they're without defilements in this very life.

Kāyassa bhedaṃ dhammaṭṭho,

An Arrow

“Assutavā, bhikkhave, puthujjano sukhampi vedanaṃ vedayati, dukkhampi vedanaṃ vedayati, adukkhamasukhampi vedanaṃ vedayati.

“Mendicants, an uneducated ordinary person feels pleasant, painful, and neutral feelings.

Sutavā, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako sukhampi vedanaṃ vedayati, dukkhampi vedanaṃ vedayati, adukkhamasukhampi vedanaṃ vedayati.

An educated noble disciple also feels pleasant, painful, and neutral feelings.

Tatra, bhikkhave, ko viseso ko adhippayāso kiṃ nānākaraṇaṃ sutavato ariyasāvakassa assutavatā puthujjanenā”ti?

What, then, is the difference between an ordinary uneducated person and an educated noble disciple?”

Bhagavaṃmūlakā no, bhante, dhammā ...pe...

“Our teachings are rooted in the Buddha. ...”

assutavā, bhikkhave, puthujjano dukkhāya vedanāya phuṭṭho samāno socati kilamati paridevati urattāḷiṃ kandati sammohaṃ āpajjati.

“When an uneducated ordinary person experiences painful physical feelings they sorrow and pine and lament, beating their breast and falling into confusion.

So dve vedanā vedayati—

They experience two feelings:

kāyikañca, cetasikañca.

physical and mental.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, purisaṃ sallena vijjheyya.

It's like a person who is struck with an arrow,

Tamenam dutiyena sallena anuvedham vijjheyya.

only to be struck with a second arrow.

Evañhi so, bhikkhave, puriso dvisallena vedanam vedayati.

That person experiences the feeling of two arrows.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, assutavā puthujjano dukkhāya vedanāya phuṭṭho samāno socati kilamati paridevati urattālim kandati sammoham āpajjati.

In the same way, when an uneducated ordinary person experiences painful physical feelings they sorrow and pine and lament, beating their breast and falling into confusion.

So dve vedanā vedayati—

They experience two feelings:

kāyikañca, cetasikañca.

physical and mental.

Tassāyeva kho pana dukkhāya vedanāya phuṭṭho samāno paṭighavā hoti.

When they're touched by painful feeling, they resist it.

Tamenam dukkhāya vedanāya paṭighavantam, yo dukkhāya vedanāya paṭighānusayo, so anuseti.

The underlying tendency for repulsion towards painful feeling underlies that.

So dukkhāya vedanāya phuṭṭho samāno kāmasukham abhinandati.

When touched by painful feeling they look forward to enjoying sensual pleasures.

Tam kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Na hi so, bhikkhave, pajānāti assutavā puthujjano aññatra kāmasukhā dukkhāya vedanāya nissaraṇaṃ, Because an uneducated ordinary person doesn't understand any escape from painful feeling apart from sensual pleasures.

tassa kāmasukhañca abhinandato, yo sukhāya vedanāya rāgānusayo, so anuseti.

Since they look forward to enjoying sensual pleasures, the underlying tendency to greed for pleasant feeling underlies that.

So tāsam vedanānaṃ samudayañca atthaṅgamañca assādañca ādīnavañca nissaraṇaṃ yathābhūtaṃ nappajānāti.

They don't truly understand feelings' origin, ending, gratification, drawback, and escape.

Tassa tāsam vedanānaṃ samudayañca atthaṅgamañca assādañca ādīnavañca nissaraṇaṃ yathābhūtaṃ appajānato, yo adukkhamasukhāya vedanāya avijjānusayo, so anuseti.

The underlying tendency to ignorance about neutral feeling underlies that.

So sukhañce vedanaṃ vedayati, saññutto naṃ vedayati.

If they feel a pleasant feeling, they feel it attached.

Dukkhañce vedanaṃ vedayati, saññutto naṃ vedayati.

If they feel a painful feeling, they feel it attached.

Adukkhamasukhañce vedanaṃ vedayati, saññutto naṃ vedayati.

If they feel a neutral feeling, they feel it attached.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, ‘assutavā puthujjano saññutto jātiyā jarāya maraṇena sokehi paridevehi dukkhehi domanassehi upāyāsehi, saññutto dukkhasmā’ti vadāmi.

They’re called an uneducated ordinary person who is attached to rebirth, old age, and death, to sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress, I say.

Sutavā ca kho, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako dukkhāya vedanāya phuṭṭho samāno na socati, na kilamati, na paridevati, na urattāḷim̃ kandati, na sammohaṃ āpajjati.

When an educated noble disciple experiences painful physical feelings they don’t sorrow or pine or lament, beating their breast and falling into confusion.

So ekaṃ vedanaṃ vedayati—

They experience one feeling:

kāyikaṃ, na cetasikaṃ.

physical, not mental.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, purisaṃ sallena vijjheyya.

It’s like a person who is struck with an arrow,

Tamenaṃ dutiyena sallena anuvedhaṃ na vijjheyya.

but was not struck with a second arrow.

Evañhi so, bhikkhave, puriso ekasallena vedanaṃ vedayati.

That person would experience the feeling of one arrow.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, sutavā ariyasāvako dukkhāya vedanāya phuṭṭho samāno na socati, na kilamati, na paridevati, na urattāḷim̃ kandati, na sammohaṃ āpajjati.

In the same way, when an educated noble disciple experiences painful physical feelings they don’t sorrow or pine or lament, beating their breast and falling into confusion.

So ekaṃ vedanaṃ vedayati—

They experience one feeling:

kāyikaṃ, na cetasikaṃ.
physical, not mental.

Tassāyeva kho pana dukkhāya vedanāya phuṭṭho samāno paṭighavā na hoti.

When they're touched by painful feeling, they don't resist it.

Tamenam dukkhāya vedanāya appaṭighavantam, yo dukkhāya vedanāya paṭighānusayo, so nānuseti.

There's no underlying tendency for repulsion towards painful feeling underlying that.

So dukkhāya vedanāya phuṭṭho samāno kāmasukham nābhinandati.

When touched by painful feeling they don't look forward to enjoying sensual pleasures.

Tam kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Pajānāti hi so, bhikkhave, sutavā ariyasāvako aññatra kāmasukhā dukkhāya vedanāya nissaraṇam.

Because an educated noble disciple understands an escape from painful feeling apart from sensual pleasures.

Tassa kāmasukham nābhinandato yo sukhāya vedanāya rāgānusayo, so nānuseti.

Since they don't look forward to enjoying sensual pleasures, there's no underlying tendency to greed for pleasant feeling underlying that.

So tāsam vedanānam samudayañca atthaṅgamañca assādañca ādīnañca nissaraṇañca yathābhūtam pajānāti.

They truly understand feelings' origin, ending, gratification, drawback, and escape.

Tassa tāsam vedanānam samudayañca atthaṅgamañca assādañca ādīnañca nissaraṇañca yathābhūtam pajānato, yo adukkhamasukhāya vedanāya avijjānusayo, so nānuseti.

There's no underlying tendency to ignorance about neutral feeling underlying that.

So sukhañce vedanaṃ vedayati, visaññutto naṃ vedayati.

If they feel a pleasant feeling, they feel it detached.

Dukkhañce vedanaṃ vedayati, visaññutto naṃ vedayati.

If they feel a painful feeling, they feel it detached.

Adukkhamasukhañce vedanaṃ vedayati, visaññutto naṃ vedayati.

If they feel a neutral feeling, they feel it detached.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, 'sutavā ariyasāvako visaññutto jātiyā jarāya maraṇena sokehi paridevehi dukkhehi domanassehi upāyāsehi, visaññutto dukkhasmā'ti vadāmi.

They're called an educated noble disciple who is detached from rebirth, old age, and death, from sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress, I say.

Ayaṃ kho, bhikkhave, viseso, ayaṃ adhippayāso, idaṃ nānākaraṇaṃ sutavato ariyasāvakassa assutavatā puthujjanenāti.

This is the difference between an educated noble disciple and an uneducated ordinary person.

Na vedanaṃ vedayati sapañño,

A wise and learned person isn't affected

Sukhampi dukkhampi bahussutopi;

by feelings of pleasure and pain.

Ayañca dhīrassa puthujjanena,

This is the great difference in skill

7. Paṭhamagelaññasutta The Infirmary (1st)

Ekam samayaṃ bhagavā vesāliyaṃ viharati mahāvane kūṭāgārasālāyaṃ.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Vesālī, at the Great Wood, in the hall with the peaked roof.

Atha kho bhagavā sāyanhasamayaṃ paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yena gilānasālā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā paññatte āsane nisīdi.

Then in the late afternoon, the Buddha came out of retreat and went to the infirmary, where he sat down on the seat spread out,

Nisajja kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:
and addressed the mendicants:

“Sato, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sampajāno kālaṃ āgameyya.

“Mendicants, a mendicant should await their time mindful and aware.

Ayaṃ vo amhākaṃ anusāsanī.

This is my instruction to you.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sato hoti?

And how is a mendicant mindful?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu kāye kāyānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ;

It's when a mendicant meditates by observing an aspect of the body—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

vedanāsu vedanānupassī viharati ...pe...

They meditate observing an aspect of feelings ...

citte cittānupassī viharati ...pe...

They meditate observing an aspect of the mind ...

dhammesu dhammānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ.

They meditate observing an aspect of principles—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sato hoti.

That's how a mendicant is mindful.

Kathaṅca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sampajāno hoti?

And how is a mendicant aware?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu abhikkante paṭikkante sampajānakārī hoti, ālokite vilokite sampajānakārī hoti, samiñjite pasārite sampajānakārī hoti, saṅghāṭipattacīvaradhāraṇe sampajānakārī hoti, asite pīte khāyite sāyite sampajānakārī hoti, uccārapassāvakamme sampajānakārī hoti, gate ṭhite nisinne sutte jāgarite bhāsīte tuṅhībhāve sampajānakārī hoti.

It's when a mendicant acts with situational awareness when going out and coming back; when looking ahead and aside; when bending and extending the limbs; when bearing the outer robe, bowl and robes; when eating, drinking, chewing, and tasting; when urinating and defecating; when walking, standing, sitting, sleeping, waking, speaking, and keeping silent.

Evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sampajānakārī hoti.

That's how a mendicant acts with situational awareness.

Sato, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sampajāno kālaṃ āgameyya.

A mendicant should await their time mindful and aware.

Ayaṃ vo amhākaṃ anusāsani.

This is my instruction to you.

Tassa ce, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno evaṃ satassa sampajānassa appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato uppajjati sukhā vedanā, so evaṃ pajānāti:

While a mendicant is meditating like this—mindful, aware, diligent, keen, and resolute—if pleasant feelings arise, they understand:

‘uppannā kho myāyaṃ sukhā vedanā.

‘A pleasant feeling has arisen in me.

Sā ca kho paṭicca, no appaṭicca.

That’s dependent, not independent.

Kiṃ paṭicca?

Dependent on what?

Imameva kāyaṃ paṭicca.

Dependent on my own body.

Ayaṃ kho pana kāyo anicco saṅkhato paṭticasamuppanno.

But this body is impermanent, conditioned, dependently originated.

Aniccaṃ kho pana saṅkhataṃ paṭticasamuppannaṃ kāyaṃ paṭicca uppannā sukhā vedanā kuto niccā bhavissatī’ti.

So how could a pleasant feeling be permanent, since it has arisen dependent on a body that is impermanent, conditioned, and dependently originated?’

So kāye ca sukhāya ca vedanāya aniccānupassī viharati, vayānupassī viharati, virāgānupassī viharati, nirodhānupassī viharati, paṭinissaggānupassī viharati.

They meditate observing impermanence, vanishing, dispassion, cessation, and letting go in the body and pleasant feeling.

Tassa kāye ca sukhāya ca vedanāya aniccānupassino viharato, vayānupassino viharato, virāgānupassino viharato, nirodhānupassino viharato, paṭinissaggānupassino viharato, yo kāye ca sukhāya ca vedanāya rāgānusayo, so pahīyati.

As they do so, they give up the underlying tendency for greed for the body and pleasant feeling.

Tassa ce, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno evaṃ satassa sampajānassa appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato uppajjati dukkhā vedanā.

While a mendicant is meditating like this—mindful, aware, diligent, keen, and resolute—if painful feelings arise, they understand:

So evaṃ pajānāti:

‘uppannā kho myāyaṃ dukkhā vedanā.

‘A painful feeling has arisen in me.

Sā ca kho paṭicca, no appaṭicca.

That’s dependent, not independent.

Kim paṭicca?

Dependent on what?

Imameva kāyaṃ paṭicca.

Dependent on my own body.

Ayaṃ kho pana kāyo anicco saṅkhato paṭिकासamuppanno.

But this body is impermanent, conditioned, dependently originated.

Aniccaṃ kho pana saṅkhataṃ paṭिकासamuppannaṃ kāyaṃ paṭicca uppannā dukkhā vedanā kuto niccā bhavissatī’ti.

So how could a painful feeling be permanent, since it has arisen dependent on a body that is impermanent, conditioned, and dependently originated?’

So kāye ca dukkhāya ca vedanāya aniccānupassī viharati, vayānupassī viharati, virāgānupassī viharati, nirodhānupassī viharati, paṭinissaggānupassī viharati.

They meditate observing impermanence, vanishing, dispassion, cessation, and letting go in the body and painful feeling.

Tassa kāye ca dukkhāya ca vedanāya aniccānupassino viharato ...pe... paṭinissaggānupassino viharato, yo kāye ca dukkhāya ca vedanāya paṭighānusayo, so pahīyati.

As they do so, they give up the underlying tendency for repulsion towards the body and painful feeling.

Tassa ce, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno evaṃ satassa sampajānassa appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato uppajjati adukkhamasukhā vedanā, so evaṃ pajānāti:

While a mendicant is meditating like this—mindful, aware, diligent, keen, and resolute—if neutral feelings arise, they understand:

‘uppannā kho myāyaṃ adukkhamasukhā vedanā.

‘A neutral feeling has arisen in me.

Sā ca kho paṭicca, no appaṭicca.

That’s dependent, not independent.

Kiṃ paṭicca?

Dependent on what?

Imameva kāyaṃ paṭicca.

Dependent on my own body.

Ayaṃ kho pana kāyo anicco saṅkhato paṭicasamuppanno.

But this body is impermanent, conditioned, dependently originated.

Aniccaṃ kho pana saṅkhataṃ paṭicasamuppannaṃ kāyaṃ paṭicca uppannā adukkhamasukhā vedanā kuto niccā bhavissatī’ti.

So how could a neutral feeling be permanent, since it has arisen dependent on a body that is impermanent, conditioned, and dependently originated?’

So kāye ca adukkhamasukhāya ca vedanāya aniccānupassī viharati, vayānupassī viharati, virāgānupassī viharati, nirodhānupassī viharati, paṭinissaggānupassī viharati.

They meditate observing impermanence, vanishing, dispassion, cessation, and letting go in the body and neutral feeling.

Tassa kāye ca adukkhamasukhāya ca vedanāya aniccānupassino viharato ...pe... paṭinissaggānupassino viharato, yo kāye ca adukkhamasukhāya ca vedanāya avijjānusayo, so pahīyati.

As they do so, they give up the underlying tendency for ignorance towards the body and neutral feeling.

So sukhañce vedanaṃ vedayati, sā aniccāti pajānāti, anajjhositāti pajānāti, anabhinanditāti pajānāti;

If they feel a pleasant feeling, they understand that it's impermanent, that they're not attached to it, and that they don't take pleasure in it.

dukkhañce vedanaṃ vedayati ...pe...

If they feel a painful feeling, they understand that it's impermanent, that they're not attached to it, and that they don't take pleasure in it.

adukkhamasukhañce vedanaṃ vedayati, sā aniccāti pajānāti, anajjhositāti pajānāti, anabhinanditāti pajānāti.

If they feel a neutral feeling, they understand that it's impermanent, that they're not attached to it, and that they don't take pleasure in it.

So sukhañce vedanaṃ vedayati, visaññutto naṃ vedayati;

If they feel a pleasant feeling, they feel it detached.

dukkhañce vedanaṃ vedayati, visaññutto naṃ vedayati;

If they feel a painful feeling, they feel it detached.

adukkhamasukhañce vedanaṃ vedayati, visaññutto naṃ vedayati.

If they feel a neutral feeling, they feel it detached.

So kāyapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayamāno 'kāyapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayāmī'ti pajānāti, jīvitapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayamāno 'jīvitapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayāmī'ti pajānāti.

Feeling the end of the body approaching, they understand: 'I feel the end of the body approaching.' Feeling the end of life approaching, they understand: 'I feel the end of life approaching.'

'Kāyassa bhedaṃ uddhaṃ jīvitapariyādānā idheva sabbavedayitāni anabhinanditāni sītībhavissantī'ti pajānāti.

They understand: 'When my body breaks up and my life has come to an end, everything that's felt, since I no longer take pleasure in it, will become cool right here.'

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, telañca paṭicca vaṭṭiñca paṭicca telappadīpo jhāyeyya,

Suppose an oil lamp depended on oil and a wick to burn.

tasseva telassa ca vaṭṭiyā ca pariyādānā anāhāro nibbāyeyya;

As the oil and the wick are used up, it would be extinguished due to lack of fuel.

evameva kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhu kāyapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayamāno ‘kāyapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayāmī’ti pajānāti.
Jīvitapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayamāno ‘jīvitapariyantikaṃ vedanaṃ vedayāmī’ti pajānāti.

In the same way, feeling the end of the body approaching, a mendicant understands: ‘I feel the end of the body approaching.’
Feeling the end of life approaching, a mendicant understands: ‘I feel the end of life approaching.’

‘Kāyassa bhedaṃ uddham jīvitapariyādānā idheva sabbavedayitāni anabhinanditāni sītībhavissantī’ti pajānātī’ti.

They understand: ‘When my body breaks up and my life is over, everything that’s felt, since I no longer take pleasure in it, will become cool right here.’”

Sattamaṃ.

While a mendicant is meditating like this—mindful, aware, diligent, keen, and resolute—if pleasant feelings arise, they understand:

So evaṃ pajānāti:

‘uppannā kho myāyaṃ sukhā vedanā;

‘A pleasant feeling has arisen in me.

sā ca kho paṭicca, no appaṭicca.

That’s dependent, not independent.

Kiṃ paṭicca?

Dependent on what?

Imameva phassaṃ paṭicca.

Dependent on this very contact.

Ayaṃ kho pana phasso anicco saṅkhato paṭिकासamuppanno.

But this contact is impermanent, conditioned, dependently originated.

Aniccaṃ kho pana saṅkhataṃ paṭिकासamuppannaṃ phassaṃ paṭicca uppannā sukhā vedanā kuto niccā bhavissatī’ti.

So how could a pleasant feeling be permanent, since it has arisen dependent on contact that is impermanent, conditioned, and dependently originated?’

So phasse ca sukhāya ca vedanāya aniccānupassī viharati, vayānupassī viharati, virāgānupassī viharati, nirodhānupassī viharati, paṭinissaggānupassī viharati.

They meditate observing impermanence, vanishing, dispassion, cessation, and letting go in contact and pleasant feeling.

Tassa phasse ca sukhāya ca vedanāya aniccānupassino viharato, vayānupassino viharato, virāgānupassino viharato, nirodhānupassino viharato, paṭinissaggānupassino viharato yo phasse ca sukhāya ca vedanāya rāgānusayo, so pahīyati.

As they do so, they give up the underlying tendency for greed for contact and pleasant feeling.

Tassa ce, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno evaṃ satassa ...pe...

While a mendicant is meditating like this—mindful, aware, diligent, keen, and resolute—if painful feelings arise ...

viharato uppajjati dukkhā vedanā ...pe...

uppajjati adukkhamasukhā vedanā.

if neutral feelings arise, they understand:

So evaṃ pajānāti:

‘uppannā kho myāyaṃ adukkhamasukhā vedanā;

‘A neutral feeling has arisen in me.

sā ca kho paṭicca, no appaṭicca.

That’s dependent, not independent.

Kiṃ paṭicca?

Dependent on what?

Imameva phassaṃ paṭicca.

Dependent on this very contact.

‘Kāyassa bheda uddham jīvitapariyādānā idheva sabbavedayitāni anabhinanditāni sītībhavissantī’ti pajānātī”ti.

“Just now, sir, as I was in private retreat this thought came to mind.

tisso vedanā vuttā bhagavatā.

The Buddha has spoken of three feelings.

Sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā, adukkhamasukhā vedanā—

Pleasant, painful, and neutral feeling.

These are the three feelings the Buddha has spoken of.

Vuttaṃ kho panetaṃ bhagavatā:

But the Buddha has also said:

‘yaṃ kiñci vedayitaṃ taṃ dukkhasmin’ti.

‘Suffering includes whatever is felt.’

Kiṃ nu kho etaṃ bhagavatā sandhāya bhāsitaṃ:

What was the Buddha referring to when he said this?”

“Sādhu sādhu, bhikkhu.

“Good, good, mendicant!

Tisso imā, bhikkhu, vedanā vuttā mayā.

I have spoken of these three feelings.

Sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā, adukkhamasukhā vedanā—

Pleasant, painful, and neutral feeling.

For someone who has attained the dimension of infinite consciousness, the perception of the dimension of infinite space has ceased.

Ākiñcaññāyatanaṃ samāpannassa viññāṇañcāyatanaññā niruddhā hoti.

For someone who has attained the dimension of nothingness, the perception of the dimension of infinite consciousness has ceased.

Nevasaññānāsaññāyatanaṃ samāpannassa ākiñcaññāyatanaññā niruddhā hoti.

For someone who has attained the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception, the perception of the dimension of nothingness has ceased.

For a mendicant who has ended the defilements, greed, hate, and delusion have ceased.

Atha kho, bhikkhu, mayā anupubbasaṅkhārānaṃ vūpasamo akkhāto.

And I have also explained the progressive stilling of conditions.

Paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ samāpannassa vācā vūpasantā hoti.

For someone who has attained the first absorption, speech has stilled.

Dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ samāpannassa vitakkavicārā vūpasantā honti ...pe...

For someone who has attained the second absorption, the placing of the mind and keeping it connected have stilled. ...

saññāvedayitanirodham samāpannassa saññā ca vedanā ca vūpasantā honti.

For someone who has attained the cessation of perception and feeling, perception and feeling have stilled.

Khīṇāsavassa bhikkhuno rāgo vūpasanto hoti, doso vūpasanto hoti, moho vūpasanto hoti.

For a mendicant who has ended the defilements, greed, hate, and delusion have stilled.

Chayimā, bhikkhu, passaddhiyo.

There are these six levels of tranquility.

Paṭhamam̐ jhānam̐ samāpannassa vācā paṭippassaddhā hoti.

For someone who has attained the first absorption, speech has been tranquilized.

Dutiyam̐ jhānam̐ samāpannassa vitakkavicārā paṭippassaddhā honti.

When contact ceases, feeling ceases.

Ayameva ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo vedanānirodhagāminī

The practice that leads to the cessation of feelings is simply this noble eightfold path, that is:

sammādiṭṭhi ...pe... sammāsamādhi.

Yaṃ vedanaṃ paṭicca uppajjati sukhaṃ somanassaṃ, ayaṃ

The pleasure and happiness that arise from feeling: this is its gratification.

Yaṃ vedanā aniccā dukkhā vipariṇāmadhammā, ayaṃ vedanāya ādīnavo.

That feeling is impermanent, suffering, and perishable: this is its drawback.

Yo vedanāya chandarāgavinayo chandarāgappahānaṃ, idaṃ vedanāya nissaraṇaṃ.

Removing and giving up desire and greed for feeling: this is its escape.

Atha kho pana, bhikkhave, mayā anupubbasaṅkhārānaṃ

But I have also explained the progressive cessation of conditions. ...

Chayimā, bhikkhave, passaddhiyo.

Paṭhamam̐ jhānam̐ samāpannassa vācā paṭippassaddhā hoti.

Dutiyam̐ jhānam̐ samāpannassa vitakkavicārā paṭippassaddhā

For a mendicant who has ended the defilements, greed, hate, and delusion have been tranquilized.”

Sattamam̐.

18. Dutiyasambahulasutta With Several Mendicants (2nd)

Atha kho sambahulā bhikkhū yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu ...pe...

Then several mendicants went up to the Buddha ...

ekamantaṃ nisinnā kho te bhikkhū bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said to them:

“katamā nu kho, bhikkhave, vedanā, katamo vedanāsamudayo, katamo vedanānirodho, katamā vedanānirodhagāminī paṭipadā?

“Mendicants, what is feeling? What’s the origin of feeling? What’s the cessation of feeling? What’s the practice that leads to the cessation of feeling?”

Ko vedanāya assādo, ko ādīnavo, kiṃ nissaraṇaṃ”ti?

And what is feeling’s gratification, drawback, and escape?”

“Bhagavaṃmūlakā no, bhante, dhammā ...pe...”

“Our teachings are rooted in the Buddha. ...”

“tisso imā, bhikkhave, vedanā—

“Mendicants, there are these three feelings:

These are called feeling. ...”

(Yathā purimasuttante, tathā vitthāretabbo.)

(This should be told in full as in the previous discourse.)

19. Pañcakaṅgasutta With Pañcakaṅga

Atha kho pañcakaṅgo thapati yenāyasmā udāyī tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamitvā āyasmantaṃ udāyīṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho pañcakaṅgo thapati āyasmantaṃ udāyīṃ etadavoca:

Then the master builder Pañcakaṅga went up to Venerable Udāyī, bowed, sat down to one side, and asked him, “kati nu kho, bhante udāyī, vedanā vuttā bhagavatā”ti?

“Sir, how many feelings has the Buddha spoken of?”

“Tisso kho, thapati, vedanā vuttā bhagavatā.

“Master builder, the Buddha has spoken of three feelings:

Sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā, adukkhamasukhā vedanā—pleasant, painful, and neutral.

imā kho, thapati, tisso vedanā vuttā bhagavatā”ti.

The Buddha has spoken of these three feelings.”

Evam vutte, pañcakaṅgo thapati āyasmantaṃ udāyīṃ etadavoca:

When he said this, Pañcakaṅga said to Udāyī,

“na kho, bhante udāyī, tisso vedanā vuttā bhagavatā.

“Sir, Udāyī, the Buddha hasn’t spoken of three feelings.

Dve vedanā vuttā bhagavatā—

He’s spoken of two feelings:

sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā.

pleasant and painful.

Yāyaṃ, bhante, adukkhamasukhā vedanā, santasmim̐ esā paṇīte sukhe vuttā bhagavatā”ti.

The Buddha said that neutral feeling is included as a peaceful and subtle kind of pleasure.”

Dutiyampi kho āyasmā udāyī pañcakaṅgaṃ thapatim̐ etadavoca:

For a second time, Udāyī said to him,

“na kho, thapati, dve vedanā vuttā bhagavatā.

“The Buddha hasn’t spoken of two feelings,

Tisso vedanā vuttā bhagavatā.

he’s spoken of three.”

Sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā, adukkhamasukhā vedanā—
imā tisso vedanā vuttā bhagavatā”ti.

Dutiyampi kho pañcakaṅgo thapati āyasmantaṃ udāyim̐ etadavoca:

For a second time, Pañcakaṅga said to Udāyī,

“na kho, bhante udāyi, tisso vedanā vuttā bhagavatā.

“The Buddha hasn’t spoken of three feelings,

Dve vedanā vuttā bhagavatā—

he’s spoken of two.”

sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā.

Yāyaṃ, bhante, adukkhamasukhā vedanā, santasmim̐ esā paṇīte sukhe vuttā bhagavatā”ti.

Tatiyampi kho āyasmā udāyī pañcakaṅgaṃ thapatim̐ etadavoca:

And for a third time, Udāyī said to him,

“na kho, thapati, dve vedanā vuttā bhagavatā.

“The Buddha hasn’t spoken of two feelings,

Tisso vedanā vuttā bhagavatā.

he's spoken of three.”

Sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā, adukkhamasukhā vedanā—
imā tisso vedanā vuttā bhagavatā”ti.

Tatiyampi kho pañcakaṅgo thapati āyasmantaṃ udāyimaṃ
etadavoca:

And for a third time, Pañcakaṅga said to Udāyī,

“na kho, bhante udāyī, tisso vedanā vuttā bhagavatā.

“The Buddha hasn't spoken of three feelings,

Dve vedanā vuttā bhagavatā—

he's spoken of two.”

sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā.

Yāyaṃ, bhante, adukkhamasukhā vedanā, santasmimaṃ esā paṇīte sukhe vuttā bhagavatā”ti.

Neva sakkhi āyasmā udāyī pañcakaṅgaṃ thapatimaṃ saññāpetuṃ, na paṇāsakkhi pañcakaṅgo thapati āyasmantaṃ udāyimaṃ saññāpetuṃ.

But neither was able to persuade the other.

Assosi kho āyasmā ānando āyasmato udāyissa pañcakaṅgena thapatinā saddhimaṃ imaṃ kathāsallāpaṃ.

Venerable Ānanda heard this discussion between Udāyī and Pañcakaṅga.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamitvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.

He went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side,

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā ānando yāvatako āyasmato udāyissa pañcakaṅgena thapatinā saddhimaṃ ahosi kathāsallāpo taṃ sabbaṃ bhagavato ārocesi.

and informed the Buddha of all they had discussed.

“Santameva, ānanda, pariyāyaṃ pañcakaṅgo thapati udāyissa bhikkhuno nābbhanumodi; “Ānanda, the explanation by the mendicant Udāyī, which the master builder Pañcakaṅga didn’t agree with, was quite correct.

santañca panānanda, pariyāyaṃ udāyī bhikkhu pañcakaṅgassa thapatino nābbhanumodi.

But the explanation by Pañcakaṅga, which Udāyī didn’t agree with, was also quite correct.

Dvepi mayā, ānanda, vedanā vuttā pariyāyena.

In one explanation I’ve spoken of two feelings. In another explanation I’ve spoken of three feelings, or five, six, eighteen, thirty-six, or a hundred and eight feelings.

Tissopi mayā vedanā vuttā pariyāyena.

Chattimsāpi mayā vedanā vuttā pariyāyena.

Aṭṭhasatampi mayā vedanā vuttā pariyāyena.

Evaṃ pariyāyadesito kho, ānanda, mayā dhammo.

I’ve explained the teaching in all these different ways.

Evaṃ pariyāyadesite kho, ānanda, mayā dhamme ye aññamaññassa subhāsitaṃ sulapitaṃ, na samanumaññissanti, na samanujānissanti, na samanumodissanti, tesam etaṃ pāṭikaṅkham—bhaṇḍanajātā kalahajātā vivādāpannā aññamaññaṃ mukhasattīhi vitudentā viharissantīti.

This being so, you can expect that those who don’t concede, approve, or agree with what has been well spoken will argue, quarrel, and fight, continually wounding each other with barbed words.

Pañcime, ānanda, kāmaguṇā.

There are these five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Katame pañca?

What five?

Cakkhuviññeyyā rūpā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā kāmūpasamhitā rajanīyā ...pe...

Sights known by the eye that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing. ...

kāyaviññeyyā phoṭṭhabbā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā kāmūpasamhitā rajanīyā.

Touches known by the body that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

Ime kho, ānanda, pañca kāmaguṇā.

These are the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Yaṃ kho, ānanda, ime pañca kāmaguṇe paṭicca uppajjati sukhaṃ somanassaṃ—

The pleasure and happiness that arise from these five kinds of sensual stimulation is called sensual pleasure.

idaṃ vuccati kāmasukhaṃ.

Ye kho, ānanda, evaṃ vadeyyuṃ:

There are those who would say

‘etapparamaṃ santaṃ sukhaṃ somanassaṃ paṭisaṃvedentī’ti that this is the highest pleasure and happiness that sentient beings experience.

idaṃ nesāhaṃ nānujānāmi.

But I don’t acknowledge that.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Atthānanda, etamhā sukhā aññaṃ sukhaṃ abhikkantataraṅga paṇītataraṅga.

Because there is another pleasure that is finer than that.

Katamañcānanda, etamhā sukhā aññaṃ sukhaṃ abhikkantataraṅga paṇītataraṅga?

And what is that pleasure?

Idhānanda, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

It’s when a mendicant, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Idaṃ kho, ānanda, etamhā sukhā aññaṃ sukhaṃ abhikkantataraṅga paṇītataraṅga.

This is a pleasure that is finer than that.

Ye kho, ānanda, evaṃ vadeyyuṃ:

But I don’t acknowledge that.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Atthānanda, etamhā sukhā aññaṃ sukhaṃ abhikkantataraṅga paṇītataṅga.

Because there is another pleasure that is finer than that.

Katamañcānanda, etamhā sukhā aññaṃ sukhaṃ abhikkantataraṅga paṇītataṅga?

And what is that pleasure?

Idhānanda, bhikkhu, vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhattaṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

It’s when, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, a mendicant enters and remains in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Idaṃ kho, ānanda, etamhā sukhā aññaṃ sukhaṃ abhikkantataraṅga paṇītataṅga.

This is a pleasure that is finer than that.

Ye kho, ānanda, evaṃ vadeyyuṃ:

But I don't acknowledge that.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Atthānanda, etamhā sukhā aññaṃ sukhaṃ abhikkantataraṅga paṇītataraṅga.

Because there is another pleasure that is finer than that.

Katamañcānanda, etamhā sukhā aññaṃ sukhaṃ abhikkantataraṅga paṇītataraṅga?

And what is that pleasure?

Idhānanda, bhikkhu pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca viharati sato ca sampajāno, sukhaṅga kāyena paṭisaṃvedeti, yaṃ taṃ ariyā ācikkhanti: 'upekkhako satimā sukhavihārī'ti tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

It's when, with the fading away of rapture, a mendicant enters and remains in the third absorption, where they meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, 'Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.'

Idaṃ kho, ānanda, etamhā sukhā aññaṃ sukhaṃ abhikkantataraṅga paṇītataraṅga.

This is a pleasure that is finer than that.

Ye kho, ānanda, evaṃ vadeyyuṃ:

It's when, giving up pleasure and pain, and ending former happiness and sadness, a mendicant enters and remains in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

Idaṃ kho, ānanda, etamhā sukhā aññaṃ sukhaṃ abhikkantataraṅga paṇītataraṅga.

This is a pleasure that is finer than that.

Ye kho, ānanda, evaṃ vadeyyuṃ:

It's when a mendicant—going totally beyond perceptions of form, with the ending of perceptions of impingement, not focusing on perceptions of diversity—aware that 'space is infinite', enters and remains in the dimension of infinite space.

Idaṃ kho, ānanda, etamhā sukhā aññaṃ sukhaṃ

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Atha kho moḷiyasīvako paribbājako yena bhagavā

22. Aṭṭhasatasutta

The Explanation of the Hundred and Eight

“Aṭṭhasatapariyāyaṃ vo, bhikkhave, dhammapariyāyaṃ desessāmi.

“Mendicants, I will teach you an exposition of the teaching on the hundred and eight.

Taṃ suṇātha.

Listen ...

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, aṭṭhasatapariyāyo, dhammapariyāyo?

And what is the exposition of the teaching on the hundred and eight?

Dvepi mayā, bhikkhave, vedanā vuttā pariyāyena;

Mendicants, in one explanation I’ve spoken of two feelings. In another explanation I’ve spoken of three feelings, or five, six, eighteen, thirty-six, or a hundred and eight feelings.

tissopi mayā vedanā vuttā pariyāyena;

pañcapi mayā vedanā vuttā pariyāyena;

chapi mayā vedanā vuttā pariyāyena;

aṭṭhārasāpi mayā vedanā vuttā pariyāyena;

chattimsāpi mayā vedanā vuttā pariyāyena;

aṭṭhasatampi mayā vedanā vuttā pariyāyena.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, dve vedanā?

And what are the two feelings?

Kāyikā ca cetasikā ca—

Physical and mental.

imā vuccanti, bhikkhave, dve vedanā.

These are called the two feelings.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, tisso vedanā?

And what are the three feelings?

Sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā, adukkhamasukhā vedanā—

Pleasant, painful, and neutral feelings. ...

imā vuccanti, bhikkhave, tisso vedanā.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, pañca vedanā?

And what are the five feelings?

Sukhindriyaṃ, dukkhindriyaṃ, somanassindriyaṃ, domanassindriyaṃ, upekkhindriyaṃ—

The faculties of pleasure, pain, happiness, sadness, and equanimity.

...

imā vuccanti, bhikkhave, pañca vedanā.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, cha vedanā?

And what are the six feelings?

Cakkhusamphassajā vedanā ...pe...

Feeling born of eye contact ... ear contact ... nose contact ... tongue contact ... body contact ...

manosamphassajā vedanā—mind contact. ...

imā vuccanti, bhikkhave, cha vedanā.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, aṭṭhārasa vedanā?

And what are the eighteen feelings?

Cha somanassūpavicārā, cha domanassūpavicārā, cha upekkhūpavicārā—

There are six preoccupations with happiness, six preoccupations with sadness, and six preoccupations with equanimity. ...

imā vuccanti, bhikkhave, aṭṭhārasa vedanā.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, chattīṃsa vedanā?

And what are the thirty-six feelings?

Cha geḥasitāni somanassāni, cha nekkhammasitāni somanassāni, cha geḥasitāni domanassāni, cha nekkhammasitāni domanassāni, cha geḥasitā upekkhā, cha nekkhammasitā upekkhā—

Six kinds of lay happiness and six kinds of renunciate happiness. Six kinds of lay sadness and six kinds of renunciate sadness. Six kinds of lay equanimity and six kinds of renunciate equanimity. ...

imā vuccanti, bhikkhave, chattīṃsa vedanā.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, aṭṭhasataṃ vedanā?

And what are the hundred and eight feelings?

Atītā chattīṃsa vedanā, anāgatā chattīṃsa vedanā, paccuppannā chattīṃsa vedanā—

Thirty six feelings in the past, future, and present.

imā vuccanti, bhikkhave, aṭṭhasataṃ vedanā.

These are called the hundred and eight feelings.

Ayaṃ, bhikkhave, aṭṭhasatapariyāyo dhammapariyāyo”ti.

This is the exposition of the teaching on the hundred and eight.”

23. Aññatarabhikkhusutta With a Mendicant

Atha kho aññataro bhikkhu yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;

sammādiṭṭhi ...pe... sammāsamādhī.

Yaṃ vedanaṃ paṭicca uppajjati sukhaṃ somanassaṃ, ayaṃ vedanāya assādo;

The pleasure and happiness that arise from feeling: this is its gratification.

yaṃ vedanā aniccā dukkhā vipariṇāmadhammā, ayaṃ vedanāya ādīnava;

That feeling is impermanent, suffering, and perishable: this is its drawback.

31. Nirāmisasutta Spiritual

“Atthi, bhikkhave, sāmisaṃ pīti, atthi nirāmisā pīti, atthi nirāmisā nirāmisatarā pīti; “Mendicants, there is material rapture, spiritual rapture, and even more spiritual rapture.

atthi sāmisaṃ sukhaṃ, atthi nirāmisā sukhaṃ, atthi nirāmisā nirāmisataraṃ sukhaṃ;

There is material pleasure, spiritual pleasure, and even more spiritual pleasure.

atthi sāmisaṃ upekkhā, atthi nirāmisā upekkhā, atthi nirāmisā nirāmisatarā upekkhā;

There is material equanimity, spiritual equanimity, and even more spiritual equanimity.

atthi sāmiso vimokkho, atthi nirāmisā vimokkho, atthi nirāmisā nirāmisataro vimokkho.

There is material liberation, spiritual liberation, and even more spiritual liberation.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, sāmisaṃ pīti?

And what is material rapture?

Pañcime, bhikkhave, kāmaguṇā.

There are these five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Katame pañca?

What five?

Cakkhuviññeyyā rūpā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā kāṃūpasamhitā rajanīyā ...pe...

Sights known by the eye that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing. Sounds ... Smells ... Tastes ...

kāyaviññeyyā phoṭṭhabbā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā kāṃūpasamhitā rajanīyā.

Touches known by the body that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

Ime kho, bhikkhave, pañca kāmaguṇā.

These are the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Yā kho, bhikkhave, ime pañca kāmaguṇe paṭicca uppajjati pīti, ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, sāmīsā pīti.

The rapture that arises from these five kinds of sensual stimulation is called material rapture.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, nirāmisā pīti?

And what is spiritual rapture?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

It's when a mendicant, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhattaṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

As the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, they enter and remain in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, nirāmisā pīti.

This is called spiritual rapture.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, nirāmisā nirāmisatarā pīti?

And what is even more spiritual rapture?

Yā kho, bhikkhave, khīṇāsavassa bhikkhuno rāgā cittaṃ vimuttaṃ paccavekkhato, dosā cittaṃ vimuttaṃ paccavekkhato, mohā cittaṃ vimuttaṃ paccavekkhato uppajjati pīti, ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, nirāmisā nirāmisatarā pīti.

When a mendicant who has ended the defilements reviews their mind free from greed, hate, and delusion, rapture arises. This is called even more spiritual rapture.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, sāmisaṃ sukhaṃ?

And what is material pleasure?

Pañcime, bhikkhave, kāmaguṇā.

Mendicants, there are these five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Katame pañca?

What five?

Cakkhaviññeyyā rūpā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā kāmuṇasamhitā rajanīyā ...pe...

Sights known by the eye that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing. Sounds ... Smells ... Tastes ...

kāyaviññeyyā phoṭṭhabbā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā kāmuṇasamhitā rajanīyā.

Touches known by the body that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

Ime kho, bhikkhave, pañca kāmaguṇā.

These are the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Yaṃ kho, bhikkhave, ime pañca kāmaguṇe paṭicca uppajjati sukhaṃ somanassaṃ, idaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, sāmisaṃ sukhaṃ.

The pleasure and happiness that arise from these five kinds of sensual stimulation is called material pleasure.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, nirāmisam sukham?

And what is spiritual pleasure?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamam jhānam upasampajja viharati.

It's when a mendicant, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhattaṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyam jhānam upasampajja viharati.

As the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, they enter and remain in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca viharati sato ca sampajāno sukhañca kāyena paṭisaṃvedeti, yaṃ taṃ ariyā ācikkhanti: 'upekkhako satimā sukhavihārī'ti tatiyam jhānam upasampajja viharati.

And with the fading away of rapture, they enter and remain in the third absorption, where they meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, 'Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.'

Idam vuccati, bhikkhave, nirāmisam sukham.

This is called spiritual pleasure.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, nirāmisā nirāmisataram sukham?

And what is even more spiritual pleasure?

When a mendicant who has ended the defilements reviews their mind free from greed, hate, and delusion, pleasure and happiness arises. This is called even more spiritual pleasure.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, sāmisa upekkhā?

And what is material equanimity?

Pañcime, bhikkhave, kāmaguṇā.

There are these five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Katame pañca?

What five?

Cakkhuviññeyyā rūpā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā kāmpasamhitā rajanīyā ...pe...

Sights known by the eye that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing. Sounds ... Smells ... Tastes ...

kāyaviññeyyā phoṭṭhabbā iṭṭhā kantā manāpā piyarūpā kāmpasamhitā rajanīyā.

Touches known by the body that are likable, desirable, agreeable, pleasant, sensual, and arousing.

Ime kho, bhikkhave, pañca kāmaguṇā.

These are the five kinds of sensual stimulation.

Yā kho, bhikkhave, ime pañca kāmaguṇe paṭicca uppajjati pahānā, pubbeva somanassadomanassānam atthaṅgamā,

adukkhamasukhaṃ upekkhāsatipārisuddhiṃ catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

It's when, giving up pleasure and pain, and ending former happiness and sadness, a mendicant enters and remains in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, nirāmisā upekkhā.

This is called spiritual equanimity.

When a mendicant who has ended the defilements reviews their mind free from greed, hate, and delusion, equanimity arises. This is called even more spiritual equanimity.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, sāmiso vimokkho?

And what is material liberation?

Rūpappaṭisaṃyutto vimokkho sāmiso vimokkho.

Liberation connected with form is material.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, nirāmisō vimokkho?

And what is spiritual liberation?

Arūpappaṭisaṃyutto vimokkho nirāmisō vimokkho.

Liberation connected with the formless is spiritual.

“Pañcimāni, bhikkhave, mātuḡāmassa āveṇikāni dukkhāni, yāni mātuḡāmo paccanubhoti, aññatreva purisehi.

“Mendicants, there are these five kinds of suffering that particularly apply to females. They’re undergone by females and not by men.

Katamāni pañca?

What five?

Idha, bhikkhave, mātuḡāmo daharova samāno patikulaṃ gacchati, ñātakehi vinā hoti.

Firstly, a female, while still young, goes to live with her husband’s family and is separated from her relatives.

Idaṃ, bhikkhave, mātuḡāmassa paṭhamaṃ āveṇikaṃ dukkhaṃ, yaṃ mātuḡāmo paccanubhoti, aññatreva purisehi.

1. Paṭhamajhānapañhāsutta A Question About the First Absorption

Ekam̐ samayaṃ āyasmā mahāmoggaḷāno sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time Venerable Mahāmoggaḷāna was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tatra kho āyasmā mahāmoggaḷāno bhikkhū āmantesi:

There Venerable Mahāmoggaḷāna addressed the mendicants:

“āvuso bhikkhave”ti.

“Reverends, mendicants!”

“Āvuso”ti kho te bhikkhū āyasmato mahāmoggaḷānassa paccassosum̐.

“Reverend,” they replied.

Āyasmā mahāmoggaḷāno etadavoca:

Venerable Mahāmoggaḷāna said this:

“Idha mayham̐, āvuso, rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa evaṃ cetaso parivitakko udapādi:

“Just now, reverends, as I was in private retreat this thought came to mind:

‘paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ, paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ’ti vuccati.

‘They speak of this thing called the “first absorption”.

Katamaṃ nu kho paṭhamaṃ jhānanti?

What is the first absorption?’

Tassa mayham̐, āvuso, etadahosi:

It occurred to me:

‘idha bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkam savicāram vivekajam pītisukham paṭhamam jhānam upasampajja viharati.

‘It’s when a mendicant, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Idam vuccati paṭhamam jhānan’ti.

This is called the first absorption.’

So khvāham, āvuso, vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkam savicāram vivekajam pītisukham paṭhamam jhānam upasampajja viharāmi.

And so ... I was entering and remaining in the first absorption.

Tassa mayham, āvuso, iminā vihārena viharato kāmasahagatā saññāmanasikārā samudācaranti.

While I was in that meditation, perceptions and attentions accompanied by sensual pleasures beset me.

Atha kho maṃ, āvuso, bhagavā iddhiyā upasaṅkamitvā etadavoca:

Then the Buddha came up to me with his psychic power and said,

‘moggallāna, moggallāna.

‘Moggallāna, Moggallāna!

Mā, brāhmaṇa, paṭhamam jhānam pamādo, paṭhame jhāne cittaṃ saṅghapehi, paṭhame jhāne cittaṃ ekodiṃ karohi, paṭhame jhāne cittaṃ samādahā’ti.

Don’t neglect the first absorption, brahmin! Settle your mind in the first absorption; unify your mind and immerse it in the first absorption.’

So khvāham, āvuso, aparena समयena vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkam savicāram vivekajam pītisukhaṃ paṭhamam̐ jhānam̐ upasampajja vihāsim̐.

And so, after some time ... I entered and remained in the first absorption.

A Question About the Second Absorption

“Dutiyam̐ jhānam̐, dutiyam̐ jhānan’ti vuccati.

“They speak of this thing called the 'second absorption'.

Katamaṃ nu kho dutiyam̐ jhānanti?

What is the second absorption?”

Tassa mayham̐, āvuso, etadahosi:

It occurred to me:

‘idha bhikkhu vitakkavicārānam̐ vūpasamā ajjhataṃ sampasādanam̐ cetaso ekodibhāvam̐ avitakkam̐ avicāram̐ samādhijam̐ pītisukham̐ dutiyam̐ jhānam̐ upasampajja viharati.

‘As the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, a mendicant enters and remains in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Idam̐ vuccati dutiyam̐ jhānan’ti.

This is called the second absorption.’

So khvāham̐, āvuso, vitakkavicārānam̐ vūpasamā ajjhataṃ

The Fetter

Ekam samayaṃ sambahulā therā bhikkhū macchikāsaṇḍe viharanti ambāṭakavane.

At one time several senior mendicants were staying near Macchikāsaṇḍa in the Wild Mango Grove.

Tena kho pana samayena sambahulānaṃ therānaṃ bhikkhūnaṃ pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātaṭṭikkantānaṃ maṇḍalamāle sannisinnānaṃ sannipatitānaṃ ayamantarākathā udapādi:

Now at that time, after the meal, on return from alms-round, several senior mendicants sat together in the pavilion and this discussion came up among them:

“saṃyojanan’ti vā, āvuso, ‘saṃyojaniyā dhammā’ti vā ime dhammā nānatthā nānābyañjanā udāhu ekatthā byañjanameva nānan’ti?”

“Reverends, the ‘fetter’ and the ‘things prone to being fettered’: do these things differ in both meaning and phrasing? Or do they mean the same thing, and differ only in the phrasing?”

Tatrekaccehi therehi bhikkhūhi evaṃ byākataṃ hoti:

Some senior mendicants answered like this:

“saṃyojanan’ti vā, āvuso, ‘saṃyojaniyā dhammā’ti vā ime dhammā nānatthā ceva nānābyañjanā cā”ti.

“Reverends, the ‘fetter’ and the ‘things prone to being fettered’: these things differ in both meaning and phrasing.”

Ekaccehi therehi bhikkhūhi evaṃ byākataṃ hoti:

But some senior mendicants answered like this:

“saṃyojanan’ti vā, āvuso, ‘saṃyojaniyā dhammā’ti vā ime dhammā ekatthā byañjanameva nānan”ti.

“Reverends, the ‘fetter’ and the ‘things prone to being fettered’ mean the same thing; they differ only in the phrasing.”

Tena kho pana samayena citto gahapati migapathakaṃ anuppatto hoti kenacideva karaṇīyena.

Now at that time the householder Citta had arrived at Migapathaka on some business.

Assosi kho citto gahapati sambahulānaṃ kira therānaṃ bhikkhūnaṃ pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātaṭṭikkantānaṃ maṇḍalamāle sannisinnānaṃ sannipatitānaṃ ayamantarākathā udapādi:

He heard about what those senior mendicants were discussing.

“saṃyojanan’ti vā, āvuso, ‘saṃyojaniyā dhammā’ti vā ime dhammā nānatthā nānābyañjanā udāhu ekatthā byañjanameva nānan”ti?

Tatrekaccehi therehi bhikkhūhi evaṃ byākataṃ:

“saṃyojanan’ti vā, āvuso, ‘saṃyojaniyā dhammā’ti vā ime dhammā nānatthā ceva nānābyañjanā cā”ti.

Ekaccehi therehi bhikkhūhi evaṃ byākataṃ:

“saṃyojanan’ti vā, āvuso, ‘saṃyojaniyā dhammā’ti vā ime dhammā ekatthā byañjanameva nānan”ti.

Atha kho citto gahapati yena therā bhikkhū tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā there bhikkhū abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho citto gahapati there bhikkhū etadavoca:

So he went up to them, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to them, “sutaṃ metāṃ, bhante, sambahulānaṃ kira therānaṃ bhikkhūnaṃ pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātaṭikkantānaṃ maṇḍalamāle sannisinnānaṃ sannipatitānaṃ ayamantarākathā udapādi:

“Sirs, I heard that you were discussing whether the ‘fetter’ and the ‘things prone to being fettered’ differ in both meaning and phrasing, or whether they mean the same thing, and differ only in the phrasing.”

‘saṃyojanan’ti vā, āvuso, ‘saṃyojaniyā dhammā’ti vā ime dhammā nānatthā nānābyañjanā udāhu ekatthā byañjanameva nānan’ti?

“Sirs, the ‘fetter’ and the ‘things prone to being fettered’: these things differ in both meaning and phrasing.

Tena hi, bhante, upamaṃ vo karissāmi.

Well then, sirs, I shall give you a simile.

Upamāyapidhekacce viññū purisā bhāsitassa atthaṃ ājānanti.

For by means of a simile some sensible people understand the meaning of what is said.

Seyyathāpi, bhante, kāḷo ca balībaddo odāto ca balībaddo ekena dāmena vā yottena vā saṃyuttā assu.

Suppose there was a black ox and a white ox yoked by a single harness or yoke.

Yo nu kho evaṃ vadeyya:

Would it be right to say that ‘kāḷo balībaddo odātassa balībaddassa saṃyojanaṃ, odāto balībaddo kāḷassa balībaddassa saṃyojanan’ti, sammā nu kho so vadamāno vadeyyā’ti?

the black ox is the yoke of the white ox, or the white ox is the yoke of the black ox?”

“No hetam, gahapati.

“No, householder.

Na kho, gahapati, kāḷo balībaddo odātassa balībaddassa saṃyojanaṃ, napi odāto balībaddo kāḷassa balībaddassa saṃyojanaṃ;

The black ox is not the yoke of the white ox, nor is the white ox the yoke of the black ox.

yena kho te ekena dāmena vā yottena vā saṃyuttā taṃ tattha saṃyojanan’ti.

The yoke there is the single harness or yoke that they’re yoked by.”

“Evameva kho, bhante, na cakkhu rūpānaṃ saṃyojanaṃ, na rūpā cakkhussa saṃyojanaṃ;

“In the same way, the eye is not the fetter of sights, nor are sights the fetter of the eye.

yañca tattha tadubhayaṃ paṭicca uppajjati chandarāgo taṃ tattha saṃyojanaṃ.

The fetter there is the desire and greed that arises from the pair of them.

Na sotam saddānaṃ ...

The ear ... nose ... tongue ... body ...

na ghānaṃ gandhānaṃ ...

na jivhā rasānaṃ ...

na kāyo phoṭṭhabbānaṃ saṃyojanaṃ, na phoṭṭhabbā kāyassa saṃyojanaṃ;

yañca tattha tadubhayaṃ paṭicca uppajjati chandarāgo taṃ tattha saṃyojanaṃ.

Na mano dhammānaṃ saṃyojanaṃ, na dhammā manassa saṃyojanaṃ; mind is not the fetter of thoughts, nor are thoughts the fetter of the mind.

yañca tattha tadubhayaṃ paṭicca uppajjati chandarāgo taṃ tattha saṃyojanaṃ”ti.

The fetter there is the desire and greed that arises from the pair of them.”

“Lābhā te, gahapati, suladdhaṃ te, gahapati,

They consented in silence.

Atha kho citto gahapati therānaṃ bhikkhūnaṃ adhivāsanāṃ viditvā uṭṭhāyāsanā there bhikkhū abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā pakkāmi.

Knowing that the senior mendicants had consented, Citta got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled them, keeping them on his right, before leaving.

Atha kho āyasmā thero āyasmantaṃ isidattaṃ etadavoca:

Then the senior venerable said to Venerable Isidatta, “sādhu kho taṃ, āvuso isidatta, eso paṇho paṭibhāsi.

“Isidatta, it’s good that you felt inspired to answer that question, because I didn’t.

Neso paṇho maṃ paṭibhāsi.

Tenahāvuso isidatta, yadā aññathāpi evarūpo paṇho

So when a similar question comes up, you should also answer it as you feel inspired.”

Atha kho āyasmā isidatto senāsanam saṃsāmetvā

But Isidatta set his lodgings in order and, taking his bowl and robe, left Macchikasaṇḍa,

Yam macchikāsaṇḍamhā pakkāmi, tathā pakkantova ahosi, na never to return.

Tatiyam.

4. Mahakapāṭihāriyasutta Mahaka's Demonstration

Ekam̐ samayaṃ sambahulā therā bhikkhū macchikāsaṅḍe viharanti ambāṭakavane.

At one time several senior mendicants were staying near Macchikāsaṅḍa in the Wild Mango Grove.

Atha kho citto gahapati yena therā bhikkhū tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā there bhikkhū abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho citto gahapati there bhikkhū etadavoca:

Then Citta the householder went up to them, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to them, “adhivāsentu me, bhante therā, svātanāya gokule bhattan”ti.

“Sirs, may the senior mendicants please accept my offering of tomorrow's meal in my barn.”

Adhivāsesuṃ kho therā bhikkhū tuṅhībhāvena.

They consented in silence.

Atha kho citto gahapati therānaṃ bhikkhūnaṃ adhivāsanāṃ viditvā uṭṭhāyāsanā there bhikkhū abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā pakkāmi.

Then, knowing that the senior mendicants had consented, Citta got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled them, keeping them on his right, before leaving.

Atha kho therā bhikkhū tassā rattiyā accayena pubbaṅhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya yena cittassa gahapatino gokulaṃ tenupasaṅkamim̐su; upasaṅkamitvā paññatte āsane nisīdim̐su.

Then when the night had passed, the senior mendicants robed up in the morning and, taking their bowls and robes, went to Citta's barn, and sat down on the seats spread out.

Atha kho citto gahapati there bhikkhū paṇītena sappipāyāsena sahatthā santappesi sampavāresi.

Then Citta served and satisfied the senior mendicants with his own hands with delicious milk-rice made with ghee.

Atha kho therā bhikkhū bhuttāvino onītapattapāṇino uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ pakkamim̐su.

When the senior mendicants had eaten and washed their hands and bowls, they got up from their seats and left.

Cittopi kho gahapati “sesakaṃ vissajjethā”ti vatvā there bhikkhū piṭṭhito piṭṭhito anubandhi.

Citta instructed that the remainder of the food be distributed, then followed behind the senior mendicants.

Tena kho pana samayena uṇhaṃ hoti kuthitaṃ;

Now at that time the heat was sweltering.

te ca therā bhikkhū paveliyamānena maññe kāyena gacchanti, yathā taṃ bhojanaṃ bhuttāvino.

And those senior mendicants walked along as if their bodies were melting, as happens after a meal.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmā mahako tasmim̐ bhikkhusaṅghe sabbanavako hoti.

Now at that time Venerable Mahaka was the most junior mendicant in that Saṅgha.

Atha kho āyasmā mahako āyasmantaṃ theram̐ etadavoca:

Then Venerable Mahaka said to the senior venerable,

“sādhu khvassa, bhante thera, sītako ca vāto vāyeyya, abbhasampilāpo ca assa, devo ca ekamekaṃ phusāyeyyā”ti.
“Wouldn’t it be nice, sir, if a cool wind blew, a cloud canopy formed, and a gentle rain drizzled down?”

“Sādhu khvassa, āvuso mahaka, yaṃ sītako ca vāto vāyeyya, abbhasampilāpo ca assa, devo ca ekamekaṃ phusāyeyyā”ti.
“It would indeed be nice, Reverend Mahaka.”

Atha kho āyasmā mahako tathārūpaṃ iddhābhisaṅkhāraṃ abhisaṅkhari yathā sītako ca vāto vāyi, abbhasampilāpo ca assa, devo ca ekamekaṃ phusi.

Then Mahaka used his psychic power to will that a cool wind would blow, a cloud canopy would form, and a gentle rain would drizzle down.

Atha kho cittassa gahapatino etadahosi:

Then Citta thought,

“yo kho imasmiṃ bhikkhusaṅghe sabbanavako bhikkhu tassāyaṃ evarūpo iddhānubhāvo”ti.

“The most junior mendicant in this Saṅgha has such psychic power!”

Atha kho āyasmā mahako ārāmaṃ sampāpuṇitvā āyasmantaṃ therāṃ etadavoca:

When they reached the monastery, Mahaka said to the senior venerable, “alamettāvatā, bhante therā”ti?

“Sir, is that sufficient?”

“Alamettāvatā, āvuso mahaka.

“That’s sufficient, Reverend Mahaka,

Katamettāvatā, āvuso mahaka.

you’ve done enough

Pūjitamettāvatā, āvuso mahakā”ti.

and offered enough.”

Atha kho therā bhikkhū yathāvihāraṃ agamaṃsu.

Then the senior mendicants entered their dwellings,

Āyasmāpi mahako sakaṃ vihāraṃ agamāsi.

and Mahaka entered his own dwelling.

Atha kho citto gahapati yenāyasmā mahako tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ mahakaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho citto gahapati āyasmantaṃ mahakaṃ etadavoca:

Then Citta went up to Mahaka, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him,

“sādhu me, bhante, ayyo mahako uttari manussadhammaṃ iddhipāṭihāriyaṃ dassetū”ti.

“Sir, please show me a superhuman demonstration of psychic power.”

“Tena hi tvaṃ, gahapati, ālinde uttarāsaṅgaṃ paññapetvā tiṇakalāpaṃ okāsehi”ti.

“Well, then, householder, place your upper robe on the porch and spread a handful of grass on it.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho citto gahapati āyasmato mahakassa paṭissutvā ālinde uttarāsaṅgaṃ paññapetvā tiṇakalāpaṃ okāsesi.

“Yes, sir,” replied Citta, and did as he was asked.

Atha kho āyasmā mahako vihāraṃ pavisitvā sūcighaṭikaṃ datvā tathārūpaṃ iddhābhisaṅkhāraṃ abhisaṅkhari yathā tālaccchiggaḷena ca aggaḷantarikāya ca acci nikkhamitvā tiṇāni jhāpesi, uttarāsaṅgaṃ na jhāpesi.

Mahaka entered his dwelling and latched the door. Then he used his psychic power to will that a flame shoot out through the keyhole and the chink in the door, and it burned up the grass but not the upper robe.

Atha kho citto gahapati uttarāsaṅgaṃ papphoṭetvā saṃviggo lomahaṭṭhajāto ekamantaṃ aṭṭhāsi.

Then Citta shook out his upper robe and stood to one side, shocked and awestruck.

Atha kho āyasmā mahako vihārā nikkhamitvā cittaṃ gahapatiṃ etadavoca:

Mahaka left his dwelling and said to Citta,

“alamettāvatā, gahapatī”ti?

“Is that sufficient, householder?”

“Alamettāvatā, bhante mahaka.

“That’s sufficient, sir,

Katamettāvatā, bhante, mahaka.

you’ve done enough

Pūjitamettāvatā, bhante mahaka.

and offered enough.

Abhramatu, bhante, ayyo mahako macchikāsaṇḍe.

I hope Venerable Mahaka is happy here in Macchikāsaṇḍa, Ramaṇīyaṃ ambāṭakavanaṃ.

for the Wild Mango Grove is lovely.

Ahaṃ ayyassa mahakassa ussukkaṃ karissāmi cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhārānaṃ

”ti.

I’ll make sure that Venerable Mahaka is provided with robes, alms-food, lodgings, and medicines and supplies for the sick.”

“Kalyāṇaṃ vuccati, gahapatī”ti.

“That’s nice of you to say, householder.”

Atha kho āyasmā mahako senāsanam saṃsāmetvā pattacīvaramādāya macchikāsaṇḍamhā pakkāmi.

But Mahaka set his lodgings in order and, taking his bowl and robe,
left Macchikasaṇḍa,

Yaṃ macchikāsaṇḍamhā pakkāmi, tathā pakkantova ahosi;
never to return.

na puna paccāgacchīti.

Catuttham.

5. Paṭhamakāmbhūsutta With Kāmbhū (1st)

Ekam̐ samayaṃ āyasmā kāmbhū macchikāsaṇḍe viharati
ambāṭakavane.

At one time Venerable Kāmbhū was staying near Macchikāsaṇḍa in the Wild Mango Grove.

Atha kho citto gahapati yenāyasmā kāmbhū tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ kāmbhuṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho cittaṃ gahapatiṃ āyasmā kāmbhū etadavoca:

Then Citta the householder went up to Venerable Kāmbhū, bowed, and sat down to one side. Kāmbhū said to him, “Vuttamidam̐, gahapati:

“Householder, there is this saying:

‘Nelaṅgo setapacchādo,

‘With flawless wheel and white canopy,

ekāro vattatī ratho;

the one-spoke chariot rolls on.

Anīghaṃ passa āyantaṃ,

See it come, untroubled,

chinnasotaṃ abandhanan’ti.

with stream cut, unbound.’

Imassa nu kho, gahapati, saṅkhittena bhāsitassa kathaṃ vitthārena attho daṭṭhabbo”ti?

How should we see the detailed meaning of this brief statement?”

“Kiṃ nu kho etaṃ, bhante, bhagavatā bhāsitaṃ”ti?

“Sir, was this spoken by the Buddha?”

“Evaṃ, gahapatī”ti.

“Yes, householder.”

“Tena hi, bhante, muhuttaṃ āgamehi yāvassa atthaṃ pekkhāmī”ti.

“Well then, sir, please wait a moment while I consider the meaning of this.”

Atha kho citta gahapati muhuttaṃ tuṅhī hutvā āyasmantaṃ kāmaḥṃ etaḍavoca:

Then after a short silence Citta said to Kāmaḥṃ:

“Nelaṅgaṇ’ti kho, bhante, sīlānametaṃ adhivacanaṃ.

“Sir, ‘flawless wheel’ is a term for ethics.

‘Setapacchādo’ti kho, bhante, vimuttiyā etaṃ adhivacanaṃ.

‘White canopy’ is a term for freedom.

‘Ekāro’ti kho, bhante, satiyā etaṃ adhivacanaṃ.

‘One spoke’ is a term for mindfulness.

‘Vattatī’ti kho, bhante, abhikkamaṇṇikamassettaṃ

‘Rolls on’ is a term for going forward and coming back.

‘Ratho’ti kho, bhante, imassettaṃ cātumahābhūtikassa kāyassa aniccucchādanaparimaddanabhedanaviddhamśanadhammassa

‘Chariot’ is a term for this body made up of the four primary elements, produced by mother and father, built up from rice and porridge, liable to impermanence, to wearing away and erosion, to breaking up and destruction.

Rāgo kho, bhante, nīgho, doso nīgho, moho nīgho.

Greed, hate, and delusion are troubles.

Te khīṇāsavassa bhikkhuno pahīnā ucchinnamūlā tālāvatthukatā anabhāvaṅkatā āyatim̐ anuppādadhammā.

A mendicant who has ended the defilements has given these up, cut them off at the root, made them like a palm stump, and obliterated them, so they are unable to arise in the future.

Tasmā khīṇāsavo bhikkhu ‘anīgho’ti vuccati.

That’s why a mendicant who has ended the defilements is called ‘untroubled’.

‘Āyantān’ti kho, bhante, arahato etaṃ adhivacaṇaṃ.

‘The one who comes’ is a term for the perfected one.

‘Soto’ti kho, bhante, taṇhāyetaṃ adhivacaṇaṃ.

‘Stream’ is a term for craving.

Sā khīṇāsavassa bhikkhuno pahīnā ucchinnamūlā
tālāvatthukatā anabhāvaṅkatā āyatim̐ anuppādadhammā.

A mendicant who has ended the defilements has given this up, cut it off at the root, made it like a palm stump, and obliterated it, so it’s unable to arise in the future.

Tasmā khīṇāsavo bhikkhu ‘chinnasoto’ti vuccati.

That’s why a mendicant who has ended the defilements is said to have ‘cut the stream’.

Rāgo kho, bhante, bandhanaṃ, doso bandhanaṃ, moho bandhanaṃ.

Greed, hate, and delusion are bonds.

Te khīṇāsavassa bhikkhuno pahīnā ucchinnamūlā tālavatthukatā anabhāvaṅkatā āyatim anuppādadhammā.

A mendicant who has ended the defilements has given these up, cut them off at the root, made them like a palm stump, and obliterated them, so they are unable to arise in the future.

Tasmā khīṇāsavo bhikkhu ‘abandhano’ti vuccati.

That’s why a mendicant who has ended the defilements is called ‘unbound’.

Iti kho, bhante, yaṃ taṃ bhagavatā vuttaṃ:

So, sir, that’s how I understand the detailed meaning of what the Buddha said in brief:

‘Nelaṅgo setapacchādo,

‘With flawless wheel and white canopy,

ekāro vattatī ratho;

the one-spoke chariot rolls on.

Anīghaṃ passa āyantaṃ,

See it come, untroubled,

chinnasotaṃ abandhanan’ti.

with stream cut, unbound.’”

Imassa kho, bhante, bhagavatā saṅkhittena bhāsitassa evaṃ vitthārena atthaṃ ājānāmī”ti.

“Lābhā te, gahapati, suladdhaṃ te, gahapati.

“You’re fortunate, householder, so very fortunate,

Yassa te gambhīre buddhavacane paññācakkhu kamatī”ti.

to traverse the Buddha’s deep teachings with the eye of wisdom.”

Pañcamāṅ.

6. Dutiyakāmbhūsutta With Kāmbhū (2nd)

Ekam̐ samayaṃ āyasmā kāmbhū macchikāsaṇḍe viharati
ambāṭakavane.

At one time Venerable Kāmbhū was staying near Macchikāsaṇḍa in the Wild Mango Grove.

Atha kho citto gahapati yenāyasmā kāmbhū tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho citto gahapati āyasmantaṃ kāmbhū etadavoca:

Then Citta the householder went up to Venerable Kāmbhū, sat down to one side, and said to him:

“kati nu kho, bhante, saṅkhārā”ti?

“Sir, how many processes are there?”

“Tayo kho, gahapati, saṅkhārā—“Householder, there are three processes.

kāyasaṅkhāro, vacīsaṅkhāro, cittasaṅkhāro”ti.

Physical, verbal, and mental processes.”

“Sādhu, bhante”ti kho citto gahapati āyasmato kāmbhussa bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā āyasmantaṃ kāmbhū uttariṃ pañhaṃ apucchi:

Saying “Good, sir,” Citta approved and agreed with what Kāmbhū said. Then he asked another question:

“katamo pana, bhante, kāyasaṅkhāro, katamo vacīsaṅkhāro, katamo cittasaṅkhāro”ti?

“But sir, what is the physical process? What’s the verbal process? What’s the mental process?”

“Assāsapassāsā kho, gahapati, kāyasaṅkhāro, vitakkavicārā vacīsaṅkhāro, saññā ca vedanā ca cittasaṅkhāro”ti.

“Breathing is a physical process. Placing the mind and keeping it connected are verbal processes. Perception and feeling are mental processes.”

“Sādhu, bhante”ti kho citto gahapati ...pe... uttarim pañham apucchi:

Saying “Good, sir,” he asked another question:

“kasmā pana, bhante, assāsapassāsā kāyasaṅkhāro, kasmā vitakkavicārā vacīsaṅkhāro, kasmā saññā ca vedanā ca cittasaṅkhāro”ti?

“But sir, why is breathing a physical process? Why are placing the mind and keeping it connected verbal processes? Why are perception and feeling mental processes?”

“Assāsapassāsā kho, gahapati, kāyikā. Ete dhammā kāyappaṭibaddhā, tasmā assāsapassāsā kāyasaṅkhāro.

“Breathing is physical. It’s tied up with the body, that’s why breathing is a physical process.

Pubbe kho, gahapati, vitakketvā vicāretvā pacchā vācam bhindati, tasmā vitakkavicārā vacīsaṅkhāro.

First you place the mind and keep it connected, then you break into speech. That’s why placing the mind and keeping it connected are verbal processes.

Saññā ca vedanā ca cetasikā. Ete dhammā cittappaṭibaddhā, tasmā saññā ca vedanā ca cittasaṅkhāro”ti.

Perception and feeling are mental. They’re tied up with the mind, that’s why perception and feeling are mental processes.”

“Sādhu ...pe... uttarim̃ pañham̃ apucchi:

Saying “Good, sir,” he asked another question:

“katham̃ pana, bhante, saññāvedayitanirodhasamāpatti hotī”ti?

“But sir, how does someone attain the cessation of perception and feeling?”

“Na kho, gahapati, saññāvedayitanirodham̃ samāpajjantassa bhikkhuno evam̃ hoti:

“A mendicant who is entering such an attainment does not think:

‘I will enter the cessation of perception and feeling’ or ‘I am entering the cessation of perception and feeling’ or ‘I have entered the cessation of perception and feeling.’

Atha khvassa pubbeva tathā cittaṃ bhāvitam̃ hoti yaṃ taṃ tathattāya upanetī”ti.

Rather, their mind has been previously developed so as to lead to such a state.”

“Sādhu ...pe... uttarim̃ pañham̃ apucchi:

Saying “Good, sir,” he asked another question:

“saññāvedayitanirodham̃ samāpajjantassa pana, bhante, bhikkhuno katame dhammā paṭhamam̃ nirujjhanti, yadi vā kāyasaṅkhāro, yadi vā vacīsaṅkhāro, yadi vā cittasaṅkhāro”ti?

“But sir, which cease first for a mendicant who is entering the cessation of perception and feeling: physical, verbal, or mental processes?”

“Saññāvedayitanirodham̃ samāpajjantassa kho, gahapati, bhikkhuno vacīsaṅkhāro paṭhamam̃ nirujjhati, tato

“Verbal processes cease first, then physical, then mental.”

“Sādhu ...pe... uttarim pañham apucchi:

Saying “Good, sir,” he asked another question:

“yvāyaṃ, bhante, mato kālaṅkato, yo cāyaṃ bhikkhu saññāvedayitanirodhaṃ samāpanno, imesaṃ kiṃ nānākaraṇaṇaṃ”ti?

“What’s the difference between someone who has passed away and a mendicant who has attained the cessation of perception and feeling?”

“Yvāyaṃ, gahapati, mato kālaṅkato tassa kāyasaṅkhāro

“When someone dies, their physical, verbal, and mental processes have ceased and stilled; their vitality is spent; their warmth is dissipated; and their faculties have disintegrated.

Yo ca khvāyaṃ, gahapati, bhikkhu saññāvedayitanirodhaṃ

When a mendicant has attained the cessation of perception and feeling, their physical, verbal, and mental processes have ceased and stilled. But their vitality is not spent; their warmth is not dissipated; and their faculties are very clear.

Yvāyaṃ, gahapati, mato kālaṅkato, yo cāyaṃ bhikkhu

That’s the difference between someone who has passed away and a mendicant who has attained the cessation of perception and feeling.”

“Sādhu ...pe... uttarim̃ pañham̃ apucchi:

Saying “Good, sir,” he asked another question:

“katham̃ pana, bhante, saññāvedayitanirodhasamāpattiyā

“But sir, how does someone emerge from the cessation of perception and feeling?”

“Na kho, gahapati, saññāvedayitanirodhasamāpattiyā

‘aham̃ saññāvedayitanirodhasamāpattiyā vuṭṭhito’ti vā.

‘I will emerge from the cessation of perception and feeling’ or ‘I am emerging from the cessation of perception and feeling’ or ‘I have emerged from the cessation of perception and feeling.’

Atha khvassa pubbeva tathā cittaṃ bhāvitam̃ hoti, yaṃ taṃ

Rather, their mind has been previously developed so as to lead to such a state.”

“Sādhu, bhante ...pe... uttarim̃ pañham̃ apucchi:

Saying “Good, sir,” he asked another question:

“saññāvedayitanirodhasamāpattiyā vuṭṭhahantassa pana,

“But sir, which arise first for a mendicant who is emerging from the cessation of perception and feeling: physical, verbal, or mental processes?”

“Saññāvedayitanirodhasamāpattiyā vuṭṭhahantassa, gahapati, bhikkhuno cittasañkhāro paṭhamam̐ uppajjati, tato kāyasañkhāro, tato vacīsañkhāro”ti.

“Mental processes arise first, then physical, then verbal.”

“Sādhu ...pe... uttarim̐ pañham̐ apucchi:

“Saññāvedayitanirodhasamāpattiyā vuṭṭhitam̐ kho, gahapati, bhikkhum̐ tayo phassā phusanti—

“They experience three kinds of contact:

suññato phasso, animitto phasso, appaṇihito phasso”ti.

emptiness, signless, and undirected contacts.”

“Sādhu ...pe... uttarim̐ pañham̐ apucchi:

Saying “Good, sir,” he asked another question:

“saññāvedayitanirodhasamāpattiyā vuṭṭhitassa pana, bhante, bhikkhuno kim̐ninnam̐ cittam̐ hoti, kim̐poṇam̐, kim̐pabbhāran”ti?

“Saññāvedayitanirodhasamāpattiyā vuṭṭhitassa kho, gahapati, bhikkhuno vivekaninnam̐ cittam̐ hoti vivekapoṇam̐ vivekapabbhāran”ti.

“Their mind slants, slopes, and inclines to seclusion.”

“Sādhū, bhante”ti kho citta gahapati āyasmato kāmabhussa bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā āyasmantaṃ kāmabhūṃ uttarim pañhaṃ apucchi:

Saying “Good, sir,” Citta approved and agreed with what Kāmabhū said. Then he asked another question:

“saññāvedayitanirodhasamāpattiyā pana, bhante, kati dhammā bahūpakārā”ti?

“But sir, how many things are helpful for attaining the cessation of perception and feeling?”

“Addhā kho tvaṃ, gahapati, yaṃ paṭhamaṃ pucchitabbaṃ taṃ puchasi.

“Well, householder, you’ve finally asked what you should have asked first!

Api ca tyāhaṃ byākarissāmi.

Nevertheless, I will answer you.

Saññāvedayitanirodhasamāpattiyā kho, gahapati, dve dhammā bahūpakārā—

Two things are helpful for attaining the cessation of perception and feeling:

samatho ca vipassanā cā”ti.

serenity and discernment.”

Chaṭṭhaṃ.

7. Godattasutta With Godatta

Ekam̐ samayaṃ āyasmā godatto macchikāsaṇḍe viharati ambāṭakavane.

At one time Venerable Godatta was staying near Macchikāsaṇḍa in the Wild Mango Grove.

Atha kho citto gahapati yenāyasmā godatto tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ godattaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho cittaṃ gahapatiṃ āyasmā godatto etadavoca:

Then Citta the householder went up to Venerable Godatta, bowed, and sat down to one side. Godatta said to him:

“yā cāyaṃ, gahapati, appamaṇā cetovimutti, yā ca ākiṅcaññā cetovimutti, yā ca suññatā cetovimutti, yā ca animittā cetovimutti, ime dhammā nānatthā nānābyañjanā udāhu ekatthā byañjanameva nānan”ti?

“Householder, the limitless heart’s release, and the heart’s release through nothingness, and the heart’s release through emptiness, and the signless heart’s release: do these things differ in both meaning and phrasing? Or do they mean the same thing, and differ only in the phrasing?”

“Atthi, bhante, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma ime dhammā nānatthā ceva nānābyañjanā ca.

“Sir, there is a way in which these things differ in both meaning and phrasing.

Atthi pana, bhante, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma ime dhammā ekatthā byañjanameva nānan”ti.

But there’s also a way in which they mean the same thing, and differ only in the phrasing.

“Katamo ca, bhante, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma ime dhammā nānatthā ceva nānābyañjanā ca?

And what’s the way in which these things differ in both meaning and phrasing?

Idha, bhante, bhikkhu mettāsahagatena cetasā ekaṃ disaṃ pharivā viharati, tathā dutiyaṃ, tathā tatiyaṃ, tathā catutthaṃ. Iti uddhamadho tiriyaṃ sabbadhi sabbattatāya sabbāvantaṃ lokaṃ mettāsahagatena cetasā vipulena mahaggatena appamāṇena averena abyāpajjena pharivā viharati.

It’s when a mendicant meditates spreading a heart full of love to one direction, and to the second, and to the third, and to the fourth. Ayaṃ vuccati, bhante, appamaṇā cetovimutti.

This is called the limitless heart's release.

Katamā ca, bhante, ākiñcaññā cetovimutti?

And what is the heart's release through nothingness?

Idha, bhante, bhikkhu sabbaso viññāṇaṅcāyatanam samatikkamma, 'natthi kiñcī'ti ākiñcaññāyatanam upasampajja viharati.

It's when a mendicant, going totally beyond the dimension of infinite consciousness, aware that 'there is nothing at all', enters and remains in the dimension of nothingness.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhante, ākiñcaññā cetovimutti.

This is called the heart's release through nothingness.

Katamā ca, bhante, suññatā cetovimutti?

And what is the heart's release through emptiness?

Idha, bhante, bhikkhu araññagato vā rukkhamūlagato vā suññāgāragato vā iti paṭisañcikkhati:

It's when a mendicant has gone to a wilderness, or to the root of a tree, or to an empty hut, and reflects like this:

'suññamidaṃ attena vā attaniyena vā'ti.

'This is empty of a self or what belongs to a self.'

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhante, suññatā cetovimutti.

This is called the heart's release through emptiness.

Katamā ca, bhante, animittā cetovimutti?

And what is the signless heart's release?

Idha, bhante, bhikkhu sabbanimittānam amanasikārā animittam cetosamādhim upasampajja viharati.

It's when a mendicant, not focusing on any signs, enters and remains in the signless immersion of the heart.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhante, animittā cetovimutti.

This is called the signless heart's release.

Ayaṃ kho, bhante, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma ime dhammā nānatthā ceva nānābyañjanā ca.

This is the way in which these things differ in both meaning and phrasing.

Katamo ca, bhante, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma ime dhammā ekatthā byañjanameva nānaṃ?

And what's the way in which they mean the same thing, and differ only in the phrasing?

Rāgo, bhante, pamāṇakaraṇo, doso pamāṇakaraṇo, moho pamāṇakaraṇo.

Greed, hate, and delusion are makers of limits.

Te khīṇāsavassa bhikkhuno pahīnā ucchinnamūlā tālāvatthukatā anabhāvaṅkatā āyatim anuppādadhammā.

A mendicant who has ended the defilements has given these up, cut them off at the root, made them like a palm stump, and obliterated them, so they are unable to arise in the future.

Yāvatā kho, bhante, appamāṇā cetovimuttiyo, akuppā tāsāṃ cetovimutti aggamakkhāyati.

The unshakable heart's release is said to be the best kind of limitless heart's release.

8. Nigaṇṭhanāṭaputtasutta Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta

Tena kho pana samayena nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto macchikāsaṇḍaṃ anupatto hoti mahatīyā nigaṇṭhaparisāya saddhiṃ.

Now at that time Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta had arrived at Macchikāsaṇḍa together with a large assembly of Jain ascetics.

Assosi kho citto gahapati: “nigaṇṭho kira nāṭaputto macchikāsaṇḍaṃ anupatto mahatīyā nigaṇṭhaparisāya saddhin”ti.

Citta the householder heard that they had arrived.

Atha kho citto gahapati sambahulehi upāsakehi saddhiṃ yena nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā nigaṇṭhena nāṭaputtena saddhiṃ sammodi.

Together with several lay followers, he went up to Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho cittaṃ gahapatiṃ nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side. Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta said to him, “saddhasi tvaṃ, gahapati, samaṇassa gotamassa—

“Householder, do you have faith in the ascetic Gotama’s claim that atthi avitakko avicāro samādhī, atthi vitakkavicārānaṃ nirodho”ti?

there is a state of immersion without placing the mind and keeping it connected; that there is the cessation of placing the mind and keeping it connected?”

“Na khvāhaṃ ettha, bhante, bhagavato saddhāya gacchāmi.

“Sir, in this case I don’t rely on faith in the Buddha’s claim that Atthi avitakko avicāro samādhi, atthi vitakkavicārānaṃ nirodho”ti.

there is a state of immersion without placing the mind and keeping it connected; that there is the cessation of placing the mind and keeping it connected.”

Evaṃ vutte, nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto ulloketvā etadavoca:

When he said this, Nigaṇṭha Nātaputta looked up at his assembly and said, “idaṃ bhavanto passantu, yāva ujuko cāyaṃ citto gahapati, yāva asaṭho cāyaṃ citto gahapati, yāva amāyāvī cāyaṃ citto gahapati, vātaṃ vā so jālena bādhetabbaṃ maññeyya, yo vitakkavicāre nirodhetabbaṃ maññeyya, sakamuṭṭhinā vā so gaṅgāya sotam āvāretabbaṃ maññeyya, yo vitakkavicāre nirodhetabbaṃ maññeyyā”ti.

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, bhante,

“What do you think, sir?

katamaṃ nu kho paṇītaram—ñāṇaṃ vā saddhā vā”ti?

Which is better—knowledge or faith?”

“Saddhāya kho, gahapati, ñāṇaṃyeva paṇītataran”ti.

“Knowledge is definitely better than faith, householder.”

“Ahaṃ kho, bhante, yāvadeva ākaṅkhāmi, vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharāmi.

“Well sir, whenever I want, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, I enter and remain in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Ahaṃ kho, bhante, yāvadeva ākaṅkhāmi, vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ...pe... dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharāmi.

And whenever I want, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled ... I enter and remain in the second absorption.

Ahaṃ kho, bhante, yāvadeva ākaṅkhāmi, pītiyā ca virāgā ...pe... tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharāmi.

And whenever I want, with the fading away of rapture ... I enter and remain in the third absorption.

Ahaṃ kho, bhante, yāvadeva ākaṅkhāmi, sukhasa ca pahānā ...pe... catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharāmi.

And whenever I want, giving up pleasure and pain ... I enter and remain in the fourth absorption.

Na so khvāhaṃ, bhante, evaṃ jānanto evaṃ passanto kassa aññassa samaṇassa vā brāhmaṇassa vā saddhāya gamissāmi?

And so, sir, since I know and see like this, why should I rely on faith in another ascetic or brahmin who claims that there is a state of immersion without placing the mind and keeping it connected; that there is the cessation of placing the mind and keeping it connected?”

Atthi avitakko avicāro samādhi, atthi vitakkavicārānaṃ nirodho”ti.

Evaṃ vutte, nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto sakaṃ parisāṃ apaloketvā etadavoca:

When he said this, Nigaṇṭha Nātaputta looked askance at his own assembly and said, “idaṃ bhavanto passantu, yāva anujuko cāyaṃ citto gahapati, yāva saṭho cāyaṃ citto gahapati, yāva māyāvī cāyaṃ citto gahapatī”ti.

“See, good sirs, how crooked this householder Citta is! He’s so devious and deceitful!”

“Idāneva kho te mayaṃ, bhante, bhāsitaṃ:

“Sir, just now I understood you to say:

‘evaṃ ājānāma idaṃ bhavanto passantu, yāva ujuko cāyaṃ citto gahapati, yāva asaṭho cāyaṃ citto gahapati, yāva amāyāvī cāyaṃ citto gahapatī’ti.

‘See, good sirs, how straightforward this householder Citta is! He’s not devious or deceitful at all.’

Idāneva ca pana mayaṃ, bhante, bhāsitaṃ:

But then I understood you to say:

‘evaṃ ājānāma idaṃ bhavanto passantu, yāva anujuko cāyaṃ citto gahapati, yāva saṭho cāyaṃ citto gahapati, yāva māyāvī cāyaṃ citto gahapatī’ti.

‘See, good sirs, how crooked this householder Citta is! He’s so devious and deceitful!’

Sace te, bhante, purimaṃ saccaṃ, pacchimaṃ te micchā.

If your first statement is true, the second is wrong.

Sace pana te, bhante, purimaṃ micchā, pacchimaṃ te saccaṃ.

If your first statement is wrong, the second is true.

Ime kho pana, bhante, dasa sahadhammikā pañhā āgacchanti.

And also, sir, these ten legitimate questions are relevant.

Yadā nesaṃ atthaṃ ājāneyyāsi, atha maṃ paṭihareyyāsi saddhiṃ nigaṇṭhaparisāya.

When you understand what they mean, then, together with your assembly of Jain ascetics, you can rebut me.

Eko pañho, eko uddeso, ekaṃ veyyākaraṇaṃ.

‘One thing: question, summary, and answer. Two ... three ... four ... five ... six ... seven ... eight ... nine ... ten things: question, summary, and answer.’”

Dve pañhā, dve uddesā, dve veyyākaraṇāni.

Tayo pañhā, tayo uddesā, tīṇi veyyākaraṇāni.

Cattāro pañhā, cattāro uddesā, cattāri veyyākaraṇāni.

Pañca pañhā, pañca uddesā, pañca veyyākaraṇāni.

Cha pañhā, cha uddesā, cha veyyākaraṇāni.

Satta pañhā, satta uddesā, satta veyyākaraṇāni.

Aṭṭha pañhā, aṭṭha uddesā, aṭṭha veyyākaraṇāni.

Nava pañhā, nava uddesā, nava veyyākaraṇāni.

Dasa pañhā, dasa uddesā, dasa veyyākaraṇāni”ti.

Atha kho citto gahapati nigaṇṭhaṃ nāṭaputtaṃ ime dasa sahadhammike pañhe āpucchitvā uṭṭhāyāsanā pakkāmīti.

Then Citta got up from his seat and left without asking Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta these ten legitimate questions.

Aṭṭhamaṃ.

9. Acelakassapasutta With Kassapa, the Naked Ascetic

Tena kho pana samayena acelo kassapo macchikāsaṇḍaṃ anuppatto hoti cittassa gahapatino purāṇagihisahāyo.

Now at that time the naked ascetic Kassapa, who in lay life was an old friend of Citta, had arrived at Macchikāsaṇḍa.

Assosi kho citto gahapati: “acelo kira kassapo macchikāsaṇḍaṃ anuppatto amhākaṃ purāṇagihisahāyo”ti.

Citta the householder heard that he had arrived.

Atha kho citto gahapati yena acelo kassapo tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā acelena kassapena saddhiṃ sammodi.

So he went up to him, and they exchanged greetings.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho citto gahapati acelaṃ kassapaṃ
etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to the naked ascetic Kassapa, “kīvaciraṃ pabbajitassa, bhante kassapā”ti?

“Sir, Kassapa, how long has it been since you went forth?”

“Timsamattāni kho me, gahapati, vassāni pabbajitassā”ti.

“Imehi pana te, bhante, timsamattehi vassehi atthi koci uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanaviseso adhigato phāsuvihāro”ti?

“But sir, in these thirty years have you achieved any superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones, a meditation at ease?”

“Imehi kho me, gahapati, tiṃsamattehi vassehi pabbajitassa natthi koci uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanaviseso adhigato phāsuvihāro, aññatra naggeyyā ca muṇḍeyyā ca pāvaḷanipphoṭanāya cā”ti.

“I have no such achievement, householder, only nakedness, baldness, and pokes in the buttocks.”

Evam vutte, citto gahapati acelaṃ kassapaṃ etadavoca:

Citta said to him,

“acchariyaṃ vata, bho, abbhutaṃ vata, bho.

Dhammassa svākkhātātā yatra hi nāma tiṃsamattehi vassehi na koci uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanaviseso adhigato abhavissa phāsuvihāro, aññatra naggeyyā ca muṇḍeyyā ca pāvaḷanipphoṭanāya cā”ti.

how well explained the teaching is. For in thirty years you have achieved no superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones, no meditation at ease, only nakedness, baldness, and pokes in the buttocks.”

“Tuyhaṃ pana, gahapati, kīvaciraṃ upāsakattaṃ upagatassā”ti?

“But householder, how long have you been a lay follower?”

“Mayhampi kho pana, bhante, tiṃsamattāni vassāni upāsakattaṃ upagatassā”ti.

“Imehi pana te, gahapati, timsamattehi vassehi atthi koci uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanaviseso adhigato phāsuvihāro”ti?

“But householder, in these thirty years have you achieved any superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones, a meditation at ease?”

“Gihinopi siyā, bhante.

“How, sir, could I not?”

Ahañhi, bhante, yāvadeva ākañkhāmi, vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharāmi.

For whenever I want, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, I enter and remain in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Ahañhi, bhante, yāvadeva ākañkhāmi, vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ... dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharāmi.

And whenever I want, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled ... I enter and remain in the second absorption.

Ahañhi, bhante, yāvadeva ākañkhāmi, pītiyā ca virāgā ...pe... tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharāmi.

And whenever I want, with the fading away of rapture ... I enter and remain in the third absorption.

Ahañhi, bhante, yāvadeva ākañkhāmi, sukhasa ca pahānā ... pe... catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharāmi.

And whenever I want, giving up pleasure and pain ... I enter and remain in the fourth absorption.

Sace kho panāhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato paṭhamataraṃ kālaṃ kareyyaṃ, anacchariyaṃ kho panetaṃ yaṃ maṃ bhagavā evaṃ byākareyya:

If I pass away before the Buddha, it wouldn't be surprising if the Buddha declares of me:

‘natthi taṃ saṃyojanaṃ yena saṃyojanena saṃyutto citto gahapati puna imaṃ lokaṃ āgaccheyyā’”ti.

‘The householder Citta is bound by no fetter that might return him to this world.’”

Evaṃ vutte, acelo kassapo cittaṃ gahapatiṃ etadavoca:

When this was said, Kassapa said to Citta,

“acchariyaṃ vata bho, abbhutaṃ vata bho.

Dhammassa svākkhātātā, yatra hi nāma gihī odātavasano evarūpaṃ uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ adhigamissati phāsuvihāraṃ.

how well explained the teaching is. For a white-clothed layperson can achieve such a superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones, a meditation at ease.

Labheyyāhaṃ, gahapati, imasmiṃ dhammavinaye pabbajjaṃ, labheyyaṃ upasampadan’”ti.

Sir, may I receive the going forth, the ordination in the Buddha’s presence?”

Atha kho citto gahapati acelaṃ kassapaṃ ādāya yena therā bhikkhū tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā there bhikkhū

etadavoca:

Then Citta the householder took the naked ascetic Kassapa to see the senior mendicants, and said to them:

“ayaṃ, bhante, acelo kassapo amhākaṃ purāṇagihisahāyo.

“Sirs, this is the naked ascetic Kassapa, who in lay life was an old friend of mine.

Imaṃ therā pabbājentu upasampādentu.

May the senior monks give him the going forth, the ordination.

Ahamassa ussukkaṃ karissāmi cīvarapiṇḍapātasenāsanagilānappaccayabhesajjaparikkhārānan
”ti.

I’ll make sure that he’s provided with robes, alms-food, lodgings, and medicines and supplies for the sick.”

Alattha kho acelo kassapo imasmim̐ dhammavinaye pabbajjāṃ, alattha upasampadaṃ.

And the naked ascetic Kassapa received the going forth, the ordination in this teaching and training.

Acirūpasampanno ca panāyasmā kassapo eko vūpakaṭṭho appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaraṃ—brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihāsi.

Not long after his ordination, Venerable Kassapa, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā”ti abhhaññāsi.

He understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

Aññataro ca panāyasmā kassapo arahataṃ ahoṣīti.

And Venerable Kassapa became one of the perfected.

Navamaṃ.

10. Gilānadassanasutta Seeing the Sick

Tena kho pana samayena citto gahapati ābādhiko hoti dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.

Now at that time the householder Citta was sick, suffering, gravely ill.

Atha kho sambahulā ārāmadevatā vanadevatā rukkhadevatā osadhitiṇavanappatīsu adhivatthā devatā saṅgamma samāgamma cittaṃ gahapatiṃ etadavocum:

Then several deities of the parks, forests, trees, and those who haunt the herbs, grass, and big trees came together and said to Citta,

“paṇidhehi, gahapati, anāgatamaddhānaṃ rājā assaṃ cakkavattī”ti.

“Householder, make a wish to become a wheel-turning monarch in the future!”

Evaṃ vutte, citto gahapati tā ārāmadevatā vanadevatā rukkhadevatā osadhitiṇavanappatīsu adhivatthā devatā
etadavoca:

When they said this, Citta said to them,

“tampi aniccaṃ, tampi addhavaṃ, tampi pahāya gamanīyaṃ”ti.

“That too is impermanent! That too will pass! That too will be left behind!”

Evaṃ vutte, cittassa gahapatino mittāmaccā ñātisālohitā cittaṃ gahapatiṃ etadavocum:

When he said this, his friends and colleagues, relatives and family members said, “satim, ayyaputta, upaṭṭhapehi, mā vippalapī”ti.

“Be mindful, lord! Don’t babble.”

“Kim tāhaṃ vadāmi yaṃ maṃ tumhe evaṃ vadetha:

“What have I said that makes you say that?”

‘satim, ayyaputta, upaṭṭhapehi, mā vippalapī’”ti?

“Evaṃ kho tvaṃ, ayyaputta, vadesi:

“It’s because you said:

‘tampi aniccaṃ, tampi addhavaṃ, tampi pahāya gamanīyan’”ti.

‘That too is impermanent! That too will pass! That too will be left behind!’”

“Tathā hi pana maṃ ārāmadevatā vanadevatā rukkhadevatā osadhitiṇavanappatīsu adhivatthā devatā evamāhaṃsu:

“Oh, well, that’s because the deities of the parks, forests, trees, and those who haunt the herbs, grass, and big trees said to me:

‘paṇidhehi, gahapati, anāgatamaddhānaṃ rājā assaṃ
cakkavattī’”ti.

‘Householder, make a wish to become a wheel-turning monarch in the future!’

Tāhaṃ evaṃ vadāmi:

So I said to them:

‘tampi aniccaṃ ...pe... tampi pahāya gamanīyan’”ti.

‘That too is impermanent! That too will pass! That too will be left behind!’”

“Kim pana tā, ayyaputta, ārāmadevatā vanadevatā rukkhadevatā osadhitiṇavanappatīsu adhivatthā devatā atthavasāṃ samppassamānā evamāhaṃsu:

“But what reason do they see for saying that to you?”

‘paṇidhehi, gahapati, anāgatamaddhānaṃ rājā assaṃ cakkavattī’”ti?

“Tāsaṃ kho ārāmadevatānaṃ vanadevatānaṃ rukkhadevatānaṃ osadhitiṇavanappatīsu adhivatthānaṃ devatānaṃ evaṃ hoti:

“They think:

‘ayaṃ kho citta gahapati, sīlavā kalyāṇadhammo.

become a wheel-turning monarch in the future, his heart’s wish will succeed because of the purity of his ethics. And then as a proper, principled king he will provide proper spirit-offerings.’

Imaṃ kho tā ārāmadevatā vanadevatā rukkhadevatā osadhitiṇavanappatīsu adhivatthā devatā atthavasāṃ sampassamānā evamāhaṃsu:

That’s the reason they see for saying to me:

‘paṇidhehi, gahapati, anāgatamaddhānaṃ rājā assaṃ cakkavattī’ti.

‘Householder, make a wish to become a wheel-turning monarch in the future!’

Tāhaṃ evaṃ vadāmi:

So I said to them:

‘tampi aniccaṃ, tampi addhuvaṃ, tampi pahāya gamanīyaṃ’”ti.

‘That too is impermanent! That too will pass! That too will be left behind!’”

“Tena hi, ayyaputta, amhepi ovadāhī”ti.

9. Kulasutta Families

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā kosalesu cārikaṃ caramāno mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhiṃ yena nāḷandā tadavasari.

At one time the Buddha was wandering in the land of the Kosalans together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants when he arrived at Nāḷandā.

Tatra sudam̐ bhagavā nāḷandāyaṃ viharati pāvārikambavane.
There he stayed near Nāḷandā in Pāvārika's mango grove.

Tena kho pana samayena nāḷandā dubbhikkhā hoti dvīhitikā setaṭṭhikā salākāvuttā.

Now that was a time of famine and scarcity in Nāḷandā, with blighted crops turned to straw.

Tena kho pana samayena nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto nāḷandāyaṃ paṭivasati mahatiyā nigaṇṭhapaṇisāya saddhiṃ.

At that time Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta was residing at Nāḷandā together with a large assembly of Jain ascetics.

Atha kho asibandhakaputto gāmaṇi nigaṇṭhasāvako yena nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā nigaṇṭham nāṭaputtam̐ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho asibandhakaputtam̐ gāmaṇim̐ nigaṇṭho nāṭaputto etadavoca:

Then Asibandhaka's son the chief, who was a disciple of the Jains, went up to Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta, bowed, and sat down to one side. Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta said to him:

“ehi tvam̐, gāmaṇi, samaṇassa gotamassa vādam̐ āropehi.

“Come, chief, refute the ascetic Gotama’s doctrine.

Evaṃ te kalyāṇo kittisaddo abbhuggacchissati:

Then you will get a good reputation:

‘asibandhakaputtēna gāmaṇinā samaṇassa gotamassa evaṃmahiddhikassa evaṃmahānubhāvassa vādo āropito’”ti.

‘Asibandhaka’s son the chief refuted the doctrine of the ascetic Gotama, so mighty and powerful!’”

“Kathaṃ panāhaṃ, bhante, samaṇassa gotamassa evaṃmahiddhikassa evaṃmahānubhāvassa vādaṃ āropessāmi”ti?

“But sir, how am I to do this?”

“Ehi tvaṃ, gāmaṇi, yena samaṇo gotamo tenupasaṅkama;
upasaṅkamtivā samaṇaṃ gotamaṃ evaṃ vadehi:

“Here, brahmin, go to the ascetic Gotama and say to him:

‘nanu, bhante, bhagavā anekapariyāyena kulānaṃ anuddayaṃ vaṇṇeti, anurakkhaṃ vaṇṇeti, anukampaṃ vaṇṇeti’”ti?

‘Sir, don’t you in many ways praise kindness, protection, and compassion for families?’

Sace kho, gāmaṇi, samaṇo gotamo evaṃ puṭṭho evaṃ byākaroti:

When he’s asked this, if he answers:

‘evaṃ, gāmaṇi, tathāgato anekapariyāyena kulānaṃ anuddayaṃ vaṇṇeti, anurakkhaṃ vaṇṇeti, anukampaṃ vaṇṇeti’”ti, tamenāṃ tvaṃ evaṃ vadeyyāsi:

‘Indeed I do, chief,’ say this to him:

‘atha kiñcaraḥi, bhante, bhagavā dubbhikkhe dvīhitike setaṭṭhike salākāvutte mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhiṃ cārikaṃ carati?

‘So what exactly are you doing, wandering together with this large Saṅgha of mendicants during a time of famine and scarcity, with blighted crops turned to straw?’

Ucchedāya bhagavā kulānaṃ paṭipanno, anayāya bhagavā kulānaṃ paṭipanno, upaghātāya bhagavā kulānaṃ paṭipanno'ti.
The Buddha is practicing to annihilate, collapse, and ruin families!

Imaṃ kho te, gāmaṇi, samaṇo gotamo ubhatokoṭikaṃ pañhaṃ puṭṭho neva sakkhati uggilituṃ, neva sakkhati ogilituṃ'ti.
When you put this dilemma to him, the Buddha won't be able to either spit it out or swallow it down."

"Evaṃ, bhante'ti kho asibandhakaputto gāmaṇi nigaṇṭhassa nāṭaputtassa paṭissutvā uṭṭhāyāsanā nigaṇṭhaṃ nāṭaputtaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtvā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho asibandhakaputto gāmaṇi bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

"Yes, sir," replied Asibandhaka's son. He got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled Nigaṇṭha Nāṭaputta, keeping him on his right. Then he went to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him:

"Nanu, bhante, bhagavā anekapariyāyena kulānaṃ anuddayaṃ vaṇṇeti, anurakkhaṃ vaṇṇeti, anukampaṃ vaṇṇeti'ti?
"Sir, don't you in many ways praise kindness, protection, and compassion for families?"

"Evaṃ, gāmaṇi, tathāgato anekapariyāyena kulānaṃ anuddayaṃ vaṇṇeti, anurakkhaṃ vaṇṇeti, anukampaṃ vaṇṇeti'ti.
"Indeed I do, chief."

"Atha kiñcarahi, bhante, bhagavā dubbhikkhe dvīhitike setatṭhike salākāvutte mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhiṃ cārikaṃ carati?

"So what exactly are you doing, wandering together with this large Saṅgha of mendicants during a time of famine and scarcity, with blighted crops turned to straw?

Ucchedāya bhagavā kulānaṃ paṭipanno, anayāya bhagavā kulānaṃ paṭipanno, upaghātāya bhagavā kulānaṃ paṭipanno”ti.
The Buddha is practicing to annihilate, collapse, and ruin families!”

“Ito so, gāmaṇi, ekanavutikappe yamahaṃ anussarāmi, nābhijānāmi kiñci kulaṃ pakkabhikkhānuppadānamattena upahatapubbaṃ.

“Well, chief, I recollect ninety eons back but I’m not aware of any family that’s been ruined merely by offering some cooked alms-food.

Atha kho yāni tāni kulāni aḍḍhāni mahaddhanāni mahābhogāni pahūtajātarūparajatāni pahūtavittūpakaraṇāni pahūtadhanadhaññāni, sabbāni tāni dānasambhūtāni ceva saccasambhūtāni ca sāmaññasambhūtāni ca.

Rather, rich, affluent, and wealthy families—with lots of gold and silver, lots of property and assets, and lots of money and grain—all acquired their wealth because of generosity, truth, and restraint.

Aṭṭha kho, gāmaṇi, hetū, aṭṭha paccayā kulānaṃ upaghātāya.
Chief, there are eight causes and conditions for the ruin of families.

Rājato vā kulāni upaghātaṃ gacchanti, corato vā kulāni upaghātaṃ gacchanti, aggito vā kulāni upaghātaṃ gacchanti, udakato vā kulāni upaghātaṃ gacchanti, nihitaṃ vā ṭhānā vigacchati, duppayuttā vā kammantā vipajjanti, kule vā kulaṅgāroti uppajjati, yo te bhoge vikirati vidhamati viddhamseti, aniccatāyeva aṭṭhamīti.

Their ruin stems from rulers, bandits, fire, or flood. Or their savings vanish. Or their business fails due to not applying themselves to work. Or a wastrel is born into the family who squanders and fritters away their wealth. And impermanence is the eighth.

Ime kho, gāmaṇi, aṭṭha hetū, aṭṭha paccayā kulānaṃ upaghātāya.

These are the eight causes and conditions for the ruin of families.

Imesu kho, gāmaṇi, aṭṭhasu hetūsu, aṭṭhasu paccayesu saṁvijjamānesu yo maṁ evaṁ vadeyya:

Given that these eight reasons are found, suppose someone says this:

‘ucchedāya bhagavā kulānaṁ paṭipanno, anayāya bhagavā kulānaṁ paṭipanno, upaghātāya bhagavā kulānaṁ paṭipanno’ti,
‘The Buddha is practicing to annihilate, collapse, and ruin families!’

taṁ, gāmaṇi, vācaṁ appahāya taṁ cittaṁ appahāya taṁ diṭṭhiṁ appaṭinissajjitvā yathābhataṁ nikkhitto evaṁ niraye”ti.

Unless they give up that speech and thought, and let go of that view, they will be cast down to hell.”

Evaṁ vutte, asibandhakaputto gāmaṇi bhagavantaṁ etadavoca:

When he said this, Asibandhaka’s son the chief said to the Buddha,

10. Maṇicūḷakasutta With Maṇicūḷaka

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati veḷuvane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tena kho pana samayena rājantepure rājaparisāya

Now at that time while the king's retinue was sitting together in the royal compound this discussion came up among them, “kappati samaṇānaṃ sakyaputtiyānaṃ jātarūparajataṃ, sādiyanti samaṇā sakyaputtiyā jātarūparajataṃ, paṭiggaṇhanti samaṇā sakyaputtiyā jātarūparajatan”ti.

“Gold and money are proper for Sakyan ascetics. They accept and receive gold and money.”

Tena kho pana samayena maṇicūḷako gāmaṇi tassaṃ

Now at that time the chief Maṇicūḷaka was sitting in that assembly.

Atha kho maṇicūḷako gāmaṇi taṃ parisam̐ etadavoca:

He said to that retinue,

“mā ayyo evaṃ avacuttha.

“Good sirs, don't say that.

Na kappati samaṇānaṃ sakyaputtiyānaṃ jātarūparajataṃ, na

Asakkhi kho maṇicūḷako gāmaṇi taṃ parisam saññāpetum.
He was able to persuade that assembly.

Atha kho maṇicūḷako gāmaṇi yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;

Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho maṇicūḷako gāmaṇi bhagavantaṃ

Then Maṇicūḷaka went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened. He then said,

“idha, bhante, rājantepure rājaparisāya sannisinnānaṃ

“Answering this way, I trust that I repeat what the Buddha has said, and don’t misrepresent him with an untruth. I trust my explanation is in line with the teaching, and that there are no legitimate grounds for rebuke or criticism.”

“Taggha tvaṃ, gāmaṇi, evaṃ byākaramāno vuttavādī ceva me hosi, na ca maṃ abhūtena abbhācikkhasi, dhammassa cānudhammaṃ byākarosi, na ca koci sahadhammiko vādānuvādo gārayhaṃ ṭhānaṃ āgacchati.

“Indeed, in answering this way you repeat what I’ve said, and don’t misrepresent me with an untruth. Your explanation is in line with the teaching, and there are no legitimate grounds for rebuke or criticism.

Na hi, gāmaṇi, kappati samaṇānaṃ sakyaputtiyānaṃ jātarūparajataṃ, na sādiyanti samaṇā sakyaputtiyā jātarūparajataṃ, nappaṭiggaṇhanti samaṇā sakyaputtiyā jātarūparajataṃ, nikkhittamaṇisuvaṇṇā samaṇā sakyaputtiyā apetajātarūparajatā.

Gold and money are not proper for Sakyan ascetics. They neither accept nor receive gold and money. They have set aside gems and gold, and rejected gold and money.

Yassa kho, gāmaṇi, jātarūparajataṃ kappati, pañcapi tassa kāmaguṇā kappanti.

Yassa pañca kāmaguṇā kappanti (...), ekaṃsenetaṃ, gāmaṇi, dhāreyyāsi assamaṇadhammo asakyaputtiyadhammoti.

And if the five kinds of sensual stimulation are proper for them, you should definitely regard them as not having the qualities of an ascetic or a follower of the Sakyan.

Api cāhaṃ, gāmaṇi, evaṃ vadāmi—

Rather, chief, I say this:

Straw may be looked for by one needing straw; wood may be looked for by one needing wood; a cart may be looked for by one needing a cart; a workman may be looked for by one needing a workman.

Na tvevāhaṃ, gāmaṇi, kenaci pariyāyena ‘jātarūparajataṃ

“Atthi me, bhante, uruvelakappe manussā yesaṃ me vadhena vā bandhena vā jāniyā vā garahāya vā uppajjeyyumaṃ sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā”ti.

“There are, sir.”

“Atthi pana te, gāmaṇi, uruvelakappe manussā yesaṃ te vadhena vā bandhena vā jāniyā vā garahāya vā nuppajjeyyumaṃ sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā”ti?

“But are there any people here in Uruvelakappa who, if they were executed, imprisoned, fined, or condemned, it would not cause you sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress?”

“Atthi me, bhante, uruvelakappe manussā yesaṃ me vadhena vā bandhena vā jāniyā vā garahāya vā nuppajjeyyumaṃ sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā”ti.

“There are, sir.”

“Ko nu kho, gāmaṇi, hetu, ko paccayo yena te ekaccānaṃ uruvelakappiyānaṃ manussānaṃ vadhena vā bandhena vā jāniyā vā garahāya vā uppajjeyyumaṃ sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā”ti?

“What’s the cause, chief, what’s the reason why, if this was to happen to some people it could cause you sorrow, while if it happens to others it does not?”

“Yesaṃ me, bhante, uruvelakappiyānaṃ manussānaṃ vadhena vā bandhena vā jāniyā vā garahāya vā uppajjeyyumaṃ sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā, atthi me tesu chandarāgo.

“The people regarding whom this would give rise to sorrow are those I desire and love.

Yesaṃ pana, bhante, uruvelakappiyānaṃ manussānaṃ vadhena vā bandhena vā jāniyā vā garahāya vā nuppajjeyyumaṃ sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā, natthi me tesu chandarāgo”ti.

The people regarding whom this would not give rise to sorrow are those I don’t desire and love.”

“Iminā tvaṃ, gāmaṇi, dhammena diṭṭhena viditena akālikena pattena pariyogāḷhena atītānāgate nayaṃ nehi:

“With this present phenomenon that is seen, known, immediate, attained, and fathomed, you may infer to the past and future:

‘yaṃ kho kiñci atītamaddhānaṃ dukkhaṃ uppajjamānaṃ uppajji sabbaṃ taṃ chandamūlakaṃ chandanidānaṃ.

‘All the suffering that arose in the past was rooted and sourced in desire.

Chando hi mūlaṃ dukkhassa.

For desire is the root of suffering.

Yampi hi kiñci anāgatamaddhānaṃ dukkhaṃ uppajjamānaṃ uppajjissati, sabbaṃ taṃ chandamūlakaṃ chandanidānaṃ.

All the suffering that will arise in the future will be rooted and sourced in desire.

Chando hi mūlaṃ dukkhassā’”ti.

For desire is the root of suffering.”

“Acchariyaṃ, bhante, abbhutaṃ, bhante.

Yāva subhāsitañcidaṃ, bhante, bhagavatā:

How well said this was by the Buddha!

‘yaṃ kiñci dukkhaṃ uppajjamānaṃ uppajjati, sabbaṃ taṃ chandamūlakaṃ chandanidānaṃ.

‘All the suffering that arises is rooted and sourced in desire.

Chando hi mūlaṃ dukkhassā’ti.

For desire is the root of suffering.’

Atthi me, bhante, ciravāsī nāma kumāro bahi āvasathe paṭivasati.

I have a boy called Ciravāsi, who resides in a house away from here.

So khvāhaṃ, bhante, kālasseva vuṭṭhāya purisaṃ uyyojemi:

I rise early and send someone, saying:

‘gaccha, bhane, ciravāsiraṃ kumāraṃ jānāhi’ti.

‘Go, my man, and check on my boy Ciravāsi.’

Yāvakīvañca, bhante, so puriso nāgacchati, tassa me hoteva aññathattaṃ:

Until they get back I worry:

‘mā heva ciravāsissa kumārassa kiñci ābādhayitthā’”ti.

‘I hope nothing’s wrong with Ciravāsi!’”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, gāmaṇi,

“What do you think, chief?

ciravāsissa kumārassa vadhena vā bandhena vā jāniyā vā garahāya vā uppajjeyyuraṃ sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā’”ti?

If Ciravāsi was executed, imprisoned, fined, or condemned, would it cause you sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress?”

“Ciravāsissa me, bhante, kumārassa vadhena vā bandhena vā jāniyā vā garahāya vā jīvitassapi siyā aññathattaṃ, kiṃ pana me nuppajjissanti sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā’”ti.

“How could it not, sir?”

“Imināpi kho etaṃ, gāmaṇi, pariyāyena veditabbaṃ:

“This too is a way to understand:

‘yaṃ kiñci dukkhaṃ uppajjamānaṃ uppajjati, sabbaṃ taṃ chandaṃ mūlaṃ chandaṇidānaṃ.

‘All the suffering that arises is rooted and sourced in desire.

Chando hi mūlaṃ dukkhassā’”ti.

For desire is the root of suffering.’

Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, gāmaṇi,

What do you think, chief?

yadā te ciravāsīmātā adiṭṭhā ahosi, assutā ahosi, te ciravāsīmātuyā chando vā rāgo vā pemaṃ vā’”ti?

Before you'd seen or heard of Ciravāsi's mother, did you have any desire or love or fondness for her?"

“No hetam, bhante”.

“No, sir.”

“Dassanam vā te, gāmaṇi, āgamma savanam vā evam te ahosi:

“Then was it because you saw or heard of her that you had ‘ciravāsimātuyā chando vā rāgo vā pemaṃ vā’”ti?

desire or love or fondness for her?"

“Evaṃ, bhante”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Tam kiṃ maññasi, gāmaṇi,

“What do you think, chief?

ciravāsimātuyā te vadhena vā bandhena vā jāniyā vā garahāya vā uppajjeyyum sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā”ti?

If Ciravāsi's mother was executed, imprisoned, fined, or condemned, would it cause you sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress?"

“Ciravāsimātuyā me, bhante, vadhena vā bandhena vā jāniyā vā garahāya vā jīvitassapi siyā aññathattam, kiṃ pana me nuppajjissanti sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā”ti.

“How could it not, sir?"

“Imināpi kho etam, gāmaṇi, pariyāyena veditabbam:

“This too is a way to understand:

‘yam kiñci dukkham uppajjamānam uppajjati, sabbam tam chandamūlakam chandanidānam.

‘All the suffering that arises is rooted and sourced in desire.

Chando hi mūlaṃ dukkhassā”ti.
For desire is the root of suffering.”

Ekādasamaṃ.

12. Rāsiyasutta With Rāsiya

Atha kho rāsiyo gāmaṇi yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkhami;
upasaṅkhamitvā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.
Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho rāsiyo gāmaṇi bhagavantam
etadavoca:

Then Rāsiya the chief went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him:

“sutaṃ metaṃ, bhante, ‘samaṇo gotamo sabbaṃ tapaṃ garahati, sabbaṃ tapassim lūkhajivim ekamsena upavadati upakkosati’ti.

“Sir, I have heard this: ‘The ascetic Gotama criticizes all forms of mortification. He categorically condemns and denounces those self-mortifiers who live rough.’

Ye te, bhante, evamaṃsu: ‘samaṇo gotamo sabbaṃ tapaṃ garahati, sabbaṃ tapassim lūkhajivim ekamsena upavadati upakkosati’ti, kacci te, bhante, bhagavato vuttavādinō, na ca bhagavantam abhūtena abbhācikkhanti, dhammassa cānudhammaṃ byākaronti, na ca koci sahadhammiko vādānuvādo gārayham ṭhānam āgacchatī’ti?

Do those who say this repeat what the Buddha has said, and not misrepresent him with an untruth? Is their explanation in line with the teaching? Are there any legitimate grounds for rebuke and criticism?”

“Ye te, gāmaṇi, evamaṃsu: ‘samaṇo gotamo sabbaṃ tapaṃ garahati, sabbaṃ tapassim lūkhajivim ekamsena upavadati

upakkosati'ti, na me te vuttavādino, abbhācikkhanti ca pana maṃ te asatā tucchā abhūtena.

“Chief, those who say this do not repeat what I have said. They misrepresent me with what is false, hollow, and untrue.

Dveme, gāmaṇi, antā pabbajitena na sevitabbā—

These two extremes should not be cultivated by one who has gone forth.

yo cāyaṃ kāmesu kāmasukhallikānuyogo hīno gammo pothujjaniko anariyo anatthasaṃhito, yo cāyaṃ attakilamathānuyogo dukkho anariyo anatthasaṃhito.

Indulgence in sensual pleasures, which is low, crude, ordinary, ignoble, and pointless. And indulgence in self-mortification, which is painful, ignoble, and pointless.

Ete te, gāmaṇi, ubho ante anupagamma majjhimā paṭipadā tathāgatena abhisambuddhā—cakkhukaraṇī ñāṇakaraṇī upasamāya abhiññāya sambodhāya nibbānāya saṃvattati.

Avoiding these two extremes, the Realized One woke up by understanding the middle way of practice, which gives vision and knowledge, and leads to peace, direct knowledge, awakening, and extinguishment.

Katamā ca sā, gāmaṇi, majjhimā paṭipadā tathāgatena abhisambuddhā—cakkhukaraṇī ñāṇakaraṇī upasamāya abhiññāya sambodhāya nibbānāya saṃvattati?

And what is that middle way of practice?

Ayameva ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo, seyyathidaṃ—

It is simply this noble eightfold path, that is:

sammādiṭṭhi ...pe... sammāsamādhi.

Ayaṃ kho sā, gāmaṇi, majjhimā paṭipadā tathāgatena abhisambuddhā—cakkhukaraṇī ñāṇakaraṇī upasamāya abhiññāya sambodhāya nibbānāya saṃvattati.

This, chief, is the middle way of practice, woken up to by the Realized One, which gives vision and knowledge, and leads to peace, direct knowledge, awakening, and extinguishment.

Tayo kho me, gāmaṇi, kāmabhogino santo saṃvijjamānā lokasmim.

There are these three kinds of pleasure seekers in the world.

Katame tayo?

What three?

Idha, gāmaṇi, ekacco kāmabhogī adhammena bhoge pariyesati, sāhasena adhammena bhoge pariyesitvā sāhasena na attānaṃ sukheti na pīṇeti na saṃvibhajati na puññāni karoti.

Take a pleasure seeker who seeks wealth using illegitimate, coercive means, and who doesn't make themselves happy and pleased, or share it and make merit.

Idha pana, gāmaṇi, ekacco kāmabhogī adhammena bhoge pariyesati sāhasena.

Next, a pleasure seeker seeks wealth using illegitimate, coercive means.

Adhammena bhoge pariyesitvā sāhasena attānaṃ sukheti pīṇeti, na saṃvibhajati na puññāni karoti.

They make themselves happy and pleased, but don't share it and make merit.

Idha pana, gāmaṇi, ekacco kāmabhogī adhammena bhoge pariyesati sāhasena.

Next, a pleasure seeker seeks wealth using illegitimate, coercive means.

Adhammena bhoge pariyesitvā sāhasena attānaṃ sukheti pīṇeti saṃvibhajati puññāni karoti. (1–3.)

They make themselves happy and pleased, and they share it and make merit.

Idha pana, gāmaṇi, ekacco kāmabhogī dhammādhammena bhoge pariyesati sāhasenapi asāhasenapi.

Next, a pleasure seeker seeks wealth using means both legitimate and illegitimate, and coercive and non-coercive.

Dhammādhammena bhoge pariyesitvā sāhasenapi asāhasenapi na attānaṃ sukheti, na pīṇeti, na saṃvibhajati, na puññāni karoti.

They don't make themselves happy and pleased, or share it and make merit.

Idha pana, gāmaṇi, ekacco kāmabhogī dhammādhammena bhoge pariyesati sāhasenapi asāhasenapi.

Next, a pleasure seeker seeks wealth using means both legitimate and illegitimate, and coercive and non-coercive.

Dhammādhammena bhoge pariyesitvā sāhasenapi asāhasenapi attānaṃ sukheti pīṇeti, na saṃvibhajati, na puññāni karoti.

They don't make themselves happy and pleased, or share it and make merit.

Idha pana, gāmaṇi, ekacco kāmabhogī dhammādhammena bhoge pariyesati, sāhasenapi asāhasenapi.

Next, a pleasure seeker seeks wealth using means both legitimate and illegitimate, and coercive and non-coercive.

Dhammādhammena bhoge pariyesitvā sāhasenapi asāhasenapi attānaṃ sukheti pīṇeti saṃvibhajati puññāni karoti. (4–6.)

They make themselves happy and pleased, and they share it and make merit.

Idha pana, gāmaṇi, ekacco kāmabhogī dhammena bhoge pariyesati asāhasena.

Next, a pleasure seeker seeks wealth using legitimate, non-coercive means.

Dhammena bhoge pariyesitvā asāhasena na attānaṃ sukheti, na pīṇeti, na saṃvibhajati, na puññāni karoti.

They don't make themselves happy and pleased, or share it and make merit.

Idha pana, gāmaṇi, ekacco kāmabhogī dhammena bhoge
pariyesati asāhasena.

Next, a pleasure seeker seeks wealth using legitimate, non-coercive means.

Dhammena bhoge pariyesitvā asāhasena attānaṃ sukheti pīṇeti, na saṃvibhajati, na puññāni karoti.

They make themselves happy and pleased, but don't share it and make merit.

Idha pana, gāmaṇi, ekacco kāmabhogī dhammena bhoge
pariyesati asāhasena.

Next, a pleasure seeker seeks wealth using legitimate, non-coercive means.

Dhammena bhoge pariyesitvā asāhasena attānaṃ sukheti pīṇeti saṃvibhajati puññāni karoti.

They make themselves happy and pleased, and they share it and make merit.

Te ca bhoge gadhito mucchito ajjhopanno anādīnavadassāvī anissaraṇapañño paribhuñjati.

They enjoy that wealth tied, infatuated, attached, blind to the drawbacks, and not understanding the escape.

Idha pana, gāmaṇi, ekacco kāmabhogī dhammena bhoge
pariyesati asāhasena.

Next, a pleasure seeker seeks wealth using legitimate, non-coercive means.

Dhammena bhoge pariyesitvā asāhasena attānaṃ sukheti pīṇeti saṃvibhajati puññāni karoti.

They make themselves happy and pleased, and they share it and make merit.

Te ca bhoge agadhito amucchito anajjhopanno ādīnavadassāvī nissaraṇapañño paribhuñjati. (7–9.)

And they enjoy that wealth untied, uninfatuated, unattached, seeing the drawbacks, and understanding the escape.

Tatra, gāmaṇi, yvāyaṃ kāmabhogī adhammena bhoge pariyesati sāhasena, adhammena bhoge pariyesitvā sāhasena na attānaṃ sukheti, na pīṇeti, na saṃvibhajati, na puññāni karoti.

Now, consider the pleasure seeker who seeks wealth using illegitimate, coercive means, and who doesn't make themselves happy and pleased, or share it and make merit.

Ayaṃ, gāmaṇi, kāmabhogī tīhi ṭhānehi gārayho.

They may be criticized on three grounds.

Katamehi tīhi ṭhānehi gārayho?

What three?

Adhammena bhoge pariyesati sāhasenāti, iminā paṭhamena ṭhānena gārayho.

They seek wealth using illegitimate, coercive means. This is the first ground for criticism.

Na attānaṃ sukheti na pīṇetīti, iminā dutiyena ṭhānena gārayho.

They don't make themselves happy and pleased. This is the second ground for criticism.

Na saṃvibhajati, na puññāni karotīti, iminā tatiyena ṭhānena gārayho.

They don't share it and make merit. This is the third ground for criticism.

Ayaṃ, gāmaṇi, kāmabhogī imehi tīhi ṭhānehi gārayho.

This pleasure seeker may be criticized on these three grounds.

Tatra, gāmaṇi, yvāyaṃ kāmabhogī adhammena bhoge pariyesati sāhasena, adhammena bhoge pariyesitvā sāhasena attānaṃ sukheti pīṇeti, na saṃvibhajati, na puññāni karoti.

Now, consider the pleasure seeker who seeks wealth using illegitimate, coercive means, and who makes themselves happy and pleased, but doesn't share it and make merit.

Ayaṃ, gāmaṇi, kāmabhogī dvīhi ṭhānehi gārayho, ekena ṭhānena pāsaṃso.

This pleasure seeker may be criticized on two grounds, and praised on one.

Katamehi dvīhi ṭhānehi gārayho?

What are the two grounds for criticism?

Adhammena bhoge pariyesati sāhasenāti, iminā paṭhamena ṭhānena gārayho.

They seek wealth using illegitimate, coercive means. This is the first ground for criticism.

Na saṃvibhajati, na puññāni karotīti, iminā dutiyena ṭhānena gārayho.

They don't share it and make merit. This is the second ground for criticism.

Katamena ekena ṭhānena pāsaṃso?

What is the one ground for praise?

Attānaṃ sukheti pīṇetīti, iminā ekena ṭhānena pāsaṃso.

They make themselves happy and pleased. This is the one ground for praise.

Ayaṃ, gāmaṇi, kāmabhogī imehi dvīhi ṭhānehi gārayho, iminā ekena ṭhānena pāsaṃso. (2)

This pleasure seeker may be criticized on these two grounds, and praised on this one.

Tatra, gāmaṇi, yvāyaṃ kāmabhogī adhammena bhoge pariyesati sāhasena, adhammena bhoge pariyesitvā sāhasena attānaṃ sukheti pīṇeti saṃvibhajati puññāni karoti.

Now, consider the pleasure seeker who seeks wealth using illegitimate, coercive means, and who makes themselves happy and pleased, and shares it and makes merit.

Ayaṃ, gāmaṇi, kāmabhogī ekena ṭhānena gārayho, dvīhi ṭhānehi pāsaṃso.

This pleasure seeker may be criticized on one ground, and praised on two.

Katamena ekena ṭhānena gārayho?

What is the one ground for criticism?

Adhammena bhoge pariyesati sāhasenāti, iminā ekena ṭhānena gārayho.

They seek wealth using illegitimate, coercive means. This is the one ground for criticism.

Katamehi dvīhi ṭhānehi pāsaṃso?

What are the two grounds for praise?

Attānaṃ sukheti pīṇetīti, iminā paṭhamena ṭhānena pāsaṃso.

They make themselves happy and pleased. This is the first ground for praise.

Samvibhajati puñṇāni karotīti, iminā dutiyena ṭhānena pāsaṃso.

They share it and make merit. This is the second ground for praise.

Ayaṃ, gāmaṇi, kāmabhogī, iminā ekena ṭhānena gārayho, imehi dvīhi ṭhānehi pāsaṃso. (3)

This pleasure seeker may be criticized on this one ground, and praised on these two.

Tatra, gāmaṇi, yvāyaṃ kāmabhogī dhammādhammena bhoge pariyesati sāhasenapi asāhasenapi, dhammādhammena bhoge pariyesitvā sāhasenapi asāhasenapi na attānaṃ sukheti, na pīṇeti, na samvibhajati, na puñṇāni karoti.

Now, consider the pleasure seeker who seeks wealth using means both legitimate and illegitimate, and coercive and non-coercive, and who doesn't make themselves happy and pleased, or share it and make merit.

Ayaṃ, gāmaṇi, kāmabhogī ekena ṭhānena pāsaṃso, tīhi ṭhānehi gārayho.

They may be praised on one ground, and criticized on three.

Katamena ekena ṭhānena pāsaṃso?

What is the one ground for praise?

Dhammena bhoge pariyesati asāhasenāti, iminā ekena ṭhānena pāsaṃso.

They seek wealth using legitimate, non-coercive means. This is the one ground for praise.

Katamehi tīhi ṭhānehi gārayho?

What are the three grounds for criticism?

Adhammena bhoge pariyesati sāhasenāti, iminā paṭhamena ṭhānena gārayho.

They seek wealth using illegitimate, coercive means. This is the first ground for criticism.

Na attānaṃ sukheti, na pīṇetīti, iminā dutiyena ṭhānena gārayho.

They don't make themselves happy and pleased. This is the second ground for criticism.

Na saṃvibhajati, na puññāni karotīti, iminā tatiyena ṭhānena gārayho.

They don't share it and make merit. This is the third ground for criticism.

Ayaṃ, gāmaṇi, kāmabhogī iminā ekena ṭhānena pāsaṃso, imehi tīhi ṭhānehi gārayho. (4)

This pleasure seeker may be praised on this one ground, and criticized on these three.

Tatra, gāmaṇi, yvāyaṃ kāmabhogī dhammādhhammena bhoge pariyesati sāhasenapi asāhasenapi, dhammādhhammena bhoge pariyesitvā sāhasenapi asāhasenapi attānaṃ sukheti pīṇeti, na saṃvibhajati, na puññāni karoti.

Now, consider the pleasure seeker who seeks wealth using means both legitimate and illegitimate, and coercive and non-coercive, and makes themselves happy and pleased, but doesn't share it and make merit.

Ayaṃ, gāmaṇi, kāmabhogī dvīhi ṭhānehi pāsaṃso, dvīhi ṭhānehi gārayho.

They may be praised on two grounds, and criticized on two.

Katamehi dvīhi ṭhānehi pāsaṃso?

What are the two grounds for praise?

Dhammena bhoge pariyesati asāhasenāti, iminā paṭhamena ṭhānena pāsaṃso.

They seek wealth using legitimate, non-coercive means. This is the first ground for praise.

Attānaṃ sukheti pīṇetīti, iminā dutiyena ṭhānena pāsaṃso.

They make themselves happy and pleased. This is the second ground for praise.

Katamehi dvīhi ṭhānehi gārayho?

What are the two grounds for criticism?

Adhammena bhoge pariyesati sāhasenāti, iminā paṭhamena ṭhānena gārayho.

They seek wealth using illegitimate, coercive means. This is the first ground for criticism.

Na saṃvibhajati, na puññāni karotīti, iminā dutiyena ṭhānena gārayho.

They don't share it and make merit. This is the second ground for criticism.

Ayaṃ, gāmaṇi, kāmabhogī imehi dvīhi ṭhānehi pāsaṃso, imehi dvīhi ṭhānehi gārayho. (5)

This pleasure seeker may be praised on these two grounds, and criticized on these two.

Tatra, gāmaṇi, yvāyaṃ kāmabhogī dhammādhammena bhoge pariyesati sāhasenapi asāhasenapi, dhammādhammena bhoge pariyesitvā sāhasenapi asāhasenapi attānaṃ sukheti pīneti saṃvibhajati puñṇāni karoti.

Now, consider the pleasure seeker who seeks wealth using means both legitimate and illegitimate, and coercive and non-coercive, and who makes themselves happy and pleased, and shares it and makes merit.

Ayaṃ, gāmaṇi, kāmabhogī tīhi ṭhānehi pāsaṃso, ekena ṭhānena gārayho.

They may be praised on three grounds, and criticized on one.

Katamehi tīhi ṭhānehi pāsaṃso?

What are the three grounds for praise?

Dhammena bhoge pariyesati asāhasenāti, iminā paṭhamena ṭhānena pāsaṃso.

They seek wealth using legitimate, non-coercive means. This is the first ground for praise.

Attānaṃ sukheti pīnetīti, iminā dutiyena ṭhānena pāsaṃso.

They make themselves happy and pleased. This is the second ground for praise.

Saṃvibhajati puñṇāni karotīti, iminā tatiyena ṭhānena pāsaṃso.

They share it and make merit. This is the third ground for praise.

Katamena ekena ṭhānena gārayho?

What is the one ground for criticism?

Adhammena bhoge pariyesati sāhasenāti, iminā ekena ṭhānena gārayho.

They seek wealth using illegitimate, coercive means. This is the one ground for criticism.

Ayaṃ, gāmaṇi, kāmabhogī imehi tīhi ṭhānehi pāsaṃso, iminā ekena ṭhānena gārayho. (6)

This pleasure seeker may be praised on these three grounds, and criticized on this one.

Now, consider the pleasure seeker who seeks wealth using legitimate, non-coercive means, and who makes themselves happy and pleased, and shares it and makes merit. But they enjoy that wealth tied, infatuated, attached, blind to the drawbacks, and not understanding the escape.

Ayaṃ, gāmaṇi, kāmabhogī tīhi ṭhānehi pāsaṃso, ekena ṭhānena gārayho.

They may be praised on three grounds and criticized on one.

Katamehi tīhi ṭhānehi pāsaṃso?

What are the three grounds for praise?

Dhammena bhoge pariyesati asāhasenāti, iminā paṭhamena ṭhānena pāsaṃso.

They seek wealth using legitimate, non-coercive means. This is the first ground for praise.

Attānaṃ sukheti pīṇetīti, iminā dutiyena ṭhānena pāsaṃso.

They make themselves happy and pleased. This is the second ground for praise.

This pleasure seeker may be praised on four grounds.

Katamehi catūhi ṭhānehi pāsaṃso?

What are the four grounds for praise?

Dhammena bhoge pariyesati asāhasenāti, iminā paṭhamena ṭhānena pāsaṃso.

They seek wealth using legitimate, non-coercive means. This is the first ground for praise.

This pleasure seeker may be praised on these four grounds.

Tayome, gāmaṇi, tapassino lūkhajīvino santo saṁvijjamānā lokasmim.

These three self-mortifiers who live rough are found in the world.

Katame tayo?

What three?

Idha, gāmaṇi, ekacco tapassī lūkhajīvī saddhā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito hoti:

Take a self-mortifier who has gone forth from the lay life to homelessness, thinking:

‘appeva nāma kusalaṃ dhammaṃ adhigaccheyyaṃ, appeva nāma uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ sacchikareyyan’ti.

‘Hopefully I will achieve a skillful quality! Hopefully I will realize a superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones!’

So attānaṃ ātāpeti paritāpeti, kusalañca dhammaṃ nādhigacchati, uttari ca manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ na sacchikaroti.

They mortify and torment themselves. But they don’t achieve any skillful quality, or realize any superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones.

Idha pana, gāmaṇi, ekacco tapassī lūkhajīvī saddhā agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito hoti:

So attānaṃ ātāpeti paritāpeti, kusalañhi kho dhammaṃ adhigacchati, uttari manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ na sacchikaroti. (2)

They mortify and torment themselves. And they achieve a skillful quality, but don't realize any superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones.

Idha pana, gāmaṇi, ekacco tapassī lūkhajīvī saddhā agārasmā

In this case, the first self-mortifier may be criticized on three grounds.

Katamehi tīhi ṭhānehi gārayho?

What three?

Attānaṃ ātāpeti paritāpetīti, iminā paṭhamena ṭhānena gārayho.

They mortify and torment themselves. This is the first ground for criticism.

Kusalañca dhammañ nādhigacchatīti, iminā dutiyena ṭhānena gārayho.

They don't achieve a skillful quality. This is the second ground for criticism.

Uttari ca manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ na sacchikarotīti, iminā tatiyena ṭhānena gārayho.

They don't realize a superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones. This is the third ground for criticism.

Ayaṃ, gāmaṇi, tapassī lūkhajīvī, imehi tīhi ṭhānehi gārayho.

This self-mortifier may be criticized on these three grounds.

Tatra, gāmaṇi, yvāyaṃ tapassī lūkhajīvī attānaṃ ātāpeti paritāpeti, kusalañhi kho dhammañ adhigacchati, uttari ca manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ na sacchikaroti.

In this case, the second self-mortifier

Ayaṃ, gāmaṇi, tapassī lūkhajīvī dvīhi ṭhānehi gārayho, ekena ṭhānena pāsaṃso.

may be criticized on two grounds, and praised on one.

Katamehi dvīhi ṭhānehi gārayho?

What are the two grounds for criticism?

Attānaṃ ātāpeti paritāpetīti, iminā paṭhamena ṭhānena gārayho.

They mortify and torment themselves. This is the first ground for criticism.

Uttari ca manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ na sacchikarotīti, iminā dutiyena ṭhānena gārayho.

They don't realize a superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones. This is the second ground for criticism.

Katamena ekena ṭhānena pāsaṃso?

What is the one ground for praise?

Kusalañhi kho dhammaṃ adhigacchatīti, iminā ekena ṭhānena pāsaṃso.

They achieve a skillful quality. This is the one ground for praise.

Ayaṃ, gāmaṇi, tapassī lūkhajīvī imehi dvīhi ṭhānehi gārayho, iminā ekena ṭhānena pāsaṃso. (2)

This self-mortifier may be criticized on these two grounds, and praised on one.

Tatra, gāmaṇi, yvāyaṃ tapassī lūkhajīvī attānaṃ ātāpeti paritāpeti, kusalañca dhammaṃ adhigacchati, uttari ca manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ sacchikaroti. Ayaṃ, gāmaṇi, tapassī lūkhajīvī ekena ṭhānena gārayho, dvīhi ṭhānehi pāsaṃso.

In this case, the third self-mortifier may be criticized on one ground, and praised on two.

Katamena ekena ṭhānena gārayho?

What is the one ground for criticism?

Attānaṃ ātāpeti paritāpetīti, iminā ekena ṭhānena gārayho.

They mortify and torment themselves. This is the one ground for criticism.

Katamehi dvīhi ṭhānehi pāsaṃso?

What are the two grounds for praise?

Kusalañca dhammaṃ adhigacchatīti, iminā paṭhamena ṭhānena pāsaṃso.

They achieve a skillful quality. This is the first ground for praise.

Uttari ca manussadhammā alamariyañāṇadassanavisesaṃ sacchikarotīti, iminā dutiyena ṭhānena pāsaṃso.

They realize a superhuman distinction in knowledge and vision worthy of the noble ones. This is the second ground for praise.

Ayaṃ, gāmaṇi, tapassī lūkhajīvī iminā ekena ṭhānena gārayho, imehi dvīhi ṭhānehi pāsaṃso. (3)

This self-mortifier may be criticized on this one ground, and praised on two.

Tisso imā, gāmaṇi, sandiṭṭhikā nijjarā akālikā ehipassikā opaneyyikā paccattaṃ veditabbā viññūhi.

There are these three kinds of wearing away that are visible in this very life, immediately effective, inviting inspection, relevant, so that sensible people can know them for themselves.

Katamā tisso?

What three?

Yaṃ ratto rāgādhikaraṇaṃ attabyābādhāyapi ceteti, parabyābādhāyapi ceteti, ubhayabyābādhāyapi ceteti.

A greedy person, because of greed, intends to hurt themselves, hurt others, and hurt both.

Rāge pahīne nevattabyābādhāya ceteti, na parabyābādhāya ceteti, na ubhayabyābādhāya ceteti.

When they've given up greed they don't have such intentions.

Sandiṭṭhikā nijjarā akālikā ehipassikā opaneyyikā paccattaṃ veditabbā viññūhi.

This wearing away is visible in this very life, immediately effective, inviting inspection, relevant, so that sensible people can know it for themselves.

Yaṃ duṭṭho dosādhikaraṇaṃ attabyābādhāyapi ceteti, parabyābādhāyapi ceteti, ubhayabyābādhāyapi ceteti.

A hateful person, because of hate, intends to hurt themselves, hurt others, and hurt both.

Dose pahīne nevattabyābādhāya ceteti, na parabyābādhāya ceteti, na ubhayabyābādhāya ceteti.

When they've given up hate they don't have such intentions.

Sandiṭṭhikā nijjarā akālikā ehipassikā opaneyyikā paccattaṃ veditabbā viññūhi.

This wearing away is visible in this very life, immediately effective, inviting inspection, relevant, so that sensible people can know it for themselves.

Yaṃ mūlho mohādhikaraṇaṃ attabyābādhāyapi ceteti, parabyābādhāyapi ceteti, ubhayabyābādhāyapi ceteti.

A deluded person, because of delusion, intends to hurt themselves, hurt others, and hurt both.

Mohe pahīne nevattabyābādhāya ceteti, na parabyābādhāya ceteti, na ubhayabyābādhāya ceteti.

When they've given up delusion they don't have such intentions.

Sandiṭṭhikā nijjarā akālikā ehipassikā opaneyyikā paccattaṃ

These are the three kinds of wearing away that are visible in this very life, immediately effective, inviting inspection, relevant, so that sensible people can know them for themselves.”

Evaṃ vutte, rāsiyo gāmaṇi bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he said this, Rāsiya the chief said to the Buddha, “abhikkantaṃ, bhante ...pe...

“Excellent, sir! Excellent! ...

upāsakaṃ maṃ bhagavā dhāretu ajjatagge pāṇupetaṃ saraṇaṃ

13. Pāṭaliyasutta With Pāṭaliya

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā kolyesu viharati uttaram̐ nāma kolyānam̐ nigamo.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Koliyans, where they have a town called Uttara.

Atha kho pāṭaliyo gāmaṇi yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam̐ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho pāṭaliyo gāmaṇi bhagavantam̐ etadavoca:

Then Pāṭaliya the chief went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him:

“sutaṃ metaṃ, bhante:

“Sir, I have heard this:

‘samaṇo gotamo māyaṃ jānātī’ti.

‘The ascetic Gotama knows magic.’

Ye te, bhante, evamāhaṃsu: ‘samaṇo gotamo māyaṃ jānātī’ti, kacci te, bhante, bhagavato vuttavādino, na ca bhagavantam̐ abhūtena abbhācikkhanti, dhammassa cānudhammaṃ byākaronti, na ca koci sahadhammiko vādānuvādo gārayhaṃ ṭhānam̐ āgacchati?

Do those who say this repeat what the Buddha has said, and not misrepresent him with an untruth? Is their explanation in line with the teaching? Are there any legitimate grounds for rebuke and criticism?

Anabbhācikkhitukāmā hi mayaṃ, bhante, bhagavantam̐”ti.

For we don’t want to misrepresent the Blessed One.”

“Ye te, gāmaṇi, evamāhaṃsu: ‘samaṇo gotamo māyaṃ jānātī’ti, vuttavādino ceva me, te na ca maṃ abhūtena abbhācikkhanti, dhammassa cānudhammaṃ byākaronti, na ca koci sahadhammiko vādānuvādo gārayhaṃ ṭhānaṃ āgacchatī”ti.

“Chief, those who say this repeat what I have said, and don’t misrepresent me with an untruth. Their explanation is in line with the teaching, and there are no legitimate grounds for rebuke and criticism.”

“Saccaṃyeva kira, bho, mayaṃ tesaṃ samaṇabrāhmaṇānaṃ na saddahāma:

“Sir, we didn’t believe that what those ascetics and brahmins said was really true.

‘samaṇo gotamo māyaṃ jānātī’ti, samaṇo khalu bho gotamo māyāvī”ti.

But it seems the ascetic Gotama is a magician!”

“Yo nu kho, gāmaṇi, evaṃ vadeti: ‘ahaṃ māyaṃ jānāmī’ti, so evaṃ vadeti: ‘ahaṃ māyāvī”ti.

“Chief, does someone who says ‘I know magic’ also say ‘I am a magician’?”

“Tatheva taṃ bhagavā hoti, tatheva taṃ sugata hotī”ti.

“Tena hi, gāmaṇi, taññevettha paṭipucchissāmi; yathā te khameyya, tathā taṃ byākareyyāsi—

“Well then, brahmin, I’ll ask you about this in return, and you can answer as you like.

Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, gāmaṇi,
What do you think, chief?

jānāsi tvaṃ koliyānaṃ lambacūḷake bhaṭe”ti?

Do you know the Koliyan officers with drooping headdresses?”

“Jānāmahaṃ, bhante, koliyānaṃ lambacūḷake bhaṭṭe”ti.

“I know them, sir.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, gāmaṇi, kimatthiyā koliyānaṃ lambacūḷakā bhaṭṭā”ti?

“And what’s their job?”

“Ye ca, bhante, koliyānaṃ corā te ca paṭisedhetuṃ, yāni ca koliyānaṃ dūteyyāni tāni ca vahātuṃ, etadatthiyā, bhante, koliyānaṃ lambacūḷakā bhaṭṭā”ti.

“To put a stop to bandits and to deliver messages for the Koliyans.”

“Taṃ kiṃ maññasi, gāmaṇi,

“What do you think, chief?

jānāsi tvaṃ koliyānaṃ lambacūḷake bhaṭṭe sīlavante vā te dussīle vā”ti?

Are the Koliyan officers with drooping headdresses moral or immoral?”

“Jānāmahaṃ, bhante, koliyānaṃ lambacūḷake bhaṭṭe dussīle pāpadhamme; ye ca loke dussilā pāpadhammā koliyānaṃ lambacūḷakā bhaṭṭā tesaṃ aññatarā”ti.

“I know that they’re immoral, of bad character, sir. They are among those in the world who are immoral and of bad character.”

“Yo nu kho, gāmaṇi, evaṃ vadeyya:

“Would it be right to say that

‘pāṭaliyo gāmaṇi jānāti koliyānaṃ lambacūḷake bhaṭṭe dussīle pāpadhamme, pāṭaliyopi gāmaṇi dussīlo pāpadhammo’ti, sammā nu kho so vadamāno vadeyyā”ti?

Pāṭaliya knows the Kolyian officers with drooping headdresses who are immoral, of bad character, so he too must be immoral and of bad character.”

“No hetam, bhante.

“No, sir.

Aññe, bhante, kolyānaṃ lambacūḷakā bhaṭā, aññohamasmi. Aññathādhamaṃ kolyānaṃ lambacūḷakā bhaṭā, aññathādhammohamasmi”ti.

I’m quite different from the Kolyian officers with drooping headdresses, we have quite different characters.”

“Tvañhi nāma, gāmaṇi, lacchasi: ‘pāṭaliyo gāmaṇi jānāti kolyānaṃ lambacūḷake bhaṭe dussīle pāpadhamme, na ca pāṭaliyo gāmaṇi dussīlo pāpadhammo’ti, kasmā tathāgato na lacchati: ‘tathāgato māyaṃ jānāti, na ca tathāgato māyāvī’ti?

“So if you can know those officers of bad character while you are not of bad character, why can’t the Realized One know magic, without being a magician?

I have a guest house,

Tattha atthi mañcakāni, atthi āsanāni, atthi udakamaṇiko, atthi telappadīpo.

where there are cots, seats, water pots, and oil lamps.

Tattha yo samaṇo vā brāhmaṇo vā vāsam upeti, tenāham yathāsatti yathābalaṃ samvibhajāmi.

Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhante, cattāro satthāro nānādiṭṭhikā nānākhantikā nānārucikā, tasmim āvasathāgāre vāsam upagacchum.

Once it so happened, sir, that four teachers of different views and opinions came to stay at my guest house.

Eko satthā evaṃvādī evaṃdiṭṭhi:

One teacher had this doctrine and view:

‘natthi dinnam, natthi yiṭṭham, natthi hutam, natthi sukatadukkaṭānam kammānam phalam vipāko. ‘There’s no meaning in giving, sacrifice, or offerings. There’s no fruit or result of good and bad deeds. There’s no afterlife. There are no duties to mother and father. No beings are reborn spontaneously. And there’s no ascetic or brahmin who is well attained and practiced, and who describes the afterlife after realizing it with their own insight.'

1. Khemāsutta With Khemā

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jetavane
anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattḥī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena khemā bhikkhunī kosalesu cārikaṃ caramānā antarā ca sāvatthiṃ antarā ca sāketam̐ toraṇavatthusmiṃ vāsaṃ upagatā hoti.

Now at that time the nun Khemā was wandering in the land of the Kosalans between Sāvattḥī and Sāketa when she took up residence in Toraṇavatthu.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo sāketā sāvatthiṃ gacchanto, antarā ca sāketam̐ antarā ca sāvatthiṃ toraṇavatthusmiṃ ekarattivāsaṃ upagacchi.

Then King Pasenadi was traveling from Sāketa to Sāvattḥī, and he too stayed in Toraṇavatthu for a single night.

Atha kho rājā pasenadi kosalo aññataram̐ purisaṃ āmantesi:
Then King Pasenadi addressed a man,

“ehi tvaṃ, ambho purisa, toraṇavatthusmiṃ tathārūpaṃ samaṇam̐ vā brāhmaṇam̐ vā jāna yamaṃ ajja payirupāseyyan”ti.

“Please, mister, check if there's a suitable ascetic or brahmin in Toraṇavatthu to whom I can pay homage.”

“Evaṃ, devā”ti kho so puriso rañño pasenadissa kosalassa paṭissutvā kevalakappaṃ toraṇavatthum āhiṇḍanto nāddasa tathārūpaṃ samaṇaṃ vā brāhmaṇaṃ vā yaṃ rājā pasenadi kosalo payirupāseyya.

“Yes, Your Majesty,” replied that man. He searched all over Toraṇavatthu, but he couldn’t see a suitable ascetic or brahmin for the king to pay homage to.

Addasā kho so puriso khemaṃ bhikkhuniṃ toraṇavatthusmiṃ vāsaṃ upagataṃ.

But he saw that the nun Khemā was staying there,

Disvāna yena rājā pasenadi kosalo tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamitvā rājānaṃ pasenadiṃ kosalaṃ etadavoca:

so he went to the king and said to him,

“Natthi kho, deva, toraṇavatthusmiṃ tathārūpo samaṇo vā brāhmaṇo vā yaṃ devo payirupāseyya.

“Your Majesty, there’s no ascetic or brahmin in Toraṇavatthu for the king to pay homage to.

Atthi ca kho, deva, khemā nāma bhikkhuni, tassa bhagavato sāvikaṃ arahato sammāsambuddhassa.

But there is the nun Khemā, who’s a disciple of the Blessed One, the perfected one, the fully awakened Buddha.

Tassā kho pana ayyāya evaṃ kalyāṇo kittisaddo abbhuggato:

She has a good reputation as being

‘Is there a path and a practice for completely understanding that suffering?’ You should answer them like this:

‘atthi kho, āvuso, maggo, atthi paṭipadā etassa dukkhassa pariññāyā’ti.

‘There is.’

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, maggo, katamā paṭipadā etassa dukkhassa pariññāyāti?

And what is that path?

Ayameva ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo, seyyathidaṃ—

It is simply this noble eightfold path, that is:

sammādiṭṭhi ...pe... sammāsamādhī.

Ayaṃ, bhikkhave, maggo, ayaṃ paṭipadā etassa dukkhassa pariññāyāti.

This is the path and the practice for completely understanding suffering.

Evaṃ puṭṭhā tumhe, bhikkhave, tesaṃ aññatitthiyānaṃ paribbājakānaṃ evaṃ byākareyyāthā”ti.

When questioned by wanderers who follow other paths, that’s how you should answer them.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosun.
“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:
The Buddha said this:

“Katamo ca, bhikkhave, ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo?”
“And what is the noble eightfold path?”

Seyyathidaṃ—sammādiṭṭhi ...pe... sammāsamādhī.
It is right view, right thought, right speech, right action, right livelihood, right effort, right mindfulness, and right immersion.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi?
And what is right view?

Yaṃ kho, bhikkhave, dukkhe ñāṇaṃ, dukkhasamudaye ñāṇaṃ, dukkhanirodhe ñāṇaṃ, dukkhanirodhagāminiyā paṭipadāya ñāṇaṃ—

Knowing about suffering, the origin of suffering, the cessation of suffering, and the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering.

ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, sammādiṭṭhi.

This is called right view.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, sammāsaṅkappo?

And what is right thought?

Yo kho, bhikkhave, nekkhammasaṅkappo, abyāpādasāṅkappo, avihimsāsaṅkappo—

It is the thought of renunciation, good will, and harmlessness.

ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, sammāsaṅkappo.

This is called right thought.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, sammāvācā?

And what is right speech?

Yā kho, bhikkhave, musāvādā veramaṇī, pisuṇāya vācāya veramaṇī, pharusāya vācāya veramaṇī, samphappalāpā veramaṇī—

Avoiding speech that's false, divisive, harsh, or nonsensical.

ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, sammāvācā.

This is called right speech.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, sammākammanto?

And what is right action?

Yā kho, bhikkhave, paṇātipātā veramaṇī, adinnādānā veramaṇī, abrahmacariyā veramaṇī—

Avoiding killing living creatures, stealing, and sexual activity.

ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, sammākammanto.

This is called right action.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, sammāājīvo?

And what is right livelihood?

Idha, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako micchāājīvaṃ pahāya sammāājīvena jīvitam kappeti—

It's when a noble disciple gives up wrong livelihood and earns a living by right livelihood.

ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, sammāājīvo.

This is called right livelihood.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, sammāvāyāmo?

And what is right effort?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu anuppanānam pāpakānam akusalānam dhammānam anuppādāya chandam janeti vāyamati vīriyam ārabhati cittaṃ paggaṇhāti padahati,

It's when a mendicant generates enthusiasm, tries, makes an effort, exerts the mind, and strives so that bad, unskillful qualities don't arise.

uppanānam pāpakānam akusalānam dhammānam pahānāya chandam janeti ...pe...

They generate enthusiasm, try, make an effort, exert the mind, and strive so that bad, unskillful qualities that have arisen are given up.

anuppanānam kusalānam dhammānam uppādāya chandam janeti ...pe...

They generate enthusiasm, try, make an effort, exert the mind, and strive so that skillful qualities that have not arisen do arise.

uppanānam kusalānam dhammānam ṭhitiyā asamosāya bhiyyobhāvāya vepullāya bhāvanāya pāripūriyā chandam janeti vāyamati vīriyam ārabhati cittaṃ paggaṇhāti padahati—

They generate enthusiasm, try, make an effort, exert the mind, and strive so that skillful qualities that have arisen remain, are not lost, but increase, mature, and are fulfilled by development.

ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, sammāvāyāmo.

This is called right effort.

Katamā ca, bhikkhave, sammāsati?

And what is right mindfulness?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu kāye kāyānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ;

It's when a mendicant meditates by observing an aspect of the body—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

vedanāsu vedanānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ;

They meditate observing an aspect of feelings—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

citte cittānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ;

They meditate observing an aspect of the mind—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

dhammesu dhammānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ—

They meditate observing an aspect of principles—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, sammāsati.

This is called right mindfulness.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, sammāsamādhi?

And what is right immersion?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

It's when a mendicant, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhattaṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyam̐ jhānam̐ upasampajja viharati.

As the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, they enter and remain in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca viharati sato ca sampajāno, sukhañca kāyena paṭisaṃvedeti, yaṃ taṃ ariyā ācikkhanti:
‘upekkhako satimā sukhavihārī’ti tatiyam̐ jhānam̐ upasampajja viharati.

And with the fading away of rapture, they enter and remain in the third absorption, where they meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, ‘Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.’

Sukhassa ca pahānā dukkhassa ca pahānā pubbeva somanassadomanassānam̐ atthaṅgamā adukkhamasukham̐ upekkhāsatipārisuddhim̐ catuttham̐ jhānam̐ upasampajja
viharati—

Giving up pleasure and pain, and ending former happiness and sadness, they enter and remain in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

ayam̐ vuccati, bhikkhave, sammāsamādhī”ti.

This is called right immersion.”

18. Paṭhamakukkuṭārāmasutta At the Chicken Monastery (1st)

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ āyasmā ca ānando āyasmā ca bhaddo pāṭaliputte viharanti kukkuṭārāme.

At one time the venerables Ānanda and Bhadda were staying at Pāṭaliputta, in the Chicken Monastery.

Atha kho āyasmā bhaddo sāyanhasamayaṃ paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmatā ānandena saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then in the late afternoon, Venerable Bhadda came out of retreat, went to Venerable Ānanda, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā bhaddo āyasmantaṃ ānantaṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to Ānanda:

“Abrahmacariyaṃ, abrahmacariyaṃ’ti, āvuso ānanda, vuccati.
“Reverend, they speak of this thing called ‘not the spiritual path’.

Katamaṃ nu kho, āvuso, abrahmacariyaṃ’ti?
What is not the spiritual path?”

“Sādhu sādhu, āvuso bhadda.
“Good, good, Reverend Bhadda!

Bhaddako kho te, āvuso bhadda, ummaṅgo, bhaddakaṃ paṭibhānaṃ, kalyāṇī paripucchā.

33. Viraddhasutta Missed Out

Sāvattthinidānaṃ.
At Sāvattthī.

“Yesaṃ kesañci, bhikkhave, ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo viraddho, viraddho tesaṃ ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo sammā dukkhakkhayagāmī.

“Mendicants, whoever has missed out on the noble eightfold path has missed out on the noble path to the complete ending of suffering.

Yesaṃ kesañci, bhikkhave, ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo āraddho, āraddho tesaṃ ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo sammā dukkhakkhayagāmī.

Whoever has undertaken the noble eightfold path has undertaken the noble path to the complete ending of suffering.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo?
And what is the noble eightfold path?

Seyyathidaṃ—sammādiṭṭhi ...pe... sammāsamādhī.

It is right view, right thought, right speech, right action, right livelihood, right effort, right mindfulness, and right immersion.

Yesaṃ kesañci, bhikkhave, ayaṃ ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo viraddho, viraddho tesaṃ ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo sammā dukkhakkhayagāmī.

Whoever has missed out on the noble eightfold path has missed out on the noble path to the complete ending of suffering.

34. Pāraṅgamasutta Going to the Far Shore

Sāvattthinidānaṃ.

At Sāvattthī.

“Aṭṭhime, bhikkhave, dhammā bhāvitā bahulīkatā apārā pāraṃ gamanāya saṃvattanti.

“Mendicants, when these eight things are developed and cultivated they lead to going from the near shore to the far shore.

Katame aṭṭha?

What eight?

Seyyathidaṃ—sammādiṭṭhi ...pe... sammāsamādhī.

They are right view, right thought, right speech, right action, right livelihood, right effort, right mindfulness, and right immersion.

Ime kho, bhikkhave, aṭṭha dhammā bhāvitā bahulīkatā apārā pāraṃ gamanāya saṃvattantī”ti.

When these eight things are developed and cultivated they lead to going from the near shore to the far shore.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Idaṃ vatvāna sugato athāparaṃ etadavoca satthā:

Then the Holy One, the Teacher, went on to say:

“Appakā te manussesu,

“Few are those among humans

ye janā pāragāmino;

who cross to the far shore.

Athāyaṃ itarā pajā,

The rest just run tīramevānudhāvati.

around on the near shore.

Ye ca kho sammadakkhāte,

When the teaching is well explained,

dhamme dhammānuvattino;

those who practice accordingly

Te janā pāramessanti, are the ones who will cross over maccudheyyaṃ suduttaraṃ.

Death's domain so hard to pass.

Kaṇhaṃ dhammaṃ vipphāya,

Rid of dark qualities,

sukkaṃ bhāvettha paṇḍito;

an astute person should develop the bright.

Okā anokamāgama,

Leaving home behind

viveke yattha dūramaṃ.

for the seclusion so hard to enjoy,

Tatrābhiratimiccheyya,

you should try to find delight there,

hitvā kāme akiñcano;

having left behind sensual pleasures.

Pariyodapeyya attānaṃ,

With no possessions, an astute person cittaklesehi paṇḍito.

should cleanse themselves of mental corruptions.

Yesaṃ sambodhiyaṅgesu,

And those whose minds are rightly developed sammā cittaṃ subhāvitaṃ;

in the awakening factors;

Ādānapaṭinissagge,

letting go of attachments,

anupādāya ye ratā;

they delight in not grasping.

Khīṇāsavā jutimanto,

With defilements ended, brilliant, te loke parinibbutā”ti.

they are extinguished in this world.”

Tathārūpānaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhūnaṃ dhammaṃ sutvā dvayena vūpakāseṇa vūpakaṭṭho viharati—kāyavūpakāseṇa ca cittavūpakāseṇa ca.

Because after hearing the teaching of such mendicants, a mendicant will live withdrawn in both body and mind,

So tathā vūpakaṭṭho viharanto taṃ dhammaṃ anussarati anuvitakketi.

as they recollect and think about that teaching.

Yasmiṃ samaye, bhikkhave, bhikkhu tathā vūpakaṭṭho viharanto taṃ dhammaṃ anussarati anuvitakketi, satisambojjhaṅgo tasmīṃ samaye bhikkhuno āraddho hoti;

satisambojjhaṅgo tasmīṃ samaye bhikkhuno bhāvanāpāripūriṃ gacchati.

and perfect it.

So tathā sato viharanto taṃ dhammaṃ paññāya pavicinati pavicarati parivīmaṃsamāpajjati.

As they live mindfully in this way they investigate, explore, and inquire into that teaching with wisdom.

Yasmiṃ samaye, bhikkhave, bhikkhu tathā sato viharanto taṃ dhammaṃ paññāya pavicinati pavicarati parivīmaṃsamāpajjati, dhammavicayasambojjhaṅgo tasmīṃ samaye bhikkhuno āraddho hoti;

At such a time, a mendicant has activated the awakening factor of investigation of principles;

dhammavicayasambojjhaṅgaṃ tasmīṃ samaye bhikkhu bhāveti;

they develop it

dhammavicayasambojjhaṅgo tasmim̐ samaye bhikkhuno bhāvanāpāripūrim̐ gacchati.

At such a time, a mendicant has activated the awakening factor of energy; they develop it and perfect it.

Āradhavīriyassa uppajjati pīti nirāmisā.

When they're energetic, spiritual rapture arises.

Yasmim̐ samaye, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno āradhavīriyassa uppajjati pīti nirāmisā, pītisambojjhaṅgo tasmim̐ samaye bhikkhuno āradhho hoti; pītisambojjhaṅgaṃ tasmim̐ samaye bhikkhu bhāveti; pītisambojjhaṅgo tasmim̐ samaye bhikkhuno bhāvanāpāripūrim̐ gacchati.

At such a time, a mendicant has activated the awakening factor of rapture; they develop it and perfect it.

Pītimanassa kāyopi passambhati, cittampi passambhati.

When the mind is full of rapture, the body and mind become tranquil.

Yasmim̐ samaye, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno pītimanassa kāyopi passambhati cittampi passambhati, passaddhisambojjhaṅgo tasmim̐ samaye bhikkhuno āradhho hoti; passaddhisambojjhaṅgaṃ tasmim̐ samaye bhikkhu bhāveti; passaddhisambojjhaṅgo tasmim̐ samaye bhikkhuno bhāvanāpāripūrim̐ gacchati.

At such a time, a mendicant has activated the awakening factor of tranquility; they develop it and perfect it.

Passaddhakāyassa sukhino cittaṃ samādhiyati.

When the body is tranquil and one feels bliss, the mind becomes immersed in samādhi.

Yasmim̐ samaye, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno passaddhakāyassa sukhino cittaṃ samādhiyati, samādhisambojjhaṅgo tasmim̐ samaye bhikkhuno āraddho hoti; samādhisambojjhaṅgaṃ tasmim̐ samaye bhikkhu bhāveti; samādhisambojjhaṅgo tasmim̐ samaye bhikkhuno bhāvanāpāripūrim̐ gacchati.

At such a time, a mendicant has activated the awakening factor of immersion; they develop it and perfect it.

So tathāsamāhitaṃ cittaṃ sādhukaṃ ajjupekkhitā hoti.

They closely watch over that mind immersed in samādhi.

Yasmim̐ samaye, bhikkhave, bhikkhu tathāsamāhitaṃ cittaṃ sādhukaṃ ajjupekkhitā hoti, upekkhāsambojjhaṅgo tasmim̐ samaye bhikkhuno āraddho hoti; upekkhāsambojjhaṅgaṃ tasmim̐ samaye bhikkhu bhāveti; upekkhāsambojjhaṅgo tasmim̐ samaye bhikkhuno bhāvanāpāripūrim̐ gacchati.

30. Udāyisutta With Udāyī

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā sumbhesu viharati setakaṃ nāma sumbhānaṃ nigamo.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Sumbhas, near the town of the Sumbhas called Sedaka.

Atha kho āyasmā udāyī yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami ...pe...
ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā udāyī bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

Then Venerable Udāyī went up to the Buddha ... and said to him:

“Acchariyaṃ, bhante, abbhutaṃ, bhante.

Yāva bahukatañca me, bhante, bhagavati pemañca gāravo ca hirī ca ottappañca.

How helpful my love and respect for the Buddha have been, and my sense of conscience and prudence.

Ahañhi, bhante, pubbe agārikabhūto samāno abahukato ahoṣiṃ dhammena abahukato saṅghena.

For when I was still a layman, I wasn’t helped much by the teaching or the Saṅgha.

So khvāhaṃ bhagavati pemañca gāravañca hiriñca ottappañca sampassamāno agāasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito.

But when I considered my love and respect for the Buddha, and my sense of conscience and prudence, I went forth from the lay life to homelessness.

Tassa me bhagavā dhammaṃ desesi:

The Buddha taught me the Dhamma:

‘iti rūpaṃ, iti rūpassa samudayo, iti rūpassa atthaṅgamo;
‘Such is form, such is the origin of form, such is the ending of form.

iti vedanā ...pe...
Such is feeling ...

iti saññā ...
Such is perception ...

iti saṅkhārā ...
Such are choices ...

iti viññāṇaṃ, iti viññāṇassa samudayo, iti viññāṇassa atthaṅgamo’ti.
Such is consciousness, such is the origin of consciousness, such is the ending of consciousness.’

So khvāhaṃ, bhante, suññāgāragato imesaṃ pañcupādānakkhandhānaṃ ukkujjāvakujaṃ samparivattento ‘idaṃ dukkhaṃ’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsiṃ, ‘ayaṃ dukkhasamudayo’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsiṃ, ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodho’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsiṃ, ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā’ti yathābhūtaṃ abbaññāsiṃ.
Then, while staying in an empty hut, I followed the churning of the five grasping aggregates. I truly understood: ‘This is suffering’ ... ‘This is the origin of suffering’ ... ‘This is the cessation of suffering’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering’.

Dhammo ca me, bhante, abhisamito, maggo ca me paṭiladdho;
I comprehended the teaching; I acquired the path.

yo me bhāvito bahulīkato tathā tathā viharantaṃ tathattāya upanessati yathāhaṃ:

Mendicants, sometimes a mendicant pays heed, pays attention, engages wholeheartedly, and lends an ear to the teaching. At such a time the five hindrances are absent, and the seven awakening factors are fully developed.

Katame pañca nīvaraṇā tasmim̐ samaye na honti?

What are the five hindrances that are absent?

Kāmacchandanivaraṇaṃ tasmim̐ samaye na hoti,

Sensual desire, ill will, dullness and drowsiness, restlessness and remorse, and doubt.

Imassa pañca nīvaraṇā tasmim̐ samaye na honti.

These are the five hindrances that are absent.

Katame satta bojjhaṅgā tasmim̐ samaye bhāvanāpāripūrim̐ gacchanti?

“Santi, bhikkhave, mahārukkhā aṇubijā mahākāyā rukkhānaṃ ajjhāruhā, yehi rukkhā ajjhārūḷhā obhaggavibhaggā vipatitā senti.

“Mendicants, there are large trees with tiny seeds and big trunks, which grow up and around other trees as parasites. The trees they engulf break apart, collapse, and fall.

Katame ca te, bhikkhave, mahārukkhā aṇubijā mahākāyā rukkhānaṃ ajjhāruhā, yehi rukkhā ajjhārūḷhā obhaggavibhaggā vipatitā senti?

And what are those large trees with tiny seeds and big trunks?

Assattho, nigrodho, pilakkho, udumbaro, kacchako, kapitthano

The bodhi, banyan, wavy leaf fig, cluster fig, Moreton Bay fig, and wood apple.

ime kho te, bhikkhave, mahārukkhā aṇubijā mahākāyā rukkhānaṃ ajjhāruhā, yehi rukkhā ajjhārūḷhā obhaggavibhaggā vipatitā senti.

These are the large trees with tiny seeds and big trunks, which grow up and around other trees as parasites. The trees they engulf break apart, collapse, and fall.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, idhekacco kulaputto yādisake kāme ohāya agāasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajito hoti, so tādisakehi kāmehi tato vā pāpiṭṭhatarehi obhaggavibhaggo vipatito seti.

In the same way, take a certain gentleman who has gone forth from the lay life to homelessness, abandoning sensual pleasures. But beset by sensual pleasures that are similar, or even worse, he breaks apart, collapses, and falls.

Pañcime, bhikkhave, āvaraṇā nīvaraṇā cetaso ajjhāruhā paññāya dubbalīkaraṇā.

There are these five obstacles and hindrances, parasites of the mind that weaken wisdom.

52. Pariyāyasutta Is There a Way?

Atha kho sambahulā bhikkhū pubbaṅhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā pattaḥcīvaramādāya sāvattihim piṇḍāya pavisimsu.

Then several mendicants robed up in the morning and, taking their bowls and robes, entered Sāvattihī for alms.

Atha kho tesam bhikkhūnaṃ etadahosi:

Then it occurred to him,

“atippago kho tāva sāvattiyam piṇḍāya caritum.

“It’s too early to wander for alms in Sāvattihī.

Yannūna mayaṃ yena aññatitthiyānaṃ paribbājakānaṃ ārāmo tenupasaṅkameyyāma”ti.

Why don’t we go to the monastery of the wanderers who follow other paths?”

Atha kho te bhikkhū yena aññatitthiyānaṃ paribbājakānaṃ ārāmo tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamitvā tehi aññatitthiyehi paribbājakehi saddhim sammodimsu.

Then they went to the monastery of the wanderers who follow other paths, and exchanged greetings with the wanderers there.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu. Ekamantaṃ nisinne kho te bhikkhū aññatitthiyā paribbājakā etadavocum:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, they sat down to one side. The wanderers said to them:

“Samaṇo, āvuso, gotamo sāvakānaṃ evaṃ dhammaṃ deseti:

“Reverends, the ascetic Gotama teaches his disciples like this:

‘etha tumhe, bhikkhave, pañca nīvaraṇe pahāya cetaso upakkilese paññāya dubbalīkaraṇe satta bojjhaṅge yathābhūtaṃ bhāvēthā’ti.

‘Mendicants, please give up the five hindrances—corruptions of the heart that weaken wisdom—and truly develop the seven awakening factors.’

Mayampi kho, āvuso, sāvakaṇaṃ evaṃ dhammaṃ desema:

We too teach our disciples:

‘etha tumhe, āvuso, pañca nīvaraṇe pahāya cetaso upakkilese paññāya dubbalīkaraṇe satta bojjhaṅge yathābhūtaṃ bhāvēthā’ti.

‘Reverends, please give up the five hindrances—corruptions of the heart that weaken wisdom—and truly develop the seven awakening factors.’

Idha no, āvuso, ko viseso, ko adhippayāso, kiṃ nānākaraṇaṃ samaṇassa vā gotamassa amhākaṃ vā, yadidaṃ—dhammadesanāya vā dhammadesanaṃ, anusāsaniyā vā anusāsaniṃ”ti?

What, then, is the difference between the ascetic Gotama’s teaching and instruction and ours?”

Atha kho te bhikkhū tesaṃ aññatitthiyānaṃ paribbājakānaṃ bhāsitaṃ neva abhinandiṃsu nappaṭikkosiṃsu;

Those mendicants neither approved nor dismissed that statement of the wanderers who follow other paths.

anabhinanditvā appaṭikkosivā uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ pakkamiṃsu:

They got up from their seat, thinking:

“bhagavato santike etassa bhāsitassa atthaṃ ājānissāma”ti.

“We will learn the meaning of this statement from the Buddha himself.”

Atha kho te bhikkhū sāvattim piṇḍāya caritvā pacchābhattam piṇḍapātaṭikkantā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantam nisīdimsu. Ekamantam nisinnā kho te bhikkhū bhagavantam etadavocum:

Then, after the meal, when they returned from alms-round, they went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened.

“Idha mayaṃ, bhante, pubbaṇhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya sāvattim piṇḍāya pavisimha.

Tesaṃ no, bhante, amhākaṃ etadahosi:

‘atippago kho tāva sāvattiyam piṇḍāya caritum, yannūna mayaṃ yena aññatitthiyānam paribbājakānam ārāmo tenupasaṅkameyyāma’ti.

Atha kho mayaṃ, bhante, yena aññatitthiyānam paribbājakānam ārāmo tenupasaṅkamimha; upasaṅkamtivā tehi aññatitthiyehi paribbājakehi saddhim sammodimha.

Sammodaniyam katham sāraṇiyam vītisāretvā ekamantam nisīdimha. Ekamantam nisinne kho amhe, bhante, aññatitthiyā paribbājakā etadavocum:

‘Samaṇo, āvuso, gotamo sāvakānam evaṃ dhammam deseti “etha tumhe, bhikkhave, pañca nīvaraṇe pahāya cetaso upakkilese paññāya dubbalīkaṇe satta bojjhaṅge yathābhūtam bhāvēthā”ti.

Mayampi kho, āvuso, sāvakānam evaṃ dhammam desema:

“etha tumhe, āvuso, pañca nīvaraṇe pahāya cetaso upakkilese paññāya dubbalīkaṇe satta bojjhaṅge yathābhūtam bhāvēthā”ti.

Idha no, āvuso, ko viseso, ko adhippayāso, kim nānākaraṇam samaṇassa vā gotamassa amhākaṃ vā, yadidaṃ—dhammadesanāya vā dhammadesanaṃ, anusāsanīyā vā anusāsanin'ti?

Atha kho mayāṃ, bhante, tesaṃ aññatitthiyānaṃ paribbājakānaṃ bhāsitaṃ neva abhinandimha nappaṭikkosimha, anabhinanditvā appaṭikkositvā uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ pakkamimha:

'bhagavato santike etassa bhāsitassa atthaṃ ājānissāma'”ti.

“Evaṃvādino, bhikkhave, aññatitthiyā paribbājakā evamassu vacanīyā:

“Mendicants, when wanderers who follow other paths say this, you should say to them:

'atthi panāvuso, pariyāyo, yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgama pañca nīvaraṇā dasa honti, satta bojjhaṅgā catuddasā'ti.

‘But reverends, is there a way in which the five hindrances become ten and the seven awakening factors become fourteen?’

Evaṃ puṭṭhā, bhikkhave, aññatitthiyā paribbājakā na ceva sampāyissanti, uttariṅca vighātaṃ āpajjissanti.

Questioned like this, the wanderers who follow other paths would be stumped, and, in addition, would get frustrated.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Yathā taṃ, bhikkhave, avisayasmim.

Because they're out of their element.

Nāhaṃ taṃ, bhikkhave, passāmi sadevake loke samārake tathāgatena vā tathāgatasāvakena vā ito vā pana sutvā.

I don't see anyone in this world—with its gods, Māras, and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, its gods and humans —who could provide a satisfying answer to these questions except for the Realized One or his disciple or someone who has heard it from them.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, pariyāyo, yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma pañca nīvaraṇā dasa honti?

And what is the way in which the five hindrances become ten?

Yadapi, bhikkhave, ajjhattaṃ kāmacchando tadapi nīvaraṇaṃ, yadapi bahiddhā kāmacchando tadapi nīvaraṇaṃ.

Sensual desire for what is internal is a hindrance; and sensual desire for what is external is also a hindrance.

‘Kāmacchandanivaraṇan’ti iti hidaṃ uddesaṃ gacchati.

Tadamināpetam pariyāyena dvayaṃ hoti.

That’s how what is concisely referred to as ‘the hindrance of sensual desire’ becomes twofold.

Yadapi, bhikkhave, ajjhattaṃ byāpādo tadapi nīvaraṇaṃ, yadapi bahiddhā byāpādo tadapi nīvaraṇaṃ.

Ill will for what is internal is a hindrance; and ill will for what is external is also a hindrance.

‘Byāpādanīvaraṇan’ti iti hidaṃ uddesaṃ gacchati.

Tadamināpetam pariyāyena dvayaṃ hoti.

That’s how what is concisely referred to as ‘the hindrance of ill will’ becomes twofold.

Yadapi, bhikkhave, thinaṃ tadapi nīvaraṇaṃ, yadapi middhaṃ tadapi nīvaraṇaṃ.

Dullness is a hindrance; and drowsiness is also a hindrance.

‘Thinamiddhanivaraṇan’ti iti hidaṃ uddesaṃ gacchati.

Tadamināpetam pariyāyena dvayaṃ hoti.

That’s how what is concisely referred to as ‘the hindrance of dullness and drowsiness’ becomes twofold.

Yadapi, bhikkhave, uddhaccaṃ tadapi nīvaraṇaṃ, yadapi kukkucçaṃ tadapi nīvaraṇaṃ.

Restlessness is a hindrance; and remorse is also a hindrance.

‘Uddhaccakukkuccanīvaraṇan’ti iti hidaṃ uddesaṃ gacchati.
Tadamināpetam̐ pariyāyena dvayaṃ hoti.

That’s how what is concisely referred to as ‘the hindrance of restlessness and remorse’ becomes twofold.

Yadapi, bhikkhave, ajjhataṃ dhammesu vicikicchā tadapi nīvaraṇaṃ, yadapi bahiddhā dhammesu vicikicchā tadapi nīvaraṇaṃ.

Doubt about internal things is a hindrance; and doubt about external things is also a hindrance.

‘Vicikicchānīvaraṇan’ti iti hidaṃ uddesaṃ gacchati.
Tadamināpetam̐ pariyāyena dvayaṃ hoti.

That’s how what is concisely referred to as ‘the hindrance of doubt’ becomes twofold.

Ayaṃ kho, bhikkhave, pariyāyo, yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma pañca nīvaraṇā dasa honti.

This is the way in which the five hindrances become ten.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, pariyāyo, yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma satta bojjhaṅgā catuddasa honti?

And what is the way in which the seven awakening factors become fourteen?

Yadapi, bhikkhave, ajjhataṃ dhammesu sati tadapi satisambojjhaṅgo, yadapi bahiddhā dhammesu sati tadapi satisambojjhaṅgo.

Mindfulness of internal things is the awakening factor of mindfulness; and mindfulness of external things is also the awakening factor of mindfulness.

‘Satisambojjhaṅgo’ti iti hidaṃ uddesaṃ gacchati.
Tadamināpetam̐ pariyāyena dvayaṃ hoti.

That’s how what is concisely referred to as ‘the awakening factor of mindfulness’ becomes twofold.

Yadapi, bhikkhave, ajjhattam̐ dhammesu paññāya pavicinati pavicarati parivīmaṃsamāpajjati tadapi dhammavicayasambojjhaṅgo, yadapi bahiddhā dhammesu paññāya pavicinati pavicarati parivīmaṃsamāpajjati tadapi dhammavicayasambojjhaṅgo.

Investigating, exploring, and inquiring into internal things with wisdom is the awakening factor of investigation of principles; and investigating, exploring, and inquiring into external things with wisdom is also the awakening factor of investigation of principles.

‘Dhammavicayasambojjhaṅgo’ti iti hidam̐ uddesam̐ gacchati. Tadamināpetam̐ pariyāyena dvayam̐ hoti.

That’s how what is concisely referred to as ‘the awakening factor of investigation of principles’ becomes twofold.

Yadapi, bhikkhave, kāyikaṃ vīriyam̐ tadapi vīriyasambojjhaṅgo, yadapi cetasikaṃ vīriyam̐ tadapi vīriyasambojjhaṅgo.

Physical energy is the awakening factor of energy; and mental energy is also the awakening factor of energy.

‘Vīriyasambojjhaṅgo’ti iti hidam̐ uddesam̐ gacchati. Tadamināpetam̐ pariyāyena dvayam̐ hoti.

That’s how what is concisely referred to as ‘the awakening factor of energy’ becomes twofold.

Yadapi, bhikkhave, savitakkasavicārā pīti tadapi pītisambojjhaṅgo, yadapi avitakkaavicārā pīti tadapi pītisambojjhaṅgo.

Rapture while placing the mind and keeping it connected is the awakening factor of rapture; and rapture without placing the mind and keeping it connected is also the awakening factor of rapture.

‘Pītisambojjhaṅgo’ti iti hidam̐ uddesam̐ gacchati. Tadamināpetam̐ pariyāyena dvayam̐ hoti.

In this way what is concisely referred to as ‘the awakening factor of rapture’ becomes twofold.

Yadapi, bhikkhave, kāyappassaddhi tadapi passaddhisambojjhaṅgo, yadapi cittappassaddhi tadapi passaddhisambojjhaṅgo.

Physical tranquility is the awakening factor of tranquility; and mental tranquility is also the awakening factor of tranquility.

‘Passaddhisambojjhaṅgo’ti iti hidam uddesaṃ gacchati.
Tadamināpetam pariyaṅyena dvayam hoti.

In this way what is concisely referred to as ‘the awakening factor of tranquility’ becomes twofold.

Yadapi, bhikkhave, savitakko savicāro samādhī tadapi samādhīsambojjhaṅgo, yadapi avitakkaavicāro samādhī tadapi samādhīsambojjhaṅgo.

Immersion while placing the mind and keeping it connected is the awakening factor of immersion; and immersion without placing the mind and keeping it connected is also the awakening factor of immersion.

‘Samādhīsambojjhaṅgo’ti iti hidam uddesaṃ gacchati.
Tadamināpetam pariyaṅyena dvayam hoti.

In this way what is concisely referred to as ‘the awakening factor of immersion’ becomes twofold.

Yadapi, bhikkhave, ajjhataṃ dhammesu upekkhā tadapi upekkhāsambojjhaṅgo, yadapi bahiddhā dhammesu upekkhā tadapi upekkhāsambojjhaṅgo.

Equanimity for internal things is the awakening factor of equanimity; and equanimity for external things is also the awakening factor of equanimity.

‘Upekkhāsambojjhaṅgo’ti iti hidam uddesaṃ gacchati.
Tadamināpetam pariyaṅyena dvayam hoti.

In this way what is concisely referred to as ‘the awakening factor of equanimity’ becomes twofold.

Ayaṃ kho, bhikkhave, pariyāyo, yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma satta bojjhaṅgā catuddasā”ti.

This is the way in which the seven awakening factors become fourteen.”

54. Mettāsahagatasutta Full of Love

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā kolyesu viharati haliddavasanaṃ nāma kolyānaṃ nigamo.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Koliyans, where they have a town called Haliddavasana.

Atha kho sambahulā bhikkhū pubbaṇhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya haliddavasanaṃ piṇḍāya pavisimsu.

Then several mendicants robed up in the morning and, taking their bowls and robes, entered Haliddavasana for alms.

Atha kho tesam̐ bhikkhūnaṃ etadahosi:

Then it occurred to him,

“atippago kho tāva haliddavasane piṇḍāya carituṃ.

“It’s too early to wander for alms in Haliddavasana.

Yannūna mayaṃ yena aññatitthiyānaṃ paribbājakānaṃ ārāmo tenupasaṅkameyyāma”ti.

Why don’t we go to the monastery of the wanderers who follow other paths?”

Atha kho te bhikkhū yena aññatitthiyānaṃ paribbājakānaṃ ārāmo tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā tehi aññatitthiyehi paribbājakehi saddhiṃ sammodimsu.

Then they went to the monastery of the wanderers who follow other paths, and exchanged greetings with the wanderers there.

Sammodaniyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇiyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu. Ekamantaṃ nisinne kho te bhikkhū aññatitthiyā paribbājakā etadavocum̐:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, they sat down to one side. The wanderers said to them:

“Samaṇo, āvuso, gotamo sāvakānaṃ evaṃ dhammaṃ deseti:

“Reverends, the ascetic Gotama teaches his disciples like this:

‘etha tumhe, bhikkhave, pañca nīvaraṇe pahāya cetaso upakkilese paññāya dubbalīkaraṇe mettāsahagatena cetasā ekaṃ disaṃ pharitvā viharatha, tathā dutiyaṃ, tathā tatiyaṃ, tathā catutthaṃ; iti uddhamadho tiriyaṃ sabbadhi sabbattatāya sabbāvantāṃ lokaṃ mettāsahagatena cetasā vipulena mahaggatena appamāṇena averena abyāpajjena pharitvā viharatha.

‘Come, mendicants, give up these five hindrances, corruptions of the heart that weaken wisdom, and meditate spreading a heart full of love to one direction, and to the second, and to the third, and to the fourth. In the same way above, below, across, everywhere, all around, spread a heart full of love to the whole world—abundant, expansive, limitless, free of enmity and ill will.

Karuṇāsahagatena cetasā ekaṃ disaṃ pharitvā viharatha, tathā dutiyaṃ, tathā tatiyaṃ, tathā catutthaṃ; iti uddhamadho tiriyaṃ sabbadhi sabbattatāya sabbāvantāṃ lokaṃ karuṇāsahagatena cetasā vipulena mahaggatena appamāṇena averena abyāpajjena pharitvā viharatha.

Muditāsahagatena cetasā ekaṃ disaṃ pharitvā viharatha, tathā dutiyaṃ, tathā tatiyaṃ, tathā catutthaṃ; iti uddhamadho tiriyaṃ sabbadhi sabbattatāya sabbāvantāṃ lokaṃ muditāsahagatena cetasā vipulena mahaggatena appamāṇena averena abyāpajjena pharitvā viharatha.

Meditate spreading a heart full of rejoicing to one direction, and to the second, and to the third, and to the fourth. In the same way above, below, across, everywhere, all around, spread a heart full of rejoicing to the whole world—abundant, expansive, limitless, free of enmity and ill will.

Upekkhāsaḥagatena cetasā ekaṃ disaṃ pharivā viharatha, tathā dutiyaṃ, tathā tatiyaṃ, tathā catutthaṃ; iti uddhamadho tiriyaṃ sabbadhi sabbattatāya sabbāvantaṃ lokaṃ upekkhāsaḥagatena cetasā vipulena mahaggatena appamaṇena averena abyāpajjena pharivā viharathā'ti.

In the same way above, below, across, everywhere, all around, they spread a heart full of equanimity to the whole world—abundant, expansive, limitless, free of enmity and ill will.'

Mayampi kho, āvuso, sāvakānaṃ evaṃ dhammaṃ desema:

Or else, going totally beyond the dimension of infinite space, aware that ‘consciousness is infinite’, they enter and remain in the dimension of infinite consciousness.

Viññānañcāyatanaparamāhaṃ, bhikkhave, muditācetovimuttiṃ vadāmi, idhapaññassa bhikkhuno uttarivimuttiṃ appaṭivijjhato.

The apex of the heart’s release by rejoicing is the dimension of infinite consciousness, I say, for a mendicant who has not penetrated to a higher freedom.

Kathaṃ bhāvitā ca, bhikkhave, upekkhācetovimutti, kiṅgatikā hoti, kiṃparamā, kiṃphalā, kiṃpariyosānā?

And how is the heart’s release by equanimity developed? What is its destination, apex, fruit, and end?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu upekkhāsahagataṃ satisambojjhaṅgaṃ bhāveti vivekanissitaṃ virāganissitaṃ nirodhanissitaṃ vossaggapariṇāmiṃ ...pe...

upekkhāsahagataṃ upekkhāsambojjhaṅgaṃ bhāveti vivekanissitaṃ virāganissitaṃ nirodhanissitaṃ vossaggapariṇāmiṃ.

It's when a mendicant develops the heart's release by equanimity together with the awakening factors of mindfulness, investigation of principles, energy, rapture, tranquility, immersion, and equanimity, which rely on seclusion, fading away, and cessation, and ripen as letting go.

So sace ākaṅkhati 'appaṭikūle paṭikūlasaññī vihareyyan'ti, paṭikūlasaññī tattha viharati.

If they wish: 'May I meditate perceiving the repulsive in the unrepulsive,' that's what they do.

Sace ākaṅkhati 'paṭikūle appaṭikūlasaññī vihareyyan'ti, appaṭikūlasaññī tattha viharati.

If they wish: 'May I meditate perceiving the unrepulsive in the repulsive,' that's what they do.

Sace ākaṅkhati 'appaṭikūle ca paṭikūle ca paṭikūlasaññī vihareyyan'ti, paṭikūlasaññī tattha viharati.

If they wish: 'May I meditate perceiving the repulsive in the unrepulsive and the repulsive,' that's what they do.

Sace ākaṅkhati 'paṭikūle ca appaṭikūle ca appaṭikūlasaññī vihareyyan'ti, appaṭikūlasaññī tattha viharati.

If they wish: 'May I meditate perceiving the unrepulsive in the repulsive and the unrepulsive,' that's what they do.

If they wish: 'May I meditate staying equanimous, mindful and aware, rejecting both the repulsive and the unrepulsive,' that's what they do.

Sabbaso vā pana viññāṇaṅcāyatanaṃ samatikkamma 'natthi kiñcī'ti ākiñcaññāyatanaṃ upasampajja viharati.

Or else, going totally beyond the dimension of infinite consciousness, aware that 'there is nothing at all', they enter and remain in the dimension of nothingness.

Ākiñcaññāyatanaparamāhaṃ, bhikkhave, upekkhācetovimuttiṃ vadāmi, idhapaññassa bhikkhuno uttarivimuttiṃ

55. Saṅgāravasutta With Saṅgārava

Sāvattthinidānaṃ.

At Sāvattthī.

Atha kho saṅgāravo brāhmaṇo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;

56. Abhayasutta A Place Without Fear

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā rājagahe viharati gijjhakūṭe pabbate.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, on the Vulture's Peak Mountain.

Then Prince Abhaya went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him:

“pūraṇo, bhante, kassapo evamāha:

“Sir, Pūraṇa Kassapa says this:

‘natthi hetu, natthi paccayo aññāṇāya adassanāya.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Vesālī, in Ambapālī's Wood.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:
There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,
“bhikkhavo”ti.
“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.
“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:
The Buddha said this:

“Ekāyanvāyaṃ, bhikkhave, maggo sattānaṃ visuddhiyā

“Mendicants, the four kinds of mindfulness meditation are the path to convergence. They are in order to purify sentient beings, to get past sorrow and crying, to make an end of pain and sadness, to end the cycle of suffering, and to realize extinguishment.

Katame cattāro?

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

“Tasmātiha tvaṃ, bhikkhu, ādimeva visodhehi kusalesu dhammesu.

“Well then, mendicant, you should purify the starting point of skillful qualities.

Idha tvaṃ, bhikkhu, ajjhataṃ vā kāye kāyānupassī viharāhi ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ;

bhikkhu, yā ratti vā divaso vā āgamissati vuddhiyeva

When you develop the four kinds of mindfulness meditation in these three ways, depending on and grounded on ethics, you can expect growth, not decline, in skillful qualities, whether by day or by night.”

Atha kho so bhikkhu bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā

And then that mendicant approved and agreed with what the Buddha said. He got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before leaving.

Atha kho so bhikkhu eko vūpakaṭṭho appamatto ātāpī pahitatto agārasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaraṃ—brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharati.

Then that mendicant, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā”ti abbhaññāsi.

He understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

Aññataro ca pana so bhikkhu arahataṃ ahoṣīti.

And that mendicant became one of the perfected.

‘Ko pana te, lāpa, gocaro sako pettiko visayo’ti?

‘So, quail, what is your own territory, the domain of your fathers?’

‘Yadidaṃ—naṅgalakaṭṭhakaṇaṃ leḍḍuṭṭhānaṃ’ti.

‘It’s a ploughed field covered with clods of earth.’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, sakuṇagghi sake bale apatthaddhā sake bale asaṃvadamānā lāpaṃ sakuṇaṃ pamuñci:

Confident in her own strength, the hawk was not daunted or intimidated. She released the quail, saying, ‘gaccha kho tvaṃ, lāpa, tatrapī me gantvā na mokkhasī’ti.

‘Go now, quail. But even there you won’t escape me!’

Atha kho, bhikkhave, lāpo sakuṇo naṅgalakaṭṭhakaṇaṃ leḍḍuṭṭhānaṃ gantvā mahantaṃ leḍḍuṃ abhiruhitvā

Then the quail went to a ploughed field covered with clods of earth.
He climbed up a big clod, and standing there, he said to the hawk:

‘ehi kho dāni me, sakuṇagghī, ehi kho dāni me, sakuṇagghī’ti.
‘Come get me, hawk! Come get me, hawk!’

Atha kho sā, bhikkhave, sakuṇagghī sake bale apatthaddhā

Confident in her own strength, the hawk was not daunted or intimidated. She folded her wings and suddenly swooped down on the quail.

Yadā kho, bhikkhave, aññāsi lāpo sakuṇo ‘bahuāgato kho

When the quail knew that the hawk was nearly there, he slipped under that clod.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, sakuṇagghī tattheva uraṃ paccatāḷesi.
But the hawk crashed chest-first right there.

“Atthi, bhikkhave, himavato pabbatarājassa duggā visamā desā, yattha neva makkaṭānaṃ cārī na manussānaṃ.

“Mendicants, in the Himalayas there are regions that are rugged and impassable. In some such regions, neither monkeys nor humans can go, Atthi, bhikkhave, himavato pabbatarājassa duggā visamā desā, yattha makkaṭānañhi kho cārī, na manussānaṃ.

while in others, monkeys can go but not humans.

Atthi, bhikkhave, himavato pabbatarājassa samā bhūmibhāgā ramaṇīyā, yattha makkaṭānañceva cārī manussānañca.

There are also level, pleasant places where both monkeys and humans can go.

Tatra, bhikkhave, luddā makkaṭavīthīsu lepaṃ oḍḍenti makkaṭānaṃ bādhanāya.

There hunters lay snares of tar on the monkey trails to catch the monkeys.

Tatra, bhikkhave, ye te makkaṭā abārajātikā alolajātikā, te taṃ lepaṃ disvā ārakā parivajjanti.

The monkeys who are not foolhardy and reckless see the tar and avoid it from afar.

Yo pana so hoti makkaṭo bārajātikō lolajātikō, so taṃ lepaṃ upasaṅkamtivā hatthena gaṇhāti.

But a foolish and reckless monkey goes up to the tar and grabs it with a hand.

So tattha bajjhati.

Thinking to free his hand, he grabs it with his other hand.

Thinking to free both hands, he grabs it with a foot.

So tattha bajjhati.

He gets stuck there.

‘Ubho hatthe moccassāmi pādañcā’ti dutiyena pādena gaṇhāti.

Thinking to free both hands and foot, he grabs it with his other foot.

Evañhi so, bhikkhave, makkaṭṭo pañcoḍḍito thunaṃ seti anayaṃ āpanno byasanaṃ āpanno yathākāmakaraṇīyo luddassa.

And so the monkey, trapped at five points, just lies there screeching. He’d meet with tragedy and disaster, and the hunter can do what he wants with him.

Tamaṃ, bhikkhave, luddo vijjhitvā tasmimyeva kaṭṭhakataṅgāre avassajjetvā yena kāmaṃ pakkamati.

9. Gilānasutta Sick

Evaṃ me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā vesāliyaṃ viharati veḷuvagāmake.
At one time the Buddha was staying near Vesālī, at the little village of Beluva.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:
There the Buddha addressed the mendicants:

“etha tumhe, bhikkhave, samantā vesāliyā yathāmittaṃ yathāsandiṭṭhaṃ yathāsambhattaṃ vassaṃ upetha.
“Mendicants, please enter the rainy season residence with whatever friends or acquaintances you have around Vesālī.

Idhevāhaṃ veḷuvagāmake vassaṃ upagacchāmī”ti.
I'll commence the rainy season residence right here in the little village of Beluva.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paṭissutvā samantā vesāliyā yathāmittaṃ yathāsandiṭṭhaṃ yathāsambhattaṃ vassaṃ upagacchuṃ.

“Yes, sir,” those mendicants replied. They did as the Buddha said, Bhagavā pana tattheva veḷuvagāmake vassaṃ upagacchi.

while the Buddha commenced the rainy season residence right there in the little village of Beluva.

Atha kho bhagavato vassūpagatassa kharo ābādho uppajji, bāḷhā vedanā vattanti māraṇantikā.

After the Buddha had commenced the rainy season residence, he fell severely ill, struck by dreadful pains, close to death.

Tatra sudam̃ bhagavā sato sampajāno adhivāsesi avihaññamāno.

But he endured with mindfulness and situational awareness, without worrying.

Atha kho bhagavato etadahosi:

Then it occurred to the Buddha:

“na kho me tam̃ patirūpaṃ, yohaṃ anāmantetvā upaṭṭhāke anapaloketvā bhikkhusaṅghaṃ parinibbāyeyaṃ.

“It would not be appropriate for me to become fully extinguished before informing my attendants and taking leave of the mendicant Saṅgha.

Yannūnāhaṃ imaṃ ābādhaṃ vīriyena paṭipañāmetvā jīvitasāṅkhāraṃ adhiṭṭhāya vihareyyan”ti.

Why don't I forcefully suppress this illness, stabilize the life force, and live on?”

Atha kho bhagavā tam̃ ābādhaṃ vīriyena paṭipañāmetvā jīvitasāṅkhāraṃ adhiṭṭhāya vihāsi.

So that is what he did.

Atha kho bhagavato so ābādho paṭippassambhi.

Then the Buddha's illness died down.

Atha kho bhagavā gilānā vuṭṭhito aciravuṭṭhito gelaññā vihārā nikkhamitvā vihārapacchāyāyaṃ paññatte āsane nisīdi.

Soon after the Buddha had recovered from that sickness, he left his dwelling and sat in the shade of the porch on the seat spread out.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.
Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā ānando bhagavantaṃ
etadavoca:

Then Venerable Ānanda went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him:

“diṭṭho me, bhante, bhagavato phāsu;

“Sir, it’s fantastic that the Buddha is comfortable, diṭṭhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato khamanīyaṃ;

that he’s well,

diṭṭhaṃ, bhante, bhagavato yāpanīyaṃ.

and that he’s alright.

Api ca me, bhante, madhurakajāto viya kāyo, disāpi me na pakkhāyanti, dhammāpi maṃ nappaṭibhanti bhagavato gelaññaena.

Because when the Buddha was sick, my body felt like it was drugged. I was disorientated, and the teachings didn’t spring to mind.

Api ca me, bhante, ahosi kācideva assāsamattā:

Still, at least I was consoled by the thought that ‘na tāva bhagavā parinibbāyissati, na yāva bhagavā bhikkhusaṅghaṃ ārabha kiñcideva udāharatī’”ti.

the Buddha won’t become fully extinguished without making some statement regarding the Saṅgha of mendicants.”

“Kiṃ pana dāni, ānanda, bhikkhusaṅgho mayi paccāsīsati?

“But what could the mendicant Saṅgha expect from me now, Ānanda?

Desito, ānanda, mayā dhammo anantaraṃ abāhiraṃ karitvā.

I’ve taught the Dhamma without making any distinction between secret and public teachings.

Natthānanda, tathāgatassa dhammesu ācariyamuṭṭhi.

The Realized One doesn’t have the closed fist of a teacher when it comes to the teachings.

Yassa nūna, ānanda, evamassa:

If there's anyone who thinks:

‘ahaṃ bhikkhusaṅghaṃ pariharissāmī’ti vā, ‘mamuddesiko bhikkhusaṅgho’ti vā, so nūna, ānanda, bhikkhusaṅghaṃ ārabha kiñcideva udāhareyya.

‘I’ll take charge of the Saṅgha of mendicants,’ or ‘the Saṅgha of mendicants is meant for me,’ let them make a statement regarding the Saṅgha.

Tathāgatassa kho, ānanda, na evaṃ hoti:

But the Realized One doesn’t think like this,

‘ahaṃ bhikkhusaṅghaṃ pariharissāmī’ti vā, ‘mamuddesiko bhikkhusaṅgho’ti vā.

Sa kiṃ, ānanda, tathāgato bhikkhusaṅghaṃ ārabha kiñcideva udāharissati.

so why should he make some statement regarding the Saṅgha?

Etarahi kho panāhaṃ, ānanda, jiṇṇo vuddho mahallako addhagato vayoanuppatto.

I’m now old, elderly and senior. I’m advanced in years and have reached the final stage of life.

Āsītiko me vayo vattati.

I’m currently eighty years old.

Seyyathāpi, ānanda, jajjarasakaṭaṃ veḷamissakena yāpeti;

Just as a decrepit cart keeps going by relying on straps, evameva kho, ānanda, veḷamissakena maññe tathāgatassa kāyo yāpeti.

in the same way, the Realized One’s body keeps going by relying on straps, or so you’d think.

Yasmiṃ, ānanda, samaye tathāgato sabbanimittānaṃ amanasikārā ekaccānaṃ vedanānaṃ nirodhā animittaṃ cetosamādhiraṃ upasampajja viharati, phāsutaro, ānanda, tasmiraṃ samaye tathāgatassa kāyo hoti.

Sometimes the Realized One, not focusing on any signs, and with the cessation of certain feelings, enters and remains in the signless immersion of the heart. Only then does the Realized One's body become more comfortable.

Tasmātihānanda, attadīpā viharatha attasaraṇā anaññasaraṇā, dhammadīpā dhammasaraṇā anaññasaraṇā.

So Ānanda, be your own island, your own refuge, with no other refuge. Let the teaching be your island and your refuge, with no other refuge.

Kathañcānanda, bhikkhu attadīpo viharati attasaraṇo anaññasaraṇo, dhammadīpo dhammasaraṇo anaññasaraṇo?

And how does a mendicant do this?

Idhānanda, bhikkhu kāye kāyānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ;

It's when a mendicant meditates by observing an aspect of the body—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

Evaṃ kho, ānanda, bhikkhu attadīpo viharati attasaraṇo anaññasaraṇo, dhammadīpo dhammasaraṇo anaññasaraṇo.

That's how a mendicant is their own island, their own refuge, with no other refuge. That's how the teaching is their island and their refuge, with no other refuge.

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā vajjīsu viharati ukkacelāyaṃ gaṅgāya nadiyā tīre mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhiṃ aciraparinibbutesu sāriputtamoggallānesu.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Vajjīs near Ukkacelā on the bank of the Ganges river, together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants. It was not long after Sāriputta and Moggallāna had become fully extinguished.

Tena kho pana samayena bhagavā bhikkhusaṅghaparivuto ajjhokāse nisinno hoti.

Now, at that time the Buddha was sitting in the open, surrounded by the Saṅgha of monks.

Atha kho bhagavā tuṅhībhūtaṃ bhikkhusaṅghaṃ anuviloketvā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha looked around the Saṅgha of monks, who were silent. He addressed them:

“api myāyaṃ, bhikkhave, parisā suññā viya khāyati parinibbutesu sāriputtamoggallānesu.

“Mendicants, this assembly seems empty to me now that Sāriputta and Moggallāna have become fully extinguished.

Asuññā me, bhikkhave, parisā hoti, anapekkhā tassaṃ disāyaṃ hoti, yassaṃ disāyaṃ sāriputtamoggallānā viharanti.

When Sāriputta and Moggallāna were alive, my assembly was never empty; I had no concern for any region where they stayed.

Ye hi te, bhikkhave, ahesuṃ atītamaddhānaṃ arahanto sammāsambuddhā, tesampi bhagavantānaṃ etapparamaṃyeva sāvakayugaṃ ahosi—

18. Brahmasutta With Brahmā

Ekam samayaṃ bhagavā uruvelāyaṃ viharati najjā nerañjarāya tīre ajapālanigrodhe paṭhamābhisambuddho.

At one time, when he was first awakened, the Buddha was staying near Uruvelā at the goatherd's banyan tree on the bank of the Nerañjarā River.

Atha kho bhagavato rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa evaṃ cetaso parivitakko udapādi:

Then as he was in private retreat this thought came to his mind,

Then Brahmā Sahampati knew what the Buddha was thinking. As easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, he vanished from the Brahmā realm and reappeared in front of the Buddha.

Atha kho brahmā sahampati ekaṃsaṃ uttarāsaṅgaṃ karitvā

20. Janapadakalyāṇīsutta The Finest Lady in the Land

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sumbhesu viharati sedakam nāma sumbhānam nigamo.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Sumbhas, near the town of the Sumbhas called Sedaka.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants,

“bhikkhavo”ti.

“Mendicants!”

“Bhadante”ti te bhikkhū bhagavato paccassosum.

“Venerable sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, ‘janapadakalyāṇī, janapadakalyāṇī’ti kho, bhikkhave, mahājanakāyo sannipateyya.

“Mendicants, suppose that on hearing, ‘The finest lady in the land! The finest lady in the land!’ a large crowd would gather.

‘Sā kho panassa janapadakalyāṇī paramapāsāvinī nacce, paramapāsāvinī gīte.

And the finest lady in the land would dance and sing in a most thrilling way.

Janapadakalyāṇī naccati gāyatī'ti kho, bhikkhave, bhiyyoso mattāya mahājanakāyo sannipateyya.

On hearing, 'The finest lady in the land is dancing and singing! The finest lady in the land is dancing and singing!' an even larger crowd would gather.

Atha puriso āgaccheyya jīvitukāmo amaritukāmo sukhakāmo dukkhappaṭikūlo.

Then a person would come along who wants to live and doesn't want to die, who wants to be happy and recoils from pain.

Tamenam evam vadeyya:

They'd say to him,

'ayam te, ambho purisa, samatittiko telapatto antarena ca mahāsamajjam antarena ca janapadakalyāṇiyā pariharitabbo.

'Mister, this is a bowl full to the brim with oil. You must carry it in between this large crowd and the finest lady in the land.

Puriso ca te ukkhittāsiko piṭṭhito piṭṭhito anubandhissati.

And a man with a drawn sword will follow behind you.

Yattheva nam thokampi chaḍḍessati tattheva te siro pāṭessatī'ti.

Wherever you spill even a drop, he'll chop off your head right there.'

Tam kim maññatha, bhikkhave,

What do you think, mendicants?

api nu so puriso amum telapattam amanasikarivā bahiddhā pamādam āhareyyā'ti?

Would that person lose focus on that bowl, and negligently get distracted outside?"

"No hetam, bhante".

"No, sir."

"Upamā kho myāyam, bhikkhave, katā atthassa viññāpanāya.

“I’ve made up this simile to make a point.

Ayaṃ cevettha attho—

And this is what it means.

samatittiko telapattoti kho, bhikkhave, kāyagatāya etaṃ satiyā adhivacaṇaṃ.

‘A bowl of oil filled to the brim’ is a term for mindfulness of the body.

Tasmātiha, bhikkhave, evaṃ sikkhitabbaṃ:

So you should train like this:

‘kāyagatā sati no bhāvitā bhavissati bahulikatā yānikatā vatthukatā anuṭṭhitā paricitā susamāraddhā’ti.

‘We will develop mindfulness of the body. We’ll cultivate it, make it our vehicle and our basis, keep it up, consolidate it, and properly implement it.’

Evañhi kho, bhikkhave, sikkhitabbaṃ”ti.

That’s how you should train.”

29. Sirivaḍḍhasutta With Sirivaḍḍha

Ekam̐ samayaṃ āyasmā ānando rājagahe viharati veḷuvane
kalandakanivāpe.

At one time Venerable Ānanda was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tena kho pana samayena sirivaḍḍho gahapati ābādhiko hoti dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.

Now at that time the householder Sirivaḍḍha was sick, suffering, gravely ill.

Atha kho sirivaḍḍho gahapati aññataram̐ purisaṃ āmantesi:
Then he addressed a man:

“ehi tvaṃ, ambho purisa, yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkama; upasaṅkamtivā mama vacanena āyasmato ānandassa pāde sirasā vanda:

“Please, mister, go to Venerable Ānanda, and in my name bow with your head to his feet. Say to him:

‘sirivaḍḍho, bhante, gahapati ābādhiko dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.
‘Sir, the householder Sirivaḍḍha is sick, suffering, gravely ill.

So āyasmato ānandassa pāde sirasā vandatī’ti.
He bows with his head to your feet.’

Evañca vadehi:
And then say:

‘sādhu kira, bhante, āyasmā ānando yena sirivaḍḍhassa gahapatissa nivesanam̐ tenupasaṅkamatu anukampaṃ

‘Sir, please visit him at his home out of compassion.’”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho so puriso sirivaḍḍhassa gahapatissa paṭissutvā yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho so puriso āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ etadavoca:

“Yes, sir,” that man replied. He did as Sirivaḍḍha asked.

“sirivaḍḍho, bhante, gahapati ābādhiko dukkhito bāḷhagilāno, so āyasmato ānandassa pāde sirasā vandati.

Evañca vadeti:

‘sādhu kira, bhante, āyasmā ānando yena sirivaḍḍhassa gahapatissa nivesanaṃ tenupasaṅkamatu anukampaṃ upādāyā’”ti.

Adhivāsesi kho āyasmā ānando tuṅhībhāvena.

Ānanda consented in silence.

Then Venerable Ānanda robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, went to the home of the householder Sirivaḍḍha, sat down on the seat spread out, and said to him:

“kacci te, gahapati, khamanīyaṃ kacci yāpanīyaṃ, kacci dukkhā vedanā paṭikkamanti, no abhikkamanti; paṭikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no abhikkamo”ti?

43. Maggasutta The Path

Sāvattihinidānaṃ.
At Sāvattihī.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:
There the Buddha addressed the mendicants:

“ekamidāhaṃ, bhikkhave, samayaṃ uruvelāyaṃ viharāmi najjā nerañjarāya tīre ajapālanigrodhe paṭhamābhisambuddho.

“Mendicants, at one time, when I was first awakened, I was staying near Uruvelā at the goatherd’s banyan tree on the bank of the Nerañjarā River.

Tassa mayhaṃ, bhikkhave, rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa evaṃ cetaso parivitaṅko udapādi:

As I was in private retreat this thought came to mind:

‘ekāyanvāyaṃ maggo sattānaṃ visuddhiyā sokaparidevānaṃ samatikkamāya dukkhadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamāya ñāyassa adhigamāya nibbānassa sacchikiriyāya, yadidaṃ—cattāro satipaṭṭhānā.

‘The four kinds of mindfulness meditation are the path to convergence. They are in order to purify sentient beings, to get past sorrow and crying, to make an end of pain and sadness, to end the cycle of suffering, and to realize extinguishment.’

Katame cattāro?
What four?

Kāye vā bhikkhu kāyānupassī vihareyya ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ;

A mendicant would meditate observing an aspect of the body—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

vedanāsu vā bhikkhu vedanānupassī vihareyya ...pe...

Or they'd meditate observing an aspect of feelings ...

or mind ...

dhammesu vā bhikkhu dhammānupassī vihareyya ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ.

or principles—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

Ekāyanvāyaṃ maggo sattānaṃ visuddhiyā sokaparidevānaṃ samatikkamāya dukkhadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamāya ñāyassa adhigamāya nibbānassa sacchikiriyāya, yadidaṃ—cattāro satipaṭṭhānā'ti.

The four kinds of mindfulness meditation are the path to convergence. They are in order to purify sentient beings, to get past sorrow and crying, to make an end of pain and sadness, to end the cycle of suffering, and to realize extinguishment.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, brahmā sahampati mama cetasā cetoparivitakkamaññāya—seyyathāpi nāma balavā puriso samiñjitaṃ vā bāhaṃ pasāreyya, pasāritaṃ vā bāhaṃ samiñjeyya; evameva—brahmaloke antarahito mama purato pāturahosi.

And then Brahmā Sahampati, knowing what I was thinking, as easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, vanished from the Brahmā realm and reappeared in front of me.

Atha kho, bhikkhave, brahmā sahampati ekaṃsaṃ uttarāsaṅgaṃ karitvā yenāhaṃ tenañjaliṃ paṇāmetvā maṃ etadavoca:

He arranged his robe over one shoulder, knelt on his right knee, raised his joined palms toward the Buddha, and said:

‘evametaṃ, bhagavā, evametaṃ, sugata.

‘That’s so true, Blessed One! That’s so true, Holy One!

Ekāyanvāyaṃ, bhante, maggo sattānaṃ visuddhiyā sokaparidevānaṃ samatikkamāya dukkhadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamāya ñāyassa adhigamāya nibbānassa sacchikiriyāya, yadidaṃ—cattāro satipaṭṭhānā.

Sir, the four kinds of mindfulness meditation are the path to convergence. They are in order to purify sentient beings, to get past sorrow and crying, to make an end of pain and sadness, to end the cycle of suffering, and to realize extinguishment.

Katame cattāro?

Idamavoca, bhikkhave, brahmā sahampati.

Then a mendicant went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him:

Yato kho tvaṃ, bhikkhu, pātimokkhasaṃvarasaṃvuto

Atha kho so bhikkhu bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā pakkāmi.

And then that mendicant approved and agreed with what the Buddha said. He got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before leaving.

Atha kho so bhikkhu eko vūpakaṭṭho appamatto ātāpī pahitatto viharanto nacirasseva—yassatthāya kulaputtā sammadeva agāasmā anagāriyaṃ pabbajanti, tadanuttaraṃ— brahmacariyapariyosānaṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayāṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja viharati.

Then that mendicant, living alone, withdrawn, diligent, keen, and resolute, soon realized the supreme end of the spiritual path in this very life. He lived having achieved with his own insight the goal for which gentlemen rightly go forth from the lay life to homelessness.

“Khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā”ti abbhaññāsi.

He understood: “Rebirth is ended; the spiritual journey has been completed; what had to be done has been done; there is no return to any state of existence.”

As the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, they enter and remain in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca viharati sato ca sampajāno sukhañca kāyena paṭisaṃvedeti yaṃ taṃ ariyā ācikkhanti ‘upekkhako satimā sukhavihārī’ti tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

And with the fading away of rapture, they enter and remain in the third absorption, where they meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, ‘Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.’

Sukhassa ca pahānā dukkhassa ca pahānā pubbeva somanassadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamā adukkhamasukhaṃ upekkhāsatipārisuddhiṃ catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati—

Giving up pleasure and pain, and ending former happiness and sadness, they enter and remain in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

40. Uppaṭipāṭikasutta Irregular Order

“Pañcimāni, bhikkhave, indriyāni.

“Mendicants, there are these five faculties.

Katamāni pañca?

What five?

Dukkhindriyaṃ, domanassindriyaṃ, sukhindriyaṃ, somanassindriyaṃ, upekkhindriyaṃ.

The faculties of pain, sadness, pleasure, happiness, and equanimity.

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa vihārato uppajjati dukkhindriyaṃ.

While a mendicant is meditating—diligent, keen, and resolute—the faculty of pain arises.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand:

‘uppannaṃ kho me idaṃ dukkhindriyaṃ, tañca kho sanimittaṃ sanidānaṃ sasaṅkhāraṃ sappaccayaṃ.

‘The faculty of pain has arisen in me. And that has a foundation, a source, a condition, and a reason.

Tañca animittaṃ anidānaṃ asaṅkhāraṃ appaccayaṃ dukkhindriyaṃ uppajjissatī’ti—netam ṭhānaṃ vijjati.

It’s not possible for the faculty of pain to arise without a foundation, a source, a condition, or a reason.’

So dukkhindriyañca pajānāti, dukkhindriyasamudayañca pajānāti, dukkhindriyanirodhañca pajānāti, yattha cuppannaṃ dukkhindriyaṃ aparisesaṃ nirujjhati tañca pajānāti.

They understand the faculty of pain, its origin, its cessation, and where that faculty of pain that's arisen ceases without anything left over.

Kattha cuppannaṃ dukkhindriyaṃ aparisesaṃ nirujjhati?

And where does that faculty of pain that's arisen cease without anything left over?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati,

It's when a mendicant, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

ettha cuppannaṃ dukkhindriyaṃ aparisesaṃ nirujjhati.

That's where the faculty of pain that's arisen ceases without anything left over.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, 'bhikkhu aññāsi dukkhindriyassa nirodhaṃ, tadatthāya cittaṃ upasaṃharati'.

They're called a mendicant who understands the cessation of the faculty of pain, and who applies their mind to that end.

Idha pana, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato uppajjati domanassindriyaṃ.

While a mendicant is meditating—diligent, keen, and resolute—the faculty of sadness arises.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand:

'uppannaṃ kho me idaṃ domanassindriyaṃ, tañca kho sanimittaṃ sanidānaṃ sasaṅkhāraṃ sappaccayaṃ.

'The faculty of sadness has arisen in me. And that has a foundation, a source, a condition, and a reason.

tañca animittam anidānam asaṅkhāram appaccayam domanassindriyam uppajjissatī'ti—netam ṭhānam vijjati.

It's not possible for the faculty of sadness to arise without a foundation, a source, a condition, or a reason.'

So domanassindriyañca pajānāti, domanassindriyasamudayañca pajānāti, domanassindriyanirodhañca pajānāti, yattha cuppannam domanassindriyam aparisesam nirujjhati tañca pajānāti.

They understand the faculty of sadness, its origin, its cessation, and where that faculty of sadness that's arisen ceases without anything left over.

Kattha cuppannam domanassindriyam aparisesam nirujjhati?
And where does that faculty of sadness that's arisen cease without anything left over?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu vitakkavicārānam vūpasamā ajjhataṃ sampasādanam cetaso ekodibhāvam avitakkaṃ avicāram
samādhijam pītisukham dutiyam jhānam upasampajja viharati,
It's when, as the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, a mendicant enters and remains in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

ettha cuppannam domanassindriyam aparisesam nirujjhati.
That's where the faculty of sadness that's arisen ceases without anything left over.

Ayam vuccati, bhikkhave, 'bhikkhu aññāsi domanassindriyassa nirodham, tadatthāya cittaṃ upasamharati'.

They're called a mendicant who understands the cessation of the faculty of sadness, and who applies their mind to that end.

Idha pana, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato uppajjati sukhindriyam.

While a mendicant is meditating—diligent, keen, and resolute—the faculty of pleasure arises.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand:

‘uppannaṃ kho me idaṃ sukhindriyaṃ, tañca kho sanimittaṃ sanidānaṃ sasaṅkhāraṃ sappaccayaṃ.

‘The faculty of pleasure has arisen in me. And that has a foundation, a source, a condition, and a reason.

tañca animittaṃ anidānaṃ asaṅkhāraṃ appaccayaṃ sukhindriyaṃ uppajjissatī’ti—netāṃ ṭhānaṃ vijjati.

it’s not possible for the faculty of pleasure to arise without a foundation, a source, a condition, or a reason.’

So sukhindriyañca pajānāti, sukhindriyasamudayañca pajānāti, sukhindriyanirodhañca pajānāti, yattha cuppannaṃ sukhindriyaṃ aparisesaṃ nirujjhati tañca pajānāti.

They understand the faculty of pleasure, its origin, its cessation, and where that faculty of pleasure that’s arisen ceases without anything left over.

Kattha cuppannaṃ sukhindriyaṃ aparisesaṃ nirujjhati?

And where does that faculty of pleasure that’s arisen cease without anything left over?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca viharati sato ca sampajāno sukhañca kāyena paṭisaṃvedeti yaṃ taṃ ariyā ācikkhanti ‘upekkhako satimā sukhavihārī’ti tatiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati,

It’s when, with the fading away of rapture, a mendicant enters and remains in the third absorption, where they meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, ‘Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.’

ettha cuppannaṃ sukhindriyaṃ aparisesaṃ nirujjhati.

That’s where the faculty of pleasure that’s arisen ceases without anything left over.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, ‘bhikkhu aññāsi sukhindriyassa nirodhaṃ, tadatthāya cittaṃ upasaṃharati’.

They’re called a mendicant who understands the cessation of the faculty of pleasure, and who applies their mind to that end.

Idha pana, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato uppajjati somanassindriyaṃ.

While a mendicant is meditating—diligent, keen, and resolute—the faculty of happiness arises.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand:

‘uppannaṃ kho me idaṃ somanassindriyaṃ, tañca kho sanimittaṃ sanidānaṃ asaṅkhāraṃ sappaccayaṃ.

‘The faculty of happiness has arisen in me. And that has a foundation, a source, a condition, and a reason.

tañca animittaṃ anidānaṃ asaṅkhāraṃ appaccayaṃ somanassindriyaṃ uppajjissatī’ti—netāṃ tñānaṃ vijjati.

it’s not possible for the faculty of happiness to arise without a foundation, a source, a condition, or a reason.’

So somanassindriyañca pajānāti, somanassindriyasamudayañca pajānāti, somanassindriyanirodhañca pajānāti, yattha cuppannaṃ somanassindriyaṃ aparisesaṃ nirujjhati tañca pajānāti.

They understand the faculty of happiness, its origin, its cessation, and where that faculty of happiness that’s arisen ceases without anything left over.

Kattha cuppannaṃ somanassindriyaṃ aparisesaṃ nirujjhati?

And where does that faculty of happiness that’s arisen cease without anything left over?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sukhasa ca pahānā dukkhasa ca pahānā pubbeva somanassadomanassānaṃ atthaṅgamā adukkhamasukhaṃ upekkhāsatipārisuddhiṃ catutthaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati,

It's when, giving up pleasure and pain, and ending former happiness and sadness, a mendicant enters and remains in the fourth absorption, without pleasure or pain, with pure equanimity and mindfulness.

ettha cuppannaṃ somanassindriyaṃ aparisesaṃ nirujjhati.

That's where the faculty of happiness that's arisen ceases without anything left over.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, 'bhikkhu aññāsi somanassindriyassa nirodhaṃ, tadatthāya cittaṃ upasaṃharati'.

They're called a mendicant who understands the cessation of the faculty of happiness, and who applies their mind to that end.

Idha pana, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno appamattassa ātāpino pahitattassa viharato uppajjati upekkhindriyaṃ.

While a mendicant is meditating—diligent, keen, and resolute—the faculty of equanimity arises.

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand:

'uppannaṃ kho me idaṃ upekkhindriyaṃ, tañca kho sanimittaṃ sanidānaṃ asaṅkhāraṃ sappaccayaṃ.

'The faculty of equanimity has arisen in me. And that has a foundation, a source, a condition, and a reason.

tañca animittaṃ anidānaṃ asaṅkhāraṃ appaccayaṃ upekkhindriyaṃ uppajjissatī'ti—netāṃ ṭhānaṃ vijjati.

It's not possible for the faculty of equanimity to arise without a foundation, a source, a condition, or a reason.'

So upekkhindriyañca pajānāti, upekkhindriyasamudayañca pajānāti, upekkhindriyanirodhañca pajānāti, yattha cuppannaṃ upekkhindriyaṃ aparisesaṃ nirujjhati tañca pajānāti.

They understand the faculty of equanimity, its origin, its cessation, and where that faculty of equanimity that's arisen ceases without anything left over.

Kattha cuppannaṃ upekkhindriyaṃ aparisesaṃ nirujjhati?

And where does that faculty of equanimity that's arisen cease without anything left over?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu sabbaso nevasaññānāsaññāyatanaṃ samatikkamma saññāvedayitanirodhaṃ upasampajja viharati,

It's when a mendicant, going totally beyond the dimension of neither perception nor non-perception, enters and remains in the cessation of perception and feeling.

ettha cuppannaṃ upekkhindriyaṃ aparisesaṃ nirujjhati.

That's where the faculty of equanimity that's arisen ceases without anything left over.

Ayaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, 'bhikkhu aññāsi upekkhindriyassa nirodhaṃ, tadatthāya cittaṃ upasaṃharatī'”ti.

They're called a mendicant who understands the cessation of the faculty of equanimity, and who applies their mind to that end.”

41. Jarādhammasutta Old Age

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvattiyam viharati pubbārāme

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in the Eastern Monastery, the stilt longhouse of Migāra's mother.

Tena kho pana samayena bhagavā sāyanhasamayam paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito pacchātape nisinno hoti piṭṭhim

Then in the late afternoon, the Buddha came out of retreat and sat warming his back in the last rays of the sun.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā bhagavato gattāni

Then Venerable Ānanda went up to the Buddha, bowed, and while massaging the Buddha's limbs he said:

“acchariyam, bhante, abbhutam, bhante.

“It's incredible, sir, it's amazing,

Na cevam dāni, bhante, bhagavato tāva parisuddho chavivaṇṇo of eye, ear, nose, tongue, and body.”

“Evañhetam, ānanda, hoti—

“That’s how it is, Ānanda.

of eye, ear, nose, tongue, and body.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Idaṃ vatvā ca sugato athāparaṃ etadavoca satthā:

Then the Holy One, the Teacher, went on to say:

“Dhī taṃ jammi jare atthu,

“Curse this wretched old age,

42. Uṇṇābhabrāhmaṇasutta The Brahmin Uṇṇābha

Sāvattihinidānaṃ.

At Sāvattihī.

Atha kho uṇṇābho brāhmaṇo yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavatā saddhiṃ sammodi.

Then Uṇṇābha the brahmin went up to the Buddha, and exchanged greetings with him.

Sammodanīyaṃ kathaṃ sāraṇīyaṃ vītisāretvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho uṇṇābho brāhmaṇo bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to the Buddha:

“Pañcimāni, bho gotama, indriyāni nānāvisayāni nānāgocarāni, na aññamaññassa gocaravisayaṃ paccanubhonti.

“Master Gotama, these five faculties have different scopes and different ranges, and don’t experience each others’ scope and range.

Katamāni pañca?

What five?

Cakkhundriyaṃ, sotindriyaṃ, ghānindriyaṃ, jivhindriyaṃ, kāyindriyaṃ.

The faculties of the eye, ear, nose, tongue, and body.

Imesaṃ nu kho, bho gotama, pañcannaṃ indriyānaṃ nānāvisayānaṃ nānāgocarānaṃ na aññamaññassa gocaravisayaṃ paccanubhontānaṃ kiṃ paṭisaraṇaṃ, ko ca nesaṃ gocaravisayaṃ paccanubhotī”ti?

What do these five faculties, with their different scopes and ranges, have recourse to? What experiences their scopes and ranges?”

“Pañcimāni, brāhmaṇa, indriyāni nānāvisayāni nānāgocarāni na aññamaññassa gocaravisayaṃ paccanubhonti.

“Brahmin, these five faculties have different scopes and different ranges, and don’t experience each others’ scope and range.

Katamāni pañca?

What five?

Cakkhundriyaṃ, sotindriyaṃ, ghānindriyaṃ, jivhindriyaṃ, kāyindriyaṃ.

The faculties of the eye, ear, nose, tongue, and body.

Imesaṃ kho, brāhmaṇa, pañcannaṃ indriyānaṃ nānāvisayānaṃ nānāgocarānaṃ na aññamaññassa gocaravisayaṃ paccanubhontānaṃ mano paṭisaraṇaṃ, manova nesaṃ gocaravisayaṃ paccanubhotī”ti.

These five faculties, with their different scopes and ranges, have recourse to the mind. And the mind experiences their scopes and ranges.”

“Manassa pana, bho gotama, kiṃ paṭisaraṇaṃ”ti?

“But Master Gotama, what does the mind have recourse to?”

“Manassa kho, brāhmaṇa, sati paṭisaraṇaṃ”ti.

“The mind has recourse to mindfulness.”

“Satiyā pana, bho gotama, kiṃ paṭisaraṇaṃ”ti?

“But what does mindfulness have recourse to?”

“Satiyā kho, brāhmaṇa, vimutti paṭisaraṇaṃ”ti.

“Mindfulness has recourse to freedom.”

“Vimuttiyā pana, bho gotama, kiṃ paṭisaraṇan”ti?

“But what does freedom have recourse to?”

“Vimuttiyā kho, brāhmaṇa, nibbānaṃ paṭisaraṇan”ti.

“Freedom has recourse to extinguishment.”

“Nibbānassa pana, bho gotama, kiṃ paṭisaraṇan”ti?

“But what does extinguishment have recourse to?”

“Accayāsi, brāhmaṇa, pañham, nāsakki pañhassa pariyantaṃ gahetuṃ.

“This question goes too far, brahmin! You weren’t able to grasp the limit of questioning.

Nibbānogadhañhi, brāhmaṇa, brahmacariyaṃ vussati nibbānaparāyaṇaṃ nibbānapariyosānaṃ”ti.

For extinguishment is the culmination, destination, and end of the spiritual life.”

Atha kho uṇṇābho brāhmaṇo bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanditvā anumoditvā uṭṭhāyāsanaṃ bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā padakkhiṇaṃ katvā pakkāmi.

And then the brahmin Uṇṇābha approved and agreed with what the Buddha said. He got up from his seat, bowed, and respectfully circled the Buddha, keeping him on his right, before leaving.

Atha kho bhagavā acirapakkante uṇṇābhe brāhmaṇe bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then, not long after he had left, the Buddha addressed the mendicants:

“seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, kūṭāgāre vā kūṭāgārasālāyaṃ vā pācīnavātapānā sūriye uggacchante vātapānena rasmi pavisitvā kvāssa patitṭhitā”ti?

“Suppose there was a bungalow or a hall with a peaked roof, with windows on the eastern side. When the sun rises and a ray of light enters through a window, where would it land?”

“Pacchimāyaṃ, bhante, bhittiyaṃ”ti.

“On the western wall, sir.”

“Evameva kho, bhikkhave, uṇṇābhassa brāhmaṇassa tathāgate saddhā niviṭṭhā mūlajātā patitṭhitā daḷhā asaṃhāriyā samaṇena vā brāhmaṇena vā devena vā mārena vā brahmunā vā kenaci vā lokasmiṃ.

“In the same way, the brahmin Uṇṇābha’s faith in the Realized One is settled, rooted, and planted deep. It’s strong and can’t be shifted by any ascetic or brahmin or god or Māra or Brahmā or by anyone in the world.

Imamhi ce, bhikkhave, samaye uṇṇābho brāhmaṇo kālaṃ kareyya, natthi taṃ saṃyojanaṃ yena saṃyojanena saṃyutto uṇṇābho brāhmaṇo puna imaṃ lokaṃ āgaccheyyā”ti.

If he were to pass away at this time, he would be bound by no fetter that might return him to this world.”

Dutiyaṃ.

43. Sāketasutta At Sāketa

Evaṃ me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sākete viharati añjanavane migadāye.
At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāketa in the deer part at the Añjana Wood.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:
There the Buddha addressed the mendicants:

“atthi nu kho, bhikkhave, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma yāni pañcindriyāni tāni pañca balāni honti, yāni pañca balāni tāni pañcindriyāni hontī”ti?

“Mendicants, is there a way in which the five faculties become the five powers, and the five powers become the five faculties?”

“Bhagavaṃmūlakā no, bhante, dhammā bhagavaṃnettikā bhagavaṃpaṭisaraṇā. Sādhu vata, bhante, bhagavantamyeva paṭibhātu etassa bhāsitassa attho. Bhagavato sutvā bhikkhū dhāressantī”ti ...pe...

“Our teachings are rooted in the Buddha. He is our guide and our refuge. Sir, may the Buddha himself please clarify the meaning of this. The mendicants will listen and remember it.”

“Atthi, bhikkhave, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma yāni pañcindriyāni tāni pañca balāni honti, yāni pañca balāni tāni pañcindriyāni honti.

“Mendicants, there is a way in which the five faculties become the five powers, and the five powers become the five faculties.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma yāni pañcindriyāni tāni pañca balāni honti, yāni pañca balāni tāni pañcindriyāni honti?

And what is that method?

Yaṃ, bhikkhave, saddhindriyaṃ taṃ saddhābalaṃ, yaṃ saddhābalaṃ taṃ saddhindriyaṃ;

The faculty of faith is the power of faith, and the power of faith is the faculty of faith.

yaṃ vīriyindriyaṃ taṃ vīriyabalaṃ, yaṃ vīriyabalaṃ taṃ vīriyindriyaṃ;

The faculty of energy is the power of energy, and the power of energy is the faculty of energy.

yaṃ paññindriyaṃ taṃ paññābalaṃ, yaṃ paññābalaṃ taṃ paññindriyaṃ.

The faculty of wisdom is the power of wisdom, and the power of wisdom is the faculty of wisdom.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, nadī pācīnaninnā pācīnapoṇā pācīnapabbhārā, tassa majjhe dīpo.

Suppose that there was a river slanting, sloping, and inclining to the east, and in the middle was an island.

Atthi, bhikkhave, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma tassā nadiyā eko sototveva saṅkhyāṃ gacchati.

There's a way in which that river can be reckoned to have just one stream.

Atthi pana, bhikkhave, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma tassā nadiyā dve sotānitveva saṅkhyāṃ gacchanti.

But there's also a way in which that river can be reckoned to have two streams.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma tassā nadiyā eko sototveva saṅkhyāṃ gacchati?

And what's the way in which that river can be reckoned to have just one stream?

that river can be reckoned to have just one stream.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma tassā nadiyā dve sotānitveva saṅkhyāṃ gacchanti?

And what's the way in which that river can be reckoned to have two streams?

Yañca, bhikkhave, tassa dīpassa uttarante udakaṃ, yañca dakkhiṇante udakaṃ—

By taking into account the water to the north and the south of the island, ayaṃ kho, bhikkhave, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma tassā nadiyā dve sotānitveva saṅkhyāṃ gacchanti.

that river can be reckoned to have two streams.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, yaṃ saddhindriyaṃ taṃ saddhābalaṃ, yaṃ saddhābalaṃ taṃ saddhindriyaṃ;

In the same way, the faculty of faith is the power of faith, and the power of faith is the faculty of faith.

yaṃ vīriyindriyaṃ taṃ vīriyabalaṃ, yaṃ vīriyabalaṃ taṃ vīriyindriyaṃ;

yaṃ samādhindriyaṃ taṃ samādhibalaṃ, yaṃ samādhibalaṃ taṃ samādhindriyaṃ;

The faculty of immersion is the power of immersion, and the power of immersion is the faculty of immersion.

yaṃ paññindriyaṃ taṃ paññābalaṃ, yaṃ paññābalaṃ taṃ paññindriyaṃ.

The faculty of wisdom is the power of wisdom, and the power of wisdom is the faculty of wisdom.

It’s because of developing and cultivating the five faculties that a mendicant realizes the undefiled freedom of heart and freedom by wisdom in this very life. And they live having realized it with their own insight due to the ending of defilements.”

49. Piṇḍolabhāradvājasutta About Piṇḍola Bhāradvāja

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā kosambiyam viharati ghositārāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Kosambi, in Ghosita's Monastery.

Tena kho pana samayena āyasmatā piṇḍolabhāradvājena aññā byākatā hoti:

Now at that time Venerable Piṇḍola Bhāradvāja had declared enlightenment:

“khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyāti pajānāmī”ti.

“I understand: ‘Rebirth is ended, the spiritual journey has been completed, what had to be done has been done, there is no return to any state of existence.’”

Atha kho sambahulā bhikkhū yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdimsu. Ekamantaṃ nisinnā kho te bhikkhū bhagavantaṃ etadavocum:

Then several mendicants went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and told him what had happened. Then they said, “Āyasmatā, bhante, piṇḍolabhāradvājena aññā byākatā:

‘khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā’ti pajānāmīti.

Kim nu kho, bhante, atthavasam sampassamānena āyasmatā piṇḍolabhāradvājena aññā byākatā:

“What reason does Piṇḍola Bhāradvāja see for doing this?”

‘khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā’ti pajānāmī’ti?

“Tiṇṇannaṃ kho, bhikkhave, indriyānaṃ bhāvitattā bahulīkatattā piṇḍolabhāradvājena bhikkhunā aññā byākatā:

“It’s because Piṇḍola Bhāradvāja has developed and cultivated three faculties that he declares enlightenment:

‘khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā’ti pajānāmīti.

‘I understand: “Rebirth is ended, the spiritual journey has been completed, what had to be done has been done, there is no return to any state of existence.”’

Katamesaṃ tiṇṇannaṃ?

What three?

Satindriyassa, samādhindriyassa, paññindriyassa—

The faculties of mindfulness, immersion, and wisdom.

Imesaṃ kho, bhikkhave, tiṇṇannaṃ indriyānaṃ bhāvitattā bahulīkatattā piṇḍolabhāradvājena bhikkhunā aññā byākatā:

It’s because Piṇḍola Bhāradvāja has developed and cultivated these three faculties that he declares enlightenment.

‘khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā’ti pajānāmīti.

Imāni ca, bhikkhave, tīṇindriyāni kimantāni?

What’s the culmination of these three faculties?

Khayantāni.

They culminate in ending.

Kissa khayantāni?

In the ending of what?

Jātijarāmarāṇassa.

Of rebirth, old age, and death.

‘Jātijarāmarāṇaṃ khayana’ti kho, bhikkhave, sampassamānena piṇḍolabhāradvājena bhikkhunā aññā byākatā:

It’s because he sees that they culminate in the ending of rebirth, old age, and death that Piṇḍola Bhāradvāja declares enlightenment:

‘khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahmacariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, nāparaṃ itthattāyā’ti pajānāmī’”ti.

‘I understand: “Rebirth is ended, the spiritual journey has been completed, what had to be done has been done, there is no return to any state of existence.””’

50. Āpaṇasutta At Āpaṇa

Evaṃ me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekaṃ समयam bhagavā aṅgesu viharati āpaṇam nāma aṅgānam nigamo.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Aṅgas, near the Aṅgan town called Āpaṇa.

Tatra kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ sārīputtaṃ āmantesi:
Then the Buddha said to Venerable Sārīputta:

“yo so, sārīputta, ariyasāvako tathāgate ekantaḡato abhippasanno, na so tathāgate vā tathāgatasāsane vā kaṅkheyya vā vicikiccheyya vā”ti?

“Sārīputta, would a noble disciple who is sure and devoted to the Realized One have any doubt or uncertainty about the Realized One or his instructions?”

“Yo so, bhante, ariyasāvako tathāgate ekantaḡato abhippasanno, na so tathāgate vā tathāgatasāsane vā kaṅkheyya vā vicikiccheyya vā.

“Sir, a noble disciple who is sure and devoted to the Realized One would have no doubt or uncertainty about the Realized One or his instructions.

saddhassa hi, bhante, ariyasāvakassa etaṃ pāṭikaṅkhaṃ yaṃ āradhavīriyo viharissati—akusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ pahānāya, kusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ upasampadāya, thāmaṃavā daḷhaparakkamo anikkhittadhuro kusalesu dhammesu.

You can expect that a faithful noble disciple will live with energy roused up for giving up unskillful qualities and embracing skillful qualities. They're strong, staunchly vigorous, not slacking off when it comes to developing skillful qualities.

Yaṃ hissa, bhante, vīriyaṃ tadassa vīriyindriyaṃ.

For their energy is the faculty of energy.

Saddhassa hi, bhante, ariyasāvakaṃ āradhaviṛiyassa etaṃ

You can expect that a faithful and energetic noble disciple will be mindful, with utmost mindfulness and alertness, able to remember and recall what was said and done long ago.

Yā hissa, bhante, sati tadassa satindriyaṃ.

For their mindfulness is the faculty of mindfulness.

Saddhassa hi, bhante, ariyasāvakaṃ āradhaviṛiyassa

You can expect that a faithful, energetic, and mindful noble disciple will, relying on letting go, gain immersion, gain unification of mind.

Yo hissa, bhante, samādhi tadassa samādhindriyaṃ.

For their samādhi is the faculty of immersion.

Saddhassa hi, bhante, ariyasāvakaṃ āradhaviṛiyassa upaṭṭhitassatino samāhitacittassa etaṃ pāṭikaṅkhaṃ yaṃ evaṃ

You can expect that a faithful, energetic, mindful noble disciple with their mind immersed in samādhi will understand this:

anamataggo kho saṃsāro.

'Transmigration has no known beginning.

Pubbakoṭi na paññāyati avijjānīvaraṇānaṃ sattānaṃ

Avijjāya tveva tamokāyassa asesavirāganirodho santametaṃ

But when that dark mass of ignorance fades away and ceases with nothing left over, that state is peaceful and sublime.

sabbasaṅkhārasamatho sabbūpadhipaṭinissaggo taṅhākkhayo virāgo nirodho nibbānaṃ.

That is, the stilling of all activities, the letting go of all attachments, the ending of craving, fading away, cessation, extinguishment.'

Yā hissa, bhante, paññā tadassa paññindriyaṃ.

For their noble wisdom is the faculty of wisdom.

Saddho so, bhante, ariyasāvako evaṃ padahitvā padahitvā

‘ime kho te dhammā ye me pubbe sutavā ahesuṃ.

‘I have previously heard of these things.

Tenāhaṃ etarahi kāyena ca phusitvā viharāmi, paññāya ca

But now I have direct meditative experience of them, and see them with penetrating wisdom.'

For their faith is the faculty of faith.”

“Sādhu sādhu, sāriputta.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:
There the Buddha addressed the mendicants:

“yāvakīvañca, bhikkhave, ariyasāvakassa ariyañāṇam na uppannam hoti neva tāva catunnam indriyānam saṅghiti hoti, neva tāva catunnam indriyānam avatṭhiti hoti.

“Mendicants, as long as noble knowledge hasn't arisen for a noble disciple the four faculties are not stable and fixed.

Yato ca kho, bhikkhave, ariyasāvakassa ariyañāṇam uppannam hoti, atha catunnam indriyānam saṅghiti hoti, atha catunnam indriyānam avatṭhiti hoti.

But when noble knowledge has arisen for a noble disciple the four faculties become stable and fixed.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, yāvakīvañca kūṭāgārassa kūṭam na ussitam hoti, neva tāva gopānasīnam saṅghiti hoti, neva tāva gopānasīnam avatṭhiti hoti.

It's just like in a bungalow. As long as the roof peak is not lifted into place, the rafters are not stable or fixed.

Yato ca kho, bhikkhave, kūṭāgārassa kūṭam ussitam hoti, atha gopānasīnam saṅghiti hoti, atha gopānasīnam avaṭṭhiti hoti.

But when the roof peak is lifted into place, the rafters become stable and fixed.

Evameva kho, bhikkhave, yāvakīvañca ariyasāvakassa ariyañāṇam na uppannam hoti, neva tāva catunnam indriyānam saṅghiti hoti, neva tāva catunnam indriyānam avaṭṭhiti hoti.

In the same way, as long as noble knowledge hasn't arisen for a noble disciple the four faculties are not stable and fixed.

Yato ca kho, bhikkhave, ariyasāvakassa ariyañāṇam uppannam hoti, atha catunnam indriyānam ...pe... avaṭṭhiti hoti.

But when noble knowledge has arisen for a noble disciple the four faculties become stable and fixed.

Katamesam catunnam?

What four?

Saddhindriyassa, vīriyindriyassa, satindriyassa, samādhindriyassa.

The faculties of faith, energy, mindfulness, and immersion.

Paññavato, bhikkhave, ariyasāvakassa tadanvayā saddhā saṅghāti, tadanvayam vīriyam saṅghāti, tadanvayā sati saṅghāti, tadanvayo samādhi saṅghātī”ti.

When a noble disciple has wisdom, the faith, energy, mindfulness, and immersion that follow along with that become stabilized.”

53. Sekhasutta A Trainee

Evaṃ me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā kosambiyā viharati ghoṣitārāme.
At one time the Buddha was staying near Kosambi, in Ghosita's Monastery.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:
There the Buddha addressed the mendicants:

“atthi nu kho, bhikkhave, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgama sekho bhikkhu sekhabhūmiyaṃ ṭhito ‘sekhosmī’ti pajāneyya, asekho bhikkhu asekhabhūmiyaṃ ṭhito ‘asekhosmī’ti pajāneyyā”ti?

“Mendicants, is there a way that a mendicant who is a trainee, standing at the level of a trainee, can understand that they are a trainee? And that a mendicant who is an adept, standing at the level of an adept, can understand that they are an adept?”

“Bhagavaṃmūlakā no, bhante, dhammā ...pe...
“Our teachings are rooted in the Buddha. ...”

“atthi, bhikkhave, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgama sekho bhikkhu sekhabhūmiyaṃ ṭhito ‘sekhosmī’ti pajāneyya, asekho bhikkhu asekhabhūmiyaṃ ṭhito ‘asekhosmī’ti pajāneyya.

“There is a way that a mendicant who is a trainee, standing at the level of a trainee, can understand that they are a trainee, and that a mendicant who is an adept, standing at the level of an adept, can understand that they are an adept.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma sekho bhikkhu sekhabhūmiyaṃ ʘhito ‘sekhosmī’ti pajānāti?

And what is a way that a mendicant who is a trainee can understand that they are a trainee?

Idha, bhikkhave, sekho bhikkhu ‘idaṃ dukkhan’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti, ‘ayaṃ dukkhasamudayo’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti, ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodho’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti, ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti—

It’s when a mendicant who is a trainee truly understands: ‘This is suffering’ ... ‘This is the origin of suffering’ ... ‘This is the cessation of suffering’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering’.

ayampi kho, bhikkhave, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma sekho bhikkhu sekhabhūmiyaṃ ʘhito ‘sekhosmī’ti pajānāti.

This is a way that a mendicant who is a trainee can understand that they are a trainee.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, sekho bhikkhu iti paṭisañcikkhati:

Furthermore, a mendicant who is a trainee reflects:

‘atthi nu kho ito bahiddhā añño samaṇo vā brāhmaṇo vā yo evaṃ bhūtaṃ tacchaṃ tathaṃ dhammaṃ deseti yathā bhagavā’ti?

‘Is there any other ascetic or brahmin elsewhere whose teaching is as true, as real, as accurate as that of the Buddha?’

So evaṃ pajānāti:

They understand:

‘natthi kho ito bahiddhā añño samaṇo vā brāhmaṇo vā yo evaṃ bhūtaṃ tacchaṃ tathaṃ dhammaṃ deseti yathā bhagavā’ti.

‘There is no other ascetic or brahmin elsewhere whose teaching is as true, as real, as accurate as that of the Buddha.’

Ayampi kho, bhikkhave, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma sekho bhikkhu sekhabhūmiyaṃ ʘhito ‘sekhosmī’ti pajānāti.

This too is a way that a mendicant who is a trainee can understand that they are a trainee.

Puna caparam, bhikkhave, sekho bhikkhu pañcindriyāni pajānāti—

Furthermore, a mendicant who is a trainee understands the five faculties:

saddhindriyaṃ, vīriyindriyaṃ, satindriyaṃ, samādhindriyaṃ, paññindriyaṃ.

faith, energy, mindfulness, immersion, and wisdom.

Yaṅgatikāni yaṃparamāni yaṃphalāni yaṃpariyosānāni. Na heva kho kāyena phusitvā viharati;

And although they don't have direct meditative experience of their destination, apex, fruit, and culmination, paññāya ca ativijja passati.

they do see them with penetrating wisdom.

Ayampi kho, bhikkhave, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma sekho bhikkhu sekhabhūmiyaṃ t̥hito 'sekhosmī'ti pajānāti.

This too is a way that a mendicant who is a trainee can understand that they are a trainee.

Katamo ca, bhikkhave, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma asekho bhikkhu asekhabhūmiyaṃ t̥hito 'asekhosmī'ti pajānāti?

And what is the way that a mendicant who is an adept can understand that they are an adept?

Idha, bhikkhave, asekho bhikkhu pañcindriyāni pajānāti—

It's when a mendicant who is an adept understands the five faculties:

saddhindriyaṃ, vīriyindriyaṃ, satindriyaṃ, samādhindriyaṃ, paññindriyaṃ.

faith, energy, mindfulness, immersion, and wisdom.

Yaṅgatikāni yaṃparamāni yaṃphalāni yaṃpariyosānāni.

Kāyena ca phusitvā viharati;

They have direct meditative experience of their destination, apex, fruit, and culmination, paññāya ca ativijjha passati.

and they see them with penetrating wisdom.

Ayampi kho, bhikkhave, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma asekho bhikkhu asekhabhūmiyaṃ ʘhito ‘asekhosmī’ti pajānāti.

This is a way that a mendicant who is an adept can understand that they are an adept.

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, asekho bhikkhu cha indriyāni pajānāti.

Furthermore, a mendicant who is an adept understands the six faculties:

‘Cakkhundriyaṃ, sotindriyaṃ, ghānindriyaṃ, jivhindriyaṃ, kāyindriyaṃ, manindriyaṃ—eye, ear, nose, tongue, body, and mind.

imāni kho cha indriyāni sabbena sabbaṃ sabbathā sabbaṃ aparisesaṃ nirujjhissanti, aññāni ca cha indriyāni na kuhiñci kismiñci uppajjissanti’ti pajānāti.

They understand: ‘These six faculties will totally and utterly cease without anything left over. And no other six faculties will arise anywhere anyhow.’

Ayampi kho, bhikkhave, pariyāyo yaṃ pariyāyaṃ āgamma asekho bhikkhu asekhabhūmiyaṃ ʘhito ‘asekhosmī’ti pajānāti’”ti.

This too is a way that a mendicant who is an adept can understand that they are an adept.”

Evaṃ me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā vesāliyaṃ viharati mahāvane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Vesālī, at the Great Wood, in the hall with the peaked roof.

Atha kho bhagavā pubbaṇhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Vesālī for alms.

Vesāliyaṃ piṇḍāya caritvā pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātaṭikkanto āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ āmantesi:

Then, after the meal, on his return from alms-round, he addressed Venerable Ānanda:

“gaṇhāhi, ānanda, nisīdanaṃ.

“Ānanda, get your sitting cloth.

Yena cāpālaṃ cetiyaṃ tenupasaṅkamissāma divāvihārāyā”ti.

Let’s go to the Cāpāla shrine for the day’s meditation.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho āyasmā ānando bhagavato paṭissutvā nisīdanaṃ ādāya bhagavantaṃ piṭṭhito piṭṭhito anubandhi.

“Yes, sir,” replied Ānanda. Taking his sitting cloth he followed behind the Buddha.

Atha kho bhagavā yena cāpālaṃ cetiyaṃ tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā paññatte āsane nisīdi.

Then the Buddha went up to the Cāpāla shrine, and sat down on the seat spread out.

Āyasmāpi kho ānando bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ

Ānanda bowed to the Buddha and sat down to one side.

Ekamantaṃ nisinnaṃ kho āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ bhagavā

Parinibbānakālo dāni, bhante, bhagavato.

May the Blessed One now become fully extinguished! May the Holy One now become fully extinguished! Now is the time for the Buddha to become fully extinguished.

Bhāsītā kho panesā, bhante, bhagavatā vācā:

Sir, you once made this statement:

‘na tāvāhaṃ, pāpima, parinibbāyissāmi yāva me idaṃ brahmacariyaṃ na iddhañceva bhavissati phītañca vitthāritaṃ bāhujaññaṃ puthubhūtaṃ yāva devamanussehi suppakāsitaṃ’ti.

‘Wicked One, I will not become fully extinguished until my spiritual life is successful and prosperous, extensive, popular, widespread, and well proclaimed wherever there are gods and humans.’

Tayidaṃ, bhante, bhagavato brahmacariyaṃ iddhañceva phītañca vitthāritaṃ bāhujaññaṃ puthubhūtaṃ yāva devamanussehi suppakāsitaṃ.

Today your spiritual life is successful and prosperous, extensive, popular, widespread, and well proclaimed wherever there are gods and humans.

Parinibbātu dāni, bhante, bhagavā, parinibbātu dāni sugato.
Parinibbānakālo dāni, bhante, bhagavato”ti.

May the Blessed One now become fully extinguished! May the Holy One now become fully extinguished! Now is the time for the Buddha to become fully extinguished.”

Evaṃ vutte, bhagavā māraṃ pāpimantaṃ etadavoca:

When this was said, the Buddha said to Māra,

“appossukko tvaṃ, pāpima, hohi. Na ciraṃ tathāgatassa parinibbānaṃ bhavissati.

“Relax, Wicked One. The final extinguishment of the Realized One will be soon.

Ito tiṅṅaṃ māsānaṃ accayena tathāgato parinibbāyissatī”ti.
Three months from now the Realized One will finally be extinguished.”

Atha kho bhagavā cāpāle cetiye sato sampajāno āyusaṅkhāraṃ ossaji.

So at the Cāpāla tree shrine the Buddha, mindful and aware, surrendered the life force.

Ossaṭṭhe ca bhagavatā āyusaṅkhāre mahābhūmicālo ahoṣi bhimsanako lomahaṃso, devadundubhiyo ca phalimsu.

When he did so there was a great earthquake, awe-inspiring and hair-raising, and thunder cracked the sky.

Atha kho bhagavā etamatthaṃ veditvā tāyaṃ velāyaṃ imaṃ udānaṃ udānesi:

Then, knowing the meaning of this, on that occasion the Buddha expressed this heartfelt sentiment:

“Tulamātulañca sambhavaṃ,

“Weighing up the incomparable against an extension of life,

Bhavasāṅkhāramavassaji muni;

the sage surrendered the life force.

Ajjhattarato samāhito,

Happy inside, serene,

Abhindi kavacamivattasambhavan”ti.

he burst out of this self-made chain like a suit of armor.”

Dasamaṃ.

Cāpālavaggo paṭhamo.

When the four bases of psychic power have been developed and cultivated in this way, they wield the many kinds of psychic power: multiplying themselves and becoming one again; appearing and disappearing; going unimpeded through a wall, a rampart, or a mountain as if through space; diving in and out of the earth as if it were water; walking on water as if it were earth; flying cross-legged through the sky like a bird; touching and stroking with the hand the sun and moon, so mighty and powerful; controlling the body as far as the Brahmā realm.

When the four bases of psychic power have been developed and cultivated in this way, they hear both kinds of sounds, human and divine, whether near or far.

When the four bases of psychic power have been developed and cultivated in this way, they understand the minds of other beings and individuals, having comprehended them with their own mind. They understand mind with greed as 'mind with greed', and mind without greed as 'mind without greed'. They understand mind with hate ... mind without hate ... mind with delusion ... mind without delusion ... constricted mind ... scattered mind ... expansive mind ... unexpansive mind ... mind that is not supreme ... mind that is supreme ... mind immersed in samādhi ... mind not immersed in samādhi ... freed mind ... They understand unfreed mind as 'unfreed mind'.

When the four bases of psychic power have been developed and cultivated in this way, they recollect many kinds of past lives. That is: one, two, three, four, five, ten, twenty, thirty, forty, fifty, a hundred, a thousand, a hundred thousand rebirths; many eons of the world contracting, many eons of the world expanding, many eons of the world contracting and expanding. They remember: 'There, I was

When I passed away from that place I was reborn somewhere else. There, too, I was named this, my clan was that, I looked like this, and that was my food. This was how I felt pleasure and pain, and that was how my life ended. When I passed away from that place I was reborn here.’ And so they recollect their many kinds of past lives, with features and details.

When the four bases of psychic power have been developed and cultivated in this way, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, they see sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. They understand how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds. ‘These dear beings did bad things by way of body, speech, and mind. They spoke ill of the noble ones; they had wrong view; and they chose to act out of that wrong view. When their body breaks up, after death, they’re reborn in a place of loss, a bad place, the underworld, hell. These dear beings, however, did good things by way of body, speech, and mind. They never spoke ill of the noble ones; they had right view; and they chose to act out of that right view. When their body breaks up, after death, they're reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.' And so, with clairvoyance that is purified and superhuman, they see sentient beings passing away and being reborn—inferior and superior, beautiful and ugly, in a good place or a bad place. They understand how sentient beings are reborn according to their deeds.

12. Mahapphalasutta Very Fruitful

“Cattārome, bhikkhave, iddhipādā bhāvitā bahulīkatā mahapphalā honti mahānisamsā.

“Mendicants, when the four bases of psychic power are developed and cultivated they’re very fruitful and beneficial.

Katham bhāvitā ca, bhikkhave, cattāro iddhipādā katham bahulīkatā mahapphalā honti mahānisamsā?

How so?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu chandasamādhippadhānasaṅkhārasamannāgataṃ iddhipādaṃ bhāveti—

It’s when a mendicant develops the basis of psychic power that has immersion due to enthusiasm, and active effort.

14. Moggallānasutta With Moggallāna

Evaṃ me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā sāvattiyam viharati pubbārāme migāramātupāsāde.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvattī in the Eastern Monastery, the stilt longhouse of Migāra’s mother.

Tena kho pana samayena sambahulā bhikkhū heṭṭhāmigāramātupāsāde viharanti uddhatā unnaḷā capalā mukharā vikiṇṇavācā muṭṭhassatino asampajānā asamāhitā bhantacittā pākatindriyā.

Now at that time several mendicants were staying beneath the longhouse. They were restless, insolent, fickle, gossipy, loose-tongued, unmindful, lacking situational awareness and immersion, with straying minds and undisciplined faculties.

Atha kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ mahāmoggallānaṃ āmantesi:
Then the Buddha addressed Venerable Mahāmoggallāna,

“ete kho, moggallāna, sabrahmacārino
heṭṭhāmigāramātupāsāde viharanti uddhatā unnaḷā capalā
mukharā vikiṇṇavācā muṭṭhassatino asampajānā asamāhitā
bhantacittā pākatindriyā.

“These spiritual companions of yours staying beneath the longhouse are restless, insolent, fickle, gossipy, loose-tongued, unmindful, lacking situational awareness and immersion, with wandering mind and undisciplined faculties.

Gaccha, moggallāna, te bhikkhū saṃvejhī”ti.

Go, Moggallāna, and strike awe in those mendicants!”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno bhagavato paṭissutvā tathārūpaṃ iddhābhisaṅkhāraṃ abhisaṅkhāresi yathā pādaṅguṭṭhakena migāramātupāsādaṃ saṅkampesi sampakampesi sampacālesi.

“Yes, sir,” replied Mahāmoggallāna. Then he used his psychic power to make the longhouse shake and rock and tremble with his toe.

Atha kho te bhikkhū saṃviggā lomahaṭṭhajātā ekamantaṃ aṭṭhaṃsu:

Then those mendicants stood to one side, shocked and awestruck.

There’s no wind at all; and this stilt longhouse of Migāra’s mother has deep foundations. It’s firmly embedded, imperturbable and unshakable. And yet it shakes and rocks and trembles!”

Atha kho bhagavā yena te bhikkhū tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā te bhikkhū bhagavā etadavoca:

Then the Buddha went up to those mendicants and said:

“kiṃ nu tumhe, bhikkhave, saṃviggā lomahaṭṭhajātā ekamantaṃ ṭhitā”ti?

“Why do you, mendicants, stand to one side, shocked and awestruck?”

“Acchariyaṃ, bhante, abbhutaṃ bhante.

Nivātañca vata ayañca migāramātupāsādo gambhīranemo sunikhāto acalo asampakampī, atha ca pana saṅkampito sampakampito sampacālito”ti.

There’s no wind at all; and this stilt longhouse of Migāra’s mother has deep foundations. It’s firmly embedded, imperturbable and unshakable. And yet it shakes and rocks and trembles!”

“Tumheva kho, bhikkhave, saṁvejetukāmena moggallānena bhikkhunā pādaṅguṭṭhakena migāramātupāsādo, saṅkampito sampakampito sampacālito.

“Wanting to strike awe in you, the mendicant Moggallāna made the longhouse shake and rock and tremble with his toe.

“Tena hi, bhikkhave, suṇātha.

“Well then, mendicants, listen.

Catunnaṁ kho, bhikkhave, iddhipādānaṁ bhāvitattā bahulīkatattā moggallāno bhikkhu evaṁmahiddhiko evaṁmahānubhāvo.

15. Uṇṇābhabrāhmaṇasutta The Brahmin Uṇṇābha

Evaṃ me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ āyasmā ānando kosambiyam viharati

At one time Venerable Ānanda was staying near Kosambi, in Ghosita's Monastery.

Atha kho uṇṇābho brāhmaṇo yenāyasmā ānando tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmatā ānandena saddhiṃ

Then Uṇṇābha the brahmin went up to Venerable Ānanda, and exchanged greetings with him.

When the greetings and polite conversation were over, he sat down to one side and said to him,

“kimatthiyaṃ nu kho, bho ānanda, samaṇe gotame

“Master Ānanda, what's the purpose of living the spiritual life with the ascetic Gotama?”

“Chandappahānatthaṃ kho, brāhmaṇa, bhagavati brahmacariyaṃ vussatī”ti.

“The purpose of living the spiritual life under the Buddha, brahmin, is to give up desire.”

“Atthi pana, bho ānanda, maggo atthi paṭipadā etassa chandassa pahānāyā”ti?

“But is there a path and a practice for giving up that desire?”

“Atthi kho, brāhmaṇa, maggo, atthi paṭipadā etassa chandassa pahānāyā”ti.

“There is.”

“Katamo pana, bho ānanda, maggo katamā paṭipadā etassa chandassa pahānāyā”ti?

“What is that path?”

“Tena hi, brāhmaṇa, taññevettha paṭipucchissāmi. Yathā te khameyya tathā taṃ byākareyyāsi.

“Well then, brahmin, I’ll ask you about this in return, and you can answer as you like.

“Evaṃ, bho”.

“Yes, sir.”

but when you arrived at the park, the corresponding idea faded away?”

“Evaṃ, bho”.

“Yes, sir.”

“Ahoṣi te pubbe vīmaṃsā ‘ārāmaṃ gamissāmī’ti?

“Have you ever inquired regarding a walk to the park,

Tassa te ārāmagatassa yā tājā vīmaṃsā sā paṭippassaddhā”ti?

but when you arrived at the park, the corresponding inquiry faded away?”

“Evaṃ, bho”.

“Evameva kho, brāhmaṇa, yo so bhikkhu araham khīṇāsavo vusitavā katakaraṇīyo ohitabhāro anuppattasadattho parikkhīṇabhavasamyojano sammadaññāvimutto, tassa yo pubbe chando ahoṣi arahattappattiyā, arahattappatte yo tājjo chando so paṭippassaddho;

“In the same way, take a mendicant who is perfected—with defilements ended, who has completed the spiritual journey, done what had to be done, laid down the burden, achieved their own true goal, utterly ended the fetters of rebirth, and is rightly freed through enlightenment. They formerly had the desire to attain perfection, but when they attained perfection the corresponding desire faded away.

yaṃ pubbe vīriyaṃ ahoṣi arahattappattiyā, arahattappatte yaṃ tājjaṃ vīriyaṃ taṃ paṭippassaddham;

They formerly had the energy to attain perfection, but when they attained perfection the corresponding energy faded away.

This being the case, is the path endless or finite?”

“Addhā, bho ānanda, evaṃ sante, santakaṃ hoti no asantakaṃ.
“Clearly, Master Ānanda, this being the case, the path is finite, not endless.

Abhikkantaṃ, bho ānanda, abhikkantaṃ, bho ānanda.
Excellent, Master Ānanda! Excellent!

As if he were righting the overturned, or revealing the hidden, or pointing out the path to the lost, or lighting a lamp in the dark so people with good eyes can see what’s there, Master Ānanda has made the teaching clear in many ways.

Esāhaṃ, bho ānanda, taṃ bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ saraṇaṃ

From this day forth, may Master Ānanda remember me as a lay follower who has gone for refuge for life.”

“Cattārome, bhikkhave, iddhipādā bhāvitā bahulīkatā mahapphalā honti mahānisaṃsā”.

This is called enthusiasm distracted externally.

Kathañca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu pacchāpuresaññī ca viharati—

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ āyasmā anuruddho sāvattiyam viharati jetavane anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.

At one time Venerable Anuruddha was staying near Sāvattī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's monastery.

Atha kho āyasmato anuruddhassa rahogatassa paṭisallīnassa evaṃ cetaso parivitakko udapādi:

Then as Anuruddha was in private retreat this thought came to his mind:

“yesaṃ kesañci cattāro satipaṭṭhānā viraddhā, viraddho tesam ariyo maggo sammā dukkhakkhayagāmī.

“Whoever has missed out on these four kinds of mindfulness meditation has missed out on the noble path to the complete ending of suffering.

Yesam kesañci cattāro satipaṭṭhānā āraddhā, āraddho tesam ariyo maggo sammā dukkhakkhayagāmī”ti.

Whoever has undertaken these four kinds of mindfulness meditation has undertaken the noble path to the complete ending of suffering.”

Atha kho āyasmā mahāmoggallāno āyasmato anuruddhassa cetasā cetoparivitakkamaññāya—seyyathāpi nāma balavā puriso samiñjitaṃ vā bāham pasāreyya, pasāritaṃ vā bāham samiñjeya; evameva—āyasmato anuruddhassa sammukhe pāturahosi.

Then Venerable Mahāmogallāna knew what Venerable Anuruddha was thinking. As easily as a strong person would extend or contract their arm, he reappeared in front of Anuruddha, Atha kho āyasmā mahāmogallāno āyasmantaṃ anuruddhaṃ etadavoca:

and said to him:

“kittāvatā nu kho, āvuso anuruddha, bhikkhuno cattāro satipaṭṭhānā āraddhā hontī”ti?

“Reverend Anuruddha, how do you define the undertaking of the four kinds of mindfulness meditation by a mendicant?”

“Idhāvuso, bhikkhu ajjhattaṃ kāye samudayadhammānupassī viharati, ajjhattaṃ kāye vayadhammānupassī viharati, ajjhattaṃ kāye samudayavayadhammānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ.

“Reverend, it’s when a mendicant meditates observing the body internally as liable to originate, as liable to vanish, and as liable to originate and vanish—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

Bahiddhā kāye samudayadhammānupassī viharati, bahiddhā kāye vayadhammānupassī viharati, bahiddhā kāye samudayavayadhammānupassī viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ.

3. Sutanusutta

On the Bank of the Sutanu

Ekam samayaṃ āyasmā anuruddho sāvattiyam viharati sutanutīre.

At one time Venerable Anuruddha was staying near Sāvattī on the bank of the Sutanu.

Atha kho sambahulā bhikkhū yenāyasmā anuruddho tenupasaṅkamimsu; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmatā anuruddhena saddhiṃ sammodimsu.

Then several mendicants went up to Venerable Anuruddha, and exchanged greetings with him.

8. Salaḷāgārasutta The Frankincense-Tree Hut

Ekam samayaṃ āyasmā anuruddho sāvattiyam viharati salaḷāgāre.

At one time Venerable Anuruddha was staying near Sāvattī in the frankincense-tree hut.

Tatra kho āyasmā anuruddho bhikkhū āmantesi ...pe... etadavoca:

There Venerable Anuruddha addressed the mendicants:

“seyyathāpi, āvuso, gaṅgā nadī pācīnaninnā pācīnaṇṇā pācīnapabbhārā.

“Reverends, suppose that, although the Ganges river slants, slopes, and inclines to the east,

Atha mahājanakāyo āgaccheyya kudālapitakaṃ ādāya:

a large crowd were to come along with a spade and basket, saying:

‘mayam imaṃ gaṅgānadim pacchāninnam karissāma pacchāṇṇam pacchāpabbhāran’ti.

‘We’ll make this Ganges river slant, slope, and incline to the west!’

Tam kiṃ maññathāvuso, api nu so mahājanakāyo gaṅgānadim pacchāninnam kareyya pacchāṇṇam pacchāpabbhāran’ti?

What do you think, reverends? Would they succeed?”

“No hetam, āvuso”.

“No, reverend.

“Tam kissa hetu”?

Why is that?

“Gaṅgā, āvuso, nadī pācīnaninnā pācīnaṇṇā pācīnapabbhārā.
The Ganges river slants, slopes, and inclines to the east.

Sā na sukarā pacchāninnam kātuṃ pacchāṇaṃ pacchāpabbhāram.

It’s not easy to make it slant, slope, and incline to the west.

Yāvadeva ca pana so mahājanakāyo kilamathassa vighātassa

That large crowd will eventually get weary and frustrated.”

“Evameva kho, āvuso, bhikkhum cattāro satipaṭṭhāne rājamahāmattā vā mittā vā amaccā vā ñātī vā sālohitā vā bhogehi abhihaṭṭhum pavāreyyum:

“In the same way, while a mendicant develops and cultivates the four kinds of mindfulness meditation, if rulers or their ministers, friends or colleagues, relatives or family should invite them to accept wealth, saying:

‘ehambho purisa, kiṃ te ime kāsāvā anudahanti?

‘Please, mister, why let these other robes torment you?

Kiṃ muṇḍo kapālamanañcarasi?

Why follow the practice of shaving your head and carrying an alms bowl?

Ehi hīnāyāvattivā bhoge ca bhuñjassu puññāni ca karohī’ti.

Come, return to a lesser life, enjoy wealth, and make merit!’

So vata, āvuso, bhikkhu cattāro satipaṭṭhāne bhāvento cattāro

It’s simply impossible for a mendicant who is developing and cultivating the four kinds of mindfulness meditation to reject the training and return to a lesser life.

Tam kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Yañhi taṃ, āvuso, cittaṃ dīgharattaṃ vivekaninnaṃ vivekaṇaṃ vivekapabbhāraṃ taṃ vata hīnāyāvattissatī—

Because for a long time that mendicant's mind has slanted, sloped, and inclined to seclusion. So it's impossible for them to return to a lesser life.

A mendicant who is perfected—with defilements ended, who has completed the spiritual journey, done what had to be done, laid down the burden, achieved their own true goal, utterly ended the fetters of rebirth, and is rightly freed through enlightenment—usually meditates with their mind firmly established in these four kinds of mindfulness meditation.”

“Lābhā vata no, āvuso, suladdhaṃ vata no, āvuso.

“Mendicants, there are these four absorptions.

Katame cattāro?

What four?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu vivicceva kāmehi vivicca akusalehi dhammehi savitakkaṃ savicāraṃ vivekajaṃ pītisukhaṃ paṭhamaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

It's when a mendicant, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unskillful qualities, enters and remains in the first absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of seclusion, while placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Vitakkavicārānaṃ vūpasamā ajjhataṃ sampasādanaṃ cetaso ekodibhāvaṃ avitakkaṃ avicāraṃ samādhijaṃ pītisukhaṃ dutiyaṃ jhānaṃ upasampajja viharati.

As the placing of the mind and keeping it connected are stilled, they enter and remain in the second absorption, which has the rapture and bliss born of immersion, with internal clarity and confidence, and unified mind, without placing the mind and keeping it connected.

Pītiyā ca virāgā upekkhako ca viharati sato ca sampajāno sukhañca kāyena paṭisaṁvedeti, yaṁ taṁ ariyā ācikkhanti:
'upekkhako satimā sukhavihārī'ti tatiyaṁ jhānaṁ upasampajja

And with the fading away of rapture, they enter and remain in the third absorption, where they meditate with equanimity, mindful and aware, personally experiencing the bliss of which the noble ones declare, 'Equanimous and mindful, one meditates in bliss.'

Sukhassa ca pahānā dukkhassa ca pahānā pubbeva

9. Vesālīsutta At Vesālī

Evam me sutam—
So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā vesāliyam viharati mahāvane kūṭāgārasālāyam.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Vesālī, at the Great Wood, in the hall with the peaked roof.

Tena kho pana samayena bhagavā bhikkhūnam anekapariyāyena asubhakatham katheti, asubhāya vaṇṇam bhāsati, asubhabhāvanāya vaṇṇam bhāsati.

Now at that time the Buddha spoke in many ways to the mendicants about the meditation on ugliness. He praised the meditation on ugliness and its development.

Atha kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:
Then the Buddha said to the mendicants,

“icchāmaham, bhikkhave, adḍhamāsam paṭisallīyitum.
“Mendicants, I wish to go on retreat for a fortnight.

Nāmhi kenaci upasaṅkamitabbo, aññatra ekena piṇḍapātanīhārakena”ti.

No-one should approach me, except for the one who brings my alms-food.”

“Evam, bhante”ti kho te bhikkhū bhagavato paṭissutvā nāssudha koci bhagavantam upasaṅkamati, aññatra ekena piṇḍapātanīhārakena.

“Yes, sir,” replied those mendicants. And no-one approached him, except for the one who brought the alms-food.

Atha kho te bhikkhū:

Then those mendicants thought,

“bhagavā anekapariyāyena asubhakathaṃ katheti, asubhāya vaṇṇaṃ bhāsati, asubhabhāvanāya vaṇṇaṃ bhāsati”ti anekākāravokāraṃ asubhabhāvanānuyogamanuyuttā viharanti.

“The Buddha spoke in many ways about the meditation on ugliness. He praised the meditation on ugliness and its development.” They committed themselves to developing the many different facets of the meditation on ugliness.

Te iminā kāyena aṭṭiyamānā harāyamānā jigucchamānā satthahāraṃ pariyesanti.

Becoming horrified, repelled, and disgusted with this body, they looked for someone to slit their wrists.

Dasapi bhikkhū ekāhena satthaṃ āharanti, vīsampi ...pe... tiṃsampi bhikkhū ekāhena satthaṃ āharanti.

Each day ten, twenty, or thirty mendicants slit their wrists.

Atha kho bhagavā tassa aḍḍhamāsassa accayena paṭisallānā vuṭṭhito āyasmantaṃ ānandaṃ āmantesi:

Then after a fortnight had passed, the Buddha came out of retreat and addressed Ānanda, “kiṃ nu kho, ānanda, tanubhūto viya bhikkhusaṅgho”ti?

“Ānanda, why does the mendicant Saṅgha seem so diminished?”

“Tathā hi pana, bhante, ‘bhagavā bhikkhūnaṃ anekapariyāyena asubhakathaṃ katheti, asubhāya vaṇṇaṃ bhāsati, asubhabhāvanāya vaṇṇaṃ bhāsati’ti anekākāravokāraṃ asubhabhāvanānuyogamanuyuttā viharanti.

Ānanda told the Buddha all that had happened, and said,

Te iminā kāyena aṭṭiyamānā harāyamānā jigucchamānā satthahārakam̐ pariyesanti.

Dasapi bhikkhū ekāhena sattham̐ āharanti, vīsampi bhikkhū ... tiṃsampi bhikkhū ekāhena sattham̐ āharanti.

Sādhu, bhante, bhagavā aññam̐ pariyāyam̐ ācikkhatu yathāyam̐ bhikkhusaṅgho aññāya saṅghaheyyā”ti.

“Sir, please explain another way for the mendicant Saṅgha to get enlightened.”

“Tenahānanda, yāvatikā bhikkhū vesālim̐ upanissāya viharanti te sabbe upaṭṭhānasālāyam̐ sannipātehī”ti.

“Well then, Ānanda, gather all the mendicants staying in the vicinity of Vesālī together in the assembly hall.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho āyasmā ānando bhagavato paṭissutvā yāvatikā bhikkhū vesālim̐ upanissāya viharanti te sabbe upaṭṭhānasālāyam̐ sannipātetvā yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam̐ etadavoca:

“Yes, sir,” replied Ānanda. He did what the Buddha asked, went up to him, and said, “sannipatito, bhante, bhikkhusaṅgho.

“Sir, the mendicant Saṅgha has assembled.

Yassadāni, bhante, bhagavā kālam̐ maññatī”ti.

Please, sir, come at your convenience.”

Atha kho bhagavā yena upaṭṭhānasālā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā paññatte āsane nisīdi.

Then the Buddha went to the assembly hall, sat down on the seat spread out,

Nisajja kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

and addressed the mendicants:

“ayampi kho, bhikkhave, ānāpānassatisamādhī bhāvito bahulīkato santo ceva paṇīto ca asecanako ca sukho ca vihāro uppannuppanne ca pāpake akusale dhamme ṭhānaso antaradhāpeti vūpasameti.

“Mendicants, when this immersion due to mindfulness of breathing is developed and cultivated it’s peaceful and sublime, a deliciously pleasant meditation. And it disperses and settles unskillful qualities on the spot whenever they arise.

Seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, gimhānaṃ pacchime māse ūhataṃ rajojallaṃ, tarenaṃ mahākālamegho ṭhānaso antaradhāpeti vūpasameti;

In the same way, when this immersion due to mindfulness of breathing is developed and cultivated it’s peaceful and sublime, a deliciously pleasant meditation. And it disperses and settles unskillful qualities on the spot whenever they arise.

Kathaṃ bhāvito ca, bhikkhave, ānāpānassatisamādhī kathaṃ bahulīkato santo ceva paṇīto ca asecanako ca sukho ca vihāro uppannuppanne ca pāpake akusale dhamme ṭhānaso antaradhāpeti vūpasameti?

And how is it so developed and cultivated?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu araṇṇagato vā rukkhamaṅgato vā suṇṇāgāragato vā nisīdati pallaṅkaṃ ābhujitvā ujum kāyaṃ paṇidhāya parimukhaṃ satim upaṭṭhapetvā.

It’s when a mendicant—gone to a wilderness, or to the root of a tree, or to an empty hut—sits down cross-legged, with their body straight, and focuses their mindfulness right there.

So satova assasati, satova passasati ...pe...

Just mindful, they breathe in. Mindful, they breathe out. ...

‘paṭinissaggānupassī assasissāmī’ti sikkhati,

‘paṭinissaggānupassī passasissāmī’ti sikkhati.

They practice like this: ‘I’ll breathe in observing letting go.’ They practice like this: ‘I’ll breathe out observing letting go.’

Evam bhāvito kho, bhikkhave, ānāpānassatisamādhī evaṃ bahuḷīkato santo ceva paṇīto ca asecanako ca sukho ca vihāro uppannuppanne ca pāpake akusale dhamme ṭhānaso antaradhāpeti vūpasametī’ti.

That’s how this immersion due to mindfulness of breathing is developed and cultivated so that it’s peaceful and sublime, a deliciously pleasant meditation. And it disperses and settles unskillful qualities on the spot whenever they arise.”

10. Kimilasutta With Kimbila

Evaṃ me sutam—

At one time the Buddha was staying near Kimbilā in the Freshwater Mangrove Wood.

Tatra kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ kimilaṃ āmantesi:
Then the Buddha said to Venerable Kimbila,

“kathaṃ bhāvito nu kho, kimila, ānāpānassatisamādhī kathaṃ bahulīkato mahapphalo hoti mahānisaṃso”ti?
“Kimbila, how is immersion due to mindfulness of breathing developed and cultivated so that it is very fruitful and beneficial?”

Evaṃ vutte, āyasmā kimilo tuṅhī ahoṣi.
When he said this, Kimbila kept silent.

Dutiyampi kho bhagavā ...pe...
For a second time ...

tatīyampi kho bhagavā āyasmantaṃ kimilaṃ āmantesi:
And for a third time, the Buddha said to him,

“kathaṃ bhāvito nu kho, kimila, ānāpānassatisamādhī kathaṃ bahulīkato mahapphalo hoti mahānisaṃso”ti?
“How is immersion due to mindfulness of breathing developed and cultivated so that it is very fruitful and beneficial?”

Tatīyampi kho āyasmā kimilo tuṅhī ahoṣi.

And a second time and a third time Kimbila kept silent.

Evaṃ vutte, āyasmā ānando bhagavantaṃ etadavoca:

When he said this, Venerable Ānanda said to the Buddha, “etassa, bhagavā, kālo; etassa, sugata, kālo.

Let the Buddha speak on immersion due to mindfulness of breathing.
The mendicants will listen and remember it.”

“Tenahānanda, suṇāhi, sādhuḥkaṃ manasi karohi;

“Well then, Ānanda, listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho āyasmā ānando bhagavato paccassosi.

“Yes, sir,” Ānanda replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“kathaṃ bhāvito ca, ānanda, ānāpānassatisamādhi kathaṃ

“Ānanda, how is immersion due to mindfulness of breathing

It’s when a mendicant has gone to a wilderness, or to the root of a

“Sir, what is that one thing?”

“Ānāpānassatisamādhi kho, ānanda, ekadhammo bhāvito bahulīkato cattāro satipaṭṭhāne paripūreti, cattāro satipaṭṭhānā bhāvitā bahulīkatā satta bojjhaṅge paripūrenti, satta bojjhaṅgā bhāvitā bahulīkatā vijjāvimuttiṃ paripūrenti.

“Immersion due to mindfulness of breathing is one thing that, when developed and cultivated, fulfills the four kinds of mindfulness meditation. And the four kinds of mindfulness meditation, when developed and cultivated, fulfill the seven awakening factors. And the seven awakening factors, when developed and cultivated, fulfill knowledge and freedom.

Kathaṃ bhāvito, ānanda, ānāpānassatisamādhi kathaṃ bahulīkato cattāro satipaṭṭhāne paripūreti?

And how is mindfulness of breathing developed and cultivated so as to fulfill the four kinds of mindfulness meditation?

Idhānanda, bhikkhu araṇṇagato vā rukkhamūlagato vā suñṇāgāragato vā nisīdati pallaṅkaṃ ābhujitvā ujum kāyaṃ paṇidhāya parimukhaṃ satim upaṭṭhapetvā.

It’s when a mendicant has gone to a wilderness, or to the root of a tree, or to an empty hut, sits down cross-legged, with their body straight, and establishes mindfulness right there.

So satova assasati, satova passasati.

Just mindful, they breathe in. Mindful, they breathe out.

Dīghaṃ vā assasanto ‘dīghaṃ assasāmī’ti pajānāti, dīghaṃ vā passasanto ‘dīghaṃ passasāmī’ti pajānāti ...pe...

When breathing in heavily they know: ‘I’m breathing in heavily.’

‘paṭinissaggānupassī assasissāmī’ti sikkhati,

‘paṭinissaggānupassī passasissāmī’ti sikkhati.

They practice like this: ‘I’ll breathe in observing letting go.’ They practice like this: ‘I’ll breathe out observing letting go.’

Yasmim̐ samaye, ānanda, bhikkhu dīgham̐ vā assasanto ‘dīgham̐ assasāmī’ti pajānāti, dīgham̐ vā passasanto ‘dīgham̐ passasāmī’ti pajānāti;

When a mendicant is breathing in heavily they know: ‘I’m breathing in heavily.’ When breathing out heavily they know: ‘I’m breathing out heavily.’

rassam̐ vā ...pe...

...

‘passambhayam̐ kāyasaṅkhāram̐ assasissāmī’ti sikkhati, ‘passambhayam̐ kāyasaṅkhāram̐ passasissāmī’ti sikkhati—

They practice like this: ‘I’ll breathe in stilling the physical process.’ They practice like this: ‘I’ll breathe out stilling the physical process.’

kāye kāyānupassī, ānanda, bhikkhu tasmim̐ samaye viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassam̐.

At such a time a mendicant is meditating by observing an aspect of the body—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

Tam̐ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Kāyaññatarāham̐, ānanda, etam̐ vadāmi, yadidaṃ—assāsapassāsam̐.

Because the breath is a certain aspect of the body, I say.

Tasmātihānanda, kāye kāyānupassī bhikkhu tasmim̐ samaye viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassam̐.

Therefore, at such a time a mendicant is meditating by observing an aspect of the body—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

Yasmiṃ samaye, ānanda, bhikkhu ‘pītippaṭisaṃvedī

There’s a time when a mendicant practices like this: ‘I’ll breathe in experiencing rapture ...

‘passambhayaṃ cittasaṅkhāraṃ assasissāmī’ti sikkhati,

‘passambhayaṃ cittasaṅkhāraṃ passasissāmī’ti sikkhati—

They practice like this: ‘I’ll breathe in stilling the mental processes.’

They practice like this: ‘I’ll breathe out stilling the mental processes.’

vedanāsu vedanānupassī, ānanda, bhikkhu tasmīṃ samaye viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ.

At such a time a mendicant is meditating by observing an aspect of feelings—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Vedanāññatarāhaṃ, ānanda, etaṃ vadāmi, yadidaṃ—assāsapassāsānaṃ sādhukaṃ manasikāraṃ.

Because close focus on the breath is a certain aspect of feelings, I say.

Tasmātihānanda, vedanāsu vedanānupassī bhikkhu tasmīṃ samaye viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke

abhijjhādomanassaṃ. (2)

Therefore, at such a time a mendicant is meditating by observing an aspect of feelings—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

Yasmiṃ samaye, ānanda, bhikkhu ‘cittappaṭisaṃvedī assasissāmī’ti sikkhati, ‘cittappaṭisaṃvedī passasissāmī’ti sikkhati;

There’s a time when a mendicant practices like this: ‘I’ll breathe in experiencing the mind.’ They practice like this: ‘I’ll breathe out experiencing the mind.’

abhippamodayaṃ cittaṃ ...pe...

They practice like this: ‘I’ll breathe in gladdening the mind ...

samādahaṃ cittaṃ ...

immersing the mind in samādhi ...

‘vimocayaṃ cittaṃ assasissāmī’ti sikkhati, ‘vimocayaṃ cittaṃ passasissāmī’ti sikkhati—freeing the mind.’ They practice like this: ‘I’ll breathe out freeing the mind.’

citte cittānupassī, ānanda, bhikkhu tasmim̐ samaye viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ.

At such a time a mendicant is meditating by observing an aspect of the mind—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Nāhaṃ, ānanda, muṭṭhassatissa asampajānassa ānāpānassatisamādhībhāvanaṃ vadāmi.

Because there is no development of immersion due to mindfulness of breathing for someone who is unmindful and lacks awareness, I say.

Tasmātihānanda, citte cittānupassī bhikkhu tasmim̐ samaye viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ. (3)

Therefore, at such a time a mendicant is meditating by observing an aspect of the mind—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

Yasmiṃ samaye, ānanda, bhikkhu aniccānupassī ...pe...

There's a time when a mendicant practices like this: 'I'll breathe in observing impermanence ...

virāgānupassī ...

fading away ...

nirodhānupassī ...

cessation ...

'paṭinissaggānupassī assasissāmī'ti sikkhati,

'paṭinissaggānupassī passasissāmī'ti sikkhati—letting go.' They practice like this: 'I'll breathe out observing letting go.'

dhammesu dhammānupassī, ānanda, bhikkhu tasmiṃ samaye viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ.

At such a time a mendicant is meditating by observing an aspect of principles—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

So yaṃ taṃ hoti abhijjhādomanassānaṃ pahānaṃ taṃ paññāya disvā sādhukaṃ ajjupekkhitā hoti.

Having seen with wisdom the giving up of desire and aversion, they watch closely over with equanimity.

Tasmātihānanda, dhammesu dhammānupassī bhikkhu tasmiṃ samaye viharati ātāpī sampajāno satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhādomanassaṃ. (4)

Therefore, at such a time a mendicant is meditating by observing an aspect of principles—keen, aware, and mindful, rid of desire and aversion for the world.

Evaṃ bhāvito kho, ānanda, ānāpānassatisamādhi evaṃ bahulīkato cattāro satipaṭṭhāne paripūreti.

That's how immersion due to mindfulness of breathing is developed and cultivated so as to fulfill the four kinds of mindfulness meditation.

Katham bhāvitā cānanda, cattāro satipaṭṭhānā katham bahulīkatā satta bojjhaṅge paripūrenti?

And how are the four kinds of mindfulness meditation developed and cultivated so as to fulfill the seven awakening factors?

Yasmiṃ samaye, ānanda, bhikkhu kāye kāyānupassī viharati—
Whenever a mendicant meditates by observing an aspect of the body, upaṭṭhitāssa tasmim samaye bhikkhuno sati hoti asammuṭṭhā.

their mindfulness is established and lucid.

Yasmiṃ samaye, ānanda, bhikkhuno upaṭṭhitā sati hoti asammuṭṭhā—satisambojjhaṅgo tasmim samaye bhikkhuno āraddho hoti, satisambojjhaṅgaṃ tasmim samaye bhikkhu bhāveti, satisambojjhaṅgo tasmim samaye bhikkhuno bhāvanāpāripūriṃ gacchati.

At such a time, a mendicant has activated the awakening factor of mindfulness; they develop it and perfect it.

So tathā sato viharanto taṃ dhammaṃ paññāya pavicinati pavicarati parivīmaṃsamāpajjati.

As they live mindfully in this way they investigate, explore, and inquire into that principle with wisdom.

Yasmiṃ samaye, ānanda, bhikkhu tathā sato viharanto taṃ dhammaṃ paññāya pavicinati pavicarati parivīmaṃsamāpajjati — dhammavicayasambojjhaṅgo tasmim samaye bhikkhuno āraddho hoti, dhammavicayasambojjhaṅgaṃ tasmim samaye bhikkhu bhāveti, dhammavicayasambojjhaṅgo tasmim samaye bhikkhuno bhāvanāpāripūriṃ gacchati. (2)

At such a time, a mendicant has activated the awakening factor of investigation of principles; they develop it and perfect it.

Tassa taṃ dhammaṃ paññāya pavicinato pavicarato parivīmaṃsamāpajjato āraddhaṃ hoti vīriyaṃ asallīnaṃ.

As they investigate principles with wisdom in this way their energy is roused up and unflagging.

Yasmiṃ samaye, ānanda, bhikkhuno taṃ dhammaṃ paññāya pavicinato pavicarato parivīmaṃsamāpajjato āraddhaṃ hoti vīriyaṃ asallīnaṃ—

At such a time, a mendicant has activated the awakening factor of energy; they develop it and perfect it.

vīriyasambojjhaṅgo tasmīṃ samaye bhikkhuno āraddho hoti, vīriyasambojjhaṅgaṃ tasmīṃ samaye bhikkhu bhāveti, vīriyasambojjhaṅgo tasmīṃ samaye bhikkhuno bhāvanāpāripūriṃ gacchati. (3)

Āraddhavīriyassa uppajjati pīti nirāmisā.

When you're energetic, spiritual rapture arises.

Yasmiṃ samaye, ānanda, bhikkhuno āraddhavīriyassa uppajjati pīti nirāmisā—

At such a time, a mendicant has activated the awakening factor of rapture; they develop it and perfect it.

pītisambojjhaṅgo tasmīṃ samaye bhikkhuno āraddho hoti, pītisambojjhaṅgaṃ tasmīṃ samaye bhikkhu bhāveti, pītisambojjhaṅgo tasmīṃ samaye bhikkhuno bhāvanāpāripūriṃ gacchati. (4)

Pītimanassa kāyopi passambhati, cittampi passambhati.

When the mind is full of rapture, the body and mind become tranquil.

Yasmiṃ samaye, ānanda, bhikkhuno pītimanassa kāyopi passambhati, cittampi passambhati—

At such a time, a mendicant has activated the awakening factor of tranquility; they develop it and perfect it.

passaddhisambojjhaṅgo tasmīṃ samaye bhikkhuno āraddho hoti, passaddhisambojjhaṅgaṃ tasmīṃ samaye bhikkhu bhāveti, passaddhisambojjhaṅgo tasmīṃ samaye bhikkhuno bhāvanāpāripūriṃ gacchati. (5)

Passaddhakāyassa sukhino cittaṃ samādhīyati.

When the body is tranquil and one feels bliss, the mind becomes immersed in samādhi.

Yasmiṃ samaye, ānanda, bhikkhuno passaddhakāyassa sukhino cittaṃ samādhīyati—

At such a time, a mendicant has activated the awakening factor of immersion; they develop it and perfect it.

“Mendicants, suppose a wheel-turning monarch were to rule as sovereign lord over these four continents. And when his body breaks up, after death, he’s reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm, in the company of the gods of the Thirty-Three. There he entertains himself in the Garden of Delight, escorted by a band of nymphs, and supplied and provided with the five kinds of heavenly sensual stimulation. Still, as he’s lacking four things, he’s not exempt from hell, the animal realm, or the ghost realm. He’s not exempt from places of loss, bad places, the underworld.

Kiñcāpi, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako piṇḍiyālopena yāpeti, nantakāni ca dhāreti, so catūhi dhammehi samannāgato, atha

kho so parimutto nirayā parimutto tiracchānayoniyā parimutto pettivisayā parimutto apāyaduggativinipātā.

Now suppose a noble disciple wears rags and feeds on scraps of alms-food. Still, as they have four things, they're exempt from hell, the animal realm, or the ghost realm. They're exempt from places of loss, bad places, the underworld.

Katamehi catūhi?

What four?

Idha, bhikkhave, ariyasāvako buddhe aveccappasādena samannāgato hoti:

It's when a noble disciple has experiential confidence in the Buddha:

'itipi so bhagavā arahaṃ sammāsambuddho vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānaṃ buddho bhagavā'ti.

'That Blessed One is perfected, a fully awakened Buddha, accomplished in knowledge and conduct, holy, knower of the world, supreme guide for those who wish to train, teacher of gods and humans, awakened, blessed.'

Dhamme aveccappasādena samannāgato hoti:

They have experiential confidence in the teaching:

'svākkhāto bhagavatā dhammo sandiṭṭhiko akāliko ehipassiko opaneyyiko paccattaṃ veditabbo viññūhī'ti.

'The teaching is well explained by the Buddha—visible in this very life, immediately effective, inviting inspection, relevant, so that sensible people can know it for themselves.'

Saṅghe aveccappasādena samannāgato hoti:

They have experiential confidence in the Saṅgha:

'suppaṭipanno bhagavato sāvakaśaṅgho, ujuppaṭipanno bhagavato sāvakaśaṅgho, ñāyappaṭipanno bhagavato

sāvakaśaṅgho, sāmīcippaṭiṇṇo bhagavato sāvakaśaṅgho, yadidaṃ—cattāri purisayugāni aṭṭha purisapuggalā, esa bhagavato sāvakaśaṅgho āhuneyyo pāhuneyyo dakkhiṇeyyo añjalikaraṇīyo anuttaraṃ puññakkhettaṃ lokassā'ti.

'The Saṅgha of the Buddha's disciples is practicing the way that's good, straightforward, methodical, and proper. It consists of the four pairs, the eight individuals. This is the Saṅgha of the Buddha's disciples that is worthy of offerings to the gods, worthy of hospitality, worthy of a religious donation, worthy of greeting with joined palms, and is the supreme field of merit for the world.'

Ariyakantehi sīlehi samannāgato hoti akhaṇḍehi acchiddehi asabalehi akammāsehi bhujissehi viññuppasatthehi aparāmaṭṭhehi samādhisaṃvattanikehi.

Furthermore, a noble disciple's ethical conduct is loved by the noble ones, unbroken, impeccable, spotless, and unmarred, liberating, praised by sensible people, not mistaken, and leading to immersion.

Imehi catūhi dhammehi samannāgato hoti.

These are the four factors of stream-entry that they have.

Yo ca, bhikkhave, catunnaṃ dīpānaṃ paṭilābho, yo catunnaṃ dhammānaṃ paṭilābho catunnaṃ dīpānaṃ paṭilābho catunnaṃ dhammānaṃ paṭilābhassa kalaṃ nāgghati soḷasin'ti.

And, mendicants, gaining these four continents is not worth a sixteenth part of gaining these four things."

Paṭhamaṃ.

3. Dīghāvuupāsakasutta With Dīghāvu

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati veḷuvane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tena kho pana samayena dīghāvu upāsako ābādhiko hoti
dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.

Now at that time the lay follower Dhīgāvu was sick, suffering, gravely ill.

Atha kho dīghāvu upāsako pitaraṃ jotikaṃ gahapatiṃ

Then he addressed his father, the householder Jotika,

“ehi tvaṃ, gahapati, yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkama;
upasaṅkamtivā mama vacanena bhagavato pāde sirasā vanda:

“Please, householder, go to the Buddha, and in my name bow with your head to his feet. Say to him:

‘dīghāvu, bhante, upāsako ābādhiko hoti dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.

‘Sir, the lay follower Dhīgāvu is sick, suffering, gravely ill.

So bhagavato pāde sirasā vandatī’ti.

He bows with his head to your feet.’

Evañca vadehi:

And then say:

‘sādhu kira, bhante, bhagavā yena dīghāvussa upāsakassa

‘Sir, please visit him at his home out of compassion.’”

“Yes, dear,” replied Jotika. He did as Dīghāvu asked.

“dīghāvu, bhante, upāsako ābādhiko hoti dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.

So bhagavato pāde sirasā vandati.

Evañca vadeti:

‘sādhu kira, bhante, bhagavā yena dīghāvussa upāsakassa nivesanaṃ tenupasaṅkamatu anukampaṃ upādāyā’”ti.

Adhivāsesi bhagavā tuṅhībhāvena.

The Buddha consented in silence.

Atha kho bhagavā nivāsetvā pattacīvaramādāya yena dīghāvussa upāsakassa nivesanaṃ tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā paññatte āsane nisīdi. Nisajja kho bhagavā dīghāvuṃ upāsakaṃ etadavoca:

Then the Buddha robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, went to the home of the lay follower Dīghāvu, sat down on the seat spread out, and said to him, “kacci te, dīghāvu, khamanīyaṃ, kacci yāpanīyaṃ? Kacci dukkhā vedanā paṭikkamanti, no abhikkamanti; paṭikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no abhikkamo””ti?

“I hope you’re coping, Dīghāvu; I hope you’re getting better. I hope that your pain is fading, not growing, that its fading is evident, not its growing.”

“Na me, bhante, khamanīyaṃ, na yāpanīyaṃ. Bāḷhā me dukkhā vedanā abhikkamanti, no paṭikkamanti; abhikkamosānaṃ paññāyati, no paṭikkamo””ti.

“Sir, I’m not keeping well, I’m not alright. The pain is terrible and growing, not fading; its growing is evident, not its fading.”

“Tasmātiha te, dīghāvu, evaṃ sikkhitabbaṃ:

“Yeme, bhante, bhagavatā cha vijjābhāgiyā dhammā desitā,

Sāriputta, they speak of ‘a stream-enterer’.

Katamo nu kho, sāriputta, sotāpanno”ti?

What is a stream-enterer?”

“Yo hi, bhante, iminā ariyena aṭṭhaṅgikena maggena samannāgato ayaṃ vuccati sotāpanno, svāyaṃ āyasmā evaṃnāmo evaṅgotto”ti.

“Sir, anyone who possesses this noble eightfold path is called a stream-enterer, the venerable of such and such name and clan.”

“Sādhu sādhu, sāriputta.

“Good, good, Sāriputta!

Yo hi, sāriputta, iminā ariyena aṭṭhaṅgikena maggena samannāgato ayaṃ vuccati sotāpanno, svāyaṃ āyasmā evaṃnāmo evaṅgotto”ti.

7. Veḷudvāreyyasutta The People of Bamboo Gate

Evam me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayam bhagavā kosalesu cārikam caramāno mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhim yena veḷudvāram nāma kosalanam brāhmaṇagāmo tadavasari.

At one time the Buddha was wandering in the land of the Kosalans together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants when he arrived at a village of the Kosalan brahmins named Bamboo Gate.

Assosum kho te veḷudvāreyyakā brāhmaṇagahapatikā:

The brahmins and householders of Bamboo Gate heard:

“samaṇo khalu, bho, gotamo sakyaputto sakyakulā pabbajito kosalesu cārikam caramāno mahatā bhikkhusaṅghena saddhim veḷudvāram anuppatto.

“It seems the ascetic Gotama—a Sakyan, gone forth from a Sakyan family—has arrived at Bamboo Gate, together with a large Saṅgha of mendicants.

Tam kho pana bhavantam gotamam evam kalyāṇo kittisaddo abbhuggato:

He has this good reputation:

‘itipi so bhagavā araham sammāsambuddho vijjācaraṇasampanno sugato lokavidū anuttaro purisadammasārathi satthā devamanussānam buddho bhagavā’.

‘That Blessed One is perfected, a fully awakened Buddha, accomplished in knowledge and conduct, holy, knower of the world, supreme guide for those who wish to train, teacher of gods and humans, awakened, blessed.’

So imaṃ lokam sadevakam samārakam sabrahmakam sassamaṇabrāhmaṇim pajam sadevamanussam sayam abhiññā sacchikatvā pavedeti.

He has realized with his own insight this world—with its gods, Māras and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, gods and humans—and he makes it known to others.

So dhammam deseti ādikalyāṇam majjhekalyāṇam pariyosānakalyāṇam sāttham sabyañjanam, kevalaparipuṇṇam parisuddham brahmacariyam pakāseti.

He teaches Dhamma that’s good in the beginning, good in the middle, and good in the end, meaningful and well-phrased. And he reveals a spiritual practice that’s entirely full and pure.

Sādhu kho pana tathārūpānam arahatam dassanam hoti”ti.
It’s good to see such perfected ones.”

Atha kho te veḷudvāreyyakā brāhmaṇagahapatikā yena bhagavā

Then the brahmins and householders of Bamboo Gate went up to the Buddha. Before sitting down to one side, some bowed, some exchanged greetings and polite conversation, some held up their joined palms toward the Buddha, some announced their name and clan, while some kept silent. Seated to one side they said to the Buddha:

“mayam, bho gotama, evaṅkāmā evaṁchandā evaṁadhippāyā

“Master Gotama, these are our wishes, desires, and hopes.

puttasambādhasayanam ajjhāvaseyyāma, kāsikacandanam

We wish to live at home with our children; to use sandalwood imported from Kāsi; to wear garlands, perfumes, and makeup; and to accept gold and money. And when our body breaks up, after death, we wish to be reborn in a good place, a heavenly realm.

Tesaṁ no bhavaṁ gotamo amhākaṁ evaṅkāmānaṁ

Given that we have such wishes, may the Buddha teach us the Dhamma so that we may achieve them.”

“Attupanāyikaṁ vo, gahapatayo, dhammapariyāyam desessāmi.

“Householders, I will teach you an explanation of the Dhamma that’s relevant to oneself.

Taṁ suṇātha, sādhukaṁ manasi karotha, bhāsissāmī”ti.

Listen and pay close attention, I will speak.”

“Evaṁ, bho”ti kho te veḷudvāreyyakā brāhmaṇagahapatikā

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Bhagavā etadavoca:

The Buddha said this:

“Katamo ca, gahapatayo, attupanāyiko dhammapariyāyo?

“And what is the explanation of the Dhamma that’s relevant to oneself?

Idha, gahapatayo, ariyasāvako iti paṭisañcikkhati:

It's when a noble disciple reflects:

‘ahaṃ khosmi jīvitukāmo amaritukāmo sukhakāmo dukkhappaṭikūlo.

‘I want to live and don't want to die; I want to be happy and recoil from pain.

Yo kho maṃ jīvitukāmaṃ amaritukāmaṃ sukhakāmaṃ dukkhappaṭikūlaṃ jīvitā voropeyya, na metaṃ assa piyaṃ manāpaṃ.

Since this is so, if someone were to take my life, I wouldn't like that.

Ahañceva kho pana paraṃ jīvitukāmaṃ amaritukāmaṃ sukhakāmaṃ dukkhappaṭikūlaṃ jīvitā voropeyyaṃ, parassapi taṃ assa appiyaṃ amanāpaṃ.

But others also want to live and don't want to die; they want to be happy and recoil from pain. So if I were to take the life of someone else, they wouldn't like that either.

Yo kho myāyaṃ dhammo appiyo amanāpo, parassa peso
dhammo appiyo amanāpo.

The thing that is disliked by me is also disliked by others.

Yo kho myāyaṃ dhammo appiyo amanāpo, kathāhaṃ paraṃ
tena saṃyojeyyan'ti.

Since I dislike this thing, how can I inflict it on someone else?’

So iti paṭisañkhāya attanā ca pāṇātipātā paṭivirato hoti, parañca pāṇātipātā veramaṇiyā samādapeti, pāṇātipātā veramaṇiyā ca vaṇṇaṃ bhāsati.

Reflecting in this way, they give up killing living creatures themselves. And they encourage others to give up killing living creatures, praising the giving up of killing living creatures.

Evamassāyaṃ kāyasamācāro tikoṭiparisuddho hoti.

So their bodily behavior is purified in three points.

Puna caparaṃ, gahapatayo, ariyasāvako iti paṭisañcikkhati:

Furthermore, a noble disciple reflects:

‘yo kho me adinnaṃ theyyasaṅkhātāṃ ādiyeyya, na metaṃ assa piyaṃ manāpaṃ.

‘If someone were to steal from me, I wouldn’t like that.

Ahañceva kho pana parassa adinnaṃ theyyasaṅkhātāṃ ādiyeyyaṃ, parassapi taṃ assa appiyaṃ amanāpaṃ.

But if I were to steal from someone else, they wouldn’t like that either.

Yo kho myāyaṃ dhammo appiyo amanāpo, parassa peso dhammo appiyo amanāpo.

The thing that is disliked by me is also disliked by others.

Yo kho myāyaṃ dhammo appiyo amanāpo, kathāhaṃ paraṃ tena saṃyojeyyaṃ’ti.

Since I dislike this thing, how can I inflict it on someone else?’

So iti paṭisaṅkhāya attanā ca adinnādānā paṭivirato hoti, parañca adinnādānā veramaṇiyā samādapeti, adinnādānā veramaṇiyā ca vaṇṇaṃ bhāsati.

Reflecting in this way, they give up stealing themselves. And they encourage others to give up stealing, praising the giving up of stealing.

Evamassāyaṃ kāyasamācāro tikoṭiparisuddho hoti.

So their bodily behavior is purified in three points.

Puna caparaṃ, gahapatayo, ariyasāvako iti paṭisañcikkhati:

Furthermore, a noble disciple reflects:

‘yo kho me dāresu cārittaṃ āpajjeyya, na metaṃ assa piyaṃ manāpaṃ.

‘If someone were to have sexual relations with my wives, I wouldn’t like it.

Ahañceva kho pana parassa dāresu cārittaṃ āpajjeyyaṃ, parassapi taṃ assa appiyaṃ amanāpaṃ.

But if I were to have sexual relations with someone else's wives, he wouldn't like that either.

Yo kho myāyaṃ dhammo appiyo amanāpo, parassa peso dhammo appiyo amanāpo.

The thing that is disliked by me is also disliked by others.

Yo kho myāyaṃ dhammo appiyo amanāpo, kathāhaṃ paraṃ tena saṃyojeyyaṃ'ti.

Since I dislike this thing, how can I inflict it on others?'

So iti paṭisaṅkhāya attanā ca kāmesumicchācārā paṭivirato hoti, parañca kāmesumicchācārā veramaṇiyā samādapeti, kāmesumicchācārā veramaṇiyā ca vaṇṇaṃ bhāsati.

Reflecting in this way, they give up sexual misconduct themselves. And they encourage others to give up sexual misconduct, praising the giving up of sexual misconduct.

Evamassāyaṃ kāyasamācāro tikoṭiparisuddho hoti.

So their bodily behavior is purified in three points.

Puna caparaṃ, gahapatayo, ariyasāvako iti paṭisaṅcikkhati:

Furthermore, a noble disciple reflects:

'yo kho me musāvādena atthaṃ bhaṅgeyya, na metaṃ assa piyaṃ manāpaṃ.

'If someone were to distort my meaning by lying, I wouldn't like it.

Ahañceva kho pana parassa musāvādena atthaṃ bhaṅgeyyaṃ, parassapi taṃ assa appiyaṃ amanāpaṃ.

But if I were to distort someone else's meaning by lying, they wouldn't like it either.

Yo kho myāyaṃ dhammo appiyo amanāpo, parassa peso dhammo appiyo amanāpo.

The thing that is disliked by me is also disliked by someone else.

Yo kho myāyaṃ dhammo appiyo amanāpo, kathāhaṃ paraṃ tena saṃyojeyyaṃ'ti.

Since I dislike this thing, how can I inflict it on others?'

So iti paṭisaṅkhāya attanā ca musāvādā paṭivirato hoti, parañca musāvādā veramaṇiyā samādapeti, musāvādā veramaṇiyā ca vaṇṇaṃ bhāsati.

Reflecting in this way, they give up lying themselves. And they encourage others to give up lying, praising the giving up of lying.

Evamassāyaṃ vacīsamācāro tikoṭiparisuddho hoti.

So their verbal behavior is purified in three points.

Puna caparaṃ, gahapatayo, ariyasāvako iti paṭisaṅcikkhati:

Furthermore, a noble disciple reflects:

“yo kho maṃ pisuṇāya vācāya mitte bhindeyya, na metaṃ assa piyaṃ manāpaṃ.

‘If someone were to break me up from my friends by divisive speech, I wouldn’t like it.

Ahañceva kho pana paraṃ pisuṇāya vācāya mitte bhindeyyaṃ, parassapi taṃ assa appiyaṃ amanāpaṃ ...pe...

But if I were to break someone else from their friends by divisive speech, they wouldn’t like it either. ...’

evamassāyaṃ vacīsamācāro tikoṭiparisuddho hoti.

So their verbal behavior is purified in three points.

Puna caparaṃ, gahapatayo, ariyasāvako iti paṭisaṅcikkhati:

Furthermore, a noble disciple reflects:

“yo kho maṃ pharusāya vācāya samudācareyya, na metaṃ assa piyaṃ manāpaṃ.

‘If someone were to attack me with harsh speech, I wouldn’t like it.

Ahañceva kho pana paraṃ pharusāya vācāya samudācareyyaṃ, parassapi taṃ assa appiyaṃ amanāpaṃ.

But if I were to attack someone else with harsh speech, they wouldn’t like it either. ...’

Yo kho myāyaṃ dhammo ...pe...

evamassāyaṃ vacīsamācāro tikoṭiparisuddho hoti.

So their verbal behavior is purified in three points.

Puna caparaṃ, gahapatayo, ariyasāvako iti paṭisañcikkhati:

Furthermore, a noble disciple reflects:

‘yo kho maṃ samphabhāsenā samphappalāpabhāsenā samudācareyya, na metaṃ assa piyaṃ manāpaṃ.

‘If someone were to annoy me by talking silliness and nonsense, I wouldn’t like it.

Ahañceva kho pana paraṃ samphabhāsenā samphappalāpabhāsenā samudācareyyaṃ, parassapi taṃ assa appiyaṃ amanāpaṃ.

But if I were to annoy someone else by talking silliness and nonsense, they wouldn’t like it either.’

Yo kho myāyaṃ dhammo appiyo amanāpo, parassa peso
dhammo appiyo amanāpo.

The thing that is disliked by me is also disliked by another.

Yo kho myāyaṃ dhammo appiyo amanāpo, kathāhaṃ paraṃ

Since I dislike this thing, how can I inflict it on another?’

So iti paṭisañkhāya attanā ca samphappalāpā paṭivirato hoti,

Reflecting in this way, they give up talking nonsense themselves. And they encourage others to give up talking nonsense, praising the giving up of talking nonsense.

Evamassāyaṃ vacīsamācāro tikoṭiparisuddho hoti.

Evaṃ me sutam—

So I have heard.

ekam samayaṃ bhagavā ñātike viharati giñjakāvasathe.

At one time the Buddha was staying at Nādika in the brick house.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando yena bhagavā tenupasaṅkami;
upasaṅkamtivā bhagavantam abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi.
Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho āyasmā ānando bhagavantam
etadavoca:

Then Venerable Ānanda went up to the Buddha, bowed, sat down to one side, and said to him:

“Sāḷho nāma, bhante, bhikkhu kālaṅkato;

“Sir, the monk named Sāḷha has passed away.

tassa kā gati ko abhisamparāyo?

Where has he been reborn in his next life?

Nandā nāma, bhante, bhikkhunī kālaṅkatā;

The nun named Nandā, tassā kā gati ko abhisamparāyo?

Sudatto nāma, bhante, upāsako kālaṅkato;

the layman named Sudatta,

tassa kā gati ko abhisamparāyo?

Sujātā nāma, bhante, upāsikā kālaṅkatā;

and the laywoman named Sujātā have passed away.

tassā kā gati, ko abhisamparāyo”ti?

Where have they been reborn in the next life?”

“Sāḷho, ānanda, bhikkhu kālaṅkato āsavānaṃ khayā anāsavaṃ cetovimuttiṃ paññāvimuttiṃ diṭṭheva dhamme sayamaṃ abhiññā sacchikatvā upasampajja vihāsi.

“Ānanda, the monk Sāḷha passed away having realized the undefiled freedom of heart and freedom by wisdom in this very life, having realized it with his own insight due to the ending of defilements.

Nandā, ānanda, bhikkhunī kālaṅkatā pañcannaṃ orambhāgiyānaṃ saṃyojanānaṃ parikkhayā opapātikā tattha parinibbāyinī anāvattidhammā tasmā lokā.

The nun Nandā passed away having ended the five lower fetters. She’s been reborn spontaneously, and will be extinguished there, not liable to return from that world.

Sudatto, ānanda, upāsako kālaṅkato tiṇṇaṃ saṃyojanānaṃ parikkhayā rāgadosamohānaṃ tanuttā sakadāgāmī; sakideva imaṃ lokaṃ āgantvā dukkhassantaṃ karissati.

The layman Sudatta passed away having ended three fetters, and weakened greed, hate, and delusion. He’s a once-returner; he will come back to this world once only, then make an end of suffering.

Sujātā, ānanda, upāsikā kālaṅkatā tiṇṇaṃ saṃyojanānaṃ parikkhayā sotāpannā avinipātadhammā niyatā sambodhiparāyaṇā.

The laywoman Sujātā passed away having ended three fetters. She’s a stream-enterer, not liable to be reborn in the underworld, bound for awakening.

Anacchariyaṃ kho panetaṃ, ānanda, yaṃ manussabhūto kālaṃ kareyya;

It’s hardly surprising that a human being should pass away.

tasmim̐ tasmīñce maṃ kālañkate upasañkamitvā etamatthaṃ paṭipucchissatha. Vihesā pesā, ānanda, assa tathāgatassa.
But if you should come and ask me about it each and every time someone dies that would be a bother for me.

Tasmātihānanda, dhammādāsaṃ nāma dhammapariyāyaṃ desessāmi; yena samannāgato ariyasāvako ākañkhamāno attanāva attānaṃ byākareyya:

So Ānanda, I will teach you the explanation of the Dhamma called 'the mirror of the teaching'. A noble disciple who has this may declare of themselves:

'khīṇanirayomhi khīṇatiracchānayani khīṇapettivisayo khīṇāpāyaduggativinipāto, sotāpannohamasmi avinipātadhammo niyato sambodhiparāyaṇo'.

'I've finished with rebirth in hell, the animal realm, and the ghost realm. I've finished with all places of loss, bad places, the underworld. I am a stream-enterer! I'm not liable to be reborn in the underworld, and am bound for awakening.'

17. Dutiyamittāmaṅga Friends and Colleagues (2nd)

“Ye te, bhikkhave, anukampeyyātha, ye ca sotabbaṃ maññeyyuraṃ—mittā vā amaccā vā ñātī vā sālohitā vā—te, bhikkhave, catūsu sotāpattiyaṅgesu samādapetabbā, nivesetabbā, paṭiṭṭhāpetabbā.

“Mendicants, those who you have sympathy for, and those worth listening to—friends and colleagues, relatives and family—should be encouraged, supported, and established in the four factors of stream-entry.

Katamesu catūsu?

What four?

Buddhe aveccappasāde samādapetabbā, nivesetabbā, paṭiṭṭhāpetabbā—

Experiential confidence in the Buddha ...

itipi so bhagavā ...pe... satthā devamanussaṇaṃ buddho bhagavāti.

Siyā, bhikkhave, catunnaṃ mahābhūtānaṃ aññathattaṃ— pathavīdhātuyā, āpodhātuyā, tejodhātuyā, vāyodhātuyā—na tveva buddhe aveccappasādena samannāgatassa ariyasāvakaṃ siyā aññathattaṃ.

There might be change in the four primary elements—earth, water, fire, and air—but a noble disciple with experiential confidence in the Buddha would never change.

Tatridaṃ aññathattaṃ—so vata buddhe aveccappasādena samannāgato ariyasāvako nirayaṃ vā tiracchānayaṇiṃ vā pettivisaṇaṃ vā upapajjissatī”ti—netāṃ ṭhānaṃ vijjati.

In this context, ‘change’ means that such a noble disciple will be reborn in hell, the animal realm, or the ghost realm: this is not possible.

26. Paṭhamaanāthapiṇḍikasutta Anāthapiṇḍika (1st)

Sāvattthinidānaṃ.

At Sāvattthī.

Tena kho pana samayena anāthapiṇḍiko gahapati ābādhiko hoti dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.

Now at that time the householder Anāthapiṇḍika was sick, suffering, gravely ill.

Atha kho anāthapiṇḍiko gahapati aññataraṃ purisaṃ āmantesi:

Then he addressed a man,

“ehi tvaṃ, ambho purisa, yenāyasmā sāriputto tenupasaṅkama; upasaṅkamtivā mama vacanena āyasmato sāriputtassa pāde sirasā vanda:

“Please, mister, go to Venerable Sāriputta, and in my name bow with your head to his feet. Say to him:

‘anāthapiṇḍiko, bhante, gahapati ābādhiko dukkhito bāḷhagilāno.

‘Sir, the householder Anāthapiṇḍika is sick, suffering, gravely ill.

So āyasmato sāriputtassa pāde sirasā vandatī’ti.

He bows with his head to your feet.’

Evañca vadehi:

And then say:

‘sādhu kira, bhante, āyasmā sāriputto yena anāthapiṇḍikassa gahapatissa nivesanaṃ tenupasaṅkamatu anukampaṃ upādāyā’”ti.

‘Sir, please visit him at his home out of compassion.’”

“Evaṃ, bhante”ti kho so puriso anāthapiṇḍikassa gahapatissa paṭissutvā yenāyasmā sāriputto tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā āyasmantaṃ sāriputtaṃ abhivādetvā ekamantaṃ nisīdi. Ekamantaṃ nisinno kho so puriso āyasmantaṃ sāriputtaṃ etadavoca:

And what is the noble cycle that they have clearly seen and comprehended with wisdom?

Idha, gahapati, ariyasāvako paṭiccasamuppādaññeva sādhukaṃ yoniso manasi karoti—

A noble disciple properly attends to dependent origination itself:

iti imasmim̐ sati idaṃ hoti, imassuppādā idaṃ uppajjati;

'When this exists, that is; due to the arising of this, that arises.

iti imasmim̐ asati idaṃ na hoti, imassa nirodhā idaṃ nirujjhati;

When this doesn't exist, that is not; due to the cessation of this, that ceases.' That is:

yadidaṃ avijjāpaccayā saṅkhārā, saṅkhārapaccayā viññāṇaṃ ...pe...

Ignorance is a condition for choices. Choices are a condition for consciousness. Consciousness is a condition for name and form. Name and form are a condition for the six sense fields. The six sense fields are conditions for contact. Contact is a condition for feeling. Feeling is a condition for craving. Craving is a condition for grasping. Grasping is a condition for continued existence. Continued existence is a condition for rebirth. Rebirth is a condition that gives rise to old age and death, sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress.

evametassa kevalassa dukkhakkhandhassa samudayo hoti.

That is how this entire mass of suffering originates.

Avijjāya tveva asesavirāganirodhā saṅkhāranirodho ...pe...

When ignorance fades away and ceases with nothing left over, choices cease. When choices cease, consciousness ceases. When consciousness ceases, name and form cease. When name and form cease, the six sense fields cease. When the six sense fields cease, contact ceases. When contact ceases, feeling ceases. When feeling ceases, craving ceases. When craving ceases, grasping ceases. When grasping ceases, continued existence ceases. When continued existence ceases, rebirth ceases. When rebirth ceases, old age and death, sorrow, lamentation, pain, sadness, and distress cease.

evametassa kevalassa dukkhakkhandhassa nirodho hoti.

If they reply,

'paranimmitavasavattīhi me devehi cittaṃ vuṭṭhitam, brahmaloke cittaṃ adhimocitan'ti, so evamassa vacanīyo:

'I have done so,' they should say:

'brahmalokopi kho, āvuso, anicco addhuvo sakkāyapariyāpanno.

'Good sir, the Brahmā realm is impermanent, not lasting, and included within identity.

Sādhāyasmā, brahmalokā cittaṃ vuṭṭhāpetvā sakkāyanirodhe cittaṃ upasamharāhī'ti.

It would be good to turn your mind away from the Brahmā realm and apply it to the cessation of identity.'

So ce evaṃ vadeyya:

If they reply,

'brahmalokā me cittaṃ vuṭṭhitam, sakkāyanirodhe cittaṃ upasamharāmī'ti;

'I have done so,'

evaṃ vimuttacittassa kho, mahānāma, upāsakassa āsavā vimuttacittena bhikkhunā na kiñci nānākaraṇaṃ vadāmi, yadidaṃ—then there is no difference between a lay follower whose mind is freed in this way and a mendicant whose mind is freed from defilements; that is,

Ete, bhikkhave, vitakkā atthasaṃhitā ete ādibrahmacariyakā ete nibbidāya virāgāya nirodhāya upasamāya abhiññāya sambodhāya nibbānāya saṃvattanti.

When you think something up, you should think: ‘This is suffering’ ...
‘This is the origin of suffering’ ... ‘This is the cessation of suffering’ ...
‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering’.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Esā, bhikkhave, cintā atthasaṃhitā, esā ādibrahmacariyakā, esā nibbidāya virāgāya nirodhāya upasamāya abhiññāya sambodhāya nibbānāya saṃvattati.

Because those thoughts are beneficial and relevant to the fundamentals of the spiritual life. They lead to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment.

9. Viggāhikakathāsutta Arguments

“Mā, bhikkhave, viggāhikakathaṃ katheyyātha:

11. Dhammacakkappavattanasutta Rolling Forth the Wheel of Dhamma

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā bārāṇasiyaṃ viharati isipatane migadāye.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Benares, in the deer park at Isipatana.

Tatra kho bhagavā pañcavaggiye bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the group of five mendicants:

“Dveme, bhikkhave, antā pabbajitena na sevitabbā.

“Mendicants, these two extremes should not be cultivated by one who has gone forth.

Katame dve?

What two?

Yo cāyaṃ kāmesu kāmasukhallikānuyogo hīno gammo pothujjaniko anariyo anattasaṃhito, yo cāyaṃ attakilamathānuyogo dukkho anariyo anattasaṃhito.

Indulgence in sensual pleasures, which is low, crude, ordinary, ignoble, and pointless. And indulgence in self-mortification, which is painful, ignoble, and pointless.

Ete kho, bhikkhave, ubho ante anupagamma majjhimā paṭipadā tathāgatena abhisambuddhā cakkhukaraṇī ñāṇakaraṇī upasamāya abhiññāya sambodhāya nibbānāya saṃvattati.

Avoiding these two extremes, the Realized One woke up by understanding the middle way of practice, which gives vision and knowledge, and leads to peace, direct knowledge, awakening, and extinguishment.

Katamā ca sā, bhikkhave, majjhimā paṭipadā tathāgatena abhisambuddhā cakkhukaraṇī ñāṇakaraṇī upasamāya abhiññāya sambodhāya nibbānāya saṁvattati?

And what is that middle way of practice?

Ayameva ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo, seyyathidaṃ—

It is simply this noble eightfold path, that is:

sammādiṭṭhi sammāsaṅkappo sammāvācā sammākammanto sammājīvo sammāvāyāmo sammāsati sammāsamādhi.

Ayaṃ kho sā, bhikkhave, majjhimā paṭipadā tathāgatena abhisambuddhā cakkhukaraṇī ñāṇakaraṇī upasamāya abhiññāya sambodhāya nibbānāya saṁvattati.

This is that middle way of practice, which gives vision and knowledge, and leads to peace, direct knowledge, awakening, and extinguishment.

Idaṃ kho pana, bhikkhave, dukkhaṃ ariyasaccaṃ—

Now this is the noble truth of suffering.

jātipi dukkhā, jarāpi dukkhā, byādhipi dukkho, maraṇampi dukkhaṃ, appiyehi sampayogo dukkho, piyehi vippayogo dukkho, yampicchaṃ na labhati tampi dukkhaṃ—saṅkhittena pañcupādānakkhandhā dukkhā.

Rebirth is suffering; old age is suffering; illness is suffering; death is suffering; association with the disliked is suffering; separation from the liked is suffering; not getting what you wish for is suffering. In brief, the five grasping aggregates are suffering.

Idaṃ kho pana, bhikkhave, dukkhasamudayaṃ ariyasaccaṃ—

Now this is the noble truth of the origin of suffering.

yāyaṃ taṇhā ponobbhavikā nandirāgasahagatā tatratatrābhinandinī, seyyathidaṃ—

It's the craving that leads to future rebirth, mixed up with relishing and greed, taking pleasure in various different realms. That is, kāmataṇhā, bhavataṇhā, vibhavataṇhā.

craving for sensual pleasures, craving to continue existence, and craving to end existence.

Idaṃ kho pana, bhikkhave, dukkhanirodhaṃ ariyasaccaṃ—

Now this is the noble truth of the cessation of suffering.

yo tassāyeva taṇhāya asesavirāganirodho cāgo paṭinissaggo mutti anālayo.

It's the fading away and cessation of that very same craving with nothing left over; giving it away, letting it go, releasing it, and not adhering to it.

Idaṃ kho pana, bhikkhave, dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā ariyasaccaṃ—

Now this is the noble truth of the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering.

ayameva ariyo aṭṭhaṅgiko maggo, seyyathidaṃ—

It is simply this noble eightfold path, that is:

Yāvakīvañca me, bhikkhave, imesu catūsu ariyasaccesu evaṃ tiparivaṭṭaṃ dvādasākāraṃ yathābhūtaṃ ñāṇadassanaṃ na suvisuddhaṃ ahosi, neva tāvāhaṃ, bhikkhave, sadevake loke samārake sabrahmake sassamaṇabrāhmaṇiyā pajāya sadevamanussāya ‘anuttaraṃ sammāsambodhiṃ abhisambuddho’ti paccaññāsim.

As long as my true knowledge and vision about these four noble truths was not fully purified in these three perspectives and twelve respects, I didn't announce my supreme perfect awakening in this world with its gods, Māras, and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, its gods and humans.

Yato ca kho me, bhikkhave, imesu catūsu ariyasaccesu evaṃ tiparivaṭṭaṃ dvādasākāraṃ yathābhūtaṃ ñāṇadassanaṃ suvisuddhaṃ ahosi, athāhaṃ, bhikkhave, sadevake loke samāraḷe sabrahmaḷe sassamaṇabrāhmaṇiyā pajāya sadevamanussāya 'anuttaraṃ sammāsambodhiṃ abhisambuddho'ti paccaññāsim.

But when my true knowledge and vision about these four noble truths was fully purified in these three perspectives and twelve respects, I announced my supreme perfect awakening in this world with its gods, Māras, and Brahmās, this population with its ascetics and brahmins, its gods and humans.

Ñāṇaṇca pana me dassanaṃ udapādi:

Knowledge and vision arose in me:

'akuppā me vimutti, ayamantimā jāti, natthi dāni punabbhavo'”ti.

'My freedom is unshakable; this is my last rebirth; now there'll be no more future lives.'”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamaṇā pañcavaggiyā bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the group of five mendicants was happy with what the Buddha said.

Imasmiṇca pana veyyākaraṇasmiṃ bhaññamāne āyasmato koṇḍaññaṃ virajaṃ vītamalaṃ dhammacakkuṃ udapādi:

And while this discourse was being spoken, the stainless, immaculate vision of the Dhamma arose in Venerable Koṇḍañña:

“yaṃ kiñci samudayadhammaṃ sabbaṃ taṃ

“Everything that has a beginning has an end.”

Pavattite ca pana bhagavatā dhammacakke bhummā devā

And when the Buddha rolled forth the Wheel of Dhamma, the earth gods raised the cry:

“etaṃ bhagavatā bārāṇasiyaṃ isipatane migadāye anuttaraṃ

“Near Benares, in the deer park at Isipatana, the Buddha has rolled forth the supreme Wheel of Dhamma. And that wheel cannot be rolled back by any ascetic or brahmin or god or Māra or Brahmā or by anyone in the world.”

Bhummānaṃ devānaṃ saddaṃ sutvā cātumahārājikā devā

Hearing the cry of the Earth Gods, the Gods of the Four Great Kings

...

“etaṃ bhagavatā bārāṇasiyaṃ isipatane migadāye anuttaraṃ dhammacakkaṃ pavattitaṃ, appaṭivattiyaṃ samaṇena vā brāhmaṇena vā devena vā mārena vā brahmunā vā kenaci vā lokasmin”ti.

Cātumahārājikānaṃ devānaṃ saddaṃ sutvā tāvatimsā devā ...

the Gods of the Thirty-Three ...

yāmā devā ...pe...

the Gods of Yama ...

tusitā devā ...pe...

the Joyful Gods ...

nimmānaratī devā ...pe...

the Gods Who Love to Create ...

paranimmitavasavattī devā ...pe...

the Gods Who Control the Creations of Others ...

brahmakāyikā devā saddamanussāvesum̐:

the Gods of Brahmā's Host raised the cry:

“etaṃ bhagavatā bārāṇasiyaṃ isipatane migadāye anuttaraṃ dhammacakkaṃ pavattitaṃ appaṭivattiyaṃ samaṇena vā brāhmaṇena vā devena vā mārena vā brahmunā vā kenaci vā lokasmin”ti.

“Near Benares, in the deer park at Isipatana, the Buddha has rolled forth the supreme Wheel of Dhamma. And that wheel cannot be rolled back by any ascetic or brahmin or god or Māra or Brahmā or by anyone in the world.”

Itiha tena khaṇena tena layena tena muhuttena yāva brahmalokā saddo abbhugacchi.

And so at that moment, in that instant, the cry soared up to the Brahmā realm.

Ayañca dasasahassilokadhātu saṅkampi sampakampi sampavedhi, appamāṇo ca uḷāro obhāso loke pāturaḥosi atikkamma devānaṃ devānubhāvanti.

And this galaxy shook and rocked and trembled. And an immeasurable, magnificent light appeared in the world, surpassing the glory of the gods.

Atha kho bhagavā imaṃ udānaṃ udānesi:

Then the Buddha expressed this heartfelt sentiment:

“aññāsi vata bho, koṇḍañña, aññāsi vata bho, koṇḍañña”ti.

“Koṇḍañña has really understood! Koṇḍañña has really understood!”

Iti hidaṃ āyasmato koṇḍaññassa “aññāsikoṇḍañña” tveva nāmaṃ ahoṣīti.

And that's how Venerable Koṇḍañña came to be known as "Koṇḍañña Who Understood".

Paṭhamam.

The noble truths of suffering, the origin of suffering, the cessation of suffering, and the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, dukkhaṃ ariyasaccaṃ?

And what is the noble truth of suffering?

‘Pañcupādānakkhandhā’ tissa vacanīyaṃ, seyyathidaṃ—

You should say: ‘The five grasping aggregates’.

rūpupādānakkhandho ...pe... viññāṇupādānakkhandho.

That is: form, feeling, perception, choices, and consciousness.

Idaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, dukkhaṃ ariyasaccaṃ.

This is called the noble truth of suffering.

Katamañca, bhikkhave, dukkhasamudayaṃ ariyasaccaṃ?

15. Paṭhamadhāraṇasutta Remembering (1st)

“Dhāretha no tumhe, bhikkhave, mayā cattāri ariyasaccāni desitānī”ti?

“Mendicants, do you remember the four noble truths that I taught?”

Evam vutte, aññataro bhikkhu bhagavantam etadavoca:

When he said this, one of the mendicants said to the Buddha:

“aham kho, bhante, dhāremi bhagavatā cattāri ariyasaccāni desitānī”ti.

“I do, sir.”

“Yathā katham pana tvaṃ, bhikkhu, dhāresi mayā cattāri ariyasaccāni desitānī”ti?

“How so, mendicant?”

“Dukkham khvāham, bhante, bhagavatā paṭhamam ariyasaccam desitam dhāremi;

“Sir, I remember that suffering is the first noble truth you’ve taught;

dukkhasamudayam khvāham, bhante, bhagavatā dutiyam ariyasaccam desitam dhāremi;

the origin of suffering is the second;

dukkhanirodham khvāham, bhante, bhagavatā tatiyam ariyasaccam desitam dhāremi;

the cessation of suffering is the third;

dukkhanirodhagāminim paṭipadam khvāham, bhante, bhagavatā catuttham ariyasaccam desitam dhāremi.

and the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering is the fourth.

Evam khvāhaṃ, bhante, dhāremi bhagavatā cattāri ariyasaccāni desitānī”ti.

That’s how I remember the four noble truths as you’ve taught them.”

“Sādhu sādhu, bhikkhu.

“Good, good, mendicant!

Sādhu kho tvaṃ, bhikkhu, dhāresi mayā cattāri ariyasaccāni desitānīti.

It’s good that you remember the four noble truths as I’ve taught them.

Dukkhaṃ kho, bhikkhu, mayā paṭhamaṃ ariyasaccaṃ desitaṃ, tathā naṃ dhārehi;

Suffering is the first noble truth I’ve taught, and that’s how you should remember it.

dukkhasamudayaṃ kho, bhikkhu, mayā dutiyaṃ ariyasaccaṃ desitaṃ, tathā naṃ dhārehi;

The origin of suffering is the second;

dukkhanirodhaṃ kho, bhikkhu, mayā tatiyaṃ ariyasaccaṃ desitaṃ, tathā naṃ dhārehi;

the cessation of suffering is the third;

dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā kho, bhikkhu, mayā catutthaṃ ariyasaccaṃ desitaṃ, tathā naṃ dhārehi.

and the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering is the fourth.

21. Paṭhamakoṭigāmasutta At the Village of Koṭi (1st)

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā vajjīsu viharati koṭigāme.

At one time the Buddha was staying in the land of the Vajjis at the village of Koṭi.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants:

“catunnaṃ, bhikkhave, ariyasaccānaṃ ananubodhā appaṭivedhā evamidaṃ dīghamaddhānaṃ sandhāvitaṃ saṃsaritaṃ mamañceva tumhākañca.

“Mendicants, not understanding and not penetrating four noble truths, both you and I have wandered and transmigrated for such a very long time.

Katamesaṃ catunnaṃ?

What four?

Dukkhasa, bhikkhave, ariyasaccassa ananubodhāappaṭivedhā evamidaṃ dīghamaddhānaṃ sandhāvitaṃ saṃsaritaṃ

The noble truths of suffering,

Dukkhasamudayassa ariyasaccassa ...pe...

dukkhanirodhagāminiyā paṭipadāya ariyasaccassa ananubodhā

These noble truths of suffering, origin, cessation, and the path have been understood and comprehended. Craving for continued existence has been cut off; the attachment to continued existence is ended; now there’ll be no more future lives.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Idaṃ vatvāna sugato athāparaṃ etadavoca satthā:

Then the Holy One, the Teacher, went on to say:

“Catunnaṃ ariyasaccānaṃ,

“Because of not truly seeing

The noble truths of suffering, the origin of suffering, the cessation of suffering, and the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering.

Ekaṃ samayaṃ sambahulā therā bhikkhū cetesu viharanti sahañcanike.

At one time several mendicants were staying in the land of the Cetis at Sahajāti.

Tena kho pana samayena sambahulānaṃ therānaṃ bhikkhūnaṃ pacchābhattaṃ piṇḍapātaṭṭhānaṃ maṇḍalamāle sannisinnānaṃ sannipatitānaṃ ayamantarākathā udapādi:

Now at that time, after the meal, on return from alms-round, several senior mendicants sat together in the pavilion and this discussion came up among them:

“yo nu kho, āvuso, dukkhaṃ passati dukkhasamudayampi so passati, dukkhanirodhampi passati, dukkhanirodhagāminiṃ paṭipadampi passatī”ti.

“Reverends, does someone who sees suffering also see the origin of suffering, the cessation of suffering, and the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering?”

Evaṃ vutte, āyasmā gavampati therō bhikkhū etadavoca:

When they said this, Venerable Gavampati said to those senior mendicants:

“sammukhā metaṃ, āvuso, bhagavato sutāṃ, sammukhā paṭiggahitaṃ:

“Reverends, I have heard and learned this in the presence of the Buddha:

‘yo, bhikkhave, dukkhaṃ passati dukkhasamudayampi so passati, dukkhanirodhampi passati, dukkhanirodhagāminiṃ paṭipadampi passati.

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā kosambiyaṃ viharati sīsapāvane.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Kosambī in a rosewood forest.

Atha kho bhagavā parittāni sīsapāpaṇṇāni pāṇinā gahetvā bhikkhū āmantesi:

Then the Buddha picked up a few rosewood leaves in his hand and addressed the mendicants:

“Taṃ kiṃ maññatha, bhikkhave,

“What do you think, mendicants?

41. Lokacintāsutta

Speculation About the World

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati veḷuvane
kalandakanivāpe.

At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, in the Bamboo Grove, the squirrels' feeding ground.

Tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants:

“bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, aññataro puriso rājagahā nikkhamitvā ‘lokacintaṃ cintessāmī’ti yena sumāgadhā pokkharañī tenupasaṅkami; upasaṅkamtivā sumāgadhāya pokkharañiyā tīre nisīdi lokacintaṃ cinto.

“Once upon a time, mendicants, a certain person left Rājagaha, thinking ‘I’ll speculate about the world.’ They went to the Sumāgadhā lotus pond and sat down on the bank speculating about the world.

Addasā kho, bhikkhave, so puriso sumāgadhāya pokkharañiyā tīre caturaṅginim̐ senaṃ bhisamuḷālaṃ pavisantaṃ.

Then that person saw an army of four divisions enter a lotus stalk.

Disvānassa etadahosi:

When he saw this he thought,

‘ummattosmi nāmāhaṃ, vicetosmi nāmāhaṃ.

‘I’ve gone mad, really, I’ve lost my mind!

Yaṃ loke natthi taṃ mayā diṭṭhaṃ’ti.

I’m seeing things that don’t exist in the world.’

Atha kho so, bhikkhave, puriso nagaram pavisitvā mahājanakāyassa ārocesi:

Then that person entered the city and informed a large crowd, ‘ummattosmi nāmāham, bhante, vicetosmi nāmāham, bhante.

‘I’ve gone mad, really, I’ve lost my mind!

Yaṃ loke natthi taṃ mayā diṭṭhan’ti.

I’m seeing things that don’t exist in the world.’

‘Katham pana tvaṃ, ambho purisa, ummatto katham viceto?

‘But how is it that you’re mad? How have you lost your mind?

Kiñca loke natthi yaṃ tayā diṭṭhan’ti?

And what have you seen that doesn’t exist in the world?’

‘Idhāham, bhante, rājagahā nikkhamitvā “lokacintaṃ cintessāmī”ti yena sumāgadhā pokkharañī tenupasaṅkamim; upasaṅkamtivā sumāgadhāya pokkharañiyā tīre nisīdim lokacintaṃ cinto.

‘Sirs, I left Rājagaha, thinking “I’ll speculate about the world.” I went to the Sumāgadhā lotus pond and sat down on the bank speculating about the world.

Addasaṃ khvāham, bhante, sumāgadhāya pokkharañiyā tīre caturaṅginim senaṃ bhisamuḷālaṃ pavisantaṃ.

Then I saw an army of four divisions enter a lotus stalk.

Evaṃ khvāham, bhante, ummatto evaṃ viceto.

That’s why I’m mad, that’s why I’ve lost my mind.

Idaṅca loke natthi yaṃ mayā diṭṭhan’ti.

And that’s what I’ve seen that doesn’t exist in the world.’

‘Taggha tvaṃ, ambho purisa, ummatto taggha viceto.

‘Well, mister, you’re definitely mad, you’ve definitely lost your mind.

Idaṅca loke natthi yaṃ tayā diṭṭhan’ti.

And you’re seeing things that don’t exist in the world.’

Taṃ kho pana, bhikkhave, so puriso bhūtaṃyeva addasa, no abhūtaṃ.

But what that person saw was in fact real, not unreal.

Bhūtapubbaṃ, bhikkhave, devāsurasañgāmo samupabyūḥho ahosi.

Once upon a time, a battle was fought between the gods and the demons.

Tasmim̐ kho pana, bhikkhave, saṅgāme devā jiniṃsu, asurā parājiniṃsu.

In that battle the gods won and the demons lost.

Parājitā ca kho, bhikkhave, asurā bhītā bhisamuḷālena asurapuraṃ pavisim̐su devānaṃyeva mohayamānā.

The defeated and terrified demons entered the demon city through the lotus stalk only to confuse the gods.

Tasmātiha, bhikkhave, mā lokacintaṃ cintetha:

So mendicants, don't speculate about the world.

‘sassato loko’ti vā ‘asassato loko’ti vā, ‘antavā loko’ti vā ‘anantavā loko’ti vā, ‘taṃ jīvaṃ taṃ sarīraṃ’ti vā ‘aññaṃ jīvaṃ aññaṃ sarīraṃ’ti vā, ‘hoti tathāgato paraṃ maraṇā’ti vā ‘na hoti tathāgato paraṃ maraṇā’ti vā, ‘hoti ca na ca hoti tathāgato paraṃ maraṇā’ti vā, ‘neva hoti na na hoti tathāgato paraṃ maraṇā’ti vā.

For example: the world is eternal, or not eternal, or finite, or infinite; the soul and the body are the same thing, or they are different things; after death, a Realized One exists, or doesn't exist, or both exists and doesn't exist, or neither exists nor doesn't exist.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Nesā, bhikkhave, cintā atthasaṃhitā nādirahmacariyakā na nibbidāya na virāgāya na nirodhāya na upasamāya na abhiññāya na sambodhāya na nibbānāya saṃvattati.

Because those thoughts aren't beneficial or relevant to the fundamentals of the spiritual life. They don't lead to disillusionment, dispassion, cessation, peace, insight, awakening, and extinguishment.

Cintentā kho tumhe, bhikkhave, 'idaṃ dukkhan'ti cinteyyātha ... pe... 'ayaṃ dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā'ti cinteyyātha.

When you think something up, you should think: 'This is suffering' ... 'This is the origin of suffering' ... 'This is the cessation of suffering' ... 'This is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering'.

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Esā, bhikkhave, cintā atthasaṃhitā esā ādibrahmacariyakā esā nibbidāya virāgāya nirodhāya upasamāya abhiññāya sambodhāya nibbānāya saṃvattati.

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā rājagahe viharati gijjhakūṭe pabbate.
At one time the Buddha was staying near Rājagaha, on the Vulture's Peak Mountain.

Atha kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi:
Then the Buddha said to the mendicants,

“āyāma, bhikkhave, yena paṭibhānakūṭo tenupasaṅkamissāma divāvihārāyā”ti.

“Come, mendicants, let's go to Inspiration Peak for the day's meditation.

“Yes, sir,” they replied.

Atha kho bhagavā sambahulehi bhikkhūhi saddhiṃ yena paṭibhānakūṭo tenupasaṅkami.

Then the Buddha together with several mendicants went to Inspiration Peak.

Addasā kho aññataro bhikkhu paṭibhānakūṭe mahantaṃ papātaṃ.

45. Vālasutta Splitting Hairs

Ekam̐ samayaṃ bhagavā vesāliyaṃ viharati mahāvane

At one time the Buddha was staying near Vesālī, at the Great Wood, in the hall with the peaked roof.

Atha kho āyasmā ānando pubbaṅhasamayaṃ nivāsetvā

Then Venerable Ānanda robed up in the morning and, taking his bowl and robe, entered Vesālī for alms.

He saw several Licchavi youths practicing archery. They were shooting arrows from a distance through a small keyhole, shot after shot without missing.

Disvānassa etadahosi:

Taṃ kissa hetu?

Why is that?

Adiṭṭhattā, bhikkhave, catunnaṃ ariyasaccānaṃ.

It's because they haven't seen the four noble truths.

Katamesaṃ catunnaṃ?

What four?

Dukkhasa ariyasaccassa, dukkhasamudayassa ariyasaccassa, dukkhanirodhassa ariyasaccassa, dukkhanirodhagāminiyā paṭipadāya ariyasaccassa.

The noble truths of suffering, the origin of suffering, the cessation of suffering, and the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering.

Tasmātiha, bhikkhave, ‘idaṃ dukkhan’ti yogo karaṇīyo, ‘ayaṃ dukkhasamudayo’ti yogo karaṇīyo, ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodho’ti yogo karaṇīyo, ‘ayaṃ dukkhanirodhagāminī paṭipadā’ti yogo karaṇīyo”ti.

That's why you should practice meditation to understand: ‘This is suffering’ ... ‘This is the origin of suffering’ ... ‘This is the cessation of suffering’ ... ‘This is the practice that leads to the cessation of suffering’.”

Idamavoca bhagavā.

That is what the Buddha said.

Attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduntī.

Satisfied, the mendicants were happy with what the Buddha said.
